Dr. Whitman reached Washington crippled by frozen hands and feet. The news he brought caused excitement among the populace and concern among many of the government officers. He saw Daniel Webster Secretary of State represented to him the grandeur and value of the Oregon country, told him of the need of immigrants and explained the reason that had induced him to brave the rigor of the season by making the trip. Mr. Webster was about to conclude the Webster-Ashburton treaty renouncing any claim we might have to the great norhwest for a Newfoundland cod-fishery. Webster was not impressed with Whitman's patriotic enthusiasm. He considered the country of no value. He thought it would be as well to let Great Brittan have it. Not satisfied with his interview with the Secretary of State Dr. Whitman sought President Tyler who heard him with attention, and promised that the diplomatic deal for the trading of Oregon should be held up and that a military escort should be given to the missionary's train.

In the spring of 1843 Dr. Whitman led a party of one thousand Americans across the continent and in the autumn entered the valley of the Oregon.

Devilish Work.

The British agents slowly poisoned the minds of the savages against the new comers but it was not till 1847 that the savages in council determined to massacre all the American settlers in their country.

The site of Dr. Whitman's dwelling was on the north bank of the Walla Walla river at what is now the town of Wahula. The Indians surrounded the houses of the mission their weapons hidden under their blankets. At dawn of November 29, 1847 an Indian entered the doctor's house and asked for medicine. As the missionary turned to his medicine chest the savage buried his tomahawk in the good man's brain. Mrs. Whitman was killed a minute later by the same savage with the same weapon. The murder of the missionary was the signal for the wholesale slaughter to begin. The butchery commenced on all sides. The crash of firearms, the groans of the dying, screams of women, yells of the painted demons filled the air. The Indians women and children danced and sang as the atrocious work went on. They multilated the dead. Women and children of the settlers sank under bloody knife and club. The massacre lasted all day and then murdering parties started in every direction. Everybody in the Whitman mission was killed and many settlers all through the woods were slain. The Cayuse attacked a mission among the Nez Perces but these Indians beat them back and took the sides of the settlers, dispatching parties of braves after the murderous Cayuse.

American Immigration Won the Day.

The surviving settlers were not slow in seeking revenge and they made the name "Paleface" a fearful word to the redskin murderers of the northwest forests. War to the death was carried on against the Indians for eight years. Government troops were in the country, and a stream of immigration had set in. The leaders of the Cayuse who attacked the Whitman mission were captured by the Nez Perces on the upper John Bay river and five of them were hanged at Oregon city.

The graves of Dr. Whitman and his wife are pointed out near where they fell at Wahula on that bloody November morning 1847.

In the light of this does it not seem that the government might have been a little considerate in its treatment of the late chief Joseph and his Nez Perces band?

The World Moves Quickly.

How the thought of the world passes from one thing to another, and then forgets. Attention for months was centered upon Port Arthur, and then it was transferred to the movements of the naval fleets, the meeting of which was so disastrous to Russian hopes. It will be remembered that when Rojestvensky entered the China Sea he wired to the Czar: "If I am victorious I shall inform you. If I am vanquished, Togo will inform you." To the public Port Arthur is no more than one of the countless red splotches that disfigure history, and the naval battle of all history is already relegated to dry discussions as to what branch of service was most disastrous to ship and lives.

Enforcing the Laws.

From the Washington Star.

There was nothing original in Gov. Folk's address at Chautauqua, N. Y., recently, but the well-known truth he enunciated took on greater weight for his indorsement. He is no closet philosopher, giving to the public the results of reading and speculation, but a man of affairs who has done things and noted the consequences. He was elected District Attorney in St. Louis in the expectation that he would ignore the laws and let those who were violating them continue to flourish on their iniquities. Instead of that, he enforced the laws and saw conditions all around him rapidly improve. When therefore, such a man tells us that a cure for many of the ills we are enduring as a people is the simple execution of the laws, he has the strongest possible claim upon our attention, and his advice is worth following. Laws are of little use unless their enforcement is demanded and backed up by public sentiment.

Literature and Music Prosper.

During the past year the Library of Congress made entries for copyrights to the extent of 106,577, an increase of 7,141 over those made in 1903. Of these, compositions of a musical character head the list, there having been entered for copyright 23,740. Periodicals in single numbers follow closely behind, with a total number of 21,041. The classification of "books" showed entries to the number of 29,516, some 16,691 of which were books and the remainder booklets, leaflets, circulars, cards, newspapers and magazine articles.

PALATIAL R. R. STATION.

NEW WASHINGTON STATION THE FINEST IN THE WORLD.

Construction of Structure and Building of Adjacent Largest of Freight Yards to Cost $22,000,000.

With all the talk relative to Government control of railway rates, and the probability of Congress giving the subject at least consideration, the busy solons of the Senate and House this winter may not appreciate that within a radius of eight miles of the Capitol building there is work of railroad improvement going on having a value of over $22,000,000.

Just across the Potomac River, between Washington and the historic but sleepy town of Alexandria, the Pennsylvania railroad is well along in constructing the largest freight yards in the United States, at a cost of $7,000,000, while the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads are expending $15,000,000 in the city itself in eliminating grade crossings and erecting a new Union station—a station which, when completed, will be the largest passenger station in the world, even exceeding that at Hamburg, Germany.

Compares in Size with Capitol.

The new station, in itself but five feet shorter than the Capitol building, will face a plaza 500 feet wide by about 1,000 feet long, decorated with artistic balustrades, terraces and fountains. Nine streets will lead into the plaza, which itself will provide a space for massing troops and spectators for public ceremonies. To give the required elevation to the station so as to admit the two passenger tunnels from the South, it was necessary to fill in the site of the station, some 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth being required to form the new plaza, the fill for a considerable area being over 35 feet in depth.

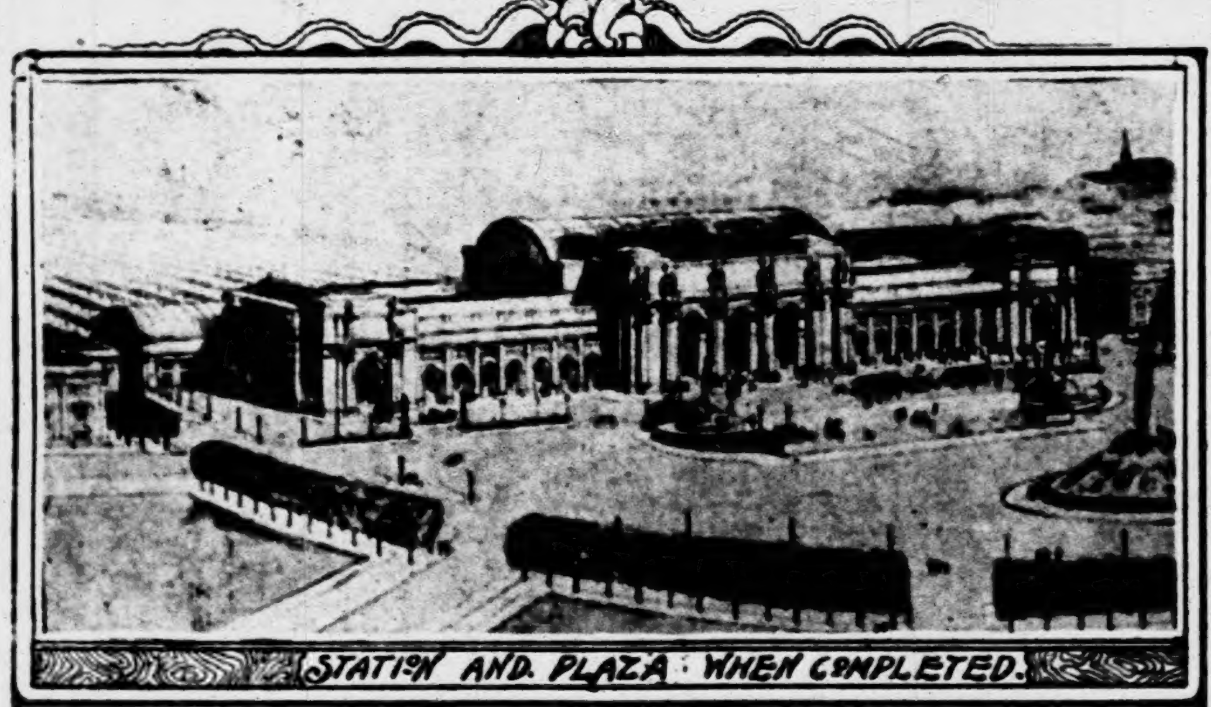
Sanitary Train Sheds.

Unlike most railroad stations, the architectural beauty of the Washington station will not be marred by the usual gigantic semi-circular train shed, but each pair of tracks will be covered over with a sort of umbrella train shed, which will protect alighting and departing passengers from the elements, but will also allow the smoke and gases to rise into the atmosphere. The baggage trucks will pass to the cars through tunnels to the end of the tracks, where the trunks and parcels will be brought to the surface by elevators, so that at no time will the passengers be in danger of collision with the baggagemen. The train concourse will be the largest single room in the world, nearly 700 feet long, the entire vista being unbroken by the usual labyrinth of pillars. The ceiling is to be constructed in what is technically known as of the self-supporting type. There will be 33 passenger tracks, 27 on the main floor level and six on the tunnel floor where trains from the South will arrive through the double tunnel under Capitol Hill. A feature of the station will be the absence of stairs, so that even in a large crowd, for which Washington is famous during inaugural or convention times, there will be no danger of accident to the passenger arriving or departing.

Presidential and Diplomatic Entrance.

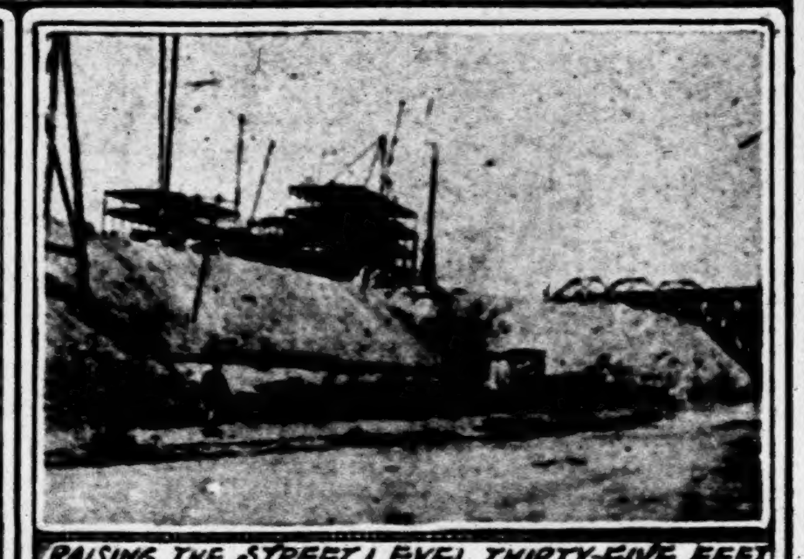
There will be special entrances and also rooms for guests of the nation, the diplomatic corps and for the President of the United States, who will thus be enabled to quietly seek their train without hindrance.

In the original bill introduced in Congress allowing the railroad companies to construct this station, provision was made to drive a tunnel directly beneath the Capitol building, with elevators running immediately from the Senate Chamber and the House Chamber into private Congressional stations. This would have enabled the United States Senator from Oregon, for instance, to pass out of the Senate and walk directly aboard his Pullman sleeping car without exposure to the open air until he reached his far western home. A great convenience this, doubtless, to delicate legislators; but a literal undermining of Congress by the railroads probably wisely excluded from the architectural plans.



STATION AND PLAZA - WHEN COMPLETED.

MANHOLE TOP OF WHICH WILL BE STREET LEVEL



RAISING THE STREET LEVEL THIRTY-FIVE FEET

Views of New Washington R. R. Station

The Brickbats Never Touched Him

I had a funny dream last night. Thought that John D. Rockefeller was running for office,—

Yes!

And he was about to make a speech in a brickyard, when I woke up.

EUROPEAN GOSSIP.

Tales of Diplomatic and Court Intrigue.

It seems that Mr. W. W. Astor has bought the historic Hever estate in Kent, England, and is improving it. It includes 2,000 acres of land and a moated castle, nearly six hundred years old, where at one time Henry VIII. maintained Anne of Cleves. On this estate Mr. Astor has put to work about one thousand men, with due apparatus, and is making changes rated as improvements which the calculating natives estimate will cost him a million and a quarter pounds. He is building a lake, a model village, roads, bridges and gardens, and is doubtless having a good deal of the sort of fun that Mr. Kipling in a recent story has suggested as a suitable recreation for tired Americans.

THE SHAH OF PERSIA.

Though the Sultan is himself a total abstainer, the finest vintage wines are always offered to such guests as dine at the palace.

The recent visit of the Shah of Persia to England recalls a former call of his upon Queen Victoria, when London was startled at the Oriental methods employed by this picturesque Eastern potentate. Thousands of dollars worth of damage was done in the famous Buckingham Palace by the nochalant orders of the Shah. The sheep which provided his mutton were brought into the palace rooms, which had been placed at his royal disposal, and slaughtered upon the magnificent and costly rugs and other such extravagant practices were the order of the day. While the meat which the Shah eats is always supposed to be slaughtered before his eyes, it was believed at the time that these performances were simply the carrying out of an Eastern regal fancy, to show Western barbarians what the Orient was accustomed to.

The Queen's maids of honor have very little to do. They live at home, and when the Queen is in London they are conveyed to Buckingham Palace after luncheon in royal carriages, and remain in a suite of charming salons until required to accompany the Queen and her unmarried daughter out driving. They must dress very well and not appear in the same clothes too often, and, above all, study the wishes of Her Majesty in regard to colors and modes. The millinery embargo, that is, not to wear a picture hat, must be followed to the letter. With a salary of $1,500 and the attachment of "Honorable" to their names, the fair maids-of-honor manage to worry along until they marry.

King Alfonso recently had a curious adventure at Madrid. He had left Granda one morning incognito. He guarded his identity so strictly that no one suspected his presence and when he presented himself at the royal palace the sentry refused him admittance. The King inspected the apartments being prepared for President Loubet of France, who was preparing to visit the youthful Spanish monarch, and then sent a summons to the astonished ministers to come and hold a council.

The Empress-Dowager of China is thoughtful of her subordinates. Here is an edict of hers issued recently which will bear out the idea: "Wong Wen-Shao, the grand secretary, has served under us many years, and he has shown great diligence and faithfulness. He is now over 70 years of age, and in the daily audiences his obeisance is now very difficult, and our sympathy must be shown him. Let him be relieved from the grand council in order that he may be saved trouble." As a dismissal this could hardly be improved upon.

Father John of Cronstadt, whose extraordinary influence over the Czar, no less than his propaganda against the revolutionaries, continually rouses the ire of the secret committee, is 86 years of age. In personality he answers to the description of the average Russian peasant, only in his case abstemiousness has wrought a refining effect on his features.

VAN CALAVA

COUNTING UNCLE SAM'S CASH.

Occurs Every Time a New Treasurer is Appointed.

Owing to the recent change in the office of Treasurer of the United States, a task of no small magnitude is going on in the Treasury Building. Every time one Treasurer gives way to another the cash must be counted and verified before the new official becomes responsible for the money under his care.

As soon as a change is made the Secretary of the Treasury appoints a Committee of Three to select a force to count the cash. This committee picks out a number of clerks in the various offices of the Department, and they are set at work to count the millions. Perhaps there may be forty men selected to perform this huge count; maybe fifty or eighty. It is always considered an honor to be one of these counters.

The total sum counted by these men is somewhere in the neighborhood of five hundred and thirty millions in money, bonds, notes and everything else. One vault alone contains over a hundred millions in silver dollars. Another has a heavy amount of silver fractional currency, and many tons of nickel five-cent pieces and pennies.

The working cash is handled first, and in order to give it a chance to do regular duty it is counted at night. Most of the money is counted in bulk and stored away in bags, each containing a certain sum. These are weighed and if there is even one dollar short, there is instant detection of the wrong count. As each bag is filled by a clerk who attaches his name by a tag, any discrepancy in the number of coins or any coin missing from the sack is charged to him. This is done, not only to check any tendency toward dishonesty, but also to cause each counter to exercise the greatest care. The new Treasurer is Charles H. Treat, of New York, who takes the place of Ellis H. Roberts.

The Unemployed in Germany.

It seems from consular reports that there are none. Colonies for the so-called "unemployed" take them out of this class immediately and make pauperism unknown. Each city supports large offices where hunters for work go and register. They get a bath, have their clothing disinfected, and if the unions which support these institutions have no work for them in cities, they are sent to the farm colonies in the country, where they can work at farming, land reclamation, and in other productive capacities. The system of these unions is said to be very comprehensive; they are open to all, and besides providing opportunities for workers, have systems of old age pensions, insurance against accidents, and other benefits.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE TENSION TIGHT 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.

Send for Catalog.

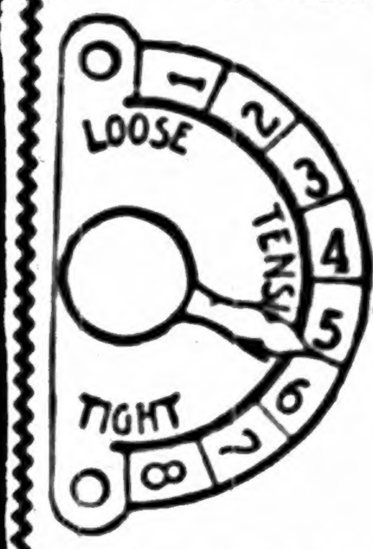
PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate or Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes,

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

A Tension Indicator



IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE Co.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dolla llowed our clients during the las x years.

Over one Thousand laims allowed through us dur g the last six months. Dis bility, Age and In rease pensions obtaine the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. sually granted within 90 ays if placed with us immedi ely on soldier's death. Fee xed by law and payable out of lowed pension. A successful perience of 25 years and benef daily calls at Pension Burea at your service. Highest ref ences furnished. Local Magi ates pecuniarily enefited by sending us aims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

eanings in Bee Cultur es you about bees, how to handle them ey and profit. Send for free copy. Read n you'll want to subscribe. 6 month Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

oster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

XCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy
use the estern Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
stern Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
for Catalog.

APHERS
and Scales Away

and scales cause you trouble? pers, put up READY TO USE. veloping tray and add the water— Large quantities of developer ith our developers you only make sufficient for 24 ounces of papers, or 60 ounces of P not stain the fingers or nails for gaslight papers, 6 tubes,

CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

THE SCANDAL OF SIGNA.

BY WYLLARD.

thousand a year is not a great ," said Lady Jane, ironically. "It rescues dear Noel from absolust. It was so nice of his god- —always a most unassuming , too, indeed, I mistook her for dressmaker on one occasion when came to call, and I am afraid she off my visiting list quite a

"That is a pity, since the whole family inclined to canonize her now!" Signa ... "However, she does seem to have borne malice, as she promoted Noel to the position of eligible hardly eligible, my dear! Two thousand goes such a very little way ... in Bayswater or the ... Poor Noel!"

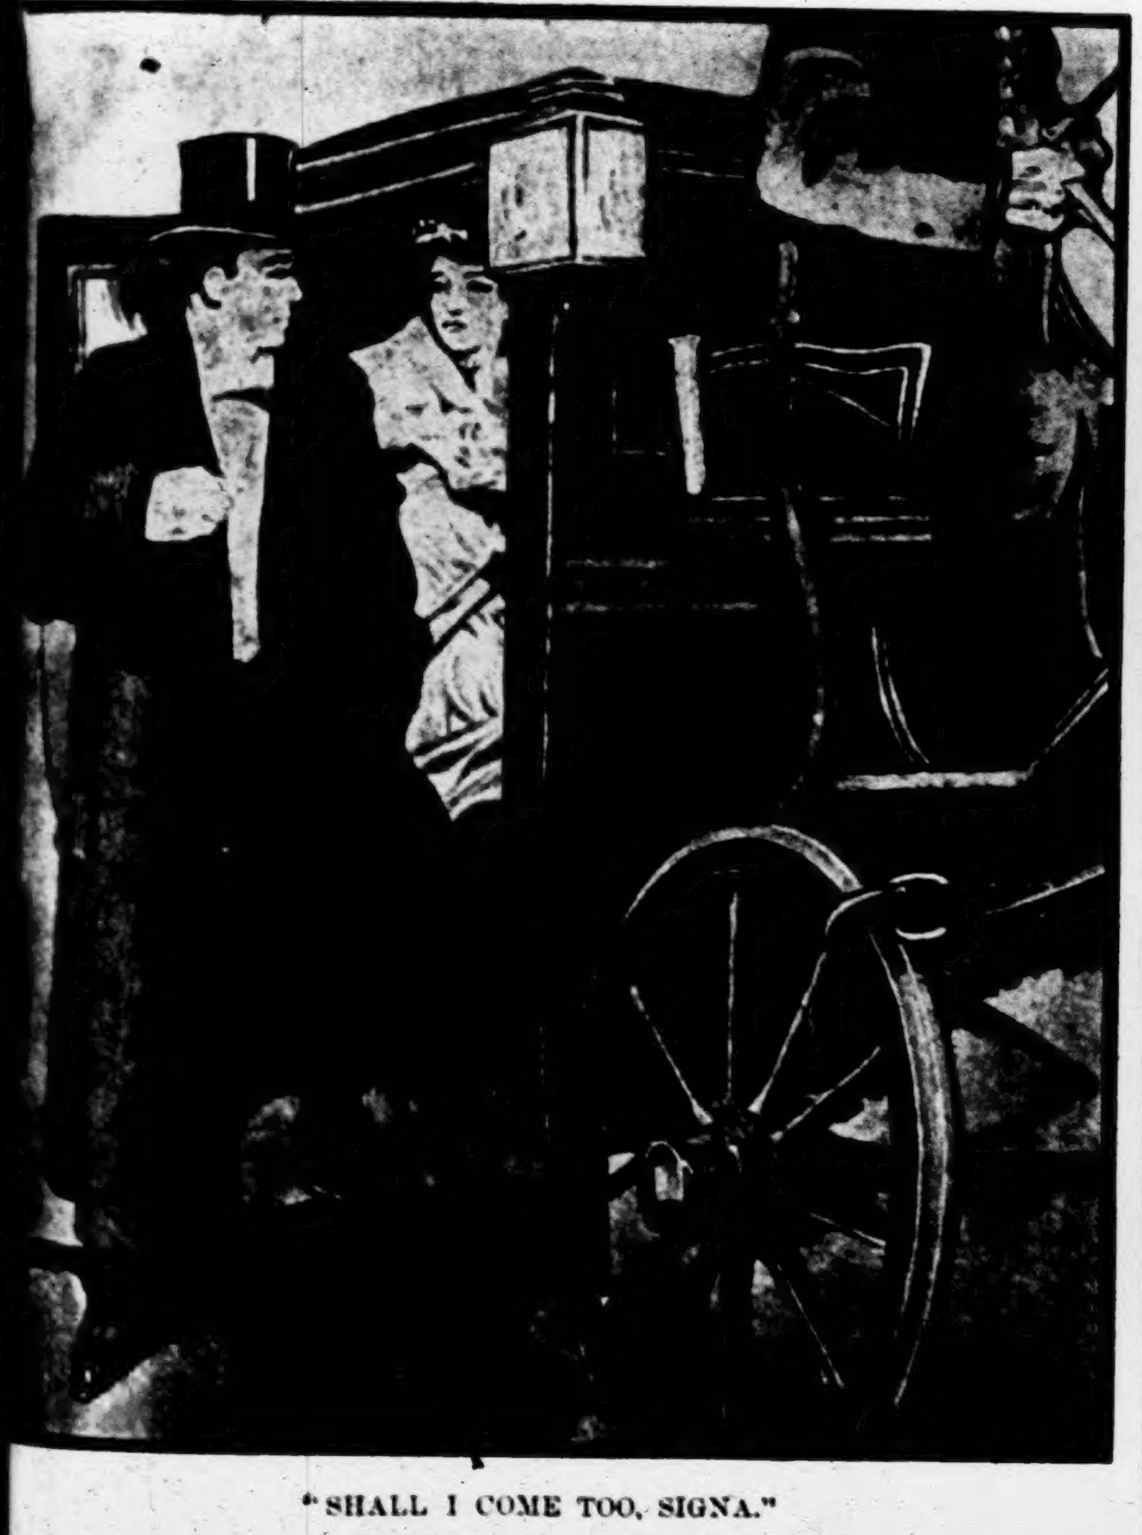
"I did not mean among us!" said with a laughing sneer and a out of the window at the respectable Sloane street trees, decorously though just in bud. "But some young person in the classes may take pity on him even though it means Bays-"

Lady Jane glanced rather uneasily Signa's straight young back, which all that presented itself to her to out Signa's meaning. And Lady was often at a loss to know whether Signa was in earnest or ironical. She was beginning to think, in despair, that when her youngest daughter talked sense the sense of ... the duchess, it ... revolt and would end in Signa some dreaded and unconventional thing, such as wanting to take up a profession, or refusing a really sound ..., for instance. Sometimes—since her daughter had behaved in such a laudable manner—she thought that even two thousand a and Bayswater would be better an awful scandal, of which she in terror. If Signa must marry poor man, better Noel, who was, so satisfactory to all the than one of those younger sons whom the girl delighted to [illegible] her chaperons.



"SHALL I COME TOO, SIGNA."

Lady Jane is a dear, good soul, but is accustomed to be unwise in her management of Signa. She allowed new approval of Noel to be read in growing maternity of her manner. ...o she had been cousinly in her ...ment of him—she was not his ... or that might have been her attitude—and when things looked very ... in the matrimonial market she ...ted herself aloud with his advantages. Signa hated the obvious. temper had been decidedly uncertain since Captain Verney had come what she henceforth styled his Bayswater income," and she sallied this very afternoon in a mood was ripe for mischief.

She found it at Lady Bloomfield's afternoon crush where the Bohemian ... was mingling with the severe social, and everybody was discussing the great "Benefit night" at the Bacchante Theatre of Varieties in aid the War Fund. The Bacchante is very superior music hall, and that a test to the way in which everyone was buying tickets—in aid of the charity.

There was a fat man in a long frock... standing in the centre of the ... of the smartest women present Signa arrived. He was Batsburg, the proprietor of the Bacchante the organizator of the benefit, but ... hardly glanced at him. There no doubt that she was in a very mood indeed, and her eyes, roaming about for some evil deed to prove did not light upon Batsburg, as special means arranged by the powers of darkness to help her. It not with any thought of the fat and his glossy curls in her mind she sat down at the piano volunteered a song. There had music going on all of that afternoon, but Signa's performance was ...dy different, and everyone listened and listened, crowded in from the ... rooms to hear. She has a ... voice, strong enough ... a concert room, and trained by Capri. H... ...er thought that his ...eat training would go to help to give Lady Bloomfield's a treat such as that performance of "Hy'ar there! Clear the road Lisbeth."

They were a noisy audience when singing had suddenly transformed them from well-dressed lukewarm men and women into laughing, applauding human beings, not above joining in that last swinging chorus of the others, and one could see the seemed no more a drawing room in Pont street, but the cotton-fields of Louisiana. Lady Bloomfield's own high cackle rose high above the voices of the others and one could see the men drawing breath to demand an encore, even as she rose, flushed with the excitement of her success, from the piano, and she heard, all across the room the manager ask who she was. Two minutes later, someone brought him over and introduced him, and they stood by the instrument, talking quickly and earnestly—so deep in conversation, indeed, that Signa would not be interrupted to sing again. It was only when she looked past his broad back that she caught sight of Verney, nonchalant, eyeglass in eye, evidently not at all upset by her reckless interpretation of the notorious negro melody.

"Yes, of course I will!" said Signa to the manager. "I should like it." and she nodded to Verney over his shoulder. Her smile was brilliant.

Half London was in the stalls of the Bacchante on the great benefit night, and the boxes were taken by select parties who thought the auditorium a little public for the light of their presence. I was tickled to see the duchess levelling her glasses at Poppy le Marchant when that young lady danced the conger-eel dance in aid of the charity, and admired the tolerance of her attitude. Lady Jane was in the box, too, and Sir Wilfred and sister, the one who married into the state; but Signa herself was not present, and, when I went round to pay my respects to her grace, I learned that she had pleaded a headache and stayed at home. The cause, I thought, was not far to seek, as Signa would have persisted that she had lumbago if it would have saved her accompanying a party of which the duchess made one.

Batsburg had tacitly promised the house a sensation that night, and we were all a little eager; it had not been announced on the boards, but had floated round society through the private channels, and we kept asking each other who was this new star of Batsburg? The programme was as good as could be, but the performers were old acquaintances; and while we stormed the stage with applause after each item, all felt that Batsburg owed us a new sensation yet. It came between numbers 9 and 10—an "extra turn" which was merely slipped upon the notice board. The band struck up a new air, a catchy thing that no one had heard, and yet, I believe, we all tried to hum it and then into the centre of the wide strip of stage left bare in front of the back-cloth a little ragged London gamin came swinging his impudent dirty face turned to the audience with the sang froid of his inimitable breed. He stood still a minute, and then cooly looking us over, he began to shy personalities at our comments that made the victim shout claim him a success.

There was no doubt about his reality—he was a true arab, apparantly brought straight out of the streets, without a dab of paint on him that could be discerned, and supremely jaunty and insolent. Probably, he was one of the boys who sold bogus programmes at the side doors of the hall, or, for a few stray coppers, sang versions of the songs to be heard inside, and Batsburg had primed him up to recognize the front rows of the audience and discourse on their private affairs and was getting quite personal when one concluded that the urchin had been coached by someone who did know. Batsburg had been among these people for weeks in connection with the benefit, and, though, his use of his knowledge might be in doubtful taste, there was no denying that it caught on—the stalls roared as each stinging remark, pointed by one grimy forefinger came clearly across the footlights through the jaunty music.

Suddenly the boy began to dance a kind of double-shuffle and, to the air which the band still played softly, broke into a song, introducing the names of people in front of him. His voice was a sweet, true boy's voice, but marred by that awful East End accent, and it rang through the theatre loud and strong. Young Bracebridge of the Guards, who was sitting between Noel Verney and Mrs. Chiltren Hundreds, almost sprang upright in his seat.

"By jove!" he said. "Its Signa!"

The house did not recognize her all at once and the boxes apparently not at all. But even the awful presence of the duchess and the appalling consequences which loomed in the near future could not restrain the men. They laughed at every wicked point in the song and when he was off the stage they yelled to have him back again. It sounded as if the whole hall were one confused, imperious demand, and though they did not call her by name, it was obvious that Signa was recognized. I wondered what she would do, and almost held my breath when the small ragged figure returned for a brief moment, but only just in sight at the wings. There was a growing terror in Signa's eyes—an expression most alien to them. Either the passing of the excitement, or the realization of her own daring, or else that clamoring audience, was terrifying her. She bowed hastily and pattered off, in spite of the cries to her to sing again. I feared the demand was too strong, and that they would force her to come back, and I turned to look round for Verney. But he had disappeared, and he was not in the duchess box, though I looked there with fear and trembling. Her grace was still sitting, calm and smiling, at the front of the box; there was something ominous in her tacit refusal to recognize what everyone knew. Lady Jane's face was like a mask; I thought Lady Leamington was crying, but I could not see her plainly.

The next turn fell flat, though there was a gallant effort to applaud and carry it through. But so many of the men had vanished that it looked as if a wind had swept the stalls bare. It was fatally easy to get behind. They were waiting for Signa.

I sat out two turns; then I followed Verney. He had, as I suspected, left his place before Signa had made her bow, and was waiting for her behind. By the time I got round, the wings seemed to be full of men, chattering in excited voices, and at a little distance stood Verney, cool and lanquid, talking to Batsburg. I heard the manager say, sulkily, "At the side-door-yes, there is a way round," and I went then and there in the direction indicated because I wanted to see the end of the comedy. There was a brogham waiting there; I stood unnoticed on the pavement untill they came out—indeed it was I who opened the carriage-door. Signa had changed her clothes rapidly, and slipped away from her dressing-room while the men were still awaiting her in the wings. But she was crying bitterly, and it so much surprised me that I felt the whole scene a little unreal. Verney put her into the carriage, hesitated, and stood with one foot on the step.

"Shall I come, too, Signa?" he said.

Her voice came out of the darkness, muffled.

"I am frightened, Noel!"

"At last?" he said, quietly. "Well, I am not."

"I thought it would be fun to scandalize you!"

"Do you mean that I was the cause this time?"

"How dare you have two thousand a year?", said Signa irrevantly. Neither of them noticed me.

"So you thought you would fling your independence of my opinion at me once for all, and see if I could be scared away, eh?"

"Something like that."

"Well, you cannot. Nothing could. I am going to take the onus of the affair on myself from this time forth however, and tackle the family."

"Will you stand by me, Noel?" Signa must really have had a fright to say that!

"There shall be no occasion. They shall not dare to refer to it. Union is strength—it is you and I together now."

He jumped into the carriage, and I closed the door and told the coachman "Home," because by that time they were past thinking of anything but themselves. Lady Jane confessed afterwards that the engagement was the greatest relief she had ever known. She had feared that it would never come off, because it appears that, owing to her blundering and excellent intentions, she had caused a breach between them which Signa would not give Verney a chance to heal. Batsburg was an angel—a fat angel—in the disguise of a frock coat and his Benefit was the medicine that killed or cured.

The amusing part of it is that the Duchess has ignored the whole affair, and as she has declined to acknowledge what everyone knows—that Signa was the sensation of the great War-Fund Benefit—she will have to go to the wedding, on which occasion Signa will make her bow and retire from her war with right and proper behavior—for the present.

Quick Wit a Strong Factor.

Some of the noblemen of Europe owe their present positions and stations of honor to the presence of mind and forethought of their ancestors during extremely critical moments. A hiccough, for instance, is the cause of the Kinskys' princely rank in Austria. It seems that during the midst of some great court function at Vienna the Empress Maria Theresa had the misfortune to hiccough so violently as to cause, not only herself, but her court, great embarrassment. In the midst of her bewilderment young Count Kinsky stepped forward, and with a most clever assumption of intense mortification and humiliation, asked her pardon for his breach of good manners. The Empress received his apology with not only good grace, but gratitude, and before long the young nobleman was bestowed with high court honors and decorations.

Another story is told how the Emperor Napoleon III when out hunting one day, being a very poor marksman, fired at a pheasant, but instead hit General Massena, destroying the sight of one of his eyes. No one could doubt who had fired the shot, but General Massena turned round and soundly berated General Berthier, who had been standing behind him, which castigation Berthier at once accepted and appeared overcome with remorse. Napoleon was grateful to both for thus shielding him, and overwhelmed them both with honors and dignity.

DRINK GALLONS OF WATER.

Practice Said to Account for Japs' Hardihood.

The Nichi-Nichi, a prominent Japanese paper, in commenting on the remarkable health of the Japanese soldier in the field attributes in a small degree of his endurance and immunity from disease to his habit of drinking about a gallon of water every day of his life. The statement was verified by an attache of the Japanese treaty commission who studied medicine at Harvard and practiced at home.

"The Japanese soldier is not permitted to drink much water on the march. He merely wets his lips, rinses his mouth, and takes a small swallow now and then. But in camp he drinks freely. A quart immediately on rising, more after breakfast; and several quarts during the evening. Of course it is largely habit. He has not studied the system's requirements from the physician's standpoint. All he knows about it is that he is thirsty and drinks to satisfy that thirst."

A TYPICAL JAP SOLDIER.

Americans Use Too Little.

"Your people," he went on, "neglect their needs as a rule, in respect to both water and air. They do not drink enough and do not bathe enough. I would not say they are unclean; it is only that they are less particular in their cleanliness. It is a difference in the point of view. The Japanese think a daily bath the very least attention to the body. Many bathe several times a day—a simple sponging, cleansing the pores and giving the soul a chance to breathe. And the air bath is equally a habit. My people cannot at first live in the close American houses. They crave the freedom and perfect ventillation of their bamboo cottages. Drinking and bathing are national traits. We believe that cleanliness of the internal tissues is as necessary to health and comfort as cleanliness of the skin. The waste materials of the body are often poisonous. Their retention is the cause of many sleepless nights, headaches rheumatic pains fits of indigeston. Water in abundance, inside and out, is necessary to every human being."

Wash Inside And Out.

The Nichi-Nichi discourses further on the subject, stating in a naive way the benefit of free indulgence in nature's drink:

"Health is a gift of the gods, and the way to health lies through the domain of cleanliness. As we wash our linen so should we wash our bodies inside and out. Water is the sweetener life. In its free use you shall be as sweet and pure as a mountain brook; as strong as the lion of the sea; as broad as the wind-swept rice fields. You shall hold your head in the stars and your life shall be as peaceful as a summer day."

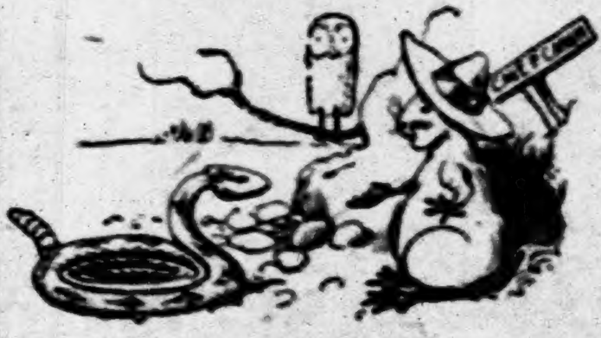
The largest pin factory in the world is not as has been stated, in the United States but in Birmingham. Eng. where are 370000.000 are manujfactured every working day. All the other pin factories in England turn out about 19'000'000.

How to Become Disease Proof.

It has already been suggested that the appendix should be removed from every infant as a routine measure. But this is clearly insufficient, says the British Medical Journal. The surgery of the future must include far more than this. The tonsils and turbinate bones of the nose must be cut out, because they may harbor germs. What Arbuthnot Lane calls the "human cesspool" (that is the large intestine), must be removed along with a considerable part of the upper portion of the alimentary canal, because it won't be needed wnen we begin to live on M. Berthelot's tabloids and pills. The too readily decaying teeth will be pulled out in early life and the germ proof store variety inserted. The failing human eye will be anticipated by spectacles in early youth. Deficient moral sense and degeneracy will be treated by ventilation of the brain and removal of the offending areas.

Thus protected against the perils of civilization, the man in the coming centuries will be able in his journey through life to defy the countless enemies that seek to rob him of health—sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

FRONTIER HOSPITALITY.



The Prairie-Dog said to the Snake,
"Your home is my hole, prithee snake,
I'll ask the Owl too,
And 'twixt us and you
A rattling good game we will shake."

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

No 1 (Bicycles) No 2 (the Racycle)

Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

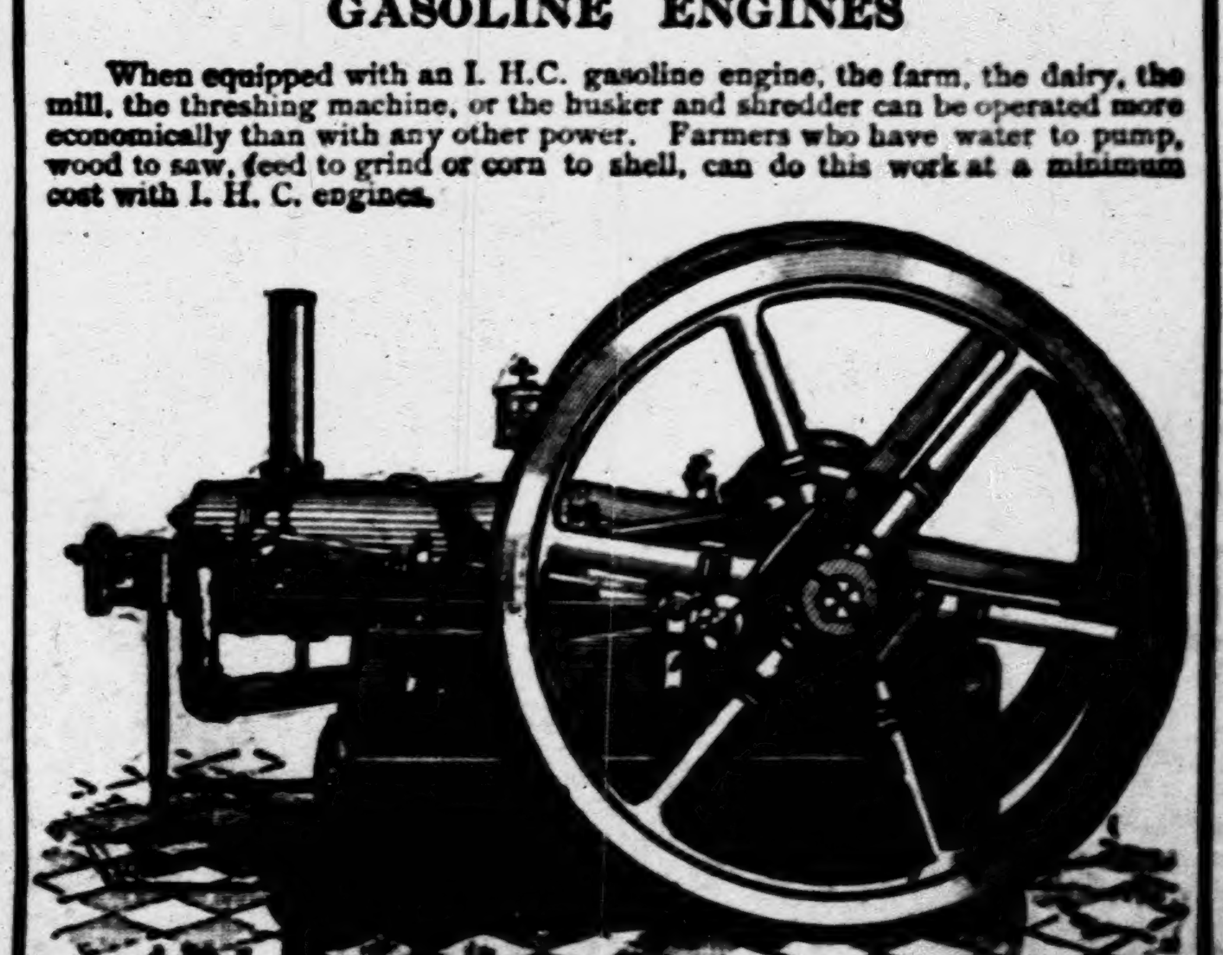
OLDSMOBILES for 1905
THE CAR THAT GOES
Highest Workmanship. Lowest Prices.

Cars for Immediate Delivery.

Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

The Seedless Apple Fraud

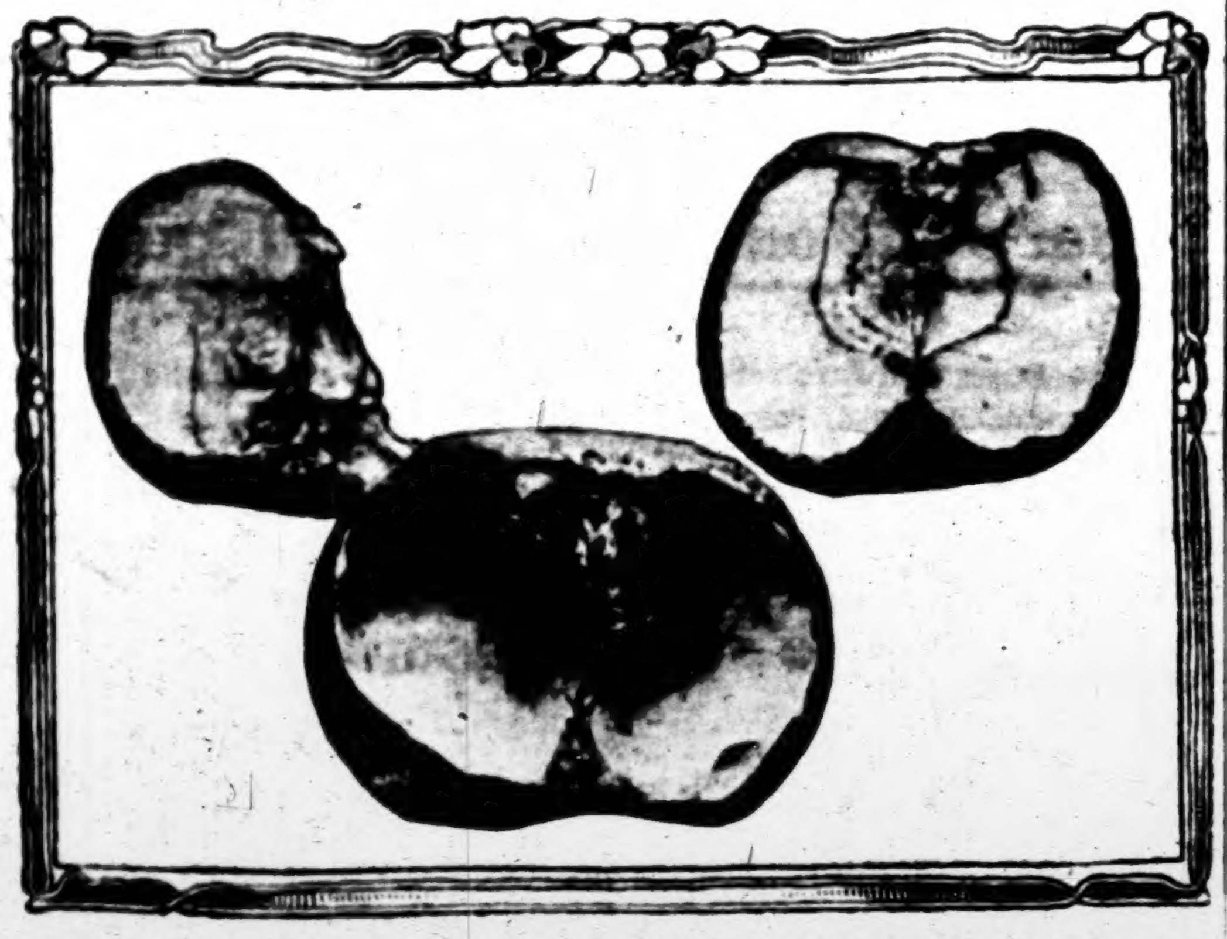
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE DENOUNCES SCHEME AS HUMBUG

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

One of Uncle Sam's duties, and it is an extremely important one, is showing up, and where possible, stopping frauds and fakes and preventing the people from being mulcted of their savings. Through its issuance of "fraud orders" the Postoffice Department prevents millions of dollars every year from being squandered on worthless projects and fake schemes exploited through cunning advertisements. The vigilance of the Government against lottery concerns is another instance. So much is done now through clever advertising that officials have come to be very chary about giving their indorsement to any schemes which have not been pretty thoroughly tried out.

The Spencer "Seedless" Apple.

A case in point was the efforts of the Colorado seedless and coreless apple concern, headed by a Mr. Spencer, which attempted last year to secure the indorsement of the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture. The apple men of the Department were extremely doubtful of the claims made by Mr. Spencer that he had evolved a seedless apple which would revolutionize the apple industry of the country, and they were wise in refusing to give it indorsement. Colonel Brackett, the Pomologist of the Department, now states that the seedless and coreless apple propaganda is apparently one of the most carefully considered and intelligently worked out schemes for fooling and defrauding the public which has ever been attempted along agricultural lines. Taking advantage of the remarkable results of fruit and plant improvement made by Luther Burbank and other wizards of plant science, the statement was sprung upon an unsuspecting newspaper press and public that a wonderful seedless and coreless apple had been discovered. Hundreds of columns of newspaper descriptions of this fruit have since appeared in not only the daily and weekly papers, but in magazines and scientific journals.



PHOTOGRAPHS OF "SEEDLESS AND CORELESS" APPLES FURNISHED THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE BY THE SPENCER COMPANY.

CROSS SECTION OF SPENCER SEEDLESS APPLE, REPRODUCED FROM SPENCER CATALOGUE.

Plans for Sinking Money.

It now turns out that the Spencer seedless apple, so far as its being a new and valuable production is concerned, is an entire fake, and it would appear that the plan is more of a stock and bond selling proposition than a nursery stock raising one. The seedless and coreless apple is almost as old as history. Pliny, the Roman naturalist, described it two thousand years ago. Hundreds of references appear in the books of horticulturists about this freak, the whole story having been described by Professor Bailey of Cornell about fifteen years ago. The bad faith of the Spencer apple people is shown in their circulating a partial quotation from Professor Bailey written about the seedless apple years ago, and having no reference to the so-called Spencer seedless apple.

The reason now appears for the careful educational work done among the newspapers last year. The Spencer Seedless Apple Company of New York has been organised with alleged nurseries in Niagara County, has issued a magnificent catalogue with a full colored lithograph of the "Spencer seedless apple," and also showing cross sections of the apple with no semblance of core or seed.

Newspapers Which Bit.

This catalogue contains numerous extracts from papers all over the country lauding the Spencer seedless apple almost to the skies. The truth is, that some of the most conservative papers were successfully roped in and unconsciously published articles specially written for them by the propagandists themselves, and these very papers are now quoted in the catalogues distributed by the company. Such eminent names appear as the New York Times, the Buffalo Inquirer, both of which had enthusiastic editorials, the American Inventor, the New York Farmer, the Scientific American, the Buffalo Commercial, the New York Herald, the National Nurseryman, the Denver Times and a score of others.

The Public to Pay the Profits

This New York apple company is but one of the subsidiary companies, with apparently the right to sell stock, either paper stock or nursery stock, in New York State.

The attractive plan proposed by the parent Spencer company, as learned at the Department of Agriculture, is that these subsidiary or local seedless apple companies may be formed in the various States. The local company is to pay a cash bonus to the mother company and also issue it 51 per cent. of its stock—a controlling interest. The public is to be let in on the remainder, 49 per cent. To facilitate the sale of this stock Assistant Pomologist W. A. Taylor says that the company sometime ago issued a statement to the effect that the retail price of trees will be held up to $3 each, while the cost to the local company will not exceed 50 cents, and it is estimated that on a local investment of $5,000, $60,000 could be quickly rounded up.

"It seems," said Mr. Taylor, who in speaking of the matter appeared to be entirely convinced of the shadyness of the scheme, "that all of the people connected with the general company, with the exception of the president, or alleged discoverer of the new apple, are men entirely unknown to the horticultural world."

Reckless Statements

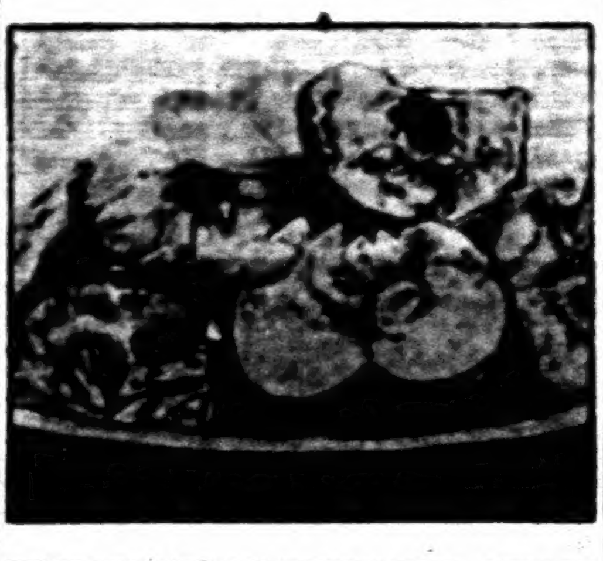
The company appears to be well organized and has apparently engaged excellent legal talent. "The statements in all the literature issued by the company are very skillfully worded," said Mr. Taylor, "the statements made through the public press, for which the company cannot be held accountable, and which are influencing the people, have been recklessly misleading and untrue." The shrewd method by which this apple was advertised in England and again readvertised in the United States shows that a master brain is engineering the promotion of the scheme. Having prepared the British public through numerous articles, for something startling, a specimen of the seedless apple was sent to King Edward, inclosed in a plush-lined jewelry box. The English papers commented widely upon the occurrence and several additional apples were sold at public auction for enormous prices, and the procially well written encomium on this happening and on the value of the apple was innocently transmitted by the American Consul to our Department of Commerce and through its advance consular sheets distributed to every newspaper in the United States.

A feature of this incident was the ceremony connected with the cutting of two apples which brought the largest prices—namely, $15. A number of distinguished British horticulturists were present, the apples were taken from cold storage cases, and everything was proceeding beautifully until the knife was applied, then it was found that the apples were neither seedless nor coreless and the indignant purchasers, Messrs. Shearn, demanded their money back.

Must Make the Fakirs Smile.

A somewhat amusing feature, as related by Colonel Brackett, is the concern which this tremendous advertising is causing our principal competitors in the export apple trade. The Tasmanian government council has instituted an official inquiry whether this new development is likely to so revolutionize the character of the fruit which we export to Europe, and which is in competition with them, as to necessitate their securing and growing this seedless variety.

Colonel Brackett states that thus far no tree or scion of this alleged remarkable apple has been placed in the hands of any disinterested experimenter, and it is significant that there are not as yet any trees or scions for sale, although it is stated that several million trees are being grown in New York, Iowa, Utah and Colorado.



PHOTOGRAPH OF "SEEDLESS" APPLES SOLD TO MESSRS. SHEARN FOR 30 SHILLINGS APIECE.

It is questionable whether the Fraud Order Office of the Postoffice Department will be able to bar the use of the mails to the company owing to the skillful preparation of its literature, though such action, it is stated, would be sustained by all reputable fruit men and nurserymen.

The wonder of the whole story is that in the face of such lamentable failures where the promoters have consented to exhibit their apples the work still goes forward of successfully fooling the people. It is not denied that there is an apple which may be called seedless and with an imperfectly developed core; but it is a freak and worthless, and, moreover, is thousands of years old. Wherever the Spencer apple has been exhibited it has been a fizzle. One claim made by the company is because the apple is bloomless it offers no opportunity for the codling moth to lay its eggs, that, therefore, the apple cannot be wormy. One of the apples reluctantly submitted by the Spencer people to Colonel Brackett, the Pomologist of the Department, contained, when cut, a good, fat codling moth worm, while all the apples submitted to the Department and to the St. Louis Exposition apple judges contained either seeds or cores. The apples were, moreover, small and inferior; but the newspaper account of these events tell a different tale.

THE "SEEDLESS" APPLE PRESENTED TO KING EDWARD.

Farm Bulletins.

The great demand upon the Department of Agriculture for some of the Farmers' Bulletins, which are distributed free, has necessitated the reprinting of quite a list of these valuable little pamphlets. Among others of general interest which are available are:

(No. 41) Fowls; Their Care and Feeding.

(No. 44) Commercial Fertilizers; Their Composition and Use.

(No. 63) Care of Milk on the Farm.

(No. 64) Ducks and Geese; Standard Breeds and Management.

(No. 113) The Apple and How to Grow It.

(No. 121) Beans, Peas and Other Legumes as Food.

(No. 32) Silos and Silage.

(No. 154) The Home Fruit Garden: Preparation and Care.

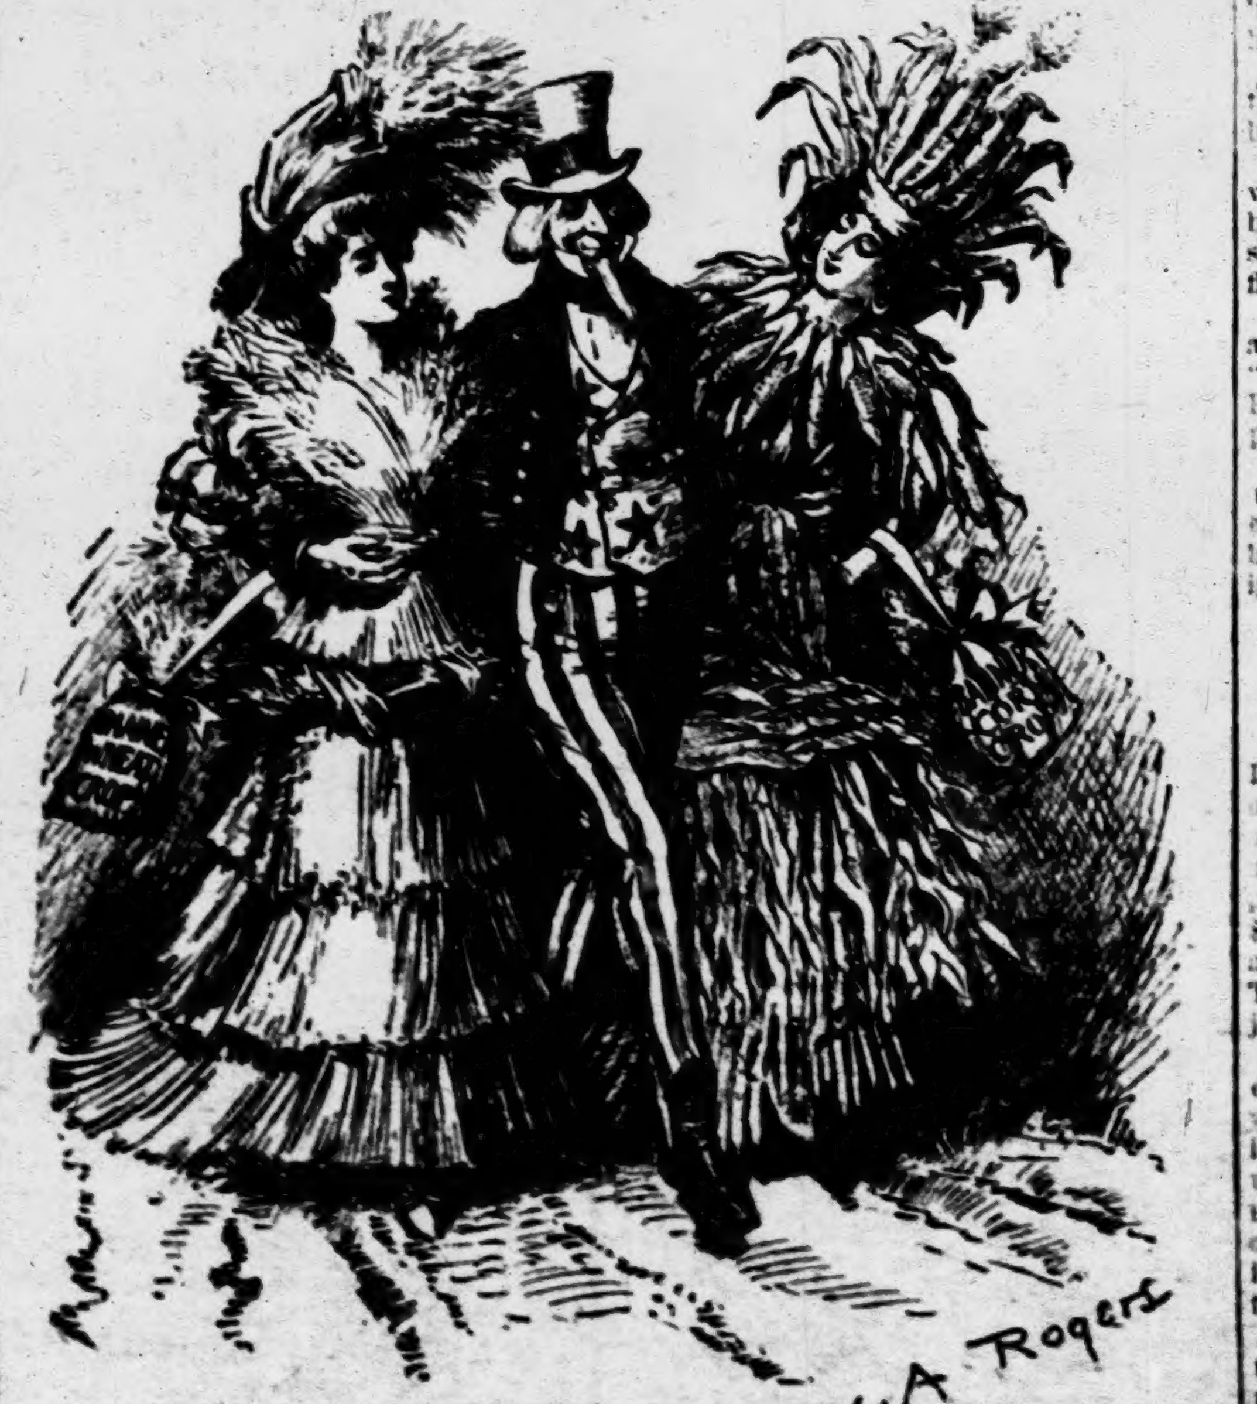
(No. 33) Peach Growing for Market.

(No. 34) Meats; Composition and Cooking.

(No. 192) Barnyard Manure.

(No. 200) Turkeys; Standard Varieties and Management.

(No. 214) Beneficial Bacteria for Leguminous Crops.



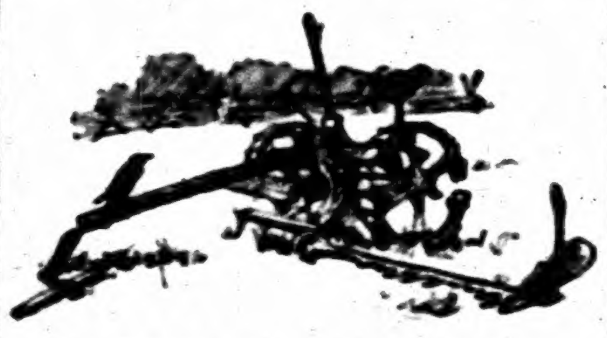
Courtesy Harper's Weekly.

THE BELLES OF THE SEASON.

◆

Proper Seasoning of Farm Implements.

It is full time that all mowing machines, harvesters, and other horse implements should be left out in the field to obtain the benefit of the fall weather. Plows and harrows will, of course, be needed yet, and these will be kept under cover for awhile, but can be left out later after the fall plowing. This practice of fall weathering of implements is quite general in many farming sections and is encouraged from year to year by a large class of farmers. It insures thorough weathering of the wood and produces in the metal parts of the machinery a fine brown color. The practice is an entirely satisfactory one to the implement sellers as a class.



◆

Pickles and Babies.

An exchange made an unfortunate error in its "Answers to Correspondents" recently.

"Fond Mother" wrote in to find out what she should do for her children who had the whooping cough. In the make up the compositor got some items transposed and the answer read: "If not too young, skin them thoroughly; immerse in scalding water, sprinkle plentifully with salt, and leave for a week in strong brine." Horrors! He misplaced the answer to "Anxious Housekeeper's" query for a pickled onion recipe.

◆

Everything Was the Same.

A young Oxford student one day received an unexpected visit from his pretty sister, and was very indignant that she came without a chaperon. "Look here," said the young man, "I will not have any of the fellows see you in my rooms, so if anyone knocks at the door you just get behind that screen."

In a few minutes a knock was heard, and the girl ran behind the screen as her brother went to open the door. An old gentleman stood on the threshold, who, after profusely apologizing for his intrusion, said: "I am just home from Australia, and many years ago I occupied these rooms; would you allow me, sir, to look at them once again?" "Certainly," said the student, "come in." "Ah," exclaimed the old man, "everything is just the same. Same old table, same old fireplace, same old screen." Then, catching sight of the girl: "By Jove, same old dodge." "Sir," exclaimed the student, "that is my sister." "Gad, sir," was the rejoinder, "same old story."

◆

A Few Afterthoughts.

The Chinese women are being weaned from the old custom of binding their feet, and it is stated that the practice now obtains only among the American women.

There is no authority for the statement that the railroad companies would seriously object if Congress spends the entire session discussing the tariff and reciprocity.

"I reflect with sorrow over the justification of the claim you make of having lent me your constant support," says Lord Curzon, the viceroy of India, recently deposed at the instance of Premier Balfour. If the Premier understood just what Lord Curzon indicated, and had the nerve, he probably called back, "you'r another."

The customs officials are alarmed at the apparent fact that there are more Havana cigars in the country than is warranted by the imports of Havana tobacco. They have probably omitted to calculate to include the chickory and cabbage-leaf crop.

The King of Spain is again touring the European courts, looking for somebody who will accept him.

The idea that the scarcity of servant girls is due to their all having become writers of novels, is probably suggested by the quality of current fiction.

Germany and France have reached an agreement over Morocco that is "entirely satisfactory to both parties." How about the feelings of the third party?

Helen Bertram has been up before a New York magistrate for failure to pay her debts. At the same time, her husband is playing in "The Prodigal Son."

◆

A Trial by Telephone.

Robert Willard, a farmer living near Elkhart, in Logan county, Illinois, upon being arrested by Constable Petrit on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty by telephone. When he was informed of the $14 fine by the justice in Lincoln, he agreed to send the amount by mail. The case is unique in central Illinois jurisprudence.

The constable found Willard busily engaged in a cornfield and read the warrant to him. Willard agreed that it was all right, but pointed to the work that he was doing and declared that he could not possibly lose a day or two by driving to Lincoln and waiting for trial. He suggested the use of the telephone, and when the constable somewhat dubiously acquiesced, the two repaired to the farmhouse. Finally they got connection with Justice Rudolph, in Lincoln, and over the wire the unique trial was held. The justice received a letter later with the fine inclosed.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 15 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue ... tain the description of exactly what you want.
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day ...... 9 3 8 @ 9 5 16c same date last year 9¼ @ 9½

...Bales received to date	1906	1905
...chard & C. ...	...1	526
...L. Mullins	885	934
...Kenter & Bro ...	250
...C. Jones	425	3.0
...son & Sons ...	93
...her Firms		270
Total	3:64	38.1

The above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday ...ning, five o'clock

FOUND. a bill of money in ...nton, about a week ago, owner ...n come a d describe the bill and ...ceive the same. R. I. GRANT. Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1

Mrs. D. L. Langston of Jemison ...ited Clanton Tuesday

Mrs. White and daughter, Miss ...lma, of Mulberry are visiting ...nds in Clanton this week

Mr. Gordon Jones of Mulberry ...s a visitor here Tuesday.

Miss Lula Colley of Verbena vis ...d relatives here the past week.

Miss Addie Horsely of Jemison ...s a pleasant visitor here Tuesday.

Dr. E. G. Hyman visited Jemi... Monday.

Mr. W. W. Duncan and little ...of Prattville are spending a few ...ys with Mrs. Philips.

Mr. I. D. Wright and sister, Miss ...na, of Pleasant Grove were visi...rs here Wednesday.

Miss Martha Pyron of Verbena ...ted Clanton this week.

Ice cold soda water always ...ways on tap at Upchurch's ...ug store.

Mrs. W. M. Adams went to ...ntersville Friday to attend the ...eral services of her mother, Mrs. ...B. Dennis, who died at the ...me of her son, in Georgia.

Don't fail to call at Miss Minnie ...se's and buy your winter hat. ...e or Mrs. Phillips will take ...asure in waiting on you

Mrs. Woods and Miss Lucy Nor...s of Birmingham, were visitors ...e Tuesday.

Mr. W. F. Anderson of Billings... was in town Tuesday.

Miss Bettie Bonham of Verbena ...s a visitor here Tuesday.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks of Maples...le, who has been quite sick for ...eral months, is visiting relatives ...n. We hope he will soon be ...tored to good health.

To draw the fire out of a burn, ...l a cut without leaving a scar, or ...cure boils, sores, tetter, eczema ...d all skin and scalp diseases, use ...Witt's Witch Hazel Salve A ...ecific for piles. Get the genuine. ...d by Upchurch Drug co.

The contractors, Wagoner & ...son, for the court house are getting things in shape to get to work ...t away, and already have some the material on the ground.

Lyon will keep his Gallery open the time. Plenty of Picture ...mes cheap.

Mr. W. M. Pool of Mulberry was ...town last Friday.

Mr. J. D. Deason of Lily was a ...sant caller Friday.

Mr. James A. Robinson is buil... a warehouse at the rear of his ...rehouse, which will be occupied Cannon & Sons for the present, ...r storehouse not being large ...ugh to hold all their stock.

A nice lot of stationery ...t received at Upchurch's ...ug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued ...week by the Probate Judge to following persons.

Mr. J. R. Blackman and Miss ...e Headley; Mr. W. M. Callo... and Miss Effie Traywick; Mr. ...H. Burkhalter and Miss Edith Clark.

Colored. John Davis and Bessie ...lker; Foster Hubbard and Rosa ...bb.

The Original Laxative Cough Sy... is Kennedy's Laxative Honey Tar. It expells all cold from ...ystem by acting as a cathartic on ...bowels. It relieves the feverish ...ditions of the throat, draws out ...inflammation, cures the cough ...strengthens the mucous mem... of the lungs and bronchial ... Kennedy's Laxative Honey Tar is a certain, safe, prompt harmless cure for colds, croup whooping cough. Sold by Up...h Drug co.

GONS APPROACH

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

TURED BY

Manufacturing Co.

LLE, KY.

RM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to ons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stands o its work—no digging holes for whee Self-feed Attachment increases acity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

24 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JAC

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to ain the description of exactly what you

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialt

Watson-Stillman Co.,
40 Dey St., N. Y. City.

la Nursery

cclimated trees and the best Northern States.

Standard Fruit

, Plums, Cherries and Trees
uit Plants, Shrubs, Roses.

G STRAWBERRY

LTY OF

TS AND SHRUBS

ns. Also Vegetable Plants
gue and Price List Fr
rompt attention.

URSERY CO.

MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court [illegible] in February first Monday in [illegible] Monday in June second [illegible] second Monday in Au[illegible] Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to-day......	9 3 16 @ 9 5 16
same date last year	9¾ @ 9¾
Bales received to date	1905	1904
[illegible]ard & C.	[illegible]1	1576
[illegible] Mullins	885	924
Easter & Bro	250	..
C. Jones..........	425	310
[illegible] & Sons	93	..
Firms		270
Total....	3164	3211

The above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday [illegible] five o'clock.

FOUND. a bill of money in [illegible], about a week ago, owner [illegible] a d describe the bill and [illegible] the same. R. T. GRANT, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1.

Mrs. D. L. Langston of Jemison [illegible] Clanton Tuesday.

Mrs. White and daughter, Miss [illegible], of Mulberry are visiting [illegible] in Clanton this week.

Mr. Gordon Jones of Mulberry [illegible] a visitor here Tuesday.

Miss Lula Colley of Verbena vis[illegible] relatives here the past week.

Miss Addie Horsely of Jemison [illegible] a pleasant visitor here Tuesday.

Dr. E. G. Hyman visited Jemi[illegible] Monday.

Mr. W. W. Duncan and little [illegible] of Prattville are spending a few [illegible] with Mrs. Phillips.

Mr. J. D. Wright and sister, Miss [illegible], of Pleasant Grove were vis[illegible] here Wednesday.

Miss Martha Pyron of Verbena [illegible] Clanton this week.

Ice cold soda water always [illegible] on tap at Upchurch's [illegible] store.

Mrs. W. M. Adams went to [illegible]sville Friday to attend the [illegible] services of her mother, Mrs. [illegible] B. Dennis, who died at the [illegible] of her son, in Georgia.

Don't fail to call at Miss Minnie [illegible]'s and buy your winter hat. [illegible] or Mrs. Phillips will take [illegible] in waiting on you

Mrs. Woods and Miss Lucy Nor[illegible] of Birmingham, were visitors [illegible] Tuesday.

Mr. W. F. Anderson of Billings[illegible] was in town Tuesday.

Miss Bettie Bonham of Verbena [illegible] a visitor here Tuesday.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks of Maples[illegible], who has been quite sick for [illegible] months, is visiting relatives [illegible]. We hope he will soon be [illegible] to good health.

To draw the fire out of a burn, [illegible] a cut without leaving a scar, or [illegible] boils, sores, tetter, eczema [illegible] all skin and scalp diseases, use [illegible]Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. A [illegible] for piles. Get the genuine. [illegible] by Upchurch Drug co.

The contractors, Wagoner & [illegible], for the court house are get[illegible] things in shape to get to work [illegible] away, and already have some [illegible] material on the ground.

Lyon will keep his Gallery open [illegible] time. Plenty of Picture [illegible] cheap.

Mr. W. M. Pool of Mulberry was [illegible] last Friday.

Mr. [illegible] D. Deason of Lily was a [illegible] caller Friday.

Mr. James A. Robinson is buil[illegible] a warehouse at the rear of his [illegible], which will be occupied [illegible] Cannon & Sons for the present, [illegible] storehouse not being large [illegible] to hold all their stock.

A nice lot of stationery [illegible] received at Upchurch's [illegible] store.

Marriage licenses have been issued [illegible] week by the Probate Judge to [illegible] following persons.

Mr. J. R. Blackman and Miss [illegible] Headley; Mr. W. M. Callo[illegible] and Miss Effie Traywick; Mr. [illegible] H. Burkhalter and Miss Edith [illegible] Clark.

Colored. John Davis and Bessie [illegible]ker; Foster Hubbard and Rosa [illegible]bb.

The Original Laxative Cough Sy[illegible] is Kennedy's Laxative Honey [illegible] Tar. It expells all cold from [illegible] system by acting as a catharic on [illegible] bowels. It relieves the feverish [illegible] conditions of the throat, draws out [illegible] inflammation, cures the cough [illegible] strengthens the mucous mem[illegible] of [illegible] lungs and bronchial [illegible]. Kennedy's Laxative Honey [illegible] Tar is a certain, safe, prompt [illegible] harmless cure for colds, croup [illegible] whooping cough. Sold by Up[illegible] Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

The first frost of the season occurred last Thursday, Oct 12.

Reduced railroad rates to the Birmingham State Fair next week.

Center Point.

Cotton picking in this community is just about over for this year.

We had an entertainment at Mr J. J. Williams'; it was greatly enjoyed by all.

Miss Nannie Bone and charming sister, Canzady, visit d Misses Ida and Minnie Williams Sunday last and report a nice [illegible]me.

Miss Lula Williams is visiting friends and relatives near Billingsley.

The singing at Center Point is progressing nicely.

THREE SCHOOL GIRLS.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Governor to restore the rights of citizenship to J. Wiley Foshee, who was convicted at the Spring Term 1900, of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for the offense of manslaughter in the first degree.

This Oct. 14, 1905.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Oct. 16 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Louis Deramus, Willie Barbonian, Hayes Varner.

LADIES' LIST.

Mary Hall, T. A. B. Dupriest.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Oct 30, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

It is a bad habit to borrow anything, but the worst thing you can possibly borrow, is trouble. When sick, sore, heavy, weary and worn-out by the pains and poisons of dyspepsia, biliousness, bright's disease, and similar internal disorders, don't sit down and brood over your symptoms, but fly for relief to Electric Bitters. Here you will find sure and permanent forgetfulness of all your troubles, and your body will not be burdened by a load of debt disease. At Upchurch drug store. Price 50c. Guaranteed.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pound will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

				1905
Kincheon......	Sept	6	Nov.	1
Enterprise	"	6	"	2
Fletcher	"	8	"	3
[illegible]antonford till 12 m.	"	8	"	4
[illegible]ton	"	8	"	6
Valley Creek	"	8	"	7
Dixie	"	8	"	8
Shoults	"	7	"	9
Maplesville	"	7	"	10
Benson	"	3	"	11
Macedonia	"	3	"	13
Gentry & Cofer's Mill	"	2	"	14
Hayes' Mill	"	2	"	15
Providence	"	2	"	16
J. Killingsworth's, to 12 m	"	2	"	17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 p m	"	1	"	17
Jemison	"	2	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11	"	22
Providence	"	10	"	23
Burwell	"	10	"	24
Thorsby	"	9	"	27
Clanton	"	4	"	28
Cooper	"	10	"	29
Verbena	"	5	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Norteastern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905.
S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

Administrator's Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court. Oct. 7, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 7th day of October, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said Estate, are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.
R. P. MILLS, Administrator.

Commissioner's Sale.

Under and by virtue of a commission issued to me on the 27th day of September, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds as Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, I, H. I. Honeycutt, the Commissioner named in said commission, will proceed to sell, at public outcry, to the highest bidder, for cash, in front of the Court House door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on MONDAY, the 30th day of OCTOBER, 1905, between the hours of eleven o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate, to-wit:

W ½ of W ½ of Se ¼ of Se 1-4, and all that part of the Sw 1-4 of the Se 1-4, lying east of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, all in Section 36, of Township 23, of Range 13, containing twenty four acres more or less, except that part now occupied by negro graves, all situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of division and distribution among tenants in common, to-wit: W. W. Ryan, Nellie Paulson, Anetta Larson and Gerhard Larson in pursuance of an order of said Court of Probate.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of September, 1905.
H. I. HONEYCUTT, Commissioner.

Cures Chills and Fever.

G. W. Wirt, Nacogdoches, Texas, says: "His daughter had chills and fever for three years; he could not find anything that would help her till he used Herbine. His wife will not keep house without it, and cannot say too much for it." 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Single and Double.

"This," said the man who was showing the stranger around the city, as he pointed to a broad stretch of beach, "belongs to old Bigspud. It's all made land. That's his house back there on the left."

"Is that on made land, too?" asked the stranger.

"No. That's on married land. He got it with his wife."—Chicago Trib-

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

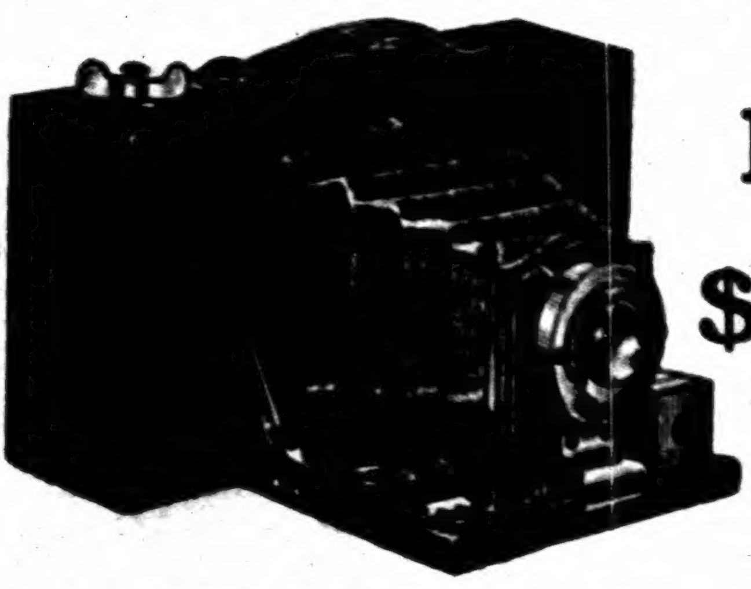
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price,

$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

Do Not Neglect a Cold.

Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

MRS. SALLIE LOCKBAR, Goldthwaite, Tex., says: "We have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for several years, and it always gives satisfaction. When the children had Croup and Whooping Cough it always relieved them at once, and I would not be without it in the house, as it is the BEST MEDICINE we know of."

Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTO

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

CLANTON

MOZLEY'S
LEMON ELIXIR
—A SURE CURE FOR—
CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS
and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A
$5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken
500 FREE COURSES
Board at Cost. Write Quick
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

The drum was the first musical instrument of the human race.

NO TONGUE CAN TELL

How I Suffered With Itching and Bleeding Eczema Until Cured by Cuticura.

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with a terribly painful, itching and bleeding eczema, my body and face being covered with sores. Never in my life did I experience such awful suffering, and I longed for death, which I felt was near. I had tried doctors and medicines without success, but my mother insisted that I try Cuticura. I felt better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment, and was soon entirely well. (Signed) Mrs. A. Etson, Bellevue, Mich."

Mount Aconcagua, the giant peak of the Andes, is 23,080 feet high.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Distinguished Chinese Coming.

Sir Chentung Liang Change, the Chinese minister, has been advised by cable of the appointment at Pekin of special representatives of the various branches of the government who will visit the United States and Europe to make a close study of governmental systems. Most prominent of these officials is Tung Fang, the viceroy of Hunan, who during the Boxer outbreak in 1900 bore a prominent part in the protection of the missionaries.

Grafted on an Eyelid.

A physician at Bordeaux, France, was called on to graft an eyelid on a man whose face had been shockingly burned. As there was no healthy skin left near the eye, he partly severed a piece of skin from the man's left arm and kept the arm in contact with the eye for ten days. The operation was a complete success.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

INTELLIGENTWOMEN PREPARE

Dangers and Pain of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs A E G Hyland

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women as this time draws near is not without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dread of impending evil, sounds in the ears, timidity, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period, and may be relied upon to overcome all distressing symptoms and carry them safely through to a healthy and happy old age.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Mrs A. E. G. Hyland, of Chestertown, Md., in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I had been suffering with falling of the womb for years and was passing through the change of life. My womb was badly swollen. I had a good deal of soreness, dizzy spells, headaches, and was very nervous. I wrote you for advice and commenced treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you directed, and I am happy to say that all those distressing symptoms left me, and I have passed safely through the change of life a well woman."

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

Why People Walk in Circles.

The well-known fact that people lost in a desert or a forest invariable walk in a circle is due to a slight inequality in the length of the legs. A series of careful measurements showed that only 10 per cent had lower limbs equal in length, 35 per cent had the right longer than the left, while in 55 per cent the left leg was the longer. The result of one limb being longer than the other will naturally be that a person will unconsciously take a longer step with the longer limb. Consequently he will trend to the right or to the left, according to whether the left or the right is the longer, unless the tendency to deviate is corrected by the eye. This inequality in the length of the limbs is not confined to any particular sex or race, but seems to be universal.

Picturesque Brigand.

Algeria is threatened with that most terrible scourge which can afflict a country-side—a brigand with prestige and a picturesque legend. His name is Gaya Chaba, and he is an Arab who deserted from a native infantry regiment to turn brigand. He is now terrorizing the Arad district, where his crimes and his impunity inspire the natives with the belief that he is invulnerable. He is already sure of food and shelter against pursuit throughout the region, and before long may be surrounded by a formidable band. The authorities are alive to the danger, and are straining every nerve to break down the legend.

Against Adorning Hats With Birds.

Prof. Theodore A. Schorr, who has just died in Baltimore, was a pioneer in the crusade against killing birds for hat adornment. He had a collection of birds and butterflies, representing 50,000 species, valued at about $100,000. He had in his possession more than 1,200 personal letters and testimonials from presidents of universities and colleges regarding his exhibit.

Girl a Grading Contractor.

Miss Elizabeth Thielman has just completed a two years' contract for grading and paving certain streets in Harlem, N. Y. When her father died his daughter decided to finish the contract which he had made. She hired Italian laborers and has personally superintended the work. She cleared up all the debts he owed to the amount of $50,000.

BOX OF WAFERS FREE—NO DRUGS —CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Cures Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breath—Bloating—Sour Eructations Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

10215 FREE COUPON 125

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

Champion Officeholder.

E. W. Sweeley, a justice of the peace in Loyalsock, Lycoming county, Pa., claims the record for officeholding in that state. Altogether he has held various township and county offices whose terms aggregate 109 years during his life of 68 years, and he is still adding to his record. Mr. Sweeley is a democrat, and that he is popular is shown by his record, as follows: Justice of the peace, thirty-five years; assessor, twenty-six years; supervisor, eight years; school director, fifteen years; overseer of the poor, six years; township auditor, twelve years; county auditor, four years; jury commissioner, three years.

Aged Scientist Going Blind.

Professor Hilgard, a cousin of the late Henry Hilgard, and for thirty-one years connected with the University of California, is threatened with total blindness and has been compelled to suspend work on his book on "Soils," which represents fifty years of study as an agricultural chemist.

River of Ink.

Algeria possesses a true phenomenon of nature, a river of genuine ink, caused by the joining of two streams, one of which comes from an iron region, while the second flows from a peat swamp. On meeting the acid of one stream blends with the iron solution of the other, and ink is the result.

Adam's tomb is pointed out in a chamber of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DEAN H. MARTYN HART.

Subject: Tithing—The Social Problem.

Denver, Col.—Dean H. Martyn Hart, of the St. John's Cathedral, recently preached a sermon on "Tithing—the Divine Solution of the Social Problem." The text was from Matthew xxii:21: "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's." Dean Hart said:

"It surely was no just argument that because the head of Caesar was upon the coin it therefore belonged to him and ought to be returned to the imperial treasury, any more than because the effigy of the king is struck upon the English sovereign that therefore all sovereigns are his property.

"You will notice that the Lord had said, 'Show me the tribute money.' A bystander offered the coin, which lay in the extended palm of the Lord's hand. The Jews have ever been the most precocious of money dealers. Had the Romans permitted them to pay their taxes in all manner of coins, great would have been the loss to the exchequer; therefore a coin was struck, and there are still some of them to be seen, in which alone it was lawful to pay the tax. This coin had to be purchased from the publican of the district, who looked after his own interests. The 'tribute money' went to Rome, to the imperial treasury.

"The man who had produced the coin had already acknowledged his liability and had provided himself with the means of liquidating it. The coin was only of use for the one purpose; that one thing was the payment of the tribute. The questioner had answered himself. 'Fulfill your obligation,' said the Lord, 'and render unto Caesar the things that be Caesar's, and do not forget that the power of Caesar is only the representative of the higher power by whom kings reign, and if you admit the authority of the servant by so much more should you recognize the authority of the Master: render, therefore, unto God the things that are God's.' What, then, are 'the things of God' which we are required to render unto Him?

"If the context requires that the parallel shall be continued, and it is in a sum of money that the answer must be given, then the only reply can be that one-tenth of every man's income is 'a thing of God.' Now what evidence have we that this is so and what is the purpose of the law?

"The ultimate appeal as to what is truth must be the opinion of the race. If the opinion of all men could be taken as to the truth or falsity of any proposition, that would be a final determination. When anybody is in doubt of a legal or medical question, the only solution of the doubt is an appeal to men of the legal or medical professions. 'Counsel's opinion' is taken, or the sufferer goes to a doctor. If it were possible to extend this natural instinct to the limits of humanity and upon any question of grave import the opinion of all men could be ascertained, then that expression would be as nearly truth as it is possible for us men to arrive at.

"The Lincolnian canon is as sure a rule as the most firmly established axiom. 'You cannot fool all the people all the time.' There are, at least, double the number of Bibles in the world as there are all other books put together. If the list of the libraries in the world be taken out of an encyclopedia and the number of their volumes added, it will be found that in all the libraries which possess over 100,000 volumes there are 50,000,000 books, and if we allow that there are as many books in household libraries as in these great public collections, which is making a liberal estimate, we may safely conclude that there are not more than 100,000,000 secular books in the world. But during the last century the leading Bible societies of Europe and America put out more than 200,000,000 Bibles, in 360 different languages. The British and Foreign Bible Society turns out of its presses seven Bibles, or parts of the Bible, every minute, day and night. It is, therefore, the opinion of the race that this Book is 'the most valuable thing in the world,' as the Archbishop of Canterbury describes it, as he handed a copy to the new-crowned king.

"The opinion of the race is that the Bible is a book of truth; that it is what it professes to be—the revelation of the heavenly Father to the children of men. Now if this be the case, it would be strange indeed if this communication from outside our life did not instruct us as to the great desiderata of every individual. Let any one ask himself what would make him perfectly happy and content in this present state of existence.

"The reply would be: First, to have a conscience void of offense; next, to have no fear of death, but a looking forward to a glory to be revealed; and finally, to be removed from any anxiety as to the necessities of living. As we should expect, the answers to these essential requirements of life are given on the very first page of human history.

"In the dramatic story of Cain and Abel the three provisions for satisfying these three fundamental wants are plainly stated. These two brothers came together on the same day, at the same time, to the same place, for the same purpose; there were two altars and each brought material for sacrifice.

"The essential truth of sacrifice, despite the immense ingenuity which has been employed to explain it away, remains stamped upon it. Millions of intelligent men have brought an innocent victim to an altar erected to the unseen but recognized God. Putting their hands on the head of the victim, they confessed the sins which lay a burden on their conscience; they thus killed the sacrificial animal; they burnt part of it and ate the rest of it. It would be an insult to the intelligence of mankind to admit that all the generations of men should, one after another, perform sacrifice in practically the same way, and mean nothing by it. The meaning of its ritual is written large upon its surface. No sensible man could for a moment believe that the wrongs he had done, and which he regretted and would undo if he could, and was prepared to make what atonement for he was able, he could transfer to a dumb animal by putting his hands on its head and confessing his sins. That innocent animal represented some other Being, who 'could bear the sins of the world.' The only nation of theologians the world has ever produced kept dear the original revelation. They knew there was 'a Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world.'

"That God requires of men a tenth of their income, as a tax for the general purposes of the commonweal, and issued this law as one of the fundamental rules for the guidance of human society, is evident from the fact of its wide observance by ancient nations. One instance must suffice. In Plutarch's life of the Dictator Camillus, it is recorded that after the taking of the Etruscan City of Veii, the augurs reported from their inspection of the sacrifices, that the gods were outraged. An inquiry was instituted and it was ascertained that the soldiers who had been concerned in the sacking of the city had neglected to dedicate the accustomed tenth to the gods. The senate decreed that the victorious legions should make restitution and that a cup of gold of eight talents weight should be sent as a trespass offering to the Temple of Apollo at Delphi.

"The Roman ladies brought, of their own free will, such liberal gifts of jewels and gold that the Senate, to honor them, decreed that funeral orations might be made at the obsequies of women, which hitherto had only been permitted over eminent public men. This extraordinary episode proves how rarely it happened that tithes were not paid and how grievous was the sin of omitting their payment. The further history of this incident also proves that the payment of tithes was a world wide institution and carried with it a sacredness which can only be accounted for by admitting that it was a primitive and universally recognized law of God.

"Three senators of high rank were appointed to carry the restored tithe, with the trespass offering, to Delphos. On its way the embassy was taken by the Liparians, who were then at war with Rome. But when the governor of the city understood that the rich booty was tithe on its way to Delphos, he not only liberated the Romans, but sent a squadron of his own fleet to convoy them safely on their way.

"This dedication at a tenth, for the common purposes of the community, could only have been devised by a mind which thoroughly understood the whole problem of the needs of human society. If it were honestly practiced it would be found just enough to alleviate all social pressure—and it is not a little to be wondered at, that the public eye should be blinded to such an exceedingly simple and easily executed law, which could readily be enacted and as readily executed. Suppose that every citizen comprehended the effectiveness of the law of tithe and voted that it should be constituted a national income tax, what would be the result?

"Consider the absolute impossibility of legislating against trusts or combinations of capital. Legislation against the natural processes of trade can never be a success. The money getting proclivity is an element in the character of men, which, like other characteristics, varies in different people. Those in whom it is largely developed will accumulate money naturally. If all the wealth of the community were evenly distributed among its individuals it would, in the course of a few years, go back again into the hands of those who possessed the aptitude of making money. The law of God would tax this capability for the benefit of those who do not possess it, and for those who by various disabilities gravitate below the line of comfortable living.

"The taxation of a tenth will be found to be that exact fraction which everybody can subscribe without distress, and exactly that sum which will maintain those who from various causes are unable to maintain themselves. All communities have about the same proportionate composition, and the example afforded by this city of Denver will be applicable to any other city mutatis mutandis.

"This city is composed of about thirty thousand houses. It will be readily conceded that for living purposes each house must represent a yearly income of $1000. So that the minimum income of this city is $30,000,000. The actual income is probably twice that amount. But see the effect of tithing this minimum $30,000,000. The tithe would be $3,000,000. Now, by actual reckoning, it is found that the income of the 125 churches, that is, all moneys gathered for all purposes from the people worshiping in them, amounts to less than $300,000. Last year the incomes of the five largest denominations were: The Presbyterians, $56,000; the Episcopalians, $48,000; the Congregationalists, $34,000; the Baptists, $31,000, and the Methodists, $21,000. So that $250,000 will represent the religious income of this community. The County Commissioners expended on relief $86,000. The four hospitals did not spend in charitable work $50,000. The other societies which exist for eleemosynary purposes, together with all the private charity of the city, will have their expenditures well covered by $114,000. So that $500,000 represents the religious and charitable cost to a city of 165,000 people, of maintaining its churches, hospitals and charitable societies. The public school system, which is remarkably efficient, cost $486,000. Thus, for all sorts of charitable relief, all sorts of religious effort and for public education the city of Denver spent $1,000,000.

If tithing were in force the tithe commissioners would have, at the least, $3,000,000 at their disposal—that means to say that the churches might all be free, the hospitals wide open and well equipped; public laundries might relieve the women of the working classes; their food might be cooked at the public kitchens; every man too old to work might be pensioned; the streets might be gardens, where all such pensioners might have easy labor, and every reasonable cause for discontent might be removed.

Let the people demand that an income tax of a tenth shall be a national levy. The English pay income tax, why should not Americans? The Mormons pay tithe, and they have no poor and no discontent, so far as the matter of living is concerned. It is the law of God, wonderful, simple and completely effective, whereby all social disabilities may be removed.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 22.

Subject: Rebuilding the Temple, Ezra iii., 10 to iv., 5—Golden Text, I. Cor. iii., 17—Memory Verses, 10, 11—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The foundation of the temple laid (vs. 10-13). 10. "The builders." Jeshua and Zerubbabel as managers, with the people as workmen. The people did all they could during the winter in making preparations for building the temple, for great labor must have been required in clearing the ground for the foundation as well as in providing materials. In a little more than a year after they left Babylon, Zerubbabel and Jeshua having appointed the priests and the Levites to attend to their courses, laid the foundation. The Jeshua of verse 9 is not the high priest of verse 2, but another—a Levite mentioned in chapter 2:40. "Priests in their apparel." The elegant and beautiful official robes used by the priests in their celebrations, especially the blue and scarlet and purple robes with gold and gems of the high priests and others, described in Exodus 39. Priesthood was an ordinance peculiar to Israel. "With trumpets." For summoning assembles and joyful announcements. "The Levites." God chose the descendants of Levi for the service of His tabernacle and temple. In the wilderness they encamped around it as guardians, and in moving conveyed it from place to place.

11. "They sang together by course." Sang alternately, or responsively; one party saying, "The Lord is good," and the other responding, "For His mercy endureth forever." "All the people shouted." "Those who had known only the misery of having no temple at all praised the Lord with shouts of joy when they saw the foundation laid, for to them this was as life from the dead." 12. "Many—ancient men—wept." To them it was the day of small things (Zech. 4:10). The new house, in comparison with the old one, was "as nothing" (Hag. 2:3). The temple would not be overlaid with gold, as Solomon's, nor surrounded with such magnificent buildings. The ark, the tables, the mercy seat were lost. No visible glory would appear in the holy place. There were no answers by Urim and Thummim. There was no fire from heaven. 13. "Could not discern." This mixture of sorrow and joy is a representation of this world; some are bathing in rivers of joy, while others are drowned in floods of tears.

II. A tempting offer (vs. 1, 2). 1. "The adversaries." These were the Samaritans and different nations with which the kings of Assyria had peopled the land of Israel when they had carried the original inhabitants away into captivity. See verse 9. Doubtless they were envious of the favor shown them by Cyrus, the king of Persia. The worst enemies Judah and Benjamin had were those that said they were Jews and were not (Rev. 3:9).

2. "Let us build with you." This people no doubt were desirous of partaking of the privileges granted to the Jews by the king of Persia. Hearing that the temple was being built they were aware that it would be a fatal blow to their superstition, and therefore they set themselves to oppose it. But as they had not power to do it openly and by force they endeavored to do it secretly and by cunning. They offered their services, that by this they might pry into their counsels, find some matter of accusation against them, and thereby retard the work while they pretended to further it. "We seek your God." The religion of the Samaritans was a mixture of idolatry, superstition and ignorance; far worse at this time than it was when our Lord Himself declared that they knew not what they worshiped. The Samaritans were neither Israelites by birth, nor yet true proslytes. "Since the days of Esar-haddon." King of Assyria and Babylon. He is the only Assyrian king who reigned at Babylon. History tells us that he took a large number of people from Palestine to dwell in Babylon, and placed a large number of Babylonians in Palestine in their place. Those Assyrian settlers intermarried with the remnant of Israelite women, and their descendants, a mongrel race, went under the name of Samaritans.

III. A positive reply (v. 3). 3. "Ye have nothing to do with us." We cannot acknowledge you as worshipers of the true God, and cannot participate with you in anything that relates to His worship. No compromise measures could be considered. Zerubbabel and his associates saw that to enter into an alliance with these semi-heathen would mean the breaking down of the Jewish institutions and a relapse into idolatry. "We—will build." Thus was a great peril averted. They saved a nation, for the time, at any rate, from the danger of having their religion corrupted and adulterated by intermixture with a form of belief and practice which was altogether of an inferior type.

IV. The work delayed (vs. 4, 5). 4. "Weakened the hands." This opposition is supposed to have begun soon after the foundation was laid. During the remainder of the reign of Cyrus, about five years, they did not openly oppose a work he had commanded, but discouraged the people and perhaps intercepted their materials for building, and by bribing counselors to oppose their application to the ministers of Cyrus for supplies or protection they greatly obstructed the design. This would be more easily done, as it is probable that Daniel died about this time (Dan. 6:25-28).

5. "Until the reign of Darius." This king began to reign B. C. 522. Permission was given to complete the building in B. C. 520.

Malfeasance in Office Charged.

Peoria, Ill.—The grand jury returned a final report with a true bill against Oliver J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the Peoria school board, and holding him on the charge of malfeasance in office in "suffering and permitting one Newton C. Dougherty to misappropriate and unlawfully convert to his own use school moneys to a large amount." Mr. Bailey is one of the wealthiest men in this city.

CHOOL

MMENTS

harged.

y returned bill against of the oria school the charge "suffering C. Dough- unlawfully ool moneys Bailey is n this city.

NOTES AND CO

The automobile can't horse altogether out of Vienna is celebrating the the Frankfurter sausage

The emphasis that the on the "weight of the indicates that football ity and not a theory.

A meddler is a person his attempt. The meddler ceeds is no meddler, but a

Says the Augusta Edison says he does with men whose lives are getting money. That's Mr. Edison has been able something.

The opening of the schools shown no decline in the the American public school The people everywhere gard it as one of the institutions and best

Many of the exciting daily concerning the sins of our fellow-creatures terest like that aroused tive stories of Conan Doyle no other purpose.

The commercial man has tional status, however and highly cultured he fool with an Oxford ed by society as a gentle banker, the financier, the the merchant, and the have all to establish their claims to be gentlemen.

In selecting the name the new state of what been the Indian Territory hood constitutional conferred a fitting and upon one of the leading the Cherokee nation, than any one else to cause of education and among his tribe.

The United States source of the world's ton. Our cotton mills the raw material grow their doors. Yet we are unable to sell our cotton ful competition with ers in near-by South kets.

In many towns and cities school is avoided by those the rough contacts of would be instructive to sus which would show culture and character ing provided in public schools.

Judgments rendered in jury damage suits brought city during the last up to the impressive total 000. The sum named part of the cost imposed taxpayers, for many lars are expended annually ing these suits. The of these suits grow out injuries, or alleged defective sidewalks.

The Philadelphia remarks: "The short of that any such misuse ance money, or savings or other kind of trust crime. That the financ mit the crime cannot it is criminal proves the moral fibre of those teriorated and that with the crookedness has benumbed their guish right from wrong

"The horrors of modern into insignficance with the horrors of ing in the United States larger than the Union tysburg is killed and year on the railroads States. During the year 30, 1904, there were ed and 84,155 people dents on American killed, 441 were the injured, 9,111 were The number of employ 3,632, and the number ployees was 68,067. the slain were neither employes, probably the ber being killed at while walking the shocking casualty list shudder of horror modern battle, but occur in small num we have grown callous time that the public in the matter and safety for employees asks The Commoner.

Pearl Fishing in the Pearl fishing in the has been carried on including Kentucky, Wisconsin, Illinois, souri, Georgia and from a freshwater for $1,500, while from Tennessee of the finest pearls the United States It had a beautiful ninety-three grains near Paterson, N. J. sold to the 500. Today it is 000.—Randolph tific American.

Names.

change their arriving in this country the difficulty they find in spelled properly. Many adopt the names of surnames.

Big Lake.

the largest lake in highest navigable lake is to be tapped for elec-

GIANT LAID LOW.

Made Ill by Awful Kidney Disorders.

fruit raiser, Webs- "I used to lift railroad ties easily, but wrenched my back and began to suffer with backache and kidney trouble. I neglected it un- til one day a twinge felled me like a log. on hands and knees. for a time that I without sticks, had head- dizzy spells and the kidney were muddy and full of sediment. Doan's Kidney the pain disappear and cor- urinary trouble. I have felt since."

all dealers. 50 cents a box. Buffalo, N. Y.

Warrant of Christ.

in the kingdom of Na- some Frenchmen, in the that ancient city, an antique vase containing written in the Hebrew lan- is claimed to be the death of Jesus.

the "fads and fancies" of the wearing of two watches.

cured. No fits or nervous- use of Dr. Kline's Great trial bottle and treatise free 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa the mind the greater physical recreation.

Soothing Syrup for Children the gums, reduces inflamma- cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle of the important industrial the best medicine we ever used throat and lungs.—Wm. Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

for relaxation," says

The Great Antiseptic.

for all mosquito bites. and malaria germs.

feeding the animals in the year is $17,000.

The Knocker Is Popular.

knocker is again coming and a decorator says of electric bell is all very well but it is not in it for artis- with the imported knocker. raves over the spread eagle knocker, which comes in hammered brass, and every- the beautiful cherubs, against the white of the doorway, with the suspended beneath. of apartment living we orders for knockers doorway of a pretty, artistic house is just about com- a knocker is hung on the never met the person yet, the woman, who did not knocker."

Shells Not Jewelry.

Dole, in the United States of Hawaii, has sustained a ruling of Collector the classification of Tasmanian shells, great which are imported by They are worn like the shells being beau- iridescent. The collector of classified them as jewelry. protested, and Judge that they are not jew-

COFFEE NEURALGIA

Quit and Use Postum.

unconsciously drifted prostration brought on by coffee drinker all my regularly, three times ago I became subject neuralgia, attacks of ner- and general nervous not only incapacitat- my housework, but made it necessary for me to dark room for two or three several good doctors, one but none of them was permanent relief.

months ago a friend suggest- perhaps coffee was the cause of and that I try Postum and give up the old kind. I took her advice, for my has been entirely restored. I neuralgia, nor have I had headache in all these eight No more of my days are in solitary confinement in a all my own work with The flesh that I lost during the of my nervous prostration has back to me, during these months, once more a happy, healthy I enclose a list of names of who can vouch for the truth statement." Name given by Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

a reason.

days' trial leaving off coffee and Postum is sufficient. All grocers.

PENSION MEASURES

To be Again Discussed—A Big Deficiency has Resulted Therefrom.

URGE RIVERS AND HARBORS

National Convention to Be Held to Urge Appropriation Next Congress for Improvements.

Washington, D. C.—Pension order No. 78, which came into notoriety as a precedent for evading congressional legislation through excutive order and was vigorously opposed by Representative Underwood and others, will be the subject of further debate in the next congress, the secretary of the interior finding it necessary to ask congress to make a deficiency appropriation of over $3,500,000 to meet the demands for pensions made through that order.

The fact that there is a deficiency in the current pension appropriation became apparent some time ago. The number of applications for pensions under the old age order has far exceeded the expectations of the officials of the bureau, but when the order was made it was stated on the floor of the house that it would bring about just such a condition as now exists. Commissioner Warner stated that there was no possible way of estimating the increase, owing to the impossibility of getting at the number of people who would apply for increases by reason of coming within the age limit during the year. It is comparatively an easy matter to estimate how many persons that have been on the pension rolls will be entitled to the old age increase in addition, but as to the remainder of people who have never been on the rolls and who come within the provisions of the law during the year there is no way of determining.

On top of all this is the agitation for the increase of all civil war pensions from $6, $8 and $10 per month to $12.

Money for Rivers and Harbors.

Nearly every commercial organization in the country will be represented here in January when the National Rivers and Harbors convention meets. The meetings will be watched with more than ordinary interest, because of the reported intention of the house leaders not to allow a rivers and harbors bill at the coming session. The purpose of the convention will be to induce congress to allow larger appropriations for river and harbor work than it has in the past, and to convince members here how essential such appropriations are to the commercial progress of the country. The chairman of the executive committee, Robert Ramsey, has sent out invitations to all commercial bodies, and from replies already received there is every indication that the meeting will be a successful one. It is generally realized that a big rivers and harbors bill depends largely upon a public demand, the small bills of last year, the Fifty-seventh congress, having been justified, according to the congressional leaders, by the condition of the treasury.

Ship Subsidy Bill.

While Senator Frye, of Maine, and Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, may get some encouragement out of the endorsement by the bankers' association of their ship subsidy bill, there is nothing to indicate that the bankers' endorsement will materially assist the measure. The bill promises to become very much less of a factor in legislation than it has in the last five years.

Congressman Gets Ten Months in Jail.

Portland, Ore.—Congressman John Newton Williamson, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States government of its public domain, was sentenced to ten months' imprisonment. Appeals are pending and a stay of execution was made pending a further order of the court. Meanwhile Congressman Williamson will go free on his own recognizance, but a bond of $4,000 was required of the two other defendants, as during the trial of the case. As the term of imprisonment is less than one year, the sentence must be served in the county jail.

Shug Huffman Arraigned.

Huntsville, Ala.—Shug Huffman, charged with the murder of Deputy United States Marshal Holsonback, was arraigned in the United States court and his trial set for October 19. A special venire of thirty-six jurors was ordered drawn from among the available jurymen of Madison, Limestone, Jackson and Morgan counties. Huffman has been put on trial several times, and each time a mistrial has resulted from some unlooked for event.

Malfeasance in Office Charged.

Peoria, Ill.—The grand jury returned a final report with a true bill against Oliver J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the Peoria school board, and holding him on the charge of malfeasance in office in "suffering and permitting one Newton C. Dougherty to misappropriate and unlawfully convert to his own use school moneys to a large amount." Mr. Bailey is one of the wealthiest men in this city.

To make Cheap Gas-light for Country Homes

TAKE a common Clay Pipe.

Put a simple "Acetylene" Gasburner on its stem.

Bind the two in position with a tight-fitting piece of Rubber Hose.

Then fill the bowl of the pipe with fine-ground Calcium Carbide.

Next tie a rag over head of the bowl to keep in the Carbide.

Now put the pipe into a Glass of Water, as in picture

There you have a complete Gas-plant for 25 cents.

Touch a match to the Burner—and you'll get a beautiful White Gas-light.

Of course, this is only an experiment, but it shows the wonderful simplicity of Acetylene Lighting.

That very simplicity gave Acetylene Light a setback, at first.

It seemed so simple to turn Calcium Carbide into Gas-light that over 600 different kinds of "tanks" and "Acetylene Machines" were invented, patented, and marketed for the purpose, by about as many different people.

Well, the thing to be expected certainly happened!

About 530 of these "Acetylene Machines" had been invented and sold by people who knew more about Tinware than they did about Gas-making.

The "Calcium Carbide" was all right all the time, but 530 of the machines for turning it into Gas were all wrong all the time.

So Acetylene Gas "got a bad name," though it is clear enough now that it never deserved it at any time.

It was like selling Wood Stoves to burn Hard Coal in, and then blaming the Coal for not burning.

• • •

Lots of things happened to grieve the Owners of these 530 makes of alleged "Acetylene Machines."

But very few accidents occurred from them even in the days of rank experiment and dense ignorance, among, "Generator" Makers.

Of course, a gun will go off unexpectedly, now and then, if the trigger be pulled by a person who "didn't know it was loaded."

But, that's no fault of the Ammunition—is it?

Well, finally the Insurance Companies got after these 530 odd makes of "Acetylene Machines" that wouldn't Acetylate, and the Insurance Board made an investigation of all Generators that were submitted to them.

Then, out of the 600 odd "Machines" patented, only about 70 were "permitted" by the Insurance Board to be used.

Oh, what a howl was there!

By "permitted" I mean that the Insurance Board was willing that any building should be Insured, without extra charge, which used any one of these 70 Acetylene Generators it had found safe, and effective, just as it permitted houses to be piped for City Gas, or wired for Electricity, under proper conditions.

Now, the Insurance Companies ought to know whether or not these 70 different makes of Acetylene Generators were absolutely Safe to use.

Because, they have to pay the bills, if Fire or Explosion occurs, from any one of the Acetylene Generators they authorize.

And, here's a proof of their good judgment.

Though there are now Two Million people using Acetylene Light in America, there have only been four Fires from it in one year, against 8865 Fires from Kerosene and Gasoline.

There have also been 4691 Fires from Electricity, 1707 Fires from City Gas, and 520 Fires from Candles.

Besides these there have been 26 Fires from the Sun's rays, But,—only four Fires from Acetylene.

That shows how careful the Insurance Board was in its examination of Acetylene Generators, and in "permitting" only the 70 makes that were above suspicion, out of the 600 experiments that were once on the market.

• • •

Well,—the boom in Acetylene Lighting made lower prices possible on the material it is derived from, viz., Calcium Carbide, a material that looks like Granite but acts like Magic.

Today, Acetylene Light is a full third cheaper than Kerosene Light, or Gasoline Light, per Candle Power.

It is not more than half the price of Electric Light, nor three-fourths that of City Gas.

If I can't prove these statements to your full satisfaction my name is not "Acetylene Jones."

But Acetylene is more than the safest and cheapest Light of the year 1905.

It is also the Whitest Light—the nearest to natural Sunlight in health-giving Blue and Violet rays, and because of this, with its freedom from flicker, it is the easiest of all Artificial Light on the Eyes.

It is so much like real Sunlight that it has made plants grow 24 hours per day in dark cellars where no ray of Sunlight could reach them. It made them grow twice as fast as similar plants that had only the Sunlight of day-time, viz., half the time.

That was proven by Cornell University in a three-months' experiment made this very year.

• • •

Now, I've saved up for the last a point more important to you than all the others about Acetylene Light.

It consumes only one-fourth as much of the vital Oxygen from the Air of Living rooms or bed-rooms, as either Kerosene or City Gas-Light consumes.

That's a tremendous difference in a lifetime, mark you—three-fourths of a difference.

Because.—Oxygen is Life.

And every bit of Oxygen stolen from the lungs of Women, Children and Men, through Lighting, is a loss that can never be made good again.

A 24 Candle-Power Acetylene Light costs you only two-fifths of a cent per hour.

That's about $5.85 per year, if burned every night in the year for four steady hours.

A Kerosene Lamp of equal capacity would cost you a third more, viz.: three-fifths of a cent per hour for Kerosene alone, or $8.75 per year.

That's exclusive of broken lamp chimneys, new wicks, and the everlasting drudgery and danger of cleaning, filling and trimming daily.

I want to prove these figures to you, Reader, if you are a house-owner or storekeeper.

Tell me how many rooms you've got and I'll tell you what it will cost to light them with brilliant, beautiful, Sanitary, eye-saving Acetylene.

Write me today for my Free Book about "Sunlight on Tap."

Just address me here as—

"Acetylene Jones,"
9 Adams St.,
Chicago, Ills.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

For Your Family and Your Horse

The Best Antiseptic Known.

TRY IT FOR

Rheumatism, Strains, Sprains, Swellings and Enlargements.

Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

Several centuries ago it was quite the thing to carry silver toothpicks suspended around the neck by a chain.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The English flag floats on 11,385 merchant vessels.

Coin Named After Him.

Sir John Swinburne, who is about to be married, obtained the honor of having the threepenny bit named after him throughout South Africa. When he went to Cape Town first there was no copper coinage, and he was provident enough to take out a sackful of the smallest "collection in silver," to be used for tipping. So throughout the colony this coin is still known as "Sir John" when it is not called a "tickle."

Deceived the Nihilists.

According to a Russian political refugee now dwelling in England the course of history in Russia during the last thirty years has been largely influenced by its female spies. The famous General Trepoff at the beginning of his career was greatly aided by a clever lady member of the secret service. One day the general was fired at in the streets of St. Petersburg by a woman. The shot missed its mark, and the would-be assassin was captured and tried for the crime; but to the amazement of the public she was acquitted. On her release the Nihilists sought her out as a friend of their movement, and she was admitted to their most secret counsels. After that several of them were arrested, their plans having been mysteriously revealed to the government. The explanation is simple. The supposed attempt on the general's life was a clever ruse carried out by the lady spy, who thus won the confidence of the Nihilists.

Lassa, the Forbidden City of Thibet, has a population of 10,000, two-thirds of whom are women, who conduct all the business of the city.

Budapest has put an electric washing machine on the market.

Richest Silver Mines.

Peru and Bolivia have the richest silver mines in the world, there having been taken over $650,000,000 from the Potosi mines in Bolivia alone.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 SHOES

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

Established July 4, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

MONEY $ $ $ Write to F. E. Behn, La Crosse, Wis.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. ELDOOR MFG. CO., 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

COLEMAN'S

Duplicate Repair Parts

For "Maid of the South" Corn Mills, Coleman's, Simmon's, Reynold's and other Cotton Presses.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
714 Perdido St., NEW ORLEANS, LA.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

CONEY ISLAND SOUVENIR POST CARDS. Six beautiful colored scenes for 10c. Coney Island Postal Card Co., Coney Island, N.Y.

Am. 42, 1905.

IF IT'S CHILLS YOU HAVE, IT'S OXIDINE YOU NEED

It is sold under ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE, and if you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made also in Tasteless Form. Sold by all druggists for 50 cents per Bottle.

PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
MFRS., DALLAS, TEX. AND MEMPHIS, TENN.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY ANTI-GRIPINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

DATE 'EM

When you buy a pair of

CLOVER BRAND SHOES

Write the date of purchase in the lining. That will tell the story.

We are the originators of this idea. Other manufacturers don't invite you to do this.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR "AMIGO."

Werthheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broad-cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I. MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON

ELECTRIC PARK

MONTGOMERY, ALA:

ONE WEEK Commencing Monday, Oct. 23

THE GORGEOUS NIGHT MILITARY SPECTACULAR FETE

Stupendous, Thrilling, Beautiful War Spectacle

The Siege and Fall of Port Arthur

$1,000 Nightly Display of Fireworks $1000

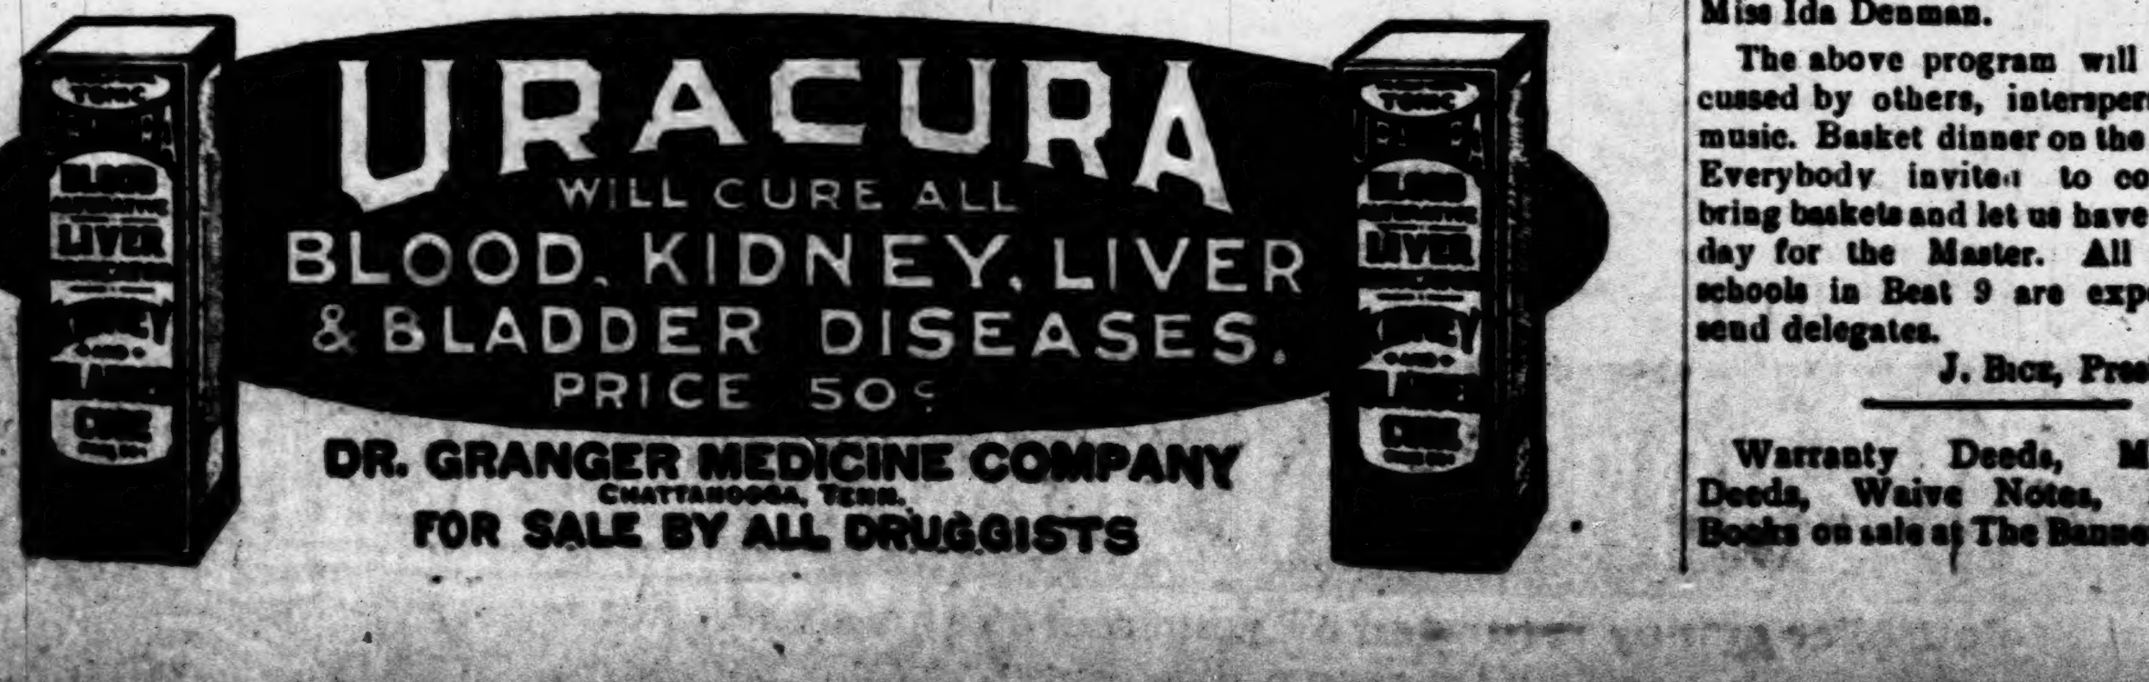
Created, and under the Direction of

Colonel Wm. A. LaVelle

Terrific Bombardment, Thrilling Sea Fight. Destruction of Russian Fleet, Acres of Magnificent Scenery.

300 COSTUMED PEOPLE 300

Visitors to Montgomery to see President Roosevelt on Tuesday, Oct. 24th, will receive FREE tickets to this great show as a courtesy from the citizens of Montgomery. Present Railroad tickets at the Bureau of Information on Court Square.



URACURA

WILL CURE ALL

BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.

PRICE 50¢

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

PATTILLO BROS,

MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN

YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Flooring, ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, ALA.

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ceiling in stock for the Clanton trade.

Her Advice.

"Yes, Laura, he said his heart was in my keeping."

"Take my advice, dear, and tell him you are not running a storage warehouse for damaged goods."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Don't live to eat, but eat to live. Many of our ills are due to overeating, to eating the wrong things and to irregular eating.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief. Two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

PROGRAM

Sunday School Convention, Beat 9, to be held at Thorsby, Sunday, Oct. 29.

9 to 10 a.m. Regular lesson.

10:15. Opening service, Bro. J. K. Snyder.

10:45. Address of welcome by the president.

11. What the teachers expect of the superintendent, Miss Anna Howard.

11:15. What the superintendent expects of the teachers, J. J. Smalley.

11:30: What are the essential qualifications of a superintendent, A. Horn.

11:45. What Jesus does in the Sunday school, Prof. R. A. Rasco. Adjournment for dinner.

1:15 p.m. What is the Sunday school and what does it expect to accomplish? J. W. Hayes.

1:30. Is the Sunday school what it ought to be? If not, why not? T. G. Williams.

1:45. How I teach a primary class, Mrs. S. E. Norton.

2:15. What is the best way to make the Sunday school grow? J. R. Williams.

2:40. Punctuality, order and discipline, how secured and maintained, Miss Ida Denman.

The above program will be discussed by others, interspersed with music. Basket dinner on the ground. Everybody invited to come and bring baskets and let us have a grand day for the Master. All Sunday schools in Beat 9 are expected to send delegates.

J. Bice, President.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books on sale at The Banner office

---

PAINFUL PERIODS

Life often seems too long to the woman who suffers from painful periods. The eternal bearing down, headache, backache, leucorrhea, nervousness, dizziness, griping, cramps and similar tortures are dreadful. To make life worth living, take

Wine of Cardui

Woman's Relief

It quickly relieves inflammation, purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the constitution and permanently cures all diseased conditions from which weak women suffer.

It is matchless, marvelous, reliable.

At all druggists' in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED GREATLY," writes Mrs. L. E. Clevenger, of Belleview, N. C., "at my monthly periods, all my life, but the first bottle of Cardui gave me wonderful relief, and now I am in better health than I have been for a long time."

Macedonia.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely at this place with a good attendance every Sunday. Mr. A. Glasscock is our Superintendent and has been for a long time, he is certainly a good man. The young people have great confidence in him, as well as the older ones.

Mr. W. Bearden payed us a flying visit the past week, come again cousin Bill.

Messrs. J. F. Armstrong and Lewis Waldrup are going to North Alabama next week to look them out a home

Mr. Editor, I wish to say a few words in reply to "D. M. W's" letter in last issue. He says it is the parents' fault by the way they raise their children. I have seen parents who raised their children up the best they could; they prayed with them and for them and taught them the way and plan of salvation until they were grown and then they would get off in bad company and do things their parents had taught them they ought not to do. I cannot blame the parents every time for the way their children go after they have grown up. I do believe we ought to so live in a way we could make our homes more happy than we do. That is we should strive daily to live as near right as we can and pray continuously without ceasing.

Cotton picking is just about over, much made and a low price. What are we going to do? Can we afford to buy gueno and raise cotton to pay for it and get nothing out of the cotton.

Our health is very good in this community.

The Banner Boy.

A new idea in a Cough Syrup is advanced in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Besides containing Pine Tar, Honey and other valuable remedies, it is rendered Laxative, so that its use insures a prompt and efficient evacuation of the bowels. It relaxes the nervous system and cures all coughs, colds, croup, etc. A red clover blossom and the honey bee is on every bottle of the Original Laxative Cough Syrup—Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

$2.25. By special arrangement we are enabled to offer the Alabama Baptist ($2 00 and the Banner ($1.00) both papers one year for $2.25

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and Company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder, in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property, as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit;

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each, and the following real estate: Lots 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with Judge of Probate court of said county and State, and a parcel of land 125 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22, Range 14; and a parcel of land on and along the whole east side of said described 125 feet running east to the alley in block No. Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No. Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat, containing two acres, more or less, and also Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 minerals excepted. All of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama.

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & Company.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY and TAR
Red Clover Blossom and Honey Bee on Every Bottle.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENT

A District S. S. Convection be held with Oak Grove school, two miles north of Je
on the fifth Sunday in October,
The District is composed of B and 2. Every Sunday school District is requested to send a one delegate to the convention
addition to the program
by the county convention, the lowing program has been sel

What is the greatest hind to the Sunday school work country? Discussion opened county president, T. U. Cru

2d What is the best meth getting parents to attend school with their children? Op
by W. H. Conway.

3d, What are the advanta
Sunday schools? Opened by L
Reynolds.

All Sunday school workers
ed. Bring your song book
well filled dinner baskets.

W. H. Shaw, Presi
J. F. Lowery, Secretary.

You may be just as skeptical pessimistic as you please. Kod digest what you eat whether y
or not. You can put your food bowl, pour a little Kodol Dysp Cure on it and it will digest same as it will in your stomach
can't help but cure Indigestion
Dyspepsia. It is curing hun and thousands—Some had faith
some didn't. Sold by Upch
Drug co.

EYES
TESTED FR

A COMPLETE ST
of Fine Clocks just in from New York, nice line of Ladi
and Gent's Gold Fil
Watches and Jewel
If you need a pair
Spectacles I have t in best grades. Sew
Machines from $10

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA

THE ORIGINAL
LAXATIVE COUGH SY

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

(Trade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXA
HONEY AND TA

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO,
For sale by Upchurch Dr

Position
$5,000
and cheapest on earth.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS

VOL. XIV

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

We received, Wednesday morn-
, a communication reflecting some persons who have been groceries, etc , to farmers, to delivered at a future date, and correspondent avers that the rs are being victimized. From that we can hear, we believe correspondent's charges are cor
, although it might be a difficult
to convict the parties of sel-
goods under false pretenses.
may safely be affirmed that when
are approached by a person, of-ing to sell staple articles below ndard price, there is a delusion a snare somewhere, and instead getting a bargain you are more likely to get bitten. Clanton chants sell all staple goods at ntgomery and Birmingham
ices, which are governed by the tional markets, and it stands to son that firms at a long distance not deliver honest values at the ces offered by specious talkers.

"Cotton will bring 11¢ within days, I verily believe," said F.
Gulledge, vice-president of the hilton Cotton Association, "if asters don't lose their heads when price touches 10¢, and swamp
market with their holdings."
to me, pay your debts, and
the balance of your cotton for better price and you will get your ward alright, alright.

The two C's—Comer and Cun
gham—are the avowed candi
for the democratic nomination
governor. Which will "C"ee to be "C"een. Oh!

I had a very interesting evening
h Dr. Hopkins' X ray, but I'll to spend another evening be-
I can tell much about it

MCMORRIES—DENNIS.

Miss Glennie McMorries and Mr.
C. Dennis were quietly mar-
at the home of the bride at mingham at 8 o'clock Wednes-
evening, the Rev. A. C. Swinofficiating. Miss McMorries is beautiful and accomplished
hter of Prof. E. Y. McMorries, was educated at the Tuscaloosa ale College, where she gradu-in the class of 1901. Mr.
nis is a member of one of our families and is a graduate of
State University at Tuscaloosa.
has been at the Chilton County
for several years and enjoys a ative practive Both parties
well known in Clanton where have a host of friends. They reside at Clanton.

A new idea in a Cough Syrup is nced in Kennedy's Laxative
y and Tar. Besides contain-
Pine Tar, Honey and other val-
remedies, it is rendered Laxa-
so that its use insures a prompt fficient evacuation of the bowels, laxes the nervous system and
all coughs, colds, croup, etc.
clover blossom and the honey
is on every bottle of the Origi-
Laxative Cough Syrup—Kenne-
Laxative Honey and Tar. Sold
Upchurch Drug co.

Lime Springs.

will preach at Lime Springs the Sunday (29th) at 11 a.m. A attendance requested.

J. T. Eckford, P. C.

to Cure Corns and Bunions.

, soak the corn or bunion in water to soften it; then pare as closley as possible withdrawing blood and apply Cham-
's Pain Balm twice daily,
vigorously for five minutes
application. A corn plaster be worn a few days to pro-
it from the shoe. As a general
for sprains, bruises, lame-
and rheumatism, Pain Balm is ualed. For sale by Upchurch
co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thors-

TED—Fresh Milch Cows, not to give less than three of milk per day, M J
, Thorsby, Ala

PERIODS
long to the woman who sufods. The eternal bearing-he, leucorrhea, nervousness, s and similar tortures are worth living, take

Carduí

's Relief

lammation, purifies and en-hens the constitution and ased conditions from which lous, reliable.
00 bottles.

"I SUFFERED GREATLY,"
writes Mrs. L. E. Clevenger, of Belleview, N. C., "at my monthly periods, all my life, but the first bottle of Cardui gave me wonderful relief, and now
I am in better health than I have been for a long time."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTI
A District S. S. Convention be held with Oak Grove Sun school, two miles north of Jem
on the fifth Sunday in October, 19
The District is composed of Beats and 2. Every Sunday school in t District is requested to send at le
one delegate to the convention.
addition to the program sugges
by the county convention, the f lowing program has been selected
What is the greatest hinderan to the Sunday school work in country? Discussion opened county president, T. U. Crumpto
2d. What is the best method getting parents to attend Sund school with their children? Ope
by W. H. Conway.
3d. What are the advantage
Sunday schools? Opened by L.
Reynolds.
All Sunday school workers in
ed. Bring your song books
well filled dinner baskets.
W. H. Shaw, Presiden
J. F. Lowery, Secretary.

You may be just as skeptical pessimistic as you please. Kodol digest what you eat whether you
or not. You can put your food bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspe Cure on it and it will digest it same as it will in your stomach.
can't help but cure Indigestion
Dyspepsia. It is curing hundr
and thousands—Some had faith
some didn't. Sold by Upchu
Drug co.

A COMPLETE STOC
of Fine Clocks just co in from New York, an nice line of Ladie
and Gent's Gold Fill Watches and Jewelr
If you need a pair
Spectacles I have th in best grades. Sewi Machines from $10 up
L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

THE ORIGINAL
LAXATIVE COUGH SYR
Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.
(Trade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXAT
HONEY AND TA
PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO,
For sale by Upchurch Drug

Positions
$5,000 BANK DEP
and cheapest on earth. Don't delay.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No. 2

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

We received, Wednesday morn-
, a communication reflecting
some persons who have been groceries, etc, to farmers, to delivered at a future date, and correspondent avers that the
are being victimized. From that we can hear, we believe
correspondent's charges are cor-
, although it might be a difficult
to convict the parties of sel-
goods under false pretenses.
may safely be affirmed that when
are approached by a person, of-
to sell staple articles below dard price, there is a delusion
a snare somewhere, and instead
getting a bargain you are more likely to get bitten. Clanton chants sell all staple goods at gomery and Birmingham es, which are governed by the markets, and it stands to that firms at a long distance
not deliver honest values at the offered by specious talkers.

"Cotton will bring 11¢ within days, I verily believe," said F.
Gulledge, vice-president of the Chilton Cotton Association, "if ters don't lose their heads when price touches 10¢, and swamp
market with their holdings."
to me, pay your debts, and
the balance of your cotton for better price and you will get your ard alright, alright.

The two C's—Comer and Cun-
gham—are the avowed candi
for the democratic nomination
governor. Which will "C"ee ins to be "C"een. Oh!

I had a very interesting evening
Dr. Hopkins' X ray, but I'll
to spend another evening be-
I can tell much about it.

MCMORRIES–DENNIS.

Miss Glennie McMorries and Mr.
C. Dennis were quietly mar-
at the home of the bride at mingham at 8 o'clock Wednes-
evening, the Rev. A. C. Swin-
officiating. Miss McMorries is beautiful and accomplished
ghter of Prof. E. Y. McMorries,
was educated at the Tuscaloosa College, where she gradu-
in the class of 1901. Mr.
is a member of one of our families and is a graduate of
State University at Tuscaloosa.
has been at the Chilton County
for several years and enjoys a rative practive Both parties
well known in Clanton where have a host of friends. They reside at Clanton.

A new idea in a Cough Syrup is in Kennedy's Laxative and Tar. Besides contain-
Pine tar, Honey and other val-
remedies, it is rendered Laxa-
, so that its use insures a prompt efficient evacuation of the bowels,
laxes the nervous system and
all coughs, colds, croup, etc.
clover blossom and the honey
is on every bottle of the Origi-
Laxative Cough Syrup—Kenne-
Laxative Honey and Tar. Sold
Upchurch Drug co.

Lime Springs.

I will preach at Lime Springs the Sunday (29th) at 11 a.m. A
attendance requested.

J. T. Eckford, P. C.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in water to soften it; then pare down as closley as possible withdrawing blood and apply Cham-
's Pain Balm twice daily,
vigorously for five minutes
application. A corn plaster
be worn a few days to pro-
it from the shoe. As a general
for sprains, bruises, lame-
and rheumatism, Pain Balm is qualed. For sale by Upchurch
co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thors-

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, ame not to give less thrn three
of milk per day, M J
ett, Thorsby, Ala

CORRESPONDENCE.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Cane Creek.

Dear Editor: Please allow me space in the dear old Banner to say a few words.

Mr. J. T. William's school opened last Monday. We think Mr. Williams will do us some good if the patrons will co operate with him. We are well pleased with the school so far. Boys and girls, go to school now while you have the opportunity, put your whole soul and strength to your back. While I had no chance to go to school, I am proud that you have it. I have never had any schooling, I have had to walk between the plow handles ever since I was ten years old. But I am proud of it, for it is no disonor. I believe the national wellfare depends upon the prosperity of the farmer.

G. W. W.

Stanton.

"Mrs Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" was very successfully played last Friday evening at the school house to appreciate audience. The audience was kept in constant expectancy from one expression of wit to another. Several local hits were made that "took the house down." It was given by the teachers and pupils of the school, together with the assistance of Mrs. W O. Perry, to whom we are very much indebted for her faithful performance of the part "Mrs Wiggs." Also much credit is due Mrs. Speer for her work of dramatizing the story.

The painter will begin work on the school house right soon.

Next Sunday will be a red letter day with the people of Stanton. The district Sunday school convention, also the Methodist quarterly conference, convenes here.

Rev. I. Windsor held his regular service here last Sunday morning and evening. His morning theme was "The leading hand of God." The evening service was very impressive. "Worship God," the theme, was divided into three parts, and spoken to by the pastor, Rev. W. J. Ruddick and Rev. W H. Connell.

Subscriber.

You may be just as skeptical and pessimistic as you please. Kodol will digest what you eat whether you eat or not. You can put your food in a bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure on it and it will digest it the same as it will in your stomach. It can't help but cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is curing hundreds and thousands—Some had faith and some didn't. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Weogufka Baptist Association

The minutes for 1905 are now ready, and the following churches in the neighborhood of Clenton will please call or send to The Banner office for their share: Cane Creek, Poplar Springs, Union Point and Bethany The other churches of the Association will be supplied by Secretary Joshua Davis, Shelby, Ala.

Fairview and New Prospect.

Your 4th Quarterly Conference will be held at Isabella, Tuesday, Nov. 9th, at 11 a.m. All of the Stewards and Trustees urged to be present, also building committee. Press your new church movement and get the building material on the ground as soon as possible.

J. T. Eckford, P. C.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief. Two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Goad.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$[illegible]
Demand Loans		2 000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		2,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50
Currency	12,[illegible].00
Gold	[illegible].00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,[illegible] 01
Checks and Cash Items	30 00
Profit and Loss	4.56
		$37,[illegible] 96
Total		$[illegible] 61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$[illegible] 10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,[illegible] 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$[illegible] 50
Time Certificates	[illegible] 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
		$[illegible] 16
Total		$[illegible] 61

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

A District S. S. Convention will be held with Oak Grove Sunday school, two miles north of Jemison, on the fifth Sunday in October, 1905. The District is composed of Beats 1 and 2. Every Sunday school in the District is requested to send at least one delegate to the convention. In addition to the program suggested by the county convention, the following program has been selected:

What is the greatest hinderance to the Sunday school work in our country? Discussion opened by county president, T. U. Crumpton.

2d. What is the best method of getting parents to attend Sunday school with their children? Open d by W. H. Conway.

3d. What are the advantages of Sunday schools? Opened by L. H. Reynolds.

All Sunday school workers invited. Bring your song books and well filled dinner baskets.

W. H. Shaw, President.
J. F. Lowery, Secretary.

Full of Tragic Meaning are these lines from J. H. Simmons, of Casey, Ia. Think what might have resulted from his terrible cough if he had not taken the medicine about which he writes: "I had a fearful cough that disturbed my night's rest. I tried everything, but nothing would relieve it, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which completely cured me." Instantly relieves and permanently cures all throat and lung diseases; prevents grip and pneumonia. At Upchurch Drug co., guaranteed; 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and by virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and Company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder, in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property, as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit;

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905,

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each, and the following real estate: Lots 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with Judge of Probate court of said county and State, and a parcel of land 125 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22, Range 14; and a parcel of land on and along the whole east side of said described 125 feet running east to the alley in block No Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No. Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat, containing two acres, more or less, and also Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 minerals excepted: All of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama.

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. Morgan, Sheriff.

Wm. M. Adams,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & Company.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. Morgan, Sheriff.

The Fifth District S. S. Convention.

The Sunday School Convention of District No. 5—Beats 5 and 10, held at Salem church, October 22d, was a most gratifying success in every way. All the Sunday schools in the district were represented, delegates being present from Canaan, Friendship, Soldiers Home, Evergreen, Chestnut Creek, Verbena Baptist and Methodist, Salem, Corinth, Maple Springs and Shady Grove, proving conclusively that the Sunday schools are rapidly becoming vitally interested in the district and county organization.

The convention was held under most favorable circumstances, as the Salem church is in a prosperous neighborhood and is a comfortable, convenient and well appointed building. Its members received the visitors and delegates with such cordial welcome and entertained them with such kindly hospitality that this good day spent with them will long be cherished as a most pleasant memory. An abundant dinner was served the guests and their convenience was further considered by ample provision of corn and oats for their teams. The church was crowded at both sessions and especial mention must be made of the quiet orderly behavior which prevailed and the excellent attention given which is always a help and inspiration to a speaker. The singing led by Mr. Tillman Robinson, with Miss Robinson as organist, added very much to the pleasure of the occasion. Judge Joseph Carthel, the State Secretary, and Miss Minnie Kennedy, the State Primary Secretary, were present giving us valuable help because of their long experience and thorough knowledge of Sunday school work.

The program included the reports of the President Dr. H. W. Caffey, and of the Secretary, Miss Meriwether. Talks by Messrs. Judson Strock, A J Brooks, J L Long and Milton Robertson. Reports from the schools were given by W A Miller, John Norris, W H Strock, J F Patton, N J Calloway, W C Clark, J L Williams, D S Robinson, A J Brooks and J L Long.

The election of officers resulted in D S Robinson, president; N J Calloway, vice-president, and Miss Lila Meriwether secretary. This very successful convention is encouraging evidence that the Association in District No, 5 is in flourishing condition and we earnestly hope that these Sunday schools banded together in this organization, shall feel the fresh interest, the quickened zeal, the new enthusiasm which comes always from working together in that liberal fellowship which is the strength of co-operation.

Secretary.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President — E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President — E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

COTTON SEED—Buy your Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls at Wade's ginnery. Just got in a car load, and can sell them at prices that defy all competition. Best grade of Meal that can be procured.

MONEY TO LOAN—From $300 to $500—on good real estate security. Apply to X. Y. Z., care of The Banner, Clanton, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WANTED—We want some good families, boys and girls, to work in the Cotton Mills. Healthy place; cheap rent—mill and mill village supplied with artesian water. No better place to live. Good churches and Sunday schools, also literary schools. Good wages paid twice a month. Apply to J. M. Martin, Superintendent Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Co., Prattville, Ala.

TEACHER WANTED—The Trustees of District No. 38 are seeking a teacher. Apply to T. C. Jones, Maplesville, Ala., R. F. D. No. 1.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Plans to Get Rich

are often frustrated by sudden breakdown, due to dyspepsia or constipation. Brace up and take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They take out the materials which are clogging your energier, and give you a new start. Cure headache and dizziness too. At Upcurch drug store; 25c., guaranteed.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN . DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

GREAT ALABAMA STATE FAIR

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
OCTOBER 23 TO NOVEMBER 2
INCLUDING Magnificent Horse Show
CONTINUING FOR SIX NIGHTS
Five or More Races Each Afternoon
Between some of the Most Noted Running, Trotting and Pacing Horses in the World.
Splendid Exhibits of Live Stock, Agricultural and Mineral Products, Machinery, Poultry, Etc
Balloon Ascension and Bomb-Bursting Parachute Leap Each Day REDUCED RAILROAD RATES.

EUGENE FIES, President. — R. M. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The yellow fever report in this city for last 24 hours is as follows: New cases, 4; total cases, 2,365; deaths, none; total deaths, 435; new foci, none; cases under treatment, 63; cases discharged, 2,867.

At Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—The yellow fever report in this city for the last twenty-four hours is as follows: New cases, 7; total cases, 487; deaths, 2; total deaths, 68; discharged, 329; under treatment, 97.

Charged With High Treason.

Budapest.—Nemed Denes, private secretary to Baron Banffy, the former premier, was arrested Saturday on the charge of high treason.

The arrest of Denes arises from his connection with the publication a month ago of the pamphlet entitled, "The Hungarian Crisis and the Hohenzollerns," in which the overthrow of the Hapsburgs and the establishment of the Hohenzollern dynasty in Hungary, were represented as the only way to the prosperity of Hungary. Baron Banffy has been openly charged with sanctioning the publication of the pamphlet, but has denied in most positive terms any connection with it. It is said that the police seized a letter in Baron Banffy's handwriting in the rooms of the author of the pamphlet.

Children Killed By Trolley Car.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Two children were killed and eight other persons injured, three fatally, in a crossing accident two miles north of Southport tonight, when car No. 9 on the Indianapolis, Columbus and South Indiana traction line struck a wagon loaded with a merry party returning from the country where they had been gathering nuts.

According to statements made by members of the traction car, the driver must have lost his way and in his confusion drove the wagon onto the tracks in front of the car.

Still a Mystery.

Memphis, Tenn.—Efforts of the police to discover the origin of the supposed incendiary fire which destroyed the building occupied by the Illinois Central Tailroad company at Main and Madison streets, last night, were unavailing.

The flames which threatened to spread to adjoining property were confined by the firemen to the building in which they originated. The damage amounted to between $60,000 and $75,000.

Fire in San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex.—Fire broke out in the basement of the four-story building occupied by the Newton, Weller, Wagner company, the big wholesale and retail crockery firm on Commerce street, and resulted in damage to the stock and building which will probably exceed $75,000. The stock is valued at $125,000, and the building at $150,000. Insurance is carried on the stock for $80,000 and on the building for $100,000.

Jerry Simpson Has Hemorrhage.

Wichita, Kan.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson suffered a severe hemorrhage Sunday morning, and a light one later in the day. While he was revived from the effects to some extent, the attending physicians fear he cannot live through the night. He is still unconscious.

Quake in Vermont.

Newport, Vt.—The heaviest earthquake shock ever felt in this section occurred early Sunday. The vibration of the earth shook houses, smashed crockery and caused considerable alarm. There was only one shock, which lasted for a few seconds. It was accompanied by a sound like a distant explosion.

Korean Revolution.

Victoria, B. C.—A revolution is reported to have broken out in the province of Chiung Chiong, in Northern Korea, and is spreading to Kangyou province. The Japanese sent troops to suppress the rebellion after the Korean government had failed to take steps.

Will Have Poultry Show.

Huntsville, Ala.—The North Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock Association has decided to hold its annual exhibition in Huntsville on December 5-8. F. J. Marshall, of Atlanta, has been selected to judge the exhibition and make awards. There will be more entries than ever before, both from poultry fanciers in this section and in Quarantine Raised.

State of Alabama has raised quarantine against Lauderdale county, Mississippi, including city of Meridian. Trains 3, 4, 7, 8 and Southern Passenger trains between York and Meridian resumed traffic.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Injured by Frightened Horse.

Anniston, Ala.—While going to his home F. M. House was slightly injured at the Eleventh street railroad crossing by the animal which he was riding falling upon him. The animal became frightened by the moving cars and tried to throw Mr. House. Failing in this, the animal reared up and fell backward. The horse ran away, and Mr. House boarded a car for home. Besides a few bruises Mr. House is all right.

Negro Runs Over Young Lady.

Birmingham, Ala.—As a result of an accident Miss Leila Murray Norment lies in the St. Vincent Hospital in an unconscious condition. She was knocked down at Second avenue and Nineteenth street by a negro boy, Leon White, who was riding a bicycle at a very high rate of speed. The accident occurred at 2:20 o'clock Friday afternoon. The boy was locked up and not allowed to make bail. The police say they will arrest another boy, with whom White was racing at the time Miss Norment was hurt. There were a number of witnesses to the mishap, all of whom say the young woman was totally oblivious of impending danger until the wheel was upon her. As soon as she was struck she was carried across the street to Housman's Pharmacy. Clerks in the drug store advised that she be carried to the office of Dr. B. A. Fox, on Nineteenth street, between Second and Third avenues. Later she was carried to St. Vincent's in Gaudin's ambulance.

While Miss Norment was in Dr. Fox's office a crowd gathered, including those who had picked her up on the sidewalk and eye witnesses to the accident. No one recognized her until the door to the private office was opened for the ambulance men to take her out. A little boy, who had been standing with the crowd on the outside, gazed into her face and said:

"It is Leila Norment, and she lives at 1612 Ninth avenue. Her home is near mine, 1011 South Fifteenth street." Dr. Fox called her mother over the phone and told of the accident and the identification made by the little boy, adding that the young woman had been sent to the hospital.

Becomes Extensive Land Owner.

Selma, Ala.—Hon. John O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue for Alabama, passed through Selma en route home from Camden, in Wilcox county, where he completed a trade for the Dr. L. H. Starr place, five miles from that city. The place contains 2,300 acres of land, and the price paid was $15,000. The deal includes several hundred head of cattle, implements, etc., said to be valued at about $5,000.

Still Raided.

Boaz, Ala.—Deputy United States Marshal Carden and Collector Robinson made a trip southeast of here on Tuesday night and came upon a large party of alleged moonshiners at work. Owing to the number of the men they returned for reinforcements, and upon going back they found the entire party gone, carrying off the still, a ninety-gallon copper affair. Some mash, meal and doublings were destroyed.

Badly Hurt in Runaway.

Gadsden, Ala.—Another and perhaps fatal accident occurred here on Chestnut street near the Dusque High School, in which Sam Cowan was hurt in a runaway, being terribly bruised up and his skull fractured. Mr. Cowan was driving a mule hitched to a buggy. The mule became frightened at a goat wagon, and Mr. Cowan stopped the mule and got out and started to lead it down the hill, when it began to run, dragging Mr. Cowan. He was pulling at the bits with all his strength, but the mule proved the stronger, and threw Mr. Cowan with great force against a telegraph pole, fracturing his skull and bruising his face and body. The ambulance was sent for, and Mr. Cowan was brought to the city and his wounds dressed. There is a large hole in the top of his head where it came in contact with the post, while one eye is very badly bruised and swollen. Mr. Cowan is 60 years old. He lives at present at Turkeytown.

Raid Made on Still.

Cullman, Ala.—Deputy R. B. Thompson and associates made a raid on the moonshiners of Winston county Tuesday afternoon and captured a sixty-gallon copper still, but failed to get the operators. The still was brought to this city. He left for Birmingham to make his report to the United States commissioner at that place.

Fined for Carrying Weapons.

Anniston, Ala.—John Harbin, the young white man of Alexandria, who was arrested Monday night for carrying concealed weapons, was fined $52 and costs in the police court. Harbin is the young man who shot his mother and shot at Horace Green at Alexandria Monday afternoon. His case will likely come up for consideration by the special grand jury of the city court re-empanel by Judge Coleman on Friday.

Alabama to the Departments.

Washington, D. C.—Wm. H. Price has been appointed postmaster at Peteronia, Lowndes county, vice Martha Walker, resigned.

Rural routes ordered established December 15: Keener, Etowah county, route 3, population 415, houses 97; Reform, Pickens county, route 2, population 700, houses 175.

James M. Baldwin appointed regular and Robert B. Jordan substitute rural carrier route 1, at Shelby.

Injured by Runaway.

Gadsden, Ala.—A. H. Whittle, a well-known farmer, living near Ohatchie, in Cherokee county, was seriously hurt in an accident at the west end of the Louisville and Nashville bridge. Mr. Whittle, accompanied by his two boys, was en route to Gadsden in a one-horse wagon, to which was hitched a gray mule that was very skittish. Before attempting to cross the bridge Mr. Whittle and his two boys got out of the wagon, the boys walking behind and Mr. Whittle leading the mule. They had passed over the bridge without accident, when from some unknown cause the mule jumped and threw Mr. Whittle under his feet, the wagon running ove his his body and legs. The boys screamed, and several men working near ran to their aid. They found Mr. Whittle lying beside the Louisville and Nashville track apparently dead. He was picked up and taken to the office of Drs. Ralls & Ison, where his wounds were dressed. It was found that he was badly bruised all over his face and body, while the worst injury was on his head, the right side having a cut nearly two inches long and about one-fourth of an inch deep. The skull was not fractured.

Three New Corporations.

Montgomery, Ala.—The following new corporations were reported to the secretary of state:

H. Remey Jewelry Company, Demopolis—Capital, $2,000; incorporators, H. Remey, G. T. Breitling, J. F. Hood and J. C. Minge.

Geneva Mercantile Company, Geneva—Capital, $40,000; incorporators, W. W. Barnett, D. G. McInnie, A. I Tatom, W. K. Keenan, J. R. Clark and W. B. Hammond.

W.T. McGowan Mill Company, Mobile—Capital, $50,000; incorporators, J. F., W. T. and John C. McGowan. To do a general saw mill and lumber trade.

Progressive Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—The city fathers have adopted an ordinance providing that, effective January 1, 1907, all telephone and telegraph wires shall be underground. The exception is the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company, which operates the street car lines and furnishes the city with electric power. Its feed wires may remain on poles as they now are.

Confederate Monument Arrives.

Huntsville, Ala.—The pedestal and figure that will surmount the Confederate monument has arrived in Huntsville from the sculptor, and the monument will be set up by Hummel & Sons at once. The unveiling will occur within the next two or three weeks, and the Daughters of the Confederacy, who are paying for the monument, will make it an occasion of note. This ceremony was to have been one of the features of the postponed reunion of the Alabama division of veterans. The monument will stand in a prominent place in the county court yard, and when finished it will have cost about $3,000.

Tried for Murder Four Times.

Huntsville, Ala.—L. E. Huffman, the alleged slayer of Deputy Marshal Holsonback, is on trial in the United States court for the fourth time. There are thirty-five witnesses to be heard in the case. Huffman claims that while he was walking along the road in Marshall county two men commanded him to halt, and he turned and fired on them. He did not know, he claims, that the men were United States deputy marshals, but thought they were highwaymen. The government claims that Huffman was interested in a neighboring distillery and was resisting arrest. The evidence has been heard in court three times already, but some unexpected occurrence has interrupted and ended the three previous trials.

Bank of Attalla No More.

Attalla, Ala.—The Bank of Attalla has ceased to exist. The First National Bank of Attalla has been inaugurated instead. Capital stock, $30,000. It is manned by some of the strongest men financially in the city.

Celebrates 106th Birthday.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, of this county, has just recently celebrated her 106th birthday. She is hale and hearty and attends to her own household work. Mrs. Allen was born in North Carolina, but has resided upon the same farm in her Alabama home for eighty-one years. She is the mother of ten children, has thirty-six grandchildren, fifty-nine great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

Old Case Is Ended.

Hamilton, Ala.—Chancellor W. H. Simpson dispatched the business of the chancery court with his usual promptness. He has been on the bench for more than twelve years, and only one case from this court has been reversed and remanded by the supreme court. At this term the bill filed about five years ago, and which has been amended and continued, for a redivision of the lands here formerly belonging to Capt. A. J. Hamilton, who was the founder of the town and whose children had divided certain portions of his land here at his death, was dismissed for the want of equity. The lands are very valuable, and as the owners are now at liberty to sell them it is probable that town lots will be plotted, and a real estate boom seems to be at hand in this town.

There is talk of a bank being organized here in the near future. The Bank of Guin is the only banking institution in the county.

Inspection of Boats.

Gadsden, Ala.—All the boats on the Coosa river are undergoing government inspection. The river steamer Alabama and the Dixie were examined at Rome, Ga., Tuesday. Both are new boats. On account of the boats being held in Rome they were a day late in their regular schedule.

The government boat Leota and the dredge boat will leave in a few days for Campbell's Shoals, where they will dredge the channel. This work is in charge of Major Andrews, and is being done with the appropriation made by the government. Much work has been done at Rum Shoals, which were in a very bad condition for navigation. The channel has been deepened and now boats can go as far as the locks in the lowest stage of the river.

Young White Woman Put in Jail.

Birmingham, Ala.—Miss Addie Allen, a young white woman, who lives near Brookside, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff J. P. Brents and placed in the county jail on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. She will be held pending the arrival of officers from Bonifay, Fla. It is charged that Miss Allen is wanted in Florida on a charge of being connected with the drowning of a little baby. Some time ago Dudley Allen, who is said to be the young woman's father, was arrested and carried to Bonifay.

Williams Killed.

Cullman, Ala.—A telegram was received by the relatives of Sam William Tuesday stating that he had been killed at Lockhart, Coffee county, this state. The remains were brought here and then carried to Poppa for interment. The deceased is a son of John Williams, the slayer of Senator R. L. Hipp, who is now under sentence of death and in the Birmingham jail awaiting the action of the supreme court. Sam Williams is not the son that stayed with his father during his trial and offered to hang in his stead, but is older and unmarried.

Property Changes in Camp Hill.

Camp Hill, Ala.—T. S. Studivant has purchased A. Boon's corner lot and will begin the erection of the bank immediately. The lot brought $20 per front foot. W. P. Smith bought fifty feet front adjoining it is said at the same rate, and will erect a business house.

New Decatur Station Begun.

Decatur, Ala.—Ground hase been broken for the erection of a handsome union passenger station costing $65,000. The station will be built of brick and stone, and will be located on Railroad street, between Vine and Lafayette streets. There will be entrances from both Vine and Lafayette streets.

Sheffield Saloon Robbed.

Sheffield, Ala.—Gambill's saloon was burglarized before daybreak. Entrance was effected through the rear of the house. The burglars succeeded in getting away with $15 in cash and several bottles of whisky. Two white men have been arrested and are held as suspects.

Saloonist Shoots Negro.

Sheffield, Ala.—Friday about 10 o'clock A. Zackie, proprietor of a saloon in this city, fired four balls into a negro driver of an ice wagon. Mr. Zackie's action was prompted by a desire on the part of the aforesaid negro to shoot him by exhibiting a six-shooter. Mr. Zackie surrendered to the authorities and claims that he shot only in defense of his life.

Northern Folks After Homes.

Cullman, Ala.—Several prospectors from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and the Dakotas are taking trips through this county, looking over lands with a view of locating. Should they decide not to purchase they will at least spend the winter here. They say the south has the finest climate the sun ever shone on, that the north is entirely too cold, and that the tide of immigration is rapidly turning southward.

Japanese Cabinet.

London, Eng.—In the event of a change in the cabinet at Tokio, Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister to England, is likely to be called home to take charge of the foreign office. The baron is the senior member of the Japanese diplomatic corps, and the emperor, it is understood, will be glad to utilize the minister's foreign experience should Baron Komura retire from the foreign office.

CONFERENCE IS HELD

By Ministers on the Right of Assembly—University Meetings Attended.

MAY BECOME SERIOUS QUESTION.

Strike of Railway Employes at Moscow Is Paralyzing Traffic—Coming National Assembly.

St. Petersburg.—On account of continued meetings at universities with steadily increasing attendance, especially of workmen and other non-students, which are not only devoted to the anti-government propaganda, but also place the participants in grave danger in case of fire or panic, Emperor Nicholas summoned a special conference of the ministers to discuss the right of assembly with especial reference to university meetings.

The conference declared that the immediate promulgation of a new statute governing the right of assembly was imperatively necessary. It recommended the putting of halls outside the universities at the disposition of the students for meetings and the closure of the universities unless public meetings within their precincts were discontinued.

The last meeting of the St. Petersburg University was attended by 13,000 persons, of whom only a small portion were students. The gathering completely filled all the available room and blocked the aisles and corridors. The university council issued a statement declaring it cannot be responsible for the consequences of such meetings, pointing out that the inadequacy of exits would cause a frightful catastrophe in case of fire or a panic, which was usually precipitable in case of police interference or even a rumor of such interference. The socialistic workmen have resolved to continue their tactics of political obstruction and from time to time declare strikes of two or three days' duration. Under the law they cannot be dismissed, and therefore the employes of the big Obukoff Steel Works and the workmen of several other factories who did not strike early in the week have begun such a strike and have issued manifestos demanding the right of assembly, universal suffrage in elections to the national assembly and freedom of the press.

Many Roads Affected.

All the employes in the financial and auditing departments of the Kursk, Nizhni Novgorod and Muron railroads joined in the strike, but traffic on these roads is not interrupted. The station and tracks in the city are guarded by the troops and police.

Practically evey road leaving Moscow is affected by the strike except the Nichalie line to St. Petersburg. Traffic is at a standstill on the Kazan road to Archangle. The shop men of the Kazan and Archangle roads have struck, and it is reported that train crews on the Kursk roads are deserting their trains.

Strikers Saturday forced their employes in the general offices and financial departments of three roads, the Windaw and Robinsk, Moscow and Best and Kieff and Voronezh, to leave their work.

Elections in November.

The elections to the national assembly will commence in the middle of November. On account of the indirect system adopted the elections will cover a period of ten days or two weeks. The governor of Kaluga province issued the fire election order, fixing November 12 at the date for the preliminary election.

All Traffic Stopped.

The employes of the Riazian and Veralsk Railroad, an important artery between Moscow and Araiza, struck also. All traffic was stopped. The workmen demand an eight-hour work day and liberty of speech and of the press.

For a New Loan.

The negotiations for a new Russian loan continue without definite results. The American representatives will join the conferences with Finance Minister Kokvsoff for the first time.

Body Wasted and Covered by Bruises.

Fort Scott, Kan.—George F. Riggin, charged jointly with his wife and stepdaughter with starving a son by a former wife to death, was discharged at his preliminary hearing. After the boy died Riggin, his wife and stepdaughter were threatened with lynching and were removed to Fort Scott for safety. In the hearing Dr. Payne, who attended the boy on the day before his death, testified that the boy was in convulsions, his lips were cut and his body wasted and covered with bruises. The post mortem showed, he said, that the boy died inanition and malnutrition.

Frost at Alexandria.

Alexandria, La.—There was frost here Sunday morning and indications for another. The mercury fell to 41 degrees.

London, Eng.—The correspondent at Tokio of the Daily Express says it is understood that King Edward will send to Japan early in the new year a commission headed by Prince Arthur, of Connaught, to confer the Order of the Garter on the emperor of Japan.

Consul Smith Removed.

Washington, D. C.—Ann was made at the state depart Alvin Smith, American con idad, has been removed from The cause is failure to render counts, and is attributed solely ligence and carelessness. Mr was appointed from Oh cessor has not yet been selected.

Grave of Albert Pike.

Washington, D. C.—The council of the southern jurisdiction Scottish Rite Masons met a torial session, hearing reports the committees on legislation, and library. The subject of the of the army and navy was consid in executive session thought advisable to conditions. The members of the preme council, its deputies and tees, made its biennial pilgrimage the grave of Albert Pike, Scottish sonry's most illustrious patron proprite ceremonies were held.

Man Shoots Rival.

Lexington, Ky.—A wedding thwarted by the groom-to-be an unwelcome guest. After a tic courtship of six years W King, a horse trainer of Boston, here to wed Catherine Sebre. King went to the young wo home to be married he met C. Scott, a whisky dealer, whom he liked. They quarreled and Scott shot just beneath the eye, and is expected to survive. When ar King claimed the bride-to-be Scott. The young woman denied and the police say they have posi proof that King fired the shot. trains horses for R. W. Robb & of Boston.

Praises Confederate Navy.

Washington, D. C.—High tribute the efficiency, skill and daring tle of the Confederate navy is paid the annual report of the superint ent of library and war records of navy department, Charles W. Ste made to the secretary.

Referring to the naval war re now being prepared under the di tion of the superintendent the re says that the construction and perform ances of ships of the Confederate stands as a monument to the skill and daring of Confederate cers and sailors.

Killed by Tornado.

Guthrie, O. T.—A tornado near nings, Payne county, killed two children of Irvin Anderson, living House creek, badly injured Mr. Mrs. Anderson and demolished house of Edward Root, breaking daughter's ankle. The storm foll the Cimmaron river, and in Yal stroyed many homes.

Big Mortgage Filed.

Columbus, Ga.—A mortgage the Birmingham, Columbus and Andrews Railway Company to the tral Trust Company, of New York, trustee, was filed in the office of clerk of the Muscogee superior The mortgage is for $4,500,000 to secure a bond issue. It has been filed in various Alabama ties through which the road will

Bank Changes Hands.

Sheffield, Ala.—The Sheffield pany, of this city, of which Henry Parsons, of New York, is presi and J. W. Worthington, of this vice-president, has acquired contr the Sheffield National Bank by the interest of ex-Gov. Joseph F. ston, of Birmingham. The bank capitalized at $50,000.

Two Blocks Burned.

Jackson, Miss.—Two blocks of business district of the town of nolia, the county seat of Pike were destroyed by fire, starting o'clock Sunday morning. The loss is between $20,000 and The fire started in the store of Verando, whose family had a escape from the flames. Mrs. Ve went insane during the excitement.

Receiver Sought for Land Com

Jasper, Ala.—A bill has been in the chancery court here by Hayes, a minority stockholder, the Jasper Land Company and Musgrove, seeking to have a appointed for the land company an accounting of its affairs. The pany has an authorized capital of $500,0000, divided into 5,000 of a par value of $100.

Killed by Gas Explosion.

Cloyd's Landing, Ky.—A report reached this place stating that at work at a gas well at Green Ky., Shelby Taylor, a citizen of ville, this county, was killed by accidental explosion of gas. He about 21 years old and the only J. Ed Taylor, a prominent citizen farmer of near Burkesville, and the wealthiest men of this county.

Automobile Accident.

Paris, France.—An automobile by Lieutenant Royon struck and a woman near Annecy and the the occupants of the car, seriously juring Baroness Portal and the ess de Bonnemaim.

New Boiler.

Kentwood, La.—The Kentwood mills have just got their boiler and expect to begin about the 10th of next

Consul Smith Removed.

Washington, D. C.—Ann was made at the state depar Alvin Smith, American con ldad, has been removed from The cause is failure to render counts, and is attributed solely to ligence and carelessness. Mr. was appointed from Ohio. His cessor has not yet been selected.

Grave of Albert Pike.

Washington, D. C.—The supr council of the southern jurisdi Scottish Rite Masons, met in torial session, hearing reports the committees on legislation, and library. The subject of the of the army and navy was conside in executive sessions, but it thought advisable to continue exi conditions. The members of the preme council, its deputies and tees, made its biennial pilgrimage the grave of Albert Pike, Scottish sonry's most illustrious patron. propriate ceremonies were held.

Man Shoots Rival.

Lexington, Ky.—A wedding here thwarted by the groom-to-be shoot an unwelcome guest. After a rom tic courtship of six years Wil King, a horse trainer of Boston, ca here to wed Catherine Sebre. Wh King went to the young wom home to be married he met C. Scott, a whisky dealer, whom he liked. They quarreled and Scott shot just beneath the eye, and is expected to survive. When arre King claimed the bride-to-be sh Scott. The young woman denied and the police say they have positi proof that King fired the shot. Ki trains horses for R. W. Robb & So of Boston.

Praises Confederate Navy.

Washington, D. C.—High tribute the efficiency, skill and daring in b tle of the Confederate navy is paid the annual report of the superinten nt of library and war records of t navy department,Charles W. Stew made to the secretary.

Referring to the naval war recor now being prepared under the dir tion of the superintendent the rep says that the construction and perfor ances of ships of the Confederate na stands as a monument to the energ skill and daring of Confederate o cers and sailors.

Killed by Tornado.

Guthrie, O. T.—A tornado near Je nings, Payne county, killed two sma children of Irvin Anderson, living House creek, badly injured Mr. a Mrs. Anderson and demolished t house of Edward Root, breaking h daughter's ankle. The storm follow the Cimmaron river, and in Yale d stroyed many homes.

Big Mortgage Filed.

Columbus, Ga.—A mortgage fro the Birmingham, Columbus and Andrews Railway Company to the Ce tral Trust Company, of New York, trustee, was filed in the office of t clerk of the Muscogee superior co The mortgage is for $4,500,000 and to secure a bond issue. It has alrea been filed in various Alabama co ties through which the road will pa

Bank Changes Hands.

Sheffield, Ala.—The Sheffield Co pany, of this city, of which Henry Parsons, of New York, is preside and J. W. Worthington, of this city, vice-president, has acquired control the Sheffield National Bank by buyi the interest of ex-Gov. Joseph F. Joh ston, of Birmingham. The bank capitalized at $50,000.

Two Blocks Burned.

Jackson, Miss.—Two blocks of th business district of the town of Ma nolia, the county seat of Pike count were destroyed by fire, starting at o'clock Sunday morning. The tot loss is between $20,000 and $25,0 The fire started in the store of Charl Verando, whose family had a narro escape from the flames. Mrs. Verand went insane during the excitement.

Receiver Sought for Land Compa

Jasper, Ala.—A bill has been fi in the chancery court here by J. Hayes, a minority stockholder, again the Jasper Land Company and L. Musgrove, seeking to have a receiv appointed for the land company an accounting of its affairs. The co pany has an authorized capital st of $500,0000, divided into 5,000 sha of a par value of $100.

Killed by Gas Explosion.

Cloyd's Landing, Ky.—A report ha reached this place stating that wh at work at a gas well at Greensbur Ky., Shelby Taylor, a citizen of Burk ville, this county, was killed by th accidental explosion of gas. He w about 21 years old and the only son Ed Taylor, a prominent citizen an farmer of near Burkesville, and one the wealthiest men of this county.

Automobile Accident.

Paris, France.—An automobile driv by Lieutenant Royon struck and kill a woman near Annecy and threw the occupants of the car, seriously in uring Baroness Portal and the Co ss de Bonnemaim.

New Boiler.

Kentwood, La.—The Kentwood mills have just got their boilers and expect to begin grin about the 10th of next

The World of Trouble

Sich a world o' trouble—
Sighin' drowns the song:
Never yit felt happy
But a cyclone comes along!

When the sky looks clearest,
Comes a lightnin' flash;
When I feel like dancin',
Fiddler calls for cash!

An' if I was in glory
An' walked outside the town,
Satan sure would git me
An' levy on my crown!

—Atlanta Constitution.

A PARTING

BY CATHARINE CRANMER

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"When you are a man really wise in other ways, I don't see why you persist in this impossible love?"

"I persist because it means everything to me, and I shall persist always, Jane, unless you marry another man."

"Now, don't say that, Wilton, for though I like men and get on admirably with them as friends, I never expect to love or marry any man!"

"It is impossible to believe that you will never love; such a woman is sure to love and love deeply. Such a life is rounded out only by love."

"But, Wilton, my life is full of other things; I have no place for love or marriage."

"Not now, perhaps, because your globe-trotting and your art studies have crowded it out for a time; but some time it will burst forth into every fibre of your being, and, Oh, Jane, if I might have the joy of calling it forth!"

"Really, Wilton, try to be practical in this, as you are in other matters. With my wandering foot and my distaste for home life what kind of a wife would I make? Go to some sweet and loving girl, lavish this beautiful love on her, and let her make you happy."

"You ought to know how useless advice like that. It is not that I simply want to marry. I want to marry you."

"If I felt worthy of such love I'd be so unhappy to hear you talk so; but here I am, lacking in the qualities which are the very essentials to married happiness."

"Not lacking; simply crowded out temporarily. Since I have known you I have asked you three times to marry me, and you never gave me this reason before. The first time you were too young, you said, you would answer me two years later; two years later you were afraid to trust yourself to live on a salary, and your trip to the Orient could not be put aside. The third time your mother's health took you to Switzerland with her for an indefinite time. Now, that all these things are out of the way, your career steps in."

"There was another reason in each case, Wilton. I did not love you well enough. Our friendship has meant so much to me; in fact, I have few if any friends with whom I have so much in common; yet have I ever sought to encourage anything more than friendship on your part?"

"You certainly have not; but the master passion of a man's life does not have to be nurtured and encouraged into growth; it grows in spite of everything."

"You sail for Europe, when?" asked Wilton.

"The 15th."

"And will remain how long?"

"One year."

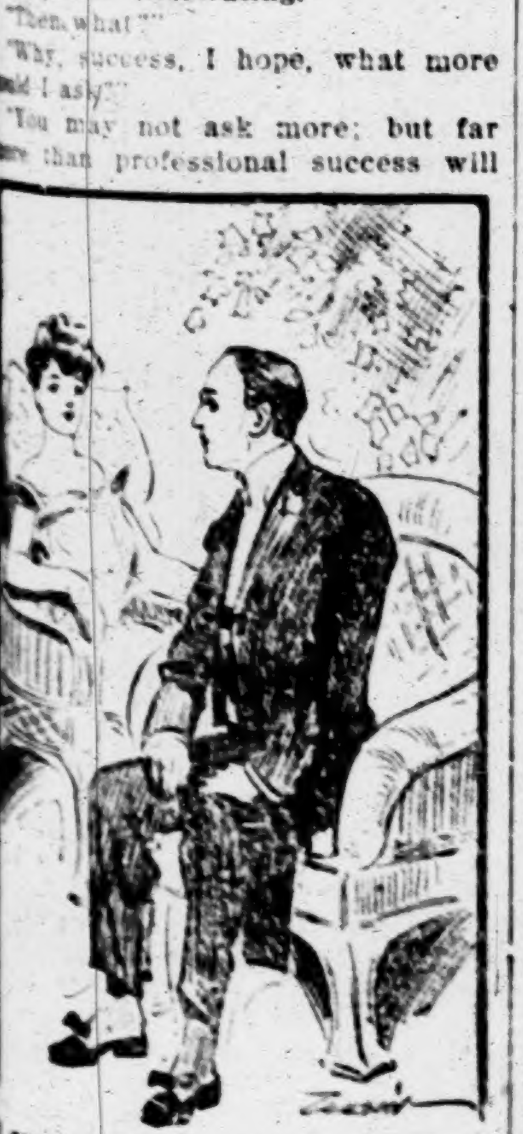
"And then?"

"Magazine illustrating."

"Then, what?"

"Why, success, I hope, what more could I ask?"

"You may not ask more; but far more than professional success will be necessary to make you content."



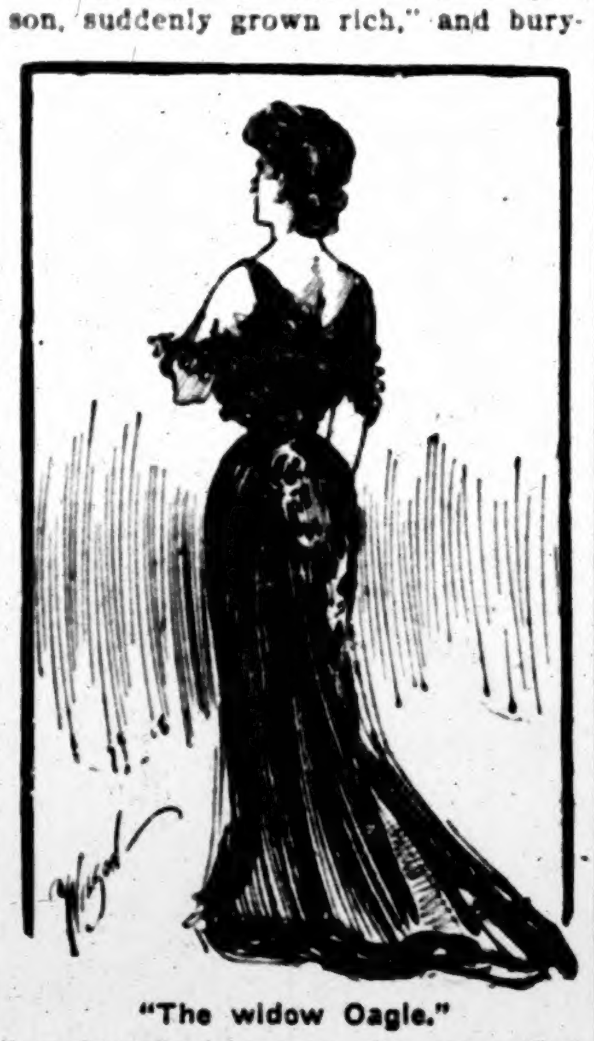
"I never expect to love or marry any man."

This attempt to undermine her professional air castle rather nettled Jane, and when the man had claimed the dance came, she gave him the sweetest of smiles, while to poor Wilton she gave only a cool nod as she whirled away. He stood and watched her as one watches the fading of a beautiful sunset, when all its gorgeous colors die into a somber gray. When she passed from his sight it seemed to him that all the color of his hopes had turned to this same gray. He left without again entering the ball room. The next morning as Jane was at breakfast, she received a box of exquisite sunrise roses, and a brief note, which said:

"Jane: You leave Chicago to-day. I cannot trust myself to say good-bye. May your life be as full of color as these roses, but if the color ever fades and you have need of a friend, remember that I shall be faithful always. WILTON."

Jane looked first at these lovely roses, and then at some American Beauties, sent by another man. She pushed the latt r from her.

"Bah! You are like a common person, suddenly grown rich," and burying her face among the ones that Wilton sent, she added, "but you are genuine aristocracy."



"The widow Oagle."

Something like a dewdrop could be seen among these roses, and a match for it was in either of Jane's eyes. She had not thought that their parting on the veranda was to be their last for a year. She had been almost uncivil to Wilton, who was after all her best friend. Seized by an impulse she did not stop to define, she selected one of the most beautiful roses, and enclosed it in a box with her card, on the back of which she wrote:

"This rose brings my parting message. Thank you many times, dear friend——and good-bye. JANE."

By the time it reached Wilton Jane was aboard the Twentieth Century Limited, well on her way to New York.

Though Wilton had seldom written, he had kept her supplied with the latest American books, and the home newspapers. Of late, however, she had year was nearly over she met some received fewer of these. When her Chicago friends, who poured out all the home news and gossip.

"And, Oh, Jane," one of the girls said, "your old stand-by, Wilton Ellis, has joined the Widow Oagle's train, and they do say she means to rope him in."

Jane was conscious of being closely watched by all of the party when this was said, but no sign of such consciousness was visible as she asked, rather indifferently:

"Who is this Widow Oagle, I don't think she was there when I left?"

"Oh, no, she came in the winter. Half the men in town have been devoted to her. Her husband was an army officer, killed in the Philippines, which, Jack Gwinn says, is proof to him that there is luck in store for all men, even though it be late in coming."

When Jane sat down at her desk that evening, she did not seem to be interested in the illustration she had begun. She pushed it aside and drew a picture of a beautiful woman, surrounded by admirers, while Cupid dragged away a trunk, labeled "Widow's Weeds."

Two months later, when she arrived in Chicago, almost the first person she saw was Mrs. Dan Shelley, who said:

"Oh, you wandering Gypsy, how good to see you again! And I'm giving a dinner to-morrow evening. You can't say no; I won't listen. And wear your fetchiest Paris gown, for there is nothing new in this old town."

When Jane entered Mrs. Dan's drawing room there was a perceptible murmur of admiration. Around her bare white throat were beautiful strings of amber beads—her only ornaments. In harmony with all these autumn tints, Jane's changeful hazel eyes looked out from under their crown of copper colored hair.

Nearly all the guests were her old acquaintances, but among the strangers, the first she met was Mrs. Oagle, who had Wilton in tow.

. seemed of late that Mrs. Oagle's songs were a part of every function. When the guests were about to leave, some one said:

"You leave us to-morrow for the East, Mrs. Oagle; you won't refuse us one song?"

Gracefully rising, she went to the piano.

"Just a little parting message," she said, sweetly.

Somehow this recalled another parting message to Jane and Wilton. Their eyes met and were held together as the rich voice sang:

"The sweetest flower that blows,
I give thee, as we part;
To you it is a rose,
To me it is my heart."

Jane loked away, but looking up again, Wilton's eyes were still on her's, as the voice ended in a burst of passion:

"You think it but a rose,
Ah, me! It is my heart."

Something in Jane's look brought Wilton to her side, instead of to Mrs. Oagle's, where he was evidently expected, and the petals of the deep red rose which had been meant for him, were gracefully scattered among the guests as the widow departed.

Next morning Jane received another box of exquisite Sunrise roses.

BARROOMS IN THE BIG HOTELS

Are Being Driven From the Field by the Boudoir Buffet.

The magnificent hotel barrooms, which were a feature of Broadway life a decade ago, are being driven from the field by the boudoir buffet. Old-time hotels like the St. Nicholas, the New York, the Metropolitan, the Morton house, Union Square, Coleman and others that made New York barrooms something to talk about a few years ago almost have gone out of existence. Barkeepers and mixers of special drinks that made them famous either have gone to another sphere or into other business, and there are none to take their places. To cite the most conspicuous example the famous elliptical bar in the Hoffman house, which Edward S. Stokes made the talk of two continents, has been taken away. The collection of expensive paintings, so famous that a special view hour each morning was appointed for women, has been dispersed. What was once the most magnificent barroom in the world in now a very commonplace cafe in comparison with the more modern New York hotels. There is a small barroom in another part of the hotel which bears about the same relation to the sumptuous Stokes menage as a pushcart does to a pony carriage. This is true of all the big hotels. The waiter and small table have put the barkeeper out of business. In many of the new boudoir bars if a customer steps up to the small bar and orders a drink he is asked to take a seat at one of the tables and a waiter will carry the drink to him. This usually involves a tip to the waiter that approximates one-half the price of the drink. The old-time barkeeper complains bitterly at the innovation of the foreign waiter in the barroom or cafe.

Co-operation of English Farmers.

The Agricultural Organization society was formed four years ago to promote reciprocal aid among British farmers, and statements at the annual meeting recently held show that its object is being successfully carried out. The number of branch societies has largely increased and is now 113, embracing 33 counties, while the membership has advanced from 4,500 in 1904 to 6,500 now. One of the important aims of the society is the cheapening of freight rates, which have been excessively burdensome in England to the small shipper. This is being done with success by combining farm products in wholesale quantities. General working expenses have been reduced and in some cases the prices of products have been increased through the harmonious working of the society. It also enables members to buy in wholesale quantities from one central point instead of dribbling out small orders to a large number of producers. Farmers can buy their supplies and implements at wholesale prices, and this is considered so important that prophets are found who see in it the redemption of British agriculture from the low estate to which it has declined.

Death's Lullaby.

Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life
Hush thee to sleep, to sleep.
Why should you long for the struggle and strife,
Stay here and mourn and weep.
When you may sink in my arms and find rest.
Pillow your head on the earth's gentle breast
Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life.

Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life,
Close your weariful eyes,
Why should you linger in care and in strife
Under these sorrowful skies
Come to my arms and win quiet and peace,
Let all your troubles and fretfulness cease.
Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life.

Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life,
Briefly yon spangled sun gleams,
Why should you love all this fanciful strife
Chasing the phantom of dreams?
Flee from the quest of but vanishing mirth,
Come and lie down in the arms of the earth,
Lullaby, lullaby, lullaby life.

—Chicago Chronicle.

Is a British Princess.

The crown princess of Roumania, who is now staying with her children in the Isle of Wight, is a British princess, being the eldest daughter of the late duke of Saxe-Coburg—the duke of Edinburgh of olden days. The crown princess is a beautiful and accomplished woman, and one of the most attractive of King Edward's many nieces. She is very musical, and, like her late father, a finished violinist. She dresses perfectly, and has many artistic tastes. In girlhood she was known in her home by the pet name of "Missy," a name which even now is not forgotten.

WHO IS KODAMA?

Power Behind the Throne Says Newspaper Correspondent.

If one asks who Kodama is there are two answers; one, that he is the chief of the general staff in the Japanese army, and the other that he is, besides, a poor unlettered man, who, at 52 years of age, rules Japan and guides her armies.

Richard Barry, the war correspondent, says, in "Port Arthur," that this man thinks while others sleep, and works while others eat. He is the power behind the throne, the adviser at the general's ear.

Many public men in Japan believe Kodama to be an unsafe person of second-rate capacity. He had been sent to Formosa, to "get rid of him." There he raised the place from savagery to a commercial prosperity. He could have been prime minister.

"No," he said. "I would rather pull strings than be one of the strings to be pulled. Russia is peeping up over the border. Let us prepare. Give me a desk in the war office."

So the critics were glad to get the upstart out of the way. But when the war came, one man had his finger on things, and knew when and where to strike. He knew the points in the Korean coast where an army could be landed. He knew how soon it could be transported there; where all the merchant steamers were, and how long it would take to turn them into transports; and he had the audacity of genius.

He was not a very presentable man. He had never traveled, and spoke nothing but Japanese. He would laugh like a boy at what he liked, and frown over what displeased him. And he scorned a frock coat and stuck to a kimono. But the emperor and the wisest heads about him knew what Kodama was, and although they could not, for pride's sake, give him the command of the army, they crowned him with power.

Obedience a Help.

There is a woman down in Indiana who is hale and hearty at the age of 100, and when she was asked to what she attributed her age and health she replied, "Obedience." And this, too, at a time when the women are having the word "obey" taken out of the marriage service and in other ways manifesting the most supreme contempt for the old obligation. It is not to be believed that there are many women who will care to drag out an existence of 100 years in a state of obedience, even if a fair degree of health is assured. The holy scriptures do not tell us how long the women lived, although we know that Sarah survived until she was 127 and was so obedient that the Lord blessed her with Isaac when she was 90. And it is fair to suppose that other good Hebrew wives were equally long lived and successful. Thus we see that obedience is of the utmost importance to the human race and is the source of happiness and prosperity. Still the women of this age are extremely stiff-necked and unreasonable.

Insomnia.

Slumber, hasten down this way,
And, ere midnight dies,
Silence lay upon my lips,
Darkness on my eyes.

Send me a fantastic dream;
Fashion me a-fresh;
Into some celestial thing
Change this mortal flesh.

When I know one may not choose;
One is helpless still
In the purple realm of sleep;
Use me as you will.

Let me be a frozen pine
In the dead glacier lands;
Let me pant, a leopard stretched
On the Libyan sands.

Silver fin or scarlet wing,
Grant me either one;
Sink me deep in emerald glooms,
Lift me to the sun.

Or of me a gargoyle make,
Face of ape or gnome,
Such as frights the tavern boor,
Reeling drunken home.

Work on me your own caprice,
Give me any shape;
Only, Slumber, from myself
Let myself escape!

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Go Barehead to Church.

The custom of going bareheaded, which New York women have extensively adopted this summer, has spread even to the churches. At services which are held week evenings a large contingent of women attend without hats. "I hope the custom will extend to the theaters this winter," said a West Side man. "Then women will not have to hold their hats in their laps. I always feel sorry for women when they take off their hats in the theater. Their hair is usually disarranged, and taking care of a hat all evening is a nuisance. A woman never looks prettier than with a scarf of lace or chiffon thrown over her head, and it is no trouble to take care of that. Women wear them in London and why shouldn't they in New York?"

A Sound Indorsement.

The home team having been ingloriously beaten when it had victory practically in its grasp, the disgruntled resident of Mosquito Summit, N. J., remarked sadly:

"I'm just getting dead sore on baseball because it is so infernally uncertain."

"Yes," coincided his little nephew, who was on a visit from Boston, "baseball, looked at from any point of view, is certainly a fluctuating quantity."

Subterfuge Get Interviews.

Mme. Duse, who has a strong aversion to being interviewed, was recently beaten by the Copenhagen reporters. One acted as waiter at the hotel, another acted as shoemaker's assistant, a third drove her cab, and the fourth was assistant stage machinist, and all used bits of conversation for long interviews.

Bold Snake Captures a Pretty Milkmaid

Holds the Frightened Girl While He Drinks His Fill of Lacteal Fluid — Escapes but Injures Her Foot.

Miss Marie Czerney, daughter of prominent residents of Bon Homme county, had a thrilling adventure with a monster snake, as the result of which she narrowly escaped death by blood poison, by stepping on a rusty nail while trying to escape from the snake.

The young woman, with a pail in her hand, went to her favorite Jersey for the purpose of doing her evening milking. During the day the animal had been picketed in a tame grass plot, and at the time of milking still bore the picket line. The Jersey appeared to be greatly annoyed by flies and mosquitoes and changed her position a number of times.

As the cow changed position Miss Czerney would follow it up, and during this operation her ankle became entangled as she supposed in the picket rope. The cow seemed to grow quieter and after milking steadily for several minutes Miss Czerney became concerned at the small amount of milk in the pail.

Fearing that the pail had sprung a leak she looked full into it and attempted to raise it, when she was horrified by the discovery that a monster snake had its head in the pail, the weight of the reptile making it difficult to raise the pail from the ground. The snake had evidently been drinking the milk about as fast as it poured into the pail.

Greatly frightened by the discovery, Miss Czerney gave a scream, sprang to her feet and made a dash for her home. But she had taken only a few steps when she made the further discovery that instead of her ankle being entangled in the picket rope, it was the snake which was entwined around her ankle. The reptile was coiled so tightly and was of such weight that the young lady was thrown violently to the ground.

Finally gaining her freedom from the monster, which she was able to shake off only after superhuman efforts, she continued her flight toward home.

In her haste she stepped on a rusty nail, which penetrated the flesh to the depth of about two inches. Blood poison set in and only by the hardest kind of work was the life of the young woman saved.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Whisky Both Peculiar and Plentiful

Many Kinds of Fiery Liquid That Titillate Man's Interior Regions—The Old Sporting Drink That Killed Father.

The following is a partial list of the varieties of whisky now in stock in Tombstone:

Common whisky, the kind that killed father at the tender age of ninety-three.

Sporting whisky, the kind that makes the game rich and the player go the limit.

Business whisky, the kind that makes a fellow who never had any business in his life hold you up at every corner and submit a $1,000,000 scheme.

Mysterious whisky, the kind that causes your neighbor to lead you away around behind the Gragoon mountains with an air of profound secrecy, then confide something to you that was all over the town the day before.

Social whisky, the kind that causes a man who has known you for ten years and has never spoken to you to single you out and make a confidant of you.

Knowing whisky, the kind that swells the absorber thereof until the wise guy Solomon is on the bum.

Roaring whisky, the kind that suddenly sets the quietest fellow in town to vociferating and swinging his arms in unoffending space.

Fighting whisky, the kind that suddenly overcomes its victim with every conceivable species of pathos and makes of him a pitiful spectacle.

Bad whisky, exceedingly scarce, the kind that makes a man quiet, sullen and dangerous.

Loving whisky, the sort that causes him to draw near, put his arm around your neck and emit a breath in your face that would drive a turkey buzzard away from a dead coyote.

There are several other varieties in Tombstone, conspicuously honest whisky, which causes a man to pay his debts when under its influence, then kick himself about it when he gets sober; then the brand that causes him to do the agreeable to everybody he meets on the streets, then go home and lick his wife until the neighbors interfere.—Tombstone Prospector.

Cock Fighting Once Famed in England

Ancient History of Fighting Poultry Known as Dorking—Caesar Finds One Breed of Poultry—A Royal Sport.

That breed of fighting poultry known as Dorking has an ancient history. The Romans introduced it into England and taught the Britons to breed it for the table. But Caesar and his legions found one breed of poultry already domiciled in that country, imported by even earlier visitors, the Phoenicians. These fowls were kept for pleasure and diversion—that is, for cock fighting—and the breed was already many centuries old when the Romans came. The Phoenicians and the Greeks knew all about the game fowl; they drew their knowledge of the sport from the Persians, while in India, nearly 3,000 years ago, the fighting cock fought and flourished as it does to this day.

Cock fighting was a royal sport in England, though now and again edicts against it were promulgated. King Edward III. issued one, and so did Henry VIII., though the latter monarch had a cockpit built in Whitehall, so that he himself might indulge in the pastime. But no edicts could put an end to cock fighting, and it flourished under the Stuarts, though Cromwell prohibited it. There is an interesting record of the sport in the reign of Charles II. Cosmo, grand duke of Tuscany, while paying England a visit, went in state to the theater, appropriated to cock fighting, a common amusement of the English, who even in the public streets, take a delight in seeing such battles, and considerable bets are made on them."

Cock fighting in England reached its zenith early in the last century. At that time distinguished visitors were treated by each corporation to cock fights instead of fireworks and music by the local band. Every sporting nobleman had his own strain of game fowl. The numbers that were killed in the ring were immense. In a single season in one town 1,000 cocks perished. In the Easter week of 1822 in one pit 188 cocks fought each other and $30,000 changed hands in wagers.

Men Beat Women at the Gossiping Game

Quilting Bee Gabfests Vindicated by Truth Regarding Predilection of Men to Talk About Their Fellows—An Instance.

"They accuse women of being the prize gossipers," said the man who observes many things, "but I have known men who for gossiping had any women I ever knew beat to death. The way in which they would pick up things and exaggerate them made me sick. Ordinarily they were real nice chaps, but when they got together they spent many hours picking other people's reputations to pieces. A story told by them without exaggeration didn't go in that society worth a cent. It would have to be wildly exaggerated, and, strange to say, the wilder the exaggeration the more they credited the story. I remember an instance where a young bank cashier when called upon to cash a check discovered that the name had been forged. He so reported to his management. The result was that the fellow who tried to cash the check was arrested. Though the thing was kept quiet, one of the members of this reputation destroying society got wind of it, and he told it to his crowd with a little embellishment. They in turn touched it up in repeating it and in a very short time it was noised about that the young cashier had been guilty of forgery and had been arrested. The young cashier heard of it and traced all the stories down. All of them he learned came from members of the gossiping club, and having had dealings with this crowd before, he proceeded to give every member the d—mdest licking he had ever had. It did them good. Whenever you want a conservative story of something that has happened go to one of those members and you'll get it."

Must Face Mother To-Day

Which Is to Drive Straight Home and Tell Mother and Surrender Me Dead or Alive—So I'm Waitin' Here.

I' got to face mother to-day, fer a fact!
I' got to face mother to-day!
And jist how I'll dare to, an' how she will act,
Is more than a mortal can say!
But I' got to face her—I' got to! and so
Here's a' old father clean at the end of his row!

And Pink and Wade's gone to the farm fer her now—
And I'm keepin' house fer 'em here—
Their purty, new house—and—all paid fer! But how Am I goin' to meet her and clear
Up my actchully heppin' 'em both to e-lope?—
('Cause Mother wus set—and wus no other hope!)

I don't think it's Wade she's so blamed ag'in
But his [illegible],—a railroadin' man
'At runs a switch-engine, day out and day in,
And's got to make hay while he can—
It's a dangersome job, I'll admit—but see what
A fine-furnished home 'at he's already got!

And Pink—w'y, the girl wus jist pinin' away,—
So what could her old father do
When he found her, hid-like, in a loose load of hay,
But jist to drive on clean into
The aidge of the city, where—singular thing!—
Wade switched us away to the Squire, I jing!

Now—a-leavin' me here—they've driv off, with a cheer,
On their weddin' trip—which is to drive
Straight home and tell Mother,—and tell her back here
And surrender me, dead or alive!
So I'm waitin' here—not so blame' overly gay
As I wus—'cause I' got to face Mother to-day!

—James Whitcomb Riley in The Reader.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's brief visit to Clanton was a memorable occasion which will be long remembered by the 3000 persons in attendance. Clanton outdid itself in the preparations, and the lower end of town around the depot was gay with decorations. A pretty arch was erected, covered with red, white and blue bunting, and bearing the word "Welcome." A gay streamer stretched across the railroad tracks, and the storehouses were resplendent in flags.

But the prettiest sight of all was the school children, 131 in number, who dressed in white, with a tricolored sash, each child carrying a flag, marched down to the depot under the direction of Profs. Sessions and Moore. The way they fell into line bespoke the careful drilling they had received and evoked the admiration of the old soldiers.

The police regulations were admirably carried out under the direction of Sheriff Morgan and J. P. VanDerveer. The several reception committees lined the track and the big orderly crowd was good-naturedly kept outside the rope enclosure.

About 3:20 o'clock the train was seen coming over the hill, the whistles started blowing, and the crowd eagerly looked forward. As the train slowed up Col. Collier presented President Roosevelt with a boquet, bearing a greeting from the ladies of Clanton. The President, after shaking hands with Col. Collier and Judge Reynolds, as the train proceded to Birmingham, said:

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate this welcome. I thank you all."

The train moved on, the crowd dispersed, and the first visit of a President of the United States to Clanton becomes a matter of history.

Macedonia.

Mr frost has come at last and stretched his beautiful white arms over this part of the South Those cold days seem like winter time

Deputy Lee Hayes was seen in this community Saturday straightening up some confusion which was causing a great deal of trouble He got the parties together and made friends He says he is for justice, not for trouble He will get several votes in the next campaigh on account of the good work he has done in this community.

Mrs C M Bearden was presented with a fine baby girl Friday

Now Mr Editor, give me a few words about what it takes to make a happy home. In a christian sense it takes a good christian father and mother, they can have more influence over their children than a dozen can over their children, who are not christians. The christian parents teach their children to do right and when they come to the years of maturity they become christians. And those people love happy homes. A happy home is the sweetest home on earth. Why not now, dear friends, strive to make our homes happy like those good christian peoples homes. If we would only do our part we would surely have happy homes.

THE BANNER BOY.

Pleasant Grove.

I will write a few lines from this part of the country.

Every body is hustling trying to get through gathering their crops. Cotton is about picked.

Mr. Geo. Freeman who has been down with fever is improving.

Mr. D. L. Cooper is teaching school at this place.

We are glad to see Mr. D. S. Mc Carry's family out again from fever and chills.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lenoir the 15th inst, a fine boy, baby and mother are doing well.

Mr. Avy Champion and Miss Mary Gipson were happily at the home of the bride last Sunday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. H. Thomas.

Mr. Craton Lenoir and Mr. John Kincaid went to Mr. Ed Lenoirs last Sunday.

Rev. J. H. Thomas filled his regular appointment last Sunday and preached, as usual, a good sermon.

Miss Maud Lenoir and Mr. Wiley Vezey visited Mr. J. S. Wright's family last Sunday.

Mr. Tom Cast has been visiting realatives on Oakmulgy. W. F. C.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

It is a bad habit to borrow anything, but the worst thing you can possibly borrow, is trouble. When sick, sore, heavy, weary and worn-out by the pains and poisons of dyspepsia, biliousness, bright's disease, and similar internal disorders, don't sit down and brood over your symptons, but fly for relief to Electric Bitters. Here you will find sure and permanent forgetfulness of all your troubles, and your body will not be burdened by a load of debt disease. At Upchurch drug store. Price 50c. Guaranteed.

PROGRAM

Sunday School Convention, Beat 9, to be held at Thorsby, Sunday, Oct. 29.

9 to 10 a.m. Regular lesson.

10:15. Opening service, Bro. J. K. Snyder.

10:45, Address of welcome by the president.

11. What the teachers expect of the superintendent, Miss Anna Howard.

11:15. What the superintendent expects of the teachers, J. J. Stanley.

11:30: What are the essential qualifications of a superintendent, A. Horn.

11:45. What Jesus does in the Sunday school, Prof. R. A. Rasco. Adjournment for dinner.

1:15 p.m. What is the Sunday school and what does it expect to accomplish? J. W. Hayes.

1:30. Is the Sunday school what it ought to be? If not, why not? T. G. Williams.

1:45. How I teach a primary class, Mrs. S. E. Norton.

2:15. What is the best way to make the Sunday school grow? J. R. Williams.

2:40. Punctuality, order and discipline, how secured and maintained, Miss Ida Denman.

The above program will be discussed by others, interspersed with music. Basket dinner on the ground. Everybody invite to come and bring baskets and let us have a grand day for the Master. All Sunday schools in Beat 9 are expected to send delegates.

J. BICE, President.

New Cure For Cancer.

All surface cancers are now known to be curable, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Jas. Walters, of Duffield, Va., writes: "I had a cancer on my lip for years, that seemed incurable, till Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it, and now it is perfectly well." Guaranteed cure for cuts and burns. 25c at Upchurch drug store.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex G. Dake, of Chilton county, Alabama, and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against J. Bice, in favor of Phillips & Buttorff Mfg. Co., out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company, as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice, in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905 during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex G. Dake, of Chilton county, Ala., and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment obtained against J. Bice, in favor of William Kepp, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice, in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE.

Judge I. H. Reynolds, Supt. of the Methodist Sunday school at Clanton, has offered as a prize, a Bible, to the scholar who brings to the school the largest number of new scholars between this time and the 24th of December. To determine the method by which this contest is to be conducted, a committee was appointed and the committee reported last Sunday. On motion, the report, which follows, was ordered published in the Banner.

To the Officers and Members of the M. E. Church, South, Clanton, Ala.:

We, the committee appointed by the Supt. on the 8th of this month to suggest a plan for conducting a contest for a prize offered by the Supt. to the present scholar who secures the greatest number of new scholars, report the following as the most feasible method of conducting the contest:

That the Secretary be directed to secure a small box and place it in a convenient location in the Sunday school. That, upon a new scholar being brought by a present scholar, the name of the new scholr be written on one side of a slip of paper, and the name of the old scholar be written on the other side of the slip, and that the slip of paper be deposited in the box. That each Sunday the secretary make a list of the new scholars, and credit the present or old scholar with the new scholar so brought. That each Sunday the new scholar attends hereafter, the old scholar be credited with his attendance. That on Sunday, Dec. 24th, 1905, the average attendance of each new scholar so brought by an old scholar be struck and credited to the said old scholar. That the old scholar receiving the highest average of attendance of new scholars so brought by him or her shall be entitled to the prize. That any new scholar shall be entitled to also enter this contest after two Sundays attendance in succession after the first Sunday he or she comes.

Respectfully submitted,
B. J. MATTHEWS.
WM. M. ADAMS.
JOHN W. STANFIELD.

Cures Chills and Fever.

G. W. Wirt, Nacogdoches, Texas, says: "His daughter had chills and fever for three years; he could not find anything that would help her till he used Herbine. His wife will not keep house without it, and cannot say too much for it." 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Governor to restore the rights of citizenship to J. Wiley Foshee, who was convicted at the Spring Term 1900, of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for the offense of manslaughter in the first degree.

This Oct. 14, 1905.

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

It is impossible to have a clear head, an active brain, a vigorous constitution or a strong body when the digestion is weak or when the stomach is out of order. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will put the stomach and digestive organs in good condition and improve the general condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Tubal, Ark., Oct. 18, 1905.

Editor Banner—As I was born and raised in old Chilton and have so many relatives and friends back there, perhaps some of them and some of the readers of the Banner would like to hear from old Arkansas. This is a good poor man's country, land cheap, but going up every day. As for crops, this year cotton is very near a failure in this part of the country; corn not so good as expected. Good range, our hogs getting fat in the woods

Well, Mr. Editor, I am a reader of the Banner; am so glad when it reaches me, it is like getting a letter from my old home every week. I have two brothers and four dear sisters back there, and was sure I would have the pleasure of visiting them this winter, but crops are so short will have to put it off. I am nearly 62 years old and have been farming all my life, but have never saw such sorry crops. I never bought a bushel of corn in my life and won't have to buy any next year, as sorry as crops are. I believe in raising hog and hominy at home. Wishing you and readers success, I am,

H. C. L.

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

WE'LL SEND YOU A SAMPLE FREE.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street New York

The Song of the Hair

There are four verses. Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color to gray hair. The chorus is sung by millions.

"Before using Ayer's Hair Vigor I had very thin and very poor hair. But I continued to use the Vigor until my hair greatly improved in every way. I have used it off and on for the past ten years."—MRS. M. DRUMMOND, Newark, N. J.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

NOTICE.

Applications have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton county for the following changes in school districts:

District No. 53—Beginning at the northwest corner of Sec 33, Tp 24, R 12; thence east two miles, thence south ½ mile, thence east 1½ mile, thence south ½ mile, thence west ½ mile to east boundary line of District No 53.

District No. 57—Beginning at the Northwest corner Sec. 20, Tp 23, R 14; thence north 1½ miles, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence north ¼ mile thence east 1 mile, thence north 4¼ mile, thence west 3 miles to range line, thence south 3 miles, thence west 1 mile, thence south 3¾ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence south ¼ mile, thence east to point of beginning.

The above applications will be passed upon by the Board of Education at the Court House in Clanton, on 11th day of November, 1905.

Done by order of the Board in session Oct. 7, 1905.

G. L. SPEER,
Sec. Board of Education.

No Pill is as pleasant and positive as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These Famous Little Pills are so mild and effective that children, delicate ladies and weak people enjoy their cleansing effect, while strong people say they are the best liver pills sold. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

PROGRAM

of District Sunday School Convention of the 6th District of Chilton county, to be held at Ebenezer Baptist church, Stanton, Ala., Oct 29, 1905.

9 a.m. Devotional exercises, W. O. Perry.

9:30. Ends to be accomplished by Sunday schools, teachers and conventions, Rev. Robert Jones, T. G. Milling, Prof. W. B. Speer.

10:30. Development of schools in the district, superintendents.

11. Enrollment of delegates.

11:15. The value of inter-denominational Sunday school work, Miss Mary C. Gibson.

12. Recess.

1.30 p.m. The value of the Bible to a country, Hon. T. U. Crumpton, Rev. T. F. Davis.

2:30. A banner district. Geo. W. Fox, N. L. Broadhead.

3. The home department, Rev. W. J. Ruddick, R. P. Kendrick.

We cordially invite all Sunday school workers, superintendents and delegates from each school in the district to attend the convention. The Lord has blessed this work in every instance where the officers have held the conventions regularly and faithfully performed the duties intrusted to them. We ask you to co-operate with us in reaching the people of our district and in giving them more schools and better schools.

Yours in the work,
H. J. GROOM, D. Pres.
ANDREW B. DEASON, D. Sec.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Oct. 23, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Culler Corerse.

LADIES' LIST.

Mary Dun, Elizabeth Hauton, Mary Simon.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Nov 6, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Discount

Liberal long time loans on Improve Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Property, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cotton being held now, either on farms or in warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2 00
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2 50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3 00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3 50
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2 50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4 00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5 00

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the best

Staple & Fancy Groceries
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - .ALA

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

VOL. XIV

HOME OF WASHINGTON.

HOW WOMEN PAVED THE WA
FOR RESTORATION OF MT. VERNO

Historic Place is Now Exactly as Looked During the Lifetime Great Statesman-General Thou
ands Visit it Annually.

The bell is tolling, the band playin "Nearer My God to Thee" and th passengers know, even before th raise their eyes to the fair sweep Virginia's shore line, that the steam is passing Mount Vernon. A prett custom—the tolling of the bell and th playing of the fine old hymn A hu falls on the crowded decks, and o feels the thrill of patriotism stirrin the hearts of the people.

WASHINGTON AND LAFAYETTE.
From a Painting at Mount Vernon.

But do the thousands who annuall sail down the Potomac to visit th stately home of George Washingto know that to a woman's initiative i due the restoration and preservation o the beautiful Mount Vernon of to-day Away back in 1853 this home was i a rapidly deteriorating condition. Joh Augustine Washington, a son of Gen eral Washington's nephew, was th owner of the estate. The descendant of Washington evidently did not inheri the clear business sense of their illus trious ancestor, for in General Wash ington's time the farm yielded a hand some income. Now the fields were ly ing untilled and useless, and the house and outbuildings were showing sign of the passing of the years. The glory of that splendid home was departing.

House in which Washington Lived.

The Kitchen a it was a Hundred Years Ago.

A Woman's Work.

To the great credit of John Aug tine Washington it is related that he refused absolutely to consider propos tions advanced by private companie and individuals to purchase the estate to be converted later into a pleasur resort. Think of the desecration—a vaudeville performance on that magni ficent stretch of lawn, waiters bearing their burdens of food and drink through those stately halls, the daily uproar of irreverent crowds.

And then came Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, of South Carolina. She visited Mount Vernon in 1853 and wa shocked and grieved at the fate in store for the historic spot. She con ceived the plan of rousing the women of her beloved southland to the true state of affairs and enlisting their co operation in the raising of a fund of $200,000, the price asked for the house outbuildings, wharfage, garden and some two hundred acres of farmlands So she went to work, and it must be remembered that fifty years ago it took no small amount of bravery for a woman to inaugurate and carry on a undertaking of such magnitude. But after five years of effort the whole of the $200,000 was in hand. It wa found impracticable to confine the propaganda to the Southern States, so the North was invited to assist, which she did in generous measure.

At the close of 1858 the Mount Ver non estate was purchased and the title passed to the Mount Vernon Ladie Association of the Union.

Freed from Taxation.

A charter was secured from the State of Virginia, granting exemption from taxation, the association in return binding itself to the task of restoring to its original condition and preservin

ULLEDGE
ns and Discounts
e loans on Improved
urance Policies.
good Personal Propernces offered on coteither on farms or in
A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

Order House!
E DRUG STORE!
Cut Prices!
Mail Orders.
PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
lache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	2 50
Martin's 5 year-old Va. Rye	3 00
Style Country Club	3 40
Old Lincoln County	2 50
Club Virginia Rye	4 00
V. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5 00

rry a full line of wines and grade goods.
G COMPANY
LE DRUG STORE
NGHAM, ALA.

hing thing of the best y Groceries CLOTHING
ATS, ETC.
& BRO.
ALA

E FAMILY

an immense stock which our Mr.
pôt cash, his long experience geous prices, with the express tire family.
and the grown men—we have
ity guaranteed.
the matrons we can fit them fashionable goods at especially show you any kind of Suit you have the largest stock of Boy's to 16 years old in short pants, long pants No matter what Men's and Boy's Hats, a'l st stock of the latest style of nel Shirt Waists, and a good t stock of Dress Goods of all xtra Fine Waist Goods.
rt lengths from 3 to 10 yards, at 9 cents per yard so long as which we have the exclusive es from No. 3 to No. 5 and n Children's. We are offering rice.
satisfied.
. & TOURO
Whole Family
N STORE
Ala.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

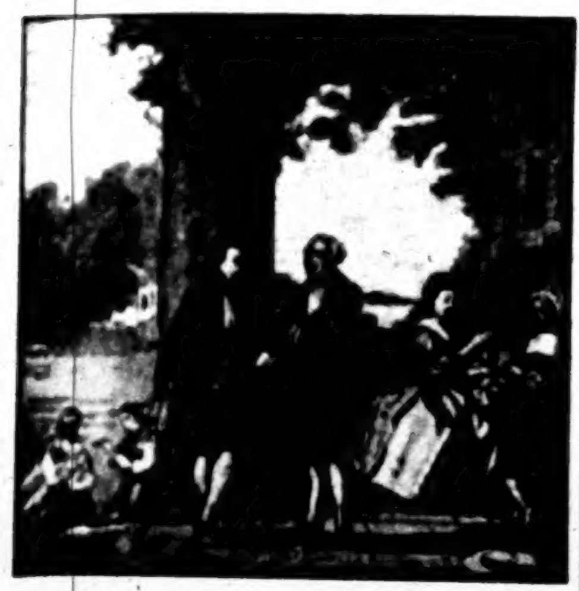
VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 2

HOME OF WASHINGTON.

HOW WOMEN PAVED THE WAY FOR RESTORATION OF MT. VERNON

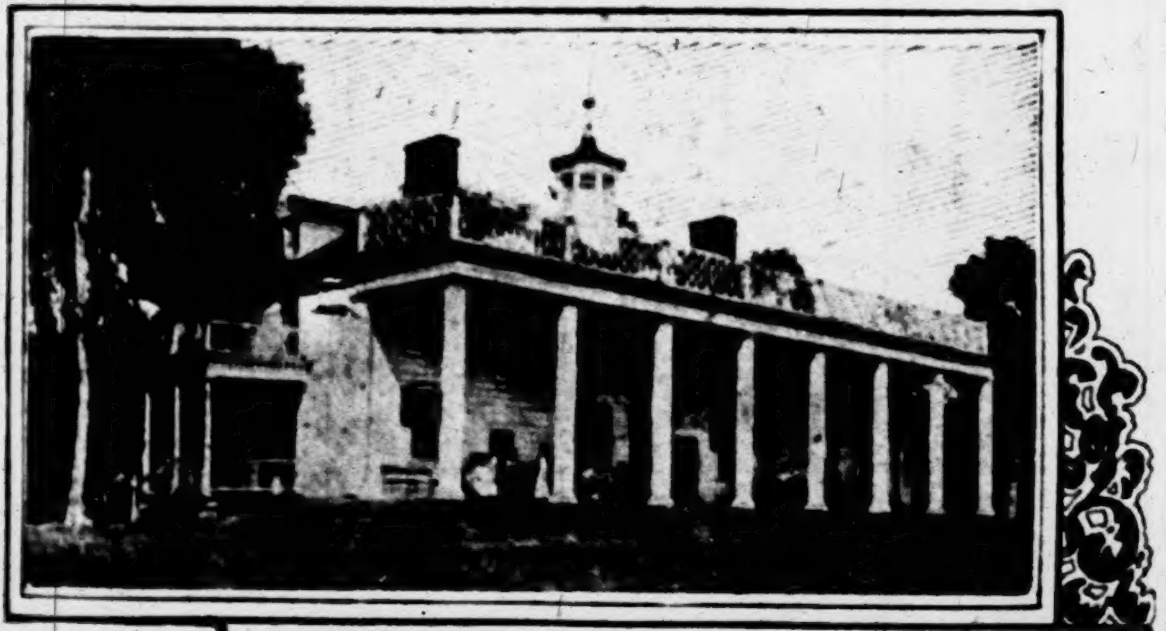
Historic Place is Now Exactly as It Looked During the Lifetime of Great Statesman-General – Thousands Visit it Annually.

The bell is tolling, the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" and the passengers know, even before they raise their eyes to the fair sweep of Virginia's shore line, that the steamer is passing Mount Vernon. A pretty custom the tolling of the bell and the playing of the fine old hymn. A hush falls on the crowded decks, and one feels the thrill of patriotism stirring the hearts of the people.



WASHINGTON AND LAFAYETTE.
From a Painting at Mount Vernon.

But do the thousands who annually sail down the Potomac to visit the stately home of George Washington know that to a woman's initiative is due the restoration and preservation of the beautiful Mount Vernon of to-day? Away back in 1853 this home was in a rapidly deteriorating condition. John Augustine Washington, a son of General Washington's nephew, was the owner of the estate. The descendants of Washington evidently did not inherit the clear business sense of their illustrious ancestor, for in General Washington's time the farm yielded a handsome income. Now the fields were lying untilled and useless, and the house and outbuildings were showing signs of the passing of the years. The glory of that splendid home was departing.



House in which Washington lived.

The Kitchen as it was a Hundred Years Ago.

A Woman's Work.

To the great credit of John Augustine Washington it is related that he refused absolutely to consider propositions advanced by private companies and individuals to purchase the estate, to be converted later into a pleasure resort. Think of the desecration—a vaudeville performance on that magnificent stretch of lawn, waiters bearing their burdens of food and drink through those stately halls, the daily uproar of irreverent crowds.

And then came Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, of South Carolina. She visited Mount Vernon in 1853 and was shocked and grieved at the fate in store for the historic spot. She conceived the plan of rousing the women of her beloved southland to the true state of affairs and enlisting their cooperation in the raising of a fund of $200,000, the price asked for the house, outbuildings, wharfage, garden and some two hundred acres of farmlands.

So she went to work, and it must be remembered that fifty years ago it took no small amount of bravery for a woman to inaugurate and carry on an undertaking of such magnitude. But after five years of effort the whole of the $200,000 was in hand. It was found impracticable to confine the propaganda to the Southern States, so the North was invited to assist, which she did in generous measure.

At the close of 1858 the Mount Vernon estate was purchased and the title passed to the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union.

Freed from Taxation.

A charter was secured from the State of Virginia, granting exemption from taxation, the association in return binding itself to the task of restoring to its original condition and preserving for future generations this home of General George Washington.

In this connection it is interesting to know that during the ten-day annual meet of the Board of Regents in the month of May a banquet is given to the Governor of Virginia. After the feast is ended and the toasts are drunk, the entire association conduct the Governor about the house and grounds, that he may know, by personal observation, that the pact entered into so long ago is being faithfully kept.

It is the custom of the ladies of the association to live at Mount Vernon during the yearly session. At this time the old home wears an air of unwonted gaiety. The kitchen gives out the most appetizing odors, and, stimulated to unusual activity by tales of the old days, the corp of Virginia servants are anxious to show their fitness for the honor of "servin' de ladies." Even the brick oven, a relic of colonial days, is called into use, the beautifully browned bread, pies and cakes attesting its superiority.

Thirty States Represented.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Association is a most exclusive body. It is composed of a regent, who is president of the association, and a vice-regent from each of the States of the Union. Thirty States are now represented. The women are justly proud of the work that has been and is being accomplished, and so value their places in the council that it has become a custom for the office of vice-regent to descend from mother to daughter or other near relative. When a vacancy occurs in the council the Governor of the State is invited to nominate some prominent woman; but should the name not receive the favorable consideration of the regent and vice-regents no appointment is made until one acceptable to all is proposed.

Miss Cunningham, the first regent, lived at Mount Vernon from 1868 to 1873, when she resigned on account of ill health. She died the following year. The present regent is Mrs. Justine Van Rensselaer Townsend, of New York.

During the Civil War, though in the very midst of the conflict, Mount Vernon escaped serious injury. This was mainly due to the heroism of Miss Tracy, the secretary of the association, who took up her abode at Mount Vernon, accompanied by only a few servants. Miss Cunningham, the regent, was prohibited from crossing the military lines and could not join her. For four long years Miss Tracy remained at the lonely home, managing the estate and guarding the buildings.

The plan of the rehabilitation of Mount Vernon, by returning to its rooms the original furnishings, or articles similar in design and construction, is generally understood. But every woman should know and remember that to the loyal, patriotic women of the land belongs the credit of saving from ruin and obliteration the fine old home of the Father of his country.

OLD FASHIONED GARDEN AT MOUNT VERNON.

STEM INDUSTRIAL CRASH.

STANDARD OIL MAGNATE PREDICTS CRISIS AND SUGGESTS PALLATIVE MEASURES.

Would Have Nation Begin Work of Vast Internal Improvements. Ex-Premier Meline of France Also Sounds Warning.

J. H. SHANNON.

That the land is the source of all real wealth, has been said by philosophers time out of mind, and now with the urban districts draining from the country much of the flower of its manhood the cry is going up from the lips of legions of wise men, "Back to the Land!" All manner of colonization projects are being devised and tried for the purpose of diverting foreign immigration from the cities to fields and to relieve the pressure of congestion in the over-grown centers. One feature of the ominous flow of people to the cities is the phenomenal development of manufactures. There may come a time when manufactures will so overbalance agriculture that there will not be enough basic wealth produced to afford a profitable market for the factory-made goods. When the industrial situation shall become so unbalanced, a commercial crash of stupendous magnitude must ensue.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER AND HIS NEW WIG.

As Helpless Babes.

Then the city-trained men who know not how to make bread out of the soil will clamor for work, curse the economic condition of the period, denounce the state, threaten the republic with all sorts of fantastic theories, and there will be acute friction between the few rich and the multitude of poor. Gradually men will drift back to the land and learn to make their living with the plow and reaper and a satisfactory equilibrium between agriculture and manufactures will once more be reached. Before this result is attained, there will be intense suffering. Families that are in comfortable circumstances will know the meaning of misery, and families now affluent will fall into beggary. All this is not a dream. Men of clearest vision see it coming.

Rockefeller's Prophecy of Panic.

It is what Mr. John D. Rockefeller sees when he predicts, as he did in a recent interview "an industrial crisis of world-wide extent and unprecedented severity."

Mr. Rockefeller says the crisis will be brought on by overproduction in all lines. The Standard Oil magnate does not stand alone as a prophet of impending evil. Essentially the same prediction is made by Senator Jules Meline, once premier of France, and a man of keen perception, penetration and of broad understanding. This stateman says that the crisis which impends will be precipitated by overproduction of manufactured goods. He says "Consumption must have its bounds, and so with the consumption of manufactured articles. When a man has filled all his requirements in clothes and furniture a mere lowering of prices, which is all that mechanical improvements generally mean nowadays, can no longer attract him. Therefore, when the output is not restrained the market necessarily becomes choked."

Mr. Rockefeller is specific as to the time when the crash is to occur. It is likely that he errs in this, because predictions as to periods of depression and readjustment are seldom fulfilled as to dates. Crises as a rule come unexpected and the immediate reason is most apt to be due to over-expansion of credit, and overproduction of securities than to actual overproduction of goods; but when to the cause of overexpanded credits is added overproduction of manufactures and a lop-sided industrial system recovering from the crash is more difficult.

Day of Distress Near.

The richest man in America is positive, however, that the crash will come about 1907—year after next—and so sure is he that the trouble is on its way, that he is already weaving a plan to provide work for those who will be thrown out of employment, and thus ameliorate the panic. He is certain that the number of men who will need help will be about 7,000, 000, and when is added to those men the number of dependents, the total is appalling. Mr. Rockefeller thinks this vast army of unemployed should be set to work by the government on internal improvements, the building of new roads, improvement of old ones, dredging of streams, irrigating land, etc. He says;

Vast Plan of Construction.

"There is enough labor today needed on the public highways to employ all the idle or surplus labor for a century. The improvement of the roads, the dredging streams, and especially of the Mississippi, where annually millions of damage is done by the overflow, the irrigation of arid lands, the preservation of forests and the drainage of the swamps are the great public problems that should be occupying the public mind. Municipal, state and national laws should be enacted now for the building of roads, so that when the industrial storm comes it will not be too late to breast it."

JULES MELINE.

It makes no difference whether Mr. Rockefeller be right or wrong in his forecast of a gathering storm, his plan for the employment of surplus labor is a practical and profitable one and his enumeration of road building, river-improvement, irrigation, forest preservation and swamp draining, as the truly great national problems is philosophic. The work needs to be done, and eventually it must be done, if the United States is to progress. Waste is national loss—waste by flood and drought as well as waste by fire. Every acre of land should be made to pay. The government promotes research and experimentation in agriculture, with a view to increasing the effectiveness of tillage; there is no reason why it should not give countenance and support to reclamation of land and the enchancement of the fertility of land already under culture. It is the land—the farm, which is the pedestal of the republic.

There should be no effort to minimize the worth of manufactures—processes that work up the raw products of the earth into serviceable forms. The ores from which are obtained the metals of commerce are as much a product of the land as corn, wheat and cotton—not as primarily important, but quite as necessary to man in his present highly organized social state. It is difficult to draw the line between some of the basic manufactures and agriculture, for the iron furnaces and steel mills build the railroads and bridges which give farmers a short-cut to markets.

French Statesman Also Predicts Panic.

But the point is, that where manufactures develop out of proportion to the growth of agriculture, the world is being turned wrong side up. Mr. Meline in declaring that the overproduction of manufactures will lead to an industrial crash, says; "There is room for everyone under the sun, but on condition of sharing up the good things of the earth, instead of concentrating upon one department of activity."

THE TARIFF PROBLEM.

REVISION AND ANTI-REVISION SENTIMENTS IN WASHINGTON.

Speaker Cannon between Two Fires Question to be a Live One During the Next Session of Congress.

It is rather amusing to those who are on the inside of the political arena in Washington to observe the manner in which discussions of the tariff are conducted throughout the country. In an academic way the theories of the tariff are talked over. But to the men on whom the real work of revising the tariff would devolve there are very different considerations to influence them. They openly declare that the tariff ought to be revised, but they say the danger to business interests would be so great that they fear undertaking it. They insist that a struggle over the schedules would last six months, and that during that time the business interests would be suffering stagnation that would afflict the country very sorely.

This view is scouted by the revisionists as one that has no standing with men who believe in doing things. They claim that if such considerations are to prevail there never could be a revision of the tariff.

So Easy To Revise.

Not long ago the difficulties in agreeing upon changes in the Dingley schedules were illustrated by representatives who called on Speaker Cannon. It happened that one day a prominent Massachusetts member called to impress the speaker with the easy manner in which the tariff might be revised.

"You see," declared the Massachusetts member, "we all make too much over the difficulties in revising the tariff. It would really be very simple. We would only have to put hides, wool and coal on the free list and the country would be practically satisfied. We might do more, but that would really be enough. There could be no difficulty in coming to an agreement on that—merely a matter of a few weeks."

The speaker listened intently as he always does listen to advice. But trailing on the heels of the Massachusetts member came a representative from Illinois who also wanted to revise the tariff. He started in the same as his predecessor. He thought there was altogether too much fuss made over the revision of the tariff. He declared that it would be an easy job.

As Simple as Can Be.

"What would you do with the tariff?" he was asked.

"Why," he replied, "it's as simple as can be. All you have to do is to lower the tariff on woolen goods and to make a big reduction in the shoe schedules. Practically that would satisfy every one, and if you did no more the country would be pleased."

The Illinois representative was informed that he had been preceded by a member from Massachusetts who thought that all that would be necessary would be to put coal, hides and wool on the free list.

"Hides on the free list!" exclaimed the Illinois speaker. "Not while I have the strength to stay here to fight it."

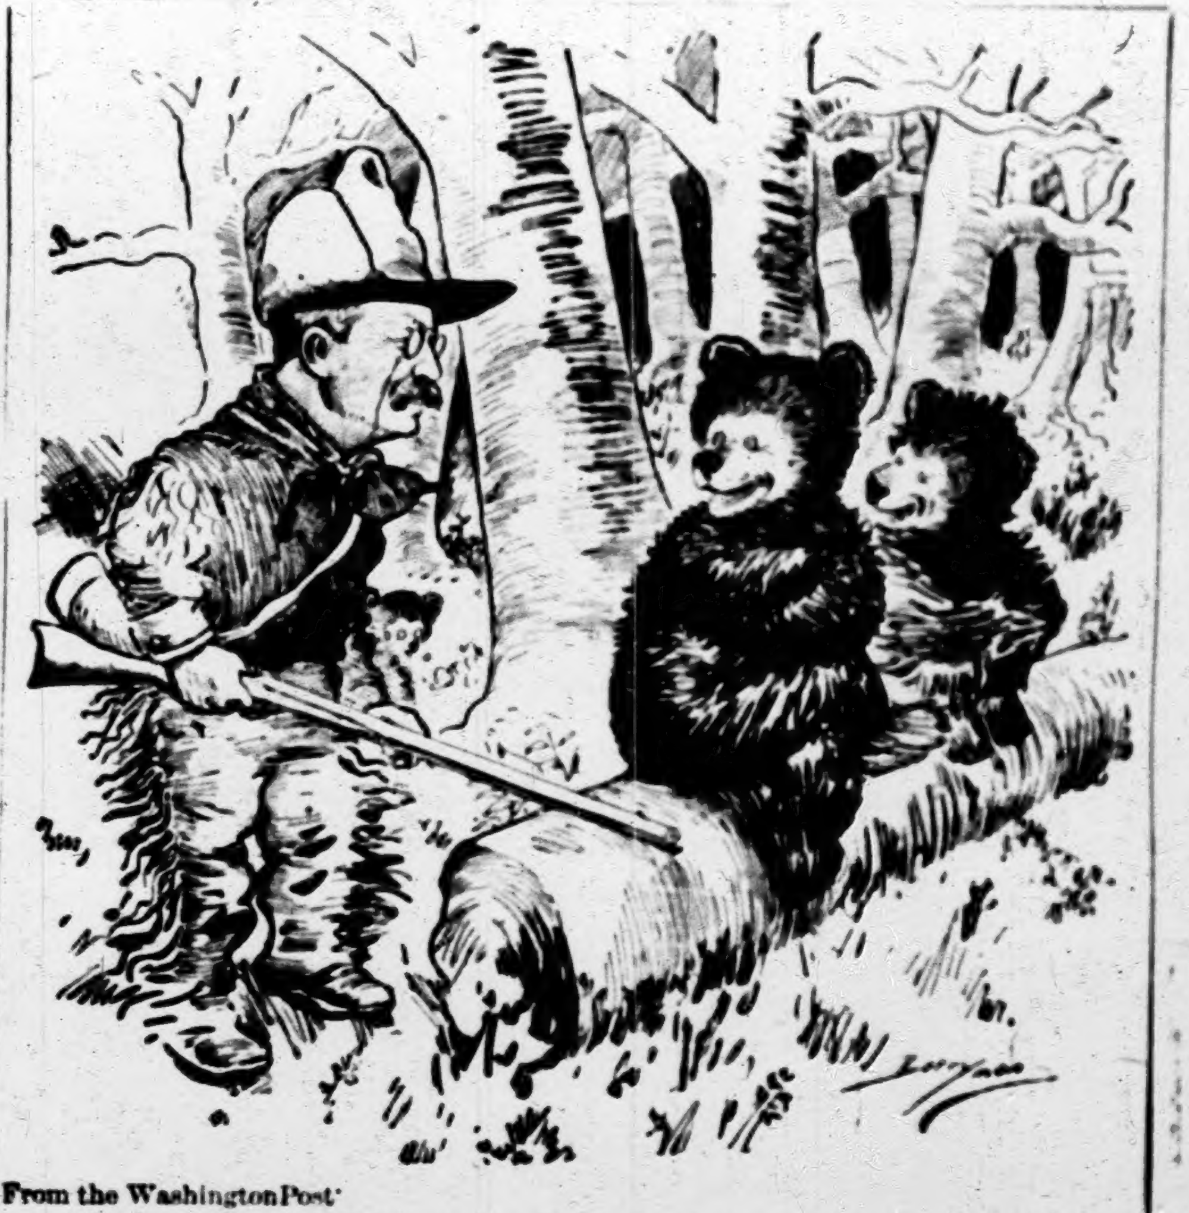
"Now you see what an easy thing it is to revise the tariff," said the speaker.

"If I was God," again remarked the speaker in his quaint style, "I would make some changes in the tariff. I would put them into effect before anybody knew what they were to be made. Then there would be no unsettling of business and at least some people would be happy."

Question an Absorbing One.

What alarms so many prominent protectionists is what they claim is the danger of unsettling the business conditions of the country. The theoretical adjustment of the tariff according to the principles of protection is having very little effect on them. In fact the protectionists do not even care to discuss that phase of the question. A revision of the tariff with the declared purpose to simply lower the schedules they say would have the same effect on the country that they claim would follow an attack on the tariff principles by the free-traders. They claim that merchants would not buy goods when lower tariff rates might still further reduce the price they would have to pay. That conditions lasting six months they fear would upset all business conditions. They say it might mean panic.

But they are likely to have their views very forcibly contested by the tariff revisionists next winter. The revisionists and the men who believe in the principles of reciprocity are banding together to give battle in the halls of Congress. The citadel is now distinctly in the control of the stand patters and it is to be seen what power the revisionists will develop in contesting their ascendancy.



From the Washington Post.

"Ordinarily my experience has been that bears were not greatly flurried when I suddenly came upon them."—Theodore Roosevelt in Scribner's for October.

Every reader of this paper should have this book. Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

12TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores, $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Name
Address

ATTRACTIVE FLOWER BED.

OLD-FASHIONED GARDEN A FAVORITE SPOT OF MRS. ROOSEVELT.

This Corner of the White House Grounds, With Its Blaze of Color, Attracts the Sight-Seer.

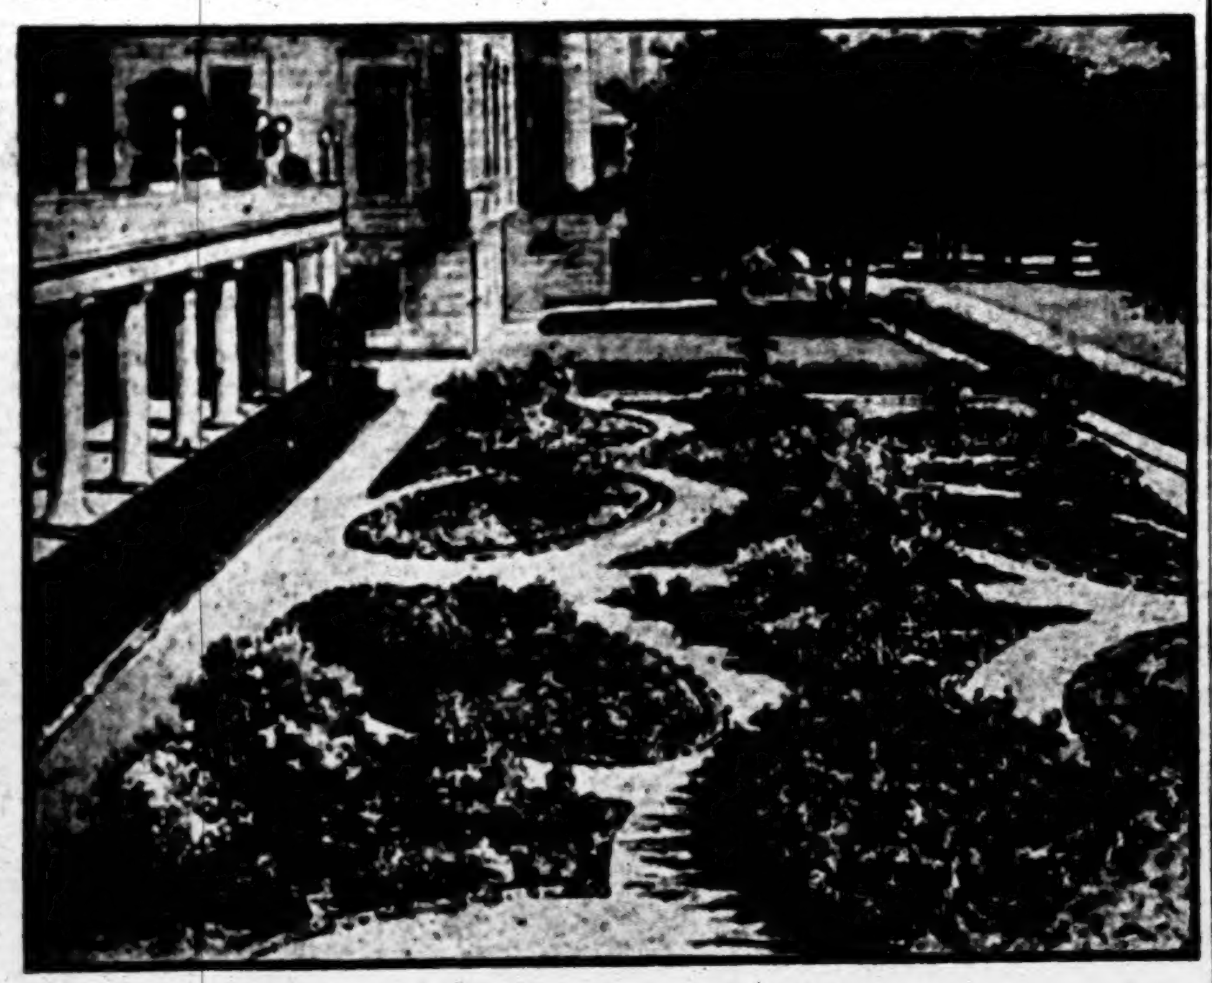
Mrs. Roosevelt's Old Fashioned Garden, as the generous collection of posies west of the south veranda of the White House is called, has been a continuous mass of bloom and color during the summer and fall, quite different from any of the other Government flower displays. There are many of these, surrounding the different departmental buildings, those of the Department of Agriculture being particularly elaborate and ornate, but it is the opinion of summer visitors to Washington that the old-time corner of the mistress of the White House is the most pleasing of all. At least it seems to strike the majority of fancies, for it recalls the scenes and times of earlier days. This part of the White House grounds has always been devoted to flowers, but until Mrs. Roosevelt's advent it has been rather given up to the latest fads of horticulture than to a display of the familiar blooms of the old-time flower garden.

The changes in the White House a couple of years ago were officially known as the "restoration," but have, perhaps, been more generally termed the "mutilation." It seemed necessary that something should be done; there was talk of reconstructing the White House, but the niggardly appropriations made by Congress prevented any extensive change or improvement. There has, however, been nothing but approval for the changes in Mrs. Roosevelt's garden. The location is an ideal one, somewhat sheltered and secluded, and when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave the garden party last spring to the International Railway delegates there were many words of praise for the charming effect of the hundreds of climbing roses, displayed in full bloom and fragrance, their vivid coloring contrasting well against the walls of the east and west terraces.

Special Floral Pets.

Particular pets of the President's wife are hardy shrubs and annuals, too, but all of the kind with which men and women who loved flowers a half century ago loved to surround themselves and with each of which for the older generation there lingers some poetic or sentimental fancy. Hollyhocks, jessamine, phlox, dahlias, China asters, lavender, rosemary, columbine, clematis, peonies and smaller shrubs and flowers have contributed generously to the riot of color and bloom which has pervaded this nook during the season.

The mistress of this garden delights to pick up new plants which are yet old, and following her various visits to Arlington, Mount Vernon and other places have come many packages of new favorites to find an unused corner in this old-fashioned garden.



A FAVORITE SPOT OF THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

Does Sugar Make Strength?

Various reasons have been assigned for the increase in stature and strength of the modern maiden, who has most certainly grown uncommonly tall and proportionately muscular during the past few years, says an English writer. It cannot be that outdoor sports, gymnastic exercise and so on, have stretched her out and made her as strong as she is, because her brothers have had precisely the same advantages, and they have not developed at the same rate. It seems to me, therefore, that the secret lies in the fact, that of recent years girls have become far greater consumers of sweetmeats than ever were their mothers and grandmothers.

Time was when we should never have dreamt of having sweets on our luncheon, dinner and tea tables. Now it would be quite extraordinary were one not to offer these dainties. And, what is more, women are not merely content to eat sweetmeats at our meals, but they consume them at all times and in all places between meals. It was recently said that boxes of bonbons play a conspicuous part in modern lovemaking, "sweets to the sweet" being apparently the text by which every young man of the day guides himself through the devious paths of courtship.

The great Russian wrestler who is shortly to enter again into contest with the Turk, Madrali, tells us that the more sweet stuff one eats the stronger one grows. Sugar is the secret of strength, he declares.

Only a Portion of Russia.

In order to appreciate the size of Siberia one must imagine the placing of all of the States and Kingdoms, principalities and empires, etc., of Europe, excepting Russia, and all of the United States, including Alaska, in the territory occupied by that portion of Russia, and then would still have a small amount of land uncovered.

In British Columbia as in England the rule of the road is "Keep to the left and you're sure to be right."

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

American System of Public Education Far Less Practical Than That of Germany.

The general public school education of the country is complacently believed by the majority of people to be the best in the world. There are some, however, who insist that much of our education is unpractical and does not fit the youth of the country for the actual hard knocks of life, and that our school system should include a much greater preparation of industrial work.

An examination of German educational methods places the United States at an aparent disadvantage in this regard. An instance of this is seen in a series of newspaper articles published in Frankfort, Germany, by Mr. Heinrich Back, the director of the Frankfort Industrial School, who has been twice sent by the German Government to study the industrial schools of this country. Mr. Back expresses surprise that we have not provided in our school system for training our citizens in special directions, instead of leaving the establishment of trade, industrial and technical schools to the enterprise of individuals or the generosity of philanthropy. The result is that a comparatively small number of these schools are found in certain favored parts of the United States, while in the major portion of the country little opportunity is offered boys to obtain practical and thorough instruction and to increase their value to the nation by converting themselves into trained workmen.

The German Government, on the other hand, maintains in every part of the empire good trade, industrial and technical schools, drilling the youth of the country and sending them out, each an expert or a trained specialist, to play a useful and intelligent part in the great battle of international commerce.

POKER IN THE PHILIPPINES.

One Moro Who Knew the Game

Reports came from time to time from Portsmouth showing that the Oriental envoys and attaches had found a great liking for American ways and manners, and more especially for the true American beverages, cocktails and high balls, and for that little bit of diversion known as poker. On top of these reports came a message from a member of the Taft party in the Philippines that Datto Grande, one of the leading citizens of Bambang, had fallen down before the Sultan of Ganassi in the game of poker. Army officers stationed in the Philippines are stated to have carefully coached the Datto Grande in this game and their estimation of their ability to instruct has had a severe shock, a result of the Datto's losses of his carabaos, wives and raiment, since, it appears, his opponent had never been taught how to play, but had relied upon his untutored skill and the devices known only to the Moros. The next thing we may expect to learn will be that this wily Moro "Ah Sing" has actually taken the uniform from some of our army officers, aye, even those considered adepts at the game.

This news is probably of more interest to the people of our island possession and to the citizens of the United States than is at first implied, for it shows that for cunning and intelligence the Moros show ability to defeat even the skill of highly experienced and practiced American army officers, and, as an exchange remarks, it shows that the Filipinos are, and of right ought to be free and independent.

The Postmaster General's Pants Fitted.

Hoke Smith, Postmaster General during Cleveland's last administration, tells a story of a darky employed at his home who was usually the recipient of all of Mr. Smith's cast-off clothing. Many of the coats, vests and trousers, when cast aside, were of a fine quality and as a result this negro shone in the society of his fellowmen. On one occasion the ex-Postmaster General purchased an elegant pair of trousers from Paris. Somehow, these trousers would not wear out. Mr. Smith would wear them day in and day out, rain or shine, and if apparently soiled a little cleaning up would make them as good as new. Try what he would, the servant could not get the master to cast them away.

One rainy day, Mr. Smith came home from a ride into the country on horseback with his trousers very much the worse for mud and water. "Sambo," he said to his helper, "take this pair of pants out and give them a good cleaning, as I want to wear them tomorrow." Sambo came back in an hour or two, his face sad and gloomy. "Deed Marsa Hoke," he said, "somehow I can't get that thar mud off'n your pants, dey certainly am a sight."

"Try some soap and water, Sam," said Mr. Smith.

"Done tried soap and water, sar."

"Try some gasoline," Mr. Smith replied.

"Done tried gasoline."

"Try turpentine," desperately cried the ex-Postmaster General.

"Done tried turpentine."

"Did you try ammonia?"

"Taint no use to try em on, Marse Hoke I knows day'll fit."

GREAT CANALS OF MARS.

RECENT PHOTOGRAPHS ESTABLISH APPARENT ARTIFICIAL CONSTRUCTION.

The Camera's Eye, More Sensitive than the Human Optic, Establishes New Data—Interesting Scientific Discoveries.

Astronomers and scientists in general are deeply interested in the modest announcement made by Professor Percival Lowell and his associates at the Lowell Observatory in Arizona recently that after several partial successes and some complete failures the greater canals of the planet Mars had at last been photographed.

Hitherto the general public has been compelled to accept or to reject the existence of the Martian canals on the word of the stargazing fraternity. But with the accomplishment of the Harvard observers in Arizona everyone will now have an opportunity to see the actual photographs in proof of what has long been considered as more or less of a theory.

While several photographs were taken of the canals some weeks ago, it was not until a few days ago that the solar photographers were ready to announce the complete success of the undertaking. Professor Lowell, in the following account of the achievement, is unreserved in his belief that the Martian canals closely correspond to the familiar waterways of the same general classification on this planet.

Up to the present time human knowledge of Mars has been largely theoretical—the principal facts regarding the planet being that it is 141,500,000 miles from the sun and approximately 47,000,000 miles from earth. The Martian year has 687 days. Mars is 4230 miles in diameter, the earth being 7918, Jupiter 86,500 and the sun 866,400 miles.

"To photograph the canals of Mars," says Professor Lowell, "has for many years been a purpose of the observatory established and maintained by Harvard College in Arizona. The first attempt to meet with an even approximate success was made in 1901, when a more or less satisfactory print was made of the Mare Acidalium, or Lake of Acid.

"Yet, encouraging as that pioneer effort was, no canal could then be detected on the negative with absolute certainty. To-day we can state as positive and final that there are canals on Mars—because the photographs say so, and a photographic negative is nothing if not truthful.

"In my firm belief, it is only a question of time, possibly of months, maybe a few years, when we shall be able to determine the exact nature and probable purpose of the canals of our planetary neighbor. Meanwhile we have a number of excellent negatives which have served to bring us a bit closer to Mars than ever in the past.

"The negatives thoroughly confirm the eye in showing not only the existence of the canals, but reveal them as continuous lines of tens and even hundreds of miles in length. Of course it is yet impossible to say positively whether the Martian canals are of artificial or natural creation, or exactly of what composition is the liquid or molten substance in them. But so far as we can at present conceive they appear as corresponding to our familiar waterways classified under the heading of canals.

Value of Advertising.

Once, beset with pain and trouble,
  When the day was dreary and dark,
And I felt most weary sinking
  Of my liver, lungs and heart.

In the papers I was scanning,
  Advertisements by the score,
Trusting there to find some doctor
  In whose ears my woes I'd pour.

Then there flashed across my vision
  As if writ in living light;
Tell, oh, tell, old Doctor Cartin!
  Tell, before you sleep, this night.

All your woes and all your troubles,
  All your aches and every pain
He can sooth you, he can cure you;
  Put new life in every vein.

And when all your troubles vanish,
  And your liver works all right,
And your lungs resume their functions
  And your heart with joy is bright.

Then you'll sing loud Hallelujahs,
  And you'll pay your bill in gold,
Thankful that to Dr. Gartin
  All your troubles have been told.

And you'll know that lucky Fortune
  Made you know, at any rate,
That it pays for all to keep their Advertisements up to date.

A Few Afterthoughts.

The negro who demanded $5,000 from a New York life insurance company is to be prosecuted. This man is evidently unfamiliar with the New York methods. He should have applied for the gift through a syndicate.

A mining engineer in Guadalajara, Mexico, has found a petrified apple, 16 feet underground. This is almost as startling as the seedless apple fake.

There were 137,000 pounds of Mocha and Java coffee imported into the United States in the last six years. It seems strange that during that time grocers throughout the country have sold 3,500,000 pounds of pure Mocha and Java.

A hunting article in Scribners' Magazine, contributed by the President, says, "Ordinarily my experience has been that bears were not flurried when I suddenly came upon them." Surely the President was disguised.

The German who has built a house entirely of cork must be an Irishman.

A clever counterfeit of the ten-dollar "Buffalo" note is being passed in New York. Another indigestible security, only it has the misfortune to be technically illegal.

Hall Caine has concluded that he will not write a novel on American millionaires. He was probably unable to find one who would make a good hero.

One Furman got five years in prison for stealing a bag of wheat. He should have taken the precaution to do his business through the Chicago Stock Exchange.

Columbia University proposes to abolish hazing by expelling the hazers. The Board of Directors are to be congratulated on having thought out a bright idea.

IMPLEMENT MAKERS MEET.

SHOW GREAT EXPANSION OF FOREIGN AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY TRADE.

Pass Resolutions For Land Law Reform—Against Giving Inter-State Commerce Commission Power to Fix Railroad Rates.

A recent meeting of the National Association of Agricultural Implement and Vehicle Manufacturers at Niagara Falls brought forth a number of interesting and important facts relative to the great progress which has been made in recent years in the making of all classes of farm and working implements and also the great expanse of this class of trade abroad.

Since 1899, when our exports in this line for the first time shot ahead of those of Great Britain, the United States has been easily the heaviest exporter of agricultural implements and machinery in the world. Manufacturers claim, and their efforts to secure foreign markets seem to substantiate it, that exports play a most important part in the successful conduct of agricultural implement manufacturing. The last census puts the annual value of this class of production at $101,000,000, and it is estimated that the present year's production is greater. This has grown from $6,000,000 in 1850. The increase in exports, however, has been far greater as we have, one after another, captured foreign markets. In 1870 we exported only a million dollars' worth of foreign implements; in 1900 we were at the $16,000,000 mark, and the high water mark was reached in 1904 with $22,700,000, or over one-fifth of the product.

Courtesy Washington Star.
— JUDGE PETER S. GROSSCUP.

Much Work Ahead.

The Niagara meeting, however, brought forth the fact that there are many fields as yet unconquered by our implement makers. In sharp contrast with the brilliant success achieved by American harvesting machinery in Russia, American plows are practically unknown in that vast agricultural country. The plows used are mostly German or of local make, while the American types of light, strong plows, capable of doing almost twice the work of the Russian plows, and which have swept everything before them in South Africa and Australia, have thus far, for some reason, failed to gain an entry into Russia.

American Manufacturers Foremost.

It seems that the American implement makers are a progressive set and the secret of their phenomenal success has been in their good organization and the close study they have made of the wants of the foreign peoples. The American manufacturer has made a study of conditions and has thus beaten the Britisher with his "take it or leave it," and the German plan of making an exact imitation of the native or local implement.

The National Association of Agricultural Implement and Vehicle Manufacturers is an influential body and its annual meetings are participated in by some of the heaviest manufacturers in the world. It takes up, in addition to its regular business, the various broad questions of the day as they may have some direct or indirect bearing upon the prosperity of their industries. Among other questions discussed at the recent meeting were the ten-hour labor day, certain phases of the tariff, the parcel post question, ship subsidy, the railroad rate question and the repeal of the land laws. The principal discussion, as noted by the daily reports, centered around the railroad rate and land law questions and parcel post, although there was, of course, no dissention to the view that everything possible should be done to expand foreign trade.

Questions of Legislation.

Judge Grosscup of Chicago, who recently attained fame in his beef trust decision, addressed the association upon the evils which he said would result in case the Interstate Commerce Commission was vested with power to act as both prosecutor and court, as they would if they were given power to fix railroad rates. He took strong ground against all rebates and discriminations and declared that it would be wise to replace the present machinery by a government bureau empowered to investigate all complaints, with a court of transportation to adjudge the various points raised.

Resolutions were adopted embodying this idea.

The association also indorsed the report of President Roosevelt's Public Land Commission, advising the repeal of the Timber and Stone Act and changes in the Desert Land Act, and the Commutation Clause of the Homestead Act to prevent land frauds. The interest of the association in this matter and in the government irrigation work is active, since irrigation and home building on millions of acres of Western lands will furnish an unparalleled market.

The proposed parcel post legislation came in for a scoring as being inimical to independent manufacture and destroyer of the thousands of retail and even wholesale dealers throughout the country with whom the farmers do business directly and tending to further concentrate manufactures in a few great centers, and create monopolies.

SINGULAR INDIANS OF NORTHWEST.

The Marriage Contract a Complicated Document.

Many peculiar customs exist among the Kwakiutl Indians who live along the coast of British Columbia. These Indians are divided into numerous tribes or clans, entry into one of which is obtained only through most exacting laws. Marriage among them is considered a purchase which is conducted on sound business principles. But the object sought is not only the woman, but also the right of membership in her clan for the future children of the couple. The privileges of the clan are not given as a present to the son-in-law, but he becomes entitled to them by paying a certain amount of property for his wife. The wife is given to him as a first installment of the return payment. The crest of the clan, its privileges, and a considerable amount of other property besides, are given later on, when the couple have children, and the rate of interest paid by the wife's tribe increases with the number of children. For one child, 200 per cent. of interest is paid; for two or more children, 300 per cent. After the entire payment is made the marriage is annulled, because the wife's father has redeemed his daughter. If she continues to stay with her husband, she does so of her own free will. Oftentimes, however, to avoid complications, the husband makes a new payment to his father-in-law in order to have a claim to his wife.

A RATTLER STORY.

Where a Miss Was as Good as a Mile.

"Being no devotee of hunting, I seldom carried anything but my revolver, while my partner, an enthusiast for any game from bear to poker, great or small, as I was the reverse, seldom stirred from the tent without his double-barrelled shotgun," said the old timer from Nevada.

"As small game was fairly plenty in that part of the Sierras Jim generally took the right-of-way, lest it might be frightened away before he had an opportunity to shoot. This afternoon, however, we were merely going a short distance up the mountain back of our tent to see that our horses had not strayed too far. The gun was taken as a matter of habit, but the prospect of meeting anything for 'Jim' to shoot was so slight that I pushed on ahead and was climbing the steep mountain side, my body inclined far forward with my head naturally but a short distance from the ground.

"A sudden sharp gun shot report roared in my ear, and I felt the wind of the blast as the charge almost grazed my cheek.

"'Devilish careless, Jim,' I said, angrily as I wheeled around. 'Don't make game of your best friends without at least a slight warning, and don't fear but that after such a startling hint I'll always let you take the lead, though not even a chipmunk is in sight.'

"The color rushed from my face and was succeeded by a blush of shame as Jim quietly pointed to the mangled body of a six-foot rattler, whose head had been shattered into a shapeless mass.

"'Well,' said Jim, smiling good naturedly, 'your two heads were about two feet apart. A bit too close, I thought.'"

Agents Wanted.
To Canvass for the United States
Senator Number
NOW PUBLISHED.
The issue contains portraits of the
NINETY MEMBERS
two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the
BOSTON BUDGET
The Pictures
12 x 8 inches in size
are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.
Price 50 Cents Delivered
For terms and other particulars address
The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

A Tension Indicator
IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.
It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.
Its use means time saving and easier sewing.
It's our own invention and is found only on the
WHITE
Sewing Machine.
We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.
WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.
Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.
Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.
TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture
teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.
A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.
ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away
DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.
Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.
NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state
f the tension at a glance.
Its use means time saving
nd easier sewing.
It's our own invention
nd is found only on the

WHITE
ewing Machine.

We have other striking mprovements that appeal to he careful buyer. Send for ur elegant H. T. catalog.

HITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

ver one Million Dollars
wed our clients during the last years.
ver one Thousand ims allowed through us dur-
the last six months. Dis-ility, Age and Inease pensions obtained
he shortest possible time.
dows' claims a specialty.
ally granted within 90
ys if placed with us immedion soldier's death. Fees by law and payable out of wed pension. A successful rience of 25 years and benefit aily calls at Pension Bureau t your service. Highest ref-ces furnished. Local Magis-tes pecuniarily
nefited by sending us
ms.

ABER & WHITMAN CO.,
rder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

anings in Bee Culture

s you about bees, how to handle them for and profit. Send for free copy. Read it, you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's
c. Don't delay but do it to-day.
I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

ason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

oster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

XCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the estern Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
stern Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
for Catalog.

APHERS
nd Scales Away

nd scales cause you trouble?
pers, put up READY TO USE.
veloping tray and add the water—
Large quantities of developer ith our developers you only make ufficient for 24 ounces of develpapers, or 60 ounces of Plate and ot stain the fingers or nails, and or gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

THE LEGEND OF TAHOE

From Sunset Magazine

By NONETTE V. MCGLASHAN

Drawings by Xavier Martinez

The old Indian woman glanced [illegible] at the distant sky line, and [illegible] centered her gaze upon the deep [illegible] waters of the lake. The Ong? [illegible] said. I will tell you of the Ong. [illegible] Ong was a huge bird, greater [illegible] the houses of the white men. Its [illegible] was like the eagle's, and its [illegible] were longer than the tallest [illegible]. Its face was that of an Indian, but covered with hard scales, [illegible] its feet were webbed. Its nest [illegible] deep down in the bottom of the [illegible] out in the center, and out of the [illegible] rushed all of the waters which [illegible] the lake. There are no rivers to [illegible] the lake, only the waters from [illegible] Ong's nest. All the waters flow [illegible] near the bottom, in great under[illegible], and after passing through the [illegible] of the nest are sent forth [illegible]. Every plant and bird and animal that gets into these under-cur[illegible], and sometimes even the great [illegible] are swept into the meshes of [illegible] nest and are there held fast to fur[illegible] food for the Ong.

He ate everything, he liked everything, but best of all he liked the taste of human flesh. No one ever heard or saw anything of such poor mortals as were drowned in these waters, for their bodies were carried to the Ong's nest and no morsel ever escaped him. Sometimes he would fly about the shores in quest of some child, or woman or hunter, yet he was a great coward, and was never known to attack anyone in camp, or when two or more were together. No arrow could pierce his feathers, nor could the strongest spear do more than glance from the scales on his face and legs, yet his craven's heart made him afraid, for his toes had no claws, and his mouth no beak.

Late one fall the Washoe Indians were making their final hunt before going to the valleys and leaving the lake locked in its winter snows. The Chief's daughter was sixteen years old, and before leaving the lake he must select the greatest hero in the tribe for her husband, for such had been the custom of Washoe chiefs ever since the tribe came out of the Northland. Fairer than ever Indian maiden had been was this daughter, and every unmarried brave and warrior in the tribe wished that he had performed deeds of greater prowess, that he might be certain of winning the prize. That last night at the lake, around the big council fire, each was to smoke the pipe and recount to the Chief the noblest achievement of his life, and when all were heard, the Chief would choose, and the women join the circle and the wedding take place. For many years the warriors had looked forward to this event and the tribe had become famed because of acts of reckless daring performed by those who hoped to wed the Chief's lovely daughter.

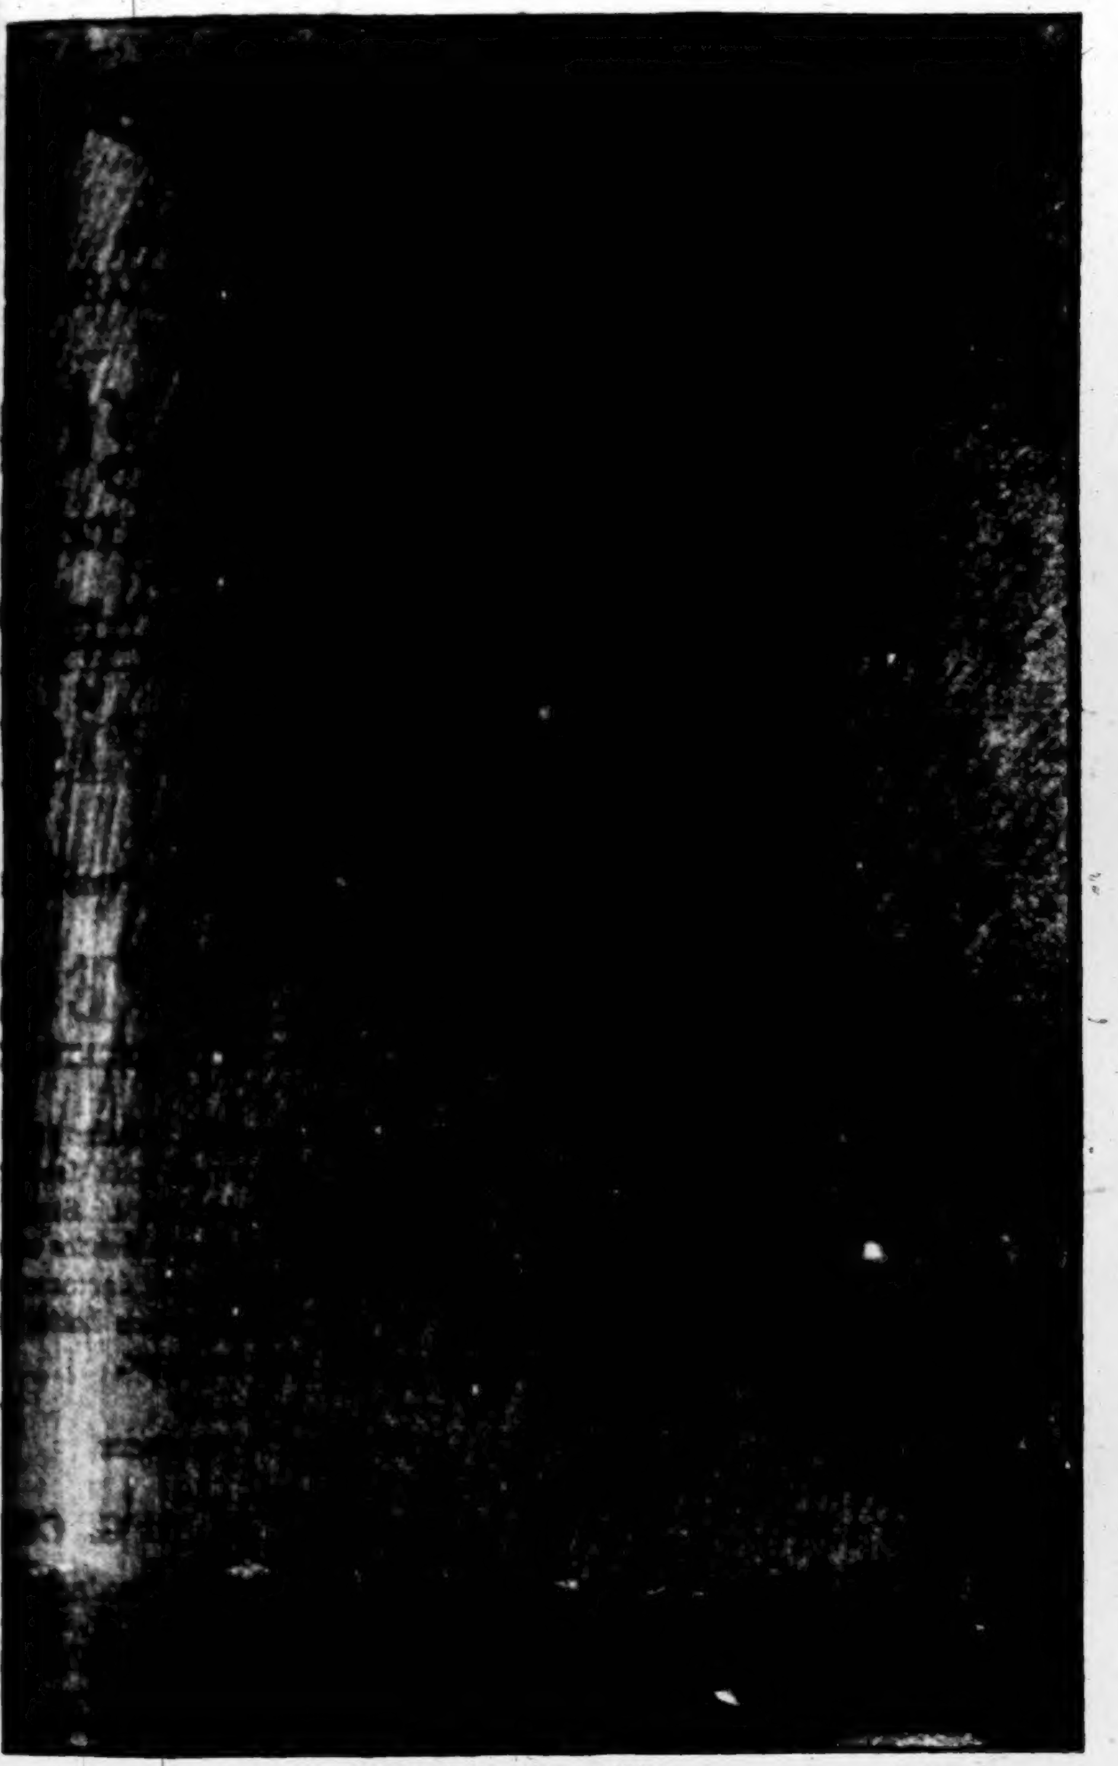
It was the morning of the final day, and much game and great stores of dried trout were packed ready for the journey. All were preparing for the wedding festivities, and the fact that no one knew who would be the bridegroom among all that mighty band of warriors lent intensest excitement to the event. All were joyous and happy, except the maiden and the handsome young brave to whom she had given her heart. In spite of custom or tradition, her love had long since gone out to one whose feet had been too young to press the war path when the tribe gave battle to their hereditary foes, the Piutes. He never had done deed of valor, nor could he then claim the right to sit with the warriors around the council fire. All day long he had been sitting alone on the jutting cliffs which overhang the water, far away from the laughter and shouts of the camp, eagerly, prayerfully watching the great lake. Surely the Great Spirit would hear his prayer and give him the moment he longed for, yet he had been here for days and weeks in unavailing prayer and waiting.

The afternoon was well-nigh spent, and the heart of the young brave had grown cold as stone. In his bitter despair he sprang to his feet to defy and curse the Great Spirit to whom he had trusted, but ere he could utter the words his very soul stood still for joy. Slowly rising from the center of the lake, he saw the dreaded Ong. Circling high in the heavens like a vast shapeless thunder-cloud, black as the night the monster swept, now here, now there in search of prey. The young brave stood erect. When the Ong was nearest, he waved his arm to attract its notice. He had not long to wait. With a mighty swoop and an awful rushing noise the bird dashed to earth, and as it swept upward, the young brave was seen by all to be clasped fast in its talons. A great cry of horror arose from the camp, but it was the sweetest note the young brave had ever heard. The bird flew straight up into the sky until it became a mere speck to the enthralled beholders below. When it reached a great height it would drop its prey into the lake and let the current draw it to the nest. Such was its custom, and for this the young Indian had prepared by unwinding from his waist a long buckskin cord, and tying himself firmly to the Ong's legs. The clumsy feet could not grasp him so tightly as to prevent his movements. At last the great toes opened wide, but the Indian did not fall. Again they closed and opened, and the enraged bird thrust down his head to see why his victim refused to fall. In a mighty rage the Ong tried to grasp the man in its mouth, but the strong web between the set bird's toes sheltered him. Again and again the bird tried to use his horrid teeth, and each time his huge body would fall through the air in such twistings and contortions that those who watched below stared in bewilderment. But what the watchers could not see was that every time the huge mouth opened to snap at him, he young brave hurled a handful of poisoned arrow heads into the mouth, and down the big throat, their sharp points cutting deep into the unprotected flesh. The bird tried to dislodge him by rubbing his feet together, but the thong held firm. Now it plunged headlong into the lake, but its feet were tied so that it could not swim, and though it lashed the waters into foam with its great wings and though the man was nearly drowned and exhausted, the poison caused the great bird such agony that it suddenly arose and tried to escape by flying toward the center of the lake. The contest had lasted long, and the darkness crept over the lake, and into the darkness the Ong vanished.

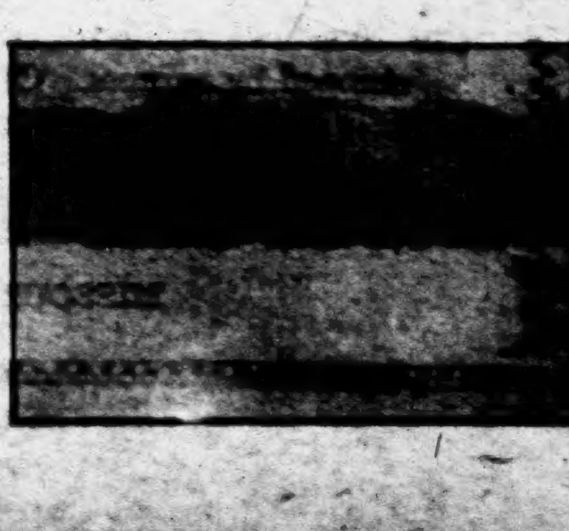
The women had been long in their huts ere the council fire was kindled, and the warriors gravely seated themselves in its circle. The loss of a young brave could not be allowed to interfere with so important an event as the marriage choice, and from most of their minds he had vanished. It was not so very unusual for the Ong to claim a victim, and besides, the youth had been many times warned by his elders that he should not go hunting alone as had been his habit of late.

But while the warriors were working themselves up to a frenzy of eloquence over their bygone deeds of daring, an Indian maiden was paddling a canoe swiftly and silently toward the middle of the lake. Nona, the Chief's daughter, understood no more than the rest why her lover had not been dropped into the lake, nor why the Ong had acted so queerly, but she knew that she could die with her lover. She took her own frail canoe because it was so light and easy to paddle, though it was made for her when a girl, and would scarcely support her weight now. It mattered nothing to her if the water splashed over the sides; it mattered nothing how she reached her lover. She kept saying his name over softly to herself. "Tahoe! My own Tahoe!"

When the council had finished, the old women went to the Chief's hut to bid his daughter come and hear the decision her father was about to render. Their consternation was great, nor did the tribe rest until the rosy dawn tinged the Washoe peaks and disclosed to the warriors the vast body of the Ong floating on the waters above its nest, and beside it a tiny, empty canoe. But gently approaching the shore was the strangest craft that ever floated on water. It was one of the Ong's great wings, and the sail was the tip of the other wing! Standing upon it clasped in each others arms, was the young brave Tahoe and the daughter of the chief. In the shouts of the tribe, shouts in which warriors and women and children mingled their voices with that of the great Chief. Tahoe knew that he was the hero, and that Nona was his bride. The decision was rendered, but the Ong's nest still remains, and to this day the drowned never rise in Lake Tahoe.



THE GREAT ONG.



SIX HUNDRED DOLLAR BILLS.

How An Innocent Man was Suspected.

A little story was told at the New Willard Hotel in Washington the other day by a New Yorker who was traveling on a Pullman car between St. Louis and his home, which goes to show the danger of convicting a man on circumstantial evidence. The principal figure in this incident was not convicted, but had it not been for a fortuitous circumstance it might have gone hard with him.

"It seems that one of the occupants of the car on getting out of his berth to dress missed his vest, which was a rather serious affair, inasmuch as it contained in an inside pocket a roll of money which consisted of six brand-new $100 bills.

"A little later he picked up the garment on the floor, but on searching, the roll of money was gone. It was a clear case of robbery, and the man naturally raised an excited outcry, which drew the attention of all his fellow-travelers. Early in the game the proposition to search everybody in that coach was made and adopted with but a single dissenting voice. One man stood out fiercely and indignantly against it, and said that he would never consent to such an indignity, but would oppose it with all the force he could employ.

"This man was at once an object of suspicion, and many whispers directed at him went around. Every other individual aboard voluntarily submitted to being searched, yet nothing was seen of the stolen bills. At this point some amateur Sherlock Holmes cornered the porter, and by adroit questions and threats made that rascally employe own up to the theft, and also made him disgorge $600 in handsome notes that appeared to be right from the Printing Bureau. The owner of the money was overjoyed and all hands congratulated him on recovering his money.

"About this time the obdurate gentleman who had resolutely declined to be searched secured the floor. 'Now, my friends,' said he, 'I will tell you why I risked your suspecting me of the theft,' and what did this man do but go down in his hip pocket and fetch up a roll of money that he counted out in our presence, and, as sure as I am a living man, in this roll there were just six—no more and no less—brand-new bills, each of $100 denomination. Positively there was no way of telling them from the bills that had been recovered. Then we all knew why he had declined to be investigated."

Brief Thanks to the Ladies.

Jonesboro (Ark.) Evening Sun:

The members of the Citizen's Band ask the ladies who gave the supper for the benefit of the band on Wednesday night, August 9, to please accept their sincere thanks. It is the wish of every member that when these good ladies have done all the good deeds here that God would have them do, that they be gathered home to join the heavenly band, where all be joy, happiness, and good music, which all who live as these good ladies have lived shall enjoy, and may the influence of these good ladies ever guide the members of the Citizens' Band to a higher stand of morality and fame, and may we never cease striving until we have reached the topmost round of the ladder of fame, when God, in His wisdom, shall call us home, and when we have played our last tune here on earth, may we be gathered with these good ladies around God's throne, where we can play on God's instruments of gold, where our music will be sweeter, through the ceaseless ages of eternity.

CHICKAMAUGA ANNIVERSARY.

One of the Great Battles of the Rebellion—Tragic Death of Poet-Soldier General Lytle.

Forty-two years ago the latter part of September was fought and won by Rosecrans the great battle of Chickamagua.

Chattanooga, the objective point of the campaign, has been well considered the very gateway of the entire South. Bragg, in command of the Confederate force, was outwitted and outmaneuvred, and the town of Chattanooga fell into Federal hands, entirely by strategy.

Chattanooga was then but a poor, struggling village, never having been even heard of by one in a thousand of those who composed the Northern army. It is now a wealthy, prosperous city of over 60,000 inhabitants and the home of many Northern families. An electric line runs from the city to Chickamagua Park every 30 minutes.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle, from the 19th to the 23d of September, where the tales of the campfire and the picket line were once more recounted, has been of surprising interest to thousands of old veterans and their quondam foes.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL WM. H. LYTLE.

The battle of Chickamagua, which followed Chattanooga, was most desperately contested on both sides.

Bragg was reinforced by a veteran corps from Virginia, under Longstreet, and Buckner's Corps from East Tennessee, until his forces outnumbered Rosecrans' by over 12,000, and yet the Northern army, by wise and vigorous marching day and night over mountains and through passes, and by the concentration of widely scattered forces, inflicted such terrible losses that Bragg was incapable of any but the most cautious following when Rosecrans fell back to occupy Chattanooga, for which he had been contending.

Among the many brave officers on both sides who gave up their lives for their beloved causes there was none braver, none more mourned than the Union Brigadier-General, Wm. H. Lytle. About to give the order to charge, he was struck in the head by a bullet and fell dying in the arms of his aid.

His poem of "Anthony and Cleopatra," generally believed to have been composed the night before the battle, but which, as a matter of fact, was an earlier production, has been classed as one of the most masterly lyrics in American poetry.

I Am Dying Egypt, Dying.

I am dying Egypt, dying,
Ebbs the crimson life-tide fast,
And the dark, Plutonian shadows
Gather on the evening blast.
Let thine arm, oh! Queen, support me.
Hush thy sobs and bow thine ear,
Hearken to the great heart secrets,
Thou, and thou alone, must hear.

Though my scarred and veteran legions
Bear their eagles high no more,
And my wrecked and shattered galleys
Strew dark Actium's fatal shore;
Though no glittering guards surround me,
Prompt to do their master's will,
I must perish like a Roman—
Die, the great Triumvir still.

Let not Caesar's servile minions
Mock the lion thus laid low;
'Twas no foeman's hand that slew him,
'Twas his own that struck the blow.
Here, then, pillowed on thy bosom,
Ere his star fades quite away,
Him who, drunk with thy caresses,
Madly flung a world away!

Should the base plebeian rabble
Dare assail my fame at Rome,
Where the noble spouse, Octavia,
Weeps within her widowed home;
Seek her—say the Gods have told me,
Altars, Augurs, circling wings,
That her blood with mine commingled,
Yet shall mount the throne of kings.

And for thee, star-eyed Egyptian!
Glorious sorceress of the Nile,
Light the path to stygian honors
With the splendors of thy smile.
Give the Caesar crowns and arches,
Let his brow the laurel twine;
I can scorn the Senate's triumphs,
Triumphing in love like thine.

I am dying Egypt, dying!
Hark! insulting foeman's cry;
They are coming—quick, my falchion!
Let me front them ere I die.
Ah! no more amid the battle
Shall my heart exulting swell;
Isis and Osiris guard thee,
Cleopatra! Rome! farewell!

Nursery Nonsense.

Two magpies sat on a garden rail
As long ago as a week;
And one little magpie wagged his tail
In the other little magpie's beak.
Then doubling like a fist his little claw hard
Said the other "Upon my word,
This is more than flesh and blood can stand
From magpie or other bird."
So they picked and they scratched each other's eyes
Till all that was left on the rail
Was the beak of one of the little magpies
And the other little magpie's tail.

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off
Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE

in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave.
You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

No1 (Bicycles) No2 (The Racycle)

Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905
THE CAR THAT GOES
Highest Workmanship. Lowest Prices.

Cars for Immediate Delivery.
Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.

I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

Basket-Willow Growing

INDUSTRY BEING FOSTERED BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

BY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

Secretary Wilson's statement that there are no bad acres in the United States is again brought to light through the efforts of the Department of Agriculture to induce more general attention to the culture of the basket willow. There are very many farms in this country which contain some low land, and through which runs a small stream. This portion of the farm is too often allowed to run to waste, dense growths of weeds and scrub prospering in the rich, moist soil, and the locality rarely visited by the farmer except when in search of some stray cattle which have come down to the brook for a drink.

Although introduced in this country as early as 1840, willow growing in America occurs only in restricted localities throughout a relatively small portion of the country. On account of the isolation of these groups of growers with little or no connection, and because the growers are not in touch with basket makers, there has been little chance for improvement.

American Baskets Made in Richmond, Virginia.

Peeling Green Willow for Basket Work.

While this is not true of the conditions in western New York, the trade there demands only the cheapest grade of the steamed willow. But steam-peeled rods have a dark color, and hence cannot be used for fine baskets.

Willows Grow on Corn Land.

The general idea is that willows will grow only on very swampy ground, but experience shows that all serious attempts made on well-drained soil, even though of poor quality, have been successful. The ground is prepared just the same as it would be for corn or wheat. Willow planting generally is done in the autumn; should be in rows, the sets or cuttings, according to older methods being placed about ten inches in length and planted in the ground until about only an inch and a half protrudes above the ground. Almost without exception through the country willows are planted from 9 inches to a foot apart in rows 2½ feet to a yard distant from one another, thus allowing from about 14,000 to 23,000 to the acre. This method of wide planting is followed for several reasons, it of course being cheaper to plant fewer cuttings, and the cost of cultivation being reduced, the wide rows allowing for the use of a plow. It is also understood and held by the higher authorities that the more shoots from a stool or stump, the greater the yield. Where the cuttings have been planted on meadow or corn land, the first year the rows are hoed two or three times, and later run through with a light plow. In later years only the plow is used. On bottomland, however, they are only cultivated once, and therefore only grassed with a sickle.

A WILLOW SWAMP.

To Produce Straight Rods.

The Department of Agriculture has found that though there may be objection to close planting on account of increased cost and greater amount of cultivation necessary, both a heavier yield and longer, more even-sized and better rods are obtained—straighter, less branchy, and less tapering. While a yield of four tons of green rods per acre may be obtained in twelve years where the holts are planted in rows three feet apart, with a distance of one foot between holts, over six tons are obtained from an acre planted 29x9 inches, in only ten years. The Department also advises that the cuttings should be not less than twelve inches in length, and planted with the buds pointing upward, and that when placed in the ground each cutting should be perfectly perpendicular. When willows are planted close together all weeds and grass, the foes of the willow, should be kept out.

Osiers should be cut the first year, even if no valuable material can be obtained, for if this is delayed until the second year, there is apt to be a tendency to branch, so that less valuable material can be cut. This cutting should be done during the winter, from November 1 to March 1, and as near the ground as possible. The bundles of these cuttings should then be kept in running water until small leaves or sprouts appear, when they will be ready to peel.

Pretty White Willows.

Willows thus peeled are of a fine white color, while those which undergo steaming or boiling for the removal of the bark are of a dark color, being stained by coloring matter contained in the bark; but experience has shown that the articles made of boiled willow are much more durable than those made from the white rods of spring peeling. The operation is so simple that old persons incapable of arduous labor can make fair wages doing this sort of work.

And yet, the farmer may ask, is there a market for willow ware in this country? The United States consumes the largest amount of willow ware of any country in the world. From one district in Germany alone, as far back as 1893, in spite of the panic existing at that time, $230,000 worth of fine willow ware was imported. Since that date, however, the value of willow imports has decreased, due, probably, to the increase of willow growing in this country.

The manufacture of willow is what might be termed a "house industry," in which the men, women and children are engaged in peeling and splitting the rods and weaving the baskets under contract.

◆

Big Crops This Year.

Secretary Wilson has returned to Washington from a tour of the Northwest, where he was shown some great crop yields. He expresses it as his belief that the farmers have more money now than ever was theirs before, and that with such full treasure chests there is no danger of an industrial panic. The year's crop of wheat, corn and oats will be larger, according to Mr. Wilson's experienced judgment, than were the big crops of last year. He says that the area capable of raising durum or macaroni wheat is now pushing well into the desert region. The yield of this wheat alone this year, it is believed, will exceed 20,000,000 bushels, a wheat, by the way, which grows where other wheat will not grow and which six years ago was an unknown thing among American growers.

Mr Wilson gives us the pleasing information that housekeepers will find the prices of meat, dairy products and poultry lower this winter than they have been for some time, owing to the heavy grain crops. Fattening cattle on corn at 50 cents a bushel, he said, is not a profitable performance, and that is what the farmer has been doing for the past three years; but with this year's grain crops, the farmer should find at the end of the season that his margin of profit is greater, and in the due course of events, meats should be cheaper.

MAKING WILLOW HAMPER.

◆

To Make Old-Fashioned Yeast.

Boil two ounces of the best hops in four quarts of water for half an hour: strain and let the liquor cool down to the warmth of new milk, then put in a small handful of salt and half a pound of sugar, beat up one pound of the best flour with some of the liquor and then mix well all together. Let this mixture stand until the third day, then add three pounds of potatoes, boiled and mashed, let it stand a day longer, stirring frequently and keeping it near the fire in an earthen vessel, then strain and put in bottles and it is ready for use. The advantage of this yeast is that it ferments spontaneously not requiring the aid of other yeast. If well cooked and kept in a cool place, it will keep six months or more. It has been thoroughly tested and never fails to make delicious light bread.

Chemist Wiley on Pure Food.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, has just returned from a tour of the British Isles, France and Germany, where he has been studying the preparation of food products—packing, shipping, and human consumption of foods. Dr. Wiley is a pure food man. He believes that we should all have pure food, or at least know what it is adulterated with, and he is one of the most active advocates in the country of national pure food legislation.

"The question of pure food," he said, "is one that should be better understood, and more actively engaged in by people generally. We have secured legislation enabling us to prevent the importation of impure and harmful foods, but the people are apparently careless in regard to domestic manufacture. There is one feature of the pure food investigation which appeals to me beyond all others—the effect of impure foods on invalids. People who are under the care of a physician, and are compelled to eat prepared foods should know at least what they are getting. If the foods which they buy as 'pure,' are found upon analysis to contain ingredients which have proven harmful to them, they should have some recourse at law to punish the maker of this fraudulent food. A simple instance is sufficient to illustrate the point. There is at this time a great demand for gluten flours. They are recommended for certain diseases, and there are various preparations on the market which are sold at high prices. Many of the so-called gluten flours contain but a small percentage of pure gluten; they are 'filled' with chalk and starchy substances, and are not at all what is claimed for them. This is one example; a hundred others could be named."

WILLOW IN THE PIT, SPROUTED, READY FOR PEELING.

◆

GIANT KANSAS CORN.

Exciting Experiences of Boy Lost in Field of Growing Grain.

A report which seems to have come from the Portland Exposition states that a great object of curiosity there is a corn stalk of mammoth size reaching almost up to the very roof of the agricultural building. The history of the stalk is perhaps as marvelous as the object itself.

It appears that prior to the last hot wave which swept over the country, a farmer in Kansas sent his fifteen-year-old son out to take a look over the corn field and notify him of the prospects. In order to do this the son went to the implement shed which this wise farmer had provided and procured a ladder with which he climbed one of the cornstalks. After surveying a fine growth of corn for miles around, the boy started to climb down, but in his excitement at the prospects of the golden harvest which his father would reap, he had failed to notice the rapidity of the growth of the stalk which he had ascended. As quickly as he stepped down, so much more rapidly the stalk seemed to grow, and he was no nearer the bottom than when he started.

PEELED WILLOWS.

His father, noting the absence of his son, saw that it would be useless for him to hunt through the jungle of waving corn, so he climbed to the top of his windmill and his anxious eyes beheld his boy waving his red bandana in despair. Hastily summoning his neighbor and his other two sturdy sons, they proceeded with axes to chop down the wicked stalk. Their axes, however, failed to find the same mark twice, so rapidly did the stalk shoot upward. Night came on without their accomplishing anything and the boy was left to what appeared to be a terrible fate. Like most Kansas boys, however, he was awake to all his opportunities, and existed for a long time on the raw corn, having consumed so much that he later notified his parents by means of a message written on one of the dried corn leaves that he was getting so fat there was danger of the stalk breaking with his weight. He wrote that he believed a more balanced ration would relieve his fears, suggesting the planting of beans at the base of the cornstalk as an expedient.

However, before the beans could secure enough growth, the drought came on and stopped the growth of the stalk and the boy was enabled to climb down, thus saving his life. As mementos of the occasion, the lad gathered up the corn cobs which he had thrown down from his lofty seat, amounting to something over four bushels and a peck, and on these he has been working, turning them into corn-cob pipes which he is exhibiting at the Truth Bureau of the Portland Exposition.

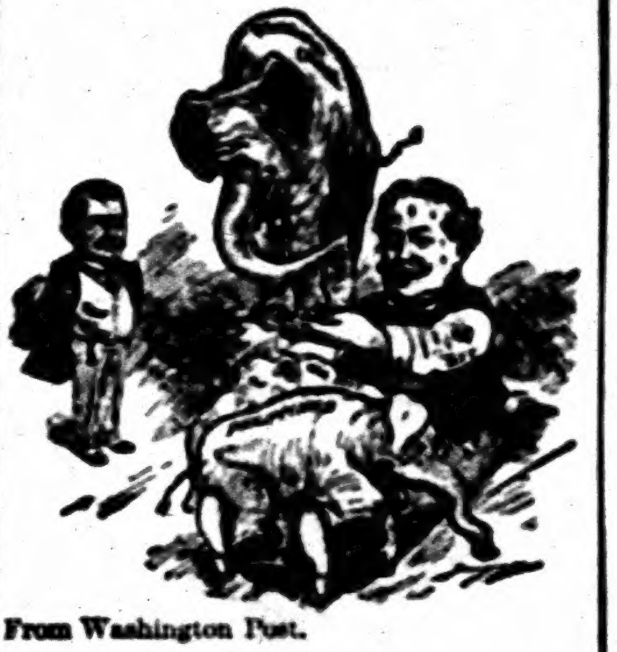
◆

Prior to 1789 the Speaker of the House of Commons was paid a salary of 5 pounds a day and a fee of 5 pounds on every private bill passed.

CONTROL OF CANAL MATTERS.

Transfer to the State Department Under Secretary Root.

It seems to be generally accepted that the control of all matters in connection with the construction of the Panama canal is to be transferred from the War Department to the State Department. Under the law the work is to be performed under the direction of the President, and he originally intrusted it to Secretary Taft on the general ground that all national engineering works were properly the business of the War Department. It is now realized that Secretary Taft has a great deal more than his proportionate share of the government work and responsibility, and it is with a view of relieving him of a portion of his official burdens that the President suggested the advisability of the transfer of the Panama Canal work to the State Department.



From Washington Post.

Secretary Root's acceptance of the trust would enable Secretary Taft to devote more of his time to the consideration of important questions affecting the government of the Philippines and the business of the army generally. It is known that Secretary Taft has no personal ambitions in connection with the Panama canal work, and is entirely willing, as a matter of general expediency, that its supervision should be transferred to Secretary Root as the head of the State Department.

Secretary Root, however, with all his ability for hard work, is understood to have no hankering after the canal job.

◆

THE FLOOD OF NOAH.

Geology Proves the Foundation of the Biblical Account.

There are Biblical doubters who scoff at the idea that there ever was a great flood, yet the testimony of the geologists, to say nothing of Ignatius Donnelly's theory of the submerged continent of Atlantas, proves that at one time the entire earth's surface was covered with water. Professor Wright of Oberlin, who has made geology a life study, brings us new light upon the subject. In writing on the subject of the "Contributions of Geology to the Creditability of the Flood" he states that the level of the land changes constantly. The highest mountains were once below the sea-level, as is proven by the finding of sea-shells on the summits of the highest peaks. All of Central Asia was once covered by water and is now drying up. In fact the drying out process has been going on for thousands of years. The Turkestan and Siberian low-lands were once submerged, while evidence is shown that the Desert of Gobi was once a body of water equal to the Mediterranean in size and depth.

The valley of the Jordan in ages back was covered with water to a depth of from 1,000 to 1,400 feet, while changes of level and climate in Asia seem to prove that the Deluge once passed over the entire country.

◆

Uncle Sam's "Conscience Fund."

The conscience fund of the Treasury is not, as is popularly supposed, an idle fund which is added to from time to time, lies dormant, and is never used. Contributions to this so-called fund are turned into the regular government receipts and on the books appear under the heading "To Account Conscience." This account was opened by the United States government in 1811. It would not be fair to infer from this fact that the American conscience had its awakening at so late a date in the country's history, but that year witnessed the first return to the government, as the result of the "still, small voice," of money of which it had been defrauded some time before.

President Madison found on his desk one morning an unsigned letter in which the writer confessed to defrauding the government of $2, for which his conscience had made him suffer sorely. This amount was enclosed with the request that it be turned into the National Treasury, the writer expressing the hope that this full restitution and repentance would restore a clear and easy conscience. Contributions have since been received varying in amounts from a 2-cent postage stamp to ten thousand dollars or more.

Up to date the amount received from those who have defrauded the government and become conscience-stricken is over $400,000.

◆

A Very Accurate Description.

Hon. George S. Legare, a member of Congress from South Carolina and a graduate of a Washington law school, has a sense of humor and enjoys a good joke even at the expense of the members of his profession. He does not uphold the "smart" lawyer and tells of a case in his native city of Charleston where a pettifogging attorney was cross-examining an old negro witness.

After asking the old darkey a number of catch questions in an endeavor to confuse him, he finally asked the witness his occupation.

"I'se a cahpentah, sah."

"What kind of a carpenter?"

"Dey calls me a jack-leg cahpentah."

"What is a 'jack-leg' carpenter?"

"He's a cahpentah what ain't a fust-class cahpentah, sah!"

"Well, explain fully what you understand a 'jack-leg' carpenter to be," insisted the lawyer.

"Boss, 'deed Ah claih to goodness Ah dunno how ter 'splain any mo' 'bout a jack-leg cahpentah 'ceptin' hit am jes' de same diffunce as dey is betwix' you an' a fust-class lawyuh, sah!"

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY

Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's

AMERICAN CROWN

SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company

CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empty shells away from him instead of into his face, [illegible] and [illegible] eyes and [illegible] and keeps the line of sight [illegible]. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. [illegible]-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to [illegible] tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to obtain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF

FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.

MISSOULA, MONTANA.

WN ITEMS

Monday in November

COTTON MART

T Callen went ... o
last week for the purp...
"Mrs. Wiggs of the ...
ch," and says she has ne...
talent better exemplified made an excellent Mrs.

L. Williams presented ... two largest and finest ... ever seen. Large and ...
make your mouth water ...
them.

Bandurant, who has been Mrs. E. A. Matthews, re... her home in Talladega
...y.

S. and Mrs. Johnson Birmingham Wednesday to the wedding of Mr. John C.
and Miss Glennie McMor...

Eckford will preach in Sunday night.

old soda water always on tap at Upchurch's store.

Mrs J A Skaggs of Jem... visitors here Saturday

Ludie and Cora Malone of visited Clanton wednes...

Minnie Mitchell of Stanton
visitor here Tuesday

French Evans visited Birm...
Sunday

Alice Strock of Verbena is relatives here this week

Lena Williams of Mulberry visitor here Tuesday

Felix Woodyard and Miss went to Birmingham Tue... tend the Fair

...t. 16th, Duke Bros. lost their place at Clanton by fire.
insured in the Phenix In...
Co. of Brooklyn, and the State Ins. Co. of Richmond.
Monday C. R. Mullins,
the Phenix, paid Duke pro rata amount due them company.

...w the fire out of a burn, without leaving a scar or boils, sores, tetter, eczema skin and scalp diseases, use Witch Hazel Salve. A for piles. Get the genuine.
Upchurch Drug co.

Mrs Bowen Jones of were visitors here Tuesday

...rong of visitors to the
...'s reception, who pur...
hats from Miss Minnie Muse
...y to the fact that she is hats at reasonable prices to call when you come to and add your testimony

...e lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

...iginal Laxative Cough Sy...
Kennedy's Laxative Honey
It expells all cold from by acting as a cathartic on
It relieves the fever...
of the throat, draws out inflammation, cures the cough strengthens the mucous mem...
the lungs and bronchial
Kennedy's Laxative Honey
a certain, safe, prompt cure for colds, croup whooping cough. Sold by Up...
Drug co.

...ge licenses have been issued by the Probate Judge to
...ing persons.

...r Jones and Miss Lula Davis
Champion and Miss Mary
Henry Miner and Miss R...
Mr. Buery Ellisor and Miss
Mr. Walter Champion and Jane Gay.

H. V. Simors and Miss
Archie Favars and Amanda
Willie Campbell and Esther

...L THE COUGH
...URE THE LUNGS
Dr. King's
...w Discovery
...ONSUMPTION
...OUGHS and
...OLDS
Price
50c & $1.00
Free Trial.
...and Quickest Cure for all
...T and LUNG TROUB...
MONEY BACK.

Vin...

Vin... disagree...
of cod li...
By our p...
food, is ...
away.
Vinol is ...
ach, and ...
creator f...
and wor...
Everyt...
OUR GU...
take it we...
your mon...

S...

E.

Wa...
500 ...
Also Wo...
Ge...
Corner Seve...

Fa...
Do not ...
irons, Longs...
Heating St...
Have ...
when you ar...
we can furn...
Would ...
and Table C...
you both in ...
And if ...
and only pl...
Hardware S...
just as nice ...
Wish t...
keep a full ...
Cups, Guage...
ing, a good ...
We hav...
Drug Co., k...
our well kno...
Paints, Var...
Brushes, Tu...
For any...
Doors and B...
We hav...
than now, p...

HA...

ONS APPROAC

nder all Conditions to

Old Hickory

TURED BY

Ianufacturing Co.

LE, KY.

M WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service

proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the

Remington
TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDIC
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 1 ns a day. Has 40 inch feed hole lapted to bank barn work. Stands its work—no digging holes for wheels elf-feed Attachment increases ity, lessens labor, makes better d does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
24 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

gle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to the description of exactly what you ydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

a Nursery

imated trees and the best rthern States.

Standard Fruit

Plums, Cherries and Trees t Plants, Shrubs, ses.

STRAWBERRY

Y OF
S AND SHRUBS

Also Vegetable Plants e and Price List Free. mpt attention.

RSERY CO.
NTANA.

ITEMS

[illegible] first Monday in [illegible] in [illegible] second Monday in [illegible] Monday in November.

COTTON MART

....10c
last year 9¾ @ 9¾

	1905	1904
C.	811	1932
....	1060	1124
Bro	292
....	522	414
....	118	..
....		310
....	2803	3780

figures are obtained from cotton buyers Wednesday o'clock

T. Callen went over to week for the purpose Mrs. Wiggs of the Cab and says she has never better exemplified made an excellent Mrs.

Williams presented us largest and finest pairs seen. Large and lus your mouth water to Durant, who has been E. A. Matthews, re her home in Talledega

S. and Mrs. Johnson mingham Wednesday to wedding of Mr. John C. Miss Glennie McMor-ckford will preach in Sunday night.

soda water always tap at Upchurch's

Mrs J A Skaggs of Jem- visitors here Saturday

adie and Cora Malone of visited Clanton wednesnnie Mitchell of Stanton here Tuesday

ch Evans visited Birm- nday ke Strock of Verbena is latives here this week

Williams of Mulberry here Tuesday

Woodyard and Miss to Birmingham Tues- d the Fair

16th, Duke Bros. lost place at Clanton by fire, red in the Phenix In- Co. of Brooklyn, and the te Ins. Co. of Richmond, Monday C. R. Mullins, the Phenix, paid Duke pro rata amount due them pany.

the fire out of a burn, without leaving a scar, or sores, tetter, eczema and scalp diseases, use Witch Hazel Salve. A piles. Get the genuine. church Drug co.

Mrs Bowen Jones of were visitors here Tuesday ng of visitors to the reception, who pur- from Miss Minnie Muse to the fact that she is at reasonable prices to call when you come to add your testimony lot of stationery ived at Upchurch's e.

ginal Laxative Cough Sy- nnedy's Laxative Honey It expells all cold from by acting as a catharic on It relieves the feverish of the throat, draws out mation, cures the cough thens the mucous mem- the lungs and bronchial nnedy's Laxative Honey a certain, safe, prompt cure for colds, croup ng cough. Sold by Up- Co.

licenses have been issued by the Probate Judge to persons.

Jones and Miss Lula Davis; Champion and Miss Mary Henry Miner and Miss Ro- Mr. Buery Ellison and Miss Mr. Walter Champion and Gay.

H. V. Simors and Milgia Favars and Amanda Campbell and Eather

L THE COUGH
RE THE LUNGS

Dr. King's Discovery

CONSUMPTION
COUGHS and COLDS

Price
50c & $1.00
Free Trial.

Quickest Cure for all and LUNG TROUB- MONEY BACK.

Vinol THE COD LIVER PREPARATION WITHOUT OIL

Vinol is fast superseding old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions because, without a drop of oil or disagreeable feature, it contains all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers. By our process the oil, having no value either as a medicine or food, is separated from the medicinal elements and thrown away. Unlike old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, Vinol is deliciously palatable, agreeable to the weakest stomach, and therefore unequaled as a body builder and strength creator for old people, puny children, weak, run-down men and women, after sickness, and for all pulmonary diseases. Everything Vinol contains is named on the label.

OUR GUARANTEE—We have such faith in VINOL that if you will take it we promise if it does not benefit or cure you we will return you your money without question. We take all the risk.

UPCHURCH DRUG COMPANY,
Clanton, Ala

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.
Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

			1905
Kinceneon	Beat	6	Nov.	1
Enterprise	"	6	"	2
Pletcher	"	8	"	3
Cantonford. till 12 m.	"	8	"	4
Stanton	"	8	"	6
Valley Creek	"	8	"	7
Dixie	"	8	"	8
Shoults	"	7	"	9
Maplesville	"	7	"	10
Benson	"	3	"	11
Macedonia	"	3	"	13
Gentry & Cofer's Mill	"	2	"	14
Hayes' Mill	"	2	"	15
Providence	"	2	"	16
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12 m	"	2	"	17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 p m	"	1	"	17
Jemison	"	2	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11	"	22
Providence	"	10	"	23
Burwell	"	10	"	24
Thorsby	"	9	"	27
Clanton	"	4	"	28
Cooper	"	10	"	29
Verbena	"	5	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905,
S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

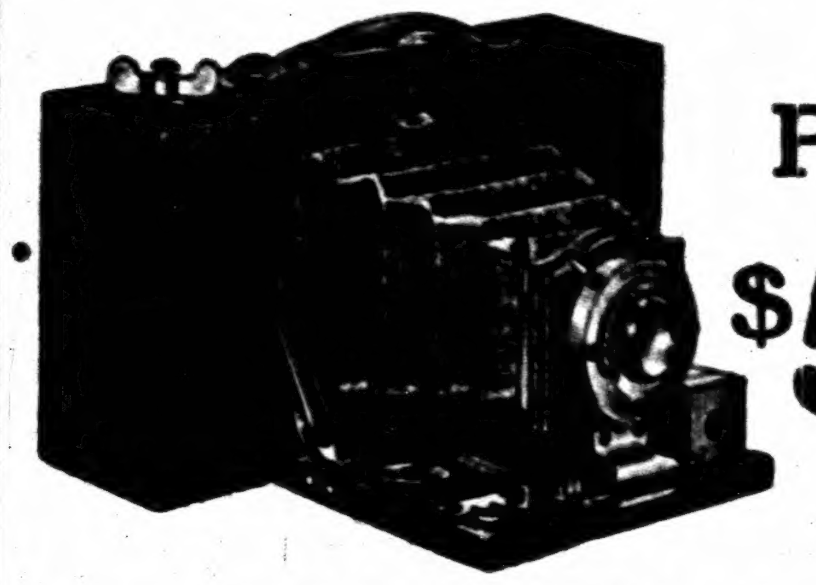
Administrator's Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court. Oct. 7, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 7th day of October, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said Estate, are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.

R. P. MILLS, Administrator.

No. 2 Folding
Brownie



Price,
$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

WATCHES FREE!

Birmingham's Biggest, Busiest and Best Store makes an astounding offer to all visitors to the city during Fair Week whose purchases Amount to Ten Dollars or more.

F R E E

It is positively the most sensational offering yet made by any store in Birmingham.

It enables you to obtain absolutely free for the asking a beautiful stem wind and stem set Watch that is fitted with a good, dependable movement which is guaranteed by the makers to give one year's service without any extra repairing.

You get the Watch absolutely gratis. There are no annoying details. No delays. You simply make your purchases, ask the salesperson for a Watch, and it will be handed over to you without any further trouble.

THE SAKS' STORE IS EXCELLENTLY READY TO OUTFIT YOU FROM HEAD TO FOOT.

Everything for the Man
Everything for the Women
Everything for the Child.

When in the city by all means visit the Men's Suit and Overcoat Sections, the Big Shoe Store, the Women's Suit and Cloak Sections, the Children's and Infants' Store, the Boys' Store and the Trunk and Leather Goods Department.

Visitors are extended every courtesy at the Saks' store. Check your parcels at the accomodation desk and call for them at your convenience. Use our telephones. If you are tired, come in and rest yourself, and incidentally feast your eyes on the most authoritative display of fashions ever gathered under one roof.

LOUIS SAKS, Clothier to the Whole Family,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

For Convention and the Conference is Expected to be a Big Success.

MANY WILL BE PRESENT.

Southern Immigration and Quarantine Conference Expected to Draw Five Hundred Delegates.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Practically all arrangements have been completed and the programme prepared for the Southern Immigration and Quarantine conference which will be held in this city on November 9 and 10. From a comparison of the list of delegates appointed, and the assurances of those who will be present, it was found that the attendance will be at least 500. Word has been received from all the governors that signed the call, and with one exception they have pledged themselves to be present.

The delegates also will include almost the entire southern senatorial and congressional membership.

The proposition for government control of quarantines has made it particularly important to the members of the national legislature to participate in the proceedings of the conference.

A number of commissioners of agriculture have likewise signified their intention of being present, while more than one hundred representatives of boards of health throughout the south will attend to listen to the address of Surgeon General Wyman on the origin and prevention of yellow fever.

Hon. F. P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, will be present as the personal representative of Secretary Metcalf, of the department of commerce and labor, to discuss the question of the operation of present immigration laws.

The official announcement was also made that both the Southeastern and the Southwestern Passenger associations had granted a rate of one fare for the round trip.

Immigration Agents to Come.

The immigration agents of practically all of the railroads in the south will be present so that the outlook is all that the committees could desire at this time as to the success of the conference.

A number of requests have been presented to the committee here for the privilege of sending representatives, but as these were outside those named in the call as being entitled to send delegates, it was beyond the province of the local committee to pass on them.

The programme committee has reported the following as the official programme, which will go out at once. The conference will be held in the Chattanooga auditorium, which will be handsomely decorated for the occasion. It has been further decided that one of the most appropriate souvenirs that could be presented to the guests and delegates would be the recently published album of views of the historical and scenic attractions of Chattanooga, and a special committee was appointed with instructions to procure a sufficient number of these from the publishers to distribute to the delegates of this conference.

Dr. Hall Injured by Trolley.

Mobile, Ala.—Dr. A. P. Hall, while waiting for a street car Sunday morning, accidentally fell just as the car rolled up to him. He was struck by the car and received serious injuries, several ribs being broken and a number of bruises sustained. He was removed to the Providence infirmary, and at last accounts was resting easily.

Launch Explodes.

St. Louis, Mo.—A gasoline launch containing four passengers, making its first trip on the Mississippi river, exploded this afternoon near Ivory Station, fourteen miles below the city, and two of the passengers are supposed to have been drowned, the other two being probably fatally burned.

Dies from Injuries.

Birmingham, Alabama. — Edward L. Stone, who was knocked down by a train of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in East Birmingham last Tuesday morning, died at St. Vincent's hospital shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday.

Noted Painter Dead.

Neuilly, France.—The Belgian genre painter, Florent Willems, died here. He was born at Lieg. in 1823. Some of his best known pictures are owned in the United States.

Fire in San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex.—Fire broke out in the basement of the four-story building occupied by the Newton, Weller, Wagner company, the big wholesale and retail crockery firm on Commerce street, and resulted in damage to the stock and building which will probably exceed $75,000. The stock is valued at $125,000, and the building at $150,000. Insurance is carried on the stock for $80,000 and on the building for $100,000.

SOUTH'S GREAT PROSPERITY.

Government Reports Show Flattering Advance Along All Lines.

Washington, October 16. — Recent government reports indicate a great wave of prosperity sweeping over the south, and it would seem that this prosperity in the fair land of Dixie is not confined to any particular section or industry. It is widespread. From every state south of the historic Potomac river comes the glad tidings of good times. This phenomenal prosperity abounds in store, workshop, mine, factory and in the construction and improvement of railways. Not one discordant note is heard on prosperity's lute in the land of cotton and magnolia blossoms. Farmers are blessed with bountiful crops, for which they are receiving magnificent prices. The cotton manufacturer finds himself put to a strong test to fill the orders for goods he has from both foreign and domestic buyers, and railways are busy constructing new lines to new industrial centers springing into being day by day.

But the greatest evidence of prosperity at the south is to be found in cotton milling and the manufacture of furniture. In the past fifteen years cotton mills and furniture factories have sprung into being all over the south, especially in the states of Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, and this good year 1905 finds them working overtime to meet the demands for their products. These cotton mills and furniture factories draw on the fields and forests of all the states of the south for their raw material. The railroads are assisting them very materially in their strides toward making the south a manufacturing empire by a most liberal policy in the matter of freight rates, both on raw materials and manufactured products.

The cotton mills of New England have hitherto had a monopoly of cotton manufactures in this country. The advantages enjoyed by that section in water transportation which guaranteed to eastern spinners very cheap freight, has in the past enabled yankeedom to maintain a complete monopoly in cotton milling. It is different, far different, today, however. The great railway systems penetrating the south, the home of raw cotton and virgin forests concluded to aid struggling manufacturers in the south and build up cotton milling and other manufacturing in that section. They reduced the freight on raw materials to the mills and factories, and on the manufactured products from the mills and factories to the markets of the east and west, which reduction placed the southern mill men and manufacturers on an equal footing with the cotton mills of New England and the furniture manufacturers of the west, so today the southern mill men and manufacturers are enabled to market their products at the very doors of the eastern and western manufacturers in competition with them.

As before stated, this liberal policy in the matter of freight rates on the part of the railways leading to the south has been the chief means of building up her manufacturing industries, the real cause of her present unbounded prosperity and the southern people owe a debt of gratitude to these land transportation companies they will never be able to repay in full.

Brick and Tile Company Incorporated.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—A certificate of incorporation of the Sheffield Brick and Tile Company was filed for record Saturday in the probate office of Colbert county. The incorporators of the new enterprise are Col. R. H. Wilhoyte, Richard J. Thurmond, Jr., and E. Evans, all prominent citizens of Sheffield. The company is capitalized at $10,000, paid in.

Another Grafter Convicted.

Spokane, Wash.—James Hopkins, a pioneer attorney of this city, was found guilty in the federal court here in seven counts for the returning of false affidavits in applications for old soldiers' pensions. On each count the penalty may be $1,000 fine and from one to three years in the penitentiary.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Bartley Johnson has been appointed postmaster at Creswell, Shelby county, vice James H. Lybrand, resigned.

Rural routes ordered established December 15: Gallion, Hale county, route 1, population 1,040, houses 260; Rogersville, Lauderdale county, route 1, population 525, houses 131.

Whitelaw Reid's Secretary.

London, Eng.—The report to the effect that Ambassador Whitelaw Reid had appointed an Englishman as his private secretary is unfounded. Delancey Jay, who was appointed in America and accompanied the ambassador to London, has been regularly on duty since. Mr. Reid has not appointed an Englishman to any position in connection with the embassy.

Desirable Result of Fear.

J. J. Kinyoun in an article on car sanitation, recording experiments made on cars of trunk lines centering in Washington, D. C., finds that among car porters there is a growing fear of contracting tuberculosis, and that they are particularly careful in keeping their cars clean, especially if tuberculous patients are among the passengers.—Medical News.

CUNLIFFE CAPTURED

Tried to Bribe the Detective—The Greater Amount of the Money is Found.

HE HAD AN ACCOMPLICE.

Ten Thousand Dollars in Bills Was Wrapped Up in a Bundle of Laundry—Betrayed by a Friend.

Bridgeport, Conn.—The chances that the police will recover nearly the whole of the $101,000 stolen from the Adams Express Company in Pittsburg by Edward G. Cunliffe, who was arrested here Friday and taken to Pittsburg, seem bright. Friday night $9,065 was found in a trunk belonging to a butler in a prominent family at Black Rock, but the butler and the family by whom he is employed are ignorant of the fact that the large sum was found within the house. Although there is a possibility that the remaining $10,500 has been destroyed, the police are of the opinion that another accomplice of Cunliffe may reveal the hiding place of the missing sum.

The discovery of the money in the Black Rock home was brought about by keeping a close watch on one of Cunliffe's chance acquaintances, George Eisenman, who was with Cunliffe when he was arrested. According to Eisenman's story he met Cunliffe in a cheap hotel Wednesday night, the two being together for some time. Cunliffe had a package with him, and as the men were about to leave each other Cunliffe said that he wanted Eisenman to take care of the package, as it was laundry which he wanted to keep in a safe place. Eisenman took the bundle to his sister's house, 698 Wash street, and when alone opened it and found the big sum of money.

Eisenman Shadowed.

Captain Arnold, of the detective bureau, who knows Eisenman and who saw him with Cunliffe when the latter money was taken, went to Eisenman's sister's house and found the bundle of shirts, but no money, and he suspected that Eisenman had abstracted a part of Cunliffe's plunder. Eisenman was shadowed all day Friday and he was seen to give a small package to his friend, the butler. Eisenman was taken to the Black Rock house and asked the butler for the package. He went to his trunk and turned it over to Captain Arnold intact. The butler had not been told what was in the package. Captain Arnold would not reveal the name of the butler or the family which employed him.

Eisenman was taken to police headquarters, but was released later.

Attempt to Bribe Detective.

Later and other features of the new chapter of events in connection with the capture of Cunliffe cropped out, one being an attempt by Cunliffe to bribe Capt. George Arnold, of the local detective force, and the other being the story of the betrayal of Cunliffe by a friend, James Misset, who saw the fugitive in a cheap hotel, for the purpose of securing the reward of $2,500 offered by the Pinkertons for his arrest. During one of the talks which Captain Arnold had with Cunliffe the prisoner made a proposition to divide the $80,000 which he had sent to his brother-in-law, Joseph W. Boardman, in Bristol, on the promise of secrecy. Arnold was to have received $40,000 if the scheme was carried out according to the plans of the prisoner, who was to tell the Pittsburg authorities that the hiding place of the money would never be known.

Wheat Crop Short.

Mexico City, Mex.—The shortness of the wheat corp is greater than was other states.

estimated a few weeks ago, and millers are looking for the entire removal of the duty on American and Canadian wheat by the first of next year. The city bakers have reduced the size of their loaves, asserting that it is impossible to give the same weight as formerly. There are some stocks of wheat in the hands of large farmers here, but not sufficient to bring down the price which is steadily rising.

The price of corn is also rising, the advance being over 50 per cent as compared with the prices of August. This causes hardship among the poor. There is a possibility of the duty on corn being abated.

Costs Nearly a Third.

Washington, D. C.—In a statement issued by the assistant secretary of the treasury it is shown that the Mobile surveyor of customs collected $57,757 last year at a cost of $18,530, thus making the expense of collecting one dollar 32.1 cents.

Fire in San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex.—Fire broke out in the basement of the four-story building occupied by the Newton, Weller, Wagner company, the big wholesale and retail crockery firm on Commerce street, and resulted in damage to the stock and building which will probably exceed $75,000. The stock is valued at $125,000, and the building at $150,000. Insurance is carried on the stock for $80,000 and on the building for $100,003.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 29.

Subject: Power Through God's Spirit, Zech. iv., 1-10—Golden Text, Zech. iv., 6—Memory Verses, 6-12—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Zechariah's vision (vs. 1-5). 1. "The angel." The same angel who had shown Zechariah his other visions "came again." "Waked me." The prophet had slept after the first series of visions, and he is now aroused to be instructed further. 2. "Behold a candlestick." This was no doubt similar to the seven-branched candlestick of Solomon's temple, although the bowl, the pipes and the two olive trees were peculiar to this vision. The candlestick was, 1. A type of the Jewish nation, God's chosen people to shed light to the Gentiles. If they were willing to carry out God's purpose they could not fail. 2. A type of the Christian church (Rev. 1:20). (1) Its purpose was to give light. (2) Its material was precious and costly, showing the preciousness of the church. (3) Its seven lamps in one denote the unity of God's people. (4) There was a constant supply of oil, so the Holy Spirit supplies the church with the grace of God. (5) The candlestick was not the light, but held the light; it is the work of the Christian to hold up the true light, which is Christ. "All of gold." Pure in doctrine and practice and indestructible—the true ideal of the church. "A bowl." The fountain of supply of oil to the lamps. This is the emblem of Christ, through whom the Spirit is given. "Seven lamps." There was only one lamp stand, denoting the unity of God's people, but it had various branches and lamps, denoting their multiplicity in unity, and the number was seven, the symbol of their completeness. "Seven pipes." See R. V. Each lamp had seven pipes connected with the bowl.

3. "Two olive trees." The oil usually burned in the lamps was olive oil, pressed from the fruit of the olive tree. The olive trees, one on each side of the lamp stand, express the source of supply. The bowl of oil would soon be exhausted unless a continual supply flowed into it. The trees represent an inexhaustible fountain connected with the very nature of the Creator. The supply of power does not come through human ministrations, but directly from God. 4. "What are these." Even inspired men do not always understand divine teachings. It is sometimes wise to ask questions. 5. "No, my lord." If we would receive instruction we must be ready to acknowledge our ignorance.

II. The interpretation (vs. 6-14). 6. "Word—unto Zerubbabel." This vision was to inspire the people with confidence in their leaders as divinely sustained, and the leaders with confidence in their divine appointment to the work, and to lead all to the true source of strength and success. "Not by might." Of thy own. Not by their armies, for they had none. "Nor by power." Authority from others. "But by My spirit." The providence, authority, power and energy of the Most High. No secular arm, no human prudence, no earthly policy, no suits at law, shall ever be used for the founding, extension and preservation of My church.

7. "O great mountain." This was a figure suggesting the great work to be accomplished and the many difficulties in the way. The opposition from his enemies and the lack of zeal among his own people had tended to discourage Zerubbabel. "Become a plain." Be wholly removed. At that very time God was influencing Darius to refuse the desires of the Samaritans and give his favor to Jerusalem (Ezra 6). "Headstone." As he had laid the foundation stone, so shall he put up the headstone; as he has begun the building, so shall he finish it. "With shoutings." Joyful acclamations.

9. "Shall also finish." An encouraging assurance to the prince of Judah. 10. "Day of small things." Zerubbabel belonged to the day of small things. He did not appear like Solomon in all his glory, but more like a common man than a great ruler. He seemed inferior to the governor of Samaria, and was subject to the King of Persia. We people the past with heroes. We dream of a future full of heroes. But how blind we are to the heroes of our own day and our own time! This is a universal error. "Shall see the plummet." The perpendicular line with which he should try the finished work. He is master builder, under God, the great Architect. "With those seven." Referring to chapter 3:9. "They are the eyes of the Lord." In contrast with those who might be despising the day of small things, the eyes of the Lord were beholding with joy the work in the hand of Zerubbabel. The Jews themselves despised the foundation of the second temple because it was likely to be so far inferior to the first (Ezra 3:12). Their enemies despised the wall when it was in process of building (Neh. 2:19; 4:2, 3). "To and fro." A beautiful figure of God's oversight over the whole earth.

11-14. Three times Zechariah (vs. 4, 11, 12) asked as to the two olives before he got an answer; the question becomes more minute each time. What he at first calls two olive "trees" he afterward calls "branches," as on closer looking he observes that the branches of the trees are channels through which a continual flow of oil dropped into the bowl of the lamps; and that this is the purpose for which the two olive trees stand beside the candlestick. Primarily the "two" refer to Jeshua and Zerubbabel. Zerubbabel and Jeshua typified Christ as anointed with the Holy Spirit without measure, to be King and High Priest of the church, and to build, illuminate and sanctify the spiritual temple.

THE BARGAIN.

Housewife (to new domestic)—"There is one thing I wish to say to you. The last girl had a habit of coming into the parlor and playing the piano occasionally. You never play the piano, do you?"

New Domestic—"Yis, mum, I plays; but I'll hev to charge yez half a crown a week aixtry if I'm to furnish music for the family."—London Tit-Bits.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY BISHOP LEONARD.

Subject: Giving Freely.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—At Holy Trinity Church the Rt. Rev. William A. Leonard, Bishop of Ohio, preached Sunday morning on the subject, "Giving Freely," from the text Matthew x:8: "Freely ye have received, freely give." The preacher said:

"Our blessed Lord had just endowed His apostles with some of His power. He had granted them authority to preach, to heal the sick, to baptize converts and to lay the foundation of His church. As all power in heaven and on earth had been conferred upon Him, so now He imparts the tremendous donation to them. This is what is meant by the divine origin of the ministry. But this power and those gifts must be utilized; they cannot be retained or buried; they must be dispersed abroad. They are given only for service. 'Freely ye have received, freely give.' In some measure we must generously give to the world.

"These words, however, may be taken from their primary place, so that they have a general reference and application for every child of the kingdom, and thus we use them to-day for our instruction and guidance. This text, 'Freely ye have received, freely give,' is classic in its clear expression and in its world-wide application to literature, science, music—in the art of centuries; and many races find their ideal in this fact, for Christ, the Incarnate, is Himself God. Christ is here in our human nature since the period of His incarnation. You cannot drive Him forth, for He has found room for residence in the very heart of this old world. It is of this conscious liberality of God to us that I want to speak, and of the sincere and willing response which we ought to make to Him for His gifts to us: 'Freely ye have received, freely give.' The gospel of our Father has this word 'give' written all through. Its first letter is the initial of His own name. Its first introduction in the Garden of Eden and a picture of the Divine Parent, whose hand is ever outstretched with loving intention to us, and it is His desire that we should realize this. The Bible is replete with the story of His giving and our receiving. Read your Bible this year with this thought in your minds. Recall what God has given to His children, and you will be amazed at the sum; it will be such a great one that at least you will be constrained to sing a benedicite, to praise God for His goodness; you will cordially begin to appreciate how 'freely ye have received.' Is it not well to make some sort of a tally, to run up our account with God? We who take so much for granted and simply accept the blessings He gives us without a word of thanks. We think of them and use them as if they were ours and are sometimes angry if we happen to miss or lose them. We have received so much and so freely from Him that we have omitted Him and His relationship from our calculations. We have credited Him only with our spiritual blessings—our religious privileges, the church and sacraments, of course, our salvation. But what about the ordinary things that He never forgets, that He never neglects? He keeps His work going on every day in the year, while we, like the children of our modern time, are satiated with luxury. We are aroused sometimes, as at Christmas time, to realize how good God is.

"'Freely ye have received, freely give.' Thus He gave out of His generous heart the very creation itself; the world and all in it, at the very hour of its conception, its power of production, teeming life, vegetable and animal. We take possession of it; we bargain and barter its fields and flocks and herds; we call it ours; we call the land after our own name. But these things are not ours. They are His. He controls, He directs and permits; we are but the tenants of His will.

"Then consider in the next place His providence. That is, the continuous remembrance of our needs—food, raiment, climate, and so on. The seasons that God only swings round in their course; the sunshine—think of the sunshine, that is God's gift. Suppose He covers over the sun for one day! Man cannot, with all his genius, manufacture another. Suppose it stops shining for twenty-four hours. Such a chill of ice would result that all life would go out. Do you ever thank God for the sunshine? No. We take it for granted—it belongs to us—we consider it our inherent right.

"God gives us power as well as creation to utilize. So lavishly spread that all man has to do is to pluck the fruits of it. We dig mines, sail ships, write books, paint pictures; it is only the exercise of power which God gives. Wealth, competency, wages, all the capacity of power—God grants it all. He gives the brains, the ingenuity, the business, the opportunity for every advancement and all you and I have to do is to utilize all the power He gives us. Some other men use these and prosper; other men waste them and are failures in life; but those who are opportunists in the best sense gain rewards. Do you ever realize that God could becloud and obscure your faculties of reason so that you would become insane in a moment? He might be excused from so doing because of your ingratitude, your neglect of Him, for all these things you call yours are His. I often wonder how many successful men can retain their self respect, can make their treatment of God agree with their ethics. They never enter His house to thank Him and yet He asks them to do so. They are getting on without Him they believe, but they are as helpless and powerless as the weakest imaginable thing. They are absolutely His dependents in whom they have their being. How long suffering and patient He is. His only rebuke seems to be found in His unfailing love. He simply says, 'My son, do not forsake Me utterly; hear My voice; come to Me; give Me thy heart, for I love thee, I am thy Father. I can afford to wait.'

"So with our virtues, they are all inbreathings of the Holy Spirit; every man, no matter how depraved, will have some spark of good that God put there to be fanned into burning heat.

They do not grow given and are intended model us into a
His image. Your love are from Him.
find happiness or
of pleasure in the
or moral spheres
Ghost permitted it.
love your wife, your your friend, without tians, you could not love for God unless power. Stones and earth not. Animals only have stinct, as He gives them,
I have received more have received inspirations tions that reach from heart to heart. There is prayer in the prayer book consider it in exactly which I am presenting God,' it says, 'pour such love for Thee Thee above all things
tain Thy gracious not love God unless given us, we have ourselves.

"Now, the greatest gift
gift of His dear Son.
tence, power and
is reason or right interpreted by the coming Christ to earth for incarnation is the key cause of our being.
solution of each man's is in this sense The Light World.' Now God gave
He had, the very best capable of bestowing His ten Son. Nay, more,
He gave Himself. We
to explain His mysteries, able. It is an illustration may do in small matters.
sacrifice and surrender and giving, for He came to do
That will was to save sins. God gave up His
the joy and sanctity of clothe Himself with our manity that we might bodily, touch Him with our go to Him with our sins and Him might accept Him
He folded His eternal
His person and He led it rifice, so that His earthly long series of sacrificial
He lay in the manger the rifice had begun; when He
the cross it was the
In the last moment of shame He was controlling seemed to be mastering Him
the priest upon the cross.
own victim. His life was out of Him; He, Himself, its dismissal. He gave it up whose it was, saying:
Thy hands I commend my
this for our redemption, and that we might have lieving and serving and our eternal joy and peace
the Divine comradeship.
'freely give?'

"This is our practical question of our life
we give, and what,
try and consider the lives. What do we give?
we give? Do we give but how? Is it unreservedly bountifully? Yes, we give sometimes—some prayer, ship, some money. Is it
At the price of sacrifice?
ly cost us much? We give to this world—our time and with zeal and zest in business.
That is right. Christ does to be sluggards in business, does tell us to give in the ure of earnest interest to measure of earnest interest mean no standard of gold.
talking about gold to-day.
measure of payment. I mean and long living surrender of thing to His will. I mean cration of each stroke of the brawny arm, of each device of ventor's power, the consecration whole being and service
preme Master of our destiny consecration makes life sanctifies labor, trade and lifts every project of human up to a level on which
and where we may talk self. It tires itself out in the redeeming of the world.
Jesus walking up and down earth and it must impel every being to follow Him. It to go forth into the world
The saint leaves his closet abroad instead of pondering self homeless that he may Gospel; that he may lift the ignorance for some benighted missionary makes himself that he may carry the Gospel heathen. Where we do the will of Jesus is our free turn for what He has given and only then do we tradiction. There is the of the incarnation. 'Freely the word. Really that fully give. It requires Lord am I. I have no
propect, no duty, no joy place between Thee and me myself absolutely to every tion of Thy will. I am eager to know what Thy will is my duty; show me what wouldst have me to do and saint of old said: 'Master,
Thyself and then show me
Such a prayer should be hour to hour, and then at will be the gradual glad coming to us that we have turned to God a thank-offering
"Then the giving of our service and to other people natural that we shall do it eously. It will be as money and heart and Christ's service that it will nature."

Love Leads to Service.

A loving heart and an are inseparable. The one ist without the other.
a man loves God, he has consecration, the spirit of the spirit of service; and continues to dominate the spirit of service manifests life. It is true that "love filling of the law."
the only kind of religion
It is the pure in heart
God.—Methodist Recorder.

You Will Get It.

Look, expect, watch;
wanted the blessing, and it.—Joseph Parker.

They do not grow there, given and are intended to m model us into a nearer His image. Your capacity love are from Him. You find happiness or gladn of pleasure in the material, or moral spheres unless Ghost permitted it. You love your wife, your child, your friend, without Him. tians you could not have love for God unless He grant power. Stones and earth not. Animals only have as stinct, as He gives them, but I have received more than have received inspirations and tions that reach from soul to heart to heart. There is a prayer in the prayer book. I consider it in exactly the which I am presenting this God,' it says, 'pour into our such love for Thee that we Thee above all things may at tain Thy gracious promises.' not love God unless the po given us, we have not the ourselves.

Now the greatest gift of gift of His dear Son. Creation cence, power and faculties, its reason or right of operating interpreted by the coming Christ to earth for you and me. incarnation is the key to un cause of our being. His birth solution of each man's existence is in this sense 'The Light World.' Now God gave the be He had, the very best that capable of bestowing—His only ten Son. Nay, more, His Son is He gave Himself. We shall to explain its mysteries; it is able. It is an illustration of w may do in small matters. It sacrifice and surrender and giving, for He came to do God's That will was to save us fr sins. God gave up His best a the joy and sanctity of Heav clothe Himself with our brok manity that we might see the bodily, touch Him with our han go to Him with our sins and Him might accept Him as our He folded His eternal nature His person and He led it forth rifice, so that His earthly life long series of sacrificial acts. He lay in the manger this life rifice had begun; when He hu the cross it was the continuation In the last moment of agony shame He was controlling force seemed to be mastering Him. H the priest upon the cross; He w own victim. His life was not out of Him; He, Himself, pron its dismissal. He gave it up t whose it was, saying: 'Father Thy hands I commend my spirit this for our redemption, for our and that we might have peace living and serving and followi our eternal joy and peace here the Divine comradeship. Now, 'freely give?'

"This is our practical issue question of our life experience we give; and what, and when? try and consider the paradox lives. What do we give? Wh we give? Do we give ourselves but how? Is it unreservedly? bountifully? Yes, we give som sometimes some prayer, some ship, some money. Is it enthus At the price of sacrifice? Does ly cost us much? We give our to this world our time and with zeal and zest in business That is right. Christ does not to be sluggards in business. B does tell us to give in the same ure of earnest interest to Him measure of earnest interest to H mean no standard of gold. I a talking about gold to-day. I m measure of payment. I mean t and long living surrender of thing to His will. I mean the cration of each stroke of the la brawny arm, of each device of t ventor's power, the consecration whole being and service to t preme Master of our destiny. consecration makes life beautif sanctifies labor, trade and busi lifts every project of human a up to a level on which angels and where we may talk to God self. It tires itself out in its a the redeeming of the world. I Jesus walking up and down earth and it must impel every being to follow Him. It impe to go forth into the world to The saint leaves his closet an abroad instead of pondering by self homeless that he may ca Gospel, that he may lift the co ignorance for some benighted s missionary makes himself ho that he may carry the Gospel heathen. Where we do the servi will of Jesus is our free giving turn for what He has given us. and only then, do we amend th tradiction. There is the soul and of the incarnation. 'Freely gi the word. Really that means fully give. It requires us to say, Lord am I. I have no reservati prospect, no duty, no joy that place between Thee and me. I myself absolutely to every ma tion of Thy will. I am all th eager to know what Thy will is. is my duty; show me what wouldst have me to do and give' saint of old said: 'Master, sh Thyself and then show me Such a prayer should be offere hour to hour, and then at las will be the gradual glad consc coming to us that we have fre turned to God a thank offering.

"Then the giving of our time service and to other people wil natural that we shall do it s eously. It will be so easy t money and heart and inte Christ's service that it will be nature."

Love Leads to Service.

A loving heart and an obedi are inseparable. The one can ist without the other. As s a man loves God, he has the sp consecration, the spirit of ob the spirit of service; and whi continues to dominate the hear spirit of service manifests itself life. It is true that "love is th filling of the law." Heart reli the only kind of religion worth h It is the pure in heart who God.—Methodist Recorder.

You Will Get It.

Look, expect, watch; look a wanted the blessing, and you it.—Joseph Parker.

EMMA FLEISSNER

Two Years—Health Was in Condition—Caused by Catarrh.

TH AND STRENGTH RESTORED BY PE-RU-NA.

Emma Fleissner, 1412 Sixth Avenue, Worthy Treasurer Sons of writes:

fered over two years with ir- and painful periods. My was in a very precarious con- and I was anxious to find to restore my health and very glad to try Peruna and de- that it was doing me good. to use it a little over three found my troubles removed.

sider it a splendid medicine never be without it, taking occasionally when I feel run- tired."

contain thousands of testimonials Hartman has received from grate- women who have been restored his remedy, Peruna.

Petrified Turtle.

making excavations in Bir- Ala., for a residence the found the limestone cast of animal that is thought to be most interesting discoveries in local geological history seems to be that of some extinct turtle or similar creat- is about eight inches in di- Several local geologists have the queer beast of perhaps thousand years ago, but ef- its scientific classification so far.

's Meteorological Stations.

Japan has had meteorological some of her highest moun- since 1887, these were in in summer. Prince Yama- is greatly interested in sci- research, has now provided an round station on Mount near Tokio. Dr. Okada, who one of the most promis- younger men of science, has charge of it. It is expected will be able to provide infor- incalculable benefit to do- foreign shipping interests. in charge of the apparatus earthquakes which has on this mountain.

Origin of Playing Cards.

cards are known to be of origin, but when or by whom first introduced cannot now It is, however, toler- certain that they originated in and were brought into Europe the Crusaders.

Scandinavian Christmas.

Scandinavia Christmas is cele- its literal sense of "peace on good will toward men;" the quarrels are adjust- feuds forgotten. It is the famous Yule log.

THE SECRET OF YOUTH

for the secret of spring of gushing, life-giv- which he was sure, he the New World. Alchem- thousands of them), lives in quest for it. found by these happy can digest and assimilate food which keeps the phys- perfect that peace and com- the same results.

man of 94 says: "For years I suffered more or less costiveness and painful This condition made life burden to me, as you may well years I began to use as food and am thankful It has been a blessing to every way. I first noticed that my digestion. This was that was nothing to com- importance with the fact that time my bowels were re- free and normal action. seemed to be complete; for I have had none of the old I use the Grape-Nuts food morning for breakfast and fre- eat nothing else. The use has comfortable and happy, and I will be 94 years old next have become strong and supple erect in figure and can walk anybody, and enjoy it." Name Postum Co., Battle Creek. "There's a reason."

the little book, "The Road to in each pkg.

The Life of Pearls.

Pearls die. Maybe that is one reason why they are beloved of womankind. Some distinguished pearls forming a necklace of historic interest which belonged to the collection of M. Thiers are now the property of the Louvre. At one time this necklace was said to be worth $100,000, but it is losing all its original value because unworn. For many years these pearls have been in no contact with warm life that would nourish them. They are dying from the starvation of disuse. It has been suggested to the authorities that it were better to sell the famous necklace rather than allow absolute dissolution, as will certainly happen if it is to remain in its glass case in the Louvre.

Millionaire Day Laborer.

Among the common toilers at the Kokomo, Ind., plant of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company is Robert H. Pitcairn, a young man worth $1,000,000 in his own right and heir to many millions more. He is a son of the late R. H. Pitcairn, of Pittsburg, multi-millionaire and president of the plate glass trust, whose death occurred a few months ago. Before his father's death young Pitcairn resolved to learn the trade from top to bottom, and he chose the lowest rung in the ladder for a foothold. He is now nearing the end of his studies, having lived out the routine of every department, carrying his lunch in a dinner pail like other employes, only a few of whom know him.

Clings to Chinese Dress.

Unlike most of the members of the diplomatic and consular service of the Celestial empire who come to this country, Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, the Chinese minister in Washington clings to the dress of his native land. This is unusual, for generally the Chinese and Japanese of the better class quickly adopt American dress when they come to live in this country. But even more remarkable is the fact that the sons of the Chinese minister also continue to be clothed in the Oriental style.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Mistletoe is a parasite which feeds upon the trees upon which it grows.

H. H. GREEN'S SONS, of Atlanta, Ga., are the only successful Dropsy Specialists in the world. See their liberal offer in advertisement in another column of this paper.

The manufacture of genuine French brandy has almost ceased.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

France has forbidden the use of absinth in the army and navy.

Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

Is a sure cure for all LIVER TROUBLES and a preventive of TYPHOID and other fevers.

Good for { Grandparent Parent Baby

Ask Your Neighbor

50c. and $1.00 per bottle at Drug Stores.

Bath in Bubbles.

"To take a bath at Tiflis, in Russian Caucasia, is to court a never-to-be-forgotten experience," says one who knows. "The masseur who presides over the toilet of his patrons is a weird looking figure; his head is shaved, a rag is twisted around his waist, and his feet are dyed a beautiful red. You are seized by this individual, rubbed, pushed face downward on a marble slab, find his feet in your spine and his hands upon your shoulders. Then he grinds his feet up and down your back; they are round your neck, on your head—everywhere. Then he vaults lightly off, and in a moment, from a linen bag filled with soap he has squeezed clouds of perfumed bubbles, and you are hidden in them from head to foot as completely as if you had fallen into a snowdrift. You are not absolutely bruised, but you are clean."

Stoessel Is Retired.

General Stoessel, who defended Port Arthur, has been retired with the honorary rank of adjutant-general. He is now improving his country estate, Mme. Stoessel meanwhile having purchased a fine residence in St. Petersburg.

Eve's Tomb.

Arabs assert that Eve's tomb is at Jiddah, in a graveyard surrounded by high white walls. The cemetery has remained unopened for interment for over 1,000 years.

STOPS BELCHING BY ABSORPTION —NO DRUGS—A NEW METHOD.

A Box of Wafers Free—Have You Acute Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Irregular Heart, Dizzy Spells, Short Breath, Gas on the Stomach

Bitter Taste—Bad Breath—Impaired Appetite—A feeling of fullness, weight and pain over the stomach and heart, sometimes nausea and vomiting, also fever and sick headache?

What causes it? Any one or all of these: Excessive eating and drinking—abuse of spirits—anxiety and depression—mental effort—mental worry and physical fatigue—bad air—insufficient food—sedentary habits—absence of teeth—bolting of food.

If you suffer from this slow death and miserable existence, let us send you a sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers absolutely free. No drugs. Drugs injure the stomach.

It stops belching and cures a diseased stomach by absorbing the foul odors from undigested food and by imparting activity to the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices, which promotes digestion and cures the disease.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

THIS OFFER MAY NOT APPEAR AGAIN.

10285 FREE COUPON 128

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

Henry III of England is reputed as having chosen a grain of wheat from the middle of the ear as a standard of weight.

BABY'S AWFUL ECZEMA

Face Like Raw Beef—Thought She Would Lose Her Ear—Healed Without a Blemish—Mother Thanks Cuticura.

"My little girl had eczema very bad when she was ten months old. I thought she would lose her right ear. It had turned black, and her face was like a piece of raw meat, and very sore. It would bleed when I washed her, and I had to keep cloths on it day and night. There was not a clear spot on her face when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and now it is completely healed, without scar or blemish, which is more than I had hoped for. (Signed) Mrs. Rose Ether, 291 Eckford St., Brooklyn, N. Y."

Long ago poverty-stricken English parents sold their offspring to the Irish, who made slaves of them.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 981 Arch St., Phila., Pa

A bee, unladen, will fly forty miles an hour.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

The biggest cannon ball ever made weighed 2600 pounds.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'BRIEN, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

The Russian alphabet contains thirty-five letters.

Electric Light in Zanzibar.

Electric light is being installed in the streets of Zanzibar, and an American firm has obtained a concession to construct a light electric railway, which will be the first in the country.

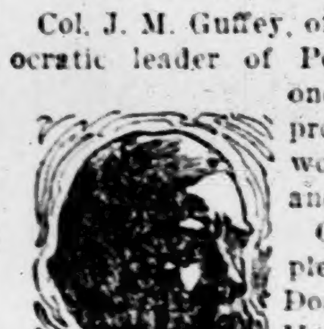
Estimates of the total amount of saving deposits of the world show the amazing figures of $7,000,000,000.

Mexico's Future.

In fifty-nine years Mexico had fifty-two presidents, dictators and emperors before the time of President Diaz. Cecil Rhodes did not believe in the stability of the country. "There is no guaranty," he said, "that after President Diaz dies Mexico will have any better government than that which prevails in the South American countries."

A STRONG STATEMENT

By Col. J. M. Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman of Pennsylvania.



Col. J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, and one of the greatest producers in the world of oil, coal and gold, writes:

Gentlemen: It is a pleasure to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. Having found them of great value I have always been glad to recommend them to my friends. They are excellent.

(Signed) J. M. GUFFEY.

Doan's Kidney Pills, a specific for backache, bladder troubles and all kidney disorders, are sold by all dealers. Fifty cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Lucky Clerk.

A clerk in a Portsmouth, Eng., solicitor's office had a stroke of luck the other day. He happened so to please a wealthy woman client that she offered him $10,000 down or $15,000 in her will. He declared for the money on the nail, and got it by check the following day.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Chester Curry

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; bearing down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria, brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights; I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

Mrs. Charles F. Brown, Vice-President of the Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and nervousness, until it seemed as though I should fly. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I decided to try it. I did so, and at the end of three months I was a different woman. My nervousness was all gone, I was no longer irritable, and my husband fell in love with me all over again."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Farmers Say

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Is the Best Remedy on Earth.
Kills a Spavin Curb or Splint.
Very Penetrating. Kills Pain.

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, 615 ALBANY STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE
CURES COUGHS & COLDS

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer. Springfield, Mo.

BACK OF THE ATKINS SAW

Two centuries of patient and conscientious effort to produce the best Saws in the world.

Ten generations of blood and brains.

The largest plant in the world exclusively devoted to saw-making, employing many hundreds of high-class, high-priced craftsmen and equipped with costly special machinery.

A world-wide business aggregating many millions of dollars every year.

A reputation built up through two centuries of steady growth, valued more highly than any other asset of this great institution.

The guaranty of this Company, which is respected the world over.

We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.

Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.

BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).

Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS.

FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO., 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WANTED—Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased. NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

CONEY ISLAND SOUVENIR POST CARDS. Six beautiful colored scenes for 10c. Coney Island Postal Card Co., Coney Island, N.Y.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS.

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 SHOES

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

ALL STYLES
ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES
Established July 4, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO

AVERY & McMILLAN,

51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Dyspepsia,

SICK HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION

Promptly and Permanently Cured with

Crab Orchard Water

A century's experience with successful results is the best testimonial. Sold by all druggists.

Crab Orchard Water Co., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Am. 43, 1905.

IF IT'S CHILLS YOU HAVE, IT'S OXIDINE YOU NEED

It is sold under ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE, and if you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made also in Tasteless Form. Sold by all druggists for 50 cents per Bottle.

PAXTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.

BRYAN, DALLAS, TEX. AND MEMPHIS, TENN.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS

CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES [illegible]

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHI   y u need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coff   .

W. I. MULLINS

CL NT N - - - ALA

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Pia and Organ Company

Life Insurance for the l Mutual Benefit Li Insurance C mpany, paid to pol cy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Ins ce for the L ndon & Lancashire, th L verpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And w l ave on hand at all times a complete st ck of the celebrated H   the Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced   . We have four styles now from which you may selet, ranging fr $48.00 to $65.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these ices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines re ed repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands,   and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON.

Job Printing cheap at THE BANNER Office

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

PATTILLO BROS,

MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN

YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Flooring, ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. &   . R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.

VERBENA, ALA.

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ceiling in stock for the Clanton trade.

BIG STOC

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wa ts of the good people of Chilton   have laid i a m   xtensive stock comprising all he lates an nov lti s, and particularly call your attention to our line

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Mill   kinds; Dress Goods; Jackets of the latest styles, cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices. Sho GENT'S Hats, and a special line of   of sample Shoes, worth fr to $5 00, to be closed out per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMEN

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITA

we keep in stock at the very lowe Come and hear the Phonograph   make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

Blind Headache

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. Mattie Allen, 1123 Broadway, Augusta, Ga., "I suffered w blind, sick headaches and backaches, and could no relief until I tried

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Relief

I immediately commenced to improve, now I feel like a new woman, and wish recommend it to all sick women, for know it will cure them, as it did me." Cardui is pure, medicinal extract vegetable herbs, which reliev female pains, regulates fem functions, tones up the org to a proper state of healt Try it for your troub

Every druggist sells in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US FREELY and frankly, describing your symptoms. We will consider your case and give you free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Don't hesitate, but write today. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTO

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

CLA

Let's have a plain talk about your Kidneys

Let's have a plain talk about your health—right straight from the shoulder and without any "snatched from the grave" or "modern miracles" about it. We want you to believe in our sincerity and the medicinal value of Uracura in all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder. If you have any of these troubles or have a tendency in that direction, we want to say plainly and frankly that Uracura will remove it even to the last trace. Now we don't want to frighten you into thinking you have something you haven't; but we do say earnestly and sincerely it is your duty to yourself to find out now—once for all what your balance is on the credit side of the ledger of good health. Kidney and Bladder troubles do not give violent warnings—they slowly and gradually creep upon you until the first thing you know you are tight in their relentless clutches.

The things we eat and drink and the hurried, worried and nervous lives we lead now-a-days are such that he is indeed lucky whose Liver, Kidneys and Bladder are all perfectly healthy.

DO YOU HAVE BACKACHE

Shortness of Breath, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Sleeplessness, Vertigo, Constipation, Sallow Complexion, Sour Stomach, High Colored Urine, Yellowish Eyeballs, Coated Tongue, Depression, Headache, Nervousness? It's Liver, Kidney or Bladder troubles; but even surer than symptoms

URACURA IS THE TEST AS WELL AS THE CURE

After taking a few doses of Uracura, you will notice, if you have Kidney or Bladder Trouble, that the urine will be of a very dark or reddish color with a strong odor of the medicine. This is not only an unfailing sign of the trouble but also an indication that a cure has commenced. After two or three days you will notice that the urine is clear—you will feel less pain about the Kidneys and your backache will leave. You will be less nervous and in every way will be better and stronger. This is not theory but the result of the testimony of thousands who have been cured—that's the reason WE KNOW it will cure you without question or doubt. Uracura is a purely vegetable compound or concentrated extract prepared from the roots and herbs that science has proved to be absolutely the only sure cure for these diseases, making Uracura a great Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder cure. It restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the Blood, relieves Biliousness and Constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion. If you value your life and health beyond a 50c piece

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY—PRICE 50 CENTS

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

For sale by all Druggists

EYES
TESTED FR

A COMPLETE ST of Fine Clocks just in from ew York, nice line of La and Gent's Gold F Watches and Jew If you need a pai Spectacles I have in best grades. S Machines from $10

L. D. POPWEL

CLANTON, A

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of streng ness, headache, constipation, general debility, sour risings, a of the stomach are all due to Kodol cures indigestion. Th ery represents the natural j tion as they exist in a health combined with the greatest and reconstructive propertie pepsia Cure does not only c and dyspepsia, but this f cures all stomach troubles by purifying, sweetening and the mucous membranes lining

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravens "I was troubled with sour s Kodol cured me and we are for baby."

Kodol Digests What You

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding size, which

Prepared by E. C. De

For sale by Upch

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

From a private letter from Plant y, Fla., we learn that Rev. S. Adams has been called to the rate of two churches in that ality. Bro Adams' ability as a pounder of the gospel is well wn in this section of Alabama, his many friends here will be to know that his merits are recognized by the Baptist thren in Florid Everyone in Clanton is pleased welcome the return of Rev F. B. knor and his interesting family n South Carolina, but as all of family are in poor health the lcome is tempered with sym hy. Quite recently, Albert, the st son of Mrs Ticknor by her husband, died, and was left ied at their South Carolina e. Their grief we cannot as ge, but we trust that He who th all things well will lighten ir woe and restore them to lth in their old Chilton home Rev. Ticknor has a lengthy ve of absence from his charge, d we hope the health giving ezes of Chilton county will re e him to his accustomed vigor.

McCaghren-Wigington

A great many of the residents of lton county will no doubt, be y much interested to learn of the proaching marriage of Miss Brun Wigington, daughter of Mr Mrs Pinckney Wigington who nt her childhood days in Clanton Plantersv lle, and as she blos ed into sweet and beautiful manhood, has always held a warm in their hearts, as a frequent st of her uncle, Mr. P. M. Moore, other relatives in the County. Wigington is a young lady of charms—a typical Southern uty, both in appearance and es of mind and heart. As a ch worker, she has proven her a young lady of great strength beauty of character. To know means to love her, and once wn, she is never forgotten.

The prospective groom, Mr. Wil Ira McCaghren, is a very pop young man of Ensley, where he ds a responsible position with the ssett-Solvay Company, and both ng people have many friends, only in Birmingham and vacin , but several other Southern cities, wish them a long and happy life. No cards have been issued, and ceremony will be quietly sol nized at the home of the bride's nts, in Ensley, Ala., at nine ock, on Wednesday evening, ember 8, 1905, Rev. J. H. Long , of the First Baptist church ciating.

And even we, who know and love , ask no more than that her hap s may be as great as she de ves.

Center Point.

Please allow me space in your uable paper to say a few words ut our nice singing at Center at. We have one who is faith to lead the singing for us and enjoy it and are glad to have all help we can get in the singing. are glad to have Mr. Vance to p us.

Mr. Grover Vance was a pleasant visitor in our community Sun last. Misses Mandie Ra ster, Eula Owens and Allie Vance ited Misses Minnie and Ida Wil ms and Ida Devaughn, Sunday and all enjoyed a nice time.

Miss Minnie Williams of Bil gsley visited Mrs. Maggie Wil s near Sardis the past week.

Prof. Davis commenced his ool at Center Point Monday last.

Mr. James Devaughn made a ness trip to Clanton Saturday.

A Disastrous Calamity.

It is a disastrous calamity, when lose your health, because indi tion and constipation have sapped y. Prompt relief can be had Dr. King's New Life Pills. They up your digestive organs, and ache, dizziness, colic, constipa , etc. Guaranteed at Upchurch 25c.

CO

Do
ferts w salve
& Co ine soon
DeWitt
and mo
Boils,
Upchur

One
S.S. co
Sunday
was on Sund church ture by Harteii part in Man Fair at Mrs.
"Busy
the hom day.
Mrs.
Norwe
day las
Mr Malmg
the old
Miss a deli ment f people,
Mrs. comed
nesday
Amo
were th
Willia
berg a McFarl
Thorso
Hallo
at the Cavern young Miss
were Wedne
Sund people notable battle
Adolph
Rev. H boring services

Mrs. ant visi
We a
G. W
this we Miss ed hom
Mr capital
Mrs. friends
Mess
Baker
this pla liams o
Mrs. daught turned friends
We
H. l o getting
Mr. town

N

My will fi
on the
Mt. Mo
at 7 p.
Quarte
at Jem
All of urged

"Co
and th
writes
"For
on the Cold,
Discov
has sa trouble
a sad lo
that lu
lected,
est re
Price 5
Upchu

Sub

STOC
OW PRICE

ts of the good people of Chilton stock comprising all the latest call your attention to our line

ES' Trimmed Hats and Milli kinds; Dress Goods;
Jackets of the latest styles;
at wonderfully reduced prices;

T'S Hats, and a special line of of sample Shoes, worth fr to $5 00, to be closed out heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS
VIOLINS, GUITA
we keep in stock at the very lowe
Come and hear the Phonograph make life worth living.

KANJUTZKY
FAVORITE STORE
anton, Ala.

d Headache
ar ago," writes Mrs. Mattie Allen, Augusta, Ga., "I suffered wi aches and backaches, and could tried
CARDUI
oman's Relief
iately commenced to improve, a feel like a new woman, and wish mmend it to all sick women, fo
now it will cure them, as it did me.
Cardui is pure, medicinal extract vegetable herbs, which reliev female pains, regulates fem functions, tones up the org to a proper state of healt
Try it for your troubl
Every druggist sell
in $1.00 bottles.

. LEWIS & CO.
T MARKET
PORK MUTT
D GAME IN SEASON
Sausage a Specialty
CLA

EYES
TESTED FR

A COMPLETE ST
of Fine Clocks just in from ew York,
nice line of Lad
and Gent's Gold F
Watches and Jew
If you need a pai
Spectacles I have in best grades. S
Machines from $10
L. D. POPWEL
CLANTON,

Sour Stomach
No appetite, loss of streng ness, headache, constipation,
general debility, sour risings,
of the stomach are all due to Kodol cures indigestion. This ery represents the natural ju tion as they exist in a health combined with the greatest and reconstructive properties. pepsia Cure does not only and dyspepsia, but this cures all stomach troubles by purifying, sweetening and the mucous membrane lining
Mr. S. S. Ball, of R
I was troubled with Kodol cured me and
for baby."
Kodol Digests What
Bottles only. $1.00 Size which Prepared by E. O. D
For sale by Up

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIV Part One CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 NO. 3

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

a private letter from Plant Fla., we learn that Rev. S. Adams has been called to the ate of two churches in that ity. Bro Adams' ability as a ander of the gospel is well in this section of Alabama, his many friends here will be to know that his merits are recognized by the Baptist ren in Florid.

Everyone in Clanton is pleased welcome the return of Rev. F. B. nor and his interesting family South Carolina, but as all of family are in poor health the come is tempered with sym y. Quite recently, Albert, the son of Mrs Ticknor by her husband, died, and was left ed at their South Carolina . Their grief we cannot as , but we trust that He who th all things well will lighten r woe and restore them to th in their old Chilton home Rev. Ticknor has a lengthy of absence from his charge, we hope the health giving es of Chilton county will re him to his accustomed vigor.

McCaghren-Wigington

A great many of the residents of ton county will no doubt, be much interested to learn of the oaching marriage of Miss Brun Wigington, daughter of Mr Mrs Pinckney Wigington who t her childhood days in Clanton Plantersville, and as she blos d into sweet and beautiful anhood, has always held a warm in their hearts, as a frequent of her uncle, Mr. P. M. Moore, other relatives in the County. Wigington is a young lady of charms—a typical Southern ty, both in appearance and s of mind and heart. As a ch worker, she has proven her a young lady of great strength beauty of character. To know means to love her, and once en, she is never forgotten.

The prospective groom, Mr. Wil Ira McCaghren, is a very pop young man of Ensley, where he a responsible position with the t Solvay Company, and both g people have many friends, only in Birmingham and vacin but several other Southern cities, with them a long and happy life. No cards have been issued, and ceremony will be quietly sol ized at the home of the bride's ts, in Ensley, Ala., at nine k, on Wednesday evening, ember 8, 1905, Rev. J. H. Long , of the First Baptist church ting.

And even we, who know and love ask no more than that her hap may be as great as she de s.

Center Point.

Please allow me space in your able paper to say a few words our nice singing at Center . We have one who is faith to lead the singing for us and enjoy it and are glad to have all help we can get in the singing. are glad to have Mr. Vance to us.

Mr. Grover Vance was a pleas visitor in our community Sun last. Misses Mandie Ran , Eula Owens and Allie Vance ed Misses Minnie and Ida Wil s and Ida Devaughn, Sunday and all enjoyed a nice time. Miss Minnie Williams of Bil ley visited Mrs. Maggie Wil s near Sardis the past week. Prof. Davis commenced his ol at Center Point Monday last. Mr. James Devaughn made a ess trip to Clanton Saturday.

A Disastrous Calamity.

is a disastrous calamity, when lose your health, because indi n and constipation have sapped ay. Prompt relief can be had . King's New Life Pills. They up your digestive organs, and che, dizziness, colic, constipa , etc. Guaranteed at Upchurch 25c.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Do not be deceived by counterfeits when you buy Witch Hazel Salve. The name of E. C. DeWitt & Co. is on every box of the genuine. Piles in their worst form will soon pass away if you will apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve night and morning. Best for Cuts, Burns, Boils, Tetter, Eczema etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Thorsby.

One of the principal events was S. S. convention and basket dinner, Sunday, at college. This occasion was one of unusual interest.

Sunday evening the Norwegian church was filled to listen to a lecture by Prof. Frilitze. The Revs. Hartelius and Helland also took part in the exercises.

Many Thorsbyites attended the Fair at Birmingham last week.

Mrs. Amendson made the little "Busy Bees" happy by opening the home for their social last Saturday.

Mrs. Elleifson entertained the Norwegian Ladies' Society Thursday last.

Mr. Carr has removed to the Malmgren place. Mr. Eckfith to the old Woolley place.

Misses Ericson and Howard gave a delightful evening's entertainment for a large party of young people, Wednesday, Oct, 25.

Mrs. Michelson was gladly welcomed home from Chicago Wednesday.

Among the departures last week were the following; Mr. and Mrs. Williams; Mr. and Mrs. Stuckenberg and family; Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and son; Mr. T. T. Thorson; Mr Alf Turnblom.

Hallow'en night was celebrated at the hospitable home of Mr. Scott Caverno, by a large party of our young people.

Miss Alma Hovey and her friends were made merry at her home Wednesday night.

Sunday evening the Swedish people will commemorate a most notable event in history, viz: The battle of Lutzon, 1632, Gustavus Adolphus, second king of Sweden. Rev. Hartelius has invited neighboring ministers to take part in the services.

CITIZEN.

Billingsley.

Mrs, W. A. Gandy was a pleasant visitor at Pletcher Saturday.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. G. W. Wilkins is on the sick list this week.

Miss Etta Mae Roper has returned home from Montgomery.

Mr. W. W. Carter went to the capital Sunday.

Mrs. J. H. Williams visited friends in Clanton Monday.

Messrs. E. R. Horne and A. M. Baker and Miss Nettie Williams of this place visited Mr. W. W. Williams of Fairview, Sunday.

Mrs. A. J. Marlar and granddaughter, Mary Lodge, have returned home after a long visit to friends at Wetumpka

We are glad to say that Dr. E. H Towns' little burned baby is getting along nicely.

Mr. D Apperson is moving to town; we gladly welcome him.

SUBSCRIBER.

Notice To Clanton Circuit.

My health is improving and I will fill my regular appointments on the first Sunday in November, Mt. Moriah at 11 a.m. and Jemison at 7 p.m., God willing. Our 4th Quarterly Conference will convene at Jemison on Nov. 21, at 11 a.m. All of the official members are urged to be present.

J. T. ECKFORD, P. C.

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my Mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. Trial bottle free.

Subscribe for the Banner

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway, Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.			LIABILITIES.
Loans and Discounts	[illegible]		Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000.00
Demand Loans	2,000 00		Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,572 35
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures	3,461 75		Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172 50
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70		Time Certificates	5,567 60
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50		Cashier's Checks	81 06
Currency	12,223 00				$65,821 16
Gold	295 00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,287 01
Checks and Cash Items	20 00
Profit and Loss	4.56
		$37,502 98
Total		$88,406.61	Total		$88,406 61

Shiloh.

As the price of cotton has again reached ten cents, our farmers seem to be in a great rush to get their cotton on the market.

Our school opened on the 23d inst and seems to be in a very progressive state under the management of Prof. C. M. Baker.

We have two large maps in our school room and a large U. S. flag hanging over the house We believe if the patrons will co-operate with Prof. C. M., that we will have one of the most interesting schools that has ever been taught in Shiloh school house.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely under the careful attention of our superintendent, Mr F. W. C. Bice. Success to the Banner and its readers.

TWO SCHOOL GIRLS.

Weogufka Baptist Association

The minutes for 1905 are now ready, and the following churches in the neighborhood of Clanton will please call or send to The Banner office for their share: Cane Creek, Poplar Springs, Union Point and Bethany. The other churches of the Association will be supplied by Secretary Joshua Davis, Shelby, Ala.

Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headache constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers" are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and by virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and Company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder, in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property, as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit;

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each, and the following real estate: Lots 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with Judge of Probate court of said county and State, and a parcel of land 125 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22, Range 14; and a parcel of land on an along the whole east side of said described 125 feet running east to the alley in block No Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No. Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat, containing two acres, more or less, and also Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 minerals excepted. All of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama.

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & Company.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

Providence, Beat 10.

Cotton picking is about over, some are holding for a better price. Our two organizations have agreed on eleven cents and some of our people are standing to it.

We admired the piece in the Banner of last week from Mr. F. A. G. of Verbena to sell for ten cents until we pay our debts and hold the balance for a better price.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely and is becoming more and more interesting. God has enabled us to do a glorious work through our Sunday school, while some of our people are standing idly by waiting for the right temperature; they have cried too hot, and now they have changed their tune and say too cold and are now webbing up for the winter. We had some visitors with us from Clanton and Concord Sunday.

S. S. BOY.

Sardis.

Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely with good attendance.

We were glad to have our old pastor, Rev, Till Deason, with us Saturday and Sunday.

We are sorry to say Mrs. Aree Ramsey is still on the sick list; hope she will soon recover.

Miss Nettie Poole and Mr. Walter Murse were pleasant visitors here Sunday.

Mr. Robert Rober and family visited this community Sunday.

Mr. Posey Adams and wife of Plantersville are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Miss Belle Popwell and brother, Lee, were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. Date Smith and grandaughter, Miss Laura Hayes, were visitors here Sunday. Success to the Banner and its many readers.

SABBATH SCHOOL GIRL.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorby.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President — E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President — E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

COTTON SEED—Buy your Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls at Wade's ginnery. Just got in a car load, and can sell them at prices that defy all competition. Best grade of Meal that can be procured.

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, the same not to give less thcn three gallons of milk per day, M J BARRETT, Thorsby, Ala

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WANTED—We want some good families, boys and girls, to work in the Cotton Mills. Healthy place; cheap rent—mill and mill village supplied with artesian water. No better place to live. Good churches and Sunday schools, also literary schools. Good wages paid twice a month. Apply to J. M. MARTIN, Superintendent Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Co., Prattville, Ala.

TEACHER WANTED — The Trustees of District No. 38 are seeking a teacher. Apply to T. C. Jones, Maplesville, Ala., R. F. D. No. 1.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. KICKER & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties. Guaranteed by Upchurch Drug co. Price 50c.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this season of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.
2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

Hester's Cotton Report Bullish.

New Orleans, La.—Secretary Hester's weekly cotton statement shows for the twenty-seven days of October a decrease under last year of 378,000, and an increase over the same period year before last of 69,000.

For the fifty-seven days of the season that have elapsed the aggregate is behind the same days of last year 436,000 and ahead of the same days year before last 623,000.

The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 422,234 bales, against 547,000 for the same seven days last year and 477,446 year before last.

The movement since September 1 shows receipts at all United States ports to be 2,231,907, against 2,587,105 last year; overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada, 68,287, against 96,746 last year; interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year, 309,624, against 386,814 last year; southern mills taking, 412,000, against 386,860 last year.

The total movement since September 1 is 3,021,820 bales, against 3,457,525 last year.

Foreign exports for the week have been 209,346, against 310,677 last year, making the total thus far for the season 1,334,968, against 1,722,612.

The total takings of American mills, north, south and Canada, thus far for the season have been 750,161, against 722,886 last year.

Interior stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop and the number of bales brought into sight thus far from the new crop the supply to date is 3,466,351, against 3,619,492 for the same period last year.

Oscar Gives Up Norway.

Stockholm.—At a meeting of the council of state King Oscar announced that he would in future use the following style and title: "We, Oscar, by the Grace of God King of Sweden and of Goths Wends." He further announced that his motto will be, "The welfare of Sweden," instead of "The welfare of the sister nations." King Oscar has definitely and formally declined the offer of the Norwegian throne to a prince of the house of Bernadotte, and in a letter to the president of the storthing he finally severed his connection with Norway.

Five Women Badly Burned.

Newark, N. J.—Five women were badly burned, two of them probably fatally, in a fire which destroyed the hardware factory of M. Goul, Sons & Co. The fire started just as the factory was about to close, when one of the girls upset a candle in a pot of lacquer, causing an explosion, which set fire to her clothing and that of her four companions. The girls rushed down the stairs, but were caught on the floor below by workmen, who beat out the flames and carried them out of the building. The flames caused a property loss of about $60,000.

Mouth Organ Band.

London.—Perhaps military organizations in the United States may be interested in a new variety of military band which is now a regular adjunct of the First East Surrey regiment of the British army and which other martial bodies in this country are planning to copy. This band, which was formed only recently, is composed entirely of performers on the mouth organ.

Cattle and Hog Trade Active.

Lynnville, Tenn.—The local market has been flooded with cattle and hogs and no change is noticeable in the activity of the sales, which have been unusually brisk for the past two months. Eight car loads of live stock have been handled and shipped by local dealers, this having been the average weekly shipment for some time from this point.

Peckham and Haas Discharged.

New York.—United States Commissioner Ridgeway discharged from custody Frederick Peckham and Moses Haas, who were charged with having conspired with Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., to defraud the government by securing advance information of the government's cotton report. Commissioner Ridgeway held that neither of the men had committed a crime within the meaning of the statutes.

Stockgrowers' Convention.

Tampa, Fla.—Among the many conventions to be held in Tampa during the State Fair period, November 15 to 30, none will be of greater importance than that of the Southeastern Stockgrowers' Association, composed of many of the most representative business men of the southeastern states.

Internal Revenue Collections.

Washington, D. C.—The monthly statement of the collection of internal revenue shows that during the month of September, 1905, the total receipts from this source were $21,224,573, an increase as compared with September, 1904, of $1,312,317.

Norway and Sweden have agreed to tell their troubles to the Hague court. This is another triumph for peace and common sense.

HOLD YOUR COTTON.

Is What the Cotton Association Says to The Farmer Now.

GET BETTER PRICES FOR IT.

If the Demand Is Supplied the Price Cannot Go Up—So Hold It for Better Prices.

Atlanta, Ga.—Farmers and merchants of the south are warned against cotton buyers who are now busy at many interior points trying to induce spot holders to sell them their cotton at market prices and agreeing to pay any additional advance that may accrue within the next sixty or ninety days. If you deliver up your cotton on that basis and the buyers get enough of the staple in their hands to fill their orders there is but little chance for the market to advance. The only way to force an advance quickly is to refuse to part with the cotton until satisfactory prices are offered. No middling cotton should be sold at interior points for less than 11 cents per pound. The crop is short, and all who hold will be rewarded as they should be.

Again, don't lend your cotton to local mills on the promise of settlement at any time within the next few months. With the staple in the hands of the spinners prices can never advance.

Again, notify warehousemen to whom you ship your cotton for storage that under no circumstances must your cotton be loaned or sold until you are ready to sell it. All kinds of tricks and devices are being resorted to now by buyers and spinners to induce farmers to part with their cotton. Every man who is led into any of those trades is unwittingly playing into the hands of the buyers and against his own interest and that of his neighbors.

Hold your cotton like grim death. Tie up the spot market and stand firm for higher prices, and the victory will soon be yours and the continued prosperity of the south assured. Yours truly,

HARVIE JORDAN,
President Southern Cotton Association.

Plunges Through Bridge.

Lexington, Ky.—Passengers on the Louisville Southern train No. 9, due here at 7 o'clock, had a narrow escape Friday night, when the train was hurled from a bridge seven miles from here into a creek forty feet below. Twelve persons were injured, but none were killed.

The injured: W. L. Herndon, mail clerk, Lancaster, Ky., injured internally and badly crushed; Joseph Thompson, express messenger and baggage master, shoulder broken and head cut, injuries serious; Prof. M. A. Scovell, Lexington, knee hurt; William Hutchison, conductor, Lexington, shoulder broken, back hurt, cut about head; T. W. Hughes, Lexington, rib broken and arms and body bruised; Edward Dowling, Louisville, scalp wound and internally injured; J. W. Crossfield, Lawrenceburg, ankle twisted, badly bruised; J. W. Ripy, Lawrenceburg, arms and legs bruised; James Foster, Salt Lick, body bruised and legs injured; Thomas D. Johnson, Burgin, ankle sprained and neck twisted; W. D. Donaldson, Eminence, slightly; R. W. Vaughan, Lexington, back hurt.

With one exception all of the passengers were slightly injured and badly shaken up. The tender, mail and baggage cars and smoker were splintered and thrown into the creek, and the bridge destroyed entirely.

A more serious accident was probably averted by the presence of mind of the engineer, A. Phillips, who escaped injury. The tender of the engine jumped the track about 100 yards from the bridge, and realizing that if the engine plunged in the whole train would be pulled in after it he threw the throttle wide open and barely succeeded in getting the engine across the bridge when the sides of the bridge were battered down by the ploughing cars. The mail was saved, but all the baggage was destroyed or damaged by water.

Farmer Is Found Dead.

Attalla, Ala.—Clinton Reed, a prominent farmer who lived near Attalla, was found dead in the woods near his home by one of his neighbors, Mrs. S. A. Shores. Mr. Reed left his home to go hunting in the woods near by, but failed to return when night came. About 3 o'clock in the morning a searching party was formed, and the finding of the dead body was the result. A coroner's inquiry was held by Coroner Woodliff. Mr. Reed leaves a wife and two children.

Collision in Subway.

Boston, Mass.—A collision in the subway occurred near the Park station. One train was stalled by the blowing out of a fuse, and another dashed into it from the rear. Both trains were crowded. At the office of the Boston Elevated Railway Company it was stated that none of the passengers in the collision had been injured beyond slight cuts and bruises and that traffic had been stopped but momentarily.

Respect Uniform.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Bonaparte has directed the dismissal of an employe of the Norfolk navy yard as a result of a complaint which came to the department that the employe, after having agreed to lease two rooms of his house to a machinist's mate serving with the reserve torpedo flotilla, refused to carry out the agreement because it would be necessary for the machinist's mate to come to his residence dressed in the uniform of a petty officer of the United States navy. The employe in his explanation to the department said that neither he nor his wife had any objection to the uniform, but owing to the prejudice which existed in the town of Berkley against sailors he felt it due to his family, in order to maintain their position in the town, that he should refuse to allow a sailor to reside in his house. After consideration of the employe's statement Secretary Bonaparte holds: "That a person whose attitude towards the uniform of enlisted men is what this employe states is ineligible for employment by this department." It is ordered that the services of the employe be dispensed with immediately.

Fires on Passenger.

Savannah, Ga.—E. A. Moore, a street car conductor, in an altercation with a passenger drew a heavy revolver and fired three shots. The first shot went wild, the second struck and killed Mrs. E. F. Wheeler and the third went through the thigh of C. R. Zickinger, the passenger involved in the altercation. Mrs. Wheeler was sitting on her front steps. The bullet severed her jugular vein. Mrs. J. Fairchilds jumped from the car, as did the other passengers, when the shooting began. Mrs. Fairchilds sustained a broken shoulder from her fall. Moore was arrested. It is alleged he was drinking.

Democrats Offer No Opposition.

New York.—That there will be no opposition by the democratic party to the placing of the name of William Travers Jerome on the republican official ballot is practically assured. The certificate of the action of the reconvened republican county convention in substituting the name of Mr. Jerome for that of Judge Flammer has been filed with the board of elections. The board will pass upon the question of the validity of the action as soon as possible.

Train Derailed.

Augusta, Ga.—A special from Greenville, S. C., says: Local passenger train No. 11, on its way to Atlanta over the Southern Railway, was derailed at Norris, thirty miles from this place, Friday evening. Reports here are meagre, but it is certain that Fireman R. J. Hamilton, white, of Atlanta, is dead, Baggage Master Chestnut seriously hurt, with the mail clerk, whose name cannot be learned, slightly hurt. The cause of the derailment is not known. The locomotive left the track and turned over, followed by three cars. No passengers were injured.

Fire in Columbus.

Columbus, Ga.—The plant of the Garrison Veneer and Woodwork Company was destroyed by fire at a loss of $20,000. There was $12,000 insurance. A large quantity of crates awaiting shipment to Cuba was destroyed. The company will probably rebuild. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Accidentally Killed by Gun.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The news has been brought to the city of the death of John Robertson, who accidentally shot himself just as he was starting out for a hunt. It seems that he was standing on the gallery resting the butt of his gun on the floor, with his hand over the end of the barrel. The butt being near the edge of the floor, slipped, when the hammer caught on the edge, discharging the load, which tore his hand terribly and entered his head through his chin and neck. He lived only a short while.

White Man Hanged.

Tampa, Fla.—Edward Lamb, white, who shot and killed Christopher D. Kennedy, also white, in Manatee county two years ago, was hanged Friday at the county jail at Braidentown in the presence of 100 witnesses. Lamb insisted on having his photograph taken before going to the gallows, and was perfectly cool throughout. At the foot of the gallows he affectionately said good-bye to his son, sister and brother-in-law, kissing each of them and asking them to meet him in heaven.

Dared to Climb the Pole.

Bloomington, Ill.—Miss Florence Morner accepted the dare of a party of girl friends to climb the iron spiked steps on an electric pole at Petersburg while returning from a social affair. She touched her hand to a live wire at the summit and was hurled to the pavement below, breaking her back. She cannot live.

Tucker Confers With Taft.

Washington, D. C.—Henry St. George Tucker, president of the Jamestown Exposition Company, was at the war department and had a conference with Secretary Taft in reference to the war department exhibit at the exposition. He has had similar conferences with other members of the cabinet. He is going to Europe in the interests of the exposition, and has procured credentials from the state department.

DEATH OF AUTOCRACY.

The Formal Steps Taken by The Czar Monday. His Manifesto.

POWER CONFERRED ON DOUMA.

Count Witte Is the First Minister President—General Suffrage.

St. Petersburg.—The autocracy of the Romanoffs, the old order of things, ceases to exist in Russia. Emperor Nicholas has surrendered and Count Witte comes into power as minister president with an imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcial national assembly into real legislative body, elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer on the people fundamental civil liberties, including free speech.

These welcome tidings reached St. Petersburg shortly before 6 o'clock Monday evening. Count Witte had spent the day with the Emperor at Peterhof, going over the final draft of the manifesto to which he insisted that certain minor modifications be made and before taking the train for St. Petersburg he telephoned to a friend that the Emperor had affixed his signature and that the imperial mandate comprising the conditions on which he had agreed to accept office was in his pocket. These include freedom for the press, the right of assembly and the immunity of the person, including the right of habeas corpus.

The official announcement issued this evening says:

"An imperial manifesto will be issued this evening, appointing Count Witte prime minister with special authority to co-ordinate and unify the powers of different branches of the army. Civic liberties are granted to the Russian people and to the national assembly is given legislative power, while the suffrage is enlarged."

The following is the text of the imperial manifesto:

"We, Nicholas the second, by the grace of God, Emperor and autocrat of all the Russians, grand duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that troubles and agitation in our capitals and in numerous other places fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow.

"The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up in the happiness of our people and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign.

"The present disorders may cause to arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

"The Supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to efface ourselves and to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and coordination of the power of central government and to assure the success of the measures for pacification in all circles of public life, which are essential to the well being of our people.

"We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:

"First: To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civic liberty based on the real inviolability of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"Second: Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state Douma, to invite participation in the Douma, so far as the limited time before the convention of the Douma will permit, those classes of population now completely deprived of electoral rights leaving the ultimate developments of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things.

"Third: To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the State Douma and that it shall be possible for the elected representatives of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us.

"We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty toward the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply their forces, in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhof, October 30, in the eleventh year of our reign."

"NICHOLAS."

Many Are Rejected.

Washington.—During the past fiscal year there were 1,582 applicants for enlistment at the Birmingham recruiting station, 1,224 were rejected, and of those accepted 248 were white and 110 colored.

Lockjaw and Blood Poison.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—As the result of a vaccination which was performed a few days ago little 11-year-old Louise Trimby, daughter of Joseph Trimby, a well-known contractor, is lying seriously ill at her home in Sherman Heights, and fears are entertained for her recovery. It is stated that lockjaw and blood poison as the direct result of the vaccination have set in and that the most heroic remedies only can save the child's life.

Grafters Get $6,330,000.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The report of the board of investigating engineers appointed last July by Mayor Weaver to examine the filtration of the city and the northeastern and southern boulevards, now under construction, which report has been submitted to the mayor, has been made public. It is signed by Maj. Cassius E. Gillette, of the United State engineer corps, who investigated the Savannah harbor frauds, and John Donald McLennon, of Washington. The report shows that up to date the city has lost through excessive costs, collusive bids, illegal advertising and in other ways the sum of $6,330,000.

The contractors who received most of the more than $18,000,000 that has been expended on improvements, are D. J. McNichols & Co., A. J. Ryan and John A. Keller, and Vare Bros. The members of the McNichol firm are Israel W. Durham, leader of the local republican organization; State Senator J. P. McNichol, also a city leader, and the latter's brother Daniel. The Vare firm is made up of State Senator George A. Vare and Edwin H. Vare. Their brother, William S. Vare, is recorder of deeds, an elective office. The officials held responsible by the city for some of the conditions in connection with the filtration system are John C. Haddon, who was director of public works under Mayor Ashbridge; Peter E. Costello, director of public works under Mayor Weaver until last May, when the mayor dismissed him and John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, who is waiting trial on charges of fraud and falsification of records in connection with the construction of the filtration system.

Yellow Fever.

New Orleans, La.—In the present condition of affairs it is expected that the current week will see the end of new cases of yellow fever. The number of cases under treatment has fallen to twenty-eight and comparatively few active foci remain. Business is rapidly assuming normal proportions and the hotels are filling up.

Chairman Charles Janvier, of the citizens' committee, believing the struggle practically over, has gone east for a month. Mr. Janvier's report shows that with $60,000 received from the state, the total money available here for conducting the fight was $260,184.81, of which $215,474.47 was expended, leaving $44,710.34 in the bank to wind up the campaign. The balance remaining at the end, which will certainly exceed $50,000, will go to the isolation hospital. It cost $26,625.70 to maintain the emergency hospital during the epidemic. For labor, $137,186.60 was spent.

Dr. Roger Post Ames, of the United States army, who remained here throughout the fever, having charge of the protection of the barracks against invasion, and who gave much of his time to fighting the fever in St. Bernard parish, has gone to the forts down the river, where he will do duty.

Governor Blanchard and party have returned to Baton Rouge. The governor, before he left, looked deeply into the work here and expressed himself as believing that it could not possibly have been done better.

Togo Seized By Strong Emotion.

Tokio.—The great Shinto rites in memory of the naval officers and men who were killed during the war were held at Aoyama cemetery. Besides the admirals, officers and sailors, hundreds of civil dignitaries were present.

Admiral Togo addressed the departed spirits, eulogizing their noble deeds in battle and their gallant co-operation which resulted in the sacrifice of their lives. He humbly asked repose for the spirits whose exemplary deeds in life had contributed to the victory over a powerful enemy. While reading his address Admiral Togo was seen to be seized with strong emotion which was in contrast with his calm demeanor while on the bridge of the Mikasa during the hottest battles. The ceremony was most impressive and calculated to leave a lasting impression on those who witnessed it. Thousands of sailors marched to the accompanying strains of music to the cemetery, and afterwards to the naval club.

"Royal Flush" Kills Him.

Huntington, W. Va.—Col. William Simms, a well-known stock dealer, fell dead at the Little Queen Club rooms here while playing poker. The game was a big one, and Colonel Simms had been winning steadily. At 8 o'clock a big pot was on, and several hundred dollars' worth of chips were on the table before cards were drawn. When the dealer helped hands Colonel Simms drew one card, and, after looking at it, gasped and fell back dead. It was found the colonel clutched in his stiffenings hands what is known in card parlance as a "royal flush." Physicians pronounced death due to over-excitement incident to the great catch.

Killed by a Train.

Fayetteville, Tenn.—The body of a man was found near Howell Station at an early hour this morning. It was evident that he had been killed by the early morning train, as the body was found near the railroad track and was warm. His back was broken and his right arm shattered. Papers in his pocket indicated that his name was Jim Carroll, that his home was in England.

STATE HAPPENINGS

Of General and Local Interest as They Occur.

Found Dead in Bed.

Birmingham, Ala.—When a call b of the Birmingham went to the of A. P. Allis, of Paris, Ky., to him at 7.30 o'clock Friday morning man was dead. His face was but there was still some about the body, which indicated he had breathed his last only a time before he expected to get After an examination was made by physician the body was viewed by the coroner, who declared that death sulted from natural causes. It prepared for burial by Gaudin and at 6.40 on the Alabama Great Southern to his late home in Paris Friday night.

Engineer Badly Hurt.

Montgomery, Ala.—Engineer Walte E. Cronier, who has a switch engi in the yards of the Mobile and Oh Railroad, happened to an accid early Friday morning that may co him his life. From all that can learned Engineer Cronier was on running board of his engine, when foot in some unaccountable manne slipped, and he fell under the whe of the moving locomotive. As soon possible he was dragged out and ca ried rapidly to St. Margaret's hos pital. Medical aid was quickly hand. A consultation of several su geons decided at once that his onl chance for life lay in a double op tion. The wheels of the engine cru ed his left arm, and his left thigh terribly mutilated. Both limbs we amputated, the arm at the elbow an the leg just above the middle thi and almost against the trunk of th body. The operation is very dange ous, and his condition is very critic Engineer Cronier was about 32 ye of age and has a wife and four chi dren.

Ex-Congressman Is Ill.

Columbus, Ga.—Thomas W. Gri ex-congressman from the Fourth Ge gia district, is critically ill at the hospital and is thought to be in a ing condition. While a member congress he refused to eat at the table with a negro in a Washin restaurant, and the incident was graphed all over the country. Grimes was defeated for reele because he flatly refused to subs to the doctrines of the Farmers' A ance.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Robert L. rell has been appointed postmaste Pondville, Bibb county, vice J. Krout, resigned.

Rural route No. 2 ordered establ ed January 2 at Mumford, Tallad county, serving 450 people and houses.

Jesse M. Arrant appointed re John C. Arrant, substitute rural rier, route No. 2 at Seale.

Was Jostled Under Wheels of T

Huntsville, Ala.—An white man was killed under the of No. 40 on the Southern Railway the passenger depot. He was under the train by the jostling and his body cut in two. Hundre people saw the accident. The has not been identified, and he have come in on the train that him. He was evidently a laborer.

Fire on Workmen.

Warsaw.—At Pabianice, in the ernment of Piotrakoff, dragoons on a demonstration of 4,000 work killing two and wounding fourteen military patrol refused to mount on the streets. Many policemen leaving the service.

Lodge to Build New Home.

Florence, Ala.—The first steps direction of erecting a handsome home for the Monte Belle Knights of Pythias was taken recent meeting, when a committee appointed to undertake the work. order is very strong in Florence, their numerical and financial will justify them in building a their own.

Many residences and business are in course of construction, and streets are being built, giving ence an air of prosperity that of the boom days, fifteen ago.

Injuries May Be Fatal.

Sheffield, Ala.—The bursting tuyure pipe at Sheffield Coal and Company's furnace No. 2 will the death of Frank Brassell. fortunate man was horribly his clothes being scorched body by the intense heat. moved to his home in a dying tion.

Burlington, Vt.—Seventeen whose ages range from 2 to at the St. Joseph's Orphan this city, were taken suddenly three of them died within At an autopsy held under of the state board it that the death of the due to poisoning, but had not appeared.

The cucumber came Indies.

[illegible] THAT DON'T SPEAK

LIKE INDIVIDUALS, THEY SOMETIMES CUT ACQUAINTANCE.

England Ignores Servia and Bolivia—Turkey Will Have Nothing to Do With Japan—The Relationship Between Austria and Montenegro Decidedly Chilly.

There are in the world nations as well as individual people, who "won't know each other," or who are not on speaking terms.

Two nations more or less continuously in our eye are unacquainted diplomatically—Japan and Turkey. Though during the last two years questions have often arisen in which our Eastern ally would have liked to pop a word into the ear of Abdul Hamid II—especially such questions as the free passage of Russia's volunteer fleet through the Dardanelles—Japan has no accredited representative to Turkey and Turkey has none to Japan.

As a matter of fact they simply don't know each other. The Sultan of Turkey has a rooted objection on principle to foreign diplomatists, and is about as anxious to receive a new one as the average mouse is anxious to receive a cat. Therefore he has never consented to a Japanese Minister at Yildiz Kiosk. It is, however, expected that after the war Japan will be able to put that little matter right.

Two powers whose territories adjoin each other who may be said to practically cut each other dead are Austria and Montenegro. One of the surest signs of good relationship between countries is the existence of a treaty of commerce, by which one nation enjoys the "most favored nation" tariff within the other's boundaries. Though adjoining, Austria steadfastly refuses to grant Montenegro such a treaty, probably because of the little principality's notorious friendship for Russia. The result is that the goods of the Montenegrins are heavily taxed before they can even leave this country and smuggling is rife on the borders.

It is, however, notorious that certain of the powers "won't know" Servia as a punishment for the fearful massacre in 1903 of King Alexander and Queen Draga. Britain is the most aloof of these powers, and now, for nearly two years, we have had no diplomatic intercourse with King Peter, our business with him being done by our consul, Mr. Thessiger, at Belgrade.

Morocco has been very much talked about of late, but, though Britain is on visiting terms with the Sultan through our minister at Fez, Morocco has no representative in London. Her nearest approach to the British ear is conducted at Gibraltar by a gentleman who rejoices in the name of Taleb-Abd-es-Islam-Bou-Zian-el-Tanji.

The new Republic of Panama has as yet got to "know" us, in the usual way, by sending a representative.

The shoe is on the other foot in the case of Great Britain and Bolivia. Our relations with that South American state have been distinctly "offish" for the last fifty years. Three times since 1852 have we appointed a minister, but for various reasons he has never gone to his post. There is no British minister in Bolivia at the present time.

In the case of some small states, Britain, as it were, "kills" her social duties by appointing one minister for four. Thus Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador each rejoice in one-quarter of a minister resident, the whole of that official being to represent us to all four at once.

Apart altogether from times of war, we have often been in the position of "not knowing" another state.

Of all great powers in recent years, we have fallen out, diplomatically, most with the United States. Old time United States Presidents had a way of dismissing an Ambassador with little ceremony. The President of 185 promptly "sacked" Mr. Crampton, our minister, to show his disapproval of the British habit of recruiting in the United States soldiers to fight in the foreign legion against Russia.

Thirty-two years later, in 188 President Cleveland "cut" us dead in the same fashion by dismissing Lord Sackville, our Ambassador, for having written a letter commenting on a political question.—Pearson's Weekly.

PROPHETS REAP BIG PROFITS

Professional Weather Forecaster Have Clients All Over the Country.

To acquire a reputation as weather prophet does not necessari mean that one is classed as a harm less sort of crank. There is mon in fame of that kind. One forecas over in New Jersey has a sufficie number of clients who pay him f prognosticating the weather to insu him a good living. An idea of his muneration for his services may gathered from the statement that has a contract with one firm of ag culturists that grows beans, to supp them with daily forecasts for $1,200 year. As he hits the weather rig four days out of five his clients f their money is well invested, for th seldom make mistakes in planting harvesting time.

In Washington, D. C., there is a fo casting sharp who calls himself "P fessor" and whose business, accordi to his letter heads, is simply "T Weather." He supplies his foreca to newspapers all over the count the Middle West being his particul

STATE HAPPENI

Of General and Local Interest as They Occur.

Found Dead in Bed.

Birmingham, Ala.—When a call of the Birmingham went to the
of A. P. Allis, of Paris, Ky., to him at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning man was dead. His face was but there was still some about the body, which indicated he had breathed his last only a time before he expected to get After an examination was made by physician the body was viewed by the coroner, who declared that death sulted from natural causes. It prepared for burial by Gaudin and at 6:40 on the Alabama Great Southern to his late home in Paris Friday night.

Engineer Badly Hurt.

Montgomery, Ala.—Engineer Walter
E. Cronier, who has a switch engine in the yards of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, happened to an accident early Friday morning that may cost him his life. From all that can be learned Engineer Cronier was on the running board of his engine, when his foot in some unaccountable manner slipped, and he fell under the wheels of the moving locomotive. As soon as possible he was dragged out and carried rapidly to St. Margaret's Hospital. Medical aid was quickly at hand. A consultation of several surgeons decided at once that his only chance for life lay in a double operation. The wheels of the engine crushed his left arm, and his left thigh was terribly mutilated. Both limbs were amputated, the arm at the elbow and the leg just above the middle thigh and almost against the trunk of the body. The operation is very dangerous, and his condition is very critical.
Engineer Cronier was about 32 years of age and has a wife and four children.

Ex-Congressman Is Ill.

Columbus, Ga.—Thomas W. Grimes, ex-congressman from the Fourth Georgia district, is critically ill at the hospital and is thought to be in a dying condition. While a member of congress he refused to eat at the same table with a negro in a Washington restaurant, and the incident was telegraphed all over the country.
Grimes was defeated for re-election because he flatly refused to subscribe to the doctrines of the Farmers' Alliance.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Robert L. C
rell has been appointed postmaster
Pondville, Bibb county, vice J.
Krout, resigned.

Rural route No. 2 ordered estab-
ed January 2 at Mumford, Talladega county, serving 450 people and houses.

Jesse M. Arrant appointed regular John C. Arrant, substitute rural rier, route No. 2 at Seale.

Was Jostled Under Wheels of Tr

Huntsville, Ala.—An unknown
white man was killed under the wheels of No. 40 on the Southern Railway the passenger depot. He was under the train by the jostling crowd and his body cut in two. Hundreds people saw the accident. The body has not been identified, and he have come in on the train that killed him. He was evidently a laborer.

Fire on Workmen.

Warsaw.—At Pabianice, in the government of Piotrakoff, dragoons on a demonstration of 4,000 workmen killing two and wounding fourteen.
military patrol refused to mount on the streets. Many policemen leaving the service.

Lodge to Build New Home.

Florence, Ala.—The first steps in direction of erecting a handsome home for the Monte Bello Knights of Pythias, was taken at recent meeting, when a committee appointed to undertake the work.
order is very strong in Florence, their numerical and financial strength will justify them in building a home their own.

Many residences and business are in course of construction, and streets are being built, giving ence an air of prosperity that of the boom days, fifteen ago.

Injuries May Be Fatal.

Sheffield, Ala.—The bursting tuyure pipe at Sheffield Coal and Company's furnace No. 3 will the death of Frank Brazeal. The fortunate man was horribly his clothes being scorched from body by the intense heat.
moved to his home in a dying
tion.

Burlington, Vt.—Seventeen whose ages range from 2 to 6 at the St. Joseph's Orphan this city, were taken suddenly ill, three of them died within
At an autopsy held under the of the state board it was that the death of the three due to poisoning, but the
had not appeared.

The cucumber came Indies.

ATIONS THAT DON'T SPEAK

LIKE INDIVIDUALS, THEY SOMETIMES CUT ACQUAINTANCE.

England Ignores Servia and Bolivia—Turkey Will Have Nothing to Do With Japan—The Relationship Between Austria and Montenegro Decidedly Chilly.

There are in the world nations, as well as individual people, who "won't know each other," or who are not on speaking terms.

Two nations more or less continuously in our eye are unacquainted diplomatically—Japan and Turkey. Though during the last two years questions have often arisen in which our Eastern ally would have liked to pop a word into the ear of Abdul Hamid II—especially such questions as the free passage of Russia's volunteer fleet through the Dardanelles last year—Japan has no accredited representative to Turkey and Turkey has none to Japan.

As a matter of fact, they simply don't know each other. The Sultan of Turkey has a rooted objection on principle to foreign diplomatists, and is about as anxious to receive a new one as the average mouse is anxious to receive a cat. Therefore he has never consented to a Japanese Minister at Yildiz Kiosk. It is, however, expected that after the war Japan will be able to put that little matter right.

Two powers whose territories adjoin each other who may be said to practically cut each other dead are Austria and Montenegro. One of the surest signs of good relationship between countries is the existence of a treaty of commerce, by which one nation enjoys the "most favored nation" tariff within the other's boundaries. Though adjoining, Austria steadfastly refuses to grant Montenegro such a treaty, probably because of the little principality's notorious friendship for Russia. The result is that the goods of the Montenegrins are heavily taxed before they can even leave this country and smuggling is rife on the borders.

It is, however, notorious that certain of the powers "won't know" Servia as a punishment for the fearful massacre in 1903 of King Alexander and Queen Draga. Britain is the most aloof of these powers, and now, for nearly two years, we have had no diplomatic intercourse with King Peter, our business with him being done by our consul, Mr. Thessiger, at Belgrade.

Morocco has been very much talked about of late, but, though Britain is on visiting terms with the Sultan, through our minister at Fez, Morocco has no representative in London. Her nearest approach to the British ear is conducted at Gibraltar by a gentleman who rejoices in the name of Taleb-Abd-es-Islam-Bou-Zian-el-Tanji.

The new Republic of Panama has as yet got to "know" us, in the usual way, by sending a representative.

The shoe is on the other foot in the case of Great Britain and Bolivia. Our relations with that South American state have been distinctly "offish" for the last fifty years. Three times since 1852 have we appointed a minister, but for various reasons he has never gone to his post. There is no British minister in Bolivia at the present time.

In the case of some small states, Britain, as it were, "kills" her social duties by appointing one minister for four. Thus Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador each rejoice in one-quarter of a minister resident, the whole of that official being to represent us to all four at once.

Apart altogether from times of war, we have often been in the position of "not knowing" another state.

Of all great powers in recent years, we have fallen out, diplomatically, most with the United States. Old time United States Presidents had a way of dismissing an Ambassador with little ceremony. The President of 1856 promptly "sacked" Mr. Crampton, our minister, to show his disapproval of the British habit of recruiting in the United States soldiers to fight in the foreign legion against Russia.

Thirty-two years later, in 1888, President Cleveland "cut" us dead in the same fashion by dismissing Lord Sackville, our Ambassador, for having written a letter commenting on a political question.—Pearson's Weekly.

PROPHETS REAP BIG PROFITS.

Professional Weather Forecasters Have Clients All Over the Country.

To acquire a reputation as a weather prophet does not necessarily mean that one is classed as a harmless sort of crank. There is money in fame of that kind. One forecaster over in New Jersey has a sufficient number of clients who pay him for prognosticating the weather to insure him a good living. An idea of his remuneration for his services may be gathered from the statement that he has a contract with one firm of agriculturists that grows beans, to supply them with daily forecasts for $1,200 a year. As he hits the weather right four days out of five his clients feel their money is well invested, for they seldom make mistakes in planting or harvesting time.

In Washington, D. C., there is a forecasting sharp who calls himself "Professor" and whose business, according to his letter heads, is simply "The Weather." He supplies his forecasts to newspapers all over the country, the Middle West being his particular stronghold. An illustration of how much the farmers out there depend upon the forecasts in preference to those sent out by the Government was shown a short while ago, when several newspapers in Iowa and Missouri decided to drop his service and so informed him. As soon as the farmer readers of these papers realized that the professor's forecasts had been dropped they flooded the editor's mails with letters of protest. Whereupon the editors wired the professor to resume his service at once.

There is another weather sharp down in Virginia whose specialty is yearly and monthly forecasts for advertising purposes. Practically every almanac issued by patent medicine concerns in the country is gotten up by this man, and amateur meteorologists who have kept track of his predictions and the actual weather conditions for a year at a time declare the Virginia man is a "wonder." One of his schemes is to provide monthly forecasts for enterprising clients who print them on the backs of advertising cards and dodgers issued every month. Considering that the Government forecasters only hit the weather right less than one day in two foretelling the weather for a whole year in advance seems a pretty big contract.—New York Press.

JOKE IN FACE OF DEATH.

Victims in Tubercuolisis Colony Are a Mirthful Set.

At Liberty Falls, in Sullivan county, is an outdoor station for "lungers" which is patronized by several hundred persons. The patients, when under cover at all, are beneath canvas, and each one has a small tent to which he retreats in case of rain or snow, or when, as more frequently happens, his condition renders it impossible for him to arise. When this stage arrives they go to bed in the tent and stay there awaiting death.

A racing writer of international reputation has been a patient there for nearly a year. He went at a time that consumption had not fully developed in his case, and the other day he returned to the city on a visit, looking like an Indian, the sun having burned his skin to a deep copper color. He said the community was the most hilarious he had ever enjoyed association with, and that while more than 50 per cent. of the people there were marked for death, having come too late to rceive any benefit from the outdoor treatment, they were the happiest body of men and women in the world. They find cause for laughter in everything, and the ludicrous side of any subject always appeals to them first, and their appreciation of it is hung on a hair trigger.

"Even death itself furnishes the subject for a pathetic jest," said the returned patient. "The reason is that the outdoor life awakens their spirits, even when it cannot restore the health that is wrecked beyond all help. A case happened the other day. A fellow died in his tent, which was the last one in the row. In accordance with custom, the body was left till night, so that its removal might not be witnessed by the community. In the opposite tent was another poor fellow in the last stages of the disease. When the attendants came to remove the body of the dead man they entered the wrong tent and began to dispose of the living.

"'Wait a little,' he whispered; 'it doesn't matter much—only a few hours. First come, first served. The chap across the way is the dead one. Lay him out—then come back. I'll be ready for you. Good joke on you! Good-night!'

"When they came in the morning he, too, was dead, with a smile on his lips, and the whole colony was finding mirth in the gruesome story."—New York Press.

A Tale of a Cat.

Miss Sadie Nicholson of Edgefield, S. C., has proved to her own satisfaction that a cat has nine lives. About two weeks ago, while Miss Nicholson was packing her trunk in Edgefield preparatory to her journey to California, a pet kitten suddenly disappeared. Miss Nicholson finished her packing, closed, locked and strapped the trunk, and had it checked through to Long Beach. She came by way of Cincinnati, Chicago and Denver, and was delayed at several points. When she arrived at Los Angeles she unpacked her trunk, and at the bottom found the kitten, much emaciated, but still alive. It had jumped into the trunk at Edgefield, hidden among Miss Nicholson's dresses, and made the trip across the continent. A little nourishment put the kitten right again.

Preached From Famous Stone.

A huge stone in Drewton Dale, East Yorkshire, Eng., from which St. Augustine preached, as the legend runs, when on his mission to the Saxons in the seventh century, was recently the scene of a service conducted by Dr. Blunt, the bishop of Hull. The only instance in the thirteen century interval in which the stone had been utilized as a preaching place was in 1788, when John Wesley, then 84 years old, addressed a large meeting of Yorkshiremen.

Submarine Forest.

By means of glass-bottomed boats it has been discovered that the bottom of Monterey bay, California, is a beautiful submarine forest of sea oranges, green ribbons, horse tail, sea pompons, etc. Some of the plants are 30 feet in height.

DEMONSTRATOR'S TRICKS

LATEST DEVELOPMENT OR THE SALESWOMAN.

Bright Girl Clerks Watched for by Inventors and Others—A Typical Demonstrating Story—The Hair Curler and the Nuns—Demonstrating Cosmetics at a Summer Hotel.

The young woman who demonstated talked about her calling rather interestingly. She realized that it was a life of uncertainties, but she had grown used to it, and had come to take its very uncertainty as a part of the charm of it. "I began to sell things when I was fifteen," she said. "A year before that I went to work in a department store as a cash girl. In six months I was raised to a stock girl, and without waiting to pass through the next stage, which is that of a wrapper of parcels, I was advanced to sell notions. This was at Christmas time, during a rush. I suppose I was a pretty good saleswoman from the start, for I was kept at the notion counter after the holidays. You know the dull time comes on then, and a great many girls are laid off. So I was lucky to be able to keep my five-dollars-a-week job. Live on five dollars a week? I didn't. Very few girls try to, despite the stories you hear. The majority of working girls live at home with their families and hand in their pay envelope to their mothers every week. They get enough back for car fares, lunches and clothes. The rest goes into the family fund.

"Most of the first-class department stores won't employ girls who do not live at home with their families. This sounds very virtuous, and I've heard ladies say to one another in the stores where I've worked that they enjoyed coming to that particular place because they knew the clerks were all nice girls. 'You know —— employ only girls who live at home,' they say. Well, what does that mean? That —— do not pay living wages to their clerks. They make the family pay part of what is coming to the girl. We all see that, but what if we do?

One Demonstrator's Start.

"I graduated from the notion counter at the time of the world's fair in Chicago. The firm I was with had bought a patent hair curler. They had never sold many of the curlers but they believed that the thing was good and they determined to push it. You observe that my hair is very wavy. That is why I was selected to demonstrate the curler at the exposition. I had a neat little booth with mirrors and a toilet table wih brushes and things on it. I had also a wax bust with flaxen hair, very wavy, and on this I did the demonstrating. I was to have six dollars a week and a commission on all the curlers I sold. I worked hard, but sold very few curlers during the first few days. Later I began to understand the thing better, and in the second week I made money. The particular thing is to size-up your crowd. You have to be able to tell the difference between a customer and, excuse the expression, a rubber. Why so many people take a delight in testing something they never mean to buy puzzles me. Women with hair that never would curl, women who would never take the trouble to curl their hair, used to stand entranced watching me wave the locks of my waxen model. They would ask questions and finger the hair and the curler, while all that wonderful exposition was waiting for them to see.

"A perfectly typical incident occurred one day. Two little nuns came along escorted by some women friends. Of course, it was a very unusual thing for nuns to be doing an exposition, and these showed a little excitement. Near by was an exhibit which attracted the attention of the women, but did not especially interest the nuns. They waited at one side with their eyes cast down, and their hands in their sleeves. All of a sudden one of them looked up and saw me and my wax model; she touched the other sister on the arm and the two of them crept over to my booth. I began to demonstrate out of pure force of habit. I moistened the lock of hair, took up the curler and twined the hair through it, taking my usual glib yarn. They watched me fairly fastcinated, the younger nun with a bright smile on her face. The humor of it came over me while I was in the middle of the operation, and I nearly laughed out. But I kept on, and after I had successfully curled the flaxen lock I picked up another strand and demonstrated on that. They stood as if rooted to the ground watching me, but when I was half way through they all of a sudden looked at each other, turned fiery red, and moved away as quickly as they could. What business had they to be admiring curled hair? But they were as rational as most of the women I came in contact with.

"At my boarding house I met a girl who was demonstrating another article. She wore very stylish gowns. We got to talking confidentially and she asked me what my employer was paying me. I told her six dollars a week and commissions, which made my income about nine dollars a week. 'Good gracious,' she cried. 'I guess you're new in the business. Why, a good demonstrator is worth every cent of $15 a week.'

"The next day I struck and promptly lost my job. My friend at the boarding house introduced me to her employer, who carried a miscellaneous line of goods, and he put me to demonstrating a jelly powder. I had never cooked anything in my life, but it somehow came natural to handle spoons and saucepans. I wore a trim blue linen gown, provided by my employer, a big lawn apron, and a butterfly cap, an impossible costume for a cook, to be sure, but quite pretty and becoming. I made all kinds of jellies, and in a short time learned to mould bunches of grapes and assorted fruits in pink mounds of jelly. That took, and I sold plenty of powder. I have never eaten any jelly since. I got sick of the very sight of the stuff.

"Since then I have demonstrated breakfast foods, teas, coffees, beef tea capsules, ice cream powder, corsets, a contrivance to put on a tea kettle spout, and iron out ribbons, a bread mixer, a fountain pen, a folding bed, and a few other things. I am rarely out of a job, and about every department store in New York and Chicago knows me. I am sent to state fairs and to expositions, and I manage to see a good deal of the world. I am just back from a summer hotel where I demonstrated a face bleach for sunburn. I had a booth on the board walk at the entrance to one of the largest hotels. The girls used to pass it on their way in from bathing or golf, and I did a lively business. I had a large mirror just behind me, and, of course, every woman looks into a mirror wherever she sees one. The contrast between their peeled noses and tanned skins and my pink and white complexion was startling. My fairness was supposed to be to a constant use of the face bleach, but it wasn't. I'm naturally fair, and before I was sent to the resort I was put through a regular beauty course, creams, massage, face steaming, etc., at the best place in New York. My employers paid, of course, but after this I mean to keep my complexion in the best possible order.

"The demonstrator's stock in trade consists first of all in her personal appearance. She must be good looking, healthy, and comfortable. It would never do to let a pale, sickly girl demonstrate a food, for instance. People would instantly suspect that the food was not wholesome. Likewise it would be poor policy to let a girl with no figure nor style demonstrate a dress accessory of any kind. No one would have any confidence in its power to make her look well. A girl with fine hair, a good skin, and a well set-up figure can always get a job anyhow if she has any ability at all. Unless she has those distinctions she should never try to demontrate. After her personal appearance she should possess the power to talk fluently, to answer questions quickly, and to be friendly with people at first contact. She must be able to learn her article, whatever it is, thoroughly. That is easy to a versatile girl, and most girls are versatile if they have a chance.

"I like my work much better than selling goods regularly over one counter. There is variety to it, better wages than an ordinary clerk usually gets, and much more freedom. Of course, it is uncertain. You never know how long an engagement will last. If the article sells well you may be employed for weeks at a time. If it doesn't you are laid off at once. But you learn not to disturb yourself when you are laid off, to go on with the next thing. It almost always turns up."—New York Post.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

By means of glass bottomed boats it has been discovered, according to The Indianapolis News, that the bottom of Monterey Bay, Cal., is a beautiful submarine forest of sea oranges, green ribbons, horse tail, sea pompoms, etc. Some of the plants are 30 feet in height.

The automobile is making its way to the ends of the earth. In the upper part of Transkei (Kaffirland) a service of motor cycles has recently been established, ridden by natives, to carry the mails from Mount Frere to the outlying stations, and up onto Kokstadt, a distance of 70 miles.

The biggest rope ever used for haulage purposes has just been made for a district subway in Glasgow, Scotland. It is seven miles long, four and five-eighths inches in circumference and weighs 60 tons. It has been made in one unjoined and unspliced length of patent crucible steel.

In the Island of Luzon, one of the Philippines, a lily or tulip with a black flower, eight or nine inches across, has been discovered by an American. It flowers before the leaves appear, and has an odor of tainted flesh, which attracts insects to it for the purpose of cross fertilization.

They attend to the comfort of the public ear in Belgium. At Verviere, organ grinders are by law compelled to appear every morning before the police superintendent and play their instruments. The organs which chance to be out of tune must be set in order before a license to play on the streets will be granted.

The greatest forest of sugar pine on the globe begins at the Klamath and extends northward past the glittering peaks of Mount Pitt, Diamond, Thielson, Scott and the Three Sisters, to the very foot of Jefferson, 200 miles to the north. It is a vast forest empire, ruled over by the wild things of the deep woods. It embraces a territory over 4000 square miles in extent.

A Khirgese giant who had been on exhibition in Hamburg was found on the streets of that city in a starving condition.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

Thanksgiving Day in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La.—There was nothing new in the fever situtlon locally. The reduction in the number of cases under treatment continues at a gratifying rate. There is widespread satisfaction at the announcement that Dr. White will be permanently detailed to duty in this city.

At 11 o'clock tomorrow Rev. Dr. Beverly Warner, who was general superintendent of the campaign of education and the ward inspections, will conduct a special thanksgiving service at Trinity church, which will be attended by all of the marine hospital officers in full dress uniform.

Tonight a dinner was tendered Dr White by the Country Club.

Chairman Janvier, of the finance committee, tonight announced that there was a cash balance on hand of $44,710. The expenses under Dr. White's approval up to today have been $215,474 for pay rolls, supplies and the two emergency hospitals. There will be expenditures of about ten thousand dollars more before the accounts are finally closed.

Official report to 6 p. m.:
New cases, 4.
Total, 3,387.
Deaths, none.
Total deaths, 443.
New foci, 1.
Under treatment, 23.
Discharged, 2,913.

Citizens Resent Fumigation.

Pensacola, Fla.—The fever situation tonight is more encouraging than at any time since its outbreak here, only one new case being reported. This is the result of fumigation, which was actively commenced two weeks ago, but which is threatened with termination shortly, as the state health officer is meeting with opposition in his work. The courts have been appealed to by some citizens to prevent the fumigation.

The summary:
New cases, 1.
Total cases, 527.
Deaths, 3.
Total deaths, 76.
Discharged, 381.
Under treatment, 89.

Surgeon Wyman's Ideas.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—In a letter to Governor Cox, chairman of the general committee of the Southern Immigration and Quarantine conference to be held here November 9 and 10, Surgeon General Walter Wyman outlines the scope of his address as follows:

"I take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 21st inst with reference to my attendance at the conference at Chattanooga.

"It will give me great pleasure to be there as I have previously informed you. I write, however, in regard to my subject, 'Yellow Fever, Its Origin and Prevention.' I understand that in giving this topic to me 'origin' and 'prevention' are general terms and do not relate to the recent epidemic in New Orleans. It would be premature and not desirable for me to enter upon such a discussion, and I have no doubt that is your idea also. I understand that the deliberations of the convention are to be of a nature looking to protection in the future, but that it is not the intention to provide for addresses that may involve dispute."

Old Age Pensions.

Chicago, Ill.—Frank A. Vanderlip, vice-president of the City National Bank of New York, was the chief speaker at the Commercial Club's first banquet of the season. His subject was, "Old Age Pensions for Workingmen."

He declared that the present industrial system was severe on the older workers, and advocated the annuity plan now adopted by many large corporations. He strongly favored a thorough investigation of the subject of old age pensions, preferably under the supervision of the president or the national congress. He suggested that the Commercial Club request that such an investigation be made.

Tampa Man Is Robbed.

Louisville, Ky.—H. Crumpler, of Tampa, Fla., was robbed of a draft of $6,000 and $200 in cash at the Seventh street station here. Crumpler had just disposed of a furniture business in Tampa, and was on his way to Bedford, Ind.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

Washington, D. C.—The monthly statement of the collection of internal revenues shows that during the month of September, 1905, the total receipts from this source were $21,224,573, an increase as compared with September, 1904, of $1,212,317.

King Visits Workmen.

Genoa.—King Victor Emmanuel, who is here to inaugurate the new harbor works, suddenly visited the harbor Saturday morning, wishing to be in the center of the greatest activity of the country while the work was going on. The loading and unloading and transportation of stone, etc., was at the height of activity when the king appeared, and found himself in the midst of 7,000 workmen, who gave him a frantically enthusiastic reception.

Heartless Conduct.

Humboldt, Tenn.—Last night, while the Miles Orton circus was being moved to the depot a man fell off one of their wagons and a large part of the load fell on him. He was very seriously hurt and it is said the circus people loaded the plunder back on the wagon and left the man lying on the side of the street, after inquiring and finding that there was no city hospital in Humboldt. The sheriff heard of the affair soon after and called on the circus people and told them they would have to take the man with them, which they did. The man was evidently one of their common laborers.

Destroyed Rural Boxes.

Huntingdon, Tenn.—Clinton H. Williams, of Henry county, who was arrested a short time since on the charge of destroying and mutilating rural mail boxes and who was brought to this place and waived examination before Commissioner Fry and was bound over to the federal court, now in session at Jackson, was fined $100 and costs by Judge John E. McCall and sentenced to one year imprisonment. Owing to his youth and previous good reputation, the prison sentence was suspended by Judge McCall during good behavior.

$5,000 in Baby Carriage.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The persistent report that Mrs. Cuniiffe, the wife of Edward G. Cuniiffe, the Adams Express robber, had in her possession $5,000 of the $101,000 stolen by her husband on October 9, was confirmed Saturday, when Superintendent Biderman, of the Pinkerton detective agency, went to the Cuniiffe home and in the lining of a baby carriage found a package containing $5,000. Her husband had previously confessed that his wife had the money. There now remains only $6,000 to be accounted for.

Crop Pratically All Laid Aside.

Covington, Ga.—The cotton crop throughout this section has been practically gathered, with the exception of a few localities where the scarcity of hands has been the drawback. With a continuance of the present good spell of weather the biggest corn crop ever produced in this county will be harvested during the next few weeks. On a number of farms in various sections of the county an unprecedented yield of fifty and seventy-five bushels of corn to the acre is reported.

Build Big Concrete Bridge.

Houston, Tex.—Traffic Manager Thornwell Fay, of the Atlantic system of the Southern Pacific railroad, states that it has been finally determined to build a concrete and steel bridge across the Aachafalaya river at Morgan City, La., the structure to cost approximately $500,000. There will be six permanent spans and one draw span, the total length of the bridge to be 1,700 feet.

Germany Independent.

Berlin.—The German government is seemingly giving other governments to understand that Germany is strong enough to maintain and extend her position independently of other powers, and therefore cordial misunderstandings against her or alliances for her are not the primary concerns of German policies. So says the Cologne Gazette, the paper which always voices the sentiment of the government.

A Carnival of Blood.

Gloucester Court House, Va.—W. D. Coker after killing his neighbor, R. E. Gussett sent word to the officers to come to his home at Greenwood and arrest him. When the officers arrived they found that Coker had killed himself and his entire family, consisting of his wife and two small children, and placed coins over their eyes. No reason is assigned for his awful deeds.

Elevator Dropped.

Cincinnati, O.—An elevator carrying seven employes of the Globe Tailoring Company, on West Third street, fell seven stories to the sub-cellar, causing probably fatal injuries to four of the number. The elevator had been stopped at the fifth floor, and two girls had just stepped from the car when it fell.

Religious Memorial Services.

Tokio.—Impressive religious memorial services for those killed in the naval battles during the war between Japan and Russia are being held daily by surviving friends of the deceased. Vice-Admiral Togo will be personally present at a grand Shinto service to be held at the Aoyama cemetery.

Cutters Are Turned Back.

Mobile, Ala.—The revenue cutters Alert and Winoa, which have been on duty in Mississippi Sound, in the neighborhood of Gulfport and other fever-stricken towns of Mississippi, arrived in the river Friday and were sent to quarantine by Dr. Goldthwaite, health and executive officer of the quarantine board of Mobile Bay.

Russian Bank Robbed.

Libau, Russia.—Six armed men entered the Libau branch of the Moscow International Trade Bank and robbed it of $17,500. Five of the men were shortly afterwards captured and $10,000 recovered. The sixth man with $7,500 escaped.

Lion Lacerates Lion Tamer.

Paris.—Frank Bostock, the lion tamer, was attacked and badly lacerated by a lion during his performance.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

THE following letter from President Roosevelt, addressed to the citizens of Clanton and of Chilton county, through Judge Reynolds, as the official head of the county, and Col. Collier, as chairman of the committee of arrangements, is a gracious acknowledgment by the President of the efforts of our citizens to show their respect and admiration for the high office he holds

THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON.
Birmingham, Alabama,
October 24, 1905

Gentlemen:

I would like, if it is possible for you to do so, to express through you my appreciation to the people of the town of Clanton, and especially to the school children who came out to greet me. I should so like to have stayed with you a little while and have said a few words to you, and nothing but the imperative necessity of keeping to my schedule prevented my doing so.

With hearty appreciation, believe me,
Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds,
Mr. W. A. Collier,
Clanton, Alabama.

The pleasing allusion to the school children is particularly dear to our hearts, for Clanton citizens fondly believe that they made one of the prettiest sights it has ever been the good fortune of the President to witness.

One other feature is worth noticing, and that is, that when it comes to showing respect for the powers that be the people are one—there are no Democrats, no Republicans.

On this happy occasion of President Roosevelt's too brief visit all were united to welcome the chief magistrate of the United States.

Judge Reynolds represented the Republicans, and Col. Collier the Democrats; President Roosevelt heartily shook both of them by the hand, and if he showed any preference it wasn't noticeable to a nearby observer.

WE are in receipt of a copy of the proceedings of the Alabama Press Association last July at Coden. Secretary Jacob Pepperman has evidently spared himself neither time or trouble in preparing a full report of the proceedings, and the job department of the Opelika Daily News has turned out an excellent job in quick time.

AN "Exploiting and Promoting" issue of the Bessemer "Weekly" is of such great value to that thriving city that we, who are without the pale, are proud to realize the great resources of that section of the State. Editor Wm. H. H. Judson deserves the commendation and full support of the people of Bessemer for thus exploiting and promoting their industrial welfare.

IT'S a pity, but it can't now be helped—the political campaign of 1906 has fairly commenced. Comer and Cunningham are both hard after the Democratic nomination, with chances fairly equal, ann it looks as if there was a good chance for the dark horse yet to come in.

AN AGED PHYSICIAN

After Years of Experience Gives the Following Advice.

"If you have anything to do with medicines at all be pretty sure you know what you are taking."

The Upchurch Drug Co. says this is a strong point in favor of their valuable cod liver preparation, Vinol. Everything it contains is plainly printed on the bottle, therefore it is not a patent medicine.

Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil or grease to nauseate and upset the stomach.

This is the reason that Vinol accomplishes such wonderful results in curing chronic coughs, colds, bronchial and lung troubles, and there is nothing known to medicine that will so quickly build up the run down, overworked, tired and debilitated, or give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, as Vinol.

Mrs. Martha Fraser of Portland, Me., writes: "I was all run down from overwork and had a chronic cough for years. I had tried so many remedies without help that I had lost all faith in medicine. My daughter bought me a bottle of Vinol. It simply worked wonders for me; it cured my cough and brought back health and strength and I am better than I have been for years."

We can only ask every one in Clanton who needs such a medicine to try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails." Upchurch Drug Co.

Sixth District S. S. Convention.

The Sixth District S. S. Convention, which was held at Ebenezer church, Oct. 29, was a grand success in every particular. Out of the 14 schools in the district 13 of them were represented, which proves beyond a doubt that the people of our district are more interested in this great work than ever before. Delegates from the following schools were present: Alpine, Cox Chapel, Ebenezer, Mt. Carmel, Maplesville, Oden School House, Pilgrim's Rest, Pleasant Grove, Riderville, Sardis, Stanton Methodist, Stanton Presbyterian and Valley Creek. Antioch being the only one not represented. The speakers of the day were Judge Joseph Carthel, our State secretary, Rev. Robert Jones, Rev, W. J. Ruddick, Rev. T. F. Davis, Prof. W. B. Speer, T. G. Milling, Geo. W. Fox, N. L. Broadhead and a vast number of our superintendents and delegates made short talks and reports of their schools, which was interesting and beneficial. The Association voted to hold its next convention with Valley Creek church, and also voted to take up a collection for the expense of the Association, which was done and $3.89 was raised, for which we are thankful. The convention thanks the good people of Stanton and surrounding community for the hospitality they showed toward us in taking care of the convention. Last but not least, we thank our beloved friend and brother Joseph Carthel, for his visit to our convention and for the interesting and uplifting talks he made. If we will take heed to what we heard it will be but a short time until our schools will be on higher planes and our district a banner district. A. B. DEASON, Sec.

Carpenter's Strokes to Drive a Nail.

How many hammer strokes does a carpenter use in driving a nail?

Perhaps not one carpenter in a thousand or one layman in ten times that number can tell or ever think of it. The truth of the matter is this: The carpenter takes seven strokes in driving a nail into ordinary wood and twelve regular strokes and two finishing taps in driving nails into hard wood.

These figures are furnished by a man who works at night and sleeps—or tries to sleep—by day and whose bedroom window opens out upon a flat building in course of erection. He figured the average number of hammer strokes for nine mornings and, having learned them, moved to a hotel until the new building is completed.

He discovered that the carpenter drives an average of three nails a minute in soft wood and a fraction under three in hard wood. At this rate he would drive 1,440 nails a day in soft wood if he keeps up the gait steadily and 1,282 in hard wood. He would give 10,080 hammer strokes in soft wood and 20,160 in hard wood.—Chicago Tribune.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

CIRCUIT COURT

Falll term begins at Clanton monday, November 27, 1905.

GRAND JURY.

Wheeler Fosbee, J M G Barnett, G W Hodgins, Carlton Hall, H O Fits, B H Vickers, Eugene Evans, George Mattox, J M Mims, E G Rollins, A J Atkinson, J H Thomas, W J Bone, Jesse Hays, H C Young, J N Barnes, C C Burkhalter, W L Honeycut, J S Waldrop, P S Prim.

PETIT JURY—FIRST WEEK

H H Armstrong, John Goer, H J Cole, Robert M Smith, T J Rocker, W M Pool, W H cox, J Z Barnes, W W Devaughn, W B Vance, Joel H Gulledge, Joseph Busbee, c w Blackwell, H c Latham, John Giles, J T chambers, T B Teel, J J Mccormick, Walter Popwell, J w mims, J w Abbott, B G Jones, T M Pyron, J M maddox, H M Roper, A Littleton, B L Glasscock, G A Dawson, J A Dykes, Joseph Littleton, J H Greene, S Johnson, J L Vines, J M Goer.

PETIT JURY—SECOND WEEK

Moses Popwell, Robert Wilkins, W A Huckabee, J W Harris, William E mims, F J Fitts, J S wright, w N Rodgers, J H Gandy, w Q Childress, T J Littlejohn, L O Burnett, J E Bearden, Felix Eiland, Green Burnett, J M Littlejohn, James M curlee, D A Friday, G. E. Reid, John Mims, E H Arledge, w H Hadnot, M A Kilgore, Jesse cadell, A A Ayers, B N Martin, Pate Headley, J A Langston, John w Fosbee, william wamble, M H marcus, P A Vauca, w G conway, H T Littlefield, charley Langville.

Overdue and Missing.

The word "missing" applied to a ship brings all hope of safety to an end and settles the loss of friends ashore and of the underwriters, says Mr. Joseph Conrad, writing in the London Mail. But the word "overdue" only strengthens the fears already born in many homes ashore and opens the door for speculation in the market of risks. Within the memory of the present generation a missing ship has never been known to turn up. But the name of an overdue vessel, trembling, as it were, on the edge of the fatal heading, has been known to appear as "arrived."

Shed Her Teeth.

A passenger on an English railway train pulled the "communication cord" the other day and stopped the train. When the guard came to the compartment in which the cord had been pulled he found a distracted woman passenger. She had been looking out of the window and had dropped her false teeth. She wished to go back and find them.

How He Extricated Himself.

She—Would you have me believe I am the first girl you ever proposed to? He—Goodness, no! I suppose I've asked a dozen. She—And they all refused you? He—Of course. Every one of them knew I was head over heels in love with you. She—You dear boy!—Boston Transcript.

Consumption

¶ There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

¶ From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

¶ We will send you a sample free.

¶ Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Scott & Bowne
Chemists
409 Pearl Street
New York

50c. and $1; all druggists

The Jar of Coughing

Hammer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and tears the throat and lungs until the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the coughing, and heals the torn membranes.

"I always keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. It gives perfect relief whenever any of us have coughs or hard colds. I have used it for a great many years and so know all about it."—MRS. MARY ORBETHAN, Verysburg, N. Y.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's
SARSAPARILLA.
PILLS.
HAIR VIGOR.

Billiousness, constipation retard recovery. Cure these with Ayer's Pills.

NOTICE.

Applications have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton county for the following changes in school districts:

District No. 53—Beginning at the northwest corner of Sec 33, Tp 24, R 12; thence east two miles, thence south ½ mile, thence east 1½ mile, thence south ½ mile, thence west ½ mile to east boundary line of District No 53.

District No. 57—Beginning at the Northwest corner Sec. 20, Tp 23, R 14: thence north 1½ miles, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile thence east 1 mile, thence north 4½ mile, thence west 3 miles to range line, thence south 3 miles, thence west 1 mile, thence south 3½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence south ½ mile, thence east to point of beginning.

The above applications will be passed upon by the Board of Education at the Court House in Clanton, on 11th day of November, 1905.

Done by order of the Board in session Oct. 7, 1905. G. L. SPEER,
Sec. Board of Education,

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Oct. 30, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

R. Burlson, W. F. Dickerson, N. P. Edge, J. L. Hadeg, J. Matchey, W. R. Mims, J. N. F. Mims, George Nelson, C. R. Nelson, Rev. W. S. Peple, George Tacket.

LADIES' LIST.

Miss Mattie Christian, Miss Katie Raspberry.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Nov 13, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

"I Thank The Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years" It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. 25c.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Governor to restore the rights of citizenship to J. Wiley Fosbee, who was convicted at the Spring Term 1900, of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for the offense of manslaughter in the first degree.

This Oct. 14, 1905.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex C. Dake, of Chilton county, Alabama, and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against J. Bice, in favor of Phillips & Buttorff Mfg. Co., out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company, as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice, in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905 during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex G. Dake, of Chilton county, Ala., and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment obtained against J. Bice, in favor of William Kopp, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice, in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905 during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Discou

Liberal long time loans on Improv Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prope ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on co ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
Shelian's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	[illegible]
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	[illegible]
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	[illegible]
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	[illegible]
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	[illegible]
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	[illegible]
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	[illegible]

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.

CLANTON - - - - ALA

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experi enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the exp purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we h clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit th and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especi low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of suit wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Bo Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest sty Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so lon they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exc agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. Men's from No 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

VOL. XIV

A PRESIDENT'S CABINET.

SOME SECRETARIES HAVE ATTAINED GREATER FAME THAN THEIR CHIEF.

James S. Henry.

Copyright 1904, Clinedinst, Wash. D.C.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND

Taft, Wilson, Hay, Morton, Hitchcock,

May Not be Personal Friends.

GULLEDGE
Loans and Discount
ng time loans on Improve
fe Insurance Policies.
s on good Personal Proper Crops.
l advances offered on cot
now, either on farms or i dress
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

Mail Order House!
T RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
ey	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
ginia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
Whiskey	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
nd	1 00	1 50
nd	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
thout a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

l goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

allons		Per gallon
2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

We carry a full line of wines and
ndle low grade goods.
DRUG COMPANY
RATE DRUG STORE
IRMINGHAM, ALA.

verything
verything of the bes
Fancy Grocerie
DS, CLOTHING
HATS, ETC.
NES & BRO.
. . . . .ALA
OLE FAMILY

st put in an immense stock which our M rk, for spot cash, his long experienc advantageous prices, with the expre of the entire family.

g youth and the grown men—we hav
and quality guaranteed.

ady and the matrons—we can fit tha tyles and fashionable goods at especial

we can show you any kind of Suit yo u. We have the largest stock of Boy years old to 16 years old in short pant youth's long pants. No matter wh ht price. Men's and Boy's Hats, a rth.

the largest stock of the latest style
sts, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a go
The finest stock of Dress Goods of a aids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

ette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yard ffer them at 9 cents per yard so long oes, for which we have the exclusi se. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 a ll sizes in Children's. We are offeri olesale price.

re to be satisfied.

BROS. & TOURO
The Whole Family
RGAIN STORE
nton, Ala.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV | Part Two | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1905 | Pages 9 to 12 | No. 3

A PRESIDENT'S CABINET.

SOME SECRETARIES HAVE ATTAINED GREATER FAME THAN THEIR CHIEF.

While Appointments Are Political, the Cabinet is Usually the President's Closest Adviser.

James S. Henry.

According to the old saw "it takes nine tailors to make a man," so in the government of the United States it takes nine Cabinet officers to make an administration. Primarily American cabinet officers are selected to be the heads of the nine great executive departments of the Government. As one star differeth from another star in glory so one cabinet officer differs from another in opportunity, ability and the power to make a lasting impression upon the history of the country. These nine heads of departments are chosen by the President and although the approval of the Senate of the United States is required to make their appointment legal and constitutional, the preference of the Executive is invariably respected and the nine Cabinet officers represent his personal choice, so far as politics leaves him a free agent.

To be a member of the President's Cabinet has filled the ambition of many statesmen. It is a place only one remove from that to which all native born citizens of the United States have a right to aspire—the Presidency itself. If there have been disappointments and unrealized ambitions on the part of the great men who have been President the world has not heard of them. The disappointments, the discouragements, the disillusionment, the restrictions that have been experienced by statesmen who had hoped to achieve glory and fame as Cabinet officers can be read in the national records from the foundation of the Government to the present time. Failure to accomplish great plans and to realize hopes of a lasting place in history has sent many Cabinet officers embittered and disappointed back into private life.

Copyright 1904, Clinedinst. Wash. D.C.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND HIS CABINET 1904.
Taft, Wilson, Hay, Morton, Hitchcock, Moody, Wynne, Metcalf, Shaw.

May Not be Personal Friends.

While the President of the United States is entitled to choose the nine statesmen who shall sit about his council table as his Cabinet advisors, the political system in effect in the United States often robs this selection of its personal character. A newly elected President may know of nine men in his circle of business, social and political acquaintances whom he would like to have around him as counsellors and whom he believes would make efficient heads of departments in the administration of Government laws and business. The exigencies of politics, however, usually compel him to choose his Cabinet officers from different sections of the country and in acknowledgement of certain potent influences, sometimes commercial, sometimes economic, sometimes religious, and often purely political that helped make his election sure. The Chief Executive before deciding upon the composition of his Cabinet inquires carefully into the qualifications, ability and character of the men whom he will invite to sit at his council table, but it often happens that the first time he has come in personal contact with his future advisor is when he meets him to extend the invitation to him to enter the Cabinet.

In the economy of Government and the social life at the nation's Capital an American Cabinet officer occupies a commanding position, but in the accomplishment of great deeds of statesmanship and as a power in fashioning the policies of the nation, the Cabinet minister's own personality, his ability and genius can alone make success. There are conspicuous examples in the history of the United States where Cabinet ministers have outranked the Executive and carved their names higher on the pillar of fame than the Presidents with whom they served. The impress made on national affairs by such men as Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun and James G. Blaine, as ministers of state, is greater than that of many Presidents of the United States. It is not necessary to refer to musty history for examples of Cabinet ministers who have won international fame. The late John Hay, Secretary of State under President McKinley and President Roosevelt, seems yet a living actual personality in the affairs of the world. If no other monument had been established by his long public service, the "open door" policy for which he obtained recognition in the Far East would mark his statesmanship for all time. With his colleague, Elihu Root, who is now his successor, he shared the glory of the late President McKinley's administration in which both men were superlative influences.

Sherman's Earlier Fame.

Going back a little further we find the late John Sherman standing as the monument of sound finance and marking the otherwise colorless Hayes administration from 1877 to 1881 as an epoch in the financial history of the country. In the days of the Civil War, Stanton, at the head of the War Department, earned the name of being the greatest Secretary of War the United States ever had and was the mainstay of the immortal Lincoln in the latter's heartbreaking experiences with traitors, politicians and self-seeking army officers. The 130 years of national life of the United States furnished many brilliant examples of what a Cabinet officer can accomplish and the influential part he can play in the achievements of an administration.

It depends largely upon the President of the United States to what extent a Cabinet officer may achieve prominence in national affairs. During the last generation most of the Presidents of the United States have been men of iron will and commanding personality. Most of them, however, have depended upon members of their Cabinet for expert advice on great national and international issues. In the administration of Grant, Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt certain of their ministers were pre-eminent in the direction of affairs of state and domestic policies. These Presidents were and are strong men, but ever ready to listen to the advice and appreciate the statemanship of the strong men they had chosen for their Cabinet.

Different Treatment of Cabinets.

Each President has had his own conception of the functions of a Cabinet officer. Each one has adopted his own method of Cabinet consultation. President Roosevelt might be said to have a Cabinet of specialists. He has selected men whom he believed peculiarly fitted to administer the affairs of the different departments. At the bi-weekly Cabinet meetings, which are held when the President is in his executive office in Washington, each Cabinet officer presents a short resume of the condition of his department. If there is any matter that has arisen under his jurisdiction that is of a widespread, general character it is reserved for discussion by himself and the President, and perhaps one or two other members of the Cabinet who remain after the formal meeting. Great questions of national and international policy are not matters of general discussion in Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet. They are taken up and debated by the President and those Cabinet officers whom he believes are specially qualified to give expert opinion upon them.

The late President McKinley had an entirely different method and the meetings of his Cabinet were actual state councils. Every matter affecting the nation at large or bearing upon our international relations was brought up at these meetings and each one of the President's advisors was requested to submit his opinion. The Secretary of Agriculture was asked for his views on the advance on Pekin, while the opinion of the Secretary of State on the type of battleships to be adopted by the Navy was welcomed. Mr. McKinley believed in this way that he secured the best results and it also gave his cabinet officers an opportunity to exhibit whatever of talent or genius of statesmanship they possessed.

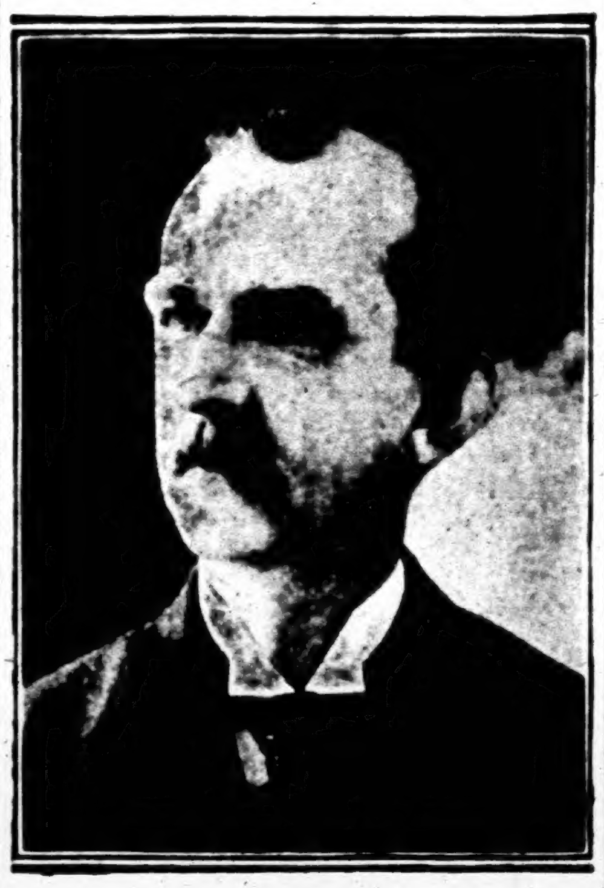
To Remove a Tight Ring.

A very simple way of removing a very tight ring from the finger is to take a piece of small cord or wrapping thread and push one end of it under the ring. Then, taking hold of the other end of the string, begin winding around the finger from close up against the ring to the very tip of the finger. Then, to remove the ring, take hold of the end of the cord that was slipped under the ring and unwind the cord. As the unwinding progresses the ring will be carried along with it and removed without difficulty.

LEPERS IN AMERICA.

Three Hundred of Them in Twenty States and Territories.

"Unclean, unclean." This is a cry which has struck terror to the hearts of many people who have journeyed through the Orient and our Asiatic and Pacific possessions, but it has probably never ocurred to them, that in the United States proper there are nearly 300 lepers. These are scattered over 20 states and territories, but the states of Louisiana, California, Florida, Minnesota and North Dakota have all but about 50. Over 155 cases are in Louisiana alone; a number of these, however, are among people who have come from Southern Europe. In something like 190 cases the disease was contracted in this country.



SENATOR CRANE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

For Federal Supervision.

Senator W. M. Crane, who succeeded the late Senator Hoar, at the last session of Congress introduced a bill providing for government supervision. It was passed by the Senate, but when it came up for consideration at the hands of the Representatives, Delegate Rodey of New Mexico, smarting under the sting left by the failure of his statehood plans, charged that the provision in this bill which planned to locate a leper colony on some abandoned military reservation was, in fact, a plan to foist the "unclean" upon New Mexico, as there are several abandoned reservations in that territory.

The bill failed to pass the House. It is believed that Senator Crane proposes to again introduce this bill early in the next session. It will be introduced in a somewhat different manner from the old one. It will provide for a "Lepers Home" instead of "Leprosarium", as this latter term conveyed the impression that the disease was more prevalent in the United States than it really is.

To Search For Cure.

Leprosy was regarded by the Israelites as incurable. In fact the records of ancient times show the great fear in which it has always been held. Medical science has learned little or nothing regarding leprosy. One of the strongest arguments for the care of the "unclean" is, that such an institution would make possible a careful study of the disease and, perhaps, in time result in the discovery of a cure. There is a government institution for the care of lepers in Hawaii, at Molokai, where often a leper is separated from his family by forcible means. Fathers and mothers are taken from their children, a child from its parents, a friend from friend—and all this at a time when the afflicted is to all intents and purposes perfectly well. Government officials state, however, that is not the idea in the establishment of this new institution under the Crane bill, to take any leper from his family by forcible means. The plan will be merely to isolate all cases.

LEPER AT WALLS OF JERUSALEM.

MILADY'S DIAMONDS.

HISTORY OF THE NECKLACE. ITS MANUFACTURE AFFORDS MUCH EMPLOYMENT.

Raw Diamonds as Dug Are Comparatively Cheap—Great Cost Comes From the Polishing, Cutting and Filling.

One morning last spring there appeared in the London papers graphic descriptions of the arrival at Southampton of the "Cullinan," the 3,032 carat (25 oz.) diamond found in the Premier mine, Johannesburg, in January. Details of the appearance of the two agents from South Africa, the black bag carried by the older and said to contain the biggest diamond in the world, the crowd at the docks, the detectives sent from Scotland Yard, filled a column. As a matter of fact, the Cullinan made the trip from Johannesburg to London in an ordinary, inconspicuous package through the registered mail, postage two shillings. It is not impossible that the Southampton romance was conceived and paid for at advertising rates by the owners or underwriters to divert attention, for the diamond was valued at four million and insured for two and a half million dollars.

Two more large diamonds have since been found in the same mine, one weighing 334 carats and the other 460 carats. One wonders who can afford to buy these stones. It will cost enormously to put them on the market. Most diamonds are sold outright by the miner to the cutter, and one of the biggest South African diamond kings has said that the margin of profit upon which the entire diamond industry is carried on is but little larger than the percentage of gain in any other line of business.

The jewellers of Paris claim that in proportion as the value of the diamonds in a necklace decreases, so does the cost of setting increase. A diamond necklace that sells for $14,000 has cost the jeweller $600 in mounting, while one that sells for $200,000 will require an expenditure of only $300 in the mounting. From the $199,700 remaining in the latter case, still further deduction must be made for the expense of preparing the stones. The figures obtained on a $200,000 necklace in a Paris shop indicated that the diamonds composing it were valued at much less than $89,000 when rough. The woman who buys such an ornament contributes more to the actual prosperity of the working class than many of the so-called social reformers who rave at her extravagance.

How Diamonds are Cut.

So far, Europe has been the center of the diamond-cutting industry. In Amsterdam there are more than 15,000 cutters, in Antwerp 3,000, in the Jura Mountain district 600, in Paris 200 and in London only 150. They are divided into three classes, cleavers, shapers and polishers. The cleaver examines the rough diamond, and if he finds a flaw cuts it into as many perfect gems as the grain of the carbon will permit. For this purpose the rough stone is set in a mold to which it is securely attached with aluminum, and then applied to the cutting tool—a circular saw about 5 inches in diameter, made of soft copper, with a mixture of oil and diamond dust rubbed into the edge. The saw rotates at a tremendous speed, being turned by a leather belt running from an engine. An expert cleaver, if paid so much per diamond cut could make from $60 to $80, and as one cleaver furnishes work for 50 or 60 shapers, would quickly work himself out of a job. Consequently, he prefers to go slowly and receive a monthly wage of $120.

The shapers or "bruteurs" outline the form in which the diamond will ultimately appear. In this operation, the "bruteur" takes two stones of similar size and hardness, fits each into a metal cap, sets one in a machine that resembles a carpenter's lathe, and as it revolves the second stone is pressed against it. The dust caused by the friction is caught in a tiny box. Before the invention of this machine, the "bruteur" held the diamonds between the thumb and forefinger of each hand and rested the little fingers on the sides of the tank, which is made of brass. In time the constant pressure on the brass wore the sides of the box into grooves, while the continued effort of rubbing the diamonds against each other brought on a nervous jerking of the forearms, and the strained attitude of the head, always bent forward to watch the shaping of the gems, caused great swellings at the back of the neck. Usually the "bruteur" spends three days on the shaping of a stone and makes from $2.40 to $3.00 a day.

The polisher who makes the facets, uses a machine which carries a metal disc placed horizontally and revolving at the rate of 2,800 revolutions per minute. The disc is of steel with a preparation of diamond dust and purified olive oil rubbed into the surface. By means of a copper holder and a metal fork which form part of the apparatus, the diamond is held against the revolving disc, and as sometimes a stone less than an eighth of an inch in diameter has 100 facets, great nicety on the part of the workman is required, and the position of the diamond is changed more than 100 times before the requisite lustre and finish are secured. The polisher works always with a magnifying glass, and makes from $3.00 to $4.00 a day.

This necklace took the highest award at the Saint Louis Exposition. Its value is $250,000. It contains French Crown Diamonds presented by Napolean to Josephine on their divorce, and which later passed through many hands, including the notorious Mme. Humbert. It has always brought disaster to the possessor. It also contains two big stones which served as cuff buttons for "Boss" Tweed of New York; three diamonds from Lady Hope's (May Yohe) collection; Alvin Joslin gems and Maximillian diamonds. Exhibited by Maurice Bower of New York.

Three Hundred Diamonds in Necklace

In the $200,000 necklace mentioned there were 300 diamonds. Allowing three days' brutage (rough shaping), and three months' polishing on each, the sum expended for these two items alone amounts to $110,700.

After the stones arrived at the jeweller's, they had, of course, to be mounted. To this end the big shops of Paris employ a staff of designers, goldsmiths, silversmiths, setters and polishers. Usually, the designers are men who have come into the shop in a less important capacity, shown talent, been sent by the firm to an art school and put through a course of instruction. According to his ability, a designer earns from $60 to $100 a month. He may work for months without producing a single sketch that goes to the studios, then in a week he will turn out two or three that meet the difficult taste of the employer. Designs are done in water colors.

In Paris, the real jeweller is not the owner of the shop, but the craftsman who fashions the gold or platinum into the skeleton that holds the precious stones. In America he is called a gold or silversmith. Each separate clasp or gem-holder, goes first to the polisher. Then to a jeweller who assembles, or joins together, the entire frame for the necklace, tiara, or whatever the design may call for, and again to the polisher.

The setter, as his name indicates, fastens or sets the diamonds into the framework, and sends it on a last visit to the polisher.

Polishers are Women.

The polishers are usually women. As a rule they work in groups of five or six under a patroness, who keeps a little apartment in a narrow street of Montmartre, Gaillon, Mail, or some other cheap and crowded quarter of Paris. With good luck the patroness makes from $1,000 to $1,200 a year. The polishers are taken as apprentices at 14 years of age. At 16 they may get forty to sixty cents a day, and at 18 a dollar to a dollar twenty.

The labor of all these craftsmen on the necklace in mind amounted to about $300, which added to $110,700 for preparing the diamonds, and deducted from the selling price of $200,000 left only $89,000 to cover cost of rough stones, incidental expense of handling, etc., could not have left any phenomenal profit for the mine owner who dug and delivered them to the cutter. Such a necklace is said to furnish work enough to support 400 families for a year. Of course, this does not take into consideration the workers in the mines, nor the heavy staff of clerks and officials necessary to carry on the big diamond producing fields. The business of finishing the raw diamond for the final purchaser offers the best paid labor to be found in Europe. Owing to the duty on cut gems brought into this country, American dealers are building up a similar industry in the United States, and it is rational to suppose that the craftsmen employed in this country will receive even still higher wages than those paid abroad.

Have Several Lives.

"At this height," said the guide, as they paused on the mountain side to gaze down the valley, far below, "people with weak lungs often die."

"Wonderful country, wonderful climate," murmured the visitor.

"How's that?" said the guide, suspiciously.

"Why I suppose of course you have a way of bringing them to life again for the next dying."

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

18TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores,
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OUT HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
[illegible]
The Missourian.
Name.
Address.

OLD DESERT JOURNEYS.

MODERN CIVILIZATION, THRIFT AND ABUNDANCE IN SAGE BRUSH COUNTRY.

Where Sunshine and Fertile Soil Await the Coming of Canal-Borne Water to Laugh Abundant Harvests.

C. J. Blanchard.

EL PASO, Tex. (Special).—On the Southeast border of the Great American Desert, where our sister republic Mexico touches the commonwealth of Texas on the East and the progressive old-young territory of New Mexico on the North, stands the "largest city in the largest Congressional district of the largest State of the greatest Nation on the earth."

To the Easterner who first visits this charming city and enjoys the hospitality which its citizens know so well how to extend, the question is uppermost, what makes a city here? After journeying more than 500 miles across Western Kansas and the Panhandle of Texas, the short grass country, where it is all one vast cattle range, down into the adobe hills and sage brush wastes of eastern New Mexico, there is a reason for asking this question. You naturally want to know from whence comes all this hustle and bustle with all these evidences of progress and substantial growth. All your notions long held and regretfully let go of, are that this sunny land of the border is the land of manana, of tomorrow; that its day of awakening is not yet come. Well, wake up! Life is just as real, just as earnest and as strenuous in El Paso as in New York or Chicago, and when you rub up in business against the El Pasoan you need all your shrewdness and business acumen.

RUINS OF OLD SPANISH CHURCH.

The Old and The New.

El Paso is old—very old, and El Paso is new, too—very new. This delightful paradox is full of surprises and charms. Right up against the old Spanish dwelling of adobe with long, low windows, heavily barred, and its patio in the center, you are likely to find a modern office building with elevators and electric lights.

Something of a feeling of living in the past comes over you when you enter one of the old churches, down here—churches erected more than 300 years ago. The solemn silence of those shadowy halls has been broken by the orisons of countless thousands and softly intoned aves were echoing here long before the eyes of the Anglo-Saxon had looked upon Plymouth Rock.

Site for the Great Rio Grande Dam.

A New Mexican Irrigation Scene.

In the first half of the Sixteenth Century the Spanish Conquistadores seeking new fields of conquest for the glory of Spain, swept up the Rio Grande Valley. They found pastoral settlements of Pueblo Indians practicing agriculture through the aid of irrigation, carrying the precious waters of the Rio Grande out upon the desert and reaping harvests from fields which had been in cultivation beyond the traditions of the oldest members of the tribe. Spanish settlements followed the conquerers. With the ready adaptability of the early explorers they utilized the old irrigation systems.

Thresh by Trampling of Goats.

The unprogressiveness of the Spaniard is no where more strikingly revealed than in the Rio Grande Valley, where the descendents of the early Spanish explorers are to-day engaged in agriculture in just the same manner as their forefathers practiced it, and indeed with methods strangely like those in the days of Abraham. You can see them reap with the sickle and thresh by the trampling of goats.

Progressive Americans settling in the upper reaches of the Rio Grande in later years, showed small regard for the settlers in the lower valley. Soon their long lines of broad canals began to make sad inroads in the water supply which was needed for the old canals. Mexico, Texas and New Mexico were arrayed against Colorado which robbed them of their priceless heritage and threatened to transform thousands of acres of fruitage and bloom into its original state—that of the desert. As the water grew scarce there sprang up hostilities between the citizens of the whole Rio Grande Valley. Neighbor began to be arrayed against neighbor; there were even family rows over the water. For years these conditions prevailed. Mexico made respectful protest against the use of the waters of the Rio Grande in Colorado which deprived the ancient canals of the Republic of their rights long established. The Comity of Nations was threatened.

To Build a Huge Dam.

It was the passage of the National irrigation act which wrought a wondrous change in the conditions and knit together in one brotherhood all the citizens of the lower valley, imbuing them with a spirit of co-operation and enthusiasm. The Reclamation Service took hold of the project and worked out a plan to store the vast Rio Grande floods which were annually a source of much loss to the valley and which were wholly unutilized. This plan the people have accepted as a salvation.

One hundred miles above El Paso the Rio Grande flows through a deep narrow canyon. A dam 255 feet high across its lower end will create the largest artificial reservoir in this country. It will make a lake 40 miles long, 1½ miles wide and from 100 to 175 feet deep. It will contain water enough to cover 2,000,000 acres a foot deep.

Into this vast reservoir the greatest flood the Rio Grande has ever known will quickly disappear and later when needed by 200,000 thirsty acres in the valley below will be released and led through a net work of canals and ditches through New Mexico into Texas, clear down into Old Mexico.

The Settlers Pay the Cost.

It will cost millions to do this work, $7,000,000 is the figure, but what of that? The settlers will gladly pay for it. Under the magic of irrigation Mesilla, La Palomas and El Paso valleys, now only dotted here and there with green verdure, will spring into full fruitage, producing harvests unrivalled in quality and quantity. Ten thousand new homes will cover the desert plain, and El Paso, the central point for transportation and the greatest market in the valley, will wax into a city of 100,000 souls. Twenty thousand acres of irrigated land support a splendid city now. What shall it be when 200,000 acres are added to the crop producing area of El Paso territory?

THE INTELLIGENCE OF ANIMALS.

An English Naturalist Believes That It May be Far Greater Than Imagined.

Sir John Lubbock has brought more popular attention to the subject of the mental capacity of animals than any other writer. He has conducted many careful investigations on the senses, instincts and intelligence of animals and insects. An interesting query propounded by the English scientist relates to the existence of other organs of sense than ours.

"We find," he says, "in animals complex organs of sense, richly supplied with nerves, but the function of which we are as yet powerless to explain. There may be fifty other senses as different from ours as sound is from sight, and even within the boundaries of our own senses there may be endless sounds which we cannot hear, and colors as different as red from green, of which we have no conception. These and a thousand other questions remain for solution. The familiar world which surrounds us may be a totally different place to other animals. To them it may be full of music which we cannot hear, of sensations we cannot conceive. To place stuffed birds and beasts in glass cases, to arrange insects in cabinets, and dried plants in drawers, is merely the drudgery and preliminary of study; to watch their habits, to understand their relations to one another, to study their instincts and intelligence, to ascertain their adaptations and their relations to the forces of nature, to realize what the world appears to them—these constitute, as it seems to me, at least, the true interests of natural history, and may even give us the clue to senses and perceptions of which at present we have no conception."

Celebrating Belgian Independence.

Among the festivities organized for the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Belgium's independence is the faithful reproduction of one of the tilting jousts given by Philip the Good of Burgundy in 1452, in which Philip's son broke the lances of sixteen opposing knights in the presence of Isabella of Portugal, Duchess of Burgundy.

COMMERCIAL DISHONESTY.

AN ACKNOWLEDGED TRAIT OF JAPANESE MERCHANTS.

They Have No Regard For a Contract—Striking Contrast With Chinese Traders.

With the treaty of peace, Japan has seen the accomplishment of a task that has been the ambition of the empire—to hold front rank in the family of nations. This has been brought about through such military achievements as have evoked the admiration of the civilized powers, but now it seems that Japan has still before her a problem which means harder work and a greater task than that which she had before the commencement of the Russian-Japanese war.

That task, is to redeem the commercial reputation of her traders, a reputation which is not enviable. Joseph Walton, a member of the English parliament, a man who has spent much time in travel and knows the people of the East thoroughly, says in his book on the Orient:

"Japanese traders are not specially distinguished for honesty, particularly in their business relations with foreigners. We have in this a most striking proof that the character of the people is largely formed by the nature of their surroundings. For hundreds of years the trading class in Japan has occupied a very low place in the social scale. In the last thirty years, since the feudal system has been abolished, the position of the traders has greatly changed, and now some of those who were nobles are engaged in trade; and I am told there is reason to hope that shortly business affairs in Japan will be conducted on more honest lines."

Peculiar Business Dishonesty.

The progress which the Japanese have made in the past fifty years shows them to be a people self-reliant and determined to keep on advancing towards the highest plane attainable, yet travelers in the East have been surprised that the traders of the Occident are so notoriously dishonest; for while the Japanese are far superior to the Chinese as regards achievement of national strength and perseverance, yet the reverse is true in the matter of commercial honesty.

It appears that the Japanese merchants have no regard for a contract. It is said that the most prosperous commercial houses of Japan are managed not by Japanese but by Chinese. The average Chinese merchant is highly esteemed the world over for his honesty; in fact a president of one of the largest corporations of the United States once said that he would not be afraid to ship a barrel of gold coin to a Chinese merchant with instructions to make use of it in trade, but at the end of the year he would receive a detail statement of where every coin went, but if this were done to a Japanese merchant, he would consider himself lucky to get back the empty barrel.

It is believed that the hard task accomplished by the Japanese in the war just has [illegible] an end will be a beginning to bring out the genius for which the Japanese have been noted in war to a utilization of peace and commercialism.

Close Co-Operation.

Now, Harold, this is your fifth birthday party. Whom do you love best, your father or me?

Father, sure.

But, Harold, you said yesterday that you loved me best.

Yes; but I've slept over it, and I realize that we men must stick together.

THE MEERSCHAUM PIPE.

Almost Impossible to Select a Genuine One.

A story is told of a smoker who spent eight of the best years of his life trying to color a meerschaum pipe, keeping it enclosed most of the time in a case so as to prevent it getting scratched and its finish being dulled by the oil and moisture from his hands, only to find at the end of that period that he had been tenderly nursing an imitation instead of the genuine "ecume de mer." The best imitation is composed of the parings of genuine meerschaum, combined with a mineral clay. These compositions can usually be determined from the genuine meerschaum by their greater weight, but there is no absolutely certain test for distinguishing the counterfeit. One method of test is to look for slight imperfections. Composition bowls never exhibit these slight blemishes, which result from the presence of foreign bodies in the natural meerschaum; however, as the blemishes do not usually manifest themselves until after the bowl has been used for some time, the test is not of much value in buying new pipes. Meerschaum is a silicate of magnesia, and preparatory to carving it is soaked in a composition of wax and oil. The wax and oil absorbed by the meerschaum are the cause of the coloring of the pipe due to smoking, and in connection with the further absorption of nicotine. Where meerschaums have been smoked for some time without having acquired a good color, they can frequently be improved by rubbing, when warm, with beeswax.

Weakness of English Colonies.

The new commonwealth of Australia does not seem to be getting on very well. The population in the ten years ending with 1901 was 3,771,715, the increase being 597,462. The whole island continent has less population than the city of Greater New York. Long a dependent upon England, it has not developed internally. "Were Australian ports," says the Sydney Bulletin, "shut by hostile warships to-morrow, the commonwealth would be without guns or cartridges for its troops, without ships or the means of making them, without fabrics for clothing, without machinery for mine or railway, without even paper on which to print its journals. Australia would have to beseech the grace of some master, crawl to the hand of whatever power was for the time most strong, or lapse into savagery."

GOSSIP OF THE DIPLOMATS.

Foreign and Washington Notes.

The Sultan of Turkey some short time since, granted an audience to Senator Bacon, of Georgia, and was so much charmed with that genial American gentleman that he conferred upon him the grand cordon of the Chefecat, and presented Mrs. Bacon with a lot of porcelain manufactured in the imperial potteries. It remains to be seen whether the Georgian Senator will ask permission from Congress to be permitted to accept the order of the Sultan.

Mrs. Wu Ting Fang, wife of the former Chinese Minister to this country, has defied the time honored traditions of her native land, by returning to China with her "feet enlarged" to a normal size. When she came to this country with her famous husband, Mrs. Wu had her feet tightly bound, as is the custom among women of her rank in China. While in this country she had a surgical operation performed, increasing her feet to the size nature intended them to be. Mrs. Wu's Washington friends, with whom she keeps up a steady correspondence, state that she is able to walk now with comfort.

MADAME WU TING FANG.

By the will of the late German Field Marshal, Count von Waldersee, commander of the allied troops during the Boxer uprising in China, his insignia of the Order of the Black Eagle, set with diamonds, was sold for the benefit of the needy soldiers in his old regiment. Count von Waldersee's wife is a Miss Lee, of New York, and asserts a most powerful influence at the Berlin Court where she succeeded in securing promotion after promotion for her husband.

Dr. Wallason, the Czar's American dentist, lives in St. Petersburg in a palace in a quarter reserved for Grand Dukes and Ambassadors. It is furnished with such exquisite things that each room represents a fortune in itself. Wherever the Czar or Czarina or the Grand Dukes are, they always send for Dr. Wallason, and he is kept busy traveling from one end of the big Russian empire to the other.

In the same way, Dr. Thomas, an American dentist at Vienna, has been for many years an intimate friend of the Emperor, and has never betrayed the Emperor's confidence by a single indiscreet utterance.

The German Emperor's American dentist not such a very long time since committed suicide.

Each Earl of Orford, at his burial is driven in his hearse three times round the church before his remains are finally laid to rest. The origin of this queer custom, according to family and local tradition, is that Horatio, second earl of Orford, destroyed the tomb of the Scalmers, former possessors of Mannington Hall, in Norfolkshire, and one of the unhappy ladies of this family, finding no rest, still haunts the churchyard, always searching for the remains of her relations. It is to mollify her spirit that this weird drive of the hearse round the churchyard takes place on the occasion of the obsequies of every Earl of Orford. The present Lord Orford, whose wife is Louise Corbin, daughter of D. C. Corbin, and niece of the great railroad magnate of that name, is at present traveling in this country. van Calava.

The Bartholdi Fountain.

Among art work displayed in one of the public reservations in the immediate shadow of the Capitol, is the Bartholdi Fountain, which plays in the National Botanical Garden. Its designer and sculptor was the man who made the Statue of Liberty, which France presented to the United States and which stands in New York harbor. The Bartholdi Fountain performed its first service in this country at the Philadelphia exposition, at the close of which it was brought to Washington.

BARTHOLDI FOUNTAIN IN WINTER GARB.

Cheerful During Trouble.

Mamma had told Dorothy that she could not go out again. The little maiden made one more plea. "Please, mamma, it isn't very wet, and I won't go on the grass."

"No, you cannot, Dorothy," said mamma, smiling at the little one's persistency.

"Well, anyway, mamma, it seems to me that you're very cheerful about it."

AN ENGLISHMAN WITH HUMOR.

How He Held His First Job and Moreover Got a Raise in Wages.

Herbert Kelcey, one of the leading actors of the present time, is an Englishman, but, unlike the usual type from the Island has a deep sense of humor. In speaking of his first visit to this country, he describes his experience something like this:

"Yes, I was a bit green when I came over to this country, and I 'ad to tike hanythink in the w'y of a job. I got started in a department store on 6th avenue, and the floorwalker s'ys to me, s'ys 'e:

"'Now, 'Arry, we'll give you three trials, and if you let three people get away without selling them, we'll 'ave to bounce you.'

"Well, I came down jolly early on Monday, took my plice be'ind the counter and w'ited for customers. Pretty soon a lidy walked up and asked me where she should tike the tram for New Rochelle. I didn't know, and she went aw'y. I looked at the floorwalker and the floorwalker 'e looked at me. That mide one," holding up a lean forefinger. "Then a man came along and stopped to arsk me where 'e could buy a 'at. I told 'im where the 'at counter was, and 'e went aw'y. That mide two. Jolly poor luck, wasn't it now? I looked at the floorwalker, and that floorwalker looked at me like 'ell, but what could I do? Then another lidy came along as 'ad a large piece of goods to match, and she wanted another yard of the same. I took it and pulled out heverythink on the shelves, but there was no more of it left. I was in a bit of a funk then, for if I let 'er go without miking a sale I would lose my job, so I sez:

"'Wite a bit, lidy; I'll see if we ave any upstairs.' I went up, and seeing there was no more there, either, I just cut a yard off her own goods and brought the two pieces down, rolled them up, took the money, and she went aw'y. I 'ad plenty of customers after that, but I didn't feel just comfortable, don't you know.

"The same afternoon she came back and asked for the floorwalker.

"''Ere,' sez she, 'I brought five yards of goods 'ere to match this morning and bought a yard more, but when I got home I found only four yards in my own piece. Can you expl'in that, please?'

"I 'emmed an' 'awed and tried to measure the goods and hattempted to tell the lidy that she must be mistaken about 'er own piece, but she only glared at me, and in a jiffy she was hup to the floorwalker expl'nin' the conditi n of affairs. 'Er tone hindicated that she was mad, and I said to meself, "'Arry, you're a dead 'un."

"The floorwalker called me hout, and I 'ad to tell 'im all about it, 'ow the first party wanted a tram-car, and the next a 'at, and this one wanted more goods when we 'adn't any. I 'ad to sell 'er some'ow, or lose my job, so I give 'er a bit from 'er own piece. The floorwalker looked so bloomin' mad for a bit that I thought my time was come for sure, but then 'e started to larf, and 'e larfed till I thought 'e'd bust. Then 'e sez, ''Arry,' sez e' 'I guess we'll 'ave to keep you, and raise your wages.' And 'e did."

Wonder Work of the Ancients.

Modern quarry machinery can handle single stones larger than any of the monoliths of ancient Egypt. The really surprising thing, however, is how did the ancients handle their monoliths with only their crude machines.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE Co.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

Agents Wanted.

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months' trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin

PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader
and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

RAPHERS
les and Scales Away bottles and scales cause you trouble? Developers, put up READY TO USE. the developing tray and add the water— latter. Large quantities of developer spoil. With our developers you only make tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and h will not stain the fingers or nails, and Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

PHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

UNRAVELLING A Tangled Skein

RICHARD CAMDEN. Author of "A Duel of Hearts."

She was sitting astern, in a pretty [illegible] of blue and white, and a big [illegible] shading her eyes from the sun. [illegible] was reading a book while waiting [illegible] the boat to start. The Spray, a [illegible] pleasure steamer, tugged at her mooring ropes off Brighton pier.

The Honorable Geoffrey Mannering watched from the deck of the West [illegible] this fragile figure of a girl. There [illegible] something more than admiration [illegible] his gaze.

"I've been caddish enough," he muttered. "The girl is scarcely more than a stranger to me. The loan of an umbrella in a soaking downpour made us acquainted. I should not have presumed upon such a triviality, but—but"—[illegible] broke off as the siren of the Spray shrieked impatiently—"but I fell in love with her upon the spot," he added, "and that's the plain, sweet, maddening truth."

A band commenced to play softly under the bridge of the boat. Verna Moore glanced up at the sound, and Geoffrey turned away swiftly, moving [illegible] with long strides.

"I must not go; I must not, really," [illegible] told himself. "Heaven forbid that [illegible] should win her heart!"

Verna had seen Geoffrey as he turned away. A glow of color swam [illegible] her cheeks, followed by a look of disappointment.

Verna Moore was a governess. She had been sent to Brighton to recover from the effects of an illness. She had met Geoffrey Mannering there for the first time.

"Yes, I'm in love; but, having made the confession to myself, I must forget and drop this affair like a hot coal," Geoffrey told himself. "It is just madness, and Claire coming down to Brighton to-day!"

Madness it was. For the Hon. Geoffrey Mannering was engaged to be married to Claire Ashberry, a baronet's daughter, and an heiress. It had been an early attachment; it had gradually developed into an engagement, partly because everyone expected that it would, and Society insisted upon it. But now, Geoffrey remembered certain words which Claire Ashberry once spoke to him.

"I have always liked you," she had said, "and am willing to become your wife; yet I must tell you that another—you need not know his name—awoke a feeling deeper than liking, and claimed my heart. But there were obstacles in the way; my parents came between us, and he went abroad, promising never to see me again."

Again the Spray shrieked for more passengers for her trip to Worthing. She would start in five minutes. Geoffrey hesitated.

A hand was laid upon his shoulder, and a voice said, speaking in a low tone:

"Why, Mannering, is it you?"

Geoffrey turned. He was face to face with an exceedingly handsome man.

"Molyneux—you!"

"Hush! for heaven's sake!" expostulated the other, turning pale.

"Ah! You are watched—as usual? Still playing your deep and perilous games?"

"Yes, yes. I'm in a bad fix, a tight corner. I must hide for a spell."

"What—in England? In Brighton? I could understand it in Vienna—where we met last six years back. A political spy who steals a secret from the Austrians might as well be in Vesuvius as on Austrian soil, and——"

"No, you are wrong. I'm wanted in England. Certain papers I obliged the German Government with. You understand?"

Geoffrey drew back, his face flushed with anger. "What!" he exclaimed, "you stooped so low as that?"

"A fortune was in it."

"You traitor!"

"Curse it! Speak quietly. I belong to no nationality. I serve all who ask me. You know that. Come, hide me somewhere! For old times' sake!"

A bell clanged on board the Spray. Geoffrey snatched at his card case, scribbled a line. "There," he said, "at the Hotel C—, give my man that card. He'll look after you until I come."

"A thousand thanks, Geoffrey. If ever—" The sentence was left unfinished. Mannering's resolution had broken down at the last moment. He would make the trip to Worthing after all.

• • • • • • •

"Put your hands higher up, Verna, nearer to my neck. We are safe if you keep still."

The swimmer rose on the crest of a long green swell, travelling shoreward.

A terrible explosion had occurred in the engine room of the Spray. She had sunk in less than fifteen minutes, with her return journey but half accomplished. There had been no panic, but her two boats were filled to the very gunwales with their human freight. Six men were venturing to swim to meet the boats, putting off from the shore. Geoffrey Mannering was one of them. He had assured Verna of his ability to save her if she would trust herself to him rather than to the overladen boats.

Verna kept perfectly still. Her feet trailing in the water gave her a terrifying sensation as of floating upon infinite depth.

The strong frame of the swimmer supporting her moved forward with its steady strokes. How calm he seemed; how confident! At that moment she loved him most; yet at that moment she knew that she might never be his.

On the return journey to Brighton, Geoffrey had told her all; had made his confession. He had said: "I love you; loved you from the day that we met. "That is all my defence."

There had been a long and dreadful pause, while she wrestled with her pain, with her temptation. Then she had answered: "We must say goodbye. We must never meet again. When we land, we must shake hands for the last time. You could not help loving me any more than I could help loving you. Yes, I love you; but this is a barrier which we cannot overcome."

And then, almost immediately afterwards, the accident had occurred. The sea was very cold; the warm suns of summer had not yet penetrated its chilly bosom. He was becoming stiff with cold. The girl's weight, which had felt so light at first, now pressed him lower and lower . The sea kept washing over his face. Onward he swam, though drawing now upon that strength which despair will give. At a furlong from the shore he was seen. A boat turned his way. Then came a final struggle to keep afloat. He was dragged on board with his burden when at the point of utter exhaustion.

The journey shoreward gave him time to recover strength. With his own hands he lifted Verna into a cab. They were driven to her lodgings in Old Steyne. He took her in his arms and gave her one long, passionate kiss. Then, with a repressed sob, he left her. He was never to meet Verna again. She had pointed his way of duty, and he must follow it.

Geoffrey turned his steps toward his hotel.

It was afternoon. A procession of every conceivable kind of carriage rolled along the King's Road. By the Brunswick lawns, tearing along the front at a mad speed, came a powerful motor car. The driver was a man, and at his side, closely veiled, sat a lady. Scarcely perceiving the rushing car, Geoffrey crossed in front of it. A loud shout and a furious bellow from a horn made him look up as he dashed forward.

Surely he knew the driver? And that veiled lady? Something in the poise of her body suggested a name—but no, he told himself that he was half silly, nearly dropping with fatigue.

Geoffrey staggered into his rooms. His valet met him just in time to save him from falling. For at that moment his senses left him, and he lost consciousness.

• • • • • • •

It was an hour before the accident which sank the Spray in six fathoms off Brighton beach.

Richard Molyneux, ex-army officer, gamester, spy, duellist, waited in much perturbation in Geoffrey's private sitting room at the Hotel C——.

Molyneux noticed that the space between the portico grounds and the distant sea was patrolled by a gentlemanly-looking fellow.

"Again!" growled Molyneux. "I seem unable to give that brute the slip."

Through the open window he heard the roar of a motor-car. It ceased as it drew near to the building. Up and down paced the fugitive, fuming and fretting.

Suddenly he turned swiftly. The door was open, and he heard the voice of Geoffrey's servant:

"No, he will not be long, madam; and if you will wait—ah, I had forgotten."

A well-dressed and beautiful figure entered the room. Seeing Molyneux, she uttered a cry of astonishment. Molyneux, whose feelings never betrayed him, turned to the servant and dismissed him with a couple of words. Then he faced the newcomer; he took her hands; he looked long and ardently into her face, which paled, then burned with crimson.

"Claire! You here? After all these years!"

The woman trembled. In a moment the deeps of a passion she believed she had sealed forever, broke forth. She clung, almost fainting, to his broad shoulders. Richard Molyneux it was whom she had loved in the past. He exercised an extraordinary fascination over Claire Ashberry.

"I came to see Geoffrey," she explained hurriedly. "I am staying at Hastings. He expected me at Brighton to-day. I came over to tell him that I must defer my visit. That is all. And you—you—what are you doing here, in this room? Geoffrey's room?"

"Didn't you know that he was a friend of mine?"

"A friend—to you?" Claire disengaged herself from those strong arms.

"I met him two hours back. He promised to hide me."

"To hide you?" The voice rang out in alarm. "True enough."

Molyneux laughed bitterly. "Come here," said he, drawing her to the window. "You see that man—ah, there are three of them. Trapped!"

Forgetful of everything save his danger, Claire Ashberry clung to Molyneux's arm. "Who are they, Richard? Who are those men?" she demanded imperiously.

"Police officers. Let me go, dear one. Yes, the old game. State papers; a secret sold. You'd better let me go. I must escape.

"You must escape; you shall!" cried Claire, wildly.

"How?" The thing's impossible. If I had a fast car—"

You have! There is mine; it is waiting for me. Come—oh, come quickly!" she implored.

For an instant Molyneux stood irresolute; then he said quite calmly:

"I will. And you?"

"I go with you," said Claire steadily.

"I shall strike northward into the Dover road, if possible, and quit England to-night," he answered.

"Where you go, I go also," said Claire.

They ran from the room. The car waited at the rear of the hotel. A minute later they were flying like a gale down the King's Road.

• • • • • • •

"You mean to tell me, Clarkson, seriously, that I have been in bed three days?"

"Three days, sir," answered Geoffrey's servant.

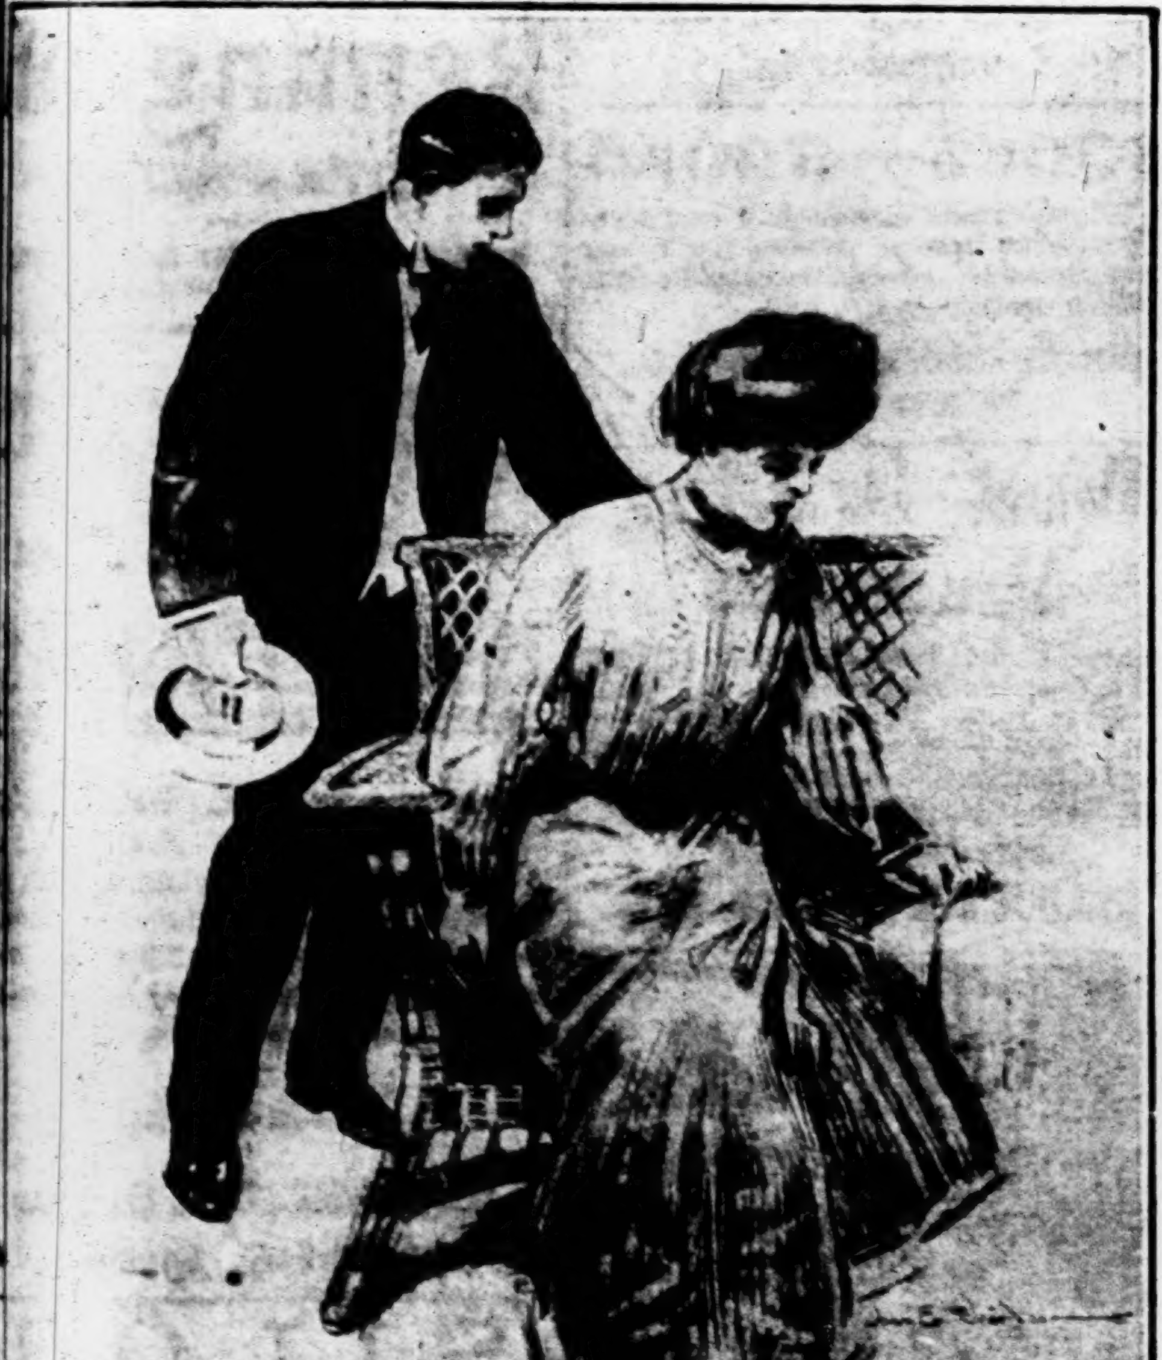
"A queer yarn, this, that you tell me about those two visitors," went on Geoffrey, thoughtfully. "They went off together, you say? Geoffrey broke the seal of the letter which had just arrived, and which bore a foreign postmark. He sat as if stunned, while his eyes read again and again one passage in the communication:

"Call my conduct madness, or by whatever term you will. I cannot fight against fate. I have married Richard Molyneux. We shall live abroad. He has promised me many things. Forgive me, Goeffrey; or if you cannot forgive, forget me."

Geoffrey rose after a long silence. He turned his steps toward the Old Steyne, but he had not covered a hundred yards before he saw her—Verna—sitting on a chair on the Brunswick lawns. She was looking out to sea. A gorgeous sunset had purpled the waters of the channel.

Geoffrey went up to her, softly, slowly, so that she did not hear his approach. And, leaning over her chair, suddenly, he whispered in her ear:

"Verna, it was not good-bye—after all!"



"IT WAS NOT GOOD-BYE—AFTER ALL!"

LION AGAINST TIGER.

Greater Bravery Shown By the Smaller Animal.

The owner of a one-ring circus traveling through the West this summer found himself in sore straits through the death of a much advertised lion which was the star attraction of the show. With a fertility born of necessity he advertised in the nearby papers for a "brave man." A good, strapping Irishman applied for the position.

"My pet lion has just died," said the showman, "and I will give you $5 a day if you will robe yourself in his skin and go through his tricks. All you have is two performances a day; cash money." The Irishman readily assented to the proposition and being of bright wit and intelligence soon learned all that was required of him. The first afternoon of the show he went through the paces well, enclosed in a large iron cage and occasionally emitting a roar to startle the guileless countrymen. In the evening the manager thought he would cap the climax by announcing to the audience that he would place the lion in the tiger's cage. On hearing this the son of Erin was terrified beyond comprehension. However, with trembling steps he went into the tiger's cage, but at once crept up into a corner, praying to himself. "Faith, God help me in this terrible trouble," he moaned. "Kape away from me the scratches of the big cat."

"G'wan," replied the tiger, "phwat yer sneaking up there like that, ain't meself too a wearer of the green?"

Flight of Balloons.

On his recent visit at Ostend, the Shah of Persia had a whole lot of fun when he cut a string holding 100 toy balloons which a woman was offering for sale. He laughed heartily at her distress, but later paid her amply for his joke.

Experience of an Old-Timer in the Wilds of Idaho.

"In the winter of '[illegible]," said an old miner, now in Uncle Sam's service, at Washington, "I was living in a cabin by myself in the mountains of Idaho, about seven miles from Idaho City, my nearest and only neighbor the postmaster, an Irishman and bachelor, who kept the toll house between Idaho City and the adjoining mountain towns.

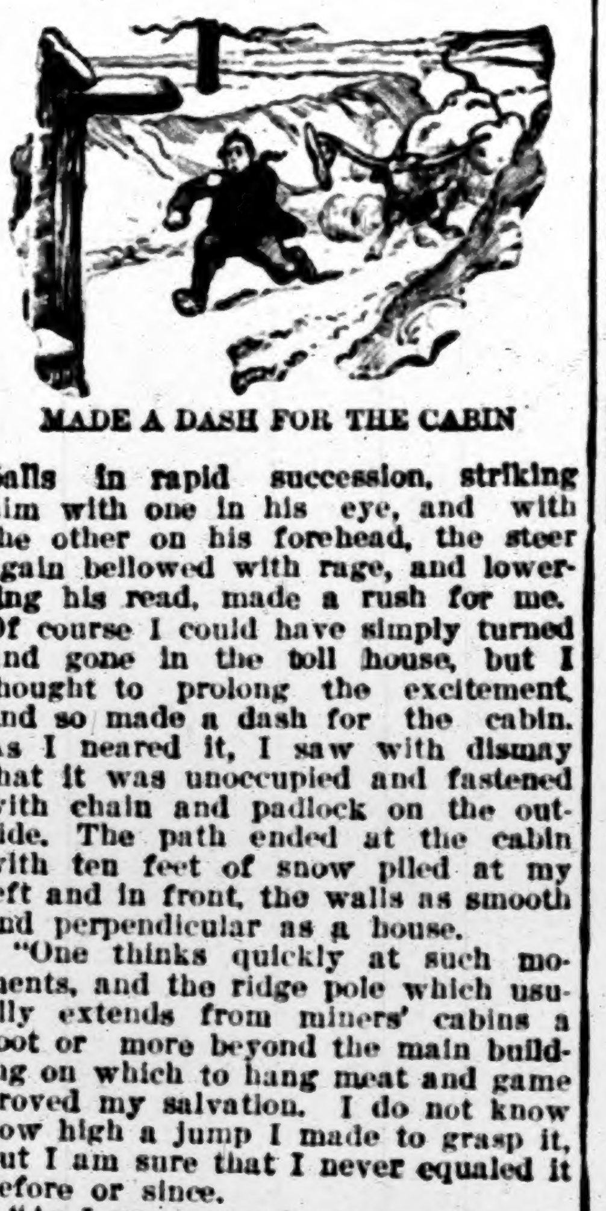
"My cabin was about two miles to the East, directly among the mountains. The snow which had been falling at intervals for several months, lay about 10 feet on a level around my cabin, and my only method of travel was by snow shoes.

"I had made my tri-weekly run to see if the stage had brought any letters to the toll house for me; and while adjusting my snow shoes, preparatory to starting back, I heard a bellowing and pawing. A Texas steer, which had separated himself from the herd which had lately passed toward the town, was angrily shaking his head at me about 100 feet distant. He had run past the house from the road up the little straight path which Pat had kept open to his spring, and after drinking and turning around, had become bewildered, the snow being at least eight feet deep on either side of the path.

"This was my direct route home, and although, if I had kept on top of the snow, he could not have pursued me, the spirit of my school-boy days revived, and I removed my snow shoes and immediately made two little icy snow balls. At right angles with the path to the spring another and a similar path had been cleared to a cabin about the same distance from the toll house. As I fired the two balls in rapid succession, striking him with one in his eye, and with the other on his forehead, the steer again bellowed with rage, and lowering his read, made a rush for me. Of course I could have simply turned and gone in the toll house, but I thought to prolong the excitement, and so made a dash for the cabin. As I neared it, I saw with dismay that it was unoccupied and fastened with chain and padlock on the outside. The path ended at the cabin with ten feet of snow piled at my left and in front, the walls as smooth and perpendicular as a house.

"One thinks quickly at such moments, and the ridge pole which usually extends from miners' cabins a foot or more beyond the main building on which to hang meat and game proved my salvation. I do not know how high a jump I made to grasp it, but I am sure that I never equaled it before or since.

"As I swung my body over the pole the horns of the infuriated animal ripped off the lower part of my outside woollen shirt, and while I smiled down serenely from my point of vantage, I most devoutly thanked the good Lord that He never fails to keep good watch over drunken men and fools."



MADE A DASH FOR THE CABIN

WHEN LOST IN THE WOODS.

If You Have an Axe, You May Not Have a Bad Time.

To get lost in the woods is not an uncommon occurrence, and what to do under the circumstances is so well told by Horace Kephart in "Field and Stream" that readers fond of camping and woodcraft will be interested:

"The first thing that one should do when he realizes that he has lost his bearings in a wild country is to stop and sit down. Don't take one more step until you have recovered your wits so that you can trace on the ground with a stick your probable course since leaving the camp, and mark on it the estimated location of such watercourses and other landmarks as you have passed. Then make up your mind that if you must stay out all night, alone in the woods, it is no killing matter, but likely an interesting adventure. Having recovered your mental balance, take note of the lay of the land around you, the direction of its drainage, the character of its vegetation, and the hospitalities that it offers to a night-bound traveler, in the way of drinking-water, sound down wood, natural shelter and browse. Then blaze a tree on four sides—make big blazes that can be seen from any direction. Do this even though there be several hours of daylight ahead, and although you have no present intention of staying here; for you do know that this spot is only so many hours from camp by back trail, and that you may have good reason to return to it.

"Now try to get an outlook over the surrounding country. In flat woods this will be difficult. If you can risk climbing a tall tree do so. Select one that you can climb, and having gained your outlook, note the compass direction of watercourses and other landmarks, mapping them on a bit of paper, for a lost man's memory is treacherous. The courses of small streams show where the main valley lies. Decide where to go, take the compass direction, note how the sun strikes it, and descend.

"Now, as you travel, make bushmarks by making blazes on trees or breaking a shrub here and there along the trail, so you will easily follow your way back should you have to pass the night in the woods."

Americans Going to Mexico.

During the last two years over 1,500 immigrants from Oklahoma and other parts of the Southwest have located in the single State of Tamaulipas, Mexico. They have made a settlement known as the Blaylock Colony, just west of Escandon on the Gulf Railway, and have built churches, school houses and stores, and enjoy the fullest liberty of action. So it seems that Americans are crossing the southern boundary as they are the northern one to Canada.

COFFEE

DOES

HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM

FOOD COFFEE

in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS

Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

Which Stone will Turn Easier?

The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905

THE CAR THAT GOES

Highest Workmanship. Lowest Prices.

Cars for Immediate Delivery.

Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.

GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.

I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

THE PICTURESQUE DAIRIES OF EUROPE.

Government Investigation Shows Them Below the American Standard.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL

We often hear of the model dairies of Europe, co-operative dairies into which a speck of dirt is never allowed to lodge, of Danish butter that is in truth a dream and brings a fabulous price, of eggs guaranteed fresh and country-like, and other reports of the way they do things on the fine old farms of Europe until one begins to think that one can not be more than half living in this country. But how much of this sort of thing will bear investigation and close analysis?

The Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture is a progressive and useful institution and has done several things to destroy prevailing fallacies and incidentally establish the fact that American methods as a whole, in at least some phases of agriculture, are as far if not farther advanced than those of any other country.

Not the least interesting of such information gathered was that collected by the late Henry E. Alvord, for many years the chief of the Dairy Division, in a tour of the countries of Europe for the purpose of looking into the dairy industry of the continent.

SELLING MILK IN DENMARK

Major Alvord stated first, upon his return home, that while the United States has never evolved a strictly dairy cow of its own, it has now nothing to gain through the importation of new blood from Great Britain, the Channel Islands, the Netherlands, Denmark or France. There are many picturesque and useful breeds of milch cattle in these countries but they do not compare, he stated, with the adapted American breeds. For instance, Brittany, in the north of France, has within its borders pretty, active little black-and-white cattle with marked dairy characteristics, producing often an astounding quantity of milk for their size, but they are believed to be useful in the United States only as playthings.

Holland Cheese Market.

Danish Prize Winners.

American Cow Stables Up to Average

In the stabling and general care of dairy cows no foreign country shows, in general practice, any methods or conditions better than our own. While the average conditions throughout the country are undoubtedly far from what they should be, the United States farmer and dairyman are making as rapid strides forward as can be found anywhere.

MODEL CO-OPERATIVE FRENCH CREAMERY

Major Alvord found comparatively few places in Holland and Switzerland where there is such close relationship between the dairy cows and families as the occupancy of connecting apartments, so often described in poetic fancy by European travelers. These conditions do exist abroad—where the cow is taken in as a member of the family—as they do in no place in the United States, but they are the exception. Stables which in summer are converted into conservatories and rooms for weaving and cheese curing are the unusual and show places. The construction of cow stables generally in the dairy countries of the Old World is of a substantial nature, with little regard paid to light and ventilation, conveniences of arrangement or ease in cleaning. While much attention is paid to cleaning cow stables, it is apparently more from an appreciation of the value of the manure than from an effort to have sanitary conditions in the dairy.

COMBINED DWELLING AND COW STABLE IN DENMARK—STABLE IN FRONT

Foreigners Provide Good Feed.

There is one thing where Europeans may be ahead of Americans. They seem to be better versed in the feeding of cattle. Even the poorest peasants do not hesitate to purchase concentrated cattle foods where necessary, yet it appears that the only reason the natives can give for this practice is the stereotyped answer:—"My father did so."

The American farmer, Major Alvord thought, has undoubtedly a much more intelligent knowledge of the principles of feeding, but there is probably more carelessness and waste in feeding animals of all kinds in America than anywhere else in the world.

The most astonishing feature of Europe in the care of milk on the farm is the entire absence of refrigeration in France, and the general ignoring of the value of cold in dairying. In the matter of dairy appliances and equipment, the United States is surpassed by no other country, although Denmark and parts of Great Britain stand about as well.

In most big cities of Europe there are a few well-conducted milk delivery establishments, such as are usually found in our smallest cities, while in some localities dairy animals are driven through the streets and milked at customers' doors. Milch cows are managed in the same way even in the best streets of Paris and of Rome. Paris probably has the poorest milk service of any of the large cities. During the Exposition at Paris in July, 1900, a special show of perishable dairy products was held as an annex to that exposition.

Paris Milk Exhibit Very Poor.

While the French producers had every opportunity of exhibiting their goods in the best possible shape, the only samples of natural milk and cream, absolutely free from chemical preservatives and uncooked, which were sweet and palatable after noon of the exhibition day, were from the dairies in New York and New Jersey, then eighteen days from the cow! The American products had been preserved solely by cleanliness and cold. Major Alvord made the statement on his return from Europe that no milk-supply company in Europe could duplicate this performance.

In butter-making, while there is ample room for improvement in our country, the only foreign country from which the United States can possibly learn anything is Denmark. There the best creameries are models of cleanliness, good order, and systematic management. But all these details are accomplished only through a lavish expenditure of labor which would appal an American creamery manager. It is not an uncommon thing for six or eight persons to be constantly employed for six or eight hours a day, turning out a quantity of butter which is ordinarily made in this country by a man and a boy who have all the work finished daily at 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Major Alvord found it impossible to draw any comparisons between the methods of cheese-making and the results in this country and those abroad. It is believed that the American factory system, common to the United States and Canada, is superior to anything elsewhere. In variety and fancy cheese this continent can not yet attempt to compete with the Old World. In order to learn the bottom facts about making any of the famous specialties in cheese, it is necessary to go to the locality where they originate.

Making Dairy Work Popular.

Americans find novelty in Europe in the "fairs" and "markets" where products of the dairy are sold to the highest bidder. In Normandy the wives and daughters of farmers and peasants assemble by the hundred in the parks or along the streets, selling their "mottes" of butter. The cheese fairs of Frome, England, and Kilmarnock, Scotland, and the street markets of Alkmaar, Hoorn, and Utrecht, Holland, also present lively and interesting spectacles in connection with the sale of dairy products.

Major Alvord's observations show that while too much can not be said of the industry, frugality and thrift of Europe's dairymen, a close comparison leads one to feel that the conditions of the industry in the United States are decidedly more satisfactory in almost every particular.

Wholesome Cider Vinegar.

In an ordinary cheap restaurant the safest thing to do if you wish to use some vinegar on your food is to try and get half a lemon. Then you will know that you are not eating out the lining of your stomach with caustic chemicals. Vast quantities of "pure cider vinegar" are quite innocent of the meaning of apples and are distinctly injurious, being purchased by the retail dealer in barrels, at seven to ten cents a gallon, which every apple grower knows is a prohibitive price for cider vinegar. However, real cider vinegar is a good condiment. The reason it can not be sold for the prices at which chemical vinegar is offered is that it takes from one to three years to make properly.

The cider first must go through the process of alcoholization, and then be changed into acetic acid. There are methods of artificially hastening this process, but the product is not first class, and it can only be done on a large scale. The ordinary big green cucumber pickles are usually quite free from cider vinegar. The only way to make them edible is to soak the pickles in strong brine, to extract the acid, then to soak them in water to get out the brine, and finally pickle them in real vinegar.

Pure vinegar can be made as well from other fruits as from apples. Grapes, plums, and other fruits which contain a considerable proportion of sugar, which is converted into alcohol and then into acetic acid, make good vinegar.

The Department of Agriculture has in press a short bulletin on vinegars, which can be had upon application to members of Congress. It is known as Farmers' Bulletin No. 233 and is compiled from the work of the various agricultural experiment stations on this subject.

Thoroughbred Milch Goats.

Among the various European milch goats the Spanish goat is said to be foremost in the quantity and quality of milk given. The accompanying illustration is from a photograph taken by Explorer David G. Fairchild, of the Department of Agriculture, while he was touring Spain making observations of the milch goat industry of that country. The remarkable size of udder of this goat is nothing abnormal among the Spanish goats, but on the other hand is the general rule. Many of these goats give eight quarts of milk a day.

SPANISH MILCH GOAT

Briefs From Everywhere.

British Columbia is the only British province in America which has preserved the old English custom which obliges judges to wear wigs.

In Arizona Indian children may be seen catching ants and eating them, and in Mexico the honey ant is eagerly sought after by the natives as an article of food.

Nine-tenths of the people of Persia are Mahometans.

The Irish bogs, it is stated, could produce fifty million tons of peat a year for one thousand years.

The steel in the modern band-saw is of finer quality and will stand rougher usage than the far-famed Damascus blade of the ancients.

The physician in China collects no fee, but receives a percentage of the money paid to the apothecary.

Zorene, a new chemical compound, will, it is said, double the life of metals exposed to the air, such as bridges, vessels, tanks and the like.

An adulterator of food in Germany is liable to a term of imprisonment of six months and a fine of 1,200 marks.

A man will die for want of sleep in about ten days and for want of air in about five minutes.

A Laplander will sometimes travel on skates one hundred and fifty miles in a day.

Cromwell was a gypsy baiter. He once ordered them expelled from England and if they refused to depart by the next wind they should be hanged without delay.

A bee, carrying no burden, will fly at the rate of forty miles an hour. Carrying a load of honey his speed is reduced to about twelve miles.

When Alexander asked his Aunt

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY

Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's

AMERICAN CROWN

SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company

CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed box. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to obtain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF

FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free.
Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.

MISSOULA, MONTANA.

AGONS APPROACH

ty Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

ACTURED BY

n Manufacturing Co.

VILLE, KY.

FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to tain the description of exactly what you

Hydraulic Jacks our Special

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

ula Nursery

acclimated trees and the best Northern States.

f Standard Fruit

ars, Plums, Cherries and Trees Fruit Plants, Shrubs, d Roses.

NG STRAWBERRY

ALTY OF

NTS AND SHRUBS

igns. Also Vegetable Plants alogue and Price List Free prompt attention.

NURSERY CO.

, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court [illegible] first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in [illegible] second Monday in [illegible] first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

day......10¢

same date last year 9½ @ 9¾

received to date	1905	1904
& C.	7411	220.
Mullins	816	.274
& Bro	38.	..
Jones....	622	542
& Sons	185	..
Farms		341
Total	1905	4355

These figures are obtained from cotton buyers Wednesday five o'clock.

Donovan of Billingsley was here Tuesday.

and Mrs. John Giles have home from a visit to the Fair at Birmingham.

Hugh Simpson spent a few Birmingham this week.

F. B. Ticknor and family returned from North Carolina.

P. I. Hopkins returned Birmingham Tuesday where been for the past few days.

and Mrs. Watts Moore and Nellie Mullins are visiting gham this week.

cold soda water always on tap at Upchurch's store.

Matthews and Miss Marion Birmingham this week and Mrs. Sam Latham of allo visited their daughter, Upchurch, last week.

John Marde of Nashville town Wednesday.

C. W. Reynolds and little and Miss Mattie Wear of spent Wednesday in town.

Ella and Lula Billingsley cheon visited Clanton Wed-

you want a pleasant physic berlain's Stomach and Liver They are easy to take and no griping or other unpleas ect. Sold by Upchurch Drug nton, A. Horn, Thorsby Birmister and daughter and Boone and daughter of Tyus, itors here Wednesday.

C. W. Reynolds of Jemison town Monday.

and Mrs. W. E. Thomas of were visitors here Tuesday.

't fail to call on Miss Minnie for your fall hats. She is hats at the most reasonable Go and see her before you Clanton.

E. F. Jackson, living seven west of Clanton, brought in of ribbon cane which meas- feet 4½ inches long. He has nearly ½ an acre of the

W. A. Kemp has resigned as on Route No. 3, and Mr. J. has been appointed in his Mr. Kemp has been ap- assistant Postmaster, the ment effective Dec. 1.

Cough Syrup which drives a of the system by acting as a on the bowels is offered in dy's Laxative Honey and Tar. the throat, strengthens the and bronchial tubes. The 's friend and the children's Best for Croup, Whooping, etc. Sold by Upchurch

W. B. Jones of Rushton was Wednesday.

R. N. Wilkins of Billingsley here Wednesday.

nice lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

licenses have been issued by the Probate Judge to wing persons. J. A. Cleckler and Miss Scott; Mr. J. A. Bentley and Daisy Baxley; Mr. Jo- artin and Miss Mary Pearl; Mr. A. F. Wallace and Harris; Mr. J. W. In- and Miss Fannie Driver; Mr. Gallman and Miss Ada

ed. Ed Arledge and Hat- er.

ounce of food you eat that digest does a pound of harm. the entire meal into poison. deprives the blood of ary tissue-building mate- it poisions it. Kodol Dys- Cure is a perfect digestant. the food regardless of the of the stomach. It allows to rest and get strong Relieves Belching, Heart Sour Stomach, Indigestion, of the Heart etc. Sold by Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6 00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1 50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40.000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garden. You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN

Growers and Exporters

ZANESVILLE - - - - OHIO

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and tax Assessor I. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

			1905
Kincheon	Beat	6	Nov	1
Enterprise	"	6..	"	2
Pletcher	"	8..	"	3
Cantonford, till 12 m.	"	8	"	4
Stanton	"	8..	"	6
Valley Creek	"	8..	"	7
Dixie	"	8..	"	8
Shoals	"	7..	"	9
Maplesville	"	7..	"	10
Benson	"	3..	"	11
Macedonia	"	3..	"	13
Gentry & Cofer's Mill	"	2..	"	14
Hayes' Mill	"	2..	"	15
Providence	"	2..	"	16
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12 m	"	2.	"	17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 p m	"	1..	"	17
Jemison	"	2..	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1..	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1..	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11.	"	22
Providence	"	10.	"	23
Burwell	"	10.	"	24
Thorsby	"	9..	"	27
Clanton	"	4.	"	28
Cooper	"	10.	"	29
Verbena	"	5.	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5..	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

A liquid cold cure and the only Cough Syrup which moves the bowels—works all cold out of the system—is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the head and throat and makes weak lungs strong. Best for Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court, Seventh District, Northeastern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905.

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

Administrator's Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court. Oct 7, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 7th day of October, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said Estate, are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.

R. P. MILLS, Administrator.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL

CLANTON, ALA.

THE ORIGINAL

LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

(Trade Mark Registered.)

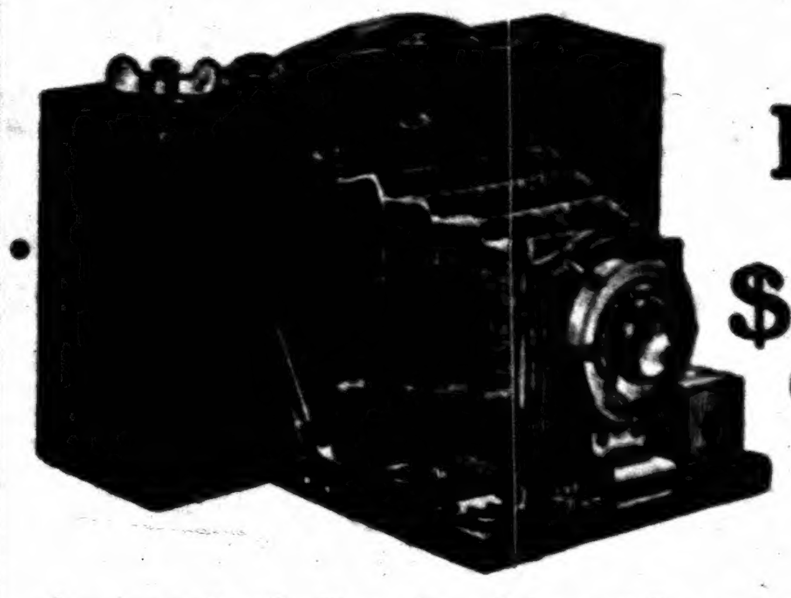
The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee is on every bottle.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.

Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL

Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells

CLANTON, ALA.

Do Not Neglect a Cold.

Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

MRS. SALLIE LOCKHAR, [illegible], Tex., says: "[illegible]"

Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

FARM AND GARDEN

FARM NOTES.

Good young sheep should always command a market, but such stock should not be sold off the farm.

Length of staple is often begotten at the expense of fineness and this should always be avoided.

In investing in sheep to form a flock purchase none but first-class animals, healthy and vigorous.

Field peas make an excellent feed for all kinds of stock and especially for sheep.

If you have on hand a considerable number of good growing young birds, it will be well to pay particular attention to housing them during the fall months.

The coop should be closed tight to keep out rats or weasels. If these animals exist in the neighborhood the chickens must be protected, but not by closing them in air tight.

Place a good-sized piece of wire screen over the front of the coop to admit fresh air.

Some poultry raisers clean out a good many of the old birds in midsummer, and in this way make room for the chickens. If this is done and the young birds are then allowed to go on the roosts, nail a board four or six inches in width the whole length of the perch. This will prevent crooked breastbones which are likely to result from roosting on narrow perches or poles.

The pig pen should be dry and clean. It is well to have two pens—one for feeding and one for sleeping. In this way one pen is always kept dry and clean, as the droppings will be left in the other pen; clean daily.

The pigs should be gotten out on the ground as soon as possible, so that they will not become inactive or deformed. The feed should be increased gradually. Foods rich in protein should be used, such as oats, barley, etc.

As the pigs grow older a little corn may be added to the ration. It is often well to scatter some shelled corn on the floor of the pen so that the sow will take exercise in picking up the grains.

THE CAUSE OF GARGET.

All sorts of objections have been urged against the cement floors for cow stables, the most important one being that such floors are slippery. If they are built with the proper slope and built the proper length so that the excrements will fall beyond the floors there is no reason why they should be wet and slippery. Of course, such floors are made so that they are rather rough, this being easily accomplished by the introduction of considerable gravel in the cement mixture. Lately several writers have claimed that the udders of their cows were injured by coming in contact with cold cement floors and that, in some cases, garget resulted.

This is a serious statement and doubtless has more or less truth in it. It is plain that in a cold climate the cement floor does get very cold, but an abundance of bedding will easily rectify that trouble. Even if the animals displace more or less of this bedding in their movements the floor has been warmed by their bodies so that there is little danger. While there is a possibility of such injury as stated, it seems as if the bedding would overcome it. We have an old mop in the barn, made of heavy ropes, with which we go over each floor of cement before the cows are bedded during the winter to remove any moisture which may have gotten there from any cause and then we supply the bedding liberally; for a dozen years we have used cement floors in a climate where the thermometer goes far below zero and have yet to discover an udder trouble with any of the cows. Indianapolis News.

WHITE SPECKS IN BUTTER.

Question—Can you direct me to where I can find articles on the subject of Cause and Cure of White Specks in Butter?

Answer—The cause of white specks in butter is usually overripe cream. When cream sours too far before churning, the curd in the cream is hardened by the continued souring and contracted into small white specks which may be retained in the butter if not removed by washing. As a rule, butter of this sort is more commonly made in farm dairies than in creameries, because at the farm dairy, cream is collected for several days and the first lot of cream is likely to be very sour before the mixture of several days' cream is churned. This separates the curd and although it is mixed quickly and thoroughly through the cream during churning, the harder specks are apt to be left in the granular butter and not washed out with the buttermilk.

Butter made from cream containing this kind of curd can be freed from these white specks by washing the granular butter in the following way: When the butter breaks and the granules are about the size of wheat grains, draw off the buttermilk, then fill the churn about half full with cold water, revolve it a few times and let churn stand until the granular butter rises to the surface of the water; the curd being heavier than the butter, will sink to the bottom and may be drawn off through the draining plug at the bottom of the churn. By repeating the washing the granular butter in this way, one can separate the hard specks of curd very readily and thus prevent their appearance in the finished butter.—Professor Farrington in Hoard's Dairyman.

LARGE DEMAND FOR HORSES.

Dr. E. Salmon, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Agricultural Department, asserts that horse breeding is the most important line of work in animal breeding which his bureau has undertaken and that the situation in the horse market during recent years has had a great deal to do with determining the lines of work to be undertaken.

In reference to the increasing prices of horses and the work of his bureau to relieve the present shortage in the supply of good animals, the doctor said:

"From the years 1899 to 1904, inclusive, there has been an increase, ranging from $10 to $35 in the average prices for all classes of horses on the Chicago market. This shows what always happens during a period of scarcity, namely, a large increase in the price of the best grades, the average price of carriage horses increasing $32.50 per head; but there is one very remarkable feature in the large increase in the prices for the cheaper grades. Horses for general use show the largest increase of any, $35 per head; bussers and trammers have increased $25 per head, and southern chunks $14 per head. The relative increase in these cheap classes has been grater than that of the better ones, and the fact shows clearly that the demand for horses has rapidly increased."

THE CELLAR AS A MILK ROOM.

It is not always the most convenient thing in the world for a practical farmer to build a dairy house. His dairy may not be large enough to justify it and then again, he may actually lack the necessary means. The writer has seen cases like this and furthermore had experince in them, so he knows what it is. But there are other ways by which to solve the problem. The cellar, for instance, will often answer for the purpose. The essential part is that it has a dry floor and is so ventilated as to be exempt from any disagreeable or earthy odor. Preferably, the floor should be covered with cement. The ventilation should be such, too, that the place can be shut up during the day and opened at night as is desired; this for the reason that the night air is dry and cool, whereas that in the day time being warmer, contains more moisture and if allowed to enter the cellar will there be deposited as dew on the walls which are cooler. On this account, opening doors and windows too much during the day is often the cause of many a damp, unwholesome house. How much more should it be observed then, as regards a cellar where milk is kept.—Written for The Epitomist.

WILL YOU BUILD A SILO?

Ten years ago it would have been somewhat risky to advise that a man with as few as a dozen cows build a silo, but as builders have learned more about the construction of a silo the cost has been materially reduced, notwithstanding the increase in the cost of lumber. It is not within the province of this department to give the names of silo builders, but they are easily obtainable from advertisements in various agricultural papers or by inquiry to the experiment station of your state.

That the silo is one of the most economical ways of preserving food for cows is well known and frequently one can find a structure in the neighborhood which he can copy with a few instructions if he is handy with tools, for they are not difficult to build. The silo does away with much of the disagreeable work of corn harvesting and furnishes a food for the cows as good as the green food in the shape of steamed clover that is so valuable for poultry. If you can find any farmer within reasonable distance of you who owns a silo it will pay to visit and talk with him.—Indianapolis News.

WHIMS OF THE MARKET.

It is well enough to know a good vegetable when you see it, and to try to have the best of everything. It is well to have high ideals. But they do not always pay. What the market gardener wants is cash for his products, and to get that he must furnish what the customer wants and is willing to pay the most money for. Almost each market has its particular whims and vagaries. Or at times we meet with particular customers who have particular and possibly peculiar whims and notions about what they want. We must try to conform to such notions no matter if we think that they are peculiar and that we have much better things than such a notional customer calls for.

The underground stations on the London "tube" railway are to adopt an American idea. Each is to be painted conspicuously in different colors.

The World's Human Butcher Bill

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.

HUMAN beings have been killing one another for such a long time that neither history nor the prehistoric monuments can tell us when the bloody business began.

Therefore, in estimating the Human Butcher Bill a great many items will necessarily have to be left out.

In fact, it was not until times quite recent that anything like an itemized account of the cost of the business was even attempted.

About three hundred years ago it began to occur to the leading men in some of the nations that it might be just as well to look a little bit into the matter of the cost of war, and it is only about that date that our figures begin.

It appears, then, that within somewhat less than three centuries England has spent in the game of human slaughter, in round numbers, $7,000,000,000 (seven thousand millions of dollars).

It is estimated that the wars of the Nineteenth Century cost the world very near $18,000,000,000 (eighteen thousand millions of dollars).

A crack mathematician has told us that there are in a century 3,155,673,600 seconds. Such being the case, it follows that the world has paid out in the last hundred years for war nearly $6 a second!

The combined indebtedness of the leading nations of the earth amounts to about $35,000,000,000 (thirty-five thousand millions of dollars).

Most of this enormous rum is on account of war, or the preparation for it.

But this is putting it far too mildly. If the nations had been at peace during the long time that they were fighting each other they would now have no debt, but, on the other hand, an enormous surplus in their treasuries.

As it is, Great Britain, France and Germany are spending annually in interest on their debts nearly $390,000,000, to say nothing of the yearly appropriations for the mighty armaments under which they groan.

These appropriations amount for England, $360,000,000; for France, $200,000,000; for Germany, $217,000,000.

Even the United States of America, with no "entangling alliances," pays, in round numbers, $200,000,000 a year to keep itself in trim for killing human beings.

The poet Shelley somewhere says that the time is coming when Humanity will "look back and shudder at its younger years."

There is no doubt of it—and it seems to many of us as though the time for the "shuddering" to begin had already arrived.

All honor to Norway and Sweden for having demonstrated to men the fact that war can be ovided, and that, because it is a senseless and brutal thing, it should be, and shall be, avoided!—New York American.

⁂

Danger in High Finance To Society and Nation

By J. Edward Simmons, the New York Banker.

OUR forefathers would have called graft stealing, and the grafter a thief, but in these days of progress and of push, those men who are making haste to get rich honestly if they can, prefer the word graft, because it is less withering. I fear the very use of the word graft is an indication of men's tolerance of a thief and his trade.

Great corporations and multimillionaire enterprises, whether conducted by the State or by its citizens, are modern growths. Their workings and their dangers have not been and are not as fully understood as their advantages. In the interest of the Nation and of its citizens their dark side should be investigated and set forth no less lucidly and forcibly than their bright side, and their advantages should not be ignored, nor should their evils be fostered.

The ordinary thief is personally amenable to the law; the ordinary thief is a man without means and without power; but the thief who steals in the name of a corporation because he wields the influence of that corporation has many times the power for mischief which the former has. He has the power because he controls more money; he has the power because he is more respected, and, therefore, less suspcted. Such a thief is a far greater danger to the community, to his fellow-citizens, and especially to the commonwealth, than the footpad, the burglar, or the pickpocket.

Shall this wholesale thief go unscathed while the pilferer of a pitiful ten dollars is deprived of the opportunity of doing further wrong by imprisonment? Corporations are mere legal entities, and, as such, cannot be punished. But the director or trustee of a corporation who steals or bribes or appropriates is a real person and he should be answerable to the law, the more so as in all cases he profits by his wrongdoing, and in many cases he is the only one who profits by it.

It is largely because the masses see great fortunes accumulated by dishonest means, and, when so accumulated, combined to smother individuals enterprise and force unjust tribute from the public, that they are ready to listen to the false doctrines of Socialism. Socialism has, of course, its unreasoning and unreasonable advocates, but it is probable that most of those who have been flocking to its banner have done so rather as a protest against the dishonesty and the abuse of power so rampant among us today, than with any hope of altering the established methods of social evolution. If we can restore the old, rigid standards of honesty and uprightness in all business dealings and limit and restrict the operations of trusts to their beneficial uses, eliminating the power to monopolize and oppress, we shall go far in the direction of preventing the extension of this threatening evil.

⁂

Black Bear Are Not Very Formidable

By President Theodore Roosevelt.

BLACK bears are not, under normal conditions, formidable brutes. If they do charge and get home they may maul a man severely, and there are a number of instances on record in which they have killed men. Ordinarily, however, a black bear will not charge home, though he may bluster a good deal. I once shot one very close up which made a most lamentable outcry, and seemed to lose its head, its efforts to escape resulting in its bouncing about among the trees with such heedless hurry that I was easily able to kill it. Another black bear, which I also shot at close quarters, came straight for my companions and myself, and almost ran over the white hunter who was with me. This bear made no sound whatever when I first hit it, and I do not think it was charging. I believe it was simply dazed, and by accident ran the wrong way, and so almost came into collision with us. However, when it found itself face to face with the white hunter, and only four or five feet away, it prepared for hostilities, and I think would have mauled him if I had not brained it with another bullet; for I was myself standing but six feet or so to one side of it. None of the bears shot on this Colorado trip made a sound when hit; they all died silently, like so many wolves.

Ordinarily, my experience has been that bears were not flurried when I suddenly came upon them. They impressed me as if they were always keeping in mind the place toward which they wished to retreat in the event of danger, and for this place, which was invariably a piece of rough ground or dense timber, they made off with all possible speed, not seeming to lose their heads.

Frequently I have been able to watch bears for some time while myself unobserved. With other game I have very often done this even when within close range, not wishing to kill creatures needlessly, or without a good object; but with bears, my experience has been that chances to secure them come so seldom as to make it very distnictly worth whil improving any that do come.—From "A Colorado Bear Hunt," Scribner's.

⁂

The Durable Satisfactions of Life

By President Eliot, of Harvard.

THE foundation of all durable satisfactions in life is that each man be a clean, wholesome, vigorous animal. This means that drunkenness, licentiousness and dirt of all kinds must be avoided.

But this is not enough. It is the intellectual life that gives the educated man the real satisfaction that endures. The cultivation of vigorous, intense mental work each day is bound to furnish one of the greatest and most lasting satisfactions that come in life. Don't take three minutes to do what might just as well be done in two minutes. Don't take four years in college to do what might be done just as well in three years.

The third great source of satisfaction is a decent reputation. In order to secure this be a man of honor. Act toward all women as though you were going to marry some pure woman inside of a month. Be honest to all, and, more than this, be generous, especially to those less powerful and poorer than yourself.

Underclothing made of the skins of birds is worn by Eskimo women. Before being sewed together the skins are chewed well by the women, in order to make them soft. One shirt requires about one hundred skins.

DEEDS OF SAVAGE MOROS.

TALES OF AN ATTORNEY BACK FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

A Red Moon the Defense of a Man Who Ran Amuck—Efficiency of a Mindanao Constable—Cunning of the Followers of the Rebel Chief Datto Ali.

"The Moro constable is one of the most thoroughly effective officers in the world in many respects," remarked Theodore G. Hinckly, attorney-at-law of Zamboanga, Mindanao Island, who is home from the Philippines, visiting with his former classmate in Washington University, City Attorney William Van Cleve, of Macon, Mo. "He generally has a better idea of what the datto or petty ruler wants done than the writ specifies and he follows out his superior's wishes.

"While I was laid up in the military hospital a datto suffering from a bolo wound was brought in and placed in a cot near mine. After his bandages had been applied he issued a writ for the arrest of the man who had attacked him and gave it to one of his constables to execute.

"In a few days thereafter a couple of strapping big Moros entered the ward. One of them carried a gunny sack. Arriving at my neighbor's cot they untied the sack and out roiled a hideous black head.

"The wounded datto studied the features sufficiently to recognize them.

"'You have done well,' he said to his desperate looking retainers. 'Throw this—this thing out to the hogs.'

"That was over a year ago. Since then the Government has stepped in and put a stop to this summary method of enforcing the law.

"One of the first cases I got on the island was an appointment to defend a murderer in the Court of First Instance, a tribuanl corresponding to your Circuit Courts. A Moro, while laboring under religious frenzy, had started out with the humane purpose of killing every Christian within reach—running amuck, they call it.

"The man was not drunk; he was simply seeking a short cut to the happy land, as defined by his creed. He had carved a little girl and several others in his honest attempt to prove himself a sincere believer.

"Insanity wouldn't do, I knew, and there were no juries to disagree, because that system is not employed on the island. I got an interpreter and went into a side room with my client.

"'Ask him,' I said to the interpreter, 'if he's got a defense.'

"The interpreter repeated the interrogatory, and the prisoner shook his head violently in the affirmative.

"'Yes, a good one,' said the interpreter.

"'Let's have it.'

"After a voluble interchange of heathen lingo the interpreter blandly delivered the result:

"'He had to whack those people because the moon rose red from Basilan Strait, and the roosters started crowing at the sight of it.'

"'Is that all?' I asked.

"'All!' repeated the interpreter, as if I were extremely unreasonable, 'isn't that enough?'

"The fanatic bolo wielder got fourteen years in prison, and I was glad of it.

"When I left the island there was a formidable insurrection by a redoubtable chieftain named Ali, who had some 3,000 desperate followers. He went on the warpath because he heard that the Sultan of Sulu was drawing a big pension from the Government and he was left out.

"Ali is as cunning as an Indian. Time and again he has ambushed scouting parties, slain them to the last man and confiscated guns and ammunition until he and his crowd were nearly as well armed as our sol- dead or alive.

"His camp is supposed to be somewhere in the Cottabato Valley. The grass and other growth is as tall as a telegraph pole and the greatest caution has to be observed in passing through it, as the rebels are as silent and as swift as death.

"At one time a well guarded pack train was slowly crossing the valley. There was no danger of attack as long as the soldiers kept together, but one of them stepped out of the path for a moment to gather a piece of fruit. Inside of two minutes he was missed and his companions found him with his throt cut, a spear thrust in his breast and his rifle and cartridges gone. Not even a sign of life remained, showing the wonderful expedition with which the sinister enemy had accomplished his work; not a groan was heard, not even a sigh, as the soldier gave up his life.

"Ali's sleuths thus hover around every troop sent out, and their unwearied vigilance and determination are telling on the nerves of the soldiers. If he would meet our men in fair battle nothing would please them better. The struggle would be hot and brief, but against these thuglike tactics the soldiers find their task an almost impossible one.

"Ali's ambition is to acquire enough arms for his own tribe and as many others as he can induce to join him until he has a great army, when he hopes to sweep the United States soldiers from the island and proclaim himself Chief Sultan and lord of all.

"Because of his skulking methods it must not be thought the Moro is a coward. When he attacks the battle line nothing will stop him but a bullet which brings death. He won't surrender. At close rible fighter.

"The islanders who
the black flag
merciless, earnest. The
and the mountains
troops deserve the
the fortitude with meeting such an enemy."
Sun.

HAD 110 PERSONS ON

Outcome of an Odd Offer
Western Business

A hardware and in the West recently unique scheme with cess, the climax amusing to the populace able to the firm. This every farmer in
weeks prior to the event, offering a prize of $10 to person who, on a specified should bring into their vehicle of any description
number of persons the ment being that they
before noon and that each humanity should be member of the firm in place of business.

That nearly every farmer counties not only his best to run away with sinker and all was
the designated day, when direction over every road
all descriptions and drawn by beasts of bovine species, but mostly of pedigree and well
ance, began to pour into
each conveyance loaded to
with men, women and

They began coming rise and continued until
As each vehicle arrived and its occupants in front of lishment the crowd of well as contestants

The number of persons
by each contestant varied to fifty until 10 o'clock, arrived with fifty-one. He had the prize until came in at twenty o'clock with a wagon
carrying eighty-six persons,
so far ahead of any other
and it was then so near figured he could not lose.

"You've got it to a
one of his party.

"I reckon that's what,"
he put his hands into his walked away. He could
the money jingling in his confidence was so bought a new hat and then went to a barber shave, hair cut and a strength of his belief
won the $10.

But hardly had he
the barber shop when up from the crowd as proaching a vehicle the
was never before seen of this town, and probably be seen again.

The conveyance was and 20 feet wide. It wheels and was drawn horses. Seated on the vehicle were enough
boys and girls to start
Oklahoma or open a
Dakota.

The man who held the skill of a circus
eight horses was from three houses and thirty teen miles away. He drove square, followed by a
ing persons, and proudly
octet of steeds at the
where the load of
was counted one by one
110.—Hardware Dealers'

Southern Ho

Some years ago
Keokuk county, Ia., trip through the States. On his return to his friends his journey.

"Now, for instance,"
went to a farmer to
to the nearest town.
11.30 a. m., and I wanted
but these here Southern hospital he would
says, 'Light, stranger,
dinner.' So I 'lit.'

"They had a great big potatoes in the middle
The host pushed the
an' says, 'Have some,
took a spoonful an'
He pushed 'em over
'Have some more,
another spoonful
back. He says, 'Take stranger.' So I took ful an' pushed 'em
pushed 'em over again
—near all of 'em.

A 100 Mile

The Katy flyer
out whistling Tuesday
tinuing the piercing
time the train was

It whistled one from Oswego to
of 100 miles, which longest whistle on sand or some other
had got stuck in the
and all the frenzied
do was to let her Clipper.

Frankfort has centenary of the

The gross
fire in London is

ET WHAT YOUR
And pay only for what you get dealer's duty to give you the best get in footwear. Make it a point
"ALWAYS JUST CORR
CLOVER BRAND
Just a little better than you have been used
WEAR, SERVICE, STYLE and COMFORT
Made by Wertheimer-Swarts
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCL
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

MOROS.

EY BACK
INES.

of a Man ency of a unning of ebel Chief

one of the officers in pects," re-kly, attor
Mindanao
the Phil is former University,
Cleve, of has a bet
o or petty writ speci
a superior's
the mill ng from a and placed his band issued a man who it to one
a couple ntered the ed a gunny ghbor's cot out roiled studied the recognize he said to retainers out to the ago Since stepped in is summary aw got on the nt to defend of First In sponding to Moro, while frenzy, had ane purpose tian within ey call it.
nk, he was cut to the his creel irl and sev attempt to eliever
I knew, and disagree, be employed on erpreter and
h my client.
the interpre-
ed the inter-er shook his rmative.
ld the intererchange of reter blandly
those people
ed from Basi sters started
t.' nterpreter, as unreasonable;
lder got four d I was glad nd there was tion by a re ned Ali, who ate followers
h because he of Sulu was from the Gov t out.
as an Indian has ambushed them to the ed guns and nd his crowd ed as our sold to be some Valley. The
is as tall as a greatest cau
ed in passing
s are as silent guarded pack ing the valley of attack as
ept together,
ed out of the ther a piece
o minutes he panions found a spear thrust rifle and cart
a sign of life wonderful ex
the sinister et his work
d, not even a ve up his life over around and their un-determination
ves of the sol eet our men in uld please them would be hot hese thuglike
d their task an acquire enough
e and as many ce to join him
army, when he nited States sol d and proclaim and lord of all
iking methods it the Moro is a tacks the battle
him but a bullet
He won't surrender. At close

rible fighter.
"The islanders who
the black flag against civi merciless, implacable and earnest. The swamps, and the mountains aid the troops deserve the highes
the fortitude with which meeting such an enemy."—
Sun.

HAD 110 PERSONS ON HI

Outcome of an Odd Offer
Western Business H

A hardware and imple
in the West recently unique scheme with pleno cess, the climax proving
amusing to the populace, able to the firm. This fi every farmer in their vicini
weeks prior to the event, offering a prize of $10 in person who, on a specified should bring into their to vehicle of any description number of persons, the on ment being that they sh
before noon and that each humanity should be cou member of the firm in fro
place of business.
That nearly every farmer
counties not only nibbled,
his best to run away with sinker and all was demon
the designated day, when
direction over every road
all descriptions and condi drawn by beasts of bur
bovine species, but mostly of pedigree and well groom
ance, began to pour into
each conveyance loaded to
with men, women and chi
They began coming soon rise and continued until n
As each vehicle arrived an
its occupants in front of lishment the crowd of si
well as contestants increa
The number of persons
by each contestant varied f to fifty until 10 o'clock, w arrived with fifty-one. He had the prize until anot came in at twenty mi
o'clock with a wagon 5
carrying eighty-six persons
so far ahead of any other and it was then so near n
figured he could not lose.
"You've got it to a cert
one of his party.
"I reckon that's what,"
he put his hands into his walked away. He could
the money jingling in his confidence was so supre bought a new hat and a then went to a barber sho shave, hair cut and a s strength of his belief t
won the $10.
But hardly had he en
the barber shop when a up from the crowd as the proaching a vehicle the li was never before seen on of this town, and probabl
be seen again.
The conveyance was
and 20 feet wide. It mo wheels and was drawn horses. Seated on the vehicle were enough men
boys and girls to start
Oklahoma or open a re
Dakota.
The man who held th
the skill of a circus dri
eight horses was from three houses and thirty teen miles away. He drop square, followed by a thr
ing persons, and proudly
octet of steeds at the
where the load of laug
was counted one by one
110.—Hardware Dealers'

Southern Hospit

Some years ago one Keokuk county, Ia., ma trip through the adjac
States. On his return to his friends his impre
journey.
"Now, for instance,"
went to a farmer to ask
to the nearest town.
11.30 a. m., and I wante
but these here Southern hospital he would not
says, "Light, stranger,
dinner.' So I 'lit.'
"They had a great bi
potatoes in the middle
The host pushed the di
an' says, 'Have some took a spoonful an' pus
He pushed 'em over a
'Have some more, stra
another spoonful an'
back. He says, 'Take stranger.' So I took ful an' pushed 'em ba pushed 'em over again
—near all of 'em.

A 100 Mile Wh

The Katy flyer cam
out whistling Tuesday
tinuing the piercing time the train was sta
It whistled one long from Oswego to Verd of 100 miles, which is longest whistle on reco sand or some other t
had got stuck in the
and all the frenzied
do was to let her shri Clipper.

Frankfort has just centenary of the fr

The gross am
fire in London is

ET WHAT YOU PAY FOR

And pay only for what you get. It is your dealer's duty to give you the best thing he can get in footwear. Make it a point to ask for the

"ALWAYS JUST CORRECT"

LOVER BRAND SHOES

a little better than you have been used to getting, combining WEAR, SERVICE, STYLE and COMFORT with ECONOMY

Made by

ertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

sitions GUARANTEED BY A
000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken
500 FREE COURSES
Board at Cost. Write Quick
BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Names of Confederate soldiers were taken by Federal troops surrender.
Box 841, Birmingham, Ala.

cured. No fits or nervous-use of Dr. Kline's Great trial bottle and treatise free
Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

die for want of air in five

Soothing Syrup for Children
the gums, reduces inflamma-pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle costumes are still worn in of Russia.

Piso's Cure for Consump-coughs and colds.—John Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

the chief commercial fer-
China.

Bronze Company, 354
Bridgeport, Conn., want a agent in this vicinity to take or-celebrated White Bronze monheadstones, grave covers, etc. It legitimate business and they offer inducements. Someone should write embrace this opportunity.

Potter favors twenty-minute ser-

Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum is Nature's great remedy—Cures Colds, Croup and Consumption, throat and lung troubles. At drug-50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

at a French Watering Place.

season at one of the French places has ended in a dread-
One morning the sands water were found to be inwith a series of libelous state-about the most prominent vis-
The flirtations of this lady, the tints of that lady's hair, the of a third lady's bathing cos-the matrimonial prospects of a young lieutenant, were all in sand with great candor.
there was a second series,
the budget continued despite to detect the culprit. A was set, but the watchers must slept, for in the morning, when took their promenade, there were horrid warnings to the sea-
In the end those persons took themselves off,
they would never return.

Prisoners Prefer Jail.

parts of Siam girls who
a certain age without marrying placed in a privileged class, under of the king, who binds him-husbands for them all. His is simplicity itself. A prisoner one of the Siamese jails may pardon and release by marry-of the ineligible class.
he is already married or not consequence, for in Siam a not restricted to one wife; but prisoners prefer the jail.

which would bring $2.50 in are sold for $10 a pair in of Northern Brazil; the ad vaduty is 120 per cent, while the tax is 17 cents.

FUNNY.

Coffee When It "Does Such Things."

to use Postum because the of coffee had so poisoned my system that I was on the point breaking down, and the doctor me that I must quit it.
ailment was nervousness heart trouble.
unexpected noise would cause the most painful palpitation, make and weak.
had heard of Postum and began it when I left off the old cof-
It began to help me just as soon old effects of the other kind of passed away. It did not stimu-for a while, and then leave me and nervous as coffee used to do,
of that it built up my strength supplied a constant vigor to my which I can always rely on.
me to do the biggest kind of work without getting tired.
heart trouble, etc., has passed give it freely to all my children, youngest to the oldest, and it them all healthy and hearty."
given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
a reason.
the little book "The Road to in pkgs.

REBATE EVIL IS "SCOTCHED."

Fining of Beef Packers Has Modifying Effect on Agitation for Rate Regulation.

Washington, October 24.—The conviction and fining of four members of the firm of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger last week, for accepting rebates, forms the chief topic of discussion here among the returning politicians. Praise for the president and the department of justice is coming in from all over the country. It appears to be the general opinion that the rebate evil is effectively scotched. A successful precedent has been established in rebate cases, and hereafter, it is alleged, the government's path will be comparatively easy in obtaining similar convictions if future cases of this kind arise.

The general belief as to the result of the fining of the packers is optimistic. The current opinion holds that it will have an immediate and lasting effect in curbing those large shippers who demand discriminations in their favor from the railroads. If the government is on the alert to enforce the law and the large shippers will be fined $25,000 whenever they are discovered accepting rebates, the rebate will soon become as defunct as the great auk. And rapacious shippers will be further impressed by the fact that there is every reason to believe that the government will not be satisfied by the payment of a fine for a second offense.

The belief grows that the decision of the United States district court in Chicago will have a great effect in modifying the demands of those who are agitating for rate regulation. Conservative opinion in Washington regards the conviction of the packers as an effective demonstration of the contention that existing legislation is competent to deal with unjust rate discriminations and as supporting the view that there is plenty of law on the statute books, if the government will only see to its enforcement. Those who opposed additional railroad legislation before the senate committee on interstate commerce at its special session last spring are pointing to the fact that they reiterated over and over again that existing laws, actively enforced, are adequate and are saying "I told you so."

TORTURING HUMOR

Body a Mass of Sores—Called in Three Doctors But Grew Worse—Cured by Cuticura For 75c.

"My little daughter was a mass of sores all over her body. Her face was being eaten away, and her ears looked as if they would drop off. I had three doctors, but she grew worse. Neighbors advised Cuticura, and before I had used half of the cake of soap and box of ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's skin was as clear as a new born babe's. I would not be without Cuticura if it cost five dollars, instead of 75 cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby. Mrs. G. J. Steese, 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio."

The White House Whiskey.

Good judges of liquor agree that White House whiskey during the Roosevelt residence there has been of uniformly good quality. Tradition has it that James Buchanan kept the best liquor ever seen in the executive mansion. It is said he had in his cellar at Wheatland enormous quantities of the best rye whiskey in the world when he died. It is said, and the story used to be told with the precision and circumstantiality that gave it the impress of truth, that whiskey—that is, good whiskey and such whiskey as he drank—had no other intoxicant effect on James Buchanan than a gentle exhilaration and that he could drink a gallon of it a day without perceptible effect on his physique or the slightest disorder of his mind.

When Feet Grow Larger.

Toward the end of the day the feet are at their maximum size, since activity and standing tend to enlarge the feet. If this rule were only borne in mind there would not be so many cases of shoes, when worn, being too tight, which at fitting appeared to be comfortable.

"Full Mail" Cargo.

When an Atlantic steamship has on board what is called a "full mail" she is carrying about 200,000 letters and 300 sacks of newspapers to London alone, besides large quantities for other places.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 5.

Subject: Esther Pleading For Her People, Esth. iv., 10 to v., 3—Golden Text, Psa. cxiv., 20—Memory Verses, 13, 14—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Mordecai and Esther (vs. 10-14). Mordecai learned of this terrible decree and sent word to Queen Esther and asked her to intercede with the king for the preservation of her race. 10. "Hatach." An officer appointed to wait on the queen. 11. "All—do know," etc. It was a universal rule, known by all. The object of this law was to maintain both the dignity and safety of the king. "Golden sceptre." Persian monarchs are always represented as holding a long tapering staff in the right hand. "Have not been called." She therefore had just cause to fear that the king's affections were alienated from her, "and that neither her person or her petition would be acceptable to him." Oriental monarchs were fickle and despotic. In attempting to save her people the queen must risk everything. The ardor for the king had for the time cooled toward Esther, and she feared she had lost her influence with the monarch, and if so how could she hope to influence him for the salvation of the despised Jews. We must not be surprised that Esther shrank from obeying the summons of Mordecai. She proved her heroism by deciding to go in unto the king, knowing as she did the danger to which she was exposed. Let us learn (1) that it is right to carefully estimate difficulties; (2) that we should never be discouraged because there are difficulties; (3) that those who go at the call of duty, in the face of difficulties, may expect divine support.

13. "Think not," etc. It seems that Esther had not been known as a Jew, but the fact would be brought to light and in the general slaughter she would perish with her people. 14. "Then will relief and deliverance arise" (R. V.)—Mordecai had strong faith that God would not allow the Jewish nation to be destroyed. "But thou," etc. You will not escape destruction, but you will lose an opportunity of saving your people. "Who knoweth." God may have put you in your present position that you might be the means of saving your people in this hour of darkness. It is a great blessing to have some work assigned us by God, and to see God's hand in our lives, accomplishing that work. This makes us strong, and renders life glorious, since it is a plan of the almighty and all-wise God. Several motives influenced Esther in this hazardous undertaking: 1. She was in danger. 2. Mordecai's words that deliverance would come from some other source and that she would lose the opportunity of saving her people. 3. The suggestion that God had brought her to her present position that she might be a deliverer in this terrible hour. 4. The assurance she had that God would give her success.

II. The three days' fast (vs. 15-17). 16. "Fast ye for Me." In My behalf. Fasting implies humiliation, repentance, consecration to God, faith in God, prayer to God. It was the expression, outwardly, of the intense desires of the heart. Only God could give success to her efforts. "Three days." It has been supposed that Esther could not have meant an absolute fast—complete abstinence from both food and drink—for so long a period as three days; but the time intended, from the evening of the first to the morning of the third day, need not have much exceeded thirty-six hours. "My maidens." They were probably either Jews or proselytes to that religion, and thus would be in sympathy with her. "If I perish." I will put forth every possible effort to save my people even though I perish in the attempt. The great danger to which Esther was exposed will be seen more clearly when we consider the despotic nature of Xerxes. When he was on his way to Greece he halted at Celaenae, a city of Phrygia, where he was entertained by Pythias with incredible magnificence. Pythias even offered to contribute some millions of dollars toward the expenses of the war. But when Pythias begged as a favor that, of his five sons in the king's army, the eldest might be left with him in his old age, the brutal monarch went into a rage, and caused the son to be slain in the presence of his father, the body to be divided into two parts, and placed the one part on one side of the road, and the other on the other, and ordered the whole army to march between them. 17. "Mordecai went his way." He went (1) believing, (2) obeying, (3) praising.

III. Esther's success (vs. 1-3). 1. "The king sat." The position of the king was such that he could see all who came into the court.

2. "Saw Esther." As the king sat upon the throne, the two were face to face, though there was quite a distance between them. It was a critical moment, though Esther did not forget that "the heart of the king was in the hand of the Lord." "Touched.... sceptre." This was, no doubt, the usual way of accepting the king's favor. "As the sceptre was the ensign of the highest and most absolute authority in the king, so the queen's touching it, or, as some say, kissing it, was a token of her subjection and thankfulness for his favor. Thus Esther's mission was so far successful. At this time she invited the king and Haman to a banquet, though the king doubtless understood that this was preliminary to a request of greater importance. The banquet was held; and yet Esther did not dare to present her real request. She simply asked her guests to come again the next day. Then follows Haman's downfall and death and Mordecai's elevation to power. The remaining chapters of the book of Esther tell us how the Jews were saved from destruction.

Burlington, Vt.—Seventeen girls, whose ages range from 2 to 6 years, at the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, in this city, were taken suddenly ill, and three of them died within three hours. At an autopsy held under the auspices of the state board it was determined that the death of the three girls was due to poisoning, but that the cause had not appeared.

The cucumber came from the East Indies.

STOPS BELCHING.

Cures Bad Breath—Positive and Instant Cure Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.

A sweet breath is priceless.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure bad breath and bad taste instantly. Belching and bad taste indicate offensive breath, which is due to stomach trouble.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify the stomach and stop belching, by absorbing foul gases that arise from undigested food, and by supplying the digestive organs with natural solvents for food.

They relieve sea or car sickness and nausea of any kind.

They quickly cure headache, correct the ill effect of excessive eating or drinking. They will destroy a tobacco, whisky or onion breath instantly.

They stop fermentation in the stomach, acute indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in the stomach and intestines, distended abdomen, heartburn, bad complexion, dizzy spells or any other affliction arising from a diseased stomach.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

1145 A FREE BOX. 126

Send this coupon with your name and address and druggist's name, for a free box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, a cure for stomach trouble, to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

At Fort Yukon, Alaska, the thermometer sometimes sinks as low as 70 degrees below zero.

Cures Rheumatism and Catarrh--Medicine Sent Free.

Send no money--simply write and try Botanic Blood Balm at our expense. Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) kills or destroys the poison in the blood which causes the awful aches in back and shoulder blades, shifting pains, difficulty in moving fingers, toes or legs, bone pains, swollen muscles and joints of rheumatism, or the foul breath, hawking, spitting, droppings in throat, bad hearing, specks flying before the eyes, all played out feeling of catarrh. Botanic Blood Balm has cured hundreds of cases of 30 or 40 years' standing after doctors, hot springs and patent medicines had all failed. Most of these cured patients had taken Blood Balm as a last resort. It is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases. Impossible for any one to suffer the agonies or symptoms of rheumatism or catarrh while or after taking Blood Balm. It makes the blood pure and rich, thereby giving a healthy blood supply. Cures are permanent and not a patching up. Drug stores, $1 per large bottle. Sample of Blood Balm sent free and prepaid, also special medical advice by describing your trouble and writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The United States has 6,107,083 savings banks, with deposits of $2,400,000,000.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Increased Immigration.

Foreign labor continues to flow into the country in unprecedented volume, as well as foreign merchandise. Immigration at New York last month exceeded all previous September records, the 90,772 arrivals comparing with 82,708 a year ago, with 51,000 two years ago and less than half that number three years ago.

An Old City Prison.

French Gulch, Cal. has no jail or city prison, and men arrested there are handcuffed and tied to an anvil till released on preliminary examination or removed to the county jail.

A DESPAIRING WOMAN.

Weak, Nervous and Wretched From Wasting Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Henry A. Reamer, Main and Garst Sts., South Bend, Ind., says: "When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was so weak I could hardly drag myself across the room. I was wretched and nervous, and had backache, bearing-down pain, headache, dizziness and weak eyes. Dropsy set in and bloating of the chest choked me and threatened the heart. I had little hope, but to my untold surprise Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief and saved my life. I shall never forget it."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The celebration of marriage in churches was inaugurated by Pope Innocent III in 1200 A. D. Before that time a marriage ceremony consisted in the groom leading the bride to his house.

There were 372 strikes in Italy in 1904, which is a noticeable decrease in the statistics of labor disturbances of that country since 1901.

Statisticians estimate that at least 13,000,000 of human lives have been sacrificed by earthquakes.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

Margrite Ryan
Margret Merkley

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrew's Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for ovarian and female troubles. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life. Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had saved other women from serious operations I decided to try it, and in less than four months I was entirely cured; and words fail to express my thankfulness."

Miss Margret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well, and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

The dressed skins of wild animals constituted the earliest known form of currency, and they are still in use in some parts of the uncivilized world.

MOZLEY'S
LEMON ELIXIR
—A SURE CURE FOR—
CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS
and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

FOR MAN AND BEAST.
KILLS PAIN AND DESTROYS
ALL GERM LIFE.

CURES RHEUMATISM

WONDERFULLY PENETRATING.
A COMPLETE
MEDICINE CHEST.

Price, 25c., 50c., and $1.00.
Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO, [illegible]

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Am. 44. 1905.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
THE WORLD'S GREATEST SHOEMAKER
SOLE AGENTS FOR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
ESTABLISHED JULY 6, 1876

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00 — the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

CONEY ISLAND SOUVENIR POST CARDS. Six beautiful colored scenes for 10c. Coney Island Postal Card Co., Coney Island, N. Y.

PAXTINE
TOILET
ANTISEPTIC
FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, [illegible]

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
[illegible]
THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

[illegible]

PRICE, 25 Cts.
TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
[illegible]
F. W. Diemer, M.D., [illegible]

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES
[illegible]

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTO

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

CLANTON

J. R BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

Popular Names Abroad.

Numerous as are the members of the Smith family, they do not occupy as prominent a place in European directories as they do in those of England or at home, though they take up much room in the Berlin directory, 5,000 Schmidts being registered. They have to give room, however, to the Schultzes and Mullers. In Brussels the Jansen family is the most numerously represented, while the greater space in the Paris directory is given over to the Martinets.

Morelli and Vitelli are the names most numerous in Naples, and here the Smiths sink into significance; but, like the word "hello," the name of Smith is heard around the world and is represented in practically every directory published, more than may be said of any other surname, whatever its nationality.

A Bottomless Pit.

There is a bottomless pit in the mountains of Hualalai, back of Kailua, in the Hawaiian Islands. It is about four feet in diameter. The pit is peculiar from the fact that it sucks in the air with remarkable force. Pieces of paper placed over the mouth do not float gently down, but are suddenly drawn in and disappear with startling rapidity. The air rushing into the pit can be distinctly felt by people standing on the edge. Strange sounds are heard also. Every night the inhabitants of the locality distinctly hear a noise similar to the blowing of a deep steamship whistle. The noise is heard for about five seconds and then subsides for a space of about ten minutes and then resumes for another five seconds.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Needed More Explicit Directions.

P. McCann—I didn't take yer medicine, doctor. Dr. Dosem—And why not? P. McCann—Th' d'rections said, "Wan pill t'ree toimes a day." I've been waitin' to ask ye which pill? They all luk alike, sure. An' how'm I to take ut t'ree toimes?—Cleveland Leader.

Power of the Eye.

An eye can threaten like a loaded and leveled gun or can insult like hissing or kicking, or, in its altered mood, by beams of kindness it can make the heart dance with joy.—Emerson's "Conduct of Life."

His Idea of It.

Auntie—You should ask to be excused when you leave the table. Little Nephew—Should I? I thought from the way you acted about that third piece of pie that you'd be glad to see me go.

A Different Growl.

Mrs. Brown—Jane, has Mr. Brown come home yet? I thought I heard him just now. Jane—No, mum; that was the dog that was growling.

There will be mistakes in divinity while men preach and error in government while men govern.—Carleton.

Neuralgia Pains.

Rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment.

It penetrates to the nerves and bone and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body, and effect some wonderful cures. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Position GUARANTEED BY A

$5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

[illegible] Quickest Cure for all [illegible] and LUNG TROUBLES. [illegible] MONEY BACK.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

BIG STOC

LOW PRICES

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county have laid in a most extensive stock comprising all the latest fads and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods, Underwear, Jackets of the latest styles. cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices. Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of of sample Shoes, worth from to $5 00, to be closed out at per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS,

we keep in stock at the very lowest Come and hear the Phonograph talk make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

A Happy Home

To have a happy home you must have children, as they are great happy-home makers. If a weak woman, you can be made strong enough to bear healthy children, with little pain or discomfort to yourself, by taking

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Relief

It will ease away all your pain, reduce inflammation, cure leucorrhea (whites), falling womb, ovarian trouble, disordered menses, backache, headache, etc., and make childbirth natural and easy. Try it. At every drug store in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER

freely and frankly, telling us all your troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"DUE TO CARDUI

and nothing else, is my baby girl, now two weeks old," writes Mrs. J. P. West, of Webster City, Iowa. "She is a fine, healthy babe and we are both doing nicely."

PATTILLO BROS.

MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN

YELLOW PINE LUMBE

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber Flooring ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, AL

B. H. DUKE & BRO will carry our Flooring and Ceiling stock for the Clanton trade.

Job Printing cheap [illegible]

WE WANT TO COVER THE COUNTRY WITH URACURA

URACURA
THE GREAT NERVINE TONIC
BLOOD ALTERATIVE
LIVER REGULATOR
KIDNEY AND BLADDER CURE
PRICE 50¢
Dr. Granger Med. Co.

Fifty-two per cent of the people in the United States have Liver, Kidney or Bladder disease in one form or another. We want every sufferer in this broad land to know about URACURA and to be brought back to life and health through it's use. We can't find words strong enough to express our faith in URACURA or to convey the earnestness of our desire for the afflicted to enter onto a new and hopeful existence by taking this great medicine.

If we could only sit down in person before you and explain what URACURA is—if we could introduce you to the thousands who have been saved to their friends by this remedy—if you could just hear from their lips the words of praise they bestow on it you too would be as confident and sure as we are.

We know that with URACURA we have solved the problem of Liver, Kidney and Bladder health and we want our message of hope to go forth and be read from ocean to ocean.

Do you suffer with Backache, high-colored urine, shortness of breath, swelling of hands and feet, puffs under the eyes, loss of appetite, fever, sleeplessness, vertigo, constipation, sallow complexion, coated tongue, depression, headache, nervousness? Then you have in a more or less acute form Liver, Kidney or Bladder trouble—you can't go back of the symptoms—but if you would be doubly sure, apply The unfailing test. Take several doses of URACURA—if you find then that the urine is of a very dark or reddish color with a strong odor of the medicine you can know that your kidneys or bladder are affected. But hope—the very thing that indicates the trouble is also a sign that the medicine has commenced it's good work. After two are three days you will notice that the urine is clear, you will feel less pain about the kidneys and your backache will leave. The nervousness will disappear, your complexion will improve and in every way you will feel stronger and better.

URACURA is a Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder Cure. It restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves biliousness and constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion. A purely vegetable compound or concentrated extract prepared from those roots and herbs that years of experience have proved to be the only sure remedies for these troubles known to science.

Would You be Well?

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY—Price, 50c.

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

For sale by all Druggists

. XIV

Part O

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Sees, and Some He Saw Not.

There are no prisoners in Chilton ty, and the jail looks as if a had struck it. Last Friday Morgan and Deputy Smith carried all the prisoners, in number, to Montgomery, they will be cared for while alterations to the jail are being Work on the court house jail is being pushed Provisions be made for the prisoners while court is in session, and the back and forth breaks the tony of their confinement.

Thorsby.

We are glad to hear that in our Hallow'en was not the occa of disorderly conduct as in ral Northern cities

The Sunshine Society met with Alma Lefstead, Nov. 14.

Swedish Ladise' Society on afternoon of the 9th with P. W. Peterson.

The Union Sunday school has preparing a Christmas entertainment.

and Mrs. P. Smith are ing a visit with Mrs. Lane daughters.

The Swedish church was well last Sunday evening.

Sunday night, Nov. 12, Prof. will speak from 17th chap of Revelations, comparing the with profane history.

Thorsby tennis players are avail themselves of the fine weather. there's less racket (raquet) in the base ball games.

The delightful autumn is also ing the pink farm a "thing of ty" as well as of profit to Mr. guson. CITIZEN.

Maplesville.

v. Abernathy kept his apment here the 29th by a most lent sermon to a very apprecia audience.

Mrs. Glover has returned home a most enjoyable visit at thews. She appreciates her ds here more than ever be they were so gratified by her particularly her little Sun school class. It was a great re to look into their sweet sted faces after several months nce.

Matthews and family of thews have treated Mrs. Glov family to a visit. This was rly the home of Mrs. Mat and old friends were delight see her and her three hand boys.

ur very popular teacher, Miss , has opened her school here delight of her patrons. We that we are very fortunate in g secured her as our teacher, in appreciation our trustee, R. Martin, has most patrioti improved the school premises put a much needed stove in house Many thanks to Mr. way for a load of wood to house.

Saportas and Miss Adair attended the Sunday school tion at Stanton.

Damsky is with friends here iness.

Dave Garner is visiting her here. Mrs. Blalack, her , has been on a visit to to see her sister, Mrs. Wilson.

W. Walker and his sister, Sallie, have attended the Fair.

Burrel Foshee, his mother sister, Miss Minnie, went to gomery to see the President. were much pleased, as all tic citizens should be.

Hollister has lately visited d, Mr. Ensign.

Sanders has visited friends ton.

Alice DuBose of Selma has relatives here.

SUBSCRIBER.

A Disastrous Calamity.

a disastrous calamity, when your health, because indi and constipation have sapped . Prompt relief can be had King's New Life Pills. They your digestive organs, and dizziness, [illegible], constipa Guaranteed at Upchurch 25c.

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIV | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No. 4

MAN ON THE CORNER

f the Sights He Sees, and Some He Saw Not.

are no prisoners in Chilton y, and the jail looks as if a bad struck it. Last Friday f Morgan and Deputy Smith carried all the prisoners, in number, to Montgomery, they will be cared for while lterations to the jail are being Work on the court house il is being pushed Provisions made for the prisoners while t court is in session, and the y back and forth breaks the tony of their confinement.

Thorsby.

e are glad to hear that in our Hallow'en was not the occa- of disorderly conduct as in l Northern cities

Sunshine Society met with Alma Lefstead, Nov. 14.

Swedish Ladise' Society on afternoon of the 9th with P. W. Peterson.

Union Sunday school has preparing a Christmas enter ent and Mrs. P. J. Smith are ng a visit with Mrs. Lane laughters.

Swedish church was well last Sunday evening.

Sunday night, Nov. 12, Prof. will speak from 17th chap- f Revelations, comparing the with profane history.

orsby tennis players are avail- hemselves of the fine weather. there's less racket (raquet) n the base ball games.

delightful autumn is also g the pink farm a "thing of y" as well as of profit to Mr. uson.

CITIZEN.

Maplesville.

. Abernathy kept his ap- ment here the 29th by a most ent sermon to a very appre- audience.

. Glover has returned home a most enjoyable visit at ews. She appreciates her here more than ever be- they were so gratified by her , particularly her little Sun- chool class. It was a great re to look into their sweet ted faces after several months ce.

Matthews and family of ews have treated Mrs. Glov- family to a visit. This was rly the home of Mrs. Mat- and old friends were delight- see her and her three hand- boys.

very popular teacher, Miss , has opened her school here delight of her patrons. We s. we are very fortunate in secured her as our teacher, appreciation our trustee, R. Martin, has most patrioti- improved the school premises put a much needed stove in house Many thanks to Mr. way for a load of wood to house.

Saportas and Miss Adair attended the Sunday school tion at Stanton.

Damsky is with friends here ness.

Dave Garner is visiting her here. Mrs. Blalack, her , has been on a visit to y to see her sister, Mrs. Wilson.

W. Walker and his sister, Sallie, have attended the Fair.

Burrel Foshee, his mother ister, Miss Minnie, went to mery to see the President were much pleased, as all c citizens should be.

Hollister has lately visited d, Mr. Ensign.

Sanders has visited friends ton.

Alice DuBose of Selma has relatives here.

SUBSCRIBER.

A Disastrous Calamity.

a disastrous calamity, when your health, because indi and constipation have sapped . Prompt relief can be had King's New Life Pills. They your digestive organs, and , dizziness, c 2c, constipa- . Guaranteed at Upchurch ; 25c.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Do not be deceived by counterfeits when you buy Witch Hazel Salve. The name of E. C. DeWitt & Co. is on every box of the genuine. Piles in their worst form will soon pass away if you will apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve night and morning. Best for Cuts, Burns, Boils, Tetter, Eczema etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Southeast Chilton.

Editor Banner: Will you be so kind as to allow me to say a few words through your most valuable paper in regard to the Chilton County Singing Convention.

I was not in its organization which was effected at Collins' Chapel, but have had the privilege of seeing one of the Minutes containing its By-Laws etc. Now I want to say that a singing convention gotten up for the good of the masses, and not for a social benefit to a few, is a grand thing. We have, in our county, a lot of good teachers who were taught by good old time music teachers, who taught them to sing with the spirit and with the understanding and who did not attend one or more of those high grade Music Schools which are being taught these days, and who could not stand a higher examination and secure a certificate. Hence those teachers would be turned down from teaching if they were members of this "great" Chilton County Singing Convention. I was not at all supprised when I learned that only a very few were in attendance at Concord at its last meeting, and all of those good singers and teachers of Southeast Chilton did not take part in it, and the Convention was a failure.

Now, my good singing brethren, if you want a convention for the good of the people at large you must knock out all of the large J's and small we's, and come together as a band of brothers in song. We are talking of organizing a Teacher's Musical Institute in the near future.

DIMINISHED INTERNALY.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

A marriage which will be a pleasant supprise to many, took place last Sunday at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. M. Smith, at Bessemer, uniting Mrs. Katie Pugh to Mr. O. P. Whitley, of Birmingham. No announcement had been made before the marriage, and only the intimate friends and realatives knew of the approaching wedding. The bride is well known throughout Chilton county, and is esteemed for her sweet, kind and lovabl manner.

The groom has a host of friends in Birmingham where he is prominently connected with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co. The happy young couple are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

FIRE AT BURWELL.

Saturday night the commissary of the Gullahorn Lumber Co. was totally destroyed by fire, not much of the stock being saved. The dwelling house occupied by Mr. E. T. Gullahorn was also destroyed.

Notice To Clanton Circuit.

My health is improving and I will fill my regular appointments on the first Sunday in November, Mt. Moriah at 11 a.m. and Jemison at 7 p.m., God willing. Our 4th Quarterly Conference will convene at Jemison on Nov. 21, at 11 a.m. All of the official members are urged to be present.

J. T. ECKFORD, P. C.

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my Mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. Trial bottle free

Commisioner's Court met in regular session Monday and is still in in session as we go to press

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway, Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$[illegible]
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$27,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50
Currency	12,223 00
Gold	296 00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,207 01
Checks and Cash Items	30 00
Profit and Loss	6 56
		$37,502 96
Total		$88,408 61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000 10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,578 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$[illegible]
Time Certificates	[illegible]
Cashier's Checks	[illegible]
		$[illegible]
Total		$88,408 [illegible]

WADE'S GINNERY BURNED.

Another devasting fire visited Clanton last Saturday afternoon. About three o'clock fire was discovered in the press, supposed to have been started with a match, and although every exertion was made, the fire soon had the mastery and the entire building and nearly all the contents were destroyed. Mr. Wade, we understand, carried no insurance, and the loss falls heavily upon him.

The residence of Mr. O. O Roper, close by, which he has recently erected in place of the one burned down nearly two years ago, had a narrow escape, and it was only by hard work it was saved.

Weogufka Baptist Association

The minutes for 1905 are now ready, and the following churches in the neighborhood of Clanton will please call or send to The Banner office for their share: Cane Creek, Poplar Springs, Union Point and Bethany. The other churches of the Association will be supplied by Secretary Joshua Davis, Shelby, Ala.

Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headache constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers" are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and by virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and Company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder, in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property, as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit;

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each, and the following real estate: Lots 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with Judge of Probate court of said county and State, and a parcel of land 125 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22, Range 14; and a parcel of land on and along the whole east side of said described 125 feet running east to the alley in block No Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No. Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat, containing two acres, more or less, and also Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 minerals excepted. All of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama.

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & Company.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

The above sale is continued to Monday, Nov, 13, 1905.

This Nov. 6, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

STRAYED or stolen from me at Maplesville on the 26th of Oct., 1905, one dark bay mare, weight about 900 lbs.; in good order would weigh 1200 lbs; with a very slight star in forehead, fore top cut out, shod in front and has small scars on right hip, high up in flank, that resembles a burn, and one low down on leg; if not on same leg it is on leg on opposite side. Any information leading to the recovery of said mare, will be paid a liberal reward. ANDREW WIGGINS, Maplesville, Ala.

Popwell's Mill.

Farmers of this section are about done gathering.

I think having our church painted is a great honor to the community, and it is so nice to see that the people want to do something for the Lord's house.

The wedding bells may soon be heard ringing down the road.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We are glad to see so many out on Sunday.

Miss Ever Price visited her grandfather, Mr. J. H. Price, Sunday.

Mrs. T. J. Deason visited Mrs. A. W. Powell Sunday.

Mr. J. E Ray visited home folks recently.

Mr. B. M. Deason attended preaching at New Cedron Sunday.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

A Pleasant Evening.

Last Friday night Miss Beatrice McKee gave a birthday party to quite a large number of her friends, from 8 to 11. Several enjoyable games were indulged in and at a late hour the guests repaired to the beautiful dining room where delicious refreshments were served Miss McKee was the recipient of several valuable presents.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorby.

When a man blows into a gun to see whether it is lorned or not, the gun should always have your sympathy.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President — E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President — E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

WANTED—We are installing a night run and need a double crew. We can give employment to 100 good laborers either white or colored. We also need planing mill feeders and graders. JACKSON LUMBER CO., Lockhart, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

When you want a pleasant physic try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and produce no griping or other unpleasant effect. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

WANTED—We want some good families, boys and girls, to work in the Cotton Mills. Healthy place; cheap rent—mill and mill village supplied with artesian water. No better place to live. Good churches and Sunday schools, also literary schools. Good wages paid twice a month. Apply to J. M. MARTIN, Superintendent Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Co., Prattville, Ala.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. KICKER & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties. Guaranteed by Upchurch Drug co. Price 50c.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this season of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

STOC
PRICES
the good people of Chilton cou stock comprising all the latest fa
call your attention to our line of Trimmed Hats and Millinery kinds; Dress Goods; Unde
Jackets of the latest styles;
wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes,
Hats, and a special line of 500
of sample Shoes, worth from
to $5 00, to be closed out at eeced lined, to go at 39 cents.
USICAL INSTRUMENTS
ON PHONOGRAPHS
VIOLINS, GUITARS,
ep in stock at the very lowest p
and hear the Phonograph talk life worth living.
ANJUTZKY
VORITE STORE ton, Ala.

py Home
home you must have children, py-home makers. If a weak made strong enough to bear
h little pain or discomfort to CARDUI
an's Relief
all your pain, reduce inflamea (whites), falling womb, ovard menses, backache, headache, birth natural and easy. Try it.
ore in $1.00 bottles.
"DUE TO CARDUI
and nothing else, is my baby girl, no two weeks old," writes Mrs. J. P. West, of Webster City, Iowa. "S is a fine, healthy babe and we a both doing nicely."

LLO BROS.
ERS OF AND DEALERS IN PINE LUMBE
of rough and dressed lumber Flo to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at V ild, get our prices, they will be satisf
PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, AL
will carry our Flooring and Ceili

Y WITH A r disease in one form or be brought back to life RACURA or to convey king this great medicine.
if we could introduce ust hear from their lips
r health and we want our under the eyes, loss of appetite, headache, nervousness? Then you would be doubly sure, apply rk or reddish color with a strong t hope—the very thing that indiotice that the urine is clear, you will improve and in every way you strength, renews vitality, purifi etable compound or concentrated se troubles known to science.
ll Druggists

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

In the matter of automobile exports to Germany, this country stands second to France, leading Great Britain by a comfortable margin.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court, in a recent opinion on a stock gambling case, said that dealing in futures was the "self-adjustment of society to the probable."

It is gratifying to note that the commission intrusted with the distribution of the awards provided by the Carnegie hero fund have not confined their benefactions to the giving of medals, but have granted substantial sums of money to a number of worthy and deserving persons—the widows, in most instances, of men who have lost their lives in heroic service to humanity. The distribution of bronze and silver medals does not serve the purposes nor further the objects for which this hero fund was primarily created.

Fascinating to the popular mind as are Dr. Loeb's researches, it is judicious to regard all new announcements of his work in the light of two or three well established facts. To stimulate or excite vitality which is latent is not "producing" or "creating" life. The California biologist has worked with eggs, not grains of sand; and the eggs which he has used are those of sea urchins and starfish, organisms of a low order in the scale of animal life. No feat which he has yet attempted is comparable with that which nature herself performs at times. The eggs of some insects hatch without fertilization at all. The phenomenon of "parthenogenesis," with which zoologists are familiar, is more miraculous than any well attested human achievement.

Secretary Taft's dispatch to the President, explaining the recent disturbances at Tokio and elsewhere in Japan, gives welcome confirmation of what we have long assumed to be the fact. The riots were in no sense anti-American demonstrations. Neither were they anti-dynastic, or even anti-ministerial. They were provoked by a bit of over-caution or perhaps over-zealousness on the part of the police. The people, or many of them, were not pleased with what they had heard about the terms of peace, and wanted to say so publicly. The police unwisely and illegally tried to prevent them from meeting and talking, whereupon the disorderly elements, such as exist in every country, committed some excesses. That was all. When the police refrained from interfering with free speech, the people met and talked in orderly fashion and went away quietly.

In Cassier's Magazine Mr. Albert Blauvelt discusses intelligently some of the means which are either actually employed in the protection of property against fire in large cities or are recommended for that purpose. His dominant idea is that at present firemen are too often obliged to fight smoke, not fire, owing to the difficulty which they encounter in finding the latter. Immense quantities of water are at times thrown into a burning building through windows without reaching the seat of the evil. In consequence, the damage is greater than it should be, and incidentally a great deal of water is wasted. Mr. Blauvelt is a firm believer in the virtues of automatic sprinklers. These devices come into play when the heat in their vicinity is intense enough to melt a fusible plug. They are prompt in action, operate just where they are needed and extinguish a fire cheaply.

While people of wealth for years have tended toward country homes, observes Maxwell's Talisman, the thinking man of more narrow means is now oftener looking through city smoke toward a few acres outside where he may carry on intensive farming, while his children may at least have pure air, pure sunshine, pure water and pure food, together with the ennobling influences of nature. He dreads to have them grow up scarred and dwarfed with the idea that they are underlings: an idea slow to take root in the cordial, democratic surroundings of the country, where small means may be coupled with a manly, sturdy independence. He longs to be acquainted with his neighbors, and to have them know and care whether he has a wedding or a funeral at his house. He is tired of being a molecule in a mass; he would like to be as he should be—an individual man.

It is officially estimated that there are 152,750,000 acres of standing timber in British Columbia.

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Iron Man Gets Diploma.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Commercial Club is in receipt of the diploma that was awarded the club for its exhibit of the statue of Vulcan at the St. Louis Exposition last year. The diploma is a handsome and artistic engraving, on which are represented figures illustrative of art and science. The whole is surrounded with a border made of beautiful little scrolls, and in each one is the name of one state in the Union.

The text of the diploma states that the award was made for the mineral exhibits from Birmingham, and is signed by the following: David R. Francis, president of the exposition; Walter B. Stevens, secretary; F. J. Shiff, director of the exhibits, and J. A. Holmes, chief of the department of mines and metallurgy.

The diploma, which is a strong evidence of the exhibit from the Birmingham district, will be put up in the club rooms and can be seen at any time.

Ensley Postoffice.

Ensley, Ala.—Plans and specifications are being drawn for the new Ensley postoffice to be erected by Ramsay & McCormack on Avenue E, and the contract will be let in a few days, when the work will begin. It is thought that everything will be in readiness for the beginning of the building in a week or ten days. The building will be completed as soon as possible and the postoffice moved into the new quarters.

The structure will be of brick, 25x90 feet, and will be so constructed that another twenty-five or fifty feet may be added to the frontage when necessary. The building will be only one story high, but will be arranged with the view of adding another story later.

Barn Burned—Work of Incendiary.

Florence, Ala.—A fine barn, the property of Pugh Paulk, north of town, was burned Wednesday night. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. Two mules and farming implements and quantities of hay and corn were destroyed with the barn, the loss being estimated at $1,200.

Joe Richardson and Dennis and Will Harris, three negroes, were arrested Saturday near Oakland, ten miles from Florence, and locked up in the county jail, charged with the shooting of Tom Simpson. Warrants were sworn out against five negroes, all of whom were engaged in a game of craps when the shooting was done, but the others could not be found.

Baptists Hold Meeting in Calhoun.

Piedmont, Ala.—The Calhoun County Baptist Association convened in the First Baptist Church in this city last Wednesday morning. The association was organized by electing D. C. Cooper, of Oxford, moderator, and J. B. Maddox, of Anniston, clerk. Among the visitors are Aev. Dr. J. H. Foster, of Anniston; Rev. W. R. Ivey, of Oxford; Rev. J. W. Coffman, of Jacksonville; Professor Owens, of Anniston College, and many other prominent Baptists from different sections of the county. There were also several ladies in attendance from Anniston, Oxford and Jacksonville.

The association took high and decided ground on the temperance question and adopted ringing resolutions favoring persistent work along this line.

On the last day Rev. A. P. Montague, president of Howard College, Birmingham, and Rev. J. W. Stewart, of the Orphans' Home of Evergreen, were present and made speeches in the interest of the two important institutions they represent.

Col. Garber States Platform Pointedly.

Birmingham, Ala.—Col. Alex M. Garber, of Talladega, candidate for attorney-general of Alabama, was in the city Saturday shaking hands with his many friends. Colonel Garber made the race for attorney-general against Attorney-General Massey Wilson in 1902 and pushed his opponent so closely that a second primary was necessary to determine the result. So far in the present campaign Colonel Garber is without announced opposition. He says that he has received many warm assurances from friends all over the state and he is greatly encouraged as to his prospects.

"When I am asked as to my platform," said Colonel Garber, "I make this reply: I am a candidate for attorney-general and want your vote and influence. I am for more schools and better schools. I favor giving a pension to every Confederate veteran. I am for revised railroad rates, both as to local and through rates. I stand for the strict enforcement of the law, and if elected shall be the servant of all the people."

Man With a Gun.

Carthage, Tenn.—Just before the opening of the polls in the Twentieth district for the primary election Herman Apple, while under the influence of liquor, fired his pistol while standing among a crowd of men and his cousin, Tim Apple, a justice of the peace, ordered his arrest. The drunken man, turning his weapon toward his cousin, shot him twice in the leg. The wounds are not considered dangerous. Herman Apple was arrested.

BALDWIN COUNTY FRACAS.

Judge Fines Sheriff Regularly for Not Attending Court.

Montgomery, Ala.—Judge Samuel B. Browne, of the Thirteenth Judicial circuit, in a letter to Gov. W. D. Jelks, requested that military assistance be rendered to carry out the orders of his court.

Judge Browne has been attempting to hold court at Daphne, in Baldwin county. Sheriff Armstrong and Circuit Clerk Voltz have refused to attend the court, contending that Bay Minette is the legal capital of the county. Judge Browne each day at Daphne has assessed penalties against Armstrong and Voltz for their failure to attend court. Each is at present fined $600 and sixty days in the Mobile county jail.

Coroner McKenzie was sent to Bay Minette by Judge Browne to effect the arrest of the sheriff and circuit court clerk. The latter could not be found, and Sheriff Armstrong declined to submit to arrest, denying the validity of the warrant cited on each by the coroner.

The request by the court was then made for state troops to assist in taking Armstrong and Voltz into custody. Governor Jelks has declined to order out troops, as he is of the opinion that the situation is not of sufficient importance to justify such action.

The trouble arises from a contest between Daphne and Bay Minette for the court house of Baldwin county.

Not a Negro's Nation.

Birmingham, Ala.—"The negroes had just as well get ready to leave America if they ever expect to have their political rights. This is not the negro's country, and if he would be anything he will have to go to his native land. I believe in the future of Africa, and this is where my people will have to eventually go."

Rev. William H. Heard, D. D., of Atlanta, Ga., secretary of the Connectional Preachers' Aid Society and ex-minister to Liberia, made the above declaration to the North Alabama conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church Saturday night in his lecture on Africa.

"I believe all that Bishop H. M. Turner has said about the manhood rights of our people," continued Dr. Heard, ' 'and I think that we should just pack up and leave. Let us not stay where we are not wanted, and it is plain as the nose your face that we are not wanted here. We are Jimcrowed on every hand, and I think that if it were possible the white man would pass a law making it against the law for us to breathe the same air with the white folks.

"Africa is rich, and an industrious negro can make it more so. I believe that if more American negroes would go over there and develop it and have a good government they would get the respect of all the nations quicker. We are living in a country where we are hanged without trial, burned at the stake and yet we are not permitted to open our mouths. I am glad that our people are not discouraged. They believe in God and will come out all right after awhile."

State Fair Ends.

Birmingham, Ala.—As the last spectator of the horse show wended his way from the fair grounds, Memoli's band played "Home, Sweet Home," and the first fair under the present management passed into history.

It seems to be the general opinion of all who have visited the grounds that the fair was a success—a much greater success than people thought possible when work was commenced several months ago on the grounds at Fairview.

The work of erecting buildings, rebuilding the track, arranging for the horse show and exhibits, and a hundred and one other things, was completed sooner than was thought possible. The fair was run without a hitch or an unpleasant incident of any kind. Every one who exhibited this year has promised to bring an exhibit next year, and also to interest others in showing their goods in Birmingham.

While all the bills have not been presented yet, and the total assets of the fair are still unknown, it is thought by the officers of the fair association that the fair was a financial success.

Murdered in Her Bed.

Scottsboro, Ala.—R. J. McFarlin, a prominent citizen of Garth, has just returned from Hollow Spring, Tenn., where he has been the past two weeks. His sister, Mrs. Davis, 73 years of age, was found murdered in her bed, and Mr. McFarlin has been trying to discover some clue to the murder. So far he has been unable to do so.

Meets With Serious Accident.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Hon. F. D. Owings, for sixteen years attorney general for an east Tennessee circuit, will probably lose his right forearm as a result of an accident while out hunting. While walking along he suddenly stepped into a ditch. The gun he was carrying was discharged, and the load tore through his arm. Physicians think that amputation will be necessary.

THE MOST REVOLTING

Massacre in Modern History in the Russian City of Odessa.

NUMBER WOUNDED, 5,657.

Hundreds Drunk With Desire for Jewish Blood Take Joy in Killing.

Odessa—The prefect of the city has issued a proclamation complaining of the inhabitants firing from the windows on patrols and declaring that he will be compelled to destroy their houses with artillery unless this practice is stopped.

The center of the city is quiet. The street cars are running, some shops and markets are open and the bakeries are working. The telegraphic lines are crowded with dispatches for newspapers and privite citizens who have been sending reassuring messages regarding the situation in view of the reports of massacres in various parts of Russia.

The Jewish quarters here are completely devastated. It is impossible to ascertain the number of persons killed. The authorities sent to the cemetery four trucks each containing thirty bodies, and today six trucks similarly loaded, were driven to the cemetery. Five thousand six hundred and fifty-seven persons were reported to have been taken to the hospitals.

The Cossacks have disappeared from the streets and infantry have been substituted. The governor general announces that he has taken the strictest measures to prevent further disorders, but should the troops be fired on the governor general has ordered the artillery to devastate the houses from where the shooting is done. He also announces that the troops have strict orders to shoot and kill pillagers.

Soldiers made a house to house visitation seeking for bombs and arms. They also searched passengers on the street cars.

It is believed that the worst is over. Owing to the mobs being satiated with two days' carnival of murder and destruction by flames, the revolt against law and order is dying down, partially perhaps, because of lack of material upon which to prey. Almost the entire Jewish quarters of Moldanvah, Slobodka and Bugalovka are devastated, and their inhabitants have either been killed or wounded, or have sought refuge in other sections of the town.

The whole fury of the mob was directed against the Jews. During the first demonstration over the Emperor's manifesto, and the sudden acquisition of "freedom" tens of thousands of men who had hated the Jews through generations became drunk with desire for Jewish blood, swearing at the Jewish sections of the town and killed for the very joy of killing. In some instances the military aided instead of preventing the work of vengeance and fury which culminated Saturday in the quarters mentioned. Every Jew, man, woman or child who was caught was slaughtered. The methods employed in the work of butchery were too revolting for description.

Before Saturday's dawn, the material had become exhausted, and the men who had for the moment become beasts left the wrecked sections of the city, and though sullen were easily driven back before the rifles of the infantry.

A trip investigation over the Jewish quarters confirmed the stories of horrors and devastation. Some bodies mutilated, of women and children were still unmoed from the deserted streets. The shops were closed and in the wrecked houses broken furniture was found lying everywhere in heaps.

While it is probable that the number of persons killed will never be known, the number of wounded persons in the hospitals and ambulance house, however, affords some guide. The 5,657 wounded reported up to Saturday morning were distributed as follows: In the Jewish hospital, 3,715, in the municipal hospital 1,260, and in the different ambulance houses 682.

It has been definitely ascertained that only 120 of the anti-Jewish mob were killed.

At the beginning of the massacres the students' militia rendered some assistance and saved many lives, but the police, it is said, disarmed the students and even in some cases shot them with their revolvers.

The disaster is unprecedented even in the long list of horrors Russia has produced during the last few years, but the citizens, while still nervous are facing the situation bravely.

Count Witte is getting his hands on the helm and the Russian ship of state is beginning to right itself. Gradually the disorder that followed the promulgation of the constitution giving the people liberty is being put down.

The premier has met the immense difficulties confronting him and the pressure of the demands of the different classes of society with the energy and sincerity that are more and more giving him the support of the moderate liberals who have been frightened by the carnival of disorder into which the country has been plunged, and the inordinate demands of the proletariat under the leadership of the "reds," and social democrats.

Safe Blown Open.

Cullman, Ala.—The store house of Koon & Co., of Vinemont, was robbed Thursday night. The safe was blown open and about three hundred and fifty dollars in money besides other valuables was taken. It looks as though the job was done by professionals, although the fact that tools were taken from the gin house near by to operate with would lead to the belief that local parties were interested.

President Pleased.

Washington, D. C.—Now that the President has returned from his "conquest of the south," his campaign for the conquest of the United States senate will begin in earnest. Washington is going to be a mighty interesting place to keep your eye on from now until the robins nest again. There's going to be the biggest kind of a fight, and somebody's going to get hurt. The public is inclined to guess that that somebody will not be the President of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt's trip through the south was well timed. It was known that in his fight for federal rate-making the west was behind him almost to a man; and that while sentiment in the east naturally was divided, he had a large and influential following in the states north of the Potomac and east of the Allegheniés. It was not so well known how the south would stand. It was feared by some of his staunchest followers that he would fail of southern support because of the deep-rooted conviction in the south against the centralization of power.

But it has been demonstrated that the south is capable of discerning between dangerous centralization and needful regulation by the federal government of interests that overlap the lines of states. No attempt is made to conceal the jubilation which the president's followers feel. They declare that as a result of his trip south he goes into his conflict with the senate obstructionists 50 per cent stronger than he otherwise would have been.

President Praises Deed.

Montgomery, Ala.—G. C. Bird, a well-known man of this city, has received a beautiful letter from President Roosevelt in which the president thanks and commends Mr. Bird for his heroic act in stopping a runaway horse during the presidential procession of October 24. Mr. Bird's friends are extending him congratulations. The animal which the hero stopped was making its way in the direction of the parade and would probably have run into the president's hack. Mr. Bird sustained painful injuries, but has recovered.

Alaskan Railway.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Express says:

Alaska will have a railway its entire length from north to south and giving communication with the outside world, if plans which are being formulated in this city are carried out. Harry White, former mayor of Seattle, is at the head of the enterprise, which includes an application to congress during the coming session for a government subsidy. The idea as outlined is for the government to guarantee bonds of the proposed company, which is yet to be organized for the purpose, the promoters using the credit thus obtained to raise funds for the building of the line.

It is expected that Senator Samuel W. Piles, of Washington, will father the scheme in congress.

If successful the enterprise will involve an expenditure of about $40,000,000. The road will be nearly 5,000 miles in length.

In French Jail.

Paris.—Influential New York friends of Elliott F. Shepard, who was sentenced here October 26 to three months' imprisonment and $120 fine and to pay $4,000 damages to the parents of a girl who was killed by Mr. Shepard's automobile in April last, are cabling for the purpose of securing the intervention in his behalf of the American officials here. The question is under consideration, but no steps have been taken, owing to the executive branch here not having authority over the judiciary. Mr. Shepard's attorney has given up his intention to appeal, as the fine and imprisonment were the minimum, leaving no grounds for appeal.

New Train for Atlanta.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Commencing Sunday, November 26, the Southern Railway will inaugurate a new train with local sleeping car service between Atlanta and Jacksonvill, Fla. This new train will be known as No. 18, and will leave Atlanta daily at 10:20 p. m. and arrive at Jacksonville at 8:50 the next morning.

Will Revoke License.

St. Louis, Mo.—State Superintendent of Insurance W. D. Vandiver in St. Louis made the statement that unless the New York Life Insurance Company had complied with demands to reimburse the policyholders of the company to the amount contributed to campaign funds and had elected new officers in place of the incumbents this year, November 7 he would revoke the company's license in Missouri.

Valentine Tapley, a citizen of iana, Mo., 80 years old, have the longest whiske world. They measure and the old gentleman of them. For many years kept his beard plaited and dies he wants it to be left in elongated beauty. A dime m manager once offered him a salary to go on exhibition, but he fused.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, }
LUCAS COUNTY. } ss.
FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, SEAL. Notary Public.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by all Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The depth of the Pacific ocean has been estimated at between four and a half and five miles.

ECZEMA FOR TWO YEA

Little Girl's Awful Suffering With Skin Humor—Sleepless Nights Mother—Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My little girl had been suffering two years from eczema, and during time I could not get a night's sleep, ailment was very severe. I had tried many remedies, deriving no benefit, given up all hope. But as a last was persuaded to try Cuticura, box of the Ointment, and two bottles the Resolvent, together with the Soap, fected a permanent cure. Mrs. I. E. Addington, Ind. T."

Early Literary Fame.

The strenuous life in literary circles seems to have antedated the present era. Bryant was only 19 "Thanatopsis" won him undying. Shelley was 18 when he wrote "Queen Mab." Voltaire's first tragedy was published when he was but 22. gave "Endymion" to the world at age of 22, while David is said to written the first Psalm at the 18, and history has it that wrote his first odes at the tender of 23 years.

A military company composed the daughters of Boone County ers has been organized, with quarters at Englewood, eleven southeast of Columbia, Mo. The public drill took place at a log at Englewood, where, in the presence of a crowd of curious visitors from parts of the country, the girls gave a striking exhibition through the manual of arms grans.

Paper Vests.

An Englishman in Paris Crabbe has invented a paper coast which is designed as a tion against chills.

The garment weighs only and a half, and can be folded to go into an ordinary envelope.

Ten thousand uninhabited lie between Madagascar and dian coast.

Invented Tennis.

George Wright, the inventor modern game of tennis, at lives in Boston, but conceived idea of the game while living land. Beals Wright, the world's man tennis player, is his son.

The first strike to occur in this try was in 1803, when a dissatisfied sailors struck for crease of pay.

OLD FASHIONED FARE
Hot Biscuits, Griddle Cakes, Puddings.

The food that made the strong is sometimes unfit for dren under the new conditions changing civilization is bringing in. One of Mr. Bryan's bors in the great State of writes:

"I was raised in the South hot biscuits, griddle cakes, puddings are eaten at almost meal, and by the time I located braska I found myself a indigestion and its attendant tress and pains after meals, constant headache, dull, heavy ness by day and sleeplessness loss of flesh, impaired memory,

"I was rapidly becoming tated for business when a suggested a change in abandonment of heavy, rich the use of Grape-Nuts food lowed the good advice and be thankful that I did so.

"Whatever may be the of others, the beneficial change were apparent in most immediately. My stomach had rejected other food for to Grape-Nuts most kindly, or two my headache was to sleep healthfully and was out the scales showed weight was coming back. was restored with the that I felt in body and years now Grape-Nuts me in prime condition, shall for the rest of my days.

"And, by the way, baby is as fond of Grape-Nuts always insists on having her as healthy and hearty them." Name given by Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book "The Wellville" in pkgs.

RL'S TRAGIC DEATH

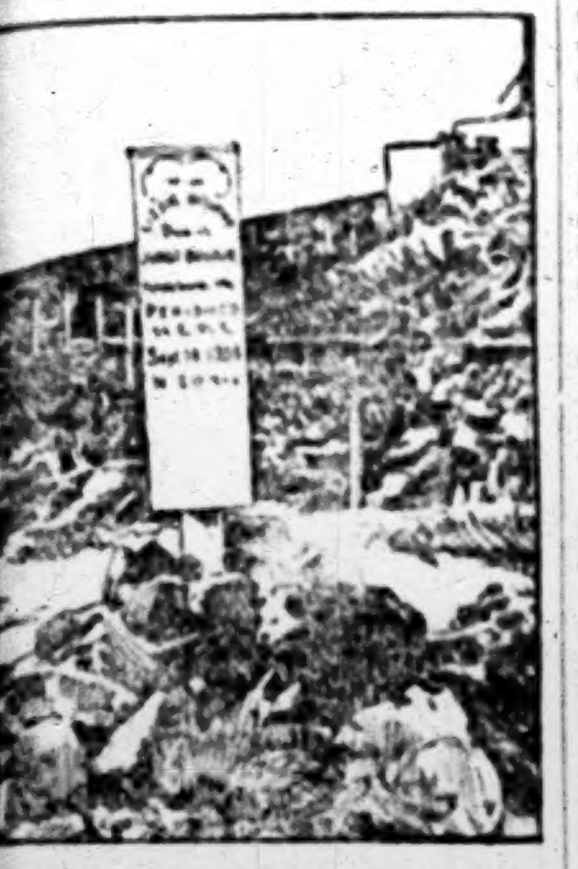
LAST ON LIFE ON UNT WASHINGTON.

Near Summit Lizzie Bourne, One of Adventurous Party, Succumbed to Fatigue Incidental to Long and Arduous Climb.

The soul of Moses was called to from Mount Nebo, Aaron's Mount Hor, and Lizzie Bourne's Mount Washington. The travel who has ascended this majestic untain is attracted with great in st to a huge pile of stones which with appealing sentiment, the of a pathetic and tragic death stands and gazes reverently upon spot where Lizzie Bourne loved life for the last time.

Fifty years ago on the evening of pt. 13, 1855, a small party consist g of Henry A. Jones and wife, of rtland; George W. Bourne, wife d daughter, Lucy, together with izabeth, a niece of George W. urne, arrived at the Glen House in nding to ascend Mount Washington e following morning. A heavy rain, however, frustrated their plans and the trip was abandoned. The disappointment was great, especially to the two girls, and Lizzie particularly seemed to feel it most keenly. At 10 o'clock the sun burst gloriously forth and then the earnest and continued solicitations of Lizzie caused Mr. Bourne and his daughter to carry out their original plan.

Desiring to sleep on the summit that night, the three set out amid the protestations of the rest of the party, and again started their ascent. They sped on in high glee, stopping now and then to admire the scenery, and came at length to the terminus of the road. Leaving the road, they climbed a steep and rocky path called the ledge, where the wind was blowing a gale so violent that for a time they were unable to proceed.

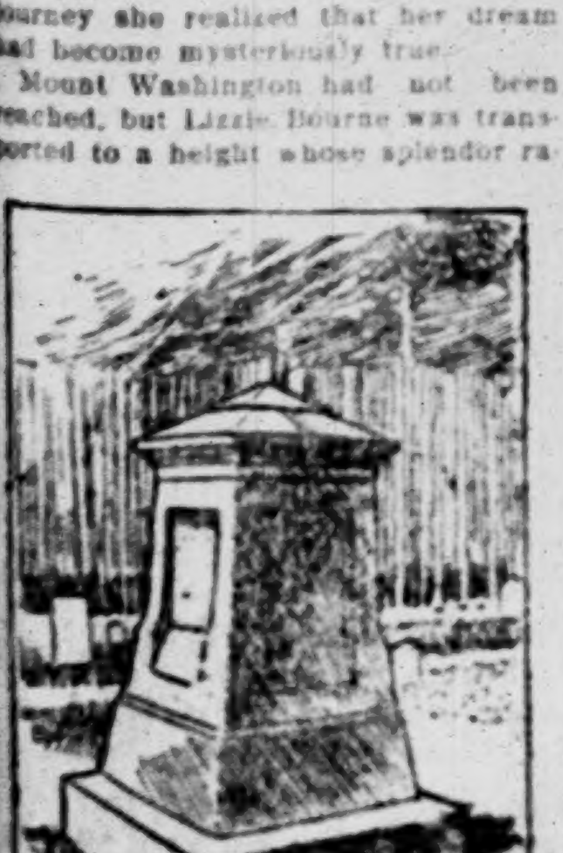


The Mound of Rocks and white wooden slab which mark the place of her death, near the summit of Mount Washington.

Those who know the violence and suddenness of September gales on this mountaintop will not wonder at the sad climax of a long-cherished wish on the part of the two girls. Their souls were filled with strange forebodings, yet they persistently urged going on, climbing peak after peak, cheered by the thought of soon accomplishing a great feat.

Twilight was followed by approaching darkness. Progress became slower, and soon the path was no longer visible. The wind blew a hurricane, the storm urged fiercely. Their only protection they found under the bare rocks which jutted out of the mountain side, forming a breastwork against the fury of the gale. Here they hoped to lie safely until morning, but at 10 o'clock Lizzie, overcome by an affection of the heart superinduced by fatigue and exposure, lifted her face to his, her lips quivered for an instant, then grew cold beneath his own. She sank in her pillow of rocks, and a marble whiteness overspread her features. Then a new glory suffused her face, as if at the end of her journey she realized that her dream had become mysteriously true.

Mount Washington had not been reached, but Lizzie Bourne was transported to a height whose splendor radiates from heaven above, and whose glory is spread upon the earth beneath.



The monument which was intended to mark the spot where she died on Mount Washington, but which is now over her remains in Hope cemetery, Kennebunk, Maine.

Birth of Young Son Recorded.

A notice sent to the Syracuse Herald the other day read: "Mr. and Mrs. —— are rejoicing over the birth of a young son."

Valentine Tapley, a citizen of iana, Mo., 80 years old, have the longest whiske world. They measure and the old gentleman is of them. For many years kept his beard plaited and w dies he wants it to be left in elongated beauty. A dime m manager once offered him a salary to go on exhibition, but he fused.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.
Frank J. Cheney make oath that senior partner of the firm of F. J. Ch Co., doing business in the City of To County and State aforesaid, and tha firm will pay the sum of one hundre lars for each and every case of ca that cannot be cured by the use of Ha Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Chen Sworn to before me and subscribed in presence, this 6th day of D ber, A. D., 1886. A. W. Glea
SEAL. Notary Pu
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acts directly on the blood and mucous faces of the system. Send for testimo free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo,
Sold by all Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipa

The depth of the Pacific ocean been estimated at between four a half and five miles.

ECZEMA FOR TWO YEA

Little Girl's Awful Suffering With Te Skin Humor—Sleepless Nights Mother—Speedy Cure by Cuticura

"My little girl had been suffering two years from eczema, and during time I could not get a night's sleep, ailment was very severe. I had tri many remedies, deriving no benefits, I given up all hope. But as a last reso was persuaded to try Cuticura, and box of the Ointment, and two bottl the Resolvent, together with the Soa fected a permanent cure. Mrs. I. B. J Addington, Ind. T."

Early Literary Fame.

The strenuous life in literary cles seems to have antedated the ent era. Bryant was only 19 "Thanatopsis" won him undying f Shelley was 18 when he wrote "Q Mab." Voltaire's first tragedy was lished when he was but 22, K gave "Endymion" to the world at age of 22, while David is said to written the first Psalm at the a 18, and history has it that H wrote his first odes at the tender of 23 years.

A military company compose the daughters of Boone County ers has been organized, with quarters at Englewood, eleven southeast of Columbia, Mo. The public drill took place at a log at Englewood, where, in the pre of a crowd of curious visitors from parts of the country, the girl so gave a striking exhibition, through the manual of arms lik grans.

Paper Vests.

An Englishman in Paris Crabbe has invented a paper coast which is designed as a p tion against chills.

The garment weighs only an and a half, and can be folded to go into an ordinary envelope.

Ten thousand uninhabited lie between Madagascar and th dian coast.

Invented Tennis.

George Wright, the inventor modern game of tennis, at p lives in Boston, but conceived idea of the game while living in land. Beals Wright, the world's man tennis player, is his son.

The first strike to occur in this try was in 1803, when a numb dissatisfied sailors struck for crease of pay.

OLD FASHIONED FARE.

Hot Biscuits, Griddle Cakes, Pie Puddings.

The food that made the f strong is sometimes unfit for the dren under the new conditions th changing civilization is con bringing in. One of Mr. Bryan's bors in the great State of Ne writes:

"I was raised in the South, hot biscuits, griddle cakes, pie puddings are eaten at almost meal, and by the time I located braska I found myself a suffere indigestion and its attendant ill tress and pains after meals, an constant headache, dull, heavy ness by day and sleeplessness at loss of flesh, impaired memory, e

"I was rapidly becoming in tated for business when a valued suggested a change in my di abandonment of heavy, rich st the use of Grape-Nuts food lowed the good advice and shall be thankful that I did so.

"Whatever may be the exp of others, the beneficial effects change were apparent in my most immediately. My stomach had rejected other food for so lo to Grape-Nuts most kindly; in or two my headache was gone, to sleep healthfully and before was out the scales showed that weight was coming back. My was restored with the renewe that I felt in body and mind. F years now Grape-Nuts food h me in prime condition, and I pr shall for the rest of my days.

"And, by the way, my 2½ y baby is as fond of Grape-Nuts always insists on having it. her as healthy and hearty as them." Name given by Pos Battle Creek, Mich. There's a

Read the little book "The Wellville" in pkgs.

RL'S TRAGIC DEATH

LAST ON LIFE ON UNT WASHINGTON.

Near Summit Lizzie Bourne, of Adventurous Party, Succumbed to Fatigue Incidental to Long and Arduous Climb.

The soul of Moses was called to from Mount Nebo, Aaron's Mount Hor, and Lizzie Bourne's Mount Washington. The traveler who has ascended this majestic mountain is attracted with great interest to a huge pile of stones which with appealing sentiment the of a pathetic and tragic death. stands and gazes reverently upon spot where Lizzie Bourne looked life for the last time.

Fifty years ago, on the evening of 1855, a small party, consisting of Henry A. Jones and wife of George W. Bourne, wife, daughter, Lucy, together with a niece of George W. arrived at the Glen House, intending to ascend Mount Washington following morning. A heavy rain, frustrated their plans and was abandoned. The disappointment was great, especially to the girls, and Lizzie particularly to feel it most keenly. At 10 o'clock the sun burst gloriously forth, the earnest and continued of Lizzie caused Mr. and his daughter to carry out original plan.

to sleep on the summit night the three set out, amid the ns of the rest of the party, and again started their ascent. They on in high glee, stopping now and then to admire the scenery, and came length to the terminus of the road. Leaving the road, they climbed a steep and rocky path called the ledge, where the wind was blowing a gale so violent that for a time they were unable to proceed.

The Mound of Rocks and white wooden slab which mark the place of her death, near the summit of Mount Washington.

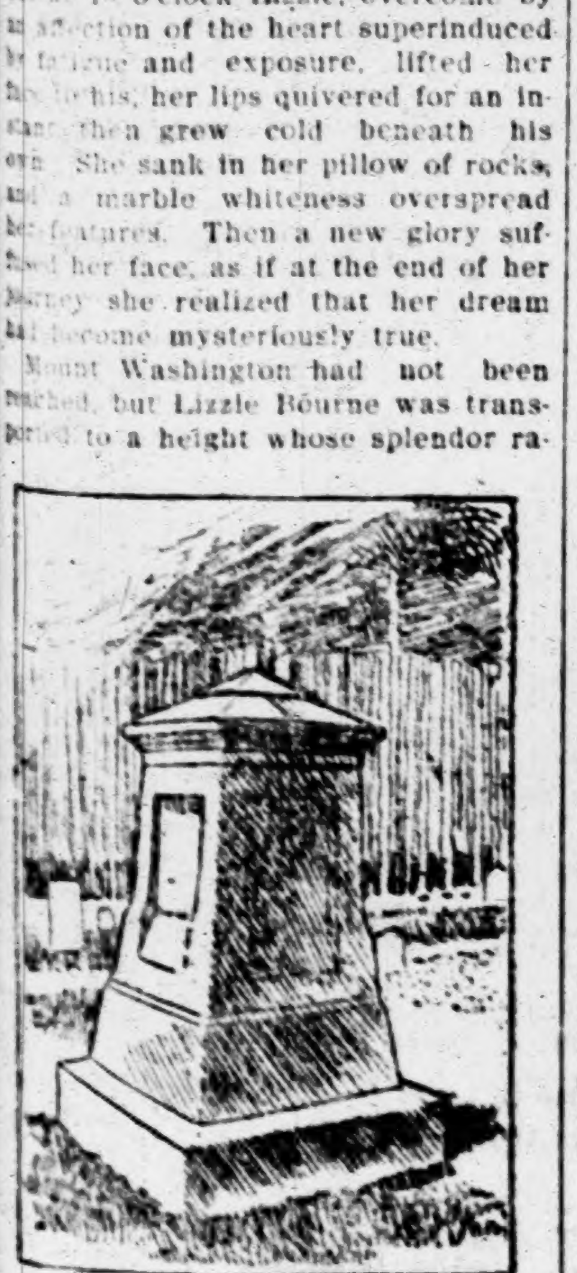
Those who know the violence and suddenness of September gales on this mountaintop will not wonder at the sad climax of a long-cherished wish on the part of the two girls. Their souls were filled with strange forebodings, yet they persistently urged going on, climbing peak after peak, cheered by the thought of soon accomplishing a great feat.

Twilight was followed by approaching darkness. Progress became slower and soon the path was no longer visible. The wind blew a hurricane, the storm urged fiercely. Their only protection they found under the bare rocks which jutted out of the mountain side, forming a breastwork against the fury of the gale. Here they hoped to lie safely until morning, but at 10 o'clock Lizzie, overcome by an affection of the heart superinduced by fatigue and exposure, lifted her face to his, her lips quivered for an instant, then grew cold beneath his eyes. She sank in her pillow of rocks, and a marble whiteness overspread her features. Then a new glory suffused her face, as if at the end of her journey she realized that her dream had become mysteriously true.

Mount Washington had not been reached, but Lizzie Bourne was transported to a height whose splendor radiates from heaven above, and whose glory is spread upon the earth beneath.



The monument which was intended to mark the spot where she died on Mount Washington, but which is now over her remains in Hope cemetery, Kennebunk, Maine.

Birth of Young Son Recorded.

A notice sent to the Syracuse Herald the other day read: "Mr. and Mrs. —— are rejoicing over the birth of a young son."

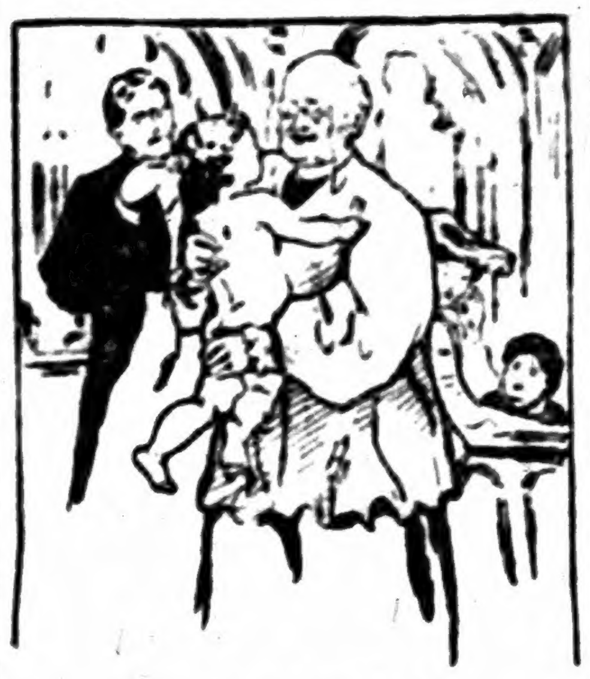
JAMES PROVED HIS ASSERTION.

Embarrassing Demonstration of His Ability to "Und'ess."

It was in one of the leading Episcopal churches in Boston. The bishop of the diocese was honoring the church with a visit. The morning service was just over, and in the vestry the little ones of the parish were gathered for the Sunday school.

A certain small boy in the kindergarten department did not seem to feel the greatness of the occasion. At any moment the bishop might appear in the room, yet Jamie, the unquenchable, insisted on proudly telling the other members of the class: "I can d'ess myself!"

"Hush, Jamie," remonstrated his teacher. "You must stop talking or I shall have to punish you."



Rescued by the Bishop.

Still the small boy, filled with the thought of recent acquirement, asserted: "I can d'ess myself."

"Go and stand behind that door," said the teacher, at last losing patience, and anxious to restore order in the class.

In a few minutes the rector, with the bishop, entered the room. Glancing around at the little flock, the keen eyes of the bishop missed one familiar face. It was that of Jamie, his child friend.

"Why, where is Jamie to-day?" he asked.

"He had to stand behind the door for talking too much," answered the teacher.

The bishop, quickly pulling the door aside, disclosed to the astonished gaze of all present his little friend Jamie in the "altogether," a truly cherubic condition. At the same time a childish voice shouted with a peal of triumph:

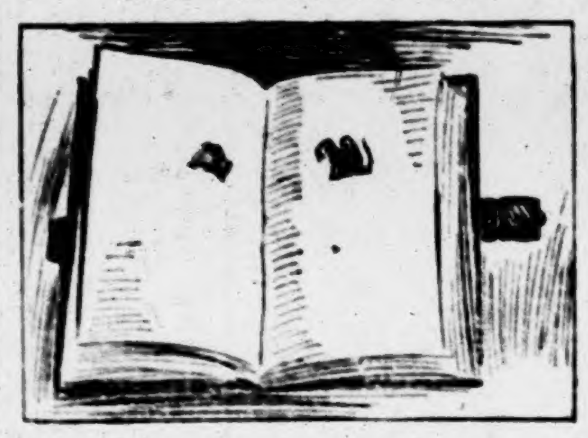
"I can un-d'ess myself!"

He had proved the truth of his words. As for the rector, his face filled with mortification; the teacher's cheeks took on a burning red, but the bishop, true shepherd that he was, snatched the little lamb to his bosom.

Snow Banners.

In the Sierra Nevada mountains, when conditions are favorable for the display, there occurs a beautiful and startling phenomenon of nature. At times when the wind drives up the mountain sides in a certain direction and with sufficient velocity there stream out upon the air snow banners from a hundred mountain peaks. They are formed by the circling wind acting upon the light snow, and are thick and dark at the top of the mountain, like a flag staff, then they float away broadly for a mile in length in waves of iridescent light. This magnificent display is rarely seen by other eyes than those of savages, but sometimes it has been the good fortune of a naturalist to witness it when among the wild beauties of the mountain fastnesses.—New York Herald.

Bible That Saved a Life.



Capt. Daniel Ellis, an Englishman, who served in the confederate navy during the American civil war, carries a Bible which saved his life. A bullet was imbedded in the book, which he carried over his heart.

Castor Oil as Embalming Fluid.

After elaborate experiments, it is declared that the embalming fluid in use by the ancient Egyptians is nothing more nor less than the castor oil of commerce.

Instead of some intricate and involved process, the "seventy days in natron" was followed by the injection of castor oil, and M. Berthelot, secretary of the Louvre museum, has established this fact beyond a doubt.

Many investigators have vainly sought to fathom the mystery of the preparation of the preserving unguents, but they have gone about their work with the idea that complicated formulae were to be deducted, and have defeated their own ends through elaborateness of research.

Lucky and Unlucky Rubies.

A beautiful idea is prevalent in Burmah about rubies. The natives believe that their color changes gradually, while they ripen in the earth, as if a fruit. At first they say the stone is colorless, then it becomes yellow, green, blue, each in turn, the final stage being red, says Hearth and Home. When redness is attained the ruby is ripe. The ruby is said to influence the wearer very strongly for good or evil. It is supposed to bring one's due in money that has been misappropriated. If it brings bad luck to the wearer it should be discarded; it is malevolent.

MOST UNIQUE OF MONUMENTS.

Marks Scene of Fatal Accident to English Earl.

Monuments there are to commemorate all kinds of sentiments from those of the greatest splendor and beauty, to those of the simplest and humblest, from the glorious Taj Mahal of India, to the slip of shingle placed by a little child in its garden, to commemorate the loss of some little pet. In the woods, which form part of the demesne of the Earls of Darnley, whose seat is at Cobham Hall, Kent, England, there stands a monument which perhaps is unique, and is known locally as the "Toe Monument." The present earl's great grandfather, while walking in his woods, came across a woodchopper at work, on the site of this strange monument. The earl took exception to the way the man was doing his work, and, taking the axe for the purpose undertook to show him the right way. He made one cut, and severed the big toe from one of his feet. He was carried with all possible haste to the Hall, doctors sent for, but in spite of all aid he died of lockjaw the next day. The "Toe Monument" was erected by his successor to mark the site of the fatal accident. Moral "Ne sutor ultra crepidam."

DANGER IN COMMON GREETING.

French Physician Suggests Substitute for Shaking Hands.

Dr. Valentine Malpasse, a French Physician, has come out in opposition to hand shaking on the ground that it is not merely unhealthy, but a possible danger, as likely to convey infection.

He makes the claim that infection by transmitting microbes is likely whenever two hands are clasped. Kissing has long been under the ban of physicians, but this was supposed to represent the limit of conservatism.

Now, however, Dr. Malpasse has received the indorsement of several colleagues.

In lieu of hand shaking Dr. Malpasse suggests the Oriental practice of placing the hand successively on heart, lips and forehead.

Coughed Up Two Frogs.

After suffering for weeks with an illness which baffled her physicians, Mrs. Bridget Mangan of Minooka, Pa., coughed up a frog four inches long. Dr. William Haggerty has placed it in alcohol, and will send it to a medical school.

Mrs. Mangan has suffered with severe pains in the stomach for several weeks. Six days ago she suffered a constant thirst and that time she coughed up a small frog.

The same symptoms were apparent last night when the four inch frog came to light.

Dr. Haggerty says the woman must have swallowed the larger frog in drinking water when it was young, and that it developed in her stomach. —Nashville American.

Curious French Ceremony.

The Rose Queen of Dourdan, in the Department of Seine et Oise, France, dressed in spotless white, was crowned and married the other day in a church hung with the deepest mourning. This curious ceremony is an annual one, and was instituted by a rich inhabitant of Dourdan, whose daughter died a few years ago, on the eve of her marriage. After the ceremony the newly-wedded Rose Queen, who received a substantial dowry from the bereaved father, went into the churchyard and laid a wreath upon the grave of the daughter of her benefactor.

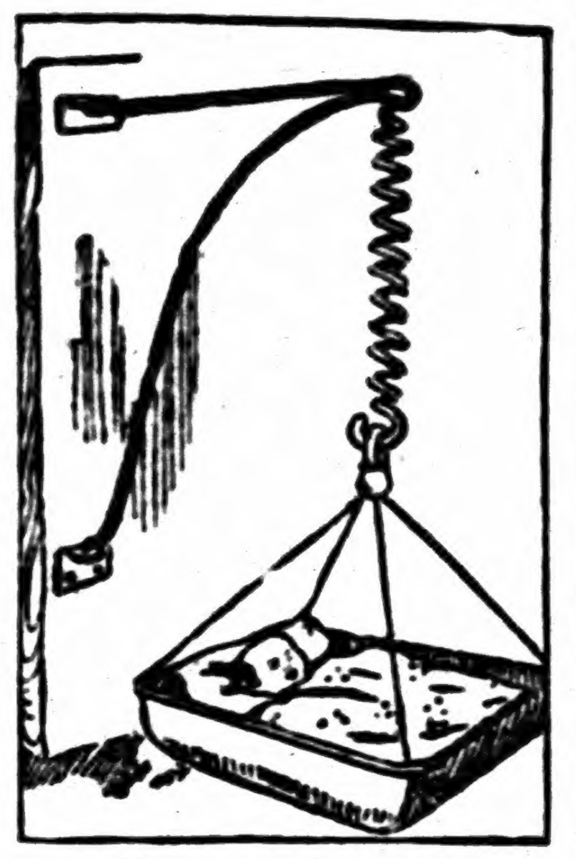
Caught Man-Eating Shark.

A big man-eating shark was brought to shore at Cos Cob, Conn., recently by Judge George W. Brush. It was towed behind his catboat. The shark was nine feet long and had a double row of teeth. It weighed 400 pounds.

PERPETUAL MOTION FOR BABY.

Swinging Cradle Guaranteed to Quiet Most Fractious Infant.

Cradles have been condemned for some years by the doctors who write books on how to bring up babies. In the face of this scientific disapproval an inventor comes forward with a swinging cradle. It hangs on a hook with a spring, like a canary's cage. You give it a little start and it continues to bob up and down for some time. This arrangement keeps the baby satisfied, while the mother may go about her housework or receive visitors. The doctors object to soothing babies. Babies, say the doctors, are not to be soothed by such artificial methods as cradles and sugar plums or rubber rings. These things are really nerve destroyers. Opposing mothers then want to know how it is that so many apparently healthy people have been rocked in cradles, brought up on rubber nipples fastened to corks and lumps of s r carelessly tied in a piece of unsterilized cloth. They want to know if the antiseptic baby is any better than the old-fashioned kind. But these old-fashioned folks will no doubt welcome the new canary cradle, a picture of which shows at a glance its great simplicity.



The Latest Inventon.

One thing that the inventor says will give it wide popularity is its portability—like a bird cage, it is handy to take on a journey.

REGULAR AT CHURCH SERVICE.

Two Philadelphia Cats Have Pronounced Religious Turn.

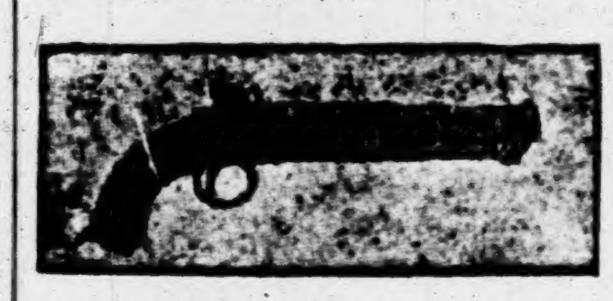
Opposite Hunting Park, on Old York road, resides a family, Torpey by name. The Torpeys own two cats that are different from other cats in that they go to church. As regularly as Sunday morning arrives the pair of felines may be seen following the Torpeys to St. Stephen's church, Broad and Butler streets. No matter what the weather or transpirings on back fences, the two pious cats brave probable attacks by impious mongrels and set an example that many humans would do well to follow.

Neighbors will attest to the truthfulness of the statement that the churchgoing felines spend the very early morning hours of Sunday in licking themselves into that state of cleanliness which is said to be secondary only to godliness. Their fur is glossy, their paws immaculate, and not a whisker is out of place.

Arrived at the church, the cats content themselves with peering in at the door. They are seemingly content to delegate the praying to their owners. Then they slip into the vestibule of the priests' house adjoining, curl up and doze until church is out, when they follow the Torpeys home and live normal cat lives until another Sunday. —Philadelphia Telegraph.

Famous Highwayman's Pistol.

Wide-eyed children to-day listen with rapt attention to the wonderful exploits of Dick Turpin, king of highwaymen, and his nightly escapades on the English heath, but they know the famous highwayman as did their fathers and their fathers' fathers' only by tradition.



But more suggestive than any story of the famous knight of the highway is the original pistol carried by the robber in his nightly forays. This pistol is to be used on the stage after long years of idleness in a private museum and will make its first music hall appearance shortly in "Dick Turpin's Ride to York."

Unique Lighthouse.

The most extraordinary of all British lighthouses is to be found on Arnish Rock, Stornoway Bay—a rock which is separated from the island of Lewis by a channel over 500 feet wide. On this rock a conical beacon is erected, and on its summit a lantern is fixed, from which, night after night, shines a light which is seen by the fishermen far and wide. The way in which the lighthouse is illuminated is this. On the island of Lewis is a lighthouse and from a window in the tower a stream of light is projected on to a mirror in the lantern on the summit of Arnish Rock.

Calves Come in Triplets.

A cow owned by W. H. Taylor of Houghs Neck has presented Mr. Taylor with three perfectly formed calves of fairly good size. One of the calves lived only a little over a day, but the other two are lively and well. The mother is four years old and one of a quintet.

CAT THAT IS FOND OF HUNTING.

Massachusetts Animal an Adept at Retrieving Game.

The firemen at the East street engine house have a black cat which is remarkable for several things. It possesses six toes on each foot, and during the past year it has had about two score and ten kittens which have all had the same number of digits.

The cat also has become a follower of the hunting game in more ways than the average feline has aspired to. It has an excellent record for hunting rats and mice that can be found about the premises, but it is also a hunter after the fashion of dogs. One of the firemen takes trips into the neighboring places for hunting birds, and wherever he goes the cat is sure to be with him. Whenever he brings down any game the cat is there to claim the quarry.

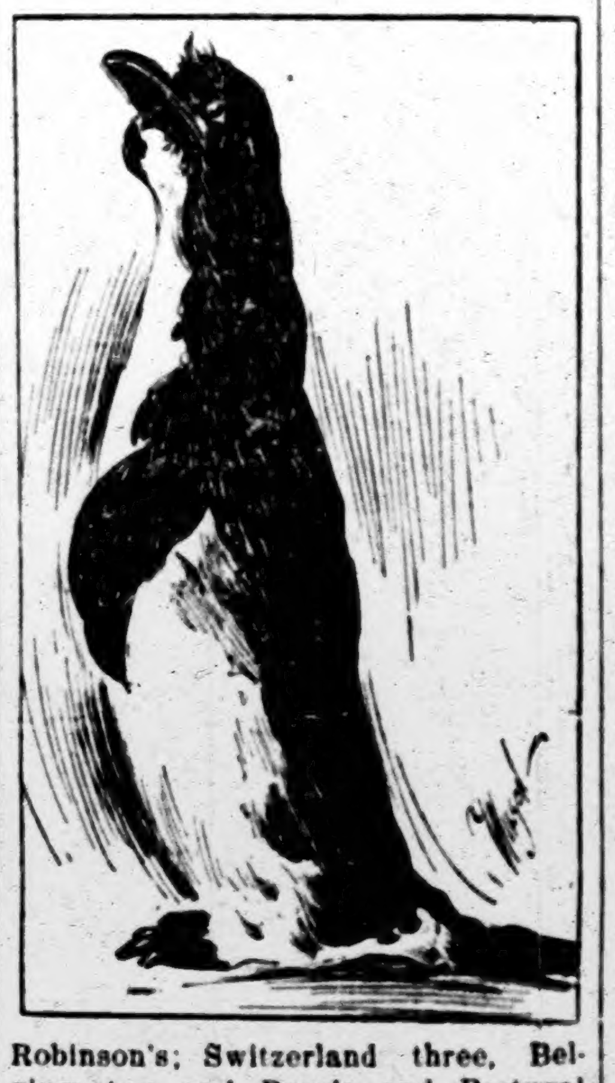
It is said that the animal will follow the person in question for miles in order to get the game, and it cannot be deceived, for as soon as one of the firemen in the house starts out with a gun the cat is always a faithful follower. Yesterday one of these trips was taken with some success, and the cat seemed as pleased at the results as was the hunter.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

OWNS SPECIMEN OF GREAT AUK.

Massachusetts Man Has Only One in World Outside Museums.

Anthony Robinson of New Bedford, Mass., is the owner of the only specimen of the great auk outside a museum. The great auk is rare with ornithologists. There are but five collections in this country which contain specimens, the Smithsonian, the New York museum of natural history, the academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia; the Thayer museum at Lancaster and Vassar college, which owns the specimen once owned by Andover.

There are known to be but fifty-three specimens extant. Great Britain and Germany have twenty each, the United States six, including Mr. Robinson's; Switzerland three, Belgium two and Russia and Portugal each one. Even the egg of the great auk confers distinction upon a museum, the price of an auk's egg being quoted at from $1,000 to $1,600, and they are not to be picked up at such prices every day.



Two Men in Bath of Molasses.

While emptying a barrel of molasses into a big molasses tank in Hoboken, N. J., the other evening, John Hill lost his balance and fell into four feet of the sticky stuff. The barrel followed and struck him on the head, dazing him. Owen Farley, a fellow workman, jumped into the molasses up to his armpits and held Hill's head above the surface until help came. Then he tied a rope around Hill's waist and the latter was hauled out. Hill's scalp was cut by the falling barrel, and seven stitches were taken in the wound. It took several hours to clean up the men after the molasses bath.

Travels With His Cat.

Two of the most novel visitors to Winchester this week were Mr. Charles Roe and a large maltese cat. Mr. Roe came from Baltimore, and after spending the day in Winchester left for Natural Bridge, completing a portion of a trip from Maine.

As long as the weather is good and the roads in condition he walks, riding on the train only when bad weather compels.

His companion is an eighteen-pound maltese cat, which he saved from death eight years ago and which follows him everywhere.—Winchester correspondence Baltimore Herald.

Turtle Helped Himself to Ducks.

For some time past James Harvey, a farmer on Boyd road, near Portsmouth, N. H., has repeatedly missed handsome young ducks. What became of them was a mystery. He finally decided to watch the ducks, and after hours of constant watching he learned the kidnaper was a large turtle in one of his ice ponds, which, when hungry, would come up beneath the ducks while they were swimming and help itself to the best of the flock.

Mourning Shoes.

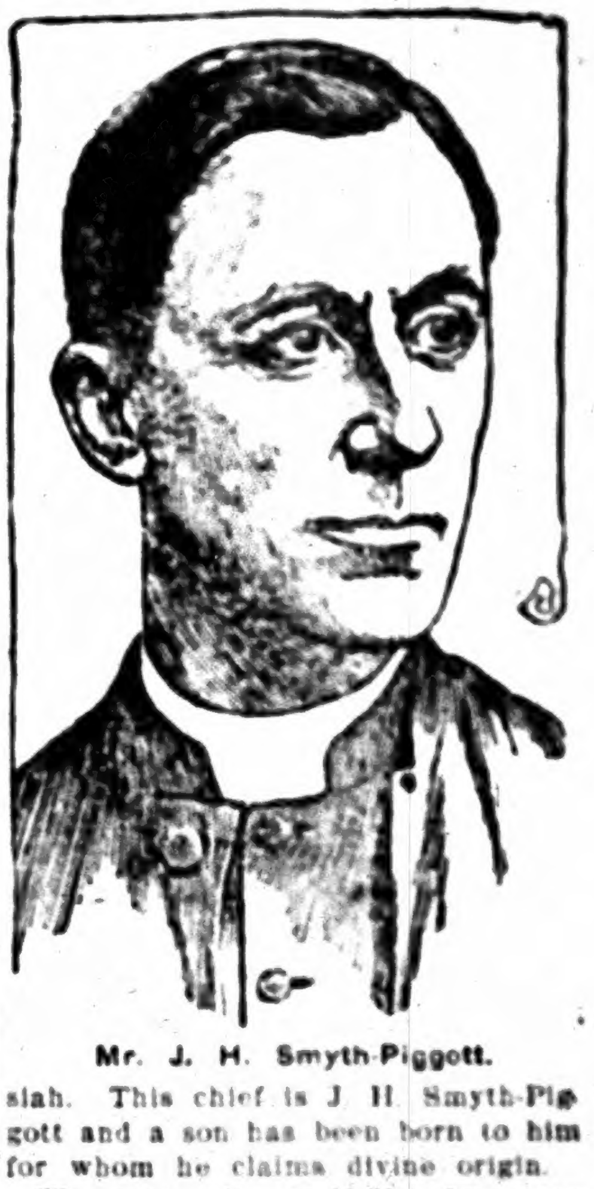
Shoes have been specialized for a hundred and one purposes, but shoes especially manufactured for those in mourning form a variety of foot-gear that few manufacturers would think of producing. Such shoes are made in Lynn, Mass. The mourning shoe consists of a dead luster black leather, made up on a stylish last, and ornamented with mournful looking black ribbons and beads.

WOMEN WORSHIP HIM

APOSTLE OF FREE LOVE DECLARES HIMSELF MESSIAH.

J. H. Smyth-Piggott, Formerly Episcopal Clergyman, Compels Adoration from His Followers—Claims Infant Recently Born Is "Divinely Sent."

England has been shocked from center to circumference by revelations concerning a body of religious enthusiasts who follow the free love theory and whose chief calls himself the Messiah. This chief is J. H. Smyth-Piggott and a son has been born to him for whom he claims divine origin.



Mr. J. H. Smyth-Piggott.

The sect calls itself the Agapemonites, and the elders live in a luxurious mansion named "The Abode of Love," at Spaxton, Somerset.

Smyth-Piggott was formerly a clergyman in the Church of England. He has succeeded in persuading a large number of women and a few men that he is the Messiah, returned to earth, and induces them to worship him.

The baby that has just come to the Abode of Love is regarded by the Agapemonites as divinely sent, and its mother, Ruth Greeco, a young girl of striking beauty, who has come under Piggott's influence, is looked on as the spiritual bride of the leader of the sect.

The name Glory Piggott was given to the infant at an elaborate christening ceremony. To make the ceremony legal, the district registrar was summoned to the Abode of Love. At the door of the mansion the registrar was met by a woman.

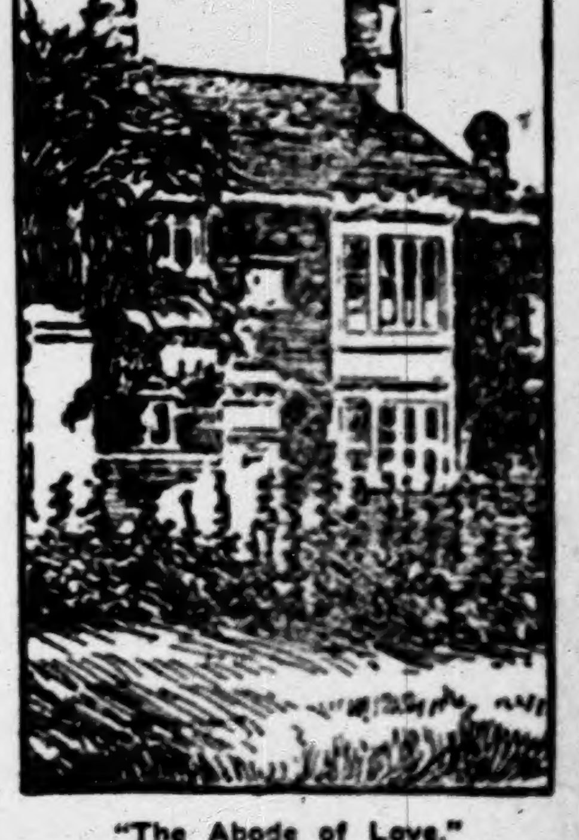
"Are you the registrar?" she said excitedly.

"Yes," he replied, "I am."

"Then," she added, dramatically, "you are about to be admitted into the presence of the Almighty. Follow me."

The registrar obeyed and was led into the chapel. Forty persons were there, all except the registrar, Piggott, and his secretary being women. The women were grouped in a silent worshiping crowd, with their eyes fixed on a couch. Here in costly clinging robes lay a beautiful young woman, the mother of the baby. At the foot of the couch was the infant, dressed in snowy white. Piggott's legal wife was near by.

There are 600 Agapemonites, all of whom are well to do. About twenty, mostly beautiful young women, live at the Abode of Love with Piggott. One of the principal tenets of the sect is that there shall be no marriages among its members.



"The Abode of Love."

The Abode of Love is regarded by the Agapemonites as a refuge from the cares and troubles of the world. It is a sort of combined convent and monastery, regulated by rules almost eastern in their provisions for luxury. All the devotees place their money in a common fund, in charge of Piggott, and as Piggott has converted a number of rich women to his faith, the sect is wealthy.

"Bird of Paradise" Plant.

W. R. Collins of Chicopee, Mass., has the strangest plant ever seen in that town. It is called the "bird of paradise," and is now in blossom for the first time in six years. The leaves are not unlike those of a fern, except that they curl up at smooth. The flower resembles a lady-finger in make-up, is yellow in color, and contains a bunch of red tendrils. These straighten out when the flower is in full bloom. The seed came from Arkansas.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

THE Central Alabama Fair opened at Selma Tuesday with every prospect of success.

CLATON needs a fire brigade for self-protection and lower insurance rates,

COMER and Cunningham held a joint debate at Russelville—honors are about even so far,

THE boll weevil, according to J. E. Culp, who lives seven miles west of Clanton, has made its appearance in Chilton county. On Saturnay last he brought several specimen into town, and those who are acquainted with the Texas weevil, say this is of the same sort. Mr. Culp first found them on his land about August 7, and since that time they have made havoc with his crop. He has 10 acres in cotton. Last year he made 5 bales, this year only 3 light bales.

The Chilton Cotton Growers Association convened at the court house in Clanton, Saturday last. The meeting was called to order by President W. H. Conway. The secretary being unavoidably absent, Tipton Mullins was appointed as secretary pro tem. The president called attention to the tabulated report of the Southern Cotton Association from which it appears that as to Alabama, there was a reduction in acreage of 27 per cent, crop of 1904-05 1,445,133 bales, estimated production for 1905-06 1,054,948, estimated picked 73 28 per cent, estimated ginned 72.29 per cent; and as to the entire country the estimated production for the year 1905-06 is 9,444,314 bales, estimated picked 5,792,838, estimated ginned 5,160,891. All estimates are up to Oct. 21, 1905.

The president also called attention to a circular relating to the election of officers.

W. H. Killingsworth, W. H. Conway, J. W. Sorrell, L. H. Reynolds, J. T. Chandler, J. D Deason and others addressed the meeting on the good of the order and the details of its business.

On motion of Judge Reynolds the president and secretary were authorized to issue an address to the people in the interest of the Association. On motion it was ordered that an organizer for Beats 7 and 8 be appointed, and J. D. Deason was appointed. On motion W. H. Killingsworth was appointed as organizer for Beat 2.

The following resolution was offered by Judge Reynolds and adopted, towit: That all organizers for the S. C. A. for Chilton county retain half of the admittance fee which is 2 cents for each member and report at the next county meeting Dec. 9.

J. W. Sorrell reported and paid to the secretary $4.36 dues collected from Beat 1.

On motion the minutes of this meeting were requested published in both county papers. On motion the body adjourned.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

A REGULAR CIRCUS

Trying to Give a Little Girl Cod Liver Oil.

An interesting incident was told in the Upchurch Drug co's store the other evening.

A man came in and bought a bottle of Vinol and while waiting for change engaged the clerk in conversation.

Said he: "We were told to give our little girl cod liver oil. I bought a bottle and took it home. We had a regular circus trying to get the child to take it. Then it did not agree with her at at all, the oil upset her stomach. She did not get any better, so I told the doctor how we had failed, and he at once recommended your Vinol, saying that it contained all of the curative, healing and strengthening properties of cod liver oil without a drop of oil, and that children all love its taste.

I took home a bottle and we began to give it to our child right away. She said it was delicious and wanted more. Almost from the first dose we noticed a change, and she has gained flesh, strength and appetite and sleeps well every night.

"I don't believe any one should give a delicate child old-fashioned, nauseating cod liver oil or emulsions when Vinol is so delicious, and it will do so much more good than any other tonic. It is simply a wonderful medicine for weak, puny children, and I am recommending it to my friends."

"We guarantee Vinol will make weak, puny children strong, robust and rosy, strengthen and invigorate old people and build up the run down, tired and debilitated as nothing else can. If it fails we willingly return every dollar paid for it." Upchurch Drug co.

Editor Banner—I had thought I would not write further to the Banner, but am urged by quite a lot of friends who read it to do so, and to this end I will say that on Tuesday, the 7th inst., I leave on rather an extended trip including points in Missouri, Kansas, Indian Territory, Texas and Old Mexico, and hope that along the country through which I pass will be able to gather something of which I will be able to give your readers an interesting account on my return to Alabama. I go via Birmingham, Memphis, Springfield, St. Louis, and Kansas City, Mo.; thence via Fort Scott, Kas., Muscogee and South McAlister, I. T., striking Texas at Denison; thence south via Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Tyler, San Antonio and on to Laredo, and after a short stay I now expect to go into Old Mexico, probably to the City of Mexico. Wish I had one or more of our good boys to go along just for the moral effect. Better be a good woman though, don't you think so?

Hope on my return to find our county people taking on new vigor and getting at least the minimum price of 11¢ for what little cotton they then have. The farmers for past five weeks have reminded me of old Uncle John Price and his price on his yoke of oxen. Once upon a time he had a good yoke for sale or at least it got out that he would sell them. So a certain log hauler decided he would take the start on old man Price. He had heard that fifty dollars would probably buy the team. So one morning mounts his mule and at early breakfast time he was eight miles from home and calling Uncle John out to look at the oxen. Well, to please the old farmer, he first bragged on the fine oxen. Then, without asking the price, said "Well sir, I'll give you sixty dollars for that yoke of oxen." Old Uncle John had "Heard the owl whoop." So he scratched his head, gave his red beard a few strokes and said, "No, I don't ax but fifty dollars and I won't take but fifty." So this reply slightly upset Mr. Log man, so he then said, "Well, that is less than I expected that fine yoke of oxen at and I will take them at fifty dollars and pay you in thirty days." To this Uncle John said, "No, that won't suit me, I got about thirty days hauling to do, then I will be done hauling and will have the oxen and you will have the money."

The point I want to make is the average farmer only "axes" 10¢ for his cotton as shown in thousands of cases for past few weeks.

It is a clear case of Lazarus speaking to the rich man and his reply, Moses and the Prophets may yell, but 10¢ is all they "ax" for it. Times are too good; we need a repetition of '93 to '99 and 1904 to bring them to their senses. I insist there is a very short crop, I know it is so in this section and I always was one of those fellows that was willing to take all I could get, then ask just a "weebit" more. I have not sold a bale and not going to soon. So far as I am concerned I want Bob Smith's prophecy of 12th day of last July to come true.

F. A. GULLEDGE.

TOWN OF CLANTON.

AN ORDINANCE

To regulate the running of railroad trains through the Town of Clanton; to prevent the blocking or obstructing of the crossing of Second Avenue or Main Street in said Town by freight trains and to prevent the blowing of signal whistles on locomotive engines in said Town.

Section 1 Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton, that it shall be unlawful for any engineer, conductor or other person in charge of any passenger or freight train running through the Town of Clanton, to run such train over and across the "crossing" or intersection of Second Avenue or Main Street with the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad company or the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company in said town at a greater rate of speed than four miles an hour, and any engineer, conductor or other person having control or in charge of such passenger or freight train violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction, be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec 2 Be it further ordained that it shall be unlawful for any engineer, conductor or other person having charge or control of any freight train running through the Town of Clanton, to stop such train or any part thereof upon the crossing of said Second Avenue or Main Street in said Town where the said Second Avenue or Main Street crosses or intersects the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad company or the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company and any such engineer, conductor or other person having charge or control of such freight train who violates the provisions of this section shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 3 Be it further ordained, that it shall be the duty of the engineer or other person running or operating the engine drawing any passenger or freight train through the Town of Clanton, on approaching the crossing of Second Avenue or Main Street where the same crosses the tracks of the South and North Alabama Railroad company or the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company in said Town, to bring such passenger or freight train to a full stop at least fifty feet from said crossing, and on proceeding, must ring the bell upon said engine and continue to do so until such engine has passed entirely over and beyond said crossing. And any engineer or other person running or operating such engine who fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 4 Be it further ordained, that it shall be unlawful for any engineer or fireman or other person upon any locomotive engine running through the Town of Clanton, to blow the whistle upon such engine within the corporate limits of said Town except in cases of actual danger, and any engineer, fireman or other person who violates the provisions of this section shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 5. Be it further ordained, that all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Passed at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton, on this the 6th day of November, 1905.

HARVEY F. CHANDLER, Mayor.
Countersigned, E. CLAY JONES, Clerk.
Published in the Banner, this the 9th day of November, 1905. E. CLAY JONES, Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

Section 1 Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton, that Section 112 of the Code of the Town of Clanton be amended so as to contain the following towit;

All persons engaged in the business of selling or peddling beef, pork, fish or oysters in the Town of Clanton shall pay to said Town as a license therefor, the sum of twenty five dollars.

Sec 2. Be it further ordained, that said sum of twenty-five dollars shall be due and payable on the 15th day of November of each year, and any person engaging in said business before paying said sum shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than the amount of said license.

Passed at a regular meeting of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton, this the 6th day of November, 1905.

H. F. CHANDLER, Mayor.
Countersigned, E. CLAY JONES, Clerk.
Published in the Banner, this the 9th day of November, 1905. E. CLAY JONES, Clerk.

NEGRO KILLED

On Monday evening a fracus between negroes occured at Culbreth & Davis' turpentine still, twelve miles east of Clanton Jim Harris, colored, first cut the throat of his wife Rosa; another man, Joe Ward, interfered, and Harris proceeded to do him up with a razor Ward pulled out his gun and shot Harris, who died in about fifteen minutes The woman is recovering A trial was held before J S Dennis, J P, and Joe Ward was discharged

MR W T Brigance of Billingsley gave us a pleasant call last Thursday

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE
CHEMISTS
409 Pearl St., New York
50c. and $1.00.
All Druggists.

Come Now Own Up

You don't like those gray hairs, do you? And your husband certainly doesn't like them. Then why not try a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor? It restores color to gray hair every time, all the deep, rich color of early life. And it cures dandruff also.

"I certainly believe that Ayer's Hair Vigor is a splendid preparation for the hair and scalp, for I have used it more or less for six years. I can cheerfully recommend it to anyone in need of such a preparation."—MRS. KATE BOTT, Minneapolis, Minn.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

CIRCUIT COURT

Falll term begins at Clanton Monday, November 27, 1905.

GRAND JURY.

Wheeler Foshee, J M G Barnett, G W Hodgins, Carlton Hall, H O Fits, B H Vickers, Eugene Evans, George Mattox, J M Mims, E G Rollins, A J Atkinson, J H Thomas, W J Bone, Jesse Hays, H C Young, J N Barnes, C C Burkhalter, W L Honeycut, J S Waldrop, P S Prim.

PETIT JURY—FIRST WEEK

H H Armstrong, John Goer, H J Cole, Robert M Smith, T J Rocket, W M Pool, W H cox, H Z Barnes, W W Devaughn, W B Vance, Joel H Gulledge, Joseph Busbee, C W Blackwell, H C Latham, John Giles, J T chambers, T B Teel, J J Mccormick, Walter Popwell. J W Mims, J W Abbott, B G Jones, T M Pyron. J M Maddox, H M Roper, A Littleton, B L Glascock, G A Dawson, J A Dykes, Joseph Littleton, J H Greene. S Johnson, J L Vines, J M Goer.

PETIT JURY—SECOND WEEK

Moses Popwell, Robert Wilkins, W A Huckabee, J W Harris, William E Mims, F J Fitts, J S wright, W N Rodgers, J H Gandy, W Q Childress, T J Littlejohn, L O Burnett, J E Bearden, Felix Eiland, Green Burnett, J M Littlejohn, James M curlee, D A Friday, G. E. Reid, John Mims, E H Arledge, W H Hadnot, M A Kilgore, Jesse cadell, A A Ayers, B N Martin, Pate Headley, J A Langston, John W Foshee, william wamble, M H Marcus, P A Vauca, W G conway, H T Littlefield, charley Langville.

Pleasant Grove.

Here I come again after a long absence.

We gladly welcome Mr. and Mrs. Allen Williams back in our community.

Mr. John Jackson and Mr. Willie Venson of Verbena were welcome visitors in our community Saturday.

Misses Neacie and Velma Roper of Culp School House were guests of Misses Alpha and Annie Williams Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbie Foshee visited Mr. W. B. Foshee's family near Clanton Sunday.

We are glad to know that Mrs. P. C. Jones is improving in health.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Nov. 6, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Mabe Chunshaw, Reynolds Cook, (col) J S Dickerson, Fonza Davis, R C Jordan, M D Louis, S S Leonard, M D Lewis, Neal Stevens, Jesse Thune

LADIES' LIST.

Miss Annie Chommon, Mrs Ida Dickson, Miss Susie Phillips

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Nov 20, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

"I Thank The Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock. Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. 25c.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Improv
Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prope
ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cot ton being held now, either on farms or i warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pric
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallo
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	3.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Grocerie

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.

CLANTON - - - - .AL

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experien enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the exp purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we h clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit th and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especi
low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit y wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Bo Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pa and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter w you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of kinds—Woollen, Cashmere. Plaids, Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 ya worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so lon they last,

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the excl agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 Men's from No 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

VOL. XIV

CONSUELO ENCOURAGES SEX.

DAUGHTER OF VANDERBILTS SEES IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN FIELD OF LABOR.

Comparison of Past Restrictions With Present Freedom Reveals Growth of Woman's Sphere.

An ex-President of the United States thinks it not beneath his dignity to talk to the women of the country through the pages of a popular wom an's magazine, warning them of the dangerous and undermining effects upon their character of active partic ipation in public affairs. The feminine club life of to-day he especially con demns.

Following this comes the announce ment of an interview with a represen tative of the new and charming wo manhood of America in the person of Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough. A daughter of the Vanderbilts, married into one of the oldest and proudest families of England, surrounded by every luxury and crowned with beauty, youth and grace, yet is she democratic enough to be interested in her sisters of the working world.

Women's Work Commended.

Concerning woman's work the Duchess says:

"It is gratifying to see the improve-

CONSUELO, DUCHESS

ments which have been made in the conditions under which women work in this country since I was last here. You know that I am deeply interested in this question of the betterment of the conditions of life for women. England is doing much in this direction, but it is to America that we all look for leadership in movements of this kind, and I am happy to say that our hopes have not been disappointed."

The particular society in which the Duchess is interested is the Young Woman's Christian Association. She is to that organization in England what Helen Gould is to the Y. M. C. A in this country—a patroness, generous of time, money and sympathy.

It is evident, however, that the Duchess' sympathies go out to the workers and the work along all the lines of betterment for women. She calls attention to the various associa tions and their enormous growth in membership, and to the change that has taken place in the position of wom an in the world's work during the past sixty years.

Speaking of woman's efforts at eman cipation and particularly of the famous meeting in Seneca Falls, N. Y., she says:

"The first woman's rights convention was held in this country in 1850. Three years later a woman attempted to speak in a world's temperance conven tion in New York and it took her three hours to make a ten-minute speech be cause of the jeers and interruptions of the men delegates. Florence Night ingale, just about fifty years ago laid the foundation for the glorious work of the Red Cross in the hospitals in the Crimea.

When Efforts Began.

"These were the beginnings of the activity of women in public movements, involving social reform, which now are having their full development in all lines of endeavor. When one reflects that the hardships faced by women speakers in those days ranged from hos tile and rude interruptions to measures of even more active discomfort and un pleasantness reminding one of an un popular political campaign, and yet that they have persevered in their ef forts, one cannot help being proud of their pluck and perseverance which has had such splendid results."

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1905 Pages 9 to 12, No. 4

CONSUELO ENCOURAGES SEX.

DAUGHTER OF VANDERBILTS SEES IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN FIELD OF LABOR.

Comparison of Past Restrictions With Present Freedom Reveals Growth of Woman's Sphere.

[illegible] President of the United States [illegible] it not beneath his dignity to [illegible] to the women of the country through the pages of a popular woman's magazine, warning them of the dangerous and undermining effects on their character of active participation in public affairs. The feminine [illegible] life of to-day he especially condemns.

Following this comes the announcement of an interview with a representative of the new and charming womanhood of America in the person of Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough. A daughter of the Vanderbilts, married into one of the oldest and proudest families of England, surrounded by every luxury and crowned with beauty, youth and grace, yet is she democratic enough to be interested in her sisters of the working world.

Women's Work Commended.

Concerning woman's work the Duchess says:

"It is gratifying to see the improvements which have been made in the conditions under which women work in this country since I was last here. You know that I am deeply interested in the question of the betterment of the conditions of life for women. England is doing much in this direction, but it is to America that we all look for leadership in movements of this kind, and I am happy to say that our hopes have not been disappointed."

The particular society in which the Duchess is interested is the Young Woman's Christian Association. She is to that organization in England what Helen Gould is to the Y. M. C. A. in this country—a patroness, generous of time, money and sympathy.

It is evident, however, that the Duchess' sympathies go out to the workers and the work along all the lines of betterment for women. She calls attention to the various associations and their enormous growth in membership, and to the change that has taken place in the position of women in the world's work during the past [illegible] years.

Speaking of woman's efforts at emancipation and particularly of the famous meeting in Seneca Falls, N. Y., she [illegible]

"The first woman's rights convention was held in this country in 1850. Three years later a woman attempted to speak in a world's temperance convention in New York and it took her three days to make a ten-minute speech because of the jeers and interruptions of the men delegates. Florence Nightingale just about fifty years ago laid the foundation for the glorious work of the Red Cross in the hospitals in the Crimea.

When Efforts Began.

"These were the beginnings of the activity of women in public movements, involving social reform, which now are having their full development in all lines of endeavor. When one reflects that the hardships faced by women speakers in those days ranged from hostile and rude interruptions to measures of even more active discomfort and unpleasantness reminding one of an unpopular political campaign, and yet that they have persevered in their efforts, one cannot help being proud of their pluck and perseverance which has had such splendid results."

Reference to the woman who attempted to speak at a temperance convention recalls to mind the old story of Lucy Stone, of Massachusetts, a pioneer suffragist, who, after her graduation at Oberlin, Ohio (the only college admitting women at that time), desired to speak in one of the Massachusetts churches. The announcement of the address was made by the minister of the church in the following words:

> "A hen wishes to crow like a rooster in this church on Thursday evening. Anybody liking that kind of music is invited to attend."

It seems almost incredible in these days that time was, and only half a century ago, too, when woman's activity was limited to so small a circle. As a means of livelihood she had but three vocations from which to choose: housework, sewing and teaching; and all poorly paid, at that. Marriage was supposed to be the chief end and aim of her existence. This state she sought, sometimes as a refuge from greater ills. A girl single at 22 or 23 was considered an "old maid." No woman, except among the Society of Friends, could be ordained to preach the gospel. The woman physician or lawyer was an unknown quantity.

The Women Held Aside Their Skirts.

When Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the first woman to graduate in medicine in this country, appeared on the streets the women she met held aside their skirts for fear of contamination from so unwomanly a creature. The bars of prejudice were high and strong. Only the hardiest dared face the disapproval of the public of that day.

CONSUELO, DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

But now the army of stenographers, clerks, physicians, preachers, social workers and business women attest the wonderful change in her status. To-day, given capacity, training and perseverance, there are few, if any, avenues of legitimate endeavor closed to woman. If now and then a few overstep the bounds of discretion and good taste, and thereby call down the censure of the better element, who knows but that it is the pendulum swinging a little far—a rebound from the extremes of former days. The real balance will be maintained when woman is permitted to express her individuality and to live her own life.

* * *

A Lullaby.

Hush, baby, hush!
In the west there's a glory
With changes of amethyst, crimson and gold.
The Sun goes to bed like the King in a story,
Told by a poet of old.

Hush, baby, hush!
There's a wind on the river—
A sleepy old wind with a voice like a sigh,
And he sings to the rushes that dreamily quiver,
Down where the ripples run by.

Hush, baby, hush!
Lambs are drowsily bleating
Down in cool meadows where daisy-buds grow,
And the echo, aweary with all day repeating
Has fallen asleep long ago.

Hush, baby, hush!
There are katydids calling
"Good-night" to each other on every breeze,
And the sweet baby moon has been falling and falling,
Till now she is caught in the trees.

Hush, baby, hush!
It is time you were winging
Your way to the land that lies—no one knows where;
It is late, baby, late; Mother's tired with singing,
Soon she will follow you there.
Hush, baby, hush!

E. O. COOKE.

COAL STRIKE PROBABLE.

AGREEMENT MADE THREE YEARS AGO BETWEEN MINERS AND OPERATORS EXPIRES NEXT APRIL.

Miners Will Then Demand Eight Hour Day and Recognition of Union. Owners Will Vigorously Oppose.

Charles E. Kern.

With the coming of winter many a householder has calculated upon the probability of a strike in the anthracite coal regions and wondered whether he should take the precaution to lay in a full supply of fuel. The day when the provident man laid up great stores for the frozen period of the year, filled his larder with good things to eat and his bins with fuel, against the inclement weather, has departed so far as the cities of this country are concerned. Now rich and poor alike, the provident and the improvident, look to the merchant to keep their larders filled. Their only providence is in laying up the money with which to purchase supplies when needed.

It is this change in the method of providing for the home, that has made the strike in recent years so terrible to the humble consumer, who may live a thousand miles from the scene of the industrial discontent and know nothing of its causes except that which he reads in his daily paper, and yet be the principal sufferer from the shortage of supplies that follows. The effectiveness of the strike is its power to create such a shortage in supplies and to bring the country upon the verge of a famine as bad as a food famine. Transportation, by quickly distributing products over the world, has routed the famine of old that sprang from the failure of crops. Now the cessation of labor produces the same shortage of supply that was formerly produced by the uncontrollable elements.

The chief protection against the recurrence of strikes has been found in agreements made between employers and employes, the present agreement in the anthracite coal fields being effective until April 1st next. Until after that date, according to the statements of leading labor organization officials, there will be no strike, as they propose to stand for the inviolability of contracts made by any of their affiliated associations.

The good offices of the President of the United States were used with great advantage in bringing about an agreement, between the coal operators and the miners three years ago, so as to make possible the production of coal. The fact is the President used only that indefinite power that may be regarded as the influence of his great office skillfully employed in bringing the two sides to the controversy together.

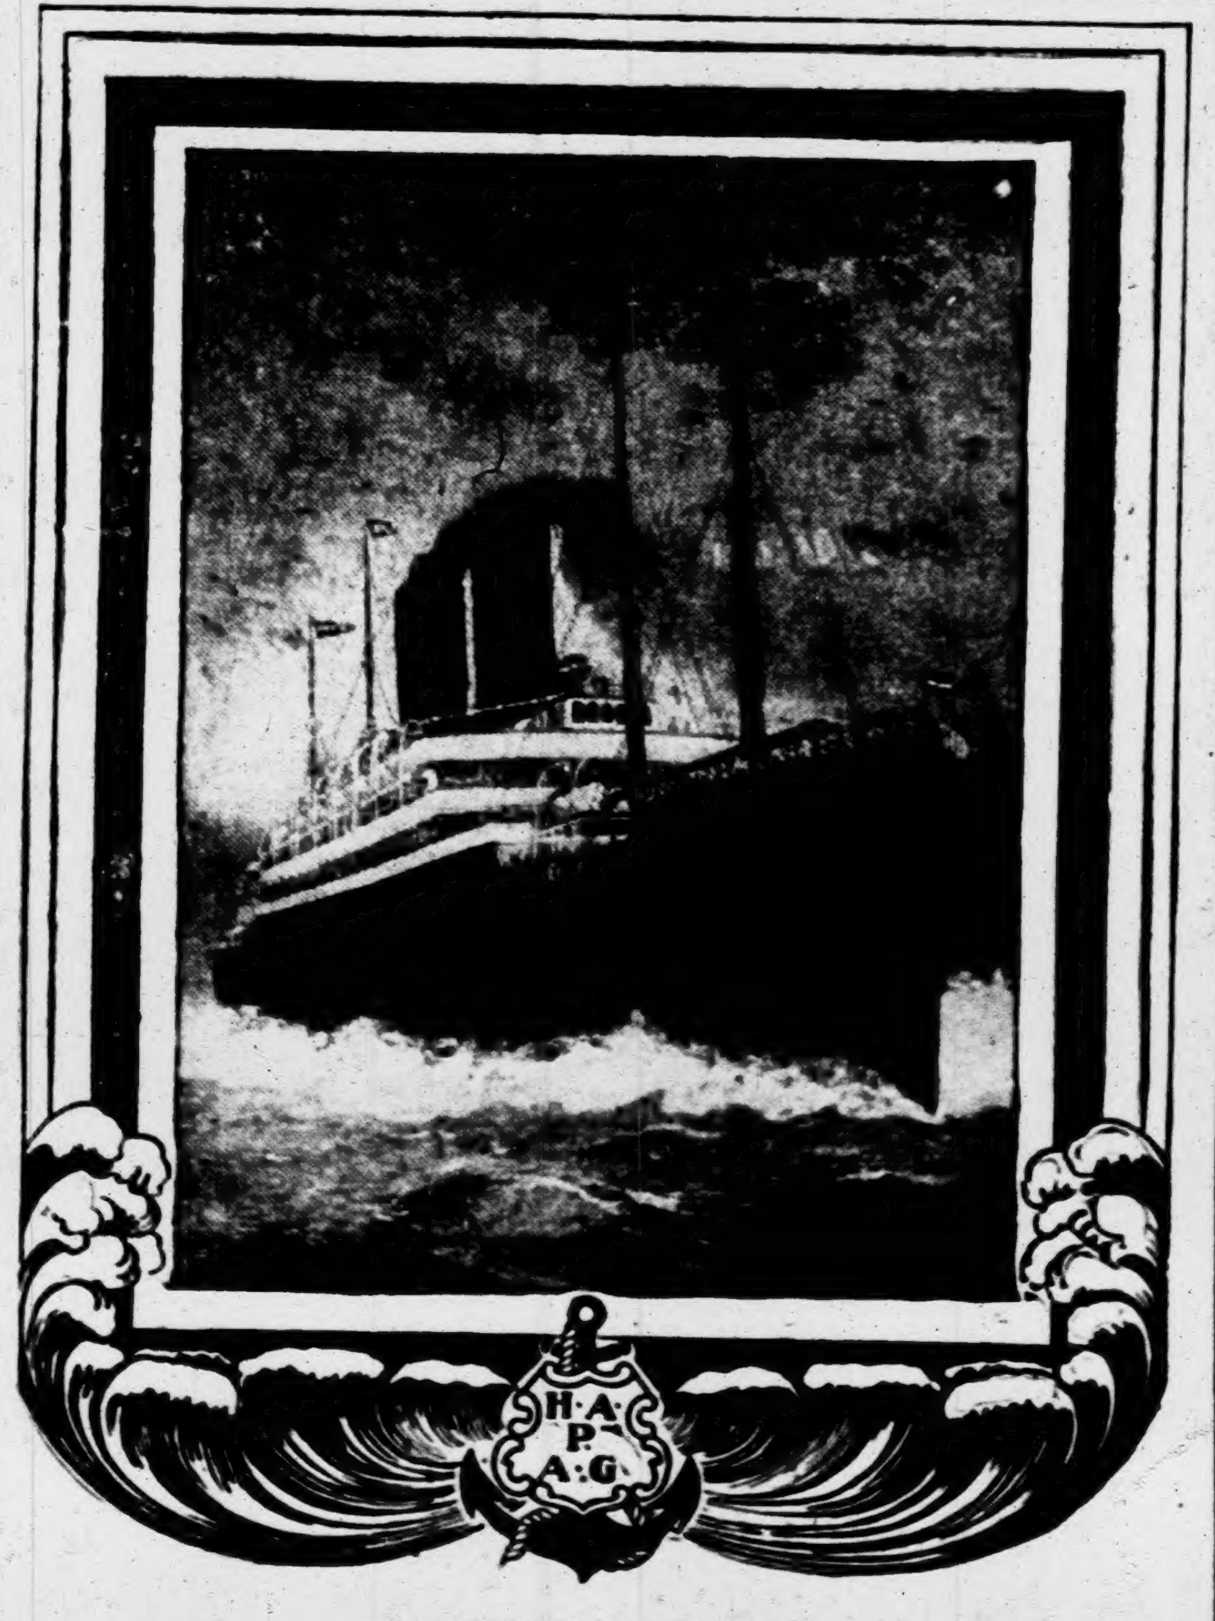
Wields a Great Power.

Few people understand what an immense power is wielded by the President of the United States when that office is filled by a man of good judgment. The President, by issuing an invitation to the men on both sides of the coal controversy under the circumstances that existed three years ago, practically forced them to agree to an arbitration of their differences, because, had either party to that controversy declined to enter the agreement, it would have so fully lost public sympathy as to have been eventually driven to surrender wholly to its opponent. In that case the power behind the President was the power of public opinion. Not only is public opinion, when focussed by so skillful a hand as that of President Roosevelt, capable of forcing arbitration, but it is a satisfactory guarantee that the agreement when made will be kept faithfully by both sides to the controversy.

More Drastic Measures in Reserve.

But while the office of the President, with all its effective although indefinite power to force compliance was used in that case, it is a well known fact that the President was considering other means for forcing an arbitration, had the mine operators declined to agree to lay their differences before a board of arbitration. The President not only has well defined powers that are constantly exercised, and with which the people are fully acquainted, but he has other still more important powers which he can exercise at his discretion in cases of great emergency, and which it was understood at the time of the great anthracite coal strike he considered using in order to bring relief to the shivering multitudes of the land. He may do many things for the "public good." That is an indefinite term allowing a wide interpretation, but there are many people who believe that had the coal strike of 1902 continued a little longer the President would have declared martial law in the anthracite regions, and not only would have thrown troops into that section, but would have ordered the mining of the coal and its distribution to relieve the distress of the country.

But, according to assurances that have been given to the public, the country is safe from a coal famine, at least until April 1st, 1906. Then there will be another meeting between the miners and the coal operators and the miners will demand both an eight hour day and the recognition of their union. The recognition of their union will be resisted by the mine owners to the last, and while it seems but a sentimental issue it will be insisted upon by the miners, and it may eventually be made the cause of another strike. One thing which may be borne in mind is that in case of a strike, the public, in the last analysis, pays all the costs.



A NEW SEA GIANT.

The new twin screw, Amerika, which came sweeping into New York harbor the other day, after her maiden voyage, is one of those new leviathans of the deep, the dimensions and appointments of which would have petrified even the owner of Aladdin's lamp, had he been able to produce such a result. The Amerika is said to be the largest ship ever built for passenger service and is a sister to the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, now in progress of construction. The Amerika is some 700 feet in length, 75 feet wide and over 50 feet deep. Her capacity is 23,000 tons, which is something over twice the tonnage of the famous Oregon, Captain Clarke's great battle ship which made the long journey around the Horn in time to contribute to Cervera's defeat.

Although she is a passenger ship and has accommodation for 3,400 passengers and 600 crew, she has also a capacity of 16,000 tons of cargo. She can carry 2,300 steerage passengers, but she has also provision for passengers who have a little money to spend. One of her "Imperial" suites for a voyage, affording accommodation for six people, can be secured for $2,500, or an average of about $60 a day for each person.

One of the novelties of the Amerika is the electric passenger elevator which whisks the passengers up and down between the five decks of the ship. A Marconi wireless telegraph apparatus found on the Amerika has now become an established feature of all large modern vessels.

The Amerika, while not designed, it is stated, to be a record-breaker in speed, is driven by quadruple expansion engines of over 15,000 horse power and is scheduled to make the trip across in seven days.

THE HUMAN FLY.

REMARKABLE EXPLOIT OF AWNING HANGER WHO CLIMBS TALL BUILDINGS.

Witnessed by Gaping Multitude. He Ascended and Descended the Towering "Flatiron."—Wife and Children Among Nervous Spectators.

There is a man who climbs the outer walls of the highest buildings and who uses neither rope, tackle nor scaling ladder. This man does not tell of his daring feats, nor has he a press agent to exploit his dizzy achievements. He performs this work in view of gaping multitudes who cheer and shudder as this man goes up sheer walls, digging his tough and nimble toes into the interstices of the stone, catching a cornice or a window sill and "chinning" himself up and doing other most venturesome acrobatic feats. The name of this man is John Garrick, and he is called "The Human Fly." His occupation is hanging and removing awnings. To do his work he simply walks up and down the outside of buildings while other workmen go from story to story by means of the stairway or the elevator.

THE FLATIRON BUILDING.

John Garrick before he took up the trade of awning hanging was a sailor. He followed the sea from boyhood to manhood, and during his service on deep-sea sailing ships he learned to climb and cultivated his nerve.

A few days ago he was engaged in removing awnings from the Flatiron building, in New York. Broadway was choked with people watching the Human Fly at work. Incredible as it may seem, he climbed the sheer wall of that building from pavement to cornice, two hundred and eighty-six feet and down again.

Five years ago Garrick married. Naturally his wife wished him to quit sea-faring. He got employment as an awning hanger and in that capacity he made his climbing skill pay. Though married five years his wife has never seen him at his work of scaling the outside of tall buildings until he undertook the removal of awnings from the windows of the towering Flatiron building. "Until that time," said the lady to a reporter, "I never saw him at the work. I knew he was removing awnings from the Flatiron building, so I went over to Manhattan to meet him yesterday afternoon, and I took our two children, Lawrence, two and a half years old, and Hazel, four years old, and waited for John in front of the Bartholdi Hotel. Of course I never thought John would climb that frightfully tall building. I was standing there when one of the workmen, who knows me, came over and said: 'Your husband will be with you soon, he's just coming from the ninth story now.' I thought he meant John would be coming by the elevator, so I didn't look up to the windows.

"The workman told me to look up. I did, and I nearly fainted, for there was my husband with his hands on the sill of a window on the ninth story and his toes in the groves between the stones. I grew dizzy and wanted to turn away.

"Something held me fascinated, though, and I watched him coming down in a sort of criss-cross fashion as quickly as a man would run down a ladder. I said to Lawrence, 'There's your papa,' and the baby laughed and clapped his hands with joy. He didn't understand the danger, but Hazel did, and she began to cry. I couldn't look any longer and I turned my head away, but I could hear the noise of the great crowd that was watching him. I looked again, thinking he must be on the sidewalk by this time. Imagine my horror when I saw he had started climbing upward after I had turned away, and was then just up to the cornice. He looked like a little black fly against the white stone. He waved one hand and then began to move down. I watched him, but sometimes closed my eyes when it seemed that he had made a misstep. The crowd was so great that when he swung down to one of the store awnings I could only see him drop off and disappear into the maze of men gathered about."

* * *

THE WEATHER FORECASTS.

In Spite of Railleries the Government Prophesies Remarkably Accurate.

Fiteen per cent. of error, said Chief Willis L. Moore, in an interview, is the record of the Weather Bureau. Not only is this proportion lower than in any foreign bureaus, but in ten years not a criticism of its work, he adds, has come from any commercial, maritime or scientific organization. Certainly, if it does what it sets out to do, eighty-five times out of a hundred, the weather service ought to enjoy an enviable degree of popular esteem. What praise would be showered on a Congress that acted unwisely only 15 per cent. of the time!

In spite of the constant gibes directed at the Weather Bureau, there is undoubtedly among farmers and shippers an underlying sentiment of friendliness and confidence. It has grown into a national joke that the forecasts are always wrong, just as Bostonians live invariably on beans and Philadelphians are always lethargic. But these whimsical articles of faith do not in the least affect anyone's practical attitude toward a forecast, a Bostonian, or a Philadelphian.

A contributing cause to the railing at the weather bureau is the activity of the long-range prophets. The superior usefulness of a forecast for next month over one for to-morrow being manifest, even sheer guesswork for the former period is preferred by thousands to a scientific determination for the latter. Recently a moneyed individual offered a substantial prize for the best weather prophecy six months ahead. If the Government bureau should try for that and win it—and it ought to be able to guess as well as anybody—it would become the most popular institution in the country.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

18TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores.
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre" at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality; wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story." —N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study." —N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
[illegible] The Missourian. [illegible]
Name
Address

A SINGULAR COMBINATION.

RIDER HAGGARD, WEIRD FICTION WRITER; MODEL FARMER AND POLITICAL ECONOMIST.

Makes Official Report on Salvation Army Colonization Work.—Would Direct the "Waste Forces of Benevolence."

H. Rider Haggard is a man of genius. At one time, he is writing such impossible creations as "She" and "King Solomon's Mines," calling into play a most vivid imagination and settings, in weird and unreal colorings; at another time, he is actively superintending the work on his magnificent 200-acre English farm; next he is studying over some new imaginative creation, wandering about his home, and not speaking to the members of his family for a week at a time; and again he is making an economic study, under a government commission, of the social conditions of the poor in America. In a short interview with him, as he passed through Washington this year, on his way west, I found that he possessed eminently practical hard sense, while the imaginative streak of his character did not manifest itself in the least, and I see now, that he has just made his report to the British Secretary of State for the Colonies, on his inspection of the three land settlements, which have been established in California, Colorado and Ohio respectively, by the American branch of the Salvation Army.

Colonization Work of Salvation Army

At these three points the Salvation Army has established rural settlements, taking worthy poor from the overcrowded cities, furnishing them with small tracts of land, sufficient money to get a start and make homes for themselves, repayment for the cost of which is provided at low rates of interest.

H. RIDER HAGGARD.

Mr. Haggard expresses himself as extremely well satisfied with the results seen at the Fort Romie settlement in California, and the Fort Amity settlement in Colorado. The Ohio settlement he leaves out of consideration, as it is principally devoted to the redemption of inebriates, and the carrying out of agricultural experiments. At both Forts Romie and Amity, he found the settlers healthy, happy, hopeful and almost without exception doing well. Beginning in nearly every case with nothing, in the course of about four years at Fort Romie, he found these settlers worth about $2,000 per head, above all their debts and liabilities to the Salvation Army and others, and at Fort Amity, an average of over $1,000 a head, which he thinks is more than they could have possibly accumulated during the same period as day laborers on the land or in the cities.

Reason For Wide Encouragement.

It is true that, although the settlers themselves are doing well the Salvation Army, for the reason that unexpected difficulties in the opening up of the land were encountered, was called upon to pay some $50,000 for its experience. Mr. Haggard declares, however, that under all the circumstances, and in the face of the principles demonstrated, and the success won in every other direction, this experience has been very cheaply bought.

"Further," he says, "I cannot see any cause to fear a repetition of that loss in the future application of these principles. It is therefore totally inaccurate to say, as has been done widely in press summaries of my report, that these settlements are financially a failure."

Would Systematize Philanthropy.

Mr. Haggard proposes a scheme, e.," to combine a judicious use of the public credit, with that of what I have called, 'the waste forces of benevolence,' and by means of these two levers, to lift some of the mass of human misery, which demonstrates itself in the great cities of civilization, to a new level of plenty and contentment."

He believes that if settlements are carried out on these lines, and especially if they are located upon good land, which has cost the controlling authorities little or nothing, there should be, as is indicated by the tables furnished in this report, no loss, but even a considerable gain.

G. M.

Ancient Adulterations.

Adulteration laws appear to have been quite as necessary in the good old days as in the sophisticated Twentieth Century. Even the adulteration of feather beds and bolsters had to be provided against. October 14, 1495, is the date of a statute prohibiting the sale in English fairs or markets of these articles, or of pillows, "except they be stuffed with one manner of feathers." It expressly denounced the use of such "unlawful and corrupt stuffs" as "scalded feathers, or fen-down." The last substance is the same as cotton grass, and was evidently in great demand as a fraudulent substitute in bed-stuffing. In the Eighteenth Century, again, we find complaints of people who bought fen-down at a halfpenny a pound, and sold it among feathers at sixpence.

SOUND ADVICE FOR MEN.

The Woman's Side of It—Converse of the Proposition That the Wife Should Not Burden Husband With Household Duties.

Beginning away back with St. Paul, who admonished the women to keep silent in the churches, the so-called weaker sex have been exhorted, advised and ridiculed; and a long list of conduct of the negative sort mapped out beginning with DON'T, and an equally lengthy array of the positive sort, starting with DO.

And all this sage advice applies in turn to maid and wife, debutante and dowager.

Now what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Why not some advice to men?

Are you one of those men who continually leave their personal belongings, their hats, canes, coats or slippers, wherever they've happened last to use them?

Do you smoke your cigar in the parlor and let the ashes fall wheresoe'er they will, and that, too, after the regular Friday cleaning? And you endeavor to placate your wife with that superior sophistry about cigar ashes keeping out moths.

Do you bury yourself in the morning paper, even reading while eating, while your wife sits silent at the head of th table? Do you exclaim, or chuckle, or swear softly at the latest news, without sharing your information with her?

Do you compliment the little woman when you are enjoying one of your good dinners, or do you find fault if the morning coffee is just the least bit below standard, though the previous twenty-five mornings you have drunk the amber liquid of surpassing excellence?

Do you notice the new gown that has cost her days of thought and effort? Or do you say "You women spend a whole lot of unnecessary thought and time upon clothes," and then take your new top-coat back to the tailor the sixth time because "it doesn't set just right?"

Do you surprise your wife occasionally by getting seats at the theatre and giving her a surprise party of two? Or do you say "Aw, go to the matinee if you want to see the show. I'll go to the ball game."?

Do you tell her of your plans, your work, your perplexities? Do you share with her your hopes and fears? Do you let her know of the real life you lead so many hours each day? Or do you turn her questions with a brief "Women know nothing about business. It will only worry you."?

Do you sometimes take her in your arms and say "Little woman, you are a good wife—a real help-meet."? Do you ever tell her the things you did in the sweetheart days? Or do you let it go, thinking "She knows that anyway."

The woman's field of labor, big man, is narrow and circumscribed. It is bounded, ordinarily, by the walls of the house and the needs of the children. This is her province and she glories in it. But know that she also longs for contact with the big world, for the mental stimulus that comes from daily association with men and affairs, for the joy of recognized compensation for services rendered.

Because she is your wife, because she has entered into the domestic life, these things are denied her.

Can't you be generous to the little woman? Can't you welcome her into your larger life? Can't you make her your real comrade—your true helpmeet?

Longest Bridge In the World.

The longest bridge in the world is the Lion bridge, near Sangong, China, supported by over 300 huge stone arches and extending five and one-quarter miles over the arm of the Yellow Sea.

DESTROYING THE QUEER

LARGE SUMS OF CAPTURED COUNTERFEITS BURNED UP AND MELTED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Coin, Stamps, and Other Imitations Accumulate in Uncle Sam's Strong Box in Large Quantities.—Valuable Counterfeiting Machinery.

The periodical destruction of counterfeit currency, spurious coin, postage stamps, revenue stamps and other contraband material captured from counterfeiters by the secret service, has been ordered by the Secretary of the Treasury. The accumulation of this stuff in the treasury is larger than usual. Three clerks in the cash room of the treasury have been delegated a committee to see that this "queer" money is done away with.

Every two or three years so much counterfeit money and counterfeiting tools and implements accumulate in the office of Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, that it is necessary to destroy it. The chief notifies the Secretary of the Treasury, who issues an order which sends the coin to the assay office, where all the silver and gold is melted or reduced from the mass, run into ingots, and sold, while the rest of the stuff, including the base metal, such as dies, stamps, etc., is taken either to the navy yard or to a foundry and there destroyed in the presence of secret service officers, who make affidavits of the destruction to the Secretary.

CHIEF WILKIE
Of The Secret Service.

There has not been a house-cleaning of this kind since November, 1902.

Valuable Counterfeiting Machinery.

At present the contraband includes in addition to counterfeit notes, coins, postage and revenue stamps, valuable and costly type, by means of which counterfeiters print the Latin numerals on "queer" notes; inks, paints, acids, photographic apparatus, dies, molds, stamps and other accessories of the art of making fictitious money.

This year a large batch of the Johnson-Hancock notes will be burned. They are known as the "Hancock 2s." They were made by the celebrated counterfeiter Johnson of Detroit and were so nearly perfect that the government suspended the issue of this note. No doubt many of these counterfeits are still in circulation and performing the functions of real money.

A number of notes made by the notorious but now "reformed" counterfeiter Brockway will be destroyed.

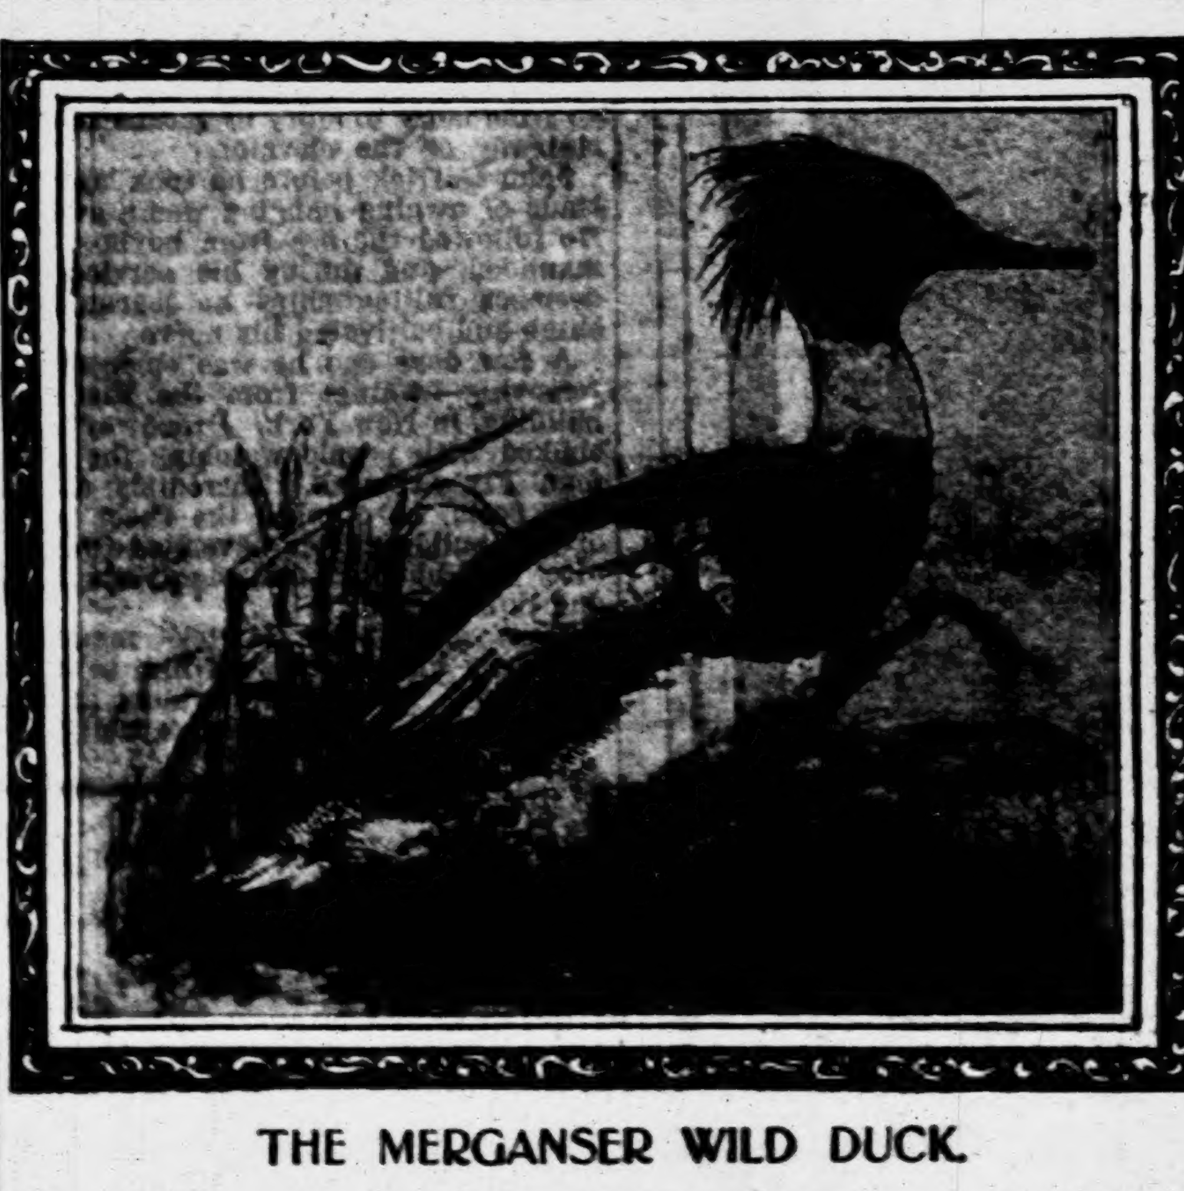
Even Pennies Counterfeited

In the store room of the Secret Service Bureau are many boxes of bad coins. Every coin of the United States from cents to $20 gold pieces has been imitated, counterfeit nickles being found more frequently than silver or copper coins.

In the collection is some gold coin that has been sweated. Sweating is an ancient and simple trick, long practiced by the Chinese and presumably introduced into this country by them. It consists in taking a bag of gold dollars and shaking them violently about for hours at a time, the result being that they are taken out badly worn and with a small deposit of gold at the bottom of the sack.

The government also has in its possession numerous counterfeits of foreign currency, principally Italian, German and Austrian, though there is some English and French. The government holds that it is as great a crime to falsify or counterfeit foreign obligations as it is to counterfeit our own.

One of the features of this curious collection is the number of advertisements so closely resembling money or stamps that the government officers determined to take charge of them.



THE MERGANSER WILD DUCK.

One of the most beautiful of wild ducks, with its dark, glossy green head, rich, salmon colored breast and strongly marked wings, its voracious fish-eating habits make the Merganser useless for food and thus an object but little troubled by sportsmen. A large number of local names such as the goosander, the shelldrake, saw-bill, diving goose, the weaser, have attached themselves to this large, handsome swimmer that studiously avoids man, even though no sportsman would trouble him, and that eludes pursuit by the most remarkable feats of diving and swimming. Eating is the chief object in life for the Merganser, who frequently swallows a fish so large that it can not descend into the stomach, but must remain partially in the distended throat until digested, piecemeal. But this process is so rapid as to always leave the bird with a voracious appetite and drive it to desperate rashness to secure its prey.

Swift currents with deep pools where the fish hide and foaming cataracts where they leap are the delight of the Merganser, whose marvelous diving and swimming enable them to take heavy toll from the finny tribes. Cold has no terrors for these tough creatures and they swim as nimbly in the icy rivers of the north as in the waters of the Carribean. They "dive at a flash," and are as difficult to kill as the "water witch" itself.

Only the most guileless housekeeper will look at any saw-billed duck in market—the serrated mandibles indicating that the organ is used as a fish chopper, and fish food never makes good game meat.

The drake is a goregous but vain and selfish bird and immediately deserts the neighborhood when the six to twelve creamy buff eggs are being hatched. All the domestic duties then fall upon the devoted mother. "I once paddled after a brood," says Chamberlain in the Nature Library, "and though several times they were almost within reach of my landing net, they eluded every effort to capture them. Throughout the chase the mother kept close to the young birds, and several times swam across the bow of the canoe in her efforts to draw my attention from the brood and to offer herself as a sacrifice for their escape."

CHARGES ADMISSION FOR CHARITY.

European and Diplomatic Gossip.

James J. Van Alan, the expatriated American millionaire, has taken a hint from the Duke of Westminster, who has for some time past charged all tourists or excursionists who desire to explore Eaton Hall and spend a day among the beautiful scenery on his Cheshire estate, 12 cents a head. So great has been the influx of tourists to Rushton Hall, Mr. Van Alan's historic place in Northamptonshire, during this season, that, commencing with January 1, he proposes to follow the Duke's example with a condition slightly changed. The income derived from the Duke's visitors is divided among local charities. Mr. Van Alan will charge a maximum of 25 cents to all visitors from abroad and 12 cents to excursionist parties other than those who may come from the county of Northampton, to whom the grounds will be free on Mondays and Saturdays. The income derived from all sources will be divided between the local infirmary and an institution for social intercourse and educational improvement which he means to establish in the neighborhood for the benefit of workingmen. It is estimated that next year, when the house and grounds may be seen at the best, the income derived from this project will not fall far short of $5,000.

King Leopold of Belgium, who is often mentioned as business partner of Thomas S. Walsh of Washington and Colorado, possesses considerable real estate in the French Riviera. His demesnes are at Villefranche sur Mere, near Nice. They are called the Col du Caire, and the Passable. Both have been enlarged some few years ago, notably the Passable, to which has been added the whole of the western side of Cape Ferrat. In this portion of the newly acquired property a small port has been constructed for the King's yacht.

KING LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM.

Lady Henry Somerset, who is well known in this country from her great work in the interest of the temperance movement, has a woman footman, a female butler, and women in charge of her stables.

Members of reigning families, princes as well as princesses of the blood, have to obtain permission from the sovereign before they can leave the country. They are always expected to notify the monarch when they intend to absent themselves from the town or city where the court happens to be in residence at the time.

The late King Humbert of Italy on one occasion called his niece, Duchess Helen of Aosta, to severe account for having left Italy to visit her mother in France without previously obtaining his sanction.

This rule, which Viceroy Lord Curzon also introduced in India, caused almost open rebellion among a number of the more powerful maharajahs and gaekwars of the empire, who on a number of occasions disregarded the Viceroy's rule and left the empire not only without his sanction but against his strictest instructions.

The wealth of some of the Russian churches in costly gems, jewelry and precious stones is proverbial. Some churches in the United States, notwithstanding they are not supported by the government, as they are in Russia and other countries, are gradually acquiring rare paintings, statuary, stained glass windows and costly vestments. For instance, the most costly mitre in the United States, a mitre which represents $10,000 worth of jewels and precious stones, is worn by Bishop Horstmann of the Cleveland diocese of the Roman Catholic Church. Most of these jewels were presented to the church by Mr. Gordon, who also donated to the city of Cleveland his magnificent Gordon Park. Mr. Gordon was a father of Mrs. Daisy Hanna, wife of Dan. Hanna, son of the late Senator Hanna.

VAN CALAVA.

"Old Probabilities" In Japan.

While Japan has had meteorological stations on some of her very high mountains since 1899, these were only in use during the summer. An all the year station will now be opened on the summit of Mount Tsukaba, near Tokio.

Rockefeller Scores In Japan.

The British steamer Monarch sailed from Philadelphia recently for Japan with a cargo of 2,470,700 gallons of refined petroleum, one hundred barrels of lubricating oil and 1,200 cases of wax. This is the greatest oil cargo ever shipped out of the United States.

A SEQUOIA GIGANTEA.

Restoration in Government Grounds of Tree Twenty Feet Thick.

This picture represents the biggest tree in Washington and one of the "sights" of the National Capital. It has a strong attraction for strangers from afar and especially from the east and the south. This piece of a tree stands in the grounds of the Department of Agriculture, east of the Administration building.

The giant came from the Sequoia National Park in California and was exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago. At the close of the fair it was brought to Washington. It is twenty feet in diameter and is called The General Noble in honor of the Secretary of the Interior under whose administration so much good was done for the big tree reservations of the Pacific coast. The cost of its transportation to Chicago was $10,000. The interior is hollow and a spiral stairway leads to the platform at the top.

A Dress Made of Postage Stamps.

An American lady wore a ball dress at a ball in Bermuda recently in which 30,000 stamps were used. Years were spent in the collection, and the dress was covered with stamps of all nations. An eagle made entirely with brown Columbian stamps was the centre of the breast. Suspended from the talons was a globe made of very old blue revenue stamps. On either side of the globe was an American flag, the stripes of blue and red stamps. A collection of foreign stamps was pasted on the back of the bodice in the form of a shield. A large picture hat, covered with red and blue stamps, a mask and a very pretty fan covered entirely with pink, completed the costume.

Improvising.

"I admire that last piece you played, professor, immensely," said Mrs. Gaswell. "It had a kind of wild freedom about it, you know, a sort of wierdness that touched me. Was it your own composition?"

"Madam," coldly responded the eminent musician, who had been hired for the occasion, "I was putting a new string on my violin."

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inchesi n size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company.

220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES, or

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin

PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof!

EXCAVATION WORK.

With Greatest Economy use the

Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.

Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

AN INCIDENT of the SEPOY M e old man looked up sharply e comes to every human being r the sun," said he, "in one shape another the tide in his affairs

, though it may not lead on to
, nor yet down to ruin, proves shows what is in him, brings out hing worth counting that may be in him, and exposes his weak
, too often enough. That tide to me in the Terrible Year—in which found us English folk, lit handfuls of us, isolated, almost de less, facing the brown millions for once were banded together us by hate and wrath. I was sistant deputy commissioner in a forsaken district in India, and had so long alone among the natives
I could not speak half a dozen ences of my own language without ing in a word or two of Persian Hindustani. I prided myself upon ing my fingers on the pulse of na life in that district. Things were forward of which I could not the hang. There was mystery in air; you felt it, yet could find no
key.
During those months I knew what to be possessed by a demon of
I told myself that it was all
, that Asia was playing the devil me, that I was losing my nerve.
was in the deepest folds of the Valley when Harold came up into

A MUHAMMADAN BUTCHER S

istrict to shoot, bringing his wife sister with him. I did not know from Adam, and I had not seen a pean lady for over three years, so a bit bothered by the intrusion.
shy and awkward in the comp of ladies. I was only too glad the party off into a corner of district where game was plentiful as I could contrive to make the ary arrangements. I did not care for Harold, nor yet for his sis but Mrs. Harold charmed and fas ed me. Harold was a cranky sort gar and his sister turned up her at most things, including me. Mrs.
d was—well, just everything that man can be! Beautiful, with a of glory of beauty that yet had in certain dainty dignity that held worlds above you, and good—you see the goodness looking out of eyes—and kind, in thought and he Harolds had been gone a mat some three weeks when the news

d me of the outbreak down coun
I was sitting on my veranda, ing my pipe and dreaming, when Muhammad Akhbar, one of the natives of the place, came to ddenly out of the luminous dark of the night. He was shaking excitement as he told me of the of our troops down south and rapidity with which the disaf was spreading.
he disaffection spreadeth fast.
very night it is known in our to-morrow the villages also know. Then, perhaps—who knows Allah, the Merciful, the Com ate?—the Raj of the Sahib-log have its ending in blood, as in it also had its beginning, nor will the turn of our women folk to be chattels for the pleasure of new ds.'
that word fear left me and a wrath alone remained. I rose my chair and in an instant I had
by the throat.
ave a care, dog!' I cried, as I him to and fro while he gasped hined and struggled. 'The Raj of hib-log is not yet ended, and if is to be let, see that it be not
In this district I am the Raj of nglish.'
threw him from me, half stran and in a moment he was all ab and entreaty.
gone!' I cried, spurning him my foot. He gathered himself to and, whining excuses, dropped into the darkness.
en he had gone I stood for an dazed—in a world that had of a been shattered about my head
d the disproportion of the man's numbers in India to those people of the soil.
words which Haji Muhammad had spoken, hinting of the awaited English women in flashed across my mind, and them the thought of the cue

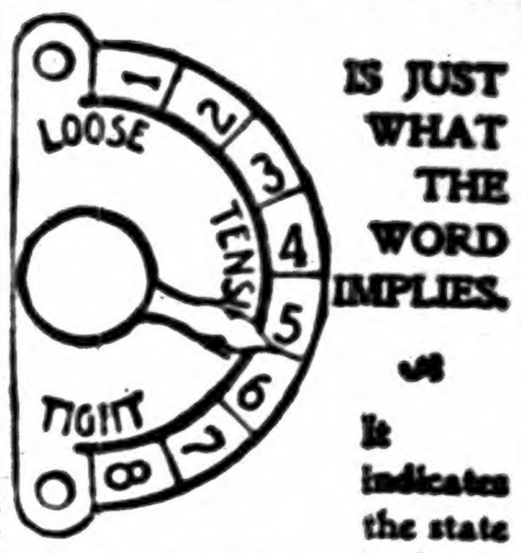
A Tension Indicator



IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars llowed our clients during the last x years.

Over one Thousand laims allowed through us dur- g the last six months. Dis- bility, Age and In- rease pensions obtained the shortest possible time. Vidows' claims a specialty. sually granted within 90 lays if placed with us immedi- tely on soldier's death. Fees xed by law and payable out of llowed pension. A successful perience of 25 years and benefit f daily calls at Pension Bureau re at your service. Highest ref- rences furnished. Local Magis- rates pecuniarily benefited by sending us laims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Varder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

leanings in Bee Culture

Tells you about bees, how to handle them for ney and profit. Send for free copy. Read it, hen you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's ial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

oster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof!

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the
Vestern Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Vestern Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
nd for Catalog.

APHERS
and Scales Away

s and scales cause you trouble? elopers, put up READY TO USE. developing tray and add the water— er. Large quantities of developer With our developers you only make s sufficient for 24 ounces of devel- er papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and l not stain the fingers or nails, and er for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

C CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

AN INCIDENT OF THE SEPOY MUTINY

old man looked up sharply. ...comes to every human being ...the ...," said he, "in one shape ...the 'tide in his affairs' ...though it may not lead on to ...yet down to ruin, proves ...what is in him, brings out ...worth counting that may be ...in him, and exposes his weak- ...too often enough. That tide ...in the Terrible Year—in which found us English folk, lit- ...of us, isolated, almost de- ...facing the brown millions ...were banded together ...by hate and wrath. I was ...deputy commissioner in a ...district in India, and had ...long alone among the natives ...could not speak half a dozen ...of my own language without ...a word or two of Persian ...dustani. I prided myself upon ...fingers on the pulse of na- ...that district. Things were ...of which I could not ... There was mystery in ...you felt it, yet could find to ...

...ring those months I knew what ...possessed by a demon of ... I told myself that it was all ...that Asia was playing the devil ...me, that I was losing my nerve. ...was in the deepest folds of the ... when Harold came up into

...trict to shoot, bringing his wife ...r with him. I did not know ...Adam, and I had not seen a ...lady for over three years, so ...t bothered by the intrusion. ... and awkward in the com- ...dies. I was only too glad ...o party off into a corner of ...t where game was plentiful ...I could contrive to make the ...arrangements. I did not care ...Harold, nor yet for his sis- ...Mrs. Harold charmed and fas- ...me. Harold was a cran'y sort ...and his sister turned up her ...most things, including me. Mrs. ...was—well, just everything that ...an can be! Beautiful, with a ...glory of beauty that yet had in ...tain dainty dignity that held ...is above you, and good—you ...the goodness looking out of ...—and kind, in thought and

...Harolds had been gone a mat- ...three weeks when the news ...of the outbreak down coun- ...I was sitting on my veranda, ...my pipe and dreaming, when Muhammad Akhbar, one of the ...natives of the place, came to ...denly out of the luminous dark- ...night. He was shaking ...ment as he told me of the ...our troops down south and ...rapidity with which the disaf- ...spreading.

...disaffection spreadeth fast. ...night it is known in our ...tomorrow the villages also ...Then, perhaps—who know- ...lah, the Merciful, the Com- ...—the Raj of the Sahib-log ...s ending in blood, as in ...had its beginning, nor will ...n of our women folk to be ...els for the pleasure of new ...

...word fear left me and a ...alone remained. I rose ...r and in an instant I had ...throat.

...a care, dog!' I cried, as I ...and fro while he gasped ...and struggled. 'The Raj of ...is not yet ended, and if ...to be let, see that it be not ...in this district I am the Raj of ...

...him from me, half stran- ...a moment he was all ab- ...entreaty. ...gone!' I cried, spurning him ...foot. He gathered himself to- ...and, whining excuses, dropped ...the darkness.

...he had gone I stood for an ...in a world that had of a ...been shattered about my head ...the disproportion of the ...numbers in India to those ...of the soil. ...words which Haji Muhammad ...spoken, hinting of the ...awaited English women in ...flashed across my mind, and ...the thought of the one woman in India who mattered—of Mrs. Harold. With that thought came also the necessity for action, and when a man is called upon to act he is relieved from the curse of thinking.

"Harold's camp lay some thirty miles to the north of my station. As soon as the news spread the lives of Harold and his wife and sister would not be worth a minute's purchase.

"I slipped out of the bungalow, went to the stables, found and saddled my mare, locked the stables securely behind me and rode out into the darkness. I took a path which soon led me clear of the town, and directly I was in the open country I put the mare into a hard canter and headed for the Harolds' camp. The time for dreaming and for fear was ended, and I knew it. The time for action had come and with it a sort of intoxication of recklessness that filled me with a fierce joy and pride.

"It was only a little after midnight that I reached my destination. I contrived, not without difficulty, to arouse Harold. I led him away from the tents, and told him the news that had come in.

"'You mustn't lose a second,' I said. 'The one chance of safety lies in Mrs. Harold and your sister getting to the fort as soon as may be.'

"'And do you seriously believe all this rubbish?' Harold inquired, standing there in his pajamas, his face unnaturally white in the moonlight.

"'I do,' I said.

"'On no better grounds than mere native gup?'

"'On that and on a hundred and one things that have gone before and that now have a new meaning,' I replied.

"'Well, I don't believe a word of it,' he said sneeringly. 'We'll talk it over in the morning,' he said with a yawn, stretching himself insolently.

"'You will do nothing of the sort,' I said, and I could hear my voice vibrating with anger. 'You may think I am a coward, if you like. I'm responsible for what happens in this district, and by God, man, you have got to do what I say.'

"'Well, I do think that you are a rather nervous person, but we'll see what my wife says.'

"'Let me speak to her, please,' I said. 'As you will,' he answered with a shrug.

"We walked back to the tent in silence, and presently Mrs. Harold came out to us, her tall, slim figure wrapped in a white dressing gown.

"'Your husband thinks that I am an alarmist,' I said, 'but I have information of a general mutiny of our troops down country, and I know that the news is true. I have left my post in a moment of extreme emergency in order to bring you all in to my fort, which is the nearest approach to safety that I have it in my power to offer you. Everything depends upon my getting back before daybreak and before the natives know that I have left the place; but I won't go without you. Will you come—now, at once?'

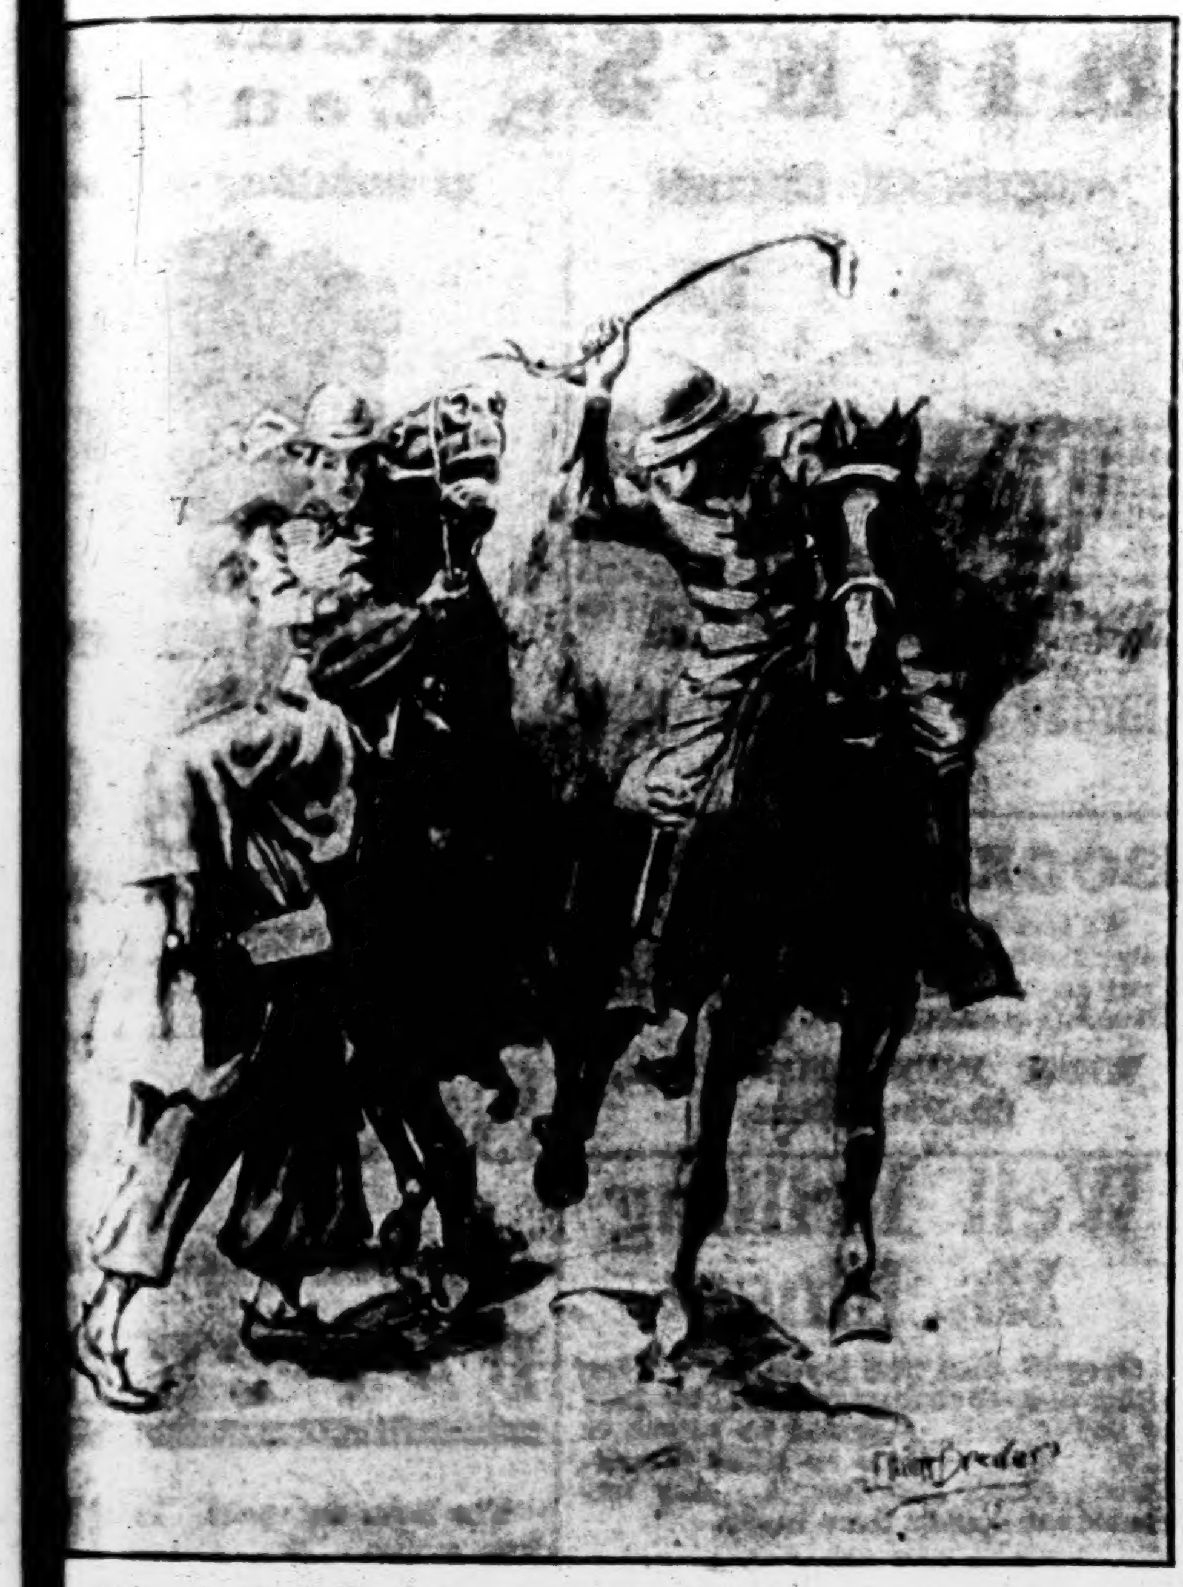
"'Yes,' she said simply, bending those grave, true eyes steadily upon me. 'We will come, of course. And thank you. You have risked a great deal to come to us, we understand that, and we are grateful.'

"'Of course,' chimed in Harold, grudgingly. 'No doubt you did what you thought right.'

"Miss Harold joined her brother in his scoffings at the news and at its bearer, but I cared little enough for that. I knew the event would prove me right; Mrs. Harold had thanked me and had shown that she understood. I asked for nothing more.

"I rode at her side during the whole of the remainder of that night. The sense of my proximity to her, and my knowledge of the fact that her safety must largely depend upon me, upon my efforts, upon my wits, upon my courage, infused into me a new enthusiasm and energy, and fixed my determination to come out on top or die, solid as a rock.

"Just after daybreak we came to the outskirts of the town. A Muhammadan mendicant in a long green gown was exhorting the people. His face, livid with excitement and contorted with enthusiasm, was straining heavenward, and his long white beard flew back over his shoulder as he poured out a stream of fierce words and jibe that bit deep into the hearts of his hearers. He was foretelling the downfall of the British Raj.



A MUHAMMADAN BUTCHER SEIZED THE REIN.

"I glanced over my shoulder at Harold, and I saw that he had grown white, white to the lips, and that his bridle-hand was trembling.

"A native in the crowd yelled something in a raucous, falsetto voice, and I caught the words at once.

"'Your fellows down country have mutinied and killed their officers,' I cried to Harold. 'Did you hear what that man said?'

"'God help us, God help us,' he exclaimed in that same hoarse, tense voice. 'Let us get on—to the fort—to the fort.'

"A great strapping Muhammadan, a butcher in a red turban, leaped from the crowd and seized the rein of Mrs. Harold's horse with one hand. The other held a meat chopper. The horse reared. I rose in my stirrups, raised my loaded riding crop and brought the butt down full between the fellow's eyes. He dropped like a log.

"'Get on to the fort, Harold, in God's name, and take the ladies with you,' I cried breathlessly, for now I was laying about me with that heavy butt, and the people, screaming with fear, were tumbling over one another in their eagerness to get beyond the reach of my arm.

"I caught a glimpse of Mrs. Harold's face, flushed with excitement, her eyes flashing with enthusiasm and a sort of fierce delight.

"'Oh, how splendid of you!' she cried. 'How splendid!' and then she and Harold and his sister were off, at a gallop up the hill toward the fort, Harold leading.

"The crowd had fallen back before me, and I rode straight at the Muhammadan preacher. I hit him, as I had hit the butcher, full between the eyes, and I felt the bone shatter beneath the blow.

"'You dogs!' I cried. 'You dogs who dare to bark because fools tell you that the Raj of the British is ended, get to your kennels like the whipped curs you are. And when sense returneth to you, come to me at the fort craving pardon, lest I send word to the government of the wickedness in your hearts, and the hide be stripped from you in punishment. Go!'

"And then, why then, and it brings tears to my eyes when I recall it, for they are men, these Muhammadans of India, though like children they be easily led astray or aright as a man may chance to lead them—the crowd set up a throaty shout, not of rage or defiance, but of approval and admiration.

"'It is well done!' cried many voices. 'It is well done, and behold our Sahib is a man. Let the Raj stand or fall elsewhere, here the Raj and our Sahib are one; and see, the Sahib stands while the fool who spoke vain things lies yonder in the dust. It is in truth well done.'

"I turned my horse slowly and walked him up the hill to the fort. For me at that moment the world held only one thing—Mrs. Harold's face—and that too said, 'It is well done,' and I think also 'thank you.'

"After that there came some anxious times, but in the end mine was one of the districts that had no mutiny history. Harold's nerve had been shaken by that scene in the town, and the worst of it was that he couldn't get it back and that his wife saw it.

"At last it was safe for them to leave, and I thanked God for it, though life didn't seem to offer much to me when she had gone out of it. Anyhow, I knew it was the only thing for me, if I was to avoid making a fool of myself, and she—well, she was everything that a woman ought to be.

"The evening before they were to go away I came upon her sitting in the veranda of my bungalow—we had moved out of the fort ages before, in spite of Harold's frenzied protests—and she began to speak of all, she was pleased to say, they owed to me.

"'Don't,' I said. 'It is I who owe a debt—to you. It is you who have helped me, helped me to play the man.'

"'I don't think you wanted much help to do that,' she said very seriously.

"In a moment we were on our feet, facing one another, and her hands were in mine. I knew then, I know now, that I might have kissed her. But—it would have hurt her.

"Instead I stooped and kissed her hands.

"'Goodbye and God keep you,' I said, and turning, left her.

"That, I know now, was my greatest moment of all—a moment that might so easily have been spoiled for her, for me.

"So now instead I have my memories—memories of things done, and one priceless memory of a thing left undone; and now, as I sit here waiting for the end, they give me all I ask of happiness and of contentment."—Cornhill Magazine.

Never Wore Pajamas.

At a function on Main street a bashful young lady was taken in to dinner by an elderly professor who was a bit deaf. To start conversation, she said: "Professor, do you like bananas?" "Yes, my dear lady," he answered, "but I think I prefer the old fashioned night shirt."

Had a Strong Breath.

An Irishman leaned over the counter in a jewelry store and said to the clerk, "Give me one of your best wedding rings." "Eighteen karats?" he was asked. "No, ating onions, but is it any of your infernal business?"

AMONG WILD BEASTS.

Crocodiles, Lions and Hippopotami Endanger Lives of Railway Builders in Africa.

The building of the bridge at Victoria Falls and the Cape to Cairo Railway has suddenly and necessarily brought a great many people together at this spot, where there was previously but an occasional traveler or hunter. Besides the birds and the butterflies and the fish, the chief living animals were lions, elephants, hippopotami, crocodiles, jackals and hyenas.

The crocodiles were found to be so numerous—as many as thirty being seen together sometimes—that they have had to be killed in great numbers for the safety of the people at work. One giant saurian killed a man and a woman, and was itself killed only after seizing another man. A native woman was taking water from the river when the crocodile knocked her in with its tail, seized her in its horrid mouth and dragged her away. Her husband was close by, but was powerless to save her. He determined to be avenged, however, and for several nights waited in a canoe with a loaded gun. He, too, disappeared, and it is thought the crocodile knocked him out of the canoe as it had knocked his wife off the bank, and taken him to its hole.

A week later it got another man, but instead of taking him into its hole, it carried him to an island. Here its victim got hold of the reeds and strong grass, and held on so tightly that the crocodile could not get away with him. Of course he screamed with all his might, and a gang of men with crowbars went to rescue him. This they succeeded in doing, and also in slaying the dangerous monster. These crocodiles are so ravenous that it is not possible even to keep dogs with safety, and parents living near the river are in constant dread of losing their children.

A Lion Terror.

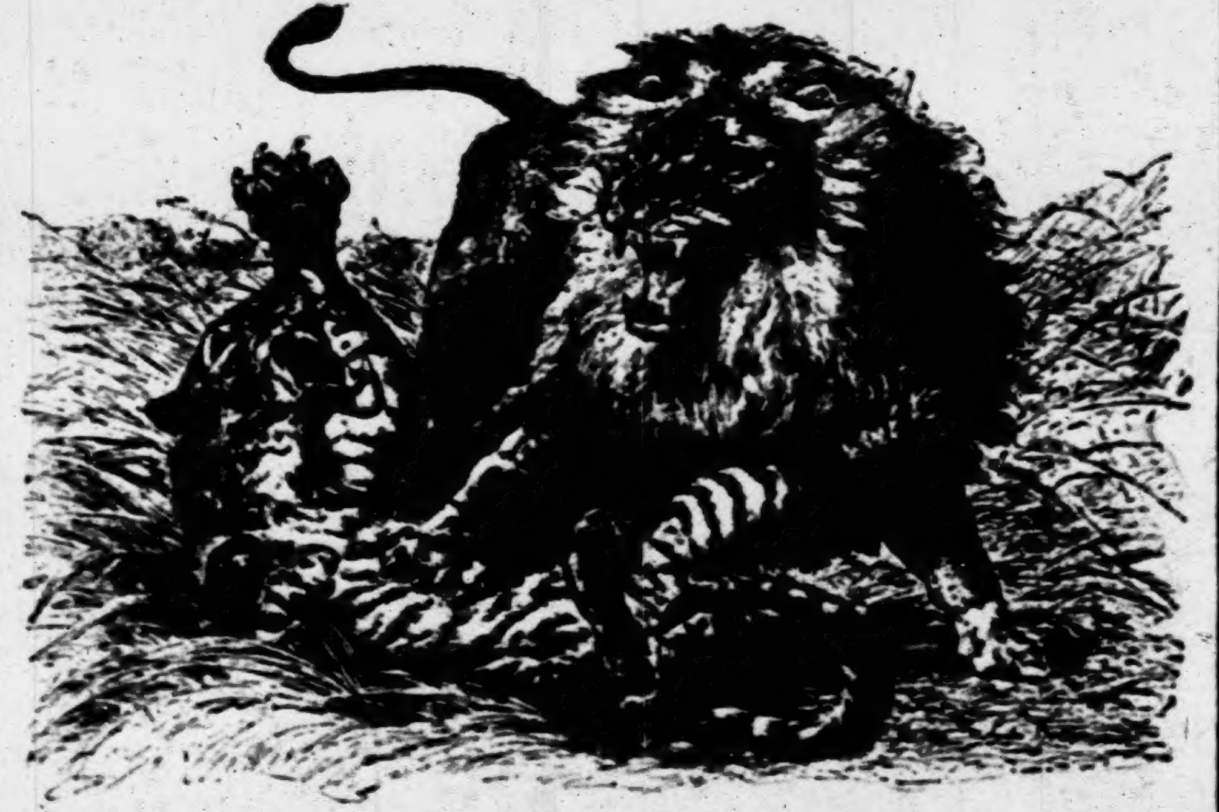
One of the lions killed had also filled up the measure of its iniquity ere it met its doom. The scene of its depredations was a native village some distance north of the Falls. The native huts are very slender, being built mainly of reeds. In such a hut a woman was sitting when the lion pushed aside the door, walked in and seized her, carrying her away to his lair in the dense bush. Then he had an ox. This was in the enclosure with other cattle and donkeys.

The lion, failing to get into the enclosure, so frightened the animals with his attempts that they rushed in a huddled, terrified mass from end to end, and their weight upon the palisading broke it down. They rushed out through the opening, which was just what the lion wanted, for he had now nothing to do but to take his choice. After the ox, he selected a donkey on his next visit, and then a sheep, and finally another ox. At last the natives became panic stricken until some white men reassured them, telling them they would sit up all night for the lion and shoot him. The lion came and got away with another ox, for the white men, tired with the watch, had fallen asleep. However, they were able to track him.

It was important that having promised to kill the lion they should do so, for that is the secret of the white man's power over the native—never to break his word. So they set off to the thick bush half a mile away, whither the lion's tracks led them. There they came upon him and killed him with one bullet, that entered the right nostril. This was what big game hunters consider a good kill, as the bullet did not disfigure the lion nor injure his skin. Near by was the carcass of an ox, and a little further in the bush, in a sort of tunnel of impenetrable thorn, were the gnawed bones—the remains of some of his former victims.

Tame Baby Hippopotamus.

A young hippopotamus, riding on its mothers' back when she was shot, was saved and cared for by one of the men. These animals are very dangerous to canoe men, for in returning to the surface to blow they often come up right under the canoe and upset it. Sometimes they give chase to canoes, and then the native paddlers do all they can to reach the bank, unless a white man with a rifle is with them. The baby was thriving very well when last heard of. He escaped from his enclosure once, but came back very hungry, as was evident from the ravenous way in which he applied himself to his food.



A JUNGLE FIGHT.

A Literary Kicker.

Charles Lamb once heard a burglar breaking in his house. He drew on his heavy hunting boots and with a candle went down stairs and confronted him in the act of putting the silver from the breakfast table into his bag. "What are you doing?" demanded the author. "I am hungry and was just getting something to eat," hesitatingly replied the thief. "T-take a l-leg of l-lamb," stuttered the author, as he kicked him down the cellar stairs.

Another Version.

Mary had a little mule,
It followed her one day to school,
The teacher got behind that mule
And hit it with a rule,
Like a fool—
And after that—no school!

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

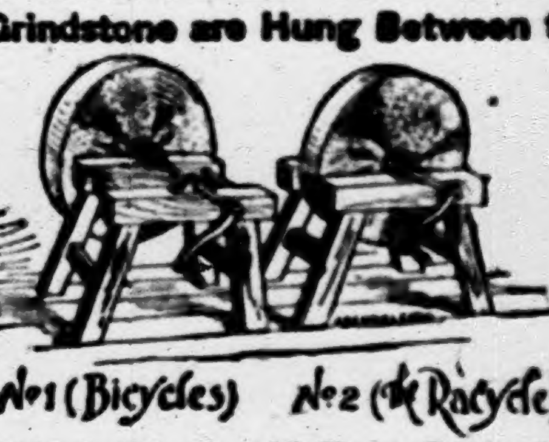
That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings



Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

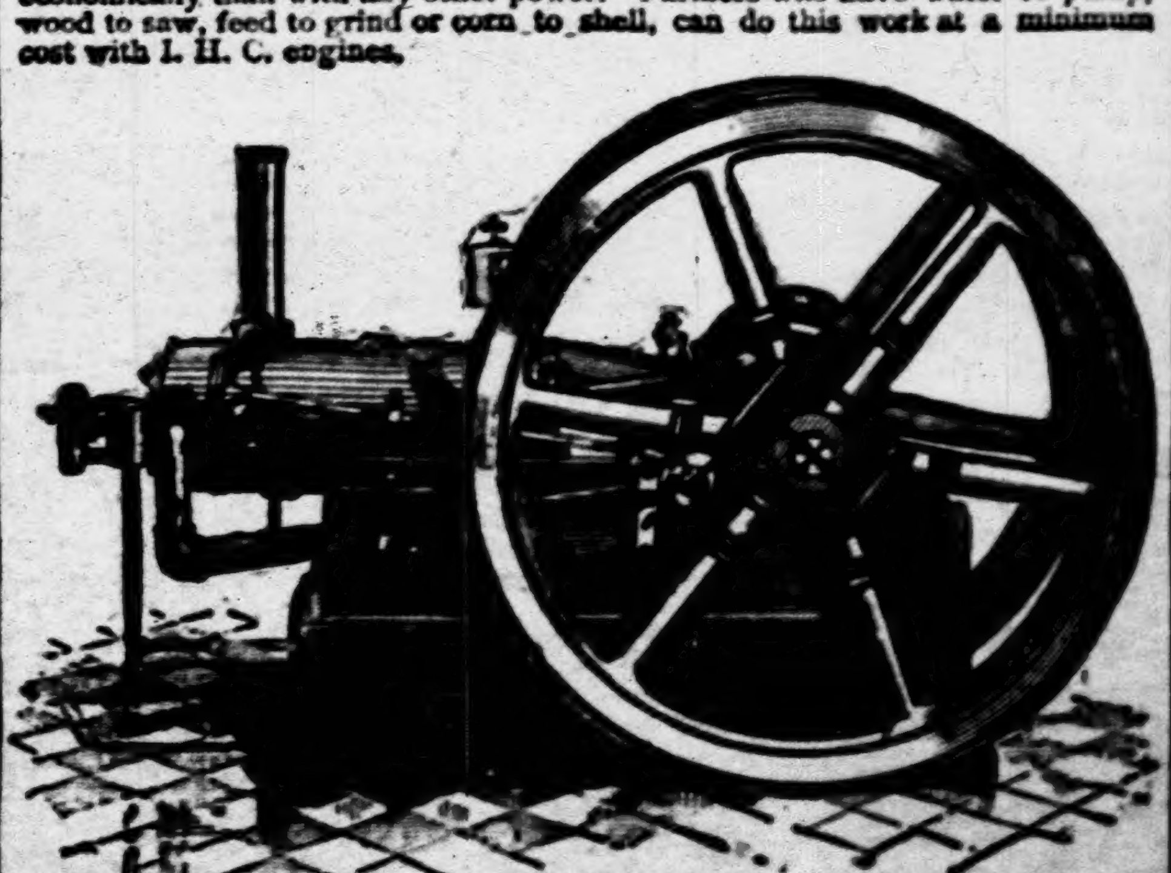
MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905
THE CAR THAT GOES
Highest Workmanship.
Lowest Prices.

Cars for Immediate Delivery.
Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

THE AMERICAN GRAPE INDUSTRY.

A Great and Increasing Branch of Horticulture.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

"The grape is the poor man's fruit, especially one who has only a house lot of the smallest possible dimensions. He can plant vines beside his cottage and their roots will extend and profitably occupy every inch of ground underneath it and from that small space produce all the fruit his family can consume, while the vines afford shade and protection and add beauty to his little home, occupying no space, either above or below the ground to interfere with other interests, and producing more fruit in less time and with less labor and attention than anything that was ever planted."

All of which is charming in truth unless the phylloxera or the downy mildew or the aphis or the dry rot become appurtenances to vine, or the chickens or small boys of the neighborhood steal all the grapes just as they are getting ripe.

Chickens, however, should be kept in pens, and if every small boy's father had a grape vine which furnished "all the fruit his family could consume," there would be no incentive to pillage the neighbor's vines.

As for the downy mildew and the other ailments to which civilized grape vines are heir, horticultural investigations have shown that they can be combatted wth comparative ease by spraying, and rot not only prevented but the vine stimulated to even greater than normal production.

As a matter of fact, the grape industry in the United States when considered both as a large commercial proposition and as one where each man has his own vine, if not fig tree, is one of a great deal of importance and of great interest.

Count Their Age by Centuries.

Although the product of its fruit is accountable for much that is unseemly and frivolous, the vine is itself an object of great age and dignity. It is not known how old the grape will grow in America, since we have not been here long enough to make the test, even had a vine been planted with the landing of Columbus. Pliny mentions an Old World grape vine 600 years of age. Some entire vineyards in Italy held good for 300 years and others in Burgundy produced for 400 years and more.

Seedless Grapes From One Vine

Largest Grape Vine in the World, Santa Barbara California.

PACKING CONCORD GRAPES, LAKE KEUKA, NEW YORK.

These were cultivated vines. Doubtless native vines grow to much greater ages.

The viticulturist of the Department of Agriculture, George C. Husmann, states that he has never seen a vine among the endless number of natives abounding in our forests that has died from the effects of age. Some old grape vines grow to immense size. There is a wild grape vine on the shores of Mobile Bay under which Andrew Jackson twice pitched his tent in his campaigns against the Seminoles, which has a circumference of over six feet, with a supposed age of about 100 years.

The Size of a Great Tree.

The largest known grape vine in the world was planted in California in 1842. It has made a phenomenal growth. Beneath its spreading branches, which cover nearly half an acre, 800 persons can find protection from the sun's heat. It bears from six to ten tons of grapes for a crop and the circumference of its trunk is eight feet.

While the wine industry is by far the most important feature of grape growing, enormous quantities of table grapes are raised and by means of improved transportation facilities sent to all parts of the country. The Concords, the Delawares and the Niagaras come from the North, the Scuppernongs from the South and the Flame Tokays and other sugary raisin grapes from the Pacific coast.

The last census reported 12 States having in bearing over 2,000,000 vines each, California being first with 80,000,000 vines, New York second with 30,000,000, Ohio third with 14,000,000 and Kansas, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Oklahoma, Illinois, Indiana, Georgia and Iowa with 5,000,000 or less each. California alone had a quarter of a million acres in vineyards with an annual production of 30,000,000 gallons of wine. The investment represented in that State alone is estimated at $85,000,000.

Wine Tank as Big as a House.

The writer once climbed to the top of a single cask at Fresno, California, which contained 96,000 gallons of port wine. There are hundreds of casks throughout the State with a capacity of 50,000 gallons each. The annual raisin production of California amounts to about 90,000,000 pounds, while about 25,000,000 pounds of these raisin grapes are shipped East every year as table grapes.

Last year the Chautauqua district in New York produced 600,000 gallons of unfermented grape juice.

These figures give some idea of our grape industry, which, while it is only about 50 years old, is small as compared to that of the world whose annual production is over 4,000,000,000 gallons of wine.

Other products of the grape are raisins—an enormous industry in itself—brandy, vinegar, grape syrup, a very superior article, and various pickles, jellies and preserves.

The grape furnishes also important by-products. Feed and fertilizer are produced from the pomace, also acetic acid. The seeds are separated from the pomace and fed to stock the same as grain. Ground up, they are used as a substitute for coffee. A high grade oil similar to olive oil is also produced from the seeds, which, among other things, make superior soap. They also yield tannin.

Mr. Husmann estimates that if all the wastes of the grape crop were utilized extra returns would increase its value fully 10 per cent., which, with our present grape production to the value of about $15,000,000, would mean an additional earning of a million and a half, and this with our viticultural industry as yet in its infancy.

Feeding Oleo to the Navy.

Considerable of a sensation has developed over the furnishing to League Island navy yard, Philadelphia, of butter which analysis has proven to be simply oleomargarine colored with coal tar dye. Samples were taken from the government receiving ship Lancaster, several battle ships and cruisers and from the hospitals of the navy yard by agents of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Food Commission. Dr. Warren, the State Commissioner, declared them to be specimens of coal tar oleo and after considerable controversy, at the instance of President Roosevelt, they were finally submitted to Dr. Wiley, the chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, who in a full report has sustained Dr. Warren's findings. Secretary Wilson has referred the report to the President, who has, it is stated, called the attention of the Department of Justice to the matter. Several arrests have already been made.

In speaking, however, of the substitution of oleomargarine for butter in the market, Dr. Wiley said that at present the amount of oleomargarine sold in this country whether fraudulently as butter or when marked as oleo is quite small. The government has rendered the making and sale of the stuff unprofitable by levying 10 cents a pound on all that is artificially colored, and half a cent on the uncolored.

Foreigners Refuse Colored Butters.

"Coal tar dyes," said Dr. Wiley, "are not fatally harmful, though by no means wholesome, and dairymen are permitted under the law to use such coloring matter to impart to their butter a rich yellow color. To render this unnecessary, the Department of Agriculture is now trying to educate the popular taste in favor of uncolored butter, and we are making some headway. Over in Europe one never encounters colored butter in any of the hotels or first class markets. The people there have learned to distrust it. We are coming to this in the United States. To-day first-class hotels and fancy groceries will not buy butter that has a high color. Our epicures and those that live well are also fighting shy of it, and as a result the dairymen are beginning to realize that the bottle of coal tar dye is no longer a necessary adjunct to a successful dairy."

John Adams was the author of the motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

Increasing Wealth in the West.

In commenting on the need which has hitherto manifested itself in the West for calling upon Eastern money centers for funds with which to move Western crops, a New York financial letter states that with conditions as they were ten years ago, the present record-breaking crop would have strained the capacity of the New York financial centers to the utmost to furnish sufficient funds. So greatly, however, has the wealth of the West increased and so large are the surplus reserves of the farmers that even with crops so stupendous as to amaze Europe, New York financiers have been hardly inconvenienced by the demands for funds. In a not distant future it is predicted the West of the Mississippi Valley and of the Missouri Valley as well will be found exclusively lending or advancing money with which to move the crops that are grown in the remoter regions of the Southwest or the distant Northwest.

SCUPPERNONG WINERY, NORTH CAROLINA.

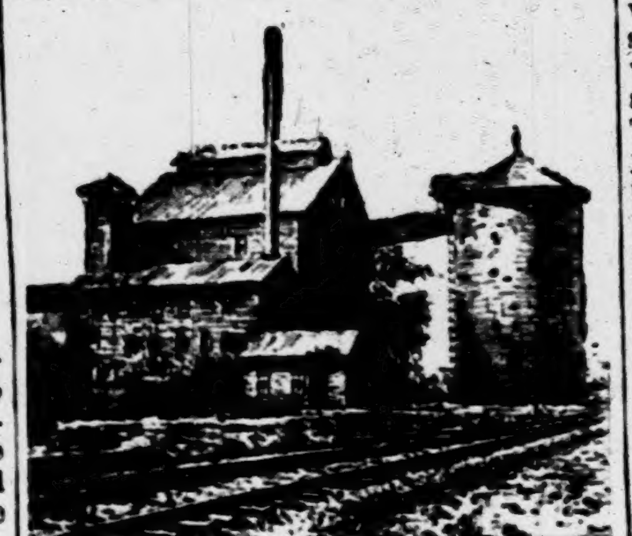
No expert can estimate accurately the gains that will come this year to the farmers, the surplus that will be left for them after paying expenses, which represents their profits. Some of the most experienced experts have ventured to estimate that the farmers of the United States this year as a whole will find themselves to the good by not less than $300,000,000, and possibly $100,000,000. These are the gains as well as those which the great transportation companies expect to receive for carrying the agricultural products from the harvest fields to the market to which Mr. Vanderlip referred in his address to the National Bankers' Association at Washington. The United States as a whole ought to be richer by reason of the year's industry, agricultural and manufacturing and transportation, by an amount considerably in excess of a thousand millions.

GASOLINE POWER ENGINES.

Constitutes Great Saving in Horse and Man Power—Have Come Into General Use on Many Prosperous Farms and Homes.

Inexpensive, reliable power on the farm and around the home is becoming more and more desirable these days when unskilled labor is so high and hard to procure. Gasoline engines, which when started practically take care of themselves, are rapidly supplanting steam engines and horse power, the operation of which requires constant attention. The difference in the cost of operating and the advantage of starting at a moment's notice has advanced the popularity of gasoline engines where comparatively small power is required in contrast with other power devices.

A few years ago we heard but little about gasoline engines for use on the farms, while to-day we find many of them on up-to-date farms and small business plants. This growing interest has been brought about largely through the improvements that have been made by manufacturers during late years in simplifying the working parts of the engines so that the average man can operate them with the ease of an expert. As a matter of fact, a bright boy can handle a modern gasoline engine with but little teaching. Take the farmer who has never seen a gasoline engine and let him start and stop one a few times and study some of the principles of operating it and in a few days he will become as familiar with its workings as he would with a team of horses or a tread-mill. The general usefulness of a machine of this sort on a farm is apparent. There is ensilage to cut, wood to saw, feed to grind, corn to shell, water to pump, in fact a multitude of things that can be done with a gasoline engine at small expense.



A GRAPE BY-PRODUCT FACTORY.

CHICKENS AS GARDENERS.

Can Be Taught to Pull Weeds and Harvest Grain.

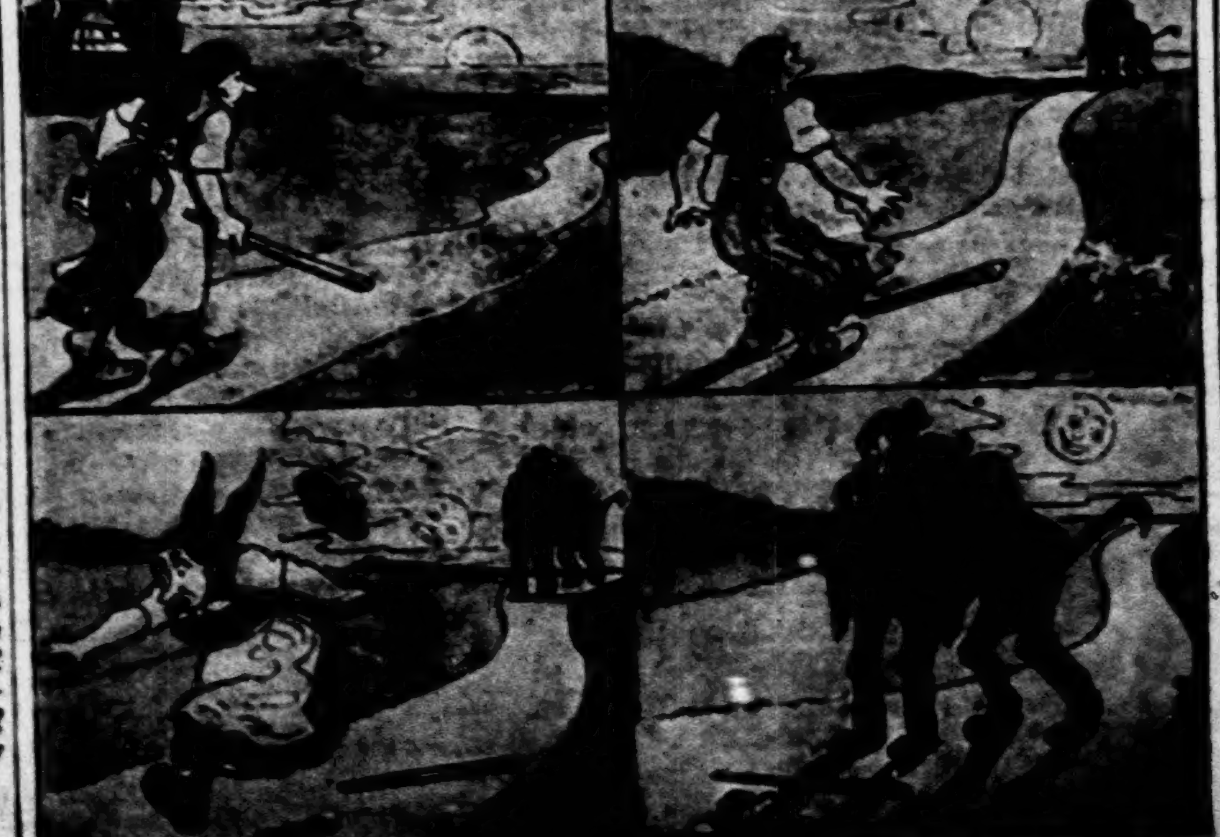
"I see as how a scientific perfesser has trained a yaller dorg to count ten an' answer fool questions," said the hired man to the tourist. "Wy that ain't nothin.' I knows an old feller back yere in th' Valley what beats that all to flinders. Began raisin' chickens when he was a boy. I seen some bantams he had no biggern' fleas an' game birds what c'd step over a six-foot fence. But that ain't nothin'. Last time I was down 't his place he had a hunderd-acre farm an 'bout ten thousand chickens, an' was raisin' truck for early northern markets. Powerful big chickens they was, an' he had 'em trained so's they'd work his farm for him. They wasn't a weed nur a blade o' grass in that whole farm 'cep'n in the pastures. An' bugs? wy they cudn't a tater bug, nur a cut worm, nur even a cabbage flea get a foot inside o' that farm afore a chicken had 'im. An' that wasn't all. Them chickens c'd see at night. Guess he must a' crossed 'em with owls. Anyways, he never worried none 'bout early frost. If 'twas cold in the spring them chickens was out all night coverin' up tomatoes an' beans an' ev'ythin' tender. Jest squat over the plants with their wings spread out an' set there till sun up. He had tomatoes three weeks ahead o' anybody else. An' that wasn't all. When he planted his beets en turnips en passnips he sowed 'em powerful thick an' as soon as they'd get up 'bout right size them chickens come along an thin 'em out jest right. Fine eatin' for 'em, too. An' 'tween times they was going up an' down the rows all day long scratchin' up the dirt an' keepin' ev'ythin' cultivated jest parfect. Wy that feller never had a hoe in his han' from one year end to another. An' lay! Gee whiz! Them hens was the stiddiest layers I ever see. But they didn't use no nests: Jest laid in reg'lar egg crates. An' fast as one layer was full the hens in charge o' the layin' house 'd grab up a new frame an' drop it in the crate. I see 'em fill sixty-odd crates o' eggs in one forenoon.

"But that ain't nothin' Them hens was so big an' powerful they c'd do almost as much as a hired man. I see a wagon full o' seed wheat come along past his house. An' there was a little hole in the wagon an' the wheat was a runnin' out all along the road. Well, sir, that feller jest drove 'bout five hundred chickens out in the road and put down a lot o' sacks an' they went to pickin' up that seed wheat faster'n you er I c'd pick up taters. They gethered up 'bout forty bushel. In the sacks? Wy of course They was thee roosters a holdin' each sack, an' when a sack was full they'd whip a tie 'roun the neck, set it up agin the fence an' grab up another. They was sich big powerful chickens, you know. An' that wasn't all neither. He had some whoppin' big roosters, an' he sharpened up their spurs in the fall an' had 'em cuttin' corn better'n you or I c'd with a corn-knife, an' stackin' it up jest as reglar. But shucks! that wasn't nothin'. Wy I see that felller—"

But as he looked around the tourist had fled in horror.

Chinese "Cash."

Consular reports from China are to the effect that the prospect of a reform or rather revolution in the money system of that Empire is not very bright, in spite of the promises to that end which have been made. There are a number of influential elements preventing the change which nations doing business in China have asked, among others the bankers who profit by the great variations in values of the same kind of coins in different cities as well as the provincial officials who mint them. The money of the people is still brass and copper, and to introduce a new system will be difficult owing to the dread on the part of the public of anything new. Gold and silver may continue to control the price paid for exports, but copper and brass will for a long time govern production.



DANGERS OF THE [illegible]

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROA

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY

Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's

AMERICAN CROWN

SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company

CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter o
a Centur
of unfailing service

proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the

Remingto

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENED
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwic

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO

HAY PRES

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stand to its work—no digging holes for w Self-feed Attachment increases acity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pi
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JA

Send for our Jack Catalogue, tain the description of exactly what yo

Hydraulic Jacks our Spec

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the be varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Tree Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

WAGONS APPRO

ility Under all Conditions to

g Old Hickory

NUFACTURED BY
ton Manufacturing Co.
ISVILLE, KY.
OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter
a Centur
of unfailing service

proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the
Remingto
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENE
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwic
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO
HAY PRES

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stan to its work—no digging holes for w Self-feed Attachment increase acity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO
124 Main Street, Sandwich

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pi
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Gree
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JA
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure tain the description of exactly what yo
Hydraulic Jacks our Spec
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

ssoula Nursery

grown acclimated trees and the be nting in Northern States.

ety of Standard Frui
ples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Tre
, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.

EARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
PLANTS AND SHRUBS
oral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants
ss. Catalogue and Price List Free.
ers have prompt attention.
A NURSERY CO
SSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

ners' Court meets Second February first Monday in t Monday in June second y in July second Monday in August and first Monda in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day ..... 10½ @ 10½
me date last year 9½

Bales received to date	1905	1904
ard & C. ..	2641	2336
Mullins	1574	1352
Easter & Bro	385
Jones	825	569
& Sons	250	..
Firms		351
Total...	5648	4602

above figures are obtained from eral cotton buyers Wednesday g five o'clock.

barn and outbuildings of Mr. Askins, living about three south of Clanton, were des d by fire early Sunday morn- About a half bale of cotton also burned.

John Dorman and daughter, Neomi, of Marbury visited family of Mr. W. M. McDaniel week.

A. J. Ellison, we are sorry to sustained a serious accident last day in Montgomery, getting broken by being kicked by e. He is now in Hill's In- ry.

V. J. Gragg, who has been ding a few days in Shelby at- g Dr William's practice, ned Saturday.

and Mrs. C. R. Ellison of ner are spending a few days relatives here, before leaving Georgia where they will make future home.

cold soda water always ys on tap at Upchurch's store.

L. E. Boswell of Verbena pleasant visitor here Wed- y.

DeWitt of Howard College Rev. A. C. Swindall's pulpit ay, morning and night, the being unable to be here.

Dr. A. J. Marlor and Mrs. Marlor of Billingsley were s here Saturday.

ses Emma, Lizzie and Mattie ard and Mrs. Mary Fitts of donia were visitors here Frinnon's Best Flour. Try it!

and Mrs J. M. Potts left ay morning for Texas, to visit son, Mr. Forest Potts.

and Mrs. Martin Nix of Mont- ry are spending a few days nton.

es Ludie and Mary Malone lberry visited Clanton Satur-

Neomi Williams of Thorsby visitor here Saturday sure and go see Miss Minnie s fall millinery, she is selling t very reasonable prices and Mrs O O Roper wish to d their heartfelt thanks to neighbors and friends for their ous and timely aid in saving house from the flames Satur-

V G Gragg left this morning ew Orleans to take a course medical department of Tu- University

J N Harrison of Plantersville welcome visitor Monday

ur—Cannon's Perfection e best.

Cough Syrup which drives a t of the system by acting as a on the bowels is offered in dy's Laxative Honey and Tar. the throat, strengthens the and bronchial tubes. The 's friend and the children's e. Best for Croup, Whoop- ough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Co.

nice lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

riage licenses have been issued k by the Probate Judge to llowing persons.

J N Sims and Mrs N A Sims; E Thomas and Miss N E

red Hint Rolling and Del- g

y ounce of food you eat that digest does a pound of harm. s the entire meal into poison. t onl deprives the blood of ssary tissue-building mate- it poisons it. Kodol Dys- Cure is a perfect digestant. sts the food regardless of the n of the stomach. It allows gans to rest and get strong Relieves Belching, Heart Sour Stomach, Indigestion, tion of the Heart etc. Sold by h Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys,

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6.00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1.50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40.000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garden. You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN
Growers and Exporters
ZANESVILLE - - - - OHIO

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company. Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000. Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

			1905
Maplesville	Beat	7..	Nov 10
Benson	"	3..	" 1
Macedonia	"	3..	" 13
Gentry & Cofer's Mill	"	2..	" 14
Hayes' Mill	"	2..	" 15
Providence	"	2..	" 16
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12 m	"	2..	" 17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 p m	"	1..	" 17
Jemison	"	2..	" 18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1..	" 20
Mineral Springs	"	1..	" 21
Flint Hill	"	11..	" 22
Providence	"	10..	" 23
Burwell	"	10..	" 24
Thorsby	"	9..	" 27
Clanton	"	4..	" 28
Cooper	"	10..	" 29
Verbena	"	5..	" 30
Mountain Creek	"	5..	Dec. 1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4..	" 2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

A liquid cold cure and the only Cough Syrup which moves the bowels—works all cold out of the system—is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the head and throat and makes weak lungs strong. Best for Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

The taxes for the Town of Clanton for the year 1905 are now due, and all persons owing such taxes are requested to call at my office at the store of Jones & Brother on Wednesday, the 16th day of November, 1905, and thereby save further cost E CLAY, JONES, Clerk

---

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Nortesatern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905,
S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

Administrator's Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court. Oct. 7, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 7th day of October, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said Estate, are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.
R. P. MILLS, Administrator.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

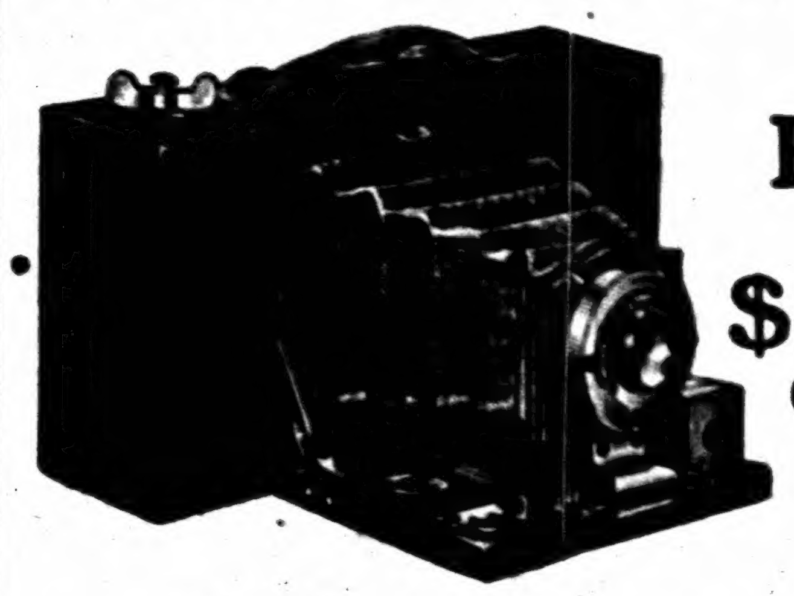
Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Link and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS

CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. DR. FRANK O. HALL.

Subject: The Spirit Beareth Witness.

New York City.—Dr. Frank Oliver Hall, pastor of the Church of the Divine Paternity, preached Sunday morning on "The Spirit Beareth Witness." He chose his text from Romans viii:18: "The spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." Dr. Hall said:

It is easy to build an argument for the existence of God. The process of reasoning may be briefly stated thus:

We are compelled to think that there can be no effect without a cause. But if we trace an effect back to its cause and find this in turn to be an effect, then trace that back to its cause and find that also to be an effect, we must at length predicate the existence of an adequate cause for all phenomena, an underlying and eternal reality.

Or you may put the argument in this way.

No thought without a thinker.
There is thought in the universe.
Therefore there is a thinker in the universe.

As the universe is practically infinite we must believe that in and through the universe lives an Infinite Thinker, and inasmuch as we cannot conceive of an impersonal thinker we must conceive of God as a personal being. To be sure, our words are inadequate to express the qualities of the Divine Life. As the heavens are high above the earth so are His thoughts higher than our thoughts. The mode of His existence may be infinitely higher than what we name personality. But these are the best words at our command. We are obliged to use them or nothing. So we have a right to say that God is an intelligent personality.

You may find such arguments elaborated at great length in scores of learned books on theology and theism. But when you have read them and agreed with the conclusion, what does it amount to? Very likely men and women have come along this dreary pathway of logic to the more beautiful realm of faith, but I am convinced that a mere intellectual belief in God is practically worthless. Ninety-nine out of every hundred convicts in our states' prisons believe in God. James states the case still stronger. "Dost thou believe in God? The devils also believe and tremble." There is neither comfort nor strength nor enthusiasm in a mere intellectual belief in the existence of God.

One may find an intellectual delight in listening to a clear and convincing argument for theism as he might in listening to some skilled mathematical talk about geometry. But something more is necessary. Every one of us knows what it is to long for the consciousness of a personal relationship with God the Father. "O God," cried Augustine, "Thou hast made me for Thyself and I cannot rest until I rest in Thee." O, to know God personally; to come into touch with Him; to feel His love and His pity; to be able to say, "Within Thy circling arms I lie," and feel the sentiment of the words; to know that He is my Father and my friend! O, to have His Spirit bear witness with our spirits that we are children of God!

Now, one can no more gain this consciousness or the power that comes from this thought by a mere exercise of the reasoning faculties, than he can learn to love Tennyson by going through the process of counting the number of words or letters in his complete works. One might gain a certain intellectual satisfaction in doing that. But if you are really to get good from Tennyson, then his spirit must bear witness with your spirit; that is, his thought and his sentiment must meet a response in you. So, if God is to be an ever present help in trouble, a staff for the hand and a guide for weary feet, then one must have something more than a mere intellectual belief in His existence. What the world needs, what each one of us needs, is not so much an intellectual assurance of God's existence as spiritual assurance of His personal relationship to us as His children.

I know that I am appealing to common experience and a common longing. Not one of us who does not know what it is to desire with a mighty yearning for a personal assurance of the love of God. What are we, after all, but children?

But what am I?
An infant crying in the night;
An infant crying for a light
And with no language but a cry.

Just as the child wakes in the night and, feeling the blackness huge and empty about him, cries out into the gloom for companionship and love, and the father comes and takes the child in his arms and, with confident voice, soothes away the childish fears, so oftentimes we children of earth feel the darkness of life oppress our souls and cry out for the strong arms of a heavenly Father. Why should we be ashamed to acknowledge this hunger of the soul any more than we are ashamed to acknowledge the hunger of the body? How, especially in the midst of trouble, the heart hungers for its Father. When the clods fall upon the coffin lid, how the soul cries, "My God—my God." How, when the clouds of adversity gather dense—when the cherished ambitions of a lifetime prove futile; when the fortune which was to make the years of old age bright takes to itself wings; how, when the familiar friend lifts up his heel against one—the heart cries out, "Oh, God—my God!" And even in the sunshine and the joy of life, when everything seems to be bright and beautiful and full of promise of future joy, there will come moments when it all seems empty and meaningless and the soul cries out for God.

My memory goes back to my own young manhood, and I recall a day that was more than usually beautiful, when I stood alone by the sea. I had every reason to be happy. I had found my place in the world; had a work to do and the future seemed full of promise. My health was perfect, and I had not been disappointed, even in my boyish dreams. And yet I recall the awful loneliness and emptiness of the hour. I had but to walk a mile to be welcomed by true and tried friends. But I stood there, lonely and homesick. There flashed into my mind the dreary words:

O we poor children of nothing, alone on this lonely shore,
Born of a brainless nature who knew not that which she bore.

And I remember that I threw myself on the grass there, with the sunshine all over me and birds singing about me, with everything, apparently, to make me happy, in the depth of my loneliness I felt like a child who had lost its mother. What more did I want? I will tell you what I wanted—what you want, what every man and woman hungers for with a hunger deeper than any physical longing. I wanted His Spirit to bear witness with my spirit that I was a child of Go. Nothing else could satisfy; nothing else ever can satisfy the deep hunger of the human heart.

One might say that such a youth was abnormal, insane, if this were an extraordinary experience, but is an experience common to us all. Here is a song composed by some unknown singer 4000 years ago, a singer of a different race, in a far away land, under entirely different circumstances from those in which we live, but this song has been taken up and repeated by millions of human beings because the words express the ever recurrent sentiment of the human soul in all ages and all lands. "As the hart panteth for the water brooks so panteth my soul after Thee, O God." You shall find this sentiment expressed in ten thousand hymns. In a million churches on this Sunday morning it is being sung. In a million mosques it is being chanted. In a million Buddhist temples it is being uttered. All around the earth all classes and conditions of men, rich and poor, wise and foolish, good and bad, high and low, are longing and praying to have His Spirit bear witness with their spirits that they are children of God.

And not only do the people who believe in God testify to this. The most remarkable and pathetic testimony comes from those who intellectually deny that there is sufficient reason to believe in the existence of God. It seems to me that almost the weariest words that ever fell from human lips were uttered by Professor Clifford when he felt himself compelled intellectually to take the atheistic position. "I have seen the spring sun shine out of the empty heavens upon a soulless earth, and have felt with utter loneliness that the great Companion was dead." And you will remember that Professor Romanes, though at the last he saw a great light and went to his death full of trust "like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams," at one time wrote a book called "A Candid Examination of Theism," and in this examination found no rational ground for a belief in God. He closed his book with these words: "I am not ashamed to confess that with this virtual denial of God the universe has lost its soul and loveliness, and when at times I think, as think at times I must, of the appalling contrast between the hallowed glory of the creed that once was mine and the lonely mystery of existence as now I find it, at such times it will ever be impossible to avoid the sharpest pangs of which my nature is susceptible." Take note of these words of an absolutely sincere and fearless man, "The sharpest pangs of which my nature is susceptible."

Now why should one feel like that? Suppose there is no God, what of it? Suppose it should be proved that this world has been produced by the operation of physical forces working in accordance with blind and heartless law, what of it? Is not the sky just as blue, the grass as green? Are not friends as dear? Why should we not get along without God? Why should we care whether God is or is not?

A friend told me this incident the other day: There was a family consisting of an aged man and woman, a number of sons and daughters and a little group of grandchildren. The aged grandfather was enjoying a serene and happy old age, loved by all, and the home was one of peculiar brightness. One night the aged man, as usual, took his evening paper and sat in his accustomed place to read, wiped his glasses, made a comment or two to the white haired wife knitting opposite, and after a little, as his custom was, fell into one of those quiet slumbers peculiar to old age. Around him the other members of the family talked and laughed and joked till one said, "Father seems to be sleeping very soundly," and, placing his hand upon the old man's shoulder, discovered that he was dead. Now, ask me, will you, what difference is made? The home was left, the lamp burned as brightly, the newspaper filled with interest was there, nothing was apparently changed. Was not the sky just as blue and the grass just as green and did not the stars shine as brightly? What difference did it make? Why, if he was dead his spirit could no longer bear witness to the spirit of the aged wife that he loved her. His spirit could no longer respond to the joy of his grandchildren. There is a difference between a dead body and a living man that makes one stand in the presence of his living friend with joy and in the presence of the friend's dead body with unutterable misery. There is a difference between a dead universe and a living universe. That is the reason for these utterances of black despair from those who do not believe in God.

"My soul longeth—yea, even fainteth—for the courts of the Lord."

Now I want to call your attention to the testimony of this hunger after God, to the existence of God. Whence came this universal and insatiable desire? It came from the same source as the mighty longing of a woman for a child, the longing of the child for a mother's love. It was wrought into man by the same power that makes the man search through the world for the one woman to whom he can give himself in love; by the same power that makes the maiden desire above everything else the love of one strong man. All these are wrought by nature into human nature. David was right and his analogy was complete. "As the hart panteth after the water brooks so panteth my soul after Thee, O God." As the thirst of the hart for water, as the fact that the hart suffers and dies without water, is testimony enough for him that somewhere there must exist water to satisfy his thirst, so the thirst of the human soul for God, this mighty cry that goes up from every human soul, is inexplicable except upon the ground that God is and that somehow His spirit can bear witness with our spirits that we are children of God. When you have convinced me that the love of man for woman, of mother for child is without meaning or purpose then I will believe that this longing of the human soul for God is not to be trusted. Until that time I know that I have evidence in myself that God is and that I am related to Him. May we not trust this deepest and divinest instinct of human nature? If not, what can we trust?

You tell me that you will trust your eyesight. But why? If the thought of God is a delusion, why may not the whole visible universe be a delusion? If my instinctive outreaching after that which is holy is a lie, why may not what I seem to see be another lie? You say that you will trust your reason? May not that also be another delusion? "Two times two are four," you say, "always have been, always will be." But how do you know? Have you any right from your own petty experience to assume that something was true a million years ago and will be true a million years hence? But you do assume that. You must trust your reason. Then why not trust this deeper instinct of the human soul which cries out for God and can be satisfied with nothing less? Religion is its own evidence. The man who trusts and surrenders himself to God does not need to have it proven to him that God is. His spirit beareth witness with our spirit that we are children of God.

But you will say, "Prove it to me." I ask you to prove it to yourself. I cannot prove it to you. No man can. You must make the experiment for yourself. You must prove it yourself. Here is a man with his eyes bandaged tight, who cries, "You say that the sunshine is beautiful, the grass green, the roses red. Prove it to me." What will you do? There is no possible way in which you can prove the beauty of the world to this man with bandaged eyes. "Off with the bandage!" you cry. "Open your eyes and look. Trust the evidence of your own senses. Then you will believe." "How does opening the eyelids alter the relation between my eyes and the light? Why, the glorious revealing light comes in, a thing it cannot do to shut eyes. How does breathing in alter the relation of my lungs to the air? Why, it brings the air that was before outside of me inside of me. Just where I absolutely need it for very life, that is all. The open soul takes God in. The shut soul keeps God out, that is all. The immutable, eternal laws of light and air are not changed, they are illustrated thereby. The immutable love of God is not changed. Its glorious working is illustrated when the believing soul opens its gates and lets the King of Glory in.

Oh, friend, you who are hungry and thirsty and have tried in a thousand ways to find satisfaction and have found it not, make another experiment—make the supreme venture of faith. Try trusting in God to the utmost. Surrender yourself to the guidance of His divine will. I believe that thus you will find strength, comfort, satisfaction and that your faith shall prove itself in the deep experiences of your life. You want me to prove to you that prayer is effective and reasonable. I will not try. I ask you, rather, to prove it to yourself. Pray. Talk to your Father. Listen to His voice. Then you will no longer be asking for proof that prayer is effective. You will have evidence in yourself.

There is a God and He is our Father, and He reveals Himself and His love to men; not to a few men, but to all men. His spirit will bear witness with your spirit if you will open the eyes and ears of the spirit to hear and see.

Sorrows may encompass you, temptations may harass you, disappointments may come to you. Still trust, poor soul; trust as never before. Trust in the Lord and He shall bring it to pass. Cast thy burden on the Lord and He shall sustain thee. Out of the depths of the soul's experience were these words uttered. They can be proved true in the deep experience of the soul to which they appeal.

Hidden Riches.

This inner life is a tremendous reality. Its very invisibility emphasizes the realness of the reality. It is one of the richest heritages of the child of God. The outer life is only the scaffolding of the building; it is only the husk or shell. The inner life is the real building; it is the germ-hiding kernel.

All moral and spiritual defeats are due to a vitiation of the inner life. The withering, blasting and uprooting of the soul's choice plants are never accomplished through the forces of the outer life; the work begins within.

How can we possess the rich, powerful inner life when body, mind and soul are constantly exercising their energies upon the vain, perishing things of earth! We must take time to cultivate the unseen fields of the soul. We must constantly stand face to face with God, drink in the strength of His nature and the inspiration of His presence. If we do not, the inner life must perish. Prayer, meditation, reading—these are channels through which God pours His golden, vitalizing streams into the inner life.

The saddest moment in life to man or woman is when there is a discovery that the inner life is gone, and only the outer shell is left. Yet the inner life goes, gradually and secretly; no one has ever been robbed of it.

Let us be watchful. Let us remember that as long as God is in this inner life there is security there, and that no thief has ever yet been able to break the lock of prayer and trust and divine wisdom.—Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Labor's Reward.

Whatever we beg of God, let us also work for it; if the thing be matter of duty or a consequent to industry. For God loves to bless labor and to reward it. And therefore our blessed Saviour joins watchfulness with prayer; for God's graces are but assistances, not new creations of the whole habit, in every instant or period of our lives. Read Scripture and then pray to God for understanding. Pray against temptation. Ask of God competency of living; but you must also work with your own hands the things that are honest, that ye may have to supply in time of need. We can but do our endeavor and pray for a blessing, and then leave the success with God; and beyond this we cannot deliberate, we cannot take care; but so far we must.—Jeremy Taylor.

God's Will.

You may be doing God's will with one hand consecrated to Christ and making your own autobiography with the other consecrated to self.—Henry Drummond.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 12.

Subject: Ezra's Journey to Jerusalem, Ezra viii., 21-32—Golden Text, Ezra viii., 22—Memory Verses, 21-23—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. A fast proclaimed (vs. 21-23). 21. "Proclaimed a fast." Ezra entered upon his work with fasting and prayer. The journey was a dangerous one, especially with all the treasure he carried. Ezra realized the danger, but he went forward in faith. His chief concern was to have God with him. He had procured Levites to go with him (vs. 15-20), but even that would be of no avail if Jehovah did not direct their steps. "Afflict ourselves." "Humble ourselves." (R. V.) and repent of our sins. "To seek Him." Ezra wanted the people to commit themselves to the guidance and protection of divine providence and implore God to give them a prosperous journey. Their journey lay chiefly through the desert, and the Arabians and Samaritans were likely to attack them.

22. "I was ashamed," etc. Ezra had preached trust in God before the heathen rulers and he would not dishonor God by asking the usual military escort. He had represented God, the object of his worship, as supremely powerful, and as having the strongest affection for His true followers. Thus we see that this good man had more anxiety for the glory of God than for his own personal safety.

23. "So we fasted." The people did as Ezra commanded. God heard and answered their prayers, and they were kept in safety during the difficult and dangerous journey.

II. Ezra's charge to the priests (vs. 24-30). 24. "I separated twelve." There is a difference of opinion here as to the number of persons Ezra selected as custodians of the treasure and sacred vessels. There were probably twelve priests and twelve Levites; but some think there were twelve priests and only ten Levites. Sherebiah and Hashabiah were two of the Levites. 25. "Weighed." We may gather from this that the gold and silver were in bars or ingots, and not in coined money. 26. "Unto their hand." We have here the particular care Ezra took of the treasure of God's sanctuary. Having committed the keeping of it to God, he committed the care of it to proper men, though without God they would have watched in vain. Our prayers should always be seconded with our endeavors. Do we expect God should by His providence keep that which belongs to us? Then ought we by His grace to care for that which belongs to Him; let God's honor and interest be our care. The prophet in foretelling the return of God's people and ministers out of Babylon gave the solemn charge (Isa. 52.11), "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." In Zerubbabel's time the vessels were delivered by number; here by weight, that it might easily appear if any were missing. This intimates that such as are intrusted with holy things are concerned to remember, both in receiving their trust and in discharging it, that they must shortly give a very particular account of it, that they may be faithful to it and so give up their account with joy. "Silver.... gold." The whole treasure has been estimated at from four to six million dollars. A talent of silver was about $1600; gold is usually worth sixteen times as much as silver.

27. "Basons....drams." The word translated "dram" appears to be in the Hebrew representative of the Persian word which the Greek rendered by "daric." This was a gold coin, stamped with the figure of the Persian king, wearing his crown and armed with a bow and arrow. According to the most exact computation each such coin contained somewhat more pure gold than an English guinea, and was worth five dollars of our money. The "basins" would be worth about two hundred and seventy-five dollars each. "Vessels of fine copper." Probably some fictitious metal made there that took the polish and assumed the brightness of gold, and because of its hardness was more durable. There is still a metal of this kind made among the Asiatics. 28. "Freewill offering." The silver and gold were a present to the house of God that the king and his counselors had set apart.

III. The journey to Jerusalem (vs. 31, 32). 31. "We departed....on the twelfth day." The company began to form and arrange for the journey upon the first day of the month Nisan. Upon a review of his company Ezra observed the lack of Levites, and the time used in securing their union with the returning exiles, and in weighing the treasure, etc., took up the time until the twelfth day. Ahava is the name both of a small town and stream, not far from the river Euphrates. This would be a natural course to pursue from Shushan. This account of Ezra's preparation and journey is a beautiful example of method and thoroughness which is of great value in the work of God. Ezra sought first the prosperity of God's cause, but he did not count it lost time to spend twelve days in preparation for the journey. Time used for prayer is never lost time. Time consumed in perfecting plans for God's work is not misspent time. Always take time to do a thing right. Things done by half are never done well.

32. "We came to Jerusalem." The dangerous journey was completed with safety at the end of four months. "Abode....three days." That is, they rested that long. On the fourth day the treasures were weighed and handed over to the custody of the officiating priests of the temple. The returned exiles offered burnt offerings, and Ezra delivered the royal commission to the magistrates, while the Levitical portion of the company assisted in performing the additional work which the arrival of so many new worshipers occasioned.

King Visits Workmen.

Genoa.—King Victor Emmanuel, who is here to inaugurate the new harbor works, suddenly visited the harbor Saturday morning, wishing to be in the center of the greatest activity of the country while the work was going on. The loading and unloading and transportation of stone, etc., was at the height of activity when the king appeared, and found himself in the midst of 7,000 workmen, who gave him a frantically enthusiastic reception.

SUGGESTED RELIEF FROM HAY FEVER.

Pollantine, a New German Remedy For Which Many Virtues Are Claimed—Prof. Dunbar's Tests.

An account of the experiments of Prof. Dunbar, of Hamburg, with a hay fever antitoxin is furnished by Consul-General Guenther.

Prof. Dunbar thinks that he has been able to produce an efficient antitoxin from the blood serum of horses treated with pollen toxin. This remedy is now manufactured at Niltitz upon a large scale and has been given the name of pollantine.

Its manufacture is under the control of the veterinary university at Leipsic.

A serum suitable for hypodermic injections is the object of the most recent experiments. Prof. Dunbar thinks that this, while not absolutely necessary, would be advantageous, because hay fever differs from other diseases in which specific antitoxins have been employed in that the infection takes place continually during a period of several weeks.

"A subcutaneous treatment would in such a case be desirable," says Prof. Dunbar, "if the patient thereby would be made perfectly insensible to the pollen toxin for a longer duration than say of one to two weeks. This does not seem to be possible at this time. I also had to abandon the experiments for active immunization of the hay fever patients as being wholly unsuitable in practice. Under such circumstances a mode of application had to be found possible for every patient at any time. It was therefore a pleasant surprise for me when I could show that the simple application of one drop of the serum to the conjunctiva or into the nasal canal sufficed to render these main entrances of the poison completely insensible and also to remove irritation already existing.

"In cases where the nasal canals are entirely closed the desired end will be attained by applying the pollantine repeatedly to the conjunctiva. It then acts from the lachrymal canal upon the mucous membrane of the nose. If in addition a small ball of cotton wetted or sprinkled with antitoxin is introduced into the nasal canal most afflicted it can be made perfectly free again in the course of about half an hour, and then the treatment can be applied to the other side."

A further advantageous use of the remedy was obtained by pulverizing it. In this it was found to be proof against bacteriological decomposition. Patients require about fifty grains of the remedy in powdered form to keep themselves free from attacks during an entire season. Of 505 patients treated by Dr. Luehbert, 299 used pollantine with absolutely favorable results, 143 with partial success and sixty-three with none.—New York World.

Coyote in San Francisco Business House

A coyote hunt in the centre of the business district was an unusual incident which took place in the rear of 430 Bush street yesterday morning. The place is occupied by a dyeing works, and for the past ten days the proprietor, F. Bertin, and his wife have noticed what they thought was a yellow dog apparently hiding among the rubbish heaps at the rear of the establishment.

Several of the Japanese who reside in the vicinity have noticed that their chickens have mysteriously disappeared, but no connection was made between the supposed yellow dog and the mysterious thefts until the discovery yesterday morning of the animal's real nature.

About 10 o'clock yesterday morning the animal was seen to run across the yard and fall into a vat in the centre of the place. It quickly got out with a disabled leg and ran through the shed, causing a great commotion among the girls employed there. Policeman H. S. Prowse heard the screams of the girls and ran to the rescue, accompanied by every small boy in the neighborhood. The officer speedily subdued the animal, and it was then discovered that it was a coyote. A rope was placed around its neck and it was taken to a livery stable in the vicinity.

Bertin gave up all claims to the animal, and one of the livery stable men declared that he would take it home and attempt to tame it.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Under Age.

People in Birchtown were used to Uncle Randolph Green's way of talking and enjoyed it, but at last there came, as a member of the summer colony, a man who had a desire to set everything and everybody straight, according to his ideas.

"What is the sense of your referring to that animal of yours as a 'colt?'" demanded this person one day. "How old is he?"

"Well, he's going on eleven years," said Uncle Randolph, mildly.

"Eleven years!" sneered the man. "Well, we should call that pretty ancient for a colt—in New York."

"I think likely you would," said Uncle Randolph, without rancor, "but with considerable firmness in his soft, old voice; "but perhaps 'twould be well to consider, mister, that this colt o' mine resides in Birchtown, where eleven years is pretty young for a horse."—Youth's Companion.

His Pay Was Raised.

Genius that may grow to great things must have been born in the office boy of whom the St. Louis Post-Dispatch tells this story:

The "boss" was bending over a table looking at the directory. The new office boy slipped up quietly and put a note in his hand. The boss read:

"Honered sir. Your pants is ripped."

The Fair in Selma.

Montgomery, Ala.—Comm Agriculture R. R. Poole and his clerk, Jesse C. Adams, from Birmingham, wh been for a week or more on the Alabama State F closed last Thursday. These men speak highly of the success of fair, and are now exerting their gies to make the same of the C Alabama Fair in Selma.

Captain Poole and Mr. Adams gone to Selma to look after the exhibit, which has been set up of the exhibit that was mingham will be Selma.

"The agricultur mingham were the state of Ala said Captain Po to be a fair am individual producers much to the credit of the state. lieve, will be equal cess as was the effort ham citizens as far as and horticultural ex as for the live stock tral Alabama Fair strip that feature of exhibitions."

There will be and other attractions thousands of visitors ports from Selma will be no "gouging the hotels as it is ticed in Birmingham.

Selma Fair

Selma, Ala.—Monday morning a hundred carpenters teams began work in earnest on the finishing touches to the where the Central Alabama Fair ciation will hold its first annual Decorators from Birmingham placed the state exhibit have the city and gone to work ready for the big exhibit that has seen and admired during the past in Birmingham. In fact, Selma pects to reproduce on a smaller the Birmingham fair, and thou of visitors from this territory pected.

Wanted in Tennessee.

Cullman, Ala.—Deputy Sheriff Dunlap brought in Friday from Mountain, this county, Dock Sa charged with assault with inte murder; Heck Sanders, escaped vict, and Andrew Sanders, for ing the local option law, and them in jail to await requisition pers. They are brothers, and wanted in Tracy City, Tenn. considered desperate characters, Deputy Dunlap took considerable cautions in effecting the capture, caught them while at breakfast tween daylight and sunup. A sheriff from Tennessee came morning and left with his pr for Tennessee.

Road From Anniston to Oxf

Anniston, Ala.—If satisfactory rangements can be made a road, built in accordance with latest scientific ideas, will be structed between Anniston and as an object lesson in road b for the benefit of Calhoun county dents. Mr. J. H. Dodge, a road of the department of agricult Washington, is in the city for the pose of taking up the matter and confer with Mayor Kilby, of An Mayor Gray, of Oxford, and the mercial Club of Anniston in re to the details of the plan. The is to be partly constructed of and partly of macadam to the value of both materials, be built under government

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The week as a whole was cloudy, and unfavorable for late ing crops. Night temperature rather low during the early the week, though no frost was ed. Fairly general rains occu the 25th and 26th, the rainfall mostly moderate, though scattered portions of the State.

Cotton picking was retarde rains of middle of week, which aged open cotton in some counties, where there is still complaint of bolls rotting from weather. Fully nine-tenths crop has been gathered, with practically completed over the portion of the State. The tinues generally light and will considerably below that of la with the quality irregular and ly grading below that of 1904.

Corn is being housed rapidly in northern counties, while all ble labor is being devoted picking. The yield of corn good for the State as a whole the quality is rather inferior ears rotting.

Minor food crops have been gathered with satisfactory cept one, which is now being promises a good yield. Good have been made. Fall-plowing gressing slowly, and but and wheat have been sown.

Thirteen Killed and Thirty

Kansas City, Mo.—Thirteen were killed and thirty injured wreck of the Atchison, Top Santa Fe passenger train No. as the California express, running at thirty-five miles struck a loose rail, ditching one mile east of Blue river, the eastern limits of this city.

More than five billion troleum are produced

UNCLE SAM—"A Remedy That Has Such Endorsements Should Be in Every Home."

PE-RU-NA'S NATIONAL CATARRH REMEDY

Election Returns That In

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Iceland produces most of the world's supply of eiderdown.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle.

The number of immigrants from Germany last year was 27,984.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. Thomas Robbins, Maple St., Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

Japan's tea crop will, it is feared, be about 6,500,000 pounds short this year.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Budapest has put an electric washing machine on the market.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors. Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

CATARRH is the mother of CONSUMPTION. Our CARBOLATE of IODINE POCKET INHALER is a guaranteed cure. Price $1.00.
W. H. SMITH & CO.,
Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Manufacturers and Props.

LAND SCRIP Takes Government Land Quickly. Write. Also progressive men ... should come here. Hugo Seaberg, Raton, N. Mexico.

WANTED— Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their ... (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.
NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

$1,000 To Be Given for Reliable Information
We will give One Dollar for a Postal Card giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.
ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS
have for years been the standard for all steam plants. Best of material and workmanship. Our big output enables us to sell on small profits. An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no more than the other kind.
Write today for our special offer.
ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
INDIANAPOLIS

Good Teeth & Good Temper
Are characteristic of the Atkins Saws always.
That is because they are made of the best steel in the world—Silver Steel—by men that know how.
Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.
E. C. ATKINS & CO. Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis
Branches—New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada)
SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

The Fair in Selma.

Montgomery, Ala.—Comm Agriculture R. R. Poole and his clerk, Jesse C. Adams, from Birmingham, where been for a week or more on the Alabama State Fair closed last Thursday. These men speak highly of the success fair, and are now exerting their gies to make the same of the C Alabama Fair in Selma.

Captain Poole and Mr. Adams gone to Selma to look after the exhibit, which has been set up, of the exhibit that was used in mingham will be used in Selma.

"The agricultural exhibits in mingham were undoubtedly the the state of Alabama has ever said Captain Poole. "There to be a fair amount of rivalry bet individual producers, and it show much to the credit of the agric of the state. The Selma fair, lieve, will be equally as great a cess as was the efforts of the Birm ham citizens as far as the agricul and horticultural exhibits will go as for the live stock industry the tral Alabama Fair is expected to strip that feature of the mineral exhibitions."

There will be horse races in S and other attractions that will thousands of visitors to the fair. ports from Selma indicate that will be no 'gouging' of the visito the hotels as it is charged was tied in Birmingham.

Selma Fair.

Selma, Ala. Monday morning a hundred carpenters, laborers teams began work in earnest on the finishing touches to the gro where the Central Alabama Fair ciation will hold its first annual Decorators from Birmingham, placed the state exhibit, have re the city and gone to work ready for the big exhibit that has seen and admired during the past in Birmingham. In fact, Selma pects to reproduce on a smaller the Birmingham fair, and thou of visitors from this territory ar pected.

Wanted in Tennessee.

Cullman, Ala.—Deputy Sheriff Dunlap brought in Friday from S Mountain, this county, Dock Sa charged with assault with inte murder; Heck Sanders, escaped vict, and Andrew Sanders, for ing the local option law, and them in jail to await requisitio pers. They are brothers, and wanted in Tracy City, Tenn. The considered desperate characters Deputy Dunlap took considerabl cautions in effecting the capture caught them while at breakfa tween daylight and sunup. A sheriff from Tennessee came Sa morning and left with his pri for Tennessee.

Road From Anniston to Oxfo

Anniston, Ala.—If satisfactor rangements can be made a sp road, built in accordance with latest scientific ideas, will be structed between Anniston and as an object lesson in road b for the benefit of Calhoun count dents. Mr. J. H. Dodge, a road of the department of agricult Washington, is in the city for th pose of taking up the matter a confer with Mayor Kilby, of An Mayor Gray, of Oxford, and the mercial Club of Anniston in r to the details of the plan. The is to be partly constructed of and partly of macadam to ill the value of both materials, an be built under government ausp

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The week as a whole was cloudy and unfavorable for late ing crops. Night temperature rather low during the early the week, though no frost was ed. Fairly general rains occur the 25th and 26th, the rainfall mostly moderate, though hea scattered portions of the State. Cotton picking was retard rains of middle of week, whic aged open cotton in some n counties, where there is still complaint of bolls rotting from weather. Fully nine-tenths crop has been gathered, with practically completed over the portion of the State. The yie tinues generally light and will considerably below that of la with the quality irregular and ly grading below that of 1904.

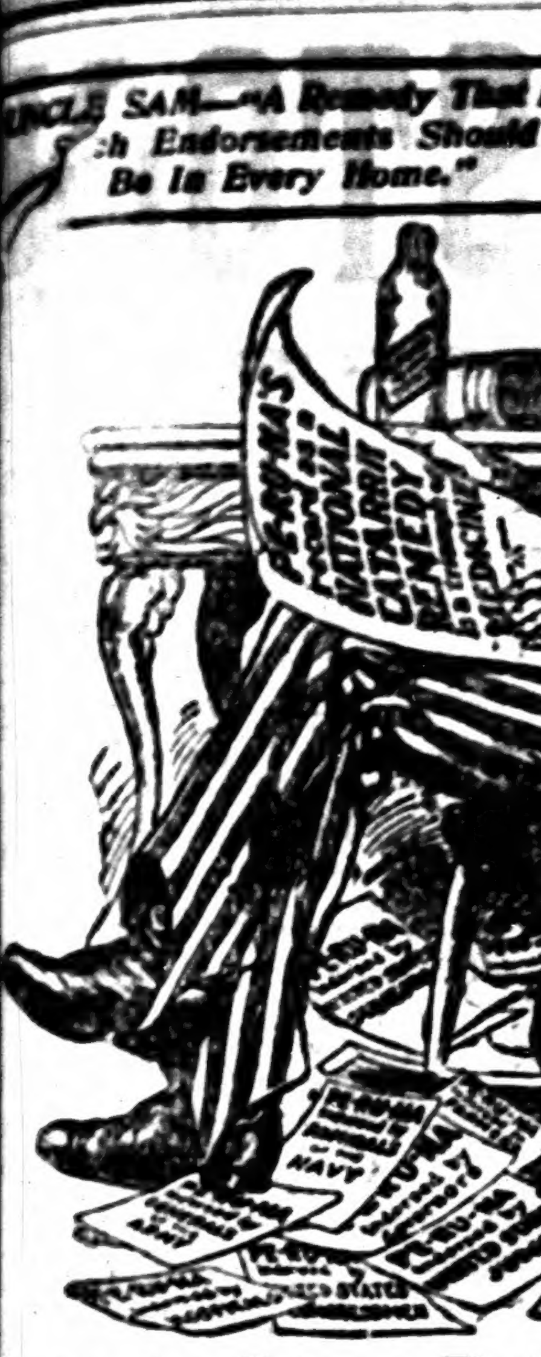
Corn is being housed rapidly, in northern counties, where all ble labor is being devoted to picking. The yield of corn i good for the State as a whole, the quality is rather inferior ears rotting.

Minor food crops have been gathered with satisfactory yi cept one, which is now being promises a good yield. Good have been made. Fall plowin gressing slowly, and but li and wheat have been sown.

Thirteen Killed and Thirty

Kansas City, Mo.—Thirteen were killed and thirty injure wreck of the Atchison, To Santa Fe passenger train No. as the California express, wh running at thirty-five miles struck a loose rail, ditching one mile east of Blue river, the eastern limits of this ci

More than five billion ga troleum are produced



UNCLE SAM—"A Remedy That Has Such Endorsements Should Be In Every Home."
PE-RU-NA'S NATIONAL CATARRH REMEDY
NAVY
ARMY
PE-RU-NA
UNITED STATES SENATORS
PE-RU-NA Indorsed by BISHOPS
CONGRESSMEN
DOCTORS
Election Returns That Interest All Parties.

permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa and produces most of the world's supply of eiderdown.

Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

The number of immigrants from Germany last year was 27,984.

Piso's Cure for Consumption saved three years ago.—Mrs. Thomas Robbins, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, 1900

Japan's tea crop will, it is feared, be 6,000,000 pounds short this year.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Budapest has put an electric washing machine on the market.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO

AVERY & McMILLAN,

53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines. Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

CATARRH is the mother of CONSUMPTION. Our CARBOLATE of IODINE POCKET INHALER is a guaranteed cure. Price $1.00.

W. H SMITH & CO.,

Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Manufacturers and Props.

LAND SCRIP Takes Government Land Quickly. Also progressive men changing location welcome here. Hugo Seaberg, Raton, N. Mexico

WANTED—Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.

NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

$1,000 To Be Given for Reliable Information

We will give One Dollar for a Postal Card giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.

ATLAS

ENGINES AND BOILERS

have for years been the standard for all steam plants. Best of material and workmanship. Our big output enables us to sell on small profits. An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no more than the other kind.

Write today for our special offer.

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS

INDIANAPOLIS

Selling agencies in all cities

Corliss Engines High Speed Engines Water Tube Boilers
Poppet Valve Engines Compound Engines Tubular Boilers
Automatic Engines Throttling Engines Portable Boilers

Atlas Engines in service 1,000,000 H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service 4,000,000 H. P.

Good Teeth and Good Temper

Are characteristic of the Atkins Saws always.

That is because they are made of the best steel in the world—Silver Steel—by men that know how.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO. Inc.

Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis

Branches—New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada)

Accept no substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

"Hanna's Maggie," the woman who used to make the historic hash with which the senator was wont to regale his friends in Washington on Sunday mornings, is with Mrs. Hanna at the Hotel Gotham in New York, where the widow has established herself permanently. A private kitchen has been constructed for her private use and Maggie reigns there as chef. Many distinguished men have partaken of the toothsome dish which made her famous. Senator Hanna's will provided a snug little farm in Ohio for his cook, but she left that in other hands when Mrs. Hanna sent for her.

Chinese Salaries.

In a Chinese silk factory the president receives $23 a month, the manager $46, clerks about $13; workmen in the factory receive from $2.76 to $9 a month, while the daily wages of the female laborers average from 6 cents to 9 cents a day.

A TRULY IDEAL WIFE

HER HUSBAND'S BEST HELPER

Vigorous Health Is the Great Source of the Power to Inspire and Encourage —All Women Should Seek It.

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this century, in a recent article, has said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life."

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

To be such a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, to inspire him to make the most of himself, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, whites, irregularities or the blues, she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Following we publish by request a letter from a young wife:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."—Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every sick and ailing woman.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

The depth of the Pacific ocean has been estimated at between four and a half and five miles.

Cures Rheumatism and Catarrh—Medicine Sent Free.

Send no money—simply write and try Botanic Blood Balm at our expense. Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) kills or destroys the poison in the blood which causes the awful aches in back and shoulder blades, shifting pains, difficulty in moving fingers, toes or legs, bone pains, swollen muscles and joints of rheumatism, or the foul breath, hawking, spitting, droppings in throat, bad hearing, specks flying before the eyes, all played out feeling of catarrh. Botanic Blood Balm has cured hundreds of cases of 30 or 40 years' standing after doctors, hot springs and patent medicines had all failed. Most of these cured patients had taken Blood Balm as a last resort. It is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases. Impossible for any one to suffer the agonies or symptoms of rheumatism or catarrh while or after taking Blood Balm. It makes the blood pure and rich, thereby giving a healthy blood supply. Cures are permanent and not a patching up. Drug stores, $1 per large bottle. Sample of Blood Balm sent free and prepaid, also special medical advice by describing your trouble and writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Buying Up America.

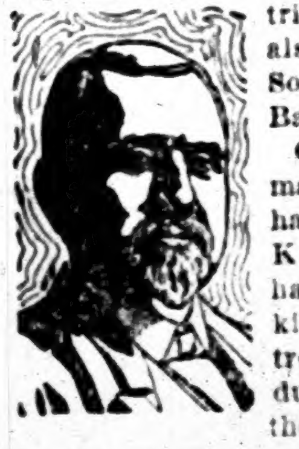
Foreign landlordism is reaching out its tentacles in the direction of America. A syndicate headed by the earl of Verulem and the earl of Lankerville owns a vast tract of land in Wisconsin. Alexander Grant, of London, has 35,000 acres in Kansas. The English Land Company owns 50,000 acres in Arkansas. Mr. Elfenhauser, of Halifax, has 600,000 in West Virginia. A Scotch concern, Syndicate No. 1, bought 50,000 acres in Florida. The Holland Syndicate owns 5,000,000 acres of grazing lands in the west, and the German Syndicate 2,000,000. It is said that 20,000,000 acres of good American land are owned by foreign landlords (English and Scotch). That is an area larger than the state of South Carolina, and nearly as large as Maine.

The queen of Greece is devoted to the sea and she is never happier than when she is cruising about on her yacht with her husband, King George. She bears the distinction of being the only lady admiral in the world, having received this honor from the late czar of Russia, who was fondly attached to his beautiful cousin. The king shares with her the love of the sea and is himself a sailor, and at the time of his election to the Hellenic throne was serving as midshipman in the British navy.

CONGRESSMAN GOULDEN

Finds Quick Relief From Bladder Troubles Through Doan's Kidney Pills.

Hon. Joseph A. Goulden, Member of Congress, representing the 18th District of New York, also trustee of the Soldiers' Home at Bath, N. Y., writes:



Gentlemen: As many of my friends have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have been cured of kidney and bladder troubles, I feel it my duty to recommend the medicine. From personal experience I know Doan's Kidney Pills will cure inflammation of the bladder, having experienced relief the second day of using the medicine.

(Signed) J. A. GOULDEN.

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

President Eliot's Simple Life.

President Eliot, of Harvard, lives a life of the greatest possible simplicity. After seventy years of life, more than half passed as head of the university, he declares that one of the most desirable satisfactions of his life comes from having had nothing to do with the attainment of wealth. Erect, light of foot, and alert as a youth, he eats well, sleeps well, walks rapidly with his shoulders thrown back and is as eager to get new facts as when he entered Harvard as a student fifty-six years ago. "I am satisfied with the rewards of my life," he said simply.

Professor Goldwin Smith, the venerable Canadian publicist, believes that as an encouragement to matrimony two votes should be given to every married man. He is very fond of children, who is turn lavish their affection on him. The professor delights in listening to their old ways of expressing themselves. Not long ago while visiting at the house of a friend he took a little girl on his knee and asked about a fine wax doll with which he had seen her playing. "Oh, I don't have anything to do with dolly any more," said the child. "We have a truly meat baby now, and that keeps me busy."

The vestrymen of old Trinity church, on Broadway, opposite Wall street, New York, recently refused $3,000,000 for the site, which was wanted for a skyscraper office building. This is not the first time that a large sum has been offered for the property, but the vestrymen steadfastly turn their backs on all such prospects, mindful of the historical associations connected with the old place, and perhaps reflecting that the Trinity corporation, already enormously wealthy, does not need the money.

It is said of Albert Gallatin, of Sacramento, Cal., who has just died, that he conceived and first carried out the modern method of the long-distance transmission of electric energy for power and light by carrying electricity to his city, 22 miles, from water power at Folsom. It is claimed that when he carried this power to run the street car service of Sacramento he was the pioneer, and until he made a success of it the scheme was looked upon with incredulity.

No "Phones" in Turkey.

Constantinople. — Custom officials have been authorized to confiscate all telephone apparatus and all materials used in constructing same. At the same time the sultan ordered his police to make a house to house investigation and confiscate and smash all telephone apparatus found. His majesty dreamed the other day that some one would blow him to pieces by means of the 'phone by crossing a 'phone wire with an arc lamp wire, for instance.

A dictionary of the Husquakie Indian language is to be compiled by Professor Duren H. Ward, of the State University of Iowa, for the State Historical Society, and when completed the work will be the first of any of the Indian tongue of this particular tribe to appear in print.

DO YOU BELCH? BAD BREATH?

A Full Sized Box FREE At Your Druggist's

Science declares it the only way to cure stomach trouble. A new method. By absorption. No drugs. Do you belch? It means a diseased stomach. Are you afflicted with short breath, gas, sour eructations, heart pains, indigestion, dyspepsia, burning pains and lead weight in pit of stomach, acid stomach, distended abdomen, dizziness, colic, sick headache, pimples, bad complexion, bad breath or any other stomach torture? Cut out the coupon below and take it to any druggist in the United States and he will give you absolutely free of charge a full sized 50c. box.

Mull's Anti Belch Wafers

To convince you that it cures. Nothing else like it known. It's sure and pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach trouble can't be cured otherwise—so says Medical Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the stomach and make you worse. You will know that it will cure you as soon as you begin its use. That is why we let you try it free.

CUT OUT THIS COUPON.

CUT OUT ON THIS LINE.

Take this Coupon to your druggist and he will give you a regular full size 50c. Box of Mull's Anti Belch Wafers absolutely free. Remember, we give only one Box to each family. If you can find a druggist who does not keep Mull's Anti Belch Wafers send us this Coupon, together with name and address of the druggist, and we'll send you a sample by mail.

Mull's Grape Tonic Co., Makers.

131 Rock Island, Ill. 1105.

Patient, sign your name here

Address, street and number here

To the Retail Druggist: Sign your name and address on the line below and send this full coupon to the Jobber of whom you purchased this remedy, and he will give you 50 cents in cash or trade for each coupon, properly signed, which you send him.

Retail Druggist, sign your name here.

Your address here

To the Jobber: You will please accept this Coupon if the same is properly signed, and give to the retailer buying the remedy from you 50 cents in cash or trade for same. Sign your firm name and address and forward all coupons to us at any time you like, and we will remit you in full by return mail 50 cents for each coupon properly signed by the consumer, retailer and yourself.

Jobber, sign your name here

Address here

CUT OUT ON THIS LINE.

CUT OUT ON THIS LINE.

CUT OUT ON THIS LINE.

CONEY ISLAND SOUVENIR POST CARDS. Six beautiful colored scenes for 10c. Coney Island Postal Card Co., Coney Island, N.Y.

WOMEN

will find in Mozley's Lemon Elixir, the ideal laxative, a pleasant and thoroughly reliable remedy, without the least danger or possible harm to them in any condition peculiar to themselves.

Pleasant in taste, mild in action and thorough in results.

Tested for 35 years.

50c. and $1.00 per bottle at all Drug Stores.

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR

"One Dose Convinces."

Am. 45, 1905.

Residence Lots, Near Beach, $125. $10 cash; $5.00 monthly. Write for map. GEO. L. CARLEY, Gulfport, Miss.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
THE WORLD'S GREATEST SHOEMAKER
SOLE AGENTS FOR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
ESTABLISHED JULY 6, 1876

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

FOR EMERGENCIES AT HOME

And for the Stock on the Farm

NOTHING EQUALS

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

The Great Antiseptic

Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,

615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

WINCHESTER

"LEADER" AND "REPEATER" SHOTGUN SHELLS

Carefully inspected shells, the best of powder, shot and wadding, loaded by machines which give invariable results account for the superiority of Winchester "Leader" and "Repeater" Factory Loaded Smokeless Powder Shells. Reliability, velocity, pattern and penetration are determined by scientific apparatus and practical experiments. They are

THE SHELLS THE CHAMPIONS SHOOT

TO secure the biggest crops of corn, fertilizers must be used liberally. Apply at least 500 pounds to the acre—with 3½ per cent. nitrogen, 8 per cent. available phosphoric acid, and 9 per cent. POTASH.

POTASH is a most important factor in corn culture. Our practical books for farmers are yours for the asking—no cost or obligation of any sort, and a vast fund of invaluable information in them.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,

New York—93 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

CONCENTRATED

Crab Orchard WATER

TRADE MARK.

—A SPECIFIC FOR—

3 Dyspepsia
Sick Headache
Constipation... 3

The Three "Ills" That Make Life a Burden.

Nature's Great Remedy

In Use for Almost a Century.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

CRAB ORCHARD WATER CO.,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

FORBES PIANOS

Sold from factory to fireside by arrangement of payments that any family can meet. Your old organ or piano taken as part payment on the new. We deliver free anywhere and will exchange within one year if not entirely satisfactory. Send for catalog A4

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY

ANTI-GRIPINE

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTC

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

CLANTON

J. R BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA.

The Banana.

The prohibitionist looks on with favor, for it does not mix with alcohol, and some think the habitual use blunts the longing for firewater. Thus Captain Parsons of the English-West Indian line says that since his seamen and stokers have been allowed to help themselves freely to the cargo of bananas they have not wished so much rum. There is a trace of copper in the banana, and deep thinkers believe this is beneficial to the human clockwork.

The taste for the banana is not acquired. As Mr. Crichton-Browne exclaims in a burst of Ciceronic eloquence: "An appreciation of it is not reached through slow stages of diminishing repulsion, but comes at the moment of first introduction. The infant absorbs it greedily; children devour it with delight; the adult does not despise it, and the edentulous octogenarian blesses its agreeable tenderness."—Boston Herald.

Out of His Line.

Miss Goitall—Did you attend the german last night? Mr. Fudge—No. I can't speak the language, and I knew I should not enjoy myself.—Success Magazine.

There would not be so many open mouths if there were not so many open ears.—Bishop Hall.

Costermongers in Morocco.

In Morocco the costermonger recommends his wares by pledging the credit of a saint: "In the name of Mulai Idris! Roast chestnuts!" "In the name of our Lord Mohammed Al Hadj! Popcorn! Popcorn!" "In the name of Sidna Ali-bu-Khaleb! Melons! Nice, sweet melons!" "God is gracious! Beans! Fried beans!" "There be no might nor majesty save in Allah! Water! Cool water!" These and the like are heard at every turn. Even the auctioneer who is calling out the price of a slave or the bids for a Rabat carpet is careful to interlard his professional talk freely with allusions to his Maker and the plethoric roll of Moorish saints.—London Times.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Addresses in Persian.

The addresses in Persian upon letters which go through the postoffice at Calcutta are often quaint and puzzling. An Indian paper recently translated one as follows: "If the Almighty pleases—Let this envelope, having arrived at the city of Calcutta, in the neighborhood of Calcotolah, at the counting house of Sirajedeen and Ilahdad, merchants, be offered to and read by the happy light of my eyes, of virtuous manners and belover of the heart—Meean Shaikh Inayut Ally, may his life be long. Written on the tenth of the blessed Ramzan, Saturday, in the year 1266 of the Hegira of our Prophet, and dispatched at bearing."

The Postmark.

Great Britain, it is said, can, without fear of contradiction, claim the honor of having originated the postmark. The first one, which was used in London as long ago as 1660, was a very simple affair, consisting of a small circle divided into two parts. In the top portion were two letters indicating the month, while in the lower half the day of the month was shown. No endeavor was made to denote the year, and it is only by the dates of the letters on which the mark is impressed that it is possible to fix the date of its use.

Neuralgia Pains

Rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment.

It penetrates to the nerves and bone and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body, and effect some wonderful cures. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

: The Great Christmas Edition of

THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

Will be issued Dec. 17th, 1905.

This will be one of the greatest papers ever issued in the South. Will contain over 100 pages. Every page will be a gem. You can not afford to be without this splendid paper.

Fill out order blank below and send 5 cents. Address, The Advertiser Co., Montgomery.

Name...

Postoffice...

GOOD NEWS

We beg to announce to the people of Chilton county and vicinity that we have the Largest Stock of Merchandise that has ever been in our store before, consisting of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Millinery and Fancy Goods

Our prices are just as cheap as when cotton was 4 and 5 cents.

Our Mr. J. Damsky is back at Maplesville, and will take great pleasure in showing you prices. He will make it to your interest to call and see before purchasing your goods.

GIVE US A TRIAL BEFORE BUYING

Thanking you for your past favors, we beg to remain your friends,

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

MAPLESVILLE

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

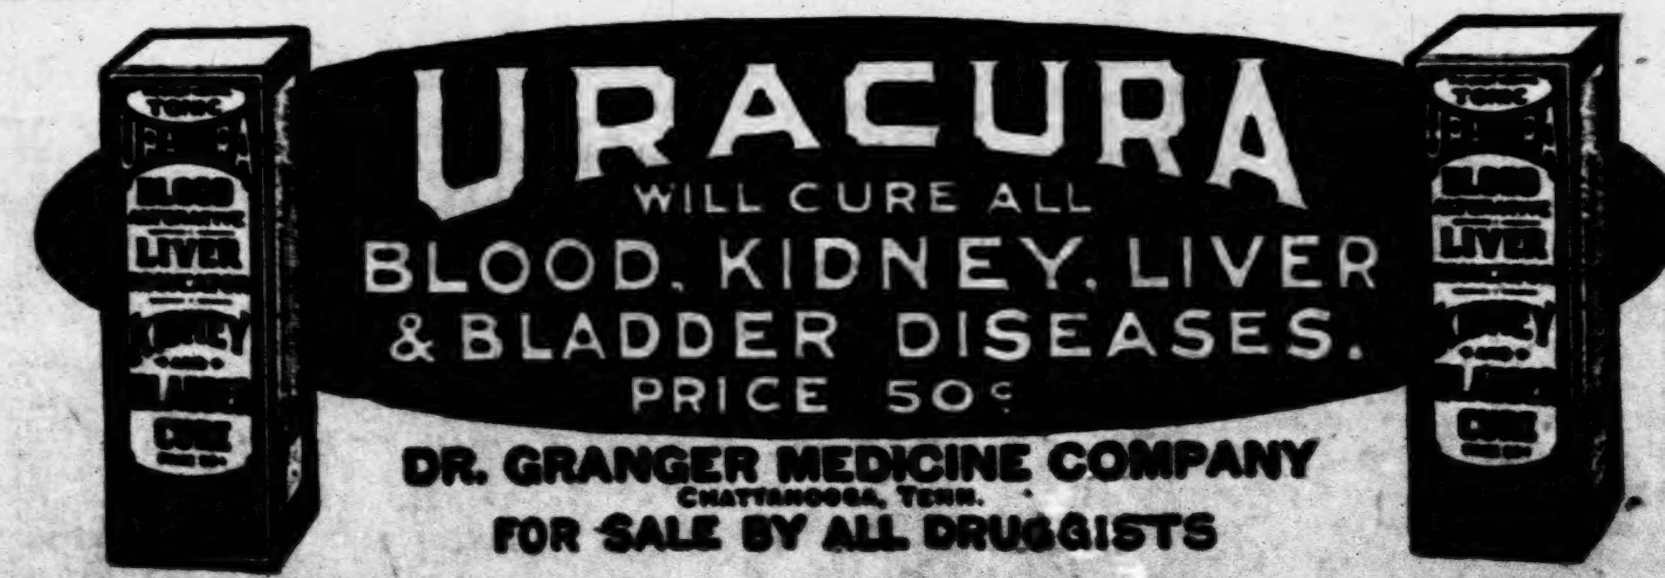
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.



URACURA

WILL CURE ALL

BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.

PRICE 50¢

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fads and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

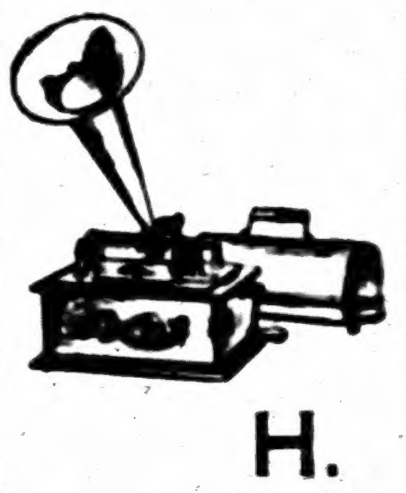
LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear, Jackets of the latest styles. Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices. Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 300 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS.

VIOLINS, GUITARS,



we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

DRAGGING

down pains are a symptom of the most serious trouble which can attack a woman, viz: falling of the womb. With this, generally, come irregular, painful, scanty or profuse periods, wasteful, weakening drains, dreadful backache, headache, nervousness, dizziness, irritability, tired feeling, inability to walk, loss of appetite, color and beauty. The cure is that marvelous, curative extract, or natural essence, of herbs, which exerts such a wonderful strengthening influence on all female organs. Cardui relieves pain, regulates the menses, stops drains and stimulates the muscles to pull the womb up into place.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Relief

It is a safe and permanent cure for all female complaints.

WRITE US A LETTER

in strictest confidence, telling us all your troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED AWFUL PAIN

in my womb and ovaries," writes Mrs. Naomi Bales, of Webster Groves, Mo., "and my menses were very painful and irregular. Since taking Cardui I feel like a new woman, and do not suffer as I did."

Talked Just Like a Man.

Miss Florence Marryat, the novelist, daughter of Captain Marryat, had some mannerisms of her own. The following anecdote is told by William Downey: "'Here's a letter from Florence Marryat,' said Mr. Tinsley, the publisher, to me one morning. 'She wants me to buy a new three volume novel from her. If I'm out of the way when she calls you can talk to her.'

"I asked how I was to recognize her. 'You'll recognize her easy enough,' said Mr. Tinsley. 'She is a tall, striking looking woman, and she'll talk to you just like a man.' A few days later a tall lady called. I fancied she might be Miss Marryat. She looked around the office, and then, addressing me, she said, 'Is Bill in?'

"To this I replied that Mr. Tinsley was not in. Could I do anything for her? 'I must see Bill himself,' she said. 'Tell the old bounder I called.' 'You're Miss Marryat?' I ventured. 'Yes. But stop! How the dickens do you know I'm Miss Marryat? I never saw you before.'"

The Sword of a Knight.

The sword of a noble knight was mentioned almost as often as himself in the songs of the troubadours of the middle ages. In the olden time this trusty weapon was named and personified as accomplishing countless brilliant deeds. In the proverbs of all nations it is spoken of with reverence and trust. It represents the rank and renown, the heroism and honor, the glory and greatness, of nations in the past. One of the first weapons made by man, it became his most important arm and auxiliary of warfare. It has always been the visible badge of birth, bravery and freedom. To surrender it was to admit defeat and disgrace. So long has it been the constant companion of rank and valor that it has acquired a dignity of its own. Like no other weapon, it has a quality entirely distinct from its character as a blood shedder. In England even at the present day the sword alone is considered adequate to confer knighthood.

Educated.

Gayboy—Do you know anything about betting on horse races? Gayman—I know all about it. I've quit.—Chicago Tribune.

Nothing is more amiable than true modesty, and nothing is more contemptible than the false.—Addison.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex C. Dake, of Chilton county, Alabama, and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against J. Bice in favor of Phillips & Buttorff Mfg Co., out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company, as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I will expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

The above sale is continued to Monday, Nov. 13, 1905.

This Nov. 6, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex C. Dake, of Chilton county, Ala., and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment against J. Bice in favor of William ... out of the goods chattels, lands and tenements of the said J. Bice I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers Warehouse & Fertilizer company as the property of J. Bice.

Therefore, according to said command, I will expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named J. Bice in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905, during the legal hours of sale, at the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala.

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of September, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

The above sale is continued to Monday, Nov. 14, 1905.

This Nov. 6, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

$2.25. By special arrangement we are enabled to offer the Alabama Baptist ($2.00) and the Banner ($1.00) both papers one year for $2.25

XIV

Part

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

That was a sad home-coming for Johnson, who it will be remembered was sentenced to thirty years in the penitentiary for killing of Asa Rawlinson. Pending an appeal to the supreme court he was serving his sentence at Speigners, and Gov. Jelks, learning that the wife of Johnson was dieing at her home at Maplesville, kindly paroled Johnson for a week that he might be with his wife in her last moments. Johnson got home just in time to sooth the last hours of his life's companion. It must have been a touching scene and we deeply sympathise with the family. Five children are left to brave the world without the care of their dear mother. God be with them.

One of the best things our Mayor and Council have ever done was the passing of the ordinance prohibiting the blowing of locomotive whistles within the corporate limits. No longer is night made hideous with the scream of the locomotive, and weary persons may now sleep in peace. Mayor Chandler and his council believe in doing things, and deserve great credit for what they have accomplished.

President Harvie Jordan of the Southern Cotton Association says that cotton will yet bring 15 cents this season. The crop is undoubtedly short and the holders of cotton may expect better prices. Hope it may prove to be the case, and that the lucky holders of spot cotton will get 15 cents for it. Just now, there's a little drop, but fluctuations must be expected.

Unity Baptist Association

The minutes for 1905 are now ready, and Clerks of churches in the neighborhood of Clanton will please call or send to The Banner office for their share.

A BIG SHOW COMING.

The Cole & Rogers Railroad Show will exhibit in

Clanton, Tuesday, Nov. 21

and give one performance, afternoon only. Doors will open at 12 o'clock noon, and performance will commence at 1 p.m. A Grand Free Street Parade at 11 o'clock. These Shows differ from the ordinary, as they contain everything new. The Show throughout will be highly entertaining, and the many clowns will keep the fun up to the top notch. One performance, afternoon only.

Notice To Clanton Circuit

My health is improving and I will fill my regular appointments the first Sunday in November, Mt. Moriah at 11 a.m. and Jemison at 7 p.m., God willing. Our 4th Quarterly Conference will convene at Jemison on Nov. 21, at 11 a.m. All of the official members are urged to be present.

J. T. ECKFORD, P. C.

Neuralgia Pains

Rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerves and bone and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body, and effect some wonderful cures. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

FOR RENT—A five horse farm to rent, two miles from Montevallo, same having two dwellings, gin press, blacksmith shop and all kinds of improved tools to farm with. Will rent place and stock or rent place alone. Apply to S. LATHAM, Montevallo, Ala.

STOC

PRICES

f the good people of Chilton county,
stock, comprising all the latest fa
ly call your attention to our line of Trimmed Hats and Millinery o kinds; Dress Goods; Under Jackets of the latest styles; Br

wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes,

Hats, and a special line of 500 p
of sample Shoes, worth from $
to $5 00, to be closed out at $ fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
SON PHONOGRAPHS.
VIOLINS, GUITARS,

eep in stock at the very lowest pri
and hear the Phonograph talk—
life worth living.

ANJUTZKY
VORITE STORE
nton, Ala.

AGGING

n of the most serious trouble which can g of the womb. With this, generally, nty or profuse periods, wasteful, weaken-he, headache, nervousness, dizziness, irriility to walk, loss of appetite, color and

CARDUI
nan's Relief

xtract, or natural essence, of herbs, which engthening influence on all female organs.
ates the menses, stops drains and stim-
he womb up into place.
ent cure for all female complaints.

us all
ree ad-
. Ad-
., The
hatta-

"I SUFFERED AWFUL PAIN in my womb and ovaries," writes Mrs. Naomi Bake, of Webster Groves, Mo., "and my menses were very painful and irregular. Since taking Cardui I feel like a new woman, and do not suffer as I did."

ovelist,
t. had
The William n Hor
y. the
'She volume he way
er.
ze her h, said striking to you later a might around ne, she Finsley
ing for lf,' she called ntured kens do
I never ht was himself
s of the me this person-ss bril-
all nance and and re-he glory
he past
by man,
rm and always bravery was to ong has of rank dignity apon, it from its
In Eng
e sword confer nything
? Gay-
e quit.—
an true
re conison.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the tice Court of Alex O. Dake, of Chilton co Alabama, and to me directed whereby I commanded to make the amount of a c judgment recently obtained against J. Ri favor of Phillips & Buttorff Mfg Co., out o goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the J. Rice, I have levied on the following pro to wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers W house & Fertilizer company, as the prope J. Rice.

Therefore, according to said command, I expose for sale at public auction, all the r title and interest of the above named J. Ri and to the above described property, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, during the legal hours of sale, at the C House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of Septe 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton co

The above sale is continued to Monday, 13, 1905.

This Nov. 6, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, She

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice Court of Alex O. Dake, of Chilton co Ala and to me directed whereby I am com to make the amount of a certain judgme against J. Rice in favor of William out of the goods chattels, lands and tene of the said J. Rice I have levied on the follo property to wit:

Eleven shares of stock in the Farmers W house & Fertilizer company as the property Rice.

Therefore according to said command, I expose for sale at public auction, all the r title and interest of the above named J. and to the above described property, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, during the legal hours of sale, at the C House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala

Dated at Clanton this 30th day of Septe 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton co

The above sale is continued to Monday, 13, 1905.

This Nov. 6, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, She

KILL THE COUG
AND CURE THE LUN
WITH Dr. King's
New Discover
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1. Free T Surest and Quickest Cure for THROAT and LUNG TROU
LES, or MONEY BACK.

$2.25. By special arrang we are enabled to offer the Alabama Baptist ($2.00 and the Banner ($1.00) both papers one for $2,25

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIV | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No.

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

It was a sad home-coming for Johnson, who it will be remembered was sentenced to thirteen years in the penitentiary for killing of Asa Rawlinson. ...ing an appeal to the supreme ...he was serving his sentence ...pigners, and Gov. Jelks, ...ing that the wife of Johnson ...dying at her home at Maples... kindly paroled Johnson for ...week that he might be with his ...in her last moments. Johnson ...home just in time to sooth ...last hours of his life's compan... It must have been a touching ...and we deeply sympathise ...the family. Five children are ...to brave the world without the ...of their dear mother. God be ...them.

...e of the best things our Mayor ...Council have ever done was ...passing of the ordinance pro...ing the blowing of locomotive ...tles within the corporate lim... No longer is night made hid... with the scream of the loco...ve, and weary persons may ...sleep in peace. Mayor Chan... and his council believe in doing ...g, and deserve great credit for ...t they have accomplished.

...resident Harvie Jordan of the ...thern Cotton Association says ...cotton will yet bring 15 cents ...season The crop is undoubt... short and the holders of cotton ...expect better prices. Hope it ...prove to be the case, and that ...lucky holders of spot cotton ...get 15 cents for it. Just now, ...'s a little drop, but fluctuations ...t be expected.

Unity Baptist Association

...he minutes for 1905 are now ...y, and Clerks of churches ...e neighborhood of Clanton will ...se call or send to The Banner ...e for their share.

A BIG SHOW COMING.

...he Cole & Rogers Railroad ...w will exhibit in

...nton, Tuesday, Nov. 21

...give one performance, after...n only. Doors will open at 12 ...ck noon, and performance will ...mence at 1 p.m. A Grand ...Street Parade at 11 o'clock. ...se Shows differ from the ordi...y, as they contain everything ... The Show throughout will be ...ly entertaining, and the many ...ns will keep the fun up to the ...notch. One performance, ...rnoon only.

Notice To Clanton Circuit.

My health is improving and I ...fill my regular appointments ...the first Sunday in November, ...Moriah at 11 a.m. and Jemison ...p.m., God willing. Our 4th ...arterly Conference will convene ...Jemison on Nov. 21, at 11 a.m. ...of the official members are ...ed to be present.

J. T. Eckford, P. C.

Neuralgia Pains.

Rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic ...s yield to the penetrating in...ce of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerves and ...e and being absorbed into the ...d, its healing properties are con...ed to every part of the body, ...effect some wonderful cures. ...50c and $1.00. Sold by Up...rch Drug co.

FOR RENT—A five horse ...to rent, two miles from Mon...allo, same having two dwellings, ...press, blacksmith shop and all ...ds of improved tools to farm ...h. Will rent place and stock or ...rent place alone. Apply to S. Latham, Montevallo, Ala.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Do not be deceived by counterfeits when you buy Witch Hazel Salve. The name of E. C. DeWitt & Co. is on every box of the genuine. Piles in their worst form will soon pass away if you will apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve night and morning. Best for Cuts, Burns, Boils, Tetter, Eczema etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Pleasant Grove.

Editor Banner: Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to a mistake that appeared in last issue, written by a Southeast Chiltonian, in regard to the Chilton County Singing Convention. He says that a singing convention gotten up for the good of the masses and not for a special benefit to a few is a grand thing. And that is exactly the intention or in other words, the motive we have in view which brought about the organization of the Chilton County Singing Convention. Its intention is to lift the cause of sacred song to a higher plane of existence. To learn more people to sing God's praise by bringing as many of the singers of the county together as possible in each annual session and stir up more interest in the work, and to put more teachers in the work for the upbuilding of the cause of sacred song. As for the bug in constitution I think it a very small one, wherein it requires its teachers to have a certificate. If they have not got one we have an examining committee who will gladly wait upon them, and who are men of reason, who have the cause of sacred song at heart. On the fifth Sunday of April last I heard the question asked the President of this committee what would have to be the qualifications of a teacher before he could procure a certificate. His answer was: "If a person knows the rudiments of music they can learn the people how to sing." And of course they would be granted a certificate graded according to the questions they answered. Now isn't that right?

Now, I am not surprised at all at this would be down pull on the Chilton County Singing Convention, for you will find indifference to any cause, whatsoever it may be. As for the meeting at Concord being a failure, I view it in a different light to our antagonist. And as for the attendance being small, that was due to other hindrances rather than the bug. At Concord we met as fine people as we have ever met anywhere and were entertained in a most cordial way, of which we are very thankful. At Concord we aded six new members to our list, one of which is a noted Baptist preacher, one a teacher and all of them are energetic workers. Now, I want to say to the members of our convention, lets do more for the upbuilding of the cause of sacred song the coming year than in the past. Let's work together to make our next session the best meeting of the kind ever held in our county. The next annual meeting will be held with Pleasant Grove church, 4½ miles southwest of Jemison, July 28–29, 1906. We trust that "Diminished Internally" will lay down all prejudice by then and attend that meeting. We would ask God's blessings upon each and every effort tending to upbuild the cause of sacred song.

We would say to those whom our constitution and by-laws don't suit, join our convention and help us make it suit you. With best wishes to the cause in every respect, I am yours very truly,

James Franklin,
Sec., C. C. S. C.

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my Mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. Trial bottle free

Big railroad show in Clanton Tuesday.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$45,444.00
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50
Currency	12,233 00
Gold	295.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,297 01
Checks and Cash Items	39 00
Profit and Loss	4.56
		$37,502 96
Total		$88,408.61

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000.00
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,878 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172 50
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
		$65,[illegible]
Total		$88,408.61

Thohrsy.

Among this week's arrivivals are the names, Lieon and Larson from Wisconsin; Messrs Anderson and Wescott from Michigan, and several others whose names we are unable to learn.

Clanton also was well represented here last week—Hon. Tipton Mullins on legal business.

Miss Cooley visited at the Sam Collins home last week.

Mrs. Homdey of Wetumpka spent a few days here.

Rev. Graham preached a morning and evening sermon at the College last Sabbath.

Mr. Bosworth's home was the scene of a large and convivial party of our young people Saturday evening last.

Mrs. Lam and daughter left Tuesday for a brief visit to relatives in Southern Alabama.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Hartelius expressed their regard by surprising her Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. Ed Snyder removed to Birmingham last week.

Prof. Von Feilitze gave a very instructive and earnest discouse at the Swedish church Sunday evening last.

Mr. T. T. Thorson started again for Pennsylvania on Monday last.

Miss Kirkeby's many friends here will be glad to know she has a large and interesting class in Chicago.

Citizen

Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headache constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers" are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

FIRE AT HAYES.

Last Saturday the dwelling house of Mr. I. A. Patrick near Hayes was totally destroyed by fire All the furniture and bedding was lost, only one mattress being saved. Mr. Walter Grimes, who had been laying sick in the house, was removed that morning to the home of his father, and shortly afterwards the house was found to be on fire. Mr. Patrick carried no insurance and the loss falls heavy upon him.

A liquid cold cure and the only Cough Syrup which moves the bowels—works all cold out of the system—is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the head and throat and makes weak lungs strong. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Randolph.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Hubbard, a boy. May God's richest blessings rest upon this young couple. May he give them knowledge to rear this one up to be a useful and noble man, true to the religion of his Redeemer; true to his country and fellowman. May he forever walk in the ways of our dear Savior whom died our souls to save. May God give them health, strength and knowledge to rear this young one, is my prayer.

Bro. Harrison filled his regular appointment at this place Sunday, assisted by a good Bro., his name we are unable to give, but was listened to, and enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. C. W. Brand has purchased a new piano, the boys are anticipating a fine time listening to the music.

Mrs. Gordon Cleveland of Selma spent the past two weeks with parents of this place.

Messrs. Smitherman, Palmer, Elam and Harvey Nix report a fine time Sunday.

Subscriber.

A Disastrous Calamity.

It is a disastrous calamity, when you lose your health, because indigestion and constipation have sapped it away. Prompt relief can be had in Dr. King's New Life Pills. They build up your digestive organs, and headache, dizziness, colic, constipation, etc. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co; 25c.

Center Point.

A few more words in regard to our singing at this place. Singing is better every Sunday and with the help of our dear Savior we hope to be a success. The singing at Mr. G. W. Askins was enjoyed by all

Mr. Frank Powell of Prattville was a welcome visitor here Sunday.

Miss Ida Williams and sister, Minnie, visited Miss Eula Owens Saturday and reported a nice time. Success to the Banner and its readers.

School Girl.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorby.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President
W. H. Sartor, Vice President
E. A. Matthews, Cashier
E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker
W. H. Sartor
P. D. Wilson
W. I. Mullins
E. A. Matthews
J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

WANTED—We are installing a night run and need a double crew. We can give employment to 100 good laborers either white or colored. We also need planing mill feeders and graders. JACKSON LUMBER CO., Lockhart, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

When you want a pleasant physic try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and produce no griping or other unpleasant effect. Sold by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

STRAYED or stolen from me at Maplesville on the 26th of Oct., 1905, one dark bay mare, weight about 900 lbs.; in good order would weigh 1200 lbs; with a very slight star in forehead, fore top cut out, shod in front and has small scars on right hip, high up in flank, that resembles a burn, and one low down on leg; if not on same leg it is on leg on opposite side. Any information leading to the recovery of said mare, will be paid a liberal reward. Andrew Wiggins, Maplesville, Ala.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties. Guaranteed by Upchurch Drug co. Price 50c.

Subscribe for the Banner

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address
THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this season of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,
Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.
2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

Line to Wetumpka.

Montgomery, Ala.—President R. D. Apperson, of the Montgomery Traction Company, has reached Montgomery from his home in Lynchburg, Va., to look over the properties of his company here. Mr. Apperson will remain in Montgomery several days, and during that time will look over the plans and talk with the projectors of the proposed line of the Traction Company from Montgomery to Wetumpka. When asked as to the building of the proposed road to Elmore county's capital Mr. Apperson said: "Nothing definite has been decided on this matter as yet. We have the matter under consideration, and during my stay here I will look into the plans of the road more closely. I may have something to give out before I leave." Mr. Apperson is stopping at the Imperial Hotel.

Selma Fair a Great Success.

Selma, Ala.—The first fair for Central Alabama in over a quarter of a century came to a close Saturday night with a brilliant exhibition at the horse show. The fair has been a distinct success in every way. There was an effort made to continue the exhibition until Wednesday of this week, but the directors decided that the people had had enough, and with the stroke of 12 Saturday night the first fair of the Central Alabama Fair Association came to a close.

The stock show of the fair has been the most talked-of feature of the exhibition. There were more fine cattle displayed, more hogs, more sheep and goats goats than has before been exhibited in Alabama, according to many visitors. The woman's department was also a great success, Mrs. Craig, the superintendent, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Reid, of Birmingham, receiving much praise for their successful efforts. The racing feature was fair, and the horse show was in every way satisfactory. Next year Selma will have a fair second to none in the south, and preparations looking to that end will be begun at once.

Fever at Havana.

Mobile, Ala.—Dr. Henry Goldthwaite, executive officer of the quarantine board of Mobile Bay has received a cablegram from Dr. Del Gado, of the United States marine hospital service, announcing the existence of yellow fever in Havana. The quarantine board of Mobile Bay immediately quarantined against the entire island of Cuba pending further investigation. This action, however, will not restrict travel to and from the island in the case of passengers from the north. They will be allowed to transfer from the incoming steamers direct to trains under inspection and surveillance, while passengers to Mobile will be held at the quarantine station in the lower bay until out five days from the Cuban ports. The vessels will be fumigated.

Put on the Lid.

Montgomery, Ala.—Pursuant to instructions from Mayor Teague the chief of police gave special orders to members of the police force to arrest Sunday violators. There was unusual vigilance exerted, according to Chief Gerald, to apprehend those persons selling whisky on Sunday, and the police closely watched all dealers in fresh meats, fish and and oysters and merchandise so as to enforce the law regarding the sale of those articles. All of those dealers were duly notified that the law against the sale of fresh meats, fish and oysters and merchandise would be enforced against them Sunday.

Delegates Will Attend Meeting.

Birmingham, Ala.—About seventy-five delegates to the twentieth annual meeting of the Alabama Christian Mission Association left Birmingham Monday at noon in a special car over the Louisville and Nashville Railroad to attend the convention to be held in Athens.

Heavy River Freights.

Gadsden, Ala.—The recent heavy rains have caused the river to rise and a good boating tide is now on. The local boats have all the freight they can handle, and cotton receipts are the heaviest known in years by water.

Big Judgment in Gadsden Court.

Gadsden, Ala.—In the circuit court in the case of Mrs. Emma Green vs. the First National Bank the jury gave a verdict for $1,892 in favor of the plaintiff. Mrs. Green sued the bank to recover some stock she claimed to hold as trustee of her children. The suit was warmly contested.

Supreme Court Convened Monday.

Montgomery, Ala.—The November term of the supreme court opened for business Monday. Several briefs and records have been filed, and it looks as if there would be a good sized docket to take the attention of the justices right from the jump.

We would hate to be an old maid and have nothing to love but a cat, but we would hate a whole lot worse to be a married woman and have to coax money from a man that chewed tobacco.

BAD TO WORSE.

Another Mutiny Brewing, Soldiers in Sight of Capital in Revolt.

MUTINEERS HOLDING THEIR OWN

Martial Law Has Been Declared in Poland and the Dark Cloud is Hourly Growing Denser.

London.—Conditions in Russia are steadily progressing from bad to worse.

Another mutiny is reported broken out among the troops stationed at Krasnoye Selo, eighteen miles from St. Petersburg, which may prove even more serious than that at Cronstadt, where the rioters were mostly sailors, who were not well provided with arms as are the soldiers in this great camp.

The mutineers at Cronstadt, however, were still holding out at last reports and demanding that they be exempt from the rule which provides for the shooting of one man in every five found guilty of disobeying orders regarding the authority of their superiors.

At the admiralty offices in St. Petersburg it is admitted that the revolt had been brewing for a long time and that the sailors at Cronstadt are not the only ones in the service dissatisfied with their present condition. It is also admitted by high authorities that socialism has made great progress in the army, and one evidence of this comes in a dispatch from Japan, telling of a remarkable socialistic demonstration among the Russian military prisoners there awaiting transportation to their homes.

Parade Greets Revolt.

The news of the revolt in Russia was greeted by them with wild acclamation, and a parade was at once organized and speeches made commending the stand taken by the people against the autocracy. The sentiments among these soldiers are said to be typical of the feeling throughout the army, with the possible exception of the Cossacks, who can be depended on to obey the wishes of the Czar except when there is loot in sight, as in the recent anti-Jewish outbreak in dessa.

As predicted in these dispatches, the revolutionists in Poland have assumed such a threatening attitude that martial law has been declared throughout the province, the government having been informed that a revolution on a large scale, like that of 1864, was preparing.

Kaiser Welhelm is believed to have considerable influence in bringing about this action on the part of the Russian government, as he has been considerably worried over the prospect of the threatened insurrection spreading into German and possibly Austrian Poland.

Details of Massacres.

Details of these massacres are still coming in very slowly. In fact, it can hardly be said that we have yet received any connected or definite report of the massacres in any of these cities, the press dispatches consisting merely of vague generalities.

Fell Dead.

Birmingham, Ala.—There is something of the mysterious in the death of a man believed to be B. E. Gartrell, of Dodge, Walker county, Ga. He fell to the sidewalk at the corner of Morris avenue and Twentieth street shortly before 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and died a few minutes later. The coroner will make a post mortem examination to determine the cause of death.

Circus to Winter in Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—It has been officially announced by F. T. Rose, local contracting agent, that the Sells & Downs shows will winter in Birmingham. The old fair grounds, known as Smith's Park, have been rented for the winter, and the shows will go into winter quarters November 23. The performers and employes of the shows, 200 or 300 in number, will receive their pay when the shows arrive, and it is probable that a large amount of this money will be spent in Birmingham.

Hot on the Trail.

New York.—Ten indictments for violation of the election laws and two for assaults committed at the polls at the election last Tuesday have been drawn up by the grand jury. It is said that Attorney-General Mayer and State Superintendent of Elections Morgan have instituted a searching investigation of the alleged election frauds, which will be continued until after the legislature meets.

Fight for Right of Way.

Vancouver, B. C.—Five hundred men in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railroad and Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway have been fighting for supremacy and right of way over a disputed section of land. Picks and shovels were used as weapons, and there were several pistol shots, but provincial police disarmed the combatants before any one was killed. Nine arrests have been made.

Carnegie Believes in Municipal Ownership.

New York.—Andrew Carnegie upon disembarking from the steamer Baltic, on which he arrived, talked on American politics. He spent the summer at his castle in Scotland. Of the New York election Mr. Carnegie said: "I do not think that any attempt to defraud the people out of a fair count could be continuously successful, or that it would ever endanger this republic, for the voice of the people will make itself heard. I don't believe in the socialist idea of municipal ownership, but municipal ownership is a certainty as sure as I am alive. Scotland and England are ahead of us in ownership of public property."

To Obtain Cheap Wheat.

New York.—Japan is credited by Commercial Intelligence with the intention of establishing a steamship line to South America, her object being to get cheap wheat from Argentina. Rice, even in the army, is giving way a good deal to bread made from wheat or from a mixture of wheat and rice or other cereals. The Japanese government recently instructed its representative in Brazil to collect and report information concerning present trade relations and possibilities between Brazil and Japan with a view to their further development.

Farmers to Go to Mexico.

New York.—An official of a western railway interested in passenger business to Mexico states that many of the farmers of Colorado, Illinois, Texas and Oklahoma desire to secure favorable locations south of the Rio Grande, where they can buy good land for $5 to $6 per acre, it being their purpose to sell the small but high priced farms now owned by them in the United States, some of which will bring from $150 to $200 per acre, and acquire much larger holdings in Mexico.

Another Gold District.

El Plomo, Mex.—For two years an Indian, at regular intervals, brought gold into the El Plomo mining camp, in the Mexican state of Sonora, the amount going as high on one occasion as $2,000. Until recently all efforts to learn where it was mined have failed. Finally a prospector succeeded in following the Indian to the source of his rapidly accumulating wealth, and now another rich gold district has been added to the already long list.

Hearst Talks.

New York.—William R. Hearst says: "The law committee has discovered some very amazing things, and the deeper we go into this thing the uglier it looks. We have evidence against twelve district leaders, and I am confident that we shall land two or three of them in prison. I am just as much interested in the criminal prosecution of this case as I am in the recount. In this case it makes no difference whether I am declared elected or not in comparison with the greater duty of sending criminals to jail."

W. R. Hearst has announced an additional reward of $10,000 for evidence for the arrest, conviction and imprisonment of the first Tammany district leader to be convicted of frauds against the ballot in Tuesday's election. This is an addition to the other rewards, aggregating $17,000, for proof of crimes against the ballot and registration laws in the election. This makes the total of rewards he has offered $27,000.

Desperado Surrenders.

Pineville, Ky.—Shelby Ball, indicted for the murder of Lewis Collins here last May and the alleged leader of a gang of ruffians who have been terrorizing Middlesboro, Ky., and Cumberland Gap, Tenn., for the past two weeks, was surrendered to Judge M. J. Moss, of the circuit court, by his brother, Houston Ball, of Midlesboro. Shelby Ball is a brother of Frank.

Oyama to Write History of War.

Tokio.—The mikado has directed Field Marshal Oyama, the genius who directed the military movements of the Japanese army during the recent war with Russia, to write an official history of the war, which is to be placed in the archives of the state. As soon as the history is completed one copy will be presented to England, Japan's ally, while another will be presented to the United States government in recognition of the part played by President Roosevelt in bringing about peace.

Burned to Death.

Fort Payne, Ala.—The little 3-year-old son of Sam Moody, of Sylvania, was burned to death last Thursday. The mother left the room to attend to some household duties, and when she returned she found the child in flames. She was badly burned herself in trying to save the child. The child was burned so badly that it died in a few hours.

Schools Closed in Russia.

St. Petersburg.—The universities and the high schools throughout Russia have been closed indefinitely by order of the minister of education.

Will Demand Increase?

Pittsburg, Pa.—When the miners of the bituminous field meet the operators in January to arrange the wage scale for the coming year a demand will be made for 12 per cent increase.

MORE FRAUD

Says Secretary Cheatham. Predicts more Disclosures. Report Criticized.

THE SECRETARY CRIES SHAME

On You, Mr. Wilson—Conditions on November 1 the Same as on October 1.

New York.—Richard Cheatham, of Atlanta, secretary of the Southern Cotton Association, is quoted by the Herald as having severely criticised the report of the cotton crop issued Friday from Washington, in which the condition of the crop on Nov. 1 was stated to be 68.8.

Mr. Cheatham, who is stopping in this city, said among other things:

"The most absurd piece of spite work ever attempted was the issuing of the crop report of Friday by Mr. Wilson, the secretary of agriculture. In this report he announced the 'condition' as 68.8. Now there is no sane man who ever saw a cotton stalk who does not know that on November 1, and November 10, it is not only far beyond the fruiting or bearing stage, but in nearly every case is entirely void of foliage of every kind.

"It has passed far beyond the increasing stage. Its condition, so far as conditions are recognized in reports, is the same as on October 1, previously. For Secretary Wilson to make a report on 'condition' of November 1 is to assist in the operation of the bear speculators to hammer down the price of cotton.

"I may say to Mr. Wilson, 'shame, shame, shame on him,' and the men who assisted him in this attempt at spite work aainst the cotton producers of the south. It is a final effort to 'get even,' and the attempt will result in sure discomfiture for the department of agriculture before the session of the next congress is far advanced. That there will be an investigation of this department by congress and an uncovering of matters now concealed by which all previous disclosures will pale into insignificance, I do not for an instant doubt."

The Southern Cotton Association in its bulletin of the crop, issued on October 31, estimated the crop for 1905 at 9,444,314 bales, a smaller production than Friday's estimate of 68.8 would promise.

Will Stand for Eight-Hour Day.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A special from Shamokin, Pa., to the Telegraph says: An incomplete canvass of the Lackawanna, Schuylkill and Lehigh coal districts shows the miners through their delegates to the United Mine Workers to be held here beginning December 14 will refuse to be bound after April 1 next by a renewal of the award of the anthracite coal strike committee appointed by President Roosevelt unless the operators in addition agree to the union becoming a signatory party.

The convention will take a stand for an eight-hour work day, uniform pay for classes of employment not rated as miners and specific terms of employment, but this will be held subject to a joint discussion and will not be obtruded in advance of the request for a conference.

Double-Header Collision.

Fort Worth, Tex.—A special to the Record from Aledo, Tex., says: Eastbound Texas and Pacific passenger train No. 6, known as the Cannon Ball, was wrecked about two miles west of Iona Switch, killing one man and injuring eight others.

Henry B. Gray Announces.

Birmingham, Ala.—Henry B. Gray, an alderman from the Eighth ward, the president of the People's Savings Bank and Trust Company and one of the most popular and influential men in the Birmingham district, formally announced Saturday that he would be a candidate for lieutenant-governor.

In his letter of announcement Mr. Gray comes out clearly and emphatically in favor of railway rate reform, the development of a first-class system of public schools, liberal pensions for Confederate veterans, better roads, state control of convicts, immigration when carefully safeguarded and the adoption of a municipal code for the state.

$100,000 in Gems Stolen.

New York.—Confession to the robbery of $100,000 worth of gems from fashionable New York homes in the last two years by Harold Prescott, a painter. His profit on pawning the jewelry, Prescott said, was but little over $5,000.

To Probe Massacre.

Washington, D. C.—Lieutenant-General Lay, at Canton, cabled the state department that he was just starting up the West river for Lienchow, the scene of the recent killing of the five American Presbyterian missionaries. Mr. Lay's party numbers eight, including the viceroy, two American naval officers and some of th employes of the consulate. They will thoroughly investigate the tragedy.

Methodist Conference.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Methodists of this city are looking forward with considerable interest to the thirty-sixth annual session of the North Alabama conference, which will be in session at Athens on November 22-27. Bishop Charles B. Galloway will preside, and many important questions will be considered. The conference will consist of 225 Methodist ministers and forty delegates, comprising four laymen from each of the ten districts. The chief matters before the conference will be a review of the work of the year ending, the announcement of appointments for the next year by the bishop and the discussion of missions and financial condition of the conference colleges and other property.

Louis Sees West Point.

New York.—Prince Louis of Battenberg, accompanied by officers of his squadron and of Rear Admiral Evans' fleet, visited the military academy at West Point Saturday. The Brittishers saw the academy at its best. The beautiful spot was never more beautiful, the cadet troops never drilled better and the prince was especially interested in the hotly contested football game between the cadets and Carlisle Indians.

Horrible Crime.

Montgomery, Ala.—The crime for which Bob and John Andrews are on trial at Camden is one of the most revolting and terrible ever known in the chronicles of Alabama or in any other southern state for that matter. They are charged with the killing of their old father, James Andrews, and his young wife at Schuester, a small station in the country, and it seems that it was premeditated to some degree at any rate. Two little children are witnesses, having, it is alleged, seen the whole thing.

Was Not Fooling.

St. Louis, Mo.—Recent events have proved conclusively that the governor of the state was not emptily boasting when he said that if the New York Life Insurance Company did not refund the money illegally taken from the policyholders he would revoke their license in the state of Missouri. The company did not do so, and consequently the governor authorized the superintendent of the insurance department of the state to formally revoke their license.

The governor said that the revocation of the license would not affect the policyholders, as the state would see that they received their full interest.

Nearly Cut His Head Off.

Huntsville, Ala.—Curry Fackler, a negro bartender, had his head almost severed from his body Saturday night by a razor in the hands of Mary Davis. The woman was jealous of Fackler, and went with her razor to her lover's place of business, where she employed her weapon with deadly effect. Fackler's wound is pronounced fatal.

Big Fire in Richmond.

Richmond Va.—The three-story office and warehouse building of the Virginia Packing Company, near this city, was totally destroyed by fire. Loss, $250,000; insurance, $156,000. The flames started in the slaughtering department of the plant, presumably from spontaneous combustion. W. H. Forbes is president of the company.

Dan Patch Lowers Record.

Memphis, Tenn.—Dan Patch, the pacing champion, in an exhibition mile on the track of the Memphis Trotting Association lowered the world's pacing record without a wind shield by one and one-quarter seconds, covering the mile in 1:58 flat. The former record of 1:59 1-4 was held by Star Pointer, made several years ago at the Readville track.

Fire Companies Did Heroic Work.

Brewton, Ala.—By the heroic and splendid work of the two volunteer fire companies of Brewton the disastrous blaze, which seriously damaged the main building, a two-story structure, and practically destroyed the stock of goods of the Luttrell Hardware Company Thursday night, the fire was confined to the one building. The stock of millinery of Mrs. P. B. McLellan, next door, was water damaged.

Rural Delivery.

Anniston, Ala.—J. A. Knight, special agent of rural free delivery service of the United States postoffice department, is in this city and will at once begin work looking to the establishment of a full county service for Calhoun. The expression, full county service, means an extension of the rural free delivery facilities to every nook and corner in Calhoun county approachable by public road.

Miller Drug Company.

Anniston, Ala.—The Miller Drug Company has undergone a change in name and has been increased in capital and enlarged in scope. Hereafter it will be the Elam-Ordway House Drug Corporation. The new company will be capitalized at $50,000, and will do both a wholesale and retail business, and will in addition manufacture a line of proprietary preparations.

SITUATION SERIOUS

The President May Send Special Commission to the Orient.

IMPORTANT TO THE SOUT

Especially is This the Case with Cotton Crop of the Southern States.

Washington, D. C.—President Roosevelt is considering the advisability of sending a commission to China to certain exactly what the commercial status of the United States is in the country. Several reports have been received on this subject lately, but they have been so conflicting as to becloud rather than to clarify the situation.

Perhaps the most important of these was the report made nearly three weeks ago by O. P. Austin, chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor to Secretary Metcalf. Mr. Austin went to China more than six months ago for the single purpose of learning the condition and prospects of American commerce there, and especially to consider what effect the boycott is likely to have. His report has been made, but what it is cannot be learned nor can any information be got as to when it is likely to be given to the public.

This circumstance, together with the fact that Mr. Austin will not even intimate what the nature of it is, has given rise to the belief that his report has revealed rather a more serious situation than one would infer from the statements that have been made public. The recent murder of five American missionaries, while not attributed directly to the boycott, is believed to have been due to the general spirit of animosity which is felt by the people of that country for those of the United States, a spite which manifests itself in murder when there is any kind of provocation, and which is apt to make itself more readily felt in a commercial way unless something should be done to remove the grievance which the Chinese imagine they have.

The duty of preserving American opportunity in China is regarded as of the utmost importance, especially at this time, when it seems as if the competition of the nations in that empire is to be more spirited than ever before. The south feels perhaps a more lovely interest in this matter than any other section, for the reason that it looks to China for a market for its increasing crops of cotton.

Verdict of Not Guilty.

Cordova, Ala.—In the court of Judge Thomas Sowell here John Davidson, city marshal of Cordova, and Dr. and Mrs. Morton has been discharged upon the count of abduction on which they were arrested several days ago. This action terminates for the present the case which has attracted no little interest in Walker county.

Some days since Viola Hood, the [illegible]-year-old daughter of ohn W. Hood, one of the largest property owners and capitalists in the county, mysteriously disappeared from home. Investigation showed that she had gone to Columbus, Miss., and it was subsequently charged that she had stopped there with a relative of Dr. Morton's. It was also alleged that she had been put on the train on which she left here by Marshal Davidson. The hearing of the case consumed four days, and the evidence at times bordered on the sensational.

Conscience Hurt Him.

Birmingham, Ala.—The good work of conscience is the cause of the arrest of Joe Ewing, a white man, who is now in the city jail. While Officer Smoot was patroling his beat recently he was approached by a white man who told him that he had committed an offense in Nashville, Tenn., and that he was fully repentant and wanted to be returned to receive his just punishment. He told the officer that he had stolen some money. Smoot was a little afraid of the confession of the man, thinking he wanted a free ride to Nasnville, but took him down to the city prison and docketed a charge of suspicious character against him. The man gave the name of Joe Ewing, and he told the officers the names of the parties to communicate with in Nashville to verify the truthfulness of his statement.

Pensacola, Fla.—Yellow fever is practically at an end in Pensacola. Friday's report shows no new cases and no deaths, while there are only two cases under treatment.

Prominent People.

Emperor William recently received an antelope horn from German East Africa.

Marquis Ito, whom the Tokio mob stoned the other day, is the son of a rustic gardener.

Maxim Gorky, who was arrested in St. Petersburg as a revolutionist, owes his liberty to Count Witte.

President Loubet says he will probably withdraw from public life when his present term expires.

Every Comm

HIS ID

Hollister [illegible] powerful effort [illegible] gent blue in its [illegible] his lips seemed [illegible] line across his teeth. There were black, indented circles under his eyes, doubly accentuating the [illegible] yielding bitterness [illegible] their studied restraint. He was standing with one elbow [illegible] the sharp edge of the mantelshelf. In this position, he had been staring fixedly at his wife's perfectly impassive face for fully half an hour.

"Is your decision final?" he asked at last.

"I have said so."

"You, then, in so many words, give me carte blanche to hunt this fellow down and—"

She interrupted him with an emphatic nod.

"Hadn't you better reconsider? You know what I mean when I say that I will—"

"I perfectly understand, Edgar. But my mind is unalterable."

Hollister sneered. "Of course. Your attitude is thoroughly transparent to me. You feel confident enough of your ability to protect this scoundrel and yourself—"

The look on his wife's face stopped him. "It is unnecessary to prolong this," she said, rising, "you have taken your attitude, which you assert is final, and I—I have done the same. Just one last word: If you ever find out that you have made a grave mistake, the time will be too late. I shall not ask you to honor me with your trust again; once is sufficient—nay, superfluous—as has been demonstrated. Had you seen fit to listen to me for one moment in reason and faith—everything might have been different. But when, on the other hand, you chose to insult me (from the beginning), and unheard, why then—we must both submit to the inevitable." She swept past him as she finished speaking, and laid her hand on the door-knob.

But Hollister intercepted her, taking her roughly by the arm. "I will give you one more chance to prove and establish your innocence in my eyes," he said quiveringly. "Who was the man, Beatrice?"

The woman's face did not change a fraction, except perhaps, to grow a shade whiter and a shade more determined. "I cannot tell you," she said.

"You will not tell me."

"Very well, then, if that is more agreeable to you; I will not."

"I saw his face once, remember, and the day will come when both you and he will regret most bitterly that—"

"We ever lived? Doubtless. The day is already here." She shook off his hand and pulled open the door.

Hollister followed her out into the corridor. "There's one thing more," he insisted. "I have held this back till the last, hoping that you might come to your senses without so violent an incentive, but—"

"Well?"

"If you still persist in your present course, by this time to-morrow, I shall have to ask you to leave my roof."

Beatrice Hollister seemed to sway, almost imperceptibly for an instant, and a strange light flashed in her

"Is your decision final?"

eyes, but she controlled herself magnificently, and acknowledged the threat with a weary shrug; he should never know, as long as they both lived, that he had stabbed her to the heart.

Hollister went back to the library and threw himself dejectedly into a chair. Some of his anger had begun to wear off and give place to a miserable sense of depression and guilt. In all the years of their married life, she had not once given him cause for

SITUATION SERIOU

The President May Send Spe ial Commission to the Orient.

IMPORTANT TO THE SOUT

Especially is This the Case With Cotton Crop of the Southern States.

Washington, D. C.—President Roo velt is considering the advisability sending a commission to China to certain exactly what the commer status of the United States is in th country. Several reports have been r ceived on this subject lately, but th have been so conflicting as to becl rather than to clarify the situation.

Perhaps the most important of th was the report made nearly thr weeks ago by O. P. Austin, chief the bureau of statistics of the depar ment of commerce and labor, to Secr tary Metcalf. Mr. Austin went China more than six months ago f the single purpose of learning t condition and prospects of Americ commerce there, and especially to c sider what effect the boycott w likely to have. His report has bee made but what it is cannot be learne nor can any information be got as when it is likely to be given to th public.

This circumstance, together with th fact that Mr. Austin will not even t timate what the nature of it is, ha given rise to the belief that his r port has revealed rather a more se ous situation than one would infe from the statements that have bee made public. The recent murder five American missionaries, while n attributed directly to the boycott, believed to have been due to the ge eral spirit of animosity which is fe by the people of that country for tho of the United States, a spite whic manifests itself in murder when the is any kind of provocation, and whic is apt to make itself more steadily fe in a commercial way unless somethi should be done to remove the grie ance which the Chinese imagine th have.

The duty of preserving Americ opportunity in China is regarded as the utmost importance, especially this time, when it seems as if the co petition of the nations in that empi is to be more spirited than ever fore. The south feels perhaps a mo lively interest in this matter than a other section, for the reason that looks to China for a market for its creasing crops of cotton.

Verdict of Not Guilty.

Cordova, Ala.—In the court of Jud Thomas Sowell here John Davidso city marshal of Cordova, and Dr. a Mrs. Morton has been discharged up the count of abduction on which th were arrested several days ago. Th action terminates for the present case which has attracted no little terest in Walker county.

Some days since Viola Hood, the year-old daughter of ohn W. Hood, of the largest property owners capitalists in the county, mysterious disappeared from home. Investigati showed that she had gone to Colu bus, Miss., and it was subsequen charged that she had stopped th with a relative of Dr. Morton's. was also alleged that she had b put on the train on which she left by Marshal Davidson. The hearing the case consumed four days, and evidence at times bordered on the sational.

Conscience Hurt Him.

Birmingham, Ala.—The good wo of conscience is the cause of the rest of Joe Ewing, a white man, w is now in the city jail. While Offi Smoot was patroling his beat rece he was approached by a white who told him that he had committ an offense in Nashville, Tenn., that he was fully repentant and wa ed to be returned to receive his punishment. He told the officer th he had stolen some money. Sm was a little afraid of the confessio the man, thinking he wanted a fr ride to Nashville, but took him do to the city prison and docketed charge of suspicious character aga him. The man gave the name of J Ewing, and he told the officers t names of the parties to communic with in Nashville to verify the tr fulness of his statement.

Pensacola, Fla.—Yellow fever practically at an end in Pensac Friday's report shows no new ca and no deaths, while there are two cases under treatment.

Prominent People.

Emperor William recently receiv an antelope horn from German Africa.

Marquis Ito, whom the Tokio stoned the other day, is the son rustic gardener.

Maxim Gorky, who was arres St. Petersbu[illegible] as a revolutionis his liberty to Count Witte.

President Loubet says he [illegible] ably withdraw from publ[illegible] when his present term expi

Every Common Day

Every common day of our lives is clasped and jeweled with love,
The stars of night are beneath it, the morning stars above;
The peace of God broods on it, as a bird
on the nest she built,
And over its weariest moments the smile
of hope is spilt.

So when my work is finished, and I go to God with my wage,
I wonder if He can give me a Heavenlier heritage
Than to feel that each day that I live is clasped and jeweled with love,
With the stars of night beneath it and the morning stars above.
—Ethelwyn Wetherald.

HIS IDENTITY

BY NELLE CRAVEY GILMORE

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Hollister controlled himself by a powerful effort. His face looked almost blue in its deathly pallor, and his lips seemed stretched in a taut line across his teeth. There were black, indented circles under his eyes, accentuating the tense, unnatural bitterness that broke through his studied restraint. He was standing with one elbow pressed against the sharp edge of the mantel-shelf; in this position, he had been staring fixedly at his wife's perfectly impassive face for fully half an hour.

"Is your decision final?" he asked at last.

"I have said so."

"You, then, in so many words, give me carte blanche to hunt this fellow down and—"

She interrupted him with an emphatic nod.

"Hadn't you better reconsider? You know what I mean when I say that I will."

"I perfectly understand, Edgar. But my mind is unalterable."

Hollister sneered. "Of course. Your attitude is thoroughly transparent to me. You feel confident enough of your ability to protect this scoundrel and yourself—"

The look on his wife's face stopped him. "It is unnecessary to prolong this," she said, rising, "you have taken your attitude, which you assert is final, and I—I have done the same. Just one last word: If you ever find out that you have made a grave mistake, the time will be too late. I shall not ask you to honor me with your trust again; once is sufficient—nay, superfluous—as has been demonstrated. Had you seen fit to listen to me for one moment in reason and faith—everything might have been different. But when, on the other hand, you chose to insult me (from the beginning), and unheard, why then—we must both submit to the inevitable." She swept past him as she finished speaking, and laid her hand on the door-knob.

But Hollister intercepted her, taking her roughly by the arm. "I will give you one more chance to prove and establish your innocence in my eyes," he said quiveringly. "Who was the man, Beatrice?"

The woman's face did not change a fraction, except perhaps, to grow a shade whiter and a shade more determined. "I cannot tell you," she said.

"You will not tell me."

"Very well, then, if that is more agreeable to you; I will not."

"I saw his face once, remember, and the day will come when both you and he will regret most bitterly that—"

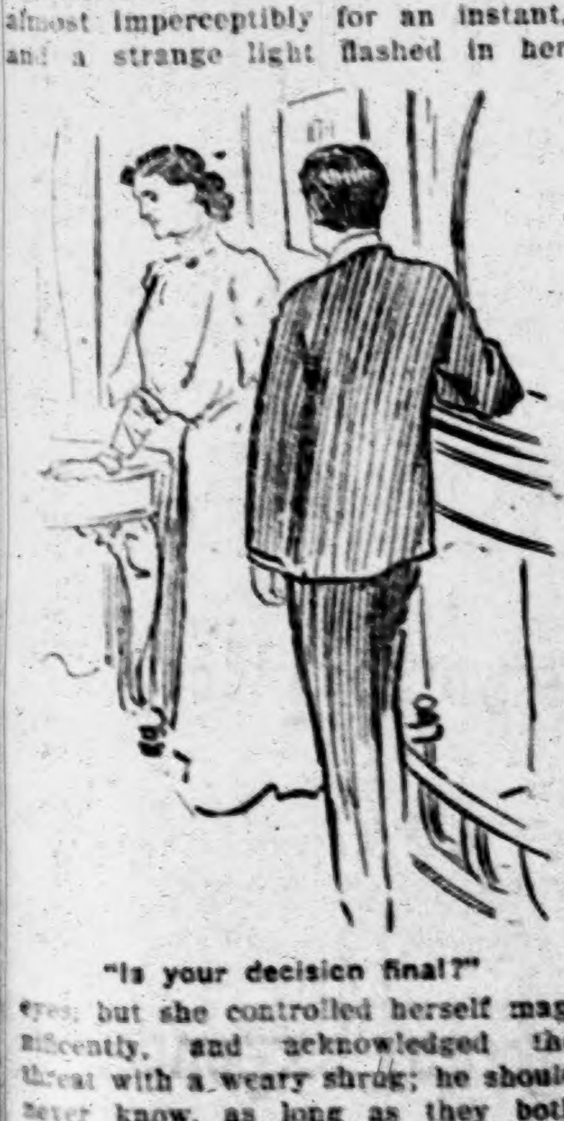
"We ever lived? Doubtless. The day is already here." She shook off his hand and pulled open the door.

Hollister followed her out into the corridor. "There's one thing more," he insisted, "I have held this back till the last, hoping that you might come to your senses without so violent an incentive, but—"

"Well?"

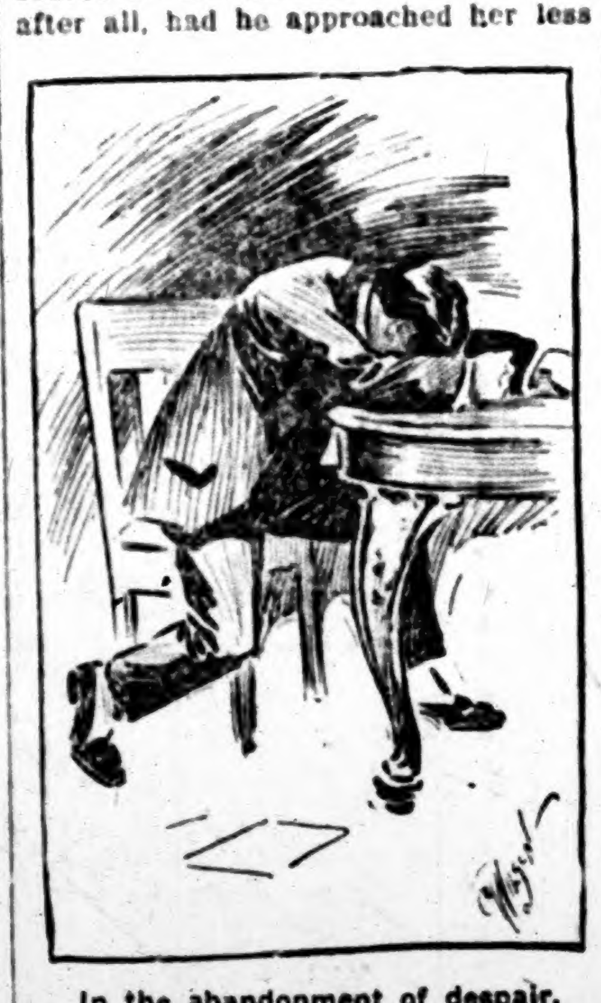
"If you still persist in your present course, by this time to-morrow, I shall have to ask you to—leave my roof."

Beatrice Hollister seemed to sway, almost imperceptibly for an instant, and a strange light flashed in her eyes; but she controlled herself magnificently, and acknowledged the threat with a weary shrug; he should never know, as long as they both lived, that he had stabbed her to the heart.



"Is your decision final?"

Hollister went back to the library and threw himself dejectedly into a chair. Some of his anger had begun to wear off and give place to a miserable sense of depression and guilt. In all the years of their married life, she had not once given him cause for suspicion or distrust until yesterday. And that she had given him no small cause on that occasion, he could not doubt. There was the evidence of his own eyes to damn her—and she had denied nothing. She had only asserted her innocence of wrong, absolutely and emphatically, but in the very face of contrary proofs. He had seen the man put his arm about her and kiss her; he had heard the endearing words he used, and those spoken in reply. That was all, but certainly it was enough to justify the course he had pursued. But perhaps, after all, had he approached her less insultingly, there might have been a better chance of learning the truth. Her manner, belligerent enough at first, had gradually grown to impress him with an undeniable sense of his own shortcoming and her rightful claim to consideration. Still, she had blamed him for lack of faith, while most positively exhibiting it herself!



In the abandonment of despair.

A clock somewhere striking nine, roused him from his reflections. He rose abruptly and turned out the gas. Afterward, he saw that the front door was securely bolted, and then went slowly upstairs to his apartments. At the door of his wife's bedroom, he paused a moment and listened. There was not a sound, so he supposed she must have retired. He moved away a few steps, then, impelled by some unexplainable motive, he turned and went back again, tapping softly against the panel of the door. There was no response, and he pushed it open slightly and glanced about the shadowed apartment; no one was there. With a terrible sense of foreboding, he entered noiselessly. The drawers and closets had all been ransacked, and a general air of desertion prevailed. Hollister sank down in the nearest chair, and buried his face in his hands and groaned. Once he looked up and about him in sudden fright; the miserable emptiness of the room terrified him beyond measure. Now that she was gone, a thousand different solutions of what he had taken as incontestible proofs of her guilt, flashed into his brain. He started up from his chair, as though under a lash, and lighted three of the five gas-jets. The first thing that met his glance, was a tiny white note, pinned to the cushion on her dressing-table. He unfastened it with shaking fingers, and smoothed out the paper.

"Dear Edgar:

"On the eve of my departure, and after thinking over everything, I have decided that after all, I probably owe you some sort of explanation of the other night. The man was my father. He escaped from prison last week and appealed to me for help. Notwithstanding the circumstances, I did not—could not refuse. He has gone away now, and I never expect to see him again. When you confronted me with your terrible accusation, the only thought I had then was fear for my father. I had promised him under solemn oath to tell no one—not even you—of his escape. Poor old man. His life has been a fearful one, and I am afraid he has been far more sinned against than sinning.

"You cannot blame me now, Edgar? Your lack of trust has wounded me beyond description; it has driven me, broken hearted from your home. If you had only trusted me a little while—things might have been so different! But by your own request, I am passing out of your home—and life—forever. "Beatrice."

The note slipped from Hollister's hand and fell, unheeded, on the floor. For a long time he stood straight and motionless as a statue, the dead white of his face offsetting the brilliancy of his eyes to an almost uncanny degree. When his strength came back, he moved mechanically over to a chair and dropped heavily into it, flinging out his arms across a table in the abandonment of despair. Presently, the touch of something small and soft and tremulous on his hair, brought him back to consciousness. He started up, half-dazedly. His wife stood looking down at him with a light in her eyes that thrilled him through and through.

"Edgar," she said, in a little weak, pitiful voice, "I—I forgot something. I had to come back."

"You—forgot something. I don't—can I help you?" he blundered out, struggling to his feet, and wondering stupidly whether he were still asleep.

"What did you forget?" he asked, battling for self-control.

"I—why—why it was—it was you, Edgar!" she sobbed, yielding herself hysterically to his outstretched arms.

HIS AID WAS NOT APPRECIATED.

Young Man's Efforts to Prompt Had Disastrous Ending.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson of Princeton was talking with some young men about cheating in examinations.

"Aside from moral grounds," Dr. Wilson said, "cheating is bad on material grounds. The cheat is very apt, you know, to be found out.

"In Virginia, in my boyhood, there was a case of cheating that had a disastrous ending.

"An elderly minister appeared before a board to be examined for some post or other. The examination was public, and the first branch to be taken up was Latin.

"'What is the Latin for goose?' the examiner said.

"And the poor old minister at the start was stumped. He could not remember. It was pitiful to see him, and a young man seated near could not resist helping him out.

"'Anser,' whispered the young man.

"But the minister continued silent, rolling his eyes, racking his brain.

"'Anser,' whispered the young man in a louder tone.

"The minister now turned his head and looked at his prompter oddly.

"'Poor old chap! He almost heard. He wants me to try again,' the young man thought, and, louder than ever, he repeated:

"'Anser.'

"At this the minister turned and shook his forefinger at the youth.

"'Answer yourself, you young jackanapes,' he shouted."

What They Strive For.

At a dinner that W. D. Howells gave at Kittery in Henry James' honor the talk turned to biographies.

"Nothing is more difficult," said Mr. James, "than to write modestly the biography of a contemporary. The standard life of Dickens illustrates this fact well.

"It is a fact well illustrated, too, by a story that has of late been traveling over London.

"One publisher said to another:

"'When are the Blanks going to bring out that life of Whistler which Jones, the art critic, has been working on?'

"'Well,' said the second publisher, 'Jones is pegging away diligently, but he is not satisfied with what he has done.'

"'That is odd,' laughed the first publisher. 'Jones usually is well pleased with his own work.'

"'I know,' was the reply, 'but in this biography of Whistler he finds it very difficult to make himself out a greater man than his hero.'"

She Was.

A Boston woman, after selecting some embroidery in one of the big department stores, discovered that she had not money enough with her to pay for it. She had never opened an account in this particular shop, and it was therefore agreed that the clerk should put the goods aside until the next day, when the purchaser should come for it with cash in hand.

When the woman returned the day following to get her embroidery she could not remember which of the saleswomen had waited upon her. After puzzling over the matter for a moment, however, she approached one who looked vaguely familiar and asked, "Am I the woman who bought some embroidery here yesterday?"

"Yes'm," replied the girl, stolidly, and turned to get it.—Youth's Companion.

Keeping in Step.

"Do you know German?" she whispered, getting as close as possible to the ear of her bureau of information.

"A little," said the librarian, cautious from long experience.

"Do you know how to spell 'owf—'owfwe'"—began the girl, and then stopped.

"I think you must mean 'aufweidersehen,'" the librarian said, pleasantly, and she spelled it slowly while the girl copied it on a slip of paper.

"O, thank you!" she said, as she carefully bestowed the paper in her bag. "You see, I have a particular friend—I'm really engaged to him—and he's in Germany; and I thought if he realized that I was making an effort to keep right along with him in the language he'd be so gratified! Goodby!"—Youth's Companion.

Need for Hindoo Women Nurses.

The only doctors admitted to the rooms of sick Hindoo women are the women of low caste, who are the most ignorant of nurses, and the result is seen in the appalling number of crippled, maimed and distorted children in India. English women have opened a hospital in north India, where forty Hindoo women are being taught to be physicians, nurses and surgeons.

UNCLE IKE HAD A GRIEVANCE.

Couldn't Vote for a Candidate Who Wasted His Money.

When the late Melbourne H. Ford made his run for Congress he overlooked nothing that he thought would improve his chances of election. One of his moves was the taking of an orchestra to a meeting held in one of the small towns near Grand Rapids.

This generous departure may have won him several votes, but it unquestionably lost him one. Every village has its character, and the one there was "Uncle Ike."

Whenever that orchestra broke forth "Uncle Ike" fastened a fierce glance upon the bass drummer. During the ordeal the jaws of the village character worked like those of a buck rabbit eating cabbage, and his white beard of the spinach pattern waved furiously in unison. Next morning one of those who had watched the actions of "Uncle Ike" drew him out on the subject, keeping in mind that he played the bass drum in the local "sheepskin" band, and that jealousy seems an inseparable part of the musical temperament.

"I suppose that you'll vote for Ford, Uncle Ike?"

"Then you better hire some smarter feller to do your supposin'. No man kin have my support that wastes his own money like it was water."

"What do you mean, Uncle Ike?"

"Well, you hain't no musicianer, but I'd like to know what sense there was in payin' out money fur haulin' that bass drum and the man with it clean out here. He didn't hit the durned thing more'n four times, and he was out o' tune every doggone hit."—Detroit Free Press.

Not Always Orange Blossoms.

Only in England, France and America is the orange blossom the bridal flower. When the German fraulein becomes a frau her head is garlanded with myrtle, except in certain sections, where gaudy wreaths of artificial flowers replace the natural blooms and are treasured from generation to generation. In Italy and the French cantons of Switzerland white roses are dedicated to the brides as well as the dead, but in Spain red roses and pinks lend an additional touch of color to the bridal dress of black and yellow. Greek brides are garlanded, appropriately enough, with vine leaves, and in Bohemia rosemary is supposed to bring luck to the bride who wears it. In most of the countries of Eunrope, however, the bridal wreath is considered as essential as the veil and pretty sentiment clusters about the faded wreath that is laid away, whether the wreath be of orange blossoms or laurel.

Survival of the Fittest.

A parrot met a graphophone
And listened to its chat—
"Let me depart," they heard her groan,
"I can't compete with that."

A lion, once the jungle's pride,
Heard of a famous trust—
"Talk of the lion's share," he sighed—
One gasp and he was dust.

A polecat sat beside the way—
An auto by him rushed;
He died at the first whiff, they say,
He was so dazed and crushed.

A trolley swiftly cleft the air—
Fan shook her head and cried,
"Now wouldn't that make any mare Commit race suicide?"

Thus at no very distant date,
Since good must yield to best,
Old Mother Nature'll abdicate
And man will do the rest.
—New York Times.

More About Shakespeare.

"A certain Mr. Stolzemburg, who lives in America, announces that the works attributed to Shakespeare were written by a syndicate," says a writer. "Mr. Stolzemburg must have been living a long way out of the current of affairs, or he would know that his theory is old-fashioned. Homer was a syndicate. Scott was a syndicate. Don't we all know that Dumas employed many hands on his romances? Now the really interesting discovery about the man who wrote Shakespeare is that he was a native of Bayeux, whose name was Jacques Pierre, which was easily corrupted into Shakespeare."

He Was Detained.

"I'd have been out ten days sooner," said the man, who had just been liberated from prison, "if it hadn't been for the chaplain."

"And what did he have to do with it?" was asked.

"It was him that had me detained up there. He comes to my cell one afternoon to see how I was getting on, and after a little he asks:

"'And what crime did you commit, my man, that they sent you here?

"'It was highway robbery, your reverence,' says I, 'and now give me your confidence and tell me what you are in for.'"—Cleveland Plaindealer.

From Ancient Days.

"Lounges," "couches," sofas," "tete-a-tetes" or "seats" are no longer talked about, for the old-fashioned "settle" is the accepted favorite of the present day. Set by the fireplace or on the side porch, the old Kensington rears its high carved back, the Chippendale braces its slender legs, and the "saw-horse settle" turns out its feet of claws. Even the popular divan has to hide its diminished head under its multiplicity of pillows before the wrought ram's heads of the new settles, which are said to be a reproduction of a style in use a thousand years before the Christian era.

Princess Fosters Swimming.

One of the fads of the Princess of Wales is to impress on every one in Great Britain the importance of learning to swim.

Danger to Sultan in Arab Renascence

Inhabitants of Provinces Now Governed from Constantinople Threaten to Throw Off Yoke and Assert Their Independence

Russia's waning prestige in Asia has permitted more than one oriental people to raise its head and reassert its national consciousness, says the Review of Reviews. At Constantinople, the lessening fear of the Muscovite has suggested the increased oppression of the tribes subject to Turkish rule. Unfortunately for the sultan, however, just as he has added to the weight of his hand there has burst out a long-smoldering Arab revolution which has already cost him several of the important towns in the peninsula.

The porte believes that British and German influence is behind the uprising. A recently published address of the Arab national party, however, indicates a real racial renascence of much significance among the Arabs. The Turks of the Arabian peninsula, it must be remembered, are in the great minority. Their government is oppressive, ineffective and bloody. They are soon to be cast out by a [illegible] through revolution, this address says.

The national Arab party announces its intention of separating completely from Turkey and founding an Arab empire composed of all the countries of Asiatic Arabs included within natural boundaries, from the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates, even to the isthmus of Suez, and from the Mediterranean to the Sea of Oman. The plan contemplates a form of government under an Arabian Mussulman which "shall be a liberal, progressive, constitutional sultanate." It is asserted that "to accomplish this magnificent project it will not be necessary to shed any blood."

What can the Turks in the Arab country, who number only 500 or 600, do in the face of 12,000,000? This has all been thought out and the Arabian people are ready. The address is signed by "The supreme council of the national Arab party." A number of economic and industrial projects are also contemplated by this party, including the reclamation of Syria and Mesopotamia by means of irrigation, making these ancient lands a second route to India.

Where the "Tenderfoot" Held His Own

Cowboys Had Him at Decided Disadvantage Until It Came to One Thing He Had Learned "Down East."

The tenderfoot was a bold, bad man
And a bold, bad man was he,
He went out west with a 'broidered vest
And his ties were a sight to see.

He wore kid gloves on his soft, white hands,
He had patent shoes for gents,
And the tile he wore he roundly swore
Cost him 1,000 cents.

He had a big suit case full of clothes
And he carried a dress suit, too,
And his colored socks had crimson clocks
And his shirts were pink and blue.

And he hit the trail for the cactus land
Where the cowboy rules and reigns,
With his simple smile in the height of style
He struck those western plains.

And the dude put up at the "Tough" hotel
In the town of Tralalalee,
Where the cowboys come when they get a sum,
Of money to burn with glee.

And he went about with a languid air
And the cowboys sized him up,
And each sunburned one swore: "I'll have some fun
Or I am a yaller pup."

So they all lined up in the "Tough" hotel
And with laughter loud and rude
They cried: "Advance and do us a dance,
You biled-shirt little dude."

And they all yanked out forty-one guns
And each fellow showed [illegible]
And the well-dressed prig did a little jig,
For he did as he was bid.

And the merry bunch had a lot of fun
With the tenderfoot that day,
But they got a jar when they came to the bar,
For he put much booze away.

They ordered rounds and rounds and rounds
Of the pizen known as rye,
And each sage-bush hunk swore he'd get him drunk
Or he'd know the reason why.

And they drank all day and drank all night
All the barkeep had to sell,
And one by one each son of a gun
Beneath the table fell.

Until at last but the dude remained
As sober as any judge,
And he viewed the scene with a smile serene
And he ordered up more budge.

And he drank a health to himself that day
As he viewed the western wreck,
"They may be tough, but they can't pour stuff
Like I can down my neck."

The tenderfoot was a bold, bad man
With his trousers nicely creased,
And the cowboys shrink when he mentions drink,
For he learned to drink down east.
—Chicago Chronicle.

Ocean a Hard Taskmaster for Sailors

Brother Captains Concerned in Game of Hide and Seek for Years Before Meeting for Short Time.

What a little place this world is, two brothers, captains of deep-sea ships, demonstrated yesterday when they met for the first time in five years after playing a marine game of hide and seek for five years from east of Suez only to meet in the East river.

Sailormen's fortune parted them again after a mere two hours to swap their yarns of land and sea.

George Williamson, master of the Danish ship Amapa, was bound over for his ship, berthed at the foot of South Fourth street, this borough, in the tug J. A. Garfield when he sighted the ship Sirocco, in command of his brother John, bound from Java around the world to Shanghai, by way of New York, as the men who go down to the sea in ships say.

With a whoop that raised the echoes off Governeur's Island, George hailed the Sirocco and back came the answering hail from brother John as both of them danced with glee.

It took only a short time for the Garfield to warp alongside the Sirocco, but almost before the tug bumped the big ship John leaped on the Garfield's deck fairly into the arms of brother George.

With the Sirocco in command of the mate to make her dock at Brooklyn, the Garfield with the long-parted brothers aboard was headed for the Amapa at South Fourth street. By the time the tug got to her she was already headed out into the stream. The brothers boarded her and yarned away in the cabin for all too short a time.

Two hours after they had met John was put over the side of the Amapa to join his own ship in Erie Basin, where she tied up. The Amapa had also come in from Java, stopping at Boston and this port, bound for Philadelphia. The brothers had missed each other in various ports of call by from twelve hours to three days.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Birds Recognized Old Friend at Once

Fantail Pigeons, After Three Years of Absence, Fly to Former Owner, Showing All Their Old Affection.

"Pigeons have good memories," G. O. Brown, the poultry expert, remarked the other day to the Baltimore Sun. "Here's a case in point: Four or five years ago I had a pair of fantails, as pretty a pair of pigeons as you ever saw. I sold them to a man up in Pennsylvania and forgot all about them. Three years later I had to go up in that section to judge some birds, and afterward went home with a local poultry fancier. He took me out to the barn to show me some new contrivance and as we went along I noticed a couple of fine fantails. 'Those are handsome birds you've got,' I said.

"'Yes; but they're so wild,' he answered. 'They're the birds I got from you three years ago, and they have been so fussy and excitable since I've had them that I can't go near them or get them to come near me.'

"It all came back to me then, and I told them the birds had been just the opposite with me and had been as tame and friendly as possible.

"In the meanwhile the birds had been circling about us, apparently much disturbed. I got a handful of feed, stood perfectly still for a minute or two; then I called them. The circles grew narrower and narrower; the birds came closer and closer, until finally one of these 'wild' birds was on my shoulder and the other was pecking at the grain in my hand. They had recognized my voice or something about me, and they knew me for an old friend. Call it memory or whatever you please, the fact remains the same."

Indians Fear Curse of Angry Goddess

Thousands of Bracelets, Which Rumor Said Would Bring Death to the Owners, Destroyed—Superstition Dies Hard.

A South Indian correspondent writes: Recently a very singular report has been abroad among the women of this district respecting the bracelets they wear. The report is to the effect that certain bracelets are very dangerous, i. e., those that are made of "Bombay" glass and have small moons and crescents, etc., imbedded in them. It is affirmed that a certain small worm bores its way out of this class and bites the wearers of these ill-fated bracelets, and that whoever is bitten by the worm becomes afflicted with plague or some equally fatal disease and dies. The worm is said to be a small one with a very hard head.

The report arose in Pithapuram, where three women are said to have died from the bite, and spread with great rapidity over the whole of the Godavery district. The result has been that thousands of these bracelets have been destroyed during the last few weeks. The report goes on to say further that this glass was "mined" in a quarry where there was an idol of a certain goddess, and that in getting the glass from the mine the idol was broken, and as a consequence the goddess has been very angry and has sent this disease as a punishment.—Indian World.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

Friend Doster, of the Prattville Progress, is being urged by the people of his county to be a candidate for the legislature. The people of Autauga will have to go a long ways before they find a better man for the place.—Columbiana Sentinel.

That is very nice and true. Mr. Doster has made Autauga an excellent representative both in the legislature and the constitutional convention, but we have heard that some of his friends are desirous of his becoming a candidate for State Senator of this district, a position he would eminently adorn.

The Old Time Parlor.

The days of the parlor are fast going. There was once a time when every family, no matter how poor, had its parlor. And generally the parlor was a most useless place, but it was the pride of the housewife. The Observant Citizen remembers some time ago when the lady of the house insisted that he should see "her parlor." Her husband smiled good naturedly, and they both led the way to a big front room which was locked. The door was unlocked, and the parlor got its first fresh air in months. The little family had expended much money on the parlor. Everything was new but the stuffed birds under glass cases. The design of the carpet was wonderful in that it consisted of bright red roses. One felt like stepping into a bed of flames. A horseshoe sofa, very erect, was the principal article of furniture, while at the windows were the stiffest lace curtains you ever saw. The room had a musty smell due to long confined air. It was "luxury imprisoned" on a small scale and the finest example of the old time useless parlor.—Manchester Union.

Lighting London In 1715.

The question of the lighting of London was settled in simple fashion in 1715. The common council "repealed, annulled and made void all the former acts concerning the lighting of London" as a preliminary measure and then proceeded to enact that "all housekeepers whose house, door or gateway fronts or lies next to any street, lane or public passage or place of the said city shall in every dark night—that is, every night between the second night after each full moon and the seventh night after each full moon—set or hang out one or more lights with sufficient cotton wicks that shall continue to burn from 6 o'clock at night till 11 o'clock of the same night on penalty of a shilling."

Good Horse, Good Rider.

Judging from the following story which Arthur J. Smythe tells in his biography of William Terriss, it is evident that the practice of betting on horse races was among the great dislikes of the popular actor.

When any one asked him what horse he was going to back he would say:

"I'm going to back a little filly I've often backed before. I've never won anything on it; yet, strange to say, I've never lost a penny."

"Oh, whatever horse is that?" might have been the inquiry.

"A little filly called Common Sense, ridden by Tommy Let It Alone," was the invariable answer.—London Telegraph.

Blanket Policy.

Pausing uncertainly before a desk in the big insurance office, the Hibernian visitor said to the clerk, "Oi want to tak out a pawlicy."

"Life, fire or marine?" drawled the dapper clerk, with infinite sarcasm.

"All three, Oi'm thinkin'," retorted the applicant. "Oi'm goin' for a stoker in th' navy."—Puck.

Permanent Ideals.

To live in the presence of great truths and eternal laws, to be led by permanent ideals—that is what keeps a man patient when the world ignores him and calm and unspoiled when the world praises him.—Balzac.

USEFUL FACTS

About Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Troubles Given to the People of Clanton by the Upchurch Drug Co.

"In conducting a large drug business we naturally meet a great many people at this season of the year who suffer from coughs, colds and bronchial troubles.

As these troubles are easily controlled if the right means is taken we want to say to the people of Clanton that we guarantee our cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, will cure hanging on colds, stubborn coughs, bronchial and lung troubles, quicker than any preparation we have ever sold, because it is the most perfect preparation of cod liver oil ever compounded. It contains no oil or grease to clog the system and up set the stomach, yet it does contain every one of the fifty odd medicinal elements actually taken from fresh cod's livers in a highly concentrated form, and is therefore the best cod liver preparation obtainable. Vinol is not a patent medicine; everything in it is named on the back label of the bottle and you know what you are taking, so without reservation we endorse and guarantee Vinol to strengthen every organ in the body to do its work as nature intended—to cure coughs, colds, bronchial troubles, increase the appetite, build up the run down, tired and debilitated, and create strength and renewed vitality for the aged.

If Vinol fails to do what we say we will refund every dollar paid for it. You know we will do as we agree." Upchurch Drug co.

OBITUARY.

The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord, for in Him we find that sweet peace that passeth all understanding and prepares one to enter that glorious unseen land beyond the rolling waves of death.

On Friday morning, Oct., 6, as the autumnal sun tinted the cloudless sky with golden beams of approaching day our town was shocked as the pensive intelligence was flashed abroad that Mr. Albert Stanley was dead. Dead; and in the shadowy morning of a life that promised much good to his fellowman.

For only a few days he suffered with that dreaded disease, comatose malaria, which caused his death. Before becoming unconscious he bore his afflictions with a Christian fortitude that showed what his life would have been had not an allwise ruler, through His mysterious providence decreed that he should ascend to Him and do the Master's will. All that skilled physicians, kind and loving friends and realatives could do was done to alleviate his sufferings but to no avail, for death's icy grip had grasped him firmly.

He was born near Clanton, Ala., the 17th of March, 1886, where he resided until he came to Aurora, North Carolina, about one year ago. During all his life he was never heard to speak an unkind word of his fellow-man, but was always glad to assist in uplifting those with whom he came in contact. Truly it may be said a good man is gone. He left a mother, two sisters, and one brother to mourn his untimely death. The mother has lost a loving and obedient son, the brother and sisters a true and affectionate brother, while our community has lost one of its noblest young men. Yet we are confident that he will brighten the other world and give thanks at its throne.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Lowder. The remains were interred in the city cemetery Friday evening in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute of respect to the dead. The pall bearers were J. T. Wilkerson, Joe Pickerine, H. G. Mayo, Bonner Dixon and R. C. Mozingo. Weep not, kind relatives, as for those who have no hope, for we are assured that he has reaped the reward of his earthly toils and won a home in glory.

(Signed) BARBOUR.

NOTICE.

All interested in the Southern Cotton Association are requested to meet at the school house at Maplesville on the 25th day of November, at 2 o'clock p.m. All who live in the Maplesville school district are requested to attend. Respt.,

J. D. DEASON.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

TEACHERS' JOINT INSTITUTE

Chilton and Autauga counties, to be held at Billingsley, Nov. 24 and 25, 1905.

FRIDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercises, C. R. Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, H. A. Askins. Response, J. W. Moore.

11. How to secure the attention of pupils, L. E. Byrum, Miss Julia Parrish, A. E. Davis, Miss Jessye Wilson.

11:30. Encouragement to pupils by teachers and parents, W. B. Speer, Miss Zettie Barge, H. L. Davis, Miss Effie Williams. Noon.

1:30 p.m. Advantages to be derived from reading educational journals, Misses Jennie Clark, Thorne Nelson, and J. C. Jordan, Mrs. Mary Mims.

2. Lessons on real objects and the practical pursuits of life, Mrs. F. J. McNeel, Prof. Cape Payne, Mrs. L. E. Byrum, J. C. Eiland.

3. Should our school districts be of equal size? Autauga and Chilton County Board of Education.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30. Can we have graded schools in the rural districts? R. E. Sessions, Mrs. Fannie Davis, Mrs. Leila Mullins, Miss Edna Davis.

10. The Bible in the school room, R. A. Rasco, Miss Kate Howard, R. E. Hicks, Miss Leo. Zeigler.

11 a.m. How to obtain the best results in United States History, Harvey Hicks, Misses Margeret Turnipseed, Florence Adair, Mrs. J. A. Cox. Noon.

1:30 p.m. Thoroughness in primary studies, P. G. Maness, Misses Jessye McGee, Lillie Slaton, Annie Timmerman.

2. Aim in educating, G. L. Speer, Geo. White, Jr., B. J. Sessions, T. H. Wilkinson.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

NEED MORE.

Moving, moving! I never heard of so many folks moving. Mr. H Franklin has moved back to this place; Mr. J. H. Wright has moved to Prattville, and Mr. Lonnie Ray and Mr. Eugene Mullins have gone to Prattville.

Mr B. M. Deason and Miss Alice Parnell spent Saturday in Clanton.

Miss Ada Ray visited Misses Birdie and Birtie Powell Sunday.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the able management of Mr. F W. C. Bice.

Mr. J. I. Bice has got his new residence nearly completed.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Isaac Patrick got his house burned Saturday.

Mr. Walter Grimes is on the sick list. Some of the boys were all smiles Sunday.

NOBODY'S SWEETHEART.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE
Chemists
409 Pearl St., N. Y.
50c. and $1.00. All druggists.

A Doctor's Medicine

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is not a simple cough syrup. It is a strong medicine, a doctor's medicine. It cures hard cases, severe and desperate cases, chronic cases of asthma, pleurisy, bronchitis, consumption. Ask your doctor about this.

"I have used a great deal of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and hard colds on the chest. It has always done me great good. It is certainly a most wonderful cough medicine."—MICHAEL J. FITZGERALD, Medford, N. J.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. HAIR VIGOR.

You will hasten recovery by taking one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime.

CIRCUIT COURT

Falll term begins at Clanton Monday, November 27, 1905.

GRAND JURY.

Wheeler Foshee, J M G Barnett, G W Hodgins, Carlton Hall, H O Fits, B H Vickers, Eugene Evans, George Mattox, J M Mims, E G Rollins, A J Atkinson, J H Thomas, W J Bone, Jesse Hays, H C Young, J N Barnes, C C Burkhalter, W L Honeycut, J S Waldrop, P S Prim.

PETIT JURY—FIRST WEEK

H H Armstrong, John Goer, H J Cole, Robert M Smith, T J Rocket, W M Pool, W H cox, H Z Barnes, W W Devaughn, W B Vance, Joel H Gulledge, Joseph Busbee, C W Blackwell, H C Latham, John Giles, J T chambers, T B Teel, J J Mccormick, Walter Popwell. J W Mims, J W Abbott, B G Jones, T M Pyron, J M Maddox, H M Roper, A Littleton, B L Glasscock, G A Dawson, J A Dykes, Joseph Littleton, J H Greene, S Johnson, J L Vines, J M Goer.

PETIT JURY—SECOND WEEK

Moses Popwell, Robert Wilkins, W A Huckabee, J W Harris, William E Mims, F J Fitts, J S wright, W N Rodgers, J H Gandy, W Q Childress, T J Littlejohn, L O Burnett, J E Bearden, Felix Eiland, Green Burnett, J M Littlejohn, James M curlee, D A Friday, G. E. Reid, John Mims, E H Arledge, W H Hadnot, M A Kilgore, Jesse cadell, A A Ayers, B N Martin, Pate Headley, J A Langston, John W Foshee, William wamble, M H Marcus, P A Vance, W G conway, H T Littlefield, charley Langville.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Nov. 13, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

J. W. Williams, John Stanton, L. L. Leonard, M. C. Carnish, J. M. Burnett.

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. N. L. Thomas, Mrs. Lulu Ruddick, Miss Frances Gube, Mrs. A. R. Adams.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Nov 27, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Fairview and New Prospect.

I wish to call attention to the fact that I have set apart Thursday week, Nov. 23rd, as a rally day for Fairview and New Prospect churches. Let us meet at Fairview church. We will hold a trustees meeting at 9:30, and let me urge that none of the trustees be absent. Let all of the members assemble by 10:30 to attend to important church matters. I will preach at 11 o'clock. Now brethren, let me earnestly request that you all lay aside other business on that day, and come out. The ladies can carry dinner if they like.

J. T. ECKFORD, P. C.

"I Thank The Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. 25c.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Discou

Liberal long time loans on Improv Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Proper ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cot ton being held now, either on farms or i warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pr
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per ga
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.0
Old Mountain Dew	3 00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.0
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2 00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.0
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	3.0

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines an whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Groceri

DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.

CLANTON - - - - - AL

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

VOL. XIV P

HISTORIC GUNSTON HALL.

VIRGINIA HOME OF THE FAMOUS GEORGE MASON PURCHASED BY TOM WATSON.

American History Made Beneath Its Broad Verandas—Has Been Restored to Its Original Beauty.

Tom Watson, of Georgia, author of a "Life of Thomas Jefferson," is reported to have bought Gunston Hall, Virginia, 15 miles from Washington, and which was from 1750 to 1792 the home of George Mason, friend and adviser of Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, James Madison and Patrick Henry. The house is preserved and a few rods from it is the grave of Mason. The pyramidal piece of granite shown in the picture stands above his grave and is inscribed:

GEORGE MASON,
Author of the Bill of Rights and First Constitution of Virginia.
1726-1792.

Gunston Hall is on a ridge commanding a fine view of the Potomac river, a mile distant. It is about five miles below Mount Vernon and three miles below the ruins of Belvoir, the home of the first Fairfax in Virginia. Gunston Hall was probably without equal in that part of Virginia at the time of its building, and is as well preserved as any other colonial house in Virginia. It is eighty feet long and forty feet wide and is built of bricks twice the size of those made now. To the right of the north entrance is the room which was occupied by Jefferson on his frequent visits to Mason. On the river portico is where Mason and Washington played at draughts by the hour.

Gunston Hall

Several years after the war Gunston Hall in dilapidation was acquired by Colonel Edward Daniels, a Northern man. The place was partially restored by him. Colonel Daniels in the days of reconstruction was the editor of the Richmond Journal and was once a candidate for the House of Representatives, but was defeated. He was a close friend of President Grant, and Daniels really controlled the patronage of the State of Virginia. A spry old gentleman who has personally known a hundred celebrities of other generations, he lives on land adjoining Gunston Hall and which was a part of the estate. Gunston Hall passed to Joseph Specht, of St. Louis, and by him was completely restored and beautified. He died three years ago and the place continued in possession of his heirs and in charge of a colored overseer.

Early Opposed to Slavery.

George Mason was the Sage of Gunston. It was he who after conference and correspondence with Washington drew up the non-importation resolutions offered by Washington and adopted by the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1769. One of these resolutions pledged the signers to buy no slaves imported after November 1, 1769.

Mason was the author of a tract styled "Extracts from Virginia Charters and Some Remarks upon Them," supporting the contention that the British Parliament had no right to tax the American colonies. This tract had a wide vogue in pre-revolutionary times.

Mason and Washington attended the citizens' meeting at Fairfax Court House, Virginia, in July, 1774. Washington was moderator of the meeting. Mason presented twenty-four resolutions in advocacy of non-intercourse with the mother country. These resolutions were adopted, and were also adopted by the Virginia convention at Williamsburg in August, 1774. It was that body which elected Peyton Randolph, Richard Henry Lee, George Washington, Patrick Henry, Richard Bland, Benjamin Harrison and Edmund Pendleton delegates to the First Continental Congress, and that Congress substantially adopted the Mason resolutions.

Favored Election of Presidents by the People.

Mason after once declining election, and once refusing to serve after election to the Continental Congress, sat in the Constitutional Convention of 1787. In that great body he opposed slavery, saying it was a source of "national weakness and demoralization." He advocated the direct election of the

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 8

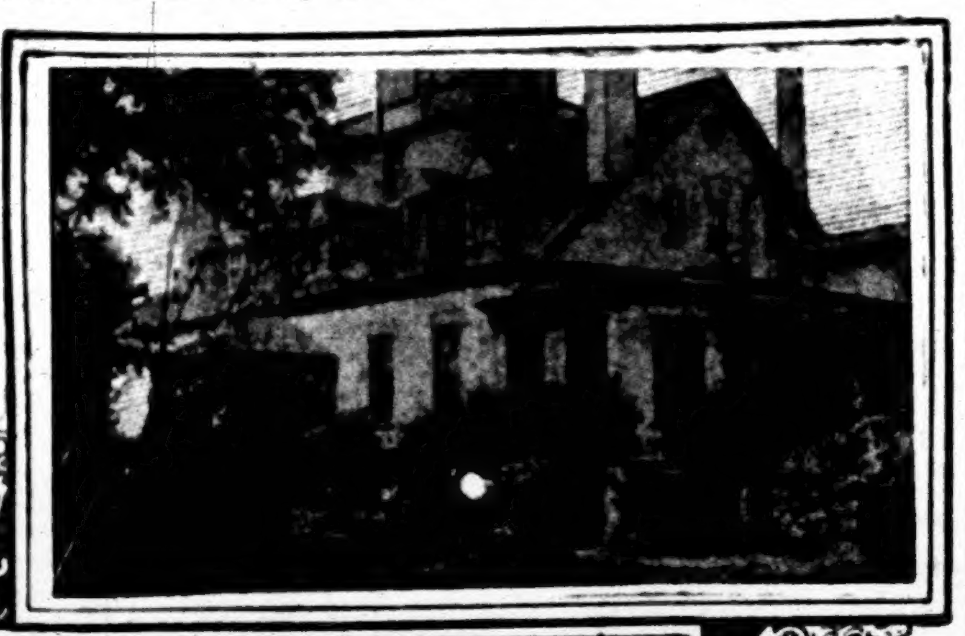
HISTORIC GUNSTON HALL.

VIRGINIA HOME OF THE FAMOUS GEORGE MASON PURCHASED BY TOM WATSON.

American History Made Beneath Its Broad Verandas—Has Been Restored to Its Original Beauty.

Tom Watson, of Georgia, author of a "Life of Thomas Jefferson," is reported to have bought Gunston Hall, Virginia, 15 miles from Washington, and which was from 1750 to 1792 the home of George Mason, friend and adviser of Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, James Madison and Patrick Henry. The house is preserved and a few rods from it is the grave of Mason. The pyramidal piece of granite shown in the picture stands above his grave and is inscribed:

GEORGE MASON,
Author of the Bill of Rights and
First Constitution of Virginia.
1726-1792.



Gunston Hall

Grave of George Mason

Gunston Hall is on a ridge commanding a fine view of the Potomac river, a mile distant. It is about five miles below Mount Vernon and three miles below the ruins of Belvoir, the home of the first Fairfax in Virginia. Gunston Hall was probably without equal in that part of Virginia at the time of its building, and is as well preserved as any other colonial house in Virginia. It is eighty feet long and forty feet wide and is built of bricks twice the size of those made now. To the right of the north entrance is the room which was occupied by Jefferson on his frequent visits to Mason. On the river portico is where Mason and Washington played at draughts by the hour.

Several years after the war Gunston Hall in dilapidation was acquired by Colonel Edward Daniels, a Northern man. The place was partially restored by him. Colonel Daniels in the days of reconstruction was the editor of the Richmond Journal and was once a candidate for the House of Representatives, but was defeated. He was a close friend of President Grant, and Daniels really controlled the patronage of the State of Virginia. A spry old gentleman who has personally known a hundred celebrities of other generations, he lives on land adjoining Gunston Hall and which was a part of the estate. Gunston Hall passed to Joseph Specht, of St. Louis, and by him was completely restored and beautified. He died three years ago and the place continued in possession of his heirs and in charge of a colored overseer.

Eairy Opposed to Slavery.

George Mason was the Sage of Gunston. It was he who after conference and correspondence with Washington drew up the non-importation resolutions offered by Washington and adopted by the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1769. One of these resolutions pledged the signers to buy no slaves imported after November 1, 1769.

Mason was the author of a tract styled "Extracts from Virginia Charters and Some Remarks upon Them," supporting the contention that the British Parliament had no right to tax the American colonies. This tract had a wide vogue in pre-revolutionary times.

Mason and Washington attended the citizens' meeting at Fairfax Court House, Virginia, in July, 1774. Washington was moderator of the meeting. Mason presented twenty-four resolutions in advocacy of non-intercourse with the mother country. These resolutions were adopted, and were also adopted by the Virginia convention at Williamsburg in August, 1774. It was that body which elected Peyton Randolph, Richard Henry Lee, George Washington, Patrick Henry, Richard Bland, Benjamin Harrison and Edmund Pendleton delegates to the First Continental Congress, and that Congress substantially adopted the Mason resolutions.

Favored Election of Presidents by the People.

Mason after once declining election, and once refusing to serve after election to the Continental Congress, sat in the Constitutional Convention of 1787. In that great body he opposed slavery, saying it was a source of "national weakness and demoralization." He advocated the direct election of the President by the people and for a term of seven years with ineligibility for reelection. He opposed the requirement of a property qualification for voters and also opposed the plan to make slaves equal to freemen for purposes of representation in Congress. He refused to sign the Constitution as adopted, and fought against its ratification by Virginia.

In the Virginia convention to ratify the Constitution Mason led the opposition and standing with him were Patrick Henry, James Monroe, Benjamin Harrison and William Grayson. The leaders for ratification were John Marshall, Edmund Randolph, Richard Henry Lee, George Washington and James Madison, yet so great was Mason's influence that in 168 votes, the majority for ratification was only ten and this majority was obtained only after the required number of States had already adopted the Constitution.

Of a Famous Family.

The first American Mason was George Mason, great-grandfather of Mason of Gunston. He was a commander of a troop of horse at the battle of Worcester, where he fought in the Stuart cause, as did Colonel John Washington, a near relative of John and Lawrence Washington, English Royalists and the original Washington immigrants.

The Mason family was originally of Warwaickshire and there are many Mason memorials in the Church of the Holy Trinity at Stratford-on-Avon. Colonel George Mason, the first, was, however, not a Warwaickshire man, but was born in Staffordshire. One of his fellow Royalist refugees to America was Gerard Fowke, of Gunston, a hamlet in Staffordshire. The old English Gunston Hall was standing a few years ago, and was owned by the Giffords, descendants of the same Giffords who were Royalists with Fowke and Mason, and who owned Boscobel, near Gunston, where Charles II. lay in concealment after the battle of Worcester.

The commonwealth commander at Worcester was General Fairfax, and it was a strange fate that made a descendant of this man a neighbor to the Washingtons of Mount Vernon and the Masons of Gunston Hall. Belvoir, the Fairfax estate, lay immediately between Gunston and Mount Vernon

The first American Mason and Fowke settled in the northern neck of Virginia, but Fowke later removed to Maryland. George Mason, the second, married Mary Fowke, daughter of Gerard Fowke, and they built a home in Maryland, which they called Gunston Hall, in memory of the English Gunston. These people were grandparents of George Mason, the fourth, or George Mason, one of the republic's founders. In 1750 this man married Anne Eilbeck of Mattawoman, Maryland, and soon after his marriage began the erection of Gunston Hall, Virginia, which he named after his grandparents' place in Maryland and the ancestral home of the Fowkes in Staffordshire.

Mason was one of the vestrymen of Pohick Church, four miles from Gunston. Washington and William Fairfax were also vestrymen there.

UNCLE JOE CANNON'S ADVICE.

Never Keep Back Anything, But Always Tell the Whole Truth.

Speaker Cannon, whom everybody calls "Uncle Joe," told the following story one day when he wished to emphasize the necessity for telling the whole truth, and farther how a man may be deceived by half-truths.

A man rented a house, but after looking at it went back to the real estate agent with a complaint.

"You profess to have told me the truth," he stormed, "but you haven't told me the whole truth. There's that lawn, for instance!"

"Really, sir," protested the agent, "I distinctly remember describing the lawn, and a very nice lawn it is."

"Oh, yes," went on the kicker. "You told me there was a lawn, but you didn't tell me that the nearest owner of a lawn-mower lived two miles away! Where am I to borrow a lawn-mower, sir? Answer me that!"

Live Stock Matters.

"Oh," said the fair summer boarder, as a couple of calves gamboled across the meadow, "what pretty little cowlets."

"Yew air mistaken, ma'am," said the old farmer. "Them's bullets."

A NEW CABINET OFFICE.

LIKELIHOOD OF CREATION OF DEPARTMENT OF INSULAR AFFAIRS.

Field Covered by Secretary of War Considered Too Wide—President May Suggest Change to Congress.

Since the war with Spain, the enormous growth of the business of the War Department has given rise to an oft expressed opinion in high government circles that the time is fully ripe for the creation of another executive department to handle the control of the island affairs of the government. It is predicted that the President will make some such suggestion in his forthcoming message to Congress.

Following the Spanish War, the War Department naturally took control of the island possessions that came to the United States as a result of that conflict. These islands, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Phillippines, fell to the care of the War Department as long as they were under military rule, but when civil government took the place of martial law they were still left with the War Department.

Kept From State Department.

It would seem natural for them to belong to the Department of State, but they have been purposely kept from the province of that department in order that foreign powers might not have a chance to say anything about them. The bureau of insular affairs was created to attend to questions affecting our island possessions, but this bureau has been under the immediate control of the Secretary of War, and out of reach of foreign representatives.

With the turning of Cuba over to the Cubans and the passing of Porto Rico to the State Department and Guam and Tutuilla to the Navy Department, matters became even more involved.

Burden Too Great.

Almost of greater importance, at present, than the Philippines, is the canal zone. Secretary Taft tried to shunt this burden to the shoulders of Secretary Root, but failed in his attempt. He is now preparing to make a visit to the isthmus to see how the work on the big ditch is progressing. Mr. Root declared that the bureau of insular affairs was better equipped to handle canal affairs than any other department of the government.

However, when Secretary Taft left for the Phillippines and it was understood that Mr. Root would become Secretary of State, it was said to be Secretary Taft's wish that the canal matter be transferred to Mr. Root and there has been much speculation during the summer and fall as to who would eventually oversee this big job. On one hand it has been realized that Secretary Taft has had a great deal more than his proportionate share of government work and responsibility, and again it was understood that one of the arguments used by the President to induce Mr. Root to re-enter the Cabinet was the President's personal desire that he should undertake the direction of the can work. His acceptance of the trust would have enabled Secretary Taft to devote more of his time to important Philippine government questions and the business of the army generally. It seems to have been decided, however, that Mr. Taft is to continue permanently as the Panama canal builder, this decision having been reached at a recent Cabinet meeting.

These questions, together with questions relating to the general staff, the reorganizaion of the army, and other internal affairs, have made the Secretary by far the hardest worked man in the Cabinet.

Taft Travels Far.

This is proved, if in no other way, by the immense amount of traveling done by Secretary Taft in the past yeat He has been to Panama, to the Philippines, to Hawaii, to China and Japan. He has just left Washington for his second trip to the isthmus. Through his connection with the affairs of the Philippines, he has become involved in questions wholly outside the regular line of the War Department.

COL. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS,
Chief of Bureau of Insular Affairs and Possible New Cabinet Officer.

These are some of the reasons which lead the President and his advisers to consider the creation of another department to take complete control of island and colonial affairs. Whether Congress will consent to this at the coming session, or will move postponement, cannot be foretold, but the chances are that, within a reasonable time, the War Department will be relieved of some of its heavy burdens.

There is no pie or pudding, father,
But I will give you this;
And upon the blacksmith's toil-worn brow,
She printed a childish kiss.

ROOSEVELT IN DIXIE.

President Speaks to the Followers of Lee.

President Roosevelt's recent tour through the South was one continuous ovation from the people of Dixie. In fact his visit has been heralded as being as triumphant as the return of any Roman emperor. Dixie was captured by the Rough Rider President.

At Richmond, the old Confederate Capital, the greeting extended to him was unusually cordial. After much parading and speech-making, the President was taken for a drive through the residence section. In the center of this section is the great equestrian statue of General Robert E. Lee. At this point occurred a scene of the President's visit which will probably be remembered when all others have faded into oblivion.

Surrounding the Lee monument is an iron fence, inclosing a circle of lawn. The crowd was thickly grouped around this circle. Inside, standing upon the base of the monument and wandering about upon the lawn were seventy-five broken, tottering old men, clad in gray and carrying small Confederate flags. Many hobbled upon crutches, and nearly all leaned upon canes. Here and there an arm or a leg was missing. The voices of the old men were low, and they paid no heed to the crowd around them. They were waiting for the President of the United States, he was to drive past the monument. From time to time a little, old man climbed upon a pediment and stood, like the very incarnation of the Lost Cause, shading his eyes and gazing toward the coming of the great, the powerful, the world-renowned successor of Lincoln and Grant.

It was such a sight as this which greeted the President when his carriage dashed up to the monument. Before the old men realized it, the President was facing them and shouting, "Come closer." With confused exclamations the old men hobbled forward, with small pretense of marching. They had almost forgotten the old marching orders in their confusion. They simply huddled forward to the fence. The line was not reformed. Then the President spoke to the South, ignoring the crowd behind him. He spoke only to the wearers of the gray. He spoke as the President of a reunited country. His voice seemed as the voice of a nation speaking to the followers of Lee.

STATUE OF GENERAL LEE AT RICHMOND.
Group of Confederate Veterans Waiting to See the President.

The veterans devoured every vigorous syllable of the President's address. They returned his earnest gaze with looks of unmistakable good will and loving friendship. Somewhat abruptly the President stopped, waved his hat. It was to them like the balm of Gilead. and shouted, "Good-by, and good-luck."

"Good-by, good-by," they shouted, and a moment later President Roosevelt was out of sight.

Expert Naval Testimony.

When Dick Thompson, of Indiana, was called to the Cabinet as Secretary of the Navy it is said that he had never even been on a large vessel. One of his earliest visits was made to an informal inspection on a large man-of-war, lying at the Navy Yard. He climbed up on the deck, was escorted around the vessel, admired and complimented the beauty and cleanliness of it all and finally peered down the hold. He looked back at the officer, took off his glasses, wiped them, looked down again and then finally turned to the commander and exclaimed, "Why the thing's hollow!"

THE STRENGTH OF JAPAN.

GARDEN FARMS THE FOUNDATION OF NIPPON'S POWER.

30,000,000 People Sustained in Comfort on Only 19,000 Square Miles of Cultivated Land.

(From "Chicago," The Great Central Market July, 1905.)

"A hundred years hence, leaving China out of the question, there will be two colossal powers in the world, beside which Germany, England, France, and Italy will be as pygmies—the United States and Russia."

If any one had told Emile de Laveleye, when he made this prophecy, some years ago, that within a few years the power of Russia on the sea would be annihilated, and her land forces defeated again and again by the pygmy nation of Japan, would he have believed it?

No, neither he nor any one else, at that time, would have credited it.

The incredible, the unbelievable, has actually happened. There is no result without a cause. What is the underlying cause of this marvelous strength of Japan?

It is not in battle ships or siege guns not in torpedo boats or field artillery—not in arms or armor—not in munitions of war or equipment for battles on land or sea. Russia had all these, and yet she has suffered crushing, humiliating, and overwhelming defeat. What, then, is the secret of Japan's strength?

Efficiency of the Unit.

It is in just one thing, and that is men!

It is in the efficieacy of the unit.

It is in the physical and mental power—in the health, strength, and intelligence of the Japanese people as a whole, and as a consequence, of every individual soldier and sailor.

And this physical and mental efficiency of an entire people—of the entire citizenship of the Japanese nation—is a plain and distinct result of their mode of life.

The Japanese people are strong because they live as the human animal must live to be mentally and physically strong—next to nature.

They breathe the fresh air.

They eat plain food.

They neither starve nor [illegible].

They are mentally and physically active.

They are an "out of door" people.

They understand the laws of health, and obey them.

Their children draw their strength from the bosom of mother earth.

And above and beyond all, they are a nation of homes and home owners.

Each family is in a home and each home is in a garden where health and strength are gained by the labor of cultivating that garden for a living.

And in these garden homes the people of Japan have far more of real pleasure and happiness and the genuine enjoyments of life than the average wage worker in our country.

The White Plague Unknown.

We have fallen into a smug and self-complacent and wretchedly superficial habit of thought which loses sight of the life that a people lead and measures everything by a money wage—a totally false and deceptive standard of measurement of the best thing that human life affords.

In the United States two hundred and fifty thousand of our people are being annually destroyed by the great white plague, tuberculosis.

In Japan the disease is practically unknown.

Why?

Because the Japanese breathe fresh air.

What would the Japanese think if they were told that their people could not have fresh air because they did not have more money?

Or could not have exercise because they could not afford to belong to athletic clubs?

Or must go without food because they lacked money to buy it at a butcher or a grocery store, when every Japanese gardener has the land from which he knows how with his own labor to get all the food he needs for the abundant nourishment for himself and family.

The Garden Farm.

Of the 45,000,000 population of Japan 30,000,000 are farmers, or more correctly speaking, gardeners. The Japanese farm is a garden, irrigated and fertilized, and scientifically and intensively tilled.

And a recent writer, describing the life of the Japanese farmer, says:—

"Measured in money, he is not rich. But he dwells in a comfortable and inviting home, purged of every taint of dirt and dust. The transparent paper walls of his house, made of bark from his mitsumata shrubs, flood his dwelling with light and keep out the wind. He enjoys good food served in dainty, but inexpensive dishes made of native woods. Even in the homes of the poorest, there are no visible signs of poverty. There is no squalor in agricultural Japan. The humblest peasant farmer is clean, industrious and comfortable. The area of fence corners abandoned on many American farms to wild mustard, fennel, and pig weed, would furnish comfortable living to a whole family in rural Japan. Some idea of the trifling cost of living in agricultural Japan was given by an American who has spent fifteen years in the Empire. Frequently he takes a vacation in the farming regions. He has good food, sleeps on clean and comfortablequilts in impeccable houses is carried about in country carts,and at the end of two weeks finds that his total expenses have not exceeded ten yen, or five dollars."

And from the garden farms—the Home Acres—of agricultural Japan have come the soldiers who have faced death to drive the Russians from Manchuria and leaped into eternity in order that they might wipe the menace of the Russian Navy from the seas that wash the shores of their Home Land.

A Nation of Home Acres.

It is an old saying that a man will not fight for a boarding house, but the Japanese have proved that they will fight like demons to defend the institutions of a nation of Home Acres.

We instinctively think of the victories of Japan as the victories of her leaders.

We are naturally hero-worshippers.

But there, again, we are superficial.

Our military men were loud in their praises of the masterly way in which Kuropatkin played the game of war.

And Rojestvensky must have the credit due him for sailing his fleet four thousand miles and planning so efficiently to provide it with coal and provisions.

But Oyama and Togo had the men, and every Japanese soldier and sailor is not only a hero but a leader. If every officer in the Japanese army and navy above the rank of Captain were stricken dead tomorrow, their places would be filled and Japan would continue to prosecute the war to final victory. The secret of her power lies in the fact that in intelligence, in mental and physical strength, in individual initiative in patriotism,in all that goes to make up a fighting unit, every Japanese soldier and sailor is an Oyma or a Togo in embryo.

You might destroy every ship that Japan possesses, destroy all her arms and munitions of war, take away even the clothes on their backs ,and transport every soldier in her army and every sailor in her navy back to the shores of Japan as naked as the day he were born, and leave the nation to its own devices, and in a few years they would completely reproduce their naval and military power and be stronger than ever.

But destroy the men of Japan and substitute for them the dull-witted peasantry of Russia or the enaemic factory operatives of England, and you have destroyed Japan.

Men Before Battleships.

True to his warlike impulses and instincts, President Roosevelt catches up the echo from the great naval battle which has just been fought, and calls on the country for more battle ships.

Rojestvensky had battle ships. He had more of them than Togo. But he didn't have the men. And he couldn't get them. Russian institutions could not produce them.

Now, would it not be wise for the people of this country to wake up to the fact that the foundation of our strength as a nation is not in an army or a navy, but in our citizenship.

And also wake up to the appalling fact, powerfully portrayed by Robert Hunter in "Poverty," his recent book, that we are deliberately following in the footsteps of England and degenerating our citizenship by crowding our working people into cities where they live in an unhealthful environment and are weakened by poor food and inadequate nourishment.

The lesson to be learned by this na-

BULL DOG SUSPENDERS
[illegible]
POSITIVELY THE BEST [illegible]
HEWES & POTTER
[illegible]

GULLEDGE
Loans and Discoun
time loans on Improv
e Insurance Policies.
on good Personal Prope
rops.
advances offered on co
ow, either on farms or ress
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA

Mail Order House!
T RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pri
ey	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
ginia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
Whiskey	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
nd	1 00	1 50
nd	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
thout a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

allon		Per gall
[illegible]	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.
3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.
2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.
2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.
3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.
2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.
1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.

We carry a full line of wines a
ndle low-grade goods.
DRUG COMPANY
T RATE DRUG STORE
IRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything
Everything of the b
Fancy Groceri
DS, CLOTHIN
, HATS, ETC.
ONES & BRO.
AL

OUR!
car Perfection just
rom the mills.
uarantee price and
at our expense.

NNON & SONS
o Clanton Furniture Co.

tion from Japan has not yet been learned, and when President Roosevelt fails to see it, and demands only more battle ships, as the lesson of the great sea fight which has just been fought, he unfortunately diverts the minds of the people of this country from facts of supreme and overshadowing importance, which should be burned into the public mind as by a stroke of lightning from every victory won by the Japanese.

That lesson is the profoundly important fact that the Japanese man, the unit of her national strength, is the product of a mode of life and an environment which combines the physical strength which comes only from the rural life—from living next to nature—with the mental activity and keenness which come from constant contact with his fellowmen—the community life.

A Nation of Gardeners.

The Japanese are not a nation of farmers, as we understand the word. They are a nation of gardeners. There is neither isolation nor congestion in their life. They dwell, the great majority of them, not in great cities, but in closely settled rural communities. The ranch and the tenement are alike foreign to the life of the Japanese.

The great principle that must control our own national development henceforth is that the land shall be subdivided into the smallest tracts from which one man's labor will sustain a family in comfort, and that every child, boy or girl, in the public schools should be so trained in those schools that it will know how to till such a tract of land for a livelihood.

In other words, let us reproduce in this country the conditions so well described in an article from the Booklovers' Magazine for August, 1904, from which we quote the following:—

"While Japan is cannonading its way to rank with Christian powers as a first-class fighting nation, it is not neglecting its fields of rice, genge, millet and muji, its groves of mulberry and bamboo, its priceless plots of tea and mitsumata shrubs, and its multi-million gardens of berries, vegetables, fruits and flowers. The thousands of patriots that have marched to the front have not thinned the ranks of the mightier hosts tilling the soil. Thirty million farmers are gathering ample harvests in the diminutive fields of Japan.

Husbandry Dignified.

"For twenty-five centuries the Sunrise sovereigns have dignified husbandry as the most important and most honorable industrial calling in the empire, and now more than sixty per cent of the Mikado's subjects till with incomparable skill the limited soil of his islands.

"The same diligent genius that enables a landscape gardener in Japan to compass within a few square yards of land a forest, a bridge-spanned stream, a water-fall and lake, a chain of terraced hills, gardens and chrysanthemums, hyacinths, peonies and pinks, a beetling crag crowned with a dwarfed conifer, and through all the dainty park meandering paths, with here a shrine and there a dainty summer house, has made it possible for the farmers of the empire to build up on less than nineteen thousand square miles of arable land the most remarkable agricultural nation the world has known. If all the tillable acres of Japan were merged into one field, a man in an automobile, traveling at the rate of fifty miles an hour, could skirt the entire perimeter of arable Japan in eleven hours. Upon this narrow freehold Japan has reared a nation of imperial power, which is determined to enjoy commercial preeminence over all the world of wealth and opportunity from Siberia to Siam and already, by the force of arms, is driving from the shores of Asia the greatest monarchy of Europe.

Roots in the Soil.

The secret of the success of the little Daybreak Kingdom has been a mystery to many students of nations. Patriotism does not explain the riddle of its strength, neither can commerce, nor military equipment, nor manufacturing skill. Western nations will fail fully to grasp the secret of the dynamic intensity of Japan today, and will dangerously underestimate the formidable possibilities of the Greater Japan—the real Nippon—of tomorrow, until they begin to study seriously the agricultural triumphs of that empire. For Japan, more scientifically than any other nation, past or present, has perfected the art of sending the roots of its civilization enduringly into the soil.

"Progressive experts of high authority throughout the Occident now admit that in all the annals of agriculture there is nothing that ever approached the scientific skill of Sunrise husbandry. Patient diligence, with knowledge of the chemistry of soil and the physiology of plants, have yielded results that have astounded the most advanced agriculturists in Western nations."

The Safe Foundation.

The creation of the conditions above described under which the people of a nation are rooted to the soil in homes of their own on the land, is not only good statesmanship and the highest patriotism, but it is the only safe foundation for an enduring national structure.

To ignore and neglect this foundation while we build battleships, equip armies and annex islands and dig Isthmian canals, is as fatal a mistake as it would be to build a twenty-story skyscraper in Chicago without any foundation but the mud of Lake Michigan.

We need not muster out our armies, nor dismantle our battleships nor evacuate the Philippines, nor stop work on the Isthmian Canal, but the fact remains, as clear as the sun from an unclouded sky at noonday, that the attention of our people as a nation is riveted on our naval and military affairs and schemes of foreign exploitation, to the disregard and neglect of the vastly more important problem of building men at home, and creating a citizenship which will be an enduring national foundation forever, and enlarging our home markets, which will be unaffected by any foreign complications or trade disturbances.

The attention of our people of late has been so much absorbed by the problems of our export trade, that we overlook the fact that the United States today manufactures annually a product aggregating in total value the combined manufactured product of the three other greatest manufacturing nations of the world. England, France and Germany, and we consume ninety-two per cent of our entire annually manufactured products at home.

Create Farm Homes.

And if every farm in the United States were cut in two, and a new home created on it so that the number of farm homes, and the capital invested in, and labor devoted to agriculture throughout the entire United States, were thus doubled, the result would be an enlargement of our population, our home market for manufactures, and our power as a nation, almost beyond the power of the imagination to picture to the mind.

It is to the development of its vast agricultural resources and the creation of a closely settled population of farmers and gardeners, who will cultivate the soil by the most intensive methods, that the Middle West must look if it is to achieve its full destiny in wealth, power and population.

The resources of the great territory extending westward from the crest of the Alleghany Mountains to the one hundredth meridian—the edge of the arid region—and from the sources of the Mississippi River on the north to its outlet to the Gulf on the south, are so largely agricultural that it offers the ideal section of the earth for the development of a nation along the lines of Japanese development, with a preponderating rural population.

There is no other section of the world's surface where latent agricultural resources of such inexhaustible richness and extent lie practically undeveloped.

For, in fact, they are undeveloped. We have, as yet, hardly more than tickled the earth over this immense area.

Our Own Country.

When we compare Japan, with its dense population, its wealth, its revenues, its trade and commerce, its national strength, with any section of our own country equal to it in area and natural resources, we are amazed at the great possibilities of future development in our own country.

The entire population of Japan is about forty-five million, of which thirty million is a farming population, and this vast population of thirty million farmers and their families is sustained on nineteen thousand square miles of irrigated land. There is no agriculture in Japan but irrigated agriculture. They have learned that water is the greatest fertilizer known to nature, and save and utilize it with the same care that they use every other available process for the fertilization of their fields.

Nineteen thousand square miles is an area about one hundred and thirty-five miles square, and in a square in a corner of the State of Illinois, the comparative size of which to the rest of the State is shown on the accompanying map, is sustained a nation which, to the amazement of all other peoples on the earth, has sprung to the front as one of the great world powers.

Source of Power.

And the Home Acre farms or gardens—the rural homes of Japan—are the source of that national power.

Commenting on this, the author of the article in the August 1904 Booklovers' Magazine, quoted from above, says in that article:—

"From what its advanced agriculture has made its plains to yield, Japan has fed and clothed and educated its multiplying masses, fast nearing the fifty million figure; it has stacked up gold in its treasury, has created a great merchant marine, has captured a growing share of European commerce, has already outmarshaled commercial America on the Pacific, has crowded its cities with roaring factories, and has given costly and triumphant equipment to its aggressive fleets and regiments. And it has accomplished all this out of the profit of harvests gleaned from a farm area scarcely large enough to afford storage room for the agricultural machinery in use in the United States."

Could there be a more striking proof of the oft-quoted words of David Starr Jordan, that:—

"Stability of national character goes with firmness of foot-hold on the soil."

Comparison of Areas.

Now compare Japan and its development with the possibilities of development in the Middle West.

The area of all the islands comprising the Empire of Japan is 147,655 square miles; of this only 19,000 square miles is available for agriculture, for every available acre in that country is cultivated.

The total combined area of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana is 146,360 square miles, and it is safe to say that considerably more than half of this area—probably more than two thirds—is capable of as close a cultivation, and of sustaining as dense a population per square mile as the cultivated area of Japan.

The water with which to irrigate it now runs to waste. The water which Chicago turns into her drainage canal, instead of producing agricultural wealth by irrigating the lands of Illinois, produces law suits with St. Louis because it runs to waste past that city to the Gulf of Mexico.

The time will come when irrigated agriculture in the Middle West will absorb every drop of water falling within that territory.

And when the irrigation canals and the irrigated farms of the Middle West will dry up the Ohio and the Mississippi rivers, just as irrigation in the West has dried up Tulare Lake in California, and is rapidly drying up the Great Salt Lake in Utah, the floods of the Mississippi and its tributaries will be led out through a network of canals, large and small, and stored in reservoirs, and every drop devoted to beneficial use, a use that will be so valuable that its value for navigation will count for nothing in comparison. It may be a great many years before this will happen, but it is certain to come. In no other way can the vast population with which this country will teem within a few hundred years be provided with the food to sustain it.

Japan, from her total area of 147,655 square miles, of which only 19,000 are cultivated, collected an annual revenue before the war with Russia began of $121,433,725, and her exports amounted to $124,208,923.

The average population per square mile of Japan is 299.76, but only one-seventh of her territory is actually under cultivation.

A Thousand Miles Square.

A section of our own country contained within a square extending one thousand miles north from New Orleans and one thousand miles west from Pittsburg, and containing one million square miles, if as densely populated as Japan, would sustain a population of 300,000,000; but a much larger proportion of this great square in the center of the United States could be intensely farmed than in Japan, where only one-seventh of the total area is cultivated.

On the 19,000 square miles of land in Japan that is actually farmed, they sustain 30,000,000 farmers. It is a safe estimate that at least one-half of the thousand mile square central section of the United States above described could be as closely cultivated as the productive fields of Japan. Those Japanese fields sustain over fifteen hundred people to the square mile. At the same ratio of population, our own thousand mile square central section would sustain 750,000,000 of farming population alone.

A population of over fifteen hundred to the square mile sustained by agriculture seems to the ordinary mind incredible; but on the Island of Jersey, off the English coast, a population of over thirteen hundred to the square mile is sustained by out of door agriculture in a climate by no means best adapted to intensive farming.

It must be borne in mind that we are talking now of the possibilities of future development, and the facts and figures above given will no doubt be looked upon as utterly chimerical by the average reader.

Degeneracy in England.

Bear in mind however, again, that they are based only upon the assumption that we in this country should attain to a point of development already reached by the Japanese people, and on which rests their national strength.

It is true that our development during the last half-century has not been towards the land. We have followed in the footsteps of England, rather than Japan; and while, in fifty years, Japan has restored the land to her people and rooted them to the soil in homes of their own, England has done the contrary. She has driven her yeomanry from the farms to the cities, where they have become factory operatives, and degenerated physically and mentally to such a degree that the degeneracy of her citizenship now presents itself to the statesmen of England as a most appalling problem.

We are doing the same thing, but we are not, as yet, feeling the effects of it so severely because we have still a larger proportion of our people on the land.

Back to the Land.

We have much to do to reverse the tide of population, and turn it from the cities back to the land—from the tenement to the garden. It must not be imagined that it is necessary, in order to accomplish this, that the workers in our cities or in our factories should quit their present employment and become farmers. All that is necessary is that the facilities for rapid transportation afforded by our trolley system should be availed of to plant every factory family upon at least an acre of land.

Let that be done, and the problem is practically solved no matter though the acre be used for nothing but to raise chickens and keep a goat. The children of the family will have fresh air and sunshine and pure milk, and will grow up to be healthy men and women.

The lever with which we must move our population back to the land must be the public school system.

Gardens and Handicraft.

Every child in the public schools, boy or girl, must be trained from its earliest days of school life to cultivate the ground and make things grow in a garden, and to raise poultry, and do all that needs to be done to provide the food for a family from an acre of land.

Add to this a training in simple sloyd work and home handicraft, cooking and sewing and making things for the home, and you will have created the impulse in the minds of the multiplying millions of our children which will lead them to shun the bricks and the asphalt, the slums and the tenements, as they would shun the plague, and flee from them far enough into the country to have an acre at least for a home and a garden.

Create this impulse in the minds of our children, the millions upon millions of them who are attending, and will attend, our public schools, and they will find a way to solve all the rest of the problem, how to get the land, and how to get back and forth to it, if they continue to work in the city or the factory.

Some will say that school gardens cannot be provided for city children. That is a mistake. The only difficulty in the way of it is a mere custom or habit, easily modified.

The terms of school of all city schools should be changed. There should be a short winter term, during which the time should be given to instruction from the books and in handicraft within doors.

There should be a summer term of equal length during which the schools would be transferred to the suburbs, and work in summer school gardens. The children should be taken back and forth to these summer school gardens at public expense, as they are now taken to and from the consolidated rural schools on the trolley lines in some of the New England states.

The vacation, which would not need be so long, should be divided between a spring vacation and a fall vacation, intervening between the winter city term and the country summer term of each school.

Building a Strong Citizenship.

Of course, many will hold up their hands and say this is impossible.

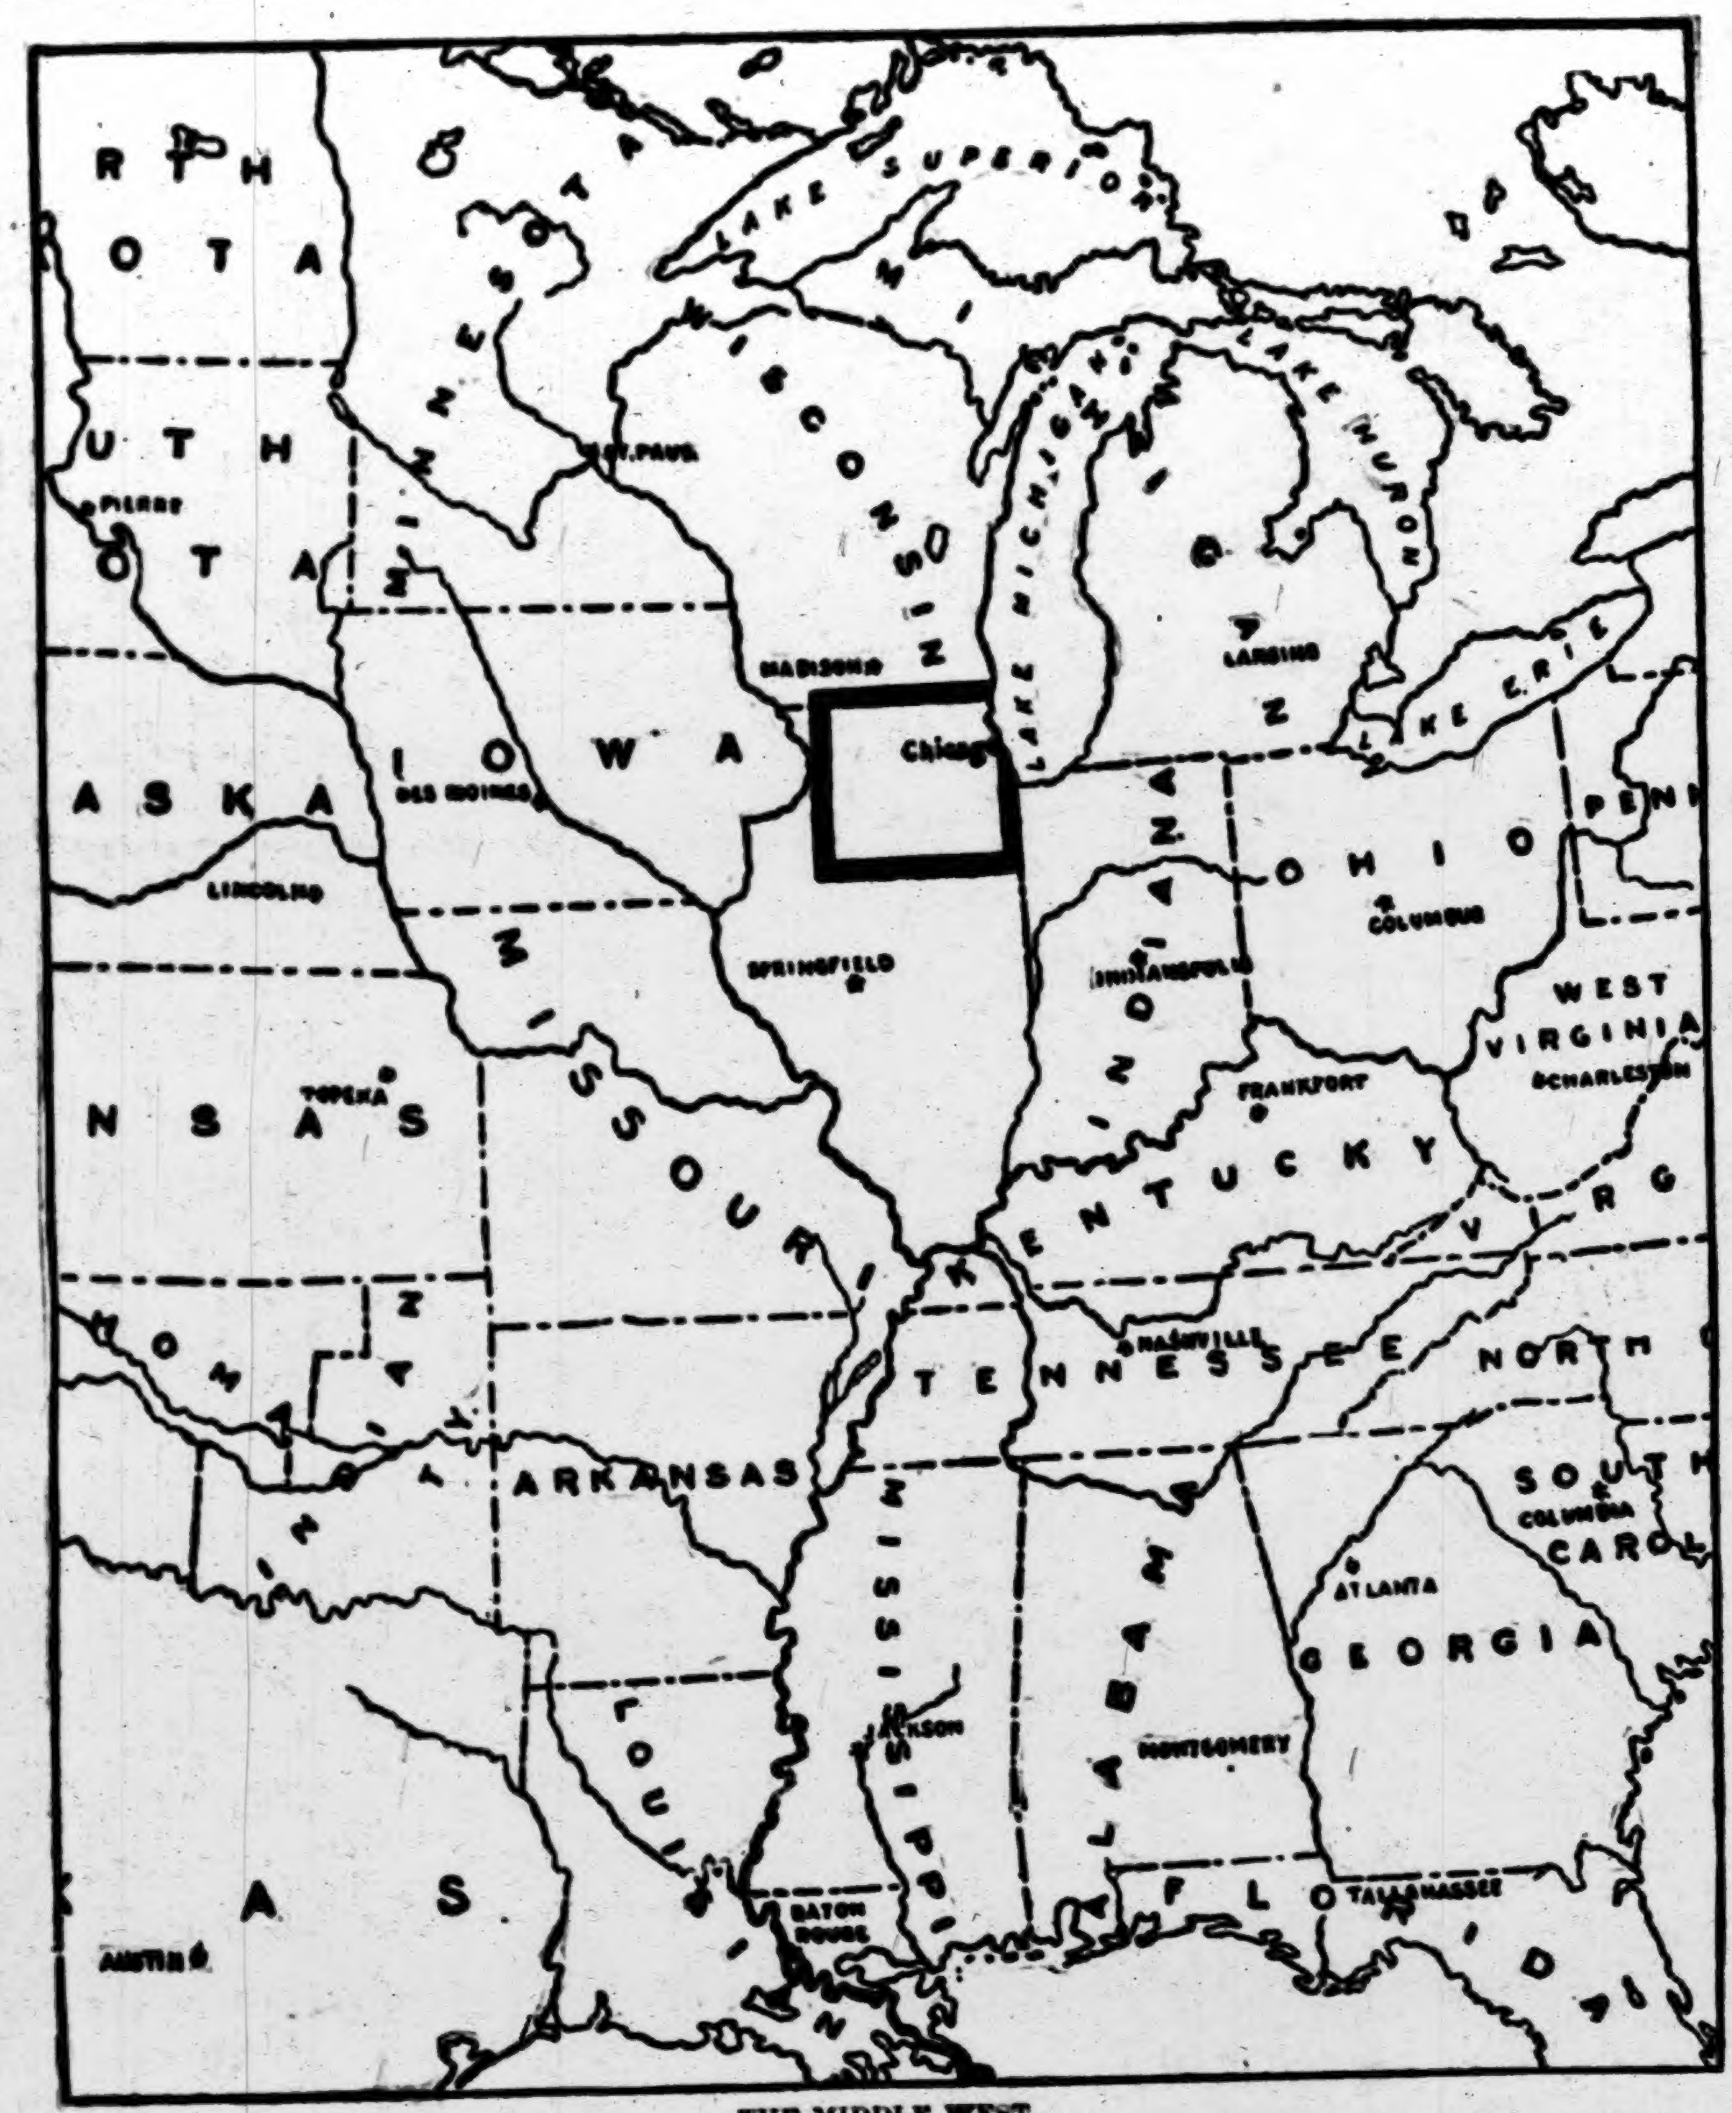
England finds it impossible, as the result of her system of great landed estates, to provide her people with homes on the land, and in consequence her ruin as a nation is only a question of a comparatively brief time.

Japan, on the contrary, put forth her hand and solved the very problem which, to England, seems impossible, and behold the results in her strength and power as a nation.

It is only a question with us, as a people, whether we will follow the lead of Japan, and profit by her lessons, or follow the lead of England and share in her eventual ruin.

The influences which are destroying England are at work steadily and insidiously in this nation, and though it will take longer for them to work our ruin, it is sure to come if we do not find a way to root the great majority of our people to the land in homes of their own, as Japan has done, and as we can do, unless we are as blind and as impotent in dealing with our national problems as seems to be the fate of England.

In the carrying out of this great patriotic purpose of building a strong citizenship by building rural homes on the land, we are at the same time, doing that which will create the greatest possible commercial prosperity, and develop to the highest attainable point, not only the resources of the Middle West, but of our entire country.



THE MIDDLE WEST.

The black square in the above map represents the total area of cultivated land in Japan, supporting thirty millions of agricultural people.

The Olive In America.

The annual output of olive oil in California is about 150,000 gallons; of pickles 230,000 gallons. The imports to the country of oil amount to about 1,250,000 gallons per year and of pickles to 2,116 gallons. The olive was introduced into California 135 years ago, which is a bad showing for use of native olive oil, especially when it is acknowledged to be the superior of all foreign oils.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

LOOSE 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 TENSION TIGHT

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores, $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite points of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy The Missourian.
Name............
Address............
Key No. Y 31

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

TO THE TRAVELER these Locks Are Necessities—Not Mere Luxuries

On straps they strengthen and make safe the trunk, suit or other traveling case, or lock telescope at any fullness. With chain fasten bicycle, horse or automobile or secure umbrella, bag, or coat to car seat or other permanent object. They are small, simple, durable, unpickable.

LOCKS—3 varieties—50 cents each; with leather trunk strap, 7 ft. $1.00, 8 ft. $1.25, 8 ft. heavy $1.50, 8 to 10 ft. double $2.50—with best 1½-inch webbing 7 to 10 ft. $1.00—with telescope, suit case, traveling case or mail bag strap or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid on receipt of price.

LYNCH MFG. CO., Madison, Wis., U. S. A.

A ROY
LOV

Market Ferriby Grammar School boasted of a French professor—one John Henry, English by compulsion, French by birth and training. Everybody could see that by his manner, his dress, his tall, furry French hat, his silver buckled French shoes. He was a diminutive, courtier-like gentleman, rather shabby on his pittance of a hundred pounds a year, but none the less proud of his ancestry. We believed him to be of royal blood. Yet we did not show respect, even for his attainments. Indeed, with his insignificant stature and his absent-mindedness, he was something of a butt for raw jokes. I remember as well the winter (for it led me to her) when he strayed thoughtlessly into the midst of a snow ball fight between classes on the school green. Both sides joined in the attack and the old professor was well nigh unconscious when I rescued him, set him in a hansom, and took him to his home.

A tiny cottage, on a corner near the outskirts of town, where the river drive swept into our little park. How often I remembered it in after days. There Adelaide and her father lived their quiet, happy life. The professor was absorbed in his books; the daughter moved quietly around the house, or attended her flowers. So it was when I called a few nights later to inquire as to Mr. Henry's condition. The Christmas holidays were on. I had ample leisure. And what a team—love and leisure make.

For two years more old Market Ferriby was heaven. I think I did myself credit in certain studies, although the professor told me bluntly that I was so well posted in certain others that he would not find it necessary to examine me, which explanation my parents swallowed without hesitation. If I failed in any I must confess my greater interest at the little cottage. I spent a good many hours studying a pair of eyes and a pretty face and the kind of voice that makes you think.

I graduated with two precious possessions; a heart and a diploma. I think I far out-valued the heart, for there never was another like it, and none ever will be. But at my paternal home, Charter's Court, there was blood on the face of the moon, and a leather strap awaiting the youthful son. So I deviated and spent a blissful month in France, pending a reduction of the tempest. For I had told them of my engagement to Adelaide, and my desire to marry her immediately and bring her home. "It will blow over," I said to myself, laughing at love letters from Adelaide, and writing her a stream of tender replies. Then I got mad. For she told me her father, old Henry, had thrown a fit when she spoke of her contemplated co-operative association. I chased back to Ferriby and dropped in at the house about tea time. I ate a formal supper. Old Henry's manner chilled me to my spurs, and I could think of nothing but army gossip, for I had graduated into an organization of prospective army officers.

'KISSED HER PASSIONATE

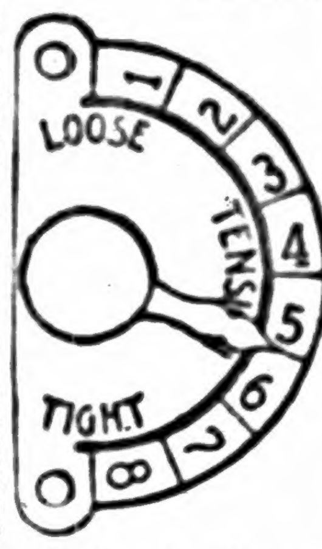
Then I broke loose and told him what I wanted, while Adelaide discreetly withdrew. He was a stone post to my entreaty, my demand, my storm. So as I had put pride beneath my heel, and could not give her up I offered him a home, an annuity, an indefinite leave of absence, with pay and expenses—any old plan that would give a fair exchange for his sorrow. He shook his head. He even swore at me in French. And then he called her in and made her dismiss me, though she did it in tears.

From India to Africa, from ice to equator, I moved about through English Army Stations. We were on a tour of England's outposts—one of the first school trips of the young officer. I attained new grades and donned new uniforms. I added stars and bars, cords and fringe. I had become a real soldier. I even got into some scrimmages with the blacks in Egypt—a gang of robbers who inhabited an abandoned city. And after five years knocking about, I returned to England. But my heart was still at the little cottage, and thither I went on the first train. It was empty. Adelaide's chickens inhabited the

A Tension Indicator



IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

r should have this book.
mail to us with $1.50.

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores,
$1.50

urian

Driscoll nicknamed "The Storm Centre his secret mission comes into conflict est romantic American novel of re-ments of reality, wrought

tion."
—St. Louis Republic. carried through unaturday Review.
story, and the painstaking

O.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs:—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy
"The Missourian."
Name..........
Address..........
Key No. X 32.

R these Locks Are Neces-
Mere Luxuries

and make safe the trunk, suit or other e at any fullness. With chain fasten secure umbrella, bag, or coat to car
t. They are small, simple, durable.

cents each; with leather trunk strap, vy $1.50, 8 to 10 ft. double $2.50—with 0 ft. $1.00—with telescope, suit case,
p or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid.

D., Madison, Wis., U.S.A.

ROYAL LOVE

Market Ferriby Grammar School boasted of a French professor—one John Henry, English by compulsion, French by birth and training. Everybody could see that by his manner, his dress, his tall, furry French hat, his silver buckled French shoes. He was a diminutive, courtier-like gentleman, rather shabby on his pittance of a hundred pounds a year, but none the less proud of his ancestry. We believed him to be of royal blood. Yet we did not show respect, even for his attainments. Indeed, with his insignificant stature and his absent-mindedness, he was something of a butt for raw jokes. I remember so well one winter (for it led me to her who has become the light of my life) when he strayed thoughtlessly into the midst of a snow-ball fight between classes on the school green. Both sides joined in the attack, and the old professor was well-nigh unconscious when I rescued him, set him in a hansom, and took him to his home.

A tiny cottage, on a corner near the outskirts of town, where the river drive swept into our little park—how often I remembered it in after days. There Adelaide and her father spent their quiet, happy life. The professor was absorbed in his books; the daughter moved quietly around the house or attended her flowers. So it was when I called a few nights later to inquire as to Mr. Henry's condition. The Christmas holidays were on. I had ample leisure. And what a team love and leisure make. Two years more old Market Ferriby was heaven. I think I did myself credit in certain studies, although the professor told me blandly that I was so well posted in certain others that he would not find it necessary to examine me, which explanation my parents swallowed without hesitation. If I failed in any I must charge it to my greater interest at the little cottage. I spent a good many hours studying a pair of eyes and a pretty face and the kind of voice that makes you think.

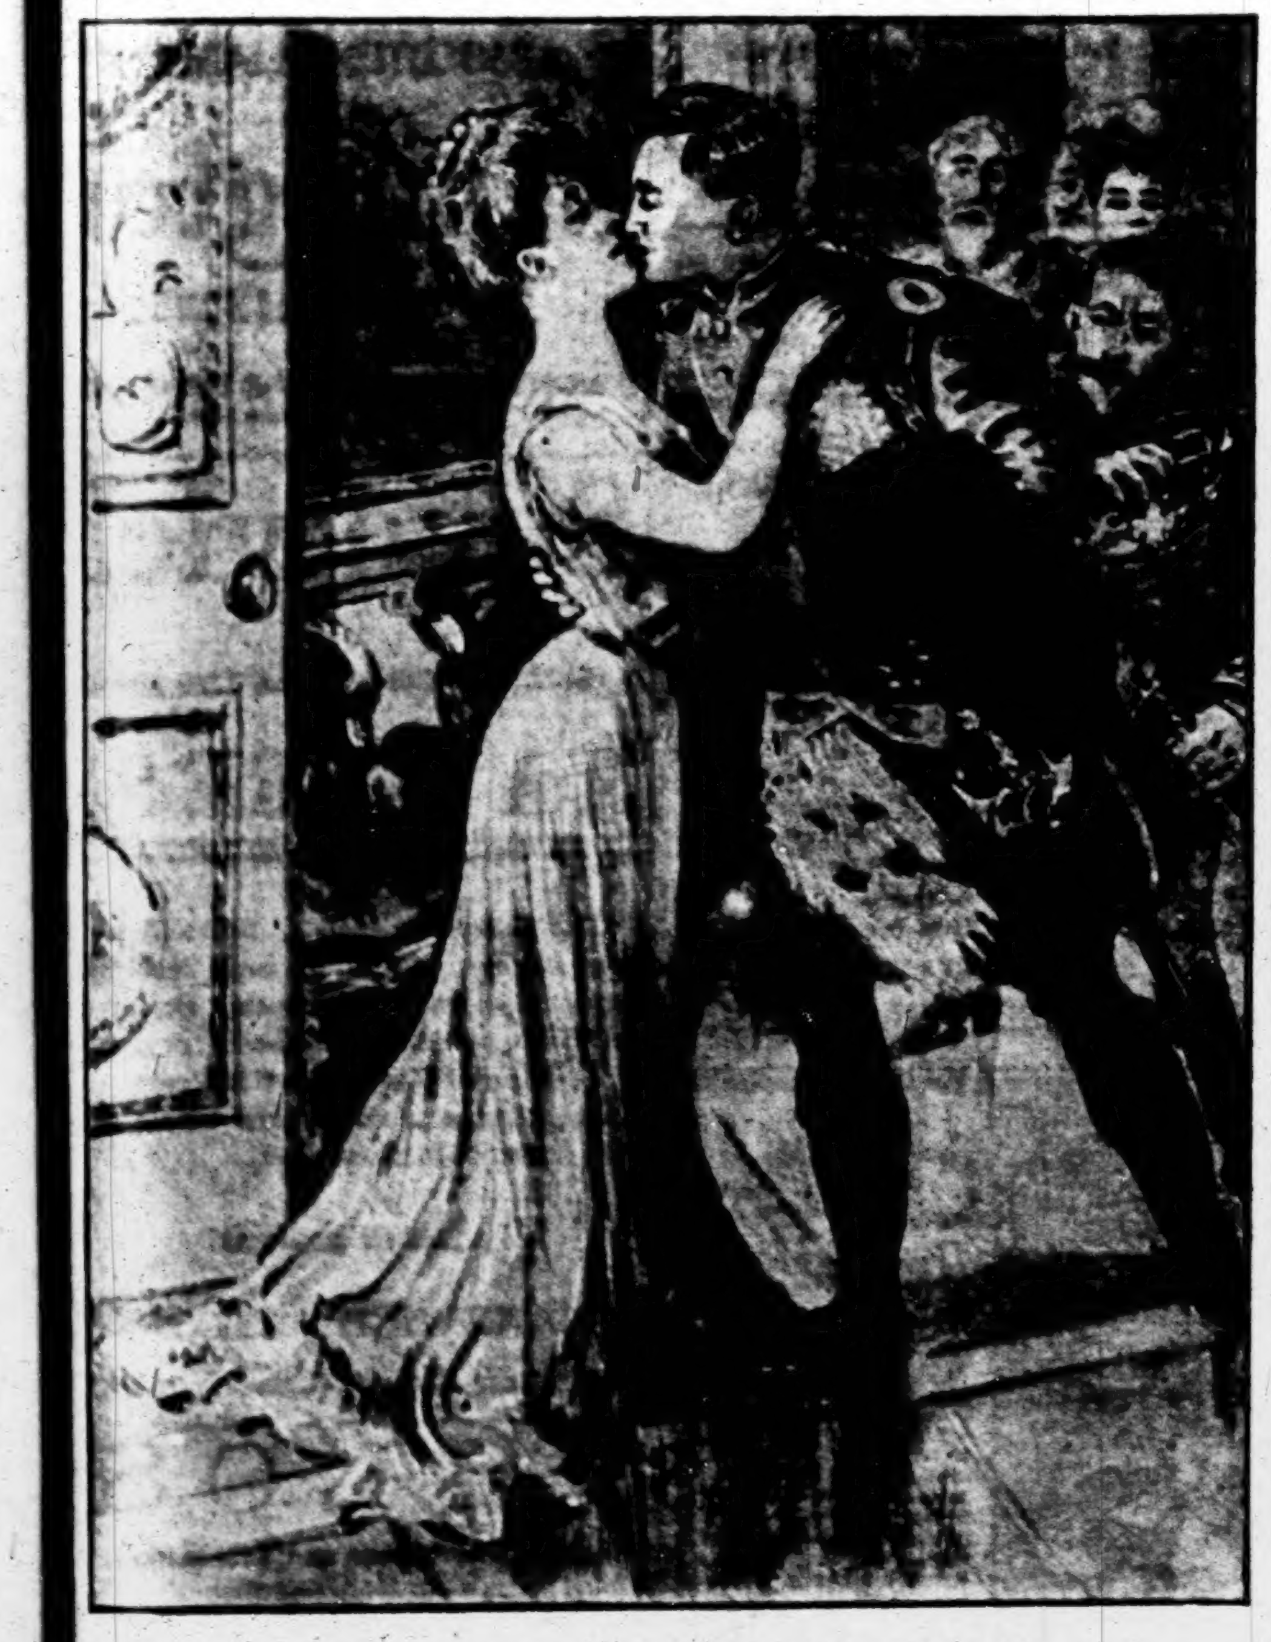
I graduated with two precious possessions; a heart and a diploma. I far out-valued the heart, for there never was another like it, and there never will be. But at my paternal home, Charter's Court, there was a cloud on the face of the moon, and a leather strap awaiting the youthful son. So I deviated and spent a blissful month in France, pending a reduction of the tempest. For I had told them of my engagement to Adelaide, and my desire to marry her immediately and bring her home. "It will blow over," I said to myself, laughing [illegible] love letters from Adelaide, and writing her a stream of tender replies. Then I got mad. For she told me her father, old Henry, had thrown a fit when she spoke of her contemplated cooperative association. I dashed back to Ferriby and found him at the house about tea time. I ate a formal supper. Old Henry's manner chilled me to my very soul, and I could think of nothing but army gossip, for I had graduated from an organization of prospective army officers.

Then I broke loose and told him what I wanted, while Adelaide discreetly withdrew. He was a stone before my entreaty, my demand, my pleadings. So as I had put pride beneath my heel, and could not give her up, I offered him a home, an annuity, an indefinite leave of absence, with all expenses—any old plan that would give a fair exchange for his sorrow. He shook his head. He even swore at me in French. And then he called her in and made her dismiss me, though she did it in tears.

From India to Africa, from ice to equator, I moved about through English Army Stations. We were on a tour of England's outposts—one of the first school trips of the young officer. I attained new grades and donned new uniforms. I added stars and bars, swords and fringe. I had become a real soldier. I even got into some scrimmages with the blacks in Egypt, a gang of robbers who inhabited an abandoned city. And after five years knocking about, I returned to England. But my heart was still at the little cottage, and thither I went on the first train. It was empty. Adelaide's chickens inhabited the next dooryard, and gave their tribute to another. The vines had come up and run to seed twice since she picked their blossoms. Neighbors said the professor and his daughter left suddenly. Some one heard him exclaim to some one else—"I go back to my kingly rights. I am a monarch." That was all. Something clutched at my throat. I was hardly eighteen. Do you wonder I cried a little?

I went to Paris and studied the great newspapers for months past. One morning I found in a year old American New York Herald, reference to the little kingdom of Barrataria, an island in the northern seas. The writer told of great fetes in the little town of a thousand souls over the return of its king, driven out during a revolution some years before. Then my heart went sick, for there was a picture of little Adelaide, as the king's daughter, wearing a quaint lace headdress with gold ornaments around the ears. The old love rekindled. I packed my grip and departed for Barrataria on the night train.

Barrataria consisted of a city of some four thousand souls, on a two-hundred-acre island, reached by long, heavy bridges from the mainland. It was an elevated plain, built up solid with residences and warehouses. Its people were well-to-do. Many of them dried shiploads of herring and sole, storing their packages of fragrant fish under open sheds, or in loosely built frame barns. Others operated big steamship lines, spending their days at business and their resting hours in Barrataria. Others were gentlemen of leisure and gamblers. They came from several nearby provinces. And presently they were intermarrying and rearing sons with more money than brains. It is no wonder that the voters—the native born were turbulent. When I arrived a new party had been organized; some kind of an anti, or may be a liberal. Anyhow the little town was broken up into cliques, and they were at one another's throats. Opposite the City Hall, Government troops sat on knapsacks and laughed about the possible end. They were a brave, rollicking, fitful class—these young students and merchants of the town. They could form instant attachments. But they could forget as easily. Hence their present bitterness.



"KISSED HER PASSIONATELY BEFORE THEM ALL."

It took a passport and an International secret badge and password to get in at all. Then, weary to death after a three-day rail and boat voyage, I went to bed in the only hotel.

Toward morning I was awakened by gun firing. I arose and dressed immediately. There was skirmishing to the south, where the island ran off in a long neck of land. Then I heard marching in the street near by, and the rumble of cannon. It was none of my business, really; but Adelaide or no Adelaide, a British Army Officer cannot rest supinely in the midst of civil war, even though it be merely opera bouffe. So I went among them, as a citizen, discreetly leaving my uniform in my portmanteau.

In the dark—for it was not yet morning—I mixed with the crowd and caught the drift of the revolution. They were tired of old John Henry—now gracefully styled Enrique XVII. For a time his return to Barrataria was the occasion of festivities and brilliant ceremonials. Now they wanted a young man. There was Trastamara, Adelaide's distant cousin. He was of royal blood and full of fire. Why not make him king? And I found by questioning that Trastamara, the gambler and sport of the island, was laying wires along devious paths to accomplish just that end, forcing the abdication of John Henry and—how it floored me—taking Adelaide as his queen. I ground my teeth. Sooner than see that sweet angel Trastamara's wife I would wet my sword in the villain's blood and carry off the prize myself.

I saw that action was necessary if I were to accomplish anything, and the next day, early in the afternoon, attired in full uniform, made my way to the palace. It was surrounded by the King's guards, with instructions to admit only the annointed. My highland garb, with kilt and sperran, tartan and feather bonnet, was unknown in Barrataria and attracted some attention. I represented myself as a distant relative of the royal family on an important mission, and after bribing the guard, was permitted to send in my card. Presently the guard returned, and bowing low, entreated me to follow him. I passed through the marble halls of the palace, and was ushered into a dimly-lighted drawing-room. And in a few minutes entered Adelaide, my own, my darling, holding out both hands and smiling her greeting. I took her to my heart. I covered her dear face with kisses. And when we were quieted, I told her how I had found her and why I had come. She insisted that it was no use—that it only made her lot harder to bear. She had been ordered by the king to wed Trastamara, "the gambler," though she loathed him. "Oh, Gregory," she sobbed, "if we could only be back in the little cottage in Ferriby."

Ah! the bitter sweet of those days—the hunger for my sweetheart, the infrequent glimpses of her dear face, the haunting fear of Trastamara's schemes. For two weeks I remained at the hotel, while the revolution smouldered, and I racked my brains for a method of rescuing Adelaide. Then my plan formed, I sat still and awaited the crucial moment.

It was the night of the annual Grand State Ball. With a somewhat doubtful heart, I entered the palace, in full uniform, with short Scotch sword. Before many minutes I was summoned by Adelaide's Chamberlain to meet her in the dancing-hall, and thither I went for a brief dance with my beloved. Near by her, guarding her jealously, stood Trastamara, a dark-browed desperado. I had learned—though he knew it not—that he had several hundred trusty followers, in the palace and out, ready to rush to his call. He had planned to carry out his scheme that night. I knew all this, and I, alone and almost empty-handed, was there to balk him.

After our dance, I had an opportunity to draw Adelaide into the conservatory. I abjured her to go with me back to England—to leave the place with all its bickerings and plottings, and be my bonnie English wife. "But father," she faltered; "they would tear him to pieces if they found me gone. And yet, Gregory dear, I believe he would go if he had a chance. He is so feeble, so sick of it all. If you could talk with him."

Suddenly Adelaide's eyes grew big and dark with fright. My back was to the door, and I had one hand on her waist, smoothing her dear hair with the other. I turned and my heart chilled. There, peeping between the great leaves of a palm, grinning hatefully, was Trastamara. He disappeared.

The next moment there was a hubbub in the hall. "The King!" I heard them cry. "The King!" "Come with me quick," said Adelaide, in an excited whisper. "It is our only chance!" And taking me by the arm, she drew me into the ball-room and up on to the stage. The crowd approached us on tiptoe with excitment, for Trastamara had undoubtedly spread the news. In the front came the king, with brilliant robes and jewelled crown. How old and feeble he looked. How worn and tired. But he had lost none of his proud anger of old days. Raising his mace he called aloud: "That man is an interloper. He has designs on the body of the king! Put him out! Banish him! Away with him!"

I turned to Adelaide. She stood there tremulous, her eyes shining like stars, an adorable creation. On sudden impulse I threw one arm about her and kissed her passionately before them all. Then, facing the crowd:—"The princess is my affianced wife!" I cried. "Let him who dares put foot on this platform!"

I drew my sword just in time. Brave as a lion. Trastamara leaped upon the platform and came at me snarling. He held a short knife in his right hand, and circled for an opening. "Dog!" I cried. Letting out with my sword I fetched him a mighty stroke across the temple, and he rolled back into the crowd. There was now a babel in the hall. The possibility of defense was at an end, for I heard orders outside and knew that soldiers were approaching. A door stood open behind us. I took Adelaide by the shoulders and pushed her through it. "To the south gate," I whispered in her ears. "For your life, darling!"

Down the stairs we ran lightly. Behind swept the king, the courtiers, and the crowd of gay dancers. Old John Henry had thrown aside his long robes and his crown, and was sprinting after me in excellent style. At the bottom of a long fligh of stone steps, we opened a massive door, and found ourselves at the great southern gate of the palace. A two-horse carriage stood outside. "It is my own!" cried Adelaid. "It has been waiting since noon. We are saved!"

The door of the palace closed with a secret spring, but not soon enough to keep back old John Henry. He slipped through, looking very odd in his short tunic and bare head—shorn of his kingly habiliments. But it slammed in the face of the crowd, and we three were alone.

Adelaide leaped into the carriage. With a smothered oath John Henry jumped after her. He had no thought but to capture his daughter. The soldiers could take care of me. But this was exactly what I wanted. I slipped in beside Adelaide, closed the door, called to the driver to make across the southern bridge at top speed, and we were off without a single pursuer.

A moment later the king came at me with knotted, blood-thirsty fingers. He was in a fearful rage. I met him half-way with my fist beneath his chin. He doubled up like a jack-knife and knew no more untill we were on the mainland, in a fast train for Paris, reeling off the miles between Hell and Heaven.

Henry took it unkindly, but in time he became grateful to me for saving his life. For it was really planned that night to make way with him and to turn Adelaide over to Trastamara.

Adelaide's chickens have come back, singing; the vines curl up with delight; and the flowers bloom themselves to death, all for the lady in the little cottage. Old Henry is in his heaven—the library; Adelaide is in hers, the nursery. I am busy and contented. I have fought the good fight; I have won my queen.

Prescrvative For Stone.

The Hungarian chemist, Brun, says he has discovered a liquid chemical compound which renders certain kinds of matter proof against the effects of time. He says it doubles the density of nearly every kind of stone and renders it water proof.

COURT NOTES.

The Strange Mystery of the "Haunted Room" Revealed to Lord Glamis.

Lord Glamis, son of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, came of age September 22, and the secret of the "Haunted Room" was communicated to him by his father. This has been an invariable practice on such occasions from time immemorial. What secret the "Haunted Room" contains is supposed to be passed on to every heir as he attains his majority. Thus its precise nature is in the possession of never more than two persons at the same time. Conjecture and traditions say, however, that in the long ago, when the Lindsays and Ogilvies were at feud a number of the latter clan were imprisoned and died in that particular chamber. That the room has some uncanny peculiarities appears to be beyond a doubt, for the late Lord Strathmore had it walled up after visiting the apartment one night to determine the origin of certain weird noises which, it is said, had for a long time disturbed and puzzled him. "The Earl opened the door with a key," wrote a correspondent to a Dr. Lee, "and dropped back in a dead swoon into the arms of his companions; nor could he ever be induced to open his lips on the subject afterward." The experiences of a lady visitor at the castle are quoted in the book, "Haunted Homes and Family Legends." "Suddenly," so the story runs, "a cold blast stole into the lady's room, extinguishing the light by her bedside. She saw a tall, mailed figure pass into the dressing-room. Immediately thereafter there was a shriek from her child in an adjoining room. Her maternal instinct was aroused. She rushed into the dressing-room and found the child in an agony of fear. It described what it had seen as "a giant," who came and leaned over its face."

MRS. ARTHUR PAGET.

The operation Mrs Arthur Paget underwent recently at the hands of Sir Alfred Fripp was a very delicate and wonderful one, though thoroughly successful. More than a year ago Mrs. Paget fell down an elevator shaft and fractured her thigh. The bone failed to mend and in spite of an operation and a special course of treatment under Prof. Haffa, the great Berlin speist, Sir Alfred Fripp took a photograph of the injured bones by means of the Roentgen rays, which showed that the fracture was as bad as ever. It was necessary to make an incision so that the fractured bones could be reached. These were screwed together with ivory, and it is confidently believed that in a few months' time they will knit and become strong enough to bear the weight of the body. In spite of the agony extending over thirteen months which Mrs. Paget has endured, she is able to drive out every day in an open carriage. Mrs. Paget recently visited the new ward at Charing-Cross Hospital, built from the proceeds of a great charity bazaar she organized, and called the Minnie Paget ward. It contained many fracture cases ,and Mrs. Paget cheered the sufferers greatly by her hopeful conversation, which was appreciated even more than the gifts of fruit and flowers she bore to each patient.

Of Abdul-Hamid's two predecessors, the one was assassinated, the other went mad and was deposed. These two tragical events have made the Sultan immensely suspicious. Always keeping watch against conspirators, he regards as his most faithful and useful servitors the men who spend their time in discovering his enemies, in finding out their plans, and in preventing the execution of these plans. The best rewarded will be he who has given his Majesty the most exhaustive information.

As everybody wants to obtain such reward, all keep busy collecting information. Constantinople is a perfect paradise for the secret police. In all classes of Ottoman society you encounter the secret agent; and the very highest dignitaries gladly furnish the Sultan with confidential information.

Van Calava.

Encouragement to Young Writers.

To young and ambitious writers, who become discouraged at the non-acceptance and non-appearance in print of their accepted articles it will be interesting to know what Edward Clarence Stedman writes in a current magazine, that Mr. Fields of the Atlantic Monthly once advised him that he had lots of stuff, which had been in an unpublished state for five years. Stedman adds that one of his famous "South Sea Idyls" remained in their office for seven years before it found its way into print.

The Green Prevailed.

A green little boy in a green little way
A green little apple devoured one day,
And the green little grasses now tenderly wave
O'er the green little apple boy's green little grave.

The oldest tombstone in New York is in Trinity Churchyard. It is inscribed, "Richard Clemdle, 1681." The remainder of the inscription has been worn away from the stone by wind and rain.

The great rock of Gibraltar is crumbling and the rotting masses of the rock must be continually bound together with huge patches of masonry and cement.

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY

NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED
THE GEER SAFETY REIN
PAT. AUG. 20 1900
LIES UNDER AND BUCKLES TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE

You Can Do It EVERY TIME
With A
GEER SAFETY REIN
PRICE, COMPLETE, $5.00
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups; No more Lives Lost; Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle.

WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.
Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to
THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
49 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK.
Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

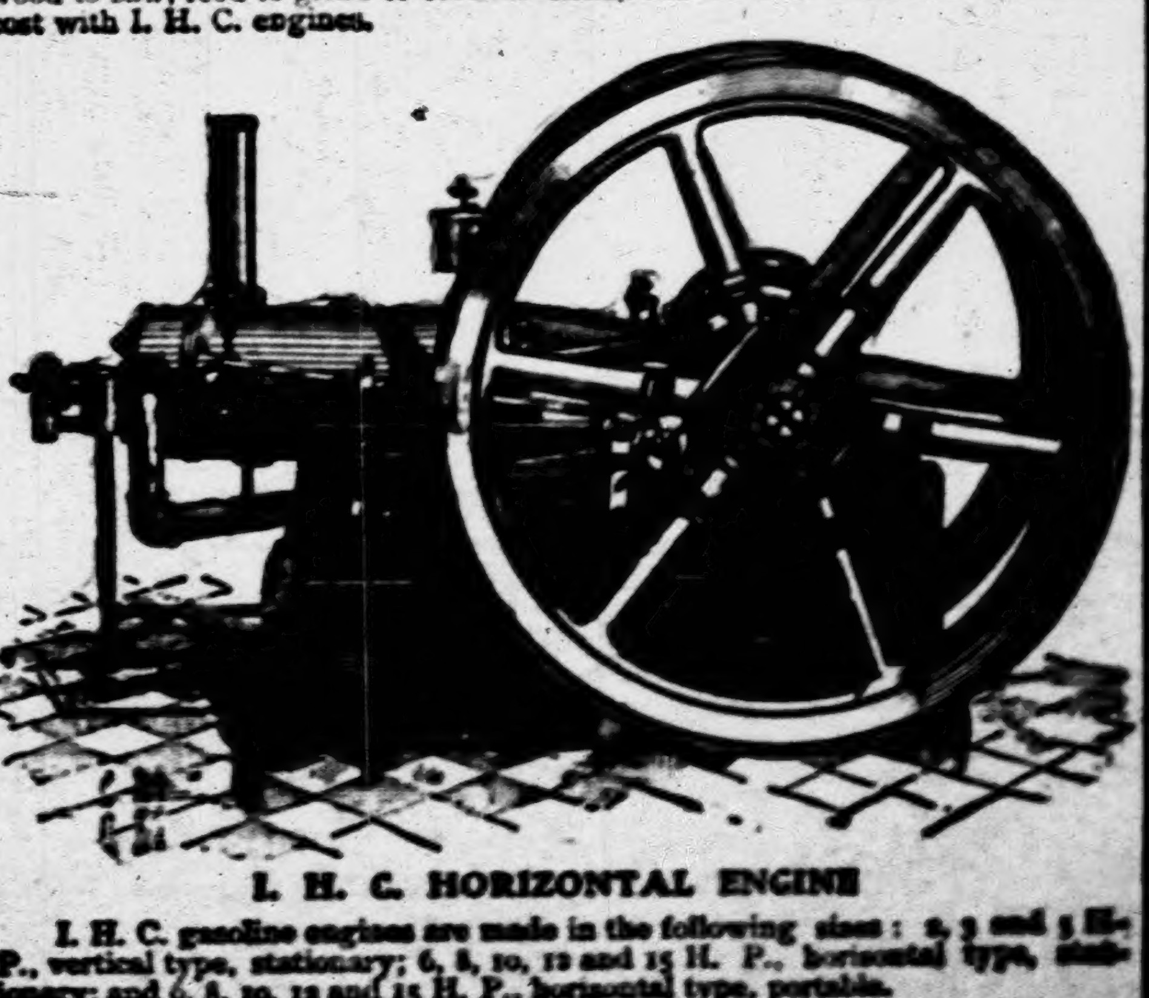
DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

Growing Seeds for Market

Good Seeds Are Half the Battle

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL

One of the most thriving businesses in the United States today and which seemingly carries on its work regardless of the fluctuations of stocks on the great exchanges, is the growing and selling of seeds. From small beginnings in the colonial period this business has grown so that now its value in measured by the tens of millions. The first beginning of the seed business commenced in small shops where a few boxes of seed shared a corner with codfish or a shelf with calicoes or books. To-day it has come to claim for itself immense warehouses and business establishments, having interests which extend to every portion of the globe.

BEATING OUT HEMP SEED IN KENTUCKY.

The Pilgrims probably were the first introducers of seeds into this country, for they brought with them seeds of the plants cultivated by them in their English and Dutch homes. These of course were of such plants as were considered necessaries of life—corn barley and peas, while fruit trees were also set out.

Early records show that in 1763, Nathaniel Bird, a book dealer of Newport, R. I., advertised garden seeds just arrived from London. The following year an announcement was made by Gideon Welles that he had some choice Connecticut onion seeds for sale. In New York city hemp and flax seeds were advertised for sale as early as 1765. Boston, however, being the commercial center in the early days, was the chief city for the sale of garden seeds. In 1767 out of twenty-six advertisers in the Boston Gazette, six were dealers in seeds. During the War for Independence the advertising of this commodity apparently ceased, although it is hardly believed that there was not a time but what one could purchase seeds in any of the large cities of that period.

Harvesting Sorghum Seed In Nebraska.

A Few Pumpkins For Seed

A Pioneer Seedsman.

In 1784, David Landreth commenced operations in Philadelphia; Bernard M'Mahon, in that same city in 1800, while in 1805, Grant Thorburn began to sell seeds in New York. By 1830 the population had increased from about three million in 1790, to ten and a half millions. To meet the growing demand for vegetables and flowers, these ten and a half millions required more than three and a half times as many seeds as were used in 1790. Dealers established themselves in the principal cities and crossed the mountains.

Along with the reaching out for trade came the increasing size and prominence of the catalogue. The earliest seed catalogues were mere lists not intended for general distribution. Thorburn probably issued the first seed catalogue as early as 1823. Shortly after the civil war the catalogue became more prominent. Its size was increased and a few illustrations appeared. Novelties were not as numerous twenty years ago as they are today; they were not given so much attention either. Today there is not an important catalogue but gives considerable space to novelties. Seedsmen are on the alert for novelties; they are the money makers. The modern catalogue, with its profusely illustrated pages while in a sense the seedman's agent, is a text-book of horticulture. Millions of these books find their way into rural homes and become the basis by which the amateur gardener derives a knowledge of varieties and even methods of growing plants under varied conditions.

Seed Growing a Big Industry.

FIELD GROWN LILIES FOR BULBS.

The seed trade has changed quite as much as has the catalogue, first with its woodcut engravings, to excellent half-tones and color plates. The barrel of peas first sold in Newport has grown to hundreds of bags, and the few thousand packets to millions. The modern seed house has every mechanical contrivance to aid in making the business economical and systematic. From the cellar to the mailing room everything is so arranged that orders may be filled with accuracy and dispatch. During the late summer and early fall catalogues are prepared for mailing, and seeds packed in readiness for distribution. While one hundred letters a day was considered a large business thirty years ago, some houses now receive over six thousand daily during the busy season.

Of course to supply this enormous trade much attention must be paid to the growing of the seed. The present development of garden-seed growing began when David Landreth established a small seed farm at Philadelphia in 1784. During the Civil War this country largely depended upon foreign markets for seeds, but between 1860 and 1870 as many seed farms were established as had been during the thirty years before the conflict. Growers also became expert and the market gardener found he could get from the seedmen just as good seed as he could save himself and at less cost. The business of seed-raising increased rapidly after the war, farms being established in various parts of the eastern United States. In 1875 seed growing commenced in California, when R. W. Wilson planted 50 acres to beets, onions, lettuce and carrots for seed purposes.

Two Thousand Acre Seed Farm.

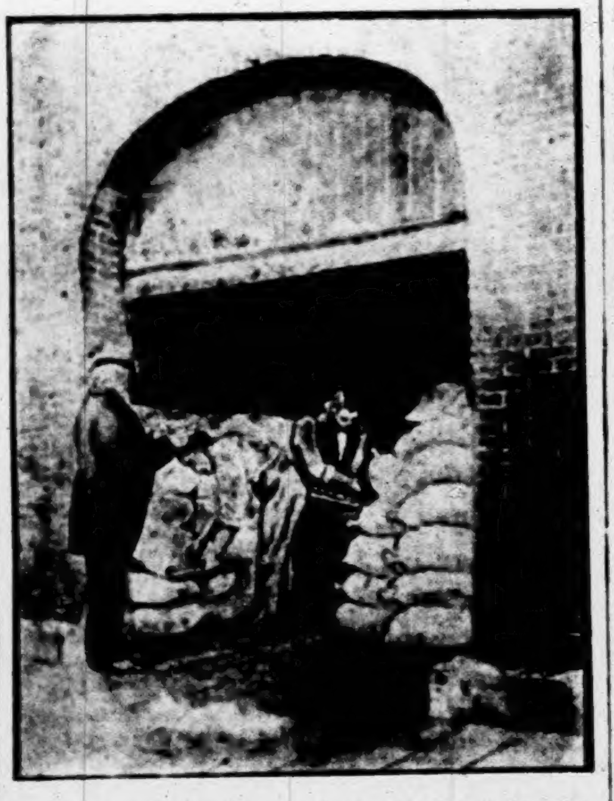
From this beginning the business has grown to enormous proportions. Now a single firm of growers devotes annually some 2,000 acres to seed crops. Onion and lettuce are staple seed crops, while carrot, celery, leek, endive, kale, kohl-rabi, parsnips and parsley are all grown by California seed growers.

While the census of 1890 showed that there were in the United States 596 seed farms, containing 169,580 acres, the census of 1900, with incomplete returns, showed more than 2,500 seed farms. The Census Office made an effort to collect statistics of seed-growing farms, but owing to the refusal of a number of the large firms handling seed to furnish the names of the farmers growing seed for them, the information secured was very incomplete.

Not a small part of seed-growing is devoted to the raising of flower seed. Flower seeds have been regularly grown in this country for at least fifty years. The amount raised, even at the present time, is not sufficient to meet the trade and the greater part of the flower-seed sold is imported from Europe.

Importance of Seed Testing.

Since the days of tradition a great deal of attention has been paid to seed testing for quality of germination. Seeds have been floated or have been heated until they popped; they have been broken and the fracture noted; they have been cut and judged by the appearance of the inside. Various experiment stations of the United States have, for a long time, paid much attention to practical seed testing. The Department of Agriculture for nearly eight years has conducted a trial ground in connection with its seed laboratory where studies of varieties are made. Samples are also planted of the vast quantities of seed sent out for Congressional distribution. The Department has in fact done much to purge the country of dishonest seed dealers, and a large force is constantly employed securing seeds from dealers and testing them, both with regard to their germinative quality and their trueness to name. There is great opportunity for adulteration, and many farmers are apt to consider they are saving money if they can get seeds at a reduced rate, finding out when it is too late that they have been swindled with false varieties or that perhaps 50 per cent. of their seeds fail utterly of germination.



A CLOVER SEED STORE-HOUSE.

Personal Seed Tests.

The average farmer, however, would do well to carry on a little seed testing establishment of his own each year, and this course is advocated by the Department of Agriculture. In fact, the Department will send anybody a pamphlet describing simple methods of testing seeds.

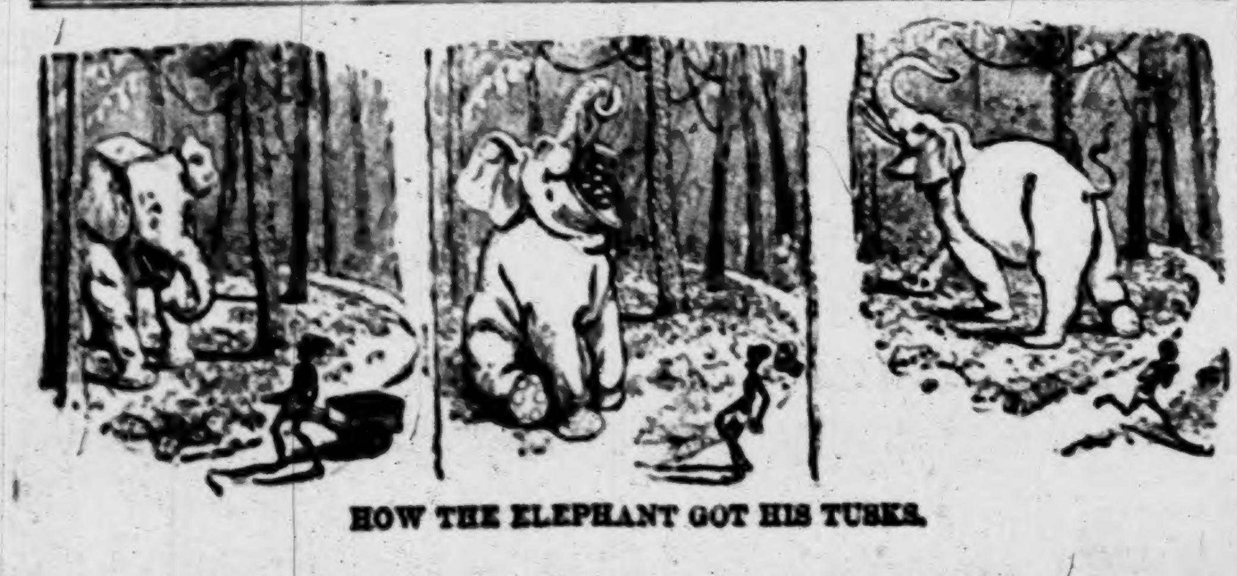
A CALIFORNIA ONION PATCH.

Firms with any reputation behind them can not afford to work off poor seeds, and if a lot of seed is tested and found to be defective in germinative qualities, the seedsmen will probably stand ready to supply a good article in its place. The fault, in fact, may not be the seedman's. Although the seed dealers attempt to convey the idea that they raise their own seeds on their own farms, such a practice is manifestly impossible where vast supplies of seeds are furnished. They raise some of the seeds, but large quantities are contracted for by them with other growers and farmers, and there is always a chance of the seedsmen themselves being imposed upon.

So that it is well for the individual grower to test each batch of farm or garden seeds which he expects to plant. The test which he can make will show him nothing regarding varieties; he may be getting a common cabbage instead of some high-priced novelty, that can only be determined at the end of the year; but the government experiments along this line are effectually holding the more irresponsible seedsmen in line, and the farmer himself can check up with his seedsmen on the question of germination.

Seeds Germinate Quickly.

Most seeds will germinate in from three to ten days. The apparatus required is very simple—a pan, some cotton flannel or cotton batting, a little water and a warm place in the kitchen. A stitch in time often saves nine, and a little trouble a month before planting time may make the farmer or the gardener considerable money and conduce greatly to his happiness and good temper. Nothing is certainly more aggravating than to plow, fine the ground well, plant, and then, as the golden moments of spring slip by, wait in vain for the young plants to appear, or secure only a half stand.



HOW THE ELEPHANT GOT HIS TUSKS.

THE WOODMAN'S STRIDE.

With a Long Swinging Step, He Covers Much Ground and Preserves a Perfect Balance.

A woodman walks with a rolling motion, his hips swaying an inch or more to the stepping side, and his pace is correspondingly long. His hip action may be noticed to an exaggerated degree in the stride of a professional pedestrian, but the latter walks with a heel-and-toe step, whereas an Indian's or sailor's step is more nearly flatfooted. In the latter case the center of gravity is covered by the whole foot. The poise is as secure as that of a rope walker. The toes are pointed straight forward, or even a trifle inward, so that the inside of the heel, the outside of the ball of the foot, and the smaller toes all do their share of work and assist in balancing. Walking in the woods in this manner, one is not so likely to trip over projecting roots, stones and other traps as he would be if the feet formed hooks by pointing outward. The advantage is obvious in snowshoeing. If the Indian were turned to stone while in the act of stepping, the statue would probably stand balanced on one foot. His gait gives the limbs great control over his movements. He is always poised. If a stick cracks under him it is because of his weight, and not by reason of the impact. He goes silently on, and with great economy of force. His steady balance enables him to put his foot down as gently as you would lay an egg on the table.

American Cheese Production.

Twenty years ago the cheese supply of Great Britain was largely furnished by the United States, but to-day Canada has taken the lead and far outstripped us as an exporter of this commodity. In 1880 the United States sent 131,208,776 pounds of cheese to Great Britain, while in 1904 only 25,180,960 pounds were shipped to that country. Canada, on the other hand, exported over 31,000,000 pounds twenty-five years ago as against 212,862,322 pounds last year. This loss of trade, however, has not been injurious, but on the other hand, is caused through an excess of consumption at home over production, while reverse conditions prevail with our Canadian neighbor.

Canada was thus forced to seek the British markets for her plethora and to fill up the place left vacant in that market by the withdrawal of the United States therefrom.

While the United States, in 1900, manufactured nearly 282,000,000 pounds of cheese, the per capita factory production was only 3.7 pounds, whereas, on the other hand, in 1901, Canada produced 224,000,000 pounds, furnishing nearly 41.8 pounds for each inhabitant. It is therefore shown, by a report from Consul-General Holloway, of Halifax, that the Canadian export trade to which every one of our neighbors points with pride was not gained at the expense of the United States, for they must export their cheese or get "snowed under." The United States can not keep up in production with our increasing home consumption.

Mulberry Fences.

There are but few fences in Japan. The mulberry tree is planted instead, the leaves of which furnish food for silk worms. Nearly 200,000 acres are thus utilized.

CARRY A BIG STICK.

Cane Preferred to Revolver by Detectives.

"President Roosevelt's epigram—'Speak softly and carry a big stick', has been quoted all over the world", said an expert fencing master, who has taught sword practice in a dozen of the world's capitals. "And it is good advice literally as well as figuratively. Do not provoke quarrels; avoid them if you can. But be prepared for a tight corner. Many night policemen and detectives carry stout canes in preference to revolvers. The stick is always ready in all weathers. The revolver must be carried in the pocket, and only an expert can flash it on the instant. When you are in a situation where your stick is needed do not figure on using it as a club. An agile man can dodge the sweep of a stick, and knife you before you recover your guard. Carry the stick with the tip somewhat in advance, grasping it firmly six inches or more below the knob or handle. If you are confronted by an adversary give him a sudden, hard thrust with the small end. The stomach is a most vulnerable point, and if you catch him fairly the chances are ten to one that he will double up like a jack-knife. Before he recovers you can withdraw the stick and hand him one on the head or the back of the neck that will put him out of business for some time to come.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.,
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue, ... to obtain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets ... nday in February first Monday in ... first Monday in ... second ... nday in July second Monday in A... and first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

...ice to day ...... 10¼ at ...
... same date last year ...

No. bales received to date
...ackard & C...
...I. Mullins
... Kanter & Bro
... C Jones
...annon & Sons
...her Firms

Total ...

The above figures are ... from ... several cotton buyers Wednesday ... ing five o'clock

Messrs. E. M. Packard ... Mullins left for St. Louis ... y on a business trip

Dr. H. M. Wharton the noted ...ngelist, of Germantown, Pa., ...pent last Saturday night in Clan... en route to Birmingham

Mr. O. E. Latham went to the ...pital city Sunday.

Mr. Moses Damsky visited Bir...ingham Sunday

A car loaded with coal was de...iled about a half mile south of ...own Sunday morning, delaying ...affic for some time

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Turner and ...aster Russel Turner of Mobile ...ere pleasant visitors to Mr. and ...rs. B. E. Jones Sunday and Mon...ay

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Vines spent ... few days with relatives in Bir...ingham last week

Ice cold soda water always ...lways on tap at Upchurch's ...rug store.

Mr. T. B. Teel and little son Tom ...isited the capitol city Sunday

Mesdames Davenport and Veazy ...f Mulberry were visitors here ...onday.

Mr. E. H. Lowe of Jemison was ... town Monday

Misses Slaton and Strickland vis...ted Jemison Saturday

Prof. Sessions spent Sunday in ...emison.

Mrs. W. H. Philips of Birming...am is visiting Mrs. Hannon's ...amily this week.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Don't fail to call on Miss Minnie ...use for your fall hats, she is sell...g at the most reasonable prices.

Mrs. T. M. Pyron of Verbena ...as a visitor here Wednesday.

Mr. Patrick Smith went to ...oosa last week to visit his son, ...ames, who is sick

Mr. J. C. Billingsley of Billings...y was one of our welcome visitors ...ast Thursday.

Mr. C. W. Martin of Jemison ...as in town Saturday

Mr. J. P. Milford of Maplesville ...ave us a pleasant call Monday

Mr. J. A. Mitchell of Verbena ...as one of our welcome callers ...onday.

A Cough Syrup which drives a ...old out of the system by acting as a ...athartic on the bowels is offered in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the throat, strengthens the ...ungs and bronchial tubes. The ...other's friend and the children's ...avorite. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Don't forget to see the show next Tuesday.

Mr. Tom Tyus has gone to Kan...as City for a load of mules

Mrs. W. A. Collier, who has been staying north, returned home Tuesday.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons

Mr. I. G. Gwin and miss Hattie Edora Bolding; mr. Dovie Roy and miss Susie Powell; mr. Frank Smitherman and miss Virginia Harbin; mr. W. T. Veazey and miss Maud Lenoir.

Colored. R. B. Williams and Sylvia Lee.

Every ounce of food you eat that fails to digest does a pound of harm. It turns the entire meal into poison. This not only deprives the blood of the necessary tissue-building material, but it poisions it. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant. It digests the food regardless of the condition of the stomach. It allows that organ to rest and get strong again. Relieves Belching, Heart Burn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

AGONS APPROACH

y Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

ACTURED BY

n Manufacturing Co.

VILLE, KY.

FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels, Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

oula Nursery

wn acclimated trees and the best in Northern States.

of Standard Fruit

Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
all Fruit Plants, Shrubs, and Roses.

RING STRAWBERRY

ECIALTY OF

ANTS AND SHRUBS

Designs. Also Vegetable Plants
Catalogue and Price List Free.
ave prompt attention.

NURSERY CO.

ULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Commissioners' Court meets second [illegible]y in February first Monday in [illegible] first Monday in [illegible] [Mon]day in July, second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day......10¼ @ 10⅝ same date last year 9¼

Bales received to date	1905	1904
[Pinc]kard & Co	2631	2386
[C. R.] Mullins	1664	1454
Kaster & Bro	410
C. Jones	910	61
[illegible] & Sons	297	..
[Oth]er Firms		406
Total	5932	4291

The above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday [even]ing five o'clock.

Messrs. E. M. Pinckard and J. Mullins left for St. Louis Sun[day] on a business trip.

Dr. H. M. Wharton, the noted [evan]gelist, of Germantown, Pa., [spen]t last Saturday night in Clanton en route to Birmingham.

Mr. O. E. Latham went to the [capi]tal city Sunday.

Mr. Moses Damsky visited Birmingham Sunday.

A car loaded with coal was de[rai]led about a half mile south of [tow]n Sunday morning, delaying [traf]fic for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Turner and [Ma]ster Russel Turner of Mobile [we]re pleasant visitors to Mr. and [Mr]s. B. E. Jones Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Vines spent [a] few days with relatives in Birmingham last week.

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's [dru]g store.

Mr. T. B. Teel and little son Tom [vis]ited the capitol city Sunday.

Mesdames Davenport and Veazy [of] Mulberry were visitors here [Mo]nday.

Mr. E. H. Lowe of Jemison was [in] town Monday.

Misses Slaton and Strickland visited Jemison Saturday.

Prof. Sessions spent Sunday in [Je]mison.

Mrs. W. H. Phillips of Birmingham is visiting Mrs. Hannon's [fam]ily this week.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Don't fail to call on Miss Minnie [Ro]se for your fall hats, she is sell[in]g at the most reasonable prices.

Mrs. T. M. Pyron of Verbena [wa]s a visitor here Wednesday.

Mr. Patrick Smith went to [Ro]ssa last week to visit his son, [Ja]mes, who is sick.

Mr. J. C. Billingsley of Billings[le]y was one of our welcome visitors [las]t Thursday.

Mr. C. W. Martin of Jemison [wa]s in town Saturday.

Mr. J. P. Milford of Maplesville [ga]ve us a pleasant call Monday.

Mr. I. A. Mitchell of Verbena [wa]s one of our welcome callers [Mo]nday.

A Cough Syrup which drives a [co]ld out of the system by acting as a [cath]artic on the bowels is offered in [Ke]nnedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. [Cl]ears the throat, strengthens the [lu]ngs and bronchial tubes. The [m]other's friend and the children's [fa]vorite. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch [D]rug Co.

Don't forget to see the show next [Tu]esday.

Mr. Tom Tyus has gone to Kan[sas] City for a load of mules.

Mrs. W. A. Collier, who has [be]en staying north, returned home [T]uesday.

A nice lot of stationery [ju]st received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued [th]is week by the Probate Judge, to [th]e following persons.

Mr. I. G. Gwin and Miss Hattie [Ele]dora Bolding; Mr. Dovie Roy [an]d Miss Susie Powell; Mr. Frank [Sm]itherman and Miss Virginia [H]arbin; Mr. W. T. Veazey and Miss [Ma]ud Lenoir.

Colored. R. B. Williams and Sylvia Lee.

Every ounce of food you eat that [fa]ils to digest does a pound of harm. [It] turns the entire meal into poison. This not onl deprives the blood of [th]e necessary tissue-building mate[ri]al, but it poisions it. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant. [It] digests the food regardless of the [co]ndition of the stomach. It allows [th]at organ to rest and get strong [ag]ain. Relieves Belching, Heart [bu]rn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, [Pa]lpitation of the Heart etc. Sold by [U]pchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6.00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1.50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40,000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garde . You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN

Growers and Exporters

ZANESVILLE - - - - OHIO

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowence for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

			1905
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12 m	Beat	2	Nov	17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 pm	"	1	"	17
Jemison	"	2	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11	"	22
Providence	"	10	"	23
Burwell	"	10	"	24
Thorsby	"	9	"	27
Clanton	"	4	"	28
Cooper	"	10	"	29
Verbena	"	5	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Sardis.

Sabbath school at this place is progressing nicely with good attendance, 63 being enrolled.

We are glad to say Mr. Jesse Klinner has returned home from Serles, Ala., to remain awhile.

Mr. Johnson White has gone to Pratt City.

Messrs. Robert Klinner and Joseph King has gone to Selma on a business trip. Mr. John Broadhead and family have returned home after a few days visit to Montgomery. Mrs. Tommie Groom of Mulberry has been visiting her daughter the past week. We are sorry to say we haven't got any teacher at Vermont yet. It seems hard and unfair for such large number of our boys and girls to do without a school this winter. The happiest place for a boy or girl is the school room. SCHOOL GIRL.

NOTICE!

Dr. C. L. WOODFIN

THE BOTANIC SPECIALIST

will be in

CLANTON, ALA.

every Saturday for the purpose of treating

Cancer, Catarrh, Wens; Tumors; Goiters and Ulcers and all other Cutaneous Troubles.

If anyone should doubt my ability to cure the above diseases, I can furnish references here in Chilton county.

P. S. When in need of my services call on me or write me at Clanton, Ala. C. L. WOODFIN.

EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK

of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

THE ORIGINAL

LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee is on every bottle.

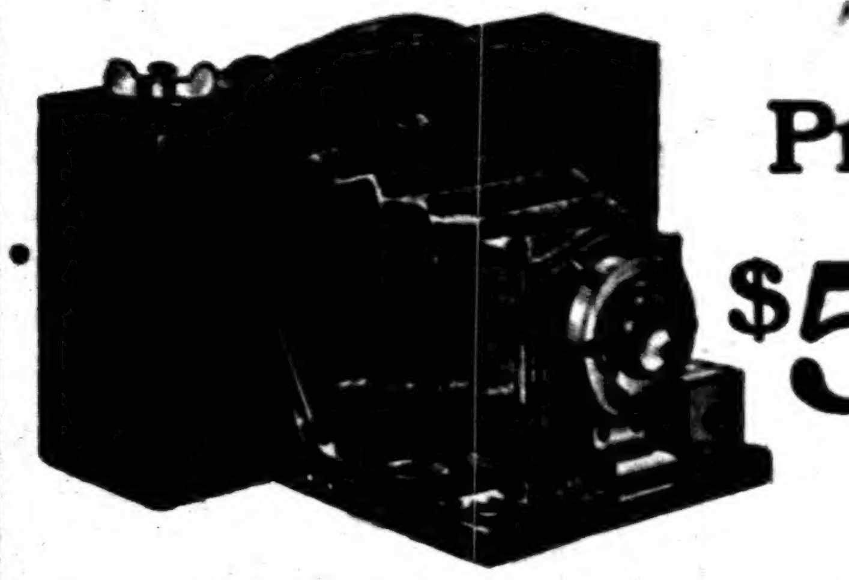
(Trade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES $2\frac{1}{4} \times 3\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTON

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

CLANTON

Do Not Neglect a Cold.

Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

[illegible]

Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed.

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. C. L. PALMER.

Subject: Ancient Worship.

Kingston, N. Y.—The following erudite and eloquent sermon on "Ancient Worship" was preached Sunday in the Reformed Church of the Comforter by the pastor, the Rev. C. L. Palmer. Dr. Palmer said:

History discloses that the worship of the New Testament is not the creation of the later dispensation, but is the result of a long and complex process of evolution. All we know respecting the time of its inception is that it is as old as the human family, which confirms the belief that religion and life are inseparable.

Three principal elements constitute religion, worship, doctrine and life. Worship is the attitude of the individual or nation toward its deity. Doctrine is the abstract formation of truth into definitions and conception. Life is the conduct that is presupposed to conform to one's belief. Which shall be more prominent is determined by the spirit of the age.

Since religion is both natural and supernatural we must look beyond the former for the channels of revelation. All creation is one harmonious doxology to the Creator, but His works do not give us all the information required for the true worship of God. Accordingly God has appointed certain ones to communicate His will. The prophets were a class chosen to instruct the people in the character and requirements of God. Their teachings are called the "word" of God. Sages uttered proverbs, riddles and dialogues while priests gave instruction in the form of law, which recognized no distinction between civic and religious life.

Notwithstanding forms and habits have undergone many radical changes, there are certain features of worship that remain essentially the same. There has always been a certain place dedicated to the service of God. With us it is the church, but in the early times it was the temple, synagogue, tabernacle, altar or grove.

A certain number of men are dedicated to the work of the Christian ministry, but in the earlier days there were priests and prophets who labored for the elevation of mankind. At a still earlier time the father of a family or head one of a tribe or clan conducted the worship.

Sacrificial offerings have been discontinued among Christians, because the Lord Jesus Christ has been sacrificed once for all. It was not so in the distant past. It was then believed that the fellowship between God and His people was fostered by sacrifice. The occasion was not unlike a social meal in which the god of the clan or family partook of the repast with its members. While the original idea of communion with the deity was paramount, sacrifice did not assume its full religious significance until perfected in the temple ritual. Other acts of worship, such as prayer and the vow, have ever occupied an important place, as well as music, and at times dreams, sorcery and dancing.

Worship presupposes a time for the service of God. In the remote past when the people lived a wandering life, it was not possible to have a particular time and place, but when they settled down to agricultural life three feasts were instituted, one in the spring, another in the early summer and the third in the autumn, corresponding to our modern Easter, pentecost and thanksgiving.

Worship without hymns and songs is inconceivable. If we were deprived of some of our favorite hymns it would destroy one of the most potent motives of worship. The psalms were just as precious to the ancients as the modern hymns are to us, and exerted the same influence.

The most reliable scholars are of the conviction that the legal code of the Old Testament was not the result of a single authorship, but the work of a redactor who compiled existing traditions and documents. This is more in harmony with the method God employs to accomplish His purpose, and is certainly explanatory of the way that our Bible took form.

It should be borne in mind that it is not my purpose to present the ideal worship of the New Testament, but to study the course of religious development that culminated in the service of the Christian church. In so doing we shall encounter many things that are very much below the Christian standard, but we may not on that account ignore them, since they are necessary to illustrate the progress in which we have now occasion to rejoice.

The evolution of worship is too vast a theme to cover in one discourse, we shall therefore confine our attention to its earliest phases.

I. The ancient Semitic worship. This antedates the religion of Israel, and contains practices that would not be endured by the church of Christ, though we must not forget that the now unchristian land of Arabia was the mother of religion. The Semitic family has given the world the two earliest known forms of civilization—Egyptian and Babylonian and the three highest faiths, Judiasm, Christianity and Mohammedanism.

In the earliest period belief and life constituted a very insignificant part of worship. Then the emphasis was upon the forms. The amount of one's religion was estimated by his devotion to ceremony. It was not until a very much later time that doctrine and practice were given the attention they deserve.

At this time there were no states or nations. The people were joined together in families, tribes or clans. They had no abiding place, but journeyed from place to place to furnish their cattle with pasturage. The god of the tribe was supposed to be an ancestor, who determined their prosperity or adversity.

Each tribe had its god, who could be worshiped only by the members of the clan. If one united with another tribe he was obliged to do homage to the deity of it. Nor could the deity of one clan bless outside of its own territory.

According to the most primitive conception but little importance was attached to the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. Future life has ever been a tenet of every religious system, but it was emphasized less than the present life, since it was held that no service could be rendered the deity beyond the grave. This explains the reason for embalming the dead.

Sacrifice occupied a most important place among the Semites. And there are traces of human sacrifices which under the Christian dispensation have been offered only by heathen. The Semites living in tribes or clans had a local deity to whom they offered sacrifice. He sat at the table and partook of the slain animal.

II. The primitive Hebrew stage. This period covers the patriarchal and nomadic epoch, while the people were still wandering about. It is not surprising to discover many points of resemblance between this period and the preceding. They were just emerging from the ancient darkness into the later day. God had assigned them leaders whose work it was to lead them into the truth, but they were slow to follow.

Being nomads they appointed worship wherever they were. There was no temple, tabernacle or ark. A rude altar erected out of the stones of the ground was their temple. In Jacob's family were found teraphim or household gods.

Sacrifice still retained the social aspect so that it meant little more than a family gathering at which the local deity was present. However, by this time Jehovah was recognized as the God of the Hebrews. Other acts of worship, such as prayer, vows and dreams were observed.

There were very few if any hymns at this time. The law had not been fully compiled, and a limited literature.

III. This division introduces us to the Canaanitish state. Great changes took place during his epoch, because the people of Israel discontinued their nomadic life and settled down in the promised land among tribes of foreign faith. We naturally find that the chosen people suffered no little contamination, of which subsequent history is evidence.

Sacred places increased in numbers and the worship of Baal flourished. It seems to be a time of degeneration, for the worship of Jehovah was corrupted. The ark containing the two tables of stone was transported from one place to another. Images were erected to represent the deity, and the Urim and Thummim were employed to ascertain the will of God.

Sacrifice was regarded as communion with the deity. The burnt offering seems to havebeen used more than any other. Prayer, vows, visions were still observed, while sorcery was losing its hold.

Having discontinued their wandering life they observed the Sabbath, the feasts of the moon and of harvest. It appears, however, that they were not free from corruption.

Music and dancing had its place, and it is said of David as a later time that he danced. There were hymns, such as the exodus song, the song of Deborah and the song of Hannah. Laws were assuming form as the outgrowth of custom. They were not written by Moses, but compiled or formulated by him.

IV. The prophetic stage. This period is so called because of the number of prophets who exercised a most wholesome influence on the life of the people. This was done by teaching a more enlightened conception of God. Samuel, David, Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah and Jonah were among those who raised the standard of living.

The high places were still used for the worship of Baal, and at one time the worship of Baal and Jehovah were consolidated. At the time of David the ark of the covenant was taken to Jerusalem, and the temple was completed in the days of Solomon, which produced a more orderly system of worship. Idolatrous practices were not, however, entirely superseded, for we read of golden calves at Bethel and Gilgal.

The completion of the temple made the most perfect organization and development of the priesthood imperative. To this time no distinction was known between church and state, but the division of the monarchy in 975 produced a complete separation.

The acts of worship continued about the same as in the preceding period, except that certain restrictions were imposed. Sacrifice was offered to establish communion with God. There was some human sacrifice. Praying to God was becoming a pleasure, and vows were made by Nazarites. Oracles and dreams were regarded as channels through which Jehovah communicated His revelations. Sorcery was practiced against the protests of the prophets. A hymn book was in process of compilation and the priests were compiling law.

The attitude of the prophets toward existing conditions will help us to appreciate our theme and make its application.

The prophets considered the high places as detrimental to the religious life of the nation. They maintained that the temple was all they required for the worship of the true God.

The prophets insisted upon purity of life among the people of God, especially the priests. It appears from the records that the sacred office was not entirely free from corruption.

They further insisted upon the true worship of the heart. While admitting the place of forms, they contended that the forms must be spiritualized.

The Reward of Earnestness.

Christ met multitudes of men in Jericho one day. But so far as we know He picked out only two for special blessing. The reason was that these two were the most in earnest. Bartimeus would be heard, though others tried to hush his voice; Zaccheus would see, though the crowd overtopped him. So these two won the rewards of earnestness. A vague desire will never bring us close to Christ; we must be in earnest.—Presbyterian.

How George Fox Learned Patience.

I found something within me that would not be sweet and patient and kind. I did what I could to keep it down, but it was there. I besought Jesus to do something for me, and when I gave Him my will He came into my heart, and took out all that would not be patient, and then He shut the door.—George Fox.

Path to Victory.

God's trials, nobly borne, in obedience to His righteous will, are the paths to victorious triumph. — S. A. Brooke.

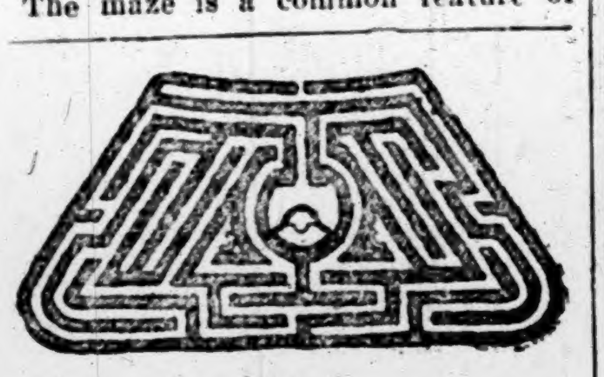
IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH, FORMERLY MISS CONSUELO VANDERBILT.

GARDEN LOVE MAZE.

One on Miss Warren's Estate at Waltham, Mass., Often Thrown Open to the Public.

Waltham, Mass., has acquired a new claim to fame. For this it is indebted to Miss Cornelia Warren, who has constructed on her estate, Cedar Hill, a love maze modelled after the famous maze at Hampton Court, said to have been designed by Henry II. as a bower for Fair Rosamond.



PLAN OF LOVE MAZE.

The maze is a common feature of English estates, but is little known in this country, and Miss Warren's is an object of great interest to people of Waltham and its vicinity. Miss Warren permits the public to have access to the maze at reasonable hours, and hundreds visit it every week. No records of the number of visitors have been kept, except on Sundays, when 6329 people have been recorded.

The maze is composed of hedges of arbor vitae about five feet ten inches in height, and set so close together that only one person at a time can pass between them. The effect is extremely bewildering, and any one who ventures into the labyrinthian paths soon feels as if he were lost in a great forest. In fact, many people have been lost in the maze, and after wandering for hours in a vain attempt either to reach the centre or to return to the entrance, have been obliged to call for aid to release them from their predicament.

Those who have been fortunate enough to unravel the mystery and reach the centre find there two artificial ponds, one above the other. On the bank of the lower pond a Japanese stork bids the successful adventurer welcome.

The stork is the first prize, and few have set eyes upon him. The majority have to content themselves with the consolation prize, a seat in the little nook just outside the centre, where Miss Warren has prepared a consolation bench, on which the weary may rest and ponder over their failure to solve the puzzle.

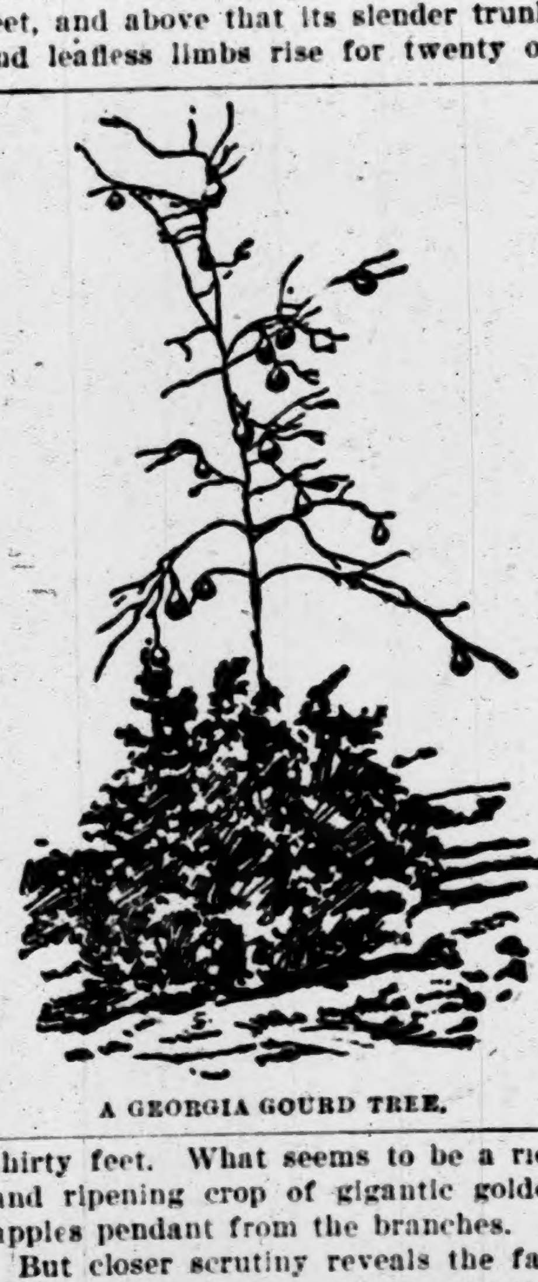
LOVE MAZE OF MISS WARREN'S ESTATE AT WALTHAM, MASS.

Near the entrance of the maze is a tower surmounted by a summer house. Seated in this one can overlook the entire maze and get abundant amusement from the bewilderment of the people in the maze. Miss Warren often entertains her friends by taking them to this eyrie on the days when the place is open to the public.

The maze is twenty-two feet in width, and the shortest way from the entrance to the centre is 949 feet, or eighteen-hundredths of a mile. But even if they are fortunate, most people travel ten times that distance before reaching the goal of their endeavors.—New York Times.

QUEER FRUIT, THIS.

The Northern tourist in rural Georgia is likely to be treated to uncommon sights and experiences, and one of the oddest is the strange trees, of which the accompanying illustration shows a very fair sample. Seen from the roadside the tree apparently grows with luxuriant foliage for about ten feet, and above that its slender trunk and leafless limbs rise for twenty or thirty feet. What seems to be a rich and ripening crop of gigantic golden apples pendant from the branches.



A GEORGIA GOURD TREE.

But closer scrutiny reveals the fact that the curious tree with its tempting growth is a fake. The superstructure of the leafy tree is a "dead one," and the pseudo fruit, which is nothing more or less than dried gourds, is tied on its branches. The Georgia farmer has learned that the best chance his chickens have of growing into lives of usefulness is to keep hawks away from them; and there is nothing that will keep as close watch on hawks as bee martins. Furthermore, bee martins are nowhere so thoroughly at home as when nesting in a nice, roomy gourd in a treetop.—Philadelphia Record.

The use of cocaine has become quite common among the negroes in Southern towns and cities. They derive exhiliration and stimulation by sniffing it, but in a year or two they are physical and mental wrecks.

Real Mad.

Mr. Spriggins is somewhat remarkable for his grandiloquence of language, which renders him socially an object to be sought by those who are inclined to make merry at the eccentricities of genius.

"Spriggins," said one of these, "you are a fool!"

"Sir," said Spriggins, with great dignity, "I seldom pretend to extend gratuitous advice to gentlemen, but permit me to observe, sir, that a reiteration of the sentiment you have just uttered might not prove conducive to a convalescent state of your personal individuality."

Spriggins was evidently roused.—Chicago Journal.

Experts calculate that Irish bogs are capable of turning out 50,000,000 tons of fuel a year for a thousand years.

Stockholm has the largest death rate from the use of alcohol of any city in the world.

TEA AND THE EFFECTS OF TEA DRINKING.

The Abuse of a Good Beverage and the Proper Way to Make It—Lightly-Drawn Infusion Best.

While every one knows that it is wrong to stew tea, to draw from it as much of its astringent principles as possible, yet there are few who pay any practical regard to the warning not to prepare tea in this way. It cannot be too widely known that not only is theine the most essential constituent of tea, but also that it is almost as quickly soluble in hot water as is sugar. The making of the infusion is therefore complete in a few minutes, and only tea so prepared is the "blessed beverage." The abuse of tea, like the abuse of anything else, is, of course, reprehensible, and the guilty person deserves all the unpleasant symptoms which excessive tea drinking or the drinking of strong, stewed tea sooner or later brings in its train. The use of plenty of milk with tea, it may be added, is a wise precaution and must be regarded as a sound physiological proceeding, since the proteids of milk destroy astringency and probably prevent the otherwise injurious action of tannin on the mucous membrane of the stomach. In the intestinal juice the proteids are separated and the tannin probably combines with the sodium salts. The immoderate drinking of tea is an unquestionable evil, but, on the whole, we are inclined to think that the evils of tea-drinking have been exaggerated. The real difficulty is to convince people that a lightly drawn infusion gives them their money's worth.—The Lancet.

WISE WORDS.

Praise the sea, but keep on the land.—Herbert.

Be charitable and indulgent to every one but thyself.—Joubert.

To pity distress is but human; to relieve it is Godlike.—H. Mann.

Attack is the reaction. I never think I have hit hard unless it rebounds.—Johnson.

Diligence is the mother of good luck. A god gives all things to industry.—Franklin.

He is not valiant who dares to die; but he that boldly bears calamity.—Massinger.

He who gives up the smallest part of a secret has the rest no longer in his power.—Richter.

Those to whom everybody allows the second place have an undoubted title to the first.—Swift.

How far that little candle throws its beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world.—Shakespeare.

People trouble a great deal about how they shall die; it would be better for them to trouble about how they live.—Queen Marie Lechzinska.

The high prize of life, the crowning fortune of a man, is to be born with a bias to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness.—Emerson.

Feminism in Modern Music.

Chopin's physical delicacy need not be dwelt upon here. It is a thrice-told tale. Everything from the material envelope to his innermost nature was feminine, morbidly feminine. He stamped every bar of his mazurkas, valses, and nocturnes and impromptus with this feminine seal, fiercely masculine as are many other of his matchless compositions. And the womanly element played an important role in his life, more so than with any composer except Berlioz or Wagner. While the polonaises, scherzos, ballades, the greater of the etudes and preludes, are of heroic quality, the major portion of his music may be truthfully called feminine.

Mendelssohn is another of the slender, delicate men who wrote music. Hyper-refined, wealthy, he was an aristocrat in his habits and fastidious in his compositions. The distinctively feminine note is generally there, and his music is all nerve, motion, fire—but little substance. Not so in Franz Liszt, who recalls one of those chivalric figures in Hungarian history, at once a warrior and a courtier. Only that there is an overplus of ornament, showy and barbaric, in his piano music, his muse is masculine. That he could paint in tone the feminine soul is proved by his Faust Symphony, with its poetic Gretchen section, and also by his Dante Symphony. And the songs—they are redolent of feminine poesy.—Harper's Bazar.

Counsel's Mistake.

"To prove that the liquid contained in the vial found in my client's possession is not 'knockout drops,' but absolutely innocuous," said the eloquent young advocate, "he will drink it in your Honor's presence."

But the client, a soldier from the Presidio, did not respond to the suggestion with anything like alacrity. And when Judge Fritz proposed that the attorney himself gulp the contents of the vial the proposal was ignored. So the case was continued until to-day in order to have the liquid subjected to chemical analysis.

Charles Goff was the soldier's name, and when arrested for disturbing the peace of his comrades in a Pacific street saloon the policeman found in his pockets not only the suspected vial but also a brass "knuckle duster."—San Francisco Call.

"Jumbo Junior."

"Jumbo Junior," a tiny elephant that is now the pet of London, was "dined" by "some fair Americans" at a restaurant and afterward "entertained the company with favorite airs on the mouth organ."

THE SUNDAY S

INTERNATIONAL LESSON CO
FOR NOVEMBER

Subject: Nehemiah's Prayer,
—Golden Text, James
Verses, 8, 9—Commentary on Lesson.

I. Nehemiah hears
Jerusalem
Nehemiah." Rather record. "Son of bly the tribe of family of David to King Artaxerx capital. This miah was a coun
tier and favorite was Governor of religious revival walls of Jerusa
twelve years he
but after a time
Jerusalem and there. "Month corresponding to
and the beginning Hebrew months
the moon. "Tw reign of Artaxerx reigned from B
under this king
letters to go to am." His own terward gave of Jerusalem
From Jerusalem them." Respecting people. "That had captivity. "Wh word "left" points such as survived which the comm
had been exposed

2. "In the prov
a province of
"Great affliction and subjection to Persia
the Jews at every imposed on them was
to a poor people.
doubtless been force armies. The country open day, and many Jews were into slavery by nightly
the corpses of murdered
ten found on the road.
The wall and houses had stroyed by Nebuchadnezzar 140 years before (2 Kings their rubbish still lay were partially rebuilt
4:12). The neighboring races lated at the rejection of their offers of assistance by years before, and still more ra's recent act in sending back homes all the wives of races found in Jerusalem and had attacked Jerusalem fierce struggles had broken newly built walls and burned

II. Nehemiah prays for help
11). 4. "Wept." Perhaps first time a deep, keen sense of ple's woes came over
"Mourned." Over the condition people, the desolation of the the reproach upon the name and the sins which had brought to this low estate, which had been put away. "Certain days"
Chisleu to Nisan, four months
the king noticed his grief.
A token of the genuineness of
row. "Prayed." In earnest, ed prayer that God would purpose which he seems to cretly formed of asking the mission to go to Jerusalem

5. "Beseech Thee." The Nehemiah deserves critical model of blended adoration confession, supplication and appeal. "Covenant and mercy."
nant refers to God's definite Mercy refers to His loving which gives more than is
"Ear—attentive—ears open."
ear hear our confession and pardon. Let Thine eye behold fering and send speedy succor and night." His grief was increased at the thought that evil existed in spite of Ezra's
He withdrew from his spent a time in retirement cere sorrow. "I and my house." Nehemiah had a
of his identification with his sin as in misery. 7.
ruptly." Some of these
tioned in Neh.
9:1; 2 Chron. 36:14-17.
ments." The moral precepts our lives should be regulated utes." What refers to the ceremonies of the religion ments." The precepts of tive to our conduct to

8. "If ye transgress."
quotation, but a reference to eral sense of various passages,
Lev. 26:27-30; Deut.
fact that God had fulfilled His threatening was a proof that fulfill His word of promise unto Me." When turns to discipline righteousness. "Gather them."
voted to His people already been partially fulfilled

10. "Thy servants."
vote themselves to do Thy will Thy people." With whom made covenant. They are the ants of those whom Thou
ered from Egypt. 11.
True desires are flashes. 2. Hearty, strong
ing. 3. Include the favor of spiritual grace. 4. Regard of salvation. "Prosper."
He had in mind to ask of erxes that he might go to and help his people.
nitely for exactly what he
"Grant him mercy."
that he might have favor in of the king. "King's cup important officer, having wines of the royal household by the king's side at meals, ping from the cup to prove not poisoned.

Thirteen Killed and Thirty

Kansas City, Mo.—Thirteen were killed and thirty wreck of the Atchison,
Santa Fe passenger train
as the California express, running at thirty-five miles struck a loose rail, ditching
one mile east of Blue river, the eastern limits of this

More than five billion
troleum are produced

"DIRECT FROM W

Baird-Nor

BAIRD-NORTH COMPANY, 320 Ess

CTS

Beverage
Make It—Best.

hat it is rom it as ciples as who pay warning
It cannot only constitukindest as er as is fusion is minutes,
increased like the f course,
y person symptoms or the sooner or use of may be nd must biological of milk ady pre-action of brane of nal juice
the an-sodium
g of tea
on the
that the en exagis to con-drawn in-
's worth.

the land.

t to every an; to rever think bounds.—

good luck,
industry.—

es to die;
alamity.—

llest part ger in his allows the ubted title

le throws deed in a eal about be better how they ka.

crowning born with finds him ss.—Emer-

usic.
need not a thrice-
n the ma-
most nature ninine. He mazurkas, mpromptus
ely mascu-matchless manly elerole in his any com-
ner. While llades, the preludes,
jor portion ully called f the slenrote music.

was an aris-stidious in stinctively there, and n, fire but in Franz hose chivalhistory, at rtier. Only ornament,
iano music,
at he could ne soul is hony, with nd also by the songs—
se poesy.—

l contained nt's posses-
' but abso-
e eloquent drink it in r from the

the suggescrity. And d that the contents of mored. So
l today in subjected to dier's name, sturbing the n a Pacific an found in spected vial

e duster."— lephant that was "dined"

at a restaurtained the airs on the

THE SUNDAY SC

INTERNATIONAL LESSON CO FOR NOVEMBER 19.

Subject: Nehemiah's Prayer, Neh. —Golden Text, James v., 16— Verses, 8, 9—Commentary on Lesson.

I. Nehemiah hears of the d Jerusalem (vs. 1-3). 1. "The w Nehemiah." Rather the narr record. "Son of Hachaliah." bly the tribe of Judah and of t family of David. He was cu to King Artaxerxes at Shush capital. This title implied tha miah was a councilor, statesm tier and favorite. For twelve y was Governor of Judea, leading religious revival and rebuild walls of Jerusalem. At the twelve years he went back to but after a time he again retu Jerusalem and effected some there. "Month Chisleu." Ninth corresponding to the end of No and the beginning of December Hebrew months varied accor the moon. "Twentieth year." reign of Artaxerxes Longiman reigned from B. C. 465 to 423. under this king that Ezra was letters to go to Jerusalem. 2 ani." His own brother, to whom terward gave the charge of the of Jerusalem (chapter 7:2). From Jerusalem to Shushan. them." Respecting Jerusalem people "That had escaped," captivity. "Which were left." word "left" points more specifi such as survived the persecuti which the community at Jer had been exposed.

3. "In the province." Of Jude a province of the Persian "Great affliction and reproach." subjection to Persia forced the Jews at every turn. The imposed on them was a heavy to a poor people. Jewish recru doubtless been forced into the P armies. The country was pill open day, and many Jews were into slavery by nightly surprise the corpses of murdered men w ten found on the road. "Wall— The wall and houses had be stroyed by Nebuchadnezzar mo 140 years before (2 Kings 25:1 their rubbish still lay in sight were partially rebuilt at one tim 4:12). The neighboring races, lated at the rejection of their f offers of assistance by Zeru years before, and still more so ra's recent act in sending back homes all the wives of non races found in Jerusalem and had attacked Jerusalem, an fierce struggles had broken do newly built walls and burned th

II. Nehemiah prays for help 11). 4. "Wept." Perhaps now first time a deep, keen sense of ple's woes came over hi "Mourned." Over the condition people, the desolation of the ho the reproach upon the name and the sins which had brough to this low estate, which had been put away. "Certain days." Chisleu to Nisan, four month the king noticed his grief. " A token of the genuineness of row. "Prayed." In earnest, p est prayer that God would fa purpose which he seems to h cretly formed of asking the ro mission to go to Jerusalem.

5. "Beseech Thee." The pr Nehemiah deserves critical stu model of blended adoration, inv confession, supplication and c appeal. "Covenant and mercy." nant refers to God's definite p Mercy refers to His loving ch which gives more than is pled "Ear attentive—ears open." L ear hear our confession and m pardon. Let Thine eye behold fering and send speedy succor and night." His grief was d increased at the thought that evil existed in spite of Ezra' He withdrew from his court du spent a time in retirement in m cere sorrow. "I and my house." Nehemiah had a cle of his identification with his p sins as in misery. 7. "Dealt v ruptly." Some of these sins tioned in Neh. 5:1-7, 10, 11: 13: 9:1; 2 Chron. 36:14-17. "Co ments." The moral precepts b our lives should be regulated. utes." What refers to the r ceremonies of thy religion. ments." The precepts of just tive to our conduct to each oth

8. "If ye transgress." This quotation, being a reference to eral sense of various passages, Lev. 26:27-39; Deut. 28:45-52. fact that God had fulfilled His threatening was a proof that H fulfil His word of promise. unto Me." When we turn to turns to discipline; when we righteousness, He turns to "Gather them." God had a p voted to His people: this pro already been partially fulfilled

10. "Thy servants." Who vote themselves to do Thy wi Thy people." With whom T made covenant. They are the ants of those whom Thou ha ered from Egypt. 11. "Who True desires are: 1. Cons flashes. 2. Hearty, strong a ing. 3. Include the favor of spiritual grace. 4. Regard t of salvation. "Prosper—Thy He had in mind to ask of Ki erxes that he might go to J and help his people. He as nitely for exactly what he "Grant him mercy." Nehemia that he might have favor in of the king. "King's cupbear important officer, having cha wines of the royal household, by the king's side at meals, ping from the cup to prove th not poisoned.

Thirteen Killed and Thirty

Kansas City, Mo.—Thirte were killed and thirty inju wreck of the Atchison, T Santa Fe passenger train No. as the California express, w running at thirty-five mile struck a loose rail, ditchin one mile east of Blue rive the eastern limits of this c

More than five billion ga troleum are produced

"DIRECT FROM WORKSHOP" 296
307
310
478
465
134
9427
751
606
695
64
9312
9318
9316
712
325
9332
7
722
724
686
9305
219
224
231
9472
9347

Baird-North Co.

Stock Pins	9454 Mapleleaf .25	Solid Gold Neck Chains
Gold, plain .65	9347 Lily .25	219 Neck Chain, 13 inches 2.00
Gold, plain .75	Solid Gold Brooches	224 Neck Chain, 15½ inches 2.75
Gold, plain .85	606 Pearl crescent 2.75	231 Bead Necklace, 14 inches 10.00
pearls 1.00	712 Baroque pearls, diamond 25.00	134 Solid Gold Links 2.00
plate, bead edge .25	722 Pearls and baroques 4.00	686 Solid Gold Locket 4.50
plate, pearl .25	724 Pearls 4.00	9370 Sterling Silver Hat Pin .30
silver, plain .25	751 Crescent, pearl 1.50	10302 Violet pattern Coffee Spoon, each .50
Sterling Silver Brooches	Scarf Pins	doz. 5.00
.25	7 Pearls, solid gold 1.25	10285 Violet Tea Spoons doz. 8.00
.40	64 Head, pearl, solid gold 1.50	Our Catalog T pictures the complete violet pattern.
.25	76 Wishbone, solid gold .40	424A Solid Gold Signet Ring 3.50
.35	9427 Wishbone, sterling silver .30	467A Diamond Ring 100.00
.25	9464 Mapleleaf sterling silver .30
.35	9472 Ruby eyes, sterling silver .35

Catalog T is now ready for mailing. The book contains 148 pages and illustrates over 8000 articles—silver Jewelry, Leather, Ebony, Toilet Goods, Watches, Rings, Table Ware, etc. best service possible; we guarantee every article we sell; we assume all risk; we return ask it. Most important of all, we save you one third of your purchase money by selling workshop." Buying from us you save the profits of the jobber, the wholesaler and retailer. have been filling orders by mail to the entire satisfaction of thousands of customers postal union. We can please you. every lover of artistic jewelry; every person who intends to make a holiday gift, to have a beautiful catalog—sent post paid upon receipt of your address. WRITE NOW.

BAIRD-NORTH COMPANY, 320 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

one-half million of the population of England earn their living in spinning and weaving of cotton.

permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. trial bottle and treatise free. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Gulch, Cal., has no jail or city

Soothing Syrup for Children softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle cut down trees, rode and Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900.

only three national holidays

Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Nankin, China, in 1853 500,000 were formed into army brigades under female officers, and rendered heroic service in battle.

In ancient times amber was obtained from a pine or fir tree, just as turpentine is now secured. This gum crystallized into the substance which is used.

Forest fires in the United States annually at least $50,000,000 of timber, buildings and other property. During the year 1904 diamonds to the value of $9,628,083 were imported from Amsterdam, of which $329 worth were polished.

No Use for Butter.

Chinese never use butter in form. In Africa a vegetable butter made from the fruit of the shea is used by the natives, and is said to be a much richer flavor than that from cows' milk.

Iceland's Monopoly.

Iceland produces most of the world's supply of eiderdown, the annual sale amounting to something over 7,000 lbs. Most of this is shipped to Copenhagen and commands from $2.14 to $2.50 a pound.

The English are beginning to appreciate our maple sugar, and it is expected that a good market for it can be made with them.

FROM TEXAS.

Facts From the Lone Star State.

a beautiful farm down in where gushing springs unite to babbling brooks that wind their way through flowery meads, a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

my baby boy came to me five ago I began to drink Postum Coffee having a feeling that it be better for him and me than kind of drug-laden coffee. I not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small, delicate woman, to a bouncing healthy baby 14 have since continued the use of Postum, for I have grown fond of it. have discovered to my joy that it entirely relieved me of a billious which used to prostrate me two three times a year, causing much comfort to my family and suffering myself.

brother-in-law was cured of constipation by leaving off the kind of coffee and using Postum. has become even more fond of it he was of the old coffee

In fact, the entire family, from the arrival (a 2-year-old, who always for his 'potie' first thing in the morning, up to the head of the house, there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Read the little book "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

An Observing Boy.

A little six-year-old boy was taken on a journey from England to India, and in India the brightness of the moon seems specially to have struck the little fellow. He wrote home to his aunt, "Here we have a larger moon, and we keep it better polished."

A Peculiar Moth.

Acherontia, a species of moth, has on the back of its thorax a remarkable representation of human skull, and is much feared by the ignorant and superstitious who have named it the "death's-head moth."

The Better Choice.

We would hate to be an old maid and have nothing to love but a cat, but we would hate a whole lot worse to be a married woman and have to coax money from a man that chewed tobacco.

Factory girls in England are regular patrons of public houses, girls of fourteen treating their friends to 2-penny whisky and getting drunk every Saturday night and on holidays as a matter of course.

RAISED FROM A DEATH-BED.

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Been Well Three Years.

E. E. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Skowhegan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me so I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Heaviest Rainfall.

The heaviest rainfall of short duration ever recorded accurately is said to have been the recent one at Santiago de Cuba. An English engineer found the rate to be more than four inches an hour.

English Hangmen.

Technically, any inhabitant of the United Kingdom is liable to be called on to undertake the uncongenial task of hangman. The salary is $5 a week as a retaining fee and $10 after an execution.

The production of meat ready for sale at the butcher shop involves no less than twenty-five separate industries set at work after the animal is killed, so extensively are the by-products utilized.

A London newspaper remarks that the review of the Scottish Volunteers by the king, at Edinburgh recently, was chiefly notable for the number of more or less distinguished officers who fell from their horses.

Nativity of Cucumbers.

Cucumbers are natives of India, and were not first grown in Holland, as is generally supposed, although that country was the first to appreciate this delicious vegetable.

Oyster Industry in Maryland.

The oyster fishery industry in Maryland yields more than 10,000,000 bushels a season, worth over $5,000,000, which affords employment in taking and packing to more than 32,000 persons.

$5,000 Pig Sty.

James M. Donald, millionaire president of the Hanover National bank of New York, who bought the old Atchley farm near Ewing Station, N. J., about six years ago, is going in for farming on the most modern lines. The house is said to have cost $100,000. The outbuildings are models, and an idea of their general construction can be had from the statement that Mr. Donald has a pig sty costing $5,000.

The heroine of the classical nursery rhyme "Mary Had a Little Lamb" was a Massachusetts girl whose kindness to the lamb, which had been disowned by its unnatural mother, was made famous by the well-known verses written by a Harvard student named Rowlston. The lamb finally met an untimely death by the horns of an angry cow.

Oldest Brick House in England.

The oldest brick building in England except those built by the Romans is said to be Hurstmonceaux castle, in Sussex, which was erected by Detiennes, treasurer of Henry VI. It was dismantled about a century ago.

Whitaker estimates that the sensible atmosphere of the earth extends to a height of some forty miles or more. At a distance of a very few miles from the earth's surface, however, it becomes of to great a tenuity to support life.

Switzerland has developed from one of the poorest to one of the richest nations of the world per capita, most of her wealth being gained from the hordes of tourists who visit in an endless procession the glaciers and lakes.

Rain Which Doesn't Fall.

In the Colorado desert there are rain storms, during which not a drop of water touches the earth. The rain can be seen falling from the clouds high above, but when it reaches the hot, dry air beneath the clouds it is entirely absorbed.

A Trite Reply.

A girl in Gaylord, Kan., was told by one of her admirers that, if she didn't marry him, he'd get a rope and hang himself right in front of her house. "Oh, please don't do it, dear," she said, "you know father doesn't want you hanging around here."

There is a fine opportunity in this vicinity to take orders for the celebrated White Bronze monuments, headstones, grave covers, etc., made by The Monumental Bronze Company, 392 Howard Ave., Bridgeport, Conn. It is a good, legitimate business, and they offer very liberal inducements. Someone should write them for the agency.

A Big Sounder.

One invention sometimes makes another necessary. A gramophone which can be heard a distance of three miles is the latest. Now, what is needed is a sound deadener with a three-mile range, to smother the noise of the gramophone.

At sea level, at an elevation of one foot, an object is visible at a distance of 1.31 miles; at an elevation of ten feet, 4.18 miles; twenty-five feet, 8.61 miles; 100 feet, 12.23 miles; 1,000 feet 33.41 miles; at an even elevation of one mile, 96.10 miles.

The American chamber of commerce in Paris, organized fifteen years ago, has grown to be an important factor in trade between the two countries, and recently has been able to exert sufficient influence to prevent French legislation hostile to certain American products.

In China last year the British and Foreign Bible Society distributed more than 1,000,000 copies of the Scriptures. During the same period 350,000 books were given away among the soldiers and sailors of Russia and Japan.

CAPT. GRAHAM'S CURE

Sores on Face and Back—Tried Many Doctors Without Success—Gives Thanks to Cuticura.

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had barbers' itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and I tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment did it."

The rivers of Sakhalien are torrents, but alive with salmon.

Cures Rheumatism and Catarrh—Medicine Sent Free.

Send no money—simply write and try Botanic Blood Balm at our expense. Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) kills or destroys the poison in the blood which causes the awful aches in back and shoulder blades, shifting pains, difficulty in moving fingers, toes or legs, bone pains, swollen muscles and joints of rheumatism, or the foul breath, hawking, spitting, droppings in throat, bad hearing, specks flying before the eyes, all played out feeling of catarrh. Botanic Blood Balm has cured hundreds of cases of 30 or 40 years' standing after doctors, hot springs and patent medicines had all failed. Most of these cured patients had taken Blood Balm as a last resort. It is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases. Impossible for any one to suffer the agonies or symptoms of rheumatism or catarrh while or after taking Blood Balm. It makes the blood pure and rich, thereby giving a healthy blood supply. Cures are permanent and not a patching up. Drug stores, $1 per large bottle. Sample of Blood Balm sent free and prepaid, also special medical advice by describing your trouble and writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Roses bloom in the open air all the year in Portland, Ore.

BOX OF WAFERS FREE—NO DRUGS —CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Cures Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breath—Bloating—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

Special Offer.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

11183 FREE COUPON 129

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

Mull's Grape Tonic Co., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

By order of the police all cabmen in Berlin must wear white hats.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

In South America on the Ignazu river has been discovered the grandest cataract in the world, situated in an almost impentrable forest. The precipice over which the water falls is 210 feet high; the cataract is 13,123 feet wide, and it is estimated that 140,000,000 tons of water pass over it in one hour.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken

500 FREE COURSES

Board at Cost. Write Quick

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

LOOK INSIDE

SIR KNIGHT $4

Better See That the Inside of the Shoes Your Dealer Wants to Sell You Are as Good as the Outside.

Clover Brand Shoes

INVITE Inspection.

The Sir Knight $4 Shoe

FOR MEN

IS "THE LIMIT IN LEATHER."

IF YOUR DEALER SAYS "NO" WRITE US.

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

PRICE, 25 Cts
TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE
CURES COUGHS & COLDS

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer. Springfield, Mo.

SALESMEN WANTED—Three salesmen for our new County, Township and Railrord survey of Alabama. This survey is a splendid compilation of facts, figures and drawings and of wonderful value. Counties and towns fully indexed and population of each are given; railroads plainly shown and distances between all stations also shown; congressional districts outlined, numbered and population given. Other features too numerous to mention. A splendid opportunity for energetic men. Rand, McNally and Co., Chicago, Ill.

MOZLEY'S

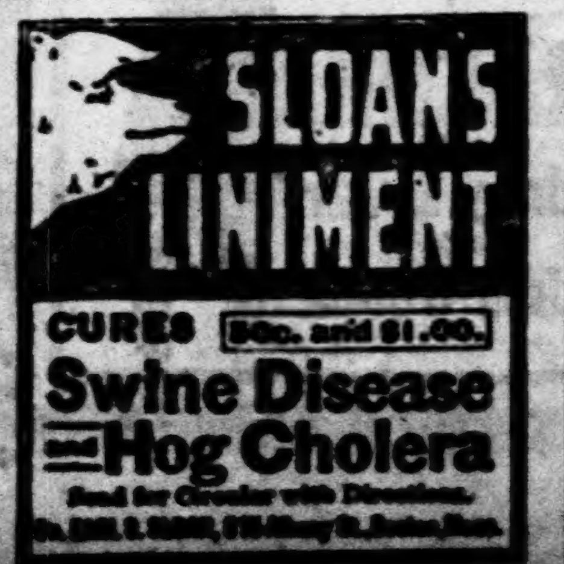
LEMON ELIXIR

—A SURE CURE FOR—

CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS

and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

Am. 46, 1905.



SLOANS LINIMENT
CURES 50c. and $1.00.
Swine Disease and Hog Cholera
Send for Circular with Directions.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S

GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND,

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Home Seekers' Rates.

The Queen & Crescent Route (Alabama Great Southern R. R.) will sell round trip tickets from points on its line to Texas, Indian and Oklahoma Territories on Nov. 7th, and 21st, also December 5th and 19th, at very low rates.

For further particulars address

A. B. Freeman,
T. P. A., A. G. S. R. R.,
1925—First Ave., Birmingham, Ala.

CATARRH is the mother of CONSUMPTION. Our CARBOLATE of IODINE POCKET INHALER is a guaranteed cure. Price $1.00. W. H. SMITH & CO.,

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters—Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

MATILDA BORMAN
MYRTLE MILLS

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well, and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my monthlies were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my monthlies are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes Sick Women Well.

FORBES PIANOS

Sold from factory to fireside by arrangement of payments that any family can meet. Your old organ or piano taken at part payment on the new. We deliver free anywhere and will exchange within one year if not entirely satisfactory. Send for catalog A4

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
THE WORLD'S GREATEST SHOEMAKER
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES
ESTABLISHED JULY 6, 1876.

W.L.DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

The R. Paxton Company Boston, Mass.

Residence Lots, Near Beach, $125.

$10 cash; $5.00 monthly. Write for maps. GEO. L. CARLEY, Gulfport, Miss.

PISO'S CURE FOR

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

NO GOODS [illegible] IN THIS SALE

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

NO GOODS EXCHANGED ON SATURDAY

MAPLESVILLE, ALA.

Fall Clearance Sale

We laid in an immense stock for this Fall, but business has been slow, so we have determined to sell out the balance of this large stock at 50 cents on the dollar, rather than carry it over to next Fall.

Public Sale Commences SATURDAY, NOV. 18, at 8:30 a.m. promptly

Fifteen Days For Hurry Up Trading

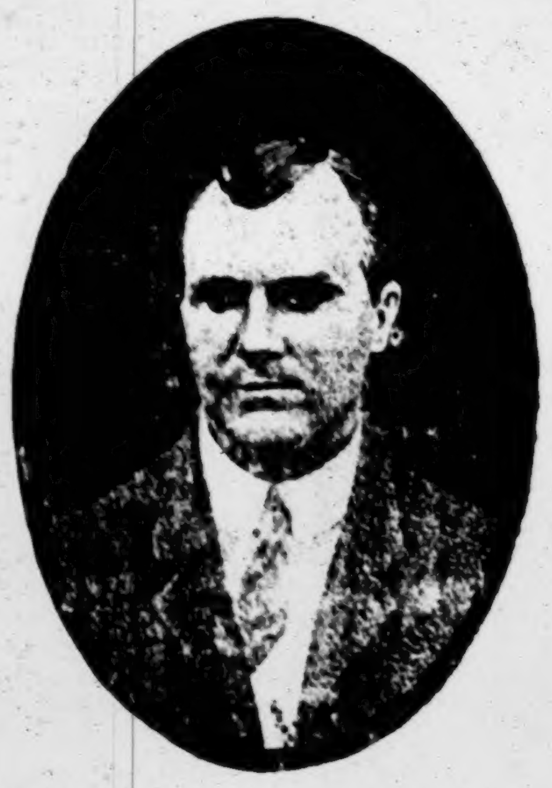
Our store will be ready Saturday, 8:30 a.m. There'll be no tardiness on our part; our entire stock has been displayed and arranged so as to rush the goods out without interference. An army of skilled clerks, working both night and day, marking down, cutting and slashing prices like they have never been in this city before.

Don't Hesitate. Don't Delay. Come Today.

ASTOUNDING BARGAINS

Best Calico	4¾	Men's Heavy Fleeced Underwear worth 75	39	3.00 Boy's Suits	1.49
7½c Outing	4	Ladies' Heavy Ribbed Underwear, worth 50	29	5.00 Boy's Suits	2.49
12½c Outing	7½	Men's 40c Shirts	.19	2.00 Men's Hats	98
7½c Bleached Domestic	4½	Men's 75c Shirts	.39	75c Overalls	38
12½c Bleached Domestic	7½	Men's 1.00 Shirts	.49	50c Caps	24
15c Bed Ticking	8	2.00 Ladies' Shirt Waists	98	2.00 Men's Shoes	98
12½c Cotton Flannel	8	3.00 Ladies' Skirts	1.49	2.50 Men's Shoes	1.24
Extra Heavy Cotton Flannel, worth 20c	12 1-2	4.00 Ladies' Skirts	1.98	3.00 Men's Shoes	1.98
25c Ladies' Linen Handkerchiefs	12 1-2	8.00 Ladies' Skirts	4.48	4.00 Men's Shoes	2.98
Men's Handkerchiefs	2	Children's Reefers, worth 2.00	98	2.00 Ladies Shoes	98
25c Suspenders	9	Children's Reefers, worth 2.50	1.49	2.50 Ladies' Shoes	1.23
35c Suspenders	19	Ladies' Jackets, worth 5.00	2.98	3.00 Ladies' Shoes	1.89
50c Suspenders	24	Ladies' Jackets, worth 7.00	3.98	75c Baby Shoes	23
15c Men's Sox	7 1-2	Ladies' Jackets, worth 10.00	5.98	7.50 Overcoat	4.23
25c Men's Sox	12 1-2	2.00 Men's Pants	98	12.50 Overcoat	7.98
45c Men's Sox	19	3.00 Men's Pants	1.49	15.00 Overcoat	8.98
15c Ladies' Hose	7 1-2	4.00 Men's Pants	1.98	20.00 Overcoat	9.98
50c Ladies' Hose	19	5.00 Men's Pants	2.98	20 lbs Sugar	1.00
Fancy Hat Pins, worth 25c	5	8.50 Men's Suits	4.98	10 lbs. Green Coffee	1.00
Men's Linen Collars	4	10.00 Men's Suits	5.98	12 Bars Soap	25
Pearl Buttons worth 10c dozen	5	20.00 Men's Suits	10.98

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Maplesville - - - - Alabama



WHAT URACURA

Did for S. J. Spearman and his family:

WILSONVILLE, ALA., August 10, 1905.

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE CO.,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

GENTLEMEN: I have been selling your Uracura and have never sold a remedy that gave better satisfaction. I have used it in my own family and know from my own experience that it will do all you claim for it.

Very truly yours,
S. J. SPEARMAN.

What it will do for You:

It will absolutely cure you of any and all Kidney troubles, by going directly to the seat of the disease and replacing all abnormal conditions of the organs with healthy tissues. This is the reason that cures Kidney troubles to stay cured, instead of just soothing them temporarily as other remedies do.

URACURA

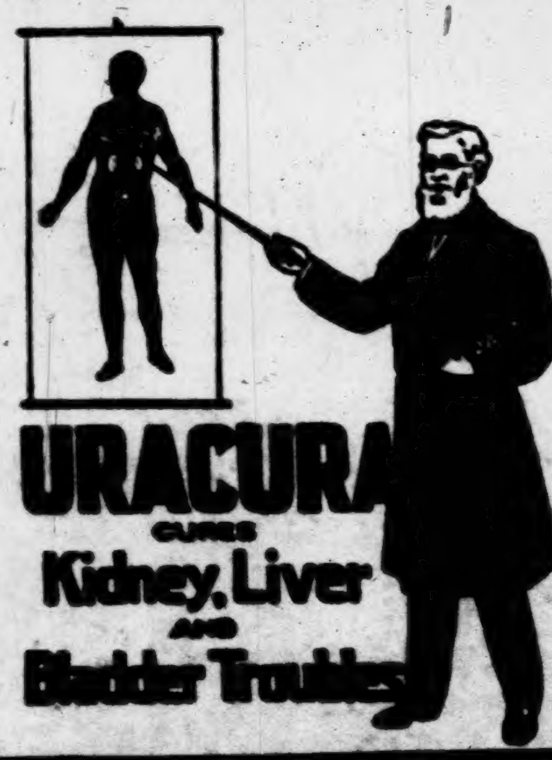
Uracura is a purely vegetable compound, or concentrated extract of herbs and roots, so scientifically combined as to produce an absolutely certain cure. A great nervine tonic, blood alterative, liver regulator and kidney and bladder cure. Restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves biliousness and constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion.



Buy a bottle to-day---Price 50 cents
For sale by Druggists

Dr. Granger Medicine Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

The Great Christmas Edition of
THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

Will be issued Dec. 17th, 1905.

This will be one of the greatest papers ever issued in the South. Will contain over 100 pages. Every page will be a gem. You cannot afford to be without this splendid paper.

Fill out order blank below and send 5 cents. Address, The Advertiser Co., Montgomery.

Name..............................

Postoffice..............................

Position GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

BIG STOC

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashi and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of kinds; Dress Goods, Underw Jackets of the latest styles. Bro cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices. Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 p of sample Shoes, worth from $3 to $5.00, to be closed out at $2 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS
VIOLINS, GUITARS,

we keep in stock at the very lowest pri Come and hear the Phonograph talk make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton, Ala.

"CUT IT OUT"

says the doctor to many of his lady patients, because he doesn't know of any medicinal treatment that will positively cure womb or ovarian troubles, except the surgeon's knife.

That such a medicine exists, however, has been proved by the wonderful cures performed on diseased women, in thousands of cases, by

WINE OF CARDUI
Woman's Relief

It has saved the lives of thousands of weak, sick women, and has rescued thousands of others from a melancholy lifetime of chronic invalidism. It will cure you, if you will only give it a chance. Sold at every drug store in $1.00 bottles. Try it.

WRITE US A LETTER freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your troubles. We will send Free Advice (in plain, sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

GAVE UP SUPPORTER "I wore a supporter for years, for my womb, which had crowded everything down before it, writes Mrs. S. J. Chrisman, of Mannsville, N. Y. "I suffered untold misery and could hardly walk. After taking Cardui I gave up my supporter and can now be on my feet half a day at a time."

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Ha

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SHOES, 50 Cents and

W. KANTER & BRO.
General Merchandise
CLANTON - - AL

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coff .

W. I MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA.

XIV Part C

MAN ON THE CORNER

the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

have been making a tour of ast Chilton," said Commis Moses Robinson, "from out Kincheon way, and as I along I noticed the corn looked dark. 'Way up to the top the light might be shining through, but below all lid. This shows the people plenty of corn—full cribs. in the fields and woods lots of were to be seen, not very but plenty of them. With a supply of corn, pea vines, to fatten them, there'll be of hog meat in the country. then there's a bale or two of under shelter at most places, ing the owner's pleasure as to he sells it. Altogether, the of Chilton county are in a prosperous condition than before, and I am proud of it."

en Will West escaped from on jail last December he prob thought he was off for good, Sheriff Morgan prides himself none of his prisoners have ed, and was determined to Will again. Last week he got over at Cuthbert, Ga., and ht him back and lodged him ntgomery jail for the present. f Morgan will get them, and 'em too.

Father C. C. Billingsley of ast Chilton is in his 90th but he can beat some of the er ones yet. He raised about finest potatoe we have seen, weighing 5 pounds. A. C. and wife, who had come to show, brought it into the r office, just to show what r Billingsley can do.

he The Banner office your uarters during court. We will d to see you and make your pleasant. Remember, The r is the only printing office hilton county.

Shades Mountain.

. Murphy has returned from it to relatives at Hartselle.

. Fancheon Chadbourne and ter, Mrs. W. W. Bailey, who been visiting relatives in this ity have returned to their home elle.

. Sam Thames and Miss Blanch have returned from a pleas visit to relatives and friends in r.

s Francis Crenshaw of the city has been the guest of ds on the Mountain.

. Will Shelby has been called home in Chilton where his was quite sick

G. A. Northington and ghter, Miss Myrtle, have returned a most enjoyable visit to friends ringham.

is reported that we will have ric cars running out here from ingham.

e of our enterprising farmers, Jobe Tyler, made $430.00 off and one fourth acres of toma this year. Also one of our rprising farmers expects to make thousand bushels of sweet pota this year.

Neuralgia Pains.

eumatism, lumbago and sciatic yield to the penetrating in ce of Ballard's Snow Liniment. penetrates to the nerves and and being absorbed into the d, its healing properties are con d to every part of the body, effect some wonderful cures. 50c and $1.00. Sold by Up h Drug co.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST

mingham, 2003 Second ave., be Jemison Friday and day before the first Sunday in month, prepared to do all of dental work. Teeth ex ed free.

COR

Do not feits whe salve. T
& Co is o ine Piles
soon pass
DeWitt's and morn
Boils, Tet
Upchurch

Each sc to meet houses on electing o
of the S. delegates
ing at C
The count
gates to th
The S.
yond our tions, yet
We must cotton is nothing f nothing i we stop fo
fable, the
the race in Hoping county w respectfull

Mrs. W
Mr. J. H.
10, 1905, band and and siste
Death, lik
our home ones, leav shadows
when he flock we will be w
he lays hi are indee with the ward an green pas
our heart that deat messenge that it m
of her lov
Mrs. Joh
Baptist c true Chri and we peace and in the ho ty Wh did not s calmly le she "seem loving a her over ing only about to gerous p them te counsel heaven.
farewell prayed f might be taken ho
Lord.

The m nior and place I
at the mother,
the cere
In he Lenoir
After invited room, w tuous su
Mr. a on Mul
the com couple.

"Con
and thr writes
"For th
on the Cold, I
Discove has sav trouble.
a sad lo
that lun
lected,
est rel
Price 5
Upchur

Sub

STOCK

V PRICE

of the good people of Chilton county,
e stock comprising all the latest fash arly call your attention to our line of

Trimmed Hats and Millinery of
kinds; Dress Goods; Underw
Jackets of the latest styles; Br
at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

Hats, and a special line of 500 p
of sample Shoes, worth from $
to $5.00, to be closed out at $ y fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
DISON PHONOGRAPHS
VIOLINS, GUITARS,
keep in stock at the very lowest pri me and hear the Phonograph talk—ke life worth living.

KANJUTZKY
AVORITE STORE
nton, Ala.

IT OUT"

ny of his lady patients, because he doesn't reatment that will positively cure womb or the surgeon's knife.
ne exists, however, has been proved by the med on diseased women, in thousands of

CARDUI
man's Relief

ves of thousands of weak, sick women, and of others from a melancholy lifetime of will cure you, if you will only give it a chance.
store in $1.00 bottles. Try it.

TER test confi-troubles.
(in plain,
: Ladies'
hattanooga
, Tenn.

GAVE UP SUPPORTER
"I wore a supporter for years, for my womb, which had crowded everything down before it, writes Mrs. S. J. Chrisman, of Mannsville, N. Y. "I suffered untold misery and could hardly walk. After taking Cardui I gave up my supporter and can now be on my feet half a day at a time."

Hats
ern Hats
adies' Street Ha
OL SHOES. 50 Cents and u

ANTER & BRO.
al Merchandise
- - AL

BODY KNOWS
g when they see it, and for on EVERYBODY should come the good things here.
you need, from a button to from a needle to a coff
I MULLINS
ON - - - ALA

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIV   Part One   CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1905   Pages 1 to 8   no. 6

AN ON THE CORNER

the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

ave been making a tour of t Chilton," said Commis- Moses Robinson, "from ut Kincheon way, and as I along I noticed the corn looked dark. 'Way up to the top the light might be ining through, but below all lid. This shows the people plenty of corn—full cribs. in the fields and woods lots of were to be seen, not very but plenty of them. With a supply of corn, pea vines, to fatten them, there'll be of hog meat in the country. then there's a bale or two of under shelter at most places, g the owner's pleasure as to he sells it. Altogether, the of Chilton county are in a prosperous condition than before, and I am proud of it."

en Will West escaped from n jail last December he prob- thought he was off for good, heriff Morgan prides himself none of his prisoners have d, and was determined to Will again. Last week he got over at Cuthbert, Ga., and ht him back and lodged him ontgomery jail for the present. f Morgan will get them, and 'em too.

Father C. C. Billingsley of ast Chilton is in his 90th but he can beat some of the er ones yet. He raised about finest potatoe we have seen , weighing 5 pounds. A. C. and wife, who had come to e show, brought it into the r office, just to show what r Billingsley can do.

ke The Banner office your uarters during court. We will d to see you and make your pleasant. Remember, The r is the only printing office ilton county.

Shades Mountain.

. Murphy has returned from t to relatives at Hartselle.

. Fancheon Chadbourne and ter, Mrs. W. W. Bailey, who been visiting relatives in this ity have returned to their home elle.

. Sam Thames and Miss Blanch have returned from a pleas sit to realatives and friends in r.

s Francis Crenshaw of the city has been the guest of s on the Mountain.

. Will Shelby has been called home in Chilton where his was quite sick

. G. A. Northington and hter, Miss Myrtle, have returned a most enjoyable visit to friends ming is reported that we will have ric cars running out here from ingham.

e of our enterprising farmers, Jobe Tyler, made $430.00 off and one fourth acres of toma this year. Also one of our rprising farmers expects to make thousand bushels of sweet pota- this year.

Neuralgia Pains.

umatism, lumbago and sciatic yield to the penetrating in- ce of Ballard's Snow Liniment. penetrates to the nerves and and being absorbed into the d, its healing properties are con- to every part of the body, effect some wonderful cures. 50c and $1.00. Sold by Up- h Drug co.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST
mingham, 2003 Second ave., be in Jemison Friday and day before the first Sunday in month, prepared to do all s of dental work. Teeth ex- d free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Do not be deceived by counterfeits when you buy Witch Hazel salve. The name of E. C. DeWitt & Co. is on every box of the genuine. Piles in their worst form will soon pass away if you will apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve night and morning. Best for Cuts, Burns, Boils, Tetter, Eczema etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

S. C. A NOTICE.

Each school district is requested to meet at their respective school houses on Dec. 2, for the purpose of electing officers of their division of the S. C. A. and to elect three delegates to attend the county meeting at Clanton on Dec. 9, 1905. The county meeting will elect delegates to the state association.

The S. C. A. has succeeded beyond our most sanguine expectations, yet there is much to be done. We must not think that because cotton is a fair price that there is nothing further for us to do, as nothing is more untrue. Should we stop for a rest as the hare in the fable, the tortoise (bear) will win the race in the end.

Hoping that each district in the county will be represented, I am respectfully,

J. N. Dennis, Sec

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Wilder Johnson, wife of Mr. J. H. Johnson, who died Nov. 10, 1905, leaving a devoted husband and seven children, brothers and sisters to mourn her loss. Death, like a cruel monster, enters our homes and bears away our dear ones, leaving his dark and gloomy shadows resting upon our hearts, when he removes the lambs of the flock we can but mourn that they will be with us no more, but when he lays his hand on the mother we are indeed bereaved. Still when with the eye of faith we look upward and see her resting in the green pasture of heaven. Although our hearts are bleeding we know that death to her was a friend, a messenger sent to release her spirit that it might be borne to the bosom of her loving and tender Shepherd. Mrs. Johnson was a member of the Baptist church at Alpine, being a true Christian and a loving mother and we know that her end was peace and that she died triumphant in the hope of a blessed immortality. When near the dark river she did not shrink from its cold waves, calmly looking to the other shore she seemed to see the Saviour's loving arms outstretched to bear her over the dark wave, and thinking only of the loved ones she was about to leave to tread life's dangerous path without her, she gave them tender warning and loving counsel urging them to meet her in heaven. She bade them a fond farewell when near her last. She prayed for her loved ones that they might be kept from evil and finally taken home to be forever with the Lord.

A Friend.

Veazey-Lenoir

The marriage of Miss Maud Lenior and Mr. W. T. Veazey took place Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, at the residence of the groom's mother, the Rev. Wood performing the ceremony.

In her bridal rob. of gray, Miss Lenoir never looked prettier.

After the ceremony the guests were invited into the spacious dining-room, where a bountiful and sumptuous supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Veazey will reside on Mulberry. The best wishes of the community go with the happy couple.

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my Mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. Trial bottle free.

Subscribe for the Banner

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President.   W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President.   John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$46,444.00
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519.50
Currency	12,255.00
Gold	295.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,297.61
Checks and Cash Items	30 00
Profit and Loss	4.95
		$37,503.86
Total		$88,408.61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000 10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,878 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172 50
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	61 00
		$65,801 10
Total		$88,408 61

Maplesville.

Misses Adams and Bowline have attended the protracted meeting at Pleasant Grove the past week.

Mrs A. S. Foshee has lately entertained Mrs. W. Foshee and her sister, Mrs. Waterworth.

On last Friday our high school was honored by a visit from Hon. T. M. Curry and lady. The latter and Miss Adair were colleagues and the former was one of Alabama's most gifted teachers. She addressed the school in a most fluent and eloquent style which was highly appreciated by the attentive pupils. Miss Adair was entertained by her friends at the Fox hotel.

Miss Nettie Dobbs has visited Mrs. Walker.

T. U. Crumpton, W. Mitchell, C. Foshee and Tom Perry took in the Selma fair and theatre.

Mrs. Fuller is on a visit to her mother, Mrs. P. DuBose.

The Ensign mill is considered the best in this county and several prospectors have been down lately looking at it. The stockholders, Messrs. Bartlett, Deo and Robinson have been here looking after their interest.

Mrs. Saunders is with her family here; she has spent the summer in New York.

Our highly esteemed friend, Wheeler Foshee, of Belle Sumter spent several days last week with relatives here.

Finis Walker has been to Selma, Mesdames Claughton and Plant attended the Selma fair.

Revolg.

Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headache constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers" are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

OBITUARY.

Death has again visited our community and taken from our midst our beloved friend and neighbor, Mrs. Mandy Miner, beloved wife of Elias Miner. She was lovely in mind and character and patient in affliction. Although her sufferings wer long and severe she never made a murmur or compaint. She was willing to die and died in faith of the aviour. She was a model Christian wife and mother and we will all miss her, but we hope to meet in a better land where parting can come no more and pain and sorrow cannot enter in.

A Friend.

Providence, Beat 10.

Crops are about harvested; most of us have sold our cotton and we are glad to say that some of our people are coming out of debt. Surely our community is in better condition financially than it has been in some time. We are glad to note rapid progress of our Farmers' Union in this Beat. We received three Saturday and have some more to come in our next meeting.

Hunting is all the go now; the Wyatt and Robinson boys went out last week to the river and the geese and ducks they saw were unnumbered, but they have the same keen eye sight they have always had. Some of us took to the woods to try our luck on squirrels and in two days brought in 52 squirrels. Come on, boys, and if you can beat that let us know.

Guess.

A Disastrous Calamity.

It is a disastrous calamity, when you lose your health, because indigestion and constipation have sapped it away. Prompt relief can be had in Dr. King's New Life Pills. They build up your digestive organs, and headache, dizziness, colic, constipation, etc. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co; 25c.

Farmers' Union.

The Chilton county Farmers' Union will meet with Highland Union, four miles west of Clanton, on the old Kincheon road. Success to the Banner and the Farmers' Union, and hoping to see every Union in the county represented, I am,

Respectfully,

J. W. Sorrell, Sec.-Treas.

Unity Baptist Association.

The minutes for 1905 are now ready, and Clerks of churches in the neighborhood of Clanton will please call or send to The Banner office for their share.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorby..

THE CLANTON BANK
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President   E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President   E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker   P. D. Wilson   E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor   W. I. Mullins   J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

WANTED—We are installing a night run and need a double crew. We can give employment to 100 good laborers either white or colored. We also need planing mill feeders and graders. JACKSON LUMBER CO., Lockhart, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

When you want a pleasant physic try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and produce no griping or other unpleasant effect. Sold by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

FOR RENT—A five horse farm to rent, two miles from Montevallo, same having two dwellings, hay press, blacksmith shop and all kinds of improved tools to farm with. Will rent place and stock or will rent place alone. Apply to S. A. Latham, Montevallo, Ala.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

A liquid cold cure and the only Cough Syrup which moves the bowels—works all cold out of the system—is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the head and throat and makes weak lungs strong. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties. Guaranteed by Upchurch Drug co. Price 50c.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.
PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,
Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.
Let us figure with you on
your next bill.
2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Shirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.
J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
A TORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours 8 to 9 & 4 to 6.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co.   CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN—PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address
THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION,
THORSBY, ALA.

But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this season of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

Justice With Microscope.

New York.—Justice Giegerich, of the supreme court, in examining the protested ballots from New York's recent mayoralty race decided that ballots on which the cross had been made with more than two strokes of the pencil were void. In many cases the ballots were examined with magnifying glasses to ascertain the number of strokes used in making the cross.

To Consolidate Decatur.

Decatur, Ala.—The question of consolidating Decatur and New Decatur is now being discussed very freely. Sixty days ago the Business Men's League of Decatur appointed a committee to investigate the consolidation, and their work was very satisfactory and met with the approval of the majority.

Hotel for Talladega.

Talladega, Ala.—While the matter is not in shape for anything definite, one of Talladega's progressive citizens is contemplating the organization of a stock company to erect a five-story modern hotel in the vicinity of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic depot site. In fact, the matter is considerably more in the shape of a probability than a possibility.

Gadsden, Ala.—The accommodation train from this city to Chattanooga will be put on within a few days. The delay has been caused by not having the proper equipment ready.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad has a large force at work on its Cartersville division, and will have it ready to put on the through service between Knoxville and Birmingham.

Clark Howell Outlines Policy.

Atlanta, Ga.—Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, has made formal announcement of the platform on which he seeks the democratic nomination for governor of Georgia. He will begin immediately an active campaign, which will be under the management of John T. Boifeullet, for ten years clerk of the Georgia house of representatives.

Liner Goes Aground.

Maasluis, Holland.—The Holland-American line steamer Ryndam, Captain Vandersee, from New York, November 8, for Boulogne and Rotterdam, grounded Saturday in a fog off Vhaarlingen. It was high water when the Ryndam went ashore.

Faces Grave Charges.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Bonaparte has made public the charges and specifications against Minor Meriwether, Jr., the midshipman who engaged in the fatal prize fight with Midshipman Branch. There were three charges, namely: Manslaughter, violation of the third clause of article 8, naval regulations, and conduct to the prejudice of order and discipline.

Five Convicts Escape.

Montgomery, Ala.—The report of the escape of five state convicts since November 16 has reached the office of the board of convict inspectors. Four of them are negroes. They are Abe Hunter, of Mobile county; John Henry, of Etowah county; J. M. McCain, of Calhoun county, and Charles Johnson, of Etowah county.

Alabama Conference.

Birmingham, Ala.—The thirty-sixth annual session of the North Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will convene in the Methodist church at Athens, Ala., next Wednesday morning. Biship Charles B. Galloway, of Jackson, Miss., will preside, and many matters of importance will come up for consideration.

Shot From Ambush.

Anniston, Ala.—J. W. Mitchell, who conducts a dairy on Duncan street, between Sixth and Seventh, was shot in the forehead while standing on his porch last Wednesday night, and although every effort has been made to apprehend the assailant, no clue has been found which would warrant an arrest being made in the case.

Two Men Assassinated.

Ardmore, I. T.—R. J. Hopping and A. B. Ward, brothers-in-law, were shot and killed by unknown persons in a lonely road near Madill Saturday. Last February Ward shot and killed H. H. Harkey, a farmer, who lived near Madill, and it is thought that Saturday's assassinations grew out of the former tragedy.

Damming of Warrior.

Birmingham, Ala.—Matilda A. Glover, through her attorneys, has filed suit in the chancery court against the Southern Railway to enjoin them from throwing rocks, dirt and other debris into the Little Warrior river, which, it is claimed, is a navigable stream and passes by the property of the complainant.

Money doesn't bring happiness, but it makes a fellow feel mighty contented when he's ordering a first-class dinner.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Want More Money for Old Soldiers.

Talladega, Ala.—At the last meeting of Talladega Camp, U. C. V., the following resolution, introduced by Judge Brown, was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this camp of Confederate veterans that it is due to the indigent Confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows that the appropriation made by the state for their benefit and assistance in their declining years should be materially increased, and that we hereby memorialize the legislature of Alabama in their behalf, and ask for a substantial increase in the amount appropriated."

Killed by Street Car.

Sheffield, Ala.—Mrs. M. J. Meade, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Morris, was struck by an electric car and killed Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Meade was driving a buggy, in which were her younger sisters, Charlotte and Janie, and her 4-year-old son, Morris Meade. When on Atlanta avenue, near Mine Row, the buggy was struck by a street car coming up behind. It is said the horse was frightened onto the track by the ringing of the motorman's gong. Mrs. Meade was thrown to the ground and received injuries from which she died an hour later. Charlotte Morris was seriously, but not fatally hurt. The other children were only badly shaken up. Mrs. Meade resided in Portsmouth, Va., and had been here only a few days on a visit to her parents.

Baldwin County Muddle.

Mobile, Ala.—The final returns from the court held by Circuit Judge Browne at Daphne, at which Sheriff Armstrong and Clerk Voltz refused to appear, show that the absent officers were fined in all $1,600 each and each sentenced to 140 days' imprisonment. Fourteen members of the grand jury who absented themselves from the court were fined $100 each and ten day's imprisonment. Judge Browne said he did not see how they were going to get out of paying their fines and serving their time, as they willfully absented themselves.

New Drug Company.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Papers have been filed in the probate office for the incorporation of the Neal Drug Company. This company recently bought the stock of the Star Drug Company, and already has improved and stretched out into a progressive, up-to-date drug store. The capital stock of the concern is fixed at $10,000, all of which is paid up. The officers of the company are: George B. Neal, president; Dr. William S. Coggin, treasurer and generalm anager; Henry A. James, attorney.

New Machine Company.

Florence, Ala.—Application for charter has been filed in the probate judge's office by the Florence Machine and Railroad Supply Company, capitalized at $50,000. The incorporators are Maj. A. J. McCarry, L. W. Carden, E. L. Forsythe, J. M. Garrett, George L. Hoxie and A. R. McCarry. The company will manufacture a pattent smooth roller railway cattle guard.

Child Drowned.

Birmingham, Ala.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barrett, who lives near No. 1 shaft, was drowned Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The child was about 2 years old and was playing around a barrel of water in the yard, and by some means fell into it, and when found was dead. Dr. Carroway was summoned at once, but could do nothing. The parents have the sympathy of every one in the loss of their little daughter.

Barn Burned.

Anniston, Ala.—The barn of W. J. Edmondson, who lives out on the Alexandria road two miles from town, was entirely consumed by fire Friday, together with its entire contents, consisting of six head of horses, two mules, one milch cow, two yearlings and one male stock yearling.

Talladega Judge Hurt.

Talladega, Ala.—Probate Judge E. J. Camp, while walking down South street, slipped on a scantling across the sidewalk at the residence of Mr. Reynolds, breaking several bones in his left foot. He is compelled to use crutches.

Seymour Calls Meeting.

Montgomery, Ala.—W. H. Seymour, president of the Alabama branch of the Southern Cotton Association, has issued a call for a meeting of the association to be held in Montgomery November 30. Action then will be taken in support of the movement to hold 3,000,000 bales of cotton for 15 cents.

British Tars Like New York.

New York.—One thousand and fifty-six British sailors were missing Saturday from the squadron of Prince Louis of Battenberg, which has been anchored in New York harbor for a little more than a week. These sailors were recorded as deserters on the books of the six ships composing the fleet, but their officers hope that most of them have merely overstayed their shore

Burned to Death.

Decatur, Ala.—Durvan Crawford was burned to death in a fire which destroyed Mrs. Rusler's boarding house here Friday. The alarm was turned in from Third avenue station, South Decatur, at 2 a. m. There were about thirty people in the house at the time, and the alarm was rung throughout the house. All are supposed to have escaped except Durvan Crawford, and he was awakened by his roommate, Frank Cisco, who raised him to a sitting position on his bed. Crawford appeared dazed, owing to being suddenly aroused. Cisco made further attempts to get him up, saying "You must jump from the window." Cisco did jump, thinking Crawford would follow him. When the fire was gotten under control the body of Crawford was taken from the ruins with both legs burned off. The remains were prepared for burial and shipped to his home at Howells.

Firebugs Get Busy.

Anniston, Ala.—Through the operations of a firebug at an early hour Saturday morning the barn and contents belonging to Mr. W. J. Edmondson, who resides two miles from this city on the Alexandria road, and the barn and several other buildings of Mr. T. A. Pelham, who resides seven miles out on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, were entirely consumed by fire. The fires were discovered just twenty minutes apart, which leaves little doubt but that they were of incendiary origin.

Cotton Mills Hold Annual Meeting.

Selma, Ala.—The stockholders and directors of the Cawthon Cotton Mill and the Estelle Cotton Mill held their annual meetings Friday and made an inspection of the property. They found that the operation of the two mills during the past year had been exceedingly satisfactory, and that from the earnings they were enabled to declare a dividend of 6 per cent. The officers were elected for the ensuing years as follows: A. W. Cawthon, president; R. M. Mabry, vice-president; O. M. Cawthon, secretary-treasurer; H. H. Stewart, Jr., assistant secretary-treasurer.

Warehouse for Selma.

Selma, Ala.—The foundations have been dug preparatory to the erection of a four-story ware house on the corner of Hinton alley and the alley running from Water to Alabama streets, between Broad and Lauderdale. The property is owned by Mr. A. M. Cawthon, and the warehouse will extend the width of Rosenberg & Co.'s and Butler's book store.

Strike Ended.

St. Petersburg.—The workmen's council at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning decided to call off the industrial strike Monday at noon, claiming that a great victory had been achieved and that the lives of 1,600 Cronstadt mutineers have been saved.

Fell Fifty Feet.

Anniston, Ala.—Miss Doak, a well-known young lady of this city, had a remarkable experience Saturday morning, falling over fifty feet to the bottom of a well and being rescued alive, with only minor injuries. The young woman is but 1 years of age. She was badly frightened and had some severe bruises when taken from the well, but will suffer no permanent injury.

Crushed by Cotton.

Anniston, Ala.—Mr. Tant, of McFall, was instantly killed at his home by a bale of cotton falling upon him. Mr. Tant was about 60 years old and the father of several children.

Andrews Off to the Pen.

Montgomery, Ala.—John Andrews, the white man who was recently convicted in Camden, Wilcox county, for the murder of his father and his stepmother, spent Saturday night in the Montgomery county jail. He was brought to Montgomery Saturday afternoon in company with three negro prisoners in the custody of W. W. Jones, warden at Speigner's.

"Vulcan" McKnight a Candidate.

Columbiana, Ala.—It is reported that James A. McKnight, of Shelby Springs, is a candidate for governor and that his announcement will be made in a few days. Mr. McKnight is and has been for the past year a resident of Shelby Springs. He is fairly well known over the state as "Vulcan" McKnight, he having had charge of the Birmingham iron man when he was on exhibition at the St. Louis World's Fair.

The greatest number of suicides occur in July.

More Help for Jews.

Birmingham, Ala.—A mass meeting was held at Temple Emanuel, corner Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, immediately after the regular weekly services, and after a short discussion of the recent massacres in Russia and the terrible condition of the Jews in those sections of Russia where the outrages were committed, a collection was taken up, and in less than fifteen [illegible]

HEARST GAINS

Recount to Saturday Adds 408 Votes for Heart

GETTING WARM FOR TAMMANY.

Enough Evidence Has Been Secured to Show That Hearst Is Elected.

New York.—The developments Saturday in the local political situation showed these three important results, namely That William Randolph Hearst had already gained 408 votes in the canvass of six assembly districts in New York county and two districts in Brooklyn; that Tammany Leader Murphy will probably be called before the grand jury in an effort to learn why $5,000 cash was put up by Tammany lawyers to secure Murphy's "floater," Krup's release from prison; and that as the recount of the void and protested ballots proceeded before Justice Giegerich attorneys for William Randolph Hearst gained important legal victories that do much towards piling up a substantial count for the municipal ownership candidate.

The gain of 408 votes for Mr. Hearst was made simply by comparison of the inspector's returns with the original tally sheets, and is independent of the recount of the void and protested ballots which the municipal ownership league thinks will be sufficient to seat its candidate.

The canvass being made with the tally sheets has shown an increase of 408 votes for Hearst, while McClellan has lost 88 votes.

Such glaring discrepancies were found in the returns of nearly all the election districts so far examined by the board of canvassers that counsel for the municipal ownership league will apply to the supreme court to have all the boxes opened and the ballots counted.

Tammany Leader Murphy and Charles P. Dillon, the Tammany lawyer, who secured the release of a fugitive "floater" voter, John Krup, will probably find it hard to answer some of the questions that will be put to them.

Attorney-General Mayer said that if Dillon persists in refusing to answer questions he will endeavor to have him sent to jail for contempt of court.

Dillon, on the stand before the grand jury Friday, declined to answer questions as to the source of the $5,000 cash bail for Krup and the $5,000 cash given to the floater when he "escaped," on the ground that his "professional honor" was involved. He was given a respite, but will be called again before the grand jury.

Brilliant Future of the South.

Knoxville, Tenn.—President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern Railway, accompanied by a large party of railroad officials and eastern business men, were the guests of the manufacturers' and Producers' Association of this city. President Spencer made a short speech and other members of the party made speeches in a happy vein. The closing talk was one made by Hon. James A. Eckles, comptroller of the currency under President Cleveland. He congratulated the south on its future, and remarked that in a few years it would have Pennsylvania's iron and steel industry, and the looms of New England would be moved to the southern states.

Torpedo Boat Sunk.

Kiel.—Torpedo boat "S. 126" collided near Buelk with the small cruiser Undine. The torpedo boat sank, and one officer and thirty-two seamen are missing.

No Hope for the Imprisoned Whalers.

Seattle, Wash.—Capt. Francis Tuttle, formerly in command of the revenue cutter Bear, states that from what he has learned from Captain Bodfish, of the whaler William Bayliss, there is absolutely no chance for the whaling fleet to escape. In his opinion the ships will be crushed in the ice. The crews will have to desert the ships and make for the McKenzie river. The fleet is reported to be sixty miles from Banksland, which is 500 miles east of the McKenzie. He does not think a relief expedition could aid them in any way.

Prince Charles Elected.

Chistiana, Norway.—The Norwegian parliament on Saturday unanimously elected Prince Charles of Denmark to be king of Norway. There were 116 members present. The result was declared at 5:50 p. m.

As this dispatch was filed the fortress fired a royal salute of forty-two guns in honor of the new king.

Criminal Cases Heard.

Gadsden, Ala.—Henry Faust, a white man who works at the steel plant, was arrested upon a charge of assaulting another white man with brass knucks and was lodged in jail.

Freeman Simon, a white man from Attalla, was fined $50 in the county court for using profane language in the presence of ladies. Being unable to pay his fine he was given a workhouse sentence.

TO HOLD 3,000,000 BALES.

Harvie Jordan's Plan to Enable Southern Farmers to Realize.

New Orleans, La.—Following the arrival of President Harvie Jordan, the Southern Cotton Association has perfected plans for the taking off the market of 3,000,000 bales of cotton by means of a series of pledges which the farmers will sign themselves, stating their name and address, and the amount of cotton they will thus hold.

The cotton held will not be sold for less than 15 cents a pound.

A representative of the association is to be sent into every one of the 817 cotton producing counties of the cotton belt at once. When the pledges are signed they will be sent to the central office of the association in Atlanta.

President Jordan says that half of the crop has already been sold at an average price of 10 cents, and the spinners must have all the remainder.

He believes that 15 cents for the remainder is a fair price, and it will only average the spinners 12 1-2 cents, while they have based all their calculations on 14-cent cotton.

PANAMA CANAL

To Be Built on Sea Level—Vote to Abolish Locks.

Washington, D. C.—By a vote of eight to five Saturday the board of construction engineers of the isthmian canal commission, a body which, if President Roosevelt realizes his hopes, embodies the greatest and most representative engineering talent in the world, placed itself upon record as favoring the construction of the Panama canal on the sea level.

This decision represents the outcome of nearly three months' hard work. Early in September the engineers gathered from all parts of the world, for the president, desirous to avail of the best talent as well as to avoid adverse foreign criticism in the future, had called upon governments of the five nations distinguished for the successful construction of great hydraulic works to send each one of their best engineers to assist the American engineers in the decision of the momentous question of constructing the Panama canal at sea level or at a greater altitude involving a system of locks.

The foreigners came to Washington absolutely without instructions from their own governments and without bias, determined to be guided to their decision solely by the facts to be presented to them in the shape of a great mass of physical data and supplemented by several projects, notably that upon which the French Panama company worked so patiently for more than a decade; that of the first American Panama commission, that of M. Buna-Varilla, the French engineer who was in charge of the canal works in the last days of the French administration, and that of London with Bates, the Chicago civil engineer, who was connected with great enterprises on the Nile and elsewhere.

Spy Is Sentenced.

Leipsic, Germany.—The imperial supreme court has sentenced a Polish student, Ladislus Pawloswi, to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary and six years loss of civil rights for espionage. The accused, whose home is in Warsaw, admitted that he had practiced espionage in behalf of the Russian government. He is quite young, and was arrested in May while making sketches of Fort Waldersee at Posen.

Colored Theatre Planned.

Mobile, Ala.—A colored theatre for Mobile, the only one in the south, will be erected by David Temple Lodge No. 1672, I. O. O. F. The building will cost when fully completed about $40,000. Plans for the building were accepted from George D. Hulburt & Co., architects, of this city, at a meeting held by the building committee of the city council and members of the order at their hall, there being about 120 present, and the vote was unanimous.

Grand Jury Report.

Birmingham, Ala.—The feature of the report of the Jefferson county grand jury, which completed its labors Saturday morning, was the severe arraignment of "flagrant violations" of the anti-pool selling laws at the recent State Fair. The report was submitted to Judge Daniel A. Greene, senior judge of the criminal court, and contains an interesting account of the investigations made.

The report shows that 428 cases had been examined and 246 true bills returned. The grand jury laments the fact that crime is on the increase in the county, and urges all the authorities and the good citizens to see to the enforcement and supremacy of the law.

Anarchists Acquitted.

Barcelona, Spain.—The jury Saturday acquitted the anarchists, Picoret, Miranda, Serre, Torras, Bernadets and Corominas, who were on trial here on the charge of manufacturing bombs for the assassination of rulers.

Judgment for $2,000.

Anniston, Ala.—The case of Eliza Farmer, as administratrix of John Reid, against the Southern Railway, was amicably settled in the United States court last week by a consent verdict for the plaintiff for $2,000. Mr. Reid was killed about one year ago at the Union depot by a Southern train, which was backing into the station.

The [illegible] dies the moment it [illegible]

PROMISING

To Equal the Tragedies of the French Revolution

THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE'S TROUB

As Viewed by Anatole Leroy-Beaulieu, Eminent Frenchman and an Authority on Russia.

Paris.—Anatole Leroy Beaulieu, member of the French Academy an eminent authority on Russia, addressed a notable letter to the Journal Des Debats upon the Russian revolution. He says:

"The events transpiring in the Russian empire are nothing less than great revolution, which promises to be as long and tragic as the French revolution, although it is yet to be that the Russian revolution may bring about the fall of the throne dynasty. This revolution will be social and political, whether it assumes a torrential character, sweeping over all boundaries, or is guided in regular channels through the foresight of Count Witte.

"As in the case of the French revolution, there will be in Russia a transfer of power to new hands. In the of most Russians it is the bureaucratic autocracy which must end. The recent violence and slaughter of Jews with perhaps more victims throughout the reign of terror of the French revolution, is attributable to the old autocratic regime."

The writer examines at length the imperial reforms and says:

"It is the imperative duty of liberals as Prince Eugene Troubetzkoy to strengthen the hands of Count Witte, who is the sole man capable of dealing with the situation."

M. Leroy-Beaulieu asserts that oppression in Poland is due to the autocracy's yielding to Germany, which does not wish to see the kingdom Poland awaken at Germany's door.

Plans for Exposition.

Atlanta, Ga.—There will be a notable gathering in Atlanta on Tuesday, November 28, for the purpose of discussing the question of the proposed industrial exposition to be given here in 1910. The occasion is the meeting of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and there have been invited among others the governors of fifteen southern states, the mayors of prominent southern cities, Georgia senators and congressmen, the presidents and other officials of the expositions which have been given in the United States in recent years and many others whose presence will interest to the occasion.

Electric Cars In Collision.

Springfield, Mass.—Two cars of the Springfield and Hartford Railroad collided on a curve near this city. Motorman G. A. Charon, of this city, received injuries from which he and about thirty passengers were injured, some of them seriously. The car from Hartford was crowded with passengers, about eighty-five in all. The other car plunged almost completely through this car, crushing the man and many of the passengers in a mass of broken wood and glass.

Independent Talk in Turkey.

Constantinople.—The Russian revolutionary feeling has reached Turkey and proclamations have been circulated through the instrumentality of the young Turkish party demanding constitutional government in Turkey. The sultan and his followers are greatly alarmed, as this is the first indication that the revolutionary movement has spread into Turkey.

PLEDGES ARE MADE.

President Jordan Says 75,000 Bales Are Being Held.

Montgomery, Ala.—President Seymour, of the Alabama division of the Southern Cotton Association, has received the following telegram from Harvie Jordon, president of the association, which is self-explanatory:

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 17,
W. H. Seymour, Montgomery, Ala.:

Seventy-five thousand bales pledged by wire in holding movement to-day. Push pledges. Tie up cotton ninety days, irrespective of price. market will reach our figure.

President Seymour says that pledges of several thousand bales will be held by Montgomery county farmers.

Japan in New Role.

Seoul.—The Korean cabinet Saturday agreed to adopt the proposal for a Japanese protectorate made by Marquis Ito.

Bridge is Blown Up.

Warsaw.—A bridge was blown up on the branch line of the Privislansky road, running from Radom to vetsk, and communication by rail and telegraph, is interrupted.

Washington, D. C.—The Saturday announced that Gen. Crozier had been detailed as chief of ordnance for the next four years. eral Crozier is now serving

DROWNED,

One Hundred Passengers Meet Death on the Ill-Fated Hilda.

ALL OF THEM WERE ASLEEP

When the Steamer Struck the Reefs. The Hilda Was Broken Into Three Parts.

London.—The Southwestern Railway's cross channel steamer Hilda was wrecked Sunday morning off St. Malo on the north coast of France, and it is believed that 100 or more of her passengers and crew were drowned.

The Hilda left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo with considerably more than 100 souls on board. Her passage was greatly delayed by a fog in the channel, and when nearing St. Malo she ran into a severe snow storm, apparently missed her course and foundered on the rocks of Jardin lighthouse, three miles from St. Malo.

The company's steamer Ada, outbound from St. Malo, rescued five of the passengers and one of the crew. These are now on the way to Southampton.

There is an unconfirmed report that seventy have been saved.

The crew numbered twenty-six, and there were about a hundred passengers, all Frenchmen.

A telegram from St. Severan, adjoining the town of St. Malo, gives the fey particulars yet available.

The Hilda was near St. Malo Saturday morning. She struck the rocks at 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the roadstead off the Island of Cesembre.

The majority of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time. Two boats were lowered, one of which, containing five men, arrived at St. Severan. The second boat was picked up empty at Cesembre, where thirteen bodies were washed ashore.

The Hilda was built at Glasgow in 1882. She was a screw steamer of iron construction 235 feet in length.

St. Malo, France.—Late information gleaned regarding the wreck of the Hilda is that the bottom of the vessel was torn out by the rocks on which she struck. Water flowed in and reaching the boilers, caused an explosion, which broke the ship into three parts. Water flowed into the hull, flooding the cabins and drowning the passengers in their staterooms before they could escape. The life-boats of the Hilda were found scattered on the beach.

The Prince Departs.

New York.—Prince Louis concluded his visit Monday morning, and after paying his respects to Rear Admiral Evans the British vessels weighed anchor and started down the bay. As they passed out salutes were fired from the forts and returned by the warships. The American fleet also sailed Monday, the vessels going to their respective stations. Only about 100 desertions are reported.

Still After the Jews.

Vienna, Austria.—Confirmation of fresh outrages against Jews at Kishineff have been received here. According to advices hoodlums, armed with clubs, made an attack on the remaining shops not devastated in previous outbreaks and set fire to the buildings. Young Jews of the town, assisted by students, offered a desperate resistance to the rioters and many were killed or wounded.

Resume Hearing of Beef Trust Case

Chicago, Ill.—The beef trust trial was resumed Monday in the United States district court. Among the witnesses summoned before the court was Mr. Charles C. Dawes, the former comptroller of the currency. It is not known what particular information is expected from the witness. It seems that he was merely subpoenaed on account of his public utterances denouncing the prosecution of the beef trust.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Rocky Ford, Col.—Fire in the large warehouse of the American Beet Sugar Company's plant here Friday caused a loss estimated at from $300,000 to $400,000, fully covered by insurance. It is believed the fire started from spontaneous combustion.

Fire on People at Church Service.

Warsaw, Poland.—Advices received from Lodz state that troops Sunday fired on the people there as a result of a revolutionary demonstration during a church service, killing three and wounding one.

Plans for New Planing Mill.

Talladega, Ala.—Mr. A. J. Stapp has the plans and specifications in hand for new planing mill to be erected on the Towers property, between the Southern and Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroads. The building for the mill will be 150x100 feet, and to which will be added dry kilns and other necessary attachments for a modern plant.

PROMISING

To Equal the Tragedies of French Revolution

THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE'S TROU

As Viewed by Anatole Leroy-Bea Eminent Frenchman and an Au thority on Russia.

Paris.—Anatole Leroy-Beaulieu, member of the French Academy an eminent authority on Russia, addressed a notable letter to the Jo nal Des Debats upon the Russian re lution. He says:

"The events transpiring in the Ru sian empire are nothing less tha great revolution, which promises to as long and tragic as the French re lution, although it is yet to be ho that the Russian revolution may bring about the fall of the throne dynasty. This revolution will be cial and political, whether it assu a torrential character, sweeping o all boundaries or is guided in regu channels through the foresight Count Witte.

"As in the case of the French re lution, there will be in Russia a tr fer of power to new hands. In the e of most Russians it is the bureaucr autocracy which must end. The cent violence and slaughter of Jew with perhaps more victims th throughout the reign of terror of French revolution, is attributable the old autocratic regime."

The writer examines at length t imperial reforms and says:

"It is the imperative duty of s liberals as Prince Eugene Troubets to strengthen the hands of Co Witte, who is the sole man capable dealing with the situation."

M. Leroy-Beaulieu asserts that oppression in Poland is due to the tocracy's yielding to Germany, wh does not wish to see the kingdom Poland awaken at Germany's door.

Plans for Exposition.

Atlanta, Ga.—There will be a nota gathering in Atlanta on Tuesday, vember 28, for the purpose of disc ing the question of the proposed ind trial exposition to be given here 1910. The occasion is the bie meeting of the Atlanta Chamber Commerce, and there have been vited among others the governors fifteen southern states, the mayors prominent southern cities, Georg senators and congressmen, the p dents and other officials of the la expositions which have been give the United States in recent years many others whose presence will interest to the occasion.

Electric Cars in Collision.

Springfield, Mass.—Two cars of Springfield and Hartford Railroad lided on a curve near this city. torman G. A. Charon, of this city ceived injuries from which he and about thirty passengers were jured, some of them seriously. The from Hartford was crowded with sengers, about eighty-five in all. other car plunged almost comp through this car, crushing the m man and many of the passengers mass of broken wood and glass.

Independent Talk in Turkey.

Constantinople.—The Russian lutionary feeling has reached Tu and proclamations have been lated through the instrumentality the young Turkish party demand constitutional government in Tu The sultan and his followers are ly alarmed, as this is the first in tion that the revolutionary in has spread into Turkey.

PLEDGES ARE MADE.

President Jordan Says 75,000 Are Being Held.

Montgomery, Ala.—President mour, of the Alabama division of Southern Cotton Association, h ceived the following telegram Harvie Jordon, president of the ciation, which is self-explanatory:

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 17, 1
W. H. Seymour, Montgomery, Ala.
Seventy-five thousand bales by wire in holding movement day. Push/pledges. Tie up c ninety days, irrespective of pri market will reach our figure.

President Seymour says that pledges of several thousand be held by Montgomery county ers.

Japan in New Role.

Seoul.—The Korean cabinet day agreed to adopt the pr for a Japanese protectorate ove made by Marquis Ito.

Bridge Is Blown Up.

Warsaw.—A bridge was blo the branch line of the Priv road, running from Rad vetsk, and communicat and telegraph, is interru

Washington, D. C.—The Saturday announced that Crozier had been detailed ordnance for the next eral Crozier is now pacity.

DROWNED.

One Hundred Passengers Meet Death on the Ill-Fated Hilda.

ALL OF THEM WERE ASLEEP

When the Steamer Struck the Reefs. The Hilda Was Broken Into Three Parts.

London.—The Southwestern Railway's cross channel steamer Hilda was wrecked Sunday morning off St. Malo, on the north coast of France, and it is believed that 100 or more of her passengers and crew were drowned.

The Hilda left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo with considerably more than 100 souls on board. Her passage was greatly delayed by a fog in the channel, and when nearing St. Malo she ran into a severe snow storm, apparently missed her course and foundered on the rocks of Jardin lighthouse, three miles from St. Malo.

The company's steamer Ada, outbound from St. Malo, rescued five of the passengers and one of the crew. Those are now on the way to Southampton.

There is an unconfirmed report that seventy have been saved.

The crew numbered twenty-six, and there were about a hundred passengers, all Frenchmen.

A telegram from St. Severan, adjoining the town of St. Malo, gives the fey particulars yet available.

The Hilda was near St. Malo Saturday morning. She struck the rocks at 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the roadstead off the Island of Cesembre.

The majority of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time. Two boats were lowered, one of which, containing five men, arrived at St. Sevaran. The second boat was picked up empty at Cesembre, where thirteen bodies were washed ashore.

The Hilda was built at Glasgow in 1882. She was a screw steamer of iron construction 235 feet in length.

St. Malo, France.—Late information gleaned regarding the wreck of the Hilda is that the bottom of the vessel was torn out by the rocks on which she struck. Water flowed in and, reaching the boilers, caused an explosion, which broke the ship into three parts. Water flowed into the hull, flooding the cabins and drowning the passengers in their staterooms before they could escape. The life boats of the Hilda were found scattered on the beach.

The Prince Departs.

New York.—Prince Louis concluded his visit Monday morning, and after paying his respects to Rear Admiral Evans the British vessels weighed anchor and started down the bay. As they passed out salutes were fired from the forts and returned by the warships. The American fleet also sailed Monday, the vessels going to their respective stations. Only about 100 desertions are reported.

Still After the Jews.

Vienna, Austria.—Confirmation of fresh outrages against Jews at Kishineff have been received here. According to advices hoodlums, armed with clubs, made an attack on the remaining shops not devastated in previous outbreaks and set fire to the buildings. Young Jews of the town, assisted by students, offered a desperate resistance to the rioters and many were killed or wounded.

Resume Hearing of Beef Trust Case.

Chicago, Ill.—The beef trust trial was resumed Monday in the United States district court. Among the witnesses summoned before the court was Mr. Charles C. Dawes, the former comptroller of the currency. It is not known what particular information is expected from the witness. It seems that he was merely subpoenaed on account of his public utterances denouncing the prosecution of the beef trust.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Rocky Ford, Col.—Fire in the large warehouse of the American Beet Sugar Company's plant here Friday caused a loss estimated at from $300,000 to $400,000, fully covered by insurance. It is believed the fire started from spontaneous combustion.

Fire on People at Church Service.

Warsaw, Poland.—Advices received from Lodz state that troops Sunday fired on the people there as a result of a revolutionary demonstration during a church service, killing three and wounding one.

Plans for New Planing Mill.

Talladega, Ala.—Mr. A. J. Stapp has the plans and specifications in hand for new planing mill to be erected on the Towers property, between the Southern and Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroads. The building for the mill will be 150x100 feet, and to which will be added dry kilns and other necessary attachments for a modern plant.

THIRTY-NINE PERISH BY FIRE

In Glasgow Lodging House—Many Rush From the Building Without Clothes.

Glasgow.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street and resulted in the loss of thirty-nine lives and the severe injury of many others.

The flames were noticed at 6 o'clock Sunday morning on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows on the fourth floor. An extraordinary scene was created by a procession of almost naked men rushing out of the entrance to the building, and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had to fight for admission.

In the narrow passages there were men who had dropped to the floor overcome by smoke and heat. As soon as the firemen were able to get to work the fire was speedily extinguished. The flames had been fed by the wooden partitions, which threw off volumes of smoke, resulting in the suffocating of the inmates. Those carried to the street rallied in a few minutes. The dead were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape.

$80,000 Loss by Fire.

Birmingham, Ala.—The People's Home Telephone Company's exchange at 219 Eighteenth street, the Alabama Penny Bank, recently erected by well-known negroes, and the old Damon-Lee livery stable building, on Third avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, were destroyed by fire. A numbr of small one and two-story structures were either damaged by smoke and water or falling walls. It is thought the entire loss will not go beyond $80,000, fully two-thirds of which is covered by insurance. The blaze started in the rear of the old livery stable, which fronts on Third avenue, and rapidly made its way to the other structures. The origin of the fire could not be ascertained.

Damage by Recent Riot.

Tokio, Japan.—An eye-witness of the recent riot at Vladivostok who has arrived at Nagasaki reports that nearly half the city was burned and that 600 of the garrison were killed, that the jail was thrown open and that General Kappek is missing.

The damage is estimated at $25,000,000. Soldiers from Harbin are reported to have joined the rioters.

Act Declared Constitutional.

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Tennessee Supreme Court, sitting here, declared constitutional the so-called "abutting property" improvement act passed by the state legislature last spring. An effort will be made to extend it to all cities of 5,000 population or more when the legislature meets in 1908.

Used His Knife.

Nashville, Tenn.—O. C. Brown, 22 years old, was arrested on Saturday on the charge of assault with intent to kill. He had a difficulty on Cedar street with L. Lehman, in which the latter was cut. Brown was arraigned before Judge Baker, and bound over to the criminal court.

Fruit Growing in Gibson.

Trenton, Tenn.—This fall a number of the best farmers are setting out new orchards or resetting and extending their fruit area. The raising of fruit has largely increased for the past few years, although this year there was nearly total failure of the apple, peach and plum crops. One nursery firm has delivered over $2,000 worth of trees here this week.

Nearly Bled to Death.

Humboldt, Tenn.—Arthur Tatum and Jude Liverby, two young men living at the Humboldt Cotton Mills, became involved in a quarrel Saturday which resulted in a fight. Tatum was badly cut on the arm with a knife and came near bleeding to death before a doctor could be called. The bleeding was stopped barely in time, and he may recover.

Prairie Fire Near Muscogee.

Muscogee, I. T.—A great prairie fire has been burning thirty miles southwest of here. It is estimated that forty square miles have been burned, and it is said that five farm houses have been destroyed. Thousands of dollars worth of hay and corn have been burned.

National Ginners' Association's Report.

New Orleans, La.—The national association has given out its cotton report, showing 7,411,359 bales of cotton ginned up to November 14 and an indicated crop of 9,459,793 bales.

Bon Air Reported Sold.

Sparta, Tenn.—There seems to be a well defined rumor here that the Bon Air Coal and Iron Co. has sold out. It is impossible to secure communication with those in authority at Bon Air to get a confirmation or denial of the rumor. However, an employe in a high position stated that it was almost certain that the deal would go through.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. HOWARD MELISH.

Subject: The Gospel of Love.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—When St. Luke's Church celebrated this year the festival of its patron saint, the Rev. Howard Melish, of the Church of the Holy Trinity, preached an instructive sermon. Mr. Melish's subject was "The Gospel of Love," and the text, St. John xv:12: "This is My commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you." Mr. Melish said:

What impressed the world, when Christianity was first preached, was Christian love. The world had known patriotism, family affection, clan loyalty. But interest in and sacrifices for men outside your family clan, country, were new. The outpouring of money to relieve the distress of Galveston, Martinique, Armenia, is indicative, we say, of our common brotherhood to-day. Think of the effect on a world which had never experienced such deeds of the sacrifices Christian people of Macedonia and Achaia made to send help to the "poor saints of Jerusalem," at a time, too, when for years the Jew was the most detested of all Mediterranean peoples. The heathen poet Lucian, in his comments on the new religion was especially struck by this. "Their original law giver," he wrote, "had taught them that they were all brethern, one another. * * * They become incredibly alert when disaster occurs that affects their common interests. On such occasions no expense is grudged." And one of the ablest of the early Christian apologists, Tertullian, observes: "It is our care for the helpless, our practice of loving kindness, that brands us in the eyes of many of our opponents."

Professor Harnack has a most interesting chapter on the gospel of love and charity in his new book, "The Expansion of Christianity." He shows that during all those years of expansion the Christian people were busy with the support of widows and orphans, the sick, the infirm, and the disabled, the care of prisoners and people languishing in the mines, the care of poor people needing burial, the care of slaves, of those visited by great calamities, of brethren on a journey, and of churches in poverty or any peril. The churches also furnished work and insisted on work. It was such love that called forth from the heathen world the exclamation of surprise and deep interest, "Behold how these Christians love one another."

The Christian church, as at present organized, no longer impresses the world in this way. Once the church maintained the hospitals and asylums; to-day the State is the great charitable agency, as it is the great educator. Compared with Brooklyn's public schools and charities our Church Charity Foundation and schools at Garden City are mere playthings. The labor unions, not the churches, support their brethren who are thrown out of work. Not only do they contribute heavily to their fellows during strikes, but by means of sick benefits and death payments they maintain their members during sickness, give them decent burial and care for the widows and orphans. The Roman Catholic church still maintains parochial schools, sodalities, asylums, hospitals in a great and useful way, because it has the support of members and concentrates its resources. The Protestant church, though it outnumbers the Catholic church, is divided into eight principal camps. Each is too weak to make much of an impress upon the world, and, so far, they have not learned how to unite in a common service. Members of Protestant churches are leaders in every educational and charitable cause, but they count there as individuals and only in the most indirect way as church people. The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations are the only great union movements in which the Protestant churches have taken active part. But have those impressed the community as an expression of the love of the Christian church? It is the opinion of some workers in the Young Men's Christian Association, and of many clergymen, that the association has become another church. It does a splendid work for young men, and every cent given to it is well spent, but it does not make the Christian church stronger except as all philanthropic work outside the church plows the field and makes it ready for the sowing. Since it was started there are no more young men in the churches than before. On the contrary, from every church, Protestant and Catholic, comes the common cry that the men are leaving the churches for the associations, for lodges, for the clubs, for the labor unions. The churches, among the working classes and the so-called upper classes, are attended and supported largely by women. With the extension of the trade union movement among working women, and clubs among other women, the future alone can tell what the falling off here may be. There are now over a million people in New York City alone outside the churches, while Protestantism has in the last year actually shrunk in numbers. It is easy to see why thousands should be out. All grafters, all dishonest insurance officials, all gamblers, "all lovers of pleasure, more than lovers of God," all indifferent people, and a hundred classes more, naturally stay away from a place where every word and look and sign disturbs the conscience if it is not dead, and bids men live for others. I wish all these were in the church as I wish all the sick were in the hospitals and the shipwrecked safe on land. But when we have subtracted from one million the thousands who can have nothing in common with the Christian church there remain the many thousands who may and ought to be within the church.

They are outside the church, but they are interested in the Christian religion. I have been deeply impressed this summer with the desire and eagerness of men to hear the Gospel. When two or three hundred men, working at the navy yard, will stand in the sun at noon during the hottest days of July to hear a man speak about the joy and peace and strength of a religious faith, when you can speak on the corner to as many men as can hear you above the roar of the streets, when a vast crowd, mostly men, will attentively listen to religion for nearly an hour on the sands at Coney Island there is proof that religion is not dead. The Christian religion is not dead, but men are not going to the churches for it. Put it in books, and men will read it; preach it in theatres, and a crowd will flock in; practice it in a social settlement, a labor union, a hospital, asylums, and waiting lists are needed.

What is the matter with the Christian church that it does not impress the world as it once did? Labor leaders will tell you that it is a class affair and belongs to the employers. Socialists answer that it is the bulwark of the modern capitalistic organization of society with which they are at war. Scientific men reply that it has no love of truth for truth's sake. While the great mass of men outside will tell you that they are not interested. This hour and a half each week of hymns and prayer and sermon does not seem to them to be a vital thing. To hear some speaker who can touch the heart or head they will come, but not for the church as church.

If the church is a class organization its love is not Christian, for Christ's love knows no distinctions. If the church, as socialists claim, is merely poulticing wooden legs in its charity, then it has no love of fundamental Christian brotherhood. If the love of truth is wanting its love of God is a sham. What the church needs, if there is much or little in this criticism, is not multiplication of its philanthropies, nor concentration of them into a few that would compete with the state and stamp their character more firmly on the world, but a filling of the church itself, of you and me who do spend this hour here on Sunday and have assumed membership in the church with the love of Christ.

Let me try to tell you what that love is. A man once went to Christ with the question, who is my neighbor? But the Master gave no answer. He was not interested in knowing or showing who our neighbors are. What He showed that man was how he might become a neighbor. He told that man the story of the good Samaritan aud said to him and to us "Go thou and do likewise. Do not stand there asking who is thy neighbors. Be on the lookout for some one to whom thou canst show mercy and goodness and so become a neighbor." You can put no man outside the field of your mercy. Even though a man may hate you, and be your enemy, Jesus says the great duty for you is to seek him and do him good. If he rejects you and will have none of your mercy and goodness, your efforts should not end. You can at least pray for those who despitefully use you and persecute you.

A member of a certain parish once told me that while he wanted the church to reach the poor, he did not want the poor to attend the same service that he attended or sit in the same service that he attended or sit in the same seat because they were too odoriferous. I suppose this person stands in his modern temple and exclaims: "God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are—unlaundered and unwashed, even as that poor man yonder. I bathe every morning, I wear two collars a day and use patent preparations for my teeth and face." Such cleanliness is as near godliness as the Pharisee in the Master's story of the publican was near the kingdom of God. Suppose that man is unwashed and his presence is disagreeable, the thing for you to consider is not what he is, but how you may become neighbors to him. Introduce yourself. Become his friend. Show him the example of cleanliness and godliness, and the time will come when you can make him clean and Godlike.

On the night before He died He laid aside His robes and washed the apostles' feet, to show men that the greatest is he who serves the most, and that no service, however menial, is too low for even divinity. Whom do you and I love to honor? The man who serves or the man who rules? Whom do we imitate? Those who lead in business and society or those who serve? Until the men and women in our churches honor the Christ as He who serveth, not by singing hymns and saying creeds, but giving and doing likewise, the church may give money generously and employ costly choirs and pulpit orators, but it will not impress the world.

And then for those without there must be goodness of heart. That the Christian church is undergoing the severest fire of criticism since the early days is manifest to anyone who reads. Much of the criticism is just but much of it is unfair and one-sided. Some requires that the church should listen patiently and acknowledge what is just, and to those who hate her should she return good for evil, blessing for cursing, beneficence and intercession for persecution. No heart that is susceptible to the divine can long withstand the love that seeketh not her own.

A picture has been on exhibition in England and has strongly appealed to the imagination of men. It is entitled, "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?" Christ stands on a pedestal before St. Paul's, as he stood before Pilate's palace, with hands tied over head crowned with thorns. While the crowd that passes by, absorbed in its work or pleasure, is you, workingman, lawyer, doctor, men of affairs, you women of society, working women and boys, and I, priest of His church, with never a glance to Him who died because He loved, or to the poor mother and her child who have taken refuge from us at His feet. While the motto on the pedestal before His cathedral, His people, His city is, to the unknown God. Oh, men and women, is that picture true of you?

Goodness and Mercy Follow Us.

Some people can see providence in their past lives, and hope for them is their future lives, but never trust entirely in their being there in the present. Yet God is as truly working out His plans for His children in each hour to-day as at any time in their lives. Goodness and mercy follow us all the days of our lives if they follow us at all. The present trial, the present drudgery, are put there to work out good for us, and more than good—grace and glory, too.—J. R. Miller.

Value of Surrender.

Only in proportion as our own will is surrendered, are we able to discern the splendors of God's will.—Presbyterian.

Company to Dinner

By Kate Thorn.

HUSBANDS have a faculty of bringing home friends to dinner, without giving notice to their wives, and if any remonstrances are offered on the part of the priestesses of the kitchen, these husbands assume a highly dignified and very much injured air, and propose the conundrum:

"Haven't I right to invite an old friend to my own house, I wonder?"

If you are a woman, and have "kept house," of course you are well aware that when your husband brings home an old friend at dinner time, he invariably selects a day when there is nothing new for dinner, and when that meal is to be made up from the odds and ends of yesteray. There will be cold greens, and a bread pudding, and potatoes warmed over, and a pie so small that it was a mathematical problem in your mind all the forenoon how it could be cut into eight pieces, and still leave enough to each piece so that it might conscientiously be called a piece.

The "old friend" will enter, bland and smiling, and beg you not to make any change on his account. Be sure and not put yourself out in the least. He isn't particular, not he! He came to see your husdand, and talk over old times, not to get his dinner. Certainly not.

And you, in your soiled calico wrapper, which you neglected to change after breakfast, stand there and listen to him, and your face is crimson hot, and you feel sure that you never looked worse, and you wished the "old friend" at the antipodes.

For you are painfully conscious that those cold greens are a little tough, and there isn't enough bread on the plate to look decent.

And these "old friends" are generally men with prodigious appetites. No dyspepsia for them.

You wonder if he will see that spot of gravy on the tablecloth, got on yesterday by the youngest boy, and you are in agony lest some of your hungry flock of youngsters may clamor for two pieces of pie each, as they frequently do.

You beg your guest to "make a dinner," and apologize by telling him that it is your ironing day, and you did not expect company to dinner.

And he will doubtless assure you that your dinner is excellent, and tell you that he doesn't know when he has eaten such a meal.

And after he gets home he will tell his wife that he took dinner at Brown's, and he guesses Brown's wife must be a "poor sozzle"—for such a dinner, for company, he never saw! Cold greens and bread pudding! and there was a spot of gravy on the tablecloth as big as his hand.

If your family be a large one, your means abundant, and you have plenty of help, of course company at dinner is no trouble; but if we were a man, and our wife kept no servant, and our larder was not always filled with luxuries, we should think twice before we took home old friends to feed, without giving our wife due notice.—New York Weekly.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

Advice on How to Sleep

By Dr. J. Madison Taylor

DURING childhood and exhaustive states too much sleep is rarely possible. For those in full tide of vigor too much sleep is often distinctly hurtful.

The action of narcotics presents none of the characteristics of normal sleep except the temporary arrest of consciousness; hence narcosis is not true sleep.

The best position to assume in sleep to invite the least disturbance of the functions of the great organs is on the abdomen or nearly so.

Many obscure forms of digestive or circulatory disorders may have been initiated in infancy through lying too long upon the back.

To secure the most perfect repose the temperature of all parts should be equalized before retiring. Cold feet induce delay in securing sleep, and it is then shallow when attained.

It is most unwise to overfill the stomach before retiring; this disturbs sleep almost as much as hunger, but moderate eating before sleeping is not hurtful, and is often salutary.

Body clothing at night should be loose, not dense, permitting the ready passage of air, never of wool next to the skin.

Bed clothing should not be too close of texture, blankets being preferable to dense "comfortables" and not "tucked in" too closely. Air should be allowed to pass occasionally under the sides, at least as one turns about more or less freely.

Early rising is a salutary custom, especially when the day comes early, not otherwise.

More sleep is required in winter than in summer. The best sleep is had during the hours of darkness.

The sleeping room should be cool, abundant air being always admitted. This should not be interpreted to mean that the room may safely remain intensely cold.

In the modern treatment of tuberculosis fresh air is recognized to be imperatively needed all day and all night. Artificial heat can, and should, be supplied along with the fresh air, till the temperature of the room be at or near 50 or 55 degrees Fahrenheit, for some even 60 degrees Fahrenheit.—Popular Science Monthly.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

Life Insurance Assets Doubled Since ..1896..

By Vice-President Kingsley, of the New York Life

IT is the fashion in these days to decry the great extent of American life insurance, to point to its size and success as in some way a menace and a danger. As a matter of fact, life insurance has barely kept pace with other branches of modern business; it is not singular in its enormous development. Let me give you some instructive comparisons:

The assets of the life companies reporting to New York state doubled between the close of 1896 and the close of 1904. They sprang from $1,228,000,000 to $2,454,000,000. Insurance in force went from $5,000,000,000 to $10,000,000.

At the close of the Spanish war the total national bank circulation was $240,000,000. In seven years this has expanded 110 percent. In the same time the resources of national banks have increased from $4,000,000,000 to $7,300,000,000. The resources of other banks increased from $4,500,000,000 to $9,000,000,000, while the cash holdings of all banks increased during that time $570,000,000.

In eight years from 1896 to 1904 dividends by railroads went from $81,000,000 to $190,000,000. Earnings of national banks went from $50,000,000 to $113,000,000 annually. The annual transactions of the New York Clearing House increased from $29,000,000,000 to $60,000,000. Exports of mining products doubled. The revenues of the United States increased over 60 percent. Immigration increased over 150 percent.

Men as Beasts of Burden.

Probably the greatest weights carried on the backs of men for any distance are the loads of ore brought up from the mines of the Andes by miners of Chile. In a copper mine in a ravine leading from the main range of the Cordilleras, all the ore is carried a vertical distance of 450 feet, and the average weight to a man is 250 pounds.

In Darkest Africa.

First Native—The white men, I understand, never eat their enemies.

Second Native—Ridiculous! Isn't it strange how some folk are brought up?

The Rev. C. H. Marshall, pastor of the St. Barnabas' Episcopal church, of Denver, Colo., for 31 years, has officiated at 5000 baptisms, 2500 funerals and 1700 weddings.

Oyama to Report on War.

Replying to an imperial message ordering him to speedily return to Tokio and render a personal report of the recent war Field Marshal Oyama has named November 25 as the date of his departure from Manchuria.

Killed Father and Stepmother.

John Andrews, who has been on trial at Camden, Ala., for ten days for the murder of his father and stepmother, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree and given a life sentence.

Governor on Insurance.

A dispatch from Albany, N. Y., said that Governor Higgins would treat on insurance reform in his message.

Fire Wipes Out Town.

The town of Bark, in McDowell County, W. Va., has been destroyed by fire.

Prince Charles Accepts.

Prince Charles of Denmark has accepted the throne of Norway, and will take the title of King Carl V.

The Banner.

Entered and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

CARD FROM B. B. COMER.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 15, '05
Editor Banner :—

Dear Sir: I have just learned that I was advertised to speak at your town a few days ago. I regret this very much, as I did not know that such advertisement was being made, or I was expected. Would have been very glad indeed to have come, and will be glad to arrange with the citizens of Chilton, at such time as will suit them, to meet with and talk to your people regarding the great issues of the day.

Please make statement in your paper that my failure to come was because I had no notice of the meeting or of the appointment.

With regards, I am,
Yours very truly,
B. B. Comer.

Don't forget to pay your poll tax, or you cannot vote in any election, and soon there will be a special election for school purposes, not to mention the general election next year. Pay your poll tax and keep in line to do good.

Circuit Court commences next Monday, the two principal cases being that of W. J. A. Melton, charged with the killing of a negro at Maplesville, and J. E. McCullough for the killing of Asa Rawlinson.

Pletcher.

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words concerning the Cotton Association which gives me pleasure in attending the district meetings and also receiving 11 cents for my cotton. I am a Cotton Association man and I hope all men who have't taken any part in our meetings will look forward to the coming day and those that have taken a part will cling to each other for their rights. I endorse Uncle John's plan as he set his price on his oxen, we also ought to set our price on our cotton and stand shoulder to shoulder and by doing so we can all come from under bondage. The time is hastening on when this plan will be adopted if the farmers will only believe and stick to one another. The minimum price was set for 11 cents, but oh, how few of them waited to get it. They thought Mr. Gulledge's plan was the best, to sell their cotton, pay up their debts and then take 11 cents if they could get it.

Our Wayside district is moving along nicely, and I had the opportunity of attending the district meeting at New Cedron last week and had a successful meeting. I hope to see many farmers on Dec. 9th ready to say they will stick to us. Well as this is my first letter, I hope none of the readers will get offended, for the good Book says blessed is he that holds out faithful to the end.

J. T. C.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Subscribe for The Banner.

CUNNINGHAM AND COMER IN DEBATE

First Contest is Held at Russellville

COMER IS FIRST INTRODUCED.

Promptly at 1:45 p.m A. H. Carmichael, an attorney of Tuscumbia, who is known to be a Cunningham supporter, called the meeting to order and introduced Mr. Comer. His introductory speech was exceedingly brief and severely formal.

"To me is designated the honor of introducing the next governor of Alabama," said he. "As to who he shall be depends upon the votes of the white people of the state."

He then presented Mr. Comer to the audience as a successful and distinguished citizen of Jefferson county. Mr. Comer was greeted bouyantly by the audience, the hand clapping lasting almost a minute. Every possible foot of space on the floor was filled when he began and he held the attention of the audience throughout.

In opening, Mr. Comer said that he was matched with one of the most distinguished speakers of the state, the best stump speaker in the commonwealth, the eagle orator of Alabama, and, he added that it was rash for him to take so great a risk but he met it gladly for the reason that he realized how important this campaign was to the people of Alabama.

He alluded to an earlier address that he had made here when canvassing for the office of president of the state railroad commission. The crowd that greeted him when he was he was here before, said he, was small, but the seed then sown had borne noble fruit. The campaign made two years before had appealed to the farmers.

FARMER PAYS THE FREIGHT.

"It is the farmer who pays the freight," said he, "and if I can plant here today deep down in your hearts the seed of the railway rate reform my trip will not have been made in vain."

Continuing Mr. Comer said that he was elected president of the State railroad commission on the direct issue that he would do his best to get for the people of Alabama the Georgia rate. He said that he had attempted to do so but that he had failed by reason of the facts.

The subject of appointments he said that by his two associates whom he characterized as railway sympathizers. He cited the familiar statistics that the rate on fertilizers in Alabama is 50 per cent higher than in Georgia and 100 per cent higher than in Mississippi, on agricultural products the rate in Alabama was from 20 per cent to 120 per cent higher than in Georgia. He then quoted statistics showing that conditions in Alabama were more favorable to a lower rate than in North Carolina, or in Georgia, and asked why it was that the people of Alabama were made the victims of this injustice.

"It is," said Mr. Comer, "because of the politics and policies of Alabama. It is because the railways are your masters. It is because your public men have permitted it. It is because of the fact that back in your State house is a power that vises every law that is proposed.

"That power, my friends, is the railway lobby in Alabama."

COMER MOUNTS ROSTRUM.

The crowd in the court room was so dense that they were standing three deep outside the rail of the bar and many in the rear of the room could not see the speaker. Mr. Comer was asked to go up on the judge's rostrum.

"This is the first time in my life I have ever got above the people," said he as he mounted the rostrum "I belong down there with you and I want you to know that I am touching elbows with you in this fight, even if I do have to get up here above you to make myself seen and heard.,'

After speaking a few moments from the rostrum he came down on the floor again, saying that if he remained up there longer he would jump out of the window. He then discussed the personnel of the railroad commission, saying that Col. Tunstall and Col. Saunders were by their environments railway sympathizers.

"Who will say," he asked, "that Colonel Saunders is not an honest man? And yet his environments are such that he always votes with the railways and against the people. My associates of the commission were always on the side of the railways. I was always on the side of the people. Environment? Yes, my friends, environment. The vote was always 2 to 1. Is there a lawyer in this country who would dare try a case before a tribunal so constituted? wouldn't you be defeated?" pointing his finger to Joseph H. Nathan, a prominent Sheffield lawyer.

(continued on [illegible] page)

TEACHERS' JOINT INSTITUTE

Chilton and Autauga counties, to be held at Billingsley, Nov. 24 and 25, 1905

Friday, 10 a m. Devotional exercises, C. R. Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, H. A. Askins. Response, J. W. Moore.

11. How to secure the attention of pupils, L. E. Byrum, Miss Julia Parrish, A. E. Davis, Miss Jessye Wilson.

11:30. Encouragement to pupils by teachers and parents, W. B. Speer, Miss Zettie Barge, H. L. Davis, Miss Effie Williams. Noon.

1:30 p.m Advantages to be derived from reading educational journals. Misses Jennie Clark, Thorne elson, and J C. Jordan, Mrs. Mary Mims.

2. Lessons on real objects and the practical pursuits of life, Mrs F. J. McNeel, Prof. Cape Payne, Mrs. L. E. Byrum, J C. Eiland

3. Should our school districts be of equal size? Autauga and Chilton County Board of Education.

Saturday, 9 a m. Devotional exercises.

9:30. Can we have graded schools in the rural districts? R. E. Sessions, Mrs. Fannie Davis, Mrs. Leila Mullins, Miss Edna Davis.

10. The Bible in the school room, R. . Rasco, Miss Kate Howard, R. E. Hicks, Miss Leo Zeigler.

11 a m. How to obtain the best results in United States History, Harvey Hicks, Misses Margeret Turnipseed, Florence Adair, Mrs J. A. Cox. Noon.

1:30 p.m. Thoroughness in primary studies, P. G. Maness, Misses Jessye McGee, Lillie Slaton, Annie Timmerman.

2. Aim in educating, G. L. Speer, Geo. White, Jr., B. J. Sessions, T. H. Wilkinson.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

PROGRAM

Sunday School Convention to be held at Clanton Baptist church, Dec. 3, 1905.

9:30 a.m. Devotional exercises, Rev. J. T. Eckford.

10. Welcome address, Rev. A. C. Swindall.

10:30. Address by Judge Carthel.

11. Organization.

2 p m. Devotional exercises.

2:30. Reports of superintendents.

3. Home department, Miss Mary C. Gibson. Select next place of meeting.

Each and every school in Beats 4 and 11 are requested to send one or more delegates to this convention. Everybody invited.

Chilton County Baptist Association.

The Minutes for 1905 are now ready, and clerks of churches can get their share by calling or sending to The Banner office.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE
Chemists
409 Pearl St., N. Y.
50c. and $1; all druggists.

Is Your Hair Sick?

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and faded of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair restorer. It keeps the scalp clean and healthy.

"I am well acquainted with Ayer's Hair Vigor and I like it very much. I would especially recommend it as an excellent dressing for the hair, keeping it soft and smooth, and preventing the hair from splitting at the ends."—Minnie Fritz, Veedum, Mich.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

CIRCUIT COURT

Falll term begins at Clanton Monday, November 27, 1905.

GRAND JURY

Wheeler Foshee, J M G Barnett, G W Hodgins, Carlton Hall, H O Fits, B H Vickers, Eugene Evans, George Mattox, J M Mims, E G Rollins, A J Atkinson, J H Thomas, W J Bone, Jesse Hays, H C Young, J N Barnes, C C Burkhalter, W L Honeycut, J S Waldrop, P S Prim.

PETIT JURY—FIRST WEEK

H H Armstrong, John Goer, H J Cole, Robert M Smith, T J Rocket, W M Pool, W H cox, H Z Barnes, W W Devaughn, W B Vance, Joel H Gulledge, Joseph Busbee, c w Blackwell, H c Latham, John Giles, J T chambers, T B Teel, J J Mccormick, Walter Popwell, J w mims, J w Abbott, B G Jones, T M Pyron, J M maddox, H M Roper, A Littleton, B L Glasscock, G A Dawson, J A Dykes, Joseph Littleton, J H Greene, S Johnson, J L Vines, J M Goer.

PETIT JURY—SECOND WEEK

Moses Popwell, Robert Wilkins, W A Huckabee, J W Harris, William E mims, F J Fitts, J S wright, w N Rodgers, J H Gandy, w Q Childress, T J Littlejohn, L O Burnett, J E Bearden, Felix Eiland, Green Burnett, J M Littlejohn, James M curlee, D A Friday, G. E. Rein, John Mims, E H Arledge, w H Hadnot, M A Kilgore, Jesse cadell, A A Ayers, B N Martin, Pate Headley, J A Langston, John w Foshee, william wamble, M H marcus, P A Vauca, w G conway, H F Littlefield, charley Langville.

"I Thank The Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. 25c.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Nov. 20. 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

Tom Robison, G. W. Knight, Rillie Gentry, Bolle Ellison, Louis Kasteiling.

LADIES' LIST.

Amandie Luve.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Dec 4. 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. Dudley, Postmaster.

Falakto.

Sam Powell killed a fox in his field near W. L. Powell's residence which weighed 9 pounds. The fox hunters ought to take a chase own Johnson swamp.

A. P. P.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Impr Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prop ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	[illegible] .00
Old Mountain Dew	3.00
Old Tennessee	2.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00
Old Crown Gin	3.00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2 00
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50

	Per
Old Mason's Pure Rye
Private Stock Virginia Rye
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Style Country Club
Old Lincoln County
Richmond Club Virginia Rye
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wine whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STOR
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the Staple & Fancy Grocer

DRY GOODS, CLOTHI
SHOES, HATS, ETC

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - A

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection jus arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SO
Successors to Clanton Furniture C

VOL. XIV

LIKE A PIRATE OF OLD.

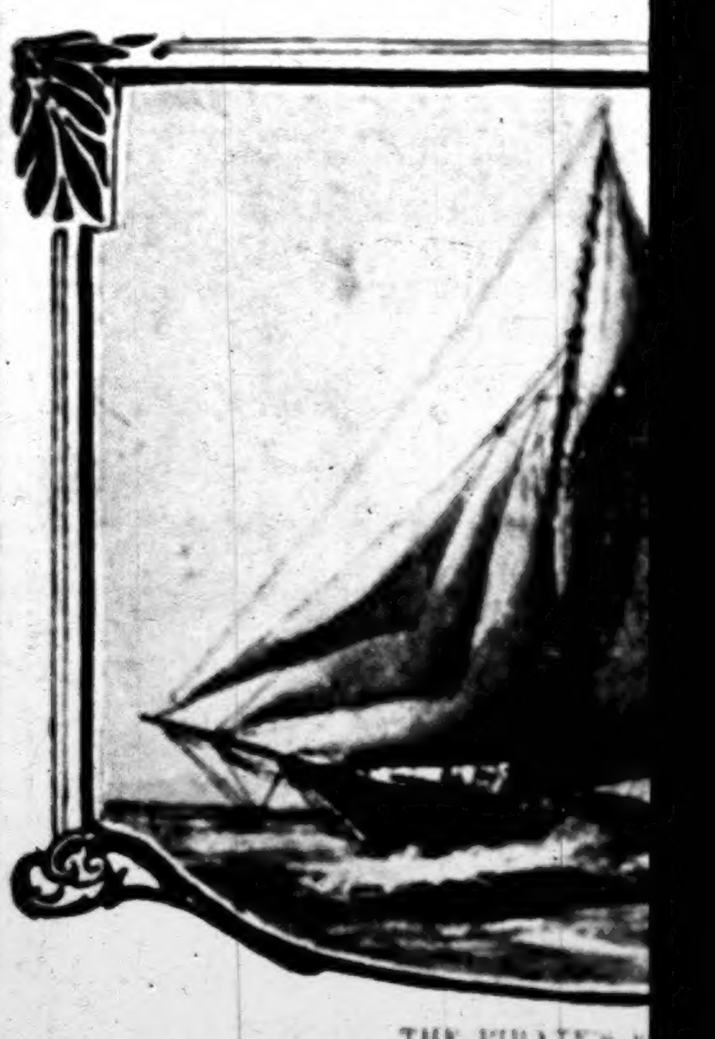
ALEXANDER MACLEAN ROAMED THE SEA IN SWIFT SCHOONER.

Accompanied by Thirty Reckless Buccaneers He Defied Governments and Gunboats—Now in Toils of the Law.

There's never a law of God or man
Runs north of fifty-three

Captain Alexander MacLean, as bold a rover as ever lived during the privateering days when pirate ships lay waiting in the pathway of Spanish galleons, will roam the sea no more. That is, he will not sail the deep in that free-handed manner which made him the object of search by United States and British authorities. A few weeks ago, under an indictment for conspiracy in fitting his schooner Carmencita in violation of the sealing laws, he was arrested at Victoria, British Columbia. The Department of State received a telegram announcing the arrest of a crew made up of men said to be

"As choice a band of pirates and cutthroats as ever manned a pirate craft since the days of Captain Kidd."

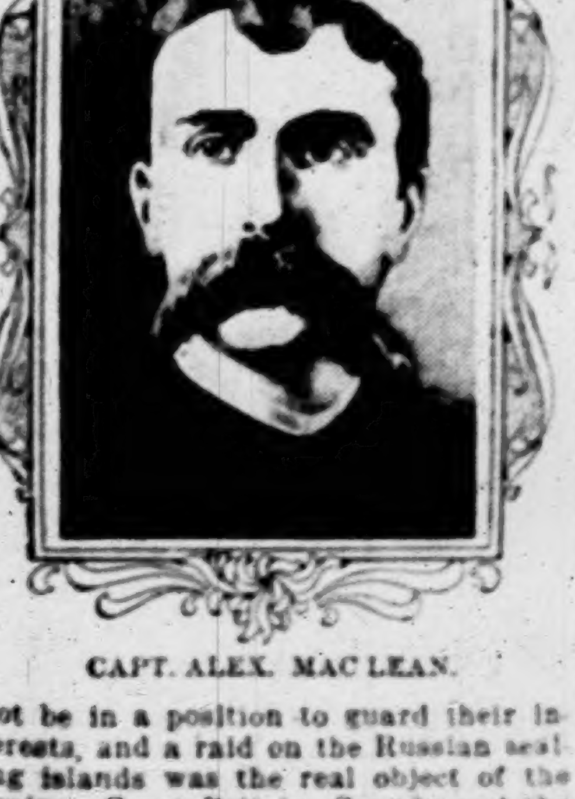


THE PIRATE'S S

MacLean's home has ever been on the sea; he knows no life but that on the deep blue and he finds no enjoyment on shore. He has been a rover and not a freight carrier, and any daredevil enterprise at sea that needed a strong arm could find an adherent in Captain MacLean, whether in search of pirate treasure, running a contraband cargo or illegally poaching for seals found him the man; he has had experience in all. MacLean's ship, the Carmencita, was formerly the Jenny Thelin, built in 1869, when speed and not carrying capacity was desired.

Poaching for Seals.

What the rakish looking schooner did prior to 1894 had nothing to do with MacLean's operations, but it was alleged in April, 1904, that the schooner was chartered and outfitted for a poaching cruise among the rookeries of the far north. The Russo-Japanese war being then uppermost in the minds of the two nations concerned, it was considered by the poachers that they would not be in a position to guard their interests, and a raid on the Russian sealing islands was the real object of the cruise. Great Britain, Canada and the United States have an agreement to prevent pelagic sealing, so that apparently to protect the ship's owner from prosecution under either United States or British laws, the ship's name was changed to Carmencita and registry papers taken out in Mexico.



CAPT. ALEX. MAC LEAN.

Thirty Devils at Beck and Call.

On May 5 she headed for the northern islands, MacLean sitting aft, thirty reckless dare-devils forward and cases of repeating rifles and ammunition in the captain's cabin. She had cleared for Victoria for a cargo, but instead sailed for the little islands in the Bering Sea, where it was understood a new rookery was discovered.

Captain MacLean has had a varied experience with the authorities, not only on the Carmencita, but on other vessels of which he was master. At one time a revenue cutter annoyed him by demanding that his papers be sent on board for examination. Upon his refusal the revenue officers threatened to open fire on him.

Invoked the Stars and Stripes.

MacLean hearing this, ordered one

GULLEDGE
, Loans and Discou
ong time loans on Impro
ife Insurance Policies.
ns on good Personal Prop
Crops.
al advances offered on d now, either on farms or
Address
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

Mail Order House!
CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
g at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
TLE GOODS PER QUART.
Our Price Regular
hiskey 75
key 75
key 75
Rye 50
60
Rye 65
Virginia Rye 75
75
Rye Whiskey 85
a Rye 1 00
ye 1 25
ye 84
1 00
1 00
1 00
1 00
85 in bond 1 00
in bond 1 25
ond 1 50
y without a headache 1 00
50
75
65
50
75 dy 80
t 50
barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.
Per gallon
3 00 Old Mason's Pure Rye
3 00 Private Stock Virginia Rye
2 00 J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
2 00 Old Style Country Club
3 00 Old Lincoln County
andy 2 00 Richmond Club Virginia Rye herry 1 50 R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye list. We carry a full line of wines ot handle low grade goods.
IER DRUG COMPANY
CUT RATE DRUG STORE
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything
d Everything of the
Fancy Grocer
OODS, CLOTHI
ES, HATS, ETC
JONES & BRO.

LOUR!
sh car Perfection jus
d from the mills.
guarantee price and
y.
it at our expense.
CANNON & SO
s to Clanton Furniture C

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No.6

LIKE A PIRATE OF OLD.

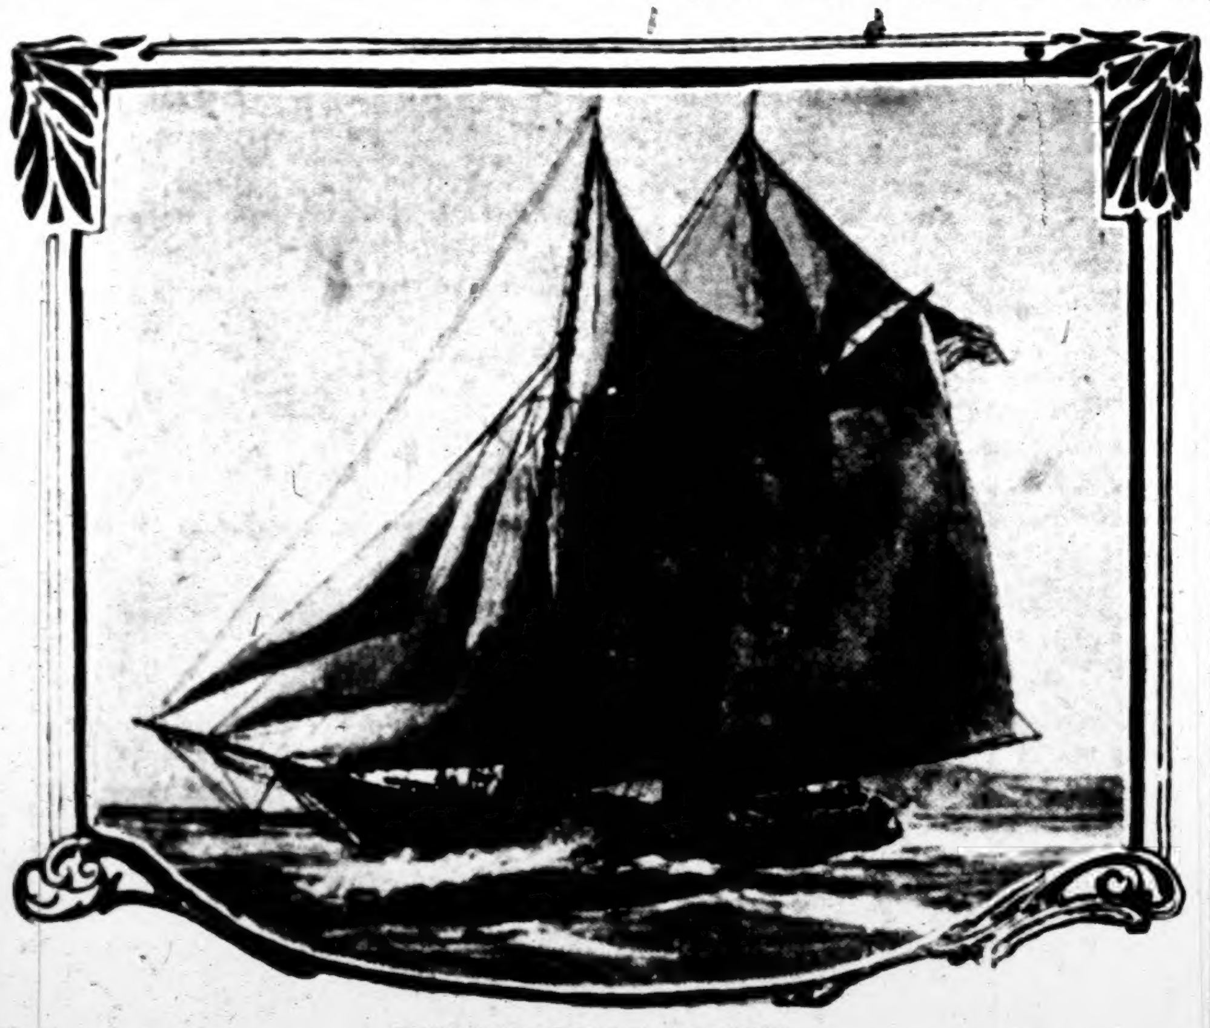
ALEXANDER MACLEAN ROAMED THE SEA IN SWIFT SCHOONER.

Accompanied by Thirty Reckless Buccaneers He Defied Governments and Gunboats—Now in Toils of the Law.

There's never a law of God or man runs north of fifty-three.

Captain Alexander MacLean, as bold a rover as ever lived during the privateering days when pirate ships lay waiting in the pathway of Spanish galleons, will roam the sea no more. That is, he will not sail the deep in that free-handed manner which made him the object of search by United States and British authorities. A few weeks ago, under an indictment for conspiracy in fitting his schooner Carmencita in violation of the sealing laws, he was arrested at Victoria, British Columbia. The Department of State received a telegram announcing the arrest of a crew made up of men said to be

"As choice a band of pirates and cutthroats as ever manned a pirate craft since the days of Captain Kidd."



THE PIRATE'S SCHOONER

MacLean's home has ever been on the sea; he knows no life but that on the deep blue and he finds no enjoyment on shore. He has been a rover and not a freight carrier, and any daredevil enterprise at sea that needed a strong arm could find an adherent in Captain MacLean, whether in search of pirate treasure, running a contraband cargo or illegally poaching for seals found him the man; he has had experience in all. MacLean's ship, the Carmencita, was formerly the Jenny Tiplin, built in 1869, when speed and carrying capacity was desired.

Poaching for Seals.

What the rakish looking schooner did prior to 1894 had nothing to do with MacLean's operations, but it was alleged in April, 1904, that the schooner was chartered and outfitted for a poaching cruise among the rookeries of the far north. The Russo-Japanese war being then uppermost in the minds of the two nations concerned, it was considered by the poachers that they would not be in a position to guard their interests, and a raid on the Russian sealing islands was the real object of the cruise. Great Britain, Canada and the United States have an agreement to prevent pelagic sealing, so that apparently to protect the ship's owner from prosecution under either United States or British laws, the ship's name was changed to Carmencita and registry papers taken out in Mexico.

CAPT. ALEX. MAC LEAN.

Thirty Devils at Beck and Call.

On May 5 she headed for the northern islands, MacLean sitting aft, thirty reckless dare-devils forward and cases of repeating rifles and ammunition in the captain's cabin. She had cleared for Victoria for a cargo, but instead sailed for the little islands in the Bering Sea, where it was understood a new rookery was discovered.

Captain MacLean has had a varied experience with the authorities, not only on the Carmencita, but on other vessels of which he was master. At one time a revenue cutter annoyed him by demanding that his papers be sent on board for examination. Upon his refusal the revenue officers threatened to open fire on him.

Invoked the Stars and Stripes.

MacLean hearing this, ordered one of his men to "run up the flag." The Stars and Stripes were hoisted and "Big Alec," as he is known, yelled out, "Now fire and be d——d to you." The revenue cutter dipped its flag thrice and turned away. Several times this bold navigator has had set-tos with government authorities, but a short time ago the Carmencita made a raid on the copper islands and had a brush with the revenue patrol, one of the crew being wounded and sent to Seattle, Wash., for treatment.

The attention of Mexico having been called to the illegal acts of the Carmencita's crew, that government on November 1, 1904, cancelled the Mexican registry. With this taken away from him, MacLean had the name of the schooner changed to the Acapulco. It is understood that when he dropped into Drake Bay for supplies he had only 100 skins on board taken from the sealing preserves of the Arctic so that government officials have suspected that the great amount of money displayed on that occasion must have come elsewhere than from the fund derived from the sale of skins. The government agents believe that several men now under indictment in the West in connection with this poaching trip furnished the funds.

Always Eluded the Law.

MacLean's movements were conducted so cleverly that he could never be held until now; he always made the technicalities of the law cover his operations, but the Department of Justice has been gathering evidence through the personal direction of Chief Wilkie of the Secret Service and it was this evidence that led to his indictment in San Francisco a short time ago. So now the piratical course of Captain Alexander MacLean seems at an end and the stern hand of the law holds him in its grip. It remains to be seen whether his luck will again serve him in good stead and enable him to sail away to the "great white silence" where the treasured fur-bearing animals are found, or whether the government's evidence will be strong enough to shackle him.

Japanese Dwarf Trees.

In Japan are some very remarkable trees. They are hundreds of years old and not a hundred inches high. The most marvelous collection is in Count Okuma's garden, near Tokio. Here are pine trees that started to grow in the seventeenth century, that at the dawn of the twentieth century are not too large to be carried in one hand, pot and all. Others, whose seed was planted about the time when Columbus sailed for America, are already outstripped by saplings planted year before last.

In another place is a grove of lilliputian plum trees, gnarled and knotted and twisted by centuries of wind and weather, that are none of them too large to grace a dinner table, as they often do when in full bloom. More marvelous still, there are other little trees, probably planted in the early "sixties," that are still thriving (it is too much to say "growing") in a teacup, while others planted before Cleveland's last term in office have not outgrown a lady's thimble.

The Japanese are past masters in the art of dwarfing trees. They nip off the tree's roots and pinch its limbs and starve it with little soil and let it go thirsty and dry, but at the same time keep the breath of life in it, until it becomes the veriest travesty of a tree, a manikin vegetable, with the wrinkled face of an old man on the legs of a little boy. Infinite patience and skill and time are given in order to stunt and dwarf into these grotesque growths.

Will Wed for Love Only.

Princess Victoria of England, the only unmarried daughter of King Edward, declares that if she marries at all it will be for love. She is thirty-seven years old, and for twenty years has refused to consider every marriage proposal suggested by her father, the King.

"If I marry, it will be to the man of my choice," she is reported to have said. "Father, mother, and government shall not choose for me. I will love the man I marry, if I ever marry."

This bold declaration by the daughter of a king has shocked royal and aristocratic circles all over Europe, but it has been read with delight by the English people, and it appeals equally to Americans.

FREEDOM FOR RUSSIA.

UNDER CZAR'S RECENT MANIFESTO, LAST ABSOLUTE MONARCHY DISAPPEARS.

The New Empire Promises to Be a Regime of Constitutional Liberty and Representation—Victory of the People Widely Celebrated.

As an outcome of the tremendous agitation which has been shaking Russia to the very core, the Czar has surrendered and has granted rights which if consummated, will result in civil liberty.

It seemed for a time as though the history of the French revolution would be repeated; that the aristocracy and the bureaucracy driving ahead in their arrogance and self esteem, would fail to recognize the overwhelming force of the volcano of public sentiment surrounding them, and by their refusal to recognize conditions, plunge the whole empire into civil war and anarchy. But the handwriting on the wall was recognized and the Czar compelled to practically capitulate his imperial throne. True, promises are thus, far more in evidence than fulfillment, but Count Witte has apparently been made the real Russian leader and much is hoped and expected in the way of a peaceful reform.

In old Russia, the Russia of last century, of last year, of last week, the Czar was all powerful. Russia was the last remaining absolute monarchy. The policies of the government were created and enforced by the Czar and his Grand Dukes.

Popular representation was a fragile promise. Free speech was under the ban; freedom of the press was unknown. Even all private mail was subject to censorship. The prisons were filled with political offenders. Imagine casting a man into a United States prison because his political acts were not relished by the government!

A system of public espionage followed every man's move.

Old Russia was divided into two classes, the nobility and practical slaves.

Education of the masses was worse than a farce.

What is promised for Russia?

The abolition of the rule of the Romanoff House.

Freedom of speech guaranteed and freedom of person inviolable.

A limited monarchy similar to that of England with a guarantee of popular government, with a cabinet responsible to the people, and with suffrage made almost universal, and with provision for a representative parliament and for a general educational system.

The right of habeas corpus recognized and the freedom of the press assured.

Following the Czar's imperial manifesto outlining the proposed regime of liberty, all Russia celebrated. In St. Petersburg and Moscow the day was one such as the Russians never before had seen. The Slavic people, who during the long war just closed and the anxious period preceding the announcement of the new era of constitutionalism, seemed self restrained, gloomy and apathetic, gave themselves fully to the exuberance of the moment and spent the entire day in parades and assemblies which for the first time in the history of Russia were freely permitted.

It was stated as a significant omen that after a fortnight of gloomy and depressing weather, symbolic of the days of the great strike, the sun shone out brightly on the date of the Czar's manifesto, a bright and radiant Indian-summer day.

The Aromatic Havana.

Apropos of the real enjoyment of a cigar Cauthorne, the newspaper correspondent, in that most fascinating story of "The Tallahasse Girl":

"If you will permit me, I will smoke," said he, taking out a curious cigar case of very fine workmanship.

"It does not even amount to a kindness on my part," she answered; "for I enjoy the fragrant sweet of a good cigar."

"Thank you, I can never fully appreciate an open air chat without the company of this Indian luxury. But really I am no great smoker. Two or three a day are all I take."

"You must be an exception. Papa smokes twenty pipes full a day, and most gentlemen are always indulging."

"Yes, they lose sight of the equisite part of the thing which is a subtle pleasure coming only to those who use tobacco of the finest quality and sparingly."

Sometimes I abstain for several days in order to get the full benefit of a slow burning Havana."

Huge Precious Stones.

Prior to the discovery of the South African diamond a few months ago, weighing in the neighborhood of a pound and a half, the largest perfect diamond in the world was that which was exhibited in Paris, having a value of one million dollars. This was the most valuable stone in the world; the largest and best ruby in existence is owned in London, and is valued at $50,000. It has no parallel, even in the Crown Jewels, and it is related that it was once carried all the way to St. Petersburg for the Czar to have a look at. The largest and most beautiful cat's-eye in existence weighs one-hundred and seventy carats and is insured for 30,000 rupees. The biggest emerald in the world weighs 2,980 carats, and is in the Imperial Jewel Office in Vienna.

The most costly church of its size, in America, is in the quaint old town of St. Augustine, Fla.

DRESS REFORM FOR WOMEN.

Advocate of Practical Walking and Working Garb—Relief From Heavy Skirts.

Dr. Cora Smith Eaton, of Minneapolis, Minn., believes that many of the aches and ills from which women suffer are the direct result of the clothes they wear. She says that in her professional capacity she tries to impress upon her women patrons the need of dress reform. "Not the old time hideous bloomer costume of years ago," laughed the doctor, "but a rational, sensible and beautiful adaptation of our clothes to our needs."

"And what are our needs," was asked.

"Normal, unrestricted movement; a freedom from confining bands; and relief from heavy skirts."

DR. CORA SMITH EATON.

Dr. Eaton puts to practical test her ideas on the subject. The weight of all garments she wears is from the shoulders. Her gowns are made in one piece—a little on the Princess order, though really a modification of the Empire.

It is a delight to watch the doctor move about in her brisk, energetic way. Her body, sensibly clothed, and beautifully poised, with that fine, straight line beloved of physical culturists, from the head to the heels, is responsive to the many demands of her busy life. It would be impossible for her to accomplish her work, she says, hampered by the usual style of dress.

Favorite Among Cigar Markets.

Bismarck used to boast that in his fifty years he had smoked over 100,000 cigars. In later years he was seldom without his immense meerschaum.

HUGE IRRIGATION DAM.

ROCK BARRAGE ACROSS NARROW CANYON IN MOUNTAINS OF WYOMING.

Government Works Will Store Flood Waters For Fertilization of One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Desert Acres.

A quarter of a century ago the home of the buffalo, and later a cattle and sheep pasture, with an occasional ranch house, the Big Horn Basin in Wyoming is now the scene of a great activity incident to the building of one of the largest of the government irrigation works. Some years ago Colonel Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, made a survey of the Shoshone canyon, and in connection with General Miles, projected a company to construct a dam and irrigate some 60,000 acres. The necessary capital however was not forthcoming and when the national irrigation law was passed, the government took up the proposition, and a large party of engineers has since been employed on the preliminaries of a great work of desert reclamation.

The Shoshone River dashes down a narrow canyon, with jagged and perpendicular walls, and at its narrowest point the government has begun the construction of the highest dam ever built. It will cement together the two canyon walls for 240 feet above the stream bed, and its foundation will go below the water line 80 feet additional, down to the solid bed rock. The stream, where it passes between these granite canyon walls, is but 65 feet wide, and the dam will form a great lake of 5,000 acres, with a watershed of 1,250 square miles, and storing enough water to irrigate 150,000 acres through seven miles of 14-foot tunnels bored in the solid rock.

Little Chance For Land Grabbing.

This will cost about $25 an acre to be paid back to the government by settlers, under the business-like provisions of the irrigation law. The land flood and then boiling over great rocks itself is free under the homestead act, and has been reserved by Secretary Hitchcock from entry under the Desert and other land laws not requiring actual residence and home-building.

Few such picturesque and wildly beautiful scenes can be found as this Shoshone canyon. The river is a succession of foaming, rushing rapids, the water coursing along in a deep green flood, and then boiling over great rocks and boulders in a white surge. Only for a few hours each day can the sun find its way to the bottom of this deeply-cut gorge, the mountain sides towering into the clouds two and three thousand feet. From above the dam site as one looks down at the engineers working on the foundations, directly underneath, they appear like mimic men.

Giant Forces of Nature.

This Shoshone canyon and its surrounding mountains, are one of nature's great handiworks. All has been cut out by the silver stream, rushing in its bed below. For countless ages it has eaten its way through granite and limestone, wearing, wearing, wearing away. For centuries and ages it has flowed, ceaselessly and likewise uselessly on its way to join the flood of the Missouri; now it is to be harnessed and made to produce for man. A thousand farmers will make prosperous homes for themselves and families, and raise an annual product of a couple or three million dollars.

In the canyon proper the great forces of nature have wrought wonderfully. Enormous granite boulders have detached themselves from the mountains and rolled down thousands of feet crashing their hundreds and thousands of tons into the rocky gorge. Here the river continually plays upon them, searching out the seams and splitting them up and wearing them away and polishing them smooth.

Shoshone Canyon Scenes.

Capt. Jeremiah Ahern.

The Rock Pile of the World.

In the canyon's middle below the dam site, the jungle of rocks in the narrow river bed appears as though a thousand blasts of giant powder had rent the mountain sides and tumbled every rugged projection into the depths below. There is no dirt or sand in this river bed, everything is rock. The imperishable granite, gray, pink, and varicolored, oldest of the geological formations, made by the welding of various substances when the globe was a molten mass; the later limestones and black volcanic rocks, conglomerates also melted by great heat, the hard red sandstone and its white and brown contemporaries, formed from the grindings of other rocks subjected to enormous pressure, and lastly the geyserites and sulphur rocks, soft and honeycombed, the result of ceaseless spoutings of steam and hot water from the earth's bowels—all are found in wonderful profusion.

Below the canyon where the river runs more peacefully, all these formations are represented in the huge beds of cobble stones and smaller boulders over which the water plays. The cobblestones were themselves once jagged rocks, detached by wind, water, frost and sun from their mountain bases, and rolled and ground by river force until all their sharp corners have been worn and polished away.

MAKING A CANYON ROADWAY.

A Giant Fire Cracker.

Watching the government engineers cutting a road along the side of the canyon for the transportation of supplies to build the dam—60,000 barrels of cement alone will be needed—the writer observed the explosion of a big charge of dynamite, which burst with a roar, echoing up and down the canyon with deafening reverberations. Immediately an oblong granite rock of some 150 tons weight was torn from its base and hurled down into the river a hundred feet below. Shatters of rock flew in all directions, and a great splash of water rose like a geyser out of the black depths of the canyon.

Yet this huge block of granite was but a baby addition to the family of boulders which had been detached by more giant forces of nature, and thrown into the river bed. A few hours before we had crawled directly under this rock in our canyon "exploration." Returning, we were fain to accept the assistance of one of the road builders in getting across this place, looking down the while into the river boiling below among the rocks.

The engineering credit for this great project with its great dam, its enormous spillways, its mountain road building and its miles of canals and huge tunnels bored through the solid rock is due to Jeremiah Ahern, a government district engineer who, almost cut off from the outside world, has taken up his residence for several years in this wild canyon, once a fastness of the Shoshone Indians.

The Government Irrigation Program

What does all this great irrigation work of the government throughout the west signify? Simply that the nation has decided to use the money derived from the sale of western public lands to make its desert soil of value, and furnish many home-building opportunities. It means that many men will find employment in the construction of dams and canals in every western community, and that finally, as the works are completed, one by one, new farm homes will be established, adding to the nation's wealth and balancing our population now inclined cityward.

For a thousand years longer this splendid dam site would likely stand idle before private capital would develop it to its magnificent full capacity, for the difficulties in the way of the engineers are many and unknown; but the government will meet all obstacles and overcome them, and finally turn over to a thousand farmers a perfect job of engineering, comparable to the great works of the Peruvian Incas, the Egyptina Rameses or the British engineers of India—an enduring monument for all time to the wisdom of the present generation of America.

BULL DOG SUSPENDERS
POSITIVELY THE
HEWES & POTTER

FITZHUGH LEE'S ESCAPE.

BULLET FROM REPRESENTATIVE JENKINS' MUSKET PLOUGHED THROUGH HIS HAT.

Thrilling Occurrence of the Civil War—Confederates Made Three Desperate Charges in Blinding Midnight Thunder Storm.

W. M. Wooster.

One warm summer evening in 1895, I sat smoking with Judge Jenkins, of Wisconsin, who is now ably representing his State in Congress.

We were watching the oncoming of a heavy thunder storm, and the conversation had turned, as it often did, to the time of his youth when he entered the Union army and was, by the stirring events of the war, transformed into the fearless, iron-manhood that has since characterized him.

"It was just such an evening in the summer of '62," he remarked, "that I nearly killed Fitzhugh Lee."

"We were down in Virginia, and I was in charge of an ammunition train which was on its way to McClellan's army.

We had been halted by a brief order from headquarters, and directed to remain where we were—near a little village about thirty miles south of Washington.

"No reason was given for the delay, though some of the boys thought it was for the purpose of enabling an escort of cavalry to join us. Others said they guessed 'Mac' didn't have any further use for powder. However, we were mighty glad to go into camp, as many of the raw men were about 'bushed' by the long and hot marching, besides it gave us opportunity to forage and get better rations than hard-tack and maggoty bacon—so lively that it followed us around camp.

"We pitched our tents in an open field, a short distance to the east of a high road which stretched away toward home. About a quarter of a mile to the south was a thick piece of timber.

The Old Pie Woman.

"The third day we were in camp a woman came through selling pies. We thought nothing of her visit, other than that her pies were home-made and tasted awfully good.

"It was just such a day as this," continued the Judge, "and in the afternoon the heat became very oppressive. As the evening wore on we observed thunder-heads piling up in the southwest; and the boys prophesied that we would have a break in the hot spell.

"I became uneasy as the night wore on, and walked about the camp watching the flashes of distant lightning and the dark masses of drifting clouds which seemed to be flanking us on the north.

GEN. FITZHUGH LEE.

I realized that the open field offered the more safety for the ammunition in case of severe lightning. Still an unaccountable sense of impending danger possessed me; and, acting upon what appeared to be a foolish impulse, I ordered the boys to move all of the ammunition into the timber just below the camp. This was done without lights; and the tents and other equipage were allowed to stand where they were. Camp fires were lighted as usual.

"The more I thought of the pie-woman, the more suspicious it made me; and feeling ill at ease, I spoke to some of the boys about her visit. They joked about it and suggested that her pie had given me indigestion.

"'Why,' my orderly said, 'there ain't a Johnnie reb nowheres around here. They're all down there with "Mac" keepin' him busy.'

"'That's all right,' said another, 'but why were we halted here, if there's no danger?'

Doubled the Pickets.

"No one volunteered an answer to his question, and I decided it would be wise to double the pickets.

The men who were detailed for the extra duty grumbled some, and as they started for their posts one 'guessed' we were afraid the storm was 'going to charge us.' Another was sure the 'Cap'n' was afraid of his shadow after dark, begorra!'

"About ten o'clock word was brought that the pickets on the west had observed a small force of cavalry, but thought they were Union men.

"An hour later a force of two or three squadrons was reported passing some distance to the south of our position and going in a westerly direction. Again, the pickets were not positive but thought they were our cavalry.

"The expected storm seemed to have passed off to the north, though the staggering half-moon showed the southwestern quadrant still dark and threatening.

"The camp had settled down for the night, but I was uneasy, and sat near my tent trying to pursuade myself that the reported cavalry was the supposed escort which had missed the road to our camp and would probably pick us up in the morning. However, I did not feel reassured, and walked over to the post covering the road to the west.

"Scarcely had I reached the picket when we heard the tread of a horse walking slowly up the road.

"'Don't challenge,' I whispered, 'We'll take him if it's a Johnnie.'

"We stepped into the deeper shadows, and soon a mounted Confederate officer emerged from the dark bend of the road, and was silhouetted against the sky. In a moment or two he reached the point commanding a view of our camp, drew rein and sat not fifty feet away, peering toward us.

"I cautiously took the picket's rifle, and we sprang out into full view. The officer started as he saw us, and wheeled his horse to escape.

"'Halt,' I cried, and as he dashed on, with a quick aim, I pulled the trigger. Simultaneously with the report, the picket struck up the gun, exclaiming, 'My God, Cap'n, you're shooting one of our men.'

Bullet Ploughed Through Hat.

"I saw the officer's hat twitch sharply as the heavy bullet tore through it. For an instant he swayed as though hit, then spurred up the road before I could reload. The quick blow of the picket had saved his life.

HON. JOHN J. JENKINS

"With the sound of his galloping horse, we heard shots on the north, and soon afterwards our pickets were driven in by a force of the enemy's cavalry.

"The camp was hurriedly aroused, and our boys were ready for the attack. Bayonets were fixed. The men were ordered to reserve their fire until the horses were almost on them.

"It had become very dark, and from the flash of the lightning we saw that the expected storm was at last upon us. In a few minutes it broke over us in all its fury, and as it did so the enemy charged, yelling like devils. On they came, riding as mad, and led by the very officer I had so narrowly missed. I recognized him instantly.

The Midnight Charge.

"We held our fire until they were almost on top of us, and then along the whole front of our triple line, blazed our guns full in their faces.

"The crash was terrific. Troopers reeled in their saddles. Horses staggered and went down with their riders. The others broke in confusion and dashed wildly past on our flanks.

"It was worse than nightmare—the torrents of rain, the total darkness, intensified by the crashing, blinding lightning, and the cursing, yelling troopers, charging along over us.

"The flashes showed us the killed and wounded strewn along our front; and I took a dismounted captain prisoner.

"Three times they charged us that night, and as many times were driven off, the last time retreating southward.

"When the morning came, we buried our killed side by side with the Confederate dead.

"My prisoner told me that the charge was led by Fitzhugh Lee in person and then I knew who it was that I so nearly killed with the picket's rifle.

"Do you know," said the Judge after a long silence, as he withdrew to the house to avoid the heavy gusts of rain, "I've always been thankful to that mistaken picket."

THE POWER OF SONG.

AN INCIDENT OF LIFE IN LIBBY PRISON DURING THE CIVIL WAR.

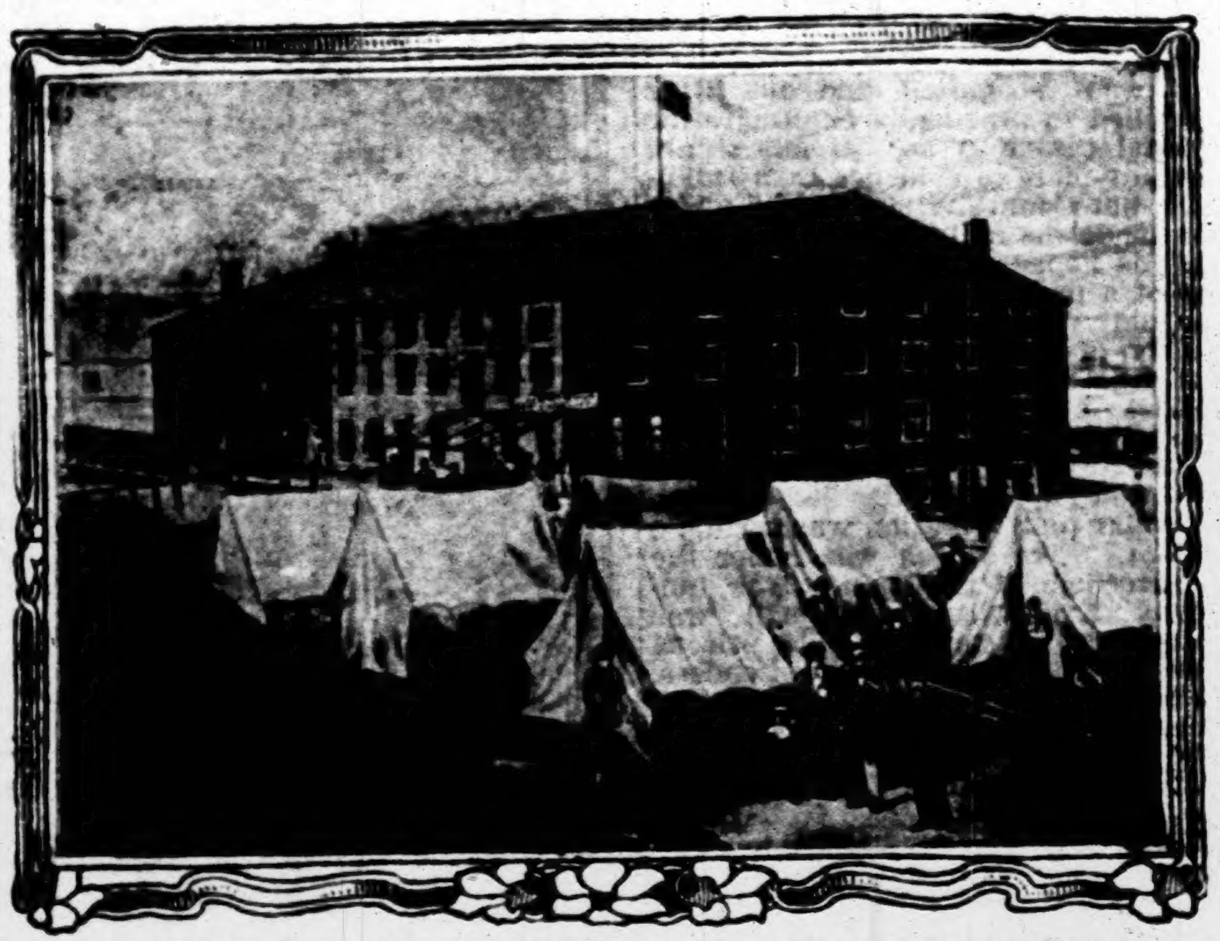
How the Prisoners Sang the "Star Spangled Banner," and There was Cheering in the Streets of Richmond.

Taken prisoner while in charge of the rear guard, on Stoneman's first raid, near Richmond, Va., relates an old captain of the cavalry, and after various adventures, I, with 2,600 of the prisoners taken at Chancellorsville, was sent to Libby prison. The large excess of prisoners on the Confederate side procured us, most fortunately, an exchange in a very short time, and within a month or so I participated in another raid under Colonel Spear of the 11th Pennsylvania Cavalry over the same ground where I had been lately led a prisoner of war.

We had passed but one Sunday in Libby—93 officers confined to an upmost story. About the middle of that afternoon I chanced to look around the room. A half dozen parties were playing cards, many were sleeping, several were lying on the floor pretty sick, while one squad of a dozen or more had organized a prayer meeting. Not being a saint and perhaps not much of a sinner, I was simply a "Looker on in Venice." The leader was a captain of a Massachusetts regiment. The meeting was evidently dragging, the great heat and perhaps hunger and our position not proving conducive to much thanksgiving.

The National Anthem.

Suddenly the captain started up, and taking his place near the centre of the room, exclaimed in a voice loud enough to attract immediate attention, "Let us all sing 'The Star Spangled Banner,'" and commenced in an exceptionally fine baritone, "Oh, say, can you see."



LIBBY PRISON, RICHMOND, AS IT LOOKED DURING THE WAR.

Cards were dashed aside, the sleepers awoke, the sick leaped to their feet, and like magic every one of the entire 93 officers crowded to the centre, singing with the greatest enthusiasm. At least two dozen of the men had fine voices, and never did the grand old words seem so like a mighty anthem.

Waved the Old Flag.

Louder and louder swelled the sound until the chorus of the last verse was reached, when a member of a New York City regiment, a regular Tammany thoroughbred, reached his hand in his breast and produced a small silk flag, which he had, in some way, concealed when searched by the guards on entering, and with a wild shout waved it to and fro. Again and again was the chorus repeated, and then suddenly the captain changed to "The Army and Navy Forever," "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue." Veritable cheers they were. Tears streamed down the veterans' cheeks, the boys in the room below took up the shouts, and three times' three were given.

Hearing some cheering on the outside, I moved cautiously near the window—it was dangerous to go too near—and saw all the guards in line with their muskets pointed toward the building, but, massed up and down the streets, were hundreds upon hundreds of people, four-fifths of them women, clapping their hands and waving their handkerchiefs, showing by their approval a most remarkable tribute to the power of song, and that love for Old Glory still held a warm place in their hearts and memories.

SOME GREAT DISCOVERIES.

The Chicago University Scores Some Important Achievements.

Almost every day one of the professors of the University of Chicago, the financial machinery of which is oiled by John D. Rockefeller, breaks into print with some new discovery. They keep the world startled and wondering.

During the past few years, for instance, the following epoch-making discoveries, among a host of others, have been listed by a Buffalo newspaper as Chicago University discoveries:

That kissing causes lockjaw.

That a dog never follows an uneducated man.

That the Pennsylvanians are turning into Indians.

That Ireland was once a lake.

That primeval man had a gizzard.

That music is antiseptic.

That Adam caught fish with a club.

That love is a disease of the Medulla oblongata.

That a cabbage contains more neurishment than twelve eggs.

That Boccaccio was a Swede.

That the American negro is gradually becoming yellow.

That Columbus was a grafter.

That George Washington liked onions and tripe.

That John D. Rockefeller is a greater man than Shakespeare.

That the Junebug has seven stomachs.

That Arabia produces more bullfrogs than Bulgaria.

That marriage is a form of insanity.

It will take the world a generation to ponder over the few propositions here mentioned. The countless others promulgated by the Chicago savants would keep a thousand scientists busy, even if they worked day and night, in three shifts, for fifty years.

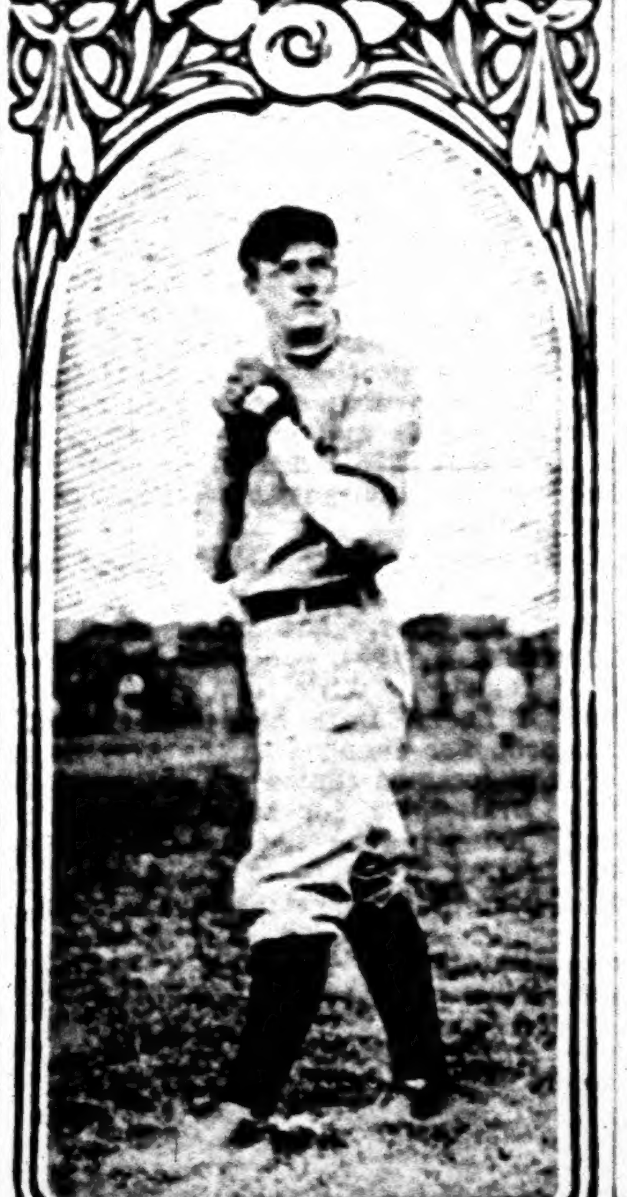
Certainly, Mr. Rockefeller's money is being well spent. The fact that the public laughs at the oil-born professors and regards them as low comedians is of no significance. The world, it will be remembered, laughed at Copernicus, Galileo and Sub-Lieut. Napoleon Bonaparte.

FORTUNES FOR BALL PLAYERS.

Friendly Rivalry in the Two Great Leagues.

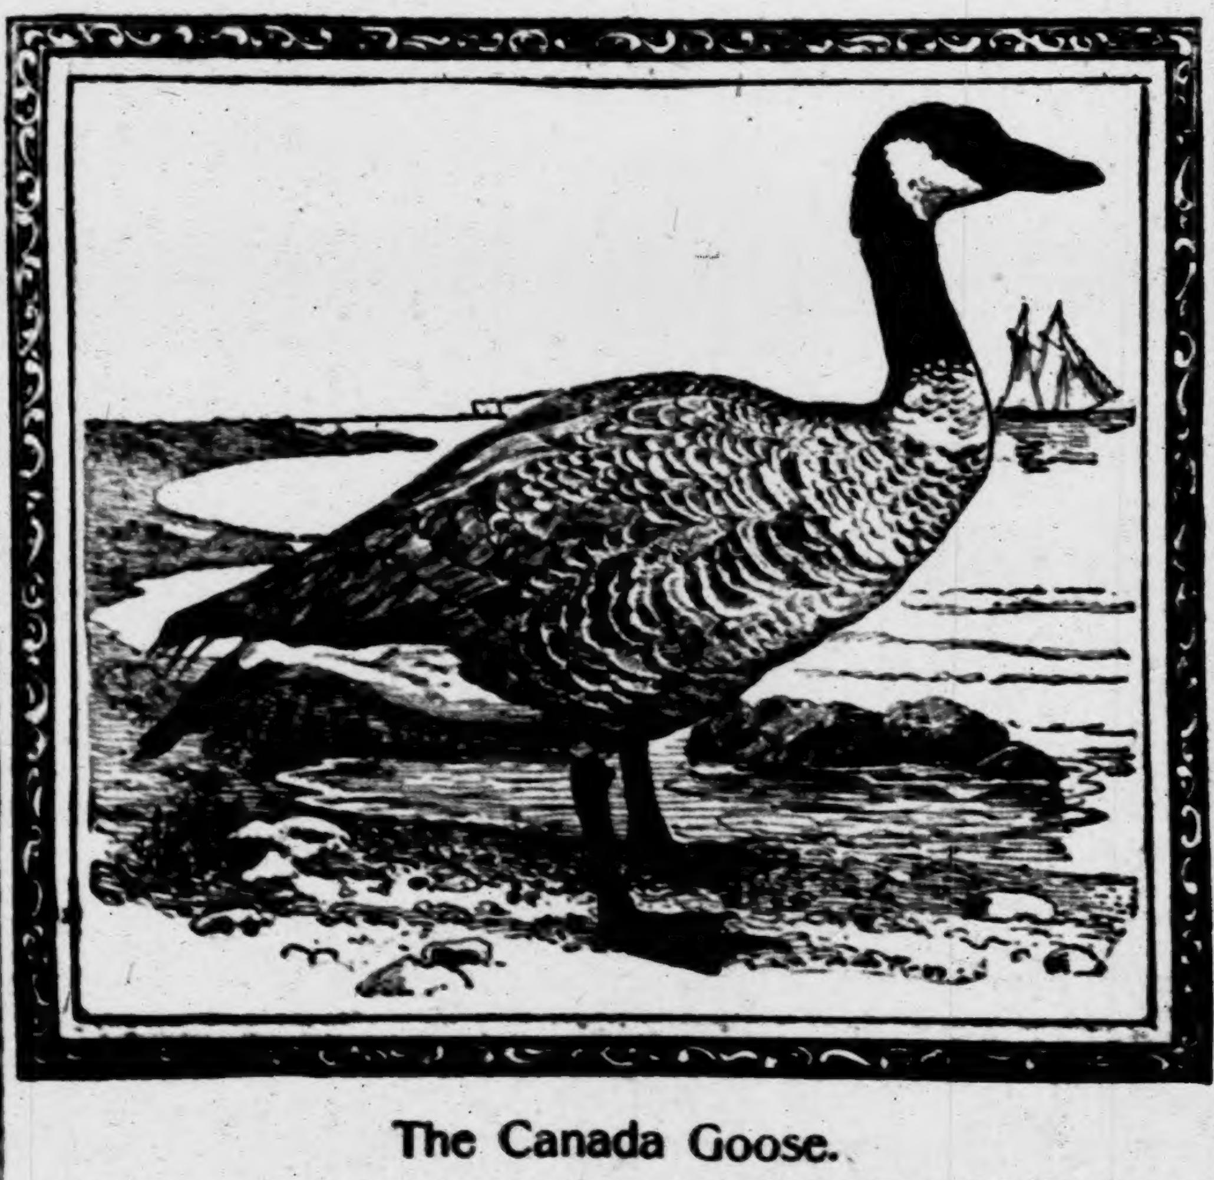
The great baseball battle which occurred a short time ago between the pennant winners of the National and American Leagues for the season's playing recalls to mind that it was but a few years ago that these two rival baseball associations were clashing tooth and nail in a deadly war of extermination and survival. It was then that the American League, under the leadership of Ban Johnson, made inroads into the ranks of the National League, capturing its star players and enlisting them in its cause through a rainbow of big salaries. Rival teams were placed in Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia and princely salaries offered to the players of ability. There were, of course, suits at law, and injunctions were sought restraining the contract jumpers. One particular instance of this is remembered in the case of Lajoie, Delehanty, Wolverton, Orth and Townsend, onetime members of the Philadelphia Nationals, who jumped to the rival team in that city. When injunctions were secured preventing their playing in the Quaker town, they were transferred to the Cleveland and Washington teams. The injunction, of course, prevented their playing in Philadelphia, and when occasion required that their team should go through that city, these players were always switched over on another train which circuited through New Jersey.

Now all is peace and harmony between the two organizations; they have adopted a set of rules regulating the players in each, and schedules are prepared each spring which will provide for as few conflicting dates as possible. New York and Philadelphia in October were the scenes of notable battles for supremacy between the teams representing these cities, that of New York having won the banner in the National and Philadelphia's that in the American League.



"CHRISTY" MATHEWSON.
The star pitcher of the New York "Giants"—the pivotal man upon whom turned the world's championship.

In accordance with an agreement made before the playing of the world's championship series, 60 per cent. of the gate receipts from the first four games played was divided among the players, 75 per cent. of this going to the winners, the New York Giants, and the remaining 25 per cent. to the losers, the Athletics. This netted each individual on the former team nearly $1,200 and approximately $500 to each of the latter. In addition to this the management of the Philadelphia aggregation has divided among its players its share of the gate receipts—nearly $9,000—as a reward for winning the pennant in the American League.



The Canada Goose.

With the cry of "honk, honk," like the warning of an automobile horn, the hunter is warned of the approach of the leader of a flying flock of Canadian geese. On come the long-necked wild fowl from their northern hunting ground. They stream across the sky much in the form of the flying wedge formerly used in football tactics. Gradually the wedge closes together, making one homogeneous mass of black and brown, with sprinklings of white. Usually the Canadian geese stop flying about sunset, feeding on eel-grass, sedges, roots of water plants, and occasionally on small fish and insects. Even at times they will eat the corn, wheat or other grains dropped by the farmer in the stubble. Supper over, they return to the water, sleeping with heads tucked under wings, waking only to start out again in search of breakfast. These two flights are so habitual with these geese that hunters can easily reckon when to take position in the pit in wait of the flying wedges.

Strangely enough, these birds, while thrown into a state of panic at the approach of a man, are not in fear of cows; this fact has often led hunters to train oxen to walk straight into flocks of them, the hunter hiding behind the animal until within gunshot of the flock.

And yet, notwithstanding their wild nature, Canadian geese are often domesticated and crossed with the common barnyard goose. Sometimes wounded birds are allowed to run with the domesticated birds, until some migratory flock passes over the head with its cry of "honk, honk." The call of the wild is on again and the nursed bird once more in a state of health, rejoins his companions. A wounded bird is often known to dive beneath the water's surface, exposing only its nostrils, until all danger has passed. Surprised, a flock rises suddenly and apparently in great confusion, the large birds get into one another's way, so that the marksman has excellent opportunity to bag a brace. With the typical "honk, honk" they rise against the wind until they are once more in orderly array, the wedges flying on to other parts.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance. Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores. $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy "The Missourian."
Name............
Address............

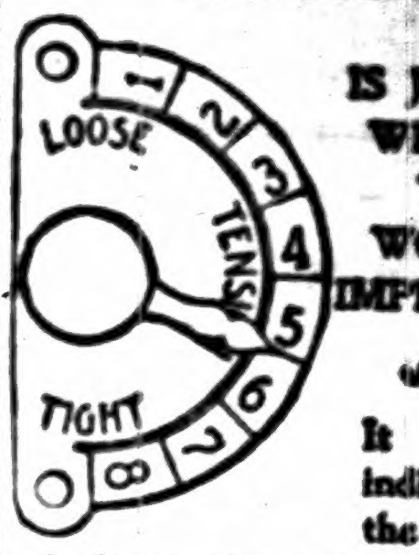
The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

TO THE TRAVELER these Locks Are Necessities—Not Mere Luxuries

On straps they strengthen and make safe the trunk, suit or other traveling case, or lock telescope at any fullness. With chain fasten bicycle, horse or automobile or secure umbrella, bag, or coat to car seat or other permanent object. They are small, simple, durable, unpickable.

LOCKS—3 varieties—50 cents each; with leather trunk strap 7 ft. $1.00, 8 ft. $1.25, 8 ft. heavy $1.50, 8 to 10 ft. double $2.50—with best 1½-inch webbing 7 to 10 ft. $1.00—with telescope, suit case traveling case or mail bag strap or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid on receipt of price.

LYNCH MFG. CO., Madison, Wis., U. S. A.



A Tension Indicator IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

should have this book.
mail to us with $1.50.

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores.
$1.50

urian scoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre secret mission comes into conflict romantic American novel of re-ents of reality, wrought on."

St. Louis Republic.
rried through un-
urday Review.
ry, and the nstaking

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy "The Missourian."
Name.........
Address.........
Ky. No. 32.

these Locks Are Necessary Mere Luxuries

d make safe the trunk, suit or other at any fullness. With chain fasten ecure umbrella, bag, or coat to car
They are small, simple, durable.

ts each; with leather trunk strap
$1.50, 8 to 10 ft. double $1.50—with
t. $1.00—with telescope, suit case or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid

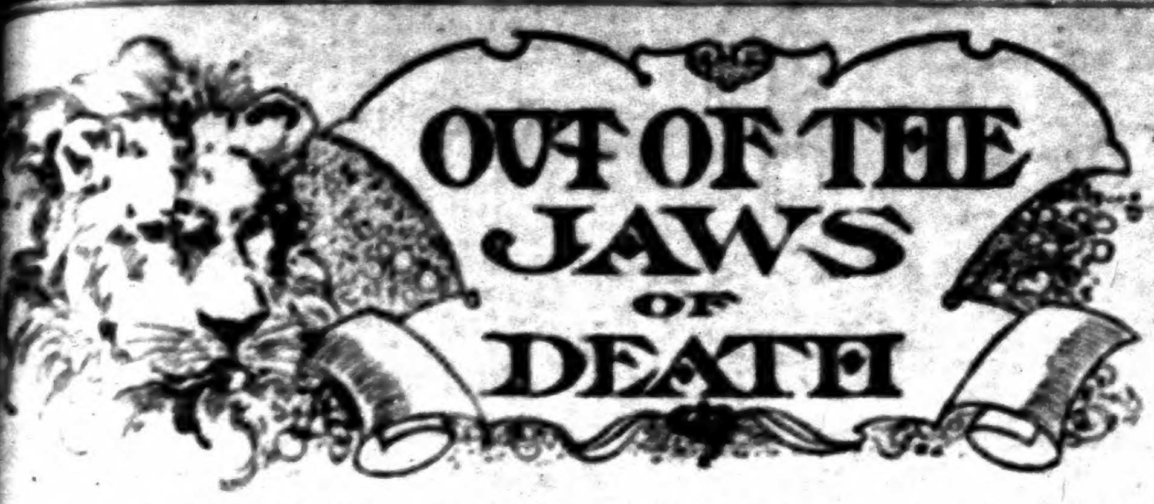
, Madison, Wis., U. S. A.



OUT OF THE JAWS OF DEATH

It mattered not that the runabout was second hand, and purchased at auction, though at a ridiculously low figure. It mattered not that I had but [illegible] horse power while Fred Wilson, in his fine new touring car, had forty. I was as happy as a king, for my possession set aside, to some extent at least, Fred's advantage over me in the attack upon Miss Steadman's heart. He had been taking her riding on the Beach Drive, and I had gnashed my teeth with futile jealousy, until along came my wonderful opportunity. I bought the machine, though it was really beyond my means. I simply couldn't help it. When a man is in love, you know, he does all kinds of a fool.

And didn't my breast swell with pride when I whirled up to Alice's door that evening, the second after the purchase, to take her in the moonlight along that magnificent mile stretch of perfect road? I had made up my mind to tell her that night all that had been in my heart for so many apprehensive months—that I loved her, that I wanted her for my very own—in fact, that she was the only girl in all the world for me.

Oh, it is glorious to sit by the girl you love and spin through the night in a silent, smooth-running machine, and drink in the full joy of it. A dozen times I was on the point of speaking. I had been practicing steadily with the steering, endeavoring to be able to manage the machine with one hand, in order to have the other free for Alice's waist. I pictured it all—how she would listen in silence, then look at me with sparkling eyes and let her pretty head fall on my shoulder; and how I would then put my arm around her, very tenderly, and draw her close and kiss her, but it did not turn out that way at all. It seldom does turn out just as I plan it.

"We will go clear to the end of the Beach Drive," I said, as we slipped away down Main street and turned into the Boulevard. "Then we will come back by the Wood Road, skirting the Zoo and ending up at Alphonse's for a little supper. How do you like that?" And she smiled at me so appreciatively that I was perfectly sure, for full half a minute that she was just as much in love with me as I with her.

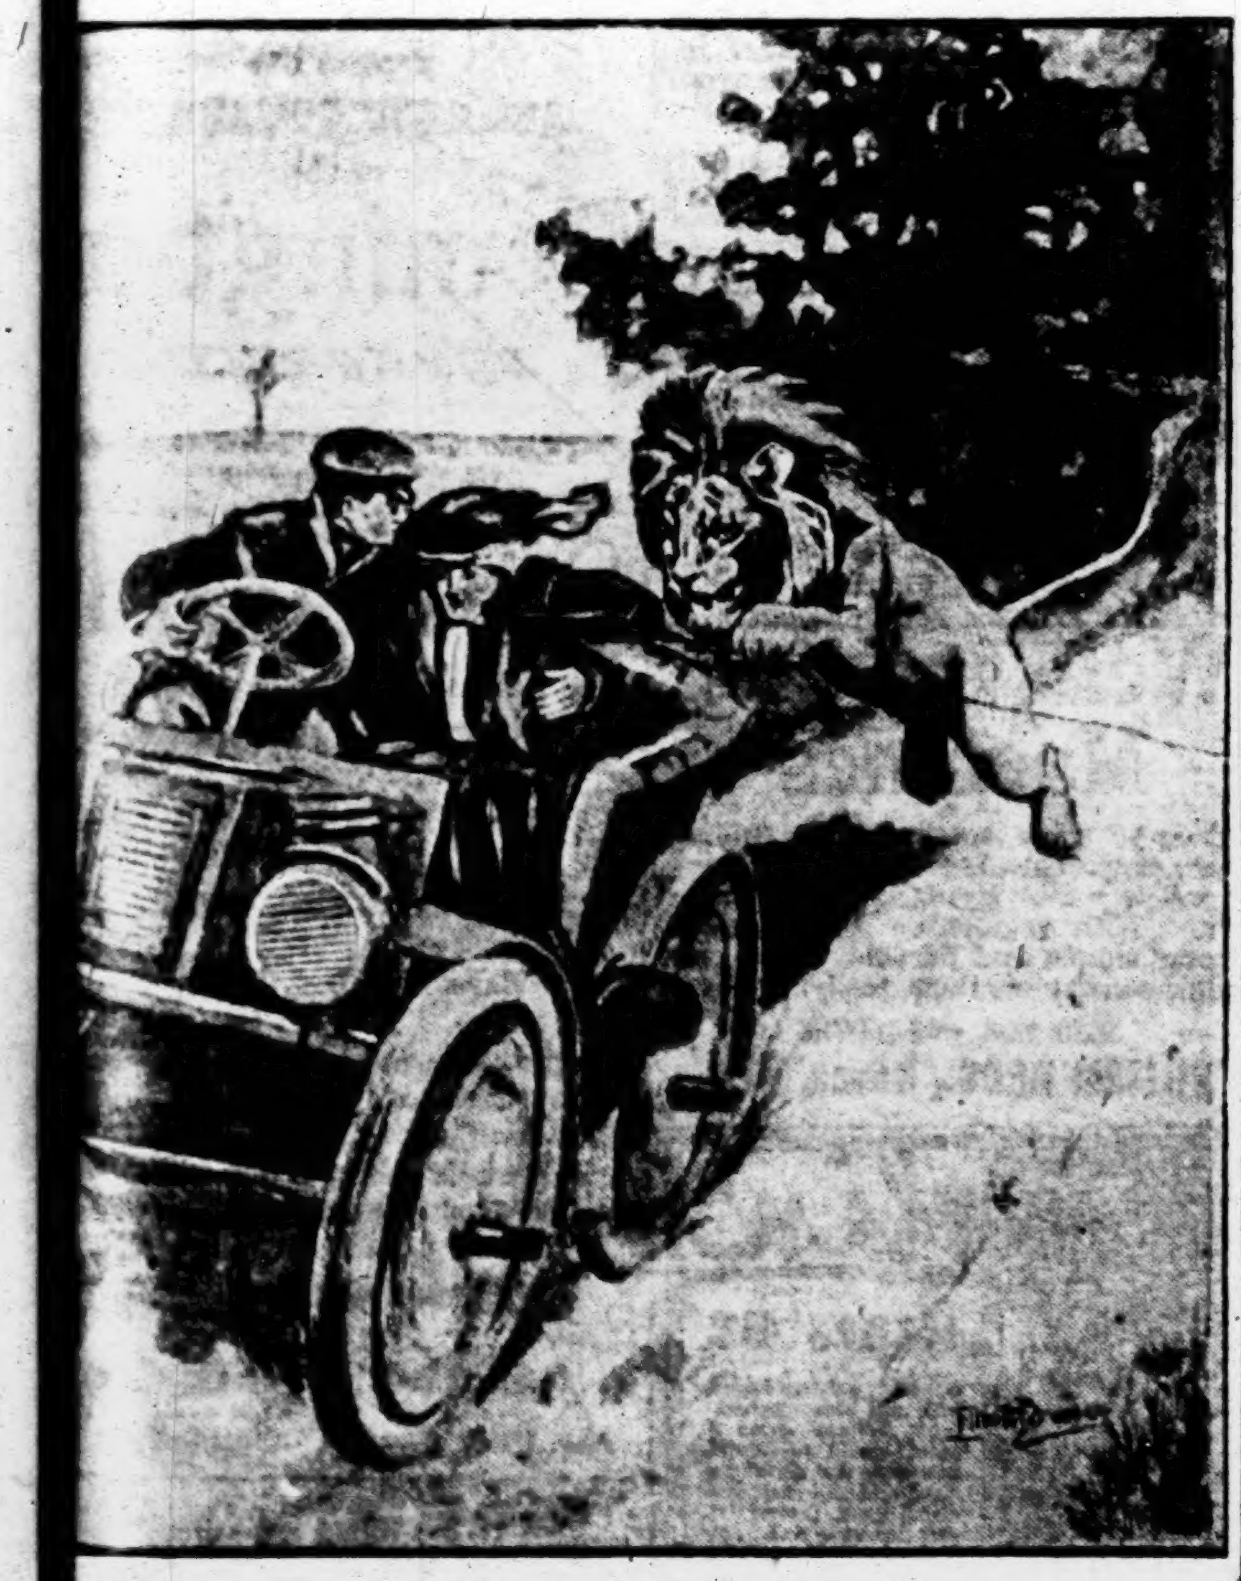
It was so open on the Drive, and there was such a stream of automobiles and carriages that I deferred speaking to her of my secret. It would be better in the seclusion of the Wood Road. So we talked gently, and looked out over the water at the vessels in the Sound, and admired the beauty of the glorious moonlight on the dancing waves. Then, at the end of the beautiful drive along the water we turned abruptly and entered the quiet and seclusion of the great pine woods. The road was rather narrow here, and wound intricately through the forest for several miles, emerging into a broad plaza at the front entrance to the Zoo. This road was not much frequented at night, and I felt that I would have ample opportunity to express myself. I trembled inwardly. The time was very near. I must speak soon.

It was very quiet in the woods. At intervals we could hear distantly the roaring and howling of the animals in the Zoo. Ocasionally an elephant trumpeted, or a jaguar screamed. We were used to these sounds. But Alice was just a little frightened when there came a perfect babel of sounds from the enclosure. She drew closer to me, and I, relying on my skill, took my left hand from the steering bar and slipped it gently behind her, though I did not take the liberty of embracing her. [illegible] she looked up at me in alarm. "Suppose one of those terrible beasts should get out and come after us?" she asked timidly. I laughed at her fears. "Why it would be easy to run away with this machine," I said. "And anyhow, you don't suppose I would let anything harm a single hair of your, your—" I was going to say 'precious head,' but my mouth became suddenly dry and my heart made violent leaps. I was stage struck—love-frightened. I had a sort of buck-ague. I took courage and found my tongue. "Alice," I said gently, placing my disengaged hand on her own, "I want to tell you something that has—that has been—has been on my mind for——."

I think she understood what was coming, but I got no further. In the darkness, at the roadside, a huge black bulk loomed, like an enormous dog. A sudden terror shot through me. The machine swerved sharply, and I was compelled to use both hands to steady it. I turned up the speed a trifle, and then instinctively looked behind. A glance was enough. The bulk had moved out into the road and was directly behind us. What could it be? A dog! A——my heart sank. I thought of the chorus of unusual howls and roars heard shortly before. I looked back again. There was no doubt about it. behind us, loping easily with tail switching in grace, came a huge male lion. I recognized the great shaggy head. It had escaped from the Zoo, and was probably mad with fright from the attempts of the keepers to capture it.

A little faster, and still a little faster. I did not want to turn on full speed at once. Alice might understand. Probably we could slip away from the pursuer, and run into town without her knowing the risk. But as I turned my head a few hundred yards further I saw that my speed was of no avail. The lion was just as close as before, bounding like a giant cat, as easily and as quietly as a phantom.

But you can not keep a secret from a woman. Alice turned her eyes to the rear, then with a piercing shriek threw both arms around me and clutched me in a most delicious embrace, though I would willingly have foregone the occasion.



HE HAD MADE A PRODIGIOUS LEAP.

"Yes, my dear," I said quietly. "I know all about it. I think we can run away from him, though." I touched the speed lever again. This was the last notch. We were at our limit, with a good two miles ahead of us before any possibility of help. The machine was now running steadily, with a straight road for half a mile, and I let my left arm steal around Alice's waist and held her in a protecting clasp. I thought no more about love and soft declarations. I knew only that here was the sweetest girl in the world, in imminent danger of being torn to shreds by a ferocious lion, and that only a miracle, including steady hand and head on my part, would given even a ghost of a chance. I stole another glance behind. Not twenty yards separated us from that relentless, blood-thirsty, powerful animal. Alice had sunk in a heap on my lap. I leaned forward, hoping to reduce the wind pressure and add to our speed, and prayed to heaven for succor.

On and on we went. What if we should burst a tire or blow out a cylinder? The thought was heartrending. Even at our speed the lion was gaining. He was only ten yards behind. He had increased his speed with mine, making twenty feet at a leap. The uncanny part of it was that he did not make a sound, except now and then a low grumbling growl, as though resenting the trouble he was put to in obtaining a supper.

Far ahead I saw three lights set in the shape of a triangle. The top light was brilliant and threw its rays directly into my eyes. Thank God, an automobile, approaching from the opposite direction. I opened my mouth and made ready to shout. But what good would that be. The other machine would go whizzing by, and we would be no better off than before. Then I flinched and almost fell into the road, for right in the air behind me appeared the gleaming eyes, the foam-flecked jaws, the massive-clawed feet of the lion. He had made a prodigious leap, and had we been a trifle less swift would have landed on top of us. But we shot from under him, and as he descended one great paw swept over the seatback and wiped off half of the leather covering. God, those claws and their power. Another jump and we would be done for.

The automobile in front was now almost upon us. The deep-toned horn sounded a warning. At that instant I decided on a new course. We were approaching a road crossing. Taking the handle firmly I swerved sharp across the track, just grazing the big car in front, and darted down the side road. But I had miscalculated, or my hand was unsteady. The next moment we crashed into the bushes at the side of the road and came to a short stop in the midst of a dense clump of laurel. I crouched and awaited the descent of the lion. I could feel him in the air behind me. I waited with a prayer on my lips.

Instead I heard confusion out on the Wood Road. There were loud voices. The machine was at a stop, for I could see the lights through the trees. Alice was in a dead faint, and seeing that I could not help her at that moment and that the beast had disappeared I jumped out and ran to the roadside. There stood Fred Wilson's big touring car, with the front smashed in; there stood Fred and his three companions; and there, in the middle of the road, lay the lion. My plan was successful. Following us closely he had no time to dodge the heavy car. He met it head on. There could be only one result.

My runabout was not hurt, and after a time, with Alice beside me, recovered, though tremulous, we rode slowly home. The supper was abandoned. But in the quiet of Alice's dainty parlor, with no fear of pursuers or intruders, I went on with my interrupted story. And later, with both arms around her, and her dear face very close to mine, we planned our honeymoon.

Delightful—For the Guests.

There were many visitors that summer at his suburban home. He was a subordinate clerk drawing the large monthly stipend of a hundred dollars, but of course the guests were not cognizant of the extent of his income, nor did that question appear to enter their minds.

He was anxious to do everything in reason to make life in the country endurable to his wife who hated house-keeping under the best of circumstances, especially in the country, while the breath of fresh air and communion with nature were proving his salvation from exhaustive daily brain work, by which the current funds were supplied.

So he made these guests welcome in every way, giving up his room at times, changing his former easy habits, (but not his best clothes, as had been his wont when he reached home at evening) returning company calls and thereby neglecting necessary work on his place, et cetera. Of course there were many extra expenses. A drive now and then, extra servant hire, the greatly increased cost of the table, the milk bill, the butcher's bill, the bill for fuel and the general wastage , all of which would have been of small moment to a man with a large income, but were to him very disheartening as weeks passed by and the guests made no sign of departure.

But all things must come to an end, and as the cooler days and evenings of autumn arrived they said, "But indeed, we surely must return to the city. We have staid months where we expected to remain weeks."

And so they gave their host a formal handshake and a perfunctory good bye, while they kissed and embraced the hostess and to her said:

"Never have we been more charmingly entertained; you have done everything in your power to make this a summer long to be remembered."

And the poor clerk returned to his desk and work, the house resumed its normal condition, but as each pay day rolled around he added his debits and his credits, only to find that extra hundred dollars persistently remaining on the wrong side of the ledger.

Whether it is ample compensation for him to hear, when he occasionally meets one of his summer friends, of 'the charming hospitality shown by his wife," is known only to himself. Doubtless so, since husband and wife are one.

Uncomfortable English Hotels.

W. D. Howells, in Harper's.

With the aid of the two candles which I lighted I discovered the grate in the wall near the head of the bed, and on examining it closely I perceived that there was a fire in it. The grate would have held quite a double handful of coal if carefully put on; the fire which seemed to be flickering so feebly had yet the weary energy to draw all the warmth of the chamber up the chimney, and I stood shivering in the temperature of a subterranean dungeon. The place instantly gave evidence of being haunted, and the testimony of my nerves on this point was corroborated by the spectral play of the firelight on the ceiling when I blew out my candles. In the middle of the night I woke to the sense of something creeping with a rustling noise over the floor. I rejected the hypothesis of my bed curtain falling into place, though I remembered putting it back that I might have light to read myself drowsy. I knew at once that it was a ghost walking the night there, and walking hard. Suddenly it ceased, and I knew why. It had been frozen out.

Has Many Diseases.

In Bellevue Hospital, in New York, there is a man who should be the object of everyone's sympathy. His name is Job Keeley and his occupation is that of a painter. A short time ago he fell from a low scaffold and sustained such injuries as necessitated his being taken to the hospital for treatment. There the surgeon found that he had a slight fracture of the base of the skull. After a further examination it was found that he had tuberculosis of the lungs complicated with bronchitis. His occupation as a painter had given him painter's colic. He is not a young man and his age had hardened his arteries — arteriosclerosis — also "old man's eyes"—presbyopia—the opposite of nearsightedness; he also has water on the brain and his skin is puffed up by air which has escaped under it.

The oldest applejack distillery in the United States is at Warwick, N. J. The worm still in use was brought from England before the Revolutionary war.

QUEER DANISH SITUATION.

European and Diplomatic Gossip.

The late Lord Stanley, of Alderley, England, entertained absolutely fantastic hatred towards everything American. Some few years ago the American Society in London was holding its annual dinner on Independence Day, and invited Lord Stanley to the feast. His reply, typical of his dislike of everything American, was: "Lord Stanley presents his compliments to the secretary of the American Society, but can not conceive why he should have been asked to a banquet to celebrate an unatoned rebellion."

Countess Raben Levetzau, wife of the Danish Minister for Foreign Affairs, is American born, as is her mother, wife of the Danish Minister at Berlin. By the bye so much has been said about the personal popularity of King Christian of Denmark, that most people will probably be surprised to learn that for twenty years, until not many years ago, there has been a deadlock between the veteran monarch and the national legislature. The Liberals have continuously held a majority in the Folkething, the Danish House of Commons, but the King has insisted on choosing his cabinet ministers from the other party, the Conservatives.

KING CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK.

The representatives of the minority have conducted the routine business of the government, but whenever they have had to ask the Folkething for special funds, that body, which controls the official purse, has thwarted them. The royal residence in Copenhagen, the old palace of Christiansborg, was destroyed by fire in 1884, and the feeling between the Crown and the legislature had been so bitter that money had never been appropriated to restore it. For almost twenty years King Christian lived in comparatively small and shabby quarters at the Amalienborg palace until finally the long-standing dispute was ended by the King's recognition of the majority party.

It may not be surprising that the expatriated William Waldorf Astor should claim for the first American Astor—and inferentially, of course, for himself—an ancient and distinguished lineage. The distinguished ancestor to whom his descent is traced is Don Pedro d'Astorga, a Spanish grandee of the eleventh century, who settled in France, where his successors—a long line of signeurs and marquises—changed their name to Astorg. At the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, Jean Jacques d'Astorg, who was a Huguenot, fled across the Rhine; Johann Jacob Astor, the Waldorf butcher, was his grandson. This information will, no doubt, be of interest to American antiquarians. It is well known that John Jacob Astor came to this country an almost penniless immigrant, hailing from the village of Waldorf in Baden. His descendant of today speaks of him as a "peasant," but as a matter of fact he was the son of the village butcher, and began his career by working in his father's shop—a fact which it is not recorded that he ever sought to conceal.

King Leopold of Belgium has conferred upon Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin, vice-president and acting president of the Woman's Auxiliary Congress of the World's Columbian Exposition, the order of the Knighthood of Leopold. It is believed that Mrs. Henrotin is the only woman in this country who has received this decoration. She was at one time national president of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, and is prominent in society. She is the wife of Charles Henrotin, Belgian Consul in Chicago. The Order of Leopold was founded in 1832 by Leopold I; there are five classes.

In selecting a wife, Serge de Witte the great Russian statesman, chose a Jewess, one of the race which has been treated so cruelly in his country. Mme. de Witte was formerly the wife of a subordinate official, but she secured a divorce and has been very happy in her second marriage in spite of the fact that she has never been received at court. She also has been ignored by the leading society women of St. Petersburg, notwithstanding the high positions her husband has held.

Van Calava.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH.

(From the Automobile Advocate.)

Under the spreading chestnut trees the village smithy stands.
The smith, a lordly man is he, with vast and fertile lands.
No more his brawny back he bends beneath the horse's weight;
No more his ringing sledge he swings in giant strength elate.
No more his face is covered o'er with blazing forge's smut.
Nor beaded with his honest sweat, its channels there to cut.
Adown the street he sits at ease before the wayside inn,
And jingles in his broadcloth pants his stacks of easy tin.
For wise was he within his day and seized the chance that came,
By charging fourteen prices when the motor cars went lame.

Chinese the First Paper Makers.

The first real paper was made by the Chinese. The papyrus of the Greeks, Romans and Egyptians was not paper at all, but simply the piths of the stem of a plant cut into strips, placed side by side and across each other and pressed into a sheet.

COFFEE DOES HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY

LIES UNDER AND BUCKLES TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE
NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED
THE GEER SAFETY REIN
PAT. AUG. 28 1900

You Can Do It EVERY TIME With A GEER SAFETY REIN

PRICE, COMPLETE, $4.00
Expressage Prepaid

No more Smash-ups; No more Lives Lost; Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle;

WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.
Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to
THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
49 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK.
Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

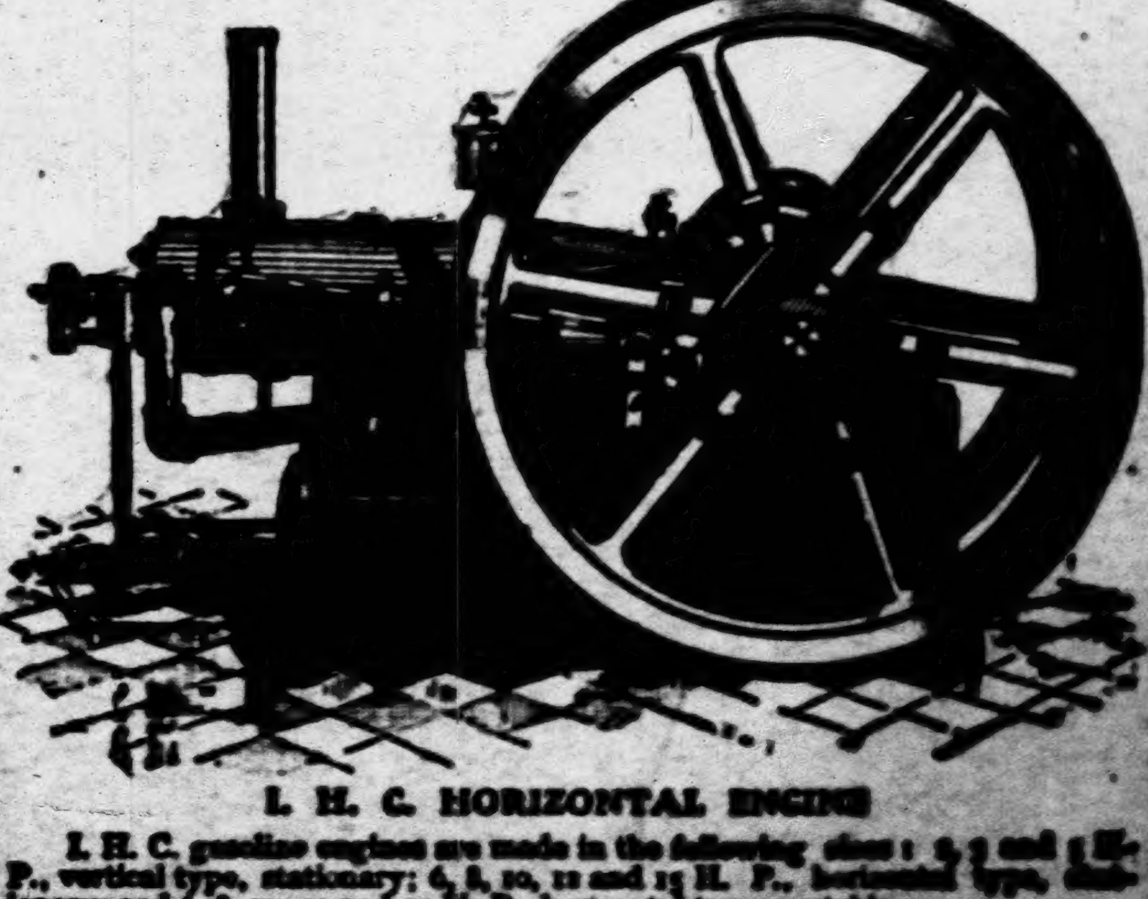
DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

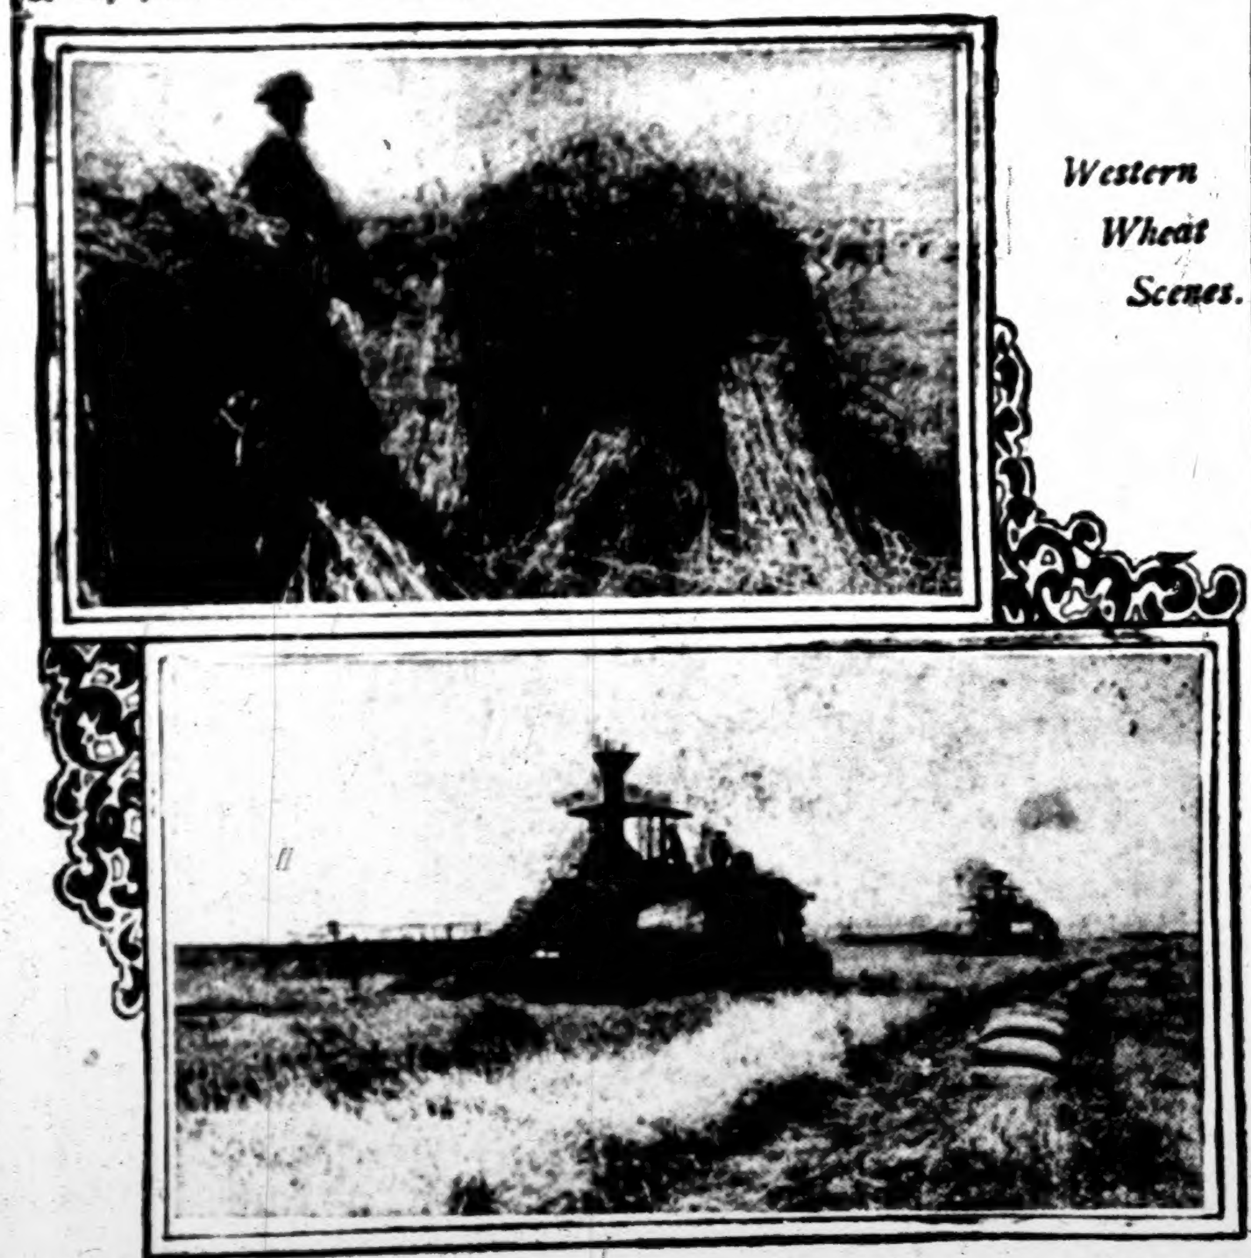
International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

A TALK WITH SECRETARY WILSON.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL

Secretary Wilson, as the official head of the great family of American farmers, views with some considerable satisfaction the abundant crops which have blessed almost every section of the country.

"The harvests have been heavy," he said, "and the farmers will make more money than in an average year. The prices on farm products will be lower, but the crops will bring the farmers, nevertheless, more money. Living should be cheaper, too. The hay and grain crops have been enormous—probably record breakers—and meat as a result should be more plentiful and cheaper. I say it should be. The producer and consumer are so far apart, and so much goes on in between these two principals that it is difficult to say just to what extent production affects the cost of actual consumption. A great deal goes to the middleman; too much, I believe. It is a long and devious pathway from the farmer to the man who eats the things which he has grown. I gave out a statement here the other day intimating that the local Washington dealers were charging in certain instances too much, and a dealer came at me with a wrathy assertion to the effect that I did not know what I was talking about and that he made a profit of only forty per cent.



Western Wheat Scenes.

Co-Operation in the South.

"I have been watching the South with a great deal of interest," continued the Secretary. "They have accomplished more in effecting an organization down there to bring the cotton producer and consumer together than has been attempted with any other of our great agricultural productions. The cotton crop is a big one this year, though not by any means a record breaker. The grass and hay crop is probably the biggest we have ever had; our corn crop is probably a record crop and our wheat crop is one of the very largest."

"That is the order of importance of these crops?"

"No, I should put cotton third in importance—grass, corn, cotton, wheat; though of course, our meat animals, taken as a whole, are more important than any one. Why, the poultry production alone is worth 400 million dollars a year—as great or greater than the value of the wheat crop. We will undoubtedly export some very fine hogs this year—choice corn fed hogs. Pork is our greatest meat export. A quarter of a billion dollars would hardly cover our animals exported this year. I fancy, probably amounting to two-thirds of the value of the entire wheat crop of the country.

No Longer Big Hog Eaters.

"The American people are no longer such great pork eaters, you know. We send our hogs abroad and are eating more mutton, veal and beef."

"The present condition and the future outlook for the American farmer is a good one then, Mr. Secretary?"

"Yes, things certainly look well, generally; yet I believe we are very near to a sort of agricultural crisis—hardly a crisis perhaps, but an important and radical change. The farm hands everywhere are leaving the farm for the factories. Wherever there is any manufacturing you will find this to be the case.

The farmer has pretty nearly reached his limit. He is doing about all he can do with his hands and with the most improved labor-saving farm machinery worked by good horses. This bad condition on the farm is going to affect production and prices, and that very shortly. It is impossible to say just what the effect will be, but a change is coming. The farmer must have labor, but with the prices of farm products as they are now, he can not meet the wages offered by the factories; therefore the farm hands are gradually shifting toward the centers—the towns and the cities."

Mr. Wilson Not a Theorist.

"I would like, Mr. Secretary, to have a message from you to the American farmer for the coming year."

"Oh, I can never discuss things in an academic way," remarked Mr. Wilson, with a smile. "You will have to refer to some of our bulletins."

"SOME PUMPKINS."

"Well, I mean a few words of personal advice to the farmer, to an individual American farmer regarding his work for next year."

"No, I can not do anything with these hypothetical cases of higher farm education."

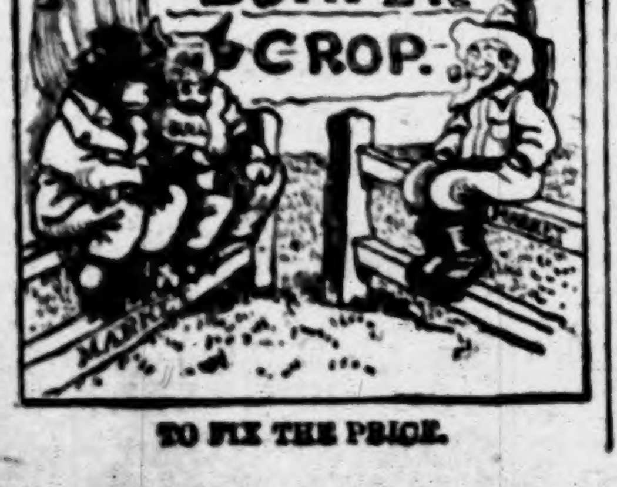
"Well, then, what should a man do with the manure which accumulates on his farm?"

"He should put it on his land," replied the Secretary, now thoroughly at home; he should take it out on the land at once and not let it accumulate; haul it out and spread it on as fast as it is made. The ground will get the good of it."

"Won't the ammonia evaporate and the fertility be lost to the soil?"

"No, it has been demonstrated by careful experiments that the hauling out of manure is the best method. It will go down into the grass roots. It will not lose the ammonia because ammonia is produced by bacteria and these bacteria flourish only under three conditions, moisture, heat and oxygen. There are three classes of bacteria which must operate upon manure before it is available for plant food. The ammonia bacteria attacks it first; it is then converted by other bacteria into nitrites, and, lastly, by still other bacteria, into nitrate, when the roots of the plant can then take it up as food.

WAY DOWN SOUTH IN DIXIE LAND.



TO FIX THE PRICE.

THE KITCHEN GARDEN.

More Than Two Thirds of the Living of a Family Can Be Raised.

If the farmer's wife could induce her liege lord to contribute the same care, patience and labor next spring to the kitchen garden which his grandfather did during his day, there would be perhaps a considerable gain in the household's economy as well as much satisfaction developed for the housewife. The old folks insist that even with the greatly increased variety and excellence in fruits and vegetables, due to many plant generations of selection and breeding by the seedsmen and scientists, the kitchen garden on an average is not so well planted or tended, has less variety, and on the whole is much inferior to the same institution in the "good old days" when grandfather was a boy.

SECRETARY WILSON AND GROUP OF CHIEFS, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE GROUNDS AT TIME OF COMMENCEMENT OF WORK ON NEW BUILDING.

It is an oft repeated argument, in every farm journal that more attention should be given to the garden; that fully two-thirds of the living for the farmer's family, however large, can be produced from a good garden, and that with thoroughly rich soil, good seed, a well planned rotation of garden crops and a medium amount of hard work—a good wheel hoe will reduce this last expense—a very small area will produce a very large amount. Not only should the table be supplied from spring to late fall, but large stocks of staples should be saved for winter use. Of course, every farmer stores in his cellar potatoes, turnips, pumpkins and other coarse crops, but there are many others equally good and almost as easily cured and kept which no longer contribute to the winter's table and have been supplanted by cheap canned goods, in the long run expensive and usually very inferior.

These Are Not Typical.

Limas for Drying; Pick Them Green.

Take, for instance, lima beans. If these are picked and shelled when green—the same as though for immediate table use—and then dried in the sun, they will constitute through the winter a delicious and wholesome dish almost equal to the fresh bean. The same applies to green corn, which our grandfathers will tell us was a staple winter produce, also easily dried in the sun, having been cut from the boiled cob at "roasting ear" stage. And, among others, okra or gumbo makes equally as good soup in winter as when fresh in summer.

When it comes to canning and preserving, there is little real comparison between the home canned product and bought goods. It time is considered as money, canned tomatoes can be bought probably cheaper than they can be grown and canned at home. But how about the results? If the farmer's wife should go through the ordinary canning establishment she would probably conclude to do every speck of her own canning hereafter and avoid setting on her table sour green fruit, artificially colored and sweetened with coal tar products.

With the supposed degeneration of the individual farm garden, it is interesting to note that the professional market garden, as an industry, has tremendously increased.

The farm gardens, "market gardens" and truck gardens" of today are the producers of a multitude of "miscellaneous vegetables" almost unknown fifty years ago. In the census of 1890 the large increase in garden products was recognized, and a systematic count of their bulk and value was made. It is possible, therefore, to make a ten-year comparison of the increase of such products, and this records the remarkable increases from 190 per cent to 400 per cent in the five several divisions of the country. The North Atlantic States had a well developed industry in "garden products" before 1890, which accounts for the relatively low increase. However, 190 per cent in 10 years, while the population increased only a trifle over 20 per cent., is amazing.

When Tomatoes Were Believed Poisonous.

Could our great-granddaddies, who thought tomatoes poisonous, and our great-grandmothers, who grew them as ornamental plants in window pots, under the attractive name of "love apples," come back and realize that over thirty million bushels of the pretty poisonous vegetables, according to a statement in Harper's Weekly, are eaten as a common and healthful food, they would surely realize that time works wonderful changes.

Haying and Cattle Scenes.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH
In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to
The Strong Old Hickory
MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP
is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.
James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS
We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines
Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS
The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes for Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.
Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery
Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.
Every Variety of Standard Fruit
Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.
THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY
A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS
Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.
MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February first Monday in April, first Monday in June second Monday in July second Monday in August and first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day [illegible]
" same date last [illegible]

No. Bales received to date
Plackard & [illegible]
W. L. Mullins
W. K[illegible] & B[illegible]
J. C. Jones [illegible] 1018
Cannon & Sons
Other Firms

Total

The above figures [illegible] the several [illegible] evening five [illegible]

JERSEY BULL [illegible] —Rosedale Letitia [illegible] sired by Ida's Lad [illegible] T. Hinkle, Clanton [illegible]

LOST, a purse containing [illegible] of money, finder [illegible] will be rewarded [illegible] The Banner office.

Mr D. V. Wagoner and family who have been spending [illegible] their old home at Jum[illegible] have returned to their home in Texas.

Mrs E. T. Gu[illegible] of A[illegible] is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr J. O Johnson of Woody[illegible] Ala., is spending a few days [illegible] home.

Judge Reynolds attended court at Prattville Wednesday.

Mr. E. H. Mims attended the circus at Montgomery Wednesday

Mr. Emmett Davis of Birmingham spent a day or two here the past week

Mrs. Gamma Anderson spent a few days in Birmingham last week

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Mrs. Stabler and Miss L[illegible] Parnell of Thorsby were pleasant visitors here Wednesday

Miss Foster of Verbena visited Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs Gamma Anderson and Miss Mollie Hannon visited Thorsby Monday

Miss Alice Strock of Verbena was a visitor here the past week

Mrs E. G. Hyman visited Jemison Sunday.

Dr Matthews and daughter, Miss Marion, and Miss Nellie Mu[illegible] visited Thorsby Sunday

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Miss Minnie Muse is selling her fall and winter millinery at the most reasonable prices. Don't fail to call and see her while in Clanton

Mr. J. M. Thornton, representing the Immigration and Industrial Association of Alabama, was a visitor here last week. He will be glad to make an appointment and speak to the people of Chilton on "Good Roads"

There was a big crowd in town Tuesday to see Cole & Rogers show

An advt. in the Banner can be depended upon to reach the people of Chilton county

A Cough Syrup which drives the cold out of the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels is offered in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the throat, strengthens the lungs and bronchial tubes. It is the mother's friend and the children's favorite. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mr. Tom Tyus returned from his Kansas trip Tuesday, bringing with him 27 mules, one mare, and a pair of horses.

Mr. J. M. Potts returned home Wednesday morning after an enjoyable trip to Texas and Indian Territory.

Mrs. Cora Browning of Birmingham is visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs. O. R. Bell

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons

Mr. Eli Jones and Miss Al[illegible] Jones; Mr. Joe Horton and Miss Josie Busby; Mr. W. A. Cox and Miss L. J. Jones; Mr. C. W. Sc[illegible] and Miss Leila Langston.

Every ounce of food you eat that fails to digest does a pound of harm. It turns the entire meal into poison. This not onl deprives the blood of the necessary tissue-building material, but it poisions it. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant. It digests the food regardless of the condition of the stomach. It allows that organ to rest and get strong again. Relieves Belching, Heart Burn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

AGONS APPROACH
ity Under all Conditions to
Old Hickory

UFACTURED BY
on Manufacturing Co.
SVILLE, KY.
F FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service

proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hol Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes for wheel Self-feed Attachment increases c acity, lessens labor, makes better ba and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to co tain the description of exactly what you w
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

oula Nursery

wn acclimated trees and the best g in Northern States.
of Standard Fruit
Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
nall Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
s and Roses.

RING STRAWBERRY

ECIALTY OF
ANTS AND SHRUBS
Designs. Also Vegetable Plants
Catalogue and Price List Free.
ave prompt attention.
NURSERY CO.
ULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February, first Monday in April, first Monday in June, second Monday in July, second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day......10¾ @ 10⅞c
" same date last year 8½c.

No. Bales received to date	1905	1904
Pinckard & Co.	2772	278
W. L. Mullins	1768	1708
W. K[illegible] & Bro	421
J. C. Jones	1018	69
Cannon & Sons	357
Other Firms		436
Total	6316	562

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening five o'clock.

JERSEY BULL CALF for sale—Rosedale Letitia has bull calf sired by Ida's Lad. Apply to P. T. HINKLE, Clanton, Ala.

LOST, a purse containing a sum of money, trunk checks, etc. Finder will be rewarded on returning to THE BANNER office.

Mr. D. V. Wagoner and family, who have been spending a year at their old home at Jumbo, have returned to their home in Texas.

Mrs. E. T. Gullahorn of Atlanta is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr. J. O. Johnson of Woodyard, Ala., is spending a few days at home.

Judge Reynolds attended court at Prattville Wednesday.

Mr. E. H. Mims attended the circus at Montgomery Wednesday.

Mr. Emmett Davis of Birmingham spent a day or two here the past week.

Mrs. Gamma Anderson spent a few days in Birmingham last week.

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Mrs. Stabler and Miss Lillie Parnell of Thorsby were pleasant visitors here Wednesday.

Miss Foster of Verbena visited Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Gamma Anderson and Miss Mollie Hannon visited Thorsby Monday.

Miss Alice Strock of Verbena was a visitor here the past week.

Mrs. E. G. Hyman visited Jemison Sunday.

Dr. Matthews ann daughter, Miss Marion, and Miss Nellie Mullins visited Thorsby Sunday.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Miss Minnie Muse is selling her fall and winter millinery at the most reasonable prices. Don't fail to call and see her while in Clanton.

Mr. J. M. Thornton, representing the Immigration and Industrial Association of Alabama, was a visitor here last week. He will be glad to make an appointment and speak to the people of Chilton on "Good Roads."

There was a big crowd in town Tuesday to see Cole & Rogers show. An advt. in the Banner can be depended upon to reach the people of Chilton county.

A Cough Syrup which drives a cold out of the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels is offered in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the throat, strengthens the lungs and bronchial tubes. The mother's friend and the children's favorite. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mr. Tom Tyus returned from his Kansas trip Tuesday, bringing with him 27 mules, one mare, and a pair of horses.

Mr. J. M. Potts returned home Wednesday morning after an enjoyable trip to Texas and Indian Territory.

Mrs. Cora Browning of Birmingham is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Bell.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. Eli Jones and Miss Allie Jones; Mr. Joe Horton and Miss Josie Busby; Mr. W. A. Cox and Miss L. J. Jones; Mr. C. W. Scott and Miss Leila Langston.

Every ounce of food you eat that fails to digest does a pound of harm. It turns the entire meal into poison. This not only deprives the blood of the necessary tissue-building material, but it poisions it. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant. It digests the food regardless of the condition of the stomach. It allows that organ to rest and get strong again. Relieves Belching, Heart Burn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Vinol
THE COD LIVER PREPARATION WITHOUT OIL

Vinol is fast superseding old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions because, without a drop of oil or disagreeable feature, it contains all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers. By our process the oil, having no value either as a medicine or food, is separated from the medicinal elements and thrown away. Unlike old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, Vinol is deliciously palatable, agreeable to the weakest stomach, and therefore unequaled as a body builder and strength creator for old people, puny children, weak, run-down men and women, after sickness, and for all pulmonary diseases. Everything Vinol contains is named on the label.

OUR GUARANTEE—We have such faith in VINOL that if you will take it we promise if it does not benefit or cure you we will return you your money without question. We take all the risk.

UPCHURCH DRUG CO.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled. Drop in and let us show you through. We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Store will be closed Thursday, Nov. 30th, 1905, account "Thanksgiving."

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.
Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Second Round.

			1905
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12m	Beat	2	Nov	17
Mrs Cofers Gin, 2 to 4 pm	"	1	"	17
Jemison	"	2	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11	"	22
Providence	"	10	"	23
Burwell	"	10	"	24
Thorsby	"	9	"	27
Clanton	"	4	"	28
Cooper	"	10	"	29
Verbena	"	5	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill		4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE.

All interested in the Southern Cotton Association are requested to meet at the school house at Maplesville on the 25th day of November at 2 o'clock p.m. All who live in the Maplesville school district are requested to attend. Respt.,

J. D. DEASON.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

NOTICE!

Dr. C. L. WOODFIN
THE BOTANIC SPECIALIST
will be in
CLANTON, ALA.
every Saturday for the purpose of treating
Cancer, Catarrh, Wens; Tumors; Goiters and Ulcers and all other Cutaneous Troubles.

If anyone should doubt my ability to cure the above diseases, I can furnish references here in Chilton county.

P. S. When in need of my services call on me or write me at Clanton, Ala. C. L. WOODFIN.

EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

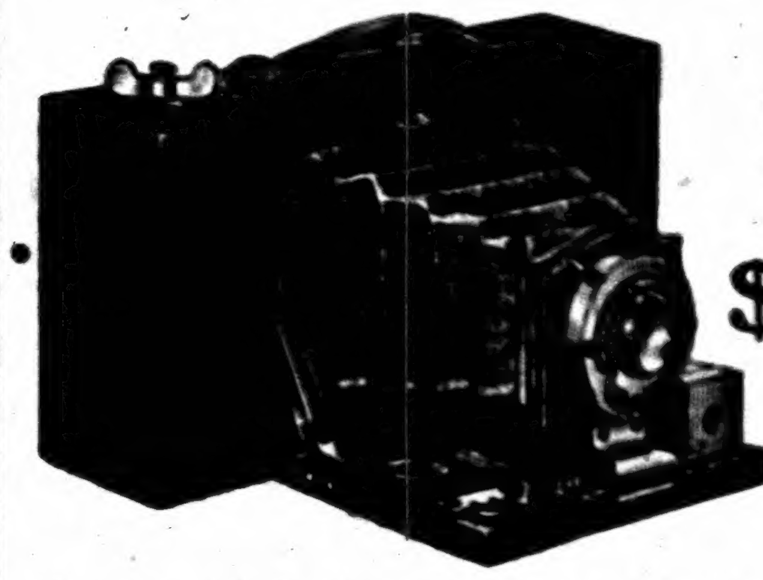
Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.
Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie

Price, $5.00



A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and othe

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTT
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS
CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN
CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism," writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a good deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

CUNNINGHAM AND COMER IN DEBATE

First Contest Is Held at Russellville

(continued from 4th page)

LEGISLATURE HAS THE POWER.

ARE PROTECTED BY LAW.

"All this talk by the railways that what we intend to do is dangerous is the veriest nonsense," continued Mr. Comer. "The railways are protected by law. I'm trying to get a law made rate—an equalized rate, a rate that will be lawfully fixed and lawfully enforced."

He took up the question of taxation.

"The railways tax the people at maximum and are taxed by the people at a minimum," said he. "The Atlantic Coast Line when being taxed valued their property at only $7 774 00 a mile, when they taxed the people they valued it at $39,217 00.

"The Frisco in the first case valued their property at only $5,700.00 a mile and in the second case at $45 000.00 a mile.

"The Louisville and Nashville when taxed themselves valued their property at only $7000 a mile, and when they taxed the people they put it up to $53,000 a mile."

"The Southern in the first case handed in a valuation of $7570 a mile and in the second case $61,000.

"And all these roads swore that both these valuations were correct.

"I did my best, my very best for you to get the Georgia rate. Under our constitution the legislature can make a rate but can't delegate the power to make a rate. If you have a commission all of whose members favor the people you will still be powerless. The railroads will then contend that while the legislature has the power to make a rate it hasn't got the right to delegate the rate making power to the commission. And the railways will get out an injunction restraining the commission from making a rate. If the courts sustain us the railways will get out another injunction on the ground that railroad have a legal right to earn a reasonable return on the valuation of their property. These two injunctions will prolong the settlement of the question interminably in the courts. As a railroad commissioner, and I say it in all candor, I can be of no use to you. If I'm of any use it's because of my knowledge of this subject and my sincerity. Let's take the railways at their word, elect a legislature that will fix a rate and State officers who will co-operate in enforcing it.

"This is a progressive fight. I haven't gone but one single inch. And when anybody tells you that I ought to stay on the railroad commission they use the railroad's argument.

Any man who makes that statement is not a friend of this movement. Governor Cunningham and I are good friends. We've fished together. He's a genial gentleman. I have said he was sincere; his platform was a good platform, as sound as a dollar, but in his Union Springs speech Dr. Cunningham said that he was one of those who believed that the governor should be governor and not attempt to be legislature; judiciary and governor too. That statement interpreted in connection with Dr. Cunningham's environments makes him unfit for the office when this issue is at the front. It betrays the weakness of his position.

IS AFTER BIG GAME.

If you don't get the legislature my friends you lose this fight. If you, "turning to Dr. Cunningham," don't believe we need the legislature you don't know my dear man what you are talking about. It would be a farce, a folly, a fraud.

"If you don't mean to elect a legislature and a state government along this line leave me out. It would be a great thing to be your governor, but its a bigger thing to knock out the railway cabal. I am after big game, not empty honors.

"Governor Cunningham stated in his Union Springs speech that he broke loose from his political friends and cast a deciding vote for an elective railroad commission when it was a tie in the senate. He said that when he referred the proposed statute establishing the elective commission with power he also broke loose from his political friends and referred it to a friendly committee. He also stated that he opposed a continuance of Colonel Saunders and Colonel Tunstall for two years when the question was up with the house and senate breaking loose in all these matters from his environments and his political friends. Is he not lined up with those same political friends today, the ones who opposed this measure in every step of its progress?

Is it possible for him to take this platform from the hands of its friends and carry it over to the house of the enemy and put it through? If he was ever so sincere and ever so big and ever so in love with it would it be possible for him to get it through depending upon its success as he would have to depend in the largest measure upon those who have forever opposed it? Has he at any time shown the disposition to fight this measure through for the good of the people. Did he not ignore it when the committee of citizens who had charge of the measure looking towards an elective railroad commission with power and while he was running for lieutenant-governor propounded to him through the press and inquiry as to how he stood, whether or not he was in favor of this elective commission with power? Did he not ignore this request and fail to answer, fail to give any help whatever and did he not allign himself with those who were opposed to and were fighting the measure? After the meeting of the legislature in which he was a great help to it and when the fight was before the people as to a commissioner elected on a line with that law and to carry out its purposes and, when the railroads were fighting it to the bitter end did he take any part or parcel in that fight either by letter, look or word? Was he not in a distant land and did he not escape the issue which he now professes to love?

"Governor Cunningham says that his environment has been with the people, that he has felt their pulse at their bedside while I have been in the counting house. The reverse of this is true. Dr. Cunningham's environment has been that of doctor of convicts in the employ of the State and in the employ of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, and last as a possessor of a hospital, having the entire patronage of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, which is worth to him, I understand, some $10,000 or $15,000 a year.

DOES NOT KNOW ANYTHING.

"When you take him away from that enviroment he is as a babe in the woods. He does not know anything about the farming interest. He has not been on a farm since he was a boy. He does not know anything about the manufacturing business. He does not know anything about the general merchandise business. He has never come in contact with any of the avocations of the state except that of materia medica, and his assumption that his life work will give him better or higher insight into the great political economies of the state than mine will give me is contrary to every practice and to every fact of what it takes to make a man who sympathizes with the people or to administer the state government.

"From his own statement he has no preparation whatever to lead this issue. He has no conception of the needs of the shippers of the state, no matter of what character they may be. He knows nothing about the freight rates of the state, never having come in contact with them. He has never studied them, never debated them and when the great question as to how he stood on the elective commission was propounded to him in an open letter before his election and while a candidate for lieutenant governor, he failed to answer and has not answered yet. And when those great questions were being agitated two and a half years ago and debated throug every paper and condition of the state he was not here fighting the people's cause, he was in Europe. He does not know anything about the hardships or the way this great issue has been brought to this advanced stage of success, and for him to come in at this late date and take it as his own and gather it to his breast and try to run away with it is the assumption of a politician and not an act of a statesman.

"The question now is not only that of a railroad commission with power to make a rate. It is even confined to a freight rate. It is much broader, wider, more comprehensive. It is liberty; the control of the state by the people of the state; the striking loose of the foreign master from the very heart of the State; it is the freedom of our State house from railroad rule and railroad domination.

"I urge upon you the election of the other State officers and legislature first, so that the whole State government as one united resistless power can drive these mighty corporations from the control of the State, cutting them loose from the vitals of the State and installing instead of their government the people's government, and making the State a government of equal rights to all and special favors to none and a square deal to every man.

IS DANGER AND MENACE.

"Will Governor Cunningham lead you in urging the vital necessity of this proposition? If he will not then gentlemen his name in your ballot is a danger and a menace. State government—half railroad and half people—with the railroads vising ever law that effects them is a failure.

"Mr. Lincoln said that the nation could not be half slave and half free, and he was right. Neither can a people—it is dangerous for everybody of the State and surely must be thrown off at every hazard. Either we have got to go under the straight domination of the railroads or the people must be masters of their own State. This is not dangerous. This is safety to every interest including that of railroads. At the last election I was running for president of the railroad commission on the general platform of the lower freight rate, the prompt settlement of claims and equitable car service rules. Yet on this great issue which was fair and right, on the very face and in the heart of it the railroads fought it to the bitter end and used, it is said, something like $500,000, taxed from the people to carry debauchery into every part of our electorate trying to buy the people, coercing the people to vote against themselves and their own interests.

"You Alabamians rose as practically one man and resented and hurled back this inglorious proposition. Your conduct, my fellow-citizens, stands to your eternal glory."

"Two years ago when I was going through the State making speeches on this great question to give the people the freight rate comparison, showing the great discrimination against the State and the people, Governor Cunningham was in Europe studying, not freight rates, not remedial legislation, not how to drive this great foreign boss from out of our State house, but was studying medicine, studying how to give convicts pills, and now he comes back at this late day never having participated in a single fight for it, never making a speech for it and poses as a champion for this the greatest fight the people have had since 1874 when they drove the negro out of our politics and made it a white man's government. And gentlemen, those of you who made that fight and the sons of those who made it we appeal to you today to rise as one man and make this a free man's movement.

IS ISSUE, NOT THE MAN

"It is not Governor Cunningham nor Comer that you are voting for. It is the issue behind Cunningham and Comer that involves your liberties. I am pleading to you today as a jury; not as a jury sitting on my case, but on your own cese as your decision in this great crisis which is now on us will effect your future weal or woe. It is of small moment whether a man named Comer shall be governor or not. It is less to him personally than you can think but it is of the utmost importance to you all that this great principal for which we stand should win the control of the State by the State by the people of the State. That every man should have a square deal it is of the supremest importance and of lasting benefit.

"Your last victory has brought you up to the banks of the river Jordan. There have been spies sent through the land ahead of you. Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Texas, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia all report that the country is great and the way is open. Will you go over and possess it or will you be scared by the story of snakes, hobgoblins and thoughts originated by men paid to so figure and be turned back into the districts of serfdom until a new generation arises to take possession of the land that their fathers abandoned to a foreign tax master?"

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

Mediterranean moths have closed two Minneapolis flour mills.

Vegetarianism is becoming a cult among the British aristocracy.

The British Peace Society is protesting against the formation of rifle clubs.

A convention of pipe smokers was held in Belgium to combat the abuse of tobacco.

Missionaries of the American Methodist Church now speak no fewer than thirty-seven languages.

Cross-aisle seats in trolley cars are now demanded by the laws of some cities, notably Chicago.

According to the latest figures from the registrar there are now 4961 students at Columbia and Barnard.

People still speak and write of the "Romanovs," and there has not been a Romanov in Russia for 143 years.

The Swiss village of Zofingen, in the Canton of Aargau, was decorated with flags recently in honor of a hen which had laid her thousandth egg.

Armed brigands opened a fusillade of rifle shots on a train that refused to halt at their summons, near Alora, in the province of Malaga, Spain.

The Kaiser has decided to ornament the terrace of the Lustgarten side of his schloss by the erection of four statues of the house of Orange.

At the conference of naphtha producers at St. Petersburg, the loss of property at Baku durig the recent revolution was estimated at $22,000,000.

There never was a war without graft. Even the patriotic Japanese are learning that.

THE MAN FOR ME.

Th' man what gains th' most in life ain't nary ways th' one
'At's allus frettin' 'bout his job an'
  wishin' things was done;
He works away 'ith cheerful heart an'
  does his honest best,
An' allus keeps a-laffin' and a-jokin' of th'
  rest.

If trubble comes, why, he don't set an'
  grieve until he's sick;
He up an' gets to work, an' so th' worst is over quick.
An' when you tell him, friendly, 'at you're sorry 'at he's down,
He sorter smiles an' says 'at he's the luckiest man in town.

An' 'en he tells you what he's got 'stead
  of what he ain't;
I tell you he's th' man for me—a kinder common saint,
'At ever'body likes becuz he's never glum
  nor blue,
Th' honestest an' cheerfulest—an' true man through an' through.

—Grace G. Bostwick, in Lippincott's.

Jingles and Jests

It takes two to make a bargain, but one can break it.—Philadelphia Record.

"It's so hard for a man to work after he's been in jail." "Unless he's a chauffeur."—Puck.

Upgardson—"You were in a railway car once when it was telescoped. What was the sensation?" Atom—"It made me see stars."

Dressmaker—"And would you have leg of mutton sleeves, madam?" Customer—"Most certainly not. I am a vegetarian!"—Punch.

"Did you ever see such an ostentatious display of wealth?" "Never! One would think they were really rich."—Brooklyn Life.

As to our various oars we pull,
  We surely must allow
The sea of life is rather full
  Of torrid waves just now.

Madam—"Be sure to put plenty of nuts in the cake." Cook—"I'll crack no more nuts to-day. My jaw hurts me already."—Harper's Bazar.

Little Clarence—"Pa, what is an optimist?" Mr. Callipers—"An optimist, my son, is a person who doesn't care what happens if it doesn't happen to him."

"I am always carried away by that song," he said, as she arose from the piano. "So you told me once before," she rejoined. "That's why I sang it."—Chicago Daily News.

New York Man—"Why do you call Boston 'the Hub?'" San Francisco Man—"Because the swiftest part of the country is the furtherest from it, I guess."—Cleveland Leader.

"Could you help a poor unfortunate person, sir?" asked the blind man. "Surething!" answered Chugger. "How would $30 a week strike you for acting as my chauffeur?"—Detroit Tribune.

Oh, come into the garden, Maude,
  For the black bat, night, has flown;
Come down and see the damage, Maude,
  The neighbors' hens have done.

"What authority have you for the statement that Shakespeare is immortal?" "The fact that he still survives after having been murdered by bum actors for 300 years."—Cleveland Leader.

"Your hair is coming out on top, sir," said the barber. "Good!" exclaimed Peppery. "I knew it was in me. Now, for goodness sake, don't talk to it or it will crawl back again."—Philadelphia Press.

"Yes, the walls of our flat are so thin that my husband and I learned the deaf and dumb alphabet." "What for?" "So we could do our quarreling without being overheard."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"So glad you finally managed to visit us," said Mrs. Blugore of Virginia. "First of all, come right into the picture gallery; I want to show you my old masters——" "My lands!" exclaimed Mrs. Dubley of Chicago. "I didn't know you was ever a slave."—Philadelphia Press.

One Cause of Poverty.

A Philadelphian was praising the late Mary Mapes Dodge.

"Wise woman as she was," he said, "Mrs. Dodge considered organized charity rather cold. She believed in the charity spirit, which, she said, was best fostered by the direct, personal contact of recipient and giver.

"Hence she never refused a beggar. And, defending herself from my attacks one day, she narrated a conversation that she once overheard between two Maryland tramps, or 'peach plucks.'

"These peach plucks, as they lay under a tree on a superb afternoon, philosophized.

"'Bill,' said the first, 'why is it that poor people is always willin' to help us, while rich folks always turns us down?'

"The other, with a mirthless laugh, replied:

"'Them that don't mind givin' things away is the ones that stays poor.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Queer Case of Friendship.

Friendship and possibly affection have sprung up between a cat and a large wild raccoon at Avery's logging camp, in Thurston County, Wash.

One morning recently the camp cook heard the cat mewing at the open kitchen door and purring in an inviting way. Investigation showed the coon with his front feet on the doorstep in apparent indecision as to whether freedom was worth giving up for his new partner. Every day since the coon has come to the cook's tent to play with the cat, and present indications are that he will soon become entirely domesticated.

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience

Miss Luella Adams

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhœa, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the trouble will make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women. Miss Luella Adams, of the Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor on the womb and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I spent hundreds of dollars for medical help, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I corresponded with an aunt in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Secret of Life.

There is good authority for the statement that at various times Herbert Spencer, Charles Darwin, Thomas H. Huxley and Louis Pasteur were convinced that they had discovered the secret of life, but repeated tests, in which antecedent life was more carefully excluded, showed in every instance that they had been mistaken.

The captain of the Oteri, who refused to aid the Government yacht Sylph when the latter vessel was in danger of floundering, lost his license and his career is ended in disgrace—as it should be. Fortunately there are few captains afloat like the former master of the Oteri, and what few there are have not yet been found out. His crime was most unusual, for those who do business on the great deep recognise the constant peril of the seas and help one another as a matter of course, every man knowing that it may be his turn tomorrow to ask for help. The captain of the Oteri ought to be thankful that he escaped the penalty inflicted upon "Old Floyd Ireson," who, charged with a similar crime, was "tarred and feathered and carried in a cart by the women of Marblehead."

Forest Gate, England, has a 3-year-old swimming champion. She is the daughter of the matron of some public baths, and can swim the length of the tank, eighty feet.

PASSING OF PORRIDGE.

Makes Way For the Better Food of a Better Day.

"Porridge is no longer used for breakfast in my home," writes a loyal Briton from Huntsville, Ont. This was an admission of no small significance to one "brought up" on the time-honored stand-by.

"One month ago," she continues, "I bought a package of Grape-Nuts food for my husband, who had been an invalid for over a year. He had passed through a severe attack of pneumonia and la grippe combined, and was left in a very bad condition when they passed away.

"I tried everything for his benefit, but nothing seemed to do him any good. Month followed month and he still remained as weak as ever. I was almost discouraged about him when I got the Grape-Nuts, but the result has compensated me for my anxiety.

"In the one month that he has eaten Grape-Nuts he has gained 10 pounds in weight, his strength is rapidly returning to him, and he feels like a new man. Now we all eat Grape-Nuts food and are the better for it. Our little 5-year-old boy, who used to suffer from pains in the stomach after eating the old-fashioned porridge, has no more trouble since he began to use Grape-Nuts, and I have no more doctor's bills to pay for him.

"We use Grape-Nuts with only sweet cream, and find it the most tasty dish in our bill of fare.

"Last Monday I ate 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast, nothing else, then set to work and got my morning's work done by 9 o'clock, and felt less tired, much stronger, than if I had made my breakfast on meat, potatoes, etc., as I used to. I wouldn't be without Grape-Nuts in the house for any money." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

Read the little book "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs

ITCHING SCALP HU

Lady Suffered Torture [illegible]
Cuticura [illegible]

"My scalp was covered w[illegible]
ple and I suffered tortures from the ing. I was scratching all day and and I could get no rest. I head with hot water and Cuticu and then applied the Cuticura O
a dressing. One box of the ointm one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me my head is entirely clear and my growing splendidly. I have used C
Soap ever since and shall never be w
it. (Signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Gr
Jersey City, N. J."

It is one of the paradoxes of and one of the most consoling the line between enlightened s ness and altruism is in the ma aginary, avers Collier's Weekly.
piness for one's self comes least it is sought to the detriment of
ers. The mind which is spending a life not entirely vain is likely to feel a deeper faction than the one which calc narrowly its possibilities of pl or advantage. A youth of our quaintance, talking to a wom experience, explained that he abandoning journalism because had got out of it all that it h
him. "Oh," she replied quietly you have been doing the wr what you can get out of it an for what you can put into it was a rebuke which he did no get, and yet in that young man's as in the majority of others, was put in where most was take
It was really because he had to be able to add anything what he contributed, that he fe his work was giving nothing him.

"Mop" Fair.

Dating from mediaeval time annual Stratford-on-Avon "Mop took place recently and eight and twelve pigs were roasted fires in the streets in the pres a record gathering from all p
the Midlands.

Valenciennes lace is still m
Flanders, but this valuable has entirely died out in the whose name it bears.

WASTED TO A SHADOW

But Found a Cure After Fifteen of Suffering.

A. H. Stotts, messenger
State Capitol, Columbus, O., says

"For fifteen
I had kidney
bles, and th
doctored fa could not cure. I had backaches,
headaches an ble urinary ders. One collapsed, f sensible on t walk, and wasted away in bed for ten
After being given up, I bega
Doan's Kidney Pills. In a c months I regained my old and now weigh 188 pounds boxes did it, and I have be two years."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cent
Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,

How to Catch Crows.

In order to catch crows, w
so much damage to the growin Italian farmers have taken to small pieces of meat in conic paper bags, and smearing th of these bags with glue. W bird puts his head in and fi self blind-folded he flies up an immense height, but falls starting place.

Car Load of Ants.

The Clyde Steamship
brought a car load of ants few days ago from New Yo ants were of a peculiar varie in Central America, and sa destructive of the boll we great enemy of the cotto pla insects were shipped in gla properly encased.

Composition of Meersch

Meerschaum, the compo which is silica, magnesia and often found along the Ge shore, and the pure white supposed by the superstition to be petrified sea foam, from takes its name. The Turks
a substitute for soap.

What will be the largest
the world is being made
It will cover 63,000 square will serve as the "ground" sports in the Olympia, Lo cost will be $25,000.

The Strand Theater, Lo
been bought by the Great Piccadilly and Brompton Ra which intends to use the "tube" station. In London ground railroads have to stations and entrance and

To each shipping compa
adopts the refrigerating s guarantees to make the v
Beunos Ayres to Lisbon fifteen and a half days, the government will pay a sidy of $2,000.

The first verse of the Psalm is called the "neck
the reason that in former t condemned to death
chance to save his life
that he could read, and was used as a test.

CATARRH
OF EAD
ROAT
NGS
MACH
KIDNEYS
BLADDER
FEMALE ORGANS
PERUNA
THE GREAT TONIC
HALF ACTUAL SIZE.

Colonel Arthur L. Hamilton, of the 7th Ohio Volunteers, [illegible]
[illegible]dale street, Columbus, O., writes: "As a remedy for catarrh and stomach trouble I can fully recommend Peruna."
Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the gallant Colonel, is an ardent friend of Peruna also.

1,000 To Be Given for
eliable Information
will give One Dollar for a Postal d giving the first reliable news of ance to sell a horizontal steam ine of our styles, within our range izes. We do not want inquiries at time for vertical, traction or gas
ines.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS
for years been the standard for all steam
. Best of material and workmanship.
big output enables us to sell on small prof
An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no than the other kind.
rite today for our special offer.
TLAS ENGINE WORKS
agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS
Engines High Speed Engines Water Tube Boilers
Valve Engines Compound Engines Tubular Boilers
matic Engines Throttling Engines Portable Boilers
Atlas Engines in service [illegible] H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service [illegible] H. P.

MARK. CRAB
RCHARD
WATER IS A CERTAIN CURE FOR Dyspepsia
Sick Headache
Constipation... 3
ulates the Liver, cures Biliousness,
Stomach, Irregularities of the Bowels.
ATURAL product, prepared by tion; a genuine natural water.
ab Orchard Water Co.,
Louisville, Ky.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use
in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.

ICE, 25 Cts
TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
TI-GRIPINE
ANTI-IS GUARAN GRIP, BAD COLD, HE
I won't sell Anti-Gripine
Call for your MONEY B
F. W. Diemer, M.D.,

GOOD, big "mea can not be pro
ut a liberal amount the fertilizer—no n per cent. It mus rm of Sulphate of
ghest quality.
"Plant Food" and "Truck Farming ts which tell of the successful growi r garden truck—sent free to those
Address, GERMAN KALI WO

DED

OMEN

Many rience ad but t that year n in- n the opera- formed men in spitals. three- of the lying snow s who opera- ts had g down of the in the dizzi- of the these an un- ries or trouble penalty opera- useful- ses the bring Luella seattle, reat suf- ains and me and on the tion if I was my of dol- kept ted with and she n's Veg- cure to began to y cured, hout an woman

ms was ated in ydia E. d cure suffers tion of nervous tration. young for free for, the es Her Thomas r were ered the ests, in re care very in- taken.

who re- t yacht was in his lic- l in dis- tunately like the nd-what n found unusual, on the constant e anoth- ery man turn to- captain kful that ted upon rged with red and cart by a 3-year he is the ne public length of CE.

out of a

nsed for s a loyal This was gnificance time hontinces, "I Nuts food ad passed neumonia was left hen they is benefit, him any th and he er. I was m when I result has iety. has eaten 10 pounds rapidly re- like a new Nuts food ur little 5- uffer from eating the no more se Grape- ctor's bills only sweet tasty dish poonfuls of breakfast. rk and got y 9 o'clock, onger, than st on meat. I wouldn't the house en by Pos- ch. There's

he Road to

ITCHING SCALP HU

Lady Suffered Torture Until Cu[...] Cuticura—Scratched Day and Ni[...]

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered torture from the itching. I was scratching all day and night and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of the ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me, and my head is entirely clear and my hair growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since and shall never be without it. (Signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Gr[...] Jersey City, N. J."

It is one of the paradoxes of and one of the most consoling the line between enlightened s ness and altruism is in the ma aginary, avers Collier's Weekly. piness for one's self comes least it is sought to the detriment o ers. The mind which is be spending a life not entirely b vain is likely to feel a deeper faction than the one which calc narrowly its possibilities of pl or advantage. A youth of ou quaintance, talking to a wom experience, explained that he abandoning journalism becaus had got out of it all that it h him. "Oh," she replied quiet you have been doing the wo what you can get out of it, a for what you can put into it was a rebuke which he did n get, and yet in that young man' as in the majority of others was put in where most was tak It was really because he had to be able to add anything what he contributed, that he f his work was giving nothing b him.

"Mop" Fair.

Dating from mediaeval tim annual Stratford-on-Avon "Mo took place recently and eigh and twelve pigs were roasted fires in the streets in the pres a record gathering from all p the Midlands.

Valenciennes lace is still m Flanders, but this valuable i has entirely died out in the whose name it bears.

WASTED TO A SHADOW

But Found a Cure After Fiftee[n Years] of Suffering.

A. H. Stotts, messenger State Capitol, Columbus, O., say "For fiftee I had kidne bles, and th doctored fa could not cure. I ha backaches, headaches a ble urinary ders. One collapsed, sensible on walk, and wasted away in bed for ten After being given up, I beg Doan's Kidney Pills. In a months I regained my old and now weigh 188 pounds. boxes did it, and I have b two years."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cen Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,

How to Catch Crows

In order to catch crows, so much damage to the growi Italian farmers have taken t small pieces of meat in conic paper bags, and smearing of these bags with glue. bird puts his head in and fi self blind-folded he flies u an immense height, but falls starting place.

Car Load of Ants.

The Clyde Steamship brought a car load of ants few days ago from New Yo ants were of a peculiar vari in Central America, and destructive of the boll w great enemy of the cotto pl insects were shipped in gl properly encased.

Composition of Meersch

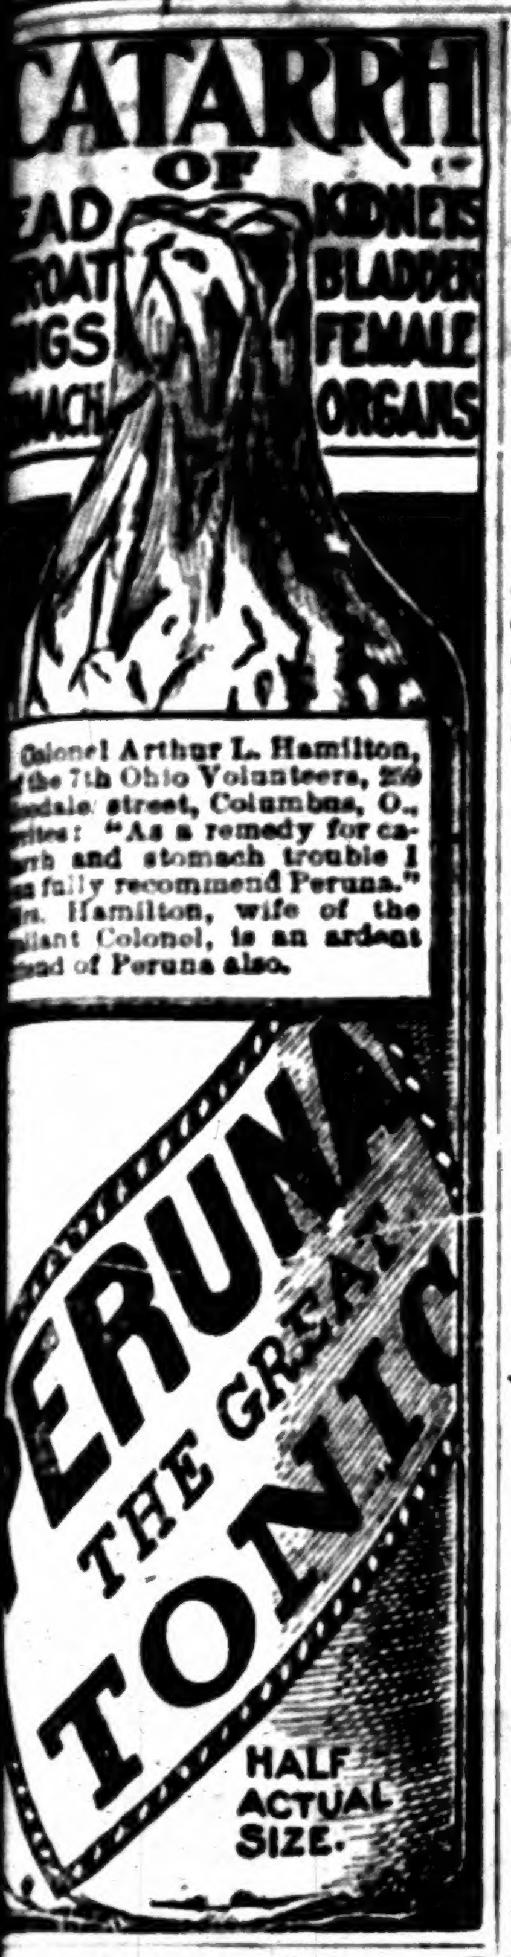
Meerschaum, the compo which is silica, magnesia and often found along the Ge shore, and the pure white supposed by the superstiti to be petrified sea foam, fro takes its name. The Turks a substitute for soap.

What will be the largest the world is being made It will cover 63,000 square will serve as the "ground" sports in the Olympia, Lo cost will be $25,000.

The Strand Theater, Lo been bought by the Great Piccadilly and Brompton R which intends to use the "tube" station. In London ground railroads have to stations and entrance and

To each shipping comp adopts the refrigerating guarantees to make the v Beunos Ayres to Lisbon fifteen and a half days, the government will pay a s sidy of $2,000.

The first verse of the Psalm is called the "neck the reason that in former condemned to death some chance to save his life that he could read, and was used as a test.



Colonel Arthur L. Hamilton, of the 7th Ohio Volunteers, 259 [...]dale street, Columbus, O., [w]rites: "As a remedy for ca[ta]rrh and stomach trouble I [ca]n fully recommend Peruna." [Mr]s. Hamilton, wife of the [ga]llant Colonel, is an ardent [fri]end of Peruna also.

1,000 To Be Given for
eliable Information

will give One Dollar for a Postal d giving the first reliable news of ance to sell a horizontal steam se of our styles, within our range zes. We do not want inquiries at time for vertical, traction or gas nes.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS

for years been the standard for all steam s. Best of material and workmanship. big output enables us to sell on small prof- An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no than the other kind. rite today for our special offer.

LAS ENGINE WORKS
agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS
Engines High Speed Engines Water Tube Boilers
Valve Engines Compound Engines Tubular Boilers
matic Engines Throttling Engines Portable Boilers
Atlas Engines in service 3,000,000 H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service 4,000,000 H. P.

TR. MARK. CRAB
RCHARD WATER
S A CERTAIN CURE FOR Dyspepsia
Sick Headache 3
Constipation...

ulates the Liver, cures Biliousness, Stomach, Irregularities of the Bowels. ATURAL product, prepared by con- tion; a genuine natural water.

ab Orchard Water Co.,
Louisville, Ky.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.

The Best Guide to Reading.

Of all the gifts an elder brother or sister can confer upon a younger child, none can compare with the taste for good reading. It is an easy matter for the elder to bring the right book to the little reader at the right time, and no lasting benefit can be given with so little effort. See that you are able to act as a wise guide when the little brother's or sister's hand is put so confidingly in yours.—St. Nicholas.

London Taxes.

The taxpayers of Eastern London are complaining bitterly of the rigor of their assessment. The case is cited of a man who had his assessment raised because he erected a cucumber frame in his back garden.

In the recent thrilling discussions of various phases of civic transgressions, our popular magazines have discovered a new method of entertainment that puts old ways to shame. Character sketches of menagerie animals and of variety actresses pall in the presence of these accounts of boodling, graft, corruption, trust-management, and dissemination of microbes. Who can fail to be delighted at finding pictures of gifted criminals, accompanied by crisp, sensational phrases, setting forth their misdeeds; or, better still, at finding the portrait of the Bad Man on one page, and the Good Man on the next; with the privilege of guessing before reading which is which. It is a very melodrama of reform, in which every moment is a climax; an all-pervasive Madame Tussaud's chamber of horrors in pen and ink. These cheerful histories of crime, continues the Atlantic, set in the midst of gay pictures, dashing bits of verse, and smart stories, recall irresistibly to my mind an announcement which I saw a few years ago at the door of a prominent religious edifice in Boston: "Meeting at 3 p. m. Subject: The Unpardonable Sin. Bright and Enjoyable Service. All are invited."

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble—A New Method, by Absorption—No Drugs.

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. Are you afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead Weight in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?

Bad Breath or Any Other Stomach Torture?

Let us send you a box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers free to convince you that it cures.

Nothing else like it known. It's sure and very pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach Trouble can't be cured otherwise—so says Medical Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure and we want you to know it, hence this offer.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

11255 A FREE BOX. 114

Send this coupon with your name and address and druggist's name who does not sell it for a free box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to
MULL'S GRAPE TONIC Co., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

Chinese women are entirely uneducated.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

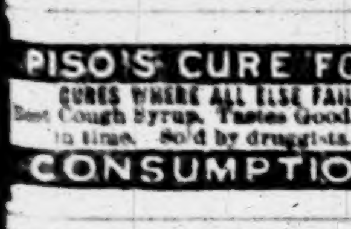
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The man who speculates is lost.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 47, 1905.



ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

OOD, big "mealy" potatoes can not be produced with- t a liberal amount of POTASH the fertilizer—not less than n per cent. It must be in the rm of Sulphate of POTASH of ghest quality.

"Plant Food" and "Truck Farming" are two practical s which tell of the successful growing of potatoes and the r garden truck—sent free to those who write us for them.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—93 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 26.

Subject: Abstinence For the Sake of Others, 1. Cor. x., 23 33—Golden Text, 1. Cor. x., 16—Memory Verses, 31-33—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

In verses 14-22 Paul resumes the discussion from chapter 8:13 touching the eating of meats which had been offered in sacrifice to idols. In the lesson before us we have some practical directions on this subject.

I. The duty of living for others (vs. 23, 24).

23. "All things are lawful." I may lawfully eat all kinds of food, but all are not expedient. It would not be becoming in me to eat of all, because I should by this offend and grieve many weak minds. Though it may be admitted that it is strictly lawful to eat meats offered to idols, yet there are strong reasons why it is inexpedient, and those reasons ought to have the binding force of law. "Not expedient." And so, being unprofitable and injurious, may thereby become unlawful. "Edify not." All things do not tend to build up the cause of Christ, and therefore are not expedient. 24. "His own." Let no man consult his own happiness, pleasure or convenience, but let him ask what will be for the good of others. No rule is laid down about eating or not eating any kind of food as a matter of importance in itself. With such things the gospel has no concern. What Paul does prescribe relates to the effect of our conduct upon others. Let every man live not for himself, but for every part of the great human family with which he is surrounded. "Another's wealth." "But each his neighbor's good."—R. V. This will cause true happiness.

II. The duty of guarding the weak (vs. 25-30). 25. "Is sold." The meats of idol sacrifices were often exposed to sale in the markets especially by the priests, when they had on hand a surplus. To the Christian this was as lawful as any other meat. "Shambles." The meat stalls in the market. "Asking no question." The Jews were vexed with innumerable scruples with respect to their eating and were accustomed to ask many questions about their food, as to where it was obtained, how prepared, etc.; all of these scruples and questionings the gospel abolished.

26. "Earth is the Lord's." See Psa. 24:1. This meat belongs to the Lord and is made for man's use. It does not belong to the idol, even though it has been offered to it. It may therefore be partaken of as God's gift. 27. "Bid—feast." This refers to a feast in a private house. In verses 14-22 the apostle severely rebukes the practice of eating at feasts in heathen temples, because this was one part of idolatrous worship. If a pagan friend invite a Christian to his home to dine he should eat what is set before him without vexing his host with questions about his food. But there is nothing here commanded which would require a person to eat or drink that which is harmful.

28. "Say unto you." That is, if one of your fellow guests should display scruples of conscience, or a heathen should be likely to draw the inference that you approved of idol worship, this altogether alters the case. You are no longer simply eating with thankfulness the food set before you as the gift of God, but the question of idolatrous worship of idols as permissible to a Christian. 29. "For why," etc. This verse and the next as a little obscure. The meaning seems to be that "no man has a right to interfere with the liberty enjoyed by another, save so far as his own conscience and conscientious convictions are likely to be affected thereby." We must guard the point of yielding to another's conscience, for we may by obeying a man's false conscience confirm his self-conceit, or establish a false morality. 30. "If I by grace." "If I partake with thankfulness."—R. V.

III. The correct rule of conduct (vs. 31-33).

31. "Eat, or drink." The glory of God is to be the end of all our actions. In themselves eating and drinking are things indifferent, but there are circumstances in which they may be matters of the highest importance. In our own day, for instance, the question of using or abstaining from intoxicating liquors is one which ought to be dealt with on the same principles which Paul has laid down in this chapter. Such a question should be decided on one ground alone, namely, whether by using them or abstaining from them we shall best promote the glory of God. "Do all." This requires that we should plan and order our whole life in accordance with God's law. "Glory of God." To live to God's glory should be the high aim of every individual. This is a sufficient rule to regulate every man's conscience and practice.

32. "Give none offense." See R. V. Though you may be no better or worse for eating meat or not eating, yet if your conduct injures others and leads them into sin you should abstain entirely. It is far more important that your brother should not be led into sin than that you should partake of meat which you acknowledge is in itself of no importance. This is a general principle which should regulate Christian conduct at all time. "Jews." The apostle ever avoided offense to his kinsmen after the flesh. "Gentiles." Crossing none of their prejudices where God's law does not require it.

33. "Please all men." He did this so far as he could righteously. "May be saved." His main object was to seek the salvation of all men. This was the end in view. Salvation enables men to set aside their own ways in order to uplift another. Strife over non-essentials destroys rather than builds up the work of God.

Japan's purchases from the United States in the fiscal year just closed amounted to $51,724,726.

Long Artillery March.

The Sixth Battery of Field Artillery has left Fort Riley, Kan., to march to Fort Sam Houston, Texas. The distance, 1000 miles, is the longest ever marched by a United States artillery organization.

Merit System in the Navy.

Secretary Bonaparte, of the Navy Department at Washington, D. C., has decided that the future promotions in the navy pay corps shall be made solely with regard to the merit system.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Burmah is stirred by the question of official dress.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Berlin has about thirty vegetarian restaurants.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

London uses 211,323,602 gallons of water a day.

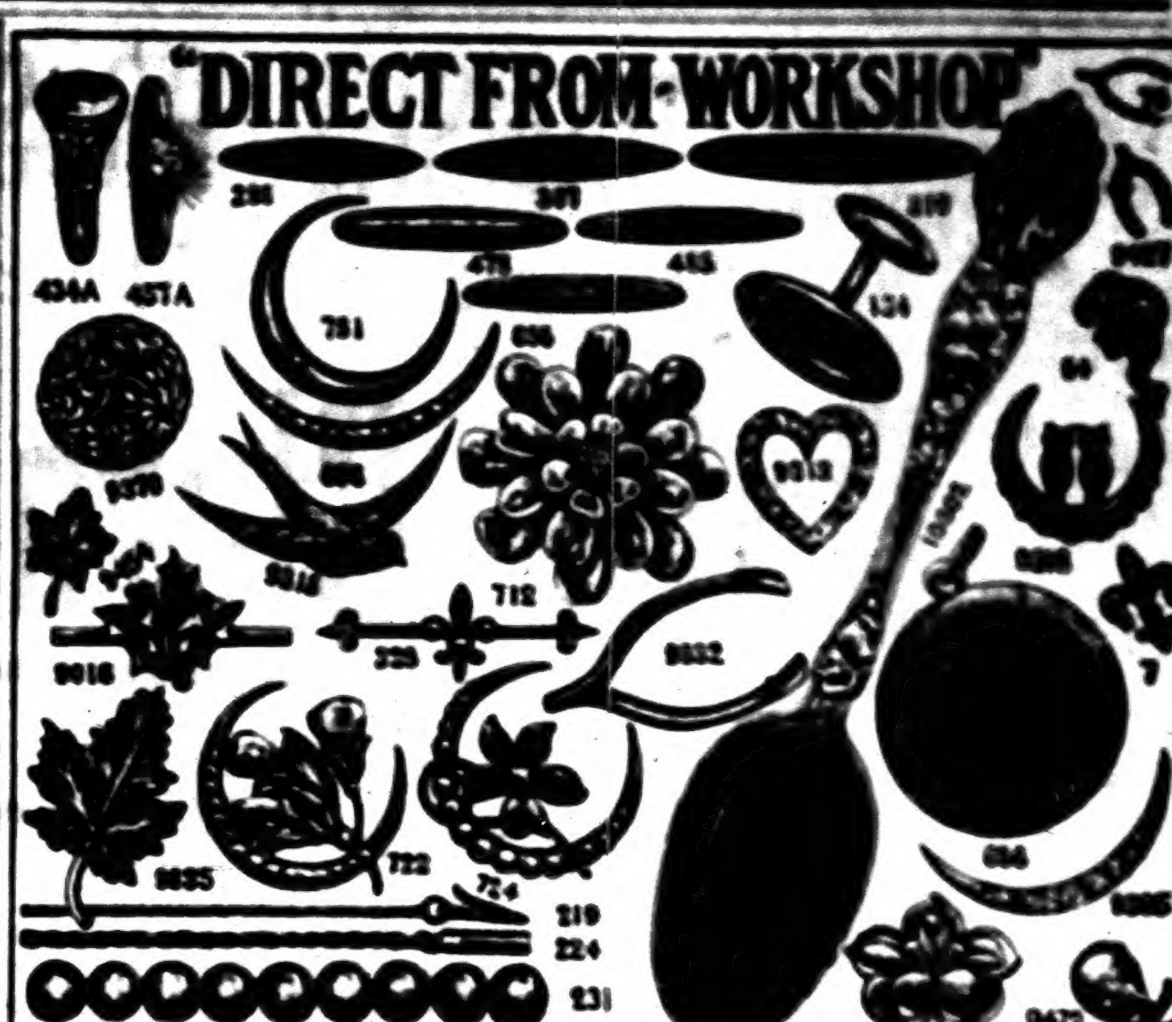
Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Steamers are 50 per cent safer than sailing vessels.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

In search for a cargo the French bark Marechal de Gontaut has already sailed 25,000 miles without success, and two weeks ago was at Adelaide, Australia, "waiting orders."



Baird-North Co.

	Stock Pins
286	Solid Gold, plain	[illegible]
307	Solid Gold, plain	[illegible]
310	Solid Gold, plain	[illegible]
[illegible]	Solid Gold, pearls	1.00
479	Gold plate, bead edge	[illegible]
485	Gold plate, pearl	[illegible]
[illegible]	Sterling Silver, plain	[illegible]
	Sterling Silver Brooches
9016	Handy Pin, holly	.35
[illegible]	Crescent	.40
9312	Heart	.35
9314	Swallow	.35
9318	Owls, gray	.35
[illegible]	Wishbone	.35
9035	Mapleleaf	.35
9347	Lily	.35
	Solid Gold Brooches
686	Pearl crescent	[illegible]
712	Baroque pearls, diamond	[illegible]
722	Pearls and baroques	4.00
724	Pearls	[illegible]
781	Crescent, pearl	[illegible]
	Scarf Pins
7	Pearls, solid gold	[illegible]
64	Head, pearl, solid gold	[illegible]
76	Wishbone, solid gold	[illegible]
9427	Wishbone, sterling silver	[illegible]
9464	Mapleleaf sterling silver	[illegible]
9472	Ruby eyes, sterling silver	[illegible]
	Solid Gold Neck Chains
219	Neck Chain, 13 inches	[illegible]
224	Neck Chain, 14½ inches	[illegible]
231	Bead Necklace, 14 inches	[illegible]
134	Solid Gold Links	[illegible]
[illegible]	Solid Gold Locket	[illegible]
[illegible]	Sterling Silver Hat Pin	[illegible]
[illegible]	Violet pattern Coffee Spoon, each	[illegible]
	doz.	[illegible]
[illegible]	Violet Tea Spoons doz.	[illegible]
	Our Catalog T pictures the complete violet pattern.
434A	Solid Gold Signet Ring	[illegible]
457A	Diamond Ring	[illegible]

Our Catalog T is now ready for mailing. The book contains 112 pages and illustrates over [illegible] articles—Diamonds, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Leather, Ebony, Toilet Goods, Watches, Rings, Table Ware, etc.

We can give the best service possible, we guarantee every article we sell, we assume all risk, we return your money if you ask it. Most important of all, we save you one third of your purchase money by selling "Direct from Workshop." Buying from us you save the profits of the jobber, the wholesaler and retailer.

For ten years we have been filling orders by mail to the entire satisfaction of thousands of customers in all parts of the postal union. We can please you.

We want every lover of artistic jewelry, every person who intends to make a holiday gift, to have a copy of our beautiful catalog—sent post paid upon receipt of your address. WRITE NOW.

BAIRD-NORTH COMPANY, 320 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

GOOD LUCK
ONE SPOON
BAKING POWDER
THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO.
RICHMOND, VA.

Save the Good Luck Coupons.

Every Coupon Counts for a Premium

A Woman's Coat of Arms

Good Luck Baking Powder, the absolutely pure and reliable leavener, is a blessing to good cooks. You can count on a spoonful to go just so far, every time, and bank on your baking being crisp, light and tempting when you use

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

Furthermore, it is to every woman's interest to purchase this reliable brand instead of the high priced kinds. It is sold at an honest price—10 cents for a pound can. That's money in your pocket—about 300 per cent.—every time the baking powder can is empty.

If you cut out the coupons found on back of each can we will send you useful and handsome premiums. For list and pictures of these, see the gift book found inside each can.

Your grocer ought to have Good Luck Baking Powder. If not, will you send us his name?

THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO., Richmond, Va.

THIS COUPON ON LABEL OF EVERY CAN

IN CUTTING OUT COUPON FOLLOW THIS LINE
Solid Car-load "GOOD LUCK" BAKING POWDER
CUT OUT THIS CAR AND SAVE IT. THEY ARE GOOD FOR VALUABLE ARTICLES. SEE LIST IN EACH CAN. Address: THE DEPARTMENT STORE OF THE SOUTHERN MNF'G CO [illegible] Richmond Va. U.S.A.
IN CUTTING OUT COUPON FOLLOW THIS LINE
1-LB.

Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

THE BEST FAMILY MEDICINE

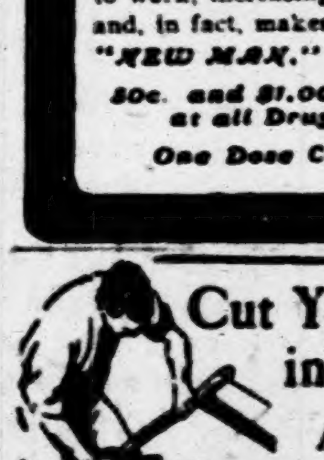
For Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Colic, Dizziness, Headache and anything caused by a disordered Liver. Removes

"That Drowsy Feeling"

by putting your digestive organs to work, increasing your appetite, and, in fact, makes you feel like a "NEW MAN."

50c. and $1.00 per Bottle at all Drug Stores.

One Dose Convinces.



Cut Your Work in Two

Atkins Saws cut not only wood, iron and other materials better than any other, but they cut work.

That is because they are made of the best steel in the world by men that know how.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO. Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis
BRANCHES—New York, Chicago, Minneapolis
Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco
Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada)
Accept no substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand
SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Japan expects a boom in electric railways.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W.L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L. DOUGLAS SHOES
ESTABLISHED JULY 6, 1876

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market today.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy. Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO., Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

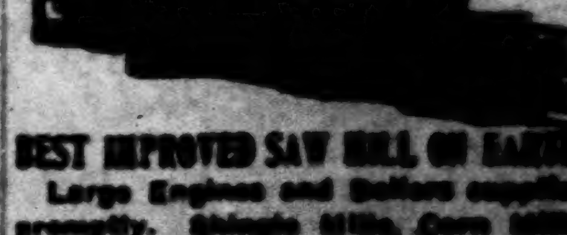
Residence Lots, Near Beach, $125. $10 cash; $5.00 monthly. Write for map. GEO. L. [illegible], Gulfport, Miss.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.



BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH. Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors. Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

NO GOODS CHARGED DURING THIS SALE

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

NO GOODS EXCHANGED ON SATURDAY

MAPLESVILE, ALA.

Fall Clerance Sale

We laid in an immense stock for this Fall, but business has been slow, so we have determined to sell out the balance of this large stock at 50 cents on the dollar, rather than carry it over to next Fall.

Public Sale Commenced SATURDAY, NOV. 18, at 8:30 a.m. promptly

Eight More Days For Hurry Up Trading

Our store will be ready Saturday, 8:30 a.m. There'll be no tardiness on our part; our entire stock has been displayed and arranged so as to rush the goods out without interference. An army of skilled clerks, working both night and day, marking down, cutting and slashing prices like they have never been in this city before.

Don't Hesitate. Don't Delay. Come Today.

ASTOUNDING BARGAINS

Best Calico	⅜	Men's Heavy Fleeced Underwear worth 75	39	3.00 Boy's Suits	1.49
7½c Outing	4	Ladies' Heavy Ribbed Underwear, worth 50	29	5.00 Boy's Suits	2.49
12½c Outing	7½	Men's 40c Shirts	19	2.00 Men's Hats	98
7½c Bleached Domestic	4½	Men's 75c Shirts	39	75c Overalls	38
12½c Bleached Domestic	7½	Men's 1.00 Shirts	49	50c Caps	24
15c Bed Ticking	8	2.00 Ladies' Shirt Waists	98	2.00 Men's Shoes	98
12½c Cotton Flannel	8	3.00 Ladies' Skirts	1.49	2.50 Men's Shoes	1.74
Extra Heavy Cotton Flannel worth 20c	12 1-2	4.00 Ladies' Skirts	1.98	3.00 Men's Shoes	1.98
25c Ladies' Linen Handkerchiefs	12 1-2	8.00 Ladies' Skirts	4.48	4.00 Men's Shoes	2.98
Men's Handkerchiefs	2	Children's Reefers, worth 2.00	98	2.00 Ladies Shoes	98
25c Suspenders	9	Children's Reefers, worth 2.50	1.49	2.50 Ladies' Shoes	1.23
35c Suspenders	19	Ladies' Jackets, worth 5.00	2.98	3.00 Ladies' Shoes	1.89
50c Suspenders	24	Ladies' Jackets, worth 7.00	3.98	75c Baby Shoes	23
15c Men's Sox	7 1-2	Ladies' Jackets, worth 10.00	5.98	7.50 Overcoat	4.23
25c Men's Sox	12 1-2	2.00 Men's Pants	98	12.50 Overcoat	7.98
35c Men's Sox	19	3.00 Men's Pants	1.49	15.00 Overcoat	8.98
15c Ladies' Hose	7 1	4.00 Men's Pants	1.98	20.00 Overcoat	9.98
50c Ladies' Hose	19	5.00 Men's Pants	2.98	20 lbs Sugar	1.00
Fancy Hat Pins, worth 25c	[illegible]	8.50 Men's Suits	4.98	10 lbs. Green Coffee	1.00
Men's Linen Collars	4	10.00 Men's Suits	5.98	12 Bars Soap	25
Pearl Buttons worth 10c a doz	5	20.00 Men's Suits	10.98

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Maplesville - - - - Alabama

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL

Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells

CLANTON, ALA.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash. his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of [illegible] the entire family

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them, [illegible] quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, [illegible] and the matrons—we can [illegible] and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at exceptionally low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, [illegible] from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the finest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists [illegible] the finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids, Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Clothiers To The Whole Family

THE BARGAIN STORE

Clanton, Ala.

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6.00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1.50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40,000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garden. You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN

Growers and Exporters

ZANESVILLE - - - - OHIO

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON.

TONIC
BLOOD LIVER
CURE

URACURA

WILL CURE ALL

BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.

PRICE 50¢

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

TONIC
BLOOD LIVER
CURE

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS and COLDS. Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in an immense stock comprising all the latest fashions novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 to $5 00, to be closed out at $1.50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS,

VIOLINS, GUITARS, &c.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

THE "DODGING PERIOD"

of a woman's life, is the name often given to the "change of life." Your menses come at long intervals, and grow scantier until they stop. Some women stop suddenly. The entire change lasts three or four years, and it is the cause of much pain and discomfort, which can, however, be cured, by taking

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Relief

It quickly relieves the pain, nervousness, irritability, miserableness, forgetfulness, fainting, dizziness, hot and cold flashes, weakness, tired feeling, etc. Cardui will bring you safely through this "dodging period," and build up your strength for the rest of your life. At all druggists in $1.00 bottles. Try it.

WRITE US A LETTER

freely and frankly, telling us all your troubles. We will send Free Advice (in plain, sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"EVERYTHING BUT DEATH

I suffered," writes Virginia Robson, of Easton, Md., "until I took Cardui, which cured me so quickly it surprised my doctor, who didn't know I was taking it."

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Ha

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - AL

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coff

W. I. MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Thanksgiving! God be praised we have all lived another year and are enjoying a prosperous season. The harvest has been plentiful, and with fair prices prevailing the country continues to flourish, the people are happy and contented, and have every cause to feel thankful to the giver of all good for all His mercies.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Circuit Court convened Monday morning, Judge A. H. Alston presiding in place of Judge Brewer. Solicitor W. G. Bowling was in attendance and court opened shortly after ten o'clock.

The Grand Jury was sworn in, with E. G. Rollins as foreman, and Judge Alston made a pleasing and instructive charge, which has received the commendation of the bar and public. R. J. Jones was chosen bailiff and the jury proceeded with their work.

It has been a quiet court, none of the cases on trial being of public interest, the following were the principal cases disposed of:

Ambrach Bros vs J J Stewart, continued

W D Lawrence vs W M Lawrence, continued

Twin Tree Lumber Co vs G W Middlebrooks, settled, each party to pay their own costs

G W Middlebrooks vs Twin Tree Lumber Co, settled, each party to pay their own costs

Southern Railway Co vs Isaac Mitchell, continued

W L Campbell vs R H Martin, judgment for plaintiff. This was the only case to go to a jury

G W Wilson vs W A Mims, continued

G W Gore vs C M Littleton, continued

R H Martin vs Southern Railway Co, settled between parties, plaintiff to pay costs

Roberta Mullins vs J M Walker, dismissed by plaintiff

A number of whiskey cases (5) in which the Mayor and Council of Clanton were plaintiff, were dismissed on motion of plaintiff

J H Carter vs J A Scott, judgment by consent

J W Franzen vs C N Dudley, continued

Jesse French Piano & Organ Co, vs R H Martin, continued

W R Lowery vs Z S Avery, continued on account of absence of witnesses, and attachment to issue for each of the witnesses, bond fixed at $50 each

Thomas E Dennis et al vs Houston Price et al, ejectment suit

The grand jury is not expected to make their final report before Friday or Saturday.

Next week the trial of W. J. A. Melton, charged with the killing of a negro at Maplesville, is set for next Tuesday, and forty special jurors have been drawn for the venire.

The trial of J. E. McCullo for the killing of A is continued

STOCK
PRICES
good people of Chilton county, we k comprising all the latest fashions all your attention to our line of Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear
Jackets of the latest styles; Broad derfully reduced prices; Shoes.
Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs
of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50
to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50
d lined, to go at 39 cents.
SICAL INSTRUMENTS
N PHONOGRAPHS,
VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.
in stock at the very lowest prices
nd hear the Phonograph talk—they e worth living.
NJUTZKY
ORITE STORE
on, Ala.

GING PERIOD"
e often given to the "change of life."
ntervals, and grow scantier until they denly. The entire change lasts three cause of much pain and discomfort, by taking ARDUI
n's Relief
ain, nervousness, irritability, miserable-izziness, hot and cold flashes, weak-dui will bring you safely through this p your strength for the rest of your life.
bottles. Try it.
our
(in Laoga
"EVERYTHING BUT DEATH
I suffered," writes Virginia Robson, of Easton, Md., "until I took Cardui, which cured me so quickly it surprised my doctor, who didn't know I was taking it."

MILLINERY
ats
n Hats
ies' Street Hat
S. 50 Cents and up
TER & BRO.
Merchandise
- - AL

DY KNOWS
en they see it, and for VERYBODY should come good things here.
need, from a button to a needle to a coff .
MULLINS
- - - ALA

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

L. XIV | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No. 7

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Thanksgiving! God be praised have all lived another year and enjoying a prosperous season.
harvest has been plentiful, and h fair prices prevailing the ntry continues to flourish. the ple are happy and contented, d have every cause to feel thank l to the giver of all good for all s mercies.

[illegible] COURT.

Circuit Court convened Monday
rning, Judge A. H. Alston pre-ding in place of Judge Brewer.
licitor W. G. Bowling was in endance and court opened short after ten o'clock.

The Grand Jury was sworn in, ith E. G. Rollins as foreman, and dge Alston made a pleasing and tructive charge, which has ceived the commendation of the r and public. R. J. Jones was osen bailiff and the jury pro-eded with their work.

It has been a quiet court, none of cases on trial being of public terest, the following were the incipal cases disposed of:

Ambrach Bros vs C J Stewart,
ntinued

W D Lawrence vs W M Lawnce, continued

Twin Tree Lumber Co vs G W ddlebrooks, settled, each party pay their own costs

G W Middlebrooks vs Twin Tree mber Co, settled, each party to y their own costs

Southern Railway Co vs Isaac tchell, continued

W L Campbell vs R H Martin, dgment for plaintiff This was
e only case to go to a jury

G W Wilson vs W A Mims, con-ued

G W Gore vs C M Littleton,
ntinued

R H Martin vs Southern Rail-ay Co, settled between parties,
aintiff to pay costs

Roberta Mullins vs J M Walker, smissed by plaintiff

A number of whiskey cases (5) which the Mayor and Council of lanton were plaintiff, were disissed on motion of plaintiff

J H Carter vs J A Scott, judg-ent by consent

J W Franzen vs C N Dudley, ontinued

Jesse French Piano & Organ Co,
R H Martin, continued

W R Lowery vs Z S Avery, connued on account of absence of itnesses, and attachment to issue r each of the witnesses, bond xed at $50 each

Thomas E Dennis et al vs Hous-
n Price et al, ejectment suit

The grand jury is not expected make their final report before riday or Saturday.

Next week the trial of W. J. A.
elton, charged with the killing of negro at Maplesville, is set for xt Tuesday, and forty special rors have been drawn for the enire.

The trial of J. E. McCullo
r the killing of A continued

CORRESPONDENCE.

Do not be deceived by counterfeits when you buy Witch Hazel Salve. The name of E. C. DeWitt & Co. is on every box of the genuine, Piles in their worst form will soon pass away if you will apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve night and morning. Best for Cuts, Burns, Boils, Tetter, Eczema etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Maplesville.

We love to tell your numerous subscribers of how the moon (our old colored astronomers tell us) has been "hanging in de elements" so as to give us such delightful weather that we are having the most glorious blooming flowers at this season ever known.

Our friend, John Paisley, of Selma, of whom it is said his word is his bond, has been here with friends lately.

Little Miss Helen Culver has been on a visit to her grandfather.

Mrs. Whaley has been with her daughter here, Mrs. Culver.

Our very popular preacher, Bro. Davis, has been holding a protracted meeting here the past week where much good was done. "Some seed were sown" that we know will accomplish much good in the "days to come." His last sermon was most impressive. Almost the entire congregation bade him an affectionate farewell by a hand shake. Many earnest prayers have gone up that he may serve us another year. He performed the marriage ceremony on the 26th at ten o'clock for Ikey Gwin and Miss Hattie Bowline. This [illegible]thful couple have a bright [illegible] before them as they have known each other some time, and Ikey is a trusted employee of the telegraph line. Many relations were here; her uncle, Mr. Tucker, of Randolph, and Reuben Bearden and wife of Selma, were here. Many friends accompanied them to the railroad and the good old superstitious custom of rice shower was given them on their departure

Our young friend, David Vi[illegible], will be our rural carrier of route No. 1 from here.

Mrs. Davidson of Jacksonville, Fla., is visiting her son here, who is in the employe of the T. T. Co.

Joe and Clint Rasberry are clerking here and have formed a good character for themselves by their attentive politeness.

Miss Florence Adair has returned from the Teachers' Joint Institute at Billingsley and was delighted with the courtesy extended her. Billingsley has reflected great credit on herself by the generous hospitality shown her guests during the convention.

We are sorry to state that Cal Fosbee has been suffering a good deal with neuralgia.

Our beautiful friend, little Lolette Ricketts, has gone to Bristol, Tenn., to visit her aunt there, Mrs. Dunn.

Many of our citizens have been called to Clanton to court.

Henry Johnson has been off on his parole of honor with friends here.

REVOLG.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next State teachers' examination for Chilton county will be held [illegible] the court house at Clanton, be[illegible]ing on the first Monday in Jan- 1906. The examination will [illegible] 10 a.m. sharp.

J. W. MOORE, Supt.

ty Baptist Association.

inutes for 1905 are now
nd Clerks of churches ghborhood of Clenton will ll or send to The Banner their share.

Son Lost Mother.

onsumption runs in our family,
hrough it I lost my Mother,"
es E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me.
r the past five years, however,
he slightest sign of a Cough or d, I have taken Dr. King's New covery for Consumption, which saved me from serious lung uble." His mother's death was ad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned at lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief for coughs and colds.
Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. Trial bottle free.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

WM. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Grail.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$65,446.00
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,681 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$27,154.70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519.80
Currency	12,228.00
Gold	286.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,267.01
Checks and Cash Items	20.00
Profit and Loss	4.86
		$57,303.80
Total		$88,406.61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000.10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,378 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172 40
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
		$65,821.16
Total		$88,406.61

Mullins Hill.

Editor Banner—Please give me space in your paper for some of the news from this part of the county. It has been some time since I wrote from Mullins Hill.

The many friends of Miss Della Wambem were glad to welcome her back to our old schoolhouse again, She is a long ways from home and we hope that we will not see her with the "blues" while she is with us. School opened Monday morning with a total enrollment of 20 pupils, and more will enroll during the week.

Mr. B. F. Rasberry is on the sick list; hope he will soon recover.

Mr. Philip Davenport, who has been sick for some time, is better.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard and wife Sundayed with the latter's sister, Mrs. Glass.

Mrs. B.A. Hubbard spent Sunday with Miss Emma Hubbard.

Mrs. Gibbons spent a very pleasant evening at B. F. Rasberry's Sunday.

Mrs. Freeman visited with Mrs. Gibbons Friday night.

THE TWO IDIOTS.

Farmers' Union.

The Chilton County Farmers' Union will meet with Highland Union, four miles west of Clanton on the old Kincheon road, Wednesday, December 6, 1905. Success to the Banner and the Farmers' Union, and hoping to see every Union in the county represented, I am,

Respectfully,
J. W. SORRELL, Sec.-Treas.

Sardis.

We are glad to say that our Sunday school is still progressing nicely.

Rev. Robt Jones filled his regular appointment Sunday and preached an excellent sermon to a large congregation.

A number of our young folks attended the show at Clanton and report a fine time.

Mr. Sam Deason of Coosa county is visiting relatives in Chilton this week.

Miss Zadie Deason of this place visited relatives and friends near Kincheon the past week.

GUESS WHO.

Neuralgia Pains.

Rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment.

It penetrates to the nerves and bone and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body, and effect some wonderful cures. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

District No. 42.

Our farmers are done gathering and are making preparations for the future crop of 1906.

Our school is progressing nicely under the careful management of Prof. E. W. Miller, with an enrollment of 60 pupils. We think Prof. E. W. one of the best teachers that has ever taught in Pinedale schoolhouse, as he seems to take great interest in his work, and the pupils seem to be well pleased with him.

Misses Gladys and Jessie Foster of Coosa have been visiting Mr. Miller and family this week.

Prof. C. M. Baker and brother attended the Teachers' Institute at Billingsley and reported a nice time.

Several of our boys attended the show at Montgomery last Wednesday.

We are glad to know that Mr. A. J. Ellison is able to be up again.

A hunting party from this place is contemplating spending Thanksgiving day on Coosa river, as they had such good success down there last year on that day. Success to the Banner and its many readers.

OLD MAID'S SWEETHEART.

A Disastrous Calamity.

It is a disastrous calamity, when you lose your health, because indigestion and constipation have sapped it away. Prompt relief can be had in Dr. King's New Life Pills. They build up your digestive organs, and headache, dizziness, colic, constipation, etc. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co; 25c.

Popwell District.

There will be a debate at this place Saturday night, Dec. 2nd. The subject is, "Resolved, that Washington is due more credit for defending America than Columbus for discovering it." Affirmative: Howard Roper, Robert Desson, Lula Sims; Negative: Lee Popwell, Medie Crane, L. D. Riggins.

THIRD ON AFFIRMATIVE.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorby.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President — E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President — E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

WANTED—We are installing a night run and need a double crew. We can give employment to 100 good laborers either white or colored. We also need planing mill feeders and graders. JACKSON LUMBER CO., Lockhart, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

When you want a pleasant physic try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and produce no griping or other unpleasant effect. Sold by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. KICKER & Co., Cooper, Ala.

A liquid cold cure and the only Cough Syrup which moves the bowels—works all cold out of the system—is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Clears the head and throat and makes weak lungs strong. Best for Croup, Whooping-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties. Guaranteed by Upchurch Drug co. Price 50c.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST
of Birmingham, 2003 Second ave., will be in Jemison Friday and Saturday before the first Sunday in each month, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. Teeth examined free.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this season of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.
PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,
Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.
Let us figure with you on
your next bill.
2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware,
Saddlery and Florence Wagons.
J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

It begins to look as if "Syndicate" Miller would have made a great hit in the life insurance business, reflects the New York Herald.

It is said that a woman never hits anything when she throws a rock, but she smashes the target when she throws a hint, says the Dallas News.

After viewing the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon, M. Witte planted a young ash as a "tree of peace." A novel way of saying "Peace to his ashes," remarks the Kansas City Journal.

In all American States except Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia the date of inauguration of Governors is in January. Only one State in the country, West Virginia, adheres to March as the month of inauguration.

We get an idea of the polygot character of the people of Austria-Hungary from the testimony of an American tourist who did that country by automobile last summer, remarks the Boston Herald. He found the signboards in German, Magyar, Italian, Slavonian and Turkish, and preference was given to none.

"Boys will be boys," and the college faculty of the various seats of learning and the public take into account the effervescence of youthful spirits when every day pranks are indulged in by undergraduates. When, however, reflects the New York Herald, these youngsters take to rowdyism,as was the case in New Haven recently and has been noted in other localities as well, the offenders deserve and should receive severe punishment.

One giant battleship of to-day such as made junk of a large part of the Russian fleet in the Battle of the Sea of Japan could destroy both the fleets engaged in the most picturesque and in many respects most memorable naval battle of history—that of Trafalgar—and come out of the contest without even the paint knocked from its armored sides. A vessel that can pour in a deadly fire at a distance of from three to five miles was probably not even dreamed of or desired by Nelson. He liked to close with the enemy and do real fighting, hand to hand, if necessary.

Two large manufacturers of proprietary medicines have sued one of the large Eastern magazines for libel, on account of the publication of articles reflecting on the preparations manufactured, none of which are advertised in the magazine sued. In one case a proprietary medicine manufacturer was charged with having forged a "testimonial" as to the merit of his remedy. In his suit he claims to have the original of the letter in question. The suit will probably develop the fact that all the "patent" medicine testimonials are genuine and that most of them are unsolicited.

Agent George W. Parker, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, takes distinct issue with President Roosevelt on the question of race suicide in his annual report. In commenting on the large number of children found among families little able to support and care for them, he declares that he meets with many cases in the course of his work where race suicide would be a decided advantage. He believes something should be done to protect society from the dangerous increase in families where there is no prospect of ever being able to properly train and care for the progeny.

A jury in Seattle has decided that a dog has a right to bite a man in self-defense, relates the Portland (Ore.) Telegram. This is an interesting verdict. It appears that a dog bit a piece out of a man's leg, and the victim sued the owner of the dog for $10,000. The defense was that the dog would never have bitten the man if he had not been provoked to do so, and that as he was provoked to do so the dog was standing quite within his rights in biting the man. The defense was upheld, and dog and owner alike ought to be happy. Many other cases of a similar nature have been brought before, but this case is said to be the first time that the jury has taken this point of view.

Lord Templemore, the "father of the house of lords," sat in that body for twenty-eight years before he delivered his maiden speech, and his effort consisted of twenty-one words.

HUNTED

Jews Like Animals and Great Streams of Blood Ran Through Streets.

THE PAVEMENTS WERE RED.

A Graphic Account of the Butcheries Given by an Eye-Witness of the Massacres.

Odessa.—The morning of Friday, November 3, the day following the beginning of the massacre, began quietly, and many thought the excesses were at an end. A number of shops were opened and people went out to do their marketing as usual.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock, however, the roughs came out of their hovels again in a mad anti-Jewish spirit. Firing seemed to break out suddenly all over the city, and like magic the mobs again formed and recommenced their pillaging.

This time, however, the Jews in a measure were prepared. They had secured some arms over night, and they protected themselves as best they could. They went to the roofs of their houses and then fired into the streets below wherever they heard a noise. This drove the mobs into a greater frenzy and made them absolutely pitiless toward all Jews, women and children, as well as men.

The Jews became almost insane with fear. Now and then a door of a Jew's shop would be cautiously opened and the proprietor, standing in the doorway, would rapidly empty his revolver, sometimes when there was nobody at all in the street, and then his door would close with a bang and the bolts would be drawn, while hysterical women's screams sounded inside.

The police did nothing either on Thursday or Friday. They are not to blame, for they had been disarmed and had been subjected to indignities by the town authorities as soon as Wednesday's news of the granting of a constitution had been received. The Odessa governors thought in this way they were showing themselves supporters of freedom, but instead they left the civil power entirely without means of stopping the excesses of the mobs.

Like the French revolution, suspicion that a man was an aristocrat was sufficient for his condemnation; so suspicion that a house harbored Jews was sufficient for an attack to be made on it.

Two friends and myself, in my house, had a vivid example of this. About 3 o'clock on Saturday there was a crowd about my house, when some one pointed out to the soldiers a small window near the roof of my house, and exclaimed that he saw a Jew face there.

Immediately fury was let loose. The soldiers took deliberate aim over the heads of the crowd and fired. The mob took up the cry, "They are harboring Jews! Throw down the Jews! Wreck the house!"

It was a trying time for us. We three were alone in the house, with several Russian servants, who were crazed with fright and who kept urging us to take refuge in the barn. We could not hope to protect ourselves once the mob got in, and matters would have looked bad for us, for though there were no Jews in the house we had a number of sporting guns, and the mob would undoubtedly have been driven mad by the sight of them.

The people ran into our front yard and scrambled up a ladder to the roof expecting to find Jews there. They came down disappointed, and, were about to storm our front door when our janitor blocked the way, telling the mob there were no Jews inside. The mob took his coat from him and were about to brush him aside, when suddenly the crowd in the street shouted, "The Jews are next door! We see them!"

This cry took the people from my house, and they burst in next door, where they found a Jew and stabbed him to death amid howls of glee. His body was thrown into the street, and the janitor of the house nxet door phlematically washed the blood off the pavement while the mob went howling away.

Later in the day the mob returned to the vicinity of my house and caught three Jews, whom they at once killed and robbed.

This is the way all Friday was spent. Firing hardly ceased for a moment. The sharp crack of rifles and revolvers sounded everywhere. Thursday was the day of lott, and Friday the day of slaughter.

Ambulances went about in the trail of the mob, like Red Cross wagons after a victorious army. People suffering from frightful wounds were picked up, sometimes five and six in a bunch, and then the ambulances raced back to the municipal hospitals to return once more to the battlefield for further victims.

Streams of blood ran along the gutters to the sewers, and the street stones were dyed a deep red. There was a stench of drying blood in the air, and one of the friends in my house, who had been through the Boer war, declared his preference for a South African battlefield to an Odessa street.

It was simply courting death for any one not a workingman or a rough to venture into the streets. The mobs held up passersby and at the point of the revolver compelled them to prove they were not Jews before letting them go. Bullets were flying about, fired with an uncertain aim that made them as likely to find an innocent billet as not.

But throughout it all the mob kept rigidly to its anti-Jew spirit. It did not seek to loot the shops of Christians nor to break in Christian houses unless it thought Jews were there. It was mad for the sight of Jew blood and Jew loot, and its madness remained in this straight channel.

At last, toward midnight, the street firing ceased and the mobs returned home, unable through physical exhaustion to continue the murder longer.

Odessa Friday night was a city of the dead, nearly 5,000 Jews having been offered up in sacrifice to the fury of the workingmen.

Child Is Killed.

Selma, Ala.—Passenger train No. 16 on the Southern railway, from Meridian, struck a little 2-year-old child at Toomsuba, Miss., Saturday morning, causing practically instant death. The little one was playing along the track as the train rounded the curve near the station, which is between Meridian and York. Engineer John Smith was at the throttle and saw the child too late to avert the accident, the curve obstructing the view.

Papers Using Their Freedom.

St. Petersburg.—The radical papers are pursuing the same plan that they did in the case of General Trepoff, the former minister of the interior, and have now opened a regular campaign against M. Durnovo, minister of the interior, accusing him of being the enemy of the constitution and the supporter of reaction. They also join in a general demand for the immediate trial of the governors and other officials thus far removed, making a special point against M. Neidhardt, the former prefect of Odessa, who is called the "Russian Nero," and who, although removed from the prefecture, remains in the ministry of the interior. "All the military satraps must be brought to justice," is the cry of the radical papers.

America Ends Relations.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Root has informed the Japanese government that he will hereafter conduct affairs relating to Korea through the Japanese legation here. The principle of the sovereignty of Korea is maintained and the existing treaty with that country will continue in force, and the American consuls there will be maintained without change in their exequaturs. The Korean legation in Washington, of course, will be withdrawn and all business relating to Korea will be transacted through the Japanese government. Mr. Morgan, our minister to Seoul, will necessarily be withdrawn, but it is the intention of the state department to provide a diplomatic post for him.

Sultan Uneasy.

Constantinople.—The sultan has ordered the arrest of Fohima Pasha, chief of secret police, on a charge of working against the ruler's interest. A big sensation was caused by the action. It is reported the Porte discovered a plot among the secret police to head a movement to dispose of Abdulhamid if he gives way to the demands of the powers. There is every indication that the crisis has reached the breaking point, though the belief prevails that the sultan is more afraid of the European powers than of his own subjects, and will surrender before any great damage has been done to the empire.

Killed in Automobile Wreck.

New York.—Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of ex-Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, was instantly killed Saturday in an automobile accident in Long Island City. The machine became untrollable on a steep hill on Thompson avenue, plunged to the side of the road and turned over. Mrs. Harrison's neck was broken. Lawrence I. Scott and his wife, of San Francisco, who were riding with Mrs. Harrison in the automobile, were injured. Mr. Scott had a hip broken and Mrs. Scott was slightly injured. Charles F. Crocker, brother of Mrs. Harrison, and the chauffeur were slightly hurt.

A Planned Revolution.

St. Petersburg.—That the outbreak at Sebastopol is no drunken frolic, as was the case at Cronstadt, but a seriously planned revolutionary demonstration, was made clear by the tone of an official statement issued by the admiralty, declaring that the sailors and several units of troops were acting under the direct influence of the socialistic propaganda.

Woman Shoots.

Monticello, Miss.—Shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. James F. Birdsong, wife of a local dentist, walked into the office of Dr. Thomas Butler, one of the most prominent physicians of the community, and shot him five times with a pistol, killing him instantly. No statements have been made public concerning the cause of the tragedy, but it is known that domestic troubles figured largely in the case.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. JOHN DOUGLAS ADAM.

Subject: Moral Lameness.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. John Douglas Adam, the pastor of the Reformed Church on the Heights, preached Sunday on "Moral Lameness," from the text: Acts iii:6: "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I unto thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.' He said:

Our text introduces us to a lame man who lay day by day at the gate of the temple in Jerusalem, begging for sufficient money to keep him in life. This is a very common scene in the New Testament, where we are constantly meeting the lame, the halt, the blind and the lepers, and there is no wonder, for we must bear in mind those were the days when there were no hospitals, no scientific medical schools, no homes for incurables, nor any societies of aid. Since that day Christianity, without boastfulness, has had a magnificent share in the creation of those centres of relief. We see no such spectacle on our streets as did the Syrian of old upon his. Our Christian sentiment and Christian love have provided the hospital, and our lame men are sent there. And not only the hospital, but we have to-day enlightened scientific effort, societies of charity and helpfulness on all hands; and because the modern method of dealing with sickness is not the same as that of the apostles, never think that it is not Christian, for the same Christian spirit plays about the treatment of physical ills to-day. We have to be delivered, it seems to me, from the idea that God is only in the extraordinary. That He is only in the large. It seems to be hard upon our reason to comprehend. God is as much in the ordinary as in the miracle. It is the same God, and God is as much in the hospital, in His spirit, and in the modern methods of curing sickness. God is there just as truly as He was in the days of old. So Christianity has in a large measure solved the question of the physically lame man.

I am not going to speak this morning of him. We have practically disposed of him. I shall talk of the morally lame man, and when I speak of him let us understand each other. The morally lame man may be physically equipped with the physique of a triumphant athlete. He may pay every debt. The morally lame man is the man who is lame in his will, and he knows it. His will does not work with health toward his duty. He is lame in his conscience; it is defective. He is lame in his affections. His emotions in the higher reaches are lame. His imagination does not bound toward its goal, for the goal of the imagination is God and the infinite. The morally lame man falls down before his own self-respect in the development of his character. He fails in his own conception of duty and in his relations as a son, or husband, or friend, and in his relationship to town and country. He is not a factor in the moral progress of those about him or the community. He contributes nothing, but rather takes away. This lame man in the story lay begging. There are physical and moral beggars, but the worst pauperism is moral pauperism. The man who lacks sufficient force to pilot himself through life and never creates optimism and moral stamina out of his own life would, if the world were to surrender its moral power, commit suicide. If you notice, the chief contributors to this man's sustenance were the people on the way to the temple. They gave to him sufficient to keep him alive and then passed on to worship. And I think they are still the chief contributors to the sustenance of the morally lame man. This poor fellow may have laughed in his sleeve at the religious devotees as they passed on, and the true, earnest men and women are the people who are supporting morally those who sometimes even sneer at their moral earnestness. It is those who are maintaining the rest of the community. Man lives not by bread alone, but, as he is sustained physically through the industry of those who produce bread and the necessities of physical life, and without which there would be physical famine, so we live by moral bread and we are much more dependent on that in the last analysis of life than on the physical, for a nation like this lives upon ideas and love more than on any material thing. Take these away and all our boasted material progress falls like a house of cards, as did the glorious material wealth of Rome because there was not behind it the manhood to sustain it. Our world lives through the industry of the truest men and women in it in the moral sphere, and if there is no love being generated by unselfish hearts and no faith by pure minds and no moral inspiration by brave souls, a nation is doomed. There are those who not only do not contribute moral strength, but there are those who take away the moral bread baked by the labor of good men in the fiery furnace of trial, and throw it away and sneer at every pure and divine thing. They are the infamous destroyers of that which is the pillar of power.

Our problem to-day is the lame man. It is a patriotic, economic and religious one, than which there is none more practical. The problem before the church is to set the lame man on his feet so that he can make his own way in things of the heart and become a contributor to the moral health of the world. Let us observe how Peter and John faced the problem. First, they faced it squarely. They did not dodge it. They were not too anxious about getting to the temple. While worship has its supreme place in the religious life of every man, there is something else. They did not criticise the poor fellow; they helped him. And our question is how they helped him? They did not give him money. They had none, and they did not feel the pressure of the limitation either; they felt they could solve the problem without it. The silver and gold in the moral sphere are not good and congenial surroundings, congenial work and good advice and ideals. The Christian Church does not stand merely for philosophic help and the gospel of good surroundings. Peter and John six months before would not have been morally equipped to face this problem; they did not then possess God nor did God possess them. They were companions of Christ, but they did not possess His spirit. But now they were wholly possessed by the Spirit of God, and that was the first step toward the solution of the problem before them. And it is the first step to-day. You and I can never help the lame man until we not only possess God but are possessed by Him.

Another element in the solution of the problem was that the two were in perfect accord. Six months before Peter had forsaken Christ, while John alone ran the gantlet in the terrific blast of passion in the city of hate, but Peter never again shirked his duty. John had been ambitious for the supreme place among the apostles, but now he had grown in grace and lost the passion for prominence. Friends, the same conditions are necessary to-day in solving the problem of the morally lame on the part of the Church of God as were manifested on that day.

The love of prominence must go, whether it be of individual or church, or denomination. Passion must cease. One of the reasons why the church of God is not omnipotent is because there is still this lust for prominence on the part of individuals, churches and denominations, and instead of self abandon we are absolutely too self-conscious, every one of us. Again they solved it in giving the power of Christ to the man: "In the name of Jesus Christ rise up and walk." The communication of ideals will never save men from moral lameness. Ideals must live in personality. That is the difference between Christianity and everything else. It is the communication of power, the touch of God—the touch of divine power in the heart. Let us feel it this morning. "In the name of Jesus of Nazareth, rise up and walk." Let it touch upon your weakness. It is here. Let it do for you and me what it did for that lame man.

It breaks the power of cancelled sin,
And sets the prisoner free.

That is what Peter and John did. Think of it! There was the lame man; there was the critical public; there was the memory of their own past failures, and there was the power of Christ. It conquered them all, and the man arose, and stood up. Not only did he stand, but the solution of this problem included every other. He can earn his own living now, and needs not assistance. Every problem of life is bound up in the problem of the lame man being straightened and strengthened. It is smooth sailing after that. Lastly, the man became a benefactor and praised God. He inspired the faith of men. Before, his very presence created pessimism; now it was faith and praise. The atmosphere of the man became a factor and an asset in the progress of the world. We are either contributors to or exhausters of the moral life of the world. Which is it? My subject gathers round these two points: First, the lame man, and, second, the men who through the instrumentality of Jesus Christ cured him. We as Christians stand in the apostle's place. Let us, under Christ, cure the lame, and if we stand in the lame man's place Christ will make us whole. May we, like Peter and John, help the lame man to praise his God and inspire our fellow men for Christ's sake!

The Upward Look.

"It is of no use to tell me to look forward," said one in great trouble, the other day, to a friend. "The worst of my trouble, I know lies ahead. To look back upon the past, before this shadow came, simply adds to my agony, I can only sit in the darkness, and shut my eyes to everything, and bear as best I may."

"There is always one way left," said the friend, gently. "When we cannot look forward or backward we can look upward, I have been in every whit as hard a place as you, and I sat a long while in the darkness before finding the way out. Try the upward look—it is meant for just such sorrows as this, which seem to shut in the soul inexorably. If we look up, we never look in vain."

"Time alone can help such sorrows as yours," said a woman who called herself a Christian, to a bereaved friend lately. There was no upward look suggested there. A heathen could have said as much. Time only can dull the edge of pain; the upward look robs suffering of its sting surely and lastingly. It is always possible to lift our eyes to the sky; and though at first, perhaps, we see only the clouds, we shall find it true before long that "Over all our tears God's rainbow bends."

God's Way of Escape.

The steamer plied its way among the Thousand Islands. Often its course was toward a rocky height or a wooded shore. Surely unless the engines were speedily reversed the vessel would be wrecked. One turn of the pilot's wheel, and before us spread the glory of the inland sea, and unimpeded was the channel to it. With—not before or after—the temptation or trial He provides a way of escape.—Pacific Baptist.

Power of Example.

No man is so insignificant as to be sure his example can do no hurt. Every one of us is watched unconsciously by some pair of eyes, and no action goes absolutely unnoticed, though we may think so. To set some kind of an example is the doom—and the privilege—of every human being.

Live New Life Now.

To be always intending to live a new life, but never find time to set about it—this is as if a man should put off eating and drinking and sleeping from one day to another, until he is starved and destroyed.—Tillotson.

No Lack of Revelation.

For the man to whom our natural intelligence is equal to the soul's necessity for finding God there is no lack of revelation. The universe is full of visions and of voices.—John White Chadwick.

A Kind Act.

If we embrace every opportunity to do a kind act and be always ready, willing and anxious to lend a hand to those in trouble or sorrow, we will surely receive much kindness in return.

(From the Chicago Journal, Nov. 6, 1905.)

When Commissioner Garfield went to the Chicago packers and asked permission to inspect their books, the condition was made that no information he might obtain therefrom would be used in court proceedings against them.

Mr. Garfield gave this pledge, it is stated, and the packers allowed him to study their business in all its details from the inside.

Now, it is announced, the results of his study have been turned over to the Government department of justice to be employed in legal prosecution of the packers.

Commissioner Garfield would not have ventured to give the pledge that was demanded by the packers without instructions from Washington. He pledged, not his own word, but the Government's. It is not his good faith, but the Government's, that is in question now.

The Journal has no concern for the packers, except as they are citizens of Chicago. If it can be proved that they are guilty of engaging in a conspiracy in restraint of trade, they ought to be punished.

But their guilt, if they are guilty, must be fairly proved. They must be given a square deal.

Since the Government has elevated its vision to such a height as to overlook the nest of defiant criminal trusts almost within the shadow of the capitol dome, in order to fasten itself a thousand miles away upon Chicago, the Government and the President cannot be too careful to avoid suspicion that they are more anxious to prosecute Western offenders than offenders in the East.

Some of the methods already employed in this case have not been particularly distinguished for decency. When the Government enters a man's house and takes his private papers, when it drags the wives of packing house employes into court and puts them under heavy bonds, it is hardly dignified, not to say honorable, nor even respectable.

STOPS BELCHING.

Cures Bad Breath—Positive and Instant Cure Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.

A sweet breath is priceless.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure bad breath and bad taste instantly. Belching and bad taste indicate offensive breath, which is due to stomach trouble.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify the stomach and stop belching, by absorbing foul gases that arise from undigested food, and by supplying the digestive organs with natural solvents for food.

They relieve sea or car sickness and nausea of any kind.

They quickly cure headache, correct the ill effect of excessive eating or drinking. They will destroy a tobacco, whisky or onion breath instantly.

They stop fermentation in the stomach, acute indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in the stomach and intestines, distended abdomen, heartburn, bad complexion, dizzy spells or any other affliction arising from a diseased stomach.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

1225 A FREE BOX. 130

Send this coupon with your name and address and druggist's name for a free box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, a cure for stomach trouble, to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

There is a boom in mushrooms this year in England.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The cost of getting out lumber has not increased in Mississippi.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, price, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

London's first Turkish bath under municipal control was opened recently. A bath costs 50 cents.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If y … sore, thin, diseased, hot … have blood
po … ting sores,
… ps,

t a p ca
and

T
supp

Th moan
to all and even prey.

Import amount
$1,518,462

The cat
in India h

TH
OF
IN PILG

LONG, long ago, there
The Rock. It lay in shallow Mud Flats
Bay, looking out the ocean and W
for What was
When at last It
The Rock remained Cold and
ing. It knew Its Own Wor was in December, 1620.
Then the Pilgrims land and the Rock and called It Theirs did not build a Fence Around
First Season, for they had Some Else to Do beside Knocking off P of It to keep in their Writing for paper weights and Curios
There were One Hundred O
grims and the baby Perigu
White, who came on board that he didn't have to Pay any sage Money.

"ONE DAY GOV. BRADFORD T
THE LITTLE CAPTAIN B
THE BUTTONHOLE."

"Massachusetts Bay is Not V ia," said Myles Standish as he his Feet on the Rock. This w Joke and the Rock Felt It.
Then Standish got Ready to it Warm for Jones, the Master o
Mayflower, for landing them T
But there was so much Snow an that it was too Big a Contract

BUYING

sides, Governor Carver said he a man of Peace, and there w
Proof that the Dutch had agr
Put up Boodle for Jones if he h
the Pilgrims outside Manhatt ony Limits.
Somehow, The Rock wasn't
Date as a place for Housekeeping
the Log houses the Pilgrims didn't have Furnaces and M Conveniences enough to suit though he got into Hot and Water whenever he met Standi he sailed away with the May for England.
Then the Young Wives and the children. Even some Strong Me the gentle Governor Carver A and less each day. Often not
But the Less they Ate the More Prayed, Singing weakly, "I'm grim, I'm a Stranger, I can Ta can Tarry but A Night." And O
One they set off on a Longer Jo Alone.
In the spring there were so widowers and bachelors that th men were not Tempted to waste and money in Matrimonial Age but only had to Decide Whom would Condescend to Marry.
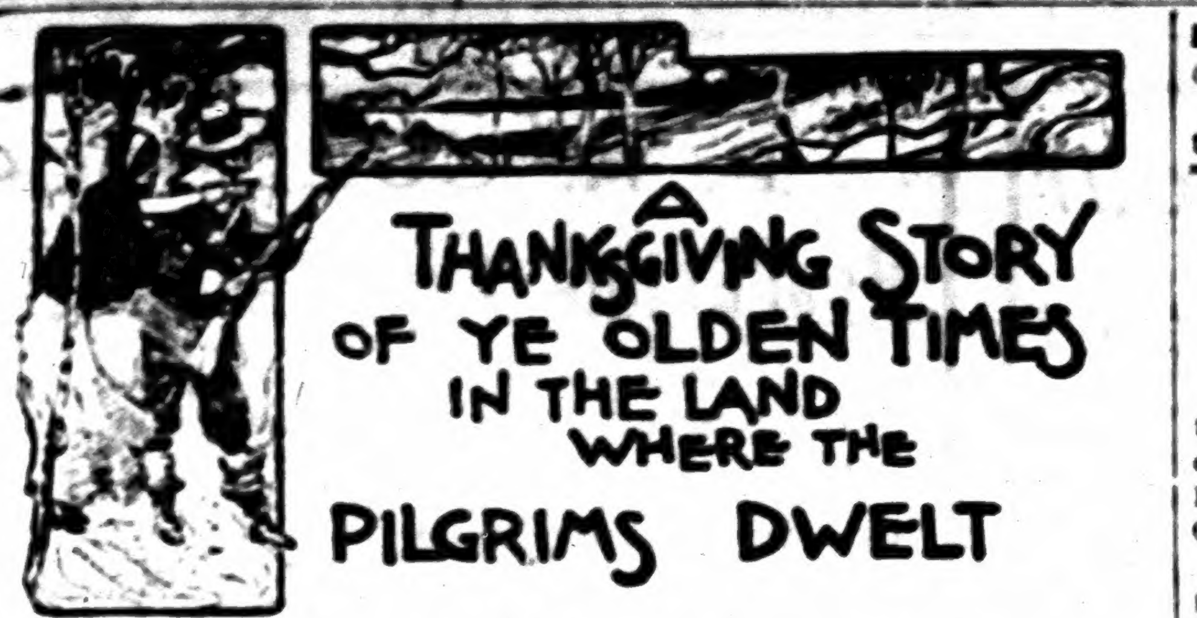
This Deciding Things troubled
Priscilla was the F

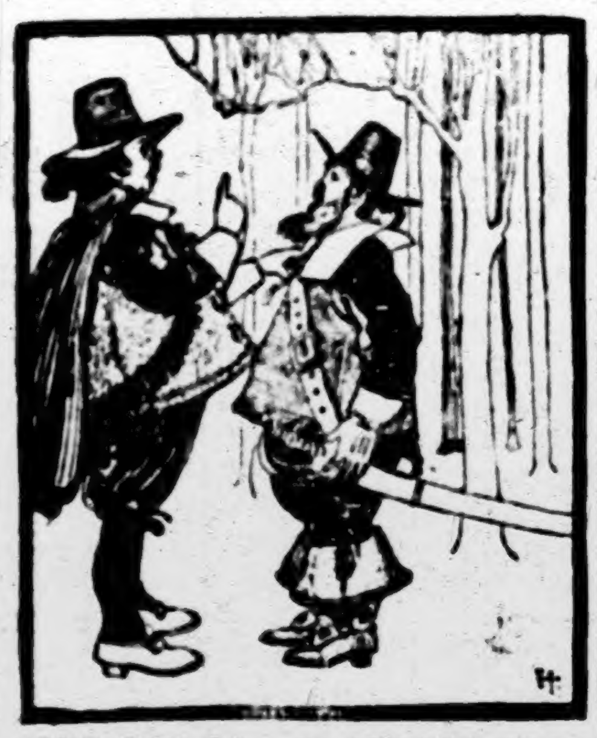


A THANKSGIVING STORY OF YE OLDEN TIMES IN THE LAND WHERE THE PILGRIMS DWELT

LONG, long ago, there was The Rock. It lay in the shallow Mud Flats of the Bay, looking out across the ocean and Waited for What was Coming. When at last it came The Rock remained Cold and Unsmiling. It knew its Own Worth. This was in December, 1620.

Then the Pilgrims landed and Took the Rock and called it Theirs. They did not build a fence Around it the First Season, for they had Something Else to Do beside Knocking off Pieces of it to keep in their Writing desks for paper weights and Curios.

There were One Hundred One Pilgrims and the baby, Perigination White, who came on board so late that he didn't have to Pay any Passage Money.



"ONE DAY GOV. BRADFORD TOOK THE LITTLE CAPTAIN BY THE BUTTONHOLE."

"Massachusetts Bay is Not Virginia," said Myles Standish as he wiped his Feet on the Rock. This was No Joke and the Rock Felt it.

Then Standish got Ready to make it Warm for Jones, the Master of the Mayflower, for landing them There. But there was so much Snow and Ice that it was too Big a Contract; besides, Governor Carver said he was a man of Peace, and there was No Proof that the Dutch had agreed to Put up Boodle for Jones if he landed the Pilgrims outside Manhattan Colony Limits.

Somehow, The Rock wasn't Up to Date as a place for Housekeeping, and the Log houses the Pilgrims built didn't have Furnaces and Modern Conveniences enough to suit Jones, though he got into Hot and Cold Water whenever he met Standish, so he sailed away with the Mayflower for England.

Then the Young Wives and the little children, Even some Strong Men, and the gentle Governor Carver Ate less and less each day. Often not at all. But the Less they Ate the More they Prayed, Singing weakly, "I'm a Pilgrim, I'm a Stranger, I can Tarry, I can Tarry but A Night." And One by One they set off on a Longer Journey Alone.

In the spring there were so many widowers and bachelors that the women were not Tempted to waste Time and money in Matrimonial Agencies, but only had to Decide Whom they would Condescend to Marry.

This Deciding Things troubled Priscilla Molines. Priscilla was the French Maid. She Laughed a Great Deal, for her Teeth were Small and even as a Squirrel's. She was the Best Cook in Plymouth Colony, and she could Shrug her Shoulders and look out of the Tail of her Eye at a Man. Other girls said she had Red Hair.

One day Governor Bradford took the Little Captain by the Buttonhole. Said he: "Myles, I'm going to talk to you like a Dutch Uncle. You Ought to Marry. It is your duty to the Commonwealth to Become a Family Man."

Standish wagged his Red Beard. "Oh, Come Off, Will Bradford," says he, "I'm in shape to Blow the Heads off of the Indians for you, but don't say Marry to me." But Bradford Kept On saying it.

Next day Standish walked out to the green Wheat Field on the hillside. Rose Standish slept beneath it with Fifty others from the Colony. Then he thought of Priscilla Molines and the way she Laughed at the Men. Myles Standish Groaned. Then he Thought Out a Pretty Plan.

There was John Alden. John was a big, soft-hearted Strawberry Blonde. Priscilla Looked at him Frequently, but he Never said Anything.

John and the Captain lived together. Myles wasn't much for Size, but he Didn't have his red beard for Nothing, and he Bossed John. John would do anything for him.

Myles went home and he said: "John go and tell Priscilla Molines that I am Ready to Marry her."

John nearly Fell to Pieces. He had been trying for a Month to get his Grit up and ask her for Himself. He Gulped twice and said: "Yes, sir." He Jammed his hands into his Hip pockets and Started to the Elder's house. He Forgot his Hat.

Priscilla was Spinning. She asked Were the Savages Coming? He said he did not Know, he Hoped so, and that Myles Standish was Ready to Marry Her.

Priscilla's eyes looked Dangerous, and she said Something in French. John could not Understand it, so he Began to Explain. The Captain was Too Busy to go Courting, so he sent him.

Priscilla said she did not Like little Men, and there could be too much Red Hair In One Family.

John felt Better and told her how Kind and Honorable and Brave and Gentle and generally Elegant the Captain was, until Priscilla's Thread got Tangled up. She took a Step Toward John. She Tipped up One Shoulder and looked Down at him from the Corner of her Eye. Her lips were Red. "Why don't you Speak for Yourself, John?" she said. Then John Took a few Steps and her Thread Broke and She Ran away.

But Myles Standish was Mad Clear Through.

Well, the Pilgrims Worried through the Summer, though there was Plenty of Nothing but Prayer and Privation.

"All Fasting and no Feasting makes me Weary," said Governor Bradford, so after the Harvest, in November, he Ordered a Week of Feasting and Thanksgiving. Massasoit and Ninety Braves were Invited, just to show them that the White Men Forgave the Indians for Living.

The Indians came early and Brought their Appetites. Most of the Pilgrims were in Bed. Massasoit did not Ring the Doorbells. He merely gave a few Playful Warwhoops and his braves did the Rest. The Pilgrims Got Up.

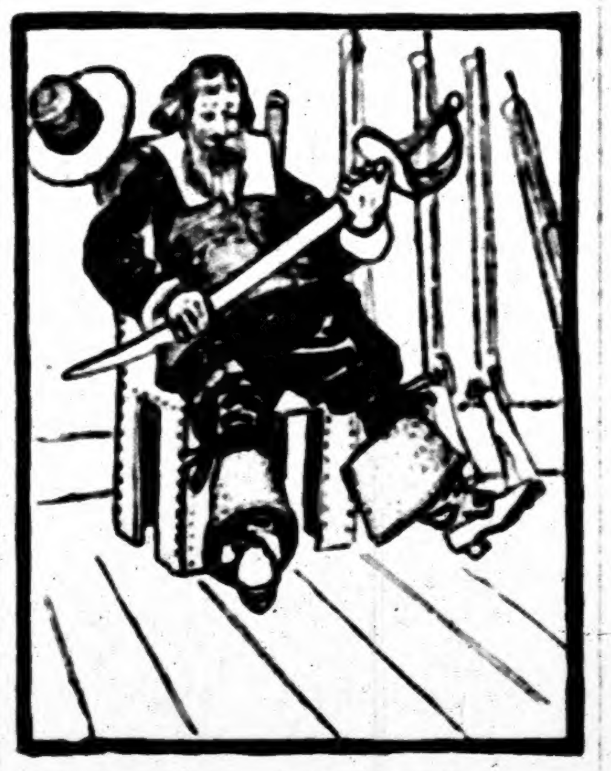
"A Dog does not Bite the Hand that Feeds him," said the governor. "Fly around girls, and get Breakfast."

This was the Bill of Fare:

Hasty Pudding, Treacle.
Clam Chowder.
Cold boiled Venison.
Turnips.

When the Guests Left the table there wasn't Anything else left except the Dishes, and not having Pockets, Massasoit and his Braves did not Carry Away the Spoons as Souvenirs.

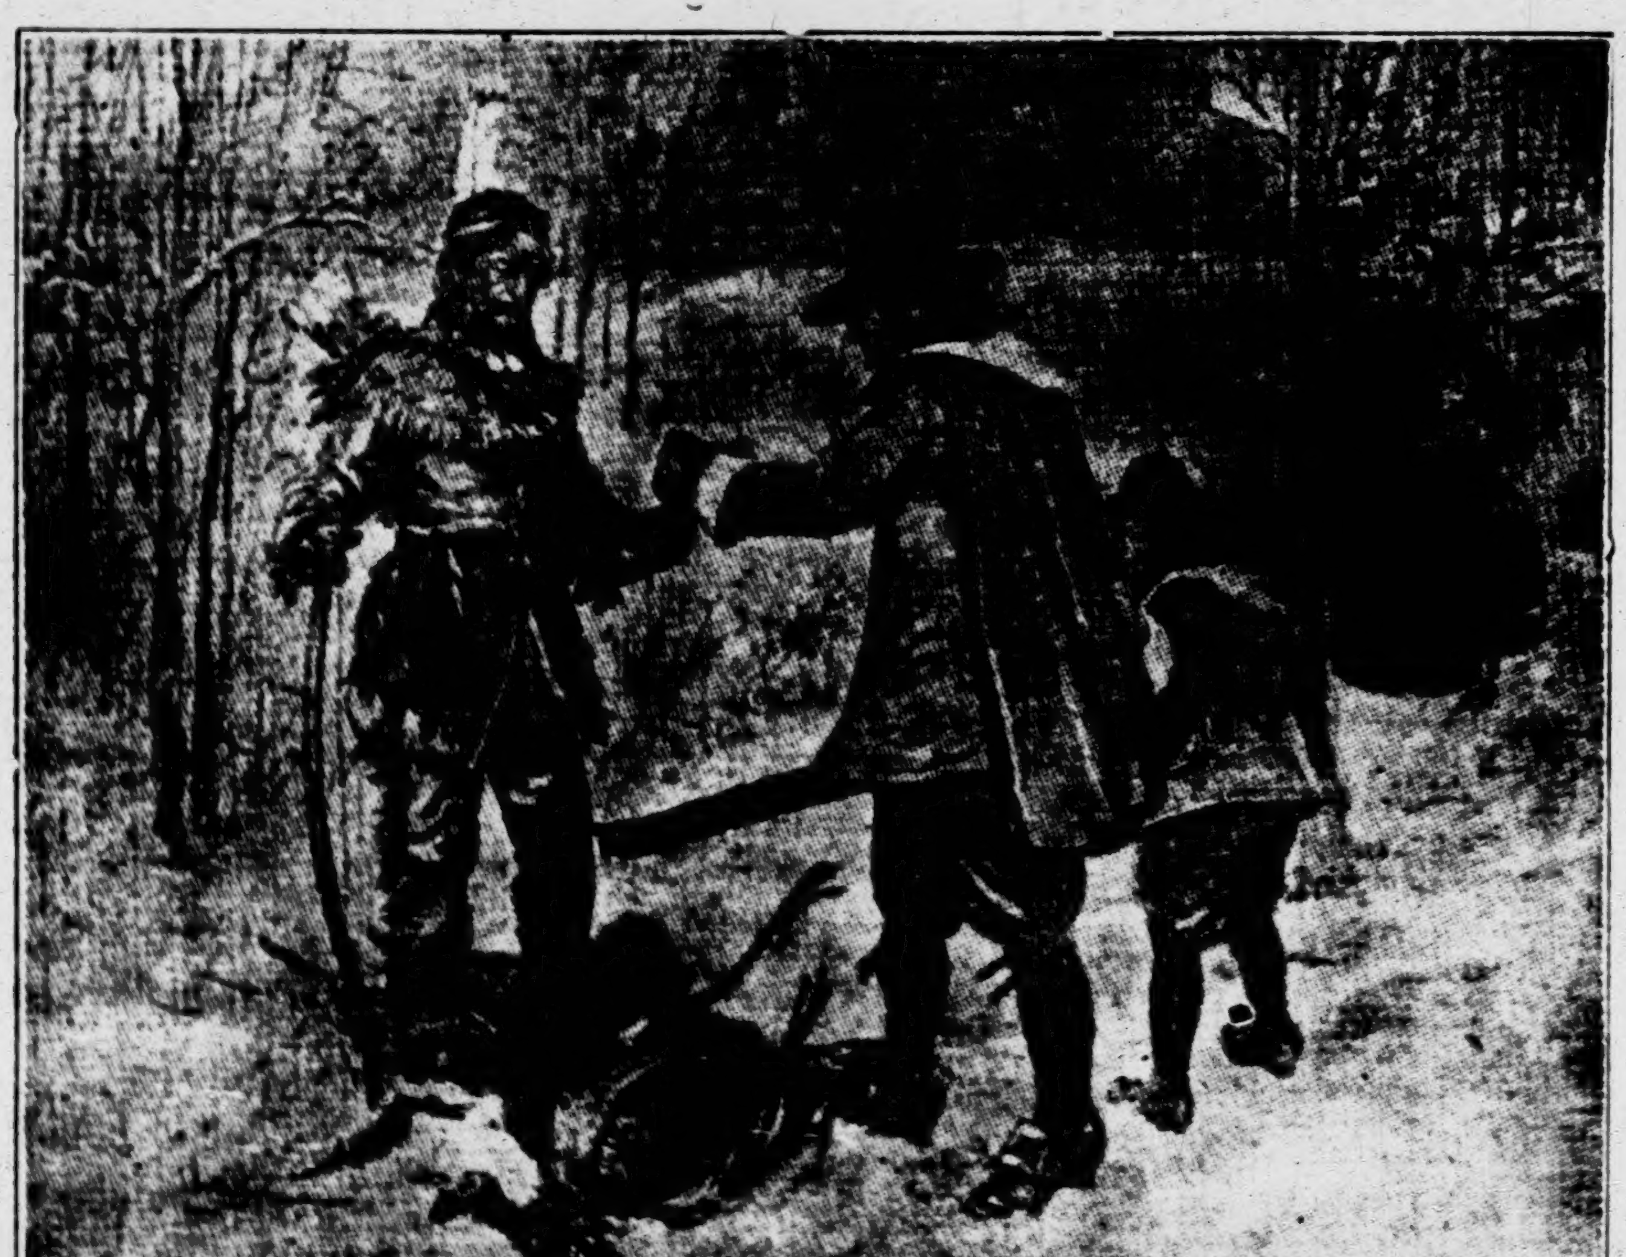
Next Captain Standish had his Innings. The Captain Played in Great Form. He marched his Army of Nineteen Men down the fort by Twos and Threes and Fours. They made Hollow squares and Every Old Thing he could think of. They Blazed away with the Cannon on Top of the Fort, and the cannon on the Hill. Then they All fired together into the air. At this Time Massasoit decided that it would be a Good Plan to go deer Hunting. So he and his Braves Went.



"MY SWORD IS A GOOD WIFE, MARRIAGE IS A FAILURE ANYHOW."

Priscilla sang, "I Don't Care If They Never Come Back," but they did, and brought Deer and Turkeys and Oysters by the Bushel. Priscilla Bossed the other women and John Alden and they Cooked and Cooked, and the Men Ate and ate, just as they do Now, for Three Days.

When Captain Standish saw John Alden bringing Wood and Water for Priscilla, and Opening oyster shells and Standing Close by Her, and heard her Singing he turned and looked at the Wheat Standing Untouched on the Hillside. Then he went up into the little fort and Cleaned up the Guns, saying to Himself, "Well, what's the Difference? My Sword is a Good Wife. Marriage is a Failure Anyhow."—Detroit Free Press.



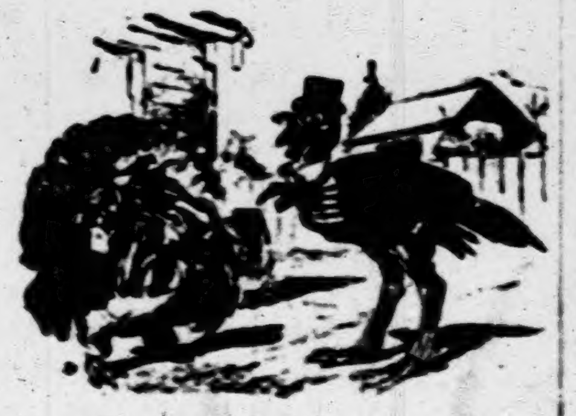
BUYING THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

A Picture of Puritan Days, Drawn by Lynn B. Hunt.

The Limit.

Mrs. Muggins—"Do your new neighbors do much borrowing?" Mrs. Buggins—"They try to. I had a turkey hanging out of the back window, and they sent over yesterday to know if I would lend it to them until after Thanksgiving."

No Courage to Exhibit.



Tom Turkey—"I've heard Mrs. Farmer say that you seem to be afraid of her."

Tobias Turkey—"Yes; I'm willing to let her have that impression. I've heard that the bravest are the tenderest."—Puck.

Fact and Fancy for Little People

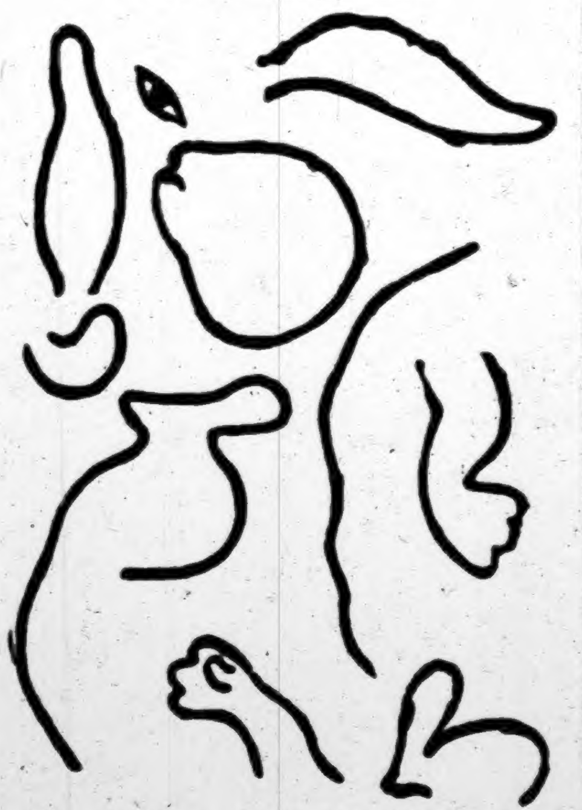
The Little Wildflowers.

The little Wildflowers to sleep have gone,
'Way down in their cozy beds,
A thick, brown blanket of leaves they've drawn
Right over their little heads.
For well they know cold weather's about—
The time when Jack Frost appears
And that some night, if they don't watch out,
He'll come and bite off their ears.

They know that his partner, Mr. Snow,
Will also in time be due,
For old Mother Nature told them so,
And they know that it must be true.
So, tightly tucked in their beds they lie,
And laugh in their dreams so fair,
To think that neither, in passing by,
Will be able to find them there!

The little Wildflowers are tired of play,
And weary of field and sun,
The birds and the bees have gone away,
The song of the rain is done.
So now they nod on their beds of sod,
While winter winds o'er them sing,
And sleep so deep, knowing well that God
Will awaken them in the spring.
—Outlook.

Curved Line Puzzle.



By joining correctly the above curved lines a young animal will appear. Try pasting together on a sheet of white cardboard.

Baby Beaver's Dam.

"I know of a naturalist down in eastern Maine," said a well-known Maine college profession, "who wouldn't be convinced that beavers could build dams until he saw it done with his own eyes. One day I bought a baby beaver of a hunter who traps them, and sent him to my skeptical friend. He grew greatly attached to the little fellow, and kept him in the house, but he often wrote to me that his beaver didn't show any propensity at all for dam-building.

"On Monday, washing day, his wife set a leaky pail full of water on the kitchen floor. The beaver was in the kitchen—he was only a baby then, too—and he saw the water oozing out of a crack in the pail. He scampered out into the yard, brought in a chip and began building his dam.

"The naturalist was summoned. He watched the little fellow, thunderstruck. Said he:

"'Leave that pail there, wife, till doomsday, if need be, and let's see what the little fellow will do.'

"The beaver kept it up for four weeks, until he had built a solid dam clear around the pail.

"My naturalist friend is quite a beaver man to-day. They say, you know, that way down east there is a beaver dam that $200,000 couldn't buy the like of. Oh, men don't know everything! The wasp knew how to make paper before we did."

The Ice Plant.

HERE is a picture of the ice plant. The leaves are covered with glistening bladder-shaped hairs that sparkle in the sun like particles of ice. The hatchet-leaved marigold has a leaf exactly like an axe or cleaver. The whole plant of the Hottentot fig or kou is beaten or twisted by the natives, then is allowed to ferment and is chewed like tobacco. It is intoxicating, and also acts like opium in dulling the senses. In this country the mesembryanthemum is only found, as a rule, in greenhouses.

Take Care of Your Dog.

Keep a dish of fresh water where your dog can get at it at night or by day. Dogs need to drink often, says Our Four-Footed Friends, and many of the diseases of dogs are caused by the need of fresh water.

If you keep your dog in a kennel see that it is raised at least six inches from the ground. A damp kennel causes rheumatism.

When a dog is getting old and infirm do not allow him out on the streets alone. An old dog, lost and bewildered, is a pitiful sight.

Do not keep a dog chained; it will make him stupid, sullen and vicious, and is a cruelty to such an active animal. House dogs should be exercised twice a day.

Do not let your dog follow your bicycle or automobile unless you wish him to have fits or drop with exhaustion and heat.

War Dogs in Germany.

In the German army organization there is a regular system of dog drilling. The dogs are trained to go with the ambulance corps, seek out the wounded, bring them water and help to draw them on little hand carts to the field hospital, says Golden Days. They perform all these services with intelligence and skill. They are attached to some of the regiments as regular four footed soldiers.

The first lesson which they have to learn is silence. They are taught to repress the outbreak of barking and to replace this mode of signaling by a low growl, audible only to their friends. It is a difficult lesson, but a more tedious one has to follow. This is to teach the dog that men are friends and enemies, and that the way to distinguish them is by the color of their trousers. Soldiers are dressed up in French and Russian uniforms and made to whip the dogs, while soldiers in German uniforms are told off to pet the canine recruits and regale them on sausage.

The dogs render good service at the outposts, on account of their quick sense of hearing; and they are also trained muscular strength, their quickness in learning and their unobtrusive color. For ambulance service, however, Scotch collies are considered the best.

A Rainy Day Game.

When you are shut up in the house the next rainy day, and don't know what to do, instead of fussing and fretting why not play the game of horses' tails?

Go to the window and keep a sharp lookout for every horse you see approaching, then guess the color of its tail. The one who guesses correctly scores five, while those making a mistake must pay a forfeit. The player first scoring twenty-five wins the game.

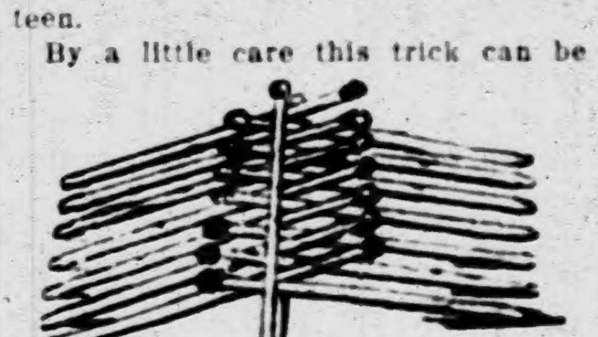
You must vary this game by trying to guess the length of the tail as well as the color.

For forfeits you can have the children play horse, letting others drive them, or ride a rocking horse, or get down on their hands and knees and pretend to be a horse drinking water at a trough, or neigh as much like a horse as possible.

Trick With Matches.

Who will lift fourteen matches by one match? The figure will show you the way. Have fifteen matches. Put one on a table in front of you, with the head pointing away. Beginning on the left side, put a match across this first match, leaving about a half inch stick out; place the second match in the same way from the right side, and so on alternately till thirteen are used. Then put the fourteenth match exactly above the under one on the crossed heads of the thirteen.

By a little care this trick can be done so quickly and easily that the matches can be carried to another table.



Queer Customs.

Some boys and girls may have grown-up brothers and sisters who are engaged to be married. If so, you know how excited you were when you first heard the news. If you lived out in Afghanistan, however, such an occasion would be even more exciting, as the customs of becoming engaged there are very strange indeed.

In that far Eastern country, if a young man wishes to marry, he goes to the father of the girl he has chosen and asks for her hand. Before the father grants it he seeks a priest and makes an offering to the god of marriage to see if it approves. If the god approves, as it usually does when enough money is given, the priest lets out blood from the arms of the young man and his future father-in-law.

After this the lover lives at the expense of the young woman's father, for a month, at the close of which the father invites him to a solemn festival, when the approaching marriage is sealed by making cuts in the arms of both young people, and mixing their blood in a bowl.

Then, what a time follows! A family council is called immediately, at which the engaged young lady appears, all bedecked with jewels, her face smeared with butter and a cord around her neck. Poor thing! She must meekly listen while her lover quarrels with her father about how much money he must pay for her. Sometimes this money question takes a long time, as each tries to get the better of the other. It is not until the lover has paid over the money for his bride that he can take her home.

An engagement ring such as civilized peoples have is ever so much nicer than the Afghan blood-letting, buttered faces, paying of money to idols and fathers-in-law, is it not?

In the province of Saratov the bow is said to be under the control of three angels, one of whom pumps the water, the second "feeds" the clouds, and the third sends the rain. Many improbable and impossible things would happen if you could only get in reach of "the bow."

The little Turk is told that if he would have a silver head, with gold teeth and ruby eyes, he has but to touch the orange stripe.

In Greece they say that the person so unfortunate as to stumble over the end of the bow will have his or her sex immediately changed.—Golden Days.

A FATHER SONG.

Must all thy songs be mother songs,
My honey baby boy?
Do poets write no other songs,
That father's name employ?
Why, then, I'll right the monstrous wrong,
Come, boy, and hear thy daddy's song.

But first a toss high in the air,
To hear his merry shout,
And then a tickle here and there,
To bring the dimples out,
And then a romp upon the bed,
O precious little tousle head.

Now, then, wee barefoot boy, take care!
Run swiftly o'er the floor,
And father'd be a bruin bear,
And growl and bite and paw!
Why, bless us boy, what flimsy stuff!
Dad's song is rag-time, sure enough.

There, now of play we've had our fill,
'Tis cuddle time, I know (How very bright his eyes are still!)
"Hush, baby mine, by-low!"
Come, come, you little rascal you,
Dad's had enough of peek-a-boo!

Hush, hush, my boy, to sleep with thee!
(I wish his mammy'd come!)
Thy father'll turn into a bee,
If longer he must hum.
Ah, well, to lull a child to rest,
A mother song perchance is best.
—Pauline Frances Camp, in the Boston Transcript.

Jingles and Jests

"Yes, poor fellow, he's a friend of mine." "Indeed?" "Same thing; in need."—Philadelphia Press.

"I have here," said the poet, "some fugitive verse——" "All right," said the editor, wearily, "let it fly!"—Town and Country.

The standing armies of this sphere,
The German, Russian, Japs,
Are naught to "standing army" here
That clings to street car straps!

"Violet has married one man out of a thousand." "Well, the law won't allow her to marry any more, what do you expect?"—Judge.

"Briefs was sure that the expert's testimony would clear his client." "Yes, but unfortunately it was understood by the jury."—Brooklyn Life.

"What do you know about the world, sir? Didn't you spend your youth in a theological seminary?" "Ah, but it was right next to a girl's college."—Life.

When the mercury soars skyward
And the world is in a stew,
Smite the man who puts the question!

"Do you think that republics are ungrateful?" "Well," answered Senator Sorghum, "they may be more or less ungrateful, but they are not necessarily unremunerative."—Washington Star.

Lady—"What is the real difference between an apartment, a flat and a tenement house?" Janitor—"In an apartment the ladies don't have no children; in a flat they has one or two. More than two makes any house a tenement, mum."—Judge.

"Aren't you ashamed to swear at that mule in that manner?" asked the respected citizen. "Yes," answered the driver, "but I ain't as 'shamed as I would be to swear at a golf ball or an automobile or something else that couldn't possibly take notice. I've at least got an object in view."—Washington Star.

The New Cook (suspiciously)—"Are yez sure I never worrked f'r yez before?" Mrs. Subton (nervously)—"I—I—I don't think so, Miss Hogan—but my memory is rather poor." The New Cook—"So's me own, but iv I find I've been brought here under false prittinces it won't be well f'r yez, mind that!"—Puck.

Benevolent Lady—"Now, mind that you don't go and spend that at the first public house you come to." Disreputable Old Pauper—"You bet I won't, mum. You means the 'Spotted Dog.' Not me! You're a good judge, you are. I'm for the 'Green Duck,' further on. I agrees with you—the 'Spotted Dog' ain't no class at all."—Punch.

All Happy But the Lamb.

At the dinner which George Harvey gave in New York in honor of Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen, a young Russian officer was seated beside H. H. Rogers. "I admire your country," said the Russian, "because it is so peaceful. Politicians, financiers, the laboring classes, business men, ministers—all dwell amicably together, one happy family."

Mr. Rogers laughed. "One happy family," he said. "Yes; such a happy family as P. T. Barnum, our great showman used to exhibit. This family consisted of a lion, a tiger, a bear, a wolf and a lamb, all penned together in one cage."

"'Remarkable,' a visitor said one day, to Mr. Barnum. 'Remarkable, impressive, instructive. And how long have these animals dwelt together in this way?'

"'Seven months,' Barnum answered; 'but the lamb had occasionally to be renewed.'"—New York Tribune.

Irish Voice Culture.

Danny McCaffrey is a well-known chorus man, with a telling tenor voice. He has been with the Bostonians and many other companies of the comic opera variety. At a recent rehearsal Danny's voice was swinging the chorus into line and carrying the music along in a way quite pleasing to the stage manager. Some of the principal performers were sitting together when Albert Parr, the tenor, asked:

"Danny, have you studied music much?"

"Some."

"What method do you use?" continued Parr.

"Irish method—main strength," was the answer.—New York Press.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton. Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

FREIGHT RATES AT CLANTON.

Why Clanton should be charged higher rate of freight than other towns is a question that is very considerably agitating the minds of the merchants of Clanton, and from information we have received there is certainly need of a reduction.

For instance, flour in car load lots, from Evansville, Louisville or St. Louis to Fayette, Berry and Oakman, Ala., towns from 55 to 75 miles west of Birmingham, and handled through Birmingham, is delivered at 40¢ per barrel, while the same goods shipped to Clanton from the same points is charged 64¢ per barrel, and Clanton is 56 miles south of Birmingham on the main line of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, requiring no transfer as in the places mentioned.

Then, again, flour shipped from those northern cities to Montgomerp, is carried through Clanton, 42 miles north of the capital city, and delivered at Montgomery for 24¢ per barrel less than is charged to Clanton. This is certainly unjust discrimination against Clanton.

Again, we are handicapped in cotton rates. Our rate on cotton to Boston, Mass., is 90½¢ per 100 pounds, and this is a better rate than we have to any other point. Fayette, Berry and Oakman have a rate of 49¢ to points in Carolina, as also have Maplesville, Sylacauga and other of our nearby competing towns the same distance from Birmingham; and these places can afford to pay ½¢ more than Clanton on account of this high rate of freight imposed on us.

Clanton merchants ask that they be placed on the same rate as other towns and that this discrimination against our trade be removed. They request that the rate on flour from Evansville, Louisville or St. Louis be reduced to 40¢ per barrel, and that a joint rate of 49¢ per 100 pounds be made on cotton to Carolina points. These demands are only reasonable and should be granted at once.

Shaved While He Slept.

"My first day in India," said the tourist, "I was surprised when I awoke in the morning to feel how smooth my face was.

"'By Jove,' I said, 'how slowly my beard grew yesterday! I hardly need to shave today.'

"It is, however, a matter of religion with me to shave every morning, and so I bade the native servant, a man provided by my host, to fetch my shaving things. The native smiled.

"'But you are already shaved, sir,' he said.

"'Already shaved?' said I.

"'Yes, sir,' he answered. 'I shaved you while you slept. That is the custom here.'

"I found that he was right. I found that in India these wonderful native servants shave their masters in bed every morning without waking them.

"All through my stay in India I was shaved like that. It was almost enough to keep me in that hot and torrid country forever."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Surprise In Store.

Sweet Innocence—Papa says that you can't afford to marry. Guileful Youth—Oh, how absurd! Why, it only costs a few dollars! Sweet Innocence—Is that all? How foolish papa is! I'll tell him.

Report on Cotton Crop.

Editor Banner—I hear it harped upon freely that while I advocated holding cotton that I have sold mine. I have sold, did so on the 11th inst., and I will now proceed to explain my reasons: First: I had only about forty bales, and no where to keep it without paying storage. Second: I was away from home on trip to last three weeks, during which I could not be in full touch except by telegraph with my people. Third: After passing through Arkansas and Indian Territory, where I saw fine crops, of which not over half to two-thirds had been gathered with 150 to 500 bales laying at every gin, I decided that probably we had been deceived by reports of short crops West. So at Fort Smith I wired my boys to sell, which they did.

The next day I started south, spending a day each at McAlister, Denison and other places in Texas, and in response to a letter received at Denison and telegram at San Antonio, Texas, from the most prominent cotton firm in Alabama, on the 19th inst., I sent the following telegram:

"On leaving Memphis, Tenn., I went over Frisco via Springfield, Mo., and Vinita, I. T.; thence south to San Antonio, Texas, traveling altogether in daylight, and spending day each at Muscogee, Fort Smith, McAlister, Denison, Fort Worth, Dallas and Sherman, and from actual information and observation I report as follows: In Arkansas and Territory full crop, half gathered, fourth open but ungathered, other fourth black bolls opening of which is doubtful. In Texas all north of east and west line at Waco not over sixty-five per cent of crop was made, one-fifth of which is yet to gather. South of Waco or south half of Texas good crop made for amount planted, but all gathered and practically all ginned and sold. My estimate of crop ten and a half million bales, but believe 11¢ safe purchase."

So if I had not sold until I went through Texas would not have sold for some time yet to come. I think the stand or demand for 15¢ is out of keeping with surroundings. Think if farmers would all stand firm that 11 to 12½¢ would be the result, and which I advise.

F. A. Gulledge.

P. S. I have some good cows fresh in milk and lot good pigs now on sale. Come and see them.

Big Plant at Sheffield.

Sheffield. Ala., Nov. 26.

Progress in the construction of the big plant now being erected by the Sheffield Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company promises soon to add an important industry to this city. When the first division of the works is complete this alone will have an output of 200 tons of cast iron water pipe a day. The output of the whole plant is to be 400 tons a day. To run the first half of the establishment 400 persons will be employed and later employment will be given to some seven or eight hundred.

Interesting conditions, typical of much of the recent phenominal development of the resources of Alabama lie behind the establishment here of this formidable competitor of the United States Steel and Iron Company. In the first place, according to a representative of this company, cast iron pipe can be made more cheaply here than anywhere else in the country. In the manufacture of this pipe the cheif necessities are sufficient quantities of pig iron, coke, sand and clay. All but the coke are obtained right here and the coke is supplied by adjacent parts of the Birmingham district.

Even under these conditions, it would however, be impossible to establish this industry here without the assurance of access to to the market on equitable terms with the great output of the United States Steel and Iron Company, which hitherto has supplied something like eighty per cent of the cast iron pipe manufactured in the United States. The competition of the plants of this great concern at Chattanooga, Bessemer and Birmingham and the independent plants at Scotsdale, Pa., Columbus, O., Buffalo, N. Y., and Camden, N. J., will have to be met by the local company throughout the United States. It was upon being assured of a rate that would equalize conditions between the older and powerful establishments and this pioneer that the Sheffield Company would venture into the field. Only an elastic system of rates, such as the present one, commented a representative of the company, could make possible such an undertaking. Allow a federal commission to hold arbitrary sway in this mattar and the basic principle, that of co-operation between the railroads and the shippers on a business footing, is destroyed.

Business men here feel that the establishment of this pipe plant is only a forerunner of other similar enterprises that will be drawn here in the near future by the natural facilities that they consider unsurpassed. They are looking for a general uplift in business of every sort in consequence of the increase in the amount of capital invested here and the number of men who will find employment. The more far-seeing among them are anxious that nothing be done by the national government to hamper this development, as, they prophesy, would be the inevitable consequence of the fixing of freight rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It's hard for a man to keep still, but for a woman it's simply impossible.

Thorsby.

Sometimes our wedding bells ring at home and sometimes in Birmingham.

Miss Rosa Carden is visiting with Mrs. Rasberry.

Mr. Fred Howard of Green Bay, Wis., is here for the winter.

Mr. Turner is visiting at the Neal home.

The Anderson family has returned to Chicago.

The King family of Pennsylvania is occupying Miss Kirkeby's fine residence.

Mr. Feast was a Birmingham caller Saturday.

Rev. Hartelius went to Fruithurst Saturday.

Mr. T. T. Thorson left for Pennsylvania Nov. 25

The Sunshine Society met with Miss Alma Lefstead last week.

Miss Anna Howard went to Birmingham Saturday and is "Phalen" to return.

Prof. Von Felitze has an interesting class at the college; the studies are book-keeping, languages and penmanship.

The Misses Lucas of Vandergrif, Penn., contemplates starting a millinery and drees making establishment in our town.

Messrs. Artman and Schillhammer of Penn., are trying our climate for a season.

The young people enjoyed a delightful evening at the Howard home Nov. 27th, at a party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Phalen.

Citizen.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

PROGRAM

Sunday School Convention to be held at Clanton Baptist church, Dec. 3, 1905.

9:30 a.m. Devotional exercises, Rev. J. T. Eckford.

10. Welcome address, Rev. A. C. Swindall.

10:30. Address by Judge Carthel.

11 Organization.

2 p.m. Devotional exercises.

2:30. Reports of superintendents.

3. Home department, Miss Mary C. Gibson. Select next place of meeting.

Each and every school in Beats 4 and 11 are requested to send one or more delegates to this convention. Everybody invited.

Judge Kelly of Birmingham and E. S. Lyman of Montevallo were practicing attorneys at court this week.

Consumption

¶ There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

¶ From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take

SCOTT'S EMULSION

and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

¶ We will send you a sample free.

¶ Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Scott & Bowne
Chemists
409 Pearl Street
New York
50c. and $1; all druggists

Ask Your Own Doctor

If he tells you to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for your severe cough or bronchial trouble, then take it. If he has anything better, then take that. But we know what he will say; for doctors have used this cough medicine over 60 years.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for hard colds, bad coughs, and influenza. It has done me great good, and I believe it is the best cough medicine in the world for all throat and lung troubles."—Eli C. Stuart, Albany, Oregon.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. HAIR VIGOR.

Keep the bowels open with one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime, just one.

CIRCUIT COURT

Falll term begins at Clanton Monday, November 27, 1905.

GRAND JURY

Wheeler Fosbee, J M G Barnett, G W Hodgins, Carlton Hall, H O Fits, B H Vickers, Eugene Evans, George Mattox, J M Mims, E G Rollins, A J Atkinson, J H Thomas, W J Bone, Jesse Hays, H C Young, J N Barnes, C C Burkhalter, W L Honeycut, J S Waldrop, P S Prim.

PETIT JURY—FIRST WEEK

H H Armstrong, John Goer, H J Cole, Robert M Smith, T J Rocket, W M Pool, W H Cox, H Z Barnes, W W Devaughn, W B Vance, Joel H Gulledge, Joseph Busbee, C W Blackwell, H C Latham, John Giles, J T Chambers, T B Teel, J J Mccormick, Walter Popwell, J W Mims, J W Abbott, B G Jones, T M Pyron, J M Maddox, H M Roper, A Littleton, B L Glasscock, G A Dawson, J A Dykes, Joseph Littleton, J H Greene, S Johnson, J L Vines, J M Goer.

PETIT JURY—SECOND WEEK

Moses Popwell, Robert Wilkins, W A Huckabee, J W Harris, William E Mims, F J Fitts, J S Wright, W N Rodgers, J H Gandy, W Q Childress, T J Littlejohn, L O Burnett, J E Bearden, Felix Eiland, Green Burnett, J M Littlejohn, James M Curlee, D A Friday, G. E. Reid, John Mims, E H Arledge, W H Hadnot, M A Kilgore, Jesse Cadell, A A Ayers, B N Martin, Pate Headley, J A Langston, John W Fosbee, William Wamble, M H Marcus, P A Vauce, W G Conway, H T Littlefield, Charley Langville.

"I Thank The Lord!"

cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co. 25c.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Nov. 20, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

A. M. White, Milton Pitts, N. L. Payton, Tams Hubben, Nelson Grant.

LADIES' LIST.

Ada Washam, Zanie Rollisnson.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Dec. 11, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. Dudley, Postmaster.

Much interest is being taken by the young people of the Methodist Sunday School in the prize offered by Judge Reynolds, the Superintendent, for the one procuring the largest number of new scholars by Dec. 25, and the attendance is larger than it has been in two years.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Discount

Liberal long time loans on Improve Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Property, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cotton being held now, either on farms or i warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Dew	3 00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.00
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.00
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2 00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Grocerie
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - ALA

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

VOL. XIV

LIFE OF BABY SAVAGE

THE TREATMENT WHICH IND PAPOOSES RECEIVE FROM SQUAW MOTHERS.

Indian Redskin Very Seldom Cries Strapped to a Plank, Washed in Creek and Hung on a Tree to Out.

NAVAHOE PAPS
The Little Redskin Not Achievi

Bath Day of Papoose.

GULLEDGE

Loans and Discounts

time loans on Improved
Insurance Policies.

on good Personal Proper-ops.

advances offered on cotow, either on farms or in ress

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

ail Order House!
RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
our Mail Orders.
OODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
y	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
inia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
Whiskey	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
d	1 00	1 50
l	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
hout a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

allon		Per gallon
00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
40	Old-Style Country Club	3.40
00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

We carry a full line of wines and
dle low grade goods.

DRUG COMPANY
RATE DRUG STORE
RMINGHAM, ALA.

verything
verything of the bes

Fancy Groceries
DS, CLOTHING
HATS, ETC.

NES & BRO.
ALA

OUR!

ar Perfection just
m the mills.
rantee price and
at our expense.

NON & SONS
Clanton Furniture Co.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 7

LIFE OF BABY SAVAGE.

THE TREATMENT WHICH INDIAN PAPOOSES RECEIVE FROM SQUAW MOTHERS.

Indian Redskin Very Seldom Cries—Is Strapped to a Plank, Washed in the Creek and Hung on a Tree to Dry Out.

In the Indian papoose child nature is essentially the same as in the Caucasion babe, though there is a striking contrast in their manners, due to maternal treatment, or as a student of child nature might say, to environment. The chief differences, really, between the little Indian and the little white is that the former is less a cry-baby than the latter. The reason for this is that the white baby usually gets what he cries for if it be within mothers' power to procure it. Learning this from experience, for every mother knows how wise and shrewd the baby is, whenever he feels that a certain article would conduce to his contentment, he forthwith howls. Now, the papoose, so far from being encouraged in this vocal exercise, is repressed. His mother is unresponsive and the baby not achieving what he weeps for, soon learns that tears and wails profit not.

Perhaps if the white mother dwelt in the deserts or the mountains so that baby's crying would not disturb the neighbors even she might let him cry till weariness brought sleep, and perhaps if the redskin mother lived among sensitive neighbors she might seek to pacify the crying babe with bribes that the neighbors might not charge her with neglect of maternal duty, or her baby with an evil disposition. Yet another reason for the calm and placid habit and orderliness of the papoose as compared with his fair brother is that the darker little savage has no cradle, crib or go-cart to sport and gambol in, but is either packed tightly in a basket or strapped to a board. In this position he finds kicking and squirming uncomfortable exercise and his enforced repose develops into habit.

So, the stoicism and the taciturnity of the Indian are nurtured in early youth, though of course one reason for the Indian's lack of fluency in speech is that in his life and thought he has not the need of many words. The primitive white man was not voluble.

Bath Day of Papoose.

The papoose has no nursery luxuries as little pale-face babes understand that phrase. He has no soft and tepid water prepared for him by a faithful maid or a fond mamma. He is never lathered o'er with perfumed soap nor dusted with sweet-scented powders. At intervals, usually two or three times a week, the mothers of the tribe or band take their babies to the nearest creek, pool or spring, unstrap the little ones and tumble them into shallow water, where they have a splashing time while the mothers swap the gossip of the tribe, for squaws are very feminine in their love of personal news and chit-chat involving other squaws, bucks and braves. When the bath is ended a cloth is tied round the baby and he is hung up on the branch of a tree or a sapling till sun and wind have dried him. Then he is packed in his basket and trundled on his mother's back homeward to the family tepee.

Death for Weakling Babies.

Nearly all Indian children that one sees are hardy and well formed. This is because only those of robust constitution survive the trials and exposure of their babyhood. It is desired that only the naturally strong should survive, for it is a custom in most of the tribes to wilfully expose, suffocate or drown born weaklings or deformed babies. Death is the lot of the unhappy little baby whose health and physique are below the tribal standard.

The Albino child, and these are more common among the Indians than might be supposed, is certain to perish soon after birth, because the coming of such a child is regarded as evidence of displeasure of the Great Spirit.

The redskin babe is released from his lacings and swaddlings as soon as he is old enough to walk, and then his real child life begins. He has great freedom. When it is warm enough to go without clothes, and the Indian child is inured to cold, he tumbles and romps naked. His pets are dogs and ponies and is as fond of these as are his blond cousins. As he grows old enough to run he takes an interest in the athletic sports of the tribe and the usual young Indian games are deer and hounds, hide and seek, foot racing, pony racing, bow and arrow shooting, spear throwing, wrestling, and follow the leader.

Developing the Brave.

The child is given every possible encouragement to play and is never whipped by his parents, because it is the Indian's philosophy that whipping breaks the spirit of the child and the Indian ambition is to be brave and self-reliant. It is a fact that though the Indian child is not subject to corporal punishment and the ruder forms of discipline which white children are often made to endure, they are reverent, obedient, docile and extraordinarily respectful toward their parents and seniors. It is the Spartan quality which the mother and father strive to develop in their boys.

School of the Indian.

The Indian lad of the wilds is not oppressed with book studies. He is taught his nature lessons in the forest, among the rocks or on the plains. He learns by hunting, and camping with his elders, and every Indian lad tries to win the prize of commendation by proficiency in those nature studies which the Indian holds is the highest form of knowledge. It is around the camp fire, or the fire in the lodge, that the youth learns the traditions of his race. His mental food is composed of stories of warfare, and the chase.

The education of the Indian maiden is conducted by her mother, who teaches all the domestic arts which the Indian maid should know.

NAVAHOE PAPOOSES IN THEIR LITTLE CRIBS.
The Little Redskin Not Achieving What He Weeps For Soon Learns That Tears and Wails Profit Not

A New Planet Discovered.

Be sure to read this week's story, Nebula, a recently-discovered Orb, within a hundred miles of the earth. The story is told by the historian of the exploring party which made the most remarkable air-ship voyage on record.

Had Great Powers.

A justice of the peace for the Maine woods, addressing the judge as "Most High," was reprimanded and told that there was but one "Most High." He who had created the whole world out of nothing.

"Well, judge," he answered, "you created Si Sewell justice of the peace, and if that isn't making something out of nothing, what is?"

Song of a Dakota Blizzard.

Ye that have steers, prepare to shed them now.

On the election of Henry Addington to the chair of the House of Commons in 1789 the salary of the speaker was fixed at 6,006 pounds ($30,000) per annum.

JAPANESE YELLOW PERIL.

HIOKI CALLS IT A MYTH, ISLAND NATION'S EYES NOT ON PHILIPPINES

Japan Stands for Open Door and a Square Deal to All—American Aid Welcomed.

Japan is inclined to resent the recurrence of allegations in the newspapers of this country that she has designs upon the Philippines. In an address before the members of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, Hon. Eki Hioki, First Secretary of the Japanese Legation, expressed in no uncertain terms what is believed to be a definite statement of the policy of the Mikado with reference to the attitude of that nation in her future industrial and commercial life. Mr. Hioki lays special emphasis upon the frank and authoritative disavowals of the frequently-reported ambition of Japan to absorb the Philippine Islands for her own people.

HON. EKI HIOKI
Secretary of the Japanese Embassy.

"For the sake of argument," said Mr. Hioki, "laying aside entirely for the moment consideration of the motive of Japan regarding the present subject, let me ask you a question. Can you believe that this great American people who glory in their national spirit in their gigantic strength, in their boundless wealth, in their marvelous development, and look forward with proud and confident anticipation to the time when they shall be the first in the race civilization has set for man to run, would allow her flag to be lowered, be it in the Philippines or anywhere else which legitimately belongs to her, by any hands but hers? No, most emphatically no. That is the spirit with which you cling to your new possessions in the Pacific and that ought to be the spirit of the people who respect honor and justice.

Would Mean Gigantic War.

"And who can better understand that spirit of the Americans than the Japanese? Therefore, if Japan harbored such a sinister design as is attributed to her, she must be prepared to plunge in a war far more gigantic than the one just ended against a nation to which she owes much that she is to-day and to whose people she owes that moral and financial support so unreservedly given at the most critical period in her history. No, the Philippines are not worth the sacrifice of such a valuable friendship as that of America and the enormous losses in men and money which such a war would necessarily entail. Nor is Japan in a position to carry on another costly war, but for self-defense.

For Open Door in China.

"The increased prestige of Japan turned the eyes of the world toward the problem of what influence Japan will wield over China. Some people go so far as to assert that Japan will control China, proclaim the Monroe doctrine for Asia, and drive out from the East all the white devils and exterminate the Western influences within its borders.

"Without questioning either the value of the principles contained in the so-called Monroe doctrine or its applicability to the Eastern situation at present, I can simply say that such an idea has not entered into the Japanese mind and such a policy has not seen even the symptoms of formation. For the maintenance of the integrity and independence of China, Japan joined hands with Great Britain. For securing equal opportunities in China, Japan lent her eager efforts to the United States to make the open door policy effectively operative.

Competition with America.

"It is absurd," continued Mr. Hioki, "to say that in the course of a few years American goods will be crowded out of the Chinese market by Japanese competition. The main ground upon which rests this apprehension is that Japan has cheap labor at command. But labor in Japan does not remain cheap. The effect of the China-Japan war was to double the price of labor, and the war with Russia must raise it much higher. In spite of these disadvantages Japan must develop her commerce and industry, and she will have to compete with all the world, friend or foe. Her commercial war will be fought just as fairly and squarely as the real war She asks no favor from China that is not granted to the entire world. She stands for the open door and, in the words of your great President, 'a square deal.'"

American Capital Welcomed.

"Japan welcomes capital and material from any country. The United States is supplying materials for important Japanese industries; why can not she supply the capital? Why can there not be a commercial alliance between Japan and the United States? We are willing to divide a fair share of the profits wherever gained with any people. The United States has been, is, and will be Japan's best customer.

Future of the Orient.

"The future of the Orient is great, and the greater it is the better for the world. With peace guaranteed by the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and equal opportunities in Korea and China secured by that treaty, as well as by the agreement of the policies of the three great Pacific powers Japan, the United States and Great Britain an important era has dawned upon the Orient. During the last quarter of a century all the great events of the world have transpired in the East. For years to come the East will still be the center of the world's great happenings."

BLACK WALNUT NUTMEGS.

Bishop Potter Was Sure That He Was Tasting the Real Article.

The power of suggestion is not merely a phrase; it really is a power. It has the strength to deceive men in the matter of cigars, wines, whiskeys and what not. It is a force in medicine as every doctor knows. It is an agent in therapeutics. The power of suggestion and the force of example are intimately related. But to illustrate the pranks which suggestion may play with one's palate the following story is told on Bishop Potter, a reverend gentleman of ecclesiastic note and recent Subway Tavern fame:

In the course of his diocesan rambles he called on an old friend from the South. It was evening, and the bishop was invited to supper, not dinner, for as people of the South know, the appropriate time for dinner is midday and the meal after candle-light is supper. One of the dishes served was cottage-cheese or as it is more often called in the language of the olden time "smear-case." This is often eaten under a plentiful dressing of cream and sugar. The bishop elected to have a "mess" of "smear-case" but his appetite craved a little grated nutmeg as a flavor. This was embarrassing to the host's wife at the foot of the supper table, but she said to Aunt Dinah, who waited on table, "Aunt Dinah, bring the bishop some nutmeg."

"Dar ain't no nutmegs in de pantry," whispered Aunt Dinah.

"Well, ask Mrs. Tomlinson, next door, to lend me one."

"She ain't got none. She done use de las' she hayde in makin' egg-nog," reported Aunt Dinah.

"Well, then, run down to Miss Betsy's and see if she's got a nutmeg," said the troubled hostess, who talked with augmented vivacity and animation to make the time pass quickly till that nutmeg should be brought. Soon Aunt Dinah came in, her black face wreathed with triumphant smiles, and placed before the bishop the mess of "smear-case" generously sprinkled with grated nutmeg.

"Ah," said the bishop, speaking with that tone of complacent assurance, coming from a consciousness of a perfect familiarity with his subject, smacking his lips and beaming with a most beatific expression, "what a grateful flavor nutmeg does add to smear-case. This is the paragon of the season."

The supper dishes cleared up and the bishop gone, the hostess said to Aunt Dinah, "Be sure and get Miss Betsy another nutmeg at the store in the morning."

"Lor', Miss, Miss Betsy didn't had no nutmeg. I jes' took a piece of black walnut from de ole window sill what dat Yankee carpenter was repairin' to-day, and done grated it over de cheese.

PRESERVING THE FORESTS FROM DESTRUCTION.

CRUSADE HEADED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PREVENT FOREST FAMINE AND FLOOD RAVAGE.

RICHARD HAMILTON BYRD.

Reserving forests in the west from monopolization for private gain is a government policy with which the people have become somewhat familiar, our national forest reserves amounting now to nearly sixty million acres, but the idea of applying this principle to the older forests in the eastern states may be new to some people and yet is becoming a prominent one. Nothing is giving it popularity and importance so much as the great interest manifested by the President in the subject.

There are proposed great national reservations in the Southern Appalachian forests, in the White Mountains, in Minnesota, and in other eastern states, entirely separate and apart from the great reservations in the west. President Roosevelt is an arch disciple of forestry and the great prominence into which the subject has jumped may be indicated by the growth of the Bureau of Forestry from a small office, a few years ago, employing half a dozen people, to an institution with annual appropriations of half a million dollars, employing hundreds of trained foresters in the field, and having the supervision, actual and tentative of nearly a hundred million acres of forest.

If there ever was a national question it is forestry, and the people of the country are wise in waking up, or fortunate in being wakened up, to its overshadowing importance before irrevocable damage shall have been done.

The largest of the proposed eastern forest reserves is that in the Southern Appalachian Mountains and that its establishment is a matter of national concern was dwelt upon with emphasis by President Roosevelt in his address at Raleigh, N. C., on October 20. He pointed out how vitally southern forests affect southern industries and thus the entire country. The entire south—the territory east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio rivers is affected by this proposed reservation of some four million mountain acres in which rise all the rivers which water this area.

The President said:

"I want to say a word to you on a special subject in which all the country is concerned, but in which North Carolina has a special concern. The preservation of the forests is vital to the welfare of every country. China and the Mediterranean countries offer examples of the terrible effect of deforestation upon the physical geography, and therefore ultimately upon the national well-being of the nations. One of the most obvious duties which our generation owes to the generations that are to come after us is to preserve the existing forests. The prime difference between civilized and uncivilized peoples is that in civilized peoples each generation works not only for its own well-being, but for the well-being of the generations yet unborn, and if we permit the natural resources of this land to be destroyed so that we hand over to our children a heritage diminished in value we thereby prove our unfitness to stand in the forefront of civilized peoples.

Forest Wealth a Great Heritage.

"One of the greatest of these heritages is our forest wealth. It is the upper altitudes of the forested mountains that are most valuable to the nation as a whole, especially because of their effects upon the water supply. Neither state or nation can afford to turn these mountains over to the unrestrained greed of those who would exploit them at the expense of the future. We cannot afford to wait longer before assuming control, in the interest of the public, of these forests; for if we do wait, the vested interests of private parties in them may become so strongly intrenched that it may be a most expensive task to oust them. If the Eastern States are wise, then from the Bay of Fundy to the Gulf we will see, within the next few years a policy set on foot similar to that so fortunately carried out in the high Sierras of the west by the national government. All the higher Appalachians should be reserved, either by the states or by the nation. I much prefer that they should be put under national control, but it is a mere truism to say that they will not be reserved either by the states or by the nation unless you people of the South show a strong interest therein.

Copyrighted, R. L. Dunn

CHARACTERISTIC ATTITUDE OF THE PRESIDENT IN NORTH CAROLINA ADDRESS.

Would Prevent Floods and Create Water Power.

"Such reserves would be a paying investment, not only in protection to many interests, but in dollars and cents to the government. The importance to the southern people of protecting the southern mountain forests is obvious. These forests are the best defense against the floods which, in the recent past, have, during a single twelfth-month, destroyed property officially valued at nearly twice what it would cost to buy the Southern Appalachian reserve.

"The maintenance of your southern water powers is not less important than the prevention of floods, because if they are injured your manufacturing interests will suffer with them. The perpetuation of your forests, which have done so much for the South, should be one of the first objects of your public men. The two senators from North Carolina have taken an honorable part in this movement. But I do not think that the people of North Carolina, or of any other southern state, have quite grasped the importance of this movement to the commercial development and prosperity of the south."

The President's Message to Congress.

The special message sent to Congress by the President on the Southern Appalachian Reserve reads like a story. It touches upon the interest in the subject of the scientists and the lumberman, of the geologist and the farmer, the meteorologist and the fruit grower, the business man and the engineer, and the steamship pilot and the homeseeker. The President transmits with his message a report of the Secretary of Agriculture, prepared in collaboration with the Department of the Interior, upon the forests, rivers and mountains of the Southern Appalachian region, and upon its agricultural situation as affected by them, and says in part:

The report of the Secretary presents the final results of an investigation authorized by the last Congress. Its conclusions point unmistakably, in the judgment of the Secretary and in my own, to the creation of a national forest reserve in certain parts of the Southern States. The facts set forth an economic need of prime importance to the welfare of the South, and hence to that of the nation as a whole, and Flood Damage to Railroad Bridge on Nolichucky River, East Tennessee.

A Fallen Appalachian Giant.

FOREST DESTRUCTION ON THE APPALACHIAN MOUNTAIN RIDGES.

BULLDOG SUSPENDERS
POSITIVELY THE BEST
HEWES & POTTER,

they point to the necessity of protecting through wise use a mountain region whose influence flows far beyond its borders with the waters of the rivers to which it gives rise.

Among the elevations of the eastern half of the United States, the Southern Appalachians are of paramount interest for geographic, hydrographic, and forest reasons, and, as a consequence, for economic reasons as well. These great mountains are old in the history of the continent which has grown up about them. The hardwood forests were born on their slopes and have spread thence over the eastern half of the continent. More than once in the remote geologic past they have disappeared before the sea on the east, south, and west, and before the ice on the north; but here in this Southern Appalachian region they have lived on to the present day.

Under the varying conditions of soil, elevation, and climate many of the Appalachian tree species have developed. Hence it is that in this region occur that marvelous variety and richness of plant growth which have led our ablest business men and scientists to ask for its preservation by the Government for the advancement of science and for the instruction and pleasure of the people of our own and of future generations.

The conclusions of the Secretary of Agriculture are summarized as follows in his report:

DEBRIS FROM FLOODS ON NOLICHUCKY RIVER, MAY 21, 1901.

This mass consisted of the wreck of farmhouses, furniture, bridges, cattle and probably several human bodies, and covered 6 acres of fertile farm land near Erwin, Tenn. The Southern Appalachian region is one with an exceedingly heavy rainfall. The preservation of the forests on the mountain slopes will minimize the flood damage.

The Southern Appalachian region embraces the highest peaks and largest mountain masses east of the Rockies. It is the great physiographic feature of the eastern half of the continent, and no other such lofty mountains are covered with hard-wood forests in all North America.

Upon these mountains descends the heaviest rainfall of the United States, except that of the North Pacific Coast. It is often of extreme violence, as much as 8 inches having fallen in eleven hours, 31 inches in one month, and 105 inches in a year.

Vast Waste of Farm Soil.

The soil, once denuded of its forests and swept by torrential rains, rapidly loses first its humus, then its rich upper strata, and finally is washed in enormous volume into the streams, to bury such of the fertile lowlands as are not eroded by the floods, to obstruct the rivers, and to fill up the harbors on the coast. More good soil is now washed from these cleared mountain-side fields during a single heavy rain than during centuries under forest cover.

The rivers which originate in the Southern Appalachian flow into or along the edges of every State from Ohio to the Gulf and from the Atlantic to the Mississippi. Along their courses are agricultural, water-power, and navigation interests whose preservation is absolutelly essential to the well-being of the nation. The regulation of the flow of these rivers can be accomplished only by the conservation of the forests.

ON THE TOP OF THE APPADACHIANS

Old Grandfather Mountain.

These are the heaviest and most beautiful hard wood forests of the continent. In them species from east and west, from north and south, mingle in a growth of unparalleled richness and variety. They contain many species of the first commercial value, and furnish important supplies which can not be obtained from any other region.

A Self Supporting Scheme.

Maintained in productive condition they will supply indispensable materials, which must fail without them. Their management under practical and conservative forestry will sustain and increase the resources of this region and of the nation at large, will serve as an invaluable object lesson in the advantages and practicability of forest preservation by use, and will soon be self-supporting from the sale of timber.

The agricultural resources of the Southern Appalachian region must be protected and preserved. To that end the preservation of the forests is an indispensable condition, which will lead not to the reduction, but to the increase of the yield of agricultural products.

We are Losing Millions of Dollars Annually.

The floods in these mountain-born streams, if this forest destruction continues, will increase in frequency and violence, and in the extent of their damages, both within this region and across the bordering States. The extent of these damages, like those from the washing of the mountain fields and roads, can not be estimated with perfect accuracy, but during the present year alone the total has approximated $10,000,000, a sum sufficient to purchase the entire area recommended for the proposed reserve during the past year the flood loss was probably twenty million dollars. But this loss can not be estimated in money value alone. Its continuance means the early destruction of conditions most valuable to the nation, and which neither skill nor wealth can restore.

The preservation of the forests, of the streams, and of the agricultural interests here described can be successfully accomplished only by the purchase and creation of a National Forest Reserve. The States of the Southern Appalachian region own little or no land, and their revenues are inadequate to carry out this plan. Federal action is obviously necessary, is fully justified by reasons of public necessity, and may be expected to have most fortunate results.

With these conclusions I fully agree; and I heartily commend this measure to the favorable consideration of Congress.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,

White House, Dec. 19, 1901.

(This will be followed next week by another article on the forest, land and irrigation questions, as affecting the nation.—Editor.)

Chile Con Carne.

What is chile con carne? Every citizen of the Southwest knows it well, but perhaps there are residents of the Northern belt of the country who are probably quite unfamiliar with this toothsome dish, yet one which should be especially acceptable to the people of the northland.

Chile con carne, a Spanish term, translated literally means chile—red peppers with meat. Properly prepared, it is stimulating, warming and extremely grateful to a cold and hungry stomach. From one of our Mexican ambassadors comes the following method for preparation—a recipe direct from a famous cook in the capital of our sister republic to the South:—

"Cover two pounds of tender beef with water and push the kettle back on the stove where it will barely simmer, until the meat is in shreds. Then add six large, red, sweet peppers, seeded and cut into long narrow strips, a large onion, minced, a tiny pod of garlic and a large cupful of ripe tomatoes, chopped. Cover and simmer until the vegetables are thoroughly done. Salt to taste."

Too Much For Human Belief.

He was much pleased with the place, but was quite bored by his host, who would eulogize everything that was brought to the table. "Try some of this," he would say, "it is some of my own raising," or "this is some of our own milk, and that lettuce is from the cold-frame you saw," or "these peas are from vines I planted just four weeks ago today." All of this was endured quite patiently until the host remarked, "Now try some of this chicken, I raised it myself."

"No, no, I can never believe that," said the visitor. "You've only been here a little over one year."

IRVING AND BOOTH.

Great Actors Who Sought to Elevate the Drama.

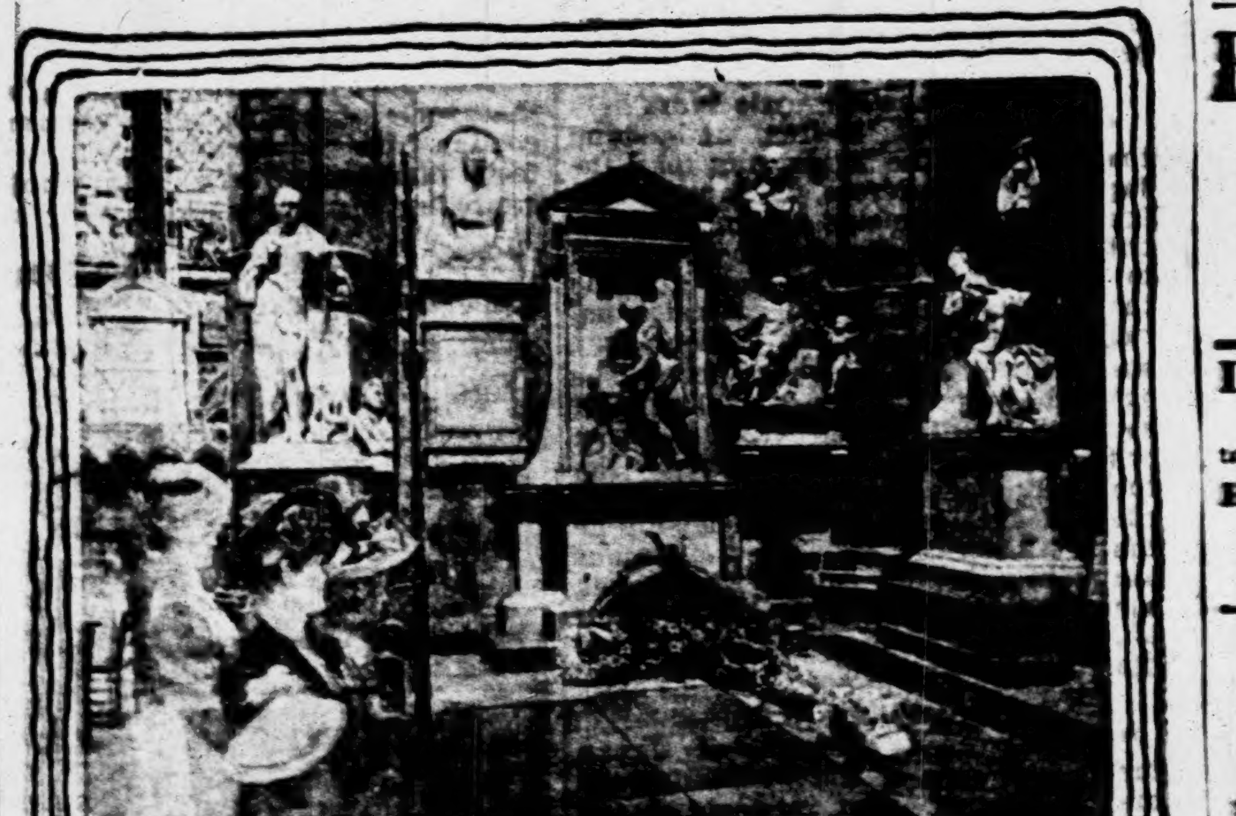
England's tribute to Henry Irving was worthy of his great powers and his great performances. It was recalled, too, with appropriate feelings, that he had made great sacrifices for his high ideals. He spent large sums in an effort to keep his London theater up to a lofty standard, but the times would not sustain him, and in his old age he was forced to take to the road again, and even to present plays of only medium merit, unworthy of his gifts, to keep his head above water. Music hall jingle and horse play, cheap but stirring melodrama, and problem plays foul with smut, had overthrown in his own capital the first actor of his day.

SIR HENRY IRVING

Our own Edwin Booth, we should all remember, trod this same hard road. After he had reached the top with us, and was rich, he established, and sought to maintain, a temple where the drama in its best estate could be enjoyed by all who held the playhouse in veneration and affection. The structure was the finest of its kind in New York, and beautifully furnished. He opened it himself, with a supporting company of unusual excellence. For a time—a time all too brief—he prospered. His till was filled every night, and praise of his enterprise and devotion to art was general and generous.

But he could not hold the public to his splendid endeavor. Taste underwent a change. What has since come to be known as the commercialization of the theatre set in, and in time Booth's venture failed. The "shows" triumphed, and the temple devoted to real dramatic art was razed to make room for a business block. Stripped of his fortune, Booth, as more recently Irving, had to return to the road and resume the habits of a wanderer. He prospered, of course, but never, as his friends believed, recovered from this blow to his professional hopes.

The subject is much discussed, and some interesting things are said on either side. But, however the public may feel, it is to the glory of these two great actors that they resisted with all their means and influence what they conceived to be the decay of taste in the line of their endeavor, and stood up to the end for the best, and presented it with undiscouraged zeal and strength.



IRVING'S LAST RESTING PLACE IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The remains of the great actor rest beside the grave of Garrick and close to that of Charles Dickens.

Pay of Russian Officialdom.

Those who keep track of affairs in Russia note the prominence of the Grand Dukes. These gentlemen of the people enjoy a sinecure unlike any other on earth. There are over fifty of them, and each is possessed of an annual income or salary of $2,000,000, all combined imposing a burden of $100,000,000 a year on the Russian people, as members or off-shoots of the Royal Family. Their property, like that of the Czar, amounting to a vast sum is untaxed. The question may well suggest itself, why should Russia want to borrow war funds in Paris when she has her Grand Dukes untapped—and even untaxed? There is a chance now on the part of these titled mendicants to display a little patriotism, by opening their cash boxes. One of them, it is true, went to the front in the Japanese War, but made such a mess of himself that he was called home in disgrace.

Everything Ready.

Uncle John, whose death was hourly expected, was asked by his weeping wife if he couldn't take a little nourishment. He sniffed the air and said: "Mary, don't I smell ham cooking? I think I could enjoy a few slices." "Oh, no, John," she answered, "that you know is for the funeral."

How long does it take to fight a duel? Two seconds.

You Can't Expect Long Life

and Prosperity

If you persist in drugging your body to cover up aches and ails.
You feel bad—then try to smother your feelings (nature's warnings with tobacco, whiskey or coffee—

The most dangerous "friends" one can mix with.

They cajole, and then kill.

RENEW YOUR LEASE OF LIFE

Stop the food and drink that does not nourish.

Go on Grape-Nuts and cream and a simple diet. Quit coffee and let old Mother Nature put you well again.

You can call in the help of a powerful friend—the food beverage,

POSTUM

"There's a Reason"

Be sure to read "The Road to Wellville" in Packages

Suggestion for an Epitaph.

Beneath these monumental stones
Lies all that's left of Susan Jones,
Her name was Chase and was not Jones
But Jones is used to rhyme with stones.

Painful Ambiguity.

Secretary Shaw was telling an audience, which was largely composed of G. A. R. men of his State, how the world was growing better. He pictured the conditions when he was a boy and now. He told of the advance in the last few years in industrial conditions, and ended by saying: "Veterans, the world is much better now than it was when you were born," and everyone of the veterans applauded loudly. "And it will be better when you have passed to the beyond," he continued. For a few minutes the audience did not know just how to take the remark, but finally they decided to give the speaker the benefit of the doubt and applauded with spirit.

Mason & Hamlin

PIANOS AND ORGANS

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 TIGHT TENSION

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
[illegible]

TO THE TRAVELER these Locks Are Necessities—Not Mere Luxuries

On straps they strengthen and make safe the trunk, suit or other traveling case, or look telescope at any fullness. With chain fasten bicycle, horse or automobile or secure umbrella, bag, or coat to car seat or other permanent object. They are small, simple, durable, unpickable.

LOCKS—3 varieties—40 cents each; with leather trunk strap, 7 ft. $1.00, 8 ft. $1.25, 8 ft. heavy $1.50, 9 to 10 ft. double $2.50—with best 1½-inch webbing 7 to 10 ft. $1.00—with telescope, suit case, traveling case or mail bag strap or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid on receipt of price.

LYNCH MFG. CO., Madison, Wis., U. S. A.

Life

up aches and ails.
nature's warnings)

mix with.

OF LIFE

et. Quit coffee and
—the food beverage,

UM

son"

lle" in Packages

OOKS BOOKS
We have published some good ones especially suited for farmers. Books that will help y farmer to make more out of his farm e for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

A Tension Indicator
IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.
It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.
Its use means time saving and easier sewing.
It's our own invention and is found only on the
WHITE
Sewing Machine.
We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.
WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

these Locks Are Neces-
Mere Luxuries
nd make safe the trunk, suit or other any fullness. With chain fasten secure umbrella, bag, or coat to car
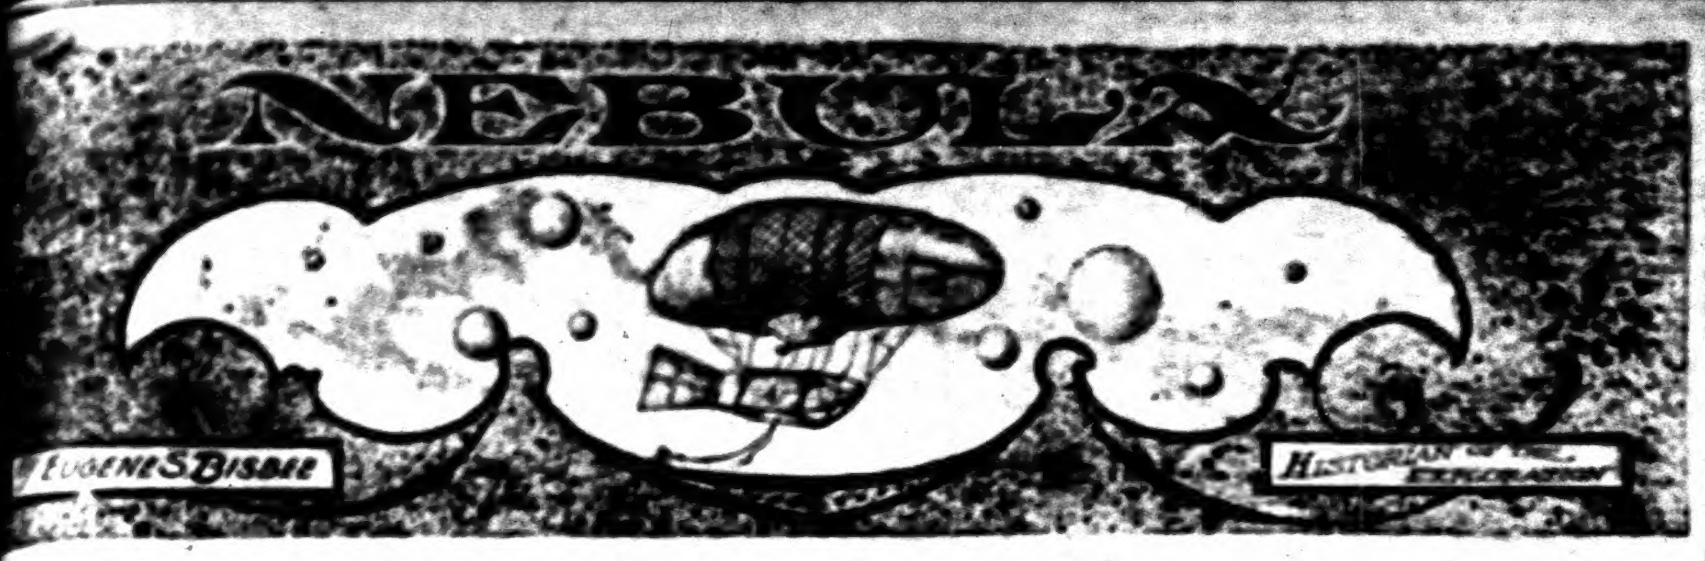
They are small, simple, durable.
nts each; with leather trunk strap,
$1.50, 8 to 10 ft. double $2.00
ft. $1.00—with telescope, suit case
or with chain 75c. By mail prepaid
Madison, Wis. U.S.A.



NEBULA

history of the most re-rial Exploration on recd from and published with made of the trip, by cour-Technical World, Chicago.

I participated in an experience wonderful phases has never ed."
ett reached for his pipe, filled and then glanced toward me if I wished to hear what he ge. He is a very remarkable rare type fast disappearing.
n half a century he has made he heart of California's majes-s, and like the "Poet of the wears a flowing patriarchal hair to match, and is himself nd a poet by nature.
myself in my chair with an apd, and John Bennett began a most remarkable story.
he oldest graduate of Yale in he said; 'and I think it was rought to the ranch a party from my old university. I am y to name them, for they are to try another experiment, at has been made, the whole ret of theirs. It will not do any as much as I intend to, how-ought with them a dirigible bal-nded that they were going to ascent and study the topography as so as to be able to make an ap of the entire range. It didn't at way however, as you will see.

a sort of superficial way I have al-been interested in aerostatics and sciences; and when they asked me any them as guide and companted the invitation with alacrity.
went farther up into the range, and
p. They took their machine out, the work of assembling the
I want to say here that it was as a thing as ever man made. There thing calculated to make the trip and every appliance to prevent ac-s pretty cold up on top of the timber line, and arrangements made to prevent this condition ding the experiments. The car oon was made of isinglass over a aluminum. It was entirely end was heated from an electric hich also propelled the machine.
gas was used as the lifting supplemented by another motor, and s manufactured and supplied to nts of the car when the atmosme too rarified for comfortable Provisions were stored for the ugh to last six men a week—
the ascension was made it seemed a thing had been overlooked. All hermometers, barometers and ther-were taken along, and everything for the proper study of the conthat might confront the party after the earth.

It was a sparkling morning when the
was given, and we arose with a and were soon soaring over the tops owy peaks. Never shall I forget as I gazed through the sides and of the transparent car. So bright sunshine that we were forced to green silk curtains at some of the Within five minutes we were down on toy mountains that were away from us as a stone drops top of a tall building; and the ere had become so rarefied that the tank was opened into the car, and lifting motor was started. Far off could see the tiny valleys, farther an endless blue expanse
the Pacific Ocean. Many men balloon.
have ever had the experience of above

f more than two miles. Straight we soared; and within an hour, which we felt not the least discomhad risen so high that the
was now a broad expanse beneath us, color and showing no convolutions
It seemed perfectly flat at such distance, and the ocean had become the color as the land.
of the gentlemen of the party low-thermometer through the floor and back within ten seconds, its bulb that the outside air was too cold record the temperature. A special it was then sent down, and came with the information that the rarified we were in was eighty degrees zero. Within the car, the thermome-registered sixty-two degrees, which quite warm enough for comfort. In hour we again tested the outer atmosphere, and found that it had dropped more than one hundred below zero. By time the earth had become a dim and calculations showed that we were more than sixty miles above its surface. The thought staggered me; but on we kept, the scientists exulting at such wonderful progress. Constant observations were being made of every condition, and all were jotted down for future reference; and still onward and upward we soared for another hour.

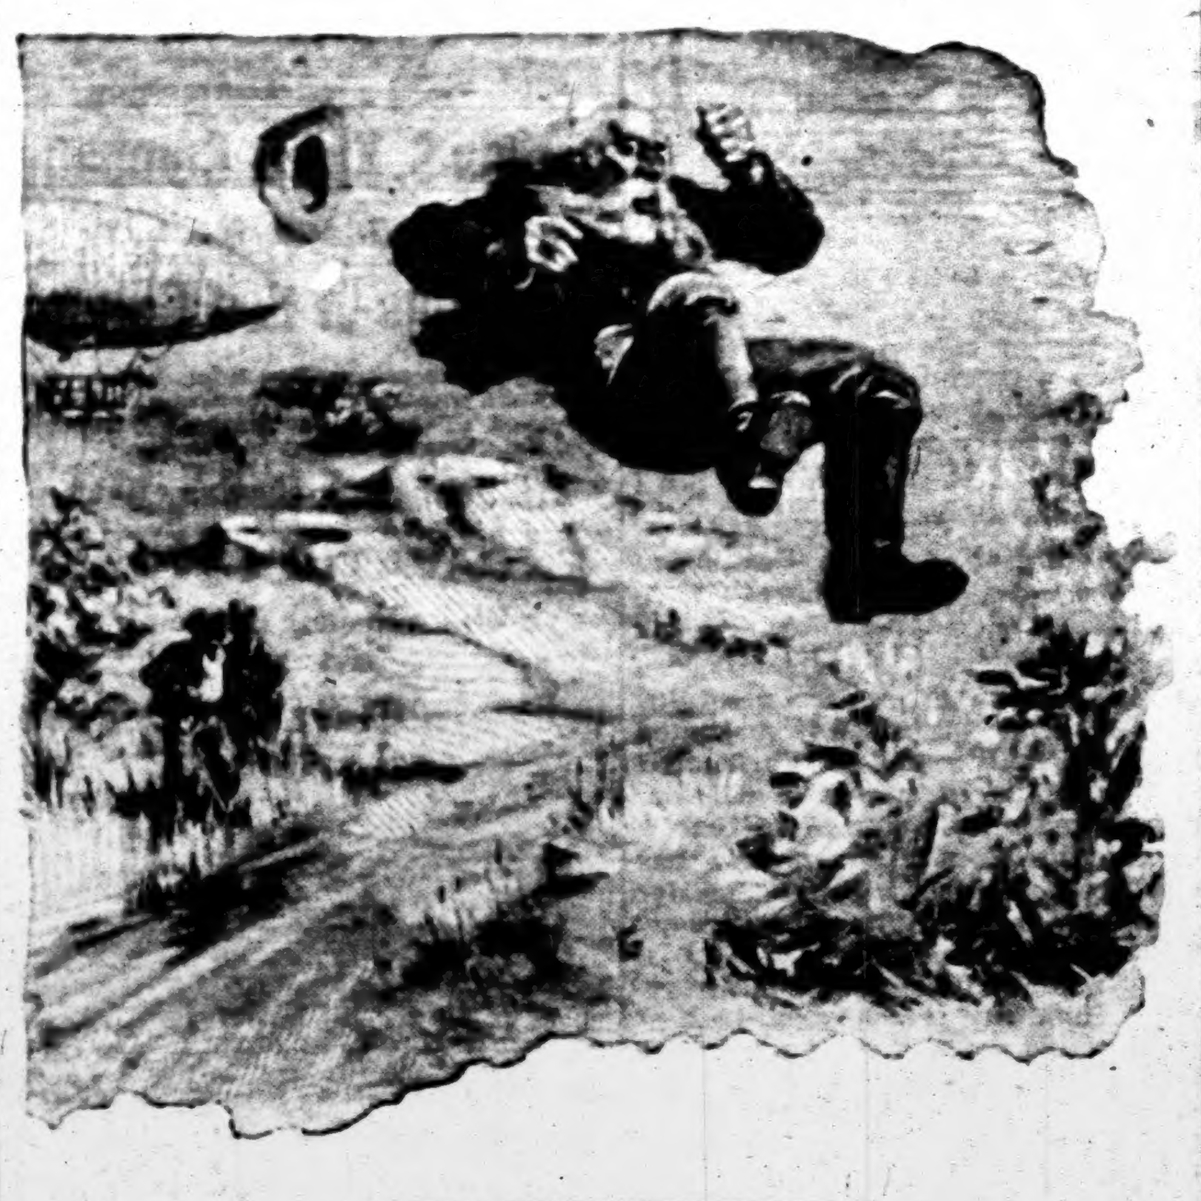
"At the end of the third hour, I noticed a remarkable thing and called the attention of one of my companions to it. Hitherto the earth had, as I have said, been a blue-gray blot beneath us. It now appeared part blue and part pale gray, the latter color being toward the west; and, as I interested my other fellow travelers in the sight, the western portion of the colored map was seen to grow larger as the eastern portion diminished in size. None of my companions could account for the phenomenon. The entire field of our vision was changing, until now it seemed that only a portion of the old familiar blue remained, the pale gray having absorbed it. Then, as suddenly as had come the other change, there crept in from the east a dark blue shadow that rapidly swept across the plain beneath, changing the color again to its own, while the former colors moved away. There were no definite objects in sight, only the monotonous dark blue that soon covered the entire field below us.

"Not understanding the cause of the change, and becoming somewhat exercised by it, the professor in charge of the expedition concluded to descend, and accordingly operated the machinery for that purpose. Rapidly the motor did its work, and the plain below began to assume a definite form. It changed its color from blue to blue and green, with here and there a dazzling spot that indicated water; yet even then the territory was wholly unfamiliar to any of us, even to me who know these mountains as you do your own home. The balloon, under the guidance of the practised hand of the operator, descended rapidly toward a plain, but of course you are familiar enough with aerostatics to know that the sensation is that of being stationary while the earth does the moving. In the air, all seems moving except the balloon itself. Well, within an hour we had fallen toward the earth in an entirely strange region. Not a thing was familiar, and we had evidently passed beyond the mountains and were above a broad plain.

Immediately beneath us now came a perfectly circular disc of variegated colors, surrounded by an ocean of bright blue, with here and there a feathery cloud. The disc seemed very small in comparison with the surrounding blue ocean, and we could none of us understand it. The balloon now fell less rapidly than previously, and I happened to glance upward through the sides of the car. I almost fell over with astonishment, and could scarcely get my voice to call to the others what I saw. When I did, they were as amazed as I for directly above us floated a tremendous globe which we instantly recognized as a map of the continent of North America. It covered almost the entire sky, and seemed but a few miles distant, while beneath us was what certainly was another earth.

"'Good gracious,' exclaimed our leader; 'we have made the greatest discovery of all the ages. We have discovered another world, and are falling onto it. That globe off there is the earth, and we have lost it and are about to land on another planet!'

"I confess that his explanation did not explain; but he soon made himself plainer by recalling to us that there are supposed to be many nebulous bodies afloat outside the atmosphere of the earth, a fact that all scientists accept. Some of these bodies are as small as pinheads, while others may be larger. That [illegible] dent; yet how it had never been discovered by the earth's astronomers was a puzzle to me.



I COULD JUMP SEVENTY FEET.

"'That is a simple matter of explanation,' said our leader; 'this asteroid has never been discovered, for the same reason that many small but important things have been for years overlooked by scientists in search of greater fields to conquer. It is within less than one hundred miles of earth, while the very nearest object that has ever attracted the telescopes of our astronomers is the moon, distant a quarter of a million miles. Can you not understand that no astronomer would ever train his instrument so as to focus an object less than a hundred miles distant.

"That sounds reasonable, yet I asked him how it was that it had never been seen with the naked eye.

"'Simpler still,' he answered, 'because this little planet is less than ten miles in diameter. So small an object, with a color nearly identical with that of the earth's atmosphere, would never be noticed, and having no light of its own, could not be seen at any time. It is a mere speck in the sky, and no man can tell how long it has floated around our earth. There may be many more of them, but for the present we will confine ourselves to this one, and soon shall land and see what there is to see.'

"An aneroid barometer was then let through the trap in the floor, in order to ascertain the pressure of the atmosphere before we dared to open the car and step onto the little world we had discovered. The planet was growing larger every moment, and we were now within less than a mile of its surface. The instrument showed that the pressure was eight pounds to the square inch, which about equaled that on high mountains on the earth, so we were safe to land. The anemometer attached to the car at this time showed an entire lack of breeze, and we gently dropped to the surface of the 'Nebula,' as I had volunteered to call the discovery. As we looked upon the landscape, it seemed as if we had suddenly dropped into Southern California, and I could not possibly justify this condition of verdure with the small size of the tiny world, for such a little thing could not be expected to obstruct enough of the heat of the sun to produce such a condition. Puzzled, I myself dropped a thermometer through the trapdoor and noted its register. It was eighty degrees—a fact that further surprised me—and I said so.

"'I dare say we shall find that there are other sources of heat besides the sun,' said one of my companions; and no sooner had we opened the car door and begun to climb down the anchor rope, which had been cast out, than we discovered the correctness of his prophecy. There were boiling springs everywhere, and the verdure was magnificent.

"Tying the anchor rope about a bowlder, we began a survey of our world. But first of all, I took a good look at the earth we had left a few hours before. It was a more magnificent sight than words can ever tell. It filled almost the entire dome of the sky, and the continent of North America looked exactly as it does on a raised globe such as we have in school-rooms. I could locate San Francisco as well as if I had had a map and pointer; and from that Western metropolis could trace the outline of the United States to the city of Chicago, and so on to the gateway of Europe—New York. It was wonderful. The air was not so rare as to be hard on lungs used to mountain conditions; but some of the party complained, and one suffered nosebleed. There was a rippling brook near at hand, its banks lined with plant life, and I went toward it to get a drink. I felt wonderfully elated in mind and body, and ran lightly toward it, falling on my chest, and quenching my thirst with the most refreshing water I had ever drank. The stream was not more than ten feet wide, and, as far as we could see from where we stood, there was no narrower place. We wanted to cross it, and I fancied I could make the leap, old man though I am. I took a few steps backward, and then ran toward the bank and sprang into the air.

"I soared through the air like a bird, and landed at least twenty yards beyond the farther bank. My companions, as I alighted with the ease of a feather, first looked bewildered, and then broke into peals of almost unceasing laughter. For they understood the reason before I did. Do you?

"No. Well, the explanation is as simple as all the others have been, and follows a well-known natural law. The gravitation of the little planet was almost as much less than that of the earth as its size, and I weighed—had nothing been provided—about ten pounds, more or less. With my muscles, it was nothing to jump seventy or eighty feet, the difficulty being to keep on the ground at all.

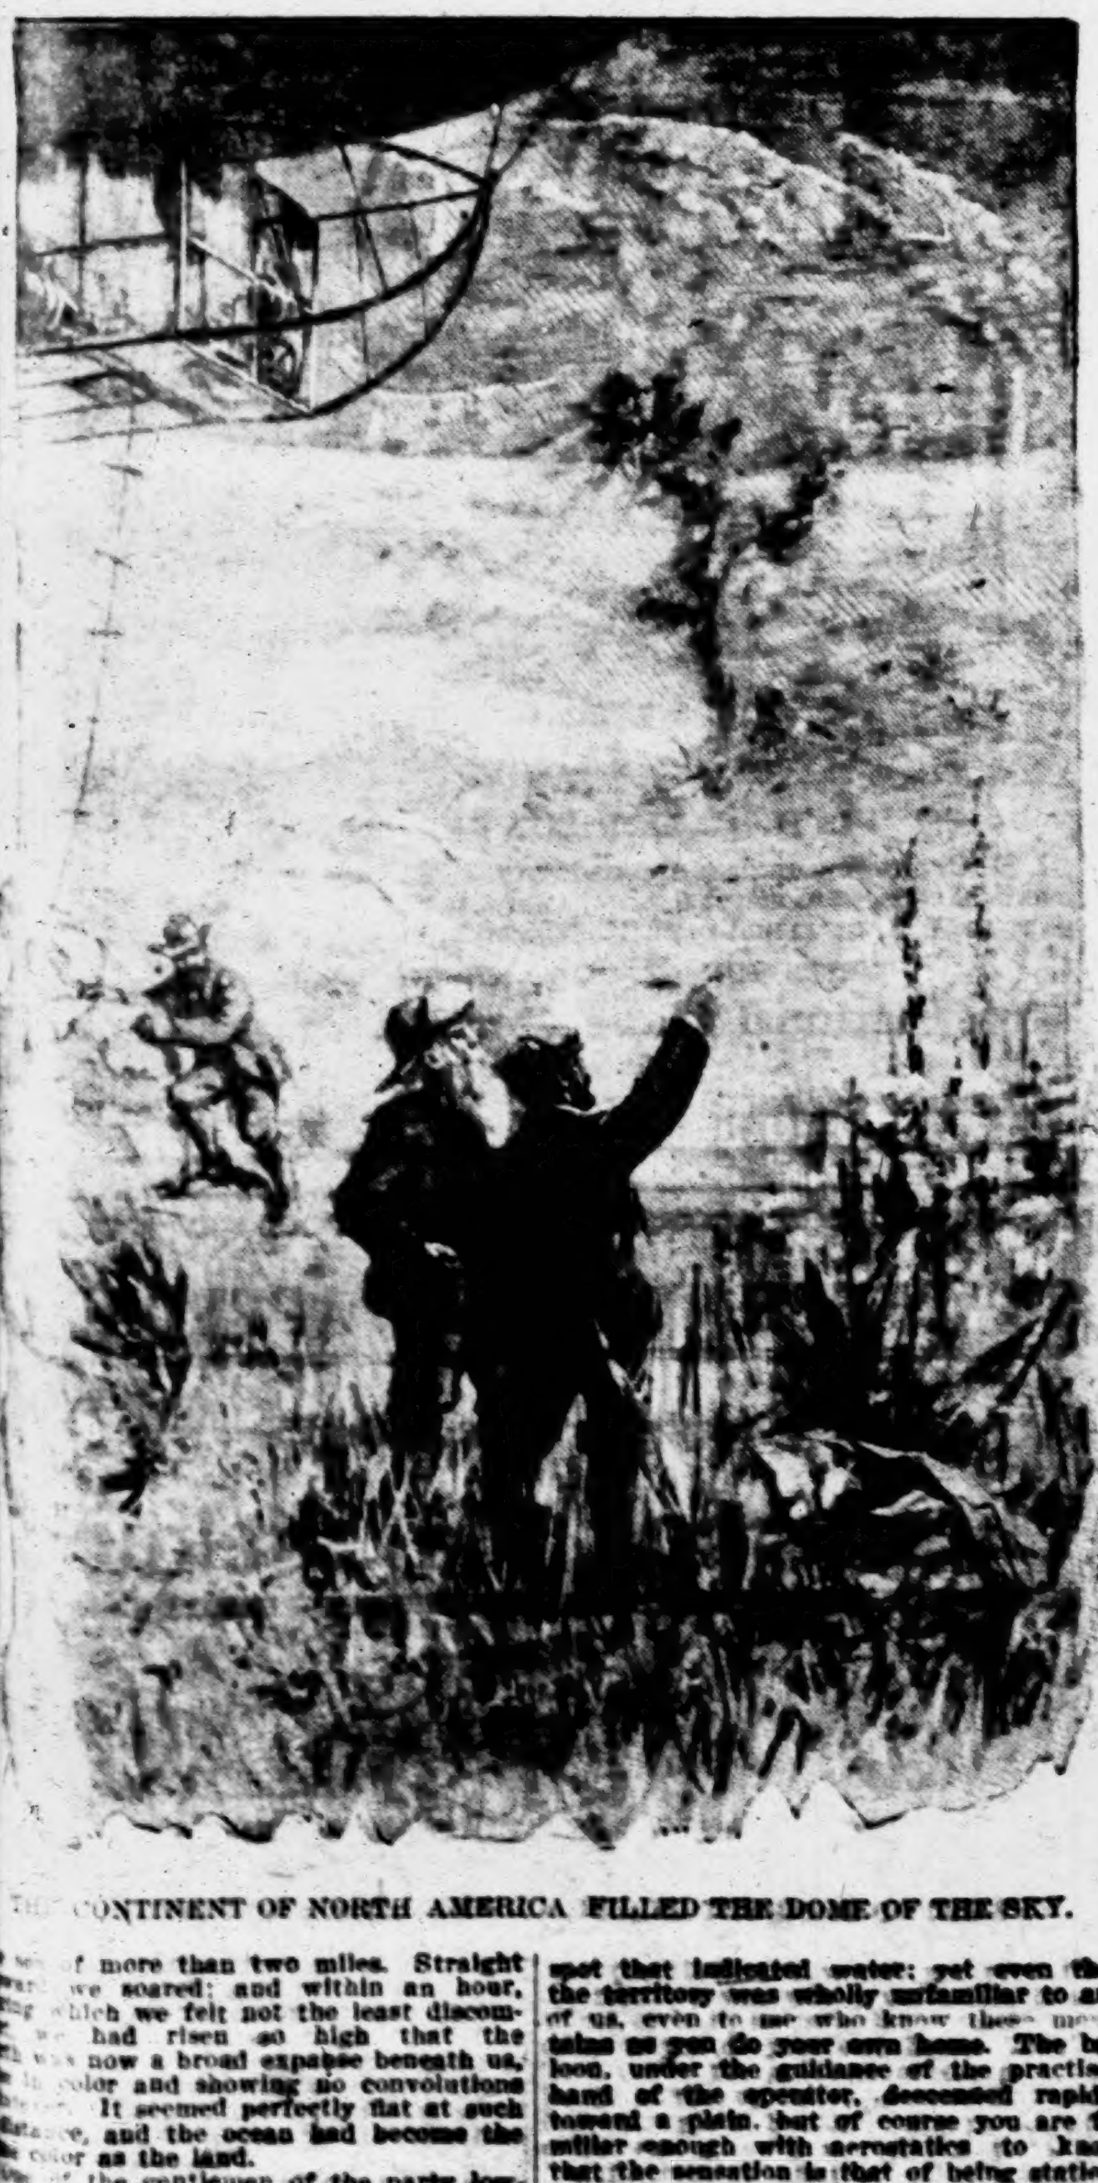
"Now, I suppose you are wondering how it was that the planet was not drawn to the earth by the great attraction of the latter body. It took the scientists less than five minutes to determine the reason accurately. It was because of the composition of Nebula, such ingredients having been put together in its formation as to repel the advances of the earth toward a union, but not enough to drive the little fellow altogether away from a motherly protection. He had come within a certain distance, beyond which he could not pass. My companions called me back, as they wanted to make some calculations, and I sprang back as easily as I had jumped across.

"By looking at the earth, they had discovered that we were travelling around that planet from east to west, while it turned over from west to east. The combined motions in opposite directions made our speed about two thousand miles an hour, so that we should circle the earth every twelve hours. This calculation was of the greatest importance, since we would have to time our departure accurately in order to land where we wanted to. If we allowed our balloon to ascend at the wrong time, it was just as likely that we should find ourselves over an ocean as over the land, and just as likely over Africa as over America. Figures were jotted down, and we then determined upon an exploration of our kingdom.

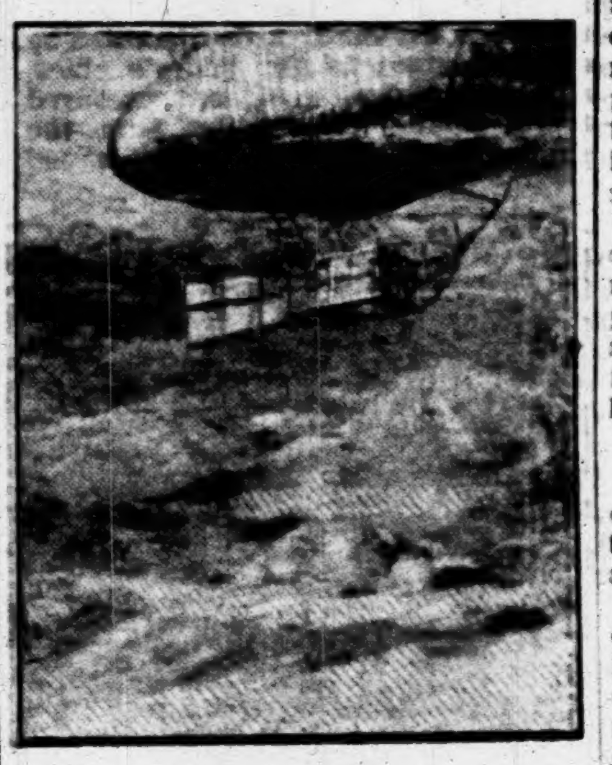
"At this point I did some figuring myself. It seemed reasonable to me to suppose that, if I could jump seventy feet with little effort, I could run just so many times faster here than I could on the earth. And I proved it. I pointed out to the others a clump of trees about a mile away, and then, asking them to time me, started. My work surprised me beyond expectations, for I leaped into the air about thirty feet at each bound, alighted easily some sixty feet beyond, and took another bound, as simply as if on the earth, yet with an ease that gave me not the slightest weariness. I ran back and found that I had made the two miles in a fraction under three minutes!

"'At that rate,' said I, 'I can run around this ball at the rate of forty-five miles an hour; and if your calculations are correct, and it is eight miles in diameter, it must be about twenty-five miles in circumference. I can, therefore, if I don't get winded, circle it in less than forty minutes, and I'm going to do it.'

"Two of the party volunteered to accompany me, and off we started at a good clip, the stop watches being out at the word 'Go!' None of us seemed to mind the exertion, if floating lightly in the air can be called exertion; and we ran along through the forests and across the plains with the ease and grace of greyhounds. For half an hour we did not slacken our pace; but there appeared before us a deep gulley, at the bottom of which was a stream. Here we came to a standstill. The gulch was quite fifty feet deep and nearly a hundred wide at the top; and as far as we could see, there was no better crossing in sight. Elated at our work, and feeling certain we could make the leap, we all ran at it together. Every bound we took was better than the previous one; and when we reached the edge of the arroya, we sprang into the air like birds and landed on the opposite side fully ten feet beyond the edge. After this the going was simple, and we made the trip safely, having circumnambulated the globe in thirty-seven minutes.



THE CONTINENT OF NORTH AMERICA FILLED THE DOME OF THE SKY.



SOARING OVER SNOWY PEAKS.

"I am not going to tire you with all the details of the stay on Nebula. Let it suffice to say that we had to wait there twelve hours for the United States to get back to us. In the meantime food was cooked and served. Then, when California was just rounding the edge of the earth from the west, we lifted anchor and started our motor, bidding but a temporary farewell to our little world, for we all fully determined that this should not be our only trip there. The journey back was the reverse of the conditions in coming away from home; and by operating the powerful machinery, we were enabled to make our landing within a very short distance of the spot we had left but little more than half a day before. But it was moonlight, and the night was beautiful in the mountains. We camped where we landed, and came down to the ranch next morning."

He stopped abruptly and relighted his pipe. I waited for him to continue.

"What do you think of it," he asked.

"I think it the most remarkable tale I ever heard," I replied.

"And perhaps you would like to look at our little world, he asked.

I was instantly alert, and rose quickly from my chair.

"Come along, then," he said, leading the way.

Into the garret we went, where he dug out of a corner a fine hand telescope, which he carried to the dormer window on the east side. Swinging it into a position 60 degrees, he peered carefully into it, then adjusted it again, screwed it tightly onto a swivel, and bade me take a careful look. I was more than amazed, for before me in the heavens was a globe of dim light, upon which I could, with care, trace and outlines of what seemed to be land and water. For but a moment I looked, and then he took the instrument away from me and turned it from the little planet.

"Now find it," he commanded.

I tried with all my might to locate it, but nothing revealed itself but the stars and the moon.

"That's the reason it has never been discovered," he said; "because astronomers have always been looking for things farther away."

A Few Afterthoughts.

The recent campaign effectually dispels the illusion that there is any "silent vote."

The cough lozenge man is glad that the uncomfortable hot weather is over.

The beef trust controls the supply of sole leather, and it is said that in consequence, the kicks of the consumer do not hurt.

The Cleveland woman who was arrested for putting a love potion in her husband's coffee should have used some coffee instead.

Oscar, not the king of Sweden, but the chef of the Waldorf-Astoria, says that one meal a day is enough for the average man. Doubtless at W. A. prices.

The Panama Canal has reached the stage of a splendid coat of arms and a commendable motto. This is a good deal farther than the French got.

TRY THIS EXPERIMENT.

Why a Redhot Poker Does Not Hiss in Boiling Water.

If a red hot poker be thrust into cold water it hisses and sputters; if into boiling water there is no commotion.

When, in the first experiment, cold water comes in contact with the hot iron there is a sudden and explosive generation of steam, which causes the liquid to be scattered with a hissing noise, consequent upon the bursting of innumerable bubbles.

When, on the other hand, a poker is thrust into boiling water, which is already freely giving forth steam, the introduction of the hot iron by still further assisting steam production causes the poker to become at once surrounded by a sheath of vapor, which effectually prevents the water from coming into actual contact with the metal.

This sheath of vapor is comparatively a bad conductor of heat, so that but little heat passes from the iron to the water. There is no commotion, and the poker can be withdrawn still glowing brightly.

THE JUGGLING OF FATE

A number of years ago, Amos Rusie, the famous pitcher of the New York Club of the National Base Ball League occupied the lime light of public attention through his wonderful performance in the centre of the diamond. At that time he received a salary of $5,000 a year. For some little indiscretions he was disciplined by the club management, and rather than take the punishment he retired from base ball for a year or two; when he got back into the harness again, his cunning as a pitcher had deserted him.

For a time he drifted around without occupation, but later received employment as a lumber hand, with a compensation of $1.50 a day. It is now announced that he has been successful in obtaining a position in Cairo, Ill., where he will receive $4 a day.

Americans are the heaviest meat eaters in the world. This appetite is said to be an inheritance from the hunting and fishing stage of the country's life.

The annual income of the Emperor of Japan is $2,750,000. His official allowance is $1,500,000. He has an income of $500,000 from the $10,000,000 granted him out of the Chinese war indemnity, $250,000 from his private estates, $500,000 from the forests of the empire.

FREE!
LADIES THIS
Handsome Fur Scarf
GIVEN AWAY
Send us your name and address and we will send you free and post-paid 24 pieces of our jewelry novelties to sell at 10 cents each. Everybody [illegible] them to [illegible] buy them of you. When sold send us the $2.40 and we will at once send you this
Handsome Fur Scarf
It is nearly 48 inches long, made from black Lynx fur, has six full, bushy tails, very latest style, and we know you will be more than pleased with it. When you receive it we know you will say it is the most elegant and thoroughly good fur you have ever seen. Nothing similar to this scarf has ever before been offered as a premium; it will give years of satisfactory wear. It gives a stylish, dressy effect to the wearer's appearance. The only reason we can offer them is we had a large number of them made up for us by one of the large furriers during the summer when trade was quiet; this is the only reason we are able to offer such an enormous premium. We hope you will take advantage of our offer without delay. This is an extraordinary offer and cannot be duplicated by any other reliable concern. We trust you with our jewelry until sold. It costs you nothing to get this fur. Address,
COLUMBIA NOVELTY CO.,
Dept. 656, East Boston, Mass.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
Men's Suspenders
Arm Bands, Ladies' Garters
with the unique new-fad
PHOTO LOCKET BUCKLE
Patented Jan. 19, 1904.
Particularly appropriate novelties in which photographs can be inserted.
AN INEXPENSIVE GIFT, COSTING ONLY ONE DOLLAR EACH.
The photo locket buckles are extra heavy gold and silver plated, on which you can engrave initials or monograms. The web is best quality silk in fascinating shades of light blue, white, and black, and they are packed in attractive single pair boxes.
HANDSOME, DEPENDABLE, USEFUL
Sold everywhere, or mailed for $1.00 and 10 cents postage.
State kind and color desired. If engraved, 25 cents per pair extra, with not more than three letters on a buckle. Photos reproduced, 25c. per set of two, to fit buckle.
HEWES & POTTER
Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the World.
Dept. 64, 87 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.
Our suspender booklet, showing many styles adapted for every purpose, and giving valuable information about correct dress, will be sent FREE ON REQUEST.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, makes very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120 page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away
DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.
Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.
NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.
Illustrated by Ernest Haskell
By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st
12TH THOUSAND ALREADY
All Bookstores $1.50
The Missourian
The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.
"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.
"A remarkable first book of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.
"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.
CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY
133 East 16th Street, New York
[illegible]

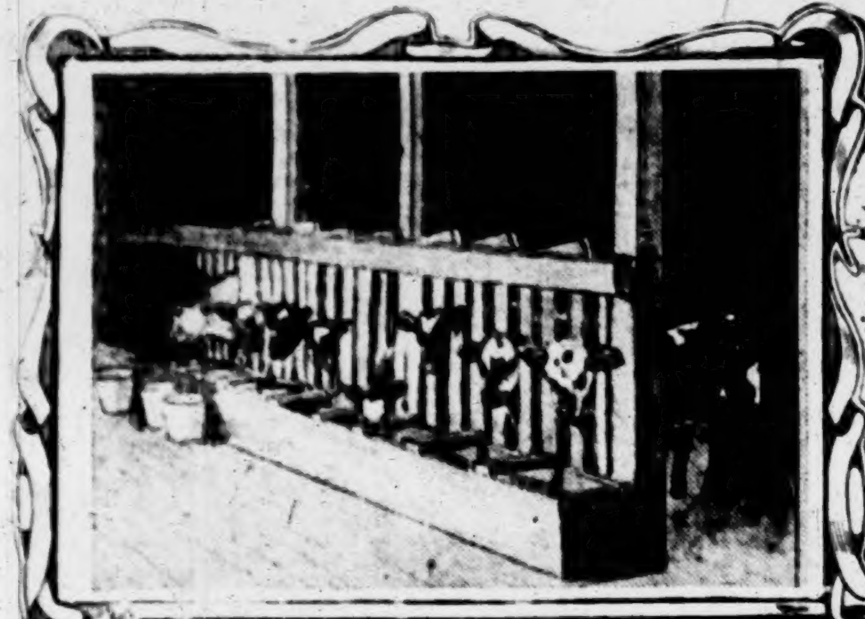
A GREAT CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

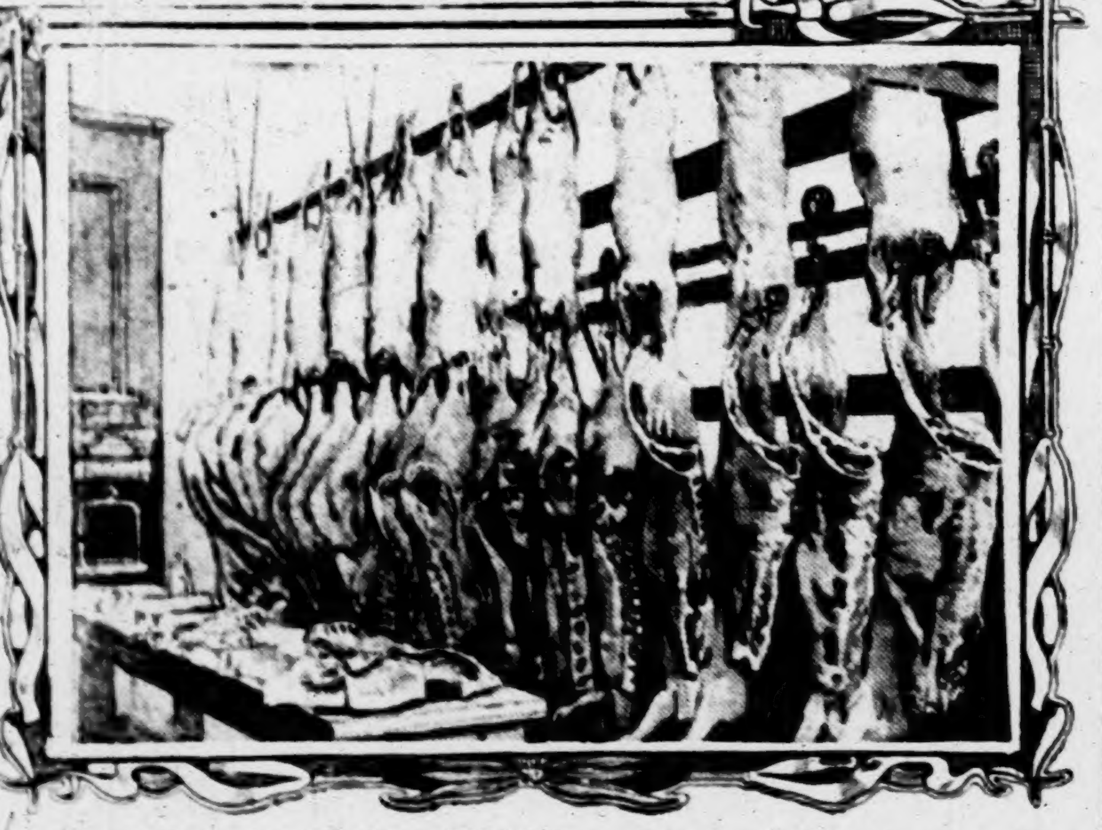
Perhaps nowhere in the world can one find such a varied and magnificent collection of chrysanthemums as may be seen every autumn at the Nation's Capitol. The chrysanthemum shows of Washington have become a fixed institution so that society—diplomatic circles as well—look forward interestedly for the opening of the government hothouses which display the finest of Uncle Sam's experiments in this branch of flower growing.

THE TWO STAR CHRYSANTHEMUMS.
The Mrs. Roosevelt, A Yellow Beauty 10 Inches Across, and the Beatrice May, A Dazzling White Bal.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the Department of Agriculture, under the auspices of the bureau of plant industry, of which Dr. B. T. Galloway is chief, has just been held in the new greenhouses of the department. The building was one mass of bloom with its several thousand of plants, representing about 130 different varieties. Many of these are the product of the government's gardeners, artificial pollenation and cross breeding valuable varieties, bringing about most startling results. This year the most successful of the department's efforts is a magnificent yellow flower fully ten inches in diameter. The petals are extremely heavy, well shaped and all in all the bloom is a huge ball of molten gold. The flower is not merely one for show; florists who have seen it declare that it is of much commercial value.



Skim Milk Fed Calves at Supper.



Skim Milk Fed Carcases.

The Mrs. Roosevelt Chrysanthemum.

Secretary Wilson was so pleased with this "Seedling of 1905" that he authorized it named Mrs. Roosevelt, in honor of the first lady of the land. But the department's experiments along the line of chrysanthemum crossing are not always a success. Last spring efforts were made to cross two varieties—Merza and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Croisset—the largest of the white and yellow kinds—with the hope of producing a combination of value. When the flower of the new plant unfolded itself it presented an ugly mass of brown, red, yellow and white, and of but ordinary size. It had gone back. Other hybrids have a tendency to go back to single petal varieties and to distinctly different color from the parents. And yet each year the efforts of the government gardeners are rewarded, even though they produce one good specimen, by obtaining a chrysanthemum of rare beauty and shape.

Good Grafting.

A plant at the Department's show this year which attracted more than usual attention was a specimen about four feet tall on which grew eighteen different and distinct varieties, some white, some yellow, while others were pink, brown and red. This was obtained by grafting stems from valuable sorts on a good stock.

The first chrysanthemum known to florists was yellow and was grown in Japan. It was carried over to China and from that country rapidly spread all over the world. The passing years however, wrought wonders, and the chrysanthemum, the "autumn queen," now claims the whole world as its home. Many of the present generation can remember how but a comparatively few years ago the only chrysanthemums exhibited were to be found in the show windows of florists and the flower fanciers were taxed sums ranging from one to three dollars for a single blossom. Now, however, when plant experts have simplified the art of cultivating the flower such prices would shock even the most extravagant minded.

◆

Practical Farm Experiments.

Of the various publications of the Department of Agriculture the most useful and probably the most popular, is a farmer's bulletin issued five or six times a year on experiment station work. "Practical Farm Experiments" would probably be a comprehensive title for these bulletins, as each pamphlet of about 30 pages is composed of a dozen or fifteen short descriptions of practical farm matters, the outcome of the experiments and tests of the various government experiment stations all over the country. Their value lies largely in the fact that each article is only a couple of pages in length and it can be picked up and read through at odd moments, whereas when a farmer receives a longer bulletin he is more likely to lay it away for some future reading when he has more time, and as time is usually pressing on the farm, it is likely never to get read at all.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 233 is the last issue of these bulletins and its little stories are decidedly interesting. Information given on the root system of field crops will be a surprise to probably even some of the best informed farmers. An illustration is shown of corn roots as they occupy the ground in the corn rows. It shows a myriad of small rootlets, entirely encompassing the ground in every direction for a depth of almost four feet. The root systems of various other plants are described. Wheat roots occupy the ground to a depth of four feet. Flax roots go down three and four feet. Grass roots, four to six feet. Red clover completely occupies the upper three feet of soil. Crimson clover roots in a single year grow three feet. Alfalfa roots go to the enormous depth of twenty to thirty feet. All of which may give some farmers new ideas as to cultivation which breaks the roots of plants, and the distance at which to plant. When late potato hills are three feet apart each way the soil is very fully occupied by the roots to a depth of three feet. Each potato hill, therefore, occupies twenty-seven cubit feet of soil.

Salt Not Needed For Asparagus.

Another short article is on the Proper Fertilizers for Asparagus. Although salt has been considered a time-honored necessity for this crop, it has been found that asparagus will yield as well without as with it except for the fact that the salt prevents the growth of weeds.

Growing Mushrooms for Home Use, is another short article and Onion Culture covers another. Another short article gives the remarkable results of forcing early rhubarb with ether.

Raising Calves on Skim Milk, supplemented, of course, by grain, is an instructive little article, covering the results of experiments in this line in the government stations in Iowa, Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska and Utah. Entire success has been had with the skim milk diet and the practice is considered even more desirable by some authorities than allowing the youngsters to have natural milk.

Other topics discussed are Noodles, a product prepared by European housewives and some manufacturers from flour with the addition of a certain amount of eggs and salt; the dough being rolled into sheets and cut into strips or fanciful shapes; Condition Powders and Special Stimulating Foods for Fowls and Farm Animals; the Relative Cost of Producing Meat from the Beef Type and the Dairy Type of Cattle; the Use of Animal Food for Young Ducks, showing the gains of ducklings on rations containing different proportions of animal food; the Bad Effect of Using Milk from Diseased Cows and the Production of Cider Vinegar.

This is a free bulletin and application should be made to your senator or member of congress, or to Secretary James Wilson at Washington.

◆

Coffee For the Army.

The yearly contract for supplying coffee for the United States Army is about to be let by the Quartermaster General, and the Department of Agriculture has been called upon to decide which brand shall be purchased. This test was made under the supervision of Dr. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry. He selected a jury of veteran coffee drinkers who know and can tell good coffee from bad by flavor and by the odor with the pot at probably a hundred yards distant. The jury assembled in Dr. Wiley's office, where the bureau cook had prepared several small lots of coffee from the samples submitted. They were tested by the jury from cups and spoons. After the test the jury was dismissed and the members each wrote a separate report, giving his views of the coffee, and stating which of the samples he considered the best. These were placed in sealed envelopes and sent to Dr. Wiley who opened them and submitted the finding to the Quartermaster General. Dr. Wiley also constituted a part of the jury—a foreman, as it were—to ascertain whether his findings and judgment of the quality of the coffee coincided with those of the others.

CHRYSANTHEMUM WEALTH IN THE GOVERNMENT GREENHOUSE.

◆

One Minute Butter.

The instantaneous ice-cream maker seems about to give way to an instantaneous butter maker. This is a churn capable of making butter in sixty seconds. The machine is so handy that it might very well be placed on the tea table as an accessory to the cups and teapot, and yet not look out of place. All that is necessary is to furnish the cream with a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and butter can be made at any time desired—while you wait. The "Empire Churn," reports Consul Liefeld, of Freiburg, Baden, does not even need a special vessel for holding the cream. The cream is placed in the vessel so that the dasher is in the center, and about 1 1-2 inches below the surface. The handle is then turned slowly for a few seconds, and then at a good speed, and within one minute butter is formed. Then some fresh cold water is poured in and the handle turned slowly two or three times when the butter is ready for washing, salting and eating.

ALFALFA TWO YEARS OLD.

◆

OLD AGE PENSION.

Much Attention Given in France to the Care of the Indigent.

France evidently does not believe that the old should be chloroformed and put out of the way, for, according to official reports received from United States officials located at Paris, that government has a system of pensioning for the aged. For more than a century the French government has been experimenting with schemes for giving an annuity to the old, not, however with entire success.

At the present time deposits are received from any person, regardless of age, but the amount may not exceed 500 francs ($96.50) in the course of a year. An account may be opened for a child of three years of age; a married woman may deposit money without her husband's consent. At any age between fifty and sixty-five (or earlier in case of permanent disability to work) the depositor may claim his annuity, which is calculated according to the amount of his deposit and interest and the probabilities of life, but the annuity may not exceed 1,200 francs ($231.60).

In rural districts the tax gatherer is empowered to receive deposits, and in many factories a certain percentage is deducted from the wages and paid to the Caisse in the workman's name. A branch of the Caisse may be founded in any town or village, with the permission of the prefect of the department, and there are about 2,300 of such branches, with nearly 340,000 depositors.

There are several large institutions for the care of the indigent aged. Some of these are free and at others a small charge is made for board and lodging. At Issy, near Paris, is an institution for widowers, widows, or married couples, of whom both are over sixty-five years of age and who have been married at least fifteen years.

There are many small institutions founded by private persons for old officials, at some of which the charge is as high as $250 a year. Some religious orders still shelter a few aged persons, either gratuitously or at a small sum per annum.

A FAMILY OF EDIBLE MUSHROOMS.

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY

NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED THE GEER SAFETY REIN

LIFE LINES AND BUCKLES TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE

You Can Do It Every Time With A GEER SAFETY REIN

Price COMPLETE $2.00 Expressage Prepaid

No more Smash-ups. No more Lives Lost. Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle.

WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.

Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to

THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
47 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK

Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½, 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO ILL.

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed tons a day. Has Adapted to bank barn to its work—no digging Self-feed Attachment capacity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or on sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine
Write for Catalogue

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.
Chicago, Ill.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.

I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH
In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to
The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

TOWN ITEMS

mmissioners' Court meets second day in February first Monday in first Monday in second day in July second Monday in August and first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day	11 & 1½
same date last year	[illegible]
No. Bales received to date	[illegible]	[illegible]
ckard & Co	[illegible]	[illegible]
I Mullins	[illegible]	[illegible]
Kanter & Bro	[illegible]
C Jones	[illegible]	[illegible]
nnon & Sons	[illegible]
her Firms		[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

The above figures are several Wednesday ning five o'clock.

JERSEY BULL CALF Rosedale Letitia ed by Ida's Lad. Apply to Hinkle, Clanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can ltivate 35 or 60 acres land, el and has a good new house me. Apply to J. L. Bennett, horsby, Ala.

Mr. E. B. Popwell was in town onday and took the minutes for thsalem church.

Mr. J. T. Bland and daughter, iss Mamie, of Verbena were visis here Tuesday.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Capt. L. Y. Dean, special agent the Liverpool & London and lobe Fire Insurance Co., spent st Saturday with their local agent ere, Mr. C. R. Mullins.

Judge S. M. Adams of Plant ity, Fla., is spending a few days town this week.

Mr. John Garner of Birmingham pent Monday in Clanton.

A nice line of Jewelry on isplay at Upchurch Drug tore.

Mr. W. H. Foshee has returned om a trip to Arkansas.

Mr Roy Sawyer has been spendg a few days in Shelby county on siness.

Mr and Mrs J. W. Weldon of incheon were visitors here Wedesday.

Mrs E. A. Matthews and daugh, Miss Marion, left Monday for a w days visit to friends in Biringham and Tuscaloosa.

Mr Joe Hicks of Riderville visit Clanton this week.

Mr Wiley Mitchell of Maplesville as a visitor here Sunday.

Mrs Maddox of Thorsby was a sitor here Tuesday.

Mr. Fred Roos of Louisville sited Clanton Wednesday.

There will be Thanksgiving rvices at the Methodist church day at 11 a.m.

Mr W H Merritt of Birmingham as in town yesterday.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection the best.

Be sure and call and see Miss innie Muse's fall millinery while Clanton. She is selling at the ost reasonable prices.

Mrs W H Phillips, who has been siting Mrs Hannon's family for e past week left Saturday for ontgomery.

Mr Charles A Peterson of Thorsy was one of our welcome visitors st Thursday.

Mr W H Shaw of Jemison was town Monday.

Dr R B McNeill, Jemison's poplar physician, was a visitor here onday.

Mr W L Brown of Maplesville as one of our pleasant callers monay.

Mr John A Strock of Cooper ought his cheery presence to our fice monday.

Mr R J Young of Plantersville ve us a pleasant call monday.

'Squire William Broadhead of anton was in town Wednesday.

Mr J Q Wade went to Montgomy Monday.

Santa Claus has begun to rrive at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued is week by the Probate Judge to following persons.

Mr. N. J. Turner and Miss Lida Neal. Colored. Will Connell and Margerie ie; Monroe Campbell and Florence ntry; James Weeks and Roberta Lacy

A Cough Syrup which drives a ld out of the system by acting as a tharic on the bowels is offered in nnedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. ears the throat, strengthens the gs and bronchial tubes. The other's friend and the children's vorite. Best for Croup, Whoop-g-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch ug co.

R RUNAWAY

You Can Do It Every Time with the GEER SAFETY REINS
PRICE, COMPLETE, $1.00
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups! No more Lives Lost! Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle.
DRIVING REINS.
circular, free on application, to NUFACTURING CO.,
PLACE, NEW YORK.
Stop any Horse or Money Refunded.

Sandwic

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORS

HAY PRES

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed h Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes for whe Self-feed Attachment increases c acity, lessens labor, makes better b and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.,
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

Well Drilling
Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilli either deep or shallow wells in any ki of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels sills. With engines or horse powe Strong, simple and durable. Any m chanic can operate them easily.

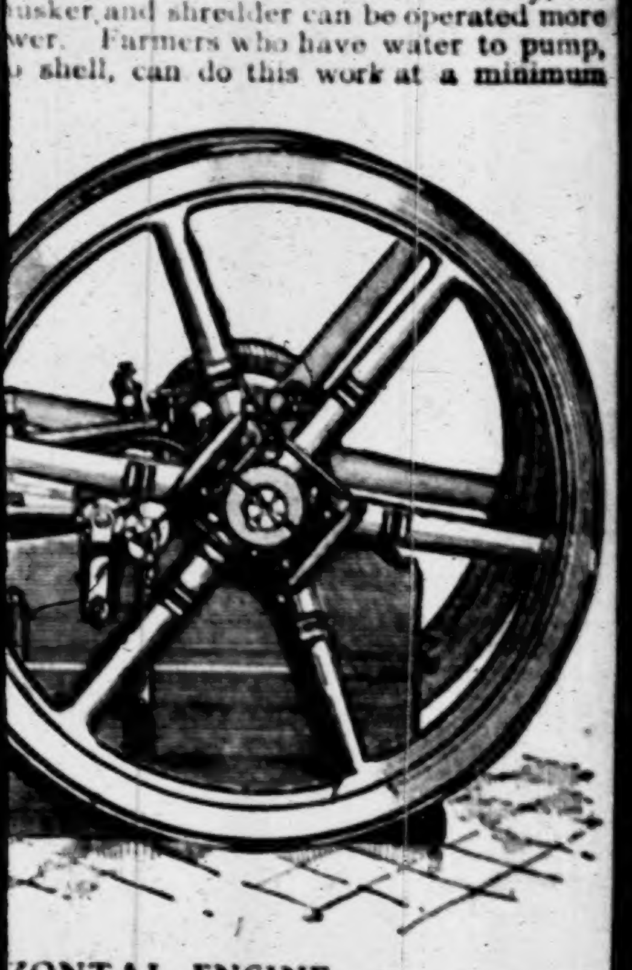
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St
Chicago, Ill.

Harvester Co.
E ENGINES

gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the husker and shredder can be operated more wer. Farmers who have water to pump, shell, can do this work at a minimum



ZONTAL ENGINE
e in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H- 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stat- horizontal type, portable.
NE ENGINE BOOKLET.
ester Co. of America
(rated)
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

GONS APPROACH
Under all Conditions to
Old Hickory

CTURED BY Manufacturing Co.
LLE, KY.
ARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

TOWN ITEMS

...missioners' Court meets second ...y in February first Monday in ... first Monday in June second Monday in August ... first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day......11 @ 11¼c
same date last year 8¾c

Bales received to date	[illegible]	1904
...kard & Co ...	2852	2986
...J Mullins	1826	1927
...Kanter & Bro	435	..
C. Jones.........	1078	789
...son & Sons.........	357	..
...er Firms...........		471
Total................	6628	6168

The above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday ...ing five o'clock.

JERSEY BULL CALF for sale Rosdale Letitia has bull calf ...d by Ida's Lad Apply to P. HINKLE, Clanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can ...ltivate 35 or 60 acres land, lies ...el and has a good new house on ...ne Apply to J. L. BURNETT, ...orsby, Ala.

Mr. E. B. Popwell was in town ...nday and took the minutes for ...thsalem church.

Mr J. T. Bland and daughter, ...s Mamie, of Verbena were visi... here Tuesday.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Capt. L. Y. Dean, special agent ... the Liverpool & London and ...obe Fire Insurance Co., spent ...t Saturday with their local agent ...e, Mr. C. R. Mullins.

Judge S. M. Adams of Plant ...ty, Fla., is spending a few days ... town this week.

Mr John Garner of Birmingham ...nt Monday in Clanton.

A nice line of Jewelry on ...splay at Upchurch Drug ...tore.

Mr. W. H. Foshee has returned ...om a trip to Arkansas.

Mr Roy Sawyer has been spend...g a few days in Shelby county on ...siness

Mr and Mrs J W Weldon of ...ncheon were visitors here Wed...sday

Mrs E A. Matthews and daugh..., Miss Marion, left Monday for a ...w days visit to friends in Bir...ingham and Tuscaloosa

Mr Joe Hicks of Riderville visit... Clanton this week.

Mr Wiley Mitchell of Maplesville ...as a visitor here Sunday

Mrs Maddox of Thorsby was a ...sitor here Tuesday

Mr. Fred Roos of Louisville ...ited Clanton Wednesday

There will be Thanksgiving ...vices at the Methodist church ...day at 11 a.m.

Mr W H Merritt of Birmingham ...s in town yesterday

Flour—Cannon's Perfection ... the best.

Be sure and call and see Miss ...nnie Muse's fall millinery while ... Clanton She is selling at the ...st reasonable prices

Mrs W H Phillips, who has been ...iting Mrs Hannon's family for ...e past week left Saturday for ...ontgomery

Mr Charles A Peterson of Thors... was one of our welcome visitors ...t Thursday

Mr W H Shaw of Jemison was ... town Monday

Dr R B McNeill, Jemison's pop...ar physician, was a visitor here ...onday

Mr W L Brown of Maplesville ...s one of our pleasant callers Mon...y

Mr John A Strock of Cooper ...ought his cheery presence to our ...ce Monday

Mr R J Young of Plantersville ...ve us a pleasant call Monday

Squire William Broadhead of ...nton was in town Wednesday

Mr J Q Wade went to Montgom...y Monday.

Santa Claus has begun to ...rive at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued ... week by the Probate Judge to ... following persons.

Mr. N. J. Turner and Miss Lida Neal, Colored. Will Connell and Margerie ...le; Monroe Campbell and Florence ...try; James Weeks and Roberta Lacy

A Cough Syrup which drives a ...ld out of the system by acting as a ...haric on the bowels is offered in ...nnedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. ...ars the throat, strengthens the ...gs and bronchial tubes. The ...ther's friend and the children's ...orite. Best for Croup, Whoop...g-Cough, etc. Sold by Upchurch ...g Co.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled Drop in and let us show you through We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6 00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1 50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40,000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garden. You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN
Growers and Exporters
ZANESVILLE - - - - - OHIO

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowence for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

Store will be closed Thursday, Nov. 30th, 1905, account "Thanksgiving."

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates. And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Mountain Creek........ Beat 5 Dec. 1
James Maddox's Mill " 4 " 2
Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Cured Consumption

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Teachers' Institute.

To be sure the more competent will report the work of the Institute held at Billingsley on the 24th and 25th inst., but our appreciation of all is so intense, please allow us a word. Yes, the teachers of Chilton and Autauga counties met here and led by conscious responsibility to their high calling and their love for education, we witnessed their deliberations with admiration and pleasure. The many papers read by intelligent female teachers gave evidence of a rich store of knowledge so sweetly appropriated to the occasion. The discussions from male and female were harmonious and instructive, being led by the genial modest Prof. Askins, with Prof. Moore at his elbow. Thus the Institute goes on record as a success.

There was a lamentable drawback owing to the absence of a number of teachers. The Editor of the Banner hails educational items with pleasure.

Mrs. IRA CAMPBELL.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

NOTICE!

Dr. C. L. WOODFIN
THE BOTANIC SPECIALIST
will be in
CLANTON, ALA.
every Saturday for the purpose of treating
Cancer, Catarrh, Wens; Tumors; Goiters and Ulcers and all other Cutaneous Troubles.

If anyone should doubt my ability to cure the above diseases, I can furnish references here in Chilton county.

P S When in need of my services call on me or write me at Clanton, Ala. C. L. WOODFIN.

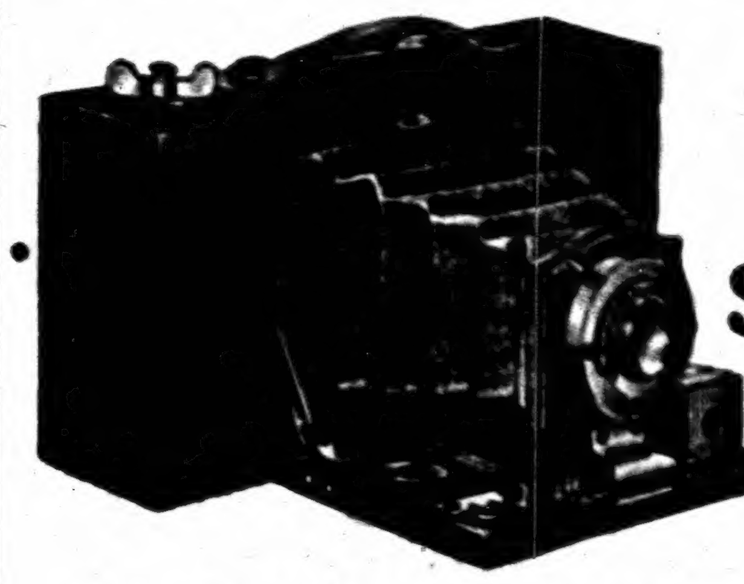
EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

No. 2 Folding
Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTC
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

Do Not Neglect a Cold.

Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

[illegible]

Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed.
[illegible] 25c, 50c and $1.00.
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Stepson Charged With the Murder.

Huntsville, Ala.—The preliminary hearing of J. F. Jackson, Charles Jackson and Charles Webster, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mollie Jackson at Taylorsville, Ala., wife of J. F. Jackson, was held before Justice C. N. Vaught. The result of the hearing was the release of J. F. Jackson, who it was proved, had no connection with the crime; the holding over of Charles Jackson without bond on a charge of murder in the first degree and the holding of Charles Webster under heavy bond as a witness for the prosecution.

VanHorn Case in Jasper Court.

Jasper, Ala.—The first week of this term of the law and equity court adjourned Friday. Among some of the cases of which the docket was cleared was that of Jeff VanHorn, who was charged with killing "Bud Clark about two years ago by pushing him off the train at or near Hose Creek and hitting him on the head with a bottle. This case was thrown out on some technicality, and he was held to the action of the present grand jury for new indictment.

Officers Short.

Scottsboro, Ala.—According to the report of Judge John Purifoy, of Montgomery, Jackson county has a heavy shortage on the books of her county officials. The probate judge and the county commissioners have taken steps to at once have the money paid over. The alleged deficits are as follows: James A. Redley, tax collector, $4,369.51; C. L. Cargill, judge of probate, $2,612.50; C. S. Freeman (paid since filing report), $18; F. D. Hurt, clerk of court, $216.57; R. S. Skelton (paid since filing report), $4.35.

Jasper Will Have New Bakery.

Jasper, Ala.—Jasper is to have a new enterprise, the Jasper Bakery Company. It is composed of some of Jasper's enterprising young men, and will be in operation by December 10. The place of business will be the old meat market place, where the pool room is now situated.

Lineville Bank Goes to the Wall.

Lineville, Ala.—The First National Bank of Lineville, of which R. L. Ivey is president, has closed its doors and suspended business. The First National was the older of the two Lineville banks. It was not known to be in financial trouble, and the news of its failure caused surprise here. The amount of the bank's liabilities is not known.

Caught in Shafting.

Anniston, Ala.—Ab Eichelberger, the 15-year-old son of Mr. George W. Eichelberger, was caught in the shafting of the gin at Oxford and seriously injured, his right leg being broken between the knee and thigh, one or two ribs being broken, and it is feared internal injuries were sustained. Young Eichelberger, with a couple of companions, had gone through the gin to get a drink of water, and in returning the boy was caught in the shafting.

New Lodge Buildings at Florence.

Florence, Ala.—There is considerable activity in Florence lodgedom just now, and the erection of two splendid buildings will be the result. The Knights of Pythias will build a three-story building, with an opera house on the ground floor and a basement for business purposes. The lodge rooms will occupy the second and third floors. Florence Lodge No. 14, A. F. and A. M., will also put up a three-story building in the near future on their lot on Court street.

Headland Has a Fire.

Dothan, Ala.—Headland, a little town ten miles from Dothan, Friday night suffered the most disastrous fire in its history, twelve or thirteen wooden buildings, most of them occupied, comprising the entire eastern business section of the town, being destroyed.

Three for Hangman.

Gadsden, Ala.—Jack Hunter, Vance Garner and Will Johnston, the three negroes who so cruelly murdered and ravished Mrs. Sarah J. Smith, were sentenced to expiate their crime at the end of the hangman's noose December 29 between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. in the county jail of Etowah.

To Hold Court in Chilton.

Montgomery, Ala.—Supernumerary Circuit Judge-at-Large A. H. Alston was requested by the governor to hold court in Chilton county for two weeks beginning Monday.

Contract for Hotel.

Florala, Ala.—The contract for the Lake Jackson Hotel was let to Hadlow & Co., of Jacksonville, Fla. Work will begin immediately on the construction.

Laundry Changes Hands.

Opelika, Ala.—Messrs. W. H. Hagan and J. F. Hendricks have purchased the Opelika Steam Laundry from Mr. H. L. Hooper.

Interest in Elections.

Montgomery, Ala.—As the time draws nearer toward election it appears probable that within the next thirty days nearly every candidate will be out. It begins to look like a political reform wave has struck Alabama as it did many of the eastern cities and that the regular old-timer politician will be put in the background this time. It seems likely also that there will be many new faces at the capitol. It would not be surprising, say politicians, to see men elected who never held public office before. Is this coming? What will be the result? These questions will be better answered at the primary which is to be held next year. Will the primary be held early or will it be held late? Chairman Mallory, of the state democratic executive committee, favors a late primary. Which will win? The candidates, as a rule, favor an early primary, as they do not care to be in the race so long. The interest in the race between Cunningham and Comer has somewhat abated, but an early revival of it is looked for.

Hard-Hearted Father.

Montgomery, Ala.—That fathers are sometimes willing to send their own sons to disgrace seems to be shown by the history of the conviction of Louis Schmidikofer, of Lauderdale county, on a charge of forging the name of his parent to a note. The records show that the elder man sent his offspring to the penitentiary for the crime, and that he has not done anything since to get him out. In all the papers seeking a pardon, which was granted Saturday by the governor, there is nothing from the old man to indicate that he is willing or anxious to have the young fellow released. It is not known, as a matter of fact, whether he is alive or not, and the absence of any evidence of interest leads many to think he is not on earth.

New Bank at Eufaula.

Eufaula, Ala.—The matter of the establishment of a new bank here is assuming definite proportions, and every indication points to such an institution for the city in the near future. Lawrence Wild, for many years a resident of the city, but now a prominent mercantile man of Greenville, is expected to reach here next week, and will open such an institution if suitable arrangements can be made. It is believed that citizens are displeased at the stringent rules of exchange applied without discrimination to depositors and it is thought that this is what lead a prominent citizen to remark that he would take $10,000 stock in such an institution a few days ago.

Houston Farmers Organize.

Dothan, Ala.—Houston county farmers have organized a branch of the Southern Cotton Association and agreed to take 400 bales of cotton from the market for sixty days, or until the price of the staple touches 15 cents.

A big rally of the horticulturists will be held in Dothan December 16, at which President Seymour, of the Alabama division, and others will speak.

Demopolis Bank.

Demopolis, Ala.—The directors of the Robert Banking Company, of this city, will hold a called meeting in a few days for the purpose of increasing the capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000, of which $75,000 is to be paid in at once and the balance when the requirements of the business make it necessary.

Jim Bowie Paroled.

Montgomery, Ala.—After serving about eighteen months in the penitentiary for breaking into the depot at Oakman, Walker county, and purloining a jug of whisky, which he drank on the depot platform with his partner of the spree, Jim Bowie, a white convict, was given a parole by Governor Jelks on condition that he hereafter look away from all things intoxicating.

Break All Records.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The circus here Saturday drew the largest crowd ever seen in Tuscaloosa. The merchants did a fine business. The dispensary broke the record for a single day's business, Assistant Dispenser F. L. Walter reporting the sales at $2,097.

Thrown From Buggy.

Sylacauga, Ala.—Mrs. Sallie Beatty was severely hurt here in a runaway. The horse she was driving became frightened and ran, throwing her from the buggy, causing several small cuts and a hurt in the side. She is resting easy and is not thought to be seriously hurt.

Call to Farmers.

Montgomery, Ala.—To insure the good attendance that Montgomery county furnished the first meeting in this city, President W. Hunter Vaughn, of the Montgomery County Cotton Growers' Association, has issued an appeal to the members and all persons interested to be present at the special convention of the Alabama division of the Southern Cotton Association next Wednesday, November 29.

More Iron Furnaces.

Birmingham, Ala.—An authoritative statement comes from New York to the effect that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company will increase its furnace equipment by building two additional stacks of the dimensions of Ensley No. 6, which is the largest in the south.

John Condon Arrested.

Montgomery, Ala.—John Condon, a white painter, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Special Officers Payne and Graham on a telegram received by Police Chief Gerald from C. Dampier, police chief of Valdosta, Ga., saying that Condon is wanted in Valdosta on a charge of larceny.

Ed Young Dies.

Montgomery, Ala.—Ed Young, the negro who was shot by Deputy Sheriff Clements Friday on the Washington Ferry road, died about 3 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Margaret's Hospital from the wounds received.

Commissioner of Randolph.

Montgomery, Ala.—A. K. Brooks has been appointed by Governor Jelks a member of the board of commissioners of Randolph county to succeed W. F. Strickland, who has resigned the office to move his residence out of the county.

Thirteen Candidates for Sheriff.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—The office of sheriff of Colbert county is being sought by thirteen candidates, with others to follow. Sheffield has two, Leighton two, Tuscumbia eight and Brick one. The race will be run under democratic primary rules and regulations.

Death of R. F. Hall.

Uniontown, Ala.—R. F. Hall died near here Saturday from a stroke of apoplexy. He owned three canebrake plantations and nine stores in Uniontown. Mr. Hall had long been prominent in this section, and was one of Perry's wealthiest citizens.

Tripped Over Rug.

Tuskegee, Ala.—Mr. E. W. Thompson, who on account of a former injury uses a crutch, tripped on a floor rug at the Beavers' reception and fell so heavily he fractured a bone in his leg.

Want Fortress Removed.

St. Petersburg.—The League of Leagues has adopted another set of resolutions demanding the complete obliteration of all special laws and including a demand for the abolition of the Schusselberg fortress as a political prison.

Ask Protection.

Novocherkassk, Russia.—The nobility of this province has urgently requested the dispatch to Novocherkassk of four regiments of Cossacks to protect their estates against the peasantdy.

Editor Challenged.

Ekaterinoskav, Russia.—Officers of the local regiments have challenged an editor who criticised their conduct during the massacres.

Will Fine Jews.

Warsaw.—The governor-general has instructed the provincial governors to immediately collect the fines imposed on Jews for evading military service.

Gompers Re-Eelected.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Samuel Gompers was Saturday re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor by practically a unanimous vote.

Killed in Football Game.

Rockville, Ind.—Carl Osborne, 18 years of age, was instantly killed in a football game between Marshall and Bellmore High School at Bellmore Saturday. He staggered after a tackle, and was picked up dead. One rib had been broken and driven through his heart.

Final Ceremony of Treaty.

Washington, D. C.—The exchange of the ratified treaties of peace between Japan and Russia took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the state department. The ceremony was simple.

Steal a China Service.

New York.—A cable dispatch to the Herald from Berlin says the police of Hamburg have discovered that thieves have taken a splendid consignment of Dresden china which was to have been sent to President Roosevelt. The robbery was perpetrated recently while the china was being conveyed in a barge from Meissen to Hamburg, stones being substituted in the chests for the china.

Protest Against Cossacks.

Saratoff, Russia.—The local semstvo is protesting to Governor Sakharoff against the cruelty and violence of the Cossacks, who are charged with assaulting women. The provincial prisons are full of arrested prisoners.

New York.—A cable dispatch to the Herald from Berlin says the Berliner Tageblatt reports that the St. Petersburg police have intercepted correspondence between members of the revolutionary party and its adherents abroad, in which a project was discussed for the murder of the members of the imperial household. The letters were ciphered, but neither the writer nor the addressee has been arrested, as they are unknown.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ALERT.

Are Making Strong Fight Against Adoption of Esch-Townsend Bill.

Washington, Nov. 19.—That the railroad employees of the country mean to throw their whole weight against the adoption by congress of the Esch-Townsend bill or similar rate-fixing legislation is indicated by the great number of protests that have been coming to the senate committee on interstate commerce recently and that still continue to flow in by every mail. When the committee meets on Tuesday it will be confronted by a formidable array of these protests in the form of resolutions by local divisions of the railway labor organizations in all parts of the country and letters from local officers and division chiefs.

Not only have the national organizations of the leading orders, such as brotherhoods of engineers, firemen and trainmen and the order of conductors, taken action which has been placed before the senate committee, but hundreds of local divisions have re-enforced this action by resolutions of their own. While the expressions of sentiment that have reached the senate committee have not yet been tabulated, there are some five or six hundred local divisions of railway workmen represented in this way, and all the expressions that have been received strongly oppose any legislation giving to any governmental body the power to name rates. In some states nearly all the local lodges have taken such action. In New York, for example, thirty-seven of the forty divisions of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers have protested against the proposed legislation.

The other protests received include many from divisions of the engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, telegraphers, baggagemen and trackmen in different parts of the country. The railroad workmen claim that with those dependent upon them they represent six million persons who are vitally concerned in opposing the passage of any such measure as the Esch Townsend bill.

Although the movement has only been called to public attention during the past week by the visit of the committee of railway employees at the white house, opposition to the Esch-Townsend bill apparently has been gathering force among the workingmen ever since the measure was framed.

The initial action was taken at the convention of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers at Los Angeles, California, in May, 1904, even before the Esch-Townsend bill had become a fact. At this time this body voted that government interference with the railroads would be detrimental in their opinion, to the interests of the railroad companies, the railroad employes and the country at large.

At a special meeting of the division chiefs of this order at Cleveland, Ohio, January 21 and 23 of the present year, a resolution was passed to the effect "that this representative body is opposed to placing the power in the hands of the interstate commerce commission, regulating the rates for transportation on railways." Twenty-eight division chiefs of the order attested the minutes of the meeting containing this expression of opinion and their statement is now before the senate committee.

The brotherhood of locomotive firemen, at the meeting of its executive committee at Peoria, Ill., last February, following the example of the engineers, took similar action. They were followed by the order of railway conductors, assembled at Portland, Oregon, and the brotherhood of railway trainmen who met at Buffalo last May. The representatives of the order of railroad telegraphers in the east have also committed themselves in condemnation of the bill.

Typical of the stand taken by these various organizations are the resolutions adopted by the order of railway trainmen, with a membership of 80,000, at their national convention at Buffalo last spring. In this memorial the trainmen said:

"The usual acceptance of the term 'rate regulation' is rate reduction. The real issue, then, of rate regulation is one of rate reduction, which means a loss of revenue to the railway companies, and just how far-reaching this loss would be is a matter of conjecture. This organization does not stand as an apologist for railway wrong-doing, nor as a champion of railway corporations as against the rights and interests of the general public. Practices of discrimination are not condoned, but there is a remedy for them within the present law. We believe the laws should be forced against discrimination, rebates and preferentials, thus ensuring fair treatment to all concerned, but we do not believe in empowering any commission with the power to make a rate. As railway employes, we feel that the railway companies must be protected from oppression, and unfair legislation and be allowed to manage their business to the end that good service and wages be maintained, and a fair profit on railway investments be assured."

In the majority of these resolutions from labor organizations stress is laid on the point that they express the independent opinion of the men themselves, that they are subject to no coercion and that their action is taken because they believe it to be for their own good, and that of those dependent upon them, and the public at large. In this connection they emphasize the opinion that should a law like the Esch-Townsend bill be enforced, it would deprive the railroads of the control of their income, cause a shrinkage in the values of railroad property and thus result in great injury not only to themselves, but to the general public, impairing the commerce and industries of the whole country.

THE VALUE OF QUININE.

Why It is Used So Extensively—The Lives It Has Saved.

Quinine is one of the most valuable of all the drugs known to medical science.

No one would venture to travel in India without it. Before its discovery two million people died annually in India of malarial fever. The mortality from this cause is now less than half that number. The poor people—so poor that they looked upon the fever as their fate and expected no relief—are saved by the agency of quinine.

Livingstone and other travelers in Central Africa could never have made their discoveries without its aid. It is said of the great German explorer, Schweinfurth, that when he lost his entire property by fire, valuable scientific instruments among the rest, he felt the loss of his quinine to be the greatest of all, and often thought with fear of the journeys that lay before him, which, however, he persevered in.

The soldiers in the American Civil War depended greatly upon quinine. The pioneers in this country when it was first settled and civilized had as hard work fighting fever and ague in the then swampy, malarial districts as in fighting Indians, and quinine was even more necessary than firearms.

The great interocean canal now in process of construction across the Isthmus of Panama requires the labor of thousands of men largely unused to the climate and so much the more susceptible to its ill effect. Before the route was decided upon many surveys were made, and the men, naval officers and others, engaged in this work were exposed to all conditions of weather. But through the universal and proper use of the medicine daily as a precautionary measure the mortality was no greater than among men in like employ in other localities. Out of a little more than six thousand white men employed in the construction of the Panama Railroad there were only 293 deaths, and some of these were the result of other than climatic causes.

The whole world is indebted to the chinchona tree, from which quinine is made. Who could have foretold that this tree, a native of the mountainous forests of South America, would be of such importance in the advance of civilization and Christianity?

Its safe transportation from one side of the world to the other and the success attained in converting a wild into a cultivated plant and naturalizing it reads like a romance. One of the strange things about quinine is that it is not used as a medicine in the practice of the native physicians of Peru, Ecuador or Colombia.

The native Indians did not even know of its curative property till enlightened by the Spaniards about 250 years ago. They called the chinchona tree kina, from which comes the word quinine. What a lot of names the drug has had! China bark, quina, quinquina, chinchona bark, quinine, cincona, countess powder, Jesuit's bark, Cardinal de Lugo's powder, Peruvian bark, etc.

Great fortunes have been made out of it. At one time when Louis XIV. purchased the secret a pound of the bark cost about $50. As it came into general use it became a most important article of export from Peru. Now it is successfully cultivated in Ceylon and Java.

As a means of guarding the system from intermittent fever the English naval regulations require that every man shall take a portion of the drug when a ship is within a certain distance of the east or west coast of Africa, and that it shall be regularly taken by those engaged in boat cruising along the coasts or on the rivers or creeks.

We say with as much truth now as did Lambert in 1820: "The treasures which Peru yields and which the Spaniards sought and dug out of the bowels of the earth are not to be compared for utility with the bark of the quinquina tree, which they for a long time ignored."—Chicago Chronicle.

Cheerfulness is not always spontaneous; it is greatly a matter of habit, and bears cultivation.

Supreme Court.

Nashville, Tenn.—On Monday, December 11, the supreme court will convene here for the December term. Notic of a postponement of a week in the time fixed for the meeting of the court was received Saturday by Supreme Court Clerk Roach from Chief Justice Beard. This action is understood to have been the result of a petition signed by a large majority of the local bar asking for a postponement because the cases on the Davidson county docket could not be prepared by the time the docket is reached.

Tennessee Bag Company.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Tennessee Bag Company has made application for a charter, to be capitalized at $260,000. The incorporators are A. S. Caldwell, J. A. Goodwin, Harry Cohn, R. T. Fant, C. Hunter Raine, H. Benedorf, W. H. Carter, R. W. Porter and others.

CONVICTED

Senator Burton Fou
on All Six Counts—
a Federal Stat

WILL BE SENTENCED

The Jury Had the Case
Hours and Twenty Minutes

St Louis, Mo [illegible]
of Kansas, was [illegible] found guilty on [illegible] indictment upon which he trial for the past week in States circuit court charging having agreed to accept and compensation from the Ri and Securities Company of to appear for the company pacity of an attorney before office department

The verdict was brought in two hours and twenty-three after the jury had received

Senator Burton was orde pear in court at 10 o'clock morning, when his counsel a bill of exceptions would be
and an appeal asked for.
adjourned.

The case of Burton cha violating a federal statute ing as a paid attorney before office department to prevent of a fraud order against Grain and Securities Comp
Louis, was given to the jury
Friday night in the United cuit court.

Arguments by counsel occ morning and afternoon as Judge Vandeventer was end the case last week he that he would charge the night.

Before charging the jury
deventer said that he wou to any call made by the jury it was to receive a verdict.

One of the principal point out in Judge Vandeventer's that the question of the juri this court relative to agre tween Senator Burton and sentatives of the Rialto Co
Harlan, which the defense was made in Illinois was jury to decide.

Fall Among Savag

Victoria, B. C.—Details of the American ship Susqueh from New Caledonia to Breakwater, and abandoned
ing condition off Solomon Isl that some of Captain Watts
a narrow escape from ma blacks on the Solomons be belief that an ex-chief, w was occupied by the sh Americans, had died becau presence. Mrs. Elwell, as lady," who was a passenger husband, suffered privations seamen and was much admi
pluck. The mates and boat
Santa Ana, where the bl menacing.

The day following the arr shipwrecked men the exand his son blamed his de presence of the sailors in They moved to another hut, attacked by the natives, an caped to their boat in the n day they were picked up by ing schooner Aola and tak Christobal, where the other
ed seamen were found.

Flood Throughout

Rome.—The floods thre are causing serious damag
the Campagna Romana is and even the neighborhood is inundated. The famous St. Paul's is surrounded by a service of boats has been to approach it. The Tiber forty-five feet at one spot break the embankment
the city, as in 1900.

Sailors Mutiny

Sevastopol.—The sailors and the Brest regiment hav and joined the workmen, w ing a meeting under the city is in a state of panic.

$827,579 for the Russia

New York.—Contributio
Jewish national relief fund
efit of the Jews who have Russian atrocities up to Sa amounted to $827,579.

Cincinnati Man Kills

Cincinnati, O.—H. J. Be ular and widely connected lice department, commi
here Saturday. Ill health the cause.

The Osage Indians are be the richest communi world. Numbering only have over $8,000,000 to th
the treasury at Washin
1,470,000 acres of fertile homa.

A blind man recently against a letter box at England, and the shock
sion gave him back his

HE DISCOVE
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Co
t Woman's Remedy for Wom

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkha

r female medicine in the world has received endorsement.
r medicine has such a record of cures of fem teful friends as has dia E. Pinkham's Vegetable C entirely cure the worst forms of Female Co Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculi Life.
ured more cases of Backache and Leucorrhœa
orld has ever known. It is almost infallible nd expels tumors from the Uterus in an ar, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation, Weak
, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Hea yield to it. Womb troubles, causing pain, wei eved and permanently cured by its use. Unde the female system, and is as harmless as wate ly removes that Bearing-down Feeling, extre
"want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, ss, Faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melan
he. These are sure indications of Female W of the Uterus, which this medicine always cures.
he, of either sex, the Vegetable Compound alw omen who refuse to accept anything else are imes, for they get what they want—a cure
. Refuse all substitutes.

XTINE
TOILET
ISEPTIC
WOMEN
ills peculiar to
d as a douche is marvelously suc
ghly cleanses, kills disease germs,
s, heals inflammation and local
leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.
powder form to be dissolved in pure
more cleansing, healing, germicidal
than liquid antiseptics for all
D WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
at druggists, 50 cents a box.
d Book of Instructions Free.
N COMPANY BOSTON, MASS

Thompson's Eye Water

Posit
$5,000
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BU
Residence Lots,

MOZ
LEMON CONSTIPATIO
and all disorders
Bowels 50c. a

LOAN'S LINIM
r Your Family and You
The Best Antiseptic

TRY IT Rheumatism,
Sprains, S and Enlarg
Price, 25c., 50c
Dr. EARL S. S
615 Albany St., Bo

FOR FARM OR FIRESIDE
es which meet every demand made upo wear and style last longer and look b
ALWAYS JUST COR
OVER BRAND S
JUST THE KIND YOU WA r dealer will see that you are supplied es if you insist. Every dealer oug the best. See that you get these.
For business or dress ask for "SIR K
rtheimer-Swarts S
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSI
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

25 Cts
ANTI-GR
IS GUARANTEE GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADAC

n is taken e for their e depend-public at ey emphald a law
ll be en
railroads me, cause
f railroad great ins, but to the com
he whole

NE.

ely — The valuable medical travel in discov-only in mass than people the fever relief

none vs is ve made
It is explorer his
the
the with
of the eived

in Ecuador quinine
when it had as ague in districts nine was firearms now in the 18th labor of missed
the more before the surveys officers work were weather nd proper precauwas no like em-of a little white men n of the only 293
re the reuses ed to the quinine is told that untainous uld be of ace of civ-

n one side d the suc-
a wild naturaliz-
One of uinine is edicine in physicians a not even ty, till en-about 250
chinchona
the word s the drug na, quinnine, cin-
it's bark,
Peruvian

made out ouis XIV
d of the came into ost impor-
Peru. Now in Ceylon

he system
e English that every f the drug ertain dis-coast of regularly boat cruis-the rivers

th now as treasures
the Span-the bowels compared the quina long ronicle.

ys sponta-
r of habit.

onday, De-rt will con-term. No week in ing of the ay by Su-from Chief is under-lt of a pe-majority of postpone-the David-ot be pre-docket is

pany.
Tennessee application
ed at $260,-
A. S. Cald-
Cohn, R. T.
Bensdorf,
and others.

CONVICTED

Senator Burton Foun on All Six Counts—V a Federal Statu

WILL BE SENTENCED

The Jury Had the Case Hours and Twenty-s Minutes.

St Louis, Mo.—Senator J. of Kansas, was Saturday found guilty on all six cou indictment upon which he h trial for the past week in t States circuit court, charging having agreed to accept and compensation from the Ri and Securities Company, of to appear for the company pacity of an attorney before office department.

The verdict was brought i two hours and twenty-thr after the jury had received t

Senator Burton was orde pear in court at 10 o'cloc morning, when his counsel a a bill of exceptions would be and an appeal asked for. C adjourned.

The case of Burton, cha violating a federal statute ing as a paid attorney befor office department to prevent of a fraud order against Grain and Securities Comp Louis, was given to the jur Friday night in the United cuit court.

Arguments by counsel occ morning and afternoon ses as Judge Vandeventer was end the case last week he that he would charge the j night.

Before charging the jury deventer said that he woul to any call made by the jury it was to receive a verdict.

One of the principal poin out in Judge Vandeventer's that the question of the juri this court relative to agre tween Senator Burton and sentatives of the Rialto Co Harlan, which the defense was made in Illinois, was jury to decide.

Fall Among Savag

Victoria, B. C.—Details of the American ship Susqueha from New Caledonia to Breakwater, and abandoned ing condition off Solomon Is that some of Captain Watt a narrow escape from ma blacks on the Solomons be belief that an ex-chief, w was occupied by the s Americans, had died becau presence. Mrs. Elwell, an lady, who was a passenger husband, suffered privation seamen and was much adm pluck. The mates and boa Santa Ana, where the b menacing.

The day following the ar shipwrecked men the ex- and his son blamed his de presence of the sailors in They moved to another hut, attacked by the natives, a caped to their boat in the day they were picked up b ing schooner Aola and ta Christobal, where the other ed seamen were found.

Flood Throughout I

Rome.—The floods thro are causing serious damag the Campagna Romana is u and even the neighborhoo is inundated. The famous St. Paul's is surrounded by a service of boats has been to approach it. The Tibe forty-five feet at one spo break the embankment a the city, as in 1900.

Sailors Mutiny

Sevastopol.—The sailors and the Brest regiment ha and joined the workmen, w ing a meeting under the r city is in a state of panic.

$827,579 for the Russia

New York.—Contributi Jewish national relief fund efit of the Jews who have Russian atrocities up to Sa amounted to $827,579.

Cincinnati Man Kills

Cincinnati, O.—H. J. Be ular and widely connecte lice department, committ here Saturday. Ill health the cause.

The Osage Indians are be the richest commun world. Numbering only have over $8,000,000 to th the treasury at Washing 1,470,000 acres of fertile homa.

A blind man recov against a letter box at England, and the shock sion gave him back his

HE DISCOVERER

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the t Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

female medicine in the world has received such widespread and endorsement.

r medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such teful friends as has dia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian Inflammation and Ulceration. Falling and Displacement of the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Life.

ared more cases of Backache and Leucorrhœa than any other rem- orld has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It d expels tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of der, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation, Weakness of the Stomach, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debil- yield to it. Womb troubles, causing pain, weight and backache, in- eved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it the female system, and is as harmless as water.

y removes that Bearing-down Feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervous- ess, Faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues" he These are sure indications of Female Weakness, or some de- of the Uterus, which this medicine always cures. Kidney Complaints the, of either sex, the Vegetable Compound always cures.

omen who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred imes, for they get what they want—a cure. Sold by Druggists Refuse all substitutes.

XTINE
TOILET
ISEPTIC

WOMEN

ills peculiar to
d as a douche is marvelously suc-
ghly cleanses, kills disease germs,
s, heals inflammation and local
leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.
powder form to be dissolved in pure
more cleansing, healing, germicidal
than liquid antiseptics for all
D WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
at druggists, 50 cents a box.
d Book of Instructions Free.
COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

hompson's Eye Water

Positions GUARANTEED BY A BANK DEPOSIT

$5,000 R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken
500 FREE COURSES
Board at Cost. Write Quick

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Residence Lots, Near Beach, $125.
$10 cash; $5.00 monthly. Write for map.
GEO. L. CARLEY, Gulfport, Miss.

MOZLEY'S
LEMON ELIXIR
—A SURE CURE FOR—
CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS
and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

LOAN'S LINIMENT

r Your Family and Your Horse

The Best Antiseptic Known.
TRY IT FOR
Rheumatism, Strains, Sprains, Swellings and Enlargements.
Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

FOR FARM OR FIRESIDE

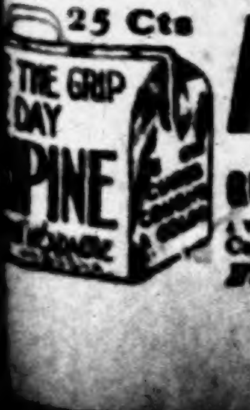
s which meet every demand made upon them for wear and style last longer and look better.

ALWAYS JUST CORRECT"
OVER BRAND SHOES
JUST THE KIND YOU WANT

r dealer will see that you are supplied with these s if you insist. Every dealer ought to give the best. See that you get these.

For business or dress ask for "SIR KNIGHT"

rtheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.



25 Cts
ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It.
Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 3.

Subject: Nehemiah Rebuilds the Walls of Jerusalem, Neh. iv., 7-20—Golden Text, Matt. xxvi., 41—Memory Verses, 19, 20—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. A conspiracy (vs. 7, 8).

7. "Sanballat." An officer of the Persian Government, holding a military command at Samaria. He was a native of the land of Moab; therefore his hatred to the Jews. "Tobiah." A descendant of the hated race of Ammonites. "Arabians." Headed probably by Geshem, and in league with the Samaritans against the Jews. Read 6:6. The building of the wall was construed into a design to fortify themselves and then revolt and become an independent State. "Ashdodites." Inhabitants of Ashdod, one of the great cities of the Philistine plain. 8. "Conspired." The enemies of the Jews were so bitterly opposed to the rebuilding of the walls that they employed every form of opposition in their power.

II. Praying and watching (vs. 9-11).

9. "Nevertheless." Notwithstanding the conspiracy and all other discouragements. "Made our prayer." Nehemiah was conscious that he was working according to God's will, and he knew the source of power. "Set a watch." Opposite to the place where they were encamped, probably on the north side of the city. Faith and works go together. Watching and praying, weak when apart, a Gibraltar of strength when united. 10. "Judah said." That is, the returned captives, most of whom were of the tribe of Judah. This verse expresses the despair of the little nation. Many of the people had no heart for the work; some of the nobles were in correspondence with the enemies (6:17-19). Even the high priest had relationship with hostile foreigners (Ammonites—Tobiah and his son married Jewish women), and gave them favors (13:4, 5, 28). "Strength—decayed." From the extent of the work, the fewness of the laborers, and the exhaustion of their physical powers they seemed unable to complete their task. "Not able." Their statements were probably correct, but their conclusion was wrong. They were able to build the wall, and they did it. 11. "Adversaries said." In this verse Nehemiah condenses the hostile utterances of their enemies. This would cause a constant and disheartening fear.

III. Precautions taken (vs. 12-14).

12. "Jews which dwelt by them." Those who dwelt among the Samaritans and other enemies and found out their evil designs. They were anxious to have their friends and kinsmen return to their homes and families. "Ten times." Equivalent to "again and again." "Ye must return" (R. V.) Leave the work and go home because of the threatened danger. 13. "Lower places." Within the wall where it was not yet raised to its due height, and therefore most liable to the enemies' assault. "Higher places." Where the wall was finished and towers were set from whence they might shoot arrows or throw stones. This would show the enemy that they were fully prepared for their intended assault and would give notice that their secret plan was known. "After their families." In family groups, so that the men that guarded the wall had their kinsmen nearest them. Thus the soldiers need not be distracted by anxiety for their families, for those whom they desired to defend were at hand. 14. "Be not ye afraid." The pagan allies had joined their forces; their army was advancing and doubtless in sight, and an attack impending, when Nehemiah made this short, stirring appeal. No conflict followed, for the enemy saw from a distance that the whole people awaited them in perfect order and equipment; so they lost heart and turned back. "Remember the Lord." The best of all arguments for patriotic courage.

IV. Working and watching (vs. 15-20).

15. "We returned, all of us, to the wall." Noble persistence in a good purpose. The momentary withdrawal from the work to be ready for the Lord's battle had neither changed their purpose nor dampened their ardor.

16. "My servants." Probably a special band of men given as personal guards, by either the King of Persia or the people at Jerusalem. "Half—wrought—half—held." This is no unusual thing, even in the present day in Palestine; people sowing their seed are often attended by an armed man, to prevent the Arabs from robbing them of their seed, which they will not fail to do if not protected. "Habergeons." An old English word for coat-of-mail, from "halo" (neck) and "bergen" (to protect). "Rulers—behind." The chiefs stood behind the laborers stationed at different places along the wall, directing and encouraging them, ready to lead on the armed force if an attack was made upon the laborers.

17. "They which builded." Masons, bricklayers and the like. "They that bare burdens." The carriers of material. 18. "That sounded the trumpet." The workmen labored with a trowel in one hand and a sword in the other; and as they were far removed from each other, Nehemiah, who was night and day on the spot, kept a trumpeter by his side, so that on any intelligence of a surprise being brought to him an alarm might be immediately sounded and assistance rendered to the most distant detachment of their brethren.

19, 20. "And I said," etc. By these vigilant precautions the counsels of the enemy were defeated and the work was carried on. God, when He has important public work to do, never fails to raise up instruments for accomplishing it. The work was completed in the brief time of fifty-two days (6:15), ending the last of September. The walls must have been three or four miles long to reach around the city.

A Zulu named Kwesi, living in Alfred County, Natal, has died at the advanced age of 117 years. Meat and milk were the principal articles of his diet. His sister, three years older than himself, still lives.

Japanese hotels furnish fresh tooth brushes every morning free to every guest. The brush is of wood, shaped like a pencil and frayed to a tufty brush of fiber at the large end.

THE ONLY ONE

There is only One
Genuine-Syrup of Figs,

The Genuine is Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

The full name of the company, California Fig Syrup Co., is printed on the front of every package of the genuine.

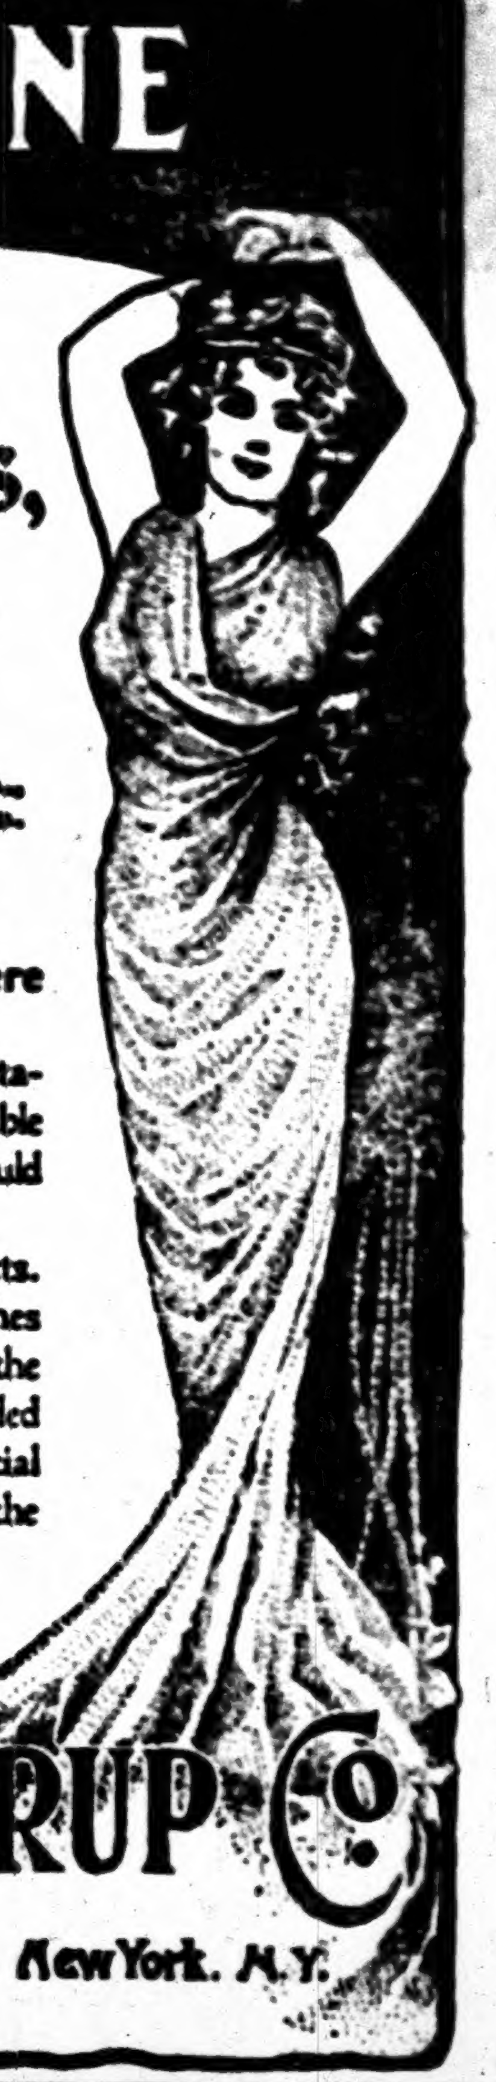
The Genuine- Syrup of Figs- is for Sale, in Original Packages Only, by Reliable Druggists Everywhere

Knowing the above will enable one to avoid the fraudulent imitations made by piratical concerns and sometimes offered by unreliable dealers. The imitations are known to act injuriously and should therefore be declined.

Buy the genuine always if you wish to get its beneficial effects. It cleanses the system gently yet effectually, dispels colds and headaches when bilious or constipated, prevents fevers and acts best on the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels, when a laxative remedy is needed by men, women or children. Many millions know of its beneficial effects from actual use and of their own personal knowledge. It is the laxative remedy of the well-informed.

Always buy the Genuine- Syrup of Figs

MANUFACTURED BY THE



CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
Louisville, Ky. San Francisco, Cal. New York, N.Y.
PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

The next ten years, in the view of a prophetic British engineer, will bring enormous development of electric traction, especially in supplanting steam on suburban branch railroads and short main lines. The incandescent lamp will be improved, cheapening electric lighting, possibly to the extent of driving out all other illuminants. Long distance telephony will be greatly developed and wireless telegraphy will become established on ships, chiefly for safety. The generation and transmission of electric power promise little advance unless some new source of electricity is discovered. Direct production of current from coal remains only a dream, and Tesla's transmission of power without wires is no better. The universal adoption of the steam turbine will be the only advance in power stations.

The gold in sea water has been estimated by Professor Liversidge at one grain per ton. In his British Association address G. T. Bailby calculated that a pinhead drop of cyanide solution of this richness—that is, a cubic millimeter of the weakest solution obtained in treating gold ore—contains a number of molecules expressed by 125 followed by 18 ciphers, and that of these molecules 6,500,000,000 are gold, which is less than 1-60,000 inch apart. Another computer shows that even in this dilution the point of the finest needle would cover 1,500 gold molecules. Thus we touch gold everywhere in the sea, but we are not likely to separate it as a profit.

The Japanese are experts on smoke rings, and it is said in Japan it is considered no uncommon trick to blow three rings of smoke in succession, the second traveling through the first and the third through both. Some stage performers are credited with becoming so expert in smoke blowing that they are not only able to multiply the number of rings thus made, but actually form Japanese characters representing words and sentences. One Japanese juggler, it is declared, proposed to his wife by forming the characters representing his avowal of love through a thin stream of smoke.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY.

A Woman Who Has Suffered Tells How to Find Relief.

The thousands of women who suffer backache, languor, urinary disorders and other kidney ills, will find comfort in the words of Mrs. Jane Farrell, of 606 Ocean Ave., Jersey City, N. J., who says: "I reiterate all I have said before in praise of Dean's Kidney Pills. I had been having heavy backache and my general health was affected when I began using them. My feet were swollen, my eyes puffed, and dizzy spells were frequent. Kidney action was irregular and the secretions highly colored. To-day, however, I am a well woman, and I am confident that Dean's Kidney Pills have made me so, and are keeping me well."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Charlotte Bronte's husband is still alive at Banagher, England.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Whitefish and salmon trout are almost extinct in Canadian waters.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'Brien, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Korea was greatly benefited by the Russo-Japanese war.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The Chinese mother is very fond of her children.

BABY CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humor—Scratched Till Blood Ran—Wasted to a Skeleton—Speedily Cured by Cuticura.

"When three months old my boy broke out with an itching, watery rash all over his body, and he would scratch till the blood ran. We tried nearly everything, but he grew worse, wasting to a skeleton, and we feared he would die. He slept only when in our arms. The first application of Cuticura soothed him so that he slept in his cradle for the first time in many weeks. One set of Cuticura made a complete and permanent cure. (Signed) Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ontario."

Bodio estimated that the population of the earth at the time of the death of the Emperor Augustus was approximately 54,000,000.

Gov. George H. Utter, of Rhode Island, is a Seventh Day Adventist, and therefore on the last day of the week the executive department of the state does no business.

There is a fine opportunity in this vicinity to take orders for the celebrated White Bronze monuments, headstones, grave covers, etc., made by The Monumental Bronze Company, 392 Howard Ave., Bridgeport, Conn. It is a good, legitimate business, and they offer very liberal inducements. Someone should write them for the agency.

An instructor at Vassar College has an old and interesting collection of photographs—the photographs of the babies of young women who are college graduates. The babies in this collection are strong and beautiful. They number over 300.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. E. GILBERT DRUG CO., [illegible]

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

As a result of the high price of camphor French scientists have been searching for a substitute. They claim to have been successful in converting turpentine into camphor.

$1,000 To Be Given for Reliable Information

We will give One Dollar for a Postal Card giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS

have for years been the standard for all steam plants. Best of material and workmanship. Our big output enables us to sell on small profits. An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no more than the other kind.

Write today for our special offer.

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS

Corliss Engines High Speed Engines Water Tube Boilers
Four Valve Engines Compound Engines Tubular Boilers
Automatic Engines Throttling Engines Portable Boilers

Atlas Engines in service 1,000,000 H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service 1,000,000 H. P.

Am.48, 1905.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
SOLE AGENTS FOR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
ESTABLISHED JULY 6, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50.

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR
[illegible]
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use
in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 5 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

J. R BROADHEAD & SON
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise
Fine Groceries
None better on the market.
CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a cof

W. I MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA

Job Printing cheap at THE BANNER Office

Energy.

We thought Energy had gone to rest but it seems that it should not be forgotten.

Well, the farmers of Chilton county are getting along very nicely with their work.

Messrs. J. D. and S. M. Eiland of Montgomery spent Sunday at Mr. Z. A. Eiland's. We were glad to see them and hope they will come again.

We are glad that Mr. Calloway and family have moved into our neighborhood.

We have a good school at Enterprise, taught by Mr. John Bean. The pupils like him fine.

ENERGY PLOW BOY.

TRESPASS NOTICE.

All persons are warned against hunting on my place seven miles southeast of Maplesville, under penalty of law. W. L. BROWN.

Chilton County Baptist Association.

The Minutes for 1905 are now ready, and clerks of churches can get their share by calling or sending to THE BANNER office.

$2 25. By special arrangement we are enabled to offer the Alabama Baptist ($2 00 and the Banner ($1.00) both papers one year for $2,25

Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headache constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers" are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Hickory Hollow.

Several of our boys and girls attended the singing at New Cedron and reported a nice time

miss Alice Powell visited miss Alice Dobbs last Sunday

Miss Mollie Wyatt and miss Edner Mullins visited mrs Dobbs Sunday

Our farmers are about done gathering

Every ounce of food you eat that fails to digest does a pound of harm. It turns the entire meal into poison. This not only deprives the blood of the necessary tissue-building material, but it poisions it. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant. It digests the food regardless of the condition of the stomach. It allows that organ to rest and get strong again. Relieves Belching, Heart Burn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.
General Merchandise
CLANTON - - ALA.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles. Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS,

VIOLINS, GUITARS,

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton, Ala.

TO DELICATE WOMEN

You will never get well and strong, bright, happy, hearty and free from pain, until you build up your constitution with a nerve refreshing, blood-making tonic, like

Wine of Cardui

It Makes Pale Cheeks Pink

It is a pure, harmless, medicinal tonic, made from vegetable ingredients, which relieve female pain and distress, such as headache, backache, bowel ache, dizziness, chills, scanty or profuse menstruation, dragging down pains, etc.

It is a building, strength-making medicine for women, the only medicine that is certain to do you good. Try it.

Sold by every druggest in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"YOU ARE FRIENDS of mine," writes Mrs. F. L. Jones, of Gallatin, Tenn.: "For since taking Cardui I have gained 35 lbs., and am in better health than for the past 9 years. I tell my husband that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to all suffering ladies."

Position GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

The Great Christmas Edition of

THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

Will be issued Dec. 17th, 1905. This will be one of the great papers ever issued in the South. Will contain over 100 pages. Every page will be a gem. You cannot afford to be without this splendid paper.

Fill out order blank below and send 5 cents. Address, The Advertiser Co., Montgomery.

Name..............................

Postoffice..............................

Notice to Non-Residents.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court, 7th District, Northern Division, I. Vacation, 1905.
Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of [illegible] the defendant S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and whose last known residence is in the State of Tennessee, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant S. P. Ingrel is over the age of twenty-one. It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Banner a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the complaint in the above cause on or before the [illegible] day of December, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of November 1905.

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

(Trade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U.S.A.

For sale by Upchurch Drug co.

Let's have a plain talk about your Kidneys

Let's have a plain talk about your health—right straight from the shoulder and without any "snatched from the grave" or "modern miracles" about it. We want you to believe in our sincerity and the medicinal value of Uracura in all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder. If you have any of these troubles or have a tendency in that direction, we want to say plainly and frankly that Uracura will remove it even to the last trace. Now we don't want to frighten you into thinking you have something you haven't; but we do say earnestly and sincerely it is your duty to yourself to find out now—once for all what your balance is on the credit side of the ledger of good health. Kidney and Bladder troubles do not give violent warnings—they slowly and gradually creep upon you until the first thing you know you are tight in their relentless clutches.

The things we eat and drink and the hurried, worried and nervous lives we lead now-a-days are such that he is indeed lucky whose Liver, Kidneys and Bladder are all perfectly healthy.

DO YOU HAVE BACKACHE

Shortness of Breath, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Sleeplessness, Vertigo, Constipation, Sallow Complexion, Sour Stomach, High Colored Urine, Yellowish Eyeballs, Coated Tongue, Depression, Headache, Nervousness? It's Liver, Kidney or Bladder troubles; but even surer than symptoms

URACURA IS THE TEST AS WELL AS THE CURE

After taking a few doses of Uracura, you will notice, if you have Kidney or Bladder Trouble, that the urine will be of a very dark or reddish color with a strong odor of the medicine. This is not only an unfailing sign of the trouble but also an indication that a cure has commenced. After two or three days you will notice that the urine is clear—you will feel less pain about the Kidneys and your backache will leave. You will be less nervous and in every way will be better and stronger. This is not theory but the result of the testimony of thousands who have been cured—that's the reason WE KNOW it will cure you without question or doubt. Uracura is a purely vegetable compound or concentrated extract prepared from the roots and herbs that science has proved to be absolutely the only sure cure for these diseases, making Uracura a great Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder cure. It restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the Blood, relieves Biliousness and Constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion. If you value your life and health beyond a 50c piece

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY—PRICE 50 CENTS

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

For sale by all Druggists

VOL. XIV

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The Uncomfortable Collar

"I don't know what is the matter with these collars," said Smartboy to the salesman. "They seemed all right when I bought them yesterday. But I had to use a button hook to connect them with my collar button this morning. They fit as though they were intended for my little brother."

"There are two ways to put on a collar," replied the salesman, "and you seem to have chosen the wrong way. I noticed it when you were here yesterday, but it was not up to me to tell you. I've been jumped on for volunteering that information more than once. Most men think it does not make any difference whether you button the right side or the left of a collar first. It makes all the difference in the world in the comfort and set of the collar, no matter what shape it is. Undo that collar you are wearing, button the right side first, and you'll be glad you're alive."—New York Press.

Frank English Servants.

The English servants, whether they prove better when engaged, are certainly franker than American servants in declaring their weaknesses in advertising for employment. The columns of a London paper disclose their amiable candidness. In the first advertisement the applicant confesses to "drink a temptation, but not an inebriate;" the next pleads as her recommendation that she is "faithful, but plain of speech;" a third requires a place where "manual work is light," but does not say of what intellectual work she is capable, while a fourth is described as a "dishonest girl of seventeen." Should the mistress be too hypercritical to engage any of the above attractive servants she has still another opportunity—perhaps "she will be willing to train for domestic service a rough coster girl desirous of redeeming character."

ANOTHER FIRE AT CLANTON

Last Thursday afternoon as Dr. N. S. Johnson was on his porch he noticed fire breaking through the wall of Mr E. M. Pinckard's residence, and immediately raised an alarm, but before aid could be rendered the roof was fairly ablaze, and despite hard work the building was totally destroyed. Willing hands hastily carried out the furniture, and by dint of hard work the warehouse close by was saved, or it would have inevitably involved the destruction of Dr. Hayes' barn across the street. Mr. Pinckard was fully insured and will at once rebuild, plans now being prepared.

Mr. Pinckard was in Birmingham at the time of the fire, and Mrs. Pinckard was out driving.

Does Dress Influence Love?

One would hardly think that such a beautiful passion as love could be influenced by such a sordid affair as dress. Yet the fact remains that this is so in very many cases. Not for a moment is it suggested that the girl who tries to dress the tackiest or struts about in grand or gaudy has a chance for compelling masculine admiration with love as a follower. Not at all, the over dressed girl is an abomination in the eyes of every sensible man; but I say this, the one that dresses the neatest is admired by all who know her. They are attracted to her by reason of her artistic skill in dressing, a young man is delighted to be seen in her company for it enhances his own reputation. Does it not demonstrate that he has a good taste in the choice of say a sweetheart? A thing to be kept in mind by all girls is companions; for instance a youth observes how nicely his chum's friend dresses; in comparison with the other. It depends upon all young ladies in love to pay careful attention to the manner in which they dress.

When attending little parties, too, a girl can often secure her lover by means of her dress. Now, strange to say, we see girls at parties who evidently try to outdo the rainbow as far as colors go. These girls will never attract the attention of the right sort. Let girls remember the plainer at parties and such like gatherings, the more hearts they touch. I have seen girls who try to dress out of reason and go just merely to be seen of men. Does not a young girl's dressing indicate, in a measure, the kind of wife she might be likely to turn out? And on the other hand if a girl dresses tastefully and neatly, is a youth not likely to argue that her home would be kept in first class order? If then a man views matters in this way, don't you think that the girl who dresses the neatest is more likely to inspire love than the girl who tries to dress the tackiest?

ALLIE VANCE.

In Mad Chase.

Millions rush in mad chase after health, from one extreme of faddism to another, when if they would only eat good food, and keep their bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills, their troubles would all pass away. Prompt relief and quick cure for liver and stomach trouble. 25c at Upchurch Drug co; guaranteed.

STOCK

PRICE

he good people of Chilton county, ock, comprising all the latest fashi
call your attention to our line of

Trimmed Hats and Millinery of
kinds; Dress Goods; Underw
Jackets of the latest styles; Bre
onderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

Hats, and a special line of 500 p
of sample Shoes, worth from $3
to $5 00, to be closed out at $2
ced lined, to go at 39 cents.

USICAL INSTRUMENTS
N PHONOGRAPHS,
VIOLINS, GUITARS, b

p in stock at the very lowest pric nd hear the Phonograph talk—th e worth living.

NJUTZKY
ORITE STORE
on, Ala.

CATE WOMEN

well and strong, bright, hapm pain, until you build up your erve refreshing, blood-making

f Cardui

ale Cheeks Pink medicinal tonic, made from vegetable male pain and distress, such as headache, ess, chills, scanty or profuse menstru-

c:
making-medicine for women, the only you good. Try it.
n $1.00 bottles.

"YOU ARE FRIENDS
of mine," writes Mrs. F. L. Jones, of Gallatin, Tenn.:
"For since taking Cardui I have gained 35 lbs., and am in better health than for the past 9 years. I tell my husband that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to all suffering ladies."

The Great Christmas Edition
THE MONTGOMERY
ADVERTISER
Will be issued Dec. 17th,
This will be one of the gre papers ever issued in the So
Will contain over 100 pages.
ery page will be a gem. You not afford to be without this sp
did paper.
Fill out order blank below
send 5 cents. Address, The
vertiser Co., Montgomery.
Name ....
P. O. ....

Notice to Non-Residen

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court, 7th District, Northea vision, 1 Vacation, 1905.
Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingr fendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the ter, by the affidavit on file of Rob't H. Kn the defendant S. P. Ingrel is a non-resi the State of Alabama and whose last kno resided in the State of Tennessee, and that in the belief of said affiant, the Def S. P. Ingrel is over the age of twenty one It is therefore ordered by the Registe publication be made in the Banner, a new published in Clanton, Ala., once a week consecutive weeks, requiring him, the sai Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the complaint in the above cause on before day of December, 1905, and failing so to do thirty days after the service of this sum decree pro confesso may be taken against said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of Nov 1905.

S. A. Stewart, Register in Cha

THE ORIGINA
LAXATIVE COUGH SY
Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.
(Trade Mark Registered.)
KENNEDY'S LAXAT
HONEY AND TA
PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO,
For sale by Upchurch D

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part One CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 No. 8

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The Uncomfortable Collar.

"I don't know what is the matter with these collars," said Smartboy to the salesman. "They seemed all right when I bought them yesterday. But I had to use a button hook to connect them with my collar button this morning. They fit as though they were intended for my little brother."

"There are two ways to put on a collar," replied the salesman, "and you seem to have chosen the wrong way. I noticed it when you were here yesterday, but it was not up to me to tell you. I've been jumped on for volunteering that information more than once. Most men think it does not make any difference whether you button the right side or the left of a collar first. It makes all the difference in the world in the comfort and set of the collar, no matter what shape it is. Also that collar you are wearing, button the right side first, and you'll be glad you're alive."—New York Press.

Frank English Servants.

The English servants, whether they prove better when engaged, are certainly franker than American servants in declaring their weaknesses in advertising for employment. The columns of a London paper disclose their amiable candidness. In the first advertisement the applicant confesses to "drink temptation, but not an inebriate;" the next pleads as her recommendation that she is "faithful, but plain of speech;" a third requires a place where manual work is light," but does not say of what intellectual work she is capable, while a fourth is described as "dishonest girl of seventeen." Should the mistress be too hypercritical to engage any of the above attractive servants she has still another opportunity—perhaps "she will be willing to train for domestic service a rough coster girl desirous of redeeming character."

ANOTHER FIRE AT CLANTON.

Last Thursday afternoon as Dr. N. S. Johnson was on his porch he noticed fire breaking through the wall of Mr E M Pinckard's residence, and immediately raised an alarm, but before aid could be rendered the roof was fairly ablaze, and depite hard work the building was totally destroyed Willing hands hastily carried out the furniture, and by dint of hard work the warehouse close by was saved, or it would have inevitably involved the destruction of Dr. Hayes' barn across the street Mr. Pinckard was fully insured and will at once rebuild, plans now being prepared.

Mr. Pinckard was in Birmingham at the time of the fire, and Mrs. Pinckard was out driving.

Does Dress Influence Love?

One would hardly think that such a beautiful passion as love could be influenced by such a sordid affair as dress. Yet the fact remains that this is so in very many cases. Not for a moment is it suggested that the girl who tries to dress the tackiest or struts about in grand or gaudy has a chance for compelling masculine admiration with love as a follower. Not at all the over dressed girl is an abomination in the eyes of every sensible man; but I say this the one that dresses the neatest is admired by all who know her. They are attracted to her by reason of her artistic skill in dressing, a young man is delighted to be seen in her company, for it enhances his own reputation. Does it not demonstrate that he has a good taste in the choice of say a sweetheart? A thing to be kept in mind by all girls is comparisons; for instance a youth observes how nicely his chum's friend dresses; in comparison with the other it depends upon all young ladies in love to pay careful attention to the manner in which they dress.

When attending little parties, too, a girl can often secure her lover by means of her dress. Now, strange to say, we see girls at parties who evidently try to outdo the rainbow as far as colors go. These girls will never attract the attention of the right sort. Let girls remember the plainer at parties and such like gatherings, the more hearts they touch. I have seen girls who try to dress out of reason and go just merely to be seen of men Does not a young girl's dressing indicate, in a measure, the kind of wife she might be likely to turn out? And on the other hand if a girl dresses tastefully and neatly, is a youth not likely to argue that her home would be kept in first class order? If then a man views matters in this way, don't you think that the girl who dresses the neatest is more likely to inspire love than the girl who tries to dress the tackiest?

Allie Vance.

In Mad Chase.

Millions rush in mad chase after health, from one extreme of faddism to another, when if they would only eat good food, and keep their bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills, their troubles would all pass away. Prompt relief and quick cure for liver and stomach trouble. 25c at Upchurch Drug co; guaranteed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is simply liquid electricity. It goes to every part of your body, bringing new blood, strength and new vigor, It makes you well and keeps you well, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co

Resignation.

Billingsley, Dec. 1, 1905

Editor Banner—Please say to the people of Chilton county through the Banner, that I have resigned as a member of the County Board of Education, and to those who elected me to the office I wish to say that I highly appreciate the trust reposed in me and filled the office to the best of my knowledge and ability. Hopiug you may get a wiser, abler and a better man for the place, I am,

Resspetfully,
H. L. Davis.

Vida, Ala., Dec. 2, 1905

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper for a few words in regard to a report that is afloat on me and my family about how we mistreated Walter Grimes. I want to say that whoever put out such report is false. I want all who believe it to go where I live, and where I lived two years ago, and find out how I treated him in his sickness and how he and his wife got back from Covington county. I kept him two weeks and his family and all the expenses came out of me; besides I have had his baby about 18 months and he never has done anything for it. I have just paid $5.00 doctor's bill for it and one year ago I paid $20 for it and he never has done anything for it. I want to say to the people that I thank them for their help in my burning out. So I will say that God will bless the cheerful giver.

Yours for success,
I. A. Patrick.

Maplesville.

As the Scotch say "We have had some coarse weather," but the moon is all right now to give us some cold, crisp but bright days,

We wish Roosevelt knew how patriotically his law was obeyed in keeping Thanksgiving; stores were closed, no cuss words were uttered that the writer heard, many turkeys met an untimely death; we wish our New England friends knew how much of their national dish was eaten here—cranberry sauce; we think some soured in transit here,

In the Methodist church Bro, Davis delivered a most patriotic, historical and religious sermon, Mr, Crumpton entertained Bro, Davis with a few friends; the day was most usefully and pleasantly spent examining Mr, Crumpton's curios brought by him from the Holy Land.

Mrs, Saportas has made her friend, Mrs, Gore, of Pletcher a most pleasant visit,

Miss Adair had invitation to spend Thanksgiving with friends in Clanton, but her train being behind time decided to visit her home in Uniontown,

Sincerely hope ye Editor had so good a dinner as your subscriber, Thanksgiving. Revolg,

Rough skin and cracked hands are not only cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but an occasional application will keep the skin soft and smooth. Best for Eczema, Cuts, Burns, Boils, etc. The genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve affords immediate relief in all forms of Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

A Certain Cure For Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

52 Banners for 75 ¢.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$[illegible] 00
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,164 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50
Currency	12,233 00
Gold	295 00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,287 01
Checks and Cash Items	20 00
Profit and Loss	4 56
		$37,502 90
Total		$[illegible],606.61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$25,000.10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,370 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$50,172 50
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
		$[illegible] 10
Total		$[illegible],606 61

Districts 9 and 10,

The schools of Districts 9 and 10 are progressing nicely under the skillful management of our kind teachers.

The health of this community is very good.

We are glad to see Mr. W. D. Burnett adding to his residence.

Messrs. J E. and O D. Bone made round trip to Autauga county Sunday last

Mr C. C. Edwards was in town last Thursday.

There will be singing at the Popwell school house on the third Sunday evening in November in "Singing for Joy;" come one, come all

I learn through Miss L C Bone that Mr J F Bone of Troy will return home Xmas

One of the Old Boys

Culp's Schoolhouse.

The farmers of our community are about done gathering

We are sorry to say that Mr Milton Roper is on the sick list; with God's help we hope he will soon recover

Mr Walter Roper has moved his family into his new dwelling

We are sorry to say that Mr W J Smith and family have moved to Tennessee to make it their future home

Mr Keener Roper, who has been working with Mr Walter Roper at Shoults, is visiting his father, Mr R E Roper

Misses Beulah and Everree Williams visited Misses Neacie and Velma Roper Sunday last

Messrs Howard Roper and Earnest Mims visited Concord Sunday last and report a nice time

Mr Jesse Hayes is building a new residence

Hogs had better take to the woods, for hog killing time is all the go Nobody's Sweethearts

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next State teachers' examination for Chilton county will be held in the court house at Clanton, beginning on the first Monday in January, 1906. The examination will begin at 10 a.m. sharp.

J. W. Moore, Supt.

A Fearful Fate.

It is a fearful fate to have to endure the terrible torture of Piles. "I can truthfully say," writes Harry Golson, of Masonville, Ia., "that for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles, Bucklen's Arnica Salve, is the best cure made." Also best for cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Subscribe for The Banner.

Dargin.

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your dear old Banner for a few words. The health of this community is good.

Our school is booming now; we have a good teacher. All are striving for the benefit of the school while they are young and in the bloom of life. Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. I am glad to see many interested in the work of the Lord

Mr. Baker and family, who had a severe spell of fever, are out again. Three of his little ones passed away during his sickness.

Dargin School Boy.

Swift Creek.

Farmers are about done gathering in this section. The cotton crop is short; corn is about an average crop.

Rev. T. J Deason filled his regular appointment at Shiloh Saturday and Sunday. Well sir, you would not know our old meeting house now, Mr. W. H. Taylor of Clanton came down and gave it a few strokes with the paint brush which improved its appearance very much. Now let us go to work and put a new top on it and have it painted inside, which will add very much to its looks and also make it last a good deal longer.

Mr. J. H. Wright moved to Prattville last week.

Mr. H. Franklin of Prattville has moved into our community.

We would like to hear from the two school girls again; get C. M. B. to write for you again, he did very well.

I think your correspondent at Popwell's mill must be mistaken about wedding bells ringing. If the darling has heard anything like the feint sound of bells it must have been Weldon's sheep bell.

Success to the Banner and its many readers; may it have many more. Guess It's Me.

Nothing will cure indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach rest. You can't expect that a week stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to to the full work that a sound stomach should do. You wouldn't expect a sick horse to get well when it is compelled to do a full day's work every day in the week. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant and digests the food regardless of the condition of your stomach. Relieves Indigestion, Belching, Sour Stomach, and all stomach disorders. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Some sharp frosts this week.

THE CLANTON BANK
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

OXEN FOR SALE—22 head of oxen, 5 drays, chains, hooks, etc., property of the Jackson Lumber Co. Apply to W. H. Forbes, Jr., 2 miles east of Stanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can cultivate 35 or 60 acres land, lies level and has a good new house on same. Apply to J. L. Burnett, Thorsby, Ala.

Beautifying methods that injure the skin and health are dangerous, Be beautiful without discomfort by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, Sunshiny faces follow its use, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co,

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

The season of indigestion is upon us. Kodol Dyspepsia cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do everything for the stomach that an over-loaded and over-worked stomach can not do for itself. Kodol Digests what you eat—gives the stomach a rest—relieves sour stomach, belching, heart-burn, indigestion, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co

FOUND—Wednesday afternoon, in front of the court house, a bunch of keys. Apply to Dr. J. P. Hayes, Clanton, Ala.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

An Emergency Medicine

For sprains, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but causes the parts to heal in about one third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST
of Birmingham, 2003 Second ave., will be in Jemison Friday and Saturday before the first Sunday in each month, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. Teeth examined free.

Torture of a Preacher.

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church, of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you. He says. "I suffered agonies, because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At Upchurch Drug co.; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

HOLLISTER'S
Rocky Mountain Tea Nuggets
A Busy Medicine for Busy People.
Brings Golden Health and Renewed Vigor.
A specific for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver and Kidney troubles, Pimples, Eczema, Impure Blood, Bad Breath, Sluggish Bowels, Headache and Backache. Its Rocky Mountain Tea in tablet form, 35 cents a box. Genuine made by Hollister Drug Company, Madison, Wis.
GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A Horn, Thorsby,

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

SCORES KILLED

In Battle With Mutineers—Attackers Flee When Loyal Troops Open Fire.

WILD STORIES AT THE CAPITAL.

Communication Has Not Been Restored and All Messages Must Come by Courier.

Kieff, Russia (Via Warsaw.)—There has been serious street fighting between mutinous sappers and cossacks, and between workmen and bands of the "Black Hundred." Scores of persons have been killed or wounded. Martial law has been proclaimed.

London.—The Daily Mail's Kieff correspondent in a dispatch forwarded by Podwoloczyska says:

Early Saturday morning a company of sappers, dissatisfied with their martinet commander, mutinied and persuaded a second company to join them. They left the fortress fully armed and by threats compelled the remainder of the sappers' battalion to join them. Numbering a thousand, the mutineers marched to the barracks of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Kursk infantry which, however, remained loyal. A Jewish musician marched at the head of the mutineers. Several attempts were made to induce other troops to join them, but these likewise failed.

A body of Cossacks allowed the rebels to pass them in the street. Finally the mutineers arrived at the barracks of the artillery division and the azoff infantry regiment. The Azoff men answered the apeal with insults and the rebels opened fire upon them. The Azoffs answered with three volleys. A portion of the mutineers fled, but the others continued firing. The Azoffs replied with deadly volleys and finally the rebels fled headlong, throwing down their arms. Two hundred of them surrendered and were conveyed to their barracks by Cossacks. All was over by 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Fifty dead and a hundred wounded mutineers were left on the ground. A courtmartial has been convened and a notice issued that any attempts at mutiny will be quelled by artillery.

The Associated Press has just learned from a high authority that the situation in the Baltic provinces has grown exceedingly grave, and that the troops at Reval and in the neighborhood are in open mutiny. This was the real cause of the extraordinary cabinet meeting which was held at Tsarskoe-Selo last night.

All attempts to secure details of the uprising have thus far failed. According to reports the attitude of the troops in the Baltic provinces is regarded by the government as the most dangerous factor that has thus far developed.

A strike of the policemen and house porters of St. Petersburg is scheduled for tomorrow (Sunday.)

Count Witte continues to refuse to deal with the telegraphers, declaring that for the government to yield would be equivalent to its abdication at their order. Nevertheless, the surrender of the government to their demand for the dismissal of M. Durnovo, acting minister of the interior, is regarded as inevitable.

Instructions to the governors and the local authorities are being sent with great difficulty over the railroad lines.

Jews Fear Another Massacre.

Sent by Special Courier by Way of Podwoloczyska, Galacia, Odessa.—This dispatch is sent at the request of the Jewish community, which fears a fresh massacre by the local garrison. It is asserted that a proclamation is circulated in almost all regiments calling on the soldiers to exterminate the Jews, and to destroy the newspaper offices in revenge for groundless accusations against the troops of their participation of massacres and pillage, and in the protection of rowdyism.

This is exciting the population against the army.

The Jews assert that the officers deliver anti-Semitic speeches in the barracks after removing the Jewish soldiers and that Governor General Kaulbars himself has confessed that the officers are burning for revenge on the Jews and that he is unable to guarantee the preservation of order.

In view of the fact that this city is entirely cut off from St. Petersburg and thus is altogether in the hands of the local authorities, the Jewish community implores all civilised nations and their governments to take all measures at St. Petersburg to prevent a catastophe which may exceed anything that has yet occurred.

The keynote of American politics for the next few years is going to be war on graft, predicts the Minneapolis Tribune.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Killed by Train.

Bessemer, Ala.—Settie Lemmonds, a young white man employed as switchman on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, was instantly killed in the yards of the company at this place by being run over by cars of the company. His head was entirely severed from the body by the wheels of a car passing over him.

Fears for Lumber Schooner.

Mobile, Ala.—Fears are entertained here for the Norwegian schooner Laguna, owned by the Mexican Steamship Company, of Mobile, which sailed from this port September 28 for Colon, Panama, carrying 350,000 feet of pine lumber. She was in charge of Capt. Otto Gruneberg and had a crew of nine. The ordinary voyage to Colon from Mobile is three weeks.

Masons Will Meet.

Montgomery, Ala.—The high Masonic bodies of Alabama met in Montgomery in their annual session, beginning Monday morning and last through Thursday. During that time probably 800 leading Masons of the state were in attendance, and the eyes of all Masons in Alabama were turned in the direction of the handsome temple on the corner of Perry and Washington streets.

Lauderdale Rural Delivery.

Florence, Ala.—Another extension has been made in the rural free delivery service of Lauderdale county, effecting route No. 5, out of Florence. Eleven miles of territory are traversed, covering a thickly populated region. Dr. James T. Pitt, the Florence postmaster, has been indefatigable in his efforts to improve the mail service in this county, and it is now probably the best in the state.

Immigrants Coming.

Birmingham, Ala.—A large number of immigrants from various points in Europe are expected to arrive in Birmingham the last of this week or the first of next week. Frank V. Evans, who represents the Alabama immigration department and who is stationed at Ellis Island, out from New York, has wired Immigration Commissioner Ross C. Smith that a large number of immigrants had arrived on the island and that they would be headed for Alabama at the earliest possible moment.

Attempted Suicide.

Birmingham, Ala.—C. W. Harrison, a carpenter of Avondale, walked into a little grocery store in this city and, handing the proprietor an empty bottle, which was marked "laudanum," stated that he was tired of living and if that didn't kill he would take morphine. The police were notified and Harrison was sent to the police headquarters, and the city physician, Dr. Hayes, went to work, resuscitating the man. The only reason given by Harrison for his rash attempt was that he "was tired of living." Harrison is 38 years of age and has a family.

Florence Is Ready for Election.

Florence, Ala.—A very light vote will be polled at the city election next Tuesday, the registration books having closed with only 623 names enrolled. Of this number about eighty-three are disqualified from various causes, leaving only 540 eligible to vote. The campaign is waxing hotter as the days go by, with Walker a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting and McFarland money hard to find at that.

Cline Is Held.

Anniston, Ala.—Wm. Cline, charged with cold blooded murder of W. G. Phillips a few days ago, and his son, Jake Cline, charged with being an accessory to the crime, were given a preliminary hearing before Judge Emmett F. Crook in the county court, and upon the evidence offered William was remanded to jail without bond to await the action of the grand jury, and his son, Jake, was discharged. The verdict of the coroner's jury in finding Cline guilty of murder in the first degree was sustained by Judge Crook.

Woman Asks Damages.

Birmingham, Ala.—Serena Leuch has filed suit in the city court against T. W. Hagood, a constable at Avondale, and his sureties on his bond for $500 damages, claiming that her children were aroused from their bed at a late hour at night and the bed and other things taken from the house November 27. The petitioner avers that she and her children were made to suffer from the cold weather and caused to suffer great mental and physical pain and anguish on account of the taking of the goods.

Steel Freighter Goes Ashore.

Chicago.—The steel freight steamer German, bound from Lake Superior to South Chicago, with a cargo of iron ore, went ashore below Glencoe, 15 miles north of this city, in the blinding snowstorm tonight. The agents of the German at Chicago sent a tug to her relief. There is little apprehension of danger to the crew of twenty men, as the wind is off short and the vessel is sheltered by the bluffs.

Announces for Sheriff.

Birmingham, Ala.—W. R. Watkins, a well-known and popular citizen, makes the announcement of his candidacy for sheriff of Jefferson county. There is no doubt but that he will be a formidable candidate.

Mobile Men Estimate Crop.

Mobile, Ala.—Thirty-eight members of the Mobile Cotton Exchange, in accordance with the annual custom of that body, Saturday estimated the cotton crop of the current season, and from the total an average was obtained of 10,584,221 bales.

Gets Eight Years.

Montgomery, Ala.—William Sheets, the aged carpenter, who killed Claude Sheets, his first born last Easter Sunday morning, entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, and under agreement his penalty was fixed at eight years in the penitentiary.

Verdict for $3,500.

Huntsville, Ala.—Charles L. Townes, deputy circuit clerk, has received a verdict for $3,500 damages against the Dallas Manufacturing Company, of this city. Mr. Townes had one of his hands lacerated while in the employ of the defendant company, and he sought to recover $15,000 damages. The case will be appealed.

Will Remove and Enlarge.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Kyle Lumber Company, one of the largest concerns in the state making finished building material, will remove their planing mill and dry kiln from Alabama City to their large new mills in this city. The planing mill and dry kiln will be greatly enlarged and will consume the entire output of several other near-by saw mills. This step is made necessary by the great demand for finished building material turned out by this factory.

Back From Capital.

Montgomery, Ala.—District Attorney Warren S. Reese, who has been in Washington several days in an effort to insure his reappointment, returned to Montgomery on a belated train late Saturday night.

Second Assistant District Attorney Julius Sternfield, who has just been removed from office for holding two places in the department of justice, traveled to Montgomery with Mr. Reese, but went on to Selma.

Sheriff Wanted.

Montgomery, Ala.—Probate Judge P. B. Jarman, of Sumter county, came to Montgomery Saturday to certify a vacancy in the office of sheriff of that county and in the interest of an applicant for the place. The known applicants for the office are J. B. Jackson, a deputy, and Coroner W. G. McDaniel, of Sumter county. The vacancy was caused by the death of the late sheriff O. M. McCain, which occurred recently. There may be other applicants, but their names have not yet been made known.

Pea River Valley Road.

Enterprise, Ala.—The prospects for the new railroad, the Pea River and Gulf, continue to brighten. Saturday Mr. Booth, for the road, met a committee of representative citizens to discuss the situation. The committee was composed of the following: Capt. J. Rawls, W. E. Law, C. W. Simmons, R. H. Arrington, A. M. Owens, W. S. Edwards, O. C. Doster, Jr., R. A. Clements and T. D. L. Edwards. Mr. Booth spoke in most enthusiastic terms of the project. He staid that from Enterprise the road will have eighty miles of the finest roadbed in the south, and will touch the coast two miles west of Portland, Fla., after passing through fine timber and farming lands. The barbor has twenty-five feet of water the year round.

Death of F. L. Hickox.

Evergreen, Ala.—Fred L. Hickox, one of Evergreen's most prominent citizens, died here Saturday morning after a lingering illness. Mr. Hickox's health began to fail about a year ago, since which time he has gradually grown weaker and less able to attend to business. He took to his bed about three weeks ago, and it was evident from the start that he could not survive many days. He is survived by an only son, Charles F. Hickox, of Philadelphia. His niece, Miss Leach, of Durham, Conn., has been with him during his last days, and his remains were shipped to that place Sunday for interment. Mr. Hickox was born in Durham, but came to Alabama when quite a young man. He was a good citizen, and his death is much regretted by all who knew him.

Woman Holds Crowd at Bay.

Pittsburg, Kas.—Mrs. Ira Berry, a passenger on a south-bound St. Louis and San Francisco train, becoming suddenly insane at Farlington Station, near here, cleared a coach of passengers by recklessly discharging a revolver, shooting out several windows in the car and wounding one man in the wrist.

Alabama has 21,000,000 acres of yellow pine standing.

ALL RUSSIA

Dead to the World—News Can Can Neither Come nor Go By Wire.

A BIG FIRE IS REPORTED

To Be Raging in Warsaw—Recent Disturbances in Castle Involved Vladimir and Cyril.

Warsaw.—The railroad telegraph operator at Moscow says that a great incendiary conflagration is raging there.

London.—Up to midnight Saturday London, Berlin, Copenhagen, Paris and Stockholm were completely cut off from telegraphic communication with St. Petersburg.

Early Saturday afternoon the Great Northern Telegraph Company, which has two routes into St. Petersburg, one by way of Copenhagen and Libau and the other by way of Finland, announced that communication was completely severed, Copenhagen and Nystad, the last named on the western Finnish coast, being the most easterly point from which and to which it could accept messages.

The Great Northern Company further stated that the quickest means for reaching the east Finnish coast points was probably to Nystad and then by letter to other points.

The Associated Press is endeavoring to get into communication with the correspondent at Helsingfors, but there is some doubt as to whether the water is sufficiently free from ice to permit of boats crossing to Helsingfors from Russian ports.

The Associated Press and the Reuter Telegram Company, as well as the English newspapers have sent urgent dispatches to their correspondents all over Russia, and especially at frontier points, to secure news from St. Petersburg and the interior, but none of the cable companies in London had received a word up to midnight. Furthermore the companies are unable to say what prospects there are for a renewal of communication.

Warsaw is the only point from which any Russian news has been received since early Saturday morning and this, with the exception of a private message over a railroad line briefly speaking of a conflagration at Moscow, was practically confined to events at Warsaw and Lodz.

Paris.—The Journal publishes a St. Petersburg dispatch, which was carried to Eydtkuhnen (East Prussia) by courier and which reveals the recent reports relative to a violent scene in the palace at Tsarko Selo. The Journal says that the trouble was between Emperor Nicholas and Grand Duke Vladimir and was relative to Grand Duke Cyril. The paper adds:

"It is certain that something extraordinary occurred there besides the disaffection of the guards, and that the whole domestic staff at the palace is now preparing to strike."

Little Credence in Story.

London.—The report of the plot against the life of the czar, and particularly the rumor that the czar was shot at and wounded, is regarded skeptically here. The general belief is that there is no truth in them. The London Times does not print the story, and special dispatches from well-informed correspondents at St. Petersburg make no mention of the alleged plot. The story, it is believed, had its origin in the mutiny of the guards at Tsarskoe Selo, who are loyal to the czar, but angry because they are not permitted to march against the revolutionists in St. Petersburg.

Pure Food Bill.

Washington, D. C.—Federal control of foods, drugs and liquors is provided for in a comprehensive bill to be introduced in the senate at an early date by Senator Heyburn, of Idaho. Jurisdiction of the government over these articles is declared in the measure when they become articles of interstate or foreign commerce, and a penalty of a maximum fine of $500 and one year's imprisonment is provided for violators of the regulations set forth.

Investigate Killing by Chinese.

Washington.—A cablegram received at the state department from Minister Rockhill at Pekin, says that Consul General Julius G. Lay at Canton, China, has completed his investigation into the recent murder of five Presbyterian missionaries at Lienchow in the Province of Canton. No details of the result of the investigation are given. The report will be forwarded to Washington by mail.

Financial Crash in Czar's Domain.

London.—A telegram received here from Paris confirms the dispatch sent from St. Petersburg by the Publishers' Press correspondent regarding the imminence of a financial crash in Russia. Considerable alarm is felt over the situation by France, where the Russian bonds are mostly held.

Madrid, Spain.—Two railway trains collided near Aranjuez and eleven persons were killed.

THE WEEK IN COTTON.

Gilbert & Clay's Weekly Market Letter.

The net result of the week's trading in cotton futures is a decline of $1 per bale, and the most absorbing topic has been the forthcoming crop estimate to be issued by the agricultural department Monday next.

Were it generally known that said estimate would be correctly based upon known facts as to amount of cotton ginned, poor yield of lint, absence of top crop, etc., there would have been heavy buying of contracts during the last week, instead of the continuous liquidation, which was apparent. But memories of past flagrant manipulation of crop gures by the agricultural department are so fresh as to stimulate the fear of another "cold deal" to the south, and this is responsible for heavy margin calls by brokers. One good effect of such margin calls has been to materially strengthen the speculative situation, by removing the weak holder of cotton from the scene for the moment and leaving the field to those better able financially to withstand the effects of possible adverse and misleading government reports and estimates.

Liverpool is undoubtedly willing to respond enthusiastically to bullish sentiment on this side, and if the facts as they now exist are made clear and convincing there would be no question about an increase in cotton values in the English markets.

New York has been the center of bearish activity, led by Mr. Price, who should certainly have credit (?) for the most persistent and successful efforts to depress values of the south's leading staple. In this endeavor he has had the assistance of almost unlimited capital, and his fertile brain, trained along statistical lines, has invented comparisons and estimates enough to bewilder and frighten those who are not themselves armed with controverting facts. It is said that he has recently covered his short line, but if so his bearish tendencies are still prominent.

In the long run supply and demand are the dominating factors and will sooner or later sway values, and judicious withholding of cotton from the market is of the greatest assistance in preventing serious declines. But for the holding capacity of the southern farmer and merchant this season the spinners would have had several more millions of the cotton producers' money and the big bears would not know how to spend their surplus. Many a hard pressed cotton bull has had reason to exclaim this year, "God bless the man who first invented holding cotton."

Every farmer and merchant should feel deeply interested in the pledging movement of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association and should lend his immediate aid towards the establishment of a 15-cent basis by promptly pledging as much cotton as possible to be held for the higher figures.

Statistics are beginning to appear more bullish. The cold weather of the past week has practically killed all talk of making a top crop, and the recent rains will retard movement of the crop to market.

W. L. SIMS, Manager.

Only $16,000,000 for Panama Canal.

Washington, D. C.—A bill to provide an appropriation of $16,000,000 for the Panama canal commission, to be immediately available for the purpose of liquidating the work of construction, has been prepared and was introduced in the house Monday, the opening day of the Fifty-ninth congress. The bill stipulates that the money shall be refunded through the sale of bonds provided by the Spooner act. These bonds are to be taxable at the rate of one-half of one per cent when deposited to secure circulation on the same basis as government two's.

Will Not Be Tried.

Gadsden, Ala.—Mrs. Emma Whaley, the white woman who was arrested about a year ago on the charge of murdering her husband at the tunnel near Altoona because she had been told that he intended to elope the next day with another woman, and who has been in the insane asylum at Tuscaloosa since her arrest, has been dismissed from custody. The case against her charging her with the murder of her husband was called in the city court and was nol prossed on account of the fact that the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

Democrats Will Have Candidate.

Washington, D. C.—The senate democrats have about reached a decision that they will not vote for Senator Frye, of Maine, this year for the presidency pro tem. of the senate. There is no objection to Senator Frye, but there is a strong feeling among democrats that they should elect one of their own men for caucus nomination and give him the same empty honor that the democrats confer upon a man in the house.

Glen Falls.—Pulp Mill No. 1 of the Union Bag and Paper Company, at Sandy Hill, was burned to the ground. The loss is $100,000. The fire started from a hot gearing. One hundred men are out of work.

London, Eng.—A number of lives are believed to have been lost as a result of a collision between the British steamer Philippeville and an unknown steamer, which went to the bottom. The sail— [illegible]

EIGHTEEN MINERS

Instantly Killed in Explosion in Wyoming—Every Man in Mine Perished.

BLOWN OUT SHOT THE CAUSE.

Rescuers Are Delayed in Entering the Mine Because of the After Damp.

Diamondville, Wyo.—In an explosion in the Diamond Coal and Coke Company's mine No. 1 eighteen miners lost their lives. It is believed that all the men were instantly killed. It is thought a "blown out" shot caused the explosion which wrecked the mine. The shock of the explosion was felt all over the town, rocking buildings so violently that their occupants ran out into the open.

It was late Saturday afternoon before the first rescue party entered the mine.

The explosion occurred 1,100 feet under ground and at least 3,000 feet from the mouth of the shaft. The explosion wrecked the brattice and blocked the entrance of the lower levels of the mine, necessitating the removal of much debris before the miners could be reached. When the rescuers finally went into the mine none could remain long. The crowds around the portal watched as car after car came up from below, but they brought up only rescuers who had been overcome by the after damp. It was nearly noon before the first body was brought up.

Every man in the mine perished. The night force was at work, their work consisting in knocking down the coal to be brought out by the day shift. The loss of life would have been far greater had the accident occurred in the day time.

Many engineers, who came direct to the mines from England, were employed at Diamondville, and it is believed a majority of the dead are Englishmen.

Three Bodies Cold in Death.

Malone, N. Y.—The lifeless bodies of Henry McCaffrey, George Carpenter, a laborer, and Miss Capitola Gilmet, a domestic, were found in the home of McCaffrey, in Harrietstown, four miles from Saranac Inn.

They had all been shot, and the gun was found lying near the body of Carpenter, from which it is inferred that he shot the other two and then committed suicide.

The tragedy was discovered by Mrs. Henry McCaffrey, who was absent from the house when it took, and who discovtred it when she returned home. The coroner and district attorney have gone from this city to investigate.

Barge Founders.

Boston, Mass.—The barge Delawanna, in tow of the tug boat Scraton, foundered off Minot light Friday night. Capt. George B. Munsey, his wife, the engineer and cook were drowned. The towing hawser suddenly snapped, and the captain of the tug immediately put about to see the cause. There was no sign of the barge, but clinging to the fragment of a broken boat one of the crew was found and taken aboard. From him it was learned the barge suddenly foundered with scarcely any warning.

After the Grafters.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Former Director of Public Safety A. L. English, former City Architect Philip H. Johnson, James D. Finley, a former city employe, and John W. Henderson and H. Baton, members of a contracting firm, were indicted by the grand jury on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with the construction of a smallpox hospital. Mr. English was director of public safety during the administration of Mayor Ashbridge. Johnson and Finley are relatives of Israel W. Durham, leader of the local republican organization.

Meeting of Anti-Saloon League.

Birmingham, Ala.—The headquarters committee of the Alabama Anti-Saloon League has issued a formal call for the general conference of the temperance forces of the state to meet in Birmingham on December 11 and 12. The chief object of the conference is to elect a state superintendent and outline the plan of campaign to be waged in Alabama next year for a local option law regulating the sale of liquor.

Sharp Williams Is Named for Leader.

Washington, D. C.—At a caucus of the democratic members of the house John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, was nominated as their choice for speaker. This carries with it the leadership of the minority.

The Khedive of Egypt has amassed an enormous fortune, and is not only a monogamist, but a teetotaler as well.

When poverty comes in at the door, a shiftless man hides behind his wife.

Canada imported from this country in 1904 $2,007,000 in cotton goods.

Within the last three years Kansas City has had [illegible] murders, or an average of one a [illegible]

The Next of Kin.

One night [illegible] spake of me—my kin,
Who [illegible] from the earth!
The dew that fell was from her eyes,
Who here did give me birth.
My father's voice was in the wind:
"I sowed, but there is dearth,
Or bitterness, as of the [illegible]
The gale lifts from my hearth!"

My Little sister (Flower o' Spring)
Leaned past the evening star,
"Till now I waited for thee here
Beside the crystal bar
But that which thou hast done, alas!
From thee removes me far
And in the wreath I made for thee
The flowers all weeping are!"

They spake of me, of me, my kin,
In lengthened line arrayed
From one to other passed the word
On blanching lips afraid
They mounted for [illegible]
By scorn or pity swayed
Of me they all [illegible] spake
Yet none would give me aid

Then from the [illegible]
one
With mine own form and face
"Thy grandsire's grandsire knew me not,
Yet am I of thy race
Thy good—thy ill—and all thou art
To me mayst thou trace
And, next of kin, I'll stand by thee
In the dread Judgment Place!

"I best can say how that wild blood,
Which ruled thine erring will,
Ran, undiverted, from my spring,
Thy fragile cup to fill.
And, when the rest thy doom invoke,
From Heaven's midnight hill,
Thy next of kin for thee will plead,
And they shall hold them still!"
—Edith M. Thomas in the Century

WHICH WAS THE GREATEST?

A Story From Turke

BY REV GEORG

Three men were walking along the road when they met the Cadi, the judge, who gave them a salaam and passed on. Then the men began to quarrel as to the one for whom the salutation was intended.

"It was for me," said one. "No," said another, "it was for me." "No," said the third, "he saluted me."

When they could not agree about the matter they determined to seek the Cadi and ask him for which of them he intended his salaam.

They found the Cadi and asked to which one he gave the salutation. He replied, "To the greatest fool."

But that did not help matters, for each of the men still claimed the salutation. One said, "I am the greatest fool." "No," said the second, "I am the greatest fool." "No," urged the third, "I am the greatest fool of all."

So they appealed to the wise Cadi again, asking him please to tell them which one he considered the greatest fool. He answered, "Tell me some of your past experiences and conduct, so that I may justly decide."

So the first began:

"Your Honor, I am sure no one is a greater fool than I am. For I have a wife who is a very good sort of person, but she has one fault—she will not always do as I bid her. Sometime when I tell her to do something she refuses, and sometimes she tells me to do it myself. So in order to avoid difficulties I proposed to her that whoever spoke first in the morning should do whatever work was needed to be done about the house that day. She agreed, though she is naturally talkative, being a woman, and that night we retired to rest as usual.

Next morning when we woke I signalled her to start the fire, but she made no response, though I expected her to commence talking, according to her custom. By and by I showed that I was hungry and motioned her to get me some food. She motioned me to get it myself.

"A long time passed and I could not make her stir. The animals in the stable under our room began calling for their breakfast, and finally the calf pushed open our door and looked in, bellowing for food. I made signs to my 'house lad' to go and tie the calf, but she remained motionless and never uttered a word. At last I lost patience and, seizing a stick, proceeded to beat her so profoundly that the stick broke in my hand and she fled out of the house.

"As I lay there meditating on my uncomfortable condition and her uncomfortable disposition, my wife's brother knocked. I kept silent, and he opened the door, looked around for his sister. I answered nothing, and he, seeing the room in confusion, with his sister gone, evidences of a struggle lying about and the broken stick still near me, charged me with having murdered his wife. As I made no reply, he soon roused the community, called the police, and had me taken off to prison.

"At the trial I said not a word, my wife was not forthcoming and the evidence against me was such that I was sentenced to be hung. They led me to the scaffold, and the preparations for my execution were all complete, when a woman's shriek was heard on the outskirts of the crowd and my wife came rushing up, begging them not to execute her kind husband, and relieving me from all charge of crime.

EIGHTEEN MINERS

nstantly Killed in Explosion in Wyoming—Every Man in Mine Perished.

LOWN OUT SHOT THE CAUSE.

escuers Are Delayed in Entering the Mine Because of the After Damp.

Diamondville, Wyo.—In an explosion the Diamond Coal and Coke Comny's mine No. 1 eighteen miners lost eir lives. It is believed that all the n were instantly killed. It is ought a "blown out" shot caused the plosion which wrecked the mine. e shock of the explosion was felt all er the town, rocking buildings so lently that their occupants ran out o the open.

It was late Saturday afternoon be e the first rescue party entered the ne.

The explosion occurred 1,100 feet der ground and at least 3,000 feet m the mouth of the shaft. The exsion wrecked the brattice and cked the entrance of the lower els of the mine, necessitating the moval of much debris before the ners could be reached. When the cuers finally went into the mine ne could remain long. The crowds und the portal watched as car after came up from below, but they ught up only rescuers who had been rcome by the after damp. It was rly noon before the first body was ught up.

Every man in the mine perished. night force was at work, their k consisting in knocking down the l to be brought out by the day shift. loss of life would have been far ater had the accident occurred in day time.

Many engineers, who came direct to mines from England, were employ. at Diamondville, and it is believed ajority of the dead are Englishmen.

Three Bodies Cold in Death.

Malone, N. Y.—The lifeless bodies Henry McCaffrey, George Carpen- a laborer, and Miss Capitola Gil- a domestic, were found in the e of McCaffrey, in Harrietstown, miles from Saranac Inn.

hey had all been shot, and the gun found lying near the body of Carter, from which it is inferred that shot the other two and then comed suicide.

he tragedy was discovered by Mrs. ry McCaffrey, who was absent the house when it took, and who overed it when she returned home. coroner and district attorney have from this city to investigate.

Barge Founders.

oston, Mass.—The barge Delana, in tow of the tug boat Scraton, dered off Minot light Friday night. George H. Munsey, his wife, the neer and cook were drowned. The ng hawser suddenly snapped, and captain of the tug immediately put t to see the cause. There was no of the barge, but clinging to the ment of a broken boat one of the was found and taken aboard. him it was learned the barge enly foundered with scarcely any ing.

After the Grafters.

iladelphia, Pa.—Former Director ublic Safety A. L. English, former Architect Philip H. Johnson, s D. Finley, a former city em- and John W. Henderson and H. n, members of a contracting firm, indicted by the grand jury on the e of conspiracy to defraud the in connection with the construc- of a smallpox hospital. Mr. Eng- was director of public safety dur- he administration of Mayor Ash- e. Johnson and Finley are rela- of Israel W. Durham, leader of ecal republican organization.

eeting of Anti-Saloon League.

ningham, Ala.—The headquar- committee of the Alabama Anti- n League has issued a formal call e general conference of the tem- ce forces of the state to meet in ngham on December 11 and 12. chief object of the conference is ect a state superintendent and e the plan of campaign to be l in Alabama next year for a lo- ption law regulating the sale of shington, D. C.—At a caucus of mocratic members of the house Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, nominated as their choice for er. This carries with it the lead- of the minority.

Williams Is Named for Leader.

Khedive of Egypt has amassed ormous fortune, and is not only nogamist, but a teetotaler as en poverty comes in at the door, tless man hides behind his wife.

ada imported from this country 04 $2,007,000 in cotton goods.

hin the last three years Kansas has had 157 murders, or an av- of one a week

The Next of Kin.

One night they spake of me—my kin,
Who wandered from the earth;
The dew that fell was from her eyes,
Who here did give me birth;
My father's voice was in the wind;
"I sowed, but there is dearth,
Or bitterness, as of the ash
The gale lifts from my hearth!"

My little sister (flown in Spring)
Leaned past the evening star;
"Till now I waited for thee here
Beside the crystal bar;
But that which thou hast done, alas!
From thee removes me far;
And in the wreath I made for thee
The flowers all weeping are!"

They spake of me, of me—my kin,
In lengthened line arrayed;
From one to other passed the word,
On blanching lips effrayed;
They mounted far—an ancient host,
By scorn or pity swayed!
Of me they all together spake,
Yet none would give me aid.

Then from the lessening line, came one
With mine own form and face;
"Thy grandsire's grandsire knew me not,
Yet am I of thy race.
Thy good—thy ill—and all thou art,
To me mayst surely trace;
And, next of kin, I'll stand by thee,
In the dread Judgment Place!

"I best can say how that wild blood,
Which ruled thine erring will,
Ran, undiverted, from my spring,
Thy fragile cup to fill;
And, when the rest thy doom invoke,
From Heaven's midnight hill,
Thy next of kin for thee will plead,
And they shall hold them still!"
Edith M. Thomas in the Century.

WHICH WAS THE GREATEST?

A Story From Turke

BY REV. GEORGE

Three men were walking along the road when they met the Cadi, the judge, who gave them a salaam and passed on. Then the men began to quarrel as to the one for whom the salutation was intended.

"It was for me," said one. "No," said another, "it was for me." "No," said the third, "he saluted me."

When they could not agree about the matter they determined to seek the Cadi and ask him for which of them he intended his salaam.

They found the Cadi and asked to which one he gave the salutation. He replied, "To the greatest fool."

But that did not help matters, for each of the men still claimed the salutation. One said, "I am the greatest fool." "No," said the second, "I am the greatest fool." "No," urged the third, "I am the greatest fool of all."

So they appealed to the wise Cadi again, asking him please to tell them which one he considered the greatest fool. He answered, "Tell me some of your past experiences and conduct, so that I may justly decide."

So the first began:

"Your Honor, I am sure no one is a greater fool than I am. For I have a wife who is a very good sort of person, but she has one fault—she will not always do as I bid her. Sometime when I tell her to do something she refuses, and sometimes she tells me to do it myself. So in order to avoid difficulties I proposed to her that whoever spoke first in the morning should do whatever work was needed to be done about the house that day. She agreed, though she is naturally talkative, being a woman, and that night we retired to rest as usual.

Next morning when we woke I signalled her to start the fire, but she made no response, though I expected her to commence talking, according to her custom. By and by I showed that I was hungry and motioned her to get me some food. She motioned me to get it myself.

"A long time passed and I could not make her stir. The animals in the stable under our room began calling for their breakfast, and finally the calf pushed open our door and looked in, bellowing for food. I made signs to my 'house lad' to go and tie the calf, but she remained motionless and never uttered a word. At last I lost patience and, seizing a stick, proceeded to beat her so profoundly that the stick broke in my hand and she fled out of the house.

"As I lay there meditating on my uncomfortable condition and her uncomfortable disposition, my wife's brother knocked. I kept silent, and he opened the door, looked around for his sister. I answered nothing, and he, seeing the room in confusion, with his sister gone, evidences of a struggle lying about and the broken stick still near me, charged me with having murdered his wife. As I made no reply, he soon roused the community, called the police, and had me taken off to prison.

"At the trial I said not a word, my wife was not forthcoming and the evidence against me was such that I was sentenced to be hung. They led me to the scaffold, and the preparations for my execution were all complete, when a woman's shriek was heard on the outskirts of the crowd, and my wife came rushing up, begging them not to execute her kind husband, and relieving me from all charge of crime.

"As soon as the noose was removed from my neck I raised my finger and said to my wife and spoke quicker, 'You spoke first; you go and tie that calf.' But I beg your honor to observe what a fool I was for making such a bargain with a woman."

Then the second began his story:

"But Mr. Cadi, I have been a greater fool still. Some time ago I was troubled with toothache, and one day when I was going to Amasia to market, my wife advised me to go to the barber and have him pull it out. I went to the barber accordingly; he pulled the decayed tooth and the pain was relieved.

"When I reached our village that evening, my house-sweeper inquired how much I paid the barbar for pulling my tooth. I told her one cent, whereupon she flew into a violent passion, saying it was not strange that we always remained poor when I had so little notion of economy.

"'Don't you know,' she railed, 'that it is all one to the barber whether he pulls one tooth for a customer or thirty-two? His price is the same for any number of teeth. Why didn't you make the most of your bargain while you were about it?'

"So the next day I made an excuse to go to Amasia again, and asked the barber whether he remembered pulling a tooth for me the day before. He replied that he did. I asked him his prices and he told me that he charged the same price, one cent, for drawing any number of teeth from one up to thirty-two. On my asking whether he would object to giving a good customer the worth of his money in two installments, he replied that he had no objection whatever, so he pulled the rest of my teeth.

"I reached home that evening with my mouth full of blood, but without a tooth in my head, and boasted to my deficiency of my shrewdness in bargaining and of the great return I had received for my money. But I soon had reason to find out what a great fool I was to part with a mouthful of sound teeth."

"My case was worse than that," said the third man. "We have always been very poor, and at last I got so tired of poverty that I told my wife I could stand it no longer. I have tried by every honest means in my power to better our condition, but without avail, and now I was determined to become a highwayman and wrest from others the luxuries that I could not win by toil.

She asked what I would do when I was caught and put to cross-questioning as to my conduct, and I said that I would invent such stories as would enable me to escape. But when she inquired what I would do if they put me to torture to make me confess, then I hesitated.

"My house-sweeper proposed, therefore, that we should experiment a little, and if I found I could endure torture I might embark on my plan to become a highwayman, while if I could not endure torture I should continue to lead a virtuous life. I agreed and she began to apply various kinds of torture to my person. She applied pincers cold and hot to my flesh, scratched me with a razor, placed hot coals in walnut shells and laid them on my naked skin, and I easily stood these and many other things.

"Then my house sweeper got the iron brand with which they mark the forehead of a thief, heated it and applied it to me, and that I found more than I could endure. So with the prospect of that terrible brand before me I was afraid of becoming a robber, and yet my forehead already bears the mark. I am as poor as ever, as virtuous as ever, and yet I bear the brand of a thief. Am I not the greatest fool yet?"

The reader or hearer is expected to make answer for the wise Cadi and decide which was the greatest fool.—Congregationalist and Christian World.

SAVING "OLD SOUTH."

The Debt Which the United States Owes to Mrs. Hemenway.

The ground on which the Old South stands was the dwelling place of Gov. Winthrop. Benjamin Franklin was baptized in this meeting house. The voices of Adams and Hancock and Warren and Washington have been heard within its walls. You will see, back of the pulpit platform and below the quaint old sounding-board, the very window through which Gen. Joseph Warren came to deliver his famous oration on the anniversary of the Boston massacre because the crowd in and around the church was so great he could not enter by the door.

In this church were held some of the great meetings leading up to the famous Boston "Tea Party." Indeed, it was from this "Sanctuary of Freedom," as it has been called, that the band of men disguised as Indians, started for the wharf to board the ships and throw overboard the taxed tea that had created such a turmoil in Boston. If you should follow the exact route taken by that band of "Mohawks" on that eventful December day in the year 1773, you would finally reach a modern building on the site of Griffin's wharf, at which lay moored on December 16, 1773, the three British ships with cargoes of tea. This house bears a tablet commemorating the famous "Boston Tea Party," which threw the cargoes into the sea.

Did you ever hear the story of how the Old South was "saved?" Reverence for historic landmarks did not run so high thirty or forty years ago as it does today, and in our centennial year of 1876 it was proposed to sell the Old South simply for the value of its bricks and timbers, and tear it down, that a modern business block might be built on its site. Indeed, it was sold—"knocked down" at auction to a bidder for the meager sum of $1,315!

Suddenly a wave of patriotic feeling swept over the city of Boston. The papers and some of the people began to protest against the tearing down of the old "Sanctuary of Freedom," and a movement was set on foot to raise funds to buy the church from its purchaser, and to buy also the ground on which it stood. This good plan might never have succeeded had it not ben for one noble and loyal woman in Boston, Mrs. Mary Hemenway, of hallowed memory. When the difficulty of securing funds for the purchase of the old meeting-house became known to her, she came forward with a gift of $100,000, and thus the old meeting-house was saved—to stand as an object lesson to the children of future generations.

Having given such a large sum to help save the Old South Meeting-house, Mrs. Hemenway felt that it should be something more than a mere silent monument. She determined that it should be a real, living force in our country, and particularly to the children of Boston. She determined that it should renew and increase its fame as a temple of freedom, and that its sacred walls should again echo and re-echo to the sound of patriotic utterances, and that some of these utterances should come from the lips of the boys and girls of Boston; and thus the Old South Lecture Course and the Old South Prizes were established. Each year a prize of forty dollars and another of twenty-five dollars are given to the graduates of the Boston high schools who write the best essays on historic or patriotic topics. The committee having this work in charge announce the subjects in June, just before the schools close, and the competitors must submit their essays the following January. Then on Washington's birthday there is a patriotic gathering of the school children of Boston in the old meeting-house, and the names of the prize winners are announced.—From J. L. Harbour's "The Children's Hour in the Old South Meeting-House" in St. Nicholas.

NOT THE SAME POCKET.

Predicament of a Girl With a Supposed Thief.

This is the way a girl related a recent experience to her chum:

"Nettie, I never felt so small in my life and I'm just dying to tell you all about it. I had to go out this morning and it looked so much like rain I put on my mackintosh. Just as I got to the door I met papa and he gave me my month's allowance. I knew I ought to go up stairs and put it away, but I was in such an awful hurry I slid it down in the pocket of the waterproof. I rushed for a car and when I got in it it was so crowded I had to stand. I was squeezed so close to a man I could hardly breathe and more people getting in all the time. I had forgotten all about my money until I felt a hand slowly sliding down to the bottom of my pocket.

"Horrors! it was a pickpocket! I had cold chills all over me. I didn't want to scream and get everybody looking at me, and then if I did I was afraid he would get away, and I was determined he shouldn't have my money. I just shifted the strap to my other hand as though I hadn't noticed anything, and without looking at him slipped my hand down and caught his wrist. I held on with a death grip, but the man never tried to take his hand away. I didn't know what to do, but I did hold on, and so we went block after block. Oh, I really thought I should die.

"I finally concluded to get out at the next corner and see what he would do. He never moved, and when the car stopped I made a quick twist around, and when I went to pull his hand out of my pocket, what do you think? I had had my hand in his overcoat pocket all the time. What did I do? I got out of that car and ran a whole block without stopping. My money? Oh, that was in my pocket, all right, just where I put it."—New York Press.

A Two Headed Turtle.

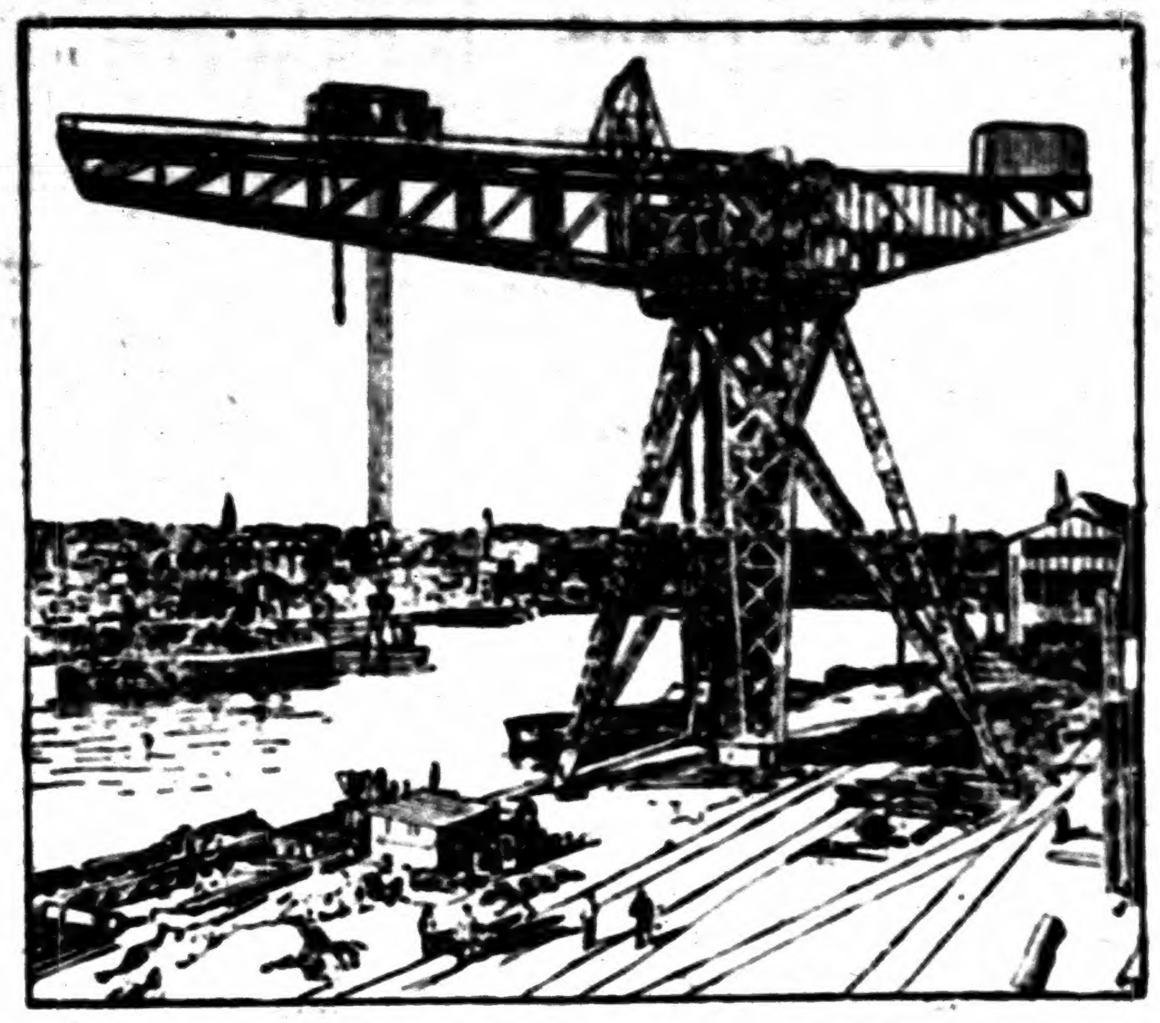
A perfect two headed turtle is a very unusual animal, but there is one in captivity in Washington now that has excited considerable curiosity among the snake sharps of the National Museum.

The turtle is a very plain little fellow, and is now in the possession of a local bird fancier. It was captured over in Virginia some time ago and brought to this city by a hunter. It is about as big as a silver dollar, and looks like an ordinary young land turtle, except that there are two perfectly developed heads sticking out of its shell. Otherwise it seems to be perfectly normal. Just what its arrangements are inside, no one knows, but it eats with both mouths and winks its four little beadlike eyes in "blocks of two," each head being indifferent to the others performance in this regard.

It has but one tail and the usual turtle complement of four legs. The owner is making a determined efforts to raise it, and the little fellow will not be cut open to investigate his interior department so long as he consents to feed on flies and fresh meat, which just now constitutes the chief part of his diet.

Belgian women take a pride in doing their own work.

A 150-TON LOADING CRANE.



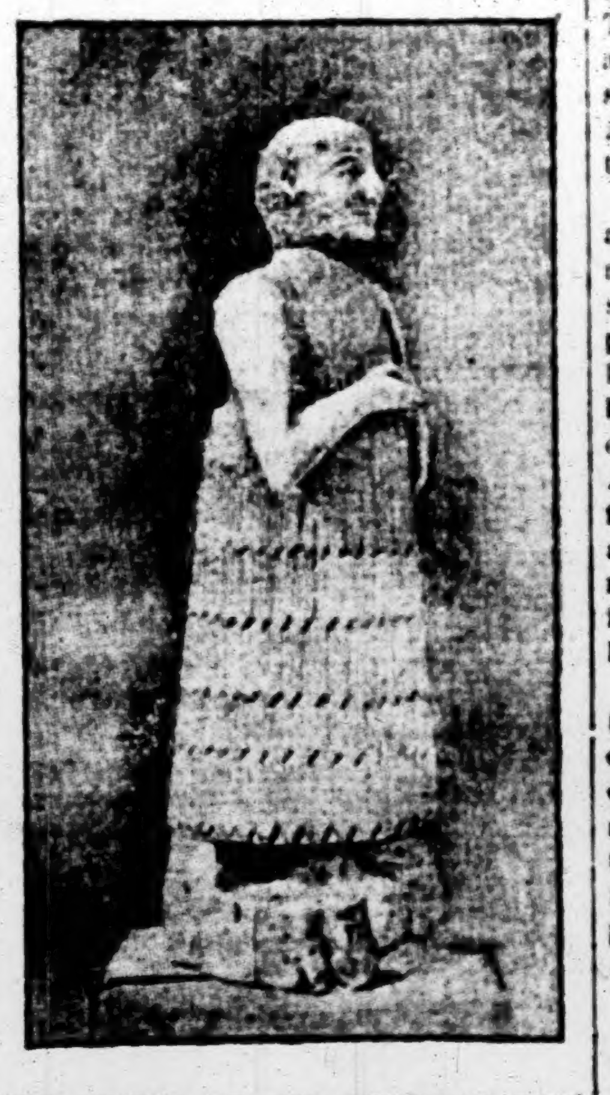
The 150-ton travelling crane shown above (the illustration is from the Iron Trade Review) has been erected at Duisburg, Germany, for boat unloading. It is a steam crane, despite the marked favor which electrically driven hoists are enjoying at present.

The boom of the crane also exhibits a peculiarity that it does not swing through a complete circle. In the rear of the machine, fastened to the edge of the wharf, anchor supports project and at the same time do not interfere with the movement of the load.

THE STATUE OF THE SUMERIAN KING DAVID.

By Edgar James Bank, Field Director of the Babylonian Expedition of the University of Chicago.

The white marble statue of the Sumerian King David was discovered by the expedition of the University of Chicago while excavating at the corner of the ancient temple hill at the ruin known as Bismya, in Central Babylonia. Despite the discoveries of the fine old crematorium, the first that has come to light, and of the use of the arch in Babylonia as early as 4000 B. C., the finding of this ancient work of almost prehistoric art is one of the most interesting results of the expedition. When found it was lying upon its back, its head was missing, and the toes, which were broken from the feet at the time of its fall from the platform above, were lying just beneath it. The head was later recovered from another part of the ruin. In places, especially upon its face, is an incrustation of saltpeter, common to objects which have long been buried in the soil of Babylonia; other parts of the statue are as perfect as when it left the hands of its sculptor.



THE STATUE OF THE SUMERIAN KING DAVID, FOUND AT BISMYA, BABYLONIA, AND BELIEVED TO DATE BACK TO 4500 B. C.

The statue is 88 centimeters high and 81 in the circumference of its skirt. The head is bald, the face beardless, the triangular eye sockets, to which ivory eyeballs were once fitted and held in place by means of bitumen, are now hollow. The shoulders are broad and square, the body thick and short, the well-shaped arms are free from the body, and the hands, according to the usual Babylonian custom, are clasped in front. The upper half of the statue is nude, and from the waist is suspended an embroidered or pleated skirt intended to represent heavy wool or fur. To give support to the statue, the bare feet are imbedded in the pedestal. Upon the right shoulder, the clearly cut inscription of three lines in the old Sumerian or pre-Babylonian language, reads as follows:

(The Temple) Eshar,
King Daudu (Daud—David),
King (of) Udnunki.

The name of the king is entirely new to Assyriologists. The names of the city and temple were first read upon the great stone of Hammurabi, recently discovered by the French in Persia.

The age of the statue is beyond doubt several centuries more than six thousand years; the approximate date of 4500 B. C. is fixed in several different ways.

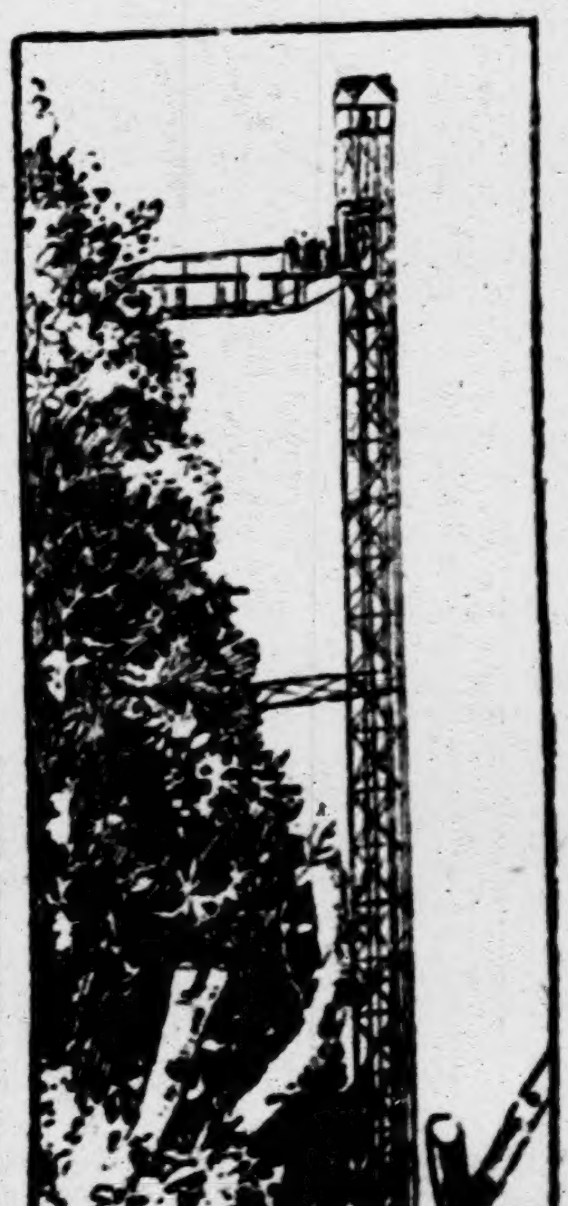
First, the archaic character of the writing is that employed only in the inscriptions long antedating the early Babylonian king, Sargon, of 3800 B. C. The characters of the inscription are lineal and nearly hieroglyphic; the wedge-shaped characters were not yet developed.

Second, the statute when found was lying beneath the platforms of several reconstructed temples. The uppermost of the platforms contained bricks inscribed with the name of Dungi, of 2750 B. C.; beneath it was a platform constructed of the bricks of Sargon, 3800 B. C.; still lower were traces of several other reconstructions. The statue was beneath all of these, among the ruins of a temple built of small plano-convex bricks which all Assyriologists assign to the middle of the fifth millennium B. C.

Third, the style of the art, the triangular-shaped eyes, the nose forming a straight line with the forehead, the style of dress employed only at that particular period, identify it as belonging to the same age as the famous bas-relief in the Louvre and a statuette in the British Museum. The great Assyriologists of Europe assign the figures possessing these peculiar characteristics to about 4500 B. C., and no Assyriologist of repute, and who is acquainted with the earliest Babylonian art, would question the date.

The statue, fully 1500 years earlier than any other from Babylonia, not only presents history with the name of a forgotten king; it is a perfect specimen of the most ancient art in the world, and opens a new chapter in the history of the earliest known people of Mesopotamia.—Scientific American.

HIGHEST ELECTRIC-LIFT.



The highest electric-lift in the world—the 520-foot iron tower from which visitors to the Burgenstock gain a view over the Lake of the Four Cantons.

A State Journalist.

Australia has a "state journalist." A Sydney newspaper man, John Plummer, has been engaged at a salary of $2000 a year to write articles in the British, American and continental papers in defense of the commonwealth, its legislation and its administration.

Cute Burglars.

Berlin has some cute burglars. To deceive the employes of a store they were robbing the burglars put upon the door a card reading thus: "Closed on account of sudden death." The trick was successful.

Another World's Fair.

The French Government has proposed to the Chamber of Deputies to create a universal exposition in Paris in 1920, to commemorate the foundation of the French Republic.

The Czar's Working Hours.

The Czar has a habit of spending more time in his study than almost any other ruler in the world. The Czarina is always seated with him while he is at work in this room. In this respect he stands almost alone among great monarchs, as nearly all of them prefer to have women out of the way when they are immersed in the business of state in their own private rooms.

English poachers have adopted khaki for wear during business hours.

KISSES.

One egg, one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup of milk, one teaspoonful cream of tartar, one-half of soda, flour enough to make a stiff dough; drop on tins and sprinkle over with powdered sugar. Bake in a quick oven.

MAYONNAISE.

Take the yolks of two eggs, pepper and salt, stir continuously, always turning the spoon slowly from left to right, add to the yolks, by degrees, olive oil until thick and the quantity required, next put in a teaspoonful of tarragon still stirring. Place on ice until ready to serve.

PLUM PIE.

Have a light crust of puff paste, bake this in the oven then put in, if fresh plums previously stoned, sweetened and slightly stewed. If canned add sugar. Place on the top of the pie and heat again. Put on ice until cold.

FRIED TURNIPS.

Peel and slice the turnips and throw into cold water. At the end of half an hour drain and put over the fire in a saucepan with a little salted water. Cook until they begin to get tender, or until a fork pierces them easily. Be careful not to break them; drain and, when cold, pat them dry between the folds of a towel. Dip first in cracker-crumbs, then in beaten egg, then in cracker-crumbs. Lay on a dish in the ice-box for the crust to harden. Fry in butter to a light brown. Serve very hot.

SCALLOPED CELERY.

The coarse outer stalks of celery may be used for this dish. Cut into inch lengths and cover with salted water. Stew until tender. Drain, and keep hot while you make a white sauce by cooking together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, and when these bubble pouring upon them a cup of milk. Stir to a smooth white sauce, put the celery into this, and turn into a buttered pudding dish. Dust the top with buttered crumbs, and set in the oven until lightly browned. This is a simple and very palatable dish.

SHEPHERD'S PIE.

Two cups minced veal, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup water or stock, salt and pepper, one teaspoon minced onion. Make sauce with butter, flour and water, add seasoning and minced onion; add one egg beaten slightly; boil gently three minutes; add minced meal, stir until hot, but not boiling; turn into buttered baking dish, put over it a layer of potatoes mashed and creamed with quarter cup milk and one tablespoon butter for two cups potatoes. Brush over with butter. Brown in good hot oven.

PEPPER RELISH.

Pepper relish is usually made of green peppers, green tomatoes and celery; but cabbage may be substituted for the peppers. For the latter, chop fine a small head of firm, white cabbage, six large green peppers, taking care not to leave in any seeds, and a nice bunch outer leaves; put into a large bowl, sprinkle with a half cupful of salt, mix well, cover and let stand over night. The next morning drain in a colander then pack in a stone jar with two tablespoonfuls of mustard seed mixed through it. Put into a porcelain kettle three pints of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful each of whole cloves, allspice and whole pepper, a clove of garlic and one onion minced; simmer gently twenty minutes, to extract the virtue of the spices; strain and pour boiling hot water over the vegetables. There should be enough of vinegar to cover. When cold cover the jar and keep in a cool place. A little red pepper may be added, if you like it very hot.

USEFUL HINTS.

Buttered and salted popcorn is often used as a substitute for salted almonds.

A good filling for sandwiches is made by mixing finely chopped pecan nuts with Chutney.

An ordinary headache may generally be cured by applying water as hot as it can be borne to the feet and back of the neck.

Flat irons should be kept with particular care, and occasionally rubbed over with wax to keep their surface perfectly smooth.

Varnished paint can be kept as bright as though freshly done by soaking in water some time a bag filled with flaxseed, and then using it as a cloth to clean the paint.

For brass goods, lemon juice with a little fine silver sand is excellent. They should afterwards be rinsed with boiling water and polished with a soft rag.

For cleaning spouts of tea and coffee pots always have a small bottle brush hanging in your pantry. This helps wonderfully in cleaning and costs only a few cents.

Stirring anything over a hot stove often causes brittle finger nails. Try rubbing a little almond oil in every night and keep a pair of loose gloves to slip on when cooking.

In color the [illegible] fish is a brilliant red.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton. Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

To Good Roads Advocates

The Fifty Ninth Congress having met last Monday, we deem it opportune to say to those who favor national aid to highway construction and improvement that now is the time to get in effective work with Senators and Representatives, The Brownlow Latimer bill is a well understood proposition, It has been published broadcast, and the press of the country in all sections has been urging the people persistently to marshal their strength and insist upon its enactment into law. There is no question that can possibly be paramount to that of good roads, We have tried every suggested local system and found them either impractical or inadequate, The State, county and district plans to have good wagon roads have all failed except in three or four of the wealthier States, and the roads are no better to day (some of them are much worse) than they were fifty years ago, or when first opened to travel. Argument seems now to be superfluous as to why the roads should be symatically improved; the question is, how can we get them so improved? The experience of all the years proves abundantly that it can only be done by the general government leading the way, Senators and Representatives will take notice that this is a question affecting very materially the whole body of the American people, in town, country and city; in every trade, calling and profession; the producer, the consumer and the dealer, the schools, the churches and every institution pertaining to the public well.being. It is a question of no particular locality, section or class, but touches vitally the affairs of every condition and situation of life. The wealth of the country is, every dollar of it, based upon agriculture. We are improving rivers and harbors, are building canals at the cost of unlimited millions and are spending millions more in far away countries foreign to our blood and antipodal to our institutions and forms of civilization. We are spending millions annually in various ways that give no relief to the long suffering people of the States. It is time to turn our attention to affairs close at home a little bit, and build up our own waste places. The first and most important thing that should receive the attention of Senators and Representatives is highway conditions in America, to the end that the remedy may be applied. We urge all who shall read this article to take the matter up with neighbor and friend and bring some cencerted pressure to bear on the law-makers in Washington. The country needs to have the relief. The way to get it is to demand it. Congress alone can give it. It is the people's right to ask it in dertermined tones. Write to your U. S. Senators and Representatives and urge their support of the Brownlow-Latimer good roads bill. A postal card request to Hon. W. P. Brownlow will bring you a copy of the bill.

FREE IF IT FAILS.

The Upchurch Drug Co. Say They Do Not Charge Anything for Vinol Unless it Gives Satisfactory Results.

When asked by a reporter of the Banner how they could make such a broad offer in regard to any medicine, a member of the above firm replied:

"If Vinol were a patent or secret preparation it would be another thing, but it is not, everything it contains is named on the label."

Vinol is simply the up-to-date form of administering cod liver oil, which for centuries has been recognized as the grandest of all body building agents for wasted human strength and vitality, and during the last five years we have seen it produce such grand results that we are now willing to back it with any kind of a guarantee.

In Vinol we have simply done away with the useless system clogging oil and have given to the people all the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil in a highly concentrated and deliciously palatable form, and we have never sold in our store a medicine of more curative and strengthening value than Vinol, and if the people of Clanton only realized its value we would not have clerks enough in our store to suppl the demand for it. In a natural manner Vinol tones up the digestive organs, makes rich red blood and creates strength. We can only ask the people of Clanton to try it on our guarantee." Upchurch Drug oc.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Court continued in session all of last week, adjourning Saturday evening. A number of cases were disposed of that were of no general interest, the principal one being a mandamus to compel the court of county commissioners to pass upon the claim of the Southern Railroad company, seeking to recover tax paid as special bridge tax, which they allege was unlawfully levied. The petition was granted.

The Grand Jury adjourned over Sunday and concluded their labors Tuesday evening, submitting their report as follows:

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

To the Honorable A. H. Alston,
Presiding Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Alabama:

Your Grand Jury after being duly sworn, empaneled and organized by your Honor, proceeded, on Monday, the 27th day of November, 1905, to the performance of the duties required of said body.

The Grand Jury investigated seventy three cases and found thirty three true bills.

We find no flagrant violation of law in Chilton county, on a large scale, except the violation of our local prohibition statute and the keeping open of stores in certain portions of the county on Sunday. As to these violations diligent inquiry and investigation has been made. On some of these charges true bills have been returned. As to other cases, the proof, while doubtless in existence, was not placed before our body in form strong enough to base a true bill upon at present. For the safety and preservation of society in our midst, this Grand Jury here and now calls upon, and appeals to, all good and law abiding citizens to join the next Grand Jury in the attempt to stamp out such character of crime, which surely leads to enlarged violations.

We find our county books neatly kept and preserved. However, in the limited space of time allotted to us to examine said books and records, the inspection of same has necessarily been hardly more than casual. With the idea of impeaching the capacity and efficiency of no official, but with the view that full and complete justice may be done to all officers, as well as to the public, we recommend that a fearless, competent, local accountant be employed by the county commissioners or other proper authority, to make an examination of, and report upon, the county books and records.

Our highways are in fair condition. We, however, recommend that our court of county commissioners take up the question of establishing a permanent local road law, on the pattern or patterns mentioned in your Honor's charge, as the local conditions demand and justify.

The county poor house, with its surroundings, has been examined. We find that the poor are well cared for. At present, there are in the poor house eleven inmates.

We have examined our court house and jail, and find that both are in fair condition and well preserved. The repairs on both buildings now in course of completion, we are pleased to state, will make both structures roomy and sufficiently ample for the public needs. The court of county commissioners are to be commended for their diligent care in causing the erection of these additions to both buildings.

A committee of our body has examined the report of the County Treasurer, and have verified the same with bank deposit to his credit as Treasurer, and we find the same correct. We find on hand a cash balance of three thousand, one hundred and forty seven and 53 100 ($3147 53) dollars, according to said report, which we file herewith and make a part hereof.

From an examination made of the bonds of our county officers, we find that the same are sufficient, so far as the solvency of the various sureties go. The bonds of the more important county officers are executed by surety companies, as permitted by statute.

While our duties have been tedious and laborious we, with your Honor's able charge as our guide and watchword and the constant aid of our special Solicitor and Bailiff, have performed our public obligations, we hope, with fearlessness and without favor.

The return of Solicitor Bowling, after his short illness, to the performance of his duties, is a source of gratification.

Thanking your Honor for your visit to our midst and for your able instruction, and our special Solicitor for his promptness and alertness and Bailiff Jones for his courteous attention, we wish your Honor Godspeed and ask to be finally discharged

Respectfully submitted
E. G. ROLLINS, Foreman.

Following are the principal cases disposed of:

John Will Davis, selling liquor, continued

Henry Johnson, murder, in supreme court.

J E McCullough, murder, continued.

Lee Hubbard, carrying concealed weapon, continued

Nathan Davis, disturbing religious worship, fine $20.

Sim Bland, assault to murder, fine $10

George Bruce, carrying concealed weapon, fine $50

Arthur Pearce. carrying concealed weapons, fine $100

Will Parish, selling liquor, four cases, fine $50 in each case.

Sam Garner and Dave Ramager, assault and battery, fine $25 each

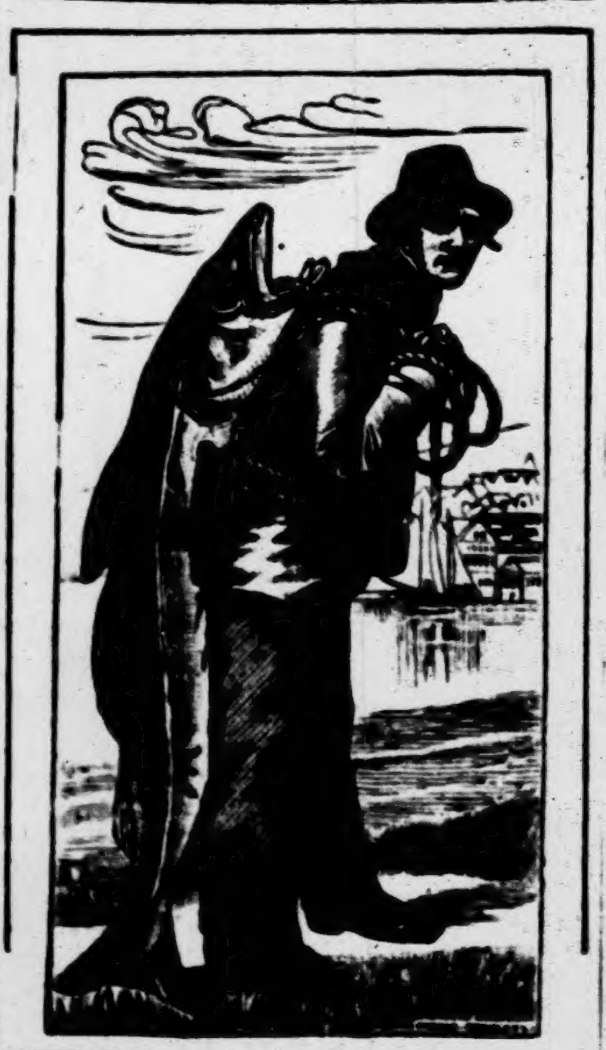
Frank Snyder, selling liquor continue

Dave Norris, selling liquor, continued.

Dosh Wilson, disturbing religious worship, fine $20.

Paul Shelton, assault to murder, fine $10.

Iver Husby, cruelty to animals, fine $10.



THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, CHEMISTS
409-415 PEARL STREET, NEW YORK
50c. and $1.00. All druggists.

The Taking Cold Habit

The old cold goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, weak lungs, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, soothes, heals. Ask your doctor about it.

"I had a terrible cold, and nothing relieved me. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it promptly broke up my cold, stopped my cough, and eased every part of my body. It did wonderful work for me."—MR. J. F. LOVE, Toledo, Ohio.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. HAIR VIGOR.

Keep the bowels regular with Ayer's Pills, just one pill each night.

The greater part of Tuesday and Wednesday was occupied in the trial of W. J. A. Melton charged with killing a negro at Maplesville. About 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening the jury retired and after deliberating for several hours, coming back into court for further instructions, reached a decision about 11:30 p m.. returning a verdict of guilty and fixing the penalty at twenty five years in the penitentiary.

The trial of James Norman for assault to rape is set for today, Thursday, and there is no certainty when the docket will be through, it may be Saturday.

PERSONAL.

Dr. H. W. Caffey of Verbena was in town Monday.

Mr. C. L. Langston of Jemiton, who is about to remove to Texas, was a visitor here Saturday.

Mr. S. R. Letcher of Stanton gave us a pleasant call Saturday.

Mr. James Donovan of Deatsville was amongst our visitors Monday.

Rev. P. G. Maness of Shouls was in town Monday.

Mr. W. J. Gaylor of Lightwood gave us a welcome visit Monday.

Saturday afternoon a difficulty occurred between Monroe Cleckler and James Edwards, and the latter was rather badly cut. Mr. Edwards' wound was dressed and he was carried home. Mr. Cleckler was arrested and made bond.

The mission of "Early Risers" is to clear the way and give Nature full sway. These famous little pills rid the stomach and bowels of all putrid matter, thus removing the causes of headache, constipation, sallow complexion, etc. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never gripe or sicken. A safe, pleasant, perfect pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mountain Creek.

Married Sunday, 4 p.m., at home of Miss Venie Pyron near Mountain Creek, Rev. Willie Jones to Miss Vena Pyron, Rev. James Thomas of Elmore officiating. Our hearty good wishes to the happy couple.

On Nov. 26, Messrs. M.A. Creagh and P. S. Shriner of Montevallo had the pleasure of spending the day with friends here.

The most pleasant, safest and best remedy to use for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc., is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Remedy expels all cold from the system by acting as a catharic on the bowels. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton. Ala.. postoffice. for week ending Dec. 4. 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised." and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

T. N. Rhodes, Johnie Brown. R. A. Baker, J.C. Calloway, Tanie Armstrong.

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. Ola Smith, Miss Dora Miller.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Dec. 18, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Fearful Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffmen, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle, with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold, under guarantee to do the same for you, by Upchurch Drug co., at 50c. a bottle. Try them today.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Discounts

Liberal long time loans on Improved Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Property, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cotton being held now, either on farms or in warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	88	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	.75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2 00
Old Mountain Dew	3 00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2 00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM. ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the best

Staple & Fancy Groceries
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
SHOES, HATS, ETC.
B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - ALA

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

GIANT RIVER TUNNELS.

TAKE PLACE OF BRIDGES IN CO NECTING NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK.

Completion of Borings Under Huds River—One of Greatest of Enginee ing Feats.

After half a century of speculati on the practicability of tunneling t Hudson river from New Jersey to t island of Manhattan, it is now pos ble to walk dry-shod from Jersey New York. The twin bores have be completed, that is, they have been c through and cased in, though of cour some finishing touches are yet to put upon them. It was a few da ago that in the presence of the en neers, the directors and a dozen r porters, W. G. Oakman, president the Hudson Companies, split an o brick bulkhead with a hydraulic ja and completed the first Manhatta Jersey tunnel system. There was six-inch gap in the wall. A gang "ground hogs" rammed the breach little wider, and the party crawl through into New York city.

The old wall that was cut throu was seven feet thick. It is the re of a former failure to tunnel t Hudson. Twenty-three years ago t engineers of the old Hudson Compan after cutting a considerable distan under the river, abandoned the ente prise and walled in the unfinish work with this brick bulkhead.

Two tube-tunnels run parallel b neath the Hudson river, the work boring them being done under dire tion of the New York and New Je sey Railroad Company, but this co pany entrusted the actual performan of the work to the Hudson Compani The present tube has been t years in the course of constructi The tubes will cost when complet about $13,000,000, and the entire wo will cost about $30,000,000.

Fifteen Feet in Diameter.

The tubes are 5,700 feet long, 15 feet in diameter and are intended f one track each, with a sidewalk f workmen. Two tubes have been sta ed on the New Jersey shore, to r under the river to Cortlandt a Church streets. These tubes will 16¼ feet in diameter. The tubes ju completed will connect on the N Jersey shore with the Pennsylva and the Lackawanna terminals. Manhattan one branch will conne with the subway under Fourth a nue at Astor Place. Another bran will run to Sixth avenue and Thirt third street. A trip through the enti length of the tunnel from the subwa to Hoboken will cost only five cen About six hundred men have been e ployed in the tunnels.

Cars will be running through th tube-tunnels in eighteen months. T safety of transportation in the tunn needs no demonstration, for trains w run in a steel tube the strength which to resist pressure has been ca fully worked out. Being laid fro fifteen to fifty feet below the riv bed, it cannot be affected by the a tion of tidewater. The tube is a ste lined hole in the earth, and except f

THE UNCONV

It was Thomas Carlyle who Sarah Bernhardt

ULLEDGE
oans and Discounts
time loans on Improved
Insurance Policies.
n good Personal Proper-
ps.
dvances offered on cot-
, either on farms or in ss
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

il Order House!
RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
ur Mail Orders.
ODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
key	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

s and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	2 50
J. Martin's several old Va. Rye	3 00
Old Style Country Club	3 40
Old Lincoln County	2 50
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4 00
R. A. Stuart's Old Va Rye	5 00

carry a full line of wines and low grade goods.
UG COMPANY
ATE DRUG STORE
MINGHAM, ALA.

rything rything of the best
ncy Groceries
, CLOTHING
HATS, ETC.
ES & BRO.
.ALA

UR!
Perfection just
the mills.
ntee price and
our expense.
ON & SONS
nton Furniture Co.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV | Part Two | OLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1905 | Pages 9 to 12 | No. 8

GIANT RIVER TUNNELS.

TAKE PLACE OF BRIDGES IN CONNECTING NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK.

Completion of Borings Under Hudson River—One of Greatest of Engineering Feats.

After half a century of speculation on the practicability of tunneling the Hudson river from New Jersey to the island of Manhattan, it is now possible to walk dry-shod from Jersey to New York. The twin bores have been completed; that is, they have been cut through and cased in, though of course some finishing touches are yet to be put upon them. It was a few days ago that in the presence of the engineers, the directors and a dozen reporters, W. G. Oakman, president of the Hudson Companies, split an old brick bulkhead with a hydraulic jack and completed the first Manhattan-Jersey tunnel system. There was a six-inch gap in the wall. A gang of "ground hogs" rammed the breach a little wider, and the party crawled through into New York city.

The old wall that was cut through was seven feet thick. It is the relic of a former failure to tunnel the Hudson. Twenty-three years ago the engineers of the old Hudson Company, after cutting a considerable distance under the river, abandoned the enterprise and walled in the unfinished work with this brick bulkhead.

Two tube-tunnels run parallel beneath the Hudson river, the work of boring them being done under direction of the New York and New Jersey Railroad Company, but this company entrusted the actual performance of the work to the Hudson Companies.

The present tube has been two years in the course of construction. The tubes will cost when completed about $13,000,000, and the entire work will cost about $30,000,000.

Fifteen Feet in Diameter.

The tubes are 5,700 feet long, 15¼ feet in diameter and are intended for one track each, with a sidewalk for workmen. Two tubes have been started on the New Jersey shore, to run under the river to Cortlandt and Church streets. These tubes will be 16¼ feet in diameter. The tubes just completed will connect on the New Jersey shore with the Pennsylvania and the Lackawanna terminals. In Manhattan one branch will connect with the subway under Fourth avenue at Astor Place. Another branch will run to Sixth avenue and Thirty-third street. A trip through the entire length of the tunnel from the subway to Hoboken will cost only five cents. About six hundred men have been employed in the tunnels.

Cars will be running through these tube-tunnels in eighteen months. The safety of transportation in the tunnel needs no demonstration, for trains will run in a steel tube the strength of which to resist pressure has been carefully worked out. Being laid from fifteen to fifty feet below the river bed, it cannot be affected by the action of tidewater. The tube is a steel-lined hole in the earth, and except for collisions due to operating blunders the risk of travel ought to be nil.

Many Tunnels to be Dug.

It having been proved practicable to tunnel beneath the Hudson river, the Pennsylvania Railroad undertaking will be pushed rapidly, and it may be expected that in course of time every trunk line coming into Jersey City will have its own tunnel. The East river piercings do not present much of a problem. In less than five years trains ought to be running from Philadelphia to Boston with no water to be crossed.

It is believed that within ten years electric trains will make the trip from Philadelphia to New York in one hour.

NO TURKEY STUFFING?

Christmas Dinner Incomplete Without This Old-Fashioned Addition.

The latest and most obnoxious crank in the gastronomic line is that deluded epicure who asserts that Christmas turkey must be served without "stuffing." He says it is an anomaly, a thing without reason, an insult to the completeness of the bird. He even declares that it detracts from the sweet flavor and delicate aroma of the king of fowls. Thus he thrusts himself into the public arena, a most unwelcome "butter-in," striving to accomplish the downfall of an historic institution. He is not a true American. He has never tasted "stuffing as mother made it"—the real Simon-pure article, spooned out of the deep recesses of the royal bird in great crumbly masses that fill the room with rich aroma and the heart of man, woman and child with joy unconfined.

It is the soul of the turkey, is stuffing. With the bird itself one is always bothered about what part he will have—whether white meat or dark; whether a wing, a thigh, or a drumstick; whether the wish-bone, the liver, or "the part that went over the fence last;" but for the stuffing, American sentiment is universal. The only question is: How much does one dare to eat? And then that entrancing, sagey odor, from the mysterious "yarbs" that enter into the making—as sweet as the summer breezes over new mown hay—as delicate as the fragrance of orange blossoms on a wedding day. And perchance, in addition, we shall catch the sublime suggestion of an onion, wafted into our quivering nostrils, and recalling some dear departed maternal spirit who ministered to our boyish wants in days of yore.

Turkey straight, without stuffing? Not while there is breath to sound a protest. It is the mission of civilization to mix with naked nature the toothsome miscellany of tradition; to blend the work of nature and man; to sweeten with our best endeavor the plain blessings of an all-wise Providence. That's what gave us "stuffing;" and until the heart of man grows cold,—until the race loses its teeth and lives on pills and tablets and predigested pap, its multitudes will insist on turkey as mother served it. Down with theories. Give us stuffing or take the turkey back.

THE UNCONVENTIONAL SARAH.

It was Thomas Carlyle who said that all genius was akin to savagery. Sarah Bernhardt exemplifies this in the buodoir of her chateau in Paris. Mme. Bernhardt is a perfect barbarian in her defiance of all the conventionalities regarding color schemes. Her sleeping room is hung in royal purple, decorated with peacock plumes. Over her Louis XVI. bed is a canopy made of unspun silk taken directly from the silkworm cocoon. A great splash of crimson satin, in the form of a shield, adorns the center. The walls are hung in old tapestries, and in the interstices of the hangings are row after row of tiny monkey skulls, the eye sockets of which are illumined with electric lights.

The "divine Sarah" has parted with her pet tiger, and now has for a companion a large and ugly baboon, whose ears have been pierced so that they may carry huge rings of solid gold. Bernhardt is said to look as young as she did twenty years ago. Her face is without wrinkles, and her step is as spry and her manner as vivacious as when she first electrified her native city as an actress.

FORTUNE FOR A ROSE.

A WONDERFUL NEW VARIETY WHICH BRINGS THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Is a Ravishing Pink and Crimson Tea—One to Two Hundred Thousand Dollars Expected Profit—Other Huge Figures for Flowers.

A Washington gardener has originated what is believed by expert florists to be the finest rose ever grown—the Queen Beatrice. It is a tea of a peculiar shade of pink with a touch, in the bud, of light crimson. Its particular merit lies probably in the fact that none of the beauty of its coloring is destroyed either in natural or artificial light. Added to this it has a fragrance equal to, if not superior to that of the American Beauty. The rose grows on straight and sturdy stems from two to three feet long; its parents are the two well-known varieties, Liberty and Madam Chatenay, the former, one of the most popular crimson varieties, but uncertain in the production of perfect blooms. Queen Beatrice has none of the faults of its parents and combines all of their good qualities; it is resistant to insect and mildew attacks, and capable of forcing on the hothouse bench.

THE NEW QUEEN BEATRICE ROSE.

Grown at Gardiner Hubbard Mansion

It was originated by Peter Bissett, and will be put on the market by Florist F. H. Kramer, of Washington. Bissett is the head gardener of Mrs. Gardiner Hubbard, the widow of the late Gardiner Hubbard, at one time president of the National Geographic Society. She is the mother-in-law of Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone. The new rose was produced at her beautiful suburban residence, Twin Oaks, just outside of the national capital.

The leading florists of the country have known of the existence of this rose for a year and have made various tempting offers for it, but it remained for Florist Kramer to offer $30,000 and finally secure the beauty.

Such a fabulous sum for a rose seems insignificant, however, when it is remembered that but a few years ago Thomas Lawson of "Frenzied Finance" fame paid $30,000 for a mere carnation, while the greater amount of $125,000 was expended for the "Fiancee" carnation. It is hinted that Mr. Lawson cleaned up over $100,000 out of the Lawson pink and the buyers of the "Fiancee" carnation easily doubled the amount expended.

Origin of the American Beauty.

And yet the "American Beauty" of whom every flower lover is fond has a very, very sad history. A number of years ago a Washington gardener who made only a specialty of garden roses, received from abroad a shipment of plants, among which was a "mongrel." This, with out-of-door culture produced very large and fragrant blooms. It attracted the attention of Thomas Fields, a Washington florist. Nothing was known by him of the forcing qualities of this rose in the greenhouse, but as he rather liked its color and general appearance, one afternoon while her husband was absent, he purchased the single plant from Mrs. Ready for five dollars. Ready, when he retured and was told of the sale, believed that his wife had asked too much for the flower. Fields experimented with the plant and found that it exceeded even his fondest hopes. He named it the "American Beauty" and probably cleared $25,000 on this one deal. To-day Ready is still a gardener, doing odd jobs for people around town—spading up gardens, supplying rich earth and planting shrubs.

Mr. Kramer is a Washington florist with large experience in the flower line, many new and interesting novelties having originated in his greenhouses. Among the popular garden roses which he produced are the "Climbing Meteor," a climbing variety with large red blooms; "Champion of the World," "Robert E. Lee," "F. H. Kramer," and many other sorts which have been sold to catalogue houses and named by them. He has just originated the "Climbing American Beauty" which will probably be listed by flower-sellers next spring. He recently exhibited in Washington the "F. H. Kramer" carnation—a deep pink sort—which many well known florists have declared to be the equal of either the "Lawson" or "Fiancee." He states that no plants of the "Queen Beatrice" rose will be ready for distribution before the spring of 1907 during which time a large sum of money will be expended in the erection of hothouses and the cultivation and growing of hundreds of thousands of young plants. The estimate is made that probably $150,000 or $200,000 will be made from this flower.

Attempted Graftings.

Various artifices have been tried by clever but unscrupulous people to obtain specimens of the "Queen Beatrice" rose, many coming into the Kramer establishment where a huge bouquet of the blooms was on exhibition, offering to purchase at large prices a single flower for a boutonniere. Others have gone so far as to order elaborate funeral designs with the proviso that nothing but this particular kind of rose be used. These were only dodges to obtain the healthy wood for slipping and growing, for the best time to make rose cuttings is either just before or immediately after the plant comes into bloom.

One Washington florist who originated the "Ivory" rose—a handsome white flower, and a sport of "Golden Gate"—was unwise enough to sell cut flowers, thereby enabling the purchasers to propagate the variety cheaply.

The Washington Florists' Club recently awarded the new "Queen Beatrice" rose a certificate of merit, the first of the kind ever given by the club. The new flower is so striking and beautiful that every member of the club consented to the award.

Comfort on Uncle Sam's Ample Breast.

"Cupid is one of the best recruiting officers that Uncle Sam has," confided one of the sergeants attached to the recruiting headquarters. "Back of nearly every enlistment there is a woman in the case. Lovers' quarrels chase a lot of fine lads into the service. Your romantic youth gravitates to the recruiting office after a serious break with his sweetheart as naturally as a duck takes to water. It seems to him the most fitting way in which to sacrifice himself when love's young dream is apparently dispelled. Way down in his heart he nurses the idea of making his erstwhile inamorata sad, and it's the army or navy, with the possibility of death in battle, for him. Again, other first class material is recruited by the desire of young fellows to sport a uniform before their girls. In such cases Cupid does his recruiting through vanity. But in both ways he manages to fill up big gaps in the ranks of Uncle Sam's fighters."

One of the richest boys in the world is the adopted son of the late millionaire, Zeigler. He is fourteen years old and will inherit nearly $20,000,000.

Edwin Booth for a long time averaged twenty-five cigars each day.

THE PUBLIC LAND FRAUDS.

PRESIDENT'S PUBLIC LAND COMMISSION RECOMMENDS RADICAL CHANGES IN LAWS.

Richard Hamilton Byrd.

Three men went out west to seek their fortunes. One located in the Middle West—not the Middle West, perhaps, as it is generally known, but the central section of the western half of the United States in the desert country. He started his successful career by taking up a government claim under the desert land act. He was in the cattle country—the cow country—and he made his strike in cattle.

His friend went further north, still in the desert area, close to the Canadian line—in the sheep country. He took up a government homestead claim and commuted it.

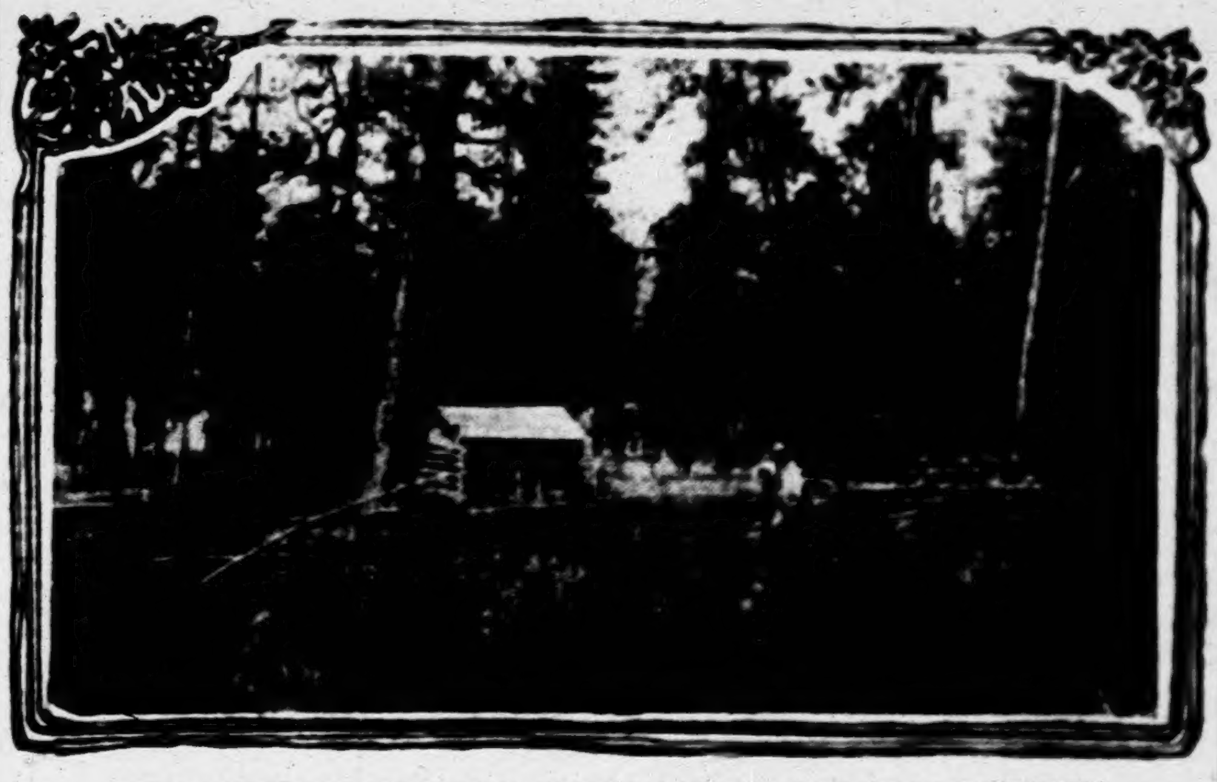
The third man went into the far northwest—the Oregon country of Lewis and Clarke—and he took up a government timber claim. He located in a land where lumbering was done.

And these three men became great cattle and sheep and timber kings, and incidentally landlords; and their operations while widely different were singularly similar. They filed on their government claims and at the earliest possible moment each man "proved up and sold out" for cash to larger land grabbers. And so they learned the mode and got their start toward land grabbing themselves.

The desert entryman was supposed under the law to live at least three years on his 320 acres and to expend during that period $960 in constructing irrigation ditches and other improvements, and make it his home. This was what was promised for the law when it was slipped through Congress. As a matter of fact, this man spent a day with a team making a fake irrigation reservoir and then another day running a couple of furrows around the land, making oath that this constituted an irrigation system for its reclamation. Then within six months he "proved up," made the required payments to the government, and secured a patent to his land.

The homestead entryman, who, under the law, must reside continuously on his claim, erected a slab, one-room shanty, 10x12 feet and during a period of fourteen months slept in it just five times. This was the extent of his home making. Then he, too, made oath of what he had not done, offered the required payments to the government and secured title to his land.

The timber entryman went into the finest timber section of the United States—the dense forests of the far northwest—and under the timber and stone act, selected 160 acres of land, the timber standing upon which was worth $75 an acre, and swearing that he wanted it for his own personal use, purchased it from the government at the fixed price of $2.50 an acre and immediately disposed of it. So that within fourteen months these three men had secured from Uncle Sam an aggregate of one square mile of government land for their own benefit and use as homes, and sold it out to those who were buying hundreds of such claims and then went looking for further speculation.



HOMESTEAD ENTRY IN EASTERN OREGON OF JOHN J. MURPHY.
Made to Secure Valuable Timber Lands.—Entryman is cook in an adjoining Lumber Camp

Typical Cases of Fraud.

These three cases are cited simply because they are typical of thousands and hundreds of thousands of instances which could be related of the great west where the government still owns half a billion acres of land, although another half billion have passed into private ownership under the various loose and really fraudulent land laws with which the statute book is defiled.

No nation has ever been so reckless or has been so mercilessly robbed of its public land resources as has the United States. Since the early history of the republic, land in vast tracts has been granted to individuals and corporations, and in spite of the public attention which of late years has been directed to the matter, the absorption goes on at an alarming rate. It seems difficult for the man who has lived in the west for years to realize that there is any good reason why he should not debauch and buy out hundreds of others who are willing to sell their birthright as American citizens, thus enabling him to acquire a domain which would have been princely in the days of feudalism.

The three men above cited count their holdings to-day by the hundreds of thousands of acres, but there are western corporations and individuals whose figures mount up even into millions of acres. One can ride or drive all day through their territory, the only signs of civilization being barbed wire fences and roaming herds, where should be hundreds and thousands of prosperous farm homes.

HON. W. A. RICHARDS.
Chairman Public Lands Commission.

When President Roosevelt came into office he found government aid to irrigation a question of growing popularity. He recommended its consideration by Congress. A national irrigation law was enacted. In his following message he officially recognized the basic fraud of land laws and the menace which they afforded to the homemaking irrigation law and the next year he appointed a Public Land Commission composed of three eminent public men, well qualified to investigate the land conditions in the west.

Need for Land Laws Legislation.

These officials were W. A. Richards, Commissioner of the General Land Office; Gifford Pinchot, Chief of the Bureau of Forestry, and Frederick H. Newell, Chief Engineer of the National Irrigation or Reclamation Service. And this commission after a year and a half of field investigation made a short official report to Congress, which was published as Senate Document 154, 58th Congress, 3d Session. It is herewith published in part, showing as it does the necessity for energetic action by Congress on one of the most vital questions of the day, namely, the correction of the national abuse which is taking away from the American homeseeker the opportunity to acquire a piece of land and rear thereon a home for himself and his family. This subject will be further considered in next week's issue, which will include an additional section of this report.

58TH CONGRESS, 3d Session } SENATE { DOCUMENT No. 154

PUBLIC LANDS COMMISSION

MESSAGE

FROM THE

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

SUBMITTING

THE SECOND PARTIAL REPORT OF THE PUBLIC LANDS COMMISSION, APPOINTED OCTOBER 22, 1903, TO REPORT UPON THE CONDITION, OPERATION, AND EFFECT OF THE PRESENT LAND LAWS.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I submit herewith the second partial report of the Public Lands Commission, appointed by me October 22, 1903, to report upon the condition, operation, and effect of the present land laws and to recommend such changes as are needed to effect the largest practical disposition of the public lands to actual settlers who will build homes upon them and to secure have concluded to submit this second partial report bearing upon some of in permanence the fullest and most effective use of the resources of the public lands. The subject is one of such magnitude and importance that I the larger features which require immediate attention without waiting for the final statement of the Commission, which, from the very nature of the case, it has not been possible to complete at this time. I am in full sympathy with the general conclusions of the Commission in substance and in essence, and I commend its recommendations to your earnest and favorable consideration. The existing conditions, as set forth in this report, seem to require a radical revision of most of the laws affecting the public domain, if we are to secure the best possible use of the remaining public lands by actual home makers. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The White House, February 13, 1905.

February 13, 1905.—Read; referred to the Committee on Public Lands and ordered to be printed.

SYNOPSIS OF REPORT.

1. This report is based on a broad general view of the public-land situation, not on specific cases.

2. The present laws are not suited to meet the conditions of the remaining public domain.

3. The agricultural possibilities of the remaining public domain are unknown. Provision should be made to ascertain them, and, pending such ascertainment, to hold under Government control and in trust for such use lands likely to be developed by actual settlers.

4. The right to exchange lands in forest reserves for lands outside should be withdrawn. Provision should be made for the purchase of needed private lands inside forest reserves, or for the exchange of such lands for specified tracts of like area and value outside the reserves.

5. The former recommendation for the repeal of the timber and stone act is renewed and emphasized.

6. The sale of timber from unreserved public lands should be authorized.

7. The commutation clause of the homestead act is found on examination to work badly. Three years' actual residence should be required before commutation.

8. The desert-land law is found to lead to land monopoly in many cases. The area of a desert entry should be reduced to not exceeding 160 acres. Actual residence for not less than two years should be required, with the actual production of a valuable crop on one-fourth the area and proof of an adequate water supply.

9. After thorough investigation of the grazing problem your Commission is opposed to the immediate application of any rigid system to all grazing lands, but recommend the following flexible plan:

(a) Authority should be given to the President to set aside grazing districts by proclamation.

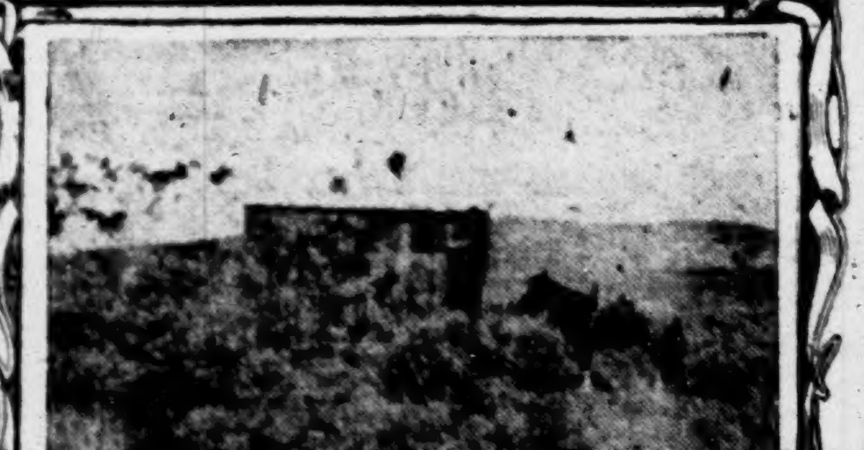
(b) Authority should be given the Secretary of Agriculture to classify and appraise the grazing value of lands in these districts; to appoint such officers as the care of each district may require; to charge and collect a moderate fee for grazing permits, and to make and apply appropriate regulations to each district, with the special object of bringing about the largest permanent occupation of the country by actual settlers and home seekers.

10. The fundamental fact that characterizes the situation under the present public-land law is this, that the number of patents issued is increasing out of all proportion to the number of new homes.

Second Partial Report of the Public Lands Commission.

Sir: This Commission, appointed Octo-er 22, 1903, to report upon the condition, operation and effect of the present land are needed to effect the largest practicable laws, and to recommend such changes as disposition of the public lands to actual settlers who will build permanent homes upon them, and to secure in permanence the ful-

A Fake Irrigation Reservoir and Ditch Supposed to Reclaim Two Desert Entries near Great Falls, Montana.



A Desert Claim in Eastern Washington.—No Visible Water Supply.

est and most effective use of the resources of the public lands, submitted to you a partial report, dated March 7, 1904, which was printed as Senate Document No 188, Fifty-eigth Congress, second session. In this report reference was made to the magnitude of the problems and to the fact that it was not then practicable to reach definite conclusions on a number of the more intricate questions.

Since the time of making this first report many meetings of the Commission have been held and special topics have been assigned to experts for their detailed investigation. The members of the Commission have individually and collectively studied many of the subjects assigned to it. During the year 1904 each member spent much time upon the public lands, making personal inquiries into existing conditions and discussing public-land questions with public men and citizens generally.

The Commission now respectfully submits to you a further partial report.

There is in preparation an appendix containing special reports prepared for the Commission, upon which, in part, the conclusions here presented are based. The Commission desires to express to you its appreciation of the valuable assistance and support it has received from officers of the General Land Office, the United States Geological survey (especially the reclamation service), and the bureaus of Plant Industry and Forestry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Problems Presented.

The total area of the public lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, was 1,441,436,160 acres, of which 473,836,402 acres still remained on June 30, 1904. The latter figure, of nearly half a billion acres, while but a third of the original area, is still enormous. Even to see typical examples of these lands in each of the States or larger political divisions would require months of arduous travel. To obtain a full comprehension of all the physical conditions would require years of research. This fact is emphasized because it appears in the general discussion of public-land questions by hundreds or thousands of individuals that as a rule each man sees only certain phases of a group of problems and from his own view point brings argument to bear for or against any one conclusion. Specific cases are cited to show that certain land laws should be repealed or revised, or should be allowed to remain, and instances are given of the beneficial results of such action.

A correct decision must be based not upon individual cases but upon the broadest attainable knowledge of prevailing tendencies and results. In a hundred cases it may be possible to find ten excellent illustrations of the beneficial workings of a law, and yet the remaining ninety cases show without doubt that the law on the whole is not good. It is only when large groups of facts are comprehended and analyzed that the real conditions appear.

Antiquated Land Laws.

In our preceding report reference was made to the fact that the present land laws not fit the conditions of the remaining public lands. Most of these laws and the departmental practices which have grown up under them were framed to suit the lands of the humid region. It is evident that the decisions often contemplate conditions such as prevail in the Mississippi Valley and Middle West. Judging cases by arbitrary rules of evidence, and considering only such facts as may be presented under these rules, there is much elementary and essential knowledge of which cognizance can not be taken.

The changes we recommend in the land laws are required not only because some of the present laws are wholly unsuited to existing conditions, but also in part because some of these laws as originally drawn contemplated certain conditions or practices which have been greatly modified by various rulings and decisions. In short, precedents established and which now have practically the force of law have so completely modified the apparent object of the original statute that the statute and the prevailing conditions appear to be wholly unconnected. The effect of laws passed to promote settlement is now not infrequently to prevent or retard it.

HOW TO ATTRACT WILD DUCKS TO YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

Wild rice, the favorite food of wild ucks, is a plant worth growing for eauty alone, says the November Garen Magazine. One seedsman I know f has had it in his catalogue for years, nder the name of Zizania aquatica. ut the secret of its cultivation has nly llately been discovered. The eeds must be sown in the fall, and hey must never be allowed to become horoughly dried out. This explains hy sportsmen's clubs have always ailed in their efforts to grow wild rice ear their club-houses. Hitherto they ave always bought the seed in the pring, as was natural, and hundreds f dollars have been wasted.

AMERICAN WOOD DUCK.

Another peculiarity of wild rice is at it will grow only in fresh water. [illegible] three per cent of salt water is [illegible]

Buy ten cents' worth of seed this fall and scatter in on the bit of fresh water nearest your home, whether you own the stream or not. No one will harm the wild rice, and next year your heart will leap with joy to see the beautiful wild rice in flower, and when it goes to seed you will enjoy seeing the other birds on its swaying stems, even if you do not raise enough plants the first year to attract wild ducks.

Lobsters Becoming More Scarce.

The Massachusetts Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, in their last report, do not give a very roseate view of the lobster industry in that State. The statistics gathered by the commission show conclusively the great shrinking of the supply of lobsters.

"The outcome, the commercial extinction of the lobster," they state, "is as sure to result as day is to follow the night. There has been an increase of pots or traps per man, but a falling off in the catch per pot from thirty-three in 1903 to twenty-eight and a half in 1905, or a decadence of about 14 per cent. In thirteen years there has been a decrease of more than 66 per cent. in the catch of lobsters per pot."

The U. S. Fish Commission is, however, taking active steps to foster and save this industry, just as it has been instrumental in preventing the practical extinction of many of our best [illegible]

KING HONORS MIKADO.

JAPANESE SOVEREIGN HAS BESTOWED HIM COVETED ORDER OF THE GARTER.

Ranks First Among all the Orders of the World.—Coveted by the Great Personages of Europe.—Twenty-five Recipients the Limit.

The bestowal by King Edward of the order of the Garter on the Mikado is as significant of Japan's new position among the powers as the raising of the status of the British minister at Tokio to the rank of ambassador. Among all orders of the world the Garter ranks first, and it is nearly a century older than the order of the Golden Fleece of Austria and Spain. It it coveted by foreign sovereigns as eagerly as minor honors are desired by lesser mortals. It is limited to twenty-five knight companions, with the sovereign and Prince of Wales and such extra knights, foreign rulers and dignitaries as may be admitted by special statute.

THE EMPEROR AND THE KING

But whenever the number, twenty-five, is reached, pause is made in the creations until death strikes the balance.

With Great Ceremony.

The last royal investment was that of the King of Spain, and the ceremony was performed by the Duke of Connaught, who went to Madrid especially for the purpose. Before him the Shah of Persia received the order, a special mission also travelling to Teheran with the appropriate insignia and decorations.

Nearly every ruler in Europe wears the order, including the Czar, the emperors of Germany and Austria-Hungary, the kings of Denmark, Belgium, Greece, Sweden, Portugal and Italy, and the kings of one or two minor German principalities.

Its Origin Mythical.

Although technically known as the Order of the Garter, from the picturesque but probably mythical incident which has always been looked upon as its origin, the decorations are not limited to that distinctive badge.

Besides the garter, of dark blue velvet, edged with gold and worn below the knee, there is a mantle also of dark blue velvet, lined with taffeta (the mantle which is worn by the king on state occasions, a surcoat of crimson velvet, a hood, a hat also of black velvet, surmounted by a plume, a collar constructed of twenty-six circular medals of gold, with a pendant of St. George, a star, and a broad dark blue ribbon passing over the left shoulder and crossing obliquely under the right arm.

The Order ofithe Garter.

The following lines of ancient verse is a description of how an early Edward of England founded the Order of the Garter.

When Salisbury's fair Countess was dancing with glee
Her stocking's security fell down from her knee.
Allusions and hints, sneers and whispers went round;
The trifle was scorned and left lie on the ground.
When Edward the Brave, with the soldier-like spirit
Cried, "The garter is mine; 'tis the order of merit!"
First Knights in my realm shall be happy to wear
Proud distinction—the garter that fell from the fair;
While in letters of gold—'tis your monarch's will,
Shall there be inscribed—"Ill to him who thinks ill!"

The Reflections of a Bachelor.

From the New York Press.

Hash is at the bottom of more divorce than any other influence in the world.

A husband thinks he is a good disciplinarian when he gets mad with his wife because his children won't mind him.

At eighteen a girl wants to pretend she is twenty-two, and at twenty-eight she wants to pretend the same thing.

A vacation at a summer hotel is a good time for one to learn what a nice time one has at home.

A Few Afterthoughts.

Weyler has been decorated in France. The same Weyler who came very nearly being perforated in Cuba.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has discovered that the railroads have a new way of giving rebates. What the Commission wants to discover is a new way or even any old way of stopping them from giving rebates.

The recent order to keep the proceedings of the Cabinet secret would seem to let out women as possible candidates.

Mr. Rockefeller admonishes us to keep our eyes on higher things. Does this indicate a rise in oil?

The entire Senate in Finland has resigned. Queer Finnish, wasn't it?

The Pueblo, Colorado, police force has taken on a woman policeman. It will now be in order for ex-President Cleveland to write another article for the Ladies' Home Journal on what he thinks of this kind of a woman's club.

Does advertising pay? The New York [illegible]

WOMAN CITY PHYSICIAN.

Greeley, Colorado, Appoints Ella Mead to Guard Municipal Health.

"So I have put my neck in the yoke and will hope to accomplish something for the public good."

If strong personality, native ability, and a well-disciplined mind are essential factors in the problem of success, Dr. Ella Mead, of Greeley, Colorado, will make good. This young woman was recently appointed City Physician of that bustling western town. In making the appointment the City Council reached the safe conclusion that a tactful woman might handle with skill many delicate questions that had theretofore proven sources of political embarrassment. Dr. Mead is well prepared for her work. Graduated from the Greeley High School she later took the degree of B. S. from the State Agricultural College. From early childhood she was desirous of studying medicine, and when but thirteen years old confided her ambition to the family physician.

She was poor, but that could not dampen her ardor. To take a course in the University and attain her degree she must have money. So she taught during vacations, and fought her way through college, and graduated for the third time, from the Denver University Medical School, in 1903.

For a time Dr. Mead was house physician in the Woman's Hospital, at Denver, and later, in the County Hospital. The latter position came as a result of competitive examination.

The doctor is proud of her record in the County Hospital. She did not miss a day. Regularly she took her turn with the men, in the wards and on the ambulance. She went with the wagon of rescue at all hours, in every section of the city, handling all cases that came in the course of a busy day. In fact she enjoyed the life and the work.

In Greeley the City Physician is also the Health Officer. Dr. Mead's jurisdiction includes two absorbing municipal questions—sanitation and the milk supply. In these lines of work she is deeply interested and is devoting much time and thought to the regulations and their enforcement.

DR. ELLA MEAD
City Physician of Greeley

When the purity of the milk supply of a city is concerned one is reminded of Charlotte Perkins Gilman's apt epigram: "Politics is not outside the home, but inside the baby." Thousands of infants have given up their precious lives as a result of the impurity of their milk. Through a mistaken economy, which restricts the number of inspectors, or a political exigency, which leads to the appointment of men unfit, the municipality often fails properly to guard that line of its citizens' commissary.

Dr. Mead believes there is no field of work where educated women are needed more than in her profession. Woman knows her need of help, but she will not and can not call on men for it. The woman physician brings to her work all the intuition, sympathy, and understanding with which the feminine sex has long been credited. When to these qualities is added the skill of special training, then, indeed, is she to her sisters in affliction as an angel of mercy.

He Is Making Good.

If any other member of the Cabinet has "made good" more quietly, steadily and thoroughly than Secretary Hitchcock—Ethan Allen's great-grandson—we'd be pleased to have him pointed out.—Hartford Courant.

A FLOATING EXPOSITION.

MANUFACTURERS TO INVADE FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Exhibit Will Travel Sixty Thousand Miles and Visit Forty-Six Countries.

American manufacturers in their efforts to expand their foreign trade have organized what is known as the American Floating Exposition, which is to be a very complete exhibit of the various products of American manufacture which it is desired to sell abroad. The exhibit will enable American manufacturers to visit merchants interested in selling their goods in 46 foreign countries, on a trip of 60,000 miles, consuming 15 months. The floating exposition is so wide-reaching in its probable good results, it is stated that the tour cannot fail of becoming a matter of national pride. Its development is characteristically American, and its results, says the New York Commercial, are certain to promote closer commercial relations with merchants throughout the world, all of which means greater prosperity to the manufacturing interests of the country, and therefore greater prosperity for the country itself.

Within the past few years the civilized nations of the world seem to have all reached the same conclusion—"Export trade means busy factories and domestic prosperity."

Imitation Gems.

Nearly all of the precious stones have been successfully copied in glass, some so accurately that even experts have been deceived. A prominent New York jeweler, in discussing the achievements of art in this direction, says:

"Exquisite gray 'pearls' are now made by cutting beads from mother-of-pearl shells and coating them with a thin layer of silver. But, of course, they are mere imitations, and the pearl is not a precious stone in the ordinary sense of the word, being an animal product. There is an important distinction between the artificial gems and imitation precious stones. The former are true gems, while the latter are only counterfeits. The business of manufacturing imitations of diamonds and other crystals of value is conducted on an immense scale in Europe, and large numbers are exported to the United States.

Elevated Train Wreck.

New Yorkers were expecting it for years and when a train of cars on the elevated road in that city was derailed, precipitating a car into the street below there were thousands of people who exclaimed "I told you so." In the early part of September, during the rush hour on the Ninth Avenue "L" through a wrong setting of a switch, a train was derailed. The first car passed over the switch safely, but the second plunged into the street. The third was dragged partly over, and its front end hung suspended from the structure over the sidewalk. Twelve persons were killed and forty-two were seriously injured.

NEW YORK ELEVATED WRECK.

Had Been Regularly Licensed.

An old darkey, who had presided at a camp meeting, was asked by one of the white lady visitors, who had been interested in the exercises, how long he had been a preacher.

"I'se only been a regular preacher for three years," he replied, "but I'se been lictentious for nearly thirty."

Remnants of Ancient Races.

In the Caucasus are remnants of some of the races of pre-historic Europe that have nearly perished from the earth. Among these are Ud, the Kurin, the Avar and the Tushall speaking a different language and each unintelligible to the other.

Vain Resistance.

"Do you mean to say that you permitted Mr. Huggins to put his arm around your waist of your own free will?"

"No, indeed, Mamma, considerable pressure was brought to bear on me."

Charlie closed his prayer the other evening with, "and Lord, don't forget to bless brother and little Willie, and make him as good a boy as I am."

A Tension Indicator

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 LOOSE TENSION TIGHT

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohia.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St., Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

BULL DOG SUSPENDERS
[illegible]
POSITIVELY THE BEST SUSPENDER MADE.
HEWES & POTTER, [illegible]

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

The NEWEST THINGS for CHRISTMAS WEDDING (and other) PRESENTS

are our Lock Buckles for use on Trunks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds, Portfolios, Messenger Bags, etc.

They are the only Lock Buckles with the Yale Principle and are made of Manganese Bronze, which looks like gold, is stronger than steel and will not rust.

Locks alone (easily attachable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c; large, $1.00. (Beautifully hand engraved and including monogram, 25c extra); with strap for trunk, $1.50; for case, $1.00 prepaid and returnable if not delighted. Booklet on request. Salesmen and saleswomen wanted everywhere.

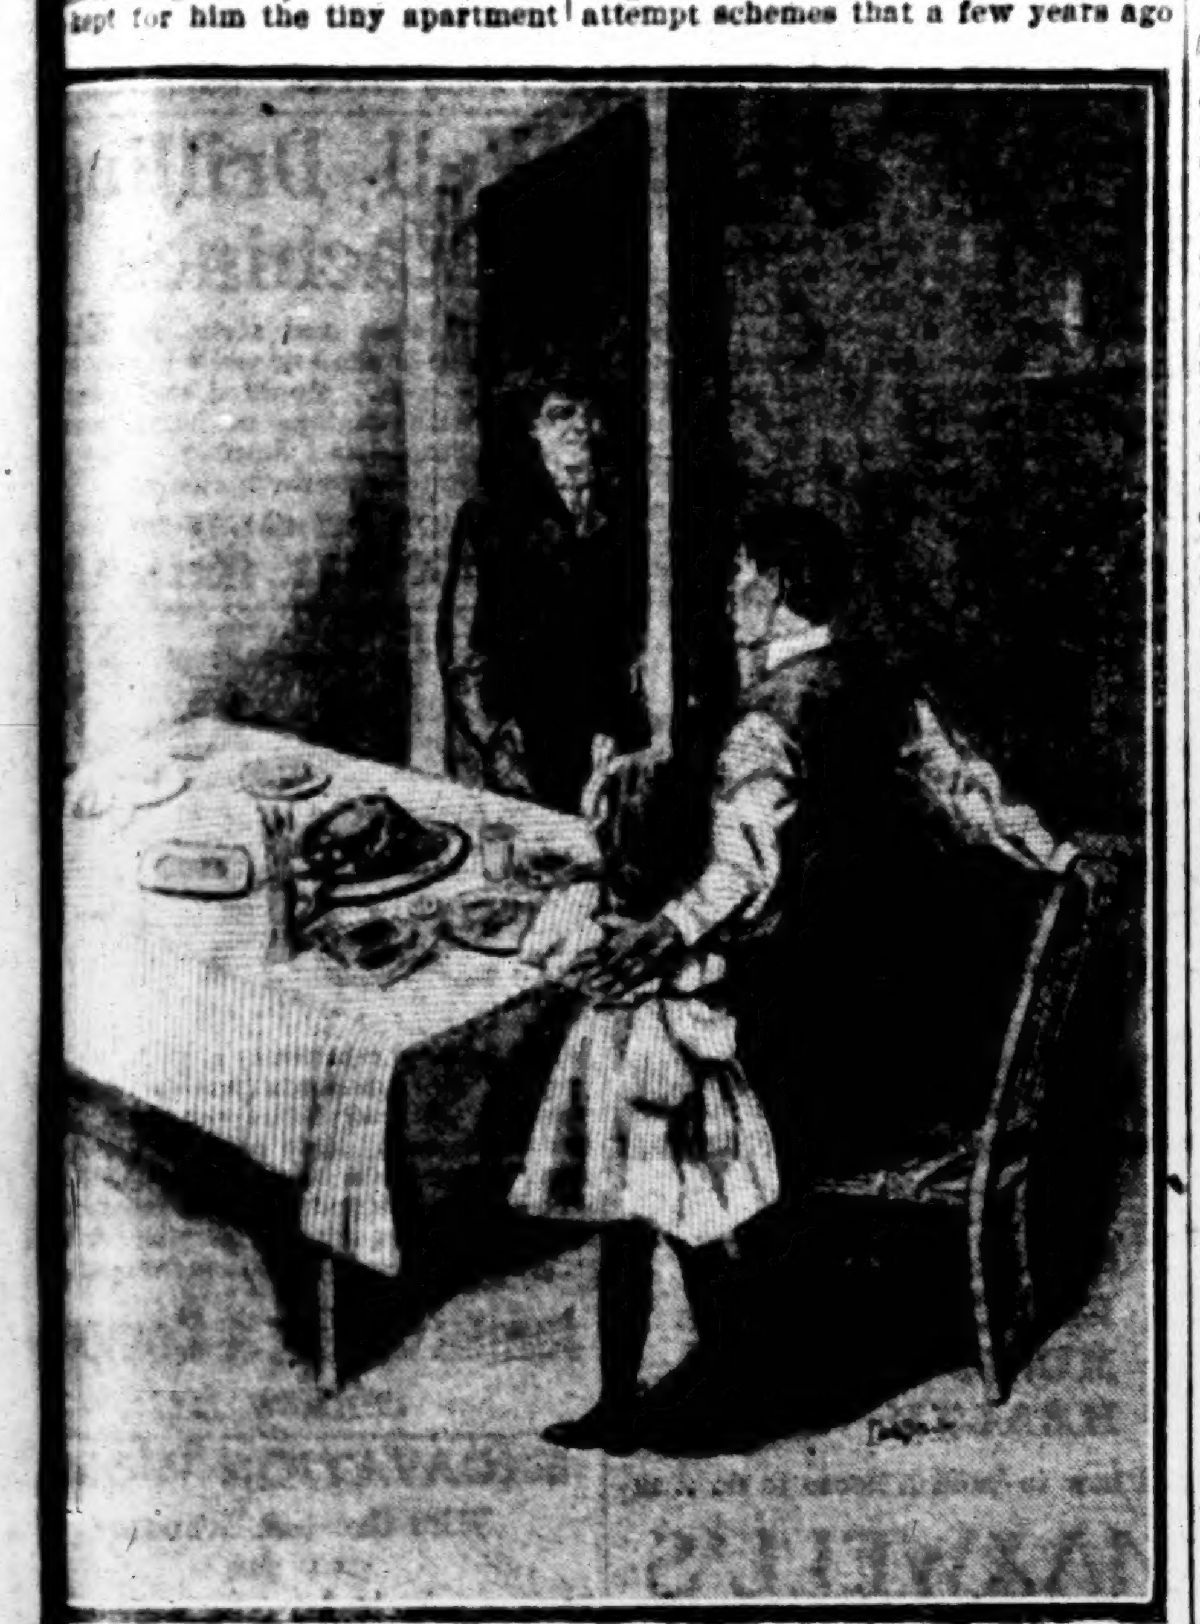
LYNCH MFG. CO. Madison, Wis.

FOR
O MAN IS WHOLLY BAD.

By WILLIAM REGINALD MACKRILL

s not Jim Wilson's fault that born with a game leg. But Jim's fault that the game leg his undoing. Reared in all the of southern affluence before he had squandered first his in e, then a competence earned ed speculation, and, finally, a ten thousand dollars wrung rightful owners by a series that form in themselves a human perversity, but are importance in this account. ricks were the third degree in , however, for they landed nd the bars; and when "Lim son returned to his old haunts to the lowest plane. He de into a first-class sneak thief, in "lifting" costly wraps and unoccupied carriages, from boxes and hotel parlors. How mplished these slick abstrac was more than the average in could understand. It was his assurance, his unobtrusive h and departure, his suavity that made him for a time most exponent of his art. But down hill steadily, and when ork became too hot, Chicago, and wide open, welcomed him ranks of the pickpocket and snatcher.

had two passions: first, his un able mania for theft; second, minating much of his life, lit daughter by his second wife, kept for him the tiny apartment West Side, in the very heart of sh quarter. During her ten life Alice had never wavered solute adoration of her father, returned her affection to the his nature.



JIM LEAPED TO HIS FEET WITH STARING EYES.

y that criminals are born. It is a true saying, in Jim's least. As a boy he was in no abnormal, adhering in all re to the proud traditions of his father, who owned broad Mississippi and ruled his hun of well-kept slaves with firm There was no mother. She during Jim's infancy. But at fif a sudden passion for money. monthly allowance was too slen his expensive tastes. He must more. He thought about it night And then cropped out; a of low cunning that had shown vals in his paternal ancestry generations uncounted. He formed plans elaborately, and one night his father's absence he entered library, broke open the little iron and decamped with upwards of sand dollars in cash.

years later Jim returned to the Here he found strangers, the North, to whom his father the family home. To his it said that he wept over the 's grave, and again when the Judge turned over to him, in es and cash, all his father's y, for there was no will and as the only heir. He had left boy; he returned a man, ex in the ways of the sea and paths of crime. But his sud acquired wealth, his recollec his father, and contact with forgiving friends, seemed to put the past. He threw aside his habits. He became a gen and took up his abode in the New York.

a far cry from the plantation cago, and the little room in the quarter. Thirty years lay be three decades of steady degra Very bitter were Jim's recol this December night, as he along State street beneath the of the electric lights, eyeing every carriage waiting by the A raw wind blew in from the His hands were numb. His body ached with the cold. His leg, which had been doctored his term in Sing Sing, was be to bother him again. It had of stiffening in the hip joint, his toe dragged a little at step.

as though the situation were enough already, fate threw burden on his shoulders. He de a promise to little Alice, must be kept, regardless of ences or effort. She had slip his bed early that morning ddled down beside him. "Pa said, "do you know what day w will be?"

Sunday, surely," he replied. attach no special importance to any day in the week but Sunday, when they always went for a walk on the Lake Shore.

"Why no, Papa, it's the 6th day of December—my birthday. Don't you remember?"

She wanted a turkey dinner, and before he left the house she had planned a royal spread, with cranberries, and celery, mashed potatoes and gravy, and a pie for dessert. Old Mrs. Janschowski, the Polish widow, of whom they rented their two little rooms, had offered to prepare the dinner on her big stove. All Jim had to do was to bring home the turkey and the trimmings. He promised solemnly, though he had not a cent in his pockets. And Alice had hugged him in delight, saying, "You are my very dearest bestest papa."

Jim stopped at a corner and looked up and down the street wondering how he might raise the price of that turkey. A soft-footed policeman approached. An oaken night stick prodded him in the back. "Move on. Get to cover," said a gruff voice. He started in sudden fear and slouched into the darkness of a nearby alley. It was the same old story. For weeks luck had been against him. It seemed as though the whole police force of that great city had suddenly opened its eyes to his existence. Wherever he went there appeared the brass buttons, the badge, the club. It was getting on his nerves, and he feared to attempt schemes that a few years ago would have been easy of accomplishment.

He came out on the next street, directly opposite a station of the elevated. Without reason, but following the instinct that had so often led him to his quarry, he climbed the stairs, passing on tip-toe the ticket-chopper dozing in his warm booth. A stylishly-dressed young man paced the platform, waiting for a train south. Cold as it was, he carried his overcoat on his arm, swinging it carelessly. Jim stood directly in the man's path, at the head of the stairs, and waited until the coat brushed against him. Then giving it a quick twist with both hands he tossed it lightly over the rail.

The man gave a cry of astonishment, but of what avail? There were none to hear. He was alone on the brilliantly-lighted platform. For in one bound Jim was down the first flight of stairs, and in another was on the street. Ten minutes later, after a mile of quick and devious traveling, he descended into a foul-smelling basement and handed the coat over to "Mother Isaacs" for inspection. It was a beautiful broadcloth, silk lined, with fur collar and cuffs. It was worth ten dollars, at least. But the Jewess sneered in his face, and he was glad to take the six silver dollars she flung upon the counter. It was little enough, but it would help. Three dollars must go for rent, and two more for coal and oil. He was determined that Alice should be comfortable. That left a dollar—hardly enough for a chicken, much less a turkey. And the trimmings? He thought about it for some time. There was only one thing to do—swipe the turkey from a store.

Like all criminals Jim was superstitious, and in the past few weeks he had encountered many bad omens. Caution was a part of his very fibre. But he could not disappoint the little girl. For Alice he must run the risk.

After an hour's tramp he found the place—a market store with a row of hooks outside, on which hung a dozen turkeys. He came boldly up the street, selected the last bird in the row, and without a break in his gait passed into the darkness, the bulky burden thrust under his coat.

It was a raw winter's night. The moon shone at intervals through scurrying clouds. Enough snow had fallen to whiten the streets. Jim limped toward home, chuckling with delight. In an alley he stopped to wrap the bird in a sheet of paper, begged for that purpose. It would divert suspicion, for he had still to get the trimmings; and these he purchased at a small store close to the house. Thus weighted, and with a light heart, he climbed the stairs and entered the dark room. Alice was asleep, but when he had made a light he wakened her, and with tugging heart strings watched her shining eyes as she inspected the supplies. "It is a fine bird," he said glibly. "I selected it very carefully from the whole stock. The man guaranteed it, and if it isn't tender I'll take it back."

Mrs. Janschowski knew little of Jim, seeing him only in the mornings. But her motherly heart went out to Alice, so different from her own dirty-faced, sturdy-legged brood; and it was for Alice's sake that she had agreed to cook the dinner. Alice gave valiant assistance, and promptly at one o'clock the beautifully-browned bird was brought to their little table.

If Jim had any premonitions of his rapidly-approaching finish, he was too happy to give them more than a passing thought. He was in his gayest mood. He told Alice stories of the sea, and described royal dinners in foreign lands. When they had eaten all they could, Alice slipped down from her chair and climbed up in his lap, saying, "Now, tell me a really fairy story, papa." And Jim began slowly—"Once upon a time there was a great big giant——."

Heavy footsteps sounded in the hall. The door opened suddenly, and a broad-shouldered man wearing a black hat and overcoat, entered the room. With a cry of alarm, the picture of the giant fresh in her childish imagination, Alice slid to the floor and took refuge behind her father. But Jim leaped to his feet, with staring eyes, and face as white as a sheet. The visitor looked at him curiously.

"Hello, Limpy. It's you, is it?"

Jim had but one thought—that Alice must not know. Into this crisis of his life came his old-time, splendid nerve. He extended his hand, and the color swept back into his thin face. "Glad to see you, Cap. You're just in time for dinner. Too late for the blessing, but there's plenty of turkey. Sit down and have a bite. Thought you were still in York."

There was a mute appeal in Jim's eyes that went to the detective's heart. He took off his hat and sat down by the table.

"Oh, I've been here for a year or two," he said carelessly, smiling at Alice. "I'm on the force—plain-clothes man. Didn't expect to see you, though." Then, with meaning emphasis, "No monkey business. The jig's up. It won't pay, you know," for Jim had measured with his eye the distance to the door, calculating his chances. "Who's the kid?" he went on. "Reminds me of one I lost a couple of years back with diphtheria. Pretty near broke my wife's heart. Sit down, Jim. I'm in no hurry."

Jim gave a long sigh. Yes, the jig was up. This man knew him like a book. This man ran him into Sing Sing years before. This man was his Nemesis.

They understood each other now, and for the time restraint was at an end. The captain made himself most agreeable. He had a pleasant face, with deep-set, twinkling eyes, and the heartiest laugh Alice had ever heard. She thought him almost as nice as her papa. He sampled the turkey and the cranberries, and tipping back his chair crunched a long stick of celery in his strong, white teeth, talking briefly to Jim in words Alice could not understand.

"Fine turk, Jim, but an unlucky pinch. Just happened I was in the store getting one for myself. Piped your lay, and would have landed if I hadn't slipped on the ice. Never thought of old Limpy Wilson till I saw that trail in the snow. Good cover you've got, but the old lady put me wise. Unlucky leg, that, Jim."

Presently the captain rose. "Guess we'd better get along, Jim," he said briefly.

Jim put on his coat and hat and turned to Alice with a wistful smile. "I've got to go out for a while, little sweetheart." His voice trembled, but Alice did not notice it. "The captain has come to offer me a job—a fine place that will fix us up allright. I'll be back soon." A desperate hope was in his mind. He gave it voice as they reached the street. "Cap," he said pleadingly, "wait a few days till I can place the little girl. She's all alone. I can put her somewhere so she'll be taken care of and won't know. For God's sake, Cap, help me out. She thinks her daddy's straight as a string."

The captain's eyes were full of pity. "No friends?" he asked.

"Not one, except old Mrs. Jan, and she's got seven of her own."

"It's a tough proposition, Jim." He was silent for some time. His hand was on Jim's shoulder, the slack of the coat in his firm grip.

"Tell you what I'll do, Jim. You can take your choice. I'll give you a year to brace up, and you can stay right here and keep the kid. That's one side; here's the other. There's five thousand dollars for me when I deliver you over to New York headquarters. I'll take the kid and give her a home, and use the money for her education. My wife would treat her like a daughter. We'll tell her you've got a job in New York, and that she's to stay with us till you send for her. When she's old enough to bear it we'll tell her you're dead, as you will be long before you serve all your time. Now I'll let you go, as I say, and if you turn square it'll be allright. But I'll watch you like a hawk, and if you trip up again, so help me! you'll take your medicine, child or no child. And you know, as well as I do, that you're too old a dog to learn new tricks. Speak up, now. I'm wasting good time."

And Jim spoke quickly. As much as he loved liberty he loved Alice more. He could not hope much longer to keep from her the awful secret of his life. Better that he should give up now, and spare her the disgrace.

"I guess you're right, Cap. I'll give in."

A week later Jim stood before the rail in the familiar New York headquarters, and heard himself sent down for trial. There were many charges against him. He could not expect less than thirty years. Presently those massive iron doors would clang behind him, and the world would forget him forever. Well, Alice would be happy. She would think kindly of him. She would not know.

And under the captain's watchful care Alice never knew.

Hirobumi Ito is called the Grand Old Man of Japan. He is described as being to Japan what Peter the Great was to Russia. In the diplomatic history of Japan he is what Richelieu was to the France of Louis XIII.

Mrs. Samuel Smartwood who died in Pennsylvania recently, at the age of 47, was the mother of twenty-five children. She married at 14, and her first child was born soon after she was 15. There were but two sets of twins.

WOMAN IN POLITICS.

RECENT FIGHT AGAINST BOSSES DEVELOPS HER AS A STRONG FACTOR.

Campaign of Good Government Calls Out Enthusiastic Aid of Feminine Sex.

"The man can do it but will not; the woman would do it but may not. We are bound hand and foot, but fortunately our tongues are not tied," said Mrs. G. A. Knollenberg, of Richmond, Indiana. A bitter fight was on for the election of Mayor of that city. The present incumbent, whose private and public life is obnoxious to the better element of the town, was up for re-election. For eight years the political machine had backed the Mayor, a mere tool in the hands of unscrupulous leaders. The forces of good government seemed on the very verge of defeat, when the women arose in their might, twelve hundred strong, demanding that their little city be controlled by men of clean character—that good instead of evil, honesty instead of graft, decency instead of indecency, be the watchwords.

They held a great mass meeting and made stirring speeches. It was not a question of politics; it was the moral sentiment of the community speaking through its wives and mothers. And it was effective. The Mayor went down to defeat. Said a leading paper:

"The women of Richmond made the result possible. The tide began to turn when the women met and in behalf of womanhood and the sanctity of the home protested against the continuance of the present regime. It was not until then that the real import of the fight was felt."

Hot Stuff in New York.

Not only in this Indiana town, but in larger centers, the women were active in the campaigns. In New York their earnest work on behalf of Jerome, reform candidate for re-election as District Attorney, has called out the admiration of even that opponent of woman's activity in municipal affairs, the Boston Herald, which says editorially:

> Bless the women! How they are working for Jerome and against the bosses, with their automobiles following up public meetings and street parades distributing bushels of Jerome literature; their armies of picked newsboys dealing out hot stuff at the subway and elevated stations during the rush hours; their night processions of autos with stereopticons throwing upon big sheets the split ticket to teach the masses how to use it; their volunteer bands of watchers upon lodging houses and tenements to prevent the colonization of floaters! Bless the women municipal leaguers and clubbers and sweet Rainy Daisies! They are givin the men folks very practical lessons in electioneering, and demonstrating their capacity and genius for systematic and effective political work which must rejoice Justice Brewer and confound Grover Cleveland

In Graft-Ridden Philadelphia.

But the women of Philadelphia were equally active. Their aid was solicited by the city party in the great work of reform, to secure for the citizens an honest, decent administration, and a physically clean city. And right well they did their work. In nearly every one of the forty-two wards they assembled in enthusiastic crowds, and listened to addresses from prominent women speakers, including Mrs. Rudolf Blankenburg, Mrs. Owen Wister (wife of the author of "The Virginian"), and Miss Jennings, sister-in-law of Mayor Weaver. In the Toledo Morning Times appeared the following trenchant comment on this feature of the Quaker City campaign:

> In quiet, staid, precedent-loving Philadelphia, the women are in politics up to their elbows.
>
> They are so aroused in the battle against political corruption and graft that they are willing to stand shoulder to shoulder with the men and fight.
>
> Precedent may go hang!
>
> It is a grand good thing to see them come out of their moss-grown "sheltered" life, and put their shoulders to the wheel in aiding the accomplishment of the downfall of the public evils that have been made apparent in their city.
>
> It required nerve for the first woman to act. Formerly people didn't admire nerve in a woman. They do now.
>
> The old manner of sitting back and waiting to be "protected" is gradually disappearing—possibly because there were not enough protectors to go around; possibly because they didn't want the job.
>
> In every city a halt has been called on the ancient way wherein the woman's head grew frantic over its dull routine, her brain rusted from disuse, and her mentality shrunk from the compression of the "sheltered life."
>
> Now, she breathes comparatively untrammeled, the atmosphere of the whole world, and rejoices in the use of all that is in her. Her pent-up activities have leaped the barrier, and she is, first of all, a human, with humanity's interests at heart.
>
> The women may prove a power for good in graft-ridden Philadelphia.

Whether or not this activity of woman in municipal affairs is welcomed, the practical efficiency of her efforts in the recent fight against the bosses cannot be denied.

Massachusetts Milliners Warned

The crusade against the killing of song birds for millinery purposes has been waged for years, yet the vanity of women in this matter of personal adornment has proven invulnerable against diatribes of reformers, ridicule of men, and the pleadings of the humanitarian. Each fall the hats of the feminine sex have been adorned by the plumage of some of our most beautiful songsters. In Massachusetts, moral suasion having failed, the legislature has enacted a law providing a penalty for "the use of plumage of song or insectivorous birds in the making of picture hats or other head adornments of women." Notice has been sent to the milliners of Boston and throughout the commonwealth by the State Game Commission. It is announced that the State laws covering "possession or wearing for purpose of dress or blandishment the body, skin, feathers, or parts thereof of insectivorous and wild birds whether taken in this commonwealth or elsewhere, will be vigorously enforced. Persons having prohibited birds and feathers in their possession, whether wearers or dealers, are liable to arrest."

We Are the Greatest Letter Writers.

The United States sent out in 1904, four thousand one hundred and nine million letters, about as many as all from Great Britain and Germany combined. France sent 844 million and no other country reached 800 million.

The Germans lead in postal cards, 1,161 millions against 770 millions for the United States.

FREE!

LADIES THIS

Handsome Fur Scarf

GIVEN AWAY

Send us your name and address and we will send you free and post-paid 24 pieces of our jewelry novelties to sell at 10 cents each. Everybody you show them to will buy them of you. When sold send us the $2.40 and we will at once send you this

Handsome Fur Scarf

It is nearly 48 inches long, made from black Lynx fur, has six full, bushy tails, very latest style, and we know you will be more than pleased with it. When you receive it we know you will say it is the most elegant and thoroughly good fur you have ever seen. Nothing similar to this scarf has ever before been offered as a premium; it will give years of satisfactory wear. It gives a stylish, dressy effect to the wearer's appearance. The only reason we can offer them is we had a large number of them made up for us by one of the large furriers during the summer when trade was quiet; this is the only reason we are able to offer such an expensive premium. We hope you will take advantage of our offer without delay. This is an extraordinary offer and cannot be duplicated by any other reliable concern. We trust you with our jewelry until sold. It costs you nothing to get this fur. Address,

COLUMBIA NOVELTY CO.,
Dept. 655, East Boston, Mass.

The National Anthem.

Army regulations have been amended so as to prescribe honor for the United States colors as follows:

"Whenever 'The Star Spangled Banner' is played by the band on a formal occasion at a military station, or at any place where persons belonging to the military service are present in their official capacity, all officers and enlisted men present will stand at attention, and if not in ranks will render the prescribed salute, the position of the salute being continued until the last note of 'The Star Spangled Banner.' The same respect will be observed toward the national air of any other country when it is played as a compliment to official representatives of such country. Whenever 'The Star Spangled Banner' is played as contemplated by this paragraph, the air will be played through once without the repetition of any part, except such repetition as is called for by the musical score.

"At every military post or station the flag will be hoisted at the sounding of the first note of the reveille, or of the first note of the march, if a march be played before the reveille. The flag will be lowered at the sounding of the last note of the retreat, and while the flag is being lowered the band will play 'The Star Spangled Banner,' or, if there be no band present, the field music will sound 'To the Color.' When 'To the Color' is sounded by the field music while the flag is being lowered the same respect will be observed as when 'The Star Spangled Banner' is played by the band. The national flag shall be displayed at a sea coast or lake fort at the commencement of an action and during a battle in which the fort may be engaged, whether by day or at night."

A medical note states that a negro in a hospital, on the promise of free treatment and attendance, readily submitted to the application of a new anaesthetic which a local physician had discovered. The negro died in about a minute before the operation began, which was then discontinued. After a consultation, the physicians in attendance unanimously agreed that the patient would have died under the influence of any other anaesthetic, to say nothing of the cutting up; all of which would doubtless be a comfort to the victim if the news could be conveyed to him.

Prentice said the poetry which a handsome girl appreciates best is written with a moustache on her lips.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS

Men's Suspenders
Arm Bands, Ladies' Garters
with the unique new fad

PHOTO LOCKET BUCKLE

PATENTED JAN. 19, 1904.

Particularly appropriate novelties in which photographs can be inserted.

AN INEXPENSIVE GIFT, COSTING ONLY ONE DOLLAR EACH.

The photo locket buckles are extra heavy gold and silver plated, on which you can engrave initials or monograms. The web is best quality silk, in fascinating shades of light blue, white, and black, and they are packed in attractive single pair boxes.

HANDSOME, DEPENDABLE, USEFUL.

Sold everywhere, or mailed for $1.00 and 10 cents postage.

State kind and color desired. If engraved, 25 cents per pair extra, with not more than three letters on a buckle. Photos reproduced, 25c. per set of two, to fit buckle.

HEWES & POTTER
Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the World.
Dept. 84, 87 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.

Our suspender booklet, showing many styles adapted for every purpose, and giving valuable information about correct dress, will be sent FREE ON REQUEST.

rlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

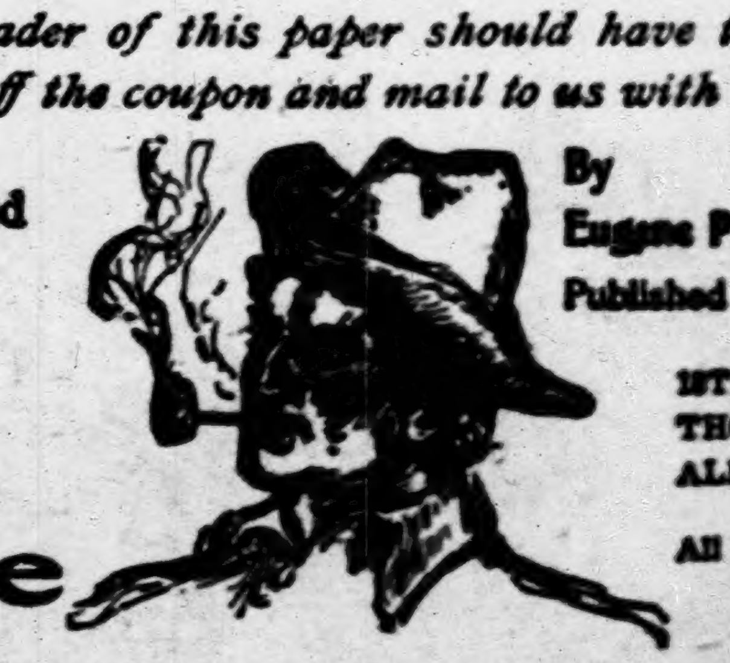
PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.



Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

18TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores. $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF, SIGN AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
[illegible]

FREAKS IN FOOD CONSUMPTION.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

Consumers the world over, and not alone in the United States, as has often been asserted by magazine writers, are very fastidious in their selection of articles of diet. Peculiar as it may seem, this selection is not made with the idea of procuring something which will please the palate or which is nutritious, but more with regard to the effect upon the eye of the object sought. Sometimes, too, there is a hide-bound conception of how a certain food should be and nothing can break the public of this fancy. The Department of Agriculture, a year or so ago, found that the English people would not purchase a consignment of American sweet potatoes, the sole complaint being, that while the tubers were of good color and satisfactory in every other respect, they were sweet in taste. The English conception of how a potato ought to taste was certainly a compliment to Irishm n.

Butter, an article of food supposed to be purchased for food reasons alone, depends largely upon its flavor and perhaps, still more upon its color as to its quality when it comes to purchase. With the fine fruit produced by horticulturists through modern means we find that attention has been paid more to the color and shape of the product even than to its quality. The most productive of blackberries, while large and beautiful, are, if anything, inferior in flavor to the wild ones found along the roadside. Red apples are the leading favorites of this sort of fruit. An instance of this is the Ben Davis, one of the best sellers and certainly the poorest eater

Artificially Colored Meats

Meat dealers have found that corn beef, cured ham and some salt meats find a much more ready sale where, in the process of curing, some saltpeter has been added to impart a bright red color. Sausages and other forms of minced meat are frequently colored by analine dyes, as are also the wrappers of some sausage and ham. These obtain more ready sale in competition with uncolored goods. Porterhouse steak, the most expensive cut of beef is in high favor, whereas beef coming from the neck, equally as nutritious and as palatable, it is stated, if suitably prepared, sells at a much lower price.

At this time of the year the high liver who goes to the swell hotels and restaurants and has a particular kind of game served him because it has a peculiar "gamey" flavor and tenderness, may not realize that such game has, by order of the steward, been retained in storage until it has become in reality partially decomposed. Its odor, if smelt before cooking, would prevent many people from eating it. Others do not know that when they boast about the "fine lamb" they are getting, the butcher is serving them with kid meat instead. Our people hold in high favor certain products with particular names attached to them. For instance, the amount of "Canada" lamb sold here is enormous. This word has the same magic effect upon lamb prices that the word "Philadelphia" has upon spring poultry or that of "Long Island" upon fresh eggs. The housewife, too, in many parts of the country has a strong preference for yellow-skinned chickens under the assumption that fat lies beneath the skin, although as a matter of fact chickens store very little fat next to the skin and the color is inherent—not derived from the fat. On the contrary, in some European countries there is a preference for the darker-skinned chickens. A curious preference, entirely unassociated with tastes, is the color of eggs. While in Boston brown eggs sell for a cent or two per dozen more than white eggs, the contrary is true in New York, and if one or two dirty eggs are visible the price is still lower. It is said that Chicago is indiscriminating in regard to the color of eggs, but that San Francisco prefers white ones.

Eggs Colored With Coffee.

In England, where brown eggs are the favorite, dealers go so far as to color the shells of white eggs with either strong coffee or some dye stuff. New York likes a white butter but Chicago and Philadelphia a little darker, while Washington demands a deep yellow butter, and New Orleans wants a color still darker than Washington. How far this question of color goes may be taken from a little instance in which a car-load of butter intended for Washington was sent on to New York, and the butter originally consigned to New York was sent to Washington. The receivers in both places remonstrated strongly, the one claiming the butter to be too dark and the other too light, and that no customer could be found for either. The matter was adjusted only through the reshipment of the consignments to the proper places.

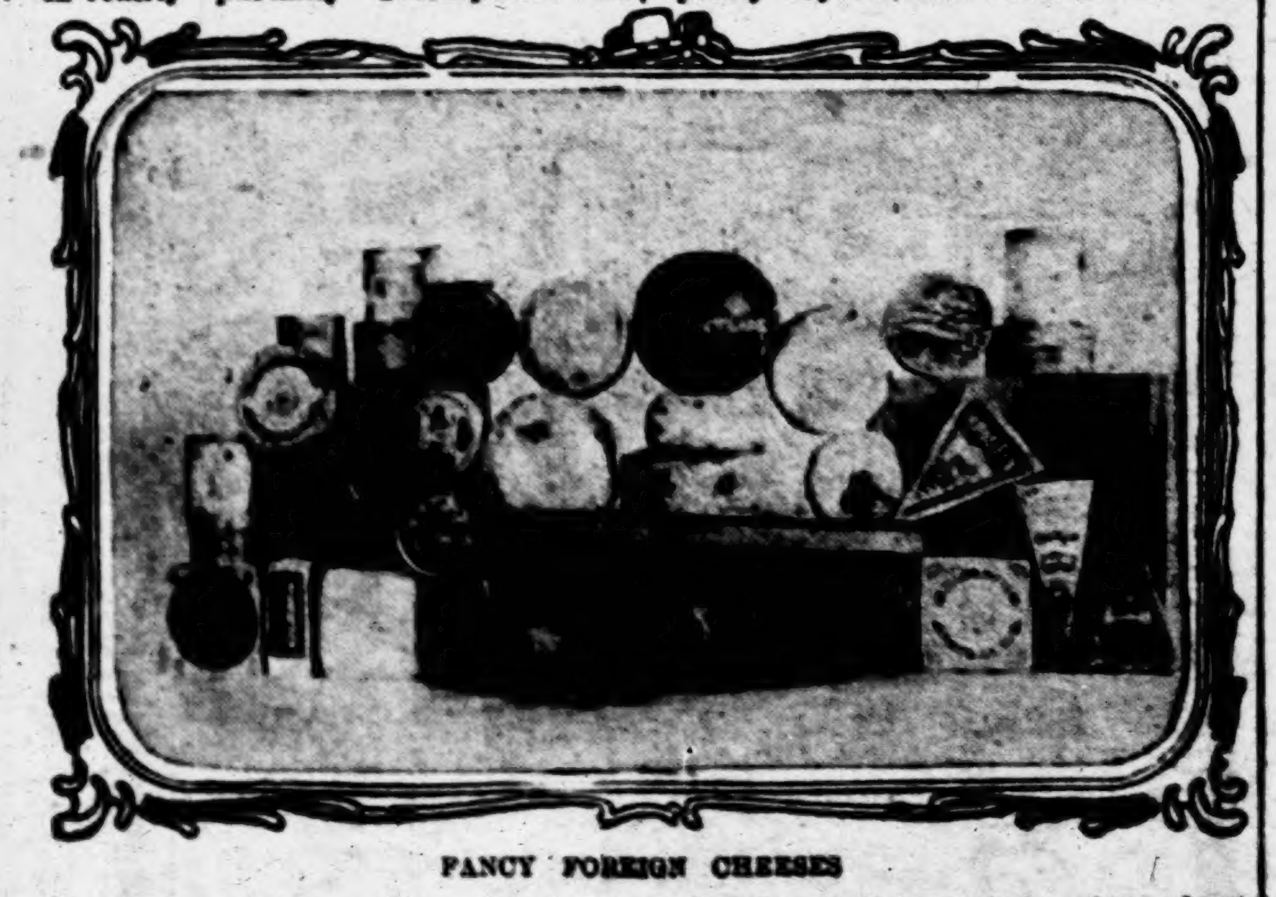
Consumers, of course, are appealed to in the selection of some foods through the quantity of advertising given to a particular product. Instances of this are found among the enormous sale of breakfast and health foods that are so widely advertised in newspaper and magazine. Years ago oat meal was sold only by druggists and kept by them merely for the sick; indeed there was long a prejudice in England against oatmeal as food for human beings, although in Scotland it was the staple food. Even in our bread the consumer usually insists upon the pure snow-white bread that is robbed of the most nutritious element constituting the wheat grain.

Bleached-Out Oysters.

Your elders now are complaining that they cannot get oysters with the same flavor as they used to years ago. Instead they seem to get a white tasteless bivalve. It is only made palatable through a drenching with vinegar, horseradish or some other seasoning. The reason for this is that while the oyster of to-day is the same as that of years ago, the dealer, in order to meet the consumer's desire for a "pretty" oyster, has allowed the bivalve in shell to remain for about twenty-four hours in fresh water before opening it, thus causing the white appearance.

And so the gratification of taste in these modern days is of minor consideration; the city-bred people want something that appeals to the eye, and the dealer appreciates that in order to catch the fancy of a customer it is more important to place a product in a showy and convenient package, than it is to furnish a wholesome or well-flavored food.

OYSTER BLEACHING IN FRESH WATER AND FANCY CONDENSED MILK CANS



FANCY FOREIGN CHEESES

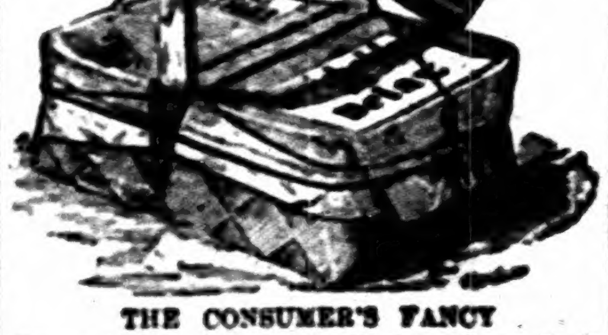
Hodgins' automobile ran away with his mother-in-law and scared her so that she's been speechless ever since. Hodgins considers the investment a good one.

Ploughing as a Great Sport.

In the Minnesota Agricultural College they are applying the lesson that Mark Twain's hero, Tom Sawyer, had impressed upon himself on that Saturday morning when his aunt set him at work whitewashing the fence—that is, that what one must do is work, and that play may be turned into work or work into play. At the college a ploughing contest was recently held, and it has been decided to make such contests a permanent part of the field day sports.

In reporting the success of the competition in which the first prize, a sulky plow, was won by a freshman in the school and the third prize by a senior, the Pioneer Press of St. Paul, advanced the theory that if, all the energy now expended in foot ball and other school and college sports were directed toward turning the soil with plows, there would scarcely remain space for cities to flourish on unploughed land.

It appears that the ploughing contest was introduced this year as a new feature of the field day sports. Preliminaries were held and the best plowers in the school were selected. Each contestant was given a strong team and a plow. He was required to lay out a "land" about twenty feet wide and finish his "land." The contestants were allowed to use stakes in laying out their "land." In judging, the straightness, width, depth and evenness of the furrow, the evenness of the land and the manner in which the weeds were turned under, were all considered.



THE CONSUMER'S FANCY

Warrants the Shipper in Packing Extra Fruit in Expensive Baskets

A HARDY ORANGE.

Crossing the Florida Variety on the Sturdy Japanese Species.

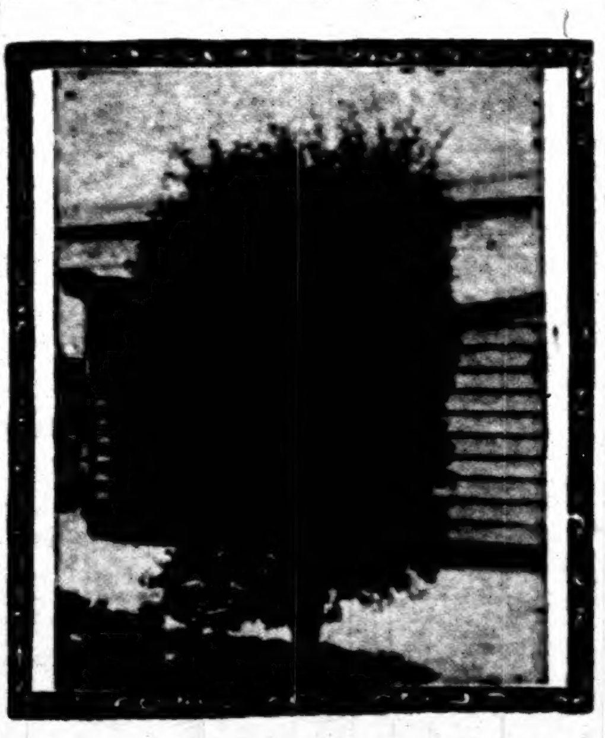
Botanists in the employ of the United States Department of Agriculture hope to bring into being an orange tree which will be as sturdy as the apple tree; an orange tree that will not perish in the chill of northern winter, which in December will bear its wreaths of snow and in May its garlands of bloom, and which when summer comes will yield fruit as good as that sweetened and gilded in the south sun. This may seem to be an unnatural proposition but it only seems. No violence upon the laws of Nature has been or will be attempted. It is simply an effort to make the citrus tree from which is obtained the sweet table orange, as hardy and insensitive to cold as the orange tree from which is obtained the bitter unedible orange. By crossing a citrus tree which grows in the north and which bears an unedible fruit with the citrus tree of the south it is sought to beget a plant in which will be combined the good traits of each.

Government botanists are confident that the result of this citrus marriage will be a scion that will grow and fruit at a latitude midway between the northern limits of the sweet orange and the northern limits of the line of growth of the unedible orange. If this should be there might be orange groves in central Virginia, middle Kentucky, southern Indiana, southern Illinois, central Missouri and central Kansas. Think of orange gardens around the home in Norfolk, Richmond, Lynchburg, Lexington, Louisville, Cairo and perhaps in Cincinnati, St. Louis, Jefferson City and Kansas City.

The means chosen to create the new orange may be described by either of the words, hybridisation or pollenation. That form of citrus which grows farthest north is a Japanese shrub, citrus trifoliata. It may be seen in the United States as far north as Massachusetts. Its use is only ornamental. Its fruit under favoring conditions attains the size of a wild persimmon and is globular, tawney and bitter. In Japan, its home, the fruit is converted into a conserve. Three trees of the citrus trifoliata grow in the grounds of the Department of Agriculture. Each of them is about eighteen feet tall.

In the Spring when these trees are in flower a botanist watches till the gum exudes from the stigma. This sign tells him that the ovary of the flower is ripening for the reception of the pollen and the conception of the fruit. Straightway he clips the stamens—those delicate filaments, fine as hairs, which extend themselves from the heart of the flower. He clips them because at their end hang tiny pods—the anthers—in which the pollen, or the germinal dust, is held. Going to the orangery of the department he gathers the bursting anthers of the sweet oranges and sprinkles the sweet orange pollen on the stigma of the bitter orange.

The pollenation of these trees has been made for about ten seasons and each year the fruit of the little bitter orange has improved till this season the oranges will be fairly good table fruit.



EXPERIMENTAL ORANGE TREE.

Department of Agriculture.

An Adopted English Knight.

An Englishman who visited New York City a short time ago had occasion to ask an Irishman the direction of a certain business house. This son of Erin happened to be going that way, and offered to guide his inquired to the place. As they walked along, Pat, to be friendly, asked:

"And who might ye be?"

The Britisher drew himself up with dignity and replied:

"I am the Honorable John Kenneth Edgerton of London, Knight of the Garter, Knight of the Bath, Knight of St. John, Knight of the Golden Fleece, Knight of the Royal Legion and of the Iron Cross. And whom have I the honor of addressing?"

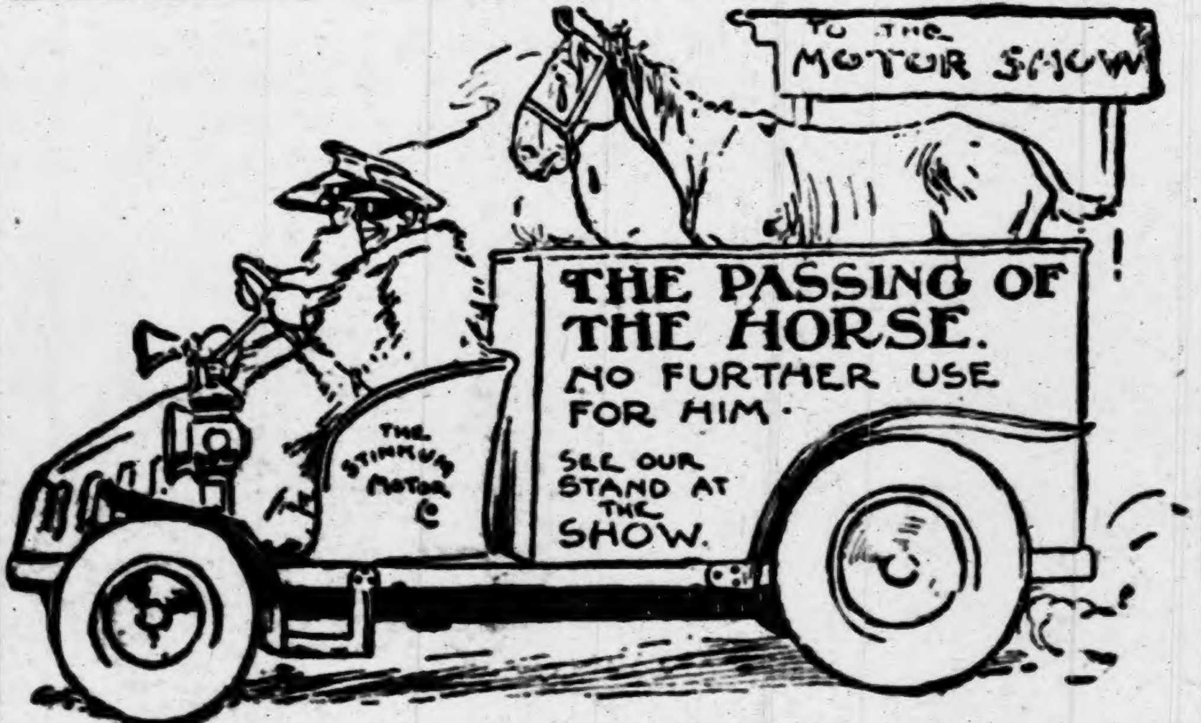
Pat, for a single instant was bewildered with this long list, but quick as a wink, he threw forward his chest, and responded pompously:

"Oi am Pathrick Timothy Flannigan of Hoboken, to-noight, lahst noight, noight befoor lahst, noight befoor thaht, to-morrow noight, the noight following and ivvery other bloody noight of the wake, including Sunday noight, be gorra!"

* * *

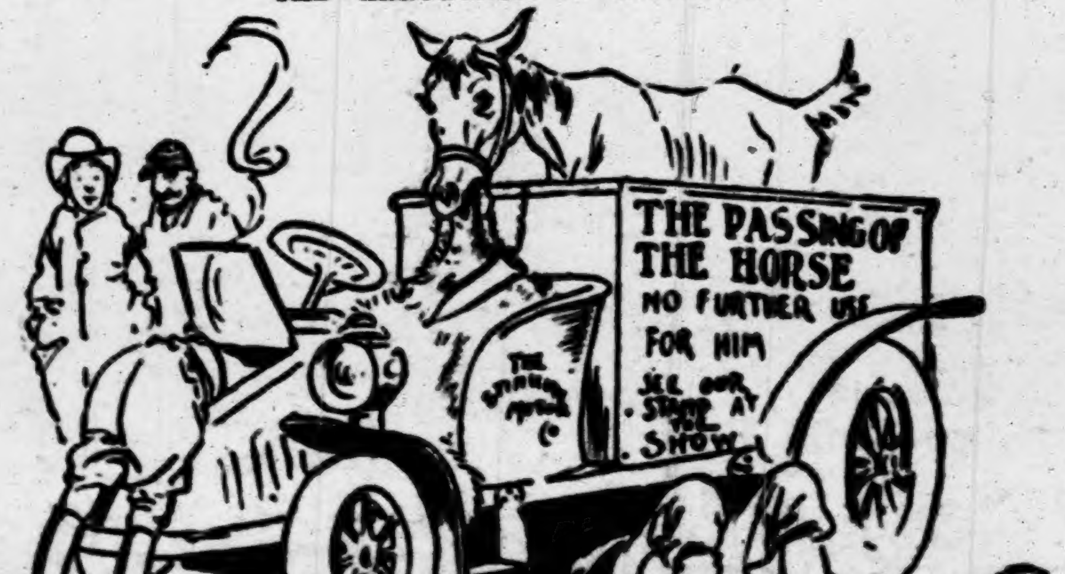
Senator Beveridge's book, "The Russian Advance," is still on sale—stale on sill.

It is understood that the Kentucky crops promise an unusual large output of pure Cuban tobacco this year.



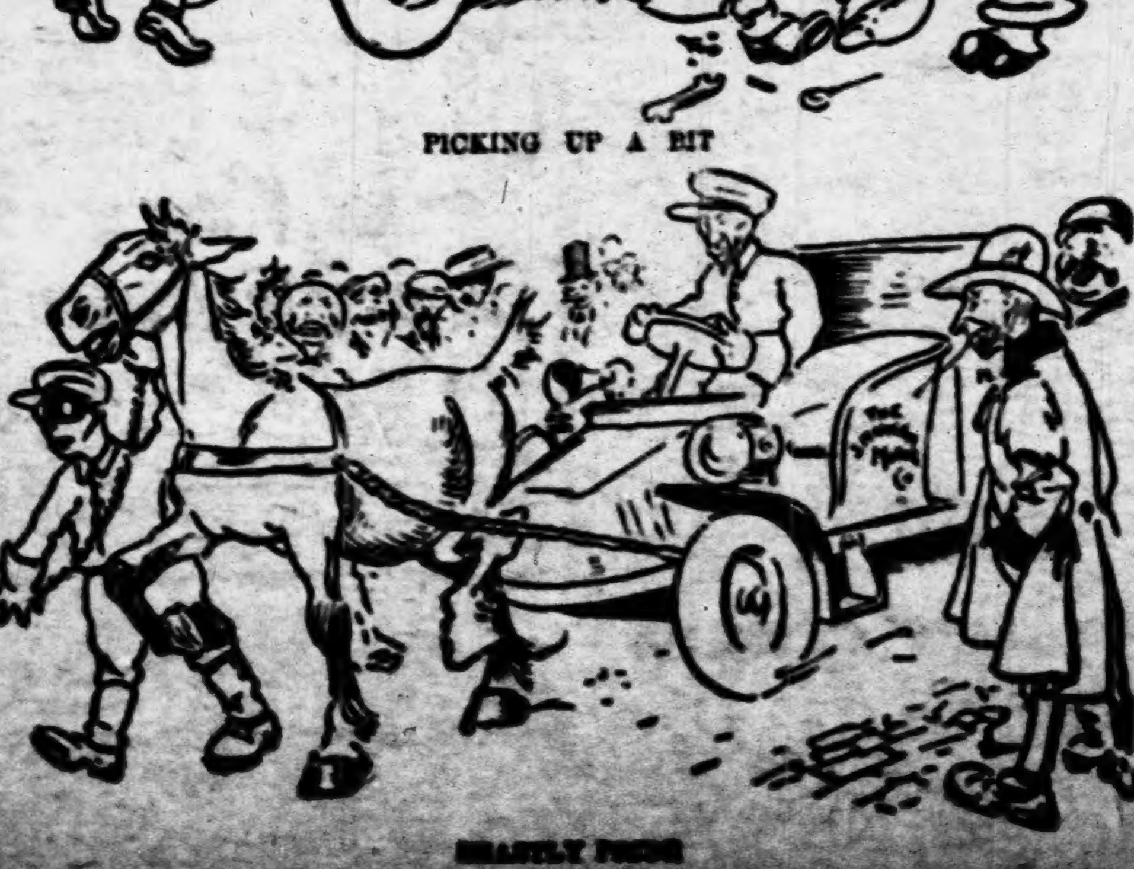
TO THE MOTOR SHOW
THE PASSING OF THE HORSE. NO FURTHER USE FOR HIM. SEE OUR STAND AT THE SHOW.
THE STINKUM MOTOR C°

THE ARROGANCE OF INVENTION



THE PASSING OF THE HORSE NO FURTHER USE FOR HIM SEE OUR STAND AT THE SHOW
THE STINKUM MOTOR C°

PICKING UP A BIT



NEARLY FREED

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY

NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED THE GEER SAFETY REIN PAT. APPLIED FOR

LIES DOWN AND BUCKLES TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE

You Can Do It EVERY TIME With A GEER SAFETY REIN

PRICE, COMPLETE, $[illegible] Expressage Prepaid

No more Smash-ups No more Lives Lost: Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle

WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.

Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to

THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
47 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK.

Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded

Suburban Co-Operation.

In Kensington, Maryland, one of Washington's suburbs, there is a group of pretty little cottages inhabited mostly by government office-holders. There is no municipal gaslighting or water supply system, and to offset the benefit of the health and pleasures derived from living near to nature, there is some discomfort to those who are used to these city luxuries. One householder, of an inventive turn of mind, however, has seemed to solve the problem for himself and neighbors. The party who lived next door to him owned a gasoline engine, but he had no deep well from which to obtain a supply of pure water—the government employe had. A deal was fixed up between them by which the inventive genius was to set up and install the engine and connect it with his pump, so by a system of piping, water could be had by both parties without the necessity of hand pumping or a windmill.

This system of water supply has worked well—so well indeed that the piping has been laid to a couple of neighbors even more distant, and the well, being of ample capacity, now supplies half a dozen families with water. It is understood that plans are now being perfected by which the gasoline engine will be called to do double duty. In the daytime it will fill the water tanks, while at night it will be connected to an electric generator, and thus furnish current for lighting the immediate neighborhood. The example set by this resident of Kensington could be followed by co-operation between residents of many rural settlements. Co-operative telephones are now a success and co-operative sewer, water and electric systems should prove equally valuable and successful.

* * *

"Tell me honestly, dearie, how could these doughnuts be improved?"

"By making the holes a little larger."

How to Make a Home for Ten Cents a Year

COOKING
SEWING ENTERTAINING
MUSIC
HEALTH

and how to build a house to do it in

MAXWELL'S HOMEMAKER MAGAZINE

The most original, practical and entertaining illustrated monthly magazine ever published

SUBSCRIBE FOR IT
NOW
One Whole Year for
TEN CENTS

Send a Dime or five two cent stamps with your name and post office addres carefully and plainly written to

Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine
1405 Fisher Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO

HAY PRES

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes Self-feed Attachment increases acity, lessens labor, makes better and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drill either deep or shallow wells in any of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels sills. With engines or horse power Strong, simple and durable. Any chanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a cleanser for automobile machinery and vehicles; will not injure the most polished surface. Made from pure vege oils. If your dealer does not carry Amer Crown Soap in stock, send us his name address and we will see that your wa supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Compa
CHICAGO, ILL.

EXCAVATION WOR
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grad
and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Gleanings in Bee Cultu

teaches you about bees, how to handle them honey and profit. Send for free copy. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 mo trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.

I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court, [illegible] Monday in February first Monday in [illegible] first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in June [illegible] Monday in August and first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day [illegible]

[illegible] same day [illegible]

No. Bales received to date	1906	1905
Pickard & [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
W. I. Murphee	[illegible]	[illegible]
W. Kanter & B[illegible]	[illegible]
J. C. Jones	[illegible]	[illegible]
Cannon & Sons	[illegible]
Other Firms		[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

The above figures [illegible] several [illegible] Wednesday evening. [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] heartily appreciate the kindness and help rendered them [illegible] Thursday afternoon when their home was burned.

Mrs. P. C. Smith and Mrs. Annie Lane of Thorsby were pleasant visitors here Wednesday.

Mrs. and Miss Lowery of Jemison were visitors here Wednesday.

Mr. W. A. Reynolds and Miss Mattie Wear of Jemison visited Clanton Sunday.

Mrs. E. A. Matthews returned Saturday from Birmingham where she had been visiting for several days.

Don't fail to go and see Miss Minnie Muse's fall millinery, she selling hats cheaper than ever.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Mrs. Horace Smith spent several days this week visiting relatives at Mulberry.

Dr. E. A. Matthews spent Monday and Tuesday in Montgomery.

Mr. T. W. Wallace and Miss Nora of Shoults were visitors here this week.

Mr. D. H. Mitchell of Stanton was in town Tuesday.

Capt. Jack Upchurch and son J. E. Upchurch, of Pickens county visited their son and brother, Mr. E. Upchurch, the past week.

Mr. H. H. Armstrong of Jemison was a visitor Tuesday.

Mr. Glaucus Evan and wife of Mobile are visiting relatives here.

Mr. J. D. Elam of Maplesville gave us a pleasant call Wednesday.

A nice line of Jewelry on display at Upchurch Drug Store.

Mr. J. H. Groom of Maplesville was in town Tuesday.

Mr. C. Hall of Shoults was one of our pleasant callers Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Foshee Jr. of Maplesville was in town Wednesday.

Mr. H. W. Gipson of Maplesville was a pleasant caller last Thursday.

Mr. L. A. Calloway of Cooper was in town Friday.

Mr. W. C. Dyer of Stanton was one of our welcome visitors Friday.

Mr. J. W. Letcher of Ridersville was in town Friday.

Clear thinking, decisive action, [illegible] and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Upchurch Drug co.

Mrs. B. H. Chesnutt of Birmingham visited her mother, Mrs. A. E. [illegible]ans, this week.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection the best.

When you want a pleasant laxative take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A[illegible], Thorsby.

Santa Claus has begun to arrive at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. J. W. Jones and Miss Vena Pyron; Mr. Marshall Johnson and Miss Delia Coleman; Mr. S. Calloway and Miss Lula C. Aldridge; Mr. Amos L. Glasscock and Miss Lillie F. Matthews; Mr. [illegible] Bice and Miss Lula Billings; Mr. C. H. Yarn and Miss Evie D. Jeffcoat.

Colored. Prim McGill and [illegible]ma Downs; Henry Young and [illegible]ie Fike; A. W. Reid and Ber[illegible] Davis; York Hatcher and Mary [illegible]tin.

Croup, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc., have no terrors for children or adults who evacuate the bowels with Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy expels all cold from the system and strengthens the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. The Original Laxative Cough Syrup and Liquid Cold [illegible]. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

R RUNAWAY

You Can Do it EVERY TIME With A
OHER SAFETY REIN
PRICE, COMPLETE, $5.00
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups; No more Lives Lost; Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle.
...IVING REINS.
...ular, free on application, to
...UFACTURING CO.,
...LACE, NEW YORK.
...any Horse or Money Refunded.

Sandwic

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HOR

HAY PRES

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to ... tons a day. Has 40 inch feed ... Adapted to bank barn work. Stand... to its work—no digging holes for wh... Self-feed Attachment increases ... acity, lessens labor, makes better b... and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

Well Drilling
Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drill... either deep or shallow wells in any k... of soil or rock. Mounted on wheel... sills. With engines or horse pow... Strong, simple and durable. Any ... chanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

...'s a green soap, consistency of paste, a p... cleanser for automobile machinery an... vehicles; will not injure the most h... polished surface. Made from pure veg... oils. If your dealer does not carry Amer... Crown Soap in stock, send us his nam... address and we will see that your want... supplied. Put up in 10¼ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Compa
CHICAGO, ILL.

EXCAVATION WOR
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grad
and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

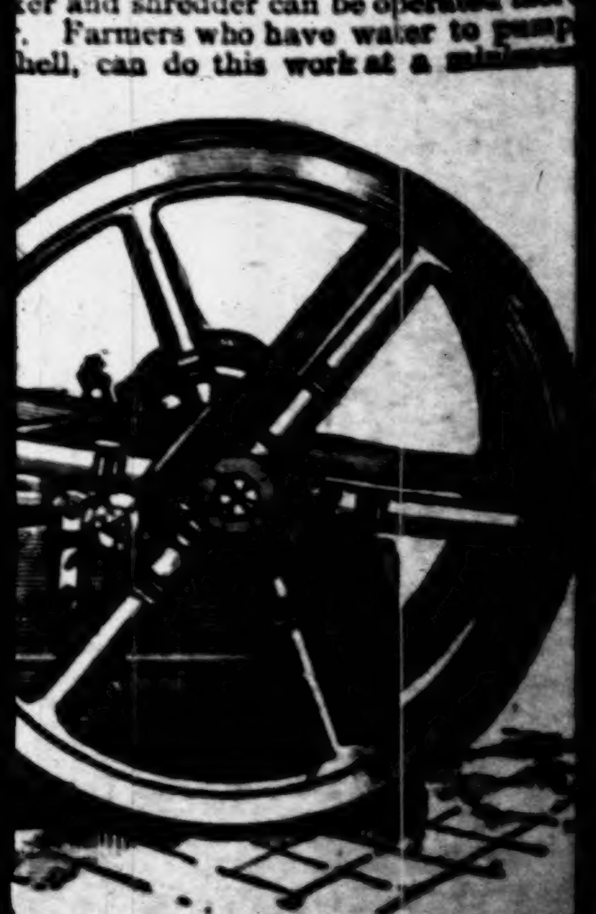
Gleanings in Bee Cultu

teaches you about bees, how to handle them... honey and profit. Send for free copy. Re... Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 mo... trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio

Harvester Co.
ENGINES

...soline engine, the farm, the dairy, th... ...ker and shredder can be operated mor... Farmers who have water to pump... ...hell, can do this work at a minimum...



...ONTAL ENGINE
...in the following sizes: ... and ... and 15 H. P., horizontal type, ...izontal type, portable. ...
... ENGINE BOOKLET.
...ster Co. of America
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

...mmissioners' Court meets ... ...sday in February first Monday in ... first Monday in ... second ...day in July second Monday in Au... ... first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

...to day .... 11¼ @ 11½
...same date last year 7¼c

...Bales received to date	1905	1904
...ckard & Co.	2912	2996
...I Mullins	1869	2077
...Kuster & Bro	460	..
...C Jones	1166	826
...anon & Sons	320	..
...her Firms		510
Total	6797	6404

The above figures are obtained from ...several cotton buyers Wednesday ...ning, five o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E M. Pinckard ...rtily appreciate the kindness ...d help rendered them on last ...hursday afternoon when their ...me was burned.

Mrs. P. C. Smith and Mrs. Annie ...ne of Thorsby were pleasant vis...rs here Wednesday.

Mrs. and Miss Lowery of Jemi...n were visitors here Wednesday.

Mr W. A. Reynolds and Miss ...ttie Wear of Jemison visited ...anton Sunday.

Mrs E. A. Matthews returned ...turday from Birmingham where ...e had been visiting for several ...ys.

Don't fail to go and see Miss ...innie Muse's fall millinery, she ...lling hats cheaper than ever.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Mrs. Horace Smith spent several ...ys this week visiting relatives ...Mulberry.

Dr E. A. Matthews spent Mon...y and Tuesday in Montgomery.

Mr. T. W. Wallace and Miss ...ora of Shoults were visitors here ...s week.

Mr. D. H. Mitchell of Stanton ...as in town Tuesday.

Capt. Jack Upchurch and son J. ... Upchurch, of Pickens coutny ...sited their son and brother, Mr. ... E. Upchurch, the past week.

Mr. H. H. Armstrong of Jemi...n was a visitor Tuesday.

Mr Glaucus Evan and wife of ...obile are visiting relatives here.

Mr. J. D. Elam of Maplesville ...ve us a pleasant call Wednesday.

A nice line of Jewelry on ...splay at Upchurch Drug ...ore.

Mr. J. H. Groom of Maplesville ...as in town Tuesday.

Mr. C. Hall of Shoults was one ...our pleasant callers Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Foshee Jr. of Maples...lle was in town Wednesday.

Mr. H. W. Gipson of Maples...lle was a pleasant caller last ...rsday.

Mr. L. A. Calloway of Cooper ...s in town Friday.

Mr. W. C. Dyer of Stanton was ...e of our welcome visitors Friday.

Mr. J. W. Letcher of Ridervil'e ...s in town Friday.

Clear thinking, decisive action, ...m and vigor of body and mind, ...e sparkle of life, comes to all who ...e Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, ...cents, Tea or Tablets, Upchurch ...ug co,

Mrs. B. H. Chesnutt of Birming...m visited her mother, Mrs. A. E... ...ans, this week.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection ...the best.

When you want a pleasant laxa...e take Chamberlain's Stomach ...d Liver Tablets, For sale by ...church Drug co, Clanton, A, ...n, Thorsby.

Santa Claus has begun to ...rive at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued ...week by the Probate Judge to ...following persons.

Mr. I. W. Jones and Miss Vena ...Pyron; Mr. Marshall Johnson ...d Miss Delia Coleman; Mr. S. ...Calloway and Miss Lula C. Al...dge; Mr. Amos L. Glasscock ...d Miss Lillie F. Matthews; Mr. ...I. Bice and Miss Lula Billings ...; Mr. C. H. Yarn and Miss Evie ...D. Jeffcoat.

Colored. Prim McGill and ...mma Downs; Henry Young and ...vie Fike; A. W. Reid and Ber... ...Davis; York Hatcher and Mary ...rtin.

Croup, Coughs, Colds, Whooping ...gh, etc., have no terrors for chil...n or adults who evacuate the ...els with Kennedy's Laxative ...ney and Tar. This remedy ex...s all cold from the system and ...ngthens the throat, lungs and ...chial tubes. The Original Lax...e Cough Syrup and Liquid Cold ...s. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled. Drop in and let us show you through. We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits are realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State College, in part, says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is rapidly diminishing, and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future." Consul General Rublee of Hong Kong says, in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here, and the demand is so great that much more coold be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indespensable to the four hundred million Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $6 00 to $8 50 per pound, while the cost of producing is less than $1.50. It is easy to grow and requires very little ground. An acre of matured Ginseng is worth $40,000. There is room in one's garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant thrives throughout the United States and Canada in any soil or climate that will grow garden vegetables. We sell roots and seeds for planting purposes and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. There are two planting seasons, spring and fall. With each order we give full instruction how to plant and care for the garden. You can get a good start in this business for a small outlay and soon have a nice income. Send two cent stamp today for literature telling all about this wonderful industry.

BUCKINGHAM'S GINSENG GARDEN
Growers and Exporters
ZANESVILLE - - - - - OHIO

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

Store will be closed Thursday, Nov. 30th, 1905, account "Thanksgiving."

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Draw Near Me, Lord.

Composed and recited at the thanksgiving exercise at Canaan Baptist church by Lucy I. Blalock.

Our Heavenly Father, draw near us tonight.
  While we try to sing anthems and praise thee aright
Fill our hearts with thanksgivings and hide not their face.
  Let thy spirit rest within us while here at this place.

Thou knowest, oh Father, the hearts that rely
  On Christ our redeemer, oh pass us not by.
We pray thee give us that infinite love
  That streams from thy fount in that city above.

We would ask thee to help us, and strength to us give
  To spread wide thy Gospel that the heathen may live.
And bask in the sunlight that flows from thy throne,
  Oh God, would thou help them thy cross to own.

Now across the blue waters of deep rolling seas,
  They are dwelling in ignorance, death and disease.
We ask thee to help us as onward we go
  In our march to rescue them from regions of woe.

And when thou shall call us from this mortal round,
  And our bodies of clay shall be laid in the ground,
Receive our spirits in heaven's bright dome
  Where we shall forever praise thee at home.

Remarkable Cure.

"I was much afflicted with sciatica," writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick, Co, Kan, going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me, I used three 50c bottles. It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons; all express themselves as being benefited by it, I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm," 25c, 50c and $1,00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE!

Dr. C. L. WOODFIN
THE BOTANIC SPECIALIST
will be in
CLANTON, ALA.
every Saturday for the purpose of treating
Cancer, Catarrh, Wens; Tumors; Goiters and Ulcers and all other Cutaneous Troubles.

If anyone should doubt my ability to cure the above diseases, I can furnish references here in Chilton county.

P. S. When in need of my services call on me or write me at Clanton, Ala. C. L. WOODFIN.

EYES
TESTED FREE

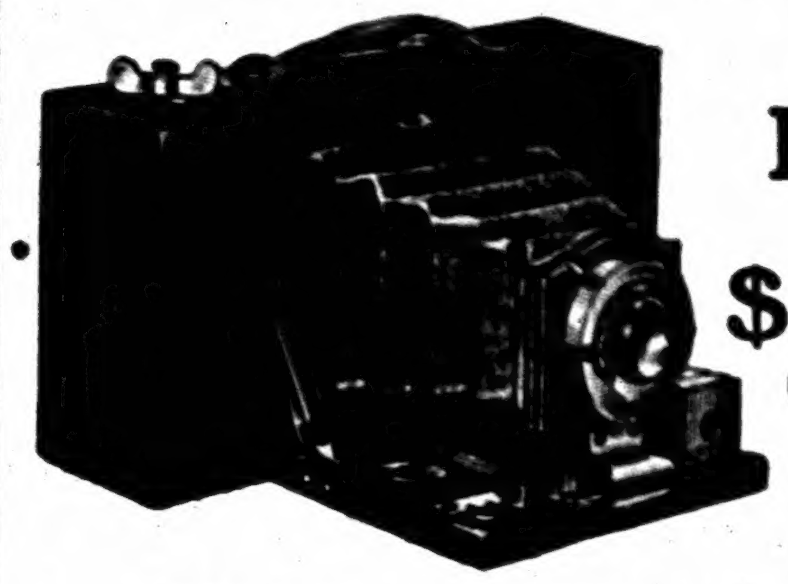
A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books on sale at The Banner office.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTO
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS
CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN
CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

Stay-at-Home Traveling

This Seeming Paradox is Now a Delightful Reality, Because of a Scientific Advancement as Wonderful in Its Way as the Telephone

TOUR OF THE WORLD .... IN YOUR EASY CHAIR

By ARTHUR BONSAL.

HAVE you dreamed of traveling? Have you longed to know what it would mean to stand in the places where the world's history has been made, to see for yourself the grandeur and beauty, the stupendous energy and the endlessly varied life not only in our own land but also in the distant countries of the world?

The progress of scientific invention now makes it possible for hundreds of thousands to realize this dream for themselves and for their children. Travel of the truest kind is within your reach, and yet without using either ship or railway or any of the ordinary bodily conveyances.

This statement is so extraordinary in its claims that probably no reader of these lines will believe it at first. Indeed no one could have been more sceptical about it than the writer was until he visited the New York establishment of Underwood & Underwood, the business organization which is responsible for this truly remarkable development of a great scientific invention, as wonderful in its way as the telephone.

The first few minutes of my visit were devoted to some interesting optical experiments.

I was handed a neutral tinted card on which steroscopic photographs of one scene were mounted in the manner with which many people are familiar, two prints on one card, side by side. They looked like duplicate prints from a single well-made negative.

In the photographs I saw represented a field with a cluster of houses beyond, and breaking surf on a distant sea-beach; it was down in Martinique. A couple of men stood talking in the field close by, and I could see some of the village houses in the space between their standing figures.

I was asked to examine this also through the stereoscope. It seemed to me hardly necessary, after the inspection I had already given the twin photographs; however, I put the card in the rack and placed my head against the hood of the instrument.

Here I was astonished again. I was no longer looking at a photograph—I was seeing out into actual space, into an actual place, and, moreover, this place was startlingly different from what I had supposed when I looked at the flat photograph without any instrument! Instead of looking from the side of a field, I found I was on a high bluff, dropping abruptly perhaps five hundred feet just beyond the two men. The houses that I had supposed to stand at the farther side of the field showed up as they really were, at least half a mile distant over at the other side of a ravine. I couldn't believe my eyes at first. Then I asked: "What causes this effect of being right there with open space all around?"

"In the few minutes we have, there would not be time to explain fully," was the answer, "but the possibility of these effects of reality depends first of all on the principle of two-eye seeing as distinguished from one-eye seeing. You must begin with this principle if you are to understand this travel system. Most people never stop to think why they have two eyes. If the question occurs to them at all, they probably fancy the second eye is merely a piece of reserve equipment—nature's provision against helplessness in case of accident to one organ of vision."

Then my informant went on to explain that a person with normal eyesight sees very differently from a person with only one eye. To demonstrate that statement, I was asked to make two or three personal experiments. First I held my right arm out straight in front of me, on a level with the shoulder, the hand open, the palm towards the left. Holding it in that position I looked at the hand with my right eye alone, keeping the left eye shut. I found I could see the edge of my hand and a part of the back of the hand. Next, keeping arm and hand in the same position, I closed the right eye and used only the left eye. That time I saw the edge of my hand and a bit of the palm, but I could not see around on the back of the hand as before. Last of all, I used both eyes together. Somewhat to my own surprise, I noticed that I could then see the edge of the hand, part of the palm, and also part of the back of the hand. Indeed, I found I actually saw part way around the hand.

The representative of the stereographers then explained that a binocular or stereoscopic camera differs from an ordinary camera as a two-eyed man differs from a cripple with only one eye. It has two lenses set side by side as far apart as a person's two eyes. One lens takes in exactly what would be seen by the right eye of a person standing in the camera's place. The other lens takes in what would be seen by the observer's left eye. Prints made from the two negatives are, of course, almost alike and yet never precisely alike. Their mounting on the stereograph card is a process requiring exact, expert workmanship. When the stereograph is set in place in the stereoscope, the right eye sees what it would see on the spot and the left eyee sees what it would see on the spot. The result is analagous to that of looking with both eyes at your outstretched hand. You see part way around the near objects, and that makes them stand out real and solid just as they do in your ordinary, everyday experiences of seeing things in your accustomed surroundings. It gives to your eyes perfect depth, perfect solidity, perfect space.

"Thus you see," my informant continued, "the two small prints 3x3 inches in size and about six inches in front of the eyes in the stereoscope serve exactly as two windows through which we look and beyond which we see the object or place standing out as large as the original object or place would appear to the eyes of one standing where the camera stood. Remarkable as these statements may seem, when thoughtfully considered, still they are absolutely true, based on scientific facts which may be found explained in any reliable treatise on binocular vision."

I sat back and wondered. It seemed hard to realize that, in the stereoscope, I could see in their natural size parts of countries, cities and towns all over the earth.

"But," he went on, "we now come to a far more remarkable fact. Psychologists are saying that if we look at these life-size scenes in the right way, namely, if while looking we have some means of knowing definitely where on the earth's surface we are standing, in just what direction and over what territory we are looking, and if we take time to think of our surroundings there, then we can gain a distinct sense or experience of location in that place, or what they call genuine experiences of travel. Of course, you would not be likely to believe this at once, but reserve your judgment for a few minutes.

"To furnish the knowledge to make this possible a new map system has been devised and patented—an entirely new system."

Then he proceeded to show me a most ingenious map system of which I had never before heard. Like many another bright idea it is essentially so simple one wonders why it had not been devised before. He showed me several of the patent maps. All were in the first place excellent, clear maps of the ordinary sort, but a clever device of conspicuous red lines showed just where a person was to stand, in whatever vicinity it might be, in what direction he was to face and just how much territory in a town, a house interior or a stretch of open country he was to include in his outlook from that particular point.

"But what are educators saying about this?" I asked. "Much," was the reply. "Here is what a professor of psychology in New York University, Professor Lough, says:

"'The essential thing for us is not that we have the actual physical place or object before us, as a tourist does, rather than a picture, but that we have some at least of the same facts of consciousness, ideas and emotions, in the presence of the picture, that the tourist gains in the presence of the scene. This is entirely possible in the stereoscope.'

"But," he added, "we do not claim that even these experiences can be gotten unless the stereographs are used with certain helps and in the right spirit. (Speaking in a general way this means we must treat the place seen in the stereoscope as we would treat the place itself in actual travel).

"To supply this need books are being prepared by people of wide travel and broad culture to accompany the stereographed scenes of a city or country."

Then I was shown guide books by such men as Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, D. D., on Palestine; Dr. D. J. Ellison and Professor James C. Egbert, Jr., of Columbia University, on Italy; Professor James H. Breasted, of Chicago University, on Egypt; Professor James Ricalton, the veteran traveler, on China; George Kennan, the famous journalist and lecturer, on Martinique. In these books the authors or guides make their comments on the different places seen through the stereoscope in the same natural order that they would treat them during an actual journey. They point out the objects of interest in each place and give some of the history connected with it. Each strives to answer the very questions a newcomer would be likely to ask when on the ground. There are many ingenious and scientifically helpful methods worked out by these writers that I must leave unnoticed here.

"You see," concluded my informant, "this is no sleight of hand scheme or magical performance. This travel system is worked out in accordance with well established though not generally known laws of the mind. If the right methods are observed it is now being recognized that genuine experiences of travel may be gained in one's home."

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. C. R. McNALLY.

Subject: Spiritual Worship.

New York City.—Sunday morning, in the Sixth Avenue Baptist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Charles R. McNally, preached on the subject, "The Spirit God and Spiritual Worship." The text was from John iv:23-24: "The hour cometh and now is when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for the Father seeketh such to worship Him." "God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." Mr. McNally said:

These words might well lead into the byways of philosophy. That, however, is an enjoyment which we do not now intend to permit ourselves to indulge in. We might with profit point out from these words that the man of old did not think of himself just as man thinks of himself to-day. He was a unit, and thought of nothing outside of his immediate environment, and of that chiefly from the point of view of its relation to his bodily needs. His mind did not grasp the thought of the beyond or the hereafter. His dead companion was not thought of as being essentially different from that which he was in life. His horse, his tools, etc., were buried with him, with the belief that in some unseen but material paradise or hunting ground he would live as he had lived, needing and using the same things.

Man does not now so view himself. He no longer thinks of himself as a unit. He is divided. His body is one thing and his mind or soul is another. Man still views himself as body and spirit. Deep within the inners of his own nature he feels that while they are doubtless closely associated, his body is one thing and his soul quite another. This distinction did not appeal to the ancient. He knew nothing of it. His was the simple, unquestioning life of a child.

The religious impulse, however, has always been an integral part of human life, and has ever, in one form or another, sought to express itself. Crude though it may have been in its beginnings, the consciousness of God has never been absent from the human mind. When it first appears it seems to have been materialistic, or anthropomorphic in the grossest sense. Gradually there was the development of a tendency to look in upon himself and with this tendency man came into possession of the idea of an inner thought self. Thus mind, or soul, was distinguished from the external or material, and a conception of God became both a possibility and reality. The development of this distinction may be clearly traced in the Old Testament. For many centuries the materialistic was the dominant one, but alongside of it grew up a religion of the spirit. The former finds its highest expression in the ornate formal worship of Judaism. The religion of the law with all its material accompaniment was the effort of the human mind to grasp the thought of God in the terms of the material. Within Judaism there was the development of the religion of the spirit. The prophets were its messengers, but the people persistently turned away from them, and from their message.

The conversation of Jesus with the woman at the wellside is interesting and instructive in many ways. She was a woman and the strain of human nature was very marked in her life as is shown by the fact that when Jesus had her cornered and face to face with her sin she was like many who have followed her, anxious to divert the conversation from considerations of such a personal nature to a religious argument. Jesus using her own thought imparts to her the deepest lesson that has ever been uttered in the realm of religion. When the woman would have Him discuss the relative merits of formal Judaism, or formal Samaritanism, He turned upon her the full light of divine truth and declares what the world has all been too slow to learn, that Judaism and Samaritanism are nothing, but that the religion of the spirit alone is essential religion. God is spirit, and is not to be worshiped by men's hands, or any external form whatsoever. He is confined to no mountain top, no temple walls inclose Him. Immaterial and imperceptible to the senses, He fills all things with His being. He knows, feels, and wills. He seeks those to whom He has given a nature fashioned in His own image to be His worshipers. Only those who have learned to know Him as the Infinite Mind or Supreme Spirit can have fellowship with Him, and this because such worship alone corresponds with His nature.

It takes the world a long time to outgrow its materialism, and to grow into the thought of Christ. The path of history has led into deep valleys and over the mountain peaks. There have been times when it seemed that the race was about to move out into a more spiritual thought of God. Under the leadership of a Paul, an Augustine, a Calvin, a Luther or a Wesley, the dawn of a brighter day seemed at hand, but from these mountain peaks the pathway has invariably led down into the low vales of the material and sordidly earthly.

We have been, indeed, we now are, for the dawn of the brighter day has hardly appeared, in one of those materialistic swamps from which arise the miasma of sordidness, worldliness and sin. That this is peculiarly true of America is not without cause and explanation. Never in the history of the world has it been given to a nation to enter into the rich heritage that has been ours. The past hundred years has been a period of discovery and development. Discovery in that America and the world has become conscious of the almost inexhaustible wealth unfolded within the bosom of her lakes and rivers, her forests and her fields and her deep hidden mines. Wealth is the handmaid of comfort, of ease, of luxury and many other things, and these are sweet to the human heart. There has been a mad rush to lay hold upon these ready-to-hand sources of wealth. With feverish intensity men have given their brain and brawn to the development of these mighty resources and their labor has not been in vain. Wealth has been multiplied with a rapidity unprecedented in the world's life. It has been a great gain. It also has entailed a great loss. It has placed material good in the forefront, while the spirit of God and the spiritual life have been relegated to a secondary place. The result has been both natural and inevitable.

Honor, virtue and all the spiritual graces have been readily sacrificed to the insatiable greed for gain, but the handwriting of God is upon the wall. "Be sure your sin will find you out" is an old adage, but true. Man cannot continue forever to disregard God without having ultimately to reckon with Him on the basis of the deeds done in the body. Some instrument in divine Providence will vindicate the requirements of the spirit God and the spiritual life. When the finger of God through some stalwart Nathan is pointed at the sinner, it matters not whether he is a king upon his throne, he must listen to the "Thou art the man," "wherefore hast thou despised the word of the Lord to do that which is evil in His sight?" and in deep contrition of soul he must cry out for mercy and confess, "I have sinned against the Lord."

Not only have men as individuals been led to a false emphasis upon the material, and to blindness toward the spiritual, but the church herself has become too material in the expression which she has sought to give to the religious impulse. Too much of stress has been and is laid upon form and organization and not enough upon the spirit. Not until the church comes again to the side of Jacob's well and hears afresh the sweet emphasis of the Man of Galilee upon the essential spirituality of God and the supremacy and priority of the spiritual can she ever enter into her full heritage of divine power. It is high time that we should have done with the befogging and befooling effort to meet the requirements of that God who is spirit, with substitutes that are mere material foibles. It is the inners of the soul that God desires and requires. It is a damning folly to offer any substitute for that self which God has destined for eternal fellowship with Himself. Goodness, not goods; character, not cash; piety, not pretense; sincerity, not sham; these are the sacrifices acceptable to that God who is a spirit and who would be worshiped in spirit and with reality.

Another truth is placed beyond peradventure by these words of Jesus. True worship is not a matter of locality or nationality or sect. Men love to distinguish themselves by some distinguishing mark and will congratulate and flatter themselves that it in some way makes them superior to their brother man. If he is white, he congratulates himself that he is not black. If he is black, he congratulates himself that his eyes are more shiny and his teeth whiter. Doubtless demonstrations and sects have served some good ends, but if men had but learned to sweetly insist upon the truth for truth's sake, instead of lining up against their fellows in war paint and with tomahawk in hand, in utter disregard of the true spirit of the gospel, the millennium would be much nearer than it is to-day. Argue as best we may, the essence of religion is a spirit in harmony with the infinite spirit; a spirit to which reality, fact, truth, is the supreme consideration. To truly worship God is to pay to Him the homage of reverent thought and feeling, and of filial trust and love. The real temple of God is a human heart wherein the spirit of a man meets in shekinah presence the Spirit of God. Such worship and such worshipers God seeks.

Again, true worship is the great solvent of life's enigmas. In one of the psalms credited of Asaph he seeks to express the doubt and difficulty that possessed his mind when he sought to explain the prosperity of the wicked. It is surely a source of constant question to a thoughtful mind that the wicked flourish while many righteous are constrained to live in comparative if not quite penury. The question will arise, "How is it that God's material good so constantly ministers to the wicked and unworthy?" In honest doubt many hearts have asked, "Why should I worship a God who so unequally distributes His blessings?" This was the difficulty of the psalmist. He says: "Then thought I to understand this, but it was too hard for me; until I went into the sanctuary of God, then understood I the end of these men." When the psalmist entered into spiritual fellowship with God and saw the glory of that God in all His spiritual beauty there dawned upon his soul the reality of the larger truth, that God's greatest good is not material good. His richest gifts are not houses, or lands, or mines, or stocks. His richest gifts are those which bring the inner spirit of a man into perfect harmony with divine heart. No wealth or pelf can ease a restless conscience or lift the burden from a bereaved heart. Only God can fill to overflowing the human soul with that quiet and calm, that peacefulness which makes all life a song.

Does your heart cry out for God? Would you know that peace which passeth knowledge? Then be assured that these blessings can come to your life only as you recognize the eternal reality of the spiritual and placing the first emphasis upon the kingdom of God and the spiritual life seeks to live in perfect harmony with the divine mind.

The Surprises of Life.

The surprise of life always comes in finding how we have missed the things that have lain nearest to us; how we have gone far away to seek that which was close by our side all the time. Men who live best and longest are apt to come, as the result of their living, to the conviction that life is not only richer but simpler than it seemed to them at first. Men go to vast labor seeking after peace and happiness. It seems to them as if it were far away from them, as if they must go through vast and strange regions to get it. They must pile up wealth, they must see every possible danger of mishap guarded against, before they can have peace. Upon how many old men has it come with a strange surprise that peace should come to rich or poor only with contentment, and that they might as well have been content at the very end of life! They have made a long journey for their treasure, and when at last they stoop to pick it up, lo! it is shining close beside the footprint which they left when they set out to travel in a circle.—Phillips Brooks.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 10.

Subject: Reading and Obeying the Law, Neh. viii., 8-18—Golden Text, Luke xi., 28—Memory Verses, 17, 18—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Studying God's word (vs. 1-8). The people were gathered in this great meeting from the surrounding country from 20,000 to 50,000 in number. It was the time of the feast of Trumpets. Trumpets were blown everywhere. They proclaimed a day of rejoicing. The people called for Ezra, the scribe, to bring out the book of the law and read to them. Here is the first mention of Ezra's name in the book of Nehemiah. It is thought that he had been absent during the past thirteen years, "perhaps working as a scribe in copying and studying, and perhaps putting in shape the book of the law. He seems to have returned at the opportune moment. This great company had gathered on purpose to hear the words of the book he had copied and probably edited."

8. "So they read." Ezra and thirteen representative men from Jerusalem, standing upon an elevated platform, read the Scriptures, in turn, for six hours or more. "In the book." Books in those days were wide strips of parchment rolled upon sticks, one at either end, so that one side was rolled up as the other was unrolled to read. The writing was in parallel columns across the strip and read from right to left. "Distinctly." So that every word could be distinctly heard. This was the first way in which they caused the people to understand. "Gave the sense." The Israelites having been lately brought out of Babylonish captivity, in which they had continued seventy years, were not only corrupt, but they had in general lost the knowledge of the ancient Hebrew to such a degree that when the book of the law was read they did not understand it. Therefore the Levites translated it into the Chaldean dialect. "Caused them to understand." They gave both a translation of the Hebrew words into the Chaldee and an exposition of the things contained in them, and of the duty incumbent upon them.

II. A day of rejoicing proclaimed (vs. 9-12).

9. "Nehemiah — the Tirshatha." Hitherto Nehemiah has called himself pechah—the ordinary word for "governor." Now he is called Tirshatha, a more honorable and reverential title for governor. The new title is among the indications that this portion of the book is written by another. "This day is holy." Mourning was unsuitable for a day of high festivity, the opening day of the civil year and of the sabbatical month, itself a sabbath or day of rest, and one to be kept by blowing of trumpets (Lev. 23:24, 25; Num. 29:1-6). It appears that the people were not only ignorant of their ancient language, but also of the rites and ceremonies of their religion, not being permitted to observe them in Babylon. "All the people wept." They realized how different their lives had been from the lives commanded by God. They had failed in personal duty. They had failed in the public worship of God. They had failed as a nation.

10. "Eat and drink." Observe God's appointment. They should testify the genuineness of their repentance by the faithfulness with which they kept the feast. "Send portions." It was an ordinance of God that in these feasts the poor should be specially and liberally provided for (Deut. 15:7-11; 16:11-15). "Neither be ye sorry." We must not be merry when God calls us to mourning. We must not afflict ourselves when God has given us occasion to rejoice. Even our sorrow for sinners must not hinder our joy in God's service. "Joy of the Lord." A consciousness of God's favor, mercy and long suffering. 11. "Levites stilled all the people." Hushed their loud lamentation. Emotion needs control when it is in danger of running into mere physical excitement.

12. "Because they — understood." They now knew God's will and their own duty, which they resolved to practice. This gave them ground of hope and trust in God's mercy, and therefore gave them great joy.

III. Directions concerning the feast of the tabernacles (vs. 13-18). During the reading of the law the people saw how they had neglected to keep the feasts as they ought and they immediately proceeded to observe the feast of the tabernacles.

14. "Found written." See Lev. 23:33-44. "Booths." The people were commanded to leave their houses and dwell in tents or booths made of the branches of "thick trees." "Seventh month." The month Tishri or Ethanim. This was the seventh month in the sacred or ecclesiastical year and the first month in the civil year.

15. "Should publish." The meaning here is that they found it written that they should do the things mentioned in this verse. "The mount." The mount of Olives which was near by where were many olive trees and probably the other trees here mentioned. 16. "The roof." The roofs of the houses were flat and easy of access. "In their courts," etc. There were booths everywhere; the city was filled with them. 17. "Sat under the booths." They were to dwell in booths seven days, from the 15th to the 22d of the month. Their dwelling in booths commemorated their forty years' sojourn in the wilderness when they had no fixed habitations. "Since the days," etc. The meaning cannot be that this feast had not been observed since the time of Joshua, for it was kept at their return from Babylon (Ezra 3:4), but since Joshua's time the joy had never been so great as now. 18. "Solemn assembly." The first and last days of the feast were kept as sabbaths.

No Hope For Mrs. Rogers.

The Supreme Court of the United States at Washington, D. C., affirmed the decision of the United States District Court of Vermont in the case of Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers, who is under sentence of death in Vermont for the murder of her husband.

Baron Rosen Speaks.

Baron Rosen spoke on Russian freedom at the American Academy of Political and Social Science at Philadelphia, Pa.

About twenty seats at the theater in St. Petersburg have been marked in the plans, sale has been privately the box office keepers, who years have obtained over the fraud.

The test of excellence Japanese swords years ago rigid. It was to suspend the horizontally, edge upward, tree, and a good weapon was to cut in twain a leaf fa

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt with letters from people of the world offering pets. The great actress to buy everything from python.

There is more catarrh country than all other and until the last few be incurable. For a great pronounced it a local local remedies and cure with local treat curable. Science has pro constitutional disease and constitutional treatment Cure, manufactured by F. Toledo, Ohio, is the only on the market. It is taken from 10 drops to a teaspoon ly on the blood and mucous system. They offer one any case it fails to cure and testimonials. Address F. J. C Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills

Fifty thousand acres of alfalfa raised in the Greeley district of rado this year, three crops during the season. The average to the acre for the three cutti five tons.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier

If your blood is impure, thin, hot or full of humors, if you have poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating scrofula, eczema, itching risings and scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, rheumatism, or any blood or skin take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) ing to directions. Soon all aches and pains stop, the blood pure and rich, leaving the skin every eruption, and giving the rich perfect health to the skin. At the time B. B. B. improves the digestion dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys the medicine for old people, as them new, vigorous blood. Druggists per large bottle, with directions cure. Sample free and prepaid by Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. trouble and special free medical also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. specially advised for chronic cases of impure blood and skin and cures after all else fails.

Halmagen, in Roumania, public festival which unique in the world. of about 1,200 inhabitants morning of its annual fair population from about come trooping in in swarms. go out all the young women, or single, of Halmagen, each small flower garland and wine, and all attended by the mothers—this last precaution from motives of deference Grundy. As the visitors approach young women offer to each a wine and—a kiss.

There are a large number ereigns now living who have taken the trouble to be Among them are the German ror, the king of Italy, the youthful king of Spain, the Holland, the king of Bavaria king of Saxony.

A chamois hunter named Croire, in the Canton of Grisons and fell into a ravine nearly sand feet in depth. He was his son, a lad of 15, who, with of his ax, held his footing two hours until help arrived.

In a little place in Devonshire land, one man fulfills the posts hall keeper, bill poster, sweep, town crier and dustman.

THE COFFEE HEART.

It Is as Dangerous as the Whisky Heart.

"Coffee heart" is common coffee users and is liable to owner to his or her long home drug is persisted in. You can ty or forty yards and find out heart is troubled. A lady once a victim of the coffee writes from Oregon:

"I have been a habitual user fee all my life and have suffered much in recent years from which I became satisfied were due to the poison in the beverage as torpid liver and indigestion in turn made my complexion and muddy.

"Then my heart became affected would beat most rapidly just drank my coffee, and go below as the coffee effect wore off times my pulse would go 127 beats to the minute were greatly alarmed at my and at last mother persuaded begin the use of Postum Food

"I gave up the old coffee absolutely, and made Postum table beverage. This was ago, and all my ills, the inactive liver and rickety have passed away, and my has become clear and natural improvement set in very made the change, just as coffee poison had time to my system.

"My husband has also benefited by the use of we find that a simple Postum is as satisfying strengthening than the meal we used to have with kind of coffee." Name given tum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the "The Road to Wellville," in

GOVERNOR OF

Makes Use of Pe-ru His Family For

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, ORE.

is known from the Atlantic to Letters of congratulation testifying to the merits of as a catarrh remedy are pouring State in the Union. Dr. Hartman receiving hundreds of such letters All classes write these letters best to the lowest.

outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the editor, the statesman all agree that Peruna is the remedy of the age. The stage and recognizing catarrh as their greatest are especially enthusiastic in and testimony.

an who wishes perfect health must be free from catarrh universal. Peruna is the best known

A Letter From

The Peruna M

Dear Sirs: I use your Peruna family for colds an excellent occasion to use

Yours very

Your Druggist for Free Peruna Alm

TMAS HOLIDAY RATES VIA EN & CRESCENT ROUTE.

will be sold via Queen and Route to points south of the Potomac Rivers and east of Mississippi River to St. Louis and diate points on the I. C. R. R., R. R., M. & O. R. R. and the Railway December 22nd, 25th, 30th, 31st, 1905, 1906, final limit January 4th Ticket agents for particulars or D. P. A., Chattanooga, T. P. A., Birmingham.

poverty comes in at the door man hides behind his wife

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR.

not a new and untried remedy. more than ½ of a Century attests wonderful curative and health-giving properties, and serves to that it has no equal as a cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and all ills arising from a strictly a vegetable compound, it has no harmful or even unpleasant effects. Its action is gentle but none the less thorough—cleansing the stomach and bowels impurities, and toning up the system to a healthy condition—leaving the person feeling, because every organ is made to perform its part perfectly.

TORPID LIVER.

AND $1.00 A BOTTLE. ALL DRUG STORES. "One Dose Convinces."

NEW CUTTING REMARKS

purpose of a saw is to cut. cut easily, cut cleanly, with every movement. Atkins Saw. Its blade Steel", recognized the as the finest crucible made in ancient or modern is hard, close-grained and holds a sharp cutting edge any other Saw. Its perfectly from thick to handle to tip. Thus it pay for itself, runs easily not buckle. Its temper is When bent by a crooked springs into shape without kinking. saw cuts—and does it best of any. all types and sizes of saws, but only the best. Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor etc., are sold by all good hardware Catalogue on request.

ATKINS & CO., Inc. New Manufacturers in the World. Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana. New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).

No Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

THE BEST CHRISTMAS GIFT

Useful, Reliable, Attractive, Lasting, Up to Date and Authoritative. No other gift be a reminder of the giver. 5000 Illustrations. Recently with 25,000 new words, a new and new Biographical Dictionary by W. T. Harris, Ph.D., LL.D., Commissioner of Education. Grand Prize World's Fair, St. Louis. Get the Best.

"Dictionary Wrinkles"—Free. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC WOMEN

Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Wins teething, softens the tion, allays pain, cur

Taylor's Cherokee and Mullen is Nature's Coughs, Colds, and all throat and gists, 25c, 50c. and

The Japanese complete record of Itch cured in 30 Sanitary Lotion. Druggists. Mail by Dr. Detchon, C

Besides thirty United Kingdom new ships.

STOPS BELCHING —NO DRUGS—

A Box of Wafers Indigestion, regular Short the Bitter Taste petite. A feeling pain over the times nausea and sick headache?

What causes it? Excessive eating spirits—anxiety fort—mental worry bad air—insufficient —absence of teeth If you suffer from miserable existence ple box of Mull's lutely free. No stomach.

It stops belching stomach by absorbing undigested food to the lining of to thoroughly mix the juices, which prom the disease.

SPECIAL OFFER Mull's Anti-Belch to introduce it we will send you 75c. and this send you a sample

THIS OFFER MAY

1295 FREE

Send this and address who does not box of Mull's

MULL'S GRAPE Ave.,

Give Full Address

Sold by all druggists sent by mail.

Duel on

Spain has developed eling. It may be awheel and to Two young men Percy and Marcus idea. We are not quarrel, but the ardent cyclists, with knives, or chines. In the prove his knife arm, but in the avenged himself into Percy's right place shortly after

IN CONSTA

A West Virginia Through Kid

W. L. Jackson, ersburg, W. Va., sa

I took to my bed, ing to help, began ney Pills. The urine ly again, and the appeared. I have years, and though tive as a boy."

Sold by all dealers Foster-Milburn Co.,

About twenty seats at the theater in St. Petersburg ha been marked in the plans, a sale has been privately arr
the box office keepers, wh years have obtained over the fraud.

The test of excellence ap Japanese swords years ago w rigid. It was to suspend t horizontally, edge upward, tree, and a good weapon was to cut in twain a leaf falling

Mme. Sarah Bernhard is with letters from people from of the world offering tame ani pets. The great actress has be to buy everything from a gor python.

There is more Catarrh in this secti country than all other diseases put and until the last few years was su be incurable. For a great many yea pronounced it a local disease and p local remedies, and by constantly f cure with local treatment, pronoun curable. Science has proven Catarr constitutional disease and therefore constitutional treatment. Hall's Cure, manufactured by F. J. Chen
Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutio on the market. It is taken internally from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It a ly on the blood and mucous surfac system. They offer one hundred d any case it fails to cure. Send for and testimonials. Address F. J. C
Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for con

Fifty thousand acres of alfal raised in the Greeley district rado this year, three crops b during the season. The avera to the acre for the three cu five tons.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Canc
Poison. Greatest Blood Purifi
If your blood is impure, thin, hot or full of humors, if you ha poison, cancer, carbuncles, eati scrofula, eczema, itching, risings a scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, rheumatism, or any blood or skin take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B. ing to directions. Soon all so aches and pains stop, the blood pure and rich, leaving the skin f every eruption, and giving the rich perfect health to the skin. At time B. B. B. improves the digesti dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidne the medicine for old people, as them new, vigorous blood. Drug per large bottle, with directions cure. Sample free and prepaid b Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.
trouble and special free medic also sent in sealed letter. B. B. pecially advised for chronic, de cases of impure blood and skin and cures after all else fails.

Halmagen, in Roumania, pos public festival which is unique in the world. It is a li of about 1,200 inhabitants, an morning of its annual fair population from about eighty come trooping in in swarms.
go out all the young women, or single, of Halmagen, each b small flower garland and wine, and all attended by t mothers—this last precaution from motives of deference Grundy. As the visitors app young women offer to each a wine and—a kiss.

There are a large numbe
ereigns now living who ha taken the trouble to be Among them are the Germ ror, the king of Italy, the youthful king of Spain, the Holland, the king of Bavaria
king of Saxony.

A chamois hunter named S
Croire, in the Canton of Griso and fell into a ravine nearly sand feet in depth. He was his son, a lad of 15, who, wit of his ax, held his footing f
two hours until help arrived.

In a little place in Devons land, one man fulfills the post
hall keeper, bill poster, sweep, town crier and dustm

THE COFFEE HEART
It is as Dangerous as the T
Whisky Heart.

"Coffee heart" is common coffee users and is liable to owner to his or her long ho drug is persisted in. You ca ty or forty yards and find o heart is troubled. A lady once a victim of the "coff writes from Oregon:
"I have been a habitual us fee all my life and have suf much in recent years from which I became satisfied we due to the poison in the beve as torpid liver and indigesti in turn made my complexio and muddy.
"Then my heart became af would beat most rapidly ju drank my coffee, and go belo as the coffee effect wore o times my pulse would go a 137 beats to the minute.
were greatly alarmed at my and at last mother persuad begin the use of Postum Fo
"I gave up the old coffee e absolutely, and made Postu table beverage. This was ago, and all my ills, the inactive liver and rickety h have passed away, and my has become clear and nat improvement set in very s made the change, just as coffee poison had time to w
my system.
"My husband has also b benefited by the use of P
we find that a simple bre
Postum is as satisfying strengthening than the o meal we used to have wi kind of coffee." Name gi
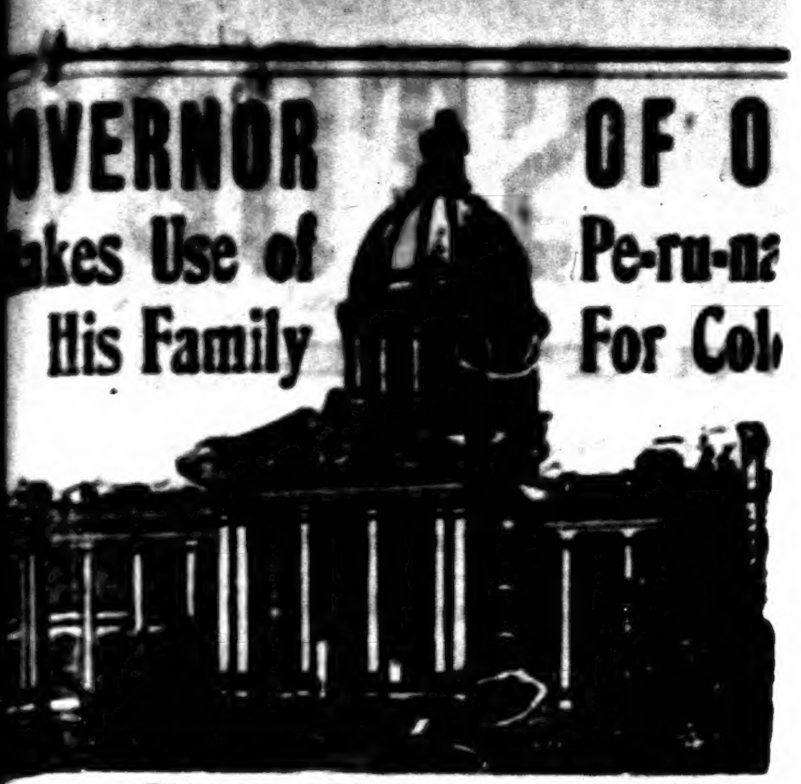
tum Co., Battle Creek, Mi
There's a reason. Read t
"The Road to Wellville,"



CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON

is known from the Atlantic to . Letters of congratulation and testifying to the merits of a catarrh remedy are pouring in State in the Union. Dr. Hart receiving hundreds of such letters classes write these letters, from to the lowest.
door laborer, the indoor artisan,
the editor, the statesman, the all agree that Peruna is the medy of the age. The stage and recognizing catarrh as their great
, are especially enthusiastic in and testimony.
who wishes perfect health must free from catarrh. Catarrh is universal. Peruna is the best known.

A Letter From th
Oreg
The ex-Governor of admirer of Peruna.
ually in the house.
Hartman, he says:
STATE
EXECUTIV
The Peruna Medicine
Dear Sirs—I ha
use your Peruna family for colds, a an excellent reme occasion to use it
Yours very tr
It will be notice says he has not had
for other ailments.
most other ailments

our Druggist for Free Peruna Alma

MAS HOLIDAY RATES VIA N & CRESCENT ROUTE. will be sold via Queen and Route to points south of the Potomac Rivers and east of ssippi River to St. Louis and ate points on the I. C. R. R., R. R., M. & O. R. R. and the Railway December 22nd
25th, 30th, 31st, 1905, Jan
1906, final limit January 4th ket agents for particulars, or
D. P. A., Chattanooga; A T. P. A., Birmingham.

poverty comes in at the door,
man hides behind his wife.

MOZLEY'S
EMON ELIXIR.
a new and untried remedy.
than ½ of a Century attests wonderful curative and health properties, and serves to that it has no equal as a cure
Constipation, Biliousness, Indi Sick-Headache, and all ills arising from a TORPID LIVER.
strictly a vegetable com
it has no harmful or even pleasant effects. Its action is but none the less thorough sing the stomach and bowels impurities, and toning up the system to a healthy con leaving the person feeling because every organ is made form its part perfectly.
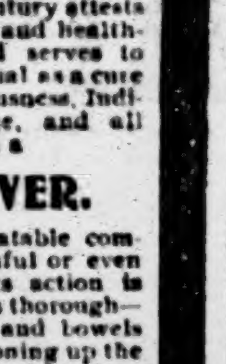
$1.00 A BOTTLE. ALL DRUG STORES.
"One Dose Convinces."

EW
UTTING
REMARKS



ose of a saw is to cut.
cut easily, cut cleanly,
h every movement
e Atkins Saw. Its blade Steel", recognized the
as the finest crucible made in ancient or modern is hard, close-grained and holds a sharp cutting edge an any other Saw. Its perfectly from thick to handle to tip. Thus it way for itself, runs easily buckle. Its temper is
When bent by a crooked springs into shape without kinking.
Saw cuts—and does it best of any.
all types and sizes of saws, but only
the best.
Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor
, are sold by all good hardware
Catalogue on request.
ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Saw Manufacturers in the World.
Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.
New York, Chicago, Minneapolis,
(Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco,
Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).
Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand
GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

EBSTER'S
ERNATIONAL DICTIONARY
THE BEST
CHRISTMAS GIFT Useful, Reliable, At tractive, Lasting, Up to Date and Authoritative. No other gift can be a reminder of the giver.
, 5000 illustrations. Recently with 25,000 new words, a new and new Biographical Diction
by W. T. Harris, Ph.D., LL.D., missioner of Education. Grand ld's Fair, St. Louis. Get the Best.
Regular Dictionary. Largest of our abridg and Thin Paper editions. 1116 pages and "Dictionary Wrinkles"—Free.
ERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

XTINE
TOILET
TISEPTIC

WOMEN is peculiar to
as a douche is marvelously suc
oughly cleanses, kills disease germs, heals inflammation and local
leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.
powder form to be dissolved in pure
more cleansing, healing, germicidal
than liquid antiseptics for all
D WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
at druggists, 50 cents a box.
and Book of Instructions Free.
COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

O'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

FITS permanently cu
ness after first day's Nerve Restorer, $2 tria
Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd

Forest Gate, Eng
old swimming cham

Mrs. Winslow's Sooth teething, softens the g
tion, allays pain, cure

Emperor William
graphed again.

I do not believe Pis
tion has an equal for c
F. Boyer, Trinity Spri

The heat develo
heavy guns is rema

Taylor's Cherokee [illegible] and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The Japanese Government is printing a complete record of the war.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

Besides thirty-seven ships of war the United Kingdom last year launched 712 new ships.

STOPS BELCHING BY ABSORPTION —NO DRUGS—A NEW METHOD.

A Box of Wafers Free—Have You Acute Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Irregular Heart, Dizzy Spells, Short Breath, Gas on the Stomach?

Bitter Taste—Bad Breath—Impaired Appetite—A feeling of fullness, weight and pain over the stomach and heart, sometimes nausea and vomiting, also fever and sick headache?

What causes it? Any one or all of these: Excessive eating and drinking—abuse of spirits—anxiety and depression—mental effort—mental worry and physical fatigue—bad air—insufficient food—sedentary habits—absence of teeth—bolting of food.

If you suffer from this slow death and miserable existence, let us send you a sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers absolutely free. No drugs. Drugs injure the stomach.

It stops belching and cures a diseased stomach by absorbing the foul odors from undigested food and by imparting activity to the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices, which promotes digestion and cures the disease.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

THIS OFFER MAY NOT APPEAR AGAIN.

1295 FREE COUPON 128

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

Duel on Bircycles.

Spain has developed a novelty in dueling. It may be described as the duel awheel, and is fought on bicycles. Two young men of Grenada, named Percy and Marcus, have originated the idea. We are not told the cause of the quarrel, but the disputants, who are ardent cyclists, agreed to fight it out with knives, or navagas, on their machines. In the first encounter Percy prove his knife through his adversary's arm, but in the third set-to Marcus avenged himself by plunging his blade into Percy's right lung. Death took place shortly afterward.

IN CONSTANT AGONY.

A West Virginian's Awful Distress Through Kidney Troubles.

W. L. Jackson, merchant, of Parkersburg, W. Va., says: "Driving about in bad weather brought kidney troubles on me, and I suffered twenty years with sharp, cramping pains in the back and urinary disorders. I often had to get up a dozen times at night to urinate. Retention set in, and I was obliged to use the catheter.

I took to my bed, and the doctors failing to help, began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The urine soon came freely again, and the pain gradually disappeared. I have been cured eight years, and though over 70, am as active as a boy."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

...ord of the weather bureau. Not only is this proportion lower than in any foreign bureau, but in ten years not a criticism of its work has come from any commercial, maritime or scientific organization.

At an exhibition of "empire grown" cotton in Manchester, it was officially stated that during this year 4,000 bales of cotton had been received from the West Indies, over 3,000 bales from West Africa and over 500 bales from East Africa. It was believed the quantity would be doubled before the end of the year, concludes the Indianapolis News.

Last year the automobilists of Great Britain paid $1,500,000 in fines for over-speeding. As a source of government revenue, the auto may yet permit the abolition of protective tariffs.

A writer who has been investigating the old subject of superstition among burglars gives it as his conclusion that no burglar will "crack" a house where a female servant that squints is kept. If a burglar sees three different horses slip down in a day he will not work that night. One Englishman in the dock confessed that members of his profession would never "burgle" houses with the number 22, 93, 111 and 444.

Solemn warning is given by the curator of the Alhambra, in Spain, that the seven hundred-year-old palace is falling to pieces. The ancient home of Spain's Moorish kings has withstood both earthquakes and fire. The French soldiers blew up eight of the towers and tried to level the entire fabric. It is the great age of the building which is threatening it with destruction now.

Of eccentric advertisements the London Chronicle remarks: "Probably to the end of time respectable women will 'want washing,' though it is hard to reconcile their respectability with their lack of personal cleanliness. Butchers, too, who are prepared to 'kill anything' when in search of employment, are well matched by the dealer who, wanting a salesman, predicates that he must be 'alive when wanted.'"

Road-making in the Philippines is a serious question, asserts the Louisville Courier-Journal. One has just been finished in the island of Luzon of less than a hundred miles in length which is said to have cost $2,500,000. Some sections of it in mountainous regions cost as high as $50,000 a mile. If a common traffic roadway come this high in the Archipelago, how much a railroad would cost? With labor so cheap it is difficult to see how or why such work is so expensive.

The president of the National Association of Milliners has been protesting against the invasion of the trimming department of the millinery field by men. What more incongruous, she asks, than the association of coarse masculine hands with thee delicate materials that enter into the make up of women's headgear. A trade paper responds that it is man who devises the shape of a woman's hat, that he manufactures the block on which the foundation of the hat is made, that he blocks it into shape and manufactures all the materials. Why then should he stop short at the trimming, as woman dresses for man's admiration. Why is it not possible for him to create for her those things that add to her charms.

Horses play an important part in shrimp fishing along the Belgian coast.

knees to feet, and could find neither doctors nor medicine to help me until I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, which cured me in six months. They helped me the very first time I used them, and I am glad to write this so that others suffering as I did may be saved from misery."

The Khedive of Egypt has amassed an enormous fortune, and is not only a monogamist, but a teetotaler as well.

A Souchong tea compressed into cakes almost brick-like in hardness is supplied to Russian officers in Manchuria. It is creamy and sweet in taste, requiring less sugar than ordinary tea, and the infusion is made by simply putting into a cup a piece the size of a thimble and pouring in hot water. It is suggested that similar cakes would be a luxury to cyclists and other travelers.

Bees and Flowers.

Mlle. J. Wery, a Belgian naturalist, has announced the results of new experiments on the nature of the attraction of flowers for bees. She finds that perfume by itself offers little attraction. Artificial flowers are as attractive as national ones if both are put under glass shades. Brilliantly colored flowers offer much greater attraction when entire than when the petals or other parts have been cut away. Mlle. Wery is of opinion that bees are guided more by sight than by smell when they are after honey.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that troubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

My Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity. A neighbor who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headaches and backaches left me, I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it."

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

GOOD LUCK
ONE SPOON
BAKING POWDER
SOUTHERN MFG. CO.
RICHMOND, VA.
SOUTHERN MFG. CO.

Baking Powder
ound can.
car. You will find one on the back of every can—outside. Cut out the coupon. Inside of can you will find the Good Luck gift book. Pick from the gift book the premium you want and we will send it to you in exchange for your coupons
THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO., Richmond, Va.

bes Pianos
irect from factory to customers that way you save from $75.00

100 in buying a Forbes Piano. aside One Hundred Forbes Pianos to be actory price for the purpose of getting in different parts of the United States our prospective customers to them, and pay only the actual cost of making the expense of handling it without pay commissions for selling it, and our no home need be without a piano.
one for six months then allow the rent purchase of this or any other piano of the best makes that are manufactured in America, such Kroll-French, Kranich & Bach, Everett, Emerson, McPhail, Pease, Smith
Barnes, Harvard and others.
We also manufacture the Forbes Organ and are offering One Hundred of these at wholesale price for the purpose of getting them introduced and advertising them. We will take them back in exchange for a new piano any time within five years at what you paid us for them, if not damaged by fire, water, or some other accident. It will only cost you the expense of writing to get our catalogue as we will mail them to you free, and it will save you at least $5.00 and maybe save you $100.00. If you are interested in buying either a piano, organ or typewriter, sit right down and write us before it is too late. We also sell and rent typewriters.
E. E. FORBES PIANO CO.,
Forbes Building, 1909 Third Avenue, Birmingham, Ala.

COW PEAS draw nitrogen from the air in large amounts, if sufficient POTASH and phosphoric acid are supplied to the plant.

The multitude of purposes served by the remarkable cow pea, are told in the 65-page illustrated book, "The Cow Pea," which also tells of the splendid results obtained from fertilizing cow peas with POTASH. The book is free to farmers for the asking.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—93 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE

ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It.
Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

CONCENTRATED
Crab Orchard
Water...

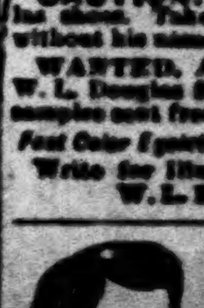
A SPECIFIC FOR
3 DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION. 3
The three "ills" that make life a burden. Nature's great remedy. In use for almost a century. Sold by all druggists.
CRAB ORCHARD WATER CO.,
Louisville, Ky.
Am. 49, 1905.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines. Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full Line Engine & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.
$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.
[illegible]
CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes [illegible]
[illegible]
Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.



Dropsy
[illegible]

THE WHOLE FAM

needs clothi , and we have jus pu in an immense stock w Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his l enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown me clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest st Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the la Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress G kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goo

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 t worth 5 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard they last,

15 0 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to Men's from No 5 to No. 9 All sizes in Children's. We a all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOUR

Clothiers To The Whole Fa

THE BARGAIN STORE

Clanton, Ala.

J. R BROADHEAD & S

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL

Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells

CLANTON, ALA.

25¢
A COPY
$2.50
A YEAR

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY

REVIEW OF REVIEWS

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature,"—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY
13 Astor Place, New York

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Hary Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation,—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st. 1901:"

Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him, 25c, 50c and $1,00, Sold by Upchurch Drug co,

Subscribe for the Banner

SHOW OF

ERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHI you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a cof

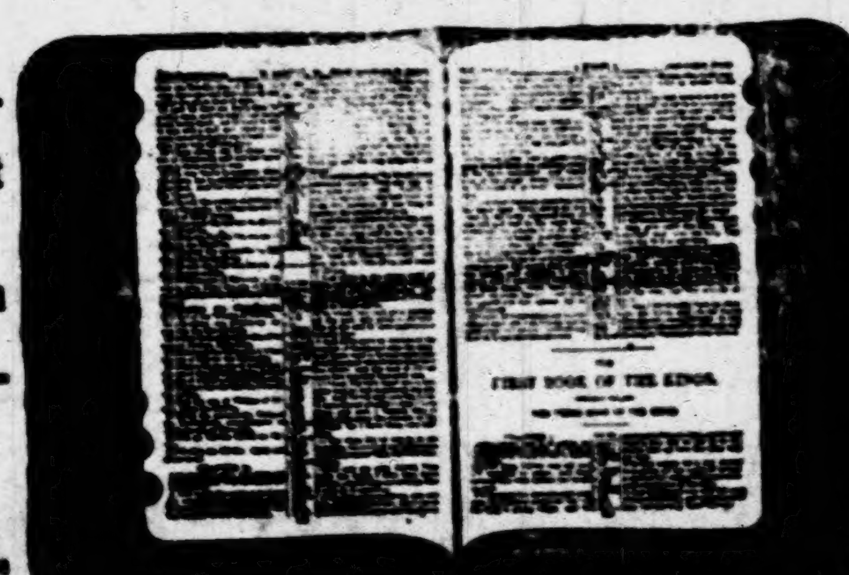
W. I MULLINS

CLANTON ALA

ALABAMA BIBLE SOCIETY

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

ibles at Cost or Cash



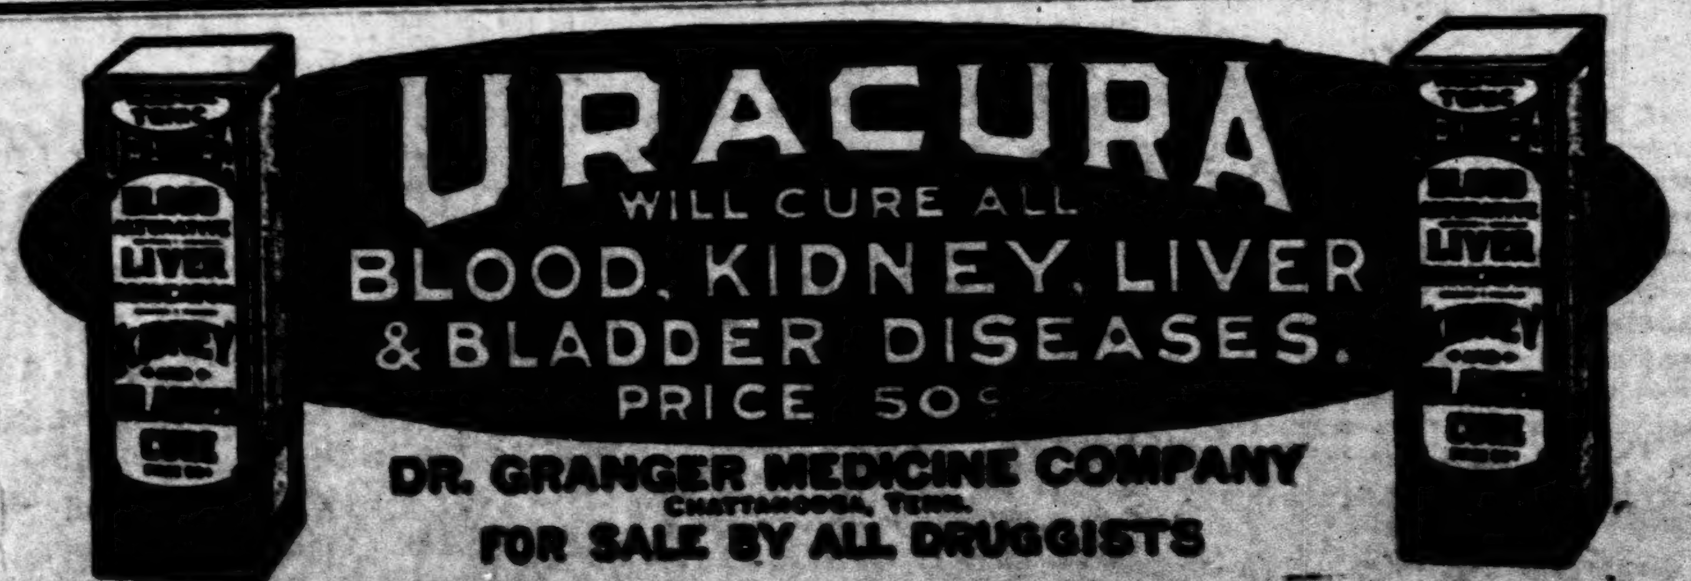
Bibles at Cost for Cash

IBLES.

BIBLES.

The Alabama Bible Society wishes to supply you with Bibles. You can get from us any style binding or type at the publishers' cost price. We do not sell except for CASH Write us

$2 25 By special arrangement we are enabled to offer the Alabama Baptist ($2 00 and the Banner ($1.00) both papers one year for $2,25



URACURA
WILL CURE ALL
BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.
PRICE 50¢
DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

STOCK

OW PRICE

eants of the good people of Chilton county, w tensive stock. comprising all the latest fashi ticularly call your attention to our line of ES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of kinds; Dress Goods; Underwe Jackets of the latest styles; Broa nples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pai of sample Shoes, worth from $3 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS,

VIOLINS, GUITARS, h

we keep in stock at the very lowest price Come and hear the Phonograph talk—the make life worth living.

KANJUTZKY

AVORITE STORE

anton, Ala.

s Cure of Curable Pain

yourself to suffer pain. Women's . They are the sign of dangerous conditions of the female organs, which should be promptly attended to or dangerous results will follow.

TAKE

Wine of Cardui

IT COMES TO WOMAN'S RELIEF

whenever she suffers from any of woman's biting and weakening pains. It not only compels the pains to stop, but it follows up and drives out the cause of the pains, which prevents them from coming back.

It makes you well Try it.

Sold everywhere in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER

freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"WITHOUT A PAIN,"

writes Mary Shelton, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., "I can do my housework, although, before taking CARDUI, two doctors had done me no good. I can truthfully say I was cured by Cardui I want every suffering lady to know of this wonderful medicine."

Shades Mountain.

The Sunday school children are going to have an Xmas celebration at the Summit church.

Dr. Robert Berry and wife are visiting relatives in Charleston, S. C.

Mr. Will Hale of Brompton has been visiting his family on the mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Urquhart and Miss India Harris, a charming young lady of the magic city, have been the guests of Mrs. G. A. Northington's family.

Mrs. Annie Sanders and Mr. R. Randel spent Thanksgiving with relatives at Seals, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dison of Sayre Mines are visiting Mr. N. J. Dison's family.

Chilton county is well represented up here. I can stand in front of my residence and see nine or ten houses occupied by people that used to live in Chilton county

What has become of our old friend Phraachs of Verbena? If he is not dead we would like to hear from him. X.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptons," says Mr. J. S. Egleston, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These Tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day. GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE Macon, Ga.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers

The famous little pills.

The Great Christmas Edition of

THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

Will be issued Dec. 17th, 19 This will be one of the great papers ever issued in the So Will contain over 100 pages. E ery page will be a gem. You c not afford to be without this spl did paper.

Fill out order blank below send 5 cents. Address, The A vertiser Co, Montgomery.

Name ....

Postoffice ....

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. 7th District, Northe vision. In Vacation, 1905.

Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingre fendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the R ter, by the affidavit on file of Rob H. Kea the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-r the State of Alabama, and when last heard resided in the State of Tennessee, and that in the belief of said affiant, the De S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one y

It is therefore ordered by the Register, publication be made in the Banner, a news published in Clanton, Ala., once a week fo consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the b complaint in the above cause on before the day of December, 1905, and failing so to do thirty days after the service of this decree pro confesso may be taken against said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of N 1905.

S. A. Stewart, Register in C

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, ness, headache, constipation, bad general debility, sour risings, and of the stomach are all due to indi Kodol cures indigestion. This new ery represents the natural juices of tion as they exist in a healthy combined with the greatest known and reconstructive properties. Kodol pepsia Cure does not only cure indi and dyspepsia, but this famous cures all stomach troubles by purifying, sweetening and strength the mucous membranes lining the

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va. I was troubled with sour stomach for Kodol cured me and we are now using it for baby."

Kodol Digests What You E

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the size, which sells for 50 cents. Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., C

For sale by Upchurch Dr

T

L. X V

Part On

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Cotton, alias Tom Davis, a well known in Clanton, took nks of cheap whiskey in Bir ham Saturday night. Tom was d at Clanton Sunday.

e M. E Conference has as d Rev. S. U. Turnipseed to Clanton circuit; R. C. Wil to the Verbena circuit; J. C. son to Randolph circuit; T avis to Plantersville. C. A. is Presiding Elder.

TON COTTON ASSOCIATION

e Chilton county branch of Southern Cotton Association d its first year's business last rday, the Association having d a success from the very start. W. H. Conway presided and tary J. N. Dennis was at the e following resolution was of d:

solved: That the Chilton ty branch of the Southern n Association, in convention bled, hereby express our high eciation of the good work done e past by our retiring presi W. H Conway, holding him igh esteem, both as a citizen fellow-worker in the interests e Association.

motion was made to include he officers in the above resolu , and the amendment being pted, the resolution was unan sly adopted.

W. Sorrell offered a resolution, ch was adopted, that members e Association do not increase acreage in cotton next year.

of. Hare, of Auburn, gave an esting lecture on public roads, onstrating the use of split-log s.

ipton Mullins presented a reso n in relation to the improve t of public roads in the county, ch was unanimously adopted.

fficers for the ensuing year were ted as follows: Bresident, F. A. ledge; Vice-Pres., N. J. Callo ; Secretary, J. N. Dennis; asurer, A. G. Dake Executive mittee: Tipton Mullins, L. H. nolds, J W. Sorrel. Delegates tate convention at Montgomery, dnesday, Jan. 3, 1906: J. W. rel, R. J. Williams, W Y Nix, H. Reynolds, F. A. Gulledge.

he members congratulated each er on the good work accomplish by the Association during its year of existence, and great es are anticipated for the future. he Association then adjourned meet at Clanton the first Satur in January, 1906.

THE

MES SHELBY'S SHOW

WILL EXHIBIT AT

CLANTON

NDAY, DECEMBER 18th

DAY ONLY, RAIN OR SHINE,

UNDER WATERPROOF TENTS

ty of Good, Comfortable Seats for all.

he James Shelby's show is tly clean, moral and refined. ies and children can attend our ibition, as well as gentlemen. here is nothing said or done to nd the most fastidious.

ear in mind that this show is orsed everywhere as being one he best small shows on the road er canvas. As good a perform as you will see anywhere, the e considered. Music by our ous Brass Band. Two exhibi daily. Doors open at 1 p. m. 7 p. m., performance com cing one hour later. mission, 25 cents and 35 cents.

In Mad Chase.

illions rush in mad chase after th, from one extreme of faddism nother, when if they would only good food, and keep their bowels ular with Dr. King's New Life their troubles would all pass . Prompt relief and quick cure iver and stomach trouble. 25c Upchurch Drug co; guaranteed.

CORR

The mos remedy to Croup, W Kennedy's This Reme the system tha bo el Drug co

Editor through th to thank th na and s their many departed s ilness, esp Dennis, an

To the Council Sirs: T are daily section of fare with ville and N The rem ing the pr Either con to a full above men flag ahead double from six longer if watchmen at ridgeme by cut or The rec life displa Nashville it incumb renewed e the speed safeguard ceipts fro the L. & N evidence t to recogni it immedi

P

The bea general is gathering them hav And it is and bread good pric perity is seek it. clining. our beaut our beaut warning is fast ap depart th of a wor happy wo would so our Lord Xmas is c our Sund ment fr room for am not been, an better wa drinking you are d the road ing in the the hind look st Now, for a wo that you word of as we ca My dear is too gre tween th take the the grog and many mention, enter the recognize take the this line where is anything stoop so you? T young la worth, y happines men wh enough t do not d should b ladies. would sa the youn be low a those hab you a h that the Yours

STOCK

PRICE

good people of Chilton county, w
. comprising all the latest fashi your attention to our line of

Trimmed Hats and Millinery of kinds; Dress Goods; Underwe
ackets of the latest styles; Broa erfully reduced prices; Shoes.

Hats, and a special line of 500 pai
f sample Shoes, worth from $3
o $5 00, to be closed out at $2 lined, to go at 39 cents.

ICAL INSTRUMENTS
PHONOGRAPHS.
VIOLINS, GUITARS,

n stock at the very lowest price hear the Phonograph talk—the orth living.

JUTZKY
RITE STORE
n, Ala.

of Curable Pain

to suffer pain. Women's are the sign of dangerous organs, which should be ngerous results will follow.

AKE
Cardui
WOMAN'S RELIEF

woman's biting and weakening pains op, but it follows up and drives out vents them from coming back.

ttles.

"WITHOUT A PAIN,"

writes Mary Shelton, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., "I can do my housework, although, before taking CARDUI, two doctors had done me no good. I can truthfully say I was cured by Cardui. I want every suffering lady to know of this wonderful medicine."

The Great Christmas Edition of
THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

Will be issued Dec. 17th, 19
This will be one of the great papers ever issued in the Sou
Will contain over 100 pages.
ery page will be a gem. . You c
not afford to be without this sp
did paper.

Fill out order blank below
send 5 cents. Address, The
vertiser Co, Montgomery.

Name ....

Postoffice ....

Notice to Non-Resident

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court. 7th District, Northeaster vision. In Vacation, 1905.
Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel fendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the R
ter, by the affidavit on file of Rob't H. Knox the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-reside the State of Alabama, and when last heard resided in the State of Tennessee, and fu that in the belief of said affiant, the Defe
S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one
It is therefore ordered by the Register, publication be made in the Banner, a news
published in Clanton, Ala., once a week fo consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the b complaint in the above cause on before th day of December, 1905, and failing so to do thirty days after the service of this sum decree pro confesso may be taken against h said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of Nove
1905.

S. A. Stewart, Register in Chan

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, ner ness, headache, constipation, bad b general debility, sour risings, and c of the stomach are all due to indi Kodol cures indigestion. This new d ery represents the natural juices of d tion as they exist in a healthy st combined with the greatest known and reconstructive properties. Kodo pepsia Cure does not only cure indi and dyspepsia, but this famous re cures all stomach troubles by clean purifying, sweetening and strength
the mucous membranes lining the st

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va.
I was troubled with sour stomach for Kodol cured me and we are now using
for baby."

Kodol Digests What You E

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times size, which sells for 50 cents.
Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO.,

For sale by Upchurch Dr

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

. X V | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No. 8

Judge of Probate

MAN ON THE CORNER

f the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Cotton, alias Tom Davis, a well known in Clanton, took s of cheap whiskey in Bir am Saturday night. Tom was at Clanton Sunday.

M E Conference has as
Rev. S. U. Turnipseed to Clanton circuit; R. C. Wil to the Verbena circuit; J. C. on to Randolph circuit; T vis to Plantersville. C. A. is Presiding Elder.

TON COTTON ASSOCIATION

Chilton county branch of Southern Cotton Association its first year's business last day, the Association having a success from the very start.
W. H. Conway presided and tary J. N. Dennis was at the following resolution was of-

:

olved: That the Chilton
y branch of the Southern Association, in convention bled, hereby express our high ciation of the good work done past by our retiring presi-
W. H. Conway, holding him
gh esteem, both as a citizen fellow-worker in the interests Association.

motion was made to include officers in the above resolu-
and the amendment being pted, the resolution was unansly adopted.

W. Sorrell offered a resolution,
h was adopted, that members Association do not increase acreage in cotton next year.

of. Hare, of Auburn, gave an esting lecture on public roads, onstrating the use of split-log
s.

pton Mullins presented a reso n in relation to the improvet of public roads in the county,
h was unanimously adopted.

fficers for the ensuing year were ed as follows: Bresident, F. A.
edge; Vice-Pres., N. J. Callo
; Secretary, J. N. Dennis; surer, A. G. Dake Executive mittee: Tipton Mullins, L. H.
nolds, J W. Sorrel. Delegates ate convention at Montgomery, dnesday, Jan. 3, 1906: J. W.
el, R. J. Williams, W. Y. Nix, H. Reynolds, F. A. Gulledge.
he members congratulated each r on the good work accomplish by the Association during its year of existence, and great s are anticipated for the future.
he Association then adjourned
eet at Clanton the first Satur-in January, 1906.

THE MES SHELBY'S SHOW
WILL EXHIBIT AT
CLANTON
NDAY, DECEMBER 18th
Day Only, Rain or Shine,
UNDER WATERPROOF TENTS
ty of Good, Comfortable Seats for all.

he James Shelby's show is tly clean, moral and refined.
ies and children can attend our bition, as well as gentlemen.
here is nothing said or done to nd the most fastidious.
ear in mind that this show is orsed everywhere as being one he best small shows on the road er canvas. As good a perform as you will see anywhere, the considered. Music by our ous Brass Band. Two exhibi-
s daily. Doors open at 1 p.m.
7 p. m., performance com-cing one hour later.
mission, 25 cents and 35 cents.

In Mad Chase.

illions rush in mad chase after h, from one extreme of faddism nother, when if they would only good food, and keep their bowels
lar with Dr. King's New Life their troubles would all pass
. Prompt relief and quick cure liver and stomach trouble. 25c
pchurch Drug co; guaranteed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The most pleasant, safest and best remedy to use for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc., is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Remedy expels all cold from the system by acting as a catharic on the bowels. Sold by Upchurch Drug co

Verbena. Dec. 12, 1905

Editor Banner: We wish through the columns of the Banner to thank the good people of Verbena and surrounding country for their many kindnesses to our dear departed son and brother during his illness, especially Drs Barnett and Dennis, and also Mr. D. I. Deramus.

His Family.

Clanton, Dec. 13, 1905

To the Honorable Mayor and Council, Clanton, Ala.

Sirs: The lives of your citizens are daily jeopardized at the intersection of your principal thoroughfare with the tracks of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

The remedy lies in your exercising the prerogatives vested in you. Either compel every train to come to a full stop before crossing the above mentioned street, sending a flag ahead, or the placement of a double automatic gate guarded from six a.m. to six p m., and longer if necessary, by competent watchmen, and the overhead abridgement of streets, obstructed by cut or otherwise.

The reckless disregard for human life displayed by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company makes it incumbent upon you to exercise renewed energy in bringing about the speedy consummation of the safeguards above referred to. Receipts from all sources accruing to the L. & N. railroad at Clanton, is evidence that they should be forced to recognize their duty and perform it immediately. Conservative.

Pleasant Grove.

The health of this community in general is good, People are done gathering their crops and most of them have killed some fat hogs. And it is so nice to have our meat and bread at home. Cotton is a good price and it seems that prosperity is in the grasp of all who seek it. The old year is fast declining. Jack frost has swept over our beautiful Southland and killed our beautiful flowers, which is loud warning to us that our time as well is fast approaching when we must depart this life and try the realities of a world unknown to us. But happy would be the exchange if we would so live that we could meet our Lord in peace. Now, boys, Xmas is coming, let us not lay out our Sunday school book and Testament from our pockets to make room for a bottle. Now, boys, I am not a young man, but have been, and I know that there is a better way to enjoy oneself than drinking poisonous whiskey until you are drunk and halloaing along the road like panthers and wallowing in the mud until you feel like the hind wheels of bad luck and look still worse

Now, do not be vexed with me for a word of advice and I trust that you will not be offended at a word of advice to the young ladies as we can't afford to slight them. My dear young lady friends, there is too great a difference made between the sex. For instance, you take the young man, he can go to the grogshop, to the gambling room and many places too low for me to mention, and again come forth and enter the best of homes and be recognized. Suppose you were to take the young man's steps along this line and it became known, where is the young man that cares anything for himself that would stoop so low as to associate with you? There is not one. Now, young ladies, you cannot prise your worth, your character, your future happiness too highly, and young men who will not respect you enough to abandon those bad habits do not deserve your attention and should be ignored by all young ladies. In my closing remarks I would say young ladies beware of the young man (though his voice be low and sweet) who partakes of those habits. With best wishes for you a happy Xmas and trusting that the boys will keep straight.

Yours truly, Jas. Franklin.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON ALA

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000 00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts	$65,444.00
Demand Loans	2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures	2,651 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519.50
Currency	12,253 00
Gold	236.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,287 01
Checks and Cash Items	29 00
Profit and Loss	4.86
	$37,502.96
Total	$88,406.61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in	$15,000.10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid	7,578 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172.50
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
	$65,821.16
Total	$88,406.61

In Loving Memory of Our Darling Brother

The angel of death has visited us and taken from our midst to a home in heaven, Jesse E. Fike. He departed this life Dec. 6, 1905, aged 28 years, 10 months and 5 days. Jesse was a great sufferer, but bore his afflictions with patience, awaiting the Master's call. His life, though short, was a useful one, full of good works. He professed Christ at the age of 11 under the teachings of Bro. J. M. McCord at Bozeman Baptist church, and was a consistent member until he fell asleep in Jesus. He was always kind to the sick, neglecting his own personal interest for the needy and afflicted. Our Jesse is gone but not forgotten. He leaves a wife, three children, mother, sister and five brothers to mourn his loss Bereaved ones, do not weep for Jesse, our loss is his eternal gain. We loved him, but God loved him best. A good man has passed away, but memories of him will bring good cheer to all who seek to be of service to the church and fellowman. He was laid to rest in the Chestnut Creek cemetery, funeral services conducted by Bro. Lamar Jones.

There are no dead, we fall asleep
To awake where they never weep,
Asleep in Jesus, oh! how sweet,
Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep.

A Sister.

REWARD.

I have a reward of a substantial nature for the party or partie who will display the manhood to come forward and admit having run into and injured my buggy with a loaded wagon, in front of my office and residence on Dec. 12, 1905.

Wm. M. Adams.

LOST.

Editor Banner—I was in Clanton Saturday. Dec. 9, and lost six dollars, a five dollar bill and a one dollar bill, which I wish to publish in your paper. Anyone finding same will return to me, I will be very much obliged. Success to the Banner and its many readers.

J. D. Sims.

Clanton, R. F. D. No. 3, Dec. 9, 1905

A Fearful Fate.

It is a fearful fate to have to endure the terrible torture of Piles. "I can truthfully say," writes Harry Golson, of Masonville, Ia., "that for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, is the best cure made." Also best for cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Subscribe for The Banner.

In Memoriam.

That God calls his loved ones in various ways is noticed in the death of Mr. Wm. Barrett, who departed this life the 2nd, inst.

Mr. Barret was born about Jan. 23, 1856, and lived to be nearly fifty years old. Being reared in Chilton county where he spent the most of his life, he leaves a host of friends to mourn his loss.

God in His goodness had seen fit to afflict him several months ago, and by an earnest request of Mr. Barrett, he was carried to the State Hospital, June 9th, 1905, where he remained until he died.

His remains were brought home and after the funeral services were over, interred in the cemetery at Shiloh church.

Mr. Barrett joined the Missionary Baptist church in early life and lived a consistent member until death. He was ever ready to stand up for God; and this gives us the sweet assurance that he has gone on to join his many loved ones in that home where all is joy and deliget, and where the weary are ever at rest.

He leaves a loving wife, one daughter and a host of relatives to mourn his loss, but I am sure that they have the sympathy of many, who realize the sadness that parting brings.

In conclusion I will say that God knoweth best. and we should consider that we too must soon go to join in the praises of God.

A Friend, J. F. P.

Nothing will cure indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach rest. You can't expect that a weak stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to to the full work that a sound stomach should do. You wouldn't expect a sick horse to get well when it is compelled to do a full day's work every day in the week. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant and digests the food regardless of the condition of your stomach. Relieves Indigestion, Belching, Sour Stomach, and all stomach disorders. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next State teachers' examination for Chilton county will be held in the court house at Clanton, beginning on the first Monday in January, 1906. The examination will begin at 10 a.m. sharp.

J. W. Moore, Supt.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is simply liquid electricity. It goes to every part of your body, bringing new blood, strength and new vigor, It makes you well and keeps you well, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co

THE CLANTON BANK
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President | E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President | E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker | P. D. Wilson | E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor | W. I. Mullins | J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

WANTED to rent on halves about sixty acres of land I made 19 bales cotton and 175 bushels of corn this year with two horses. Apply to Silas Kelly, Clanton, Ala.

OXEN FOR SALE—22 head of oxen, 5 drays, chains, hooks, etc., property of the Jackson Lumber Co. Apply to W. H. Fosher, Jr., 2 miles east of Stanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can cultivate 35 or 60 acres land, lies level and has a good new house on same. Apply to J. L. Burnett, Thorsby, Ala.

Beautifying methods that injure the skin and health are dangerous, Be beautiful without discomfort by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, Sunshiny faces follow its use, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co,

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

The season of indigestion is upon us. Kodol Dyspepsia cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do everything for the stomach that an over-loaded and over-worked stomach can not do for itself. Kodol Digests what you eat—gives the stomach a rest—relieves sour stomach, belching, heart-burn, indigestion, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

An Emergency Medicine

For sprains, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but causes the parts to heal in about one third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST

of Birmingham, 2003 Second ave., will be in Jemison Friday and Saturday before the first Sunday in each month, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. Teeth examined free.

Torture of a Preacher.

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church, of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you. He says. "I suffered agonies, because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At Upchurch Drug co.; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

HOLLISTER'S
Rocky Mountain Tea Nuggets
A Busy Medicine for Busy People.
Brings Golden Health and Renewed Vigor.
A specific for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver and Kidney troubles, Pimples, Eczema, Impure Blood, Bad Breath, Sluggish Bowels, Headache and Backache. Its Rocky Mountain Tea in tablet form, 35 cents a box. Genuine made by Hollister Drug Company, Madison, Wis.
GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton. A Horn, Thorsby,

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

THE WEEK IN COTTON.

Gibert & Clay's Weekly Market Letter.

Opinion has been moulded and important historical facts in the cotton trade have been recorded by the events of the past week. It has been shown, for instance, that southern people are better qualified to pass upon all the conditions that enter into the raising and marketing of a cotton crop than are the speculators of New York and foreign countries. Even the agricultural department, loath as it is to set forth facts that will serve to advance and enrich southern interests, has had to confess the shortness of the crop, even while doing its best by changing the method of figuring to make it appear large.

The correctness and honesty of the methods employed by the census bureau to collect statistics as to ginning are not questioned, and the census report of yesterday, while disappointing some whose views were probably registered too low, at the same time reflected very closely the actual condition of statistics submitted to that department. The main thing is to know what percentage of the crop is represented by the ginning to December 1, and best information and opinion point to 88 to 90 per cent. Forecast also indicates that the next ginners' report, to be issued on the 20th inst., will show now over 9,100,000 bales.

When all has been said on this question, however, there yet remains the stubborn fact that, no matter what pressure may be brought to bear upon the market by speculators and those financially interested to depress it, the holders of spots is the deciding factor, and absolutely no weakness appears to date in that department.

So long as spots remain firm and difficult to buy, except at premiums, and in the absence of any unfavorable features pointing to a lessening of consumption, we can see very little risk in buying cotton in the anticipation of much higher prices later in the season.

Interior and port receipts continue to show a decline as compared with last year. The dry good markets continue firm. The farmer and merchant are in excellent financial condition, and cotton will bring cash any day.

W. L. SIMS, Manager.

Lawson-Barron Troubles.

Boston, Mass.—The Suffolk county grand jury failed to return an indictment against Thomas W. Lawson, who had been held for that body by the municipal court on the charge of criminal libel. The charges were preferred by Clarence W. Barron, the proprietor of the Boston News Bureau. A "no" bill was reported by the jurors.

The grand jury returned no indictment against Mr. Barron, against whom it was understood Mr. Lawson had offered evidence before the grand jury in connection with a criminal libel complaint.

The action of the jury puts an end to the controversy between Messrs. Lawson and Barron so far as the criminal courts are concerned. Mr. Barron's charges were based upon an article referring to him published in a magazine and alleged to have been written by Mr. Lawson. Mr. Lawson's complaint was founded upon statement in Mr. Barron's newspaper.

Running Street Fight.

New York.—In a running street battle of two mounted policemen and one patrolman against a highway robber in Brooklyn two of the officers were shot. The robber, James Murphy, was caught in the act of holding up a 17-year-old boy, and ran down Carlton avenue, dodging behind trees to shoot at his pursuers. The police fired only one shot, fearing to hit pedestrians. Murphy first brought down Patrolman Edward Quinn with a bullet inthe hip, and then Mounted Policeman Edward J. O'Connor, who was also hit in the hip. He tried to shoot the horse of the remaining mounted officer, but the revolver failed to fire, and the officer captured and arrested him. The wounded policemen will recover.

Father Gapon Is Up to Death.

St. Petersburg, via Eydtkubenen.—Father Gapon, who was leader of the workingmen at the inception of the labor troubles nearly a year ago, which led up to the present revolutionary movement, was Thursday condemned to death by a tribunal named by the central revolutionary committee. Two emissaries of the committee were named to carry out the sentence. Treachery to the cause of the people is the charge made against Father Gapon. On his return recently to Russia Father Gapon argued strongly against the continuance of the strikes. Immediately it was declared by the revolutionists that he had been bought by the government.

Summer Tales.

Bacon—Any fishing up in the country where you were this summer?

Egbert—Well, I should say so! Why, I never saw such big fish in my life!

"No; I guess you didn't."—Yonkers Statesman.

GENERAL STATE NEWS,

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

L. & N. Makes Answer.

Montgomery, Ala.—Answer has been filed in the city court of Montgomery to the quo warranto proceedings instituted by the state of Alabama ex rel. Henry B. Gray vs. the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company.

It will be remembered that the petitioner seeks to know by what authority the Louisville and Nashville is exercising the franchise of the South and North Railroad between Montgomery and Decatur. The answer sets out that the defendant has complied with the foreign corporation laws of Alabama, and is operating the road with the knowledge and consent of the board of directors of the South and North ana the stockholders of the Louisville and Nashville.

Martin Announces Against Clayton.

Ozark, Ala.—Rev. Harry L. Martin has formally announced himself for congress to oppose Hon. H. D. Clayton in the Third district. Mr. Martin was for years a leading lawyer, and later he was converted and entered the ministry. He has for some time been editing the Ozark Tribune. He has maintained all along that being a Baptist preacher was about the highest honor he wanted in this world, but for some time he has been trying to get some one to put himself on the altar and take the position of congressman from Hon. Henry D. Clayton, who has represented the Third district for some years.

Shooting at Kellerman.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—A shooting affair took place up at Kellerman last Thursday which resulted in two men getting shot. It seems that W. T. Atchley had sworn out a warrant for Alex Sullivan's children. When Sullivan saw Atchley he demanded that the warrant be withdrawn, and from this a quarrel ensued, in which the shooting took place with the result mentioned. Sullivan was shot in the leg with a pistol, and J. R. Atchley, a brother of the other Atchley, was shot in the body with a load of bird shot. Neither of the men are seriously wounded. There has been a warrant sworn out for Sullivan charging him with assault with intent to murder.

Comer in Tuscaloosa.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—For the first time since the campaign has been opened Hon. Braxton Bragg Comer, candidate for governor, spoke in Tuscaloosa. The audience that gathered to greet the distinguished visitor was moderately large and often grew enthused with the earnest talk that Mr. Comer made. His address was along the usual lines—railroad rate reform. Mr. Comer, judging from his address here, is making an effort to get the candidates for the legislature to fall in line with his views. It seems that the gubernatorial candidate will make a fight for the legislature.

Baggage Master in Trouble.

Birmingham, Ala.—Charged with embezzling the trunk of T. F. Wimberly, secretary-treasurer of the Wimberly & Thomas Hardware Company, upon his return from Europe last August, M. A. Black, a baggage master on the Southern Railway between here and Atlanta, is in the tower in the latter city. The contents of the trunk are said to have been valued at $1,400. Black, who is under arrest charged with the crime, is a resident of Austell, Ga., although he had rooms in Birmingham also until his arrest. It is also rumored that two other arrests have been made in connection with the trunk's disappearance, although authorities both here and in Georgia are extremely reticent about the whole matter.

Judge Stiles.

Birmingham, Ala.—Judge J. P. Stiles will, it is understood, formally enter the race for sheriff of Jefferson county Those who are in a position to talk state that this is practically a certainty, although it is said circumstances might cause him to defer his announcement or not make it at all.

Judge Stiles is said to be engaged now in making a formal draft of the platform upon which he will make the race, and it is said that this will deal with issues of great importance to the people.

Drank Forty-eight Glasses of Corn.

Birmingham, Ala.—Tom Smith, a young negro, broke the world's record Friday night for drinking "old corn," but he forfeited his life in doing so. According to statements of eye-witnesses the man drank forty-eight whisky glasses full of corn whisky and died a few hours afterwards.

Great Northern May Build.

Jackson, Miss.—It is believed here that the Goodyear syndicate, now engaged in building the New Orleans and Great Northern, has purchased the holdings of Foley & Larsen, of St. Paul, in this section. If true that means the Great Northern is coming to Jackson and will be extended north from here. The purchase involves more than 50,000 acres up Pearl River valley and investment of many thousands of dollars.

Game Preserve Planned.

Decatur, Ala.—Northern and eastern and local capitalists are making arrangements looking to the purchasing of several thousand acres of barren lands in Northern Alabama for a game preserve.

These barren lands lie about twenty miles north of this city and extend from a point in Southern Tennessee southward into Alabama for a distance of about fifteen miles. They extend about twenty-five miles east and west and embrace something like 375 square miles, or about 240,000 acres.

The soil is of a white sand and the region is covered by a dense growth of small scrubby blackjack oaks. In some places the underbrush is so dense that it is alomst impossible for man or horse to penetrate. Several small creeks flow through the region, and it would make an ideal game preserve. But little of the land has ever been settled.

Only a few years ago deer, wild turkey, and black bear and smaller game could be found in these barrens in great quantities. Even now a few deer and wild turkeys and other game can be found there.

It is the purpose of the company who propose to buy this land to stock it with wild game of all kinds.

The United States government is contemplating purchasing a large block of land in Northwestern Alabama for a forestry reserve. In that portion of the state there are thousands of acres of timber lands which have never been touched by the woodman's ax.

Alabama Port Hotel Burned.

Mobile, Ala.—At Alabama Port, Mobile county, the Bay Shore Hotel, a splendid structure two stories high and containing about eighty rooms, was completely destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered at 7 a. m. on the roof of the building. Efforts to stop the progress of the flames proved unavailing, and the entire building and contents were destroyed. The building was erected about two years ago by the Alabama Port Company and cost $10,000. It was at the time of its destruction under the management of J. P. McCann. The company carried only $5,000 insurance on the building and contents.

Steps were taken immediately by the Alabama Port Company to have a new building erected on the site of the old one. The new structure is to be built of concrete blocks.

Harris Announces.

Montgomery, Ala.—Maj. John G. Harris has formally announced his candidacy for one of the places as associate railroad commissioner. He comes before the people of the state thoroughly equipped for the office. He possesses all the elements and qualifications that go to make up a first-class officer. He is thoroughly acquainted with the needs and demands of the people and is in hearty sympathy with the reform movement that is going on against the railroad freight rates. He stands pat on that question. He states that his platform gives out no doubtful or uncertain sound. He is with the people in this fight.

Machinery for New Plant.

Anniston, Ala.—The machinery for the Lehman Manufacturing Company has been received. It will be installed at once at the company's plant, formerly the Anniston Furniture Factory, which will be in operation in the course of a few weeks. The plant manufactures blinds, window sash and various other wooden articles of similar description. It will employ a large force of workmen, and will be a valuable addition to the Model City's many prosperous industries.

Engineering Association's Convention.

Birmingham, Ala.—The annual convention of the Engineering Association of the South will be held in Birmingham Friday and Saturday, November 15 and 16. The business sessions of the convention will be held on the third floor of the city hall.

The convention will open Friday at noon, and it is expected that all the business will be finished at the night session. According to the present arrangements Saturday will be devoted to viewing the different points of interest in and around Birmingham, and Saturday night a banuet will be given at the Hotel Hillman.

Bonds for School.

Enterprise, Ala.—The city council has voted to call an election to issue $15,000 in bonds to be used in the erection of a school building. It will be completed in time for the next school year. In this action the council has the co-operation of the entire citizenship.

Mutinies Continue.

St. Petersburg, via Eydtkuhnen.—Marines and sailors here have mutinied and refused to obey orders to go to Kronstadt. One of the sailors voiced the resistance of his fellows and, addressing Admiral Niedermiller, said: "You should be drowned in your own blood. You want to have us together so that you can repeat the Sevastopol massacre, but we refuse to obey." The sailors took refuge in their barracks, which have been surrounded by troops.

PLENTY OF FRAUD

In Kansas—24 Prominent men Indicted by the Federal Grand Jury.

LEADING CITIZENS ARE CAUGHT.

Special Agent A. L. Green Says Work Has Only Begun—The State is Honeycombed With Fraud.

Topeka, Kas.—After submitting a partial report, containing twenty-four indictments against cattlemen, the United States grand jury, which has been in session here for the past week investigating Kansas land fraud cases, adjourned Saturday night until Thursday, December 14. Three of the indictments charge conspiracy to defraud the United States government out of a portion of its public domain and subornation of perjury in the securing of fraudulent homestead entries. The other twenty-one indictments charge the unlawful enclosure of the public lands.

The complete list of indictments returned in the partial report submitted is as follows:

For conspiracy to defraud the United States government out of a portion of its public domain and subornation of perjury in securing fraudulent homestead entries: John E. Bilby, J. H. Drain and L. C. Jenks.

For the unlawful enclosure of public lands: H. A. Kelly, R. M. Crawford, Wood Scott, A. B. Lynch, Robert L. Morton, H. S. Joice, E. Lehman, George W. Meridan, T. B. Porter, J. W. McLean, McCombs, J. M. Allen, J. M. Dean, John E. Bilby, J. H. Drain, R. I. Bilby, J. S. Bilby, Arthur Bowman.

Of the above R. M. Crawford is county treasurer of Stevens county; M. J. Allen is county attorney of Morton county, and E. M. Dean is probate judge of Morton county, all in this state.

J. S. Bilby is reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the state of Missouri. He is indicted for illegal fencing, but his son, John E. Bilby, must answer the more serious charges of conspiracy to defraud and subornation of perjury. All of the men indicted are wealthy cattle barons.

The twenty-four indictments are the result of less than two months' work by Col. A. L. Green, special agent of the United States land office. Colonel Green states that he has has barely commenced his work and will not stop until every case of land fraud in Kansas has been thoroughly investigated. The total amount of land held under fence by the indicted cattlemen is 403,000 acres, of which 135,065 acres is government land.

Witness Shot.

Birmingham, Ala.—The mysterious finding of a second dead man has complicated the killing of Daniel West, which occurred on the Tennessee road three miles from here five days since.

W. D. Johnson, who had testified at a coroner's inquest that he had loaned a pistol to Harry Scroggins and W. D. Harmon, who were charged with the murder, was discovered with a bullet in his breast in a similar manner to the finding of West. Johnson was quite dead when discovered, and had evidently been cold for some hours. At his side was his pistol, the same he is alleged to have loaned to the men charged with slaying West, with one chamber empty.

The deaths under such similar circumstances have created intense excitement.

Work for Life Savers.

Norfolk, Va.—As a result of the southeasterly gale that raged fiercely all day Saturday along the Atlantic seaboard, the point of greatest severity being Cape Hatteras and vicinity, there are three crafts practically on the beach between Cape Henry and Cape Hatteras and shipping has been entirely suspended out of Norfolk.

The steamer Aragon is ashore seventeen miles north of Bodies Island.

A large barge, the tow of the Aragon, turned loose early Saturday morning, ashore between Nags Head and Kill Devil's Hill.

An unknown schooner is ashore near Gull Shoals.

An unknown schooner was reported anchored off Cape Henry a mile and a half from shore, evidently in a crippled condition. So far as reported no lives have been lost, although the damage to shipping will be quite heavy.

The life saving crew at Cape Henry continously patrolled the beach. The crews of all the stranded vessels, with the exception of the steamer Aragon, have been landed by the life savers.

Representative Almon Resigns.

Hamilton, Ala.—Hon. C. P. Almon, who was representative in the 1903 legislature from Marion county, and who moved to Russellville, Ala., about fifteen months ago, has sent to the governor his resignation as representative for Marion county. In the event the legislature is called to meet in extra session a senator and a representative will have to be elected. Hon. W. I. Bullock, the late senator, having died nearly two years ago.

GOLD CANNOT ATONE.

Missionary Board Will Not Accept Cash for Murder of Missionaries.

New York.—That the Chinese government will not be required to pay punitive damage for the murder of several missionaries of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions at Lienchau, China, several weeks ago, has been decided so far as that board is concerned.

Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, secretary of the board, said that the board has decided that if it accepts any indemnity at all for the murders it shall be only for the actual cost of replacing the property damaged or destroyed by the murders, and that the board will refuse to accept indemnity for the dead. Mr. Brown also gave out a letter which he has received from Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister to the United States, in which the minister wrote:

"I note with special gratification that it has been unanimously decided by your board not to ask nor to receive indemnity of a punitive character. I have lost no time in advising my government of the conciliatory stand taken by your board in this matter, which I am sure will be gratefully appreciated by my government, as it is by myself.

"I have read with profound interest the extract from a letter recently received from the Rev. John Rogers Peale, one of the murdered missionaries. His words seem to me to have a prophetic ring. In his untimely death America has lost a notable son and China a true friend."

MRS. ROGERS HANGED.

Woman Pays Penalty for Murder of Her Husband, After Twice Being Reprieved.

Windsor, Vt.—Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers was hanged at the Vermont state prison at Windsor at 1:13 o'clock Friday afternoon for the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers. Mrs. Rogers was pronounced dead by the prison officials at 1:27 p. m. The execution took place after the woman had been twice reprieved on account of appeals made in her case by her counsel and after the United States supreme court refused to take action in the case.

Only a comparatively few persons witnessed the hanging, the number being restricted to those permitted to attend by the laws of Vermont.

Woman Shoots Tyrant Sakharoff.

London.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a dispatch sent by way of Eydtkuhunen, says:

"Lieutenant-General Sakharoff, the former minister of war, was assassinated Thursday.

"The government had deputized General Sakharoff to visit the province of Saratoff for the purpose of quelling the Agrarian riots there.

"A woman belonging to the so-called 'Flying Column' of the revolutionary movement, called at the house of the governor at Saratoff and asked to see General Sakharoff. She fired three shots at the general, killing him on the spot.

St. Petersburg.—The assassination of General Sakharoff, former minister of war, has caused the greatest rejoicing on the part of the revolutionists, who openly declare that he was killed according to their orders to show bureaucracy that tyranny will be put down with bloodshed.

Ten Thousands Bill Introduced.

Washington, D. C.—With congress in session only a week over 10,000 bills have been introduced in the house alone. Of the number 5,373 are known as public bills, and 5,963 are designated as private measures, for the reason that they are in the interest of individuals or corporations. Of the latter class pension bills constitute the great bulk of the number presented. Before this session comes to a close there will be something like 20,000 bills recorded, but comparatively few will become laws.

Overall Plant Burned.

Nashville, Tenn.—At 2 o'clock Sunday morning fire destroyed the plant of O'Bryan Bros., manufacturers of overalls, situated on the northeast corner of the public square. The loss on the stock is estimated at $60,000, fully insured. Loss on building, property of B. B. Allen, estimated at $20,000, and insured.

The big Methodist publishing house plant, directly across south from the burned building, was in much danger.

Two States Will Be Erected.

Washington, D. C.—Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, chairman of the committee on territories, had a conference with the president, in part regarding the status of the statehood bill. The senator is confident that congress at the present session will erect two states and that the opposition will not be serious. One will be of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory and the other from New Mexico and Arizona.

Improvements Will Be Made.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Sayre Mining and Manufacturing Company will make some immense improvements in its property and holdings in the Birmingham district. The extent of these improvements has not yet been made be spent. Not only will the property of the company at Sayre be improved and the output of the mines increased materially, but the company will probably establish industrial plants in the district.

LIGHT

Breaking in Russia—Situation Despite Sensational Statements is much Improved.

A NEW ERA IS NOW DAWNING.

Thousands of Japanese Soldiers, Prisoners of War in Russia, Boarding Steamers for Home

Berlin.—In spite of all sensational statements to the contrary, the situation in Russia is rapidly improving and according to letters from the czarina to her relatives at Darmstadt neither she nor the czar have at any time had any fear for their personal safety.

With Trepoff and Pobiedonsteff out of the way and the grand ducal clique thoroughly disheartened, the czar has now become convinced that the program of Count Witte offers the only remedy against the present disturbances, and Nicholas is now working on a message which will give to the people of Russia the political freedom they have been sighing for for years.

That a new era is dawning in Russia is clearly shown by the fact that Maxim Gorki, a few months ago in danger of being banished, has now been allowed to publish a daily paper "New Life," devoted to the interests of the working people of Russia.

This is the first socialistic paper openly published in Russia, and Count Witte, although opposed to the principles it advocates, was the first to subscribe for it.

Thousands of Japanese soldiers who have been prisoners of war in Russia are in this city at present en route for Bremen, where they are to board steamers which are to carry them back. All these men, nearly all of whom are invalids and hopelessly crippled, speak in the highest terms of the treatment they have received in Russia.

Charitable Russian ladies have provided them not only with clothes and shoes and tobacco, but also with money, which will enable those most severely wounded to spend the rest of their days in comfort.

From their own government they have received nothing, and not even those who have lost arms and legs will receive any pension, so that but for Russian generosity they would have to starve to death after they reach Japan.

Cloyd's Landing, Ky.—Martin Skipworth, a wealthy farmer of Potter's Creek, this county, committed suicide by hanging himself. Skipworth arose early in the morning and went to his barn to feed his stock, as was thought, but as he staid longer than usual members of his family went to look after him and found him swinging to the top of the barn dead. It is said this was his third attempt. There is no apparent cause for Skipworth's taking his life, and some persons profess to believe that he awe murdered, but there is no evidence to sustain this theory. He had just sold his farm for which he received $5,000, and had purchased another nearby, for which he was to pay $4,000, and the deal was to have been closed on the day he committed suicide. The deceased was 55 years of age, and is survived by a wife and several children and grandchildren.

Elect Senators by Popular Vote.

Washington, D. C.—"I favor the election of senators by popular vote in their respective states," says Hon. John Sharp Williams.

"The constitution provides two methods for its amendment. One is when two-thirds of each house of congress submits an amendment to the people. A constitutional amendment to require the popular election of senators will never be passed that way, for the simple reason that the senate will never concur. The only way that it can be passed is by three-fourths of the states acting in that way, in a convention called for that purpose. Whether that will ever be done or not the public is as good a judge as I.

"In my own part of the country senators are already substantially elected by the people. Party primaries are held and a majority is required; if there is only a plurality in the first primary another is held between the two highest candidates, so that there shall be a majority, and the man elected by the majority of the people is the nominee of his party, and his election acts as an instruction to the senators and the members of the house of the state legislature.

"A man would no sooner think of violating it than an elector would think of violating his pledge for a certain presidential ticket."

To Open More Ballot Boxes.

New York.—Applications to open seventeen ballot boxes were made by counsel for William R. Hearst, who is contesting New York's recent mayoralty election with George B. McClellan. Justice Stover, of the supreme court, signed orders to show cause why that number of ballot boxes should not be opened. The orders are returnable in the supreme court.

THE LOVER'S

Parting of the Ways — A N

[illegible]
[illegible] of radiant hue
Our homage must we render
And pay our tithe to you
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
And sadly [illegible]

Your eyes whose depths are deeper Than any Southern spring
That made the thirsty reaper
Where moss and fern cling
Your eyes with rapture gleaming,
Flushed with shy, pure gladness
Charged with sweet girlish dreaming
As starshine drenched in rain

How fast the time went flying
How swiftly sped the hours
Short shrift for lover's sighing
Brief space to garner flowers
The first mad [illegible] passion
Has tamed its fierce delight
We loved in frantic fashion
And part in foolish spite

Your song was low and [illegible]
Than birds that sigh [illegible]
Or music's mournful meter
Or Swinburne's symphonies [illegible]
You dawned on the beholder
Like sunshine and the [illegible]
When wintry blasts sing colder
Lamenting summer's dawn

You came and all was gladness
Your step was like the fawn
Your [illegible] had the sadness
The chaste delight of dawn
You frolicked through the Maytime
As dream of pure delight
Youth's golden hours for playtime
Like supple fawn in flight

A PURITA

BY PA

(Copyright 1905 by Daily

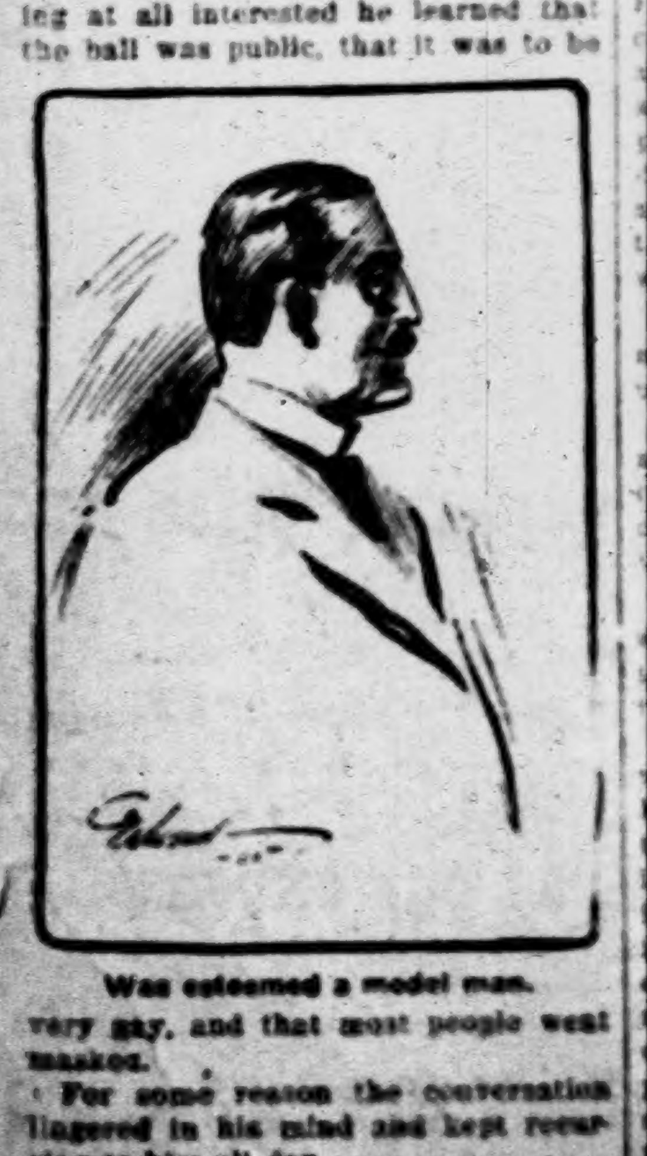
Charles Livingston, of Puritan ancestry and New England training and rigid business habits and principles found himself in New Orleans in mid winter on a mission for his house He was a partner in the house, although barely thirty, and his head was considered not less cool nor his judgment less steady and conservative than that of his gray-haired associates.

As to his character and habits—but why speak of that? He had been a model youth, as he now was esteemed a model man. By this it is not meant to suggest that he was goody-goody, or anything of that sort. He was a strong, robust, healthy, normal fellow, who had been born of good stock, with good principles, had been well brought up and respected himself and the precepts of his parents. At college he had gone in for athletics, but not for dissipation. When he graduated he took up the serious business of life and, of course, found a ready opportunity, of which he availed himself to the uttermost. So at thirty he was well established for life so far as business was concerned, and was well along on the road to being a rich man. He was not married, never having found time to indulge in social pleasures, nor to cultivate the very considerable streak of romance which ran through his nature.

Through no fault of his the business he had in hand at New Orleans dragged fearfully, and he was detained there much longer than had been anticipated. But it was of sufficient importance to demand his presence. So he found much leisure on his hands and gave more time to sight seeing and pleasure than he ever had done before. He enjoyed especially to go away from haunts of trade and plunge into the old historic section of the city, letting his imagination run riot with the old houses and filling his mind with pictures of what might have happened in bygone days.

He had almost exhausted the sights, tired of the theater and other forms of pastime and was beginning to chafe at his enforced stay, when he overheard a conversation one day which put a strange idea into his head. For you know Satan finds mischief still for idle hands to do.

He was at the old absinthe place, sipping a glass of the stuff, against which there are so many warnings, and wondering how anybody could become addicted to its habitual use, when two young fellows at the next table started in to discuss a fancy dress ball, to be given that night. They talked so loudly that he was an involuntary listener. Without being at all interested he learned that the ball was public, that it was to be very gay, and that most people went masked.



Was esteemed a model man.

For some reason the conversation lingered in his mind and kept recurring to him all day.

"Why not go?" he thought. "I never saw a fancy dress ball—nor any sort of function participated in by the half-world. I'm bored to death and would like to see something new. I

LIGHT

aking in Russia—Situation Despite Sensational Statements is much Improved.

NEW ERA IS NOW DAWNING.

usands of Japanese Soldiers, Prisoners of War in Russia, Board ng Steamers for Home.

erlin.—In spite of all sensational ements to the contrary, the situa- in Russia is rapidly improving, according to letters from the czar to her relatives at Darmstadt her she nor the czar have at any e had any fear for their personal ty.

With Trepoff and Pobiedonstseff out he way and the grand ducal clique roughly disheartened, the czar has become convinced that the pro- m of Count Witte offers the only edy against the present disturb- es and Nicholas is now working a message which will give to the ple of Russia the political freedom y have been sighing for for years. hat a new era is dawning in Rus- is clearly shown by the fact that xim Gorki, a few months ago in ger of being banished, has now n allowed to publish a daily paper, w Life," devoted to the interests he working people of Russia.

This is the first socialistic paper uly published in Russia, and Count tte, although opposed to the princi- s it advocates, was the first to sub- ibe for it.

housands of Japanese soldiers, who e been prisoners of war in Russia, in this city at present en route for men, where they are to board amers which are to carry them k. All these men, nearly all of m are invalids and hopelessly crip- l, speak in the highest terms of the tment they have received in Rus-

Charitable Russian ladies have pro- ed them not only with clothes and es and tobacco, but also with ney, which will enable those most erely wounded to spend the rest of ir days in comfort.

From their own government they e received nothing, and not even se who have lost arms and legs will eive any pension, so that but for ssian generosity they would have to rve to death after they reach Japan.

Floyd's Landing, Ky.—Martin Skip- rth, a wealthy farmer of Potter's ek, this county, committed suicide hanging himself. Skipworth arose ly in the morning and went to his n to feed his stock, as was thought, as he staid longer than usual, mbers of his family went to look er him and found him swinging to top of the barn dead. It is said s was his third attempt. There is apparent cause for Skipworth's tak- his life, and some persons profess believe that he aws murdered, but re is no evidence to sustain this ory. He had just sold his farm for ich he received $5,000, and had pur- ased another nearby, for which he s to pay $4,000, and the deal was have been closed on the day he mmitted suicide. The deceased was years of age, and is survived by a e and several children and grand- ldren.

Elect Senators by Popular Vote.

Washington, D. C.—"I favor the ction of senators by popular vote in ir respective states," says Hon. n Sharp Williams.

"The constitution provides two meth- s for its amendment. One is when o-thirds of each house of congress mits an amendment to the people. onstitutional amendment to require popular election of senators will er be passed that way, for the sim- reason that the senate will never cur. The only way that it can be sed is by three-fourths of the states ing in that way, in a convention led for that purpose. Whether that l ever be done or not the public is good a judge as I.

"In my own part of the country sen- rs are already substantially elected the people. Party primaries are d and a majority is required; if re is only a plurality in the first mary another is held between the highest candidates, so that there ll be a majority, and the man cted by the majority of the people the nominee of his party, and his ction acts as an instruction to the ators and the members of the use of the state legislature.

"A man would no sooner think of lating it than an elector would nk of violating his pledge for a cer- n presidential ticket."

To Open More Ballot Boxes.

New York.—Applications to open venteen ballot boxes were made by unsel for William R. Hearst, who is ntesting New York's recent mayor- y election with George B. McClel- n. Justice Stover, of the supreme urt, signed orders to show cause why at number of ballot boxes should not opened. The orders are returnable the supreme court.

THE LOVER'S ROSARY

Parting of the Ways—A Memory of Boyhood.

[illegible] was so archly tender,
[illegible] eyes of radiant hue,
[illegible] homage must we render
And pay our tithe to you.
[illegible] alien strand we wander,
[illegible] by desire to roam,
[illegible] health and wealth we squander
And sadly dream of home!

[illegible] eyes whose depths are deeper
Than any bubbling spring
That cools the thirsty reaper,
Where moss and ivy cling,
[illegible] eyes with rapture gleaming,
[illegible]shed with shy, pure disdain,
[illegible]ged with sweet girlish dreaming,
As starshine drenched in rain.

How fast the time went flying,
How swiftly sped the hours,
[illegible] shrift for lover's sighing
[illegible] of space to garner flowers.
[illegible]at mad boyish passion
[illegible] tamed its fierce delight,
[illegible]ed in frantic fashion,
[illegible] part in foolish spite.

[illegible]ng was low and sweeter
Than birds that sigh for rain
[illegible]le's mournful meter,
[illegible] Swinburne's sumptuous strain.
[illegible] dawned on the beholder
Like sunshine 'mid the gloom,
[illegible] wintry blasts sting colder,
[illegible]ting summer's doom.

[illegible]ame and all was gladness,
[illegible] step was like the fawn,
[illegible]oyance had the madness,
[illegible] chaste delight of dawn
[illegible] frolicked through the Maytime
[illegible] dream of pure delight,
[illegible] golden hours for playtime,
[illegible] supple fawn in flight.

As sea bird from the ocean,
You fluttered to his side,
He raised you with devotion
And tamed your girlish pride,
A gleam of sunshine starting
Across his wintry life,
A snatch of song allaying
The soul that sighed for strife.

But time, who scoffs at lovers,
Gave them a little grace,
The while shy Spring uncovers
Her flushed, wet, amorous face.
Your rose leaf face was fairer
Than foam from wind-swept spray,
Your beauty's rich and rarer,
Than harbinger of May.

Love brought them as a token
The trophies of the fray.
A boyish heart was broken
And bruised, and cast away.
He found you blithe, capricious,
Your hair as fair as foam,
Wild, candid, and delicious,
A sea bird keen to roam.

Time's up for love and laughter,
Soft vows and bridal bliss,
Remorse must follow after,
And chill sweet clinging kiss.
You were the daintiest creature
That e'er the Sun caressed,
As fair as foam each feature—
But fickle like the rest.

Farewell, the dream has vanished
As mist melts in the sun,
Fond boyish hopes are banished,
Those golden days are done.
They've had their share of pleasure,
They've drained the sweets of life,
Joy gave them heaping treasure,
Of Love's keen lusty light.

—JAMES E. KINSELLA.
Registry Division, Chicago Postoffice.

A PURITAN ABROAD

BY PAUL BLAKE

(Copyright 1905 by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Charles Livingston, of Puritan ancestry and New England training and business habits and principles found himself in New Orleans in midwinter on a mission for his house. He was a partner in the house, although barely thirty, and his head was considered not less cool nor his judgment less steady and conservative than that of his gray-haired associates.

As to his character and habits—but why speak of that? He had been a model youth, as he now was esteemed a model man. By this it is not meant to suggest that he was goody-goody, or anything of that sort. He was a strong, robust, healthy, normal fellow, who had been born of good stock, with good principles, had been well brought up and respected himself and the precepts of his parents. At college he had gone in for athletics, but not for dissipation. When he graduated he took up the serious business of life and, of course, found a ready opportunity, of which he availed himself to the uttermost. So at thirty he was well established for life so far as business was concerned, and was well along on the road to being a rich man. He was not married, never having found time to indulge in social pleasures, nor to cultivate the very considerable streak of romance which ran through his nature.

Through no fault of his the business he had in hand at New Orleans dragged fearfully, and he was detained there much longer than had been anticipated. But it was of sufficient importance to demand his presence. So he found much leisure on his hands and gave more time to sight seeing and pleasure than he ever had done before. He enjoyed especially to go away from haunts of trade and plunge into the old historic section of the city, letting his imagination run riot with the old houses and filling his mind with pictures of what might have happened in bygone days.

He had almost exhausted the sights, tired of the theater and other forms of pastime and was beginning to chafe at his enforced stay, when he overheard a conversation one day which put a strange idea into his head. For you know Satan finds mischief still for idle hands to do.

He was at the old absinthe place, sipping a glass of the stuff, against which there are so many warnings, and wondering how anybody could become addicted to its habitual use, when two young fellows at the next table started in to discuss a fancy dress ball, to be given that night. They talked so loudly that he was an involuntary listener. Without being at all interested he learned that the ball was public, that it was to be very gay, and that most people went masked.

Was esteemed a model man.

For some reason the conversation lingered in his mind and kept recurring to him all day.

"Why not go?" he thought. "I never saw a fancy dress ball—nor any sort of function participated in by the half-world. I'm bored to death and would like to see something new. I can go masked and nobody will be the wiser."

Well, of course, that happened which always happened when old Beelzebub gets us to lend an ear for a moment. Livingston temporized, hesitated—and fell. The fall occurred along in the evening and with fatal exactness he recollected having seen a costumer's shop with a sign "Open Evenings." His feet carried him unerringly to the place and he selected a black domino and a mask. Very soon he rolled up to the place at which the ball was held, in a cab, and in a trice was a part of the gay and brilliant throng.

"I cannot make my identity known."

For an hour it made him fairly dizzy. The masking of the women seemed to make them more audacious in the display of their charms and Livingston marveled greatly at the ingenuity with which they had contrived to adopt costumes so as to suggest to the full the graceful and alluring lines of their figures. Some of the skirts were so high and necks so low as to make the mask the most considerable article of apparel.

It was all very new and very interesting to the northern business man, with his strict training and correct life and he was deeply interested. He was leaning against a pillar watching the kaleidoscopic panorama, when a tall and graceful figure, in a most alluring domino of purple silk of the richest texture, paused before him and said:

"Why standest thou all the night in moody contemplation, oh, most sombre Knight?"

Startled, Livingston straightened himself and glanced at his questioner. Her raven hair was caught up with costly jewels, her costume bespoke a generous purse; her domino clung about the lines of a figure of singular perfection; her slippered feet and daintily gloved hands bespoke the aristocrat. "Still, who knows?" thought Livingston. Summoning his wits he replied:

"A stranger in a strange land I must be content to gaze from afar upon the promised land."

"There are no strangers here tonight," said the woman. "All are comrades and friends. Be not a death's head at the feast, I conjure you."

With wildly beating heart Livingston took the plunge. "If indeed none here are strangers I claim you. Come!"

He stepped forward and without a word and without hesitation she took his proffered arm. They walked through the ribald crowd, she clinging close to him, he with his head in a whirl and his heart thumping. She spoke softly in the very voice of love and glancing down at her mask he saw the gleam of flashing eyes, and was filled with strange and powerful emotions. They passed a door within which were palms and flowers and rustic seats.

"Let us go in and sit down," he said abruptly, and turned back.

She acquiesced with a silvery laugh.

"I would see your face," he said, as he handed her to a seat. With the words he tore off his own mask.

She gazed for an instant into his clean-cut, high-bred face and with a graceful motion removed her own mask.

The two gazed searchingly at each other for longer than strict propriety would allow. He saw the most beautiful woman he ever had looked upon, with the white complexion, the lustrous eyes, the long lashes, the full red lips, the rich coloring and contrasts of the daughter of the South. She saw the strong features, the flashing blue eye, the clear complexion, the blonde hair of the true northern gentleman.

A flush suffused her features. In an instant his mind was made, as decisively as in any business deal. He threw discretion to the winds.

"I know not who you are, but I would fain have leave to pay you my addresses—yea, yet further, I who have known you but a few moments now and here declare my love. I am no knave or fool, my name is—"

"No, no; I refuse to hear it," she said, rising and interrupting him, "for I cannot make my identity known, nor will it be of any use to follow me. I thank you and respect you for your ardor and your frankness. I know that you are a gentleman and knew it when I accosted you. I may say that I am not unworthy of your avowal in any way. It pleased my fancy to see if I could inspire just such an avowal as you have made. I have had my emotion, you have had yours. Good-by."

And before he could speak or move she had vanished through the door. He pursued furiously and arrived at the outer entrance just in time to see her jump breathlessly into an awaiting carriage, well attended by driver and footman in livery, and be driven rapidly away.

That was the end of the episode, but many times as Charles Livingston sits in his well-appointed home, watching his brown-haired wife and tow-headed children at work or play, his mind turns back and he muses wonderingly.

WITTE LOVED BROOKLYN MAID.

Russian Peace Envoy Lost His Heart to Little Miss Bawo.

News has reached Brooklyn that M. Witte, the Russian peace envoy, whose triumph at Portsmouth did much to redeem the czar's prestige, lost his heart on the trip across the Atlantic to a very fair little daughter of Brooklyn, according to the New York World. M. Witte sailed some weeks ago on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Among his fellow passengers were Carl Bawo of 214 8th avenue, Brooklyn, and Mr. Bawo's family. The youngest of this family was Miss Aneita Bawo, a pretty brown-eyed girl of 4 summers, and it was with Miss Aneita that the big Russian diplomat fell in love.

He began to pay attention to the wee Brooklynite immediately after the ship left the Narrows, and one of the sights that amused the passengers was the big bearded representative of the czar and the tiny maiden from Brooklyn romping up and down the deck. The delights of the smoking room had no charm for M. Witte while Miss Aneita was out of her berth.

Mr. Bawo, who is a wealthy bric-a-brac importer and manufacturer, and is combining with a pleasure trip through Europe the business of inspecting his factories in Germany, stopped at Bremen and there M. Witte parted from his little American sweetheart.

His parting gift was a very pretty jeweled bonbon box, which the little lady will regard as quite a treasure when she grows up. Meanwhile she is quite inconsolable over the loss of her big playmate.

To the New Baby.

Little kicking, cuddling thing,
You don't cry—you only sing!
Blinking eyes and stubby nose,
Mouth that mocks the budding rose,
Down for hair, peach blows for hands—
Ah-h-h-h! Of all the "baby grands"
Anyone could wish to see
You're the finest one for me!

Skin as soft as velvet is;
God (when you were only his)
Touched you on the cheek and chin—
Where he touched are dimples in.
Creases on your wrists, as though
Strings were fastened round them so
We could tie you tight and keep
You from leaving while we sleep.

Once I tried to look at you
From a stranger's point of view;
You were red and wrinkled; then
I just loved, and looked again;
What I saw was not the same;
In my eyes the blessed flame
Of a father's love consumed
Faults to stranger's eyes illumed.

Little squirming, cuddling thing!
Ere you shed each angel wing,
Did they tell you you were sent
With a cargo of content
To a home down here below
Where they hungered for you so?
Do you know, you flawless pearl,
How we love our baby girl?

—Baltimore American.

The Way In.

Mr. Stingiman's antiquated steed is, to put it mildly, somewhat attenuated. As if to make up for the thinness of its body, however, Nature has given the animal a head many sizes too large.

Of course people talk about that horse, and Mr. Stingiman doesn't like it. The other week, for example, he had gone to the expense of a new collar for the brute.

Ten minutes after delivery he was back at the saddler's with the collar.

"You blunderers!" be observed, in the polite way characteristic of him. "You've made it too small. I can't get it over his head!"

"Over his head?" ejaculated the saddler. "Man, it wasn't made to go over his head. Back him into it!"

And Mr. Stingiman was quite rude.
—London Answers.

Gulf of California Pearls.

The whole coast of the gulf of California abounds in pearls, and last year $250,000 worth was harvested in lower California alone.

HOW FINE HYMN WAS WRITTEN.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers," Composed for School Festival.

Probably a greater hymn never had a more humble origin than "Onward, Christian Soldiers," which is one of the most popular of our modern hymns. In the October Delineator Allan Sutherland writes:

"A great school festival was to be held in a Yorkshire village on Whit-Monday, 1865, and the scholars of Horbury Bridge school, over which the Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould was curate, were invited to attend. As the place of the celebration was some distance away, the minister thought it would be an excellent plan to have his scholars march to the singing of an appropriate and stirring hymn. Fortunately for our hymnology, he could find nothing in his song books suitable for such an occasion, so from sheer necessity he sat down on the Saturday evening preceding the celebration and composed this great processional hymn, little dreaming that he had produced that which would be world-wide in its usefulness and make his name a household word. Baring-Gould, a minister of the Church of England, is an authority on many subjects, and is a voluminous writer, having published nearly one hundred volumes. In twenty years, between 1870 and 1890, he issued no less than forty-three books, sixteen of which were novels. During the next six years he published seventeen novels. A number of his works have passed down through several editions. This suggests the poet Thomas Gray who was also a man of vast learning, not only in literature, but in all the arts and sciences of his day, and although he left writings enough to form, with his life, a book of four volumes, edited by Edmund Gosse, it is by his one poem, "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard," that he will be ever remembered. This may also prove true of Baring-Gould. The few lines hurriedly composed on a Saturday evening as a marching song for a band of little children will doubtless give his name greater fame than all the books he has ever written.

Walked on Tiptoe Through Habit.

Three good-looking workmen passed down the long length of the art gallery on tiptoe.

"Why do they walk on tiptoe?" said a patron.

The proprietor smilingly answered.

"I'll tell you why, and the reason is so strange that you will hardly credit it.

"Those men are stained glass workers imported from Paris for my new stained glass department and they walk on tiptoe because they have worked so much in churches and cathedrals that the gait has become habitual with them.

"Practically all their working hours have been spent in the repairing of the magnificent old painted windows of the churches of Europe. Since these churches are always open, since services are always going on in them, work must be conducted quietly and all walking must be done on the toes.

"Hence these three excellent artists whenever they enter a specious and quiet place like this gallery of mine rise up on their toes involuntarily from a subconscious notion that they are in church.

"This is odd, but true—true of all European stained glass workers.

The Vain Assault.

In vain the serried hosts of care
Do storm the citadel of youth;
The missiles hurtle harmless there,
And not a breach is made, in sooth!
Across the sturdy battlements
A laugh comes ringing for reply
And checks all rosy-red gleam fair
As rose-red banners 'gainst the sky.

In vain of care the serried host
Doth storm the fortress fair of love;
It's strongest when besieged the most,
Assault doth but its wonder prove.
A happy smile of calm content
And faith exceeding sweet is all
It needs to guard each battlement
Against besieging blows that fall!

. . . .

Ah, love, if youth alone be strong Enough the sieging to withstand,
And love incapable of wrong
Or breach at care's destroying hand,
Then how must we, who have them twain,
Fair youth conjoined with fondest love,
Untouched of essays weak and vain,
Be all care's malice far above!

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

All the Comforts of Home.

"Nat" Goodwin the comedian once possessed a fine country house on the banks of the Thames river, near New London, Connecticut. Every summer he used to invite some of his Thespian friends to join his house party.

On one such occasion Goodwin delivered himself of a bon mot that is worth repeating.

"Nat," said some one, "you certainly have a fine place here. Just think of it, a lawn right on the river!"

"Yes," drawled "Nat," "it's fine. In the spring we have the lawn on the river, and in the fall we have the river on the lawn."—The Sunday Magazine.

Saved.

The man dressmaker in his pink velvet coat wrung his hands in despair.

"Here it is October," he cried, "and I have not yet evolved a new idea in winter gowns."

"Master," said the apprentice timidly.

"What, boy?"

"I have thought out a novel type of gown that will make a woman look like a broken-backed ape with wings."

"Superb!" the master cried. "Let us model it at once. 'Twill take the world by storm."—Chicago Chronicle.

Tartars Deliver Their Arms.

The London Globe states that Gen. Svietlov recently ordered all the Tartars in the Baku district to come in and deliver their arms on a certain day. At the appointed time two rusty daggers and a Waterbury watch were turned in.

HAVING FUN IN MONTANA

"In the mining country of Montana we have to deal with that curious species of man that comes from Cornwall and contiguous sections of Merrie England, and we have our hands full," declared Shad Buller, Westerner, to a New York Sunday Telegraph man. "Those Cornish miners are the limit. Among the innumerable things they do not know is the art of driving. A man reaches the height of opprobrium when he says that some other man knows no more about driving than a Cornishman. There is usually a fight over such a statement. And the well-known inability of the Cornish section of the population was formerly the cause of one of the weirdest spectacles Montana presented, even in the old mining camp days.

"When one of Cornwall's former citizens dies it is the custom to preserve the remains in some fashion until Sunday, when all of his compatriots have a day off and all can attend the funeral. Next to getting drunk, the average Cornish miner enjoys a funeral more than anything else in the world.

"In Butte fifteen or twenty years ago a Cornish funeral was a sight to behold. I have frequently seen 500 carriages in the procession to the cemetery. The mourners, all comfortably filled with the drink that cheers, would ride sedately to the cemetery, a mile or so from town, and when the remains were safely interred the fun would start. [illegible] with all the miners would race back to town, urging their teams to the utmost.

"As stated, in that country a Cornishman is said not to know how to drive, and as these funeral antics were well-known characteristics of the species, each livery stable in town would have representatives along the road to intercept the returning miners and take the teams from them. The liveryman would meet the man who hired his team on the road, throw him out of the carriage and take the team back to the stable, returning on horseback to recover another team. It was a common thing for five or six horses to be killed during the course of one of these Sunday jamborees, and after a while the liverymen refused to trust the miners with their teams and the funerals were deprived of their most spectacular and attractive feature, to the minds of the miners."

RELICS OF THE CONFEDERACY

In a fireproof vault, opening from a small room on the third floor of the treasury department in Washington, are the manuscript archives which set forth the diplomatic efforts of the confederacy to secure recognition as a member of the family of nations, to obtain means to establish an army and navy and to bring about foreign intervention, according to the Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis.

Washington contains other little-known but important relics of the confederacy. Among the most important are the "Pickett Papers." When the most important of the confederate archives were removed from Richmond the diplomatic correspondence was hidden in a barn in Virginia. Later the papers were brought in four trunks from Richmond to Washington by Col. John T. Pickett, their custodian. Failing in his efforts to dispose of them, he took them to Canada and there, in 1872, they were purchased for the use of the United States. Congress appropriated $75,000 in payment and they were brought to Washington. They remained in their original trunks until a short time ago, when they were transferred to specially constructed chests of polished pine.

In another small, dark room in the Treasury building stand seven large packing boxes, filled with confederate money, a portion of which was captured from southern banks and from confederate soldiers and which was forwarded through the war department to the treasury. The larger share of it was collected by treasury agents, who conducted the cotton business of the United States in 1864 and succeeding years. Every variety of confederate note or bill may be found in these boxes.

Among the confederate archives there is a scrapbook containing a lithograph copy of the letter written by Pope Pius IX. to Jefferson Davis, replying to Davis' letter thanking the pope for his open letter to the archbishop of New York and New Orleans, urging them to endeavor to restore peace. This is about the only one of the relics of the collection which visitors are permitted to inspect.

SPEED OF RAILWAY TRAINS

In answer to our question as to the speed of passenger trains, the Hon. Martin F. Knapp, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, says that, within limits, the whole question is one of conditions, and adds: "The rate of speed entirely safe on one line might be positively dangerous on another, says a writer in Leslie's Weekly. "The varying circumstances on different lines would seem to preclude any rule of general application." President Ripley of the Santa Fe road—who recently caused a special train to be run between Los Angeles and Chicago in record-breaking time—says that the only difference in a fast train compared with a slow train is that the fast train is composed of fewer cars than the slow train, and that, having none of the dead weight, represented by express and mail cars of the slow trains between the engine and the passenger cars, the passengers on the shorter train are more liable to injury in case of accident. President Wilcox of the Delaware & Hudson road, thinks there is a tendency to operate freight trains much too rapidly, though his road has a record of not having killed a passenger during the last eleven years. President Underwood of the Erie road compares a fast train to a skyscraper, saying that a man who falls from the top of such a building receives injuries no greater than does a man who falls from the fifth story. President Barr of the Seaboard Air line, says that high-speed trains receive more care and greater protection than slow speed trains do, as all employes are required to facilitate and protect the movement of high-speed trains to the utmost. G. M. Basford, editor of the American Engineer and Railroad have a more uniform installation of the signaling system, as in England, we should not greatly increase the speed of trains. And yet, asked why it is that the fatalities on English railways are so much smaller than on American railways, President Newman of the New York Central, said: "I do not believe there is any such great disproportion in fatalities on roads in this country and in England, considering the differences in conditions. It is, indeed, impossible to make a fair or just or intelligent comparison."

IN SWEDEN'S CAPITAL CITY

From Sweden's capital an enthusiastic visitor writes: "The sky has an almost Italian radiance, as the sun shines clear and bright on the glittering levels of the lagoon that divide the new town from the old. Across the water, on which a fleet of white ferryboats ply, rises the broad front of the palace, the stern outline of which is relieved by the russet glow which time has lent to the brickwork. In front of the palace runs a broad quay crowded with shipping, behind which one may catch peeps of narrow, winding streets, with sloping roofs and painted houses bent with age. The square front of the palace rise above the red and gray roofs, seeming to command the old city. On my right the waters narrow to a swift rushing stream, over which a stately bridge has been thrown, uniting the palace with the picturesque pile of the opera house, or rather with the broad square in which it stands. Behind the opera house lie broad streets of modern houses, in which there are unexpected glimpses of waterways crowded with shipping.

"Stockholm is built on a series of islands formed by Lake Malaren. It is indeed the city of a thousand islands and rocky reefs, which are sown broadcast many miles beyond the mainland where the lakes and river joins the sea. The steamers which ply up and down the lake afford endless excursions. Seaward you may sail a day among the islands until you reach the long, low reefs on which the Baltic beats.

"In spite of their cold climate the Swedes delight in the open air. After the indoor life of English or American cities it is a great pleasure to take one's meals out of doors, although it may sometimes be necessary to dine wrapped in an overcoat. We have seen people dining in the Tivoli gardens beneath awnings and umbrellas in the rain. This habit may explain the health and vigor of the Swedes."

LITTLE WORTHY TO OFFER

Lord, it is utterly nothing, nothing I bring to thee;
Thou hast let the light of thy heaven down so I can plainly see;
I thought I had wealth and worth to bring,
and a portion of love and bliss;
Nor dreamed the whole of my fanciful store could shrivel and fade to this.

Lord, it is utterly nothing I bring with shame and tears;
The gathered griefs and sorrows of fruitless and faithless years,
The fires that have burned to ashes the hopes that are dead and lost;
Flowers nourished and cherished fondly grown sere with the early frost—

Lord, it is worse than nothing, yet all that I have to bring
Is here in the hapless burden laid down at the feet of my King.
I would I could make it worthy, could [illegible] with stars the night,
Could wring out the sin and the sorrow and wash the offering white.

It is finished—my fruitless labor, my quest for a living tree,
Whose branches might sweeten and brighten the [illegible] of misery.
It is finished, my useless striving, my struggles for worth of my own;
I can only fall down with my burden and trust in thy grace alone.

And, oh! where I fall thou hast found me!
and, oh! thou art lifting me up!
And into the sea of thy mercy the sin and suffering drop.
The arms of thy love are beneath me, the seal of thy truth on my hand;
Oh, love that is infinite, holy! oh, Prescience supernal and grand!

I give thee my striving and straying and take back a heaven of peace,
I give thee my efforts unskillful and fruitless—[illegible]
I take back Omnipotence, holy and [illegible]
and loving and true.
Oh, barter the wonder of wonders! Oh, grandeur that [illegible] in view!

Oh, love that is [illegible]! Oh, victim of Calvary slain!
In thee are fulfilled [illegible]
[illegible]
Oh, Lamb that [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
The [illegible]
[illegible]
—William [illegible]

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

WITH cotton bringing over 11 cents per pound, and eggs 30 cents per dozen, Chilton is prospering as never before.

MAJOR John G. Harris, of Chambers county, announces himself a candidate for Associate Railroad Commissioner. A better man cannot be found for the job.

An exceedingly interesting little booklet on the water powers of Alabama, by Prof. B. M. Hall, has recently been issued by the U. S Geological Survey. Professor Hall has spent many years of his life in investigating hydrographic conditions in the South, and anything from his pen will be regarded as valuable. The investigation just concluded and the deductions formed therefrom are exceedingly important in view of the awakened interest on the part of capital in the undeveloped resources of the South. Already the value of these investigations has been shown by the utilization of numerous water powers and the promotion of manufacturing enterprises which have made use of the data supplied by the government.

By applying to the Director of the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., for Water Supply and Irragation Papers, No's. 107 and 115, these reports will be furnished free of charge.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Court continued in session until Friday evening about 4 o'clock, when final adjournment was made. The following cases completing the week's work:

Elbert Mims, disturbing religious worship, fine $20.

Paul Shelton, assault to murder, fine $10.

W. P. Means, selling liquor, not guilty.

Will West and Clarence West, grand larceny; Will West guilty, 2 years in penitentiary; Clarence West, nolle prosse.

Will West, escape from custody, nolle prosse.

Eugene, alias Red, Curlee, assault to murder, nolle prosse.

John Vinson, assault and battery, continued.

Jesse Baker, cruelty to animals, not guilty.

Jodie Martin, disturbing religious worship, continued.

Joe Walker, alias Walter McGlothern, carrying concealed weapon, continued.

James Norman, assault to rape, 15 years in penitentiary.

Jerry Harrison, grand larceny, two years in penitentiary.

Claud Branch, assault with intent to murder, continued.

Henry Davis, selling liquor, two cases, forfeiture against defendant and bail.

Tom Jones, assault and battery, continued.

Joel Fulmer, sdlling liquor, continued.

Durwood Broadhead, presenting pistol, continued.

Leander McCants, carrying concealed weapon, fine $50.

Cleveland Davis, grand larceny, four years in penitentiary.

Thomas M. Barnett, bond, continued.

Cleveland Davis, burglary, nolle prosse.

BRONCHITIS

The Upchurch Drug Co. Tell the People Quickest Means to Cure It.

Asked one day in his store the question, "What is good for bronchitis?" A member of the above firm answered, "For several years old fashioned cod liver oil has been known to possess the most remarkable curative and healing properties for throat, bronchial, and lung troubles of anything known to medicine, but on account of the grease which enveloped its curative principles, it has been impossible for many people to take enough of it into their systems to combat a thoroughly settled disease without clogging the system and upsetting the stomach.

"Now, however," continued he, "we have Vinol, which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work, and physicians agree that it is the greatest cure for all throat, bronchial and lung troubles known to medicine."

Miss Anna Ray writes us that after suffering for five years with bronchitis, and trying all kinds of medicines without relief, Vinol cured her, and we have hundreds of just such letters.

We wish every person suffering from chronic colds, coughs, bronchitis, and every aged, weak or convalescent person who needs a healing, strength-creating and blood making tonic would try Vinol on our guarantee to return the purchase money if it fails."—Upchurch Drug Co.

Clanton District Sunday School Convention.

The very cold weather, while preventing the attendance of many from a distance, did not cool the cordial interest of the citizens of Clanton and a very large congregation was present at the district Sunday School convention held at the Baptist Church, Sunday, Dec. 3rd. The devotional service was led by Rev. A. C. Swindal who also made to the visitors a very hearty little speech of welcome, giving further evidence of his genial sympathy for Sunday School work which makes his co-operation so valuable to those interested in the County Association.

Judge E. B. Deason, President of the district, presided over the convention and his tactful ability to say the right thing at the right time makes him a most efficient chairman.

Judge Joseph Carthel, the State Secretary made a forceful and convincing talk on the Interdenominational Sunday School organization, which means help for every school within reach of its good work.

Mr. T. U. Crumpton, the County President, and Mr. W. E. Holloway, of Montgomery, were present and added to the interest and pleasure of the meeting by words of help and encouragement.

Mr. W. I. Mullins, in his ingenious defense of Beats 4 and 11 being the last to fall into organized line, and his humorous insistence of "Just give us a chance—a chance is all we want," brought down the house and won him the honor of being eleted President of the district.

As Proffessor Sessions said in his graceful speech of nomination, "Since Judge Reynolds so ably and warmly seconded all Mr Mullins said," he was elected Secretary and Treasurer, but pleading stress of other duties, he appointed Mr. Giles to serve in his place. Mr. W. P. Lowery of the Mt. Pleasant school was elected Vice-President.

Truly, with these capable officers and with such men to help as Judge Deason, Professor Sessions, Mr. Tipton Mullins and Judge Reynolds, District No. 4 has all the "chance" she needs.

The next district meeting will be held at the Clanton Methodist Church; the date to be decided later.

This meeting was the last mile stone on the road which led Chilton county to the "Banner" rank in the State Association. It has taken eighteen months to effect the thorough organization which brings us to this standard.

At the County Convention in July, at Maplesville, five of the six districts were reported organized, but several had failed to hold conventions during the year. In September and October four of the required meetings were held: Maplesville, Beats 7 and 8, at Stanton; Beat 9, at Thorsby; Verbena, Beats 5 and 10, at Salem and Jemison; Beats 1 and 2 at Oak Grove. The Isabella district, Beats 3 and 6, held a meeting at Mulberry in July, so this convention in the Clanton district was the last link in the chain and, at last, Chilton is a Banner county.

This success, however, will mean no cessation of effort, for only faithfulness and earnest work will keep the reward we have won. The responsibility will rest largely with district officers, for one delinquent district will drag the whole county to the level of its failure. We have strong men at the head of the districts and we are confident of their ability to help Chilton county to do even greater and better things in the year that is coming.

The County Association has been invited to hold the annual convention in Clanton next summer and this assures us, already, a successful meeting.

Truth and Honesty.

Honesty and truthfulness go well together. Honesty is truth, and truth is honesty. Truth alone may not constitute a great man, but it is the most important element of a great character; it gives security to those who employ him, and confidence to those who serve under him. Truth is the essence of principle, integrity and independence. It is the primary need of every man. Absolute veracity is more neede now than at any former period in our history.

There is duplicity of life which is quite as bad as verbal falsehood. Actions have as plain a voice as words. The mean man is false to his profession. He evades the truth that he professes to believe, Lying is one of the most common of vices. Lying is done in various ways. Truth and honesty show themselves in various ways. They characterize the men of just dealing, the faithful men in business, and the men who will not cheat and defraud.

Now, let me say to the boys who read the dear old Banner, to be truthful, honest boys. There are quite a number of ways in which we can be untrue at home, abroad and in school. While in school if we do not do our best in everything, we are untrue to our parents, untrue to our teacher, and more than this untrue to ourselves. Anything that is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Truth and honesty is the firm foundation on which every boy should build his character. God does not look down on a lie with any allowance. "The truth itself is not believed from one who often has deceived.'

Now, in conclusion, I want to say a few words about our school and the boys who are here from old Chilton. The Troy school is the place for a boy who wants to work and be benefitted thereby. But of course we do not need those who are not earnest workers. I think this the best school in the State. The faculty is unsurpassed and when a student finishes here he is ready to meet the demands of life, and make it a grand success. Old Chilton has four boys here and no girls. I think that Mr. J. O. Dickenson will surpass Mr. Yancey or Henry Grady in oratory, for he is winning the prize over all the other boys at college.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby: that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Send for free sample.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Scott & Bowne
Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street
New York
50c. and $1.00
All Druggists

For Coughs and Colds

There is a remedy over sixty years old—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Of course you have heard of it, probably have used it. Once in the family, it stays; the one household remedy for coughs and hard colds on the chest. Ask your doctor about it.

"I have had pneumonia three times, and Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has brought me safely through each time. I have just recovered from my last attack, aged sixty-seven. No wonder I praise it."—E. V. Hoskins, Stevens Point, Wis.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. HAIR VIGOR.

Ayer's Pills increase the activity of the liver, and thus aid recovery.

Cane Creek.

Our school is progressing nicely under the careful mangement of Prof. J. T. Williams with an enrollment of about 45 pupils, and our Sunday school is progressing nicely at this place.

Mr. Tam Miller was a pleasant visitor here last Sunday.

Prof. J. T. Williams preached at Macedonia last Sunday.

Mr. Hugh Thompson visited Macedonia last Saturday.

Rev. F. A. Ellison is building him a new residence.

There is going to be a singing at F. A. Ellison's the first Sunday in January, and on Saturday before. Let us hear from the school girl again. Success to the Banner and its many readers.

MARRIED

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Marcus Sunday, December 10, Mr. W. F. Teel and Miss Carrie Marcus were united in holy bonds of matrimony. We wish the young couple a long and happy life together.

A FRIEND.

Rough skin and cracked hands are not only cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but an occasional application will keep the skin soft and smooth. Best for Eczema, Cuts, Burns, Boils, etc. The genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve affords immediate relief in all forms of Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

The mission of "Early Risers" is to clear the way and give Nature full sway. These famous little pills rid the stomach and bowels of all putrid matter, thus removing the causes of headache, constipation, sallow complexion, etc. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never gripe or sicken. A safe, pleasant, perfect pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Dec. 11, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

Ed Brown, A. M. Caton, George Christian, Charley Johnson.

LADIES' LIST.

Miss Cora Hooks, Mrs. C. A. Dennis, Mrs. Dora Franklin, Mrs. Cora Syks.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Dec 25, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Fearful Fighting

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle, with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recmmend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold, under guarantee to do the same for you, by Upchurch Drug co., at 50c. a bottle. Try them today.

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court, Seventh District, Northeastern Division. No. 22. In vacation, 1905.
Thomas Burnett, Complainant, vs. Martha R Burnett, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. M. Adams, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Martha R. Burnett, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post-office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Martha R. Burnett, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Martha R. Burnett, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the [illegible] day of January, 1906, and failing so to do within [illegible] days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this [illegible] day of December, 1905. S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Solicitor for Complainant.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Impro
Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prop
ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on co ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pri
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2
Old Mountain Dew	3 00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	1.
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	2.
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	1.
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2 00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - .AL

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SON
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

VOL. XIV

AMERICAN GIRL IN LONDON

SINGER OF SOUTHERN PLANTA-TION MELODIES BECOMES FAMOUS IN ENGLAND.

Is to Sing Old Negro Songs to King and Queen. Has Declined Stag Career, Preferring to Sing the Na tive Songs of the Southland.

Another charming American gir
has set the fashionable world of Lon don by the ears. She has sung he way into their hearts and taught them
the beauty of old plantation melodie until the English capital is fairly ring ing with the sound of her praises.

This fortunate young woman is
Miss Clara Alexander of Memphis, Tenn., and as pretty and attractive a girl as ever crossed the water to Ol England. She is just now anticipat ing her appearance before the King and Queen of England, and whe

MISS CLARA

this is accomplished, she will indee feel that her success is complete.

A little more than a year ago some interested friend of Miss Alexander sent her on her journey to London, armed with letters to prominent mem bers of the social world there. On of these was to the famous Mrs. John Mackay, who became her social spon sor, and practically made the clever little girl from Tennessee the toast of London drawingrooms.

Miss Alexander has never been o
the stage, but from her old mammy in the south, and a score of servant who had once been in her family, sh learned the real plantation melodies learned to sing them as only a gi who spent her early life in the re south could sing them. She learned t imitate the old darky in all his quain characteristics and her triumph wa declared complete when she moved fashionable audience to tears by he touching recital of a little negro poe

W. S. Gilbert, author of "Pinafore, advised her strongly to go in fo emotional acting, and Lady Bancroft one of the shining lights of the Lon don social world, and herself a talent ed actress, offered to coach the youn American girl in the role of Juliet i she would study for the stage.

Lady Ludlow recently lent he splendid mansion in Portland Plac for a recital by this talented America girl for which the social world o
London cheerfully paid $5 a ticket
Her services are constantly in deman and with Mrs. Mackay and other in fluential women to stand sponsor fo her, this little girl from Tennessee i adding fresh laurels to her crown.

And now she is to appear before th
King and Queen! The "command" which has been sent to Miss Alex ander is the same as that which goe to every artist whom King Edwar and Queen Alexandra wish to hear
It is in reality an invitation, but i called a "command" for the reaso that an invitation from the King o
Queen brooks no declination and i therefore, in a sense, obligatory.

Miss Alexander breathes the life o
the south in all her work and n amount of persuasion will induce he to give it up for a stage career. Sh is taking into London drawing room and even into the presence of Hi Majesty, King Edward VII an atmo sphere of love, freedom and the poetry
[illegible]

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 9

AMERICAN GIRL IN LONDON.

SINGER OF SOUTHERN PLANTATION MELODIES BECOMES FAMOUS IN ENGLAND.

Is to Sing Old Negro Songs to King and Queen. Has Declined Stage Career, Preferring to Sing the Native Songs of the Southland.

Another charming American girl has set the fashionable world of London by the ears. She has sung her way into their hearts and taught them the beauty of old plantation melodies until the English capital is fairly ringing with the sound of her praises.

This fortunate young woman is Miss Clara Alexander of Memphis, Tenn., and as pretty and attractive a girl as ever crossed the water to Old England. She is just now anticipating her appearance before the King and Queen of England, and when this is accomplished, she will indeed feel that her success is complete.

MISS CLARA ALEXANDER.

A little more than a year ago some interested friend of Miss Alexander sent her on her journey to London, armed with letters to prominent members of the social world there. One of these was to the famous Mrs. John Mackay, who became her social sponsor, and practically made the clever little girl from Tennessee the toast of London drawingrooms.

Miss Alexander has never been on the stage, but from her old mammy in the south, and a score of servants who had once been in her family, she learned the real plantation melodies, learned to sing them as only a girl who spent her early life in the real south could sing them. She learned to imitate the old darky in all his quaint characteristics and her triumph was declared complete when she moved a fashionable audience to tears by her touching recital of a little negro poem.

W. S. Gilbert, author of "Pinafore," advised her strongly to go in for emotional acting, and Lady Bancroft, one of the shining lights of the London social world, and herself a talented actress, offered to coach the young American girl in the role of Juliet if she would study for the stage.

Lady Ludlow recently lent her splendid mansion in Portland Place for a recital by this talented American girl for which the social world of London cheerfully paid $5 a ticket. Her services are constantly in demand and with Mrs. Mackay and other influential women to stand sponsor for her, this little girl from Tennessee is adding fresh laurels to her crown.

And now she is to appear before the King and Queen! The "command" which has been sent to Miss Alexander is the same as that which goes to every artist whom King Edward and Queen Alexandra wish to hear. It is in reality an invitation, but is called a "command" for the reason that an invitation from the King or Queen brooks no declination and is therefore, in a sense, obligatory.

Miss Alexander breathes the life of the south in all her work and no amount of persuasion will induce her to give it up for a stage career. She is taking into London drawing rooms and even into the presence of His Majesty, King Edward VII an atmosphere of love, freedom and the pretty instincts which make of the southern girl another type of the American beauty which is ever a puzzle and yet a veritable joy to our English friends across the water.

IT PAYS TO DRESS IN STYLE.

Stirring Adventure of the Hon. Augustus Browne, in Cleveland, Ohio.

Things went very hard the other day with the Hon. Augustus Browne, of Cleveland, Ohio. As Mr. Browne stepped off a street car during the busiest hour of the day and at one of the most crowded localities in Cleveland, his well-made trousers caught on the lower step—it seems that some of the iron work was loose. Simultaneously, the conductor started the car, and the Hon. Augustus Browne at once sat down upon the Belgian blocks in a shocking manner. Moreover, the Hon. Augustus kept right along with the vehicle, towed by the left leg of his expensive trousers, and presenting a picture of unusual distress and consternation. What made it worse was the fact that the spectators on the sidewalk were disposed to be disrespectful. Mr. Browne expostulated against the treatment he was receiving, though, of course, in a perfectly dignified way, but the conductor was inside collecting fares ,and did not hear him. At last, Mr. Browne's suspenders gave way with a mighty snap, and their owner was left sitting in the street, with the car vanishing into the distance, and the trousers flying wildly from the lower step.

Naturally, the Hon. Augustus Browne couldn't sit there in the middle of the street indefinitely. Already he had narrowly escaped a garbage cart and two short-haired ladies on bicycles. So he arose and took a look around. Excepting the loss of a pair of beautifully-creased trousers and a large assortment of abrasions, which would perhaps cause him to take his meals at the mantelpiece for a week or so, Mr. Browne was in pretty fair shape. He wore a very shiny silk hat, a perfectly-cut frock coat, patent leather shoes, a boutonneire, the finest garters in the market, and a suit of union underwear fit for the most limpid and illustrious legs in any land. It is undoubtedly a sad thing to be divested of one's trousers in broad daylight, but it was ventured, by an eyewitness, that there ought to be a whole lot in a silk hat, frock coat, boutonniere, patent leather shoes, and improved garters. The frock coat must have concealed any ravages caused by the gentleman's rapid transit over the Belgian blocks in a sitting posture, and otherwise.

On the whole it is a question in Cleveland whether Mr. Browne should attempt to collect excessive damages from Hon. Thomas Johnson, the innocent owner of the car line.

Japan's Grand Old Man.

Marquis Ito, who was recently stoned by a Japanese mob, is of comparatively humble birth. His father, Juzo Ito, was a rustic gardener. Marquis Ito first went to Europe, stowing himself away in a bale of silk on board a ship bound for Liverpool. He was concealed in this bale for 36 hours, until he was discovered by one of the ship's officers. The reason for his leaving Japan was that he desired to escape the vengeance of the Conservative party of that country, which resented his more advanced views and attempts to adopt Western manners and customs in Japan. He is now said to be the most Western Japanese in the Occident, and spends probably five hours a day reading European newspapers and magazines. Yet, with all, he is said to be the poorest Prime Minister in this world's goods, either actual or retired in the world.

CHINA'S ARMY OF 40,000.

FOREIGN ATTACHES WITNESSED RECENT FIELD MANOEUVERS—AMAZED AT RESULTS.

Japanese Training Apparent in Subordination and Discipline.—Mauser Rifles Used, but Cavalry Service is Inferior.

Evidence that China is shedding her skin of conservatism and is preparing to take her place with other Oriental nations, is evidenced by her first regular army manoeuvers, just ended at Shangtung. A number of diplomatic attaches, representing the military of the principal nations of the world, were present as guests of the viceroy, Yuan Shi Kai, by whom they were lavishly entertained. To those who remember the condition of Chinese troops five years ago this feat of raising an army of forty thousand men to its present efficiency is marvelous. There were some unfavorable criticisms, to be sure; but all gave unstinted praise for the complete control of the troops and their steadiness of discipline, the latter bearing comparison with that of European veterans.

Armed With Modern Equipment.

The scheme of the manoeuvers was the assumed invasion of Chilei by a southern force from Shantung, whose advance was opposed by the northern army. The infantry were armed with Mauser magazine rifles, with short dagger bayonets. Officers carried sword, revolver and field glass. The private's kit weighed fifty-four pounds, knapsacks being of Japanese pattern. The pioneers carried picks shovels and saws.

The cavalry were mounted on small, Mongolian horses, and carried Mauser carbines, sabres and revolvers. This is regarded by the military observers as being the weakest branch of the army.

There were no tom-toms, no stinkpots, fire works, gods on poles, or hideous masks, in which the Chinese soldier of the past placed his whole reliance.

Hand of Japan Discovered.

This wonderful transformation in a few years, from an unorganized mob of fanatics to a well equipped, intelligent army of defense, is said to be due largely to Japanese influences. One attache remarked that he had noticed at least twenty Japanese officers among the troops. Many of the cannon are of Japanese type, and the knapsacks are Japanese in design. The fine hand of Japan is seen at every turn.

The artillery consisted of field guns of various types, and Japanese mountain guns carried on mule back. The guns were served excellently, and this branch of the army appeared to be efficient, though there was no signaling apparatus, and no range finders.

Each regimental commissariat included thirty-two wagons, German in pattern, but poorly constructed. The rations consisted of rice, 1 1-2 pounds; cabbage, 6 ounces; salted vegetables, 6 ounces, and meat 6 ounces, carried in Japanese haversacks.

All things considered, the progress of China in her military organization appears to be wonderful. With a few more years of effort, aided by Japanese influence, with her inexhaustible natural resources and her multitude of men to draw upon for raw material, China will be a formidable enemy and a powerful ally in the development of the East.

Texas Sulphur Deposits.

Texas, a State which claimed the attention of the whole country as a cattle State, and as a petroleum State, will probably soon become remarkable as a sulphur State. In the trans-Pecos country in El Paso county, north of the Texas Pacific Railroad, geologists compute that there are ten million tons of 40 per cent. native sulphur ore available and almost in sight. The sulphur area which has been explored and surveyed covers about ten thousand acres and the deposit has an average thickness of nine and one-half feet. It has been recently reported that this sulphur field has been bought by Illinois capitalists, who have associated with them in the enterprise a number of European capitalists. At present no railroad is near the deposits, the nearest station being Toyah, twenty miles to the northwest. The intervening country presents no obstacles in the way of railroad construction, the grades being low.

It is calculated that the United States annually consumes 500,000 tons of sulphur. Much of the sulphur used in the United States is imported from Italy, the tonnage brought in from that country varying from 100,000 to 250,000 tons a year. The American State which leads in the production of sulphur is Louisiana, but a vast amount of sulphur is obtained from the pyrites mines in Louisa county, Virginia. It is said that the visible supply of sulphur is sufficient for the requirements of trade for the next twenty years. The sulphur trade of the world is practically monopolized by the Anglo-Sicilian Sulphur Company, Limited, of Lon-

An Enfeebled Giant.

It looks as if Europe had another "sick man" on its hands, the mighty Empire of Russia, although it may not be incurable as is the case with Turkey, or chronic as is the case with Spain. Nations, like men, go down in the march of time. Russia is too young, perhaps, to go to pieces like Turkey, which in the days of the English Tudors was the first military power of earth, and too virile to go as Spain did, which at the time of Charles V was the world's foremost military power.

A NEW EASTER LILY.

Crossing the Bermuda Flower with a Philippine Species is Successful.

If the expectations of the Department of Agriculture are realized with experiments now going on, the price of Easter Lilies will be much lower next year. This will enable persons who have been obliged to deny themselves the luxury of an Easter Lily, to purchase this beautiful flower without laying themselves open to the charge of being extravagant. The high price of this spring flower is caused through the long growing season of the bulb before it bursts into bloom. From the time the bulb of the Bermuda lily is planted until it is in full bloom is a period of five to seven months. Florists usually plant the bulbs in September in order that they may be ready for the coming Easter. They have always been studying the flower with a hope of shortening the time of growing, for, in greenhouses, time and space are at a premium, and any shortening thereof represents a decided gain.

The Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture early last year took up this problem and imported from the Philippines a lily resembling the common Easter lily in size and color, though it bears usually only one, but at times two flowers to the plant. Its chief virtue, however, lies in the fact that its growing season is but two to three months. This lily the department has crossed with the common Easter lily, and the result has been a hybrid, bearing as many flowers as the old Bermuda lily, with no difference in appearance from this plant, except that the hybrid will develop in four or five months, representing a shortening in time of from one to three months. While the experiments of the Department are not yet completed, the results attained so far warrant the belief that the new hybrid Easter Lily can be produced vastly cheaper than the old variety.

AS THE NEW QUICK FLOWERING HYBRID LILY APPEARS.

Starting in Early.

One year the gardener told me that the rose bugs threatened to work destruction among my choice roses. So I hit upon the idea of hiring my two youngsters to pick them off and destroy them ten cents a hundred bugs. This worked beautifully for a short time, until suddenly there came a devastating horde of the pests. Dick grasped the situation at once and sallying forth invited his friends to assist, at five cents per hundred, subcontracting, as it were, while he did the bossing and pocketed the profits.

That night I had a bill of $3 from poor tired Arthur, and nearly $14 from my enterprising and business-like younger hopeful. So I reduced wages to ten cents per thousand, whereupon they promptly struck. The next day I found them hard at work picking rosebugs for a confiding neighbor, at the original price, while my bushes were left to their fate.

Deforested Land in Minnesota.

Timber Scene on Government Lands in Oregon

PUBLIC TIMBER GRABBING.

PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ANXIOUS THAT CONGRESS SAVE AMERICAN FORESTS.

Second Instalment of Commissions Report—Protests Against 640 Acre Homestead Scheme—Repeal of Lieu Land Law.

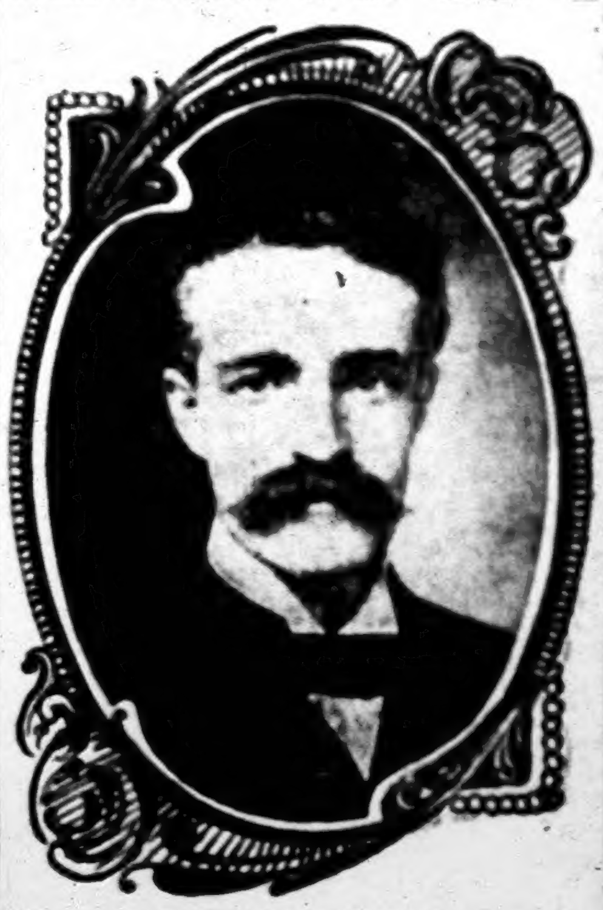
Two pieces of public land legislation which engaged the attention of Congress last winter were the 640-acre, or square-mile homestead bill, and the lieu land timber bill. The former was defeated the latter was passed, both properly. Under the 640-acre bill it was sought to increase the 160-acre homestead entry, covering some twenty million or more acres of land in South Dakota and Colorado, to 640 acres, the claims being that the land was not sufficiently productive to support a family on 160 acres, and that 640 acres would be a proper unit. A similar bill was also introduced to include the lands of the entire state of Montana.

These measures were vigorously opposed on the ground that 640 acres were either too much for a farm or else not large enough for stock grazing exclusively, and also on the ground that the agricultural capabilities of this, or in fact, any part of the west are not thoroughly understood and that land which may to-day be considered of little use for agriculture, will, under improved methods of culture and the introduction of drouth-resisting plants, be found tomorrow to be entirely suitable for farming purposes. As a matter of fact the Department of Agriculture has within the past year, grown macaroni wheat to the extreme western boundary of South Dakota in crops ranging from fifteen to twenty bushels per acre and Colorado's semi-desert lands have, under "dry-farming" methods, yielded up undreamed of and highly profitable crops. The bills, in question, however, were reported upon adversely by the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office and also by the Public Lands Commission, as is shown by the following printed report.

Timber Lieu Lands.

One of the most detrimental of the land laws has been what was known as the lieu land selection law, which provided that where forest reserves are created by the government, settlers or private corporations owning lands within such boundaries might select in lieu thereof any public land not reserved, and this right was transferable. The result was that parties sold their lieu land rights and these were purchased by giant timber syndicates and lumber corporations for speculative purposes. The title to hundreds of thousands of acres of land embraced within the forest reserves naturally almost bare of forest cover or which had been stripped of their timber and left worth perhaps a dollar an acre, were thus purchased by corporations and exchanged on an even basis for the finest government timber lands of the northwest. Several bills were introduced to amend this law, but finally after much controversy, the entire act was repealed, greatly to the dismay of the timber grabbers, and this mode of robbing the government stopped.

A bill was also introduced repealing the timber and stone act and providing for the disposal of timber in the manner recommended by the Public Lands Commission, but this bill slumbered and finally died in the Public Lands Committee of the House of Representatives, the opinion of the majority of the members of that committee being, apparently, that the timber grabbing should be allowed to continue. The strictures of the President's Public Lands Commission, quoted below, on the coils of the law are a sufficient condemnation of its maleficient provisions.



GIFFORD PINCHOT

U. S. Forester and Member of the Public Lands Commission.

The second instalment of the Commission's report follows:

The agricultural possibilities of the remaining public lands are as yet almost unknown. Lands which a generation or even a decade ago were supposed to be valueless are now producing large crops, either with or without irrigation. This has been brought about in part by the introduction of new grains and other plants and new methods of farming and in part by denser population and improved systems of transportation. It is obvious that the first essential for putting the remaining public lands to their best use is to ascertain what that best use is by a preliminary study and classification of them, and to determine their probable future and development by agriculture.

Until it can be definitely ascertained that any given area of the public lands is and in all probability forever will remain unsuited to agricultural development, the title to that land should remain in the General Government in trust for the future settler.

For example: The passage of the reclamation act (June 17, 1902) made certain the disposition to actual settlers of large areas of land which up to that time had been considered as valueless. Other areas, which are too high and barren to have notable value even for grazing, are now known to have importance in the future development of the country through their capacity to produce forest growth. The making of wells will give an added value to vast tracts of range lands for which the water supply is now scanty. In short, because of possible development, through irrigation, through the introduction of new plants and new methods of farming, through forest preservation, and grazing control, the remaining public lands have an importance hitherto but dimly foreseen.

In view of these facts it is of the first importance to save the remaining public domain for actual home builders to the utmost limit of future possibilities and not to mortgage the future by any disposition of the public lands under which home making will not keep step with disposal. To that end your Commission recommends (see p. 12) a method of range control under which present resources may be used to the full without endangering future settlement.

After the agricultural possibilities of the public lands have been ascertained with reasonable certainty, provision should be made for dividing them into areas sufficiently large to support a family, and no larger, and to permit settlement on such areas. It is obvious that any attempt to accomplish this end without a careful classification of the public lands must necessarily fail. Attempts of this kind are being made from time to time, and legislation of this character is now pending, modeled on the Nebraska 640-acre homestead law, which was passed as an experiment to meet a certain restricted local condition. This act (33 Stat., 547) permits the entry of 640-acre homesteads in the sand-hill region of that State. Whether in practice the operation of this law will result in putting any considerable number of settlers on the land is not yet determined.

Your commission is of opinion, after careful consideration, that general provisions of this kind should not be extended until after thorough study of the public lands

(Continued on next page.)

Do You Use Acetylene?

if so,

We Want to Send You

A SAMPLE BURNER

We believe we have the very best and the cheapest line of Acetylene Burners. Our sample will show better than we can explain how why it would pay you to use our burners.

Write us today, mention kind of consumer used, enclose 2 cents in stamps to cover postage, and we will send you

A Sample Burner

W. M. CRANE COMPANY

1131-33 BROADWAY

Room 10 New York, N. Y.

ULLEDGE

oans and Discou

time loans on Improv

Insurance Policies.

on good Personal Prope

ps.

dvances offered on co w, either on farms or

ess

F. A. GULLEDGE,

VERBENA, ALA.

ail Order House!

RATE DRUG STORE!

at Cut Prices!

our Mail Orders.

OODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pri
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
ia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
iskey	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
t a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

ods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallo
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.0
Private Stock Virginia Rye	3.5
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.0
Old Style Country Club	3.
Old Lincoln County	2.
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.0
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.0

We carry a full line of wines an

low grade goods.

RUG COMPANY

RATE DRUG STORE

RMINGHAM, ALA.

erything

erything of the be

ncy Grocerie

S, CLOTHIN

HATS, ETC.

IES & BRO.

AL

OUR!

Perfection just

the mills.

antee price and our expense.

ION & SONS

anton Furniture Co.

has been made in each particular case, because to do so controverts the fundamental principle of saving the public lands for the home maker. Each locality should be dealt with on its own merits. Even if it should ultimately appear that this law has worked beneficially in Nebraska it would by no means follow that such a law might be safely applied to other regions different in topography, soil, and climate. No arbitrary rule should be followed, but in each case the area of the homestead should be determined by the acreage which may be necessary to support a family upon the land, either by agriculture, or by grazing if agriculture is impracticable. Until such acreage is determined for each locality, any new general law providing a method of obtaining title to the public lands would, in the opinion of your Commission, be decidedly unsafe.

Lieu Lands.

Careful study has been given by your Commission to the subject of forest-reserve lieu-land selections. These selections have given rise to great scandal, and have led to the acquisition by speculators of much valuable timber and agricultural land and its consolidation into large holdings. Furthermore, the money loss to the Government and the people from the selection of valuable lands in lieu of worthless areas has been very great. There has been no commensurate return in the way of increased settlement and business activity. Public opinion concerning lieu-land selections, by railroads in particular, has reached an acute stage. The situation is in urgent need of a remedy, and your Commission recommends the repeal of the laws providing for lieu-land selections.

A partial remedy by Executive action has already been applied by carefully locating the boundaries of new forest reserves, and thus limiting lieu-land selections to comparatively insignificant areas. The last annual message to Congress declares definitely that—

The making of forest reserves within railroad nd wagon-road land-grant limits will hereafter, as for the past three years, be so managed s to prevent the issue, under the act of June 4, 897, of base for exchange or lieu selection (usually called scrip). In all cases where forest reserves within areas covered by land grants appear to be essential to the prosperity of settlers, iners or others, the Government lands within uch proposed forest reserves will, as in the ecent past, be withdrawn from sale or entry ending the completion of such negotiations with he owners of the land grants as will prevent the reation of so-called scrip.

There are now lands in private ownership ithin existing forest reserves, and simi- r lands must to a limited extent be in- luded in new reserves. Therefore, a me- hod is required by which the Government ay obtain control of nonagricultural oldings within the boundaries of these re- erves. Your Commission recommends the ollowing flexible plan: Upon the recom- endation of the Secretary of Agriculture, hen the public interest so demands, the ecretary of the Interior should be au- orized, in his discretion, to accept the linquishment to the United States of any act of land within a forest reserve cov- ed by an unperfected bona fide claim wfully initiated or by a patent, and to ant to the owner in lieu thereof a tract unappropriated, vacant, surveyed, non- ineral public land in the same State or rritory and of approximately equal area d value as determined by an examina- n, report, and specific description by blic surveys of both tracts to be made the ground by officials of the Govern- ent. When exchange under these condi- ons cannot be affected, lands privately ned within forest reserves should be paid r in cases where the public interest re- ires that such lands should pass into blic ownership. The Secretary of the In- rior should be authorized to take the nec- sary proceedings as rapidly as the neces- ry funds are provided.

Timber and Stone Act.

he recommendations made for the re- al of the timber and stone act in the evious reports are renewed and empha- sed. Additional facts showing the de- ructive effect of this law have strength- ed the belief of your Commission that on e whole its operation is decidedly harm- l. This law has been made the vehicle w innumerable frauds, and the Govern- ent has lost and is still losing yearly vast ms of money through the sale of valu- le timber lands to speculators, and hence directly to large corporations, at a price r below their actual value. From the ssage of the act, June 3, 1878, to June 1904, 55,372 claims for 7,506,078 acres timber land were patented under its ovisions, and on last date 7,044 claims 1,108,380 acres were pending. Many ansfers of land patented under this law e made immediately upon completion of le, often on the same day, to individuals d companies. In this way a monopoly of e timber supplies of the public-land ates is being created by systematic col- sion. Under the existing rules and prac- es of the courts it is difficult to prove is collusion, except in cases of open aud and it is therefore practically im- ssible to secure conviction. Furthermore, der bona fide compliance with the actual ovisions of the law the effect is almost ually bad. The law itself is seriously de- ctive.

It has been urged in behalf of this act at it enables poor men to enjoy the unty of the Government by obtaining acts of timber which they can afterwards ll with advantage. A careful study ems to show, on the contrary, that the iginal entrymen rarely realize more than dinary wages for the time spent in mak- g the entry and completing the transfer. e corporations which ultimately secure tle usually absorb by far the greater part the profit.

In addition to the direct loss to the overnment from the sale of the lands far low their real value, timber lands which hould have been preserved for the use of e people are withdrawn from such use d the development of the country is re- rded until the corporations which own e timber see fit to cut it. The bona fide ttler who comes into a country, the tim- r resources of which have thus been ab- rbed, may be very seriously hampered by s inability to secure timber except from foreign corporation. All of the timber nd has often passed beyond his reach, d the development of his farm may be tarded and his expenses greatly increased cause he can no longer obtain the nec- sary supplies of fuel, rails, posts, and mber.

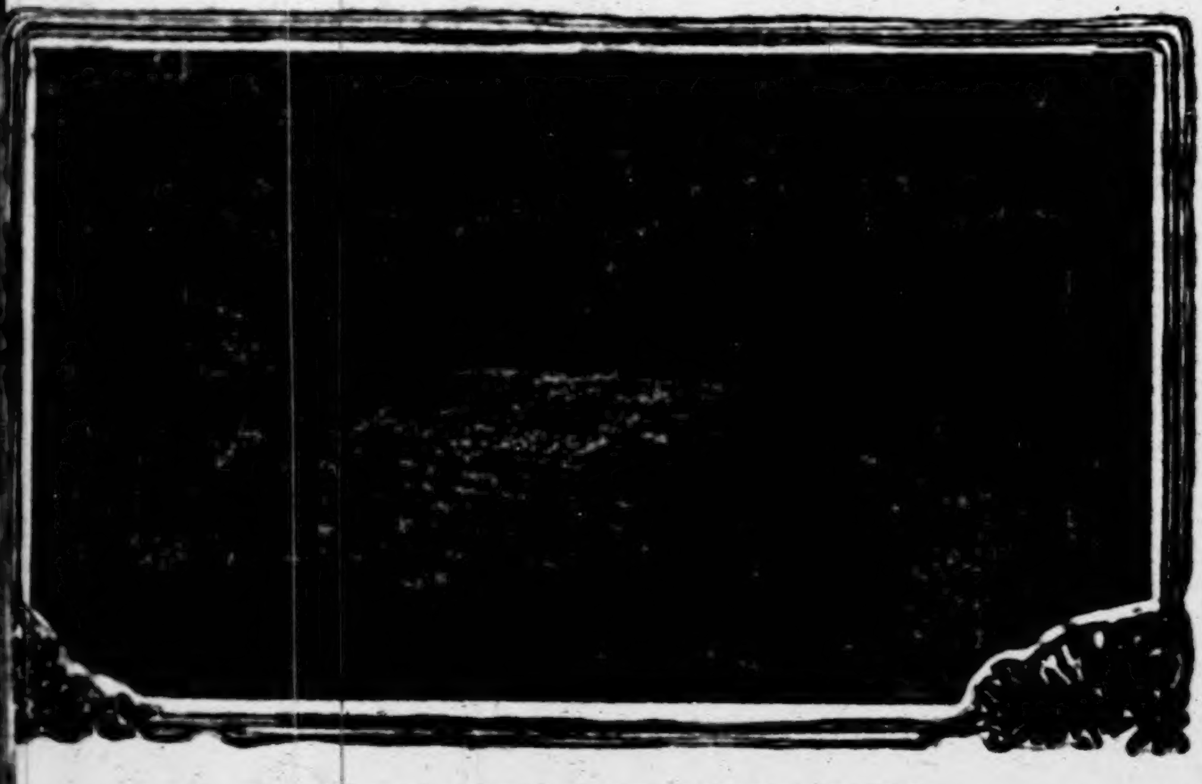
As in the case of other laws, instances the beneficial operation of this act may cited, but when it is considered from point of view of the general interest of public it becomes obvious that this law ould be repealed.

ale of Timber on the Public Lands.

Necessity for the enactment of a law thorizing the sale of timber on nonre- rve public land is becoming more evi- ent, and the recommendations made in preceding report of this Commission reiterated. For the best use of the blic lands it is absolutely essential to d public timber for sale when needed d in quantities necessitated by the con- uous growth of prevailing industries. ovision should be made for a limited ee-use right by miners and actual set-

---

A virgin is a maid; when verging on s called an old maid.



ONE ENTRY IN THE DEEP OREGON FOREST.

Here the entryman swore that the claim was mostly valuable for agriculture. Forest so dense that camera showed only a black mass of tree growth.

FOOTBALL ANCIENT SPORT.

ROOSEVELT'S NOT THE FIRST ROYAL EDICT TO PREVENT ROUGH PLAYING.

English and Scottish Kings Have Debarred Game. Has Always Been Roughest of Sports for Five Hundred Years—Shin Kicking Approved.

President Roosevelt's attempt to bring about a revision in the rules of the gridiron sport that it may be played with less risk to the lives and limbs of the contestants is after all but a revival of the caustic comments of at least two English sovereigns who beat the President on the revision business by several hundred years. Football is one of the oldest of all the English pastimes, and it is even believed that the Greeks and Romans had a similar game. Ever since it first made its appearance it has been characterized by extreme roughness and has been the subject of denunciations on the part of those who cared more for theis own safety and that of the players than for the final score.

As early as 1314 football had become so popular in London as a street game and attracted so many disorderly spectators that the staid old merchants entered a vigorous protest. King Edward II was on the throne then and wasted no time dining the football coaches or arguing about the matter. He issued a proclamation in which he said:

"Forasmuch as there is great noise in the city caused by hustling, over large balls from which many evils might arise, which God forbid, we command and forbid on the half of the King, on pain of imprisonment, such games to be used in the city in the future."

This terse and ominous declaration forestalled by more than five hundred years the American legislators who have come to the front in the past decade with bills to make football illegal in their States.

The sport may be rough and unladylike nowadays, but what it was in Edward's time, when the favorite diversions of the apprentices and other youngsters were street fights in which anything from an axe to a kick in the stomach was allowed may be better imagined than described. The broken collarbones and strained tendons, with which we are familiar as a result of scrimmages must have been mere pin scratches compared with casualties attending a buck on center by the Mediaeval "backs."

Another English sovereign who took a hand in the game because of the injuries with which it was attended was King James I. He was a patron of sport and believed in his progeny getting plenty of excitement, but he balked at football. It was too much trouble to raise an heir to have him twisted into a pretzel just about the time he might be useful in holding down the throne. James told his son to run along and have a good time with the boys. In fact, he wrote down certain precepts for the young man's guidance, but if the coach had asked Prince Charles to "come out for the eleven" he would have been met with the familiar "parental objection" of the present day, which King James expressed as follows.

"From this count I debar all such rough and violent exercise as the football, meeter for laming than making able the users thereof."

Interfered With Archery.

Football has always had a tendency to run foul of the law. Its original first offence was in taking the minds of prospective soldiers off from archery, but in this it had as a side partner the eminently peaceful and gentle game of golf. In 1457 a Scottish act was passed in which the two sports were condemned in language as vigorous as that used by some of our college presidents on the same subject, because they occupied too much of the time of the husky men who might have been learning the finer points of how to send an arrow through the breast plate of an English invader. The plaints of the staid citizens received about as little attention then as now, for in 1491 we find another act in which "futeballe and golfe" were roasted to a turn and prohibited under severe penalties.

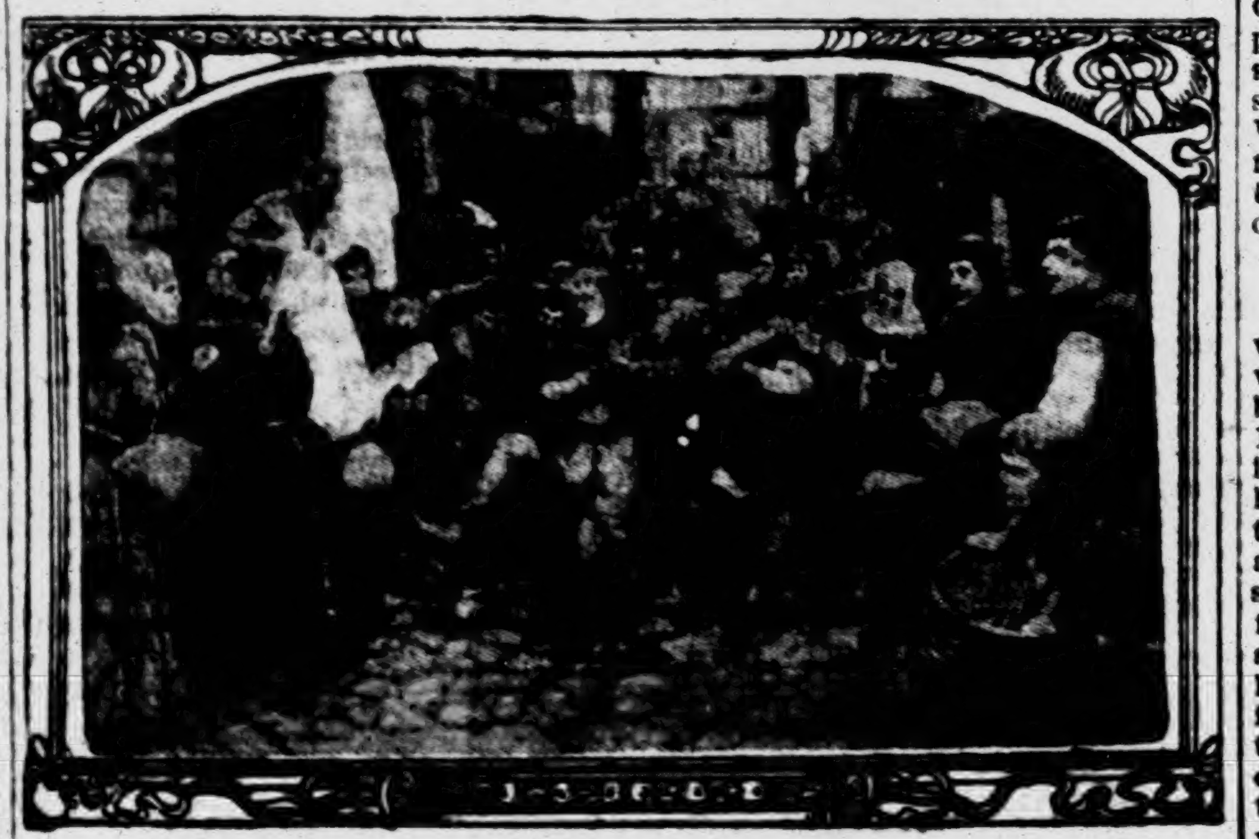
The unregenerate of Scotland were much given to playing football on Sunday. At first it interfered with the practice of archery on the Seventh Day, and later, when the Sabbatarian movement had acquired prominence, it kept people away from church, so in 1591 we find the town council of Edinburgh strictly forbidding the playing of matches on the Sabbath.

Not only was the game itself rough, but it attracted great concourses of people who were willing at all times to jump in with clubs and other weapons and resent unfairness or "poor" decisions. For some reason Shrove Tuesday was the great date for annual contests, corresponding to what Thanksgiving Day used to be in this country. On this day the crowds swarmed out to the greens and, from the descriptions we have, their conduct before and after the games would have made the wild nights a few years ago in the New York Tenderloin after a big game in that city look like a Sunday School picnic.

Was a Reign of Terror.

They marched around with much shouting and cheering, chasing the city watchmen up and down alleys and beating them right merrily. Passersby were likely to be rolled in the nearest mud puddle and the tendency to break windows and "rough house" inns and alehouses became so pronounced that keepers of shops and taverns put up their shutters and securely barred their doors. When rival bands met there was vast smashing of heads which afforded ample practice for all the barbers and leeches in the neighborhood.

Matters went from bad to worse until the public and authorities became weary of reading the annual list of dead and injured, and about 1830 the great Shrove Tuesday matches died out. The game was perpetuated in the colleges, but even there it was no sport for weaklings, as is proved by the fact that as late as 1876 "hacking," or kicking an opposing player on the shins, was allowed as one of the finer points. The Football Association formed in 1873 was the result of the interest in athletics aroused by the volunteer movement in England in 1860 and the Rugby Union was formed in 1871. The present rules in the United States were evolved from those of the Rugby Union, as opposed to the "socker" or Association style which has recently been exploited as a possible substitute for the American game.



AN ANCIENT FOOTBALL GAME IN THE STREETS OF LONDON.

An Early Print.

The finding of a human footprint, said to be 10,000 years old, in a Pennsylvania colliery has led to the report that a record in antiquity has been established. But this is a thing of yesterday, geologically speaking. The day will come, the ethnologists say, when man's age will be found recorded, not in thousands of years, but millions. Even now they have traced him back to pre-glacial days. How to express that in figures is a problem, but, at any rate, they fix certain happenings in the glacial period as 240,000 years ago. And in those days our forefathers, with or without their tails, their three eyes or fewer, were busy in Europe with the mammoth and the elephant, the giraffe, the lion, the tiger and species which he has outlived. Man was on the earth before Vesuvius and Aetna reared their fiery heads unto the skies. He has been found with his works of art buried a hundred feet deep in the gold-bearing gravels of California, overlaid by four successive lava streams from volcanos long extinct.

Many Friendly Pats.

Rodrick—They say Cholly Goodfellow is very popular around town.

Van Albert—I should say so. Why, he wears out two coats a month just from people slapping him on the back.—Chicago News.

In India the contribution basket is sometimes passed around in the Hindoo temples by an elephant.

RIVAL NAVAL BUILDERS.

GOVERNMENT CONSTRUCTORS BEAT PRIVATE CONCERN IN SHIPBUILDING.

The Connecticut Ahead of Sister Ship Louisiana—Cost However Greater—First War Ship Ever Built by the Government.

There is great rivalry between the United States Navy Yard at Brooklyn and a private shipbuilding concern at Newport News, over the construction of the two naval war leviathans, Connecticut and Louisiana. The Government is building the Connecticut, and the shipbuilding company is rushing toward completion the Louisiana. The figures given out but a short time ago by the Navy Department show that the Connecticut is 91.26 per cent completed, while her sister ship shows a percentage of completion of 89.25. A comparison shows then that the Government-built boat has a slight lead, which is all the more gratifying to the champions of Government construction when it is considered that this is the first battleship ever built in the United States by any other than private constructors and that it was predicted that the Government could not compete with private builders. Nevertheless the Government ship will cost the more.

By act of Congress approved July 1, 1902, authority was granted for the construction of two battleships afterward named the Connecticut and Louisiana, each 450 feet long, 76 1-8 feet wide, with a draft of 24 feet 6 inches. A short time after this action of Congress, the Navy Department decided to have one of the battleships constructed by private parties, the Government endeavoring to build the other.

THE CONNECTICUT NEW SEA FIGHTER BEING BUILT BY GOVERNMENT.

Government Got Bad Start Too.

The contract for the Louisiana was let to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company who laid the keel for that vessel on February 7, 1903, while the Government was delayed in the construction of its vessel so much that the keel was not laid down until March 10 of the same year. The Government was further delayed in building the Connecticut owing to non arrival of necessary machinery and armor plate, yet with all of these drawbacks the latest figures published by the Navy Department show the Government-built boat farther advanced toward completion than that being erected by a private concern. The Louisiana was the first to receive its christening, having been launched August 27, 1904; the Connecticut did not take to the waves until September 29 of the same year. The Brooklyn Navy Yard, where the Connecticut is being built is now employing over 1,000 men on the battleship and it is stated that there is still room for 200 more workmen. With the rapid progress now being made on the vessels it is estimated that they will be ready to go into commission by June of next year.

Most Formidable of War Ships.

These battleships when completed will be among the most formidable war vessels of the world; the main battery on each will consist of four 12-inch, eight 8-inch and twelve 7-inch rifles; the secondary battery will have twenty 3-inch rapid fire guns, twelve 3-pounders, eight 1-pounders and a number of rapid fire guns of smaller calibre. There will also be four submerged torpedo tubes The ships will have ample protection by heavy armor ranging in thickness from nine to eleven inches. The contract calls for vessels of 16,000 tons displacement, with a steaming capacity, at 10 knots per hour, of 5,000 miles without recoaling. They are expected, however, to make 18 knots per hour at the official trial. Each ship will be manned by 855 officers and men. The contract price of the Louisiana is $3,990,000 while the Connecticut is expected to cost $4,212,000.

Chestnuts are a very similar food to potatoes. The chestnut, however, is the more nutritious of the two. The chestnut has only 33 per cent. water while the potato has 76 per cent. of water. In all of the nutritive ingredients the chestnut leads the potato. The chestnut may be cooked exactly as the potato is, boiled, baked or roasted.

The culture of the chestnut tree in this country has as yet been neglected, and furnishes an inviting field for enterprising agriculture and forestry.

PERFUMES FOR THE NOBILITY.

Ambassador Whitelaw Reid Engages Services of Earl's Son.

At one time Lady Curzon had the reputation of spending more money on perfumes than any other woman in England. It was said that she was more extravagant in this respect than Queen Alexandra whose perfume bills amounted to something like $5,000 a year. Now, the story goes, the Duchess of Roxburgh has become the most extravagant purchaser of perfumery in the land. She patronizes the heavy-scented essences of the East which are known to be most expensive. The cost of her daily bath would, it is said, keep a middle-class family for a week. Lady Curzon used these same essences at one time, but she found them so expensive that she decided to try cheaper extracts. Queen Alexandra, too, has gone in for retrenchment in the same direction, and she is now satisfied with the favorite scent of the late Queen Victoria, which was a species of lavender water specially prepared for her by a chemist at Windsor. The Princess of Wales is also extravagant in the use of scents and uses a special preparation made from violets and other carefully cultivated flowers. It is strange that Lady Suffolk, formerly Miss Leiter of Washington, dislikes scents, considering her sister's passion for them.

Even royalty finds it necessary to yield obedience to the doctor's orders. The fiat has gone forth that Queen Alexandra must eat no more sweet things. In consequence, a well-known firm of London pastry cooks, who have for many years supplied her majesty with confectionery and other tempting delicacies, have had their order cancelled. For their loss of trade the are consoled by the fact that they are still allowed to display the royal coat-of-arms, which indicates that they are under royal patronage. The Queen has long been inordinately fond of sweets and confections and has recklessly indulged her appetite for them. That has produced an accumulation of superfluous adipose tissue which even the most expert of dressmakers are unable to conceal. She is no longer slim and willowy, though English newspapers continue so to describe her. Her medical attendant has told her that her only hope of regaining something like her youthful contour of figure lies in the practice of rigid self-denial with respect to the dainties she enjoys most. The Princess of Wales has also received a hint from a high medical authority that she will some day become a second edition of her mother, the Duchess of Teck, who was enormously fat, unless she practices frugality in the line of confections.

LADY CURZON.

The Duchess of Arcos, formerly Miss Virginia Lowry of Washington, wife of the new Spanish ambassador to Italy, arrived in Rome recently from St. Petersburg, the former post of her husband. On opening her trunk it was discovered that it had been robbed in transit of jewels valued at about $4,000. It is supposed that the robbery took place between Turin and Rome. van Calva.

Queer Odor of Mummies.

You may put a mummy in a glass case and seal it hermetically so that no corroding air can get within, but it will still exhale its odor. Four or five thousand years, it would seem, should exhaust all olfactory qualities, but experience teaches us that these smells remain while the origin of their scents is unknown to us. They are today as much a mystery to embalmers as when the bodies were put in the bath of nature.

The hen's eggs produced in this country last year would fill 43,127,000 crates of 380 eggs each. It would require 107,818 refrigerator cars to transport this crop, and these cars would make a train 900 miles long.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE 1 2 3 TENSION 4 5 6 7 8 TIGHT

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Foster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

BULLDOG SUSPENDERS
50 cents everywhere. Will Outwear Three Ordinary Kinds.
Made in Light and Heavy Weights, for Men and Youth. Extra lengths, same price. With more elastic, warranted non-rusting metal parts, and absolutely unbreakable, soft, pliable Bull Dog leather ends, they are POSITIVELY THE BEST SUSPENDER MADE.
If your dealer cannot supply you, we will, postpaid, for 50 cents.
HEWES & POTTER, Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the world.
Dept. 84, 87 LINCOLN ST., BOSTON, MASS.
Valuable Booklet, "Dress and Suspender Styles," free on request.

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

The NEWEST THINGS for CHRISTMAS
WEDDING (and other) PRESENTS

are our Lock Buckles for use on Trunks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds, Portfolios, Messenger Bags, etc.

They are the only Lock Buckles with the Yale Principle and are made of Manganese Bronze, which looks like gold, is stronger than steel and will not rust.

Locks alone (easily attachable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c; large, $1.00. (Beautifully hand engraved and including monogram, 25c extra); with strap for trunk, $1.50; for case, $1.00 prepaid and returnable if not delighted. Booklet on request. Salesmen and sales women wanted everywhere.

LYNCH MFG. CO. Madison, Wis.

TENS
2
3
4
5
6 7 ension

Indicator
IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.
It indicates the state
tension at a glance.
se means time saving
sier sewing.
our own invention found only on the WHITE
ing Machine.
have other striking ements that appeal to eful buyer. Send for gant H. T. catalog.
SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

ILOS
, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
rite for Catalogue.
k Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

on & Hamlin
OS AND ORGANS
ARD OF THE WORLD

NSIONS.
ne Million Dollars
ir clients during the last ne Thousand allowed through us durast six months. Dis-
, Age and Ine pensions obtained
ortest possible time.
ws' claims a specialty.
ranted within 90
placed with us immedisoldier's death. Fees law and payable out of pension. A successful e of 25 years and benefit alls at Pension Bureau
r service. Highest refurnished. Local Magispecuniarily
ted by sending us
& WHITMAN CO.,
ld'g, Washington, D. C.

er's Ideal
Cribs
cident Proof

WANT A JACK
ur Jack Catalogue. Sure to con ption of exactly what you w
Jacks our Specialty
son-Stillman Co.,
Dey St., N. Y. City.

KS—BOOKS
published some good ones spec-farmers. Books that will help to make more out of his farm catalogue.
PUBLISHING CO.,
t. Paul Minn.

SPENDERS
r Three Ordinary Kinds.
[illegible]
SUSPENDER MADE.
[illegible]
r Styles," free on request.

r CHRISTMAS
) PRESENTS
elescopes, Cases of all kinds,
with the Vale Principle
, which looks like gold,
rust.
Small, 50c; medium, 75c;
and including monogram,
case, $1.00 prepaid and re-request. Salesmen and sales
Madison, Wis.

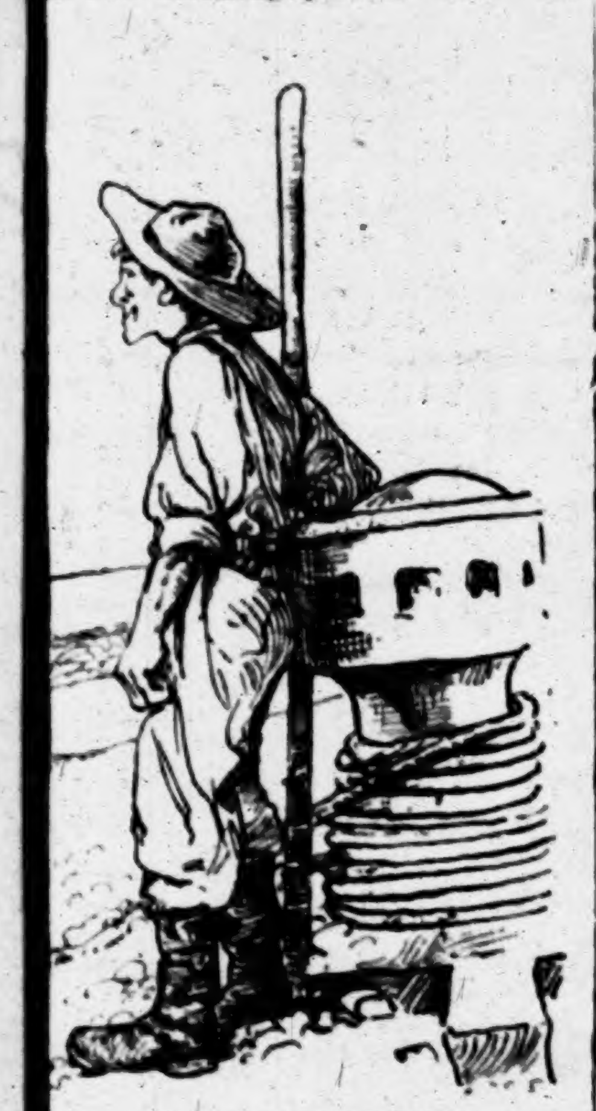
d Enoch Gray lived in the now st forgotten town of Castaway, the coast of Maine, and his son t" lived with him.

d Enoch was a grizzled veteran ver seventy years, a relic of the war, in which he had done good ice as a pilot in the fleets of Du- and Porter, but was now badly pled by rheumatism, and the re- of his fifty years' exposure to wind and weather in all quarters he globe.

e had long been a widower, and only one left of his numerous dren was this son, christened uel Carter, now twenty-two years ge and as long and lank and ly as could be found on the en- coast. Because Samuel Carter a kind of feline expression and his earliest babyhood could climb a cat, anything from the old lib- pole on shore to the mast of a at sea when the winds were ing great guns, and because he a habit of making a sort of pur- sound, when about to speak, children had first nicknamed him sy" and then someone said t," and "Scat" it was thenceforth.

d Enoch was the captain of one the many pleasure boats and now most sought for, when the summer boarders wanted a man in whose wledge of seamanship they had most implicit confidence, and se prophecies of the winds and all sible storms were so much more to relied upon than "Old Improba- ties," as they called the Weather eau at Washington. If the party to be large and the trip was to be one of the many islands and in- led a clam-bake and chowder din- "Scat" generally accompanied his her, and many stories were told of great strength and remarkable lity, and jokes were made at the of his immense feet. It was said shoes were made on a special st," and he always insisted on ing the soles filled with great s-headed nails.

astaway was in those days, and y be yet, the home of many sa- s and drinking places, and the et bordering on the wharves was d with them, wnere Jack when ore was wont to leave not only all hard earned dollars, but his manli- s and happy disposition, and to be nsformed into a fighting and quar- some brute.

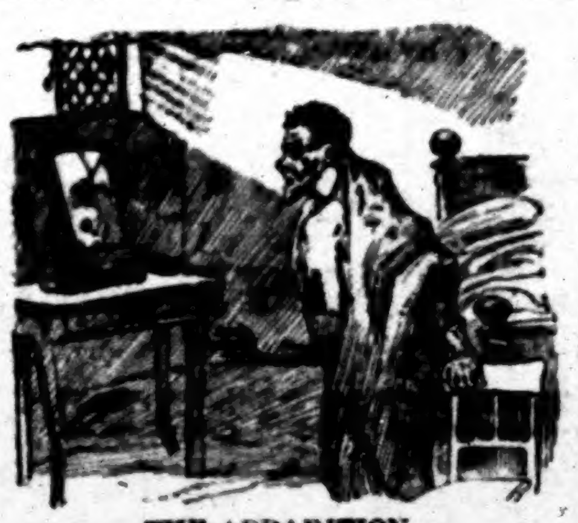


"SCAT," AS HE LOOKED.

ate on an afternoon, as Captain y and "Scat" were nearing their ling place, with a party of young ple Captain Dick Hardaker, full bad gin and worse temper, stag- d down to the wharf, and with muttered curses watched them they prepared to disembark. Years re Captain Dick had been one of town's best-trusted sailing mas- and most-respected representa- es but on an unfortunate voyage run his ship on the rocks and crew and cargo. In spite of his onal bravery and proof that the dent was unavoidable and ugh no fault of his, the Scotch lict of "not proven" nad been n, and he had failed to get anoth- hip This and the mishap itself soured his disposition and nged him from a bluff-hearty sail- into a drunken, quarrelsome loafer. was a man of powerful frame, ding six feet two inches in his king feet, and was given a wide th by all his quondam friends and pmates, especially when, as was t generally the case, he was under influence of bad liquor. The two tains had been old friends, and had athered many a gale together, but seldom spoke. That morning ptain Dick had met the pleasure ty and offered his boat and ser- es but his habits were well known, his blood-shot eyes bore proof, y too plainly, of the last night's ations, which the many morning ms had failed to rectify. When minutes later the party engaged Enoch, and one of the boys flip- tly remarked, "No Scotch verdict bad whiskey for us," Captain Dick ned away with an angry oath and ttered that he would take his re- ge later.

fter the boat was tied up and ch and his son were leaving the rf, preceded by his party, Cap- Dick strode over, planted himself ctly in front of the old man, and ling him a vile name, added: n't you know I always want to snakes and sneaks, whenever I meet them." Captain Enoch's eyes flashed—for he himself had been a famous fighter in his day, and no man had ever doubted his courage—but he answered quietly, "Tut, tut, Captain Dick, we're too old friends to quarrel about nothing, and anyway you know my fighting days are over." "Yes, damn you, didn't I say you were a sneaking old hypocrite, and only fit to sail a lot of dudes and school girls?" "Well, I'm going to slap that grizzled old face of yours, and then perhaps you'll get up spunk enough to strike back, so I can have an excuse to throw you overboard." Cries of "shame, shame," were heard from the loungers near, for everyone loved Captain Enoch—and were beginning to hate Captain Dick—and two of the bright college boys that composed the late sailing party hastened back to do what they could to prevent the threat from being put into execution.

Suddenly a sort of purring sound was heard behind them, as "Scat's" long body pushed them aside, and in his slow, hesitating, almost girl-like voice, he said: "Captain Dick, don't you strike my father." Captain Dick stared in stupid amazement, "Why, you young fool, clear out of my way. I've half a mind to double you up and drop you overboard, before I do the old man; get out of my way," he thundered.



THE APPARITION.

The pupils of "Scat's" eyes narrowed, as do those of his feline prototype when cornered by some big dog, but he stood still, seemingly uncornered and looking as ungainly and awkward as if at a school examination. The captain started towards him, with his arm raised and his powerful fist clenched, and old Enoch hastily grabbed a club that lay on the wharf. But "Scat" said softly: "Never mind, Pap—just you watch me." Stepping rapidly backward, as the captain continued to advance, he deftly calculated the distance, and as quick as lightning threw a handspring. Instead of landing on his feet, he shot out those immense hobnailed shoes with fearful force, landing them both full in the captain's face, cutting it to the bone in a dozen places. Captain Dick dropped as if hit by a cannon ball, without even a groan.

A week later, when he slowly dragged himself from his bed, and got the first view of his swollen eyes, his broken nose, and his generally cut up and distorted features, he muttered, "What a whale of a squall must have struck us." Then opened his cabin door, walked out, and the good people of the village saw him no more.

They Worked the Fraternity.

The Grand Regent of the Royal Arcanum, of the District of Columbia, tells a story on himself, how after patiently urging, persuading and nagging, he managed to get a fellow acquaintance to join his order. This new member,—say Mr. Smith—after joining was at first delinquent in paying his dues, and the great mogul of the fraternity had much trouble in getting him to pay up. After a time, much to his surprise, Mr. Smith sent his money in promptly on the day it was due; then he sent in his money two months in advance. A short time after, Mrs. Smith came into the Grand Regent's place of business and said, "Won't you please come around to see Mr. Smith, he is very ill." Of course the kind-hearted Regent went. He found Smith very ill, indeed, so sick that the physician had told him his time on earth was limited, and Smith took occasion to thank the Regent for getting him to join the order so that he might not pass away leaving his family unprovided for. Smith died. His widow then beseeched the Regent to try to get her some work to do so that she might support her family. The Grand Regent was again obliging, and by hard work and an unlimited amount of red tape, got her through the civil service examination and she obtained a position in one of the Government Departments. Just before receiving her notice to go to work (about six months after her husband's demise) she appeared again at the Grand Regent's office and said:

"I want to thank you for what you have done for me. I have just received my appointment, but I don't think I will take the place; I have something better. I want to ask one more favor, won't you please recommend this party's admission to your order?"

"Well, now, Mrs. Smith," said the Regent, "that is something I can't do without knowing the applicant."

"Oh, he is all right, I can assure you," she replied, "he's my husband."

There is one pawnshop in Paris operated by the government, where the average number of watches pawned a day is one thousand, and where on an average one thousand wedding rings are pawned each week.

At Rajputna, India, is one of the largest artificial lakes or reservoirs in the world. This reservoir, covering an area of 21 square miles, known as the Great Tank of Dhebar, is used for irrigating purposes.

DEATH IN A SNOW STORM.

An Interesting Account of a Winter Spent in the Wilds of Idaho.

Eastern people, said the old miner, as he deftly caught a live coal from the wood fire, around which we had gathered after our day's hunt in the Maine woods, and thrust it in the bowl of his pipe, have but little idea of the heavy snow falls of the Rockies and the Sierras, or what damage is often caused from the accumulated weight.

I remember well, he added, hearing my father tell how in York State back in the thirties, that the fall was once so great that the men were compelled to organize relief parties to dig away the big drifts from many of the houses, and that when driving along the streets one could almost look, from the level, into the second story window. But as I passed the first twenty years of my life in that town and witnessed nothing more remarkable than drifts over the top rails of fences and the temporary blocking of the scarcely-traveled back roads, I conclude those stories must have gained somewhat from the lapse of years.

He smoked rapidly and quietly for a moment, perhaps to gather his thoughts a little and resumed, 'Why the fall was so excessive and continuous once in Idaho Territory upon the steep roof of our mill, that the large timber of 12x14 below which the engine had been built, was bent almost to breaking. We feared our extra weight would surely break it, but fortunately the weather changed, the warm south wind blew up the canyon and the snow below the eaves of the building settled so that we could dig under the huge mass and by night had caused a minature snow slide and relieved the strain. I believe, however, the timber never regained its normal position. But in the mining town in the Sierras where I wintered in the early sixties, our first snow fell during October and in the morning lay four feet on the level. The storm lasted about forty-eight hours and we then had beautiful weather for several weeks. When the snow had partially melted, the frame of a ten-horse wagon, from which the wagon box had been removed, was found to be crushed to splinters, even the spokes of the wheels being torn and twisted out of all recognition. From the last of November until May, severe storms were of very frequent occurrence until, by actual measurement, the snow lay nearly thirty feet on the level. To travel any distance whatever was of course impossible, without snow shoes, and every man, woman and child became more or less of an expert. We used the Norwegian shoe exclusively, for with them the sport is fast and furious. Eleven feet long and about four inches broad, with a leather band about one-third from the toe by which the foot is firmly held by its forward pressure, the toe of the shoe gracefully turned upward, we learned to brag of them and cherish them, as the rider does his horse, as well we might, for without them we were helpless. The bottom of the shoe is made as smooth as glass and covered after each trip with a mixture of tallow and beeswax. A stout hickory pole, chosen with great care, about six feet long and with a knob on the end, is the guiding rudder, and the expert soon learns to pass near, and often between, objects where the slightest miscalculation would mean death. As the speed, down any steep mountain side, often exceeds a mile a minute, the modern cyclist or auto is not in it.

Of course in these deep snows the one story cabin of the miner would soon be buried, but care is always taken to shovel away as far as possible the accumulations that come with the earlier storms. When there are piles everywhere and shovelling becomes useless, the snow is permitted to lie where it falls and ingress and egress to the cabin is made by way of the chimney. No fires for warmth are needed, as not a breath of air can enter the cabin and none are made except such as can be kept in the large camp kettles, hung in the fire place on a crane. The chimney is kept free from snow by means of a wooden roof fitting over its top, and above it, and it is absolutely essential that between it and the roof the snow must be kept cleared away. Steps are arranged in the chimney for easy climbing and when the miner enters his cabin he stands his shoes in the snow bank a short way from the chimney, as otherwise his home could not readily be found.

Once more he paused, refilled and lighted his pipe and said as if to himself. And it all happened over forty years ago.

The two Carlton brothers, veterans of the Civil War from Maine, where they claimed to have some snow storms of their own, lived in a cabin some little distance from the main street. The huge banks of snow had long since covered it and, like many others, for several weeks they had crawled in and out of it through their chimneys. This was their first winter in these mountains and they had been often warned to keep the place below the chimney clear from snow, lest the top be covered some night and they be smothered. But they had laughed good naturedly and said they were old backwoodsmen and were not afraid. After a storm of unusual severity which had lasted several days the question was asked in the loafing room of the hotel (a big three story building where a half hundred miners made their home), if any one had seen or heard of Alf. Carlton, his brother Jim having snow-shoed to an adjoining town the week before. No one had, and the former spokesman added, "Well, you know he's a tenderfoot and isn't any too careful about keeping the chimney open, as he should be."

A few minutes later the speaker rose and moving to the window (we entered and departed from the second story) said, "I reckon my boy and I will go over to his cabin. If we need any help I'll send the boy back."

About ten minutes later the boy glided up to the window, opened it and called out, "Pap says all of you come over quick, bring lots of snow shovels and a couple of blankets. Let some of the women get one of the bed rooms warm and make some hot soup and coffee." It don't take much time for us old fellows whose lives are full of tragedies and startling episodes, to get ready for almost any kind of contingency; and before the boy had stopped talking, more than two dozen strong and willing men and several of the other sex, not always the weaker sex in a mining camp, were gliding over the intervening half mile. It was a beautiful morning after the storm and in the light, crisp air of that great altitude every object stood out as clear and distinct as if all nature rejoiced, and no thought of death was possible. The green branches of the many pines were heavily weighted with the lately fallen snow, and the level expanse of Meadow Lake with its white covering glistened in the bright sunlight like an immense mirror.

Not a word was spoken nor a sound heard in the still air, except the swish of our snow snoes, as we glided rapidly toward Carlton's cabin. This was built, as I have said, a little distance from the more thickly settled part of the town (although now very many of the smaller cabins were buried out of sight and upon our arrival, nothing could be seen to distinguish its position, except a huge mound of snow and the ends of two snow shoes; presumably where the chimney was. Two dozen willing hands were soon hard at work, clearing away the huge drifts, and as soon as the chimney was uncovered we found, as we feared and expected, that the space around it had been permitted to lie and harden. It was but too plain that what had fallen during this previous storm had rapidly filled the small space below the chimney cap, and the cabin been hermetically sealed. As soon as the opening was made, a couple of us climbed down. Poor Carlton stood, leaning against the bricks of the chimney; fully clothed, even to his blue army overcoat, and the air was thick with a close, foul odor. There were no matches in the cabin or upon his person. He had evidently slept long and soundly and realized from his sensations when he awoke and became partially conscious that he was being smothered. That he had become bewildered and had wandered aimlessly around the cabin was evident by the articles strewn upon the floor, and when he finally found the chimney, had been too weak to make the ascent and had gradually fallen into his last sleep.

We judged he had been dead for forty-eight hours or more, and as the storm was raging so fiercely at that time, it is by no means certain that he could have been rescued, had his condition been known.

The body was wrapped in blankets and tenderly carried to the hotel, and prepared at once for burial. The grave was dug near an old pine tree through twenty-four feet of snow, and steps had to be cut to lead down to the ground. There was no minister in the camp, but one of the women brought out a prayer book and the burial service was read and probably each one of us sent up some sort of a prayer, that he might make a happy landing on the other shore.

Over a hundred men and women on snow shoes accompanied the body from the hotel to the grave, the wind singing a soft requiem as we laid the body away in that great white sepulcher and commented upon the singular fatality that had carried him safely through years of bloody strife, to at last meet his death in that strange manner 8,500 feet above his home of early days on the rock-bound shores of the Atlantic.

Briefs from Everywhere.

No intoxicants were allowed Russian prisoners in Japan.

A carved war god supposed to be over a thousand years old has been found in a cave in Colorado.

One ounce of radium contains power enough, if it could be utilized, to lift ten thousand tons one mile high.

The Arabs claim that Eve's grave is in a cemetery at Jeddah wnich was closed for interments over a thousand years ago.

The Denver and Rio Grande Railroad is employing Navajo Indians as section hands, finding them better workmen than South Europe laborers.

The herring is one of the most migratory of fish. They are only caught as a rule during the spawning season. Where they go to after that is not known.

The new postage stamps which Japan is printing for Korea show a chrysanthemum, emblem of Japan, a plum blossom, emblem of Korea, and two pigeons, symbolic of the postal service.

In 1718 a French scholar named Henzoin published a work about giants, beginning with Adam, who he asserted was 123 feet 9 inches tall, Eve being only five feet shorter.

The railway scrap heap of the country last year reached the value of $1,250,000. This was the value of picked-up coupling pins, waste paper, old nails, bolts and the like.

The dress of Persian women on the street is so uniform that a man cannot recognize his own wife, mother or daughter and to lift the veil of a woman on the street in Persia is a capital offense.

The English cottagers are the most flower-loving people in the world. Many of their flowers are descended from the gardens of the monasteries dis-established by Henry VIII. The cottages themselves, whether they are owned or rented, descend from generation to generation and are in the true sense homes.

FREE!
LADIES THIS
Handsome Fur Scarf
GIVEN AWAY

Send us your name and address and we will send you free and post-paid 24 pieces of our jewelry novelties to sell at 10 cents each. Everybody you show them to will buy them of you. When sold send us the $2.40 and we will at once send you this

Handsome Fur Scarf

It is nearly 48 inches long, made from black Lynx fur, has six full, bushy tails, very latest style, and we know you will be more than pleased with it. When you receive it we know you will say it is the most elegant and thoroughly good fur you have ever seen. Nothing similar to this scarf has ever before been offered as a premium; it will give years of satisfactory wear. It gives a stylish, dressy effect to the wearer's appearance. The only reason we can offer them is we had a large number of them made up for us by one of the large furriers during the summer when trade was quiet; this is the only reason we are able to offer such an expensive premium. We hope you will take advantage of our offer without delay. This is an extraordinary offer and cannot be duplicated by any other reliable concern. We trust you with our jewelry until sold. It costs you nothing to get this fur. Address,

COLUMBIA NOVELTY CO.,
Dept. 655, East Boston, Mass.

New Walk For Women.

From London comes startling reports of a new figure and a new pose which have been called into existence by the winter fashions. Women who have for the last year been lightly tripping in the short "trottoir" skirt have found that they must adapt their style of walking to the new order of thhings. A slow, langueruos movement of the limbs is therefore cultivated, as being more conductive to grace when wearing the long "redingote" coat and the newly introduced princess styles.

The new walk is just a little suggestive of the "Gibson girl," but in a modified form. The figure is held upright at the shoulders, with the slightest forward bend at the waist, the head is erect, the chin in and the legs swing from the hips. The correct poise is not attained all at once—according to the London Express—and at the physical culture schools, where society is now graduating in the art of how to walk in a "redingote," some very drastic orders are given. The practice of sleeping on the back or one side is fatal to the new poise. If the woman of fashion would look well and stately she must sleep face downward, with a pillow tightly wedged under her chin in order to avoid suffocation.

Climate in the Philippines.

Major General Leonard Wood in a report to the War Department says that in his opinion there is no subject upon which more nonsense has been written than that of the bad effects of the Philippine climate on the health of officers and soldiers.

Returns from California show that the value of the orange crop shipped out of that State last season was $23,925,000. Of this sum the growers received $14,500,000 and the railroad and refrigerator lines $9,425,000.

The average number of hairs which grow on the head of a red-haired man is a little over 20,000 hairs. Dark hair is three times as fine and the average crop is about 105,000, while a fair-haired man or woman averages from 150 to 175 thousand hairs.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
Men's Suspenders
Arm Bands, Ladies' Garters
with the unique new fad
PHOTO LOCKET BUCKLE
Patented Jan. 19, 1904.
Particularly appropriate novelties in which photographs can be inserted.
AN INEXPENSIVE GIFT, COSTING ONLY ONE DOLLAR EACH.
The photo locket buckles are extra heavy gold and silver plated, on which you can engrave initials or monograms. The web is best quality silk, in fascinating shades of light blue, white, and black, and they are packed in attractive single pair boxes.
HANDSOME, DEPENDABLE, USEFUL.
Sold everywhere, or mailed for $1.00 and 10 cents postage.
State kind and color desired. If engraved, 75 cents per pair extra, with not more than three letters on a buckle. Photos reproduced, 25c. per set of two, to fit buckle.
HEWES & POTTER
Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the World.
Dept. 64, 87 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.
Our suspender booklet, showing many styles adapted for every purpose, and giving valuable information about correct dress, will be sent FREE ON REQUEST.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.
Illustrated by Ernest Haskell
By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st
18TH THOUSAND ALREADY
All Bookstores, $1.50
The Missourian
The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.
"[illegible]" —St. Louis Republic.
"[illegible]" —N. Y. Times Saturday Review.
"[illegible]" —N. Y. Globe.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.
[illegible] DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY [illegible]

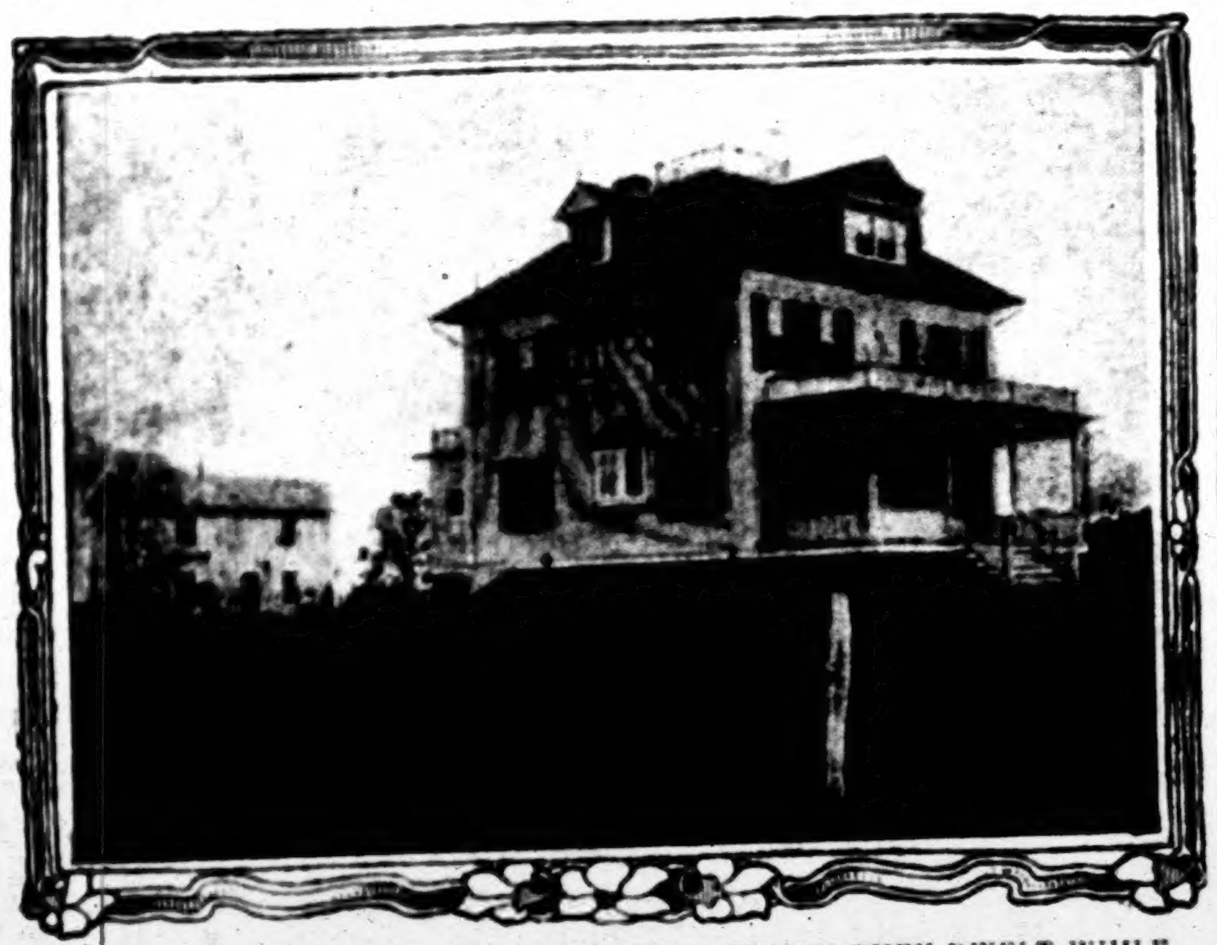
BEAUTIFYING RURAL HOMES.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

The Englishman lives in a house which in all probability his father and his forefathers have lived in for a dozen generations. Even where the house is not owned by the resident, the preferential right descends from father to son to rent and occupy it. It is a true home.

Americans are strongly imbued with the idea of owning homes, houses with accompanying plots of land, but as a rule Americans are all too careless, at the same time, about creating a bit of scenery or making the home such an attractive abode as will cause the traveler to pause a moment and exclaim: "What a pretty little place!"

In the first instance where his English cousin, or the English landlord erects a stone house, at an advanced cost doubtless, but more than evened up in a few years by repainting and repairing, the American throws together a frame dwelling, usually of cheap, second growth timber. In twenty years the English home is covered wth ivy and has the appearance of subtantiality and solidity, as though it had always been there and intended remaining. If you mention "twenty years hence" to the American, he will shrug his shoulders and smile and tell you he expects to be somewhere else in twenty years, if he has not bettered his condition and gotten out of it in half that time. But twenty years pass more quickly than is expected, and what does the place look like then? It has had perhaps three coats of paint. The second set of shingles is curling up and needs replacing and the house itself is worth one-half of its value when new.



THE HOME THEY MADE AND THE BARN IN WHICH THEY DWELT WHILE BUILDING IT.

Yet it must be agreed that every man should build a house with the idea of making it his permanent home, adding to it as his needs grow, but continually improving it and beautifying it. If for no other cause than increasing its selling value, he should build well and improve. And this applies to the surrounding grounds, the outbuildings, etc., fully as much as the home proper.

"What is home without a mother"—and a good wife and children? What is home, I would add, even with these blessings, unless it is a real home, a comfortable and a beautiful one? Ah, there is a difference, and such a wide difference, between an abode or a mere dwelling place and a home.

Trying to treat this matter from a practical standpoint, the Department of Agriculture recently issued an illustrated bulletin on beautifying back yards. This applied to city and suburban homes, but the idea is the same everywhere.

OLD ENGLISH SUBURBAN STREET AND STONE HOUSES.

And this calls to mind a practical illustration of what a good thing it is, what a splendid thing to start in growing something in your back yard, if you have nothing bigger. For I have in mind two people, a young man and his wife, who started their married life in a rented city house with a back yard 18 feet wide and containing about one-fortieth of an acre. They had lived in the city all their lives and knew nothing of the wonders of plant and animal production. But they commenced at once to use their ground. They planted radishes and lettuce and some flowers and trained tomatoes against the fence, and they set a hen. Their failures and interesting experiences during the two years they lived thus would fill a volume. But the great result was that before the end of the first year, they who had never lived outside their four walls, felt terribly confined. They longed to get out and have enough land to grow more things, to make a genuine garden and to nurture and rear and reap the things which they ate. And so they moved into the country, hardly the real country yet; but they bought half an acre just beyond the city outskirts and they built a barn and moved into it and lived there the first year, while they were building their house.

They at once planted a garden which seemed to them like a real farm after their tiny back yard, and the first year they raised all the vegetables they could eat, besides over fifty chickens.

And since then they have gone on beautifying and embellishing this place, until it is now a lovely country residence, twenty per cent. higher in value than it would have been if, five years ago they had made it a mere habitation.

In the first place they employed an architect and built a good house, one which, with ordinary repairs, will stand in good shape fifty years hence. They painted it well. Many long winter evenings of the first year, while they lived in the barn, were spent in going over architect's plans and adjusting pretty and artistic effects to their limited price. And if a man is going to build a house, why not have it pretty at the same time? This house and its valuable ground cost about $5,000, like hundreds of thousands of other homes throughout the country. Yet it is a strikingly handsome place. The proof of this is that while it was the first dwelling to be erected in that particular section, other houses which have gone up since have largely copied its style, and it is now surrounded by a dozen handsome and well-built homes. The care and attention given to this place may in itself have brought good neighbors.

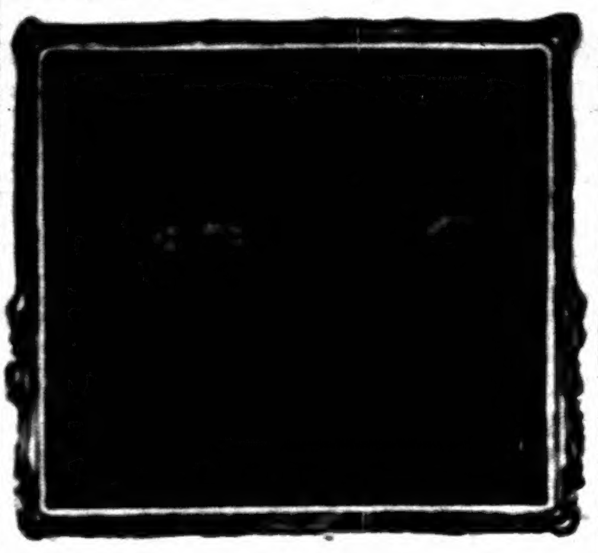
A TYPICAL WATER TANK.

It Surmounts a Convenient Cooling House.

A good lawn was made, shade and fruit trees were immediately set out and sedulously cared for, the man has become an expert gardener, the chicken business has become an important adjunct, furnishing not only an ample meat supply, but a considerable additional income from eggs, broilers and capons. The fruit trees are beginning to bear and the berry bushes have long since yielded fresh fruit for the table and jellies and jams for winter. The place is constantly improving and being improved.

The interior of the house was well finished to commence with. Room after room has since been furnished and beautified as means admitted.

For making this move, for adopting this change in their modes of life, this couple are better people; they are better citizens, they are broader, they know more, they are happier and they are richer in two senses. They make more money and they save more. They buy less of canned vegetables and meats and they have more to spend in improving their place and adding to its beauty and desirability. They have lately put up a substantial light iron fence, which, kept well painted, will last unto the third and fourth generation.



A COSY FIRE-PLACE CORNER.

"Ah," said the man, "if we had only had the advantages when we were young which our children have here, there would have been a lot more in life for us."

And so it is everywhere. It matters little, if you live in a brown stone front with the brick pavement directly under your window, whether you have a plain or a carved window sill, but it does matter whether your front or back yard is well kept and well fenced and is prettily decorated with plants and vines, and whether, if you have more ground, it is a poor, unattractive plot, or instead is a thing of beauty and a joy, not only to you but to all who see it.

How many men you run across who have been "awfully busy" but are going to "fix up" their places. They seldom get fixed. Before they get fixed up with the little things a home should have, they need fixing in earnest—they are old places.

If as a people we could become educated to the idea of greater permanency in our mode of living, of building and improving for our future years, or doing something with the idea in mind that we would not have to re-do it in ten or fifteen years hence, the average American home would have a far more substantial, comfortable and attractive appearance.

ONE OF THE DELIGHTS OF THE RURAL HOME

Balanced Rations for Man and Beast.

Two Farmers' Bulletins of the Department of agriculture, widely dissimilar in contents, yet treating of subjects which have a closely-connected relationship are the Feeding of Farm Animals and the Principles of Bread Making, and both of them have proven so popular that their reprinting has been required several times.

The feeding of the animals on the farm is a matter which every farmer is studying more or less closely, the more successful ones the most closely, since it is a matter of constant experiment and inquiry to determine just what is the best ration for work, meat and dairy animals. While each man's experience must be to a great extent his guide, there are certain laws, the results of wide experiments, which afford much aid to the intelligent feeder and these are summarized in the bulletin mentioned—Farmers' Bulletin 22. What is known as a balanced ration is always the thing to be attained. Food is divided into two general classes; fat and heat producing, known as carbohydrates, and muscle and bone producing, known as nitrogenous, and these two foods should be supplied the animal in the proper proportion. If there is a preponderance of either, the ration is unbalanced.

Both of these bulletins can be obtained free through members of congress or senators, or by writing to the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington.

Corn, for instance, is a food rich in carbohydrates and should be "balanced" by a portion of some nitrogenous food such as barley, bran, cowpeas or others of the legumes. A perusal of this bulletin will give the reader a very clear understanding of the value of food for animals.

Food Value of Bread.

The second bulletin on Bread Making, Farmer's Bulletin 112, also goes into the question of what is a balanced ration, but for human food. As corn and corn fodder is a fat-producing food for animals, so corn bread is a one-sided diet for man and while it produces fat and energy or fuel for the body does not tend to give him the same capacity for endurance that wheat or rye bread does. The wheat berry in itself comes very near being a balanced ration. If it is robbed of its gluten, which lies next to the skin, it is no longer a complete food. Potatoes are extremely one-sided and should be eaten in connection with some nitrogenous food, such as lean meat or beans, which, however, if eaten alone would afford the system too much nitrogen. This bulletin, which is written by a woman, also discusses the practical side of bread making and can probably be read with benefit by any housewife.

Items of Interest.

Oscar Hunt of the Carlisle football team is a millionaire Indian.

Old, battered, second-hand silk hats are in good demand among comedians—also among the colored fraternity.

A cubic foot of earth weighs on an average five and a half times as much as a cubic foot of water.

PLANTS BELOW THE SILL.

It costs as much to fire a 16-inch cannon as it does to pay a private soldier his wages for five years.

The ruins of a prehistoric fortified British village have been unearthed near Carshalton, England.

The fly is seven times stronger than a horse, weight for weight. It can lift twenty times its own weight.

The canning of blue berries is an important industry in Vermont. One factory last season canned 300,000 gallons of the berry.

Though there are many women colonels the only woman admiral is the Queen of Greece. She is an honorary admiral in the Russian navy.

A cubic mile of earth weighs 25,649,300 tons and the volume of the earth is 259,880,000,000 cubic miles Question in mental arithmetic: How much does the earth weigh?

Professor William T. Hornaday, the zoologist, is seeking to have the general government establish a great buffalo park in the west that the animal may not become extinct.

There are only three million Cossacks in Russia. The number of peasants is about one hundred million, there are 14,000,000 "lower city dwellers" and 8,000,000 nomads and semibarbarians.

Dietary experts of the Department of Agriculture estimate that a man doing hard muscular work should have daily food with a fuel value of 4,350 calories while a man taking little exercise needs only 2,450.

Switzerland is the oldest as well as one of the smallest republics in the world. The cantons of Uri, Schwyz and Unterwalden formed a defensive league in 1291, and this was the beginning of the Swiss Confederacy.

The American harvest of broomcorn this year will furnish material for 42,000,000 brooms worth, appproximately, $15,000,000. With 4,000 brooms to a car, 10,000 freight cars will be required to transport the broom output.

The star nearest to the earth is Alpha Centaura, estimated to be 25,000,000,000,000 miles away or 275,000 times farther distant from the earth than the sun. Needless to say these figures are in what are known as "round numbers."

"GOLLY, FER GLAD I DONE LOOKED IN DE WINDOW FUST."

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY
NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED THE GEER SAFETY REIN PAT. AUG. 22, 1899
LIES UNDER AND BUCKLES TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE
You Can Do It EVERY TIME with a GEER SAFETY REIN
PRICE, COMPLETE, $[illegible]
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups: No more Lives Lost: Can be put on, in a minute, to any Bridle
WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.
Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to
THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
47 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK.
Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded

What More Acceptable
CHRISTMAS REMEMBRANCE
Could you send to your friends?
It Costs Ten Cents
It is Worth Ten Dollars
WHY?
BECAUSE
Every Woman's Life is a Problem
of
HOW TO MAKE A LIVING
or
HOW TO MAKE A HOME
and
ONE HINT OR SUGGESTION
from
ONE WHO KNOWS
is oftentimes
OF VALUE INCALCULABLE
to the
WORKER OR HOUSEWIFE
How to Save Time
How to Save Steps
How to Make a Home
What it ought to be
IS TOLD BY
ONE WHO KNOWS
in MAXWELL'S
Homemaker Magazine
An Illustrated Monthly
Edited by Amy Clisbee Maxwell
which will be sent to you
ONE WHOLE YEAR
FOR ONLY
TEN CENTS
Send a dime or five two-cent stamps to
MAXWELL'S HOMEMAKER MAGAZINE
1405 Fisher Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS
The Baler for speed. Bales [illegible] tons a day. Has 40 inch [illegible] Adapted to bank barn work [illegible] to its work—no digging holes [illegible] Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.
Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.,
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

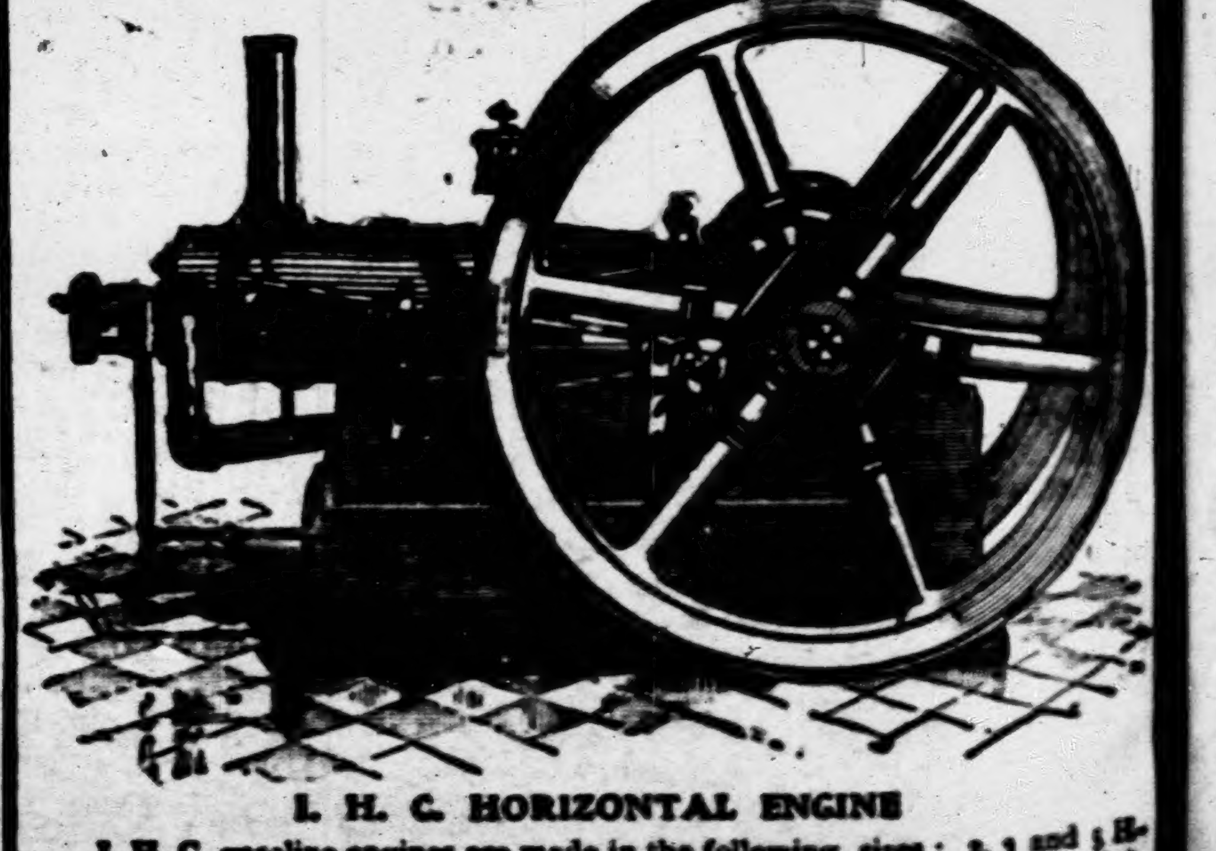
Well Drilling Machines
Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP
is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.
James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO ILL.

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.
ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Gleanings in Bee Culture
teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.
A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES
When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE
I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.
WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.
International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

[illegible]

[illegible] Court: Quarterly [illegible] in February first Monday in April first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in July second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price today ... 11 @ 11½
" same date last year 7½

No. Bales received to date	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pinckard & Co	1934	3148
W. I. [illegible]	[illegible]	2117
W. Kanter & Bro	165
J. C. Jones	1176	[illegible]
Cannon & Sons	400
Other Firms		[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

The above figures are [illegible] from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening five o'clock.

Miss Addie Horsey of Jemison is spending a few days in Clanton.

Miss Annie Lane of Thorsby spent Sunday with friends here.

Mrs. Lefstead and daughter of Thorsby were pleasant visitors here Monday.

Mrs. M. A. Adams of Birmingham is visiting her son, Mr. W. M. Adams, this week.

Mr. Albert Wear of Jemison was a visitor here Sunday.

Misses Slaton and Strickland attended the Literary Club at Jemison Friday night.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Don't fail to go and see Miss Minnie Muse's fall hats, she is selling them at the most reasonable prices.

Mrs. J. C. Oates of Arkansas is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Puss Hurst of Anniston and Mr. G. W. Mason of Selma are visiting Mr. W. H. Sartor and family.

Don't forget the show at Clanton next Monday. They say its a good one.

Clear thinking, decisive action, vim and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Upchurch Drug co,

Mr. B. N. Martin of Thorsby was one of our pleasant visitors last Thursday.

Mr. D. A. Friday of Stanton was in town Friday.

Mr. L. A. Burnett of Oakmulgee gave us a pleasant call Friday.

Mr. W. J. D. Roy of Mountain Creek was a visitor here Saturday.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

Mr. T. J. Littlejohn of Active was one of our welcome callers last Thurday.

Mr. K. N. Paulson of Thorsby was in town last Thursday.

Mr. M. P. Chandler of Pletcher, who had some horses stolen from his place, was in town Thursday, offering a reward for their recovery.

Croup, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc., have no terrors for children or adults who evacuate the bowels with Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy expels all cold from the system and strengthens the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. The Original Laxative Cough Syrup and Liquid Cold Cure. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mr. T. J. Dorminy of Jemison was in town Saturday.

Mr. Johnie Williams of Verbena gave us a visit Saturday.

Mr. J. P. Stonecipher was one of our pleasant visitors Saturday.

Mr. J. J. Grant of Verbena was in town Saturday.

Santa Claus with fine Toys has arrived at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. W. F. Teel and Miss Carrie J. Marcus; Mr. L. R. Cobb and Miss Eunice Scott; Mr. A. Y. Williams and Miss Maud Thomas; Mr. James C. Killebrew and Mrs. Annie Smith Lane; Mr. W. M. Lovelady and Miss Beulah Nichols; Mr. E. C. Mims and Miss Donie Sims.

Colored. Manuel Bowline and Lily Williams.

A Certain Cure For Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

R RUNAWAY
You Can Do It [illegible] with a
GEER SAFETY REIN
PRICE, COMPLETE, $2.50
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups; No more Lives Lost; Can be hooked on, in a minute, to any Bridle.
VING REINS.
ter, free on application, to UFACTURING CO.,
LACE, NEW YORK.
any Horse or Money Refunded.

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 18 to tons a day. Has 40 inch feed Adapted to bank barn work. Stands to its work—no digging holes for wheel Self-feed Attachment increases c acity, lessens labor, makes better bal and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.,
124 Main Street, Sandwich,

Well Drilling
Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drillin either deep or shallow wells in any kin of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels sills. With engines or horse power Strong, simple and durable. Any m chanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfe cleanser for automobile machinery and vehicles; will not injure the most high polished surface. Made from pure vegetab oils. If your dealer does not carry America Crown Soap in stock, send us his name a address and we will see that your wants supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Compan
CHICAGO, ILL.

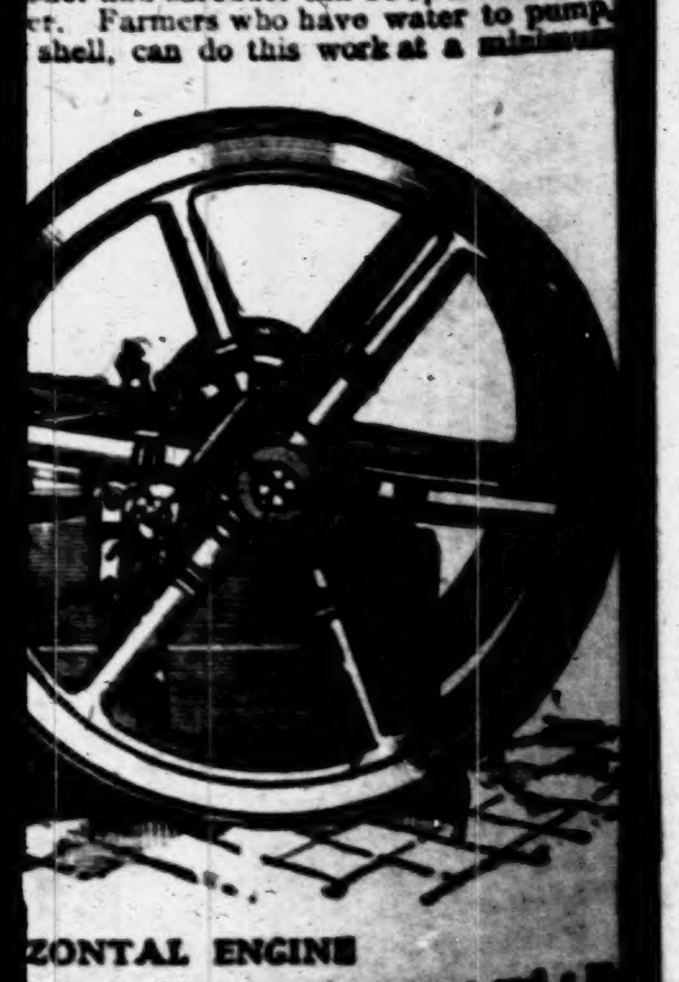
EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grade
and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper C
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Gleanings in Bee Cultu

teaches you about bees, how to handle them honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 mont trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.



Harvester Co.
ENGINES
asoline engine, the farm, the dairy, th sker and shredder can be operated mo r. Farmers who have water to pump shell, can do this work at a minimum

ZONTAL ENGINE
e in the following sizes: [illegible]
12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, [illegible] horizontal type, portable.
INE ENGINE BOOKLET.
ester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

[illegible]

[illegible] Court meets [illegible] Monday in February, first Monday in April, first Monday in July, second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day......11 @ 11⅛
" same date last year 7½c

No. Bales received to date	1905	1904
Pinckard & Co	2952	3046
W. I. Mullins	1900	2112
W. Kanter & Bro	465	..
J. C. Jones	1176	897
Cannon & Sons	400	..
Other Firms		516
Total	6893	6811

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

Miss Addie Horsely of Jemison is spending a few days in Clanton.

Miss Annie Lane of Thorsby spent Sunday with friends here.

Mrs. Lefstead and daughter of Thorsby were pleasant visitors here Monday.

Mrs. M. A. Adams of Birmingham is visiting her son, Mr. W. M. Adams, this week.

Mr. Albert Wear of Jemison was a visitor here Sunday.

Misses Slaton and Strickland attended the Literary Club at Jemison Friday night.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Don't fail to go and see Miss Minnie Muse's fall hats, she is selling them at the most reasonable prices.

Mrs. J. C. Oates of Arkansas is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Puss Hurst of Anniston and Mr. G. W. Mason of Selma are visiting Mr. W. H. Sartor and family.

Don't forget the show at Clanton next Monday. They say its a good one.

Clear thinking, decisive action, vim and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets, Upchurch Drug co,

Mr. B. N. Martin of Thorsby was one of our pleasant visitors last Thursday.

Mr. D. A. Friday of Stanton was in town Friday.

Mr. L. A. Burnett of Oakmulgee gave us a pleasant call Friday.

Mr. W. J. D. Roy of Mountain Creek was a visitor here Saturday.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

Mr. T. J. Littlejohn of Active was one of our welcome callers last Thurday.

Mr. K. N. Paulson of Thorsby was in town last Thursday.

Mr. M. P. Chandler of Pletcher, who had some horses stolen from his place, was in town Thursday, offering a reward for their recovery.

Croup, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc., have no terrors for children or adults who evacuate the bowels with Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy expels all cold from the system and strengthens the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. The Original Laxative Cough Syrup and Liquid Cold Cure. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mr. T. J. Dorminy of Jemison was in town Saturday.

Mr. Johnie Williams of Verbena gave us a visit Saturday.

Mr. J. P. Stonecipher was one of our pleasant visitors Saturday.

Mr. J. J. Grant of Verbena was in town Saturday.

Santa Claus with fine Toys has arrived at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. W. F. Teel and Miss Carrie J. Marcus; Mr. L. R. Cobb and Miss Eunice Scott; Mr. A. Y. Williams and Miss Maud Thomas; Mr. James C. Killebrew and Mrs. Annie Smith Lane; Mr. W. M. Lovelady and Miss Beulah Nichols; Mr. E. C. Mims and Miss Donie Sims.

Colored. Manuel Bowline and Lily Williams.

A Certain Cure For Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled. Drop in and let us show you through. We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in the certain mortgage deed executed by Earnest Welch to the Lathrop Lumber Company, a body corporate, dated the 24th day of March, 1905, and record in vol. 75 record of deeds, page 119, in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton county Alabama, the said Lathrop Lumber Company will proceed to sell on FRIDAY, the 29th day of DECEMBER, 1905, in front of the Court House door of Chilton county, Alabama within the legal hours of sale to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, namely.

1 number 10 Wheel and Mill with 4 block carriage complete;
1 sixty horse 12 x 20 center crank Skinner engine;
1 seventy horse 54 x 12 tubular boiler;
3 circular saws.
4 drays with loading chains and so forth complete;
1 bay horse mule named Bill, 8 years old;
1 gray mare mule named Kit, 10 years old;
1 bay horse mule named Dock, 7 years old;
1 mouse mare mule named Hattie, 8 years old;
1 bay mare mule named Kate, 8 years old;
1 mouse horse mule named Fred, 8 years old;
1 gray horse mule, named John, 9 years old;
1 black horse mule named Henry, 9 years old;
1 red ox named Red, 8 years old;
1 spotted ox named Jim, 7 years old;
1 spotted ox named Henry, 5 years old;
1 spotted ox named Nub, 5 years old;

Said property being situate at Welch's mill, 8 miles west of Kiderville, Chilton county, State of Alabama.

And default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness described in and secured by said mortgage, said sale will be made in execution of and in accordance with powers given in said mortgage.

LATHROP LUMBER CO,
December 11th, 1905.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books on sale at The Banner office

A nice line of Jewelry on display at Upchurch Drug Store.

Mr. E. A. Malone of of Lily was one of our pleasant callers Monday.

Mr. T. J. Klinner of Maplesville was a visitor here Saturday.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptons," says Mr. J. S. Egleston, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These Tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High rm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

A Merry Xmas

to all my customers and the other fellow also.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates. And irons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardwar than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

When you want a pleasant laxative take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A Horn, Thorsby, Thankfulness.

Composed by Lucy I. Blalock.

Recited in Thanksgiving exercise at Canaan church, Nov. 30, 1905, by Laura Miller.

We thank thee, oh God, for the gifts of thy love,
For our hopes in thy mansion in heaven above.
For the many earth's blessings received at thy hand,
For the peace, love and plenty pervading our land,
Oh Father, how can we return thee, in words
Our thanks, for our hearts with emotion is stirred.
So much so that words seem to never express
Our praise, love and humble thankfulness
This Thanksgiving eve we would ask thee to give Us a heart at thy service as long as we live,
And at last, when our work here on earth shall be done,
We pray thee to number each of us as one.
Of thy children in glory, and to us be given
A home in your beautiful mansion in heaven,
Where with praises eternal that never shall end,
We shall sing Hallelujah, forever amen.

Remarkable Cure.

"I was much afflicted with sciatica," writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick, Co, Kan, going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me, I used three 50c bottles, It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons; all express themselves as being benefited by it, I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm," 25c, 50c and $1,00, Sold by Upchurch Drug co,

NOTICE!

Dr. C. L. WOODFIN
THE BOTANIC SPECIALIST
will be in
CLANTON, ALA.
every Saturday for the purpose of treating
Cancer, Catarrh, Wens; Tumors; Goiters and Ulcers and all other Cutaneous Troubles.

If anyone should doubt my ability to cure the above diseases, I can furnish references here in Chilton county.

P. S. When in need of my services call on me or write me at Clanton, Ala. C. L. WOODFIN.

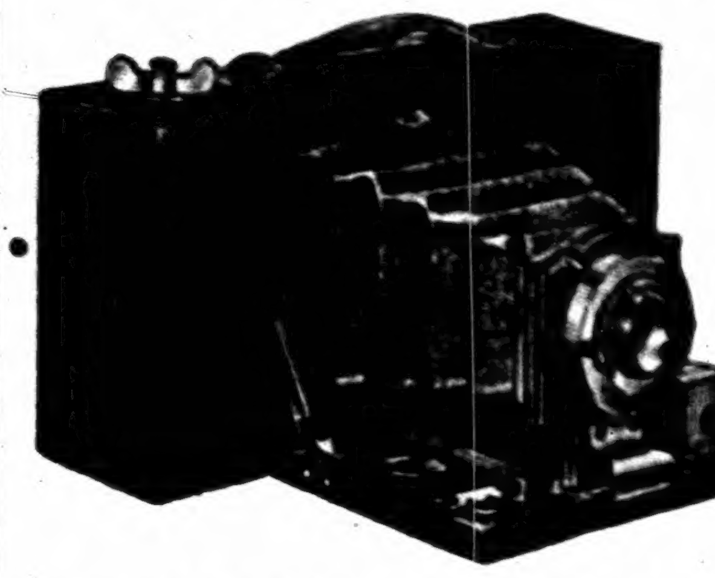
EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

Subscribe for the Banner.



No. 2 Folding
Brownie
Price,
$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.
Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Lights and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTC
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

Do Not Neglect a Cold.
Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.
CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S
HOREHOUND
SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.
EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.
[illegible]
Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed
THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
[illegible] DRUG CO., CLANTON.

THE COUNTRY STORE.

Far out beyond the city's lights,
Away from the din and roar,
The cricket chirps of summer nights
Beneath the country store.
The drygoods boxes rattled about
Afford a welcome seat
For weary tillers of the ground,
Who here of evenings meet.

A swinging sign of ancient make,
And one above the door,
Proclaim that William Henry Blake
Is owner of the store.
Here everything, from jeans to tweed,
From silks to ginghams bright,
Is spread before the folk who need
From early morn till night.

Tea, sugar, coffee (browned or green),
Molasses, grindstones, tar,
Suspenders, peanuts, navy beans
And homemade vinegar,
Fine combs, wash wringers, rakes, false hair,
Paints, rice and looking glasses,
Side saddles, hominy, crockery ware,
And seeds for garden grasses.

Lawn mowers, candles, books to read,
Corn planters, household goods,
Tobacco, salt and clover seed,
Horseshoes and knotted hoods,
Canned goods, shoe blacking, lime and nails,
Straw hats and carpet slippers,
Prunes, buttons, cradles, bridal veils,
Cranberries, clocks and clippers.

Umbrellas, candies, scythes and hats,
Rough boots and shoes and bacon,
Thread, nutmegs, pins and rough on rats,
For cash or produce taken;
Bird seed, face powder, matches, files,
[illegible] sets and more
Are found in heaps and stacks and piles
Within the country store.
—Atlanta Constitution.

* * *

KINGMUK, THE WOLF DOG

By WINTHROP PACKARD.

* * *

He who travels to the far northern shores of Alaska, near Point Barrow, finds there a type of Eskimo dog which seems to be a direct descendant of the gray wolf, and is singularly like its progenitor in appearance. The purest of the wolf breed is now rare in other parts of Alaska, for the great rush of civilized men to the gold fields has brought with it dogs of all varieties. The dogs of the pure type are great, gaunt fellows, with shaggy hair that is almost black in many instances, and grows longer about the shoulders, giving them a sort of ruff that adds to the fierceness of their appearance. They never bark, their cry being a mournful howl, quite like that of the wolf. They are inured to desperate hardships, and lie out in the snow and the Arctic night unprotected, although the thermometer may be fifty below zero, and it seems as if all living things exposed to the sweep of the Arctic gale must perish.

Perhaps it is the instinct of wolf-pack loyalty surviving, but whatever it is, dogs of the wolf breed are singularly faithful to those who bring them up. Hence, buying dogs of the natives in Arctic Alaska is rarely successful. If you manage to keep the dog he is likely to pine away. It is rarely that you can keep him. A pup taken from its native owners when but a few weeks old will remember them, and follow them years after, if not tied up, and it is utterly useless to try to keep a grown dog when purchased.

A notable instance of this is the story of Kingmuk, The Faithful, who came with other dogs and a party of Eskimos from far inland to visit the whaling station at Point Barrow.

Mr. Siem, who was a new man in charge of the station, and, although a good whaleman, little skilled in shore life, bought many of these dogs, and tied them up with ordinary dog chains. Early the next morning the natives started for the interior, and when Siem went out to inspect his purchase, he found every chain but one snapped. An ordinary dog chain is of little use with one of these dogs; they had simply followed their masters.

All but one had gone, and he had been fastened with an extra heavy chain. That was Kingmuk, who came to be surnamed The Faithful. He was an old dog then, and his strength had not been equal to the chain.

Some weeks later Kingmuk was released. His owners were now hundreds of miles away, and the blowing snow had long obliterated their trail, for the terrible Arctic winter had already set in. Yet this had no terrors for Kingmuk, and he set forth immediately to find his friends.

All winter he trotted over the frozen wastes, far and near, in search of them. He avoided the whaling station and the native villages alike, and sought neither food nor shelter from mankind. How he lived only the wolf wisdom of centuries could fathom, but he did live somehow, and reports of him came in occasionally from up and down the coast and far into the interior, sometimes a hundred and fifty miles away.

He was recognized by his very shaggy hair and the remnants of a deerskin sled harness, which still hung on him. He never was seen to lope or walk, but kept up a steady dog-trot, now circling the country in wide sweeps, now quartering it like a hunting dog in search of game, always seeking, but never approachable.

In the rarefied atmosphere he was sometimes taken for a deer, and stalked by the hardy Eskimo huntsmen, who brave the severest Arctic winter in search of game. At night he was shot at for a wolf—by mistake, for no hunter would wittingly have harmed him—yet he always escaped injury, and came to be looked upon by the natives with a touch of superstition as a mysterious wandering spirit, perhaps a dog of the Nunatak people—the ghost folk of the winter night.

So the winter passed, the sun came again, and finally swung the horizon in unbroken circuit, and with the summer came the interior natives once more to visit and trade. Kingmuk met them a hundred miles out, and followed them to the station, although their reception of him was hardly overcordial. A dog more or less mattered little to them, and Kingmuk was gaunt and weak from his winter's chase, and aging rapidly.

He found an old, or made a new, dog friend, a dog older than he, and when the natives left for the interior once more the two went with them.

What happened to the two during the winter no one knows, but in the spring Kingmuk returned to the station, bringing his friend with him. But it was too late to help the older dog. He could neither eat nor drink, and soon died. The thaw had hardly begun, and his body was dragged out on the solid ice of the lagoon and left there. Kingmuk followed as chief mourner, and lay down by his dead comrade in mute sympathy and sorrow.

Henceforth his home was by the side of his comrade, and except when he came to the station—once a day—for food, he remained there. When the lagoon began to thaw, Kingmuk went to the nearest bank to lie; but seeing the water rising, and that his friend did not follow, he went out on the flooded ice and dragged him ashore, where he again took up his post beside him.

Through the brief summer Kingmuk thus remained, undisturbed, respected by all in his devotion, and no attempt was made to separate them until the winter's snows came again. Kingmuk was rapidly growing weaker, and it was seen that he could not long withstand the severe weather. Every inducement save force was offered to get him to come to the station to be cared for, but Kingmuk remained faithful to his mourning, and the first blizzard of the winter covered the two, still lying side by side.—Youth's Companion.

To Detect Cotton Thread in Cloth.

The difference between wool and cotton is very great, and in the case of separate threads of each is plainly apparent, yet when these same threads are closely interwoven some good judges are mistaken and buy mixed cotton and wool goods firmly convinced that there is not a thread of cotton in the cloth. It is the custom of all mills that manufacture cotton and wool mixtures to run the cotton crosswise in the looms, thus leaving the wool to run lengthwise. This is done for two purposes: First, to impart the glossy appearance which the longer stretch of wool thread gives when run in the length of the goods, and secondly, because the proportion of cotton is necessarily less and therefore more difficult to detect. The cotton thread, of course, is much smaller, and very difficult to distinguish in closely woven fabric. There is one infallible test, however.

Take a bolt of goods at the cut end and examine closely the crosswise thread, slowly pulling it apart. If it breaks almost evenly and comes apart slowly then one is safe in judging it to be all wool. If, on the contrary, it breaks in short uneven strands and falls apart easily, refuse to accept the goods, for it is undeniably cotton, and will not give satisfaction. It were far better to get an all cotton or all wool. —Men and Women.

On Dutch Waters.

"I can think of no more reposeful holiday," says a writer, "than to stop on board of one of those barges wedged together in a Rotterdam canal, and, never lifting a finger to alter the natural course of events—to accelerate or divert—be carried by it to, say, Harlingen, in Friesland. Between the meadows; under the noses of great black and white cows; past herons fishing in the rushes; through the villages with dazzling milk-cans being scoured on the banks and the good wives washing and the saturine smokers in black velvet slippers passing the time of day; through big tows, by rows of sombre houses seen through a delicate screen of leaves; under low bridges crowded with children; through narrow locks; ever moving, moving slowly and surely, sometimes sailing, sometimes being towed, with the wide Dutch sky overhead and the plovers crying in it, and the clean west wind driving the windmills, and everything just as it was in Rembrandt's day and just as it will be five hundred years hence."—Chicago News.

Versed in Pig Language.

We find in an exchange the following account of an advertisement in an English paper. We do not think that there will be a rush of our farm laborers to fill this vacancy.

Wages of farm laborers in England are enticing. An advertiser in the Wimbleton, England, Gazette, wants "a lad about twenty; must be a churchman of good education, who can drive a horse and cart, assist in the stable and garden (melons and cucumbers), milk cows and understand the pigs; must be accustomed to wait at table, and of gentlemanly appearance; early riser and teetotaler; good references required." The wages of this farm hand of diversified accomplishments are to be $50 a year, but he must lodge out and furnish his own meals, except dinner.

His Life in Prison.

Frank Hope, fifty-nine years old, who had served thirty-nine years behind prison bars, pleaded guilty in Chicago recently to a charge of swindling, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years. Hope was released from the Joliet prison the latter part of last August.

For Old Ministers.

Daniel Francis, of Des Moines, Iowa, has given $30,000 for the erection in that city of a home for aged and worn-out ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. DR. T. CALVIN McCLELLAND.

Subject: Jesus' Idea of God.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—In the Memorial Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. T. Calvin McClelland, preached the fourth sermon in the series on "Jesus' Idea." The special subject was "Seriousness of Believing in Jesus' Idea of God." The text was Matthew v:44 and 45. Dr. McClelland said:

There is no Christian doctrine for which you could get so many men to vote as the Fatherhood of God. Nothing can exhaust the name "Father." It is the gladdest, but the greatest, the dearest, but the deepest, the sweetest, but the solemnest, name men can frame to fit God. We cannot put too much into the word, but we can put too little into it. It is the risk of that—of putting too little into the name "Father"—which gives us our theme. The theme is: "The Seriousness of Believing in the Fatherhood of God."

There are two kinds of men who put too little into the idea of God's Fatherhood. The first man is he who prefers to think of God as judge. To call God a Father, he thinks, is to enthrone indulgence. He views the doctrine with suspicion lest it rob God of authority, extract the fear of sin, and relieve the restraint of conscience. This man deplores the universal note in the preaching of Jesus' idea of God. If he preached it he would make it an esoteric doctrine to be mentioned only to those who had been initiated by conversion into the secrets of grace.

The second man who puts too little into the name "Father" is he who sees nothing in Fatherhood but sentiment. He thinks of God as too soft-hearted to rule, a doting grandfather too weak to punish. This man has the idea that love is too tender to blame a man for edging off when goodness hurts, costs or is unprofitable. For this second man the thought of God as a Father makes life a game, the world a playground and the infinite pity ground for infinite excuse.

To these two I bring this message of the seriousness of saying, "I believe in God the Father Almighty." The article of the creed is the most precious and the most perilous for us to repeat, and for these reasons.

First, one who claims God as Father must be ready to answer the question, What kind of a son are you? Fatherhood is something that we never think of when we talk about animals. The parent of a boy we call a father. The parent of a foal we call a sire. Here is a difference. The idea "father" suggests care, affection and forethought. The idea "sire" conveys only the thought of procreation. We do not expect the colt's sire to care for him, exhibit affection or take thought for his future. But if a man treated his son as a horse treats his young we would say of that man, he has never been a father to the boy. He had done all that the animal did for his offspring, but he had left undone those things which make fatherhood. And those things involve character, they imply faith, hope and love, they are not physical, but spiritual, activities.

By the same sign you never call a young horse a "son;" he is a "foal." The idea "son" suggests gratitude, loyalty and obedience. The idea of "foal" conveys only the thought of animal descent. We do not expect the colt to exhibit gratitude to his sire, to abide in the same stable or to evidence obedience to him. But if a youth treated his father as a young horse treats his parent we would say of that youth, he is inhuman. He might do all that the animal did for his progenitor, but he would have left undone those things which make human sonship. And those things involve character, they imply trust, affection and filial submission, and these things are not physical but spiritual activities.

So then, fatherhood involves a relationship and that relationship involves something owed on both sides. It assumes likeness in ideas, tastes and disposition; it claims reciprocity in character. Can the relationship with God expect less? You see the idea of fatherhood is like the rule about the square of the hypotheneuse of a right-angled triangle. Whether it be a right-angled triangle drawn on a child's blackboard or a right-angled triangle formed by three stars in the Milky Way, the rule works—the square on the hypotheneuse of a right-angled triangle is equal to the sum of the squares on the other two sides. This father and son relationship, like mathematics, works everywhere, on the earth, in the heavens.

I cannot say "Father" until I have begun to answer His call "son;" His Fatherhood does not exist for me until I have made my sonship exist for Him, until I have shared in His character. He is spirit and I must be spirit, too; something more than a body to be warmed, clothed and fed; something more than an animal to fight like a dog, root like a pig, sing like a bird or hive like a bee. I must be the child of the Eternal Spirit, the son of Infinite Faith, Infinite Hope, Infinite Love.

A Father's rights are unquestioned, absolute, ungiven. He has the right to expect everything to be reciprocated that He has given to us. The old fundamental need of personal struggle, personal consecration, personal holiness is doubled. Life is more critical than ever. I have no loophole to crawl out of; the lines are tightly drawn, I must be in my word what He is in His universe. From Sinai, it is said, the smoke ascended as from a furnace, and the mountain quakes greatly when out of a thick cloud with thunderings and lightnings the King gave His command to Israel. On a hillside sweet with the peaceful odors of plowed field, quiet save for the pipings of the birds, under a blue Syrian sky which mirrored its fair sun in Galilee's lake, the Father spoke through His great Son His will for the family. Yet I think Sinai's "thou shalt not kill" were easier to listen to than Jesus' "blessed are the merciful." The King's words, "thou shalt not commit adultery," less than the Father's "the pure in heart shall see God." The Sovereign's words, "thou shalt have no other gods before Me," as an ant-hill to the snow-capped Alpine summit, "Ye shall be perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect."

Second—It is a serious thing to believe in the Fatherhood of God because it commits a man to living his life in absolute unselfishness. Given a father, and what follows? What an alchemist is a new-born babe. The touch of those tiny fingers transmutes the base metal of thought of self into the pure gold of thought of the unself. From the moment when his first babe's first cry summons the instinct of fatherhood in a man's bosom the man must deny himself, he must henceforth lose himself in another. Love once a mere passion of possession is re-born a passion for self-sacrifice. This father has a family, and it is the family, the home, the health of the whole which become his chiefest concern.

Given a son, and what follows? What must be the true son's concern? Surely it is the same as the father's. The father no more than the son, the son no less than the father, exists for that home. It is this mutual instinct of being supported and supporting which makes us sing, "There is no place like home?"

So here, again, the axiom of the earthly relationship we call home is true for the celestial relationship we call religion. This is the extension of the old Fifth Commandment in religion—"Love your enemies and pray for them that persecute you; that ye may be sons of your Father who is in heaven; for He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust."

Like God the Father, the Son must have a love that is boundless, ungrudging and gratuitous. The family, not one favorite here and another there, but all the members must receive without bias, be blessed without prejudice, be cared for without favoritism. The son must live so that no man can be poorer, no woman sadder, no child more wretched for aught he has done or left undone. He must live so that through his words and deeds men may see truth, reverence, purity, and possess the means of happiness, and he must so live not for profit, prudence or popularity; he must so live, though it means a curse, a crown of thorns and a cross.

And if we seek to know what that means, what sonship involves, we go to Him who taught us to say "Our Father." His life is just spent in going about doing good. He does so much for the imperfect, the defective, the degenerate, that He gets the nickname of "friend of publicans and sinners." He never bears a grudge. He never remembers an insult. He never seems to see anything in the men about Him but their need of the good things He has to give away. And He gives, gives until when He comes to die He has nothing worth gambling for but His cloak—the one that was pure white, woven without seam. That day, the day He died, the men He had lived for led Him away like a lamb to the slaughter. And while they were making the wounds for Him to hang by He prayed, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do."

In the last place, it is a serious thing to believe in the Fatherhood of God, because it means that God's perfectness consists in His impartial love, and love is the most awful thing in the world. It has been said, "Be afraid of the love that loves you; it is either your heaven or your hell. The lives of men are never the same after they have let themselves be loved; if they are not better they are worse. For this is the mystery of love, its paradox—while it is the greatest thing in the world it is the most helpless." For the love of her child, without thought of the cost, a mother would give her own life in exchange; and yet she must stand at its death bed with helpless hands when the heart spring unwinds and the little life runs down. A father would give his fortune, his blood to keep his son's heart clean and white, but all his paternal passion cannot check that son's mad pace, if the boy's lust take the bit between his teeth and drag him along the edge of the moral precipice. A son may leave home; a despot might compel his subject to come back, a father can only wait, and watch and keep open the door.

We shrink to apply all we know of the weakness of human love to the divine. Yet it was through a man the Father made His love plain to us. He came, the Christ, to His own and they received Him not. He loved His own, loved them to the end, and yet at the end they deserted Him, betrayed Him, hung Him on a cross.

You remember the Tuesday before the Friday when they nailed Him between two thieves. He was standing in the temple at Jerusalem. Did He love that fair, rebellious city? You may never know how great was that love. Could He save that imperilled city? Jerusalem had bound love's hands with indifference so that He could not reach out to rescue her; she had tethered His feet with hate so that He could only stand still and watch her sinking into the gulf that Titus was to dig. Stand close to the Christ as He speaks—you see He is draining love—bitterest cup; He is realizing love's helplessness, "it is the wail of a heart wounded because its love has been despised" and it cannot avert the doom which impends over those it loves. "Oh, Jerusalem, Jerusalem! how often would I have gathered thy children as a hen gathered her chickens, and ye would not. Behold, your house is left unto you desolate."

To sum up, it is a serious thing to believe in the Fatherhood of God, because this belief involves sonship, and sonship involves brotherhood, and brotherhood involves living for the spirit behind things, for the higher life, the eternal kind, on which death lays no hand, on which the grave has no claim.

For this higher life, in the Father's name I claim you. You have a perfect pattern of it in Jesus; you have a perfect helper in God's Spirit, which is yours for the asking. You begin to live the life by doing something for the man next you just because God is his Father and yours.

Peace of the Heart.

If quiet and peace could only be had by withdrawing from the duties and occupations of active life, then quiet and peace for most of us could never be. It is not in our power to fly to some far and still retreat, in whose quiet we may escape the evils and troubles here. And the corner will never be found in this world where care and evil shall be unknown by human beings. But the peace which the Savior gives His own is peace of heart and mind amid daily duties. It is that "central peace," which may subsist at the heart of endless agitation.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 17.

Subject: Preparation For the Messiah, Mal. iii., 1-12—Golden Text, Mal. iii., 1—Memory Verses, 8-10—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The coming of the Messiah (v. 1). 1. "I." That is, God. "My messenger." The New Testament clearly shows that the messenger referred to here was John the Baptist. Our Lord bore witness to John (Luke 7:27). See also Matt. 11:10; Mark 1:2, 3; Luke 1:76. "Prepare the way before Me." That is, before the Messiah. Messengers sent before the Eastern kings prepared the way for the chariots and armies of their monarchs. A "king's highway" had to be carried through the open land of the wilderness, valleys filled up and hills leveled, winding by-paths straightened, for the march of the great army. Interpreted in its spiritual application, the wilderness was the world lying in evil. John prepared the way for Christ in a moral wilderness by preaching repentance and showing the need of a Saviour. "The Lord, whom ye seek." The Messiah whom you are expecting. "To His temple." Shall soon be presented before the Lord in this temple. He shall cleanse it from its defilement and fill it with His glory. "Messenger of the covenant." He that comes to fulfill the great design in reference to the covenant made with Abraham, that in his seed all the families of the earth should be blessed. Christ was the "mediator of the new covenant" (Heb. 9:15) — the "better covenant," established upon "better promises" (Heb. 8:6-13; 10:16). "Ye delight in." They looked forward to His coming with pleasure.

II. The mission and work of the Messiah (vs. 2-6). 2. "Who may abide." Who will be able to endure the testing of character His coming will produce? They did not understand the meaning of what they desired; just as many desire and hope for heaven without realizing what they must do to gain heaven. "Like a refiner's fire." John the Baptist said, "His fan is in His hand;" "He shall baptize you with fire." In the refiner's fire is placed the ore, a mixture of good metal with rock and other materials, and the fire (1) separates the metal from the dross, and (2) thus purifies the metal, but does not destroy it; but (3) it consumes the dross, or so separates it that it is cast one side as refuse. "Like fuller's soap" (R. V.). Soap such as we have was not known to the Hebrews till long after Jeremiah's time, but they used ash lye.

3. "Shall sit," etc. There is an allusion here to the refiner sitting before his fire with his eye on the metal. He kept it in the furnace until he knew the dross to be completely removed by seeing his own image reflected (Rom. 8:29). "Sons of Levi." The priests—God's ministers. "Purge." Cleanse, purify. "May offer," etc. A sinner cannot give acceptable service to God. The Lord loves righteousness; He accepts only a holy heart and life (Rom. 12:1). 4. "Be pleasant." The spirit of praise, obedience and helpfulness are like sweet incense before the Lord (Heb. 13:15, 16). 5. "To judgment." To decide on your case and condemn you if guilty. "Swift witness." Coming suddenly and unexpectedly. "The sorcerers." Users of witchcraft, all in alliance with spirits of evil; the users of amulets, charms, etc., which are really substitutes for religion. "Against those that oppress." The gospel is always in favor of the poor and against oppression. "And fear not Me." This was the foundation of all their wickedness. 6. "I change not." God keeps His covenants with His people.

III. Admonitions and promised blessings (vs. 7-12). 7. "From the days," etc. All through their history they had been given to backsliding. "Return unto Me." There was still a chance to repent. "Wherein." They did not know how far from God they were. 8. "Will a man rob God?" Sacrilege is the highest of crimes. And the most guilty are those claiming to be God's people. "Ye have." This evil is not only the guilt of priests, but of the whole nation. "Tithes." See Deut. 18:4. "Offerings." The first fruits—not less than one-sixtieth part of the corn, wine and oil.

9. "Ye are cursed." With famine and scarcity. God had thus punished them for neglecting to build the temple (Hag. 1:10, 11); now, for not maintaining the temple service. 10. "Bring—tithes." Make good your solemn engagement with Nehemiah (Neh. 10:29). "Into the storehouse." The chambers which surrounded the temple on three sides. "May be meat." That there may be provision for the daily sacrifices, and for the maintenance of the priests and Levites. "Prove Me." Take God at His word. "Windows of heaven." A poetical, proverbial expression, signifying a great downpouring (Gen. 7:11; 2 Kings 7:2). "Pour you out." "Empty out," as if God meant that He would empty forth His vast reservoir of blessings.

11. "Will rebuke." Prevent from coming. "The devourer." The locusts, the canker-worms, the caterpillars and all other destructive insects. "For your sakes." Because of My love for you, and for the sake of your prosperity. The devourer had been sent because of their sins, but should be stayed as a reward for their return to duty. 12. "All nations," etc. So great will be your prosperity and happiness that the fame thereof will extend to all nations, as in Solomon's time. God's people do in truth live in a delightsome land, a land of green pastures and still waters, of dear companionships and delightful skies. Blessed are that people who render lovingly to God the things that are His own. "Delightsome land." Your country will again be known as the pleasant land, as it was formerly.—Ilad.

TO ANNEX SANTO DOMINGO.

Heyburn Offers a Bill to Take in Haiti With It.

Washington, D. C.—Senator Heyburn introduced a resolution providing for the annexation of San Domingo and Haiti to the United States.

Gapon Appeals to People.

St. Petersburg's garrison has been heavily reinforced, and Father Gapon appealed to the workmen to cut loose from the revolutionists.

Indian Tea.

More than 534,000 acres of the s of India are devoted to the raising of tea. The total yield last year w 222,303,611 pounds. The capital en gaged amounts to $89,778,000.

What will be the largest carpet in the world is still being made in London. It will cover 42,000 square fe and will serve as the "ground" f winter sports in the Olympia, London. Its cost will be $25,000.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Submarine signalling has been tri successfully in the Mersey. The Luca nia heard the bell at a distance of and a half knots while she was unde full speed.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time, B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

Eight months old and an acrobat, unable to walk or talk, yet possessing such startling muscular developm of the arms and shoulder that he ca balance himself on his hands and wi heels in the air, proceed across th room—these are a few of the r markable physical characteristics the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W Schnars, of Denver. Baby Schnars no bigger in the aggregate than mo other infants of 8 months, but the ligaments and muscles of chest, arms and shoulders are as cords of steel. He can swing from cane held in the hands of his si with the ease and grace of a traine trapeze performer. And when th strong-arm baby takes notice of som thing on the table particularly a tractive or desirable to his baby ey he does not cry for it, but creeps the table and raises himself by clim ing the leg, hand over hand. Bo Mr. and Mrs. Schnars are obsolute b lievers in the efficiency of physic culture for the building up and prop development of the human body a their theory is that the earlier th exercises are undertaken the bett for the development of the individu such exercises are intended to bene With an eye single to the purpose rearing a perfectly developed ch the father and mother began a gent but systematic and persistent traini of the infant a few weeks after h birth. Neither of the parents are r markable for any extraordinary phy cal development or accomplishmen They are of German descent a show the sturdy general characteristi of that race, but nothing more. B their baby boy is a wonder in mus lar development about the trunk his body and in this respect he probably the strongest baby in t world. Otherwise he is like healthy, normal children of 8 mont of age.

Sound judgment is responsible for lot of silence.

A BRAIN WORKER
Must Have the Kind of Food That Nourishes Brain.

"I am a literary man whose nerv energy is a great part of my stock trade, and ordinarily I have little p tience with breakfast foods and t extravagant claims made of them. B I cannot withhold my acknowledgme of the debt that I owe to Grape-N food.

"I discovered long ago that the v bulkiness of the ordinary diet was calculated to give one a clear he the power of sustained, accurate thi ing. I always felt heavy and slugg in mind as well as body after eati the ordinary meal, which diverted blood from the brain to the digest apparatus.

"I tried foods easy of digestion, found them usually deficient in nu ment. I experimented with ma breakfast foods and they, too, prov unsatisfactory, till I reached Gra Nuts. And then the problem solved.

"Grape-Nuts agreed with me perfe ly from the beginning, satisfying hunger and supplying the nutrim that so many other prepared f lack.

"I had not been using it very before I found that I was turning an unusual quantity and quality work. Continued use has demonstr to my entire satisfaction that Gra Nuts food contains all the elem needed by the brain and nervous tem of the hard working public er." Name given by Postum Co., tle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little b "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

PAINFUL PE
Suggestions How to Find Suffering.

Miss Nellie Holmes
Mr

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful and irregular menstruation.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Nellie Holmes of 540 N. Davision Street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Your medicine is indeed an ideal medicine for women. I suffered misery for years with painful periods, headaches, and bearing-down pains. I consulted two different physicians but failed to get any relief. A friend from the East advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and no longer suffer as I did before. My periods are natural, every ache and pain is gone, and my general health is much improved. I advise all women who suffer to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Tillie Hart, of Larimore, N. D. writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I might have have been spared many months of suffering and pain had I only known of the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's

Vegetal
to many
"I period and suff
Compoun natural from pai grateful
table Co

Such
by all that L Compou remedy women

The Vegetal
well ear
women

When ular, su tion, le ceration down ovaries lency), nervous
such lassitud youness they sh and tru Vegetal
such tr
medicin

Don Pinkh
about under with free.
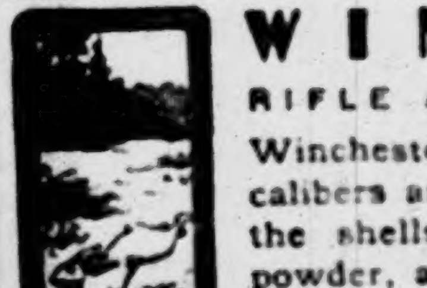
writin
thous

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best



PRICE, 25 Cts
TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE

ANTI-IS GUAR
GRIP, BAD COLD,
I won't sell Anti-Gripi
Call for your MONE
F. W. Diemer, M.D.

WINCH
RIFLE AND PISTO
Winchester Rifle and P calibers are loaded by m the shells, supplies th powder, and seats the using first-class materia system of loading, the chester Cartridges for ac excellence is maintain
THEY SHOOT WH

DATE 'EM
W
THE SHOES THAT PUT ST. LOU
When you buy a Pai of Shoes for your boy or Write the Date in the lining, in in Clover Bra SHOES
STAND EVERY TEST
Get the DICTIONARY
That is FREE with every pair of Webster's from size 11 up.
IF Y DEALER HE IS REFU YOUR M WOR
Wertheimer-Su
LARGEST FINE SH
ST. LOU

Am. 50, 1905.

One Dollar for a Postal Card

This company will give one dollar for the first reliable information of an opportunity to sell a steam engine or boiler of our standard types within our range of sizes. This does not include vertical, traction or gas engines. If you know of anybody intending to buy an engine or boiler tell us. A Postal will do.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS
have for years been the standard for all steam plants. Best of material and workmanship. Our big output enables us to sell on small profits. An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no more than the other kind.
Write today for our special offer
ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
INDIANAPOLIS

Indian Tea.

More than 524,000 acres of the s of India are devoted to the raising tea. The total yield last year 222,302,661 pounds. The capital gaged amounts to $60,770,000.

What will be the largest carpet he world is still being made in Lo don. It will cover 62,000 square f and will serve as the "ground" winter sports in the Olympia, Londo Its cost will be $25,000.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased learn that there is at least one dreaded d ease that science has been able to cure in a stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catar Cure is the only positive cure now known the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a co stitutional disease, requires a constitution treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken inte nally, acting directly upon the blood and mu cous surfaces of the system, thereby destroy ing the foundation of the disease, and givin the patient strength by building up the co stitution and assisting nature in doing i work. The proprietors have so much faith i its curative powers that they offer One Hu dred Dollars for any case that it fails to cur Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipatio

Submarine signailing has been tri successfully in the Mersey. The Luc nia heard the bell at a distance of and a half knots while she was und full speed.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Bloo Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, disease hot or full of humors, if you have bloo poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sore scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lump scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarr rheumatism, or any blood or skin disea take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) accor ing to directions. Soon all sores he aches and pains stop, the blood is ma pure and rich, leaving the skin free fro every eruption, and giving the rich glow perfect health to the skin. At the sam time, B. B. B. improves the digestion, cure dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Ju the medicine for old people, as it give them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, per large bottle, with directions for hom cure. Sample free and prepaid by writi Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Descri trouble and special free medical advice al sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especial advised for chronic, deep-seated cases impure blood and skin disease, and cur after all else fails.

Eight months old and an acroba unable to walk or talk, yet possessi such startling muscular developme of the arms and shoulder that he c balance himself on his hands and wi heels in the air proceed across t room—these are a few of the markable physical characteristics the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W Schnars, of Denver. Baby Schnars no bigger in the aggregate than mo other infants of 8 months of age, b the ligaments and muscles of h chest, arms and shoulders are as ti cords of steel. He can swing from cane held in the hands of his s with the ease and grace of a train trapeze performer. And when t strong-arm baby takes notice of som thing on the table particularly tractive or desirable to his baby ey he does not cry for it, but creeps the table and raises himself by clin ing the leg, hand over hand. Bo Mr. and Mrs. Schnars are obsolute lievers in the efficiency of physi culture for the building up and pro development of the human body a their theory is that the earlier th exercises are undertaken the bet for the development of the individ such exercises are intended to bene With an eye single to the purpose rearing a perfectly developed c the father and mother began a gen but systematic and persistent train of the infant a few weeks after birth. Neither of the parents are markable for any extraordinary ph cal development or accomplishme They are of German descent show the sturdy general characteris of that race, but nothing more. their baby boy is a wonder in mu lar development about the trunk his body and in this respect he probably the strongest baby in world. Otherwise he is like healthy, normal children of 8 mon of age.

Sound judgment is responsible fo lot of silence.

A BRAIN WORKER

Must Have the Kind of Food That N ishes Brain.

"I am a literary man whose nerv energy is a great part of my stoc trade, and ordinarily I have little tience with breakfast foods and extravagant claims made of them. I cannot withhold my acknowledgm of the debt that I owe to Grape- food.

"I discovered long ago that the bulkiness of the ordinary diet wa calculated to give one a clear h the power of sustained, accurate th ing. I always felt heavy and slu in mind as well as body after e the ordinary meal, which diverted blood from the brain to the dige apparatus.

"I tried foods easy of digestion, found them usually deficient in n ment. I experimented with breakfast foods and they, too, p unsatisfactory, till I reached Gr Nuts. And then the problem solved.

"Grape-Nuts agreed with me pe ly from the beginning, satisfyin hunger and supplying the nutri that so many other prepared lack.

"I had not been using it very before I found that I was turni an unusual quantity and quali work. Continued use has demons to my entire satisfaction that G Nuts food contains all the e needed by the brain and nervo tem of the hard working publi er." Name given by Postum Co. tle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the littl "The Road to Wellville," in pkg

PAINFUL PERIODS

Suggestions How to Find Relief from Such Suffering.

Miss Nellie Holmes
Mrs. Tillie Hart

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful and irregular menstruation.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Nellie Holmes of 540 N. Davidson Street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Your medicine is indeed an ideal medicine for women. I suffered misery for years with painful periods, headaches, and bearing-down pains. I consulted two different physicians but failed to get any relief. A friend from the East advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and no longer suffer as I did before. My periods are natural; every ache and pain is gone, and my general health is much improved. I advise all women who suffer to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Tillie Hart, of Larimore, N. D., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I might have have been spared many months of suffering and pain had I only known of the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sooner; for I have tried so many remedies without help.

"I dreaded the approach of my menstrual period every month, as it meant so much pain and suffering for me, but after I had used the Compound two months I became regular and natural and am now perfectly well and free from pain at my monthly periods. I am very grateful for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound rests upon the well-earned gratitude of American women.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine; for you need the best.

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat you with kindness and her advice is free. No woman ever regretted writing her and she has helped thousands. Address Lynn, Mass.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

WINCHESTER

RIFLE AND PISTOL CARTRIDGES

Winchester Rifle and Pistol Cartridges of all calibers are loaded by machinery which sizes the shells, supplies the exact quantity of powder, and seats the bullets properly. By using first-class materials and this up-to-date system of loading, the reputation of Winchester Cartridges for accuracy, reliability and excellence is maintained. Ask for them.

THEY SHOOT WHERE YOU HOLD

DATE 'EM

WEBSTER SCHOOL SHOES

"THE SHOES THAT PUT ST. LOUIS ON THE MAP."

When you buy a Pair of Shoes for your boy or girl, Write the Date in the lining, in ink.

Clover Brand SHOES

STAND EVERY TEST

Get the DICTIONARY That is FREE with every pair of Webster's from size 11 up.

IF YOUR DEALER SAYS "NO" HE IS REFUSING YOU YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

Am. 50, 1905.

One Dollar for a Postal Card

This company will give one dollar for the first reliable information of an opportunity to sell a steam engine or boiler of our standard types within our range of sizes. This does not include vertical, traction or gas engines. If you know of anybody intending to buy an engine or boiler tell us. A Postal will do.

ATLAS

ENGINES AND BOILERS

have for years been the standard for all steam plants. Best of material and workmanship. Our big output enables us to sell on small profits. An Atlas, the best in the world, costs no more than the other kind.

Write today for our special offer

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS

Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS

Corliss Engines High Speed Engines Water Tube Boilers Four Valve Engines Compound Engines Tubular Boilers Automatic Engines Throttling Engines Portable Boilers

Atlas Engines in service [illegible] H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service [illegible] H. P.

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR

—A SURE CURE FOR—

CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

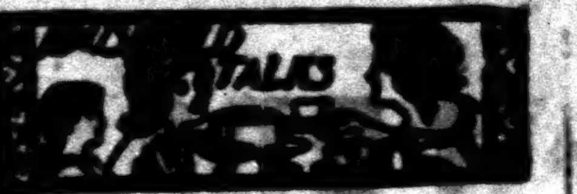
TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

The R. Paxton Company, Boston, Mass.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water



WHEAT GRIDDLE CAKES.

Three cups of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, sifted together; beat three eggs and add to three cupfuls of sweet milk, also a tablespoonful of melted butter; mix all into a smooth batter, as thick as will run in a stream from the lips of a pitcher. Bake on a well greased griddle a nice light brown.

MELON SALAD.

Lay muskmelons on the ice for five or six hours. Open them just before they are needed, scrape out the seeds, divide the melon into crescents and cut off the rind and green part, leaving only the fully ripe portion. Heap these pieces in a bowl with bits of ice among them, and pour over them a French dressing—mayonnaise may be used if preferred.

CELERY SALAD WITH NUTS.

Use equal parts of celery and English walnuts, and serve on lettuce leaves. When ready to serve pour over the following dressing: Yolk of two eggs, beaten lightly, one-half teaspoonful each of mustard and salt, beaten constantly, four tablespoonfuls melted butter, six tablespoonfuls vinegar. Cook in a double kettle until it thickens. When removed from the fire add the well beaten whites. Before serving add cup of whipped cream.

CRANBERRY DUMPLINGS.

Roll out a layer of dumpling crust thin; spread thickly with wet cranberries rolled in sugar, roll up, pinch the edges tightly together, and steam one-half hour. Serve with fairy butter pudding sauce, made as follows: One cup of pulverized sugar, creamed with one large tablespoonful of butter, then beat lightly with the yolk of an egg until smooth and creamy. Beat the white to a stiff froth, mix lightly but thoroughly, heap on a glass dish, sprinkle with nutmeg, stand on the ice to harden.

FROZEN PEACH PUDDING.

Take pint of cream twelve yolks of eggs, half pound of sugar, and a little grated lemon. Beat this mixture in kettle standing in hot water. When starts to get thick take out of water and beat on in the same kettle. When cold add one pint of puree of fresh peaches and one pint whipped cream. Mix easy and fill in moulds with cover. Pack the moulds in ice with ice cream salt well, and freeze four hours. Dip mould in hot water and turn pudding out quickly in deep dish filled with whipped cream. Mix with powdered sugar. You can also decorate pudding.

SCOTCH SCONES.

Thoroughly mix, while dry, one quart of sifted flour, loosely measured with two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, then rub into it a tablespoonful of cold butter and a teaspoonful of salt. Be sure that the butter is well worked in. Add sweet milk enough to make a very soft paste. Roll out the paste about a quarter of an inch thick, using plenty of flour on the pasteboard and rolling-pin. Cut into triangular pieces, each side about four inches long. Flour the sides and bottom of a biscuit tin and place the pieces on it. Bake immediately in a quick oven from twenty to thirty minutes. When half done brush over with sweet milk. Some cooks prefer to bake them on a floured griddle, and cut them in a round shape about the size of a saucer, then scarred across to form four quarters.

USEFUL HINTS.

Lemon juice rubbed on the hands whitens them. A piece of lemon rubbed on the teeth removes discolorations, but the teeth must be brushed afterward or the acid will injure them.

When stewing pears to every dozen add the rind of a lemon cut thin, with half the juice; also a small stick of cinnamon.

High-backed chairs in a dining room are a mistake, for while they are restful, one cannot properly loll at a dinner and they make deft service on the part of the waitress an impossibility.

For soups and salads, it is preferable to use only the juice of the onion, and not every housekeeper understands the best manner in which to obtain this.

Drug bottles are useless, except for breaking up. Finely pounded and poured into mice and rat holes glass is irresistible, while for large places which rats dig under the edges of masonry and cement sidewalks, a mortar can be made with it which they cannot get through.

Stale cake, with the addition of a thin custard, makes an excellent boiled pudding. Serve sweet sauce with this.

Much depends on dining, and much depends also on the room in which we dine. Furnish the kitchen first, the dining room next, for comfort; the living room last, for ease, is a good rule for nest builders.

High topped sideboards have gone out along with that monstrosity the bedstead with a towering head board. In its place we have a pretty and artistic fancy in the low buffet without any top at all, which prevailed a century and a half ago.

Dining room furniture should be dark, though not too heavy or gloomy.

At the zoo in Hamburg are a large number of young giant turtles.

BOX OF WAFERS FREE—NO DRUGS—CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Cures Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breath—Bloating—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

Special Offer.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a free sample for this coupon.

12165 FREE COUPON. 129

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

Mull's Grape Tonic Co., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

A man always sympathizes with a homely boy.

MILK CRUST ON BABY

Lost All His Hair—Scratched Till Blood Ran—Grateful Mother Tells of His Cure by Cuticura For 75c.

"When our baby boy was three months old he had the milk crust very badly on his head, so that all the hair came out, and it itched so bad he would scratch until the blood ran. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I applied the Cuticura and put a thin cap on his head, and before I had used half of the box it was entirely cured, his hair commenced to grow out nicely again, and he has had no return of the trouble. (Signed) Mrs. H. P. Holmes, Ashland, Ore."

An Artistic Industry.

A flourishing industry for native women has been established in Bombay in the manufacture of artistic seed and bead articles. Women are taught to make beads out of the hard and various colored seeds to be found in the jungle and to make up the beads into necklaces, curtain loops, napkin rings, hatpins and many other ornamental articles. A cheap, simple and efficient machine for drilling the hard seeds has been devised after much experiment. The seed, which is most extensively used in India for necklaces and charms, is the rudraksha, a brown nut which seems to be much too hard a seed for insects of any kind to penetrate. It is worn as a sacred necklace by the followers of Shiva and has also a considerable ornamental value.

Norfolk, Va., shipped recently the largest single cargo of lumber ever sent out—1,250,000 feet of North Carolina pine, for New York firms.

Spanish women play with their dolls even after they are married and have children.

One of the most useful instruments in use by surveyors is the odometer for measuring distances by the combination of a single wheel and a cyclometer. This is trundled along the ground in a straight line and the readings of the indicator show exactly the distance traversed. By this means the surface measurements are obtained with exactness even when the ground is so rolling as to be difficult of measurement in any other fashion, but the surveying party for determining the boundry between the English and French claims in the Sierre Leone soon found that the measurements were absurdly short of the probable distances. The perambulator was trundled by one of the natives attached to the party, and after some observation it was found that they could not comprehend the reason for trundling the odometer along the ground. They were willing to make concession to the white to the extent of pushing the wheel before them so long as they were in sight, but considering the order but a foolish prejudice against the native custom of "toting" everything upon the head, they were no sooner out of sight than they adopted the more comfortable mode. It was finally found necessary to send a white man with the native to insure proper measurements.

A slate quarryman living at Delta, Pa., Humphrey G. Pritchard, has made a clock out of slate. The varieties he used include peach bottom blue slate and the red, green and purple slate of Vermont. About 164 separate pieces of this material were used in the construction and are held together by twenty-three dozen small metal screws. Many of the slate sheets are as thin as paper, and scores were broken before the timepiece was finished after eight months' work. The clock is four feet high, two feet wide and one foot deep. It has a cathedral gong and is lighted by nine incandescent bulbs.

Mourns Race Suicide.

A Rochester priest draped his baptismal font with crepe because of the scarcity of christenings.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

General Trepoff is a man of most aristocratic appearance.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Of the 105 counties in Kansas forty-four are without a pauper.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. Thomas Robbins, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, 1900

It takes a woman with an imagination to wear the hat of the day.

To Prevent Chapped Hands.

Many women who do their own work are much annoyed in winter with chapped hands. This may be avoided by using Ivory Soap for dish washing and toilet purposes. Dry the hands thoroughly each time after they have been in water and rub with a little oatmeal-water or some good lotion.—Eleanor R. Parker.

A new French Order of Merit is on the point of being instituted.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

Few Russian trains travel at a faster rate than twenty two miles an hour.

AILING WOMEN.

Keep the Kidneys Well and the Kidneys Will Keep You Well.

Sick, suffering, languid women are learning the true cause of bad backs and how to cure them. Mrs. W. G. Lyons, of Groesbeck, Texas, says: "Backaches hurt me so I could hardly stand. Spells of dizziness and sick headache were frequent and the action of the kidneys was irregular. Soon after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I passed several gravel stones. I got well and the trouble has not returned. My back is good and strong and my general health better."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The smallest coin in actual circulation is a sort of wafer made from a resinous juice and used by the natives in the Malay peninsula. It has a value of one ten-thousandth of one cent. The smallest metal coin is the Portuguese 3-reis piece, worth six twenty-fifths of a cent, while the smallest English coin is a Gibraltar piece, the five millesima, worth one quarter of a cent. There has been put into use in the canal zone a small silver coin worth about one penny, and this is probably the smallest silver piece ever coined.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy. Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

A man in Des Moines has been enjoined from biting his wife.

No Limit!

You too would have to build bigger barns if you would only listen to reason and "increase your yields per acre" by enriching your soil and feeding your plants with that wonder worker,

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer.

It has been the tremendous success of many farmers all over the South, who started life with only a few acres and a one-horse plow. Now, after using these fertilizers for many years, these farmers are rich. Read what they say in our almanac. Ask your dealer for it, or send 6c. in stamps to pay cost of wrapping and postage on a copy. Be sure and ask for Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers, and accept no substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.,

Richmond, Va. Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va. Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C. Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C. Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md. Shreveport, La.

Increase Your Yields Per Acre

Fertilizers Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

AND—OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formulæ. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in its line at reasonable prices.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

Needs … and we have jus… Touro … in New Yo… enable … buy at good … purpos… meeting the wants of … mmense stock which our Mr … cash, his long experience … low prices, with the expres… family.

T… boy, the growing … and the grown men—we have cloth… all, good fit … guaranteed.

… girl, the young … and su… all, with … matters—we can fit them … fashionable goods … especially low p…

I… 's Department … you any kind of suit you wish a… that will … ve the largest stock of Boy's Clothi… suits from 3 … 16 years old in short pants and fr… ars to 18 years … long pants. No matter what you wa… have … right … Men's and Boy's hats, all styles … ½ the … worth …

F… Ladies, we have … stock of the latest style of Jacket… s, Silk Shirt Wais… Shirt Waist … and a good many … kind of Waists … stock of Dress Goods of all kinds … Cashm… P… a Fine Waist Goods.

2… Fancy Flannels … lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth … regularly; we offer … 9 cents per yard so long as they las…

15 … of sample shoes … which we have the exclusive agency … St. Louis house, … from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's f… No. 5 to No. 9. Al… Children's. We are offering all the… for less than wh… e.

C… see us, you are sure … tisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Clothiers To The Whole Family

THE BARGAIN STORE

Clanton Ala.

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a cof… .

W. I MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

Job Printing cheap at THE BANNER Office

Fall Clearance SALE

STILL CONTINUES

and we have a few goods on hand that we are selling at the same CUT PRICES

Now is the Time to Buy!

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Maplesville, Ala.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL

Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells

CLANTON, ALA.

FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - - ALA.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3.50 to $5.00, to be closed out at $2.50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS.

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

PAINFUL PERIODS

Life often seems too long to the woman who suffers from painful periods. The eternal bearing-down, headache, backache, leucorrhea, nervousness, dizziness, griping, cramps and similar tortures are dreadful. To make life worth living, take

Wine of Cardui

Woman's Relief

It quickly relieves inflammation, purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the constitution and permanently cures all diseased conditions from which weak women suffer.

It is matchless, marvelous, reliable.

At all druggists' in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED GREATLY," writes Mrs. L. E. Clevenger, of Belleview, N. C., "at my monthly periods, all my life, but the first bottle of Cardui gave me wonderful relief, and now I am in better health than I have been for a long time."

Position GUARANTEED BY A

$5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day. GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st. 1901."

Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him, 25c, 50c and $1.00, Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation, 1906.

Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Robt. H. Knox, that the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and when last heard from resided in the State of Tennessee, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper, published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on before the 30th day of December, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

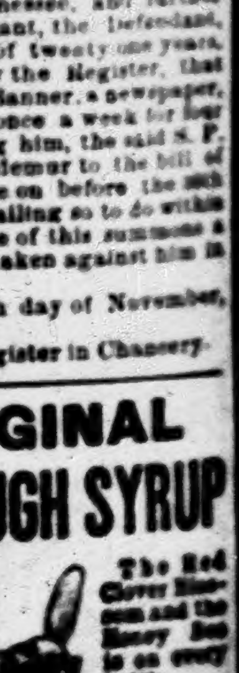
Witness my hand, this 29th day of November, 1906.

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

(Trade Mark Registered.)



The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee is on every bottle.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

FOR 5 REASONS

If you are a sufferer from Liver, Kidney or Bladder Trouble, you owe it to your precious life to

TAKE

URACURA

First—It is a perfect tonic and cure for Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

Second—It regulates the Liver.

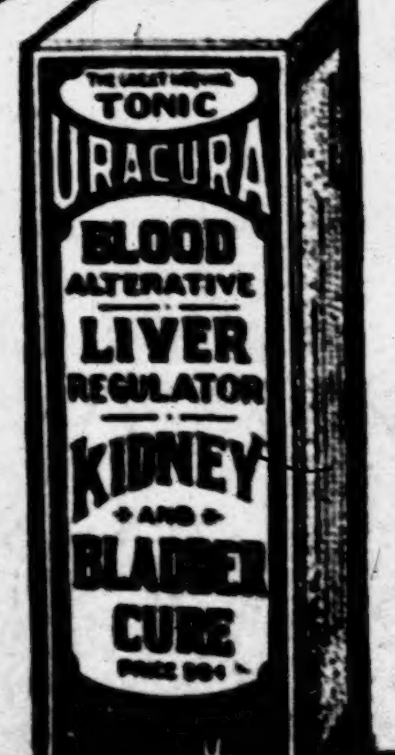
Third—It purifies the Blood.

Fourth—It restores Strength.

Fifth—It renews Vitality.

We know beyond doubt that it is a cure for any of these terrible diseases, no matter how slight or how serious the case maybe. We have proved this by our own experience and the testimony of thousands who have been cured.

It is a peculiar and dangerous feature of Kidney and Bladder Troubles that their symptoms are seldom alarming until they have you well in their clutches. They are indeed the most insidious diseases known to medical science. A few seemingly harmless pains in the back and side; sometimes a headache and nervousness with no apparent cause; occasional hot flushes; swelling of the hands or feet; very light or very dark colored urine—often too frequent—one or another or all of these symptoms, scarcely noticeable unless you are warned and on the lookout, mean Kidney or Bladder trouble. Study yourself—do not let another day go by without finding out about the health of your Kidneys and Bladder. Review your symptoms and check the disease in its early stages.



A 50c. Bottle of Uracura Will Begin the Good Work

After even a few days treatment you will notice that the urine will be of a very dark or reddish color with a strong odor of the medicine—this is not only a sign that there is disease but also that Uracura is doing its duty. After two or three days the urine will be clear; you will begin to feel less pain about the Kidneys and the pains in your back will leave. Your nervousness will disappear and you will feel stronger and better in every way. A consistent and continued treatment will absolutely eradicate the disease from your system and you will feel like a new being. A great Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder Cure. Restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves billiousness and constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion.

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY For Sale By Druggists

Dr. GRANGER MEDICINE CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

L. XIV Part On

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

"God rest you, merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
For Jesus Christ, our Saviour
Was born on Christmas day."

…nce again the season has rolled …nd to the glad Christmas time, … may it indeed prove to all a …y Christmas. The Lord has … good to us during the year, … we can rejoice and be glad. …om has made Christmas time a …n of festivity, and the natal … of the Lord Jesus Christ is …erally given up to feasting and …y making. Families and …nds gather together from far … near, and many old memories … recalled of the days that are …ed.

…he wanderer, far away from … he loves, recalls the happy … of his childhood, when the …istmas gathering was the great …t of his life; when the Christ… tree had such joys as no other … of vegetation has ever held; …n Santa Claus was the visitor …ost longed for, and the Christ… gifts he brought are oft times …ished many long years after the …r has gone to rest. The Christ… party had more life and jollity … other gatherings, when the …ure young maiden stood inno…ly under the miseltoe, and the …ful youth longed to tempt his … but lacked the courage to put … the test.

…hristmas! There's magic in …ame. It is the time for "Peace … earth, good will to men." Old …osities are buried, hard feelings … forgotten, there is joy in the …ts of all, and as the year closes, …desire comes to lead a better life … start the new year with love to …nd bitterness to none. God be … you through this Christmas … and always. Be merry and … and your reward will be in the …wledge that your happiness has …ributed to the happiness of …rs.

…r over a week the sun has hid… his shining face, and the earth …rk and gloomy. Darkening … have sent down lots of rain, … outdoor occupations are at a …dstill. Work on the court … is delayed by the bad weath… The jail presents quite a re…table appearance since the …d story has been added to it; … the weather permits, a few … days will see the roof on. … new school house is about …pleted and is a handsome struc… Roper's new storehouse is …y ready for occupation. Work …een commenced on a new two … hotel for W. M. Wilson. A … residence for G. L. Foshee … End is nearly completed, and …at is wanted to keep everyone … is fine weather.

…e coming attraction at the … house will be Holden Bros., … sensational scenic production, …er Express. This play al…gh a melodrama is one of the …r kind; the story of the play is …of intense human interest, a … that appeals to every heart; …omedy is of that bright, quick … that makes one forget their …les; and the scenery is the … ever carried with an organi… … of this kind. The Denver …ss will be at the court house … night only, on Saturday, … 23.

…rk Henry Honeycutt com… … that the people are not mar… … at this time of year like they … to. Last year he was kept … issuing licenses, and now bus… … is dull.

CORR…

The most … remedy to … Croup, Wh… Kennedy's L… This Reme… the system b… tha bo els … Drug co.

M…

Dear Edi… written to y… to say a fe… children ab… and our sch… parents. F… merry Xma… will bring … presents, an… he doesn't … them, and … happy too … ers, obey th… lessons wel… incident at … our teacher, … ran away … school, but … Miss Della. … obey our pa… their biddin… love us and … ents. Then … those that … mamas and … As this is m… best wishes … and a happy … too that the … had a gran… evening las… L…

C…

Editor Ba… a small ap… paper to sa… to the letter … last week … about the si… the first Sun… Saturday be… going to … Creek on th… ary and on … singing at F… first Sunday … All singers … your song b… Now, boy… let us see i… without dri… key, it woul… the welfare… wishes to th… readers.

Our Sund… nicely unde… Duncan … progressing … of Mr. G. D… The peop… church at th… The healt… very good a… Mr. Mack… week. Mr. J. G. … gin lot in … Birmingham … his machin… I am glad … munity is … proving as … I know of … Chilton onc… I…

CH…

By W. E. Hon…

The most events… is that on which … Reincarnation—… Of all the ages …

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

. XIV Part One CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 No. 10 people of Chilton county, we mprising all the latest fashions attention to our line of ned Hats and Millinery of all

TOCK

ICE

; Dress Goods; Underwear;
s of the latest styles; Broad-
y reduced prices; Shoes.

and a special line of 500 pairs
ple Shoes, worth from $3 50 oo, to be closed out at $2.50
d, to go at 39 cents.

L INSTRUMENTS
NOGRAPHS.
VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

ck at the very lowest prices.
the Phonograph talk—they living.

UTZKY
TE STORE
Ala.

ERIODS

o the woman who suf-
The eternal bearing-
ucorrhea, nervousness,
d similar tortures are living, take arduí

Relief

ation, purifies and en-the constitution and conditions from which

, reliable.
ottles.

"I SUFFERED GREATLY,"
es Mrs. L. E. Clevenger, of Belle-
, N. C., "at my monthly periods, y life, but the first bottle of Carave me wonderful relief, and now in better health than I have been long time."

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, oked to death early yesterday ning at his home, in the pres- e of his wife and child. He con- ted a slight cold a few days ago l paid but little attention to it. sterday morning he was seized h a fit of coughing which contin- l for some time. His wife sent physician but before he could ive, another coughing spell came and Duckwell died from suffoca- n.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, st. 1901." Ballard's Horehound Syrup would e saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00, l by Upchurch Drug Co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

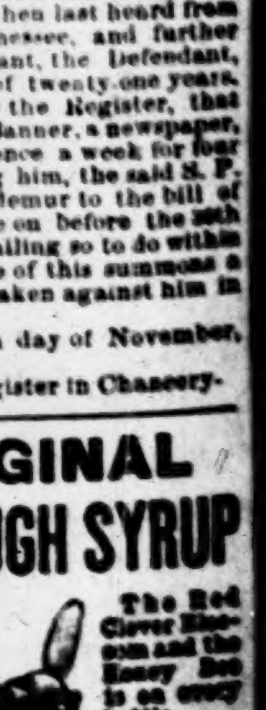
State of Alabama, Chilton County.
ncery Court. th District, Northeastern Di- sion In Vacation, 1905.
e Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, De- ndant.

n this cause it is made to appear to the Regis- by the affidavit on file of Rob' H. Knox, that Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of State of Alabama, and when last heard from ided in the State of Tennessee, and further t in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one years. t is therefore ordered by the Register, that lication be made in the Banner, a newspaper, lished in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four secutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. rel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of plaint in the above cause on before the 29th of December, 1905, and failing so to do within rty days after the service of this summons a ree pro confesso may be taken against him in l cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of November,

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

THE ORIGINAL
AXATIVE COUGH SYRUP



The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee is on every bottle.

res all Coughs and
sists in expelling ds from the stem by ntly moving
e bowels.
certain cure
r croup and
hooping-cough.
rade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.
For sale by Upchurch Drug Co

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

"God rest you, merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay.
For Jesus Christ, our Saviour,
Was born on Christmas day."

nce again the season has rolled d to the glad Christmas time, may it indeed prove to all a y Christmas. The Lord has good to us during the year, we can rejoice and be glad. om has made Christmas time a on of festivity, and the natal of the Lord Jesus Christ is rally given up to feasting and y making. Families and ds gather together from far near, and many old memories recalled of the days that are ed.

he wanderer, far away from e he loves, recalls the happy of his childhood, when the istmas gathering was the great t of his life; when the Christ- tree had such joys as no other of vegetation has ever held; n Santa Claus was the visitor ost longed for, and the Christ- gifts he brought are oft times ished many long years after the or has gone to rest. The Christ- party had more life and jollity other gatherings, when the ure young maiden stood inno- ly under the miseltoe, and the hful youth longed to tempt his but lacked the courage to put the test.

Christmas! There's magic in name. It is the time for "Peace earth, good will to men." Old mosities are buried, hard feel's forgotten, there is joy in the rts of all, and as the year closes, desire comes to lead a better life start the new year with love to nd bitterness to none. God be you through this Christmas and always. Be merry and and your reward will be in the wledge that your happiness has ributed to the happiness of rs.

or over a week the sun has hid- his shining face, and the earth ark and gloomy. Darkening s have sent down lots of rain, outdoor occupations are at a dstill. Work on the court e is delayed by the bad weath- The jail presents quite a re- table appearance since the nd story has been added to it; n the weather permits, a few e days will see the roof on. new school house is about pleted and is a handsome struc- Roper's new storehouse is ly ready for occupation. Work been commenced on a new two hotel for W. M Wilson. A residence for G. L Foshee t t End is nearly completed, and at is wanted to keep everyone is fine weather.

e coming attraction at the t house will be Holden Bros., sensational scenic production, ver Express. This play al- gh a melodrama is one of the r kind; the story of the play is of intense human interest, a y that appeals to every heart; comedy is of that bright, quick that makes one forget their bles; and the scenery is the t ever carried with an organi- on of this kind. The Denver ress will be at the court house one night only, on Saturday, 23.

lerk Henry Honeycutt com- s that the people are not mar- g at this time of year like they t to. Last year he was kept issuing licenses, and now bus- is dull.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The most pleasant, safest and best remedy to use for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc., is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Remedy expels all cold from the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Mullins Hill.

Dear Editor—As I have never written to your paper I ask space to say a few words to the little children about Xmas, Santa Claus and our school teachers and good parents. First, I wish you all a merry Xmas; hope Santa Claus will bring you all a lot of nice presents, and should there be any he doesn't visit let us remember them and strive to make them happy too. Let us love our teachers, obey their rules and learn our lessons well. We had a striking incident at this place last week, our teacher, Miss Della Wambem, ran away and left us without a school, but we children all loved Miss Della. Let us all love and obey our papas and mamas and do their biddings and then they will love us and get us many nice presents. Then we can divide with those that have no papas and mamas and make them happy too. As this is my first I will close with best wishes for you a merry Xmas and a happy New Year, and saying too that the fox hunters of Beat 3 had a grand rally on Saturday evening last.

LITTLE EVA FRANKLIN.

Cane Creek.

Editor Banner—Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the letter I wrote to the Banner last week. You was mistaken about the singing at F. A. Ellison's the first Sunday in January and on Saturday before; I wrote there was going to be preaching at Cane Creek on the first Sunday in January and on Saturday before, and singing at F. A. Ellison's on the first Sunday evening in January. All singers are invited, and bring your song books.

Now, boys, Xmas is coming and let us see if we can spend Xmas without drinking a drop of whiskey, it would be much better for the welfare of our lives. Best wishes to the Banner and its many readers.

SCHOOL BOY.

Dargin,

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the care of Mr. T. M. Duncan Our literary school is progressing nicely under the care of Mr. G. D. Baldwin.

The people are builiding a new church at this place.

The health of this community is very good at present.

Mr. Mack Lewis visited here last week.

Mr. J. G. Littleton has bought a gin lot in Calera and will go to Birmingham before long and buy his machinery.

I am glad to know that our community is building up, it is improving as fast as any country that I know of Hope to hear from old Chilton once more

DARGIN SCHOOL BOY.

CHRISTMAS MORN

BY W. E. HORNE, in Montgomery Advertiser.

The most eventful day of earth,
is that on which our Lord had birth—
Reincarnation—act sublime.
Of all the ages and all time.

O! blessed day and holy morn,
When He the Son our Lord was born.
As child, Redeemer, crying then,
"Peace, peace, on earth, good will to men!"

He was He is the same as when,
Man saw Him in volcanic gleam,
And into valleys came all men
To learn of Him in fetish dream.

The nomad of Sahara sees,
His providence in shade of palm,
And to Him o'er the desert flees,
From storm to find oasic calm.

From glacial gleam to torrid zone.
All Nature's children—everywhere,
Are loyal to their lieges throne,
And frond, and fern, leaf bend in prayer,

Omnipotent! within His hand
He holds the infinite of land;
The seas, and all the stars of light,
That gem and coronet the night.

Beneficent! with kindly care,
He makes provision everywhere,
For man and beast—the humblest thing,
That creeps the earth, or flies on wing.

But gift of gifts! Our Father plan.
To give His Son, redeeming man
With promise that He would receive,
The pardoned, ransomed, who believe.

Deal kindly Lord, with all this day—
Those far and near who kneel and pray,
Accept the humble offering,
Of hearts they bring, to Thee, oh, King!

Then hail—all hail! the Christmas morn,
When our Redeemer. Oh let was born;
And with the angels shout, "Amen!"
"Peace, peace, on earth, good will to men!"

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON ALA

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

WM. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$65,466.00
Demand Loans		2,000.00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461.75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,164.70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519.50
Currency	12,223.00
Gold	285.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,287.01
Checks and Cash Items	30.00
Profit and Loss	4.56
		$37,[illegible]
Total		$88,4[illegible]

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000.00
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,378.35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172.50
Time Certificates	5,567.60
Cashier's Checks	81.06
		$65,821.16
Total		$88,466.61

Shiloh.

In response to your correspondent of Swift Creek. will inform the dear writer that he or she is mistaken when they say that our school girls have to get some one else to write for them; they generally do their own writing.

We know nothing of the wedding bells which the correspondent mentioned; All the information we can give them on that is that it is an old saying that "the hit dog always hollows."

Mr. Jim Bice and Miss Lula Billingsley were happily married at the home of the bride last Wednesday evening, the good old Bro. N. A. Dobbs performing the ceremony. We wish the young couple a long and happy life.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Mr. William Barrett. He died at the Insane Hospital at Tuscaloosa, last Saturday, Dec. 2, and was buried in the Shiloh cemetery last Tuesday, Dec. 5th. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Several of our farmers attended the meeting of the Farmers' Union at Highland last Wednesday and Thursday. Success to the Banner.

C. M. B.

REWARD.

I have a reward of a substantial nature for the party or parties who will display the manhood to come forward and admit having run into and injured my buggy with a loaded wagon, in front of my office and residence on Dec. 12, 1905.

WM. M. ADAMS.

Maplesville.

Deputy Sheriff Lee Hayes has been employed by the citizens of Maplesville to be here during this week ank next to keep peace in our town through the holidays. Hope everything will be quiet.

There will be an Xmas tree at the church in Maplesville Monday night. We hope to have a nice time. We expect to have good order and behavior. Boys, be careful, Deputy Hayes will be there.

Success to the Banner and a merry Christmas to all.

SUBSCRIBER.

A Fearful Fate.

It is a fearful fate to have to endure the terrible torture of Piles. "I can truthfully say," writes Harry Golson, of Masonville, Ia., "that for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, is the best cure made." Also best for cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Subscribe for The Banner.

BUGGY AND HARNESS TAKEN.

On the night of Dec. 6, 1905, my Buggy and Harness was taken from my place by parties unknown. The Horses have been recovered, one near Maplesville aud one near Thorby. Am willing to pay for information of the buggy and harness.

D. W. WILKINS, Pletcher, Ala.

WANTED a man to work on halves on a one horse farm. Good stock and good house to live in. Apply to H. M. Burnett, Billingsley, Ala., R. F. D. No. 1.

WANTED: 10 men in each State to travel, post signs, advertise and leave samples of our goods. Salary $75.00 per mouth. $3.00 per day for expenses. ROYAL SUPPLY CO., Atlas Block, Chicago.

Center Point.

Our school is progressing nicely under the management of our kind teacher, Prof. Davis.

Mr. J. F. Bone of Troy was a pleasant visitor in our community Monday last; come again.

Misses Ida Williams and Ida Devaugn visited Mr. W. L. Williams and family Sunday last and reported a nice time.

Mr. Alvin Askins and charming sister, May, visited Miss Minnie Williams Saturday.

Mr. Jack Culp of Billingsley visited Mr. Jim Devaugn Saturday last and reported a nice time.

TWO SCHOOL GIRLS.

Nothing will cure indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach rest. You can't expect that a weak stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to to the full work that a sound stomach should do. You wouldn't expect a sick horse to get well when it is compelled to do a full day's work every day in the week. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant and digests the food regardless of the condition of your stomach. Relieves Indigestion, Belching, Sour Stomach, and all stomach disorders. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next State teachers' examination for Chilton county will be held in the court house at Clanton, beginning on the first Monday in January, 1906. The examination will begin at 10 a.m. sharp.

J. W. MOORE, Supt.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is simply liquid electricity. It goes to every part of your body, bringing new blood, strength and new vigor, It makes you well and keeps you well, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co

WANTED.

WANTED to rent on halves about sixty acres of land. I made 19 bales cotton and 175 bushels of corn this year with two horses. Apply to Silas Kelly, Clanton, Ala.

OXEN FOR SALE—22 head of oxen, 5 drays, chains, hooks, etc., property of the Jackson Lumber Co. Apply to W. H. FOSHEE, JR., 2 miles east of Stanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can cultivate 35 or 60 acres land, lies level and has a good new house on same. Apply to J. L. BURNETT, Thorsby, Ala.

Beautifying methods that injure the skin and health are dangerous, Be beautiful without discomfort by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, Sunshiny faces follow its use, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co,

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. KICKER & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, JR., Rushton, Ala.

The season of indigestion is upon us. Kodol Dyspepsia cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do everything for the stomach that an over-loaded and over-worked stomach can not do for itself. Kodol Digests what you eat—gives the stomach a rest—relieves sour stomach, belching, heart-burn, indigestion, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

An Emergency Medicine

For sprains, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but causes the parts to heal in about one third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST

of Birmingham, 2003 Second ave., will be in Jemison Friday and Saturday before the first Sunday in each month, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. Teeth examined free.

Torture of a Preacher.

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church, of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you. He says. "I suffered agonies, because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At Upchurch Drug co.; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

HOLLISTER'S
Rocky Mountain Tea Nuggets
A Busy Medicine for Busy People.
Brings Golden Health and Renewed Vigor.
A specific for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver and Kidney troubles, Pimples, Eczema, Impure Blood, Bad Breath, Sluggish Bowels, Headache and Backache. Its Rocky Mountain Tea in tablet form, 35 cents a box. Genuine made by HOLLISTER DRUG COMPANY, Madison, Wis.
GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton. A Horn, Thorsby,

THE CLANTON BANK
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men. with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to lead deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Shirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

The only way some folks can attract attention at all is by wearing squeaky shoes, declares the Staunton, (Va.) Leader.

Mrs. Lucinda Watkins of Atterbury, Illinois, is 96; her daughter is 76; her granddaughter, 54; her great-granddaughter, 37; her great-great-granddaughter, 19; her great-great-great-grandson 10 months. She has, according to the St. Louis Republic, 131 living descendants, "besides those who have not been heard from," and neither smokes nor drinks. Praise from our president would seem to be fitting.

With only ninety-seven indictments against him for the misuse of school funds Mr. Newton C. Dougherty, the Peoria banker, maintains a beautiful equanimity, but there is a note of sorrow, as it were, in his statement that he "supposes" the persecution of which he is the victim "must be ascribed to the wave of reform which seems to be sweeping over the country." It seems to us that Mr. Dougherty imposes a cruel strain upon "errors of bookkeeping" when he expects them to bear the burden of a shortage of $750,000, but we incline to the belief that he is right about the existence of a reform wave that is making trouble for many, and is going to make trouble for more, men of easygoing habits in the use of other people's money.

The returns of the world's gold production for 1904 help to explain the jealousy with which some European powers regard the "greedy Anglo-Saxons." Of a total output of about $341,000,000, the British Empire and the United States control no less than $278,000,000, or over four-fifths of the whole, asserts Collier's Weekly. The United States alone, with a product of over $82,000,000, far exceeds the entire non-English-speaking world. So does Australia alone, or the little colony of the Transvaal. The next returns will be still more impressive, for the Transvaal, Alaska, and the Canadian Yukon are all going ahead. In addition to cornering four-fifths of the gold of the world, the two English-speaking powers have a third of all the land, four-sevenths of the shipping, two-thirds of the coal, and considerably more than half of the iron and steel.

During the present fiscal year, which ends on June 30, 1906, the United States will become indisputably the third naval power in the world. In this period there will be more additions to the active list of the navy in the way of ships than ever before in a like time. The new ships which will be placed in commission include the battleships Virginia, Nebraska, Georgia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Louisiana, the armored cruisers California, So. Dakota, Tennessee and Washington, and the protected cruisers St. Louis, Milwaukee and Charleston. This will leave very few ships under construction, less than have ever been under way since the beginning of what is known as the new navy, and unless Congress at its next session promptly authorizes new ships the American navy will begin to take the down grade and will shortly fall behind several other nations in sea power.

There can be no more unpleasant task in these days than for a political writer to glance over the newspapers, Republican and Democratic, printed in the cities of other states, says the New York Times. Stories of political graft abound, and they are flanked by investigations telling of political thievery and political debauchery of every kind. "Down with bribery will be the slogan at the polls" is the watchword in one newspaper, and from Republican Philadelphia comes this cry: "Our city has been a shame in the face of the world. The blush has been brought to the face of every honest citizen. We stand here to proclaim to the world that the reign of graft in this city shall end." The newspapers and magazines from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate and from the Canadian line to the Gulf are burdened with these gloomy tales of political corruption. The question is frequently asked: "What has got into many politicians and what's the matter with the people?" The answer of some of them is that platoons of politicians have become afflicted with a graft epidemic and the people are too prosperous to bother much about what is going on around them. It is truly a dismal tale all down the line.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

By [illegible] Williams

O Christmas bells, ring out the story old—
Gay bells, joy bells—the sweetest ever told Immanuel the King has come—
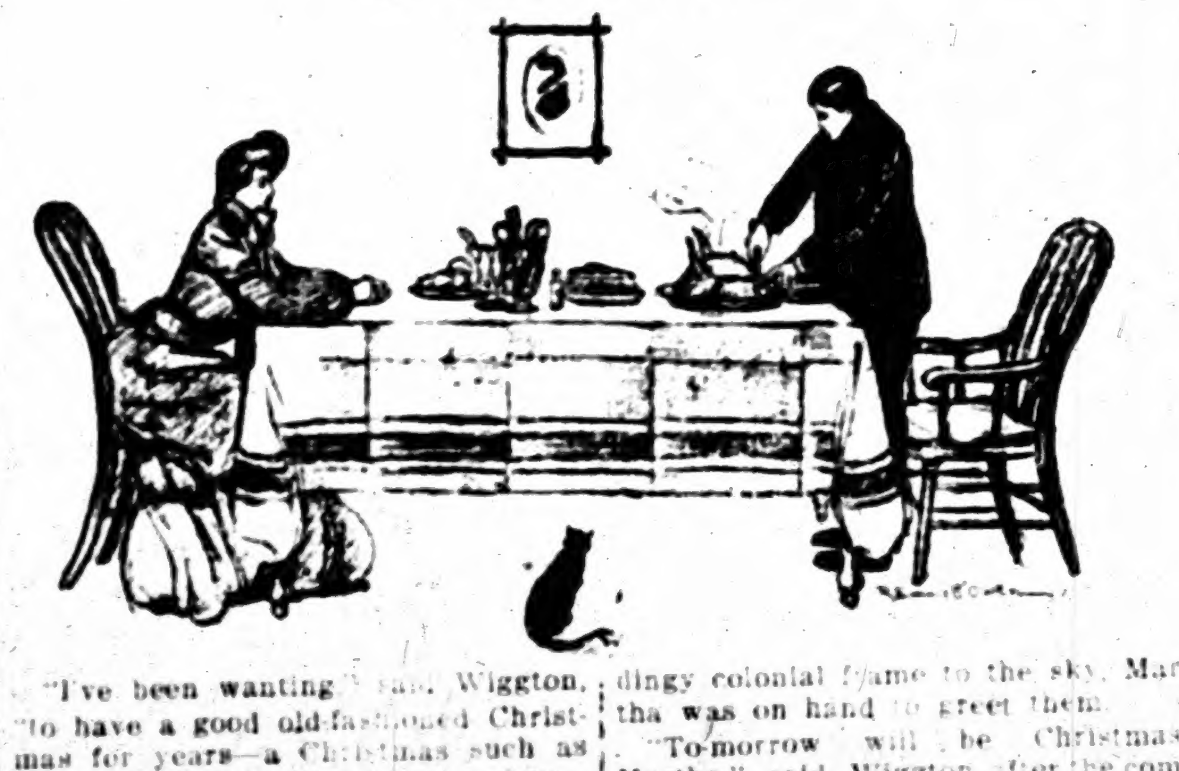
O, chiming bells, be ye not dumb,
'Tis peace on earth, good will to man.
Tell it again, and yet again,
O, Christmas bells.

O, Christmas bells, ring out the Savior's birth—
Sweet bells, glad bells, this day to all the earth,
That all to Him, their glorious King—
O silver bells, may incense bring
Who welcome Him, with Him shall reign
Tell it again and yet again,
O, Christmas bells.

Christmas Dream

By TOM MASSON



"I've been wanting," said Wiggton, "to have a good old-fashioned Christmas for years—a Christmas such as I used to have when I was a boy—and this year I am going to have it. Im going to open up the old homestead up in Hillville. Martha, the cook we had when I was a boy, will cook for us. Everything's planned—tickets bought. Come, my dear, what do you say?" Mrs. Wiggton looked at her husband aghast.

"I don't seem to have anything to say," he observed, "if you have made all the preparations. When do we start?"

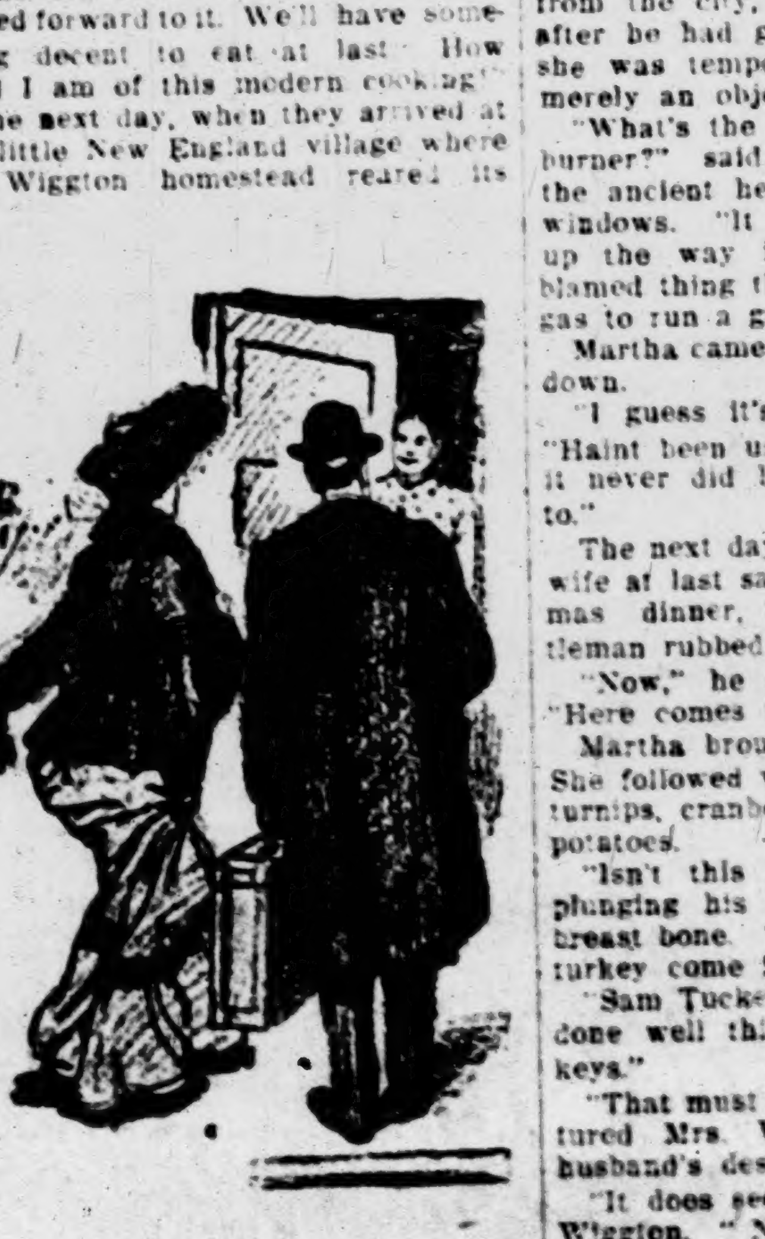
"To-morrow," said Wiggton. Back to the old homestead. How I have looked forward to it. We'll have something decent to eat at last. How tired I am of this modern cooking!"

The next day, when they arrived at the little New England village where the Wiggton homestead reared its dingy colonial frame to the sky, Martha was on hand to greet them.

"To-morrow will be Christmas, Martha," said Wiggton, after the compliments of the season had been passed, "and I want a genuine old-fashioned Christmas, such as I look backward upon with such fond recollections."

Martha, with a glow of pride in her honest face, nodded asent.

"I guess I know, John," she said, calling Wiggton by his first name. "'N you'll have it if I kin give it to yew."



Mrs. Wiggton sat silent with a novel she had bought to read. Being from the city, having married John after he had gone away from home she was temporarily out of it, and merely an object of curiosity.

"What's the matter with this base burner?" said Wiggton, examining the ancient heater with its isinglass windows. "It doesn't seem to heat up the way it used to. And the blamed thing throws out enough coal gas to run a gashouse with."

Martha came in and gave it a shake down.

"I guess it's all right," she said. "Haint been used for some time, but it never did burn the way it ought to."

The next day when Wiggton and his wife at last sat down to their Christmas dinner, that enthusiastic gentleman rubbed his hands in glee.

"Now," he said, "we're in for it. "Here comes the turkey. Hooray!"

Martha brought it in on a platter. She followed with chicken pie, boiled turnips, cranberry sauce and mashed potatoes.

"Isn't this great?" said Wiggton, plunging his fork into the turkey's breast bone. "Martha, where did this turkey come from?"

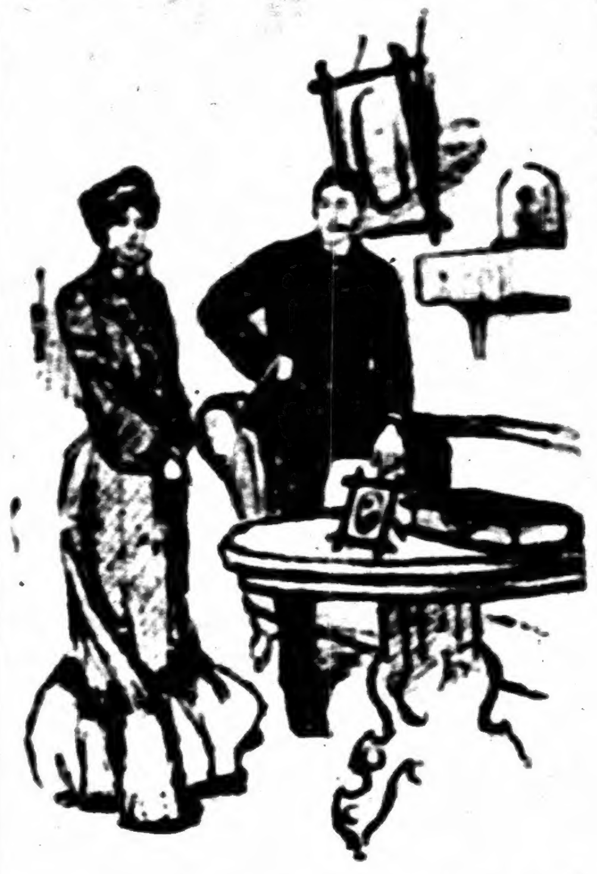
"Sam Tucker," said Martha. "Sam's done well this year with his turkeys."

"That must be a local turkey," ventured Mrs. Wiggton, watching her husband's desperate efforts to carve.

"It does seem a little tough," said Wiggton. "Never mind; we know where it comes from. These city turkeys—what do you know about 'em, anyway?"

"Martha," said Mrs. Wiggton, as she helped herself, "is evidently not a waitress."

"Sh," warned Wiggton. "She might hear you. A waitress! Well, I should say not. Martha comes from one of the oldest families here. And by the way, my dear, try and unbend, won't you? Martha's sensitive, and might feel it."



The first course of dishes, which had been arrangd by Martha on the table in the same spirit that she displayed when conveying sundry pieces of wood from the wood pile, were now removed and the second course came on.

"Now," exclaimed Wiggton, "we'll have the real thing. That turkey was a slight disappointment, I'll admit."

"And don't say that I said it," whispered Mrs. Wiggton, "but that chicken pie was a trifle heavy, don't you think?"

"A trifle," admitted Wiggton, "but wait. Here comes the glorious pumpkin pie. Here are the delicious crullers and the sugar cookies I've dreamed about so long."

"Hope you's enjoyed yourselves," said Martha, as she dumped the dishes down in front of Wiggton.

"Very nice," said Mrs. Wiggton, with a reception smile.

"Fine," said Wiggton, his eyes glistening with anticipation. "Any coffee, Martha?"

She brought in the old fashioned coffee pot—the only object that Mrs. Wiggton took any interest in—and sat it down in front of him.

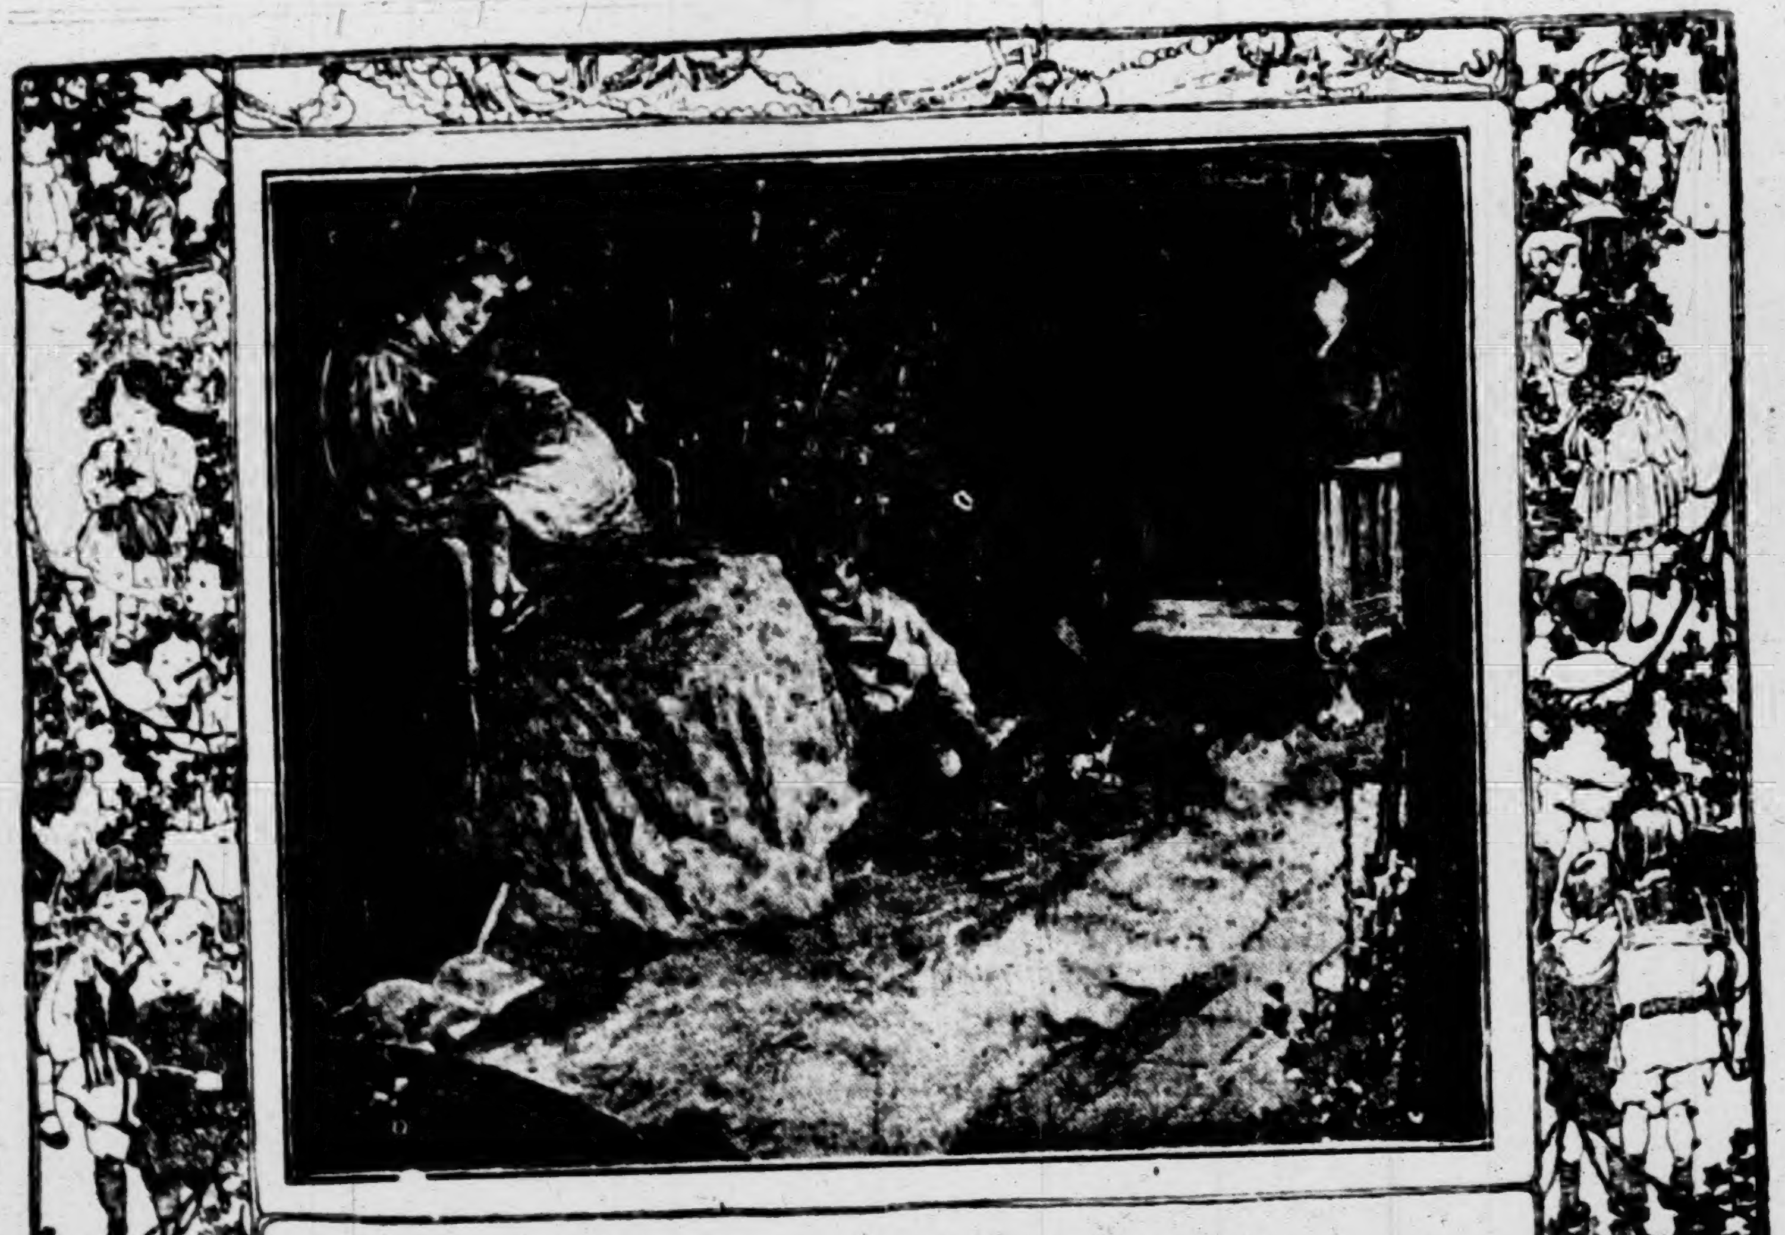
"And now," said Wiggton, "we're off."

A silence ensued. A silence broken only by monosyllable observations on the part of each diner, with Martha hovering near.

Finally, by simultaneous impulse, they both arose and made their way into the little front parlor.

Wiggton, taking from his pocket a large perfecto, put one foot on the haircloth sofa, and ere he struck the match, turned to his wife:

"My dear," he observed, "I have a confession to make. That was the toughest turkey, the soggiest pumpkin, the most abominable coffee, to say nothing of those fierce and indigestible doughnuts, that I have tasted for years. And now I'm going ot find out about the next train back. I want to get home as soon as possible and have a good square meal."—New York Mail and Express.



CHRISTMAS NIGHT---TIRED OUT.

The yule logs burn to an ashen char;
The joys of the day assemble,
Like beams that cling to a dying star
While a wooden soldier dreams of war
On a Christmas bough a-tremble.
The last little bear in the picture book
His tale in the wood has spoken;
And tired eyes close on a last fond look
At the sweets and toys in niche and nook,
Scattered and bent and broken.

BODIES BLOWN

Into Bits---19 Men Reported Missing in Mine Horror by Powder Explosion.

TWO HOTELS ARE WRECKED.

Property Loss Is Believed Now to Be Between $50,000 and $100,000.

Spokane, Wash.—The powder magazine of the Center Star and War Eagle mines at Rossland, B. C., exploded about 1:45 p. m. Saturday.

It is reported that many men are dead and many injured.

A special from Rossland to the Chronicle timed 3:10 p. m. stated that 19 men are still missing since the explosion.

One body, that of J. S. Ingraham, who was in charge of the magazine, has been recovered.

The search for the dead is handicapped by the fire in the ruins of the wrecked magazine.

Another magaine close by is in danger from the fire.

Two hotels were demolished by the explosion. It is reported that nearly 100 persons were cut by the broken glass.

The property loss is estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

The location of the magazine was on a hillside overlooking the town and about one-half mile distant from it.

Five Mangled By Explosion.

Marquette, Mich.—Five men were killed by an explosion today at the Dupont company's dynamite works here.

About 1,400 pounds of nitroglycerine exploded in the mixing house, which is three miles distance from Marquette.

The explosion badly damaged the plant and caused much excitement in Marquette. The dead are all workmen employed by the Dupont company. The men were blown into shreds. Of the thirty buildings in the plant few escaped damage and some were badly wrecked.

Arguments Against Tariff Reduction.

Washington.—Tobacco interests were represented Saturday at the ways and means committee hearing on the Philippine tariff. J. W. Upston spoke for the New York tobacco growers, and E. N. Phelps, of Windsor, Conn., protested on behalf of the Connecticut Valley tobacco raisers against any changes. J. H. Pierce, of Connecticut, also spoke against reduction of duty on Philippine tobacco and predicted that the proposed change would ruin the tobacco interests in New England.

State to Act Against Aid Association

Montgomery, Ala.—A commotion was produced in insurance circles of Alabama when Insurance Commissioner E. R. McDavid announced that he would lay before Attorney General Massey Wilson a report on the condition of the Southern Mutual Aid Association, of Birmingham, for him to act as he sees fit, giving as his opinion that the company should be restrained from doing further business in the state. The attitude of Commissioner McDavid is due to the disclosures of a special examination which he recently ordered into the affairs of the Southern Mutual Aid Association. The disclosures are of a sensational order and were Friday made public for the first time. The report of the examination, which was made by Col. H. R. Shorter, deputy insurance commissioner, recommended that the charter of the company should be forfeited on account of the excess of liabilities over assets.

Twenty Years for Lon Pippin.

Anniston, Ala.—Lon Pippin, charged with the murder of J. W. Trigg, was the very emblem of composure when the jury in his case filed into the court room Friday to render the verdict that was to decide his guilt or innocence and when Foreman Catlett announced a verdict of murder in the second degree, recommending a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary, he showed not the slightest sign of emotion. The verdict of the jury was read at about 10:30 a. m. and almost immediately after the defendant was taken in charge by Chief Deputy Sheriff Le Grande, who again placed him in his cell.

Montgomery Jail Fire.

Montgomery, Ala.—A fire in the woman's department at the county jail, which originated in the kitchen, came near ending the life of several women prisoners, and may yet result in the death of one of the inmates, Henrietta Howard. The lives of 100 persons were at one time threatened.

A certain gentleman on being asked to subscribe toward sending out a missionary to one of the cannibal islands of the Pacific, is reported to have answered, in the most discouraging manner: "Certainly not. I am a vegetarian."—Argonaut.

Trains on the principal British railways traveled over 150,000,000 miles during the first half of this year.

Anniston Fire of $56,000.

Anniston, Ala.—Fire Saturday night completely destroyed the large wholesale grocery store of the Thomason Grocery Company. The loss is about $50,000. The building was valued at about $8,000 with $5,000 insurance, and the stock at about $40,000 with about $30,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, and the firemen had to work to prevent the fire spreading on account of the great headway it had obtained before the alarm was turned in. The firm was one of the largest traders in Northeast Alabama; it was moved here [illegible] years ago from Oxford.

The Cudahy Packing Company's office and warerooms adjoining [illegible] were also destroyed. Their loss will amount to about $7,000 with [illegible] ance. All the losses were [illegible].

Refuses to Resign.

Montgomery, Ala.—David F[illegible] of $100,000. Birmingham [illegible] lacking in cold storage facilities [illegible] facilities now at command for this purpose are so limited that local merchants have to resort for storage purposes to faraway cities like [illegible] New York and even Boston.

Farmer is Wounded.

Jacksonville, Ala.—In a personal difficulty at Ramagnano's mill, a few miles east of this city, Lon [illegible] shot and probably fatally wounded Frank White. Several shots were fired and it is said serious wounds were inflicted in White's abdomen and side, in addition to a slight [illegible] in his scalp.

Thompson Will Resign Chairmanship.

Birmingham, Ala.—In republican circles it is definitely understood that Joseph O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue, will at an early date resign the chairmanship of the republican state committee.

Death Instantaneous.

Birmingham, Ala.—George N[illegible]cock, a night watchman for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, was instantly killed by an incoming East Lake car of the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company. The car was No. [illegible]. In charge of Conductor G. W. Foggett and Motorman J. D. Self was at the controller.

Hoch to Hang.

Springfield, Ill.—The supreme court has affirmed the Johann Hoch case. He will be hanged on February [illegible].

Crock Convicted on Forgery Charge

Gadsden, Ala.—Sam W. Crook, formerly an insurance agent in this city, with offices in the Stock building, and prominently connected with one of the oldest families in Alabama, was Saturday morning found guilty of forgery by a jury in the city court.

Took Wrong Drug.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—News has been received here from Elrod announcing the sudden death of Mrs. J. M. Mills. From what can be learned it seems that Mrs. Mills was suffering from a sick headache and by mistake took strychnine instead of quinine, and before aid could be rendered she was dead. She was the wife of Capt. J. M. Mills, was 65 years of age and had a very wide circle of friends.

New Corporations.

Montgomery, Ala.—The secretary of state has been informed of the incorporation of the following Montgomery firms:

Woodruff Company—Capital stock $3,000; incorporators, L. N. Woodruff, W. L. F. and F. G. Woodruff.

Gay, Hardie & Durr Drug Company—Capital stock, $100,000; incorporators, Bradford Hardie, John W. Durr, Jr., and Charles L. Gay.

New Official Soon.

Anniston, Ala.—The place of general agent of the Louisville and Nashville Railway at Anniston will be filled by Hiram P. Salter, of New Orleans, who has been in this city making arrangements for moving here January 1 to assume full control of the local office.

Poultry Show Was Best Yet.

Birmingham, Ala.—"The ninth annual poultry show of the Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock Association which closed Friday night, was the best in the history of the organization," said Secretary Charles Farmer. "The show was a success financially and otherwise, and the breeds represented in the entries were a credit to Birmingham and to Alabama."

Child Is Burned.

Cullman, Ala.—The bed in the residence of Mr. Barney Weggerman, of West Cullman, caught fire, and his 6-year-old child was horribly burned and ided. His wife was also seriously burned.

Jasper Roundhouse Destroyed by Fire.

Jasper, Ala.—The roundhouse of the Northern Alabama Railroad was entirely destroyed by fire here Friday afternoon.

"Yes, indeed, he's a master of realism in art."

"Is he?"

"I should say he is. Why, he painted a railway tunnel so naturally that a young man who was looking at it with a young woman quite forgot himself and suddenly kissed her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Italy's government censors all press telegrams to foreign countries.

Anniston Fire of $50,000.

Anniston, Ala.—Fire Saturday night completely destroyed the large wholesale grocery store of the Thomason Grocery Company. The loss is about $50,000. The building was valued at about $8,000, with $5,000 insurance, and the stock at about $40,000, with about $30,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, and the firemen had to work to prevent the fire spreading on account of the great headway it had obtained before the alarm was turned in. The firm has one of the largest trades in Northeast Alabama. It was moved here two years ago from Oxford.

The Cudahy Packing Company had office and warerooms adjoining, which were also destroyed. Their loss will amount to about $7,000, with insurance. All their books were destroyed.

Refuses to Resign.

Montgomery, Ala.—David Pressley of $100,000. Birmingham, they say, is lacking in cold storage facilities. The facilities now at command for this purpose are so limited that local merchants have to resort for storage purposes to faraway cities like Chicago, New York and even Boston.

Farmer Is Wounded.

Jacksonville, Ala.—In a personal difficulty at Ramagnane's mill, a few miles east of this city, Lon Snider shot and probably fatally wounded Frank White. Several shots were fired and it is said serious wounds were inflicted in White's abdomen and side, in addition to a slight esh wound in his scalp.

Thompson Will Resign Chairmanship.

Birmingham, Ala.—In republican circles it is definitely understood that Joseph O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue, will at an early date resign the chairmanship of the republican state committee.

Death Instantaneous.

Birmingham, Ala.—George N. Hancock, a night watchman for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, was instantly killed by an incoming East Lake car of the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company. The car was No. 209, in charge of Conductor G. W. Baggett and Motorman J. D. Self was at the controller.

Hoch to Hang.

Springfield, Ill.—The supreme court has affirmed the Johann Hoch case. He will be hanged on February 23.

Crook Convicted on Forgery Charge.

Gadsden, Ala.—Sam W. Crook, formerly an insurance agent in this city, with offices in the Stock building, and prominently connected with one of the oldest families in Alabama, was Saturday morning found guilty of forgery by a jury in the city court.

Took Wrong Drug.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—News has been received here from Elrod announcing the sudden death of Mrs. J. M. Mills. From what can be learned it seems that Mrs. Mills was suffering from a sick headache and by mistake took strychnine instead of quinine, and before aid could be rendered she was dead. She was the wife of Capt. J. M. Mills, was 65 years of age and had a very wide circle of friends.

New Corporations.

Montgomery, Ala.—The secretary of state has been informed of the incorporation of the following Montgomery firms:

Woodruff Company—Capital stock, $3,000; incorporators, L. N. Woodruff, W. L. F. and F. G. Woodruff.

Gay, Hardie & Durr Drug Company—Capital stock, $100,000; incorporators, Bradford Hardie, John W. Durr, Jr., and Charles L. Gay.

New Official Soon.

Anniston, Ala.—The place of general agent of the Louisville and Nashville Railway at Anniston will be filled by Hiram P. Salter, of New Orleans, who has been in this city making arrangements for moving here January 1 to assume full control of the local office.

Poultry Show Was Best Yet.

Birmingham, Ala.—"The ninth annual poultry show of the Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock Association, which closed Friday night, was the best in the history of the organization," said Secretary Charles Barber. "The show was a success financially and otherwise, and the breeds represented in the entries were a credit to Birmingham and to Alabama."

Child Is Burned.

Cullman, Ala.—The bed in the residence of Mr. Barney Weggerman, of West Cullman, caught fire, and his 6-year-old child was horribly burned and died. His wife was also seriously burned.

Jasper Roundhouse Destroyed by Fire.

Jasper, Ala.—The roundhouse of the Northern Alabama Railroad was entirely destroyed by fire here Friday afternoon.

"Yes, indeed, he's a master of realism in art."

"Is he?"

"I should say he is. Why, he painted a railway tunnel so naturally that a young man who was looking at it with a young woman quite forgot himself and suddenly kissed her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Italy's government censors all press telegrams to foreign countries.

A DAY IN TOWN.

If you chance to be out driving some November Saturday
When the roads are stiff and frosty, and the pastures rough and gray,
And the cornfields all are stubble, and the crows are gone at last,
And the oriole's cradle yesterday is [illegible]—
You may meet a creaking carriage, full of smiles without a frown,
For the farmer's little people all are jogging into town.

Big brother does the driving—his hands are very strong—
For father cannot spare the time to be away so long.
On a rearward seat is mother, and beside her in the nest
Cuddled close the younger children in their jaunty Sunday best.
Though the girl who sits to windward is incased from sole to crown
In a "buff'ler robe" resplendent, for the chilly drive to town.

But the state of little brother who shall venture to repeat?
So charged with glad expectancy he scarce can keep his seat!
His cap pulled down about his ears to meet his muffler, twined;
His pockets fat with treasures that he couldn't leave behind,

And the dimes he earned at harvest in his mittened fist of brown,
To be spent in reckless joyance when they gather in the town?

And now the heart's desire is reached, and in the busy street
Small, cramping muscles stretch again with tramp of sturdy feet.
The careful barter over, and the good things tucked away
In the box that brought the butter and the eggs that went for pay.
There is shopping, there are bonnets; and a shade of woe comes down
To cloud the perfect sunshine of the children's day in town.

But ah, when that's accomplished, comes a space of perfect joy—
The jewel-moment of the week to a little country boy!
The spiral stripe of peppermint, the lemon's acid note,
The brittle, bulky parcel that he huddles in his coat!
Do you think he ever fancies, as at last with yearning sigh
He climbs the mud-stained axle and bids the street good-by,
That one day—a day of manhood—though success his life may crown,
He may hunger for the farmhouse, dearer far than any town?

—Jeannie Pendleton Ewing, in Youth's Companion.

THE NIGHT PURSUIT.

By ROGER STARBUCK.

The night lowered dark and stormy around the lonely island of Sarbroo, in the South Pacific Ocean.

The tall cocoanuts lining the beach tossed their heads wildly to and fro, and the great seas came thundering upon the sand, sending showers of spray far inland.

About two hundred yards from the beach, in a little log house, sat an old missionary—the Rev. John Sturgis, with his only daughter, Leila, who had accompanied her father to this distant shore, that she might be near to comfort him and administer to his wants.

A lovelier girl than Leila seldom greeted mortal vision.

The light of the lamp upon the coarse table, in one corner of the rough but neatly-swept floor, fell upon her chestnut hair, seeming to encircle it with a halo, while the pure, innocent expression of the young face might have moved a heart of stone. The eyes of this girl were of deep hazel, her skin was transparently fair, her form perfect in its graceful proportions.

At the moment of which we write, she sat upon a little stool at her father's feet, her bright head resting upon his knee, and a satisfied smile hovering about her pretty mouth, as she felt the caressing touch of her parent's hand.

"Leila," said he after a while, "do you never feel tired of living away out here with me in the Pacific Ocean?"

"Tired!—oh, no, papa—no, indeed."

"Alas! I feel that it is selfish of me to keep you here. Tell me, darling, do you not sometimes think of Charles Graham?"

A vivid blush came upon Leila's cheek, her bosom heaved.

"Oh, never mind, papa," she said, softly.

"That means that you do think of him?"

"I will not deny it," she answered, gently, burying her face upon his bosom. "But Charles, you know, has promised to wait for me, so I am satisfied?"

Mr. Sturgis smiled.

"It is most time that his ship arrived off this place. You know he said he would touch here on his way home from Australia."

"Yes—he said so when we parted from him," she answered, her bright eyes gleaming with joy.

"I hope he will come soon," said Mr. Sturgis, a shadow crossing his brow.

Leila looked at him earnestly.

"Papa," she said at length," do you not think that fears of a rising among the savages are groundless?"

"No, dearest, I do not. That fellow, Henry Seedon, I am afraid is doing great mischief here."

The person to whom he alluded was a dark-browed man—a boatswain's mate, who had deserted a vessel, which several months previously, had touched here for a supply of water.

The fellow had called frequently on Mr. Sturgis, and had been particularly attentive to Leila, who, however, by every means in her power, had shown him that such attentions were to her far from agreeable.

The boatswain's mate, however, who was a coarse, conceited fellow, had continued his unwelcome visits, and finally had even had the audacity to propose to Mr. Sturgis for Leila's hand, in the presence of the young girl.

Both father and daughter had then given him to understand that his company was no longer desired, and he then gone away with an aspect of countenance which had made the young woman fairly shudder—it was so demoniacal—so full of bitter hatred.

Since then he had not again intruded—had shunned both whenever they chanced to meet him in their walks.

The behavior of the natives, who had hitherto been friendly to them, also seemed to change.

Dark, sullen glances often directed toward them by the island people, convinced the former that Henry Seedon was at work, endeavoring to turn the natives against them. Vainly Mr. Sturges had endeavored to counteract this influence. Seedon was a man who had great power for evil—a wily, cunning villain, who knew just how to deal with the ignorant islanders.

"If so," said Leila, in answer to her father's last remark—"if the islanders are really turning against us, had we not better quit the island?"

"That is what I have been thinking of. I feel that delay is dangerous in this case."

"Yes, papa. These people have fearful passions, when once they are aroused, in spite of all your teachings, and I shudder to think of what might be the result of our staying here. Good Heaven!" she suddenly added, drawing back. "Oh, papa, somebody's at the window."

Mr. Sturges glanced toward the window just in time to see the hideous face of a savage, which had been pressed against the pane, hastily withdrawn.

He rose and moved to the door, which he quickly opened, peering out into the gloom.

At first he could see nothing, but he finally made out a number of dark forms gathered on the beach, apparently holding council. Through the gloom he could faintly distinguish, in the phosphor light from the white waves, a number of long spears and heavy war clubs carried by the party.

"Leila," he whispered, quickly returning, "we must fly!"

The young girl turned as pale as death.

"Keep up a brave heart, Leila, Heaven will help us!"

She caught the gleam of his benignan eye and her spirit seemed nerved with almost superhuman resolution.

In a moment she had thrown on her bonnet and shawl, and was at the side of her father, who had donned his cap and coat?

He cast a wistful eye at his books in a rude bookcase in the corner; but there was no chance or time to take them with him.

Even as he moved toward the back door with his child, a savage yell broke forth, and the tramp of approaching feet was heard.

He rushed out with his daughter; at the same moment something whistling past his head, proclaimed that he hed been seen. It was a spear, which just grazing the side of his cay, lodged in the trunk of a broad fruit tree beyond.

The missionary hurried along until he reached a thick clump of shrubbery growing by the side of the path, when, with his child, he ensconced himself therein.

The tramp of feet drew nearer, but, thanks to the darkness, the fugitives had not been seen to hide themselves, and soon the natives, believing that they had kept on, rushed past them.

"Heaven is helping us," whispered Mr. Sturges to his child. "We will remain quiet a few moments longer—then we will endeavor to get to the beach unobserved."

They remained motionless, hardly daring to breathe, until they felt sure the savages had gone some distance, when they emerged and made for the beach at a spot where, in a small cove, Mr. Sturges kept his own little canoe.

Just as they launched the frail vessel another yell proclaimed that they were again seen, and through the darkness they could dimly see the forms of the natives as they came on.

"Quick, my child!" cried Mr. Sturges, as he helped his daughter into the canoe; "we must paddle out to sea, and may Heaven keep our canoe from swamping in this storm!"

A shower of spears whistled round the fugitives; but, fortunately, not one touched them. In a moment they were in their canoe, paddling far out upon the dark waters.

The wind roared and shrieked around them—the great seas tossed their little boat as if it were an eggshell, and it seemed at times as if the little craft must certainly roll over.

Leila resolutely assisted her father; but she felt as if escape from their present peril were impossible—felt that they must eventually be swallowed b ythe mad waves.

The fury of the storm seemed on the increase. The seas rose higher, and the spray and water at times engulfed the canoe, filling it.

Mr. Sturges, however, by rapid and expert bailing, still contrived to keep the little vessel afloat.

"What is that?" Leila suddenly inquired, pointing toward something dark astern of them, and apparently gaining.

"A canoe!" exclaimed her father; "a large canoe; the savages are in pursuit!"

"It is all over with us, then!" gasped Leila.

At that moment, from a sudden opening in the dark clouds, the moon burst forth, throwing a broad glare of silver light athwart the waters.

Mr. Sturges then discovered that the large canoe, which was full of natives, was indeed rapidly gaining.

Vainly he strained himself at the paddle; vainly his lovely daughter also exerted herself; the natives drew nearer every moment, shouting exultantly as they came on.

The fugitives were now paddling on a course diagonal with the shore, and which carried them toward a high rocky promontory, jutting out into the sea from the southern extremity of the island.

As they drew near this promontory the face of the missionary lighted up with hope; for he had, not long sinc, discovered there an under-sea cavern, of the existence of which he believed the savages knew nothing—the opening to this retreat being concealed by a rock, overgrown with thick masses of seaweed.

Soon, however, he perceived that he must be overtaken ere he could reach the place. All further exertion was useless. There was the natives' canooe, less then ten fathoms distant, speeding along toward the smaller one like an arrow.

In this extremity Mr. Sturges resolved to resort to prayer.

He threw himself upon his knees in the canoe and prayed God, if it so pleased Him to take the petitioner, to spare his lovely child. Meanwhile poor Leila, who had also stopped paddling, was praying that her father might be saved, even though she were destroyed.

Beautiful sight it was to see the young girl with upturned face, the moonlight upon her features and shining hair, as she sat there in the rocking canoe.

Mr. Sturges concluded his prayer. Now he stood upright in the little craft, gazing toward his enemies as they came on.

Thus gazing he did not observe a stately ship, which suddenly came looming round the promontory mentioned, under reefed topsails.

The suddenness of this vision, hitherto concealed by the high land, was not without its effect upon the natives, all of whom now stopped paddling, gazing toward the strange vessel.

"Go ahead," screamed the evil voice of Seedon, who was among them. "Never mind the ship, but first get these runaways in your clutches."

The natives again took to their paddles. On came the canoe, and in a few minutes it must reach the fugitives. Mr. Sturges and his daughter now beheld the strange ship, which, not distant further than a quarter of a mile, was booming along straight toward them.

"If we can only reach that vessel," he said to his daughter. "Quick, Leila, paddles again."

With superhuman strength they paddled toward the ship, Mr. Sturges now and then shouting and pausing to wave an arm to her. Finally, overpowered by their exertions, father and daughter were obliged to pause. Their pursuers were close upon them—so was the ship.

"Help, Help!" screamed the missionary, springing up. "We are pursued by savages."

His shrill voice was evidently heard, for the ship was now directed straight toward the savages' canoe, which it soon struck, dashing it to pieces and passing over it, killing Henry Seedon outwright and leaving the other occupants striking out for shore.

Mr. Sturges and his daughter were then picked up, to meet with an agreeable surprise, to discover in the captain of the vessel Leila's lover—Charles Graham.

"My prayer has been answered," said Sturges, solemnly, as he embraced his weeping, blushing daughter.

We have to add that they had a safe and speedy passage home, and that Leila, soon after, was united to Captain Graham.

Mr. Sturges found a comfortable home with them during the remainder of his life.—New York News.

Not to Be Caught.

A certain London corn chandler had just engaged an assistant, who hailed from a small village near Leeds. He was not remarkable for his intelligence. His friends, realizing this deficiency, had evidently warned him against being caught by the sharp London people who would be certain to take a rise out of him. Full of this resolve not to be caught, he began his duties. A customer entered the shop. "I want some bird seed, please," he said. The assistant grinned. The customer repeated his request, and the knowing villager spluttered with suppressed merriment. The customer not quite knowing what to make of this extraordinary display, asked him in somewhat forcible language what was the matter. "It's no use," answered the verdant one, "tha knows ta can not catch me. I know, I do." "Know what?" asked the customer. "Birds groas from eggs, not seed!"—Birmingham (Eng.) Weekly Post.

Just a Hint.

"Darling," whispered the lovesick youth, "I have been sparking with you all the evening."

"And don't you know what goes with sparking?" asked the beautiful maiden who wanted a ring.

"What, dear?"

"Why, a sparkler."—Chicago News.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY BISHOP C. C. McCABE.

Subject: God's Little Ones.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Bishop C. C. McCabe preached in the Hanson Place M. E. Church Sunday morning. The Rev. Charles E. Locke, the pastor, conducted the service. Bishop McCabe chose for his subject "God's Little Ones," and preached from the text Isaiah lx:22: "And a little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation. I, the Lord, hath said it, in his time." He said:

There are two thoughts that claim our attention as we study this text. One is the kind of workers God chooses to do His greatest work in this world—the little ones; and, second, the possible rapidity with which God's work may go forward in this world. God chooses the lowly to do His great work. The history of the world never yet has been fairly written. We know what the great have done, we know what kings and emperors and generals and philosophers and poets and inventors have done, but the Macauley has not yet arisen to trace out in history what God's little ones have done, yet the history of the world cannot be fairly written without telling the story of their lives, because they have done so much for the world, and what others have done would have been in vain had it not been for what God's little ones have accomplished. He chose the lowly. "God hath respect unto the lowly, but the proud He knoweth afar off." He loves the lowly heart that trusts in Him. What an impediment to Christian work is pride! We cannot build up a strong Christian character without humility. Humility comes from the Latin word "humus," which means "the ground"—the ground on which to build a strong Christian character. Its corner stone and foundation stone must be humility, and if the character lack that grace, it will not stand the test of time and temptation; but, with humility, the Christian character may be built up with a symmetry and universalness that will endure through life and eternity. What do you think of this passage? "I, the high and lofty one that inhabiteth eternity, I will dwell in the high and holy places with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit." God chooses as His associates the humble and the contrite.

Our Lord carried on His work after the same plan. He chose the humble and lowly workers and sent them out to preach His gospel. And one day they came back to Him surprised and delighted with their experience, and they said: "Master, even the devils are subject to us in Thy name," and it is written that at that time Jesus rejoiced in spirit and said: "Father, I thank Thee because Thou hast hidden these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father, for so it seemeth good in Thy sight." Paul understood this well when he wrote to the Corinthians: "Not may wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called; but God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and the base things of the world and things which are despised hath God chosen; yea, and things which are not to bring to naught things that are, that no flesh should glory in His presence." How low He gets it down! That has always been God's plan, even before the time when the babe came to the manger in Bethlehem. Jesus born in Bethlehem in Judea—that little, lowly one was God's answer to the world's cry for help and light. It was a little added weakness to that we had already, poverty added to the poverty we had already; it was an infant's wail added to what Paul calls the "groan of creation." That was God's way of answering man.

I will just call your attention to the possible rapidty with which the kingdom of God can grow in this world, "a little one becoming a thousand." That is a tremendous rate of gain; it seems as if it could not be so. We say Isaiah was a poet; a mystical man and exaggerated sometimes, but this is no exageration. It has often been the case. Yea, a small one has become a nation in the history of the onward march of the kingdom of Jesus Christ, our Lord. I believe that God wants His kingdom to grow rapidly, and I think that was the spirit of Jesus when He told His disciples the parable of the talents. On another occasion He gave them another parable of the rich man who before going away gave each of his servant a pound and on his return required his own with usury. One man said: "Lord, Thy pound hath gained ten pounds." That was a big percentage of interest. And another said: "Lord, Thy pound hath gained five pounds." That was a good percentage, and Jesus said: "The kingdom of heaven is like that." That is the way invested lives may grow; that is the way life, no matter how humble, may grow; that is consecration. That is the teaching of these two parables.

Now these are commercial figures. Let us take them into the light and try to understand them. In the parable the master speaks of three rates of gain. When the man who had five talents brought five more he was worth 100 per cent. to his master, and he who had two and brought two more was also worth 100 per cent. to his master, but when the man who had only one pound brought five pounds more he was worth 500 per cent. to his master, and the man whose one pound had gained ten pounds was worth 1000 per cent. to his master; and Jesus said: "The kingdom of heaven is like that." All those rates of gain are possible in the kingdom of heaven. We cannot receive it right off. Let us try to comprehend the Master's meaning. Six per cent.—we know all about that—will do wonders if we will only give it a little time.

In 1620 the island of Manhattan was bought by the white man from the Indians for $24, which is an insignificant sum. Yes, but put it out at interest at six per cent. and add interest to interest and let it grow for 286 years and how much would you have then? The $24 would then have increased to $122,600,000, and that is the way the kingdom of heaven ought to grow. And if you keep that money out at interest for 430 years it will be able to buy Manhattan Island with all there is on it, and then there will be enough left to buy every State in the Union, and then there will still be enough left to buy Great Britain. And if left out at interest for 500 years there would be enough to buy the United States, England and Germany. And the Master said: "The kingdom of heaven is like that," and that is the way it ought to grow, and that is the way it would grow if we would simply keep the idea of the power and compound spiritual interest of the church of God. If you kept out the $24 with interest added to interest for 600 years it would wreck the world. Six per cent! That is entirely too small a rate of gain to suit my soul. What does it mean? It means this: That here is the church of 100 members instrumental in the conversion of six souls to Christ in a year. I would not be satisfied with that rate at all. One hundred per cent. is the least rate of gain that any Christian church ought to think worthy of the kingdom of God. The bells of the millennium would be ringing before we died if we only would keep our soul winning for a few years. It is not difficult to win a soul. I have been trying to work out this problem for years—trying to be worth something for Jesus. One night I arrived at New Haven, Conn., and took a hack at midnight to the house where I was to stay. When the hackman asked for his fare I dropped a quarter into his hand, and, grasping it, said: "Good night, sir! I hope to meet you in glory some day." He jumped on the box, whirled his horse around, and was gone.

I did not expect to see him again. Away after midnight my host knocked at my chamber door, and said: "A hackman is here, acting queerly. He says he wants to see you and has got to see you to-night." I said: "Let him come in." I arose and threw a shawl over me, and in came a great stalwart hackman with his whip in his hand and tears running down his cheeks and he said: "If I meet you in glory I have got to turn around, for I am not going that way. I have come to ask you to pray for me. I could not keep away." What a joy it was to pray for that man! He went out comforted by God's holy spirit, and I believe, I was worth 100 per cent. to my Master that night. The possible growth of the kingdom is what I am talking about.

In 1865, when the war was over, I was on a train going from Lancaster, Ohio, and saw a drunken soldier sitting by himself. Nobody would sit by a drunken soldier, but that is the very kind of man I like to sit by. I sat down by him and by and by stole my arm gently around his neck and whispered to him: "Comrade, when are you going to give your heart to Jesus Christ and be a Christian?" He looked embarrassed and got up and went to another part of the train. I thought I had offended him. I went that night to preach in the little town of Putnam, where I once was pastor, and there sat that man and his sister beside him. We had a glorious meeting that night. I did not see him again for thirty-five years, but one night I was about to speak to the Grand Army in the old Dutch Church on Fifth avenue. There were 1800 soldiers there. A splendid looking man came down the aisle and I said to a gentleman: "Who is that man?" and he said: "That is Colonel Hadley, the head of the St. Bartholomew Mission. He has been instrumental in planting fifty-four rescue missions in this country." I went down, and said: "Brother Hadley, I am glad to see you. I have heard about your work, but I never saw you before." "Oh, yes you have," he replied. "Thirty-five years ago I was sitting on a train and you came and sat down by me and wanted to know when I was going to be a Christian and give my heart to God. I never got over that question. You have seen me before." I believe it is possible for every Christian to gain over 100 per cent. for our blessed Lord every year.

There are souls that are worth a thousand per cent. There was that noble woman in the Epworth Rectory with her nineteen children. Do you know she adopted five orphans besides—twenty-four altogether—and her husband was a preacher. (Laughter). Surely the invested life of Susanna Wesley was worth more than 1000 per cent.

The bishop then reviewed at some length the progress of Methodism since the first conference in 1773, particularly in Ohio. He then spoke of the work in Russia, where there are now 2,000,000 converts, and liberty to worship according to conscience, and then said:

There will come a time when God Himself will get in a hurry and when He will say, "The earth has wept long enough. There has been enough war, enough trouble," and when He will hasten on the kingdom and bring it quickly. I think He will hasten when we hasten. Oh, brothers, let us hurry with the gospel!

After an urgent appeal for increased subscriptions to missionary work, Bishop McCabe concluded his sermon as follows:

Brothers, your children will see this world converted. In a great meeting the other day we sent this message to Theodore Roosevelt: "We are looking to you to bring about a movement for universal arbitration." I find twenty-one nations have asked him to take the initiative, and your children will live to see the day when war will be no more, and when that happens we, who have believed it all the time, will say, "I told you so." There are two kinds of faith, one that believes before a thing happens, and the other after. What kind have you? I thank God I believe it now before it happens. I believe the whole earth is going to be converted. The time is coming when no man will have to say to his neighbor, "Know the Lord." And the time is coming when "the glory of the Lord shall fill the earth as the waters cover the sea." May He hasten it in His time.

All Light.

The difference between receiving the Spirit and being filled with the Spirit is a difference not of a kind, but of a degree. In one case the light of Heaven has reached the dark chamber, disturbing night, but leaving some deep shadows. In the other, that light has filled the whole chamber and made every corner light.—William Arthur.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 24.

Subject: The Character of the Messiah, Isa. ix., 1-7—Golden Text, Matt. i., 21—Memory Verses, 6, 7—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Great darkness (vs. 1,2). 1. "Nevertheless." A transition word from the dark picture of chapter 8:5-22, describing the woes from Assyrian predominance to the bright dawn and consummation of the Messianic era. "Shall not be such." The darkness shall not be as great as it has been. There was a ray of encouragement for those who were ready to receive the prophet's words. "Zebulun." Galilee was the land that principally suffered in the first Assyrian invasion.

2. "The people.... in darkness." The people of Judah. They were at this time under a two-fold darkness. 1. The darkness of outward trouble. See 2 Kings 15:37, 16:4-8, 17, 2 Chron. 28:5-8. 2. They were in moral darkness. Ahaz had led the people into the most abominable practices in honor of the heathen divinities. Finally, toward the close of the reign, he shut up the great doors of the temple (2 Chron. 28:24), discontinued the offering of incense and the morning and evening sacrifice, and left the whole interior to decay, neglect and ruin.

II. A great light (vs. 2-5). 2. "A great light." The sudden change from dense darkness to the shining light which the prophet saw is quite remarkable. What light was this? The promise of redemption; the prospect of the coming of Immanuel.

3. "Hast multiplied the nation." Isaiah with prophetic eye pierces the centuries and sees the hosts that would come under the reign of the Messiah and be numbered with the true spiritual Israel. "And not increased." See R. V. for correct rendering. "They joy before Thee." The prophet notes it to be a religious joy because it is said to be before God—that is, in His presence and with a grateful acknowledgment of His benefits.

4. "Thou hast broken the yoke." The Jews were successively delivered from the burdensome and galling yoke of the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Persians and Macedonians, but these deliverances were only a shadow of redemption from the yoke of Satan, and that redemption seems here especially predicted as if already accomplished. "As in the day of Midian." As Gideon with a handful of men conquered the hosts of Midian, so Messiah, the "child" (v. 6), shall prove to be the "Prince of Peace," and the small company under Him shall overcome the mighty hosts of Antichrist. See the same contrast in Micah 5:2-5.

5. "For every battle." It was the custom of antiquity to pile the arms of prostrate enemies, the spoils of less value, and their spotted garments, into a heap and then burn them. All that belongs to war shall be swept away; the war itself shall die. The Messiah abolishes all war, but not until His foes are either swept away by His judgments or melted into penitence and won over by His love.

III. A vision of the Messiah (v. 6). 6. "Unto us." The prophet spoke of the predicted blessings as if already communicated. "A Son is given." God's gratuitous gift, upon which man had no claim (John 3:16). A gift of love, of joy, of universal fitness to our needs. As Son of man Jesus was "a child born," as Son of God He was a "Son given." "Government." The ensign of government, the sceptre, the sword, or key, was borne upon or hung from the shoulder. All government shall be vested in Him. "His name." A name stands for all that the man is and has—his character, his principles and his property. "Wonderful." Because His nature was both human and divine. Whoever refuses to believe in the supernatural must pause at the manger. He can go no farther. How Godhood and manhood could be knit together in the person of Christ is beyond us. But things incomprehensible are not incredible. All divine works are wonderful. There are marvels enough in a drop of water to bewilder the wisest. "Counselor." One who has wisdom to guide himself and others. Jesus was the embodiment of the wisdom of God. He was a Saviour, both God and man, a personal revelation of God's love, a perfect character and example. He is our Counselor, never guiding us astray, but always by the best ways to the best ends. "Mighty God." God the mighty One. As He has wisdom, so He has strength; He is able to save to the uttermost, and such is the work of the Mediator that no less a power than that of the mighty God could accomplish it. "Everlasting Father." Expressing the divine love and pity for men, a love that can never fail for it is everlasting. "Prince of peace." As a king He preserves, commands, creates peace. His peace both keeps the hearts of His people and rules in them.

IV. The Messianic kingdom (v. 7). 7. "Of the increase," etc. The government shall increase in numbers, in power, in the completeness of its rule. It shall increase in the blessings it bestows. It is like the powers of nature, which are exhaustless. There is no limit to their application to the uses of man. With all our marvelous inventions and discoveries of what nature can do, we have yet gathered but a few rays from the world of light, a few sprays from the ocean of blessings God has in store for man. "Throne of David." To sit upon the throne of David means to reign over the true people of God, and in this sense Christ sat on David's throne. "To order it." To rule it. "From henceforth even for ever." Only such a kingdom can endure. Nothing is really settled till it is settled right. The powers of evil seem very strong, but every one is doomed to fall before Christ.

Killed by Bullet Wound.

With a bullet hole in his right side W. D. Johnson was found dead in North Birmingham, Ala., with nothing to show who fired the shot.

Garrison's Anniversary.

The 100th anniversary of the birth of William Lloyd Garrison was observed in Boston, Mass., and New York City.

Takahira Off For Japan.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese Minister, left Washington, D. C., for Tokio.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

A MERRY Christmas to one and all.

THE Montgomery Advertiser treated us to a Christmas edition of 100 pages filled with good reading matter.

THE Christmas edition of the Montgomery Journal, 72 pages containing some interesting articles by the State editors.

THE County Commissioner met together Monday for the purpose of making bond in the matter of appeal to the supreme court in the mandamus case of the Southern railway company against the commissioners. This is in relation to the special bridge tax.

THE National Ginners' Association report, which was issued Tuesday makes the amount of cotton ginned up to December 13 to be 8,975,520 bales. Based on this report the crop is estimated at 9,500-000 bales, but as these are running bales, which are lighter than last year's, there is not likely to be a crop in excess of 9,250,000 bales of net 500 pounds.

National aid to highways improvement is no dream. It stands upon practical reason and the true philosophy of government. No nation has ever enjoyed improved highways that did not build or help to build them. It is a recognized function of government everywhere in civilization except here, and is recognized by this government in our outlying possessions. It will be so recognized as applying to the States if the people who already believe in it will get to work in earnest with their Senators and Representatives along the lines we have so many times indicated. The most effective way the citizen can find of impressing his wishes on the national law-makers is to write them earnest personal letters. Petitions of neighborhoods should also be sent in, to be presented to Congress. Public meetings should be held at which interchange of views can be had. Talking to one's neighbor tends to stir activity in the community. The papers of the country are doing a great deal in pressing the Brownlow-Latimer bill for attention in Congress, and if the people will move in the matter as suggested, the needed legislation will follow.

STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The third annual meeting of the Alabama Horticultural Society will be held at Thorsby January 30 and 31, 1906. The citizens of Thorsby offer free entertainment to all members of the society. An interesting program is being arranged. The help of persons interested in fruit, vegetables or flowers is requested. The railroads offer a rate of a fare and one-third, plus 25 cents, if fifty members present 50 standard form certificates.

UPCHURCH DRUG CO.

Tell Why They Endorse Vinol So Highly.

First: Vinol contains in a concentrated form all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil to nauseate and upset the stomach, and retard its work, therefore where old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good Vinol will do far more good.

Second: Because Vinol is not a patent or secret medicine; it contains no injurious drugs to react upon the system, and you know just what you are taking, as everything it contains is printed on the back label of every bottle.

Third: Because Vinol acts first upon the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, and in a natural manner health is restored, and strength is created.

Fourth: Since we first put Vinol on the market our admiration for it has steadily increased, because it rarely disappoints a customer, in fact, we can truthfully say we never sold a medicine more satisfactory to create strength for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers and to build up strength after a severe sickness.

Again Vinol is endorsed by eminent physicians and guaranteed by over two thousand of the leading druggists of this country. These are some of the reasons why we believe in Vinol. Upchurch Drug co.

BEAUTY.

The rose of Florida emits no fragrance, the bird of Paradise, the most beautiful of birds, gives no songs, the cypress of Greece, the finest of trees, yields no fruit. Dandies, the shiniest of men, generally have no sense; they are not good for much, but are good for something. A dandy of fashion is said to be the mercer's friend, the tailor's fool and his own foe.

What is womanhood? Is there any more important question for young women to consider than this? It should be the highest ambition of every young woman to possess a true womanood. Earth presents no higher object of attainment; to be a woman is the truest and highest sense of the word; it is to be the best thing beneath the skies. To be a woman is something more than to live fifteen or twenty years, something more than to grow to the physical stature of woman; something more than to wear flounces, exhibit dry goods, sport jewelry, catch the gaze of loud men; something more than to be a belle. Put all these qualifications together and they do but little toward making a true woman.

Beauty is a dangerous gift. It is even so much like wealth it has ruined its thousands. Thousands of most beautiful women are destitute of common sense and common humanity. No gift from heaven is so generally and so widely abused by woman as the gift of beauty. In about nine times out of ten cases it makes her silly, senseless, thoughtless, giddy, vain, proud, frivolous, selfish, low and mean. I think I have seen more girls spoiled by beauty than by any other one thing. She is beautiful and she knows it, it is much as to say she is spoiled. A beautiful girl is likely to believe she was made to be looked at. Young lady, would you be admired and beloved? Would you be an ornament to your sex and a blessing to your race? Cultivate these heavenly virtues. Wealth may surround you with its blandishments, and beauty, learning or talents may give you admirers, but love and kindness alone can captivate the heart. Whether you live in a cottage or a palace, these graces can surround you with perpetual sunshine making you and all around you happy. C. G. M.

In the House of Representatives, December 5, 1905, Mr. Bowie introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post-Roads and ordered to be printed.

A BILL

to increase pay of mail carriers on rural free-delivery routes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That on and after the passage of this Act the compensation of mail carriers upon all rural free-delivery mail routes over twenty miles in length shall be upon the basis and at the rate of eight hundred and forty dollars per annum, and each carrier shall be entitled to a two weeks' leave of absence in each year: Provided, That for routes less than twenty miles in length the pay shall be such part of said sum of eight hundred and forty dollars as the length thereof shall bear to twenty miles.

Sec. 2. That said sum shall be paid to said carriers in twelve monthly payments, on the last day of each month.

DON'T forget to pay your poll tax; you will be glad of it next year.

EDUCATION.

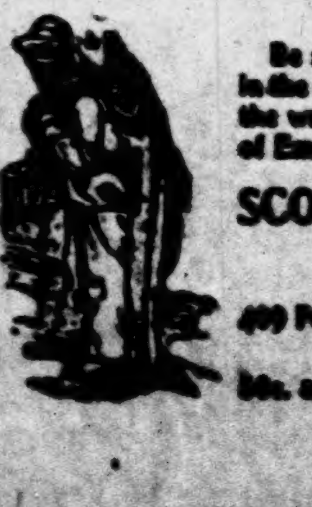
Education is a necessity to success in this day and generation. It is not an ornament to be worn by those who are born to plenty and who have inherited wealth or refined and sumptuous surroundings. The environment of riches is not necessary to the acquirement of those valuable and lasting possessions—a well informed mind, a trained intellect and a knowledge of events, both past and present. The poor man should give his children the opportunity of receiving the education offered them by the public schools to the utmost extent of his ability. He had better go to the extreme of economy in providing the necessities and comforts of living, both for himself and his family, rather than deprive his children of the mental food and intellectual nourishment so necessary to these developments and success. To educate is to energize the faculties, to elevate the conception and to magnify the results from every effort in all lines of work. It does not follow that because a child is educated he must of necessity leave the farm, spurn the factory or shun the shop. Not by any means. One educated farmer or mechanic is worth two or three ignorant ones, provided he has character back of his education, and it is to people of character of course, that we appeal for a more determined effort to educate their children. Without character and some degree of natural intelligence education is worthless. But by far the larger percentage of the children of our land, perhaps 90 per cent of them, have sufficient mental endowment, since that is born in them, to appropriate and make use of an education. Every parent should see to it that his children are educated at least to the fartherest limit of his ability to provide the ways and means for so doing. Not only should he send his children to school and encourage them in every possible way to attend regularly and study assiduously, but he should certainly impress them with the prime importance of it and the great advantage it will be to them in future when they start out in life as men and women. Educate the young and whatever their sphere or work, or however discouraging their position in life it will enable them to make the most of these opportunities and accomplish the best results attainable in their respective lines of effort; it will be a lamp that will light them through the dark places of difficulty and indecision and show them the way to the sunlight of success and achievement. It will serve as a staff of support upon which they can lean, as they move out from the plains of purpose and ambition and begin to climb the hills of endeavor and competition. With it they will have a fair chance of reaching the high places of actual accomplishment and of stretching their tents of plenty and peacefulness upon the very pinacle of prosperity and renown. Give the children the compass of education and the chart of information with which to mark out their course over the uncertain sea of life. The shores of time are thickly strewn with the debris of human hulks, which are the only reminders of those souls who started out on the life voyage and lost their way because they had neither chart nor compass—uneducated, uninformed, unprepared. T. L. ELAM.

All Run Down

THIS is a common expression we hear on every side. Unless there is some organic trouble, the condition can doubtless be remedied. Your doctor is the best adviser. Do not dose yourself with all kinds of advertised remedies—get his opinion. More than likely you need a concentrated fat food to enrich your blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

is just such a food in its best form. It will build up the weakened and wasted body when all other foods fail to nourish. If you are run down or emaciated, give it a trial: it cannot hurt you. It is essentially the best possible nourishment for delicate children and pale, anaemic girls. We will send you a sample free.



Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE
Chemists
409 Pearl Street, New York

50c. and $1. All Druggists

Help! Help! I'm Falling

Thus cried the hair. And a kind neighbor came to the rescue with a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. The hair was saved! In gratitude, it grew long and heavy, and with all the deep, rich color of early life. Sold in all parts of the world for sixty years.

"About one year ago I lost nearly all of my hair following an attack of measles. I was advised by a friend to use Ayer's Hair Vigor. I did so, and as a result I now have a beautiful head of hair."—MRS. W. J. BROWN, Menomonee Falls, Wis.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

A Certain Cure For Croup

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Jemison.

Mrs. Hannah D. Chaffee, Grand Matron Order Eastern Star, spent Friday in Jemison, where she installed the officers of Jemison Chapter No. 44:

Mrs. Laura Jackson, Worthy Matron; Mr. D. L. Langston, Worthy Patron; Miss Mae Honeycutt, Associate Matron; Mrs. Ada Langston, Secretary; Miss Bertha Adams, Treasurer; Miss Mattie Patton, Conductress; Miss Bertha Johnson, Associate Conductress; Mrs. Dora Reynolds, Ada; Miss Callie Cooper, Ruth; Mrs. Dora Crysell, Esther; Mrs. Ellen Martin, Martha; Mrs. Ellen Kasberry, Electa; Miss Mattie Ware, Warden; Mrs. Julia Langford, Chaplain; Mrs. Gaines, Sentinel.

Miss Mae Honeycutt entertained Mrs. Chaffee, and the members of the Chapter are satisfied they will accomplish good work in the order. The Chapter was organized August 31, 1905, the birthday of Robert Morris, founder of the Order of the Eastern Star.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Dec. 18, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

Henry A Brown, B. C. Baker.

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. Druslller Kelley.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Jan. 1, 1906, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Fearful Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle, with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold, under guarantee to do the same for you, by Upchurch Drug co., at 50c. a bottle. Try them today.

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court. Seventh District. Northeastern Division. No. [illegible] in vacation, [illegible].
Thomas Burnett, Complainant, vs. Martha B Burnett, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. M. Adams, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Martha B. Burnett, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post-office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Martha B. Burnett, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Martha B. Burnett, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the [illegible] day of January, [illegible], and failing so to do within [illegible] days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this [illegible] day of December, [illegible]. [illegible], Register in Chancery.
Wm. M. Adams,
Solicitor for Complainant.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Discount

Liberal long time loans on Improve Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Proper ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cot ton being held now, either on farms or i warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pric
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per ga
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.0
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.5
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.0
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.0
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.5
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.0
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.0

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - AL

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

VOL. XIV

MRS. SANTA CLAUS.

UNCLE SAM'S DEAD LETTER EX PERT GUIDES STRAY CHRIST- MAS GREETINGS.

Sends out Many Presents to Childre —Has a Remarkable Memory an Knowledge, and Deciphers the mos Puzzling Addresses.

Tucked away in a little corner o the Postoffice Department at Washing ton behind a desk which has held thousand interesting stories sits charming white haired woman who known the length and breadth of the land as "Mrs. Santa Claus."

The woman to whom this suggestive ly dear name has been given is Mrs

MRS. "SANTA CLAUS"

Patti Lyle Collins, head of the "Open ing and Unmailable Division" of the Postoffice Department.

Each holiday season brings to her desk thousands and thousands of "Santa Claus" letters and were she of the ordinary type of clerk, thinking only of the salary she draws twice a month, these letters might go into Uncle Sam's waste basket without so much as a thought for the writers.

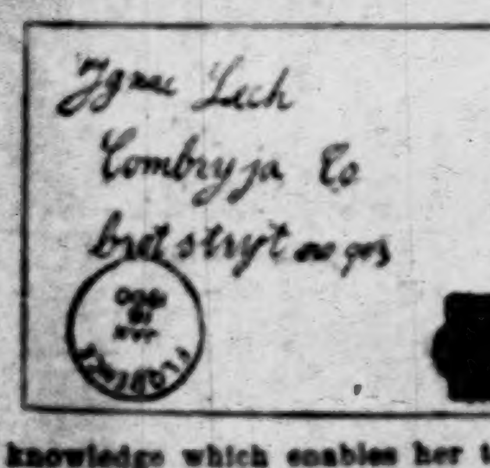
Not so with Mrs. Collins. Through her generous heart, her love for children and, possibly, with a memory or two of her own when she, too, believed in the real existence of the children's patron saint, this lovable woman attends first to her duties of returning the letters to their writers if this is possible and then she plays "Mrs Santa Claus" to her army of little friends.

Christmas Presents to the Children

When such a thing is possible Mrs Collins finds out the addresses of these children, sends them some little thing they have asked for and gets he friends interested in them until sh has now earned the title which cam to her so long ago merely through her associations with this part of Uncle Sam's postoffice.

This is rather the sentimental side of Mrs. Collins' work, but there is an other and scientific phase of it which has made her invaluable to the Gov ernment. She is the official chiro graphical expert of the Departme and through her efforts each yea ninety per cent. of mail matter bea ing manifestly indecipherable ad dresses finds its way to the person t whom it is addressed.

Mrs. Collins is a linguist and a dee student. Added to this she has store away in her brain a fund of genera



Jgnac Lech
Combryja Co
bretstryt [illegible]

knowledge which enables her to solv problems which would puzzle a hun dred other heads. Her knowledge o streets in various cities of Europe le to her compilation of a street director of its countries.

The value of Mrs. Collins' work i ferreting out addresses is all the mor notable when it is considered that each postoffice in all the large cities has division especially set apart for de ciphering illegible and otherwise puz zling addresses. So after this has bee done letters which are still unclaime are sent to the postoffice at Washing ton.

Knows All Languages.

Mrs. Collins has made such a stud of this rather psychological work tha she knows just what section of th country, even to the cities, in whic [illegible] nationalities have settled. Sh [illegible] the Japanes [illegible] the Chinese, Greeks, Spaniards, Italian [illegible] all the rest of them. [illegible] This particular talent has enabled Mrs. Collins to decipher many a lette which would have been otherwise un

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 10

MRS. SANTA CLAUS.

UNCLE SAM'S DEAD LETTER EXPERT GUIDES STRAY CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

Sends out Many Presents to Children Has a Remarkable Memory and Knowledge, and Deciphers the most Puzzling Addresses.

Tucked away in a little corner of the Postoffice Department at Washington behind a desk which has held a thousand interesting stories sits a charming white haired woman who is known the length and breadth of the land as "Mrs. Santa Claus."

MRS. "SANTA CLAUS"

The woman to whom this suggestively dear name has been given is Mrs. Patti Lyle Collins, head of the "Opening and Unmailable Division" of the Postoffice Department.

Each holiday season brings to her desk thousands and thousands of "Santa Claus" letters and were she of the ordinary type of clerk, thinking only of the salary she draws twice a month, these letters might go into Uncle Sam's waste basket without so much as a thought for the writers.

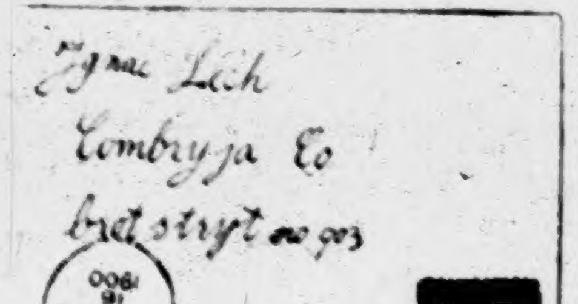
Not so with Mrs. Collins. Through her generous heart, her love for children and, possibly, with a memory or two of her own when she, too, believed in the real existence of the children's patron saint, this lovable woman attends first to her duties of returning the letters to their writers if this is possible and then she plays "Mrs. Santa Claus" to her army of little friends.

Christmas Presents to the Children

When such a thing is possible Mrs. Collins finds out the addresses of these children, sends them some little thing they have asked for and gets her friends interested in them until she has now earned the title which came to her so long ago merely through her associations with this part of Uncle Sam's postoffice.

This is rather the sentimental side of Mrs. Collins' work, but there is another and scientific phase of it which has made her invaluable to the Government. She is the official chirographical expert of the Department and through her efforts each year ninety per cent. of mail matter bearing manifestly indecipherable addresses finds its way to the person to whom it is addressed.

Mrs. Collins is a linguist and a deep student. Added to this she has stored away in her brain a fund of general knowledge which enables her to solve problems which would puzzle a hundred other heads. Her knowledge of streets in various cities of Europe led to her compilation of a street directory of its countries.



Ygnac Lech
Combryja Co
brot stryt no 903

FLORENCE JAN 16 1900

The value of Mrs. Collins' work in ferreting out addresses is all the more valuable when it is considered that each postoffice in all the large cities has a division especially set apart for deciphering illegible and otherwise puzzling addresses. So after this has been done letters which are still unclaimed are sent to the postoffice at Washington.

Knows All Languages.

Mrs. Collins has made such a study of this rather psychological work that she knows just what section of the country, even to the cities, in which various nationalities have settled. She can put her finger on the Japanese, the Chinese, Greeks, Spaniards, Italians and all the rest of them.

This particular talent has enabled Mrs. Collins to decipher many a letter which would have been otherwise unintelligible. Among the hundreds of such which she received the other day was one addressed to "Ygnac Lech, Combryja Co, brot stryt no 903, Szanony Pan."

How many, or rather how few, people would have known how to go about locating this person. The letter was postmarked Florence. Mrs. Collins' own store of information told her that the Cambria Iron Works of Johnstown, Pa., was employing a large number of Italians and she sent the letter on. Sure enough Mr. "Yanac Lech" was there and received the letter which, without Mrs. Collins' assistance would never have fallen into his hands.

A facetious student at the University of Virginia wrote to a young society girl in Washington and addressed the envelope entirely in Greek. It takes greater obstacles than that to balk Mrs. Collins and the young woman received her letter as promptly as if it had been addressed in the most legible English hand. The list of such letters is almost unlimited in length. A Spaniard sent a letter to "Sr. Fernado Maya, Fuerte galen Colo" and it was promptly forwarded to Mr. Maya at "Fort Garland, Colorado."

Mrs. Collins is a charming woman and occupies a tiny apartment in one of Washington's fashionable apartment houses.

Senator Harris Balked.

Henry Clay Evans, late consul general at London, was once in Congress from Tennessee and knows all the eminent men of that State. He was telling a good story the other night of Col. Sandford and Major Saunders, prominent business men of the Knoxville region. They were once on a Pullman coming this way. It was hot and they sat in pajamas far into the night. An old man came in, lighted a cigar, smoked and said nothing. They did not recognize him, and kept on talking about the miserably poor representation, their State had in Congress. "It is a pity," said one of them "that a State like ours should have such poor worthless men at Washington. Our senators are no good, old Harris is played out and Josiah Patterson is the only man in the House that amounts to anything." At this remark the stranger arose and in a tone of thunder began to hurl invective and abuse at the two men. "It is about time I was taking part in this conversation," he yelled and went on to tell a few warm things to the astonished party of two. When he had subsided a bit one of them asked, "But who are you to get so mad about it?" "Who am I? Well, I am Senator Harris, ding you, and I have much more to say to scoundrels like you." Both men were amazed and they hastened to apologise. They all became friendly, and the old man often told the story on himself.

POLITICAL TAXATION.

LEGISLATION LIKELY REQUIRING PUBLICATION OF ALL LARGE CONTRIBUTIONS.

Such a Bill, Introduced Last Year, was Looked upon as a Crank Measure—Will be on a Different Basis This Session.

Exposure of the practice of the great life insurance companies and other corporations, of making contributions to political campaign funds and of devoting large amounts of money to influence legislation will bring before the next session of congress the question of the passage of a bill similar to that introduced at the last session by Representative Bourke Cockran, of New York, and familiarly known as the "Corrupt Practice" bill. It may not be that this bill will be taken up and given the serious consideration which it was denied at the last session, but that a bill containing provisions of the same general description as those of the Cockran bill will be introduced and pressed to a vote is a moral certainty.

The Cockran bill provided that every contribution of more than $50 to a national campaign fund should be reported to the clerk of the district court of the United States. Criminal penalties were provided for violations of the law.

Looked Upon as a Cockran Oddity.

The bill was treated with derision last winter, both by the daily press and by gentlemen of the House of Representatives, the Senate and Third House. It was worth a laugh, people said. There was very little corruption, they averred. The idea that corporations employed legislative agents and disbursed huge sums of money for or against certain bills was moonshine doled out by sensationalists to gratify the morbid fancy and the appetite for scandal of a peculiar class of people.

The legislative inquiry into the affairs and conduct of the Equitable Life and Mutual insurance companies at New York seems to have placed the matter of campaign contributions and legislative disbursements in other than a humorous light. It matters not whether the corporations come forward voluntarily with their contributions to campaign funds or whether they are solicited and hounded by campaign collectors until they contribute—the result is the same.

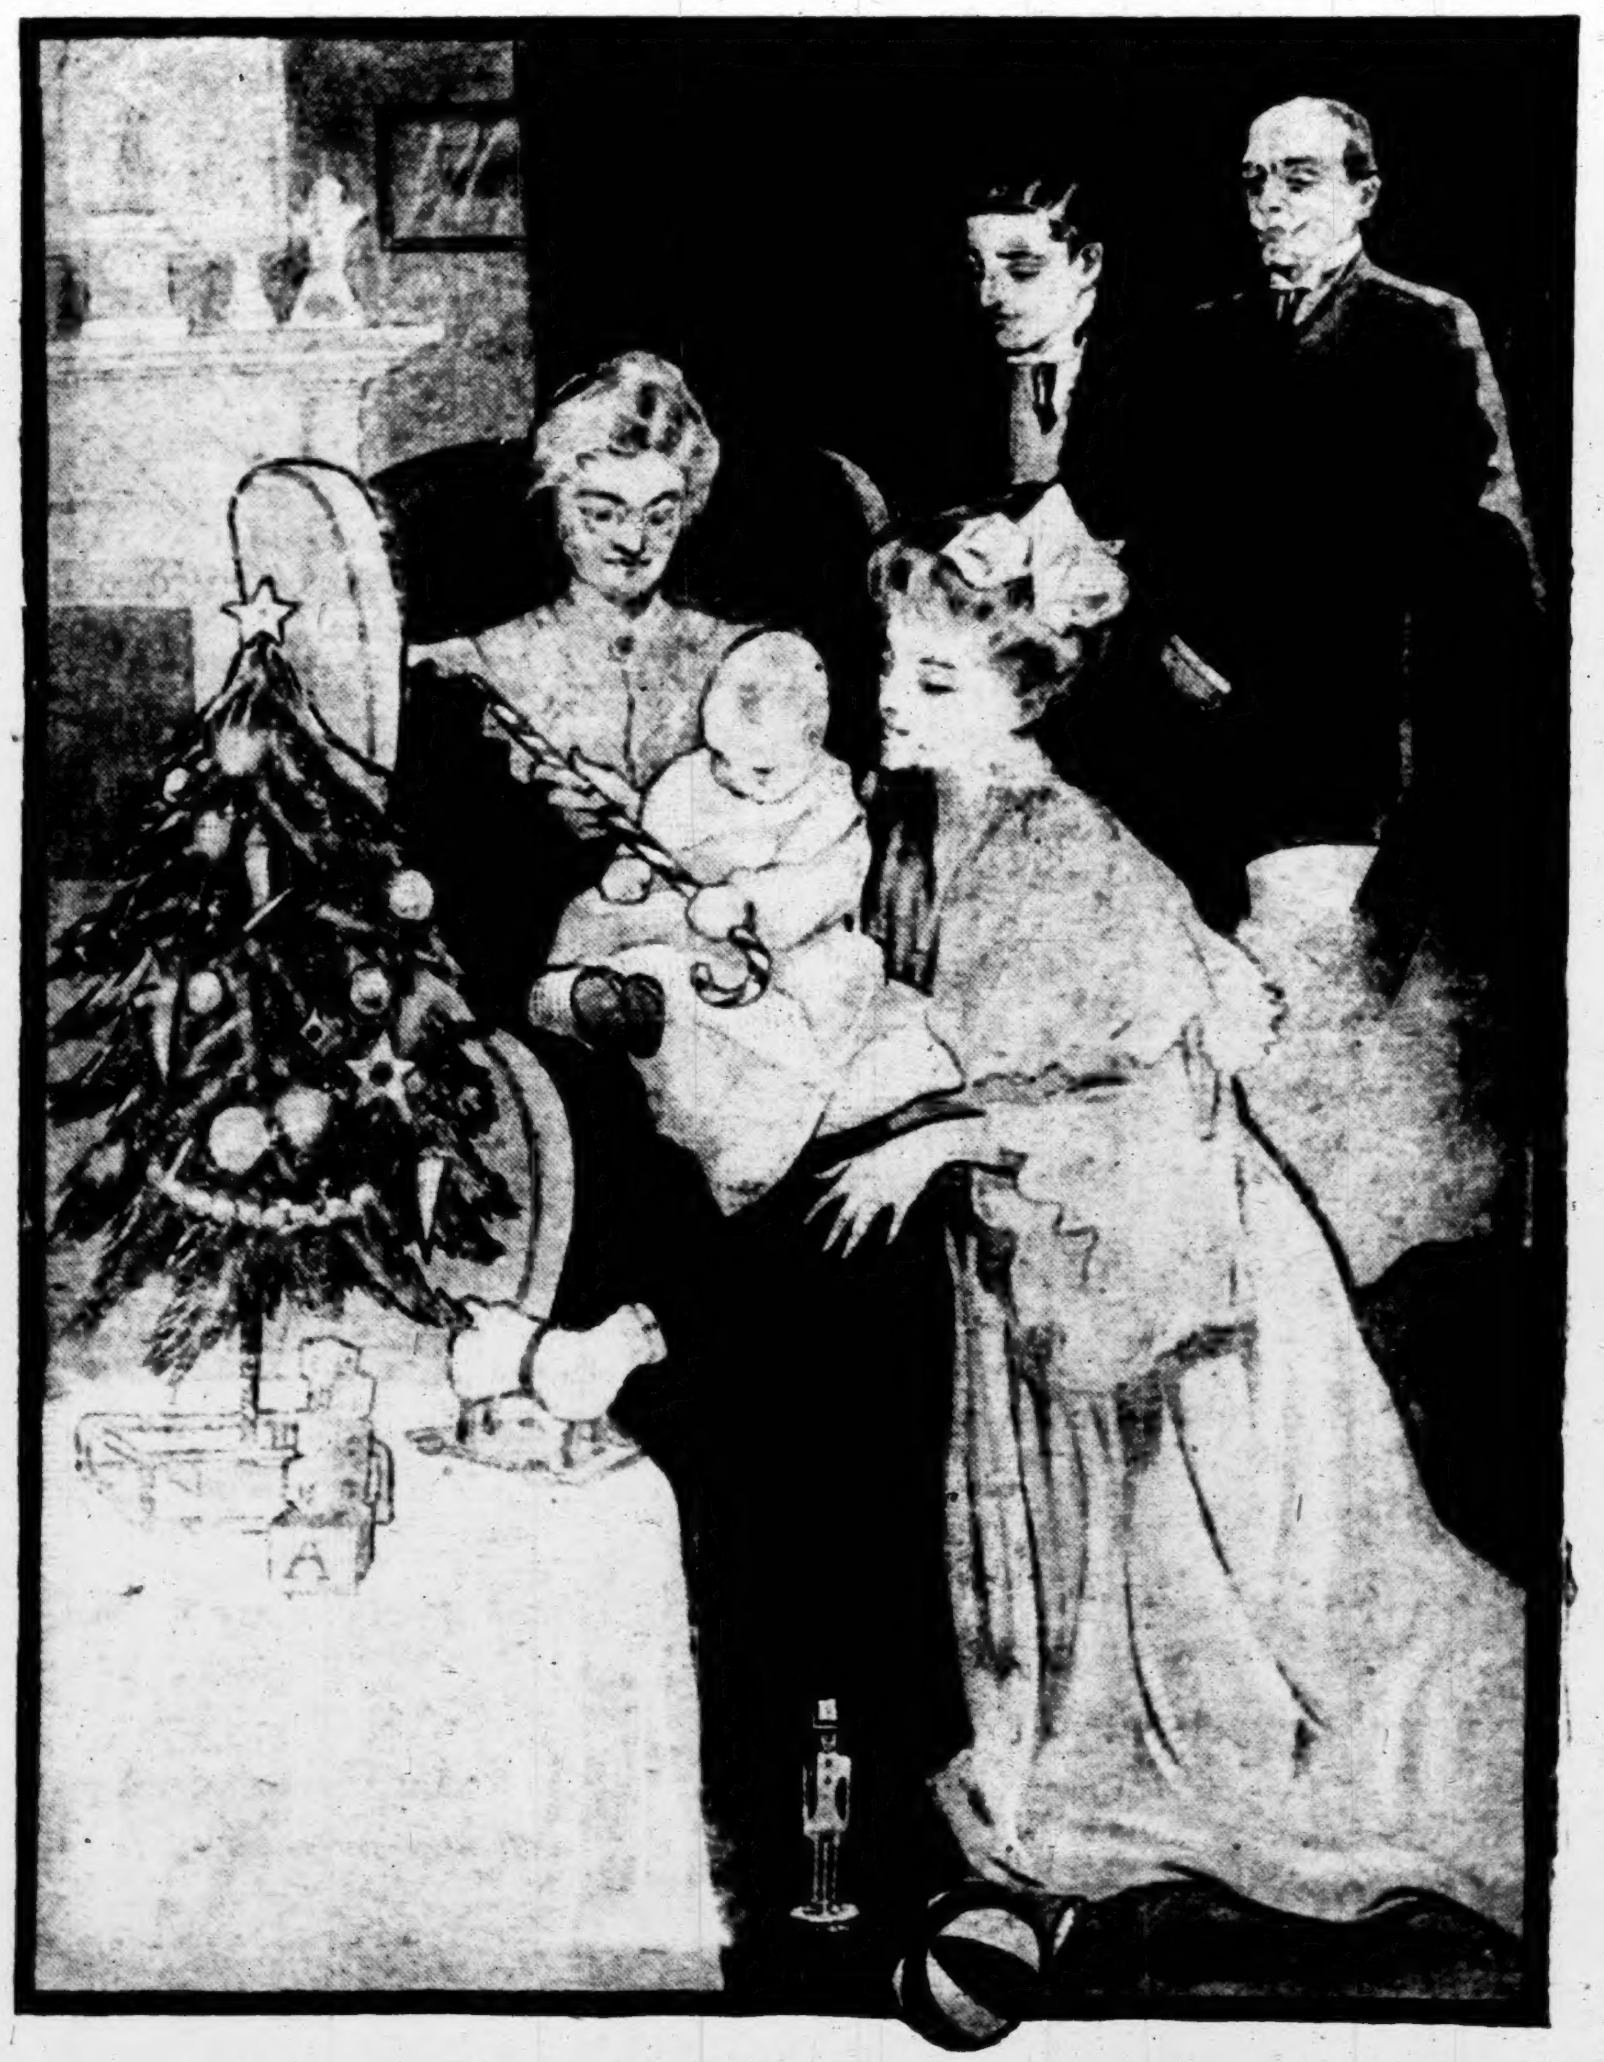
Vice-president Gillette of the Mutual Life Insurance Company testified that his company contributed $92,500 of the policy holders' money to the republican committees in the last three presidential campaigns, and John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company admitted that he had contributed $150,000 of the company's funds to the same committees. In fact the big companies have frequently been contributors to both political parties.

Public May Demand Legislation.

There are two questions involved in any fair consideration of these disclosures. The first is the desirability of corporations taking such an active and influential part in political campaigns and the second is the morality of corporation officers making contributions on their own initiative out of funds that are really trust funds.

Of course a law can be made prohibiting campaign contributions by insurance companies or other corporations. This may correct the abuse or it may not. Laws are not always obeyed or enforced. There, for example are the laws of Moses. The world has been violating them for thousands of years. It might be considered fair if the directors of every insurance company, savings bank, trust company or other corporation handling the people's money, would adopt a rule forbidding absolutely all such contributions and holding every officer financially and morally responsible for its observance. Second, political candidates and committees could announce that they would neither solicit nor receive contributions.

Public sentiment is rapidly crystalizing into the conviction that corporate contributions should either be made impossible or else required to be made in such public fashion that they would be robbed of their baneful effect.



Baby's First Christmas.

Long, long ago the Wise Men, we are told,
Laden with Myrrh and frankincense and gold,
Journeyed afar, and found the Shepherd's fold
On the first Christmas Day.

And now both young and old, with shining eyes
Gather to watch their Baby's glad surprise,
His ecstasies, his joy, his gleeful cries,
On his first Christmas day.

Oh Baby, Baby, may thy life be sweet;
May God-sent angels guide thy little feet;
May every day to come be as complete
As thy first Christmas day.

Foote's Farrago.

Foote, the comedian, when a young person of either sex applied for a position, seldom refused outright, but gravely handed them the following lines, and asked them to commit and repeat them to him correctly in ten minutes. If repeated with no error, he promptly took them for trial.

That there could be no collusion with those who applied later, he frequently changed the order of the lines and the proper names:

So she went into the garden to cut a cabbage leaf to make an apple pie and at that time a great she-bear coming up the street pops its head into the shop. What, no soap? So he died and she very impudently married the barber: and there were present the Picninnies, and the Joblilies and the Garyulies and the great Panjandrum himself with the little round button at the top, and they fell to playing the game of "catch as catch can," till the gunpowder ran out the heels of their boots.

The popularity of "Trilby" for a time exceeded that of any novel published, with the possible exception of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

NEW PONTOON BRIDGES.

Collapsible Boats of Canvas Which Can be Carried by One Man.

The soldiers of the United States Engineers' Corps seem to have solved one of the greatest problems which has confronted generals in command of an army when on the march. Small unfordable streams are often encountered by the army and these must be crossed in the shortest time possible. In fact large rivers often confront an army when about to give battle to the enemy, and it would take weeks, if not months, to construct even temporary bridges to allow the men with their heavy armaments to cross. The pontoon boat, of course, is well known to every reader of history, for this most useful auxiliary came into great use during the war of the Rebellion. The pontoon train, however, is a very cumbersome affair when the ordinary flat bottom boat with the necessary timbers and accessories are packed on to what is known as the "pontoon train." The German army recently adopted a sort of sectional pontoon boat which allowed of greater mobility to the train.

However, the soldiers of the United States Engineer Battalion have been drilling in the use of pontoon boats made of heavy canvass stretched over a wooden frame. These boats are water-tight and when assembled are capable of supporting six or more men. A boat may be taken apart and packed into a small bundle light enough to be carried by one man. Upon arrival at a small stream all that is necessary is for each man to unstrap his bundle, quickly put the boat into shape, and launch it into the water. The wagons which must necessarily carry the timbering and flooring of the bridge to be, can be sent forward with a much smaller guard than is necessary when the cumbersome pontoon train wagons, each carrying a boat or section, are in motion.

One Good Use for Millionaires.

Regret has been often expressed regarding the threatened extinction of many species of wild animals.

Of late, however, some of the world's millionaires have begun to devote their attention to the task of preserving them, and numbers of wealthy men have established or endowed parks and private zoological gardens, in which buffaloes, antelopes, giraffes, gnus, and other dwindling species are carefully cherished. In some cases herds of bison are kept, after the fashion of deer, on the estates of great landowners.

Nor are Europe and Asia behindhand. Large preserves of big game are to be found in France and Germany, and in England the Duke of Bedford has made a wonderful collection of wild animals at Woburn Park. It comprises many rare animals, including waterbuck, gnus, sable antelopes, and some almost extinct species of deer.

Strong on Details.

"'Rastus, where's that rake?"

"De rake's wid de hoe, Marster.

"Well, then, where's the hoe?"

"Marster, de hoe's wid de rake."

"Well, 'Rastus, confound it, where are they both?"

"Dey's boff togedder, Marster. 'Pears like youse pow'ful tickler 'bout details dis mawnin'. You leave de regulatin' of all dat to me, Marster, and I'll look out fo' yo' interests."

Time to Move.

Oh that I were where I would be,
Then would I be where I am not,
For where I am, I would not be,
And where I could be, I cannot.

WHITE HOUSE XMAS DINNER.

THE ROOSEVELT FAMILY CELEBRATES IN THE GOOD OLD-FASHIONED WAY.

Always Have Huge Rhode Island Turkey Which is not Spoiled by French Cooks. President Himself Does the Carving.

Old fashioned cooks and old fashioned cookery hold the fort in the White House kitchen at Christmastide. When the President and Mrs. Roosevelt give one of their great state dinners to eighty or one hundred guests, they usually entrust all the preparations to professional caterers, but when it comes to the dinner which is pre-eminently the home meal of the year the French chefs have to give way to women who know just how to prepare the generous wholesome dishes that an American citizen looks forward to finding on his dinner table on the joyous holiday. President Roosevelt also shows a fondness for carving the turkey himself.

THE PRESIDENT'S TURKEY

A good old fashioned Christmas dinner, moreover, with all the essentials from turkey to plum pudding is a regular institution at the White House during the present administration. Perhaps President Roosevelt, with his assertive good health and his family of lively young folks, are particuly well qualified to appreciate a rousing yule-tide feast, but whatever be the reason certain it is that during the Roosevelt regime the Christmas repast has become one of the most important as well as one of the jolliest meals of the year.

To Be Family Reunion.

President Roosevelt and his family follow the general policy of all previous occupants of the White House in observing Christmas as a family festival. This year it will have especial significance as a reunion, since of late months the junior members of the Roosevelt household have been scattered as never before, by reason of their attendance at different schools and colleges. The Roosevelt Christmas, while a family affair, is by no means confined to the immediate household. The Roosevelt children have long been allowed to entertain their numerous cousins on Christmas and other relatives are likewise in attendance, while the President and Mrs. Roosevelt usually ask a few personal friends to also join the party.

Christmas dinner at the White House is served in the evening and the President arouses an appetite for it by

(Continued on next page.)

Do You Use Acetylene?

if so,

We Want to Send You

A SAMPLE BURNER

We believe we have the very best and the cheapest line of Acetylene Burners. Our sample will show better than we can explain how why it would pay you to use our burners.

Write us to-day, mention kind of Generator used, enclose 6 cents in stamps to cover postage, and we will send you

A Sample Burner

W. M. CRANE COMPANY

1131-33 BROADWAY

Room 16 New York, N. Y.

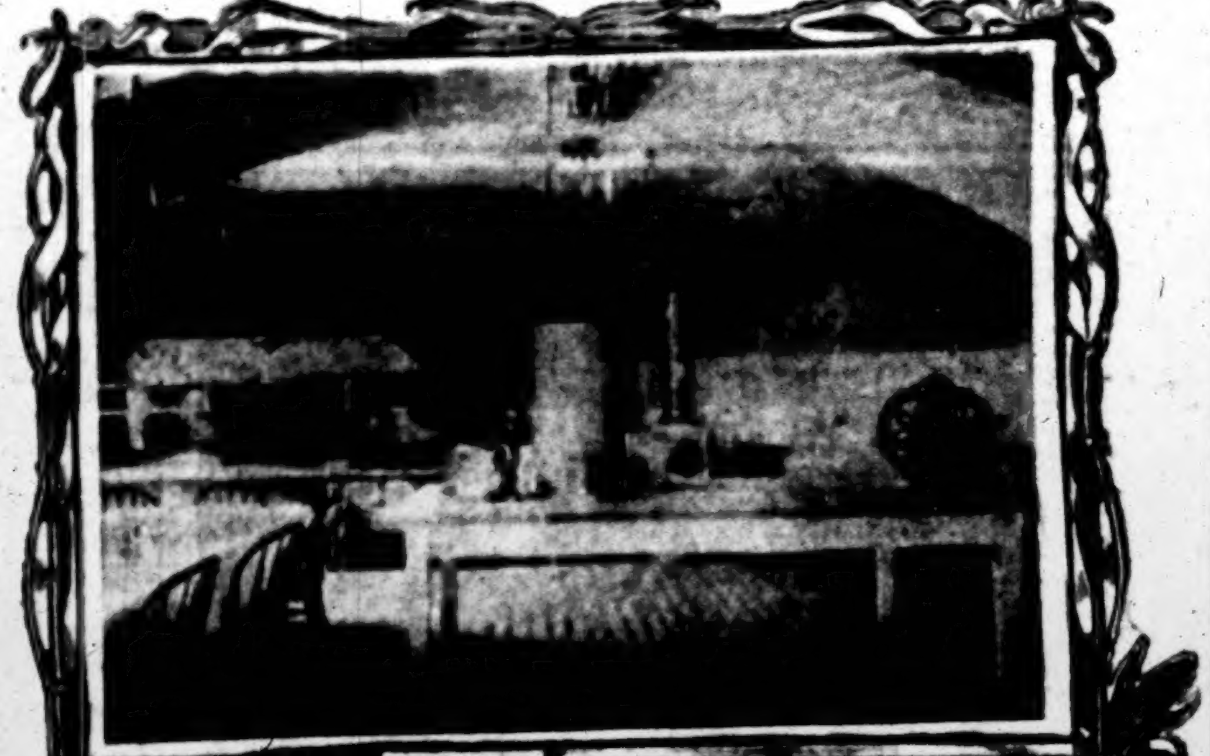
a long horseback ride during the afternoon. While the Chief Executive usually goes to his office Christmas morning to give attention to the more important affairs of state that may be pressing for attention the remainder of the day is given over to a holiday vacation and thus he is enabled to devote more time than usual to his daily horseback ride. The President's Christmas excursion also differs from his ordinary daily outing in that instead of being attended, as is usually the case, by the army sergeant, who acts as the President's orderly, he is accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt or by a party of personal friends.

The dinner to which the President and his family and guests sit down about 7 o'clock in the evening is served in the private dining room which is located in the northeast corner of the White House. The state dining room where are served all the great banquets given at the Presidential Mansion, is spacious and imposing but lacking in that coziness and cheer which is essential to a Christmas feast and so the Xmas dinner party, which numbers perhaps fourteen to sixteen persons is served with the traditional yule-tide delicacies in the family or private dining room.

Colored Waiters at the White House.

The scene of the President's Christmas dinner is the smallest room on the main floor of the White House, although it is fully twice as large as the dining room in the average private residence in the land. The room is in the Colonial style with white walls and woodwork and is furnished with rare old pieces of mahogany furniture most of which were discovered by Mrs. Roosevelt in out-of-the-way localities in Virginia and Maryland. The dinner is served by colored waiters and the table is laid with Mrs. Roosevelt's new china—delicate ware tastefully ornamented with a Colonial pattern in gold, each piece bearing a tiny representation of the seal of the United States in colors.

The dinner is prepared in the refitted White House kitchens, which are located in the basement directly below the private dining room. There are two kitchens, one about 25 by 40 feet in size and, opening from it, a smaller kitchen of about one-half the size. Ordinarily the equipment of the smaller or family kitchen is sufficient for the preparation of the dinner for a select party at the Executive Mansion, but at Christmas the great hooded range in the larger tiled kitchen is brought into use for the roasting of the thirty-pound Christmas turkey, sent by Horace Vose, the Rhode Island farmer who for thirty-five years past has sent each year a magnificent specimen of the king of fowls for the President's Christmas dinner.



Where the Turkey is Cooked.

President's Private Dining Room.

Gobblers from Far and Wide.

Indeed, the President's Christmas dinner does not cost him very much, for Uncle Sam pays the wages of many of the White House employees who have a hand in preparing it and almost all of the "goodies" which grace the festive board are donated by admiring friends of the President. Not only does Horace Vose send a prize-winning turkey, but gobblers that rival it in size come from poultry raisers in other sections of the country, and there are donations of cranberries from Cape Cod, a parcel of the famous "Roosevelt potatoes" sent by the farm hands on the President's estate at Oyster Bay and other delicacies sent by "neighbors" far and near.

Such marketing as is necessary to fill out the menu for the President's Christmas dinner is done by Henry Pinckney, a colored man who holds the position of White House Steward and draws a salary of $1,800 a year from the government for managing the domestic affairs at the White House. A day or two before Christmas Steward Pinckney sets out in the unpretentious vehicle which serves as the President's private market wagon and makes the round of the markets—for the White House patronage is not confined to any one merchant. In preparation for the Christmas dinner it is presumably not necessary to purchase any coffee, sugar, salt or other staples, for all such supplies for the Presidential mansion are purchased in quantity and kept in a storeroom adjoining the kitchen, which looks like a full-fledged grocery store.

All in all, the White House Christmas festival comes pretty near being a counterpart of the old-time, old-fashioned institution of our forefathers.

It is well on toward 8.30 o'clock 'ere the last piece of mince pie has disappeared, and then the entire party, from the President to Quentin, the youngest occupant of the White House, makes a bee line for the big East Room, where a rousing frolic winds up the holiday.

THE DESERT GROUSE.

KNOWN AS THE SAGE HEN AND COCK OF THE PLAINS, A TYPICAL AMERICAN BIRD.

Is the Largest of the Grouses and Feeds Mostly on Sage—Has a Handsome Coat of Plumes and Makes a Savory Roast.

The desert grouse is a representative American bird. It is, of course, not as exalted and heroic as the eagle, and is not spread over so wide an area as the common chicken, but for all that the desert grouse is typically American. The bird is more familiarly known to travelers, dwellers in the arid and semi-arid regions of the United States, and sportsmen, as the "sage hen," and, as a matter of course, where there are sage hens there are sage cocks. Often the bird is referred to as the prairie chicken, but the reference is inaccurate. It is a game bird of great beauty. It was named "Cock of the Plains" by Lewis and Clark who, though perhaps not the first whites to make the acquaintance of this bird, at least were the first white men to identify it as a distinct ornithological species and to pause long enough in the ardous business of exploration to give it a name.

Found Throughout the Arid Region.

It is seen in all the arid and semi-arid parts of the land where it has not been exterminated, and is very common in those great dry stretches of the continent where man has not crowded it to death and where the sage brush grows. To say that this bird has its home in the droughty regions of the United States is to say how extensively it is distributed, for everybody who knows anything about the country, knows how vast is that empire laid down on the early maps as "desert". The word desert as applied to the unwatered reaches of the west is misleading. On those deserts there is plenty of vegetation and animal life. Though in many places water is scarce, life may be easily sustained in these American deserts. Irrigation shows how fertile these lands are when the water is poured on. All over dry lands grows that wild shrub, called by botanists artemisia, but which everybody else calls sage brush.

Feeds Mostly on Sage.

No doubt it belongs to the same family as does the garden sage of the east. It has the dust-green color of sage, smells like sage, tastes like sage, and animals that feed on its leaves and yellow flowers flavor their flesh with sage. Well, wherever this plant grows the desert grouse may be found The grouse feeds and fattens on sage. There is nothing he likes better. He must have it. Let the sage be destroyed and the bird moves on. The desert grouse is the largest grouse of the western world and it is exceeded in size only by the great grouse of Europe—the capercailzie. It is very superior in size and strength to the common prairie hen or the pinnated grouse, usually weighing twice or thrice as much as that bird. It will measure two or three feet from tip of wing to tip. Living in a gray land, nature has provided for the protection of the bird by making it also gray. It is curious how nature looks after its creatures by making their color, as a rule, harmonize with the landscape. In grouse-land there is a great deal of alkali in the soil and over that grows the gray-green shrubbery. The sage grouse seeks its safety in concealment rather than in flight.

Handsome Though not Brilliant.

Though the general color effect of the grouse is gray yet it has markings of white and black. A large black patch underneath the bird's body is a feature of the desert grouse. On his shoulders he wears epauletts of white. The reason for these white shoulders is that in browsing through the sage brush all his days the heavy gray feathers are worn off, exposing the fine white nether feathers.

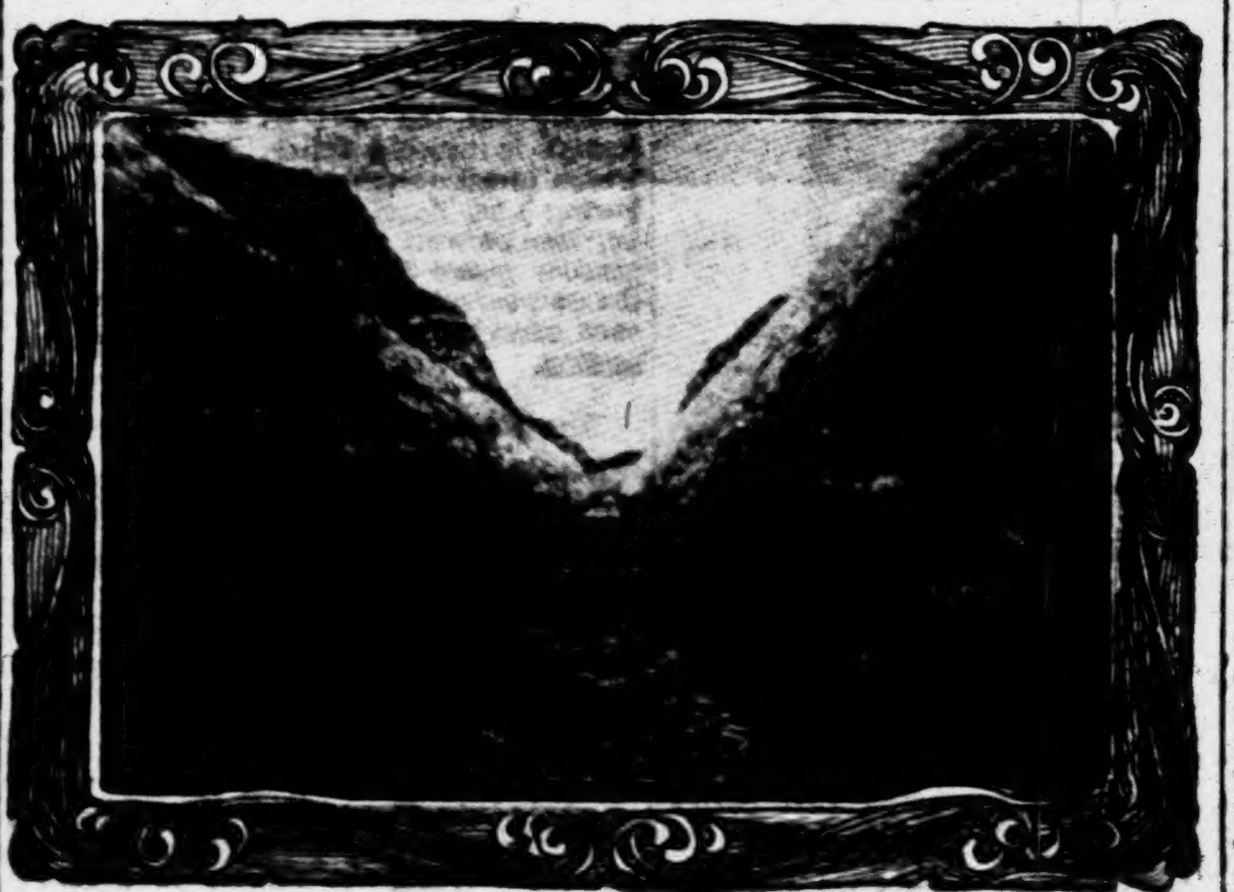
The grouse, though not a high-flyer and not so agile on the wing as his eastern cousin, possesses great leg power. He is active and speedy as a runner, rather quick to take fright and is an expert in losing himself among the brush. It should not be understood that these birds do not rise from cover. They often do. Hunters seek so to frighten the birds that they will rise. It is not difficult shooting then.

The grouse of the desert has that general grouse trait ,the "whirr". When he rises it is said that he whirrs louder than the eastern grouse. When thoroughly roused to his task he is a pretty strong flyer and can go a mile at a stretch, alternately sailing and flapping.

The flesh of the desert grouse is good when not too sagey. The young birds, when feeding on grass-hoppers, are unsurpassed for tenderness and flavor. The older birds, as with all the other feathered tribes, are not so tender as the young. When feeding exclusively on sage their flesh is strongly impregnated with the flavor of shrub, somewhat unpleasantly so. One is reminded of the taste of partridge meat when that bird has been feeding on resinous buds in the autumn.

He Trusted Rockefeller.

Dr. Gustav C. E. Weber, of Cleveland, Ohio, recently consul at Nuremburg is one of the pioneer doctors of his city. Years ago he was visited by a young man who required a surgical operation, but explained that he was only getting fifty dollars a month and would have to pay by installment. Weber said he would risk it and it took the youth about a year to pay up. The lad was John D. Rockefeller, and only a short time ago he sent for Weber, asking for medical advice, there having been a recurrence of the trouble for which Weber had operated forty years ago. Weber made an examination and told Mr. Rockefeller that any medical student could do it and that he himself was out of practice. Rockefeller opened a drawer, counted out $500, and handing the roll to Weber remarked, "It does not take so long to pay the bill this time." Weber declined the money, saying he wished no fee for a friendly visit. "Take it," said Rockefeller, "and give to some poor medical student, who is struggling for his education." Weber remarked in telling the story that he couldn't think of any struggling medical student just then and——, but what was the ailment that required a surgical operation?



THE FIRST COMPLETED GOVERNMENT IRRIGATION CANAL.

The extent of the government irrigation problem is indicated by a recent schedule issued by the Reclamation Service of the Interior Department, showing that the work of reclaiming the desert is well under way. At this time the government plan in various stages of progress requiring the expenditure of $32,870,000, which will supply water for the irrigation of 1,830,000 acres of land, the expense being $17.50 per acre. Other government reports estimate that there are about 600,000,000 acres of so-called arid land, whose chief products are sage brush and cactus. This amounts to more than one-third of the United States, and out of which might be carved four countries the size of France, four more as large as Germany and two states as large as New York. Private enterprise has reclaimed about 10,000,000 of this domain, which is to-day the backbone of the West. The enormous possibilities of the government irrigation work is shown by the various expert estimates which place the additional area which can be irrigated at from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 acres. The government plan as provided for in the irrigation law is to store the flood waters of the western rivers, reclaiming this land as fast as possible; but the settlers who take the land are required to pay back to the government the cost of the construction of each project, so that the actual expense to the government will all be paid. The final estimates of the possibilities of increased population are one person to each irrigated acre, so that there seems a future population for the West as great or greater than the total population of the country to-day. Ten or twenty acres, in the more highly developed irrigation sections of the West is stated to be sufficient for the support of a family, owing to the fact that under irrigation numerous and sure crops can be raised. In the Southwest, three or four crops are grown on the same land each year.

CATHOLIC DIVORCES.

VATICAN ANNULS MARRIAGES IN CERTAIN CASES.—ATTORNEYS OF ST. PETER.

Ambassador Whitelaw Reid appoints son of English Earl as Chief Lackey—The Tipping Question.—Other Foreign Gossip.

It is stated on authority that the Vatican will always annul a marriage if it can be proved to its entire satisfaction that one or the other of the parties to the alliance was not a free agent in the matter. One of the most notable cases of annulment of a princely marriage, on grounds such as these, was the dissolution some years ago of the marriage bonds of the reigning Prince of Monaco and his first wife, Lady Mary Hamilton. At the same time the Vatican pronounced the marriage null and void it also pronounced that her son was, in every sense of the word, legitimate. Princess Mary, whose mother was a princess of the reigning house of Baden and whose father was the English Duke of Hamilton, was forced by her kinsman and guardian, the late Emperor Napoleon, to give her hand in marriage to Albert of Monaco. The latter showed himself a singularly neglectful and unkind husband, and her life at Monte Carlo became so intolerable that she took to flight, carrying her infant child with her. She sought refuge at Florence, where the Italian police, acting on behalf of the Prince, made a sensational attempt to take the boy away from her. The plot was frustrated by the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, who took mother and infant under her protection and defied the Italian authorities to cross the threshold of her residence. Princess Mary, after that, married Count Tassilo Festetics of Tolna, one of the magnates of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, who occupied an excellent position at the Court of Vienna. Prince Albert of Monaco married again, the next Princess of Monaco being an American girl, a daughter of a New Orleans banker, Michael Heine. His second matrimonial venture, however, turned out as unfortunate as the first, a divorce breaking the ties between them.

POPE PIUS X.

One most important factor in defending the rights of the Roman Catholic Church, and adding to the perfection of its wonderful and thorough-working machine, is the order or society of "The Attorneys of St. Peter." It is safe to say that nine out of ten people in this country have never heard of this order of legal counsellors of the Vatican, which, in this country, is represented by some of the brightest legal minds. It is composed of eminent Roman Catholic lawyers in different parts of the world, with branches in the various great capitals. The order was founded by Pius IX., and the first of the statutes of the order indicates its object, restricting, as it does, the membership to those members of the legal profession who have given adequate proofs of their unselfish devotion to the interests of the Church, especially in legal matters. The only insignia of the order is a medallion showing a violet cross on a white enameled ground. I believe I am correct in saying that Cardinal Rampolla has charge of the order.

Our Ambassador at the Court of St. James, Mr. Whitelaw Reid, has at last appointed his chief lackey. He is the Hon. William Walsh. The post bestowed upon the Hon. Walsh is that of controller of Mr. Reid's household, an office quite unknown in this democratic country of ours, but which exists in many aristocratic families in England and in all royal establishments, from the King's down. In reality, the comptroller is a species of upper servant, ranking several degrees higher than a chief butler, whose business it is to see that all domestic matters run smoothly. Mr. Reid is the first American ambassador to employ such a functionary, but no other American ambassador to the Court of St. James has lived in so much style as Mr Reid maintains. As that is what Americans seem to expect of their representatives abroad nowadays, when they pay for it out of their own pockets, Mr. Reid is really to be congratulated on his success in obtaining the services of the son of a belted earl as his chief lackey. The Hon. Walsh is the third son of Lord Ormathwaite. Third sons of peers are usually not well off. The Hon. Walsh is to be commended for doing something to earn an honest penny. If his pay is not much, his duties are not particularly onerous, and if ambitious he will have plenty of spare time in which to look around for a better job. Meanwhile he is comfortably domiciled at Dorchester House, the marble palace in Park Lane, which Ambassador Reid has taken as his London residence. The Hon. Walsh is engaged to be married to Lady Norah-Spencer-Churchill, the youngest sister of the Duke of Marlborough. Though she can hardly be called youthful, she is several years younger than her fiance. As far as pedigree counts for anything, however, the Hon. Walsh is no bad match for her, for he can boast ducal blood, too.

If the Duke of Devonshire's rule against any of his servants accepting "tips" could be successfully introduced in this country all would be well. There are a few of the old nobility of England who set a laudable example of prohibiting their servants accepting gratuities from visitors or guests. The Duke of Devonshire, for instance, makes it an inflexible rule that no servant of his shall take a tip. When, however, a party of Americans recently visited Chatsworth, the Duke's Derbyshire seat, and were entertained to luncheon and shown over the beautiful grounds by the Duke's steward, the leaders of the party thought the usual "shell out" must be the climax of the day's enjoyment. The party consisted of four men and three women, and among them $35 was subscribed. With commendable discretion the money was not offered to the steward, who, of course, is above accepting recognition of the kind, but to an underfootman, who saw the party to and from the railway station. But the footman pointed out that it was against the rules of the Duke's establishment to accept gratuities "in money." That seemed to suggest a way of getting around the rule. The next day various articles of jewelry reached the steward from London with the request that they be distributed among the staff at his discretion. The leaders of the party were Edmund H. Abbott, of New York, and Alexander Cattanach, of Salem, Mass., and both had introductions from Sir Thomas Lipton. The Duke and Duchess were not in residence at Chatsworth at the time of the visit, but the latter sent one of her maids specially up from London to look after the ladies. The beauties of Matlock, Buxton and Bakewell were fully explored before they returned to town.

Van Calava.

Humor of King Edward.

Returned tourists who have been in touch with the nobility in Europe bring back a few good stories of King Edward. One tale runs like this: The King was driving alone in a dog cart near one of his country palaces one day and caught up with an old fish woman, who was trudging to the village to sell her wares. She did not recognize the king and asked him for a lift. He responded graciously and helped her into the cart. As they drove along she begged him to buy her fish pleading poverty and a big family at home. The king said he had plenty of fish at home and would not buy any. However, he would give her his portrait which he thought would be just as good as buying her fish "Ye are a fine looking man, but your portrait would not buy shoes for the children," said the old woman. "Oh I think it will help you," he responded, and handed her a sovereign which has on one side his profile. When she saw that she was riding with the king and spilled her fish. The king handed her another coin and dropped her out at her destination. At another time when he was Prince and attending a theatre, a fire broke out near by and every one helped to quench the blaze The Prince in evening dress, worked with the others in passing buckets of water. A big pompous man was standing by doing nothing. "Why don't you help?" asked the Prince. The pompous man swelled up and remarked, "I am a gentleman, sir, and do no such menial tasks." "Don't let that hurt you," responded the Prince. "I am only the Prince of Wales."

Cost of Discovering America.

The great extent and value of Queen Isabel's jewel bag, the proceeds of which fitted out Columbus, is more or less of a myth. But in these days, when millionaire yachtsmen spend a hundred thousand dollars for a little racing yacht and think nothing of it, the expense of Columbus's whole fleet seems entirely insignificant. The sum of $3,000 covered the whole outlay necessary to secure and equip the three vessels, while the Great Admiral's salary was $300 per annum. The two other commanders were paid $200 each, and the wages of the crew were $2.50 a month. Of course, money in those days was worth a great deal more than now, and there were not very many places in America at that time where the sailors cared to ask for "shore leave," so that their wages were a clear saving.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

BULLDOG SUSPENDERS

50 cents everywhere. Will Outwear Three Ordinary Kinds. [illegible]

POSITIVELY THE BEST SUSPENDER MADE.

[illegible]

HEWES & POTTER, [illegible]

[illegible]

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

The NEWEST THINGS for CHRISTMAS
WEDDING (and other) PRESENTS

are our Lock Buckles for use on Trunks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds, Portfolios, Messenger Bags, etc.

They are the only Lock Buckles with the Yale Principle and are made of Manganese Bronze, which looks like gold, is stronger than steel and will not rust.

Locks alone (easily attachable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c; large, $1.00. (Beautifully hand engraved and including monogram, 25c extra); with strap for trunk, $1.50; for case, $1.00 prepaid and returnable if not delighted. Booklet on request. Salesmen and saleswomen wanted everywhere.

LYNCH MFG. CO. Madison, Wis.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE
TENSION TIGHT
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.
Its use means time saving and easier sewing.
It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE
Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

F YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to con
ain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

BOOKS—BOOKS
We have published some good ones spelly suited for farmers. Books that will help very farmer to make more out of his farm
Write for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars
llowed our clients during the last ix years.
Over one Thousand
claims allowed through us durng the last six months. Dis- ability, Age and Increase pensions obtained
n the shortest possible time.
Widows' claims a specialty.
Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immeditely on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of llowed pension. A successful xperience of 25 years and benefit f daily calls at Pension Bureau re at your service. Highest ref-rences furnished. Local Magis-rates pecuniarily
benefited by sending us
laims.
TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
agle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

G SUSPENDERS
Will Outwear Three Ordinary Kinds.
K BEST SUSPENDER MADE.
TER, Largest Suspender and Belt Makers
BOSTON, MASS.
and Suspender Styles," free on request.

GS for CHRISTMAS
other) PRESENTS
runks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds, ckles with the Yale Principle
Bronze, which looks like gold,
will not rust.
achable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c;
engraved and including monogram,
.50; for case, $1.00 prepaid and re-klet on request. Salesmen and sales
Madison, Wis.

TEDDY'S CHRISTMAS

By William Reginald [illegible]

Clang-clang-clang-a-lang-a-lang-a-lang! Down the broad, brilliantly lighted avenue swept a heavy fire truck, its five dappled horses united in a mad gallop. Ten-year-old Teddy O'Neill, Western Union messenger boy, cut suddenly into the avenue from a side street and circled on his wheel like an eagle. His eyes followed the truck with longing. It was a struggle 'twixt duty and pleasure. Then an engine dashed into sight. It was drawn by three magnificent blacks, and in the darkness it gleamed like a demon, spitting fire and smoke. Teddy gave a howl of enthusiasm and followed in its wake.

For block after block he trailed the wheel of the engine, bending low over his handle bars. Something of the spirit of the fire-fighters of old was in his blood, and though his little heart was pounding with sudden stress he held the pace, his short legs dancing mechanically with the pedals.

At the cross street a trolley car blocked the way. A collision seemed inevitable. The driver rose in his seat, jammed the brake down, and drew with all his strength on the lines. The blacks came down on their haunches and with stiffened forelegs slid on the smooth pavement. Just in time the heavy engine came to a stop.

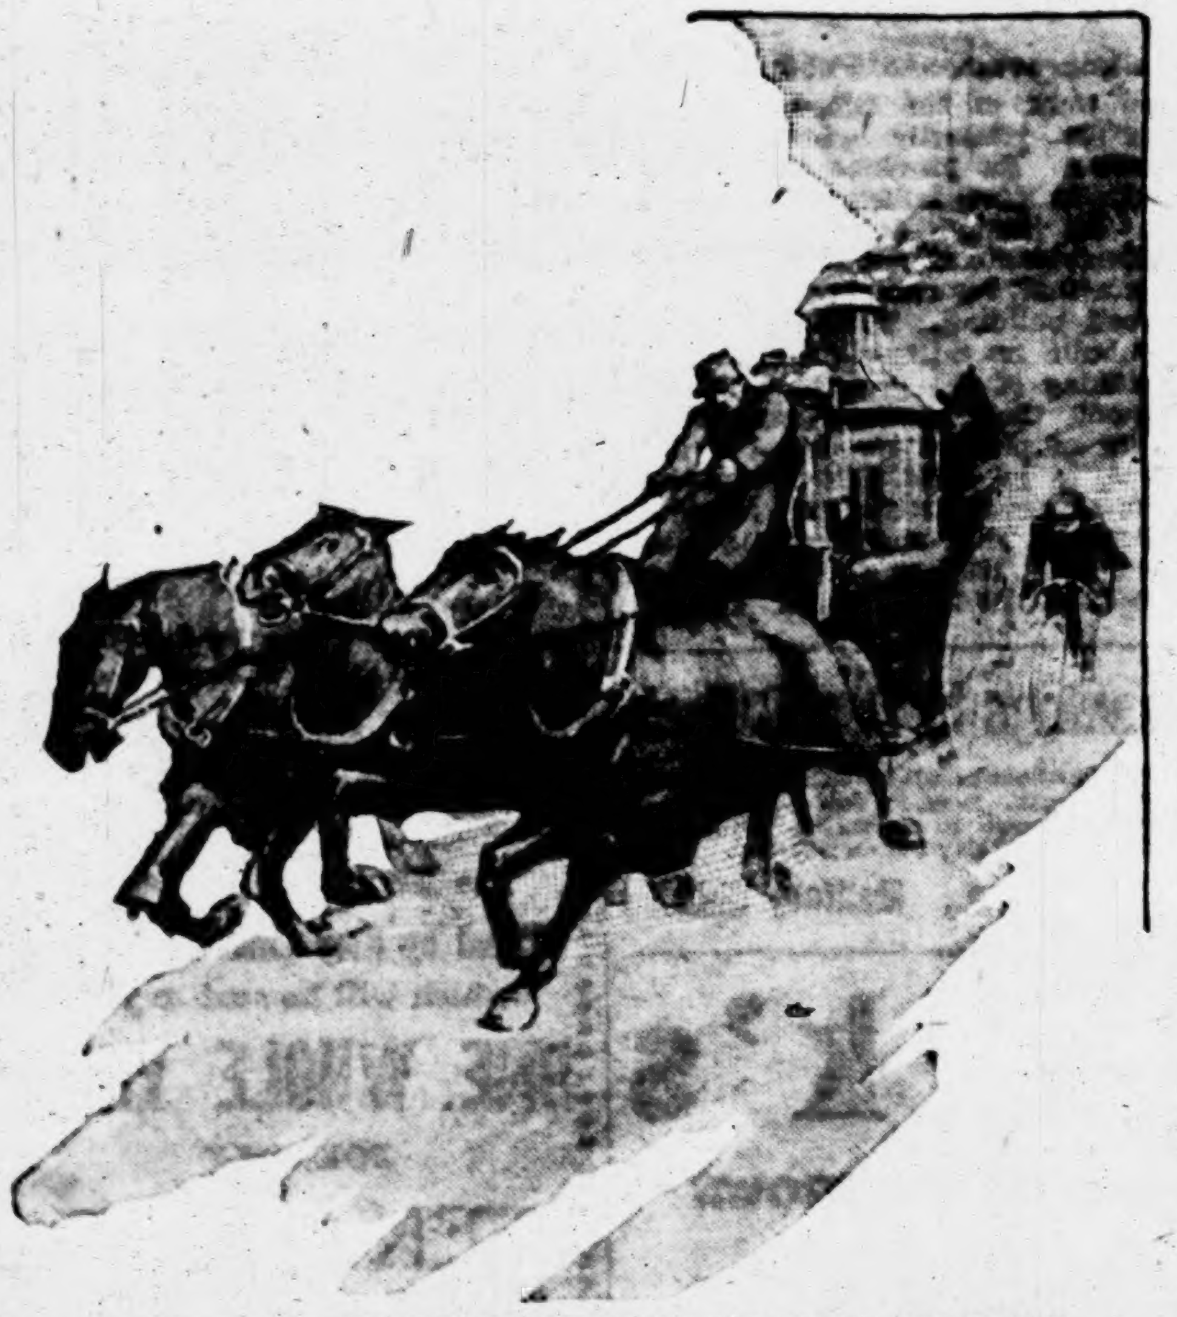
But Teddy, pedaling as though for a record, with his eyes to the ground, knew not of the obstruction.

Suddenly the shining engine loomed before him. He threw up his arms and with a little cry dashed into the heavy steel-shod wheels.

A crowd gathered quickly. Gentle hands bore the limp and mangled body to a nearby hospital.

When Teddy awoke he lay in a white iron bed, in a long room, with many other beds on each side of him. He tried hard to remember. What did it all mean? And what made the pain in his head, his chest, his legs? He gave a little groan.

A woman came to the bed and leaned over him. Years afterward he recalled that vision—the sweet, serious face, the white uniform, the pretty cap resting on waves of brown hair. She smothed his hot brow and gave him cool water. Then delirium seized him, and for weeks he hovered between life and death, while Amy Norton, the head nurse, watched him as though he were her very own.



THE SPIRIT OF THE FIRE FIGHTERS OF OLD WAS IN HIS BLOOD.

In those endless days and nights of physical anguish, when he could comprehend only two conditions—pain and the absence of pain—Amy seemed to him a brooding Spirit of Deliverance. Always there, when he needed her, divining the cause of his discomfort and quick with measures of relief, she became in the highest sense a mother to this motherless waif.

So the days passed, and gradually Teddy responded to the care of nurse and doctor and awoke to consciousness of things about him. His twisted arm was almost restored to use; his crushed leg, though in a heavy plaster cast, was mending rapidly; but he complained of pain in his chest, where the engine wheels had broken the ribs. It hurt him to breathe, he said. Now and then a spell of coughing shook his little frame and left him panting for breath. Then, recovering, he would watch Amy at her work, his eyes following her up and down the room. He was disinclined to eat, and daily his face became whiter and thinner, and his eyes bigger and blacker.

It was Dr. Stone's custom to meet Amy in the operating room several times a week for consultation. One evening they talked of Teddy. The doctor shook his head gravely. He was a handsome, young man, with close-cut, dark beard. In their common purpose—the rescue of this dying orphan child—their hearts beat together. "Can you not stimulate him somehow?" he asked. "He is very low. Any little complication—a fever, even a cold—might end it all. He is too passive. He does not care. He seems to be merely awaiting the end. We cannot get results under such conditions. It is not now a case for medicine. There is nothing in all the pharmacopoeia that I can think of to awaken him."

For some minutes they sat in silence. All the mother love in Amy's heart was stirred. Poor little waif—no parents, no home, and Christmas close at hand. A great light dawned within her. Christmas—the day of days for children all over the world! She turned her deep, thoughtful eyes upon the doctor. "Let me take the case," she said gently. "As you say," he needs something beyond drugs."

So they separated, and the doctor went to his room to study. But his mind was not content with books. It dwelt upon Amy, as she appeared but a short time before. It occurred to him that he had thought of her many times in the past few weeks. But then it was purely professional—their common interest in the medical aspect of their work. She was a very competent nurse and very attractive. Her eyes and her mouth and that little wisp of hair that always curled over her ear stood before him. But pshaw, it meant nothing. Thus he tried to trick his conscience, deceiving himself and saying it was not so, when, in some deeper sub-consciousness he knew that it was so and really could not be otherwise, and that he was hopelessly in the toils. This is love's alchemy.

In the dimly lighted ward Amy was at Teddy's bedside. The boy was wakeful and restless. He wanted company. Though her duty was over she stayed with him, talking in a whisper.

Bit by bit she drew from him the story of his brief, hard life. He had no memory of father or mother. He had lived with an aunt, who beat him; so he ran away and finally graduated from newsboy to telegraph messenger. He was a doubter. Even Santa Claus, that patron saint of the children, was to him a myth—"only for rich folks' kids," he said.

But when she told him how Santa Claus would come to all children, rich and poor, if he only knew where they lived, his eyes grew big with interest.

"Teddy," she said, "if Santa Claus will come here on Christmas day and bring you lots of presents and a Christmas tree will you try to get well?"

Teddy thought hard. "Guess that might be worth gettin' well for," he said with a sigh. "But he won't come. I hung up my stockin' onct, an' they wasn't nothin' in it." It must have been a bitter disappointment, for the light faded from his eyes and the old look of despair crept into his face.

"Yes he will, Teddy. I'll send him word. I know he'll come Teddy, if you'll only get well. You know the doctor and I are trying so hard to make you strong, but you must help. Medicine won't do it all. You must think about getting better, and try to eat and laugh and be happy. And the first thing you know all the pain will go away and you will be just as well as I am."

It was a large idea, and his little mind could not take it in easily.

"How can you tell him where I am?" He was suspicious.

"Why, I'll send him a letter."

"Couldn't you send him a telegram? It'd get there lots quicker. An' tell him to answer paid." He was on familiar ground now.

She thought it over a little before she replied. "All right, Teddy. I'll send him a telegram. And if he says he'll come will you try real hard, dearie?" Tears of hope stood in her eyes.

"Yes," he said finally. "If he says he'll bring me a tree with lots of red an' blue an' green an' yellow things on it, an' some candy, an'—an'—a locomotive ingyne what'll run all by itself."

She drew the covers around his neck and tucked him in snugly. "I'll tell him, dearie," she said. "And I just know he'll bring the 'ingyne'. Now go to sleep and you'll wake up in the morning lots better." She stroked the little head gently. Slowly his eyes closed and he slept.

Amy went to her room. At her desk she wrote a note to the manager of the telegraph company, and taking it to the front door dropped it in the letter box with a little prayer.

Teddy's first words the next morning were full of anticipation. "Got that wire yet?" Amy smiled reassuringly. "Oh, it's too early. Wait till this afternoon."

He ate his breakfast with relish, and there was a new note in his voice when the doctor came in. But it was a part of their plan that the doctor should not know, and though Teddy was on the peak of expectancy he kept the secret.

At three o'clock a messenger brought Amy a yellow envelope, and she took it straight to Teddy's bed. He reached for it eagerly, tore it open, and with shining eyes read the message:

"Will stop by some time Christmas morning. Too busy to see you, but will leave a few reminders. Hang up stocking. Santa Claus."

He looked up into her face with an expression of rapture. "That's straight goods," he said. "It's the real thing even to the press copy." Then his thoughts took a long jump. "How long before Christmas?" he asked.

During the next three weeks Amy was very busy. She had to calculate closely for the money. Her salary was small, and there was her widowed mother to care for. But her anxiety was unnecessary. One day a note came from the manager of the telegraph company. The boys in the office had taken up a little collection for Teddy's Christmas, he said, and it was his pleasure to send her the cash—ten dollars and eighty-seven cents. What a God-send! Teddy should have a royal Christmas—even to the "ingyne" that would go by itself.

There was now no doubt that Teddy was improving. Day by day the thin face filled out. His color returned. He was eating regularly, sleeping soundly, and the spells of coughing were less frequent. The doctor spoke of the change, but Amy was uncommunicative.

"Some new influence is at work," he said to her one day. It was just a week before Christmas. "The gain is most remarkable. Tell me, Miss Norton, what wonderful elixir have you given him? I may need it myself before long. I, too, have a malady that defies drugs."

She looked at him in sudden fear—then flushed before his strong, tender gaze. "I cannot tell you now." Her eyes were turned away. Her face was bright with pleasure.

"But can't I know soon?" he asked, with an almost boyish pleading in his voice. "Name a day when I may ask and be answered."

She turned to him with a new light in her eyes. Something told her that his interest was not in Teddy alone. "Ask me Christmas morning," she whispered, "and I will tell you; not a day before." And try as he might he could get no more from her.

Christmas eve arrived, with wind and snow and bitter cold. Teddy feared the weather would keep Santa Claus away. But Amy reassured him. "Oh, Santa Claus likes the snow. He rides in a big sleigh with a long team of reindeers. He's sure to get here some time in the night. We'll hang up your stocking right here on the bedpost. And then you must go to sleep early."

At eight o'clock she went off duty. Teddy didn't get to sleep as directed, for excitement, but finally he fell into a deep slumber. His telegram in his hand, and his long black stocking hung in plain sight on the bedpost. All over the city, fathers and mothers were commencing their work of love, and Amy, tired though she was, began her own.

In a private room stood the tree. The floor was strewn with packages. She had no assistance, but she worked on, with strings of popcorn and cranberries, fancy bags of candy, brilliant glass balls, and showers of tinsel. Near midnight four strong men came from the lower ward, and Teddy's little iron bed, with Teddy sound asleep, was carried gently into the private room. Then she slipped away to her rest.

It seemed to Amy that but a few minutes had elapsed when she was awakened by the alarm clock on her bureau. She arose, made a light, and bathed her face again and again in the cold water until she felt able to keep her eyes open. It was five o'clock—still dark.

She entered Teddy's room and turned on the electric light. He was sleeping quietly. There was a step in the hall and the door opened. It was the doctor—his face a study. She held up a warning finger, then turned to the bed and reaching down took the boy in her arms and kissed him. "Teddy," she cried, a little sob in her voice. "Teddy, Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas! Teddy."

Teddy woke suddenly and sat bolt upright. He gave a shout of joy. "Oh-h-h," he cried, in a long, echoing gasp. "Oh, Jimminy Whillikins, ain't that great." Then words failed him, and he could only look and look, his eyes feasting on wonders that his tongue could not describe.

They put a warm bathrobe around him and placed him on the floor, for he was not yet able to walk. By his side Amy laid the stocking, now bulging with treasures. In front of him stood the "ingyne" and many other things dear to boyish hearts. He handled them one after another in silent awe. Then he took the stocking and with delicious deliberation poured from it a wealth of treasures. He was dazed by his sudden accumulation of riches. He looked up at them with a smile. "That's a bully Santa Claus," he said. "He done his part nobly. I'm goin' to get well all right."

After a while they put him back to bed, with his gifts spread around him, and together left the room. The dawn was breaking. The busy world was waking. From without came the tooting of horns. Bells were ringing all over the great city. It was Christmas morning.

The doctor went with her to her door. Even in the dim light of the hall he could see the drawn lines about her mouth and eyes, her tremulous lips. "You must go back to bed," he said anxiously. "I will see that you are not disturbed until noon. You are tired out."

She did not try to speak, fearing that she would cry instead.

"You have won a great victory over death," he said. "The injuries are nothing now; he will recover. It is the desire to live that you have implanted in him—that is the triumph." Then, on sudden impulse, he put his arms about her. "Oh, Amy, Amy," he said brokenly. "You have saved his life; will you not save mine, dear? Will you say yes? I cannot live without you."

Then he was gone, and on her trembling lips his kiss burned like sweet fire. Half fainting, her heart going like a trip-hammer, she closed the door and sank upon the bed. Gradually peace came to her, and slumber. In her dreams she heard him calling: "Amy, Amy, I cannot live without you." And suddenly she awoke, in the broad sunlight, smiling, and whispering to herself: "Herbert, Herbert, yes, with all my soul."

CLEVER WOMAN DETECTIVE.

MISS ADELAIDE C. RUSSELL AMONG MOST SUCCESSFUL OF MODERN SLEUTHS.

Assumes Many Peculiar Disguises and Visits Little Known Sections—Is Talented Musician and Accomplished Linguist.

Equipped with a personality as charming as it is distinctive Miss Adelaide C. Russell has joined the army of women workers, but in such a unique way that her accomplishments cannot fail to interest other women throughout the entire country.

Miss Russell is a detective, but the many disagreeable attributes which are commonly supposed to go hand in hand with this profession are wanting in the case of this interesting young woman who follows it rather from a love of its adventures than for the results which it brings about.

Six years' service in connection with the New York Pinkerton forces and on private work have given to Miss Russell a fund of interesting experiences which have made her life a succession of incidents well calculated to weave themselves into a score of melodramas if she would only relate them.

MISS ADELAIDE C. RUSSELL

Miss Russell is still in her twenties but during the six years she has been a detective; she has been all around the world and has adopted many different disguises. She never works through her own personality, but adopts the various disguises as the occasion warrants. Further than this she has the remarkable record of never having known failure. Of the hundreds of cases on which she has worked she has obtained the results for which she started and to-day her record is one of continual successes.

Has Figured in Famous Cases.

If one were given a thousand chances to name Miss Russell's profession, that of detective would never figure on the list. One might take her for a singer, probably for an actress, maybe for a newspaper woman, but never class her as a clever sleuth who has figured in some of the most famous cases in this country and Europe.

During the Paris Exposition Miss Russell worked on several forgery cases which had their locale in Paris. In order to gain knowledge to be used as evidence in these cases Miss Russell, who is a talented musician and plays the harp skillfully, dressed as a street musician, again as a newsboy and still again as a hotel waitress.

One of the most celebrated divorce cases this country has ever known was brought to a climax through evidence secured by Miss Russell. The husband was the offender and went to Mexico. Miss Russell followed him there, hired herself as a maid and traveled with the people all over Europe. She was gone eight months and when the case finally came to trial and the man found that he had been paying the expenses of a detective for nearly a year he attempted to kill Miss Russell. Her ready use of a small pistol which she always carried saved her life. Miss Russell admits that for once her heart was in her mouth, although the fright was only momentary.

Disguised as a Newsboy.

In New York Miss Russell has sold dozens of newspapers among the crowd of "newsies" about Wall street.

She acknowledges that in nearly all the divorce cases which fall to her share her sympathy is with the wife. Recently she had such a case to follow up and having located her people in the outskirts of a certain large city Miss Russell visited the house nearly every day, but always in a different disguise. First she went as a man, wearing a little light mustache; again she went as a little old German woman selling herbs. Her accent was so broken that she could hardly be understood and she put up such a story of hard luck that she was invited to come again, which of course, she did.

The lady has a particularly charming personality. Her voice is soft and cultivated, but can be made to change almost instantly. She is handsome and has a most striking individuality. She speaks a half dozen languages fluently, is a gifted musician, and has a keen sense of a clue which would do honor to the best men detectives in the business.

On one occasion when she was on the scent of a forger in New York she was obliged to follow him from the house in which they were both stopping to a railroad station. He took the train for Philadelphia, and although Miss Russell had not time to put on her hat and coat she, too, jumped on the train. Her badge carried her, but when she got to Philadelphia she gave the tip to a depot detective to watch the man while she hurried into the ladies' waiting room and paid the maid two dollars for the latter's hat. Miss Russell declares it was not the most modish hat she ever known, but it covered her head and gave her an opportunity to continue "shadowing" her man, whom she finally ran to cover, and made her case.

Free Training of Nurses.

An excellent work has been undertaken by the Philadelphia School for Nurses, which is providing free training in nursing for a number of young women in every county in Pennsylvania.

The young women will be provided with room, board, uniforms, and all the conveniences of a well-appointed Christian home. The course is two years of training, in nursing the sick poor of the city, under skilled leaders.

In addition to regular nursing, the young women are taught how to preserve their own health; how to recognize, avoid, and destroy contagion; and how to establish and maintain perfect sanitary conditions about the home.

An Appeal.

My hand is lonely for your clasping, dear,
My ear is tired, waiting for your call;
I want your strength to help, your smile to cheer;
Heart, soul and senses, need you, one and all.
I droop without your full, frank sympathy.
We ought to be together, you and I.
We want each other so to comprehend
The dream, the hope, thing planned or seen or wrought.
Companion, comforter, and guide and friend,
As much as love asks love, does thought need thought;
Life is so short, so fast the love hours fly.
We ought to be together, you and I.

Cut It Out.

The late Senator Hoar was informed that a very dear friend was seriously ill with appendicitis.

He had hardly finished his note of sympathy when he was informed that it was an attack of acute indigestion instead, and so he sent the following: "Dear A—I am sorry to hear that you are ill, but rejoiced to learn that the trouble is with the table of contents rather than with the appendix."

FREE!

LADIES THIS
Handsome Fur Scarf
GIVEN AWAY

Send us your name and address and we will send you free and post-paid 24 pieces of our jewelry novelties to sell at 10 cents each. Everybody you show them to will buy them of you. When sold send us the $2.40 and we will at once send you this

Handsome Fur Scarf

It is nearly 48 inches long, made from black Lynx fur, has six full, bushy tails, very latest style, and we know you will be more than pleased with it. When you receive it we know you will say it is the most elegant and thoroughly good fur you have ever seen. Nothing similar to this scarf has ever before been offered as a premium; it will give years of satisfactory wear. It gives a stylish, dressy effect to the wearer's appearance. The only reason we can offer them is we had a large number of them made up for us by one of the large furriers during the summer when trade was quiet; this is the only reason we are able to offer such an expensive premium. We hope you will take advantage of our offer without delay. This is an extraordinary offer and cannot be duplicated by any other reliable concern. We trust you with our jewelry until sold. It costs you nothing to get this fur. Address,

COLUMBIA NOVELTY CO.,
Dept. 655, East Boston, Mass.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
Men's Suspenders
Arm Bands, Ladies' Garters
with the unique new fad
PHOTO LOCKET BUCKLE
PATENTED JAN. 19, 1904.
Particularly appropriate novelties in which photographs can be inserted.
AN INEXPENSIVE GIFT, COSTING ONLY ONE DOLLAR EACH.
The photo locket buckles are extra heavy gold and silver plated, on which you can engrave initials or monograms. The web is best quality silk, in fascinating shades of light blue, white, and black, and they are packed in attractive single pair boxes.
HANDSOME, DEPENDABLE, USEFUL.
Sold everywhere, or mailed for $1.00 and 10 cents postage.
State kind and color desired. If engraved, 75 cents per pair extra, with not more than three letters on a buckle. Photos reproduced, 25c. per set of two, to fit buckle.
HEWES & POTTER
Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the World.
Dept. 64, 87 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.
Our suspender booklet, showing many styles adapted for every purpose, and giving valuable information about correct dress, will be sent FREE ON REQUEST.

rlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Firearms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

19TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores, $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

Cut off here and mail to us with $1.50. DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY, [illegible] The Missourian [illegible] Address

GREAT IS THE AMERICAN FARMER.

GUY ELLIOT MITCHELL.

Secretary Wilson's report to the President on the present condition of the American farmer and of the work of his Department is the most remarkable statement of a great people's prosperity which has probably ever been issued since time began. The Secretary says that it is a most grateful task to present to his Chief and thus to the American people a pen picture of the American farmer as he is to-day, to make clear the pre-eminent position of the farming industry, its wonderful productiveness, and its large contributions to the general prosperity of the country.

SECRETARY WILSON, OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

His report also points out some of the more important work by which his Department seeks to benefit the farmer. The same is two-fold. It seeks to add to the knowledge of the man and to increase the productive capacity of the acre. Mr. Wilson does not, however, lay back upon his oars and intimate that everything is being done that is necessary, for, great as has been the work undertaken and accomplished, and gratifying as has been the results as shown in the first few pages of this report, be it remembered, remarks the Secretary, that we are still at the threshold of agricultural development and that the educational work which has led to such grand results has only been extended as yet to a portion of our agricultural population.

DR. WILEY.
Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry.

Unprecedented Prosperity of Farmer

A year of unequaled prosperity has been added to the most remarkable series of similar years that has come to the farmers of this country. Farm crops have never before been harvested at such a high general level of production and value. Corn has reached its highest production, over 2,700,000,000 bushels, of a total estimated value of $1,216,000,000. Hay comes second, with a value of $605,000,000. Cotton is expected to yield $575,000,000. The short wheat crop of last year is followed by one of 684,000,000 bushels and its value, $525,000,000, overtops the highest value ever before reached. While only one crop, corn, reached its highest production this year, four crops—corn, hay, wheat, and rice—reached their highest value.

DR. MOORE, CHIEF OF THE WEATHER BUREAU.

Value of the Dairy Cow.

No crop but corn produces the income that the dairy cow does. The estimate of the value of dairy products for 1905 reaches $665,000,000. The farmer's hen competes for precedence with wheat, poultry products aggregating half a billion dollars in value.

Value of Farm Animals.

The value of horses and mules on farms exceeded last winter $1,452,000,000. Milch cows are advancing in numbers and are worth $482,000,000. The value of all other cattle is estimated at $662,000,000.

Great Amount of Exports.

During the last fiscal year, exported domestic farm products were valued at $827,000,000. During the last sixteen years the domestic exports of farm products have amounted to $12,000,000,000, or $1,000,000,000 more than enough to buy all the railroads of the country at their commercial value, and this with the mere surplus for which there was no demand at home.

DR. MELVIN,
Chief of the Bureau Animal Indusury.

Farmers as Bankers.

One of the most notable outgrowths of savings by farmers is the great multiplication of small National banks in recent years. As many as 1,754 banks, each with a capital of less than $50,000, were organized from March, 1900, to October, 1905. These were distributed mostly throughout the South and the North Central States, in rural regions. In the South 633 of these banks were organized, and in the North Central States 792. For the first time in the financial history of the South, deposits in the banks of that region now exceed $1,000,000,000. These remarkable increases in bank deposits in agricultural States and the increase in the number of small country banks are directly and indirectly because of the profits that have come to the farmers.

Weather Bureau Work.

The report presents the work accomplished by the Weather Bureau for the benefit of the farmers, mariners, and manufacturers, and points out that with all the development of this work the average per annum increase in the cost of the service for the past ten years is but 4.41 per cent.

ASS'T. SECRETARY HAYS.

Suppression of Diseases of Animals.

Of the Bureau of Animal Industry the Secretary says that the work of fighting contagious diseases of animals has been unremittingly carried on. The report refers in detail to the principal diseases which have been made the subject of study, and concludes that in every case the efforts of the Bureau have been attended with a more satisfactory control or complete eradication. He commends highly the skill and energy which characterized the suppression of foot-and-mouth disease in the New England States in 1902 and 1903.

MR. PINCHOT, CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF FORESTRY.

Plant Diseases and Plant Breeding.

The Bureau of Plant Industry is organized into eleven offices and employs over 500 persons, about 60 per cent. of whom are engaged in distinctly scientific work.

In its systematic work in securing new plants and seeds from foreign countries the Bureau of Plant Industry has been highly successful. Success has also attended its work in cotton breeding, undertaken with the view to obtaining new sorts combining improved length of staple with productiveness. The Secretary records the production of a new citrus fruit, the citrange, several varieties of which—the Rusk, the Willets, the Morton—have been developed. Another interesting product is the new tangelo, a hybrid of the pomelo or grape fruit, and the tangerine orange.

Very considerable importance is recorded in the manner of seed distribution. A special feature has been the encouragement of school-garden work thereby.

Growth of the Forest Service.

An important achievement in Forestry during the past few years has been to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of lumbermen and forest owners, and the Secretary urges that the work of education continue until public opinion will not tolerate heedless waste or injudicious loss. In the saving of waste the Service has added vastly more to the National wealth than its total expenditures during its entire history. The control of the forest reserves, embracing property worth in cash at least $250,000,000, has been transferred to the Forest Service. The Service continues to afford important aid to private forest owners.

DR. HOWARD.
Chief of the Bureau of Entomology.

DR. MERRIAM.
Chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey.

Chemical Investigations.

The Bureau of Chemistry has conducted important investigations relating to our cereal products and prepared meats. The latter included a systematic examination of canned goods. Its practical experiments have developed the fact that, without exception, the addition of the ordinary preservatives to foods is prejudicial to health. The Secretary argues the need of protecting the public from these evil effects by legislation.

Soil Surveys and Soil Studies.

In spite of the activity of the Bureau of Soils, there are on file at the present time requests for mapping 215 counties in 40 States and territories. The surveys already made aggregate 63,000,000 acres in 44 States and territories. The soils adapted to special crops such as the grape, the apple, citrus fruits, the sugar beet, alfalfa, rice, corn, cotton, etc., have all been made subjects of special study based on the field surveys. The investigations of the Bureau into the question of soil fertility and manurial requirements have attracted general attention and much comment.

PROF. GALLOWAY.
Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

The Cotton Boll Weevil.

In the work of the Bureau of Entomology considerable space is devoted to the Mexican cotton boll weevil. The subject of dissemination of the weevil through cotton gins has been very carefully investigated, and important results have been obtained, resulting in recommendations to the ginners calculated to greatly reduce this danger.

PROF. WHITNEY,
Chief of the Bureau of Soils.

Beneficial Insects Introduced.

Work has been done by the Bureau of Entomology in the introduction of the fig fertilising insect of South Europe, the introduction of a parasite of the black scale so injurious to citrus and olive crops in California from South Africa, and the introduction with success in the Southern States of a parasite of the San Jose scale from China.

Life Zones and Crop Zones.

The work of the Bureau of Biological Survey includes the determination of the boundaries of the natural life zones of the United States and the corresponding crop zones. The chief purpose is to ascertain the boundaries of natural life zones with a view to aiding the farmer in selecting crops best adapted to his locality and in avoiding crops unsuited to it.

Studies of Birds.

One section of the Biological Survey is engaged in the study of birds and their various relations to man, especially to determine whether birds damage crops, whether they protect insects either injurious or beneficial, and to what extent they feed upon weed seeds. Thousands of birds' stomachs are examined in gathering facts on this subject.

Publications of the Department.

In the Division of Publications more than twelve million copies of publications have been distributed by the Department during the past year, nearly 45 per cent. of which were distributed through the Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Need of Government Crop Reports.

Referring to the work of the Bureau of Statistics, the Secretary says that the development of organizations to fix prices, and in some cases to force temporary changes giving unnatural advantages to price manipulators, has led to the need of a strong and impartial agency to make comprehensive reports of actual facts relating to prospective crops and yields, that all concerned may know how to buy and sell.

The Improvement of Public Roads.

The work of the Office of Public Roads is primarily educational in character. Its province is to detail experts to give information and advice. In many communities it is found advisable to supplement advice by practical demonstration of effective road building. These roads have been built in thirty-eight States.

Speaking of the growth of the Department, the Secretary reports the number of persons on the rolls July 1, 1905, to be 5,446. Of these, 2,326 are rated as scientists and scientific assistants. This shows an increase since July 1, 1897, of 3,003 persons on the rolls of the Department.

STOP YOUR RUNAWAY

NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED
THE GEER SAFETY REIN
ADJUSTED AND BUCKLED TO CROWN PIECE OF BRIDLE

You Can Do It EVERY TIME
With A
GEER SAFETY REIN
PRICE, COMPLETE, $5.00
Expressage Prepaid
No more Smash-ups; No more Lives Lost; Can be buckled on, in a minute, to any Bridle.

WORKS INDEPENDENTLY OF THE DRIVING REINS.
Write for descriptive circular, free on application, to
THE GEER MANUFACTURING CO.,
47 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW YORK.
Will Stop any Horse or Money Refunded.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

What More Acceptable
CHRISTMAS
REMEMBRANCE
Could you send to your friends
It Costs Ten Cents
It is Worth Ten Dollars
WHY?
BECAUSE Every Woman's Life is a Problem
of
HOW TO MAKE A LIVING
or
HOW TO MAKE A HOME
and
ONE HINT OR SUGGESTION
from
ONE WHO KNOWS
is oftentimes
OF VALUE INCALCULABLE
to the
WORKER OR HOUSEWIFE
How to Save Time
How to Save Steps
How to Make a Home
What it ought to be
IS TOLD BY ONE WHO KNOWS
in MAXWELL'S
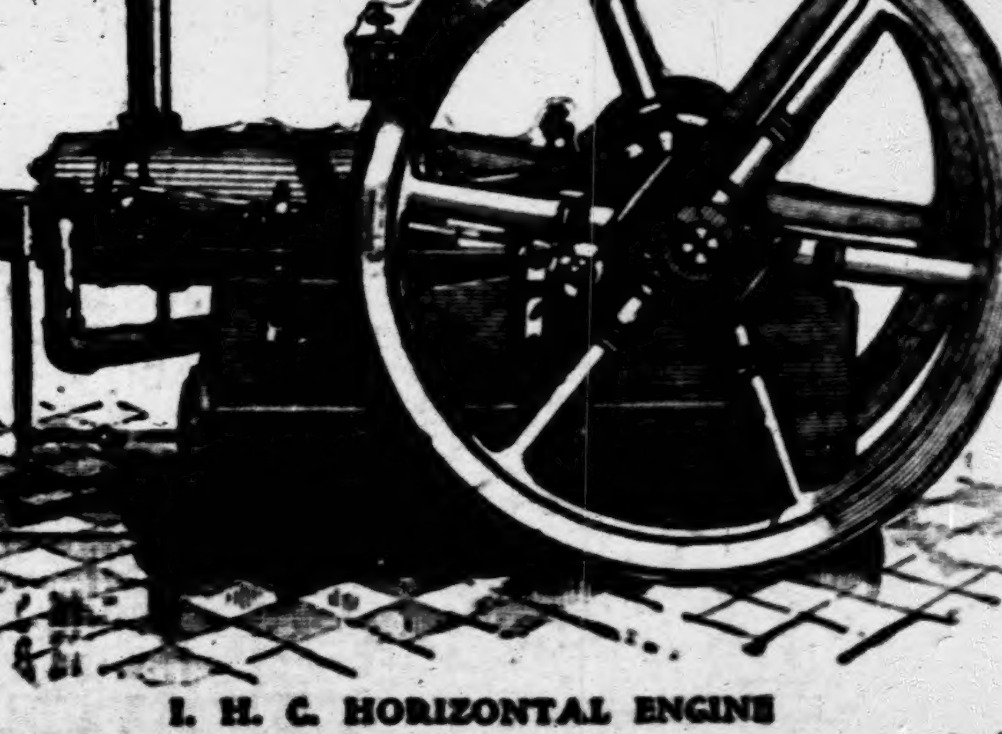
Homemaker Magazine
An Illustrated Monthly
Edited by Amy Clisbee Maxwell
which will be sent to you
ONE WHOLE YEAR
FOR ONLY
TEN CENTS
Send a dime or five two-cent stamps to
MAXWELL'S
HOMEMAKER
MAGAZINE
1405 Fisher Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February first Monday in April, first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in July, second Monday in August and first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day . . . . 11¼ @ 11[illegible]
" same date last year 6[illegible]

No. Bales received to date	1905	1904
Pinckard & Co	[illegible]	[illegible]
W. I. Mullins	[illegible]	[illegible]
W. Kaster & Bro	[illegible]	[illegible]
J. C. Jones	[illegible]	[illegible]
Cannon & Sons	[illegible]
Other Firms
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

The above figures [illegible] the [illegible] evening [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. [illegible] entertained a number of young people last Friday evening in honor of Miss Addie Hiney and Mr. [illegible] Sawyer. All that were present report a delightful time.

Mr. J. P. Crumpton, who has been attending dental college in Atlanta, has returned home to spend the holidays.

Mr. John Rollins is at home from medical college at Memphis to spend Xmas.

Mr. Tom Nelson of Stanton was a visitor here Monday.

Rev. A. C. Swindall has kindly consented to preach at the Baptist church in Clanton on the fifth Sunday in this month.

Mr. J. B. Boyd has removed his family from Montgomery to near Clanton.

Mr. W. E. Mauk of Birmingham spent a few days here last week.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

There will be a Christmas tree at the Methodist church next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. A competent committee on arrangements has been appointed and all presents may be sent to the tree with perfect safety. Everybody invited.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins went to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. Mack Seales of Mulberry was one of our welcome visitors Monday.

Mr. D. H. Mitchell of Stanton was in town Monday.

Mr. W. C. Roper of Kincheon gave us a pleasant call Tuesday.

Clear thinking, decisive action, vim and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets, Upchurch Drug co.

Mr. C. W. Reynolds of Jemison was a pleasant visitor here Monday.

Mr. Sam Latham of Montevallo visited his daughter, Mrs. E. I. Upchurch, Sunday.

Miss Resa Adams of Jemison spent Tuesday with friends in Clanton.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

Mr. Wm. Walker of Mulberry was a visitor here Monday.

Miss Addie Watts returned to her home in Birmingham Saturday after a visit of several weeks to relatives here.

Prof. Robt. Sessions visited Jemison Saturday.

Miss Minnie Muse attended the marriage of Mrs. Annie Lane and Mr. J. C. Killebrew at Thorsby Thursday.

Mrs. Sallie Watts went to Montgomery Saturday, returning Sunday.

Don't forget to call on Miss Minnie Muse while in Clanton. She is selling her fall and winter hats at cost. Now is the time to get a nice hat cheap.

Dr. E. A. Matthews went to Birmingham Friday.

Married, at the court house, Sunday afternoon, Mr. W. O. Smith and Miss Medie Crane, both of Pletcher. Long and happy may their married lives be.

Santa Claus with fine Toys has arrived at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. W. O. Smith and Miss Medie Crane; Mr. J. W. Driver and Miss Artie Driver; Mr. Joseph Facorona and Miss Addie Lawrence

Colored—Robert Hill and Ella Long.

The mission of "Early Risers" is to clear the way and give Nature full sway. These famous little pills rid the stomach and bowels of all putrid matter, thus removing the causes of headache, constipation, sallow complexion, etc. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never gripe or sicken. A safe, pleasant, perfect pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

R RUNAWAY

You Can Do It SAFELY With A SAFETY REIN

PRICE, COMPLETE, $2.00 Expressage Prepaid

No more Runaways. No more Lines Lost. Can be attached on, in a minute, to any Bridle

VING REIN.

ular, free on application, to

UFACTURING CO.,

LACE, NEW YORK.

any Horse or Money Refunded.

What More Acceptable
CHRISTMAS
REMEMBRANCE
Could you send to your friends?
It Costs Ten Cents
It is Worth Ten Dollars
WHY?
BECAUSE Every Woman's Life is a Problem
of
HOW TO MAKE A LIVING
or
HOW TO MAKE A HOME
and
ONE HINT OR SUGGESTION
from
ONE WHO KNOWS
is oftentimes
OF VALUE INCALCULABLE
to the
WORKER OR HOUSEWIFE
How to Save Time
How to Save Steps
How to Make a Home
What it ought to be
IS TOLD BY ONE WHO KNOWS
in MAXWELL'S
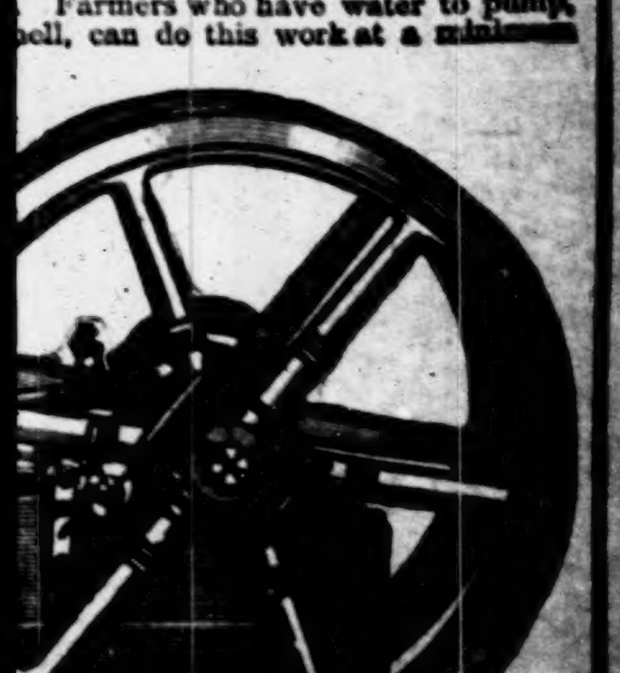
Homemaker Magazine
An Illustrated Monthly
Edited by Amy Clisbee Maxwell
which will be sent to you
ONE WHOLE YEAR
FOR ONLY
TEN CENTS
Send a dime or five two-cent stamps to
MAXWELL'S
HOMEMAKER
MAGAZINE
1405 Fisher Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

Harvester Co.

ENGINES

oline engine, the farm, the dairy, the er and shredder can be operated more Farmers who have water to pump, ell, can do this work at a minimum



ONTAL ENGINE

n the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H and 15 H. P., horizontal type, sta rizontal type, portable.

ENGINE BOOKLET.

ter Co. of America

Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February, first Monday in April, first Monday in June, second Monday in July, second Monday in August, and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day......11¼ @ 11½
" same date last year 6¾c

No. Bales received to date	1905	1906
Pinckard & Co	2975	3225
W. I. Mullins	1920	2147
W Kanter & Bro	466	..
J. C. Jones............	1193	942
Cannon & Sons........	410	..
Other Firms......... ...		318
Total....	6964	6760

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E Jones entertained a number of young people last Friday eve in honor of Miss Addie Hinley and Mr. L. Roy Sawyer. All that were present report a delightful time.

Mr. J. P. Crumpton, who has been attending dental college in Atlanta, has returned home to spend the holidays.

Mr. John Rollins is at home from medical college at Memphis to spend Xmas.

Mr. Tom Nelson of Stanton was a visitor here Monday.

Rev. A. C. Swindall has kindly consented to preach at the Baptist church in Clanton on the fifth Sunday in this month.

Mr. J. B. Boyd has removed his family from Montgomery to near Clanton.

Mr. W. E. Mauk of Birmingham spent a few days here last week.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

There will be a Christmas tree at the Methodist church next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. A competent committee on arrangements has been appointed and all presents may be sent to the tree with perfect safety. Everybody invited.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins went to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. Mack Seales of Mulberry was one of our welcome visitors Monday.

Mr. D. H. Mitchell of Stanton was in town Monday.

Mr. W. C. Roper of Kincheon gave us a pleasant call Tuesday.

Clear thinking, decisive action, vim and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets, Upchurch Drug co,

Mr. C. W. Reynolds of Jemison was a pleasant visitor here Monday.

Mr. Sam Latham of Montevallo visited his daughter, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Sunday.

Miss Resa Adams of Jemison spent Tuesday with friends in Clanton.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

Mr. Wm. Walker of Mulberry was a visitor here Monday.

Miss Addie Watts returned to her home in Birmingham Saturday after a visit of several weeks to relatives here.

Prof. Robt. Sessions visited Jemison Saturday.

Miss Minnie Muse attended the marriage of Mrs Annie Lane and Mr. J C. Killebrew at Thorsby Thursday.

Mrs. Sallie Watts went to Montgomery Saturday, returning Sunday.

Don't forget to call on Miss Minnie Muse while in Clanton. She is selling her fall and winter hats at cost. Now is the time to get a nice hat cheap.

Dr. E. A. Matthews went to Birmingham Friday.

Married, at the court house, Sunday afternoon, Mr. W. O. Smith and Miss Medie Crane, both of Pletcher. Long and happy may their married lives be.

Santa Claus with fine Toys has arrived at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. W. O. Smith and Miss Medie Crane; Mr. J. W. Driver and Miss Artie Driver; Mr. Joseph Facorona and Miss Addie Lawrence Colored—Robert Hill and Ella Long.

The mission of "Early Risers" is to clear the way and give Nature full sway. These famous little pills rid the stomach and bowels of all putrid matter, thus removing the causes of headache, constipation, sallow complexion, etc. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never gripe or sicken. A safe, pleasant, perfect pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled. Drop in and let us show you through. We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in the certain mortgage deed executed by Earnest Welch to the Lathrop Lumber Company, a body corporate, dated the 24th day of March, 1906, and record in vol. 75 record of deeds, page 119, in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton county Alabama, the said Lathrop Lumber Company will proceed to sell on FRIDAY, the 29th day of DECEMBER, 1906, in front of the Court House door of Chilton county, Alabama within the legal hours of sale to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, namely.

1 number 10 Wheland Mill with 4 block carriage complete;
1 sixty horse 12 x 20 center crank Skinner engine;
1 seventy horse 54 x 12 tubular boiler;
3 circular saws.
4 drays with loading chains and so forth complete;
1 bay horse mule named Bill, 8 years old;
1 gray mare mule named Kit, 10 years old;
1 bay horse mule named Duck, 7 years old;
1 mouse mare mule named Hattie, 8 years old;
1 bay mare mule named Kate, 8 years old;
1 mouse horse mule named Fred, 8 years old;
1 gray horse mule, named John, 9 years old;
1 black horse mule named Henry, 9 years old;
1 red ox named Red, 8 years old;
1 spotted ox named Jim, 7 years old;
1 spotted ox named Henry, 5 years old;
1 spotted ox named Nub, 5 years old;

Said property being situate at Welch's mill, 5 miles west of Kiderville, Chilton county, State of Alabama.

And default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness described in and secured by said mortgage, said sale will be made in execution of and in accordance with powers given in said mortgage.

LATHROP LUMBER CO,

December 11th, 1906.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books on sale at The Banner office

A nice line of Jewelry on display at Upchurch Drug Store.

Mr. P. W. Peterson of Thorsby was in town Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs Ambrose Cliner of Shoults were visitors here Monday.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptons," says Mr. J. S. Egleston, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These Tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by Upchurch Drug co.. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company. Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000. Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

A Merry Xmas

to all my customers and the other fellow also.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates. And irons, Tongs, Pokers. Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardwar than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.
Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Rough skin and cracked hands are not only cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but an occasional application will keep the skin soft and smooth. Best for Eczema, Cuts, Burns, Boils, etc. The genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve affords immediate relief in all forms of Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Where There is a Will There is a Way.

Dear Editor—In recent month the great maxim "Where there is a will there is a way," has been so plainly and clearly illustrated to me that I have a desire to relate my experience to the enlightened readers whom it may reach. So I will not hesitate to ask you for a short space in the precious columns of your important paper for the purpose of expressing my narrow thoughts along this line.

This problem of great importance came to me at a very strking time. Near the close of my first college year I was indeed very weak financially. The year had been a year of persistent struggling and self-denial, both for me and my loving family at home, for my support in college. My father was eager for me to stay in school and better prepare myself for the battle of life which everyone must meet with, so he did all he could do to get the money for me during the year; but in the spring money became scarce and it was almost impossible for him to send me any more. Although he sent me money all the year he sent me just enough to come home on this last time. Just at this time and near the close of the school the photographer came to college and made a beautiful picture of my class which I had so earnestly strived with during the year. More than striving with them doing my duty to self and the college, I had spent many pleasant moments with them for pastime. The teachers advised each one of the members of the class to get one of the pictures if possible, which most of them did. As I didn't have a cent of money, more than enough to bring me home I thought I could not obtain one of the pictures; but after thinking about the pleasure it would afford me in after life I determined to have a picture of my beloved class I did not have a cent, and now how and where was I going to get the required amount to purchase the picture? I had determined to have one, and now I was willing to do any kind of work for the money, but had no work to do. Soon a way to earn the money presented itself to me. The accepted way for me was to hoe cotton for a farmer. This seemed very hard indeed for a tender college boy, but this was the only way possible for me to obtain the earnings. I borrowed a small hoe and went to the east edge of the town and presented myself to a farmer as one who wanted to hoe a few hours for enough money to purchase a picture of my loving class in the college. The farmer gladly accepted my offer and put me to work. I labored with my hoe very earnestly for six hours. The gentleman then paid me a few cents for my dear work and I went to the teacher in the college who was in care of the pictures, and purchased the one for which I was so anxious, and went away rejoicing

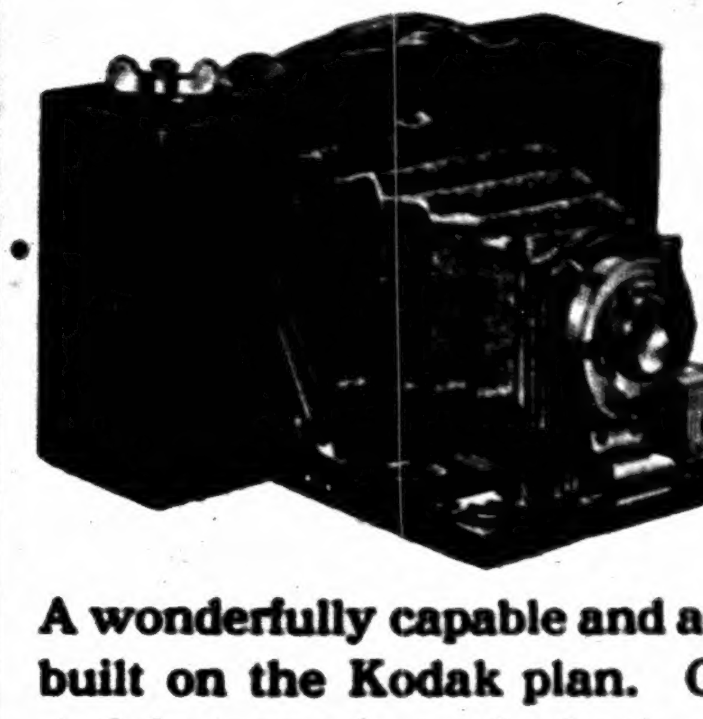
I felt so well over this victory that I thanked God that I could see clearly that "where there is a will there is a way." I believe that this maxim is true. Now, boys and young men, if you have a will to promote yourself and prepare yourself to sail smoothly over the rough sea of life, I do honestly believe that there will be a way. Though sometimes it may seem hard, dreary and difficult, but some sweet day you can rejoice that the victory is won. May the way for all be easy and sweet.

J. O. W.

Remarkable Cure.

"I was much afflicted with sciatica," writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick, Co, Kan, going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me, I used three 50c bottles, It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons; all express themselves as being benefited by it, I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm," 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Lights and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTC
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS
CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

GIRLS' NERVE FAILED THEM.

THEY MIGHT HAVE EARNED THE RENT WITH A HAND ORGAN.

A Young Woman Whose Mother Was in Need Hoped to Replenish the Family Purse as a Street Musician —But She and Her Companion Were Frightened Into Deserting the Organ by the Curious Crowd in Financial District—Italian Garb Did Not Deceive the Onlookers.

A mild sensation was created one day recently in the downtown financial district by the appearance of two young girls wheeling a hand organ. They were dressed in imitation of the Italian women, who are by this time familiar figures in the street, but they were unmistakably American, and equally unmistakably of a gentle class. Starting from Hanover square, they made their way slowly through an ever increasing crowd of curious spectators. Questions rained on them from every side as to their business in doing such a thing, but they merely went their way and said nothing. By the time they had reached Liberty street they were surrounded by nearly 2000 people. The small boys in the neighborhood commenced to pelt them with fruit and other missiles, and the crowd was growing unruly.

At this point a policeman interfered to protect them, and the tall light-haired girl who was playing the organ broke down, stating that she would not go another step. The other girl, who was the prettier of the two and evidently the leader, urged and coaxed her to keep on, reminding her constantly of the money they would make and of what it would mean to them. But the player refused to be influenced, and the organ was deserted, and the two girls turned towards home. In answer to an urgent question, one of the two girls said that she came to New York with her mother five years ago from their home in Pennsylvania. The mother was a dressmaker. She thought that she could make more money and give her daughter a better education in New York city than in her native town.

"But after I left the high school, about a year and a half ago," she said, "I commenced to have trouble with my eyes, and on going to a physician discovered that cataracts were forming. It was a great blow, as my ambition had always been to be a teacher, and the doctor told me this was out of the question."

Through the influence of a friend for whom her mother had made some dresses, the daughter obtained work last winter, and for a time earned $10 a week, and on that and what her mother made at dressmaking they managed to keep a little home. This last summer, however, everything seemed to go wrong. The work ceased, her mother's customers all left town early, many of them leaving their dressmaker unpaid, and it commenced to look as though the home would have to be broken up. As the first of October approached they commenced to worry about the rent. One evening, about a week ago, the mother and daughter sat in consultation about ways and means, and as they sat by the window an organ drawn by two Italian girls came in sight. It was seeing them that put the idea into the girl's mind that she would do likewise. At first the mother opposed this plan, but later she consented, because they were nearly destitute.

From an Italian organ-grinder in the neighborhood the daughter obtained the name of a man who rents out the large piano organs. At the same time she confided her scheme to a young friend who promised to assist her. From old-fashioned clothes of her mother's they fixed up the costumes as nearly like the Italian girls as possible. The rent that they paid for the organ was $3.

The day before they made their appearance in Wall street they took the organ up Broadway and in two hours made over $7. Although they were followed by a crowd, no one annoyed them. They were asked frequently if it was on a bet, and nodded yes when this question was asked them.

Flushed with triumph at the money they had earned up town, they decided that the down-town financial would yield an even richer harvest. They started the following morning, therefore, at Hanover square. A crowd collected immediately, which attracted the attention of a policeman. He came over to them, speaking in the roughest way, and threatening to call a patrol if they did not move on. They moved on in fear and trembling, and finally reached the corner of Liberty street. By this time the crowd around them had grown very large, and they were becoming frightened. The girl who had planned the trip was much alarmed lest they get into trouble, but with the thought of what the money would mean to her mother she plucked up courage, and would have gone on down to Wall street, but her friend absolutely refused. It was then 10 o'clock. They had only been an hour on the street and had already earned $3.10.

The policeman on this beat was kind to them when they had explained the predicament and he found that they had a license. He did his best to disperse the crowd, and promised to see that they reached Wall street in safety. The dressmaker's daughter would have kept on, but, of course, could not go alone. She did not know what to do with the organ until she happened to see among the crowd the man who had rented it to her. She attracted his attention and turned the organ over to him, and retraced her steps homeward, bitterly disappointed. There was no doubt in her mind that had she remained a few hours longer she would easily have earned the $15 for the landlord. Her mother's necessity had given her courage. She felt that the worst ordeal was coming down in the elevated train dressed in costume. No one seemed to mistake them for Italians and they were stared at and spoken to at every turn.—New York Evening Post.

ASIATIC PRESTIGE.

History Repeating Itself by the Submission of Russia.

It is now more than 2300 years since Herodotus expounded to the assembled Greeks his celebrated theory that the cardinal fact in history was the interaction of Asia and Europe, the pendulum of ascendancy swinging now to the east and now to the west. From the fall of Troy to the memorable land and sea fight at Mykale he depicted many a vicissitude, but, of course, he could not foresee that the grandsons of the men who heard him would witness the destruction of the Persian empire by Alexander and the penetration of India by the Macedonian phalanx.

As little could the western peoples, which in the 19th century despoiled and insulted China and wrenched open the gates of Japan, have expected that in the course of a few decades a far eastern nation would exhibit a degree of military and naval efficiency unsurpassed, if equalled, in the annals of mankind.

Had our memories been more tenacious none of us would have taken for granted, as most of us have, that Asia was beyond the hope of resurrection, doomed to permanent prostration under the European heel. Such, undoubtedly was the delusion in which the eastern subjects of the Roman empire long abided, although such defeats as those of Crassus and Valerian ought to have excited deep misgivings.

Everybody imagined that the Oriental wave had spent itself when Hannibal was routed at Zama, and nobody could have anticipated that, from the second half of the seventh to near the close of the 17th century, Europe would be haunted with the dread of Asiatic invasion and conquest. Yet more than a thousand years were to elapse from the seizure of Roman Syria by a successor of Mohammed to Sobieski's repulse of the Turks from before the walls of Vienna.

Of all Ayran countries Russia had least reason to arrogate an innate superiority over the Turanian stock. The grand dukes of Muscovy had been paying tribute for two centuries to the Mongol rulers of the Golden Horn when the Turks took Constantinople, and some three and a half centuries more were to elapse before the Russian regained control of the Crimea. Even China in the 17th century, when the Manchu dynasty was young, drove Muscovite pioneers and merchants out of Manchuria and forced them by treaty to retire behind the Amur river. History, therefore, will but repeat itself when Russia submits to similar boundaries at the command of the Japanese.—New York Sun.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Among elephants both sexes of the African species have ivory trunks, while in Asia these are generally restricted to the male.

A farmhouse near Minehead, England, is situated in so deep a hollow that for three months of the year the sun's rays do not fall upon it.

Pet dogs in sunbonnets and blue glass spectacles are to be seen following their owners through the streets of Berlin in hot weather.

A London firm has constructed on the roof of its warehouses a rifle range, so that its employes may have practice without going far or being put to traveling expenses. Lord Roberts will open the range.

When the Booth liner Cyril sank in the River Amazon, a wealthy Brazilian banker was the only person who was able to save his personal property which consisted of a small handbag containing $90,000 in banknotes.

The importance of removing all unnecessary objects from the decks of men of war was emphasized on board the Japanese Mikasa, on which 23 men were killed or wounded by the fragment of an optic telegraph that had been hit by a bomb.

The other day thousands of rats were seen running along some of the streets of Paris, near the Eastern Station. They had been driven from their haunts by the destruction of an old bridge. Many were killed by man and beast, but some of the attacking cats were killed by the rats.

The pavement before the door of the Church of San Carlo de Borromeo, in Monterey, Mexico, is a curious memento of the whaling industry of that town. The round, mushroom-like objects in the pavement are the vertebrae of whales. This is one of the churches founded by the Spanish missionary fathers in the 16th century.

Queerest of Accidents.

A woman who was bicycling along an English road felt something strike her head. Reaching up she discovered that a sparrow had impaled itself on the hatpin, which was protruding about two inches.

Listen---and be Liked.

By Caroline.

THERE is no person who hasn't troubles.

No matter how smooth and calm a life may appear to a casual observer, rest assured if you come in close touch with that person you would find trouble in one form or another.

Trouble of the heart are the most common, and still the lover is a much misunderstood person and gets little sympathy from the cold, cold world.

This seems altogether strange, for at one time or another most persons have dabbled in love.

This of itself should create a broad and deep sympathy.

A person, for instance, who has had the measles, chickenpox or dyspepsia is always willing to discuss all the various symptoms of these diseases.

But love, alas! is different.

A person, for instance, who has been through it, instead of being willing to discuss symptoms with a fellow-sufferer, is rather ashamed of having suffered.

So one man, being wise in his generation and knowing that there was nothing a person in love difficulties wouldn't do, and no money he wouldn't give to be helped in his troubles, opened a love bureau.

He pretended to untangle love difficulties. Among other things, he stated that he had taken the thirty-third degree in mysticism.

He did a rushing business, which, according to the police, netted him about $500 a week.

His chief claim to the confidence of his customers was a telephone arrangement with the Angel Gabriel. He would invoke Gabriel's sympathy for those who appealed to him.

One of his customers was so impressed with the way the angel talked to him over the telephone that he has gone insane.

He must have been close to the borderland or he wouldn't have fancied he could talk to Gabriel.

It isn't necessary to take the thirty-third degree in mysticism nor even to pretend to be in communication with the angles to make a person tell you his troubles.

He is only too willing to talk.

The difficulty is to get some one to listen.

The woman who can listen and be sympathetic is the woman men like.

The way to win the confidence of people is to listen to the little things they have to say.

The sweetly sympathetic type of woman is probably more admired by men than any other.

Of course no one type of woman appeals to all kinds of men.

But the one who can forget her own troubles and listen to a man's is pretty sure of winning the man she wants.—New York Journal.

⁂

Now is the Time To Live and Laugh

By Winifred Black.

I MET a man I used to know this morning.

When I used to know him he was a good-natured, good-looking, rosy-cheeked little man, with a fine, prosperous little shop in a fine, prosperous little street.

This morning when I met him I did not know him until he spoke to me. His red cheeks had turned white, his good clothes had grown shabby, his square, courageous little shoulders were drooping.

"Well," he said, "I think I'm going to land it!"

"Land what?" I said.

"Why, the estate," said the little man, staring at me with beaming eyes. "The big English estate, you know, that belonged by right to my great-grandfather, and ought to belong to me. I've had an awful time about it, but my lawyer says if I can just raise $5,000 more he can prove my case so that the Chief Justice of England himself will have to admit it."

"How's the shop doing?" said I.

"The shop?"

The little man's haggard face was blank. "Oh, yes, you mean my old business. Oh, I sold that long ago; had to, to pay my lawyers."

"And the pretty little home you were building?"

"That's gone, too," said the little man. "It wasn't up to what I ought to have anyway. When I come into my estates I'll build the right kind of a home for a man of property."

All gone—business, home, happiness, peace of mind—all, all gone to the lawyers.

Don't laugh too hard at the little man. I wonder if some of us are not stepping right in his very footsteps. The money we're going to have when we've pinched ourselves to death for a few years longer, the old friends we're going to visit when they are under the green and growing grass, the children we're going to find time to love and play with when they've learned to live without us. The little garden that's going to smile under our hands when we get through making our fortunes. The fair moonlight that is going to illuminate the waters under the bow of the little old canoe we're going to paddle up quiet inlets, when we've finished crushing the rival competitor out of business.

Dreams, Dreams. Why don't we turn them into reality?

I'd give more for one little cheap posey sent to me by one friend who remembered than for all the wreaths heaped mountain high upon my coffin. We're alive now; let's live now.

Let's laugh and love, right now. Don't let's wait until we come into the estate which some old great-grandfather ought to have handed down to us but didn't care enough about us to remember to do it.—San Francisco Examiner.

⁂

The New Conscience.

By Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi of Temple Beth Israel, Portland, Oregon.

THE hope of our age is the new conscience, which, paraphrasing the words of Grattan, arises out of the very excess of the evil—a glaring, tragic disproportion between the multiplication of the material resources and the painfully labored increase of the moral resources of the nation. Civilization without conscience is seen to be a dead thing, and not worth while. The forces setting siege to citadelled wrong are arming themselves with the irresistible weapon of the new conscience.

No single force has ministered as powerfully to the new conscience as the new science with its little less than heavensent revelations touching man's oneness of descent. The new science points downward to his common origin; the new conscience points upward to man's common destiny. The new conscience, social in its outreaching and ensoulings, builds upon the science of human relations and adjustments.

The most significent symptom of the rise of the new conscience is the widespread discussion of the methods of the acquirement and the distribution of wealth, as well as the causes of poverty. The problem of the moralization of wealth is brought before the searching tribunal of the new conscience. The mere stating of the fact that a man is rich will not suffice. How he got his riches, and what he is doing with it is not alone his business, but the concern of the many. Comes Washington Gladden and asks "Did you earn your money aright?" and the apostle of the simple life asks, "Will you spend your money aright?"

"The new conscience is crying out against social iniquity, which is inequity, which is social injustice. The new conscience insists that justice be done.

⁂

A Suggestion for Rural Teachers

By Ross Hill, Dean of the Missouri Teachers' College.

IN the district school perhaps the greatest problem for the teacher is to keep the pupils interested in the work of the school. The whole thing seems so unnatural to the pupil, to the boy in particular. The boy is right. The life he is expected to lead during school hours is so artificial and unnatural as compared with his activities outside of school hours that it is little wonder that he grows restless and loses interest in the work of the school, if indeed his interest in it is awakened at all. The remedy for this condition of affairs is to be found in making the conditions of school life more like those of the home and of the community.

Now for the boy from the farm this much needed change can be most easily and effectively brought about by the introduction of elementary agriculture as one of the subjects of study in school. The boy's interests in farming operations have already been awakened at home; and if the school will but utilize these interests and show the relation of farming to other industries, to trade, and to progress in all that makes for man's comfort, it will be quite easy to interest him in such other subjects as history, geography and arithmetic. These subjects will come to mean something to him because he will see their relation to the farm activities in which he is already interested. Besides, the boy's observations outside of school have already introduced him to the elements of many sciences; and instead of putting him at work in school on subjects entirely foreign to his education up to the time he entered, these elements of knowledge should be made the starting point of his school work.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

In an official return issued recently it is shown that the total deposits at the postoffice and trustee savings banks of Ireland have grown in the last ten years from $36,855,000 to $61,480,000 while the number of depositors has risen from 328,622 to 518,676.

In discharging a man and wife charged with conspiring to defraud an insurance company a London magistrate said that in law a man and his wife were one person, and one person could not conspire.

There must be moments in Theodore, Jr.'s life when, as he toys with the arnica bottle, he concludes that the posession of a papa with a reputation for strenuousness has its disadvantages after all, thinks the New York Press.

Enough coal has been found in the Philippines to supply the nation for three centuries. That looks like a scheme of nature to show Mr. Baer that he is not the whole works, observs the Washington Post.

For fencing in 212,000 acres of Government land the Federal Court of Nebraska has just sentenced two patriots to a $300 fine. It does seem as if land must be worth more than that, even in Nebraska, thinks the Detoit Journal.

It is stated by the London Globe that with the electrification of London's underground railroads an effort is to be made to "teach porters the proper pronunciation of the names of stations."

The nomenclature of this prevailing age of "graft" is making its way higher up. In a Reading court a few days ago the word "rake off" received a judicial interpretation that gives it added dignity. Two men were asking for a new trial after being convicted of criminally libeling a former county comptroller. Some months ago, while John F. Ancona, who was filling the office of county comptroller, was a candidate for office, the two defendants printed the statement that Mr. Ancona had received a "rake-off" in a certain case. In passing on the evidence, Judge Endlich said that "a search of the standard dictionaries does not disclose the phrase as a recognized part of the English language. The court finds, however, that the phrase has gained currency in popular speech, and in its opinion means 'going over an object with a rake and gathering up the material which adheres.' " This was adjudged to mean, in the utterance complained of, that the county comptroller went over a certain fund and fraudulently scraped in $420. Even this emasculated definition of the good old grafting term was considered sufficient to justify a denial of the request for a new trial.

No sooner had a club been formed here for the promotion of aerial navigation than a dozen letters came to the office of its secretary from inventors pleading for a chance to show that they have the real and only secret at their command. The flying machine inventor has, in fact, completely ousted his relative, the deserving young man who has discovered perpetual motion. This is despite the fact that there was no necessity for rivalry between them, inasmuch as perpetual motion could in no way be better applied than to the propulsion of an airship. Kipling's story in the last McClure's, "With the Night Mail" does not leave out the inventors and their parts in the aerial transportation of the twenty-first century. His incidental mention of the poor inventor who thought he had discovered a rudder that would enable war aeroplanes to ram, and died broken-hearted because his invention only enabled steering of dirigible balloons, gains a little "human interest" from the thought that just such a man may be among the dozen inventors now petitioning the Aero Club. Somebody, in all human probability, is going to invent the appliances that will make actual flight possible.

There has been very much hypocrisy in life insurance management. A purely money making enterprise has been represented as primarily religious and philanthropic in its purpose. This hyprocrisy involved the necessity of personal religious pretence and of an appearance of high social respectability. Church membership or a conspicuous place in a religious circle were very desirable for a life insurance official. A reputation for piety was one of his most valuable personal assets. If he was a church vestryman, if he was a delegate to a religious convention and prominent on its platform, if his name appeared as a liberal giver for religious purposes, it was all in the nature of a telling advertisement for his company. The church now rises to disclaim responsibility for such a use of the religious cloak, and justly, declares the New York Sun. The effort to hide depravity behind its robe of purity is rather a tribute to its moral elevation. The church, however, is all the more required to denounce such a misuse of its privileges, and it is now wisely making itself foremost in exercising the impudent offenders. Sing Sing, and not a fashionable church, is the appropriate place for them.

Business directories for 1905 show a decided increase in the enrollment of women.

OLD SETTLER IN KANSAS.

One of the oldest settlers in Ki man county, Kansas, is a mule helped to draw the first wagon of provisions into the county. T mule has been admitted as a mem of the Old Settlers' Association, attends every picnic. It is one of landmarks of the county.

Bald-headed men never have sumption.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.
Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Pil
Druggists are authorized to refund money
Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.

Celery is the cultivated variety of t English weed, smallage.

Prince Kuropatkin.

Prince Peter Kuropatkin, the mous Russian social reformer, resides at Bromley, England. He longs to one of the proudest and est Russian families. It is said he had a better claim to the thro than Alexander II. His career teen unique. As a boy he wished study music, but was discouraged his father, who told him that all man required to learn of music how to turn over the pages for a la He has been in turn soldier, expl and geographer, prison reformer, olutionist, scientist and litterat There is much food for reflection the fact that, although he is now exile, he was once in such favor the Russian court that he was pointed chamberlain to the czarina.

Dolls as Educators.

A novel idea has been realised Paris by M. Leo Claretie who, sides being an eminent educationist, an ardent advocate of rendering e cation attractive. His system of history of France in dressed dolls to be placed on public exhibition an object lesson in its capabiliti Even the prehistoric periods, wh life can only be known on the te mony of the rocks, are represent Within the pale of history every is represented by its leading figur as Gaul, pro-Roman, Roman a Frankish. Then come the crusad the English wars, the later mid ages, the early modern period, and on to the third republic.

A Portable Soup Tureen in London

Hundreds of portable soup ture have been brought into service by association organized for charita purposes in the Hammersmith dist of London. The object is to supply who may be in need of immedi sustenance with hot soup and br at the cost of a penny. The sche became so popular at once that demand could not be supplied and number of soup barrows was increa by the hundred. It has already b demonstrated that the association be kept active in the administrat of its charity.

Remarkable Statue of Satan.

A curious statue was set up i street near his dwelling by an ec tric German citizen of Detroit. I dedicated to Satan and is domina by a figure of the father of lies. is a fair example of modern sculpt but the city authorities object to presence in a public thoroughfare, it will be removed. The Detroit T verein recently visited the statue body and drank toasts to owner sculptor.

The grave of William Hurry, on July 4, 1776, rang on the old erty bell the peal that proclaimed erty throughout the land, has found in the burial ground of Street Presbyterian church, Phil phia. The Daughters of the Re tion, Colonial Dames and Sons of Revolution have taken it in ch and the plot will be put in good c tion and cared for.

Although the Simpson tunnel much longer than either the St. G ard or the Mont Cenis, it was pleted in six and a half years, it took eight years to construct St. Gothard and twelve years fo Mont Cenis. The difference in of the Simplon was due almost e ly to the improved rotating drills used in tunnel construction.

The Earl of Caithness, a Scot bleman, who owns Berriedale far North Dakota, is forty-eight year and a bachelor. He once tried troduce the Highland dress am poor folk in North Dakota, b women refused to take kindly way of thinking, and so he didn tempt to force the idea.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine T
Druggists refund money if it fails to c
W. Grove's signature on each box.

Valuable dogs are often vaccinat days.

There is a great deal of unre much of the talk about the fringe. Ireland might be righ scribed as of mingled Celtic a tonic origin, with the Celt sligh dominating. The differences Irish and English people are more climatic than racial, say don sphere.

A Neglected Relic of the Great cipator.

The car once used by Pres coln in his official trips about t try and also as his funeral c at the present time on a unused side track at Joliet, terly neglected.

SIX YEARS AGO

Franklin Found a Magnificently Effective Medicine.

A. Franklin, of the Franklin Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y., writes: "Seven years ago I was suffering very much through the failure of the kidneys to eliminate the uric acid from my system. My back was very lame and ached if I over myself in the least degree. At times I was weighed down with a feeling of languor and depression and suffered continually from annoying irregularities of the kidney secretions. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. I found prompt relief from the aching and lameness in my back, and by the time I had taken three boxes I was cured of all irregularities."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Liberty and Her Torch

The light in the torch of the statue of Liberty at the entrance to New York harbor is a constant source of annoyance to seafaring men. It is not an official light, but it is often mistaken for one. Some time ago there was a demand that the light should be abolished, but it was ignored for sentimental reasons. The statue is one of the first things to greet the eye on the homeward passage and is always hailed with marked manifestations of patriotism.

WHY TAKE CALOMEL?

When Mozley's Lemon Elixir, a purely vegetable compound, with a pleasant taste, will relieve you of Biliousness, and all kindred diseases without griping or nausea, and leave no bad effects.

50c. and $1.00 per bottle at all Drug Stores.

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR.

"One Dose Convinces."

Brighter Prospects

Increase Your Yields Per Acre

We have photographs of fields on which no fertilizers were used and pictures of fields on which "other makes" of fertilizers were used. Results of these crops were dismal failures. There are much "brighter prospects" ahead for the progressive farmers of the South. Two and three bales to the acre are only ordinary yields where are used with proper cultivation. Make your cotton mature early, and thus escape the boll weevils and other damaging insects. You can easily do this, as well as increase the number of bolls and their size on your plants by plentifully using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. This method will tremendously "increase your yields per acre." Don't be fooled into buying a substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SAW

Has easy work if it's an Atkins. The keen, clean cutting edge and perfect taper of the blade make it run easily without buckling or "humping" to with the perfection Handle.

But there are other men behind the Atkins Saw. The originator of SILVER STEEL, the finest crucible steel made, was a good deal of a man. The discoverer of the Atkins secret tempering process was likewise a man of brains and genius.

And there are high-class workmen behind this saw, masters of their craft, whose skill and pride of workmanship have helped to make the Atkins Trade Mark an assurance of quality as stable as the Government assay stamp.

We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana

Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

PAXTINE AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box. Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free. The R. Paxton Company, Boston, Mass.

OLD SETTLER IN

One of the oldest settlers in man county, Kansas, is a mule, helped to draw the first wagon of provisions into the county. The mule has been admitted as a member of the Old Settlers' Association, attends every picnic. It is one of landmarks of the county.

Bald-headed men never have sumption.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.
Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding P Druggists are authorized to refund money Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.

Celery is the cultivated variety of English weed, smallage.

Prince Kuropatkin.
Prince Peter Kuropatkin, the mous Russian social reformer, resides at Bromley, England. He longs to one of the proudest and est Russian families. It is said he had a better claim to the thr than Alexander II. His career been unique. As a boy he wished study music, but was discouraged his father, who told him that al man required to learn of music how to turn over the pages for a la He has been in turn soldier, explo and geographer, prison reformer, olutionist scientist and litterat There is much food for reflection the fact that, although he is now exile he was once in such favor the Russian court that he was pointed chamberlain to the czarina

Dolls as Educators.
A novel idea has been realized Paris by M. Leo Claretie, who, sides being an eminent educationist an ardent advocate of rendering cation attractive. His system of history of France in dressed doll to be placed on public exhibition an object lesson in its capabilit Even the prehistoric periods, wh life can only be known on the te mony of the rocks, are represen Within the pale of history every is represented by its leading figu as Gaul, pro-Roman, Roman Frankish. Then come the crusa the English wars, the later mid ages the early modern period, and on to the third republic.

A Portable Soup Tureen in Lond
Hundreds of portable soup ture have been brought into service by association organized for charita purposes in the Hammersmith dist of London. The object is to supply who may be in need of immed sustenance with hot soup and br at the cost of a penny. The sche became so popular at once that demand could not be supplied and number of soup barrows was incre by the hundred. It has already demonstrated that the association be kept active in the administra of its charity.

Remarkable Statue of Satan.
A curious statue was set u street near his dwelling by an ec tric German citizen of Detroit. dedicated to Satan and is domin by a figure of the father of lie is a fair example of modern sculp but the city authorities object t presence in a public thoroughfare it will be removed. The Detroit verein recently visited the statue body and drank toasts to owner sculptor.

The grave of William Hurry, on July 4, 1776, rang on the old erty bell the peal that proclaimed erty throughout the land, has found in the burial ground of Street Presbyterian church, Phil phia. The Daughters of the Re tion, Colonial Dames and Sons o Revolution have taken it in ch and the plot will be put in good c tion and cared for.

Although the Simpson tunnel much longer than either the St. and or the Mont Cenis, it was pleted in six and a half years, it took eight years to construc St. Gothard and twelve years f Mont Cenis. The difference in of the Simplon was due almost ly to the improved rotating drill used in tunnel construction.

The Earl of Caithness, a Scot bleman who owns Berriedale f North Dakota, is forty-eight ye and a bachelor. He once tried troduce the Highland dress am poor folk in North Dakota, b women refused to take kindly way of thinking, and so he di tempt to force the idea.

To Cure a Cold in One Da
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Druggists refund money if it fails to W. Grove's signature on each box.

Valuable dogs are often vaccinat days.

There is a great deal of unc much of the talk about the fringe. Ireland might be ri scribed as of mingled Celtic tonic origin, with the Celt sligh dominating. The differences Irish and English people are more climatic than racial, don sphere.

A Neglected Relic of the Gre cipator.

The car once used by Pres coln in his official trips about try and also as his funeral at the present time on a unused side track at Joli terly neglected.

SEV YEARS AGO

Rochester Chemist Found a Singularly Effective Remedy.

William A. Franklin, of the Franklin-Palmer Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y., writes:

"Seven years ago I was suffering very much through the failure of the kidneys to eliminate the uric acid from my system. My back was very lame and ached if I over- erted myself in the least degree. At es I was weighed down with a feel- of languor and depression and suf- d continually from annoying irreg- rities of the kidney secretions. I ured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills began using them. I found prompt ief from the aching and lameness my back, and by the time I had en three boxes I was cured of all gularities."

old by all dealers; 50 cents a box. ter-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Liberty and Her Torch.

he light in the torch of the statue iberty at the entrance to New York bor is a constant source of annoy- to seafaring men. It is not an cial light, but it is often mistaken one. Some time ago there was a and that the light should be abol- ed, but it was ignored for senti- tal reasons. The statue is one the first things to greet the eye the homeward passage and is al- ys hailed with marked manifesta- s of patriotism.

WHY TAKE CALOMEL?

When Mozley's Lemon Elixir, a purely vegetable compound, with a pleasant taste, will relieve you of Biliousness, and all kindred diseases without griping or nausea, and leave no bad effects.

50c. and $1,00 per bottle at all Drug Stores.

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR.

"One Dose Convinces."

Brighter Prospects
Increase Your Yields Per Acre

We have many actual photographs of cotton fields on which no fertilizers were used and pictures of fields on which "other makes" of fertilizers were used. Results of these crops were dismal failures. There are much "brighter prospects" ahead for the progressive farmers of the South. Two and three bales to the acre are only ordinary yields where are used with proper cultivation. Make your cotton mature early, and thus escape the boll weevils and other damaging insects. You can easily do this, as well as increase the number of bolls (and their size) on your plants by plentifully using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. This method will tremendously "increase your yields per acre." Don't be fooled into buying a substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

HE MAN
EHIND THE SAW

Has easy work if it's an Atkins. The keen, clean cutting edge and perfect taper of the ade make it run easily ithout buckling. "humping" to with the Perfection Handle.

But there are other men behind Atkins Saw. The originator of SILVER STEEL, the finest crucible made, was a good deal of a an. The discoverer of the Atkins cret tempering process was likewise a man of ains and genius.

And there are high-class workmen behind the saw, masters of their craft, whose skill and ide of workmanship have helped to make the kins Trade Mark an assurance of quality as liable as the Goverment assay stamp.

We make all types and sizes of Saws, but ly one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor rapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware alers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.
ctory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.
BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).
Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

bled with ills peculiar to r sex, used as a douche is marvelously suc- ful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, s discharges, heals inflammation and local ness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh. tine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure r, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.
Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.
R. Paxton Company Boston, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CONSUMPTION

"HOT-AIR" COFFIN FACTORIES

Lead Many Unwary Investors into Quicksands of Financial Ruin.

In these days of frenzied finance, and the limelight of investigation on insurance corporations, the ordinary public is amazed over the disclosure of how millions are carelessly handled by the heads of large institutions, supposed to be safe and conservative.

One fact revealed by these disclosures, is that the men connected with such institutions, have gotten beyond the days of small capital, and deal with such which rival Uncle Sam's treasury, through which, if successful, they will realize large profits.

How sadly in comparison do the "investors" in many manufacturing enterprises appear, when judged from the standpoint of "knowing what you do," and nowhere is this more patent than with the investor that is constantly sinking funds in the many mushroom coffin factories that appear, and then after a spasm "disappear," either through a "shut down" or through the sheriff.

Did the loss but extend only to these "investors" it would be but the usual result, of not "looking before you leaped," but what of the creditors, and frequently the amounts advanced by "localities" paid to stimulate the new town industries, and often the wages due to workmen.

The prevailing opinion in the public mind that the manufacturing of undertakers' goods returns tremendous profits, is no doubt stimulated by experience had with the undertaker, but in the manufacturing of funeral supplies, the question becomes quite a different proposition, for supply and demand, pure and simple, regulates the price, as it does in all other business, with the exception that "the demands cannot be stimulated, by either style, product, or price, "Father Time," alone controls.

Here is where the over zealous capitalist or community allow promoters, or patriotism to impose upon their credulity, in accepting statements which will not bear the "light of investigation," but through ignorance of conditions, subscribe and put up their cash, only to get wise after it is too late.

Statistics show that there are one hundred and ninety-five casket manufacturing and jobbing plants in the United States, of which 163 are manufacturers of varying capacities, while 19 manufacture approximately 375,000 coffins and caskets annually, 30 manufacture 360,000, 114 manufacture 612,000, or a total of 1,347,000 coffins and caskets, manufactured annually in the United States, all of which must be consumed through the ordinary demand of mortality, but what is the demand? In the mortality abstract of the twelfth census, table number 94, we find that the total deaths from all causes in the registration area of the United States was 512,669 for twelve months, but this registration area was only 38 per cent of the continental territory of the United States. In part I. of the final report on vital statistics, page VII. the final computation shows a death rate in the United States of 16.3 per 1,000, and while this is considered excessive, but assuming it to be correct, it will show approximately only 1,238,000 deaths per year in this country including paupers.

Now what of the 109,000 coffins and caskets produced annually in excess of the demand which the public can not be induced to purchase by the use of any of the ordinary mediums used to stimulate trade as practiced in other lines of business? Unquestionably it is a case of over-supply, which can not be disposed of, and the surplus is more than double the quantity stated, for there is no provision in the estimate for pauper coffins, which are not made in the regular coffin factories, whereas the number of deaths include paupers, and thus the fate of nine out of every ten new coffin plants is clearly written, even before the stock is subscribed, to say nothing of the failure of the old ones.

It sometimes happens that a new plant of this kind, after a hard struggle, succeeds in surviving some of the older ones, but the same amount of capital and energy invested in some other line of business would not run such great risk of failure, while profits in the event of success have proven to be loss than any other class of business.

The records show that the average per cent of profit in the casket manufacturing business by houses which have been in business for a number of years, and equipped with the best facilities for turning out their work at the smallest per cent, runs from 5 to 8 per cent, while several, if not the majority of them can do no better than break even, and in a number of instances close down, or are closed out in a few years.

The government statistics of 1900 shows that in that year $13,585,162.00 of capital was invested in the casket manufacturing business, and the value of the product was $13,952,308.00 at a cost of $10,022,829.00 for material and wages, or a gain of only 23 per cent over the amount expended. Now deduct from this the 20 to 25 per cent necessary for the cost of selling, incidental and sundry expenses and it can be readily seen that the profits will be small if any.

Since these figures were tabulated raw material and labor have both advanced considerably with no advance in the finished product, which makes the small margin between the cost of production and the amount realized for the finished goods likely to disappear altogether.

Prince Kuropatkin.

Prince Peter Kuropatkin, the famous Russian social reformer, now resides at Bromley, England. He belongs to one of the proudest and oldest Russian families. It is said that he had a better claim to the throne than Alexander II. His career has been unique. As a boy he wished to study music, but was discouraged by his father, who told him that all a man required to learn of music was how to turn over the pages for a lady. He has been in turn soldier, explorer and geographer, prison reformer, revolutionist, scientist and litterateur. There is much food for reflection in the fact that, although he is now an exile, he was once in such favor at the Russian court that he was appointed chamberlain to the czarina.

Dolls as Educators.

A novel idea has been realized in Paris by M. Leo Claretie, who, besides being an eminent educationist, is an ardent advocate of rendering education attractive. His system of the history of France in dressed dolls is to be placed on public exhibition as an object lesson in its capabilities. Even the prehistoric periods, whose life can only be known on the testimony of the rocks, are represented. Within the pale of history every age is represented by its leading figures, as Gaul, pro-Roman, Roman and Frankish. Then come the crusades, the English wars, the later middle ages, the early modern period, and so on to the third republic.

A Portable Soup Tureen in London.

Hundreds of portable soup tureens have been brought into service by an association organized for charitable purposes in the Hammersmith district of London. The object is to supply all who may be in need of immediate sustenance with hot soup and bread at the cost of a penny. The scheme became so popular at once that the demand could not be supplied and the number of soup barrows was increased by the hundred. It has already been demonstrated that the association will be kept active in the administration of its charity.

Remarkable Statue of Satan.

A curious statue was set up in a street near his dwelling by an eccentric German citizen of Detroit. It is dedicated to Satan and is dominated by a figure of the father of lies. It is a fair example of modern sculpture but the city authorities object to its presence in a public thoroughfare, and it will be removed. The Detroit Turnverein recently visited the statue in a body and drank toasts to owner and sculptor.

The Earl of Caithness, a Scotch nobleman, who owns Berriedale farm, in North Dakota, is forty-eight years old and a bachelor. He once tried to introduce the Highland dress among the poor folk in North Dakota, but the women refused to take kindly to his way of thinking, and so he didn't attempt to force the idea.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

About 2,000 firms and invividuals are assisting in compiling a "Technolexicon," to be issued in Berlin. Already 2,700,000 word cards of technical terms in German, French and English have been collected, and the end is not yet in sight.

AN AWFUL SKIN HUMOR

Covered Head, Neck and Shoulders—Suffered Agony For Twenty-Five Years Until Cured by Cuticura.

"For twenty-five years I suffered agony from a terrible humor, completely covering my head, neck and shoulders, discharging matter of such offensiveness to sight and smell that I became an object of dread. I consulted the most able doctors far and near, to no avail. Then I got Cuticura, and in a surprisingly short time I was completely cured. I advise all those suffering from skin humors to get Cuticura and end their misery at once. S. P. Keyes, 149 Congress Street, Boston, Mass."

Only 1,400 Russian pilgrims went to Jerusalem this year, as against the usual average of 8,000.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY RATES VIA QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE.

Tickets will be sold via Queen and Crescent Route to points south of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers and east of the Mississippi River to St. Louis and intermediate points on the I. C. R. R. L. & N. R. R., M. & O. R. R. and the Southern Railway December 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st, 1905, January 1st, 1906, final limit January 4th 1906.

Ask ticket agents for particulars, or J. C. Conn, D. P. A., Chattanooga; A. B. Freeman, T. P. A., Birmingham.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

In some parts of Hungary serfdom of the Russian type still prevails.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

In Spain drug stores are permitted to sell drugs on Sunday.

F. W. Green's Sons, of Atlanta, Ga., are the only successful Dropsy Specialists in the world. See their liberal offer in advertisement in another column of this paper.

St. Petersburg is to have a school of agriculture for women only.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900.

The London County Council now uses motor repair wagons.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

It is estimated that 70,000 people kill themselves annually in Europe.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The United States raises 3-4 of the world's cotton supply.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time, B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

Business failures are fewer this year than last.

Bald-headed men never have consumption.

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble—A New Method, by Absorption—No Drugs.

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. Are you afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead Weight in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?

Bad Breath or Any Other Stomach Torture?

Let us send you a box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers free to convince you that it cures.

Nothing else like it known. It's sure and very pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach Trouble can't be cured otherwise—so says Medical Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure and we want you to know it, hence this offer.

Special Offer.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a free sample for this coupon.

12235 A FREE BOX. 114
Send this coupon with your name and address and druggist's name who does not sell it for a free box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to Mull's Grape Tonic Co., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

Bernhardt's New Pet.

Sarah Bernhardt has given away her pet tiger anu now lavishes her affection on a large and particularly ugly baboon, whose ears have been pierced so he may wear huge rings of gold.

TUMORS CONQUERED
SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse menstruation, accompanied by unusual pain, from the ovaries down the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

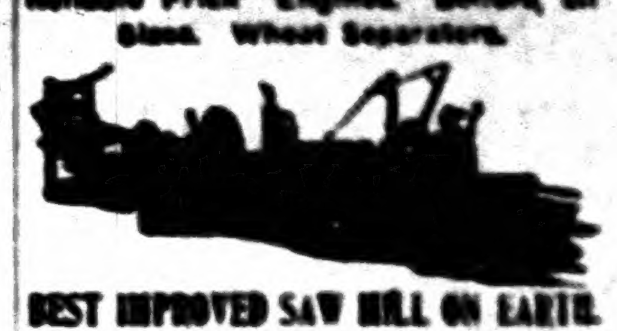
Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice free of all charge if you will write her about yourself. Your letter will be seen by women only.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my monthlies stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor on the uterus and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my monthlies around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.



BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

DYSPEPSIA

TRADE MARK. SICK HEADACHE,

CONSTIPATION

PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY CURED WITH

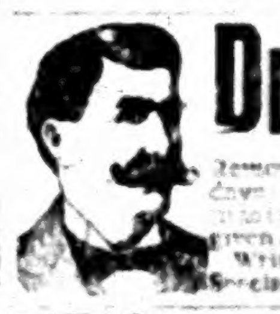
Crab Orchard Water.

A Century's Experience, With Successful Results, is the Best Testimonial.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Crab Orchard Water Co.,
Louisville, Ky.

Am 31 1905



Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling effects a permanent cure Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

$3 an ACRE for good land in healthy, mild climate. Address Fruit-Land Colony, Swann Sta., Moore Co., N. C.

COTTON YIELDS are sure to dwindle from year to year unless the soil is kept supplied with a complete fertilizer containing sufficient POTASH.

Just how POTASH increases cotton crops is shown in our 90-page book, "Cotton Culture." This book is sent absolutely free of any cost or obligation to any farmer who will write for it.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—93 Nassau Street. or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE
CURES COUGHS & COLDS

ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

GOOD LUCK
ONE SPOON
BAKING POWDER
SOUTHERN MFG.
RICHMOND, VA.
GOOD LUCK BAKING POWDER

Good Luck Knocking at Your Oven Door

You're bound to have good luck on baking day if you use Good Luck Baking Powder. There is always just so much "riz" to a spoonful, because it never varies in strength. You know that's what makes reliable baking. A good cook who once tries Good Luck will never go back to the uncertain kinds.

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

also makes a big difference in the family pocketbook the day the grocer's bill is paid. Only 10 cents for a pound can—we couldn't improve the purity and quality of Good Luck if we charged three times as much.

Don't overlook the beautiful premiums we give with Good Luck Baking Powder. This is our method of sharing with you the saving we make by shipping in carload lots to grocers. Cut out coupon from back of each can. The little gift book inside of can illustrates and describes the articles you may obtain.

THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO.,
Richmond, Va.

CUT OUT THIS CAR AND SAVE IT. THEY ARE GOOD FOR VALUABLE ARTICLES. SEE LIST IN EACH CAN.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown man—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matron—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can allow you any kind of suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last,

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9 All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

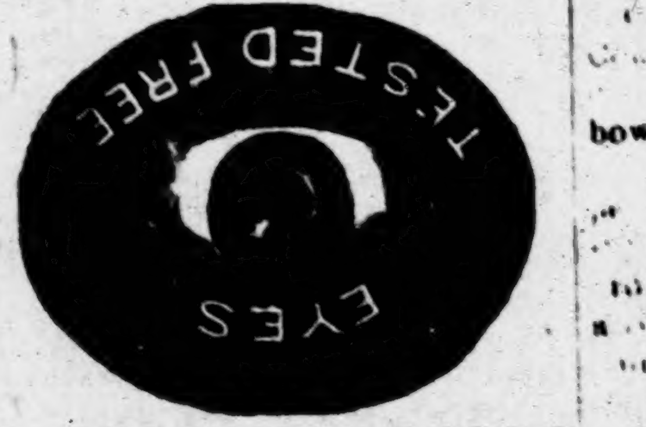
J. R BROADHEAD & SON
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise
Fine Groceries
None better on the market.
CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come in and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a cof[illegible].

W. I MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA

Job Printing cheap at THE BANNER Office



A COMPLETE STOCK
of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

Position GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day. GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

[illegible] bowels with Kennedy's [illegible] The Original L[illegible] [illegible]

German Baby's Swaths.

Of all housewives in Europe probably the German is the hardest worked, and of all European mothers the German practices most completely the art of swathing and padding her baby and of putting it on the shelf. The German baby is swaddled in a long, narrow pillow, which is made to meet completely round him, being tucked up over his feet and turned under his solemn chin. Three bands of gay blue ribbons are then passed round the whole bundle and tied in large, florid bows about where his chest, his waist and his ankles may be supposed to be.

In this guise he can be deposited as an ornament either on the sumptuous best bed or on the kitchen dresser or on the drawing room table. How fond the Germans are of this presentment of baby may be guessed from the fact that it figures largely in their picture books, among their dolls and even in the bakers' shops at Easter time, made of dough and covered with sugar, to be devoured by greedily live babies.—

Bethel

Dear Editor: Just a few words concerning the first requisite to success, enlightenment and civilization knowledge is power and union is strength. By the uniting and concentrating of these two forces, well developed, one is able to overcome all the adversities, and meet all the demands of an American citizen. Without these, one can by no means fill the stations of life in that way and manner that the advanced age demands of him.

When, in what way, by what means, and under what circumstances can one obtain this knowledge and power. We cannot question the fact that in youth, while the mind is in its plastic and vigorous state, is the time to administer this requisite, that one may not forever be intangled with that sad word, "too late"

There is no difficulty to him who wills, and where there is a will there is a way. There is no doubt that this entire vocation rests on the shoulders of the fathers and mothers

If we will use the pecuniary or means of perseverance and stickability, we have all the means that is necessary to accomplish the aim in view, which also rests largely on the parent

When we come to consider the circumstances under which we are to acquire this knowledge, we find ourselves surrounded with a question which all are familiar and which, no doubt, will find people toiling under all conditions, even from the very best to the most adverse. There is no maximum plan which we can or should attempt to discontinue the expansion of the mind. Therefore, under all circumstances and conditions, let us strive to reach a plain that the advanced age is demanding.

In conclusion will say to the parent that the success of your children and of the country, from a mental, moral, social and intellectual standpoint, is resting entirely upon your shoulders Keep before you knowledge, harmony and union, and, if fully mastered, success is yours. A WORKER.

When you want a pleasant laxative take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A, Horn, Thorsby,

---

Fall Clearance
SALE
STILL CONTINUES
and we have a few goods on hand that we are selling at the same
CUT PRICES
Now is the Time to Buy!

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Maplesville, Ala.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats
CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.
General Merchandise:
CLANTON - - ALA.

BIG STOCK
LOW PRICES

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes,

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS.
VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton, Ala.

Blind Headache

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. Mattie Allen, of 1123 Broadway, Augusta, Ga., "I suffered with blind, sick headaches and backaches, and could get no relief until I tried

WINE OF CARDUI
Woman's Relief

I immediately commenced to improve, and now I feel like a new woman, and wish to recommend it to all sick women, for I know it will cure them, as it did me." Cardui is pure, medicinal extract of vegetable herbs, which relieves female pains, regulates female functions, tones up the organs to a proper state of health. Try it for your trouble.

Every druggist sells it in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US FREELY and frankly, describing your symptoms. We will consider your case and give you free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Don't hesitate, but write today. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Ingram.

The health of this community is very good. People are fixing for a big time Christmas.

Mr. Elbert Culp visited his sister, Mrs. Alice Mims, Sunday.

There was a candy breaking at Mr R. Mims' Saturday night and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

We would like to hear from C. M. B. again through the school girls

Mr J E Ray and brother Lonnie visited their father Sunday.

We are sorry to know that our Sunday school is dead on account of the weather being so bad. But I think if they would try that they could keep it alive. If they wanted to go to a frolic the weather would not be too bad.

Miss Evie Maddox visited Miss Lemie Deason Sunday and reported a nice time. VIOLA.

Active.

Married, Sunday, Dec. 9th, at the home of the bride, near Active, Mr. Carey Edwards to Miss Lillie Gragg. Mr. Edwards is a highly esteemed young man of Bibb county, and our hearty good wishes go to the happy young couple.

In Mad Chase.

Millions rush in mad chase after health, from one extreme of faddism to another, when if they would only eat good food, and keep their bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills, their troubles would all pass away. Prompt relief and quick cure for liver and stomach trouble. 25c at Upchurch Drug co; guaranteed.

His Art.

Mrs. Syllie—My husband takes a deep interest in art. Mrs. Oldar—You surprise me. Mrs. Syllie—Well, it was a surprise to me, but I heard him telling Jack Bowader last night that it was a good thing to study your hand before you drew.

Assistance Not Necessary.

"Help! Help!" cried the man who was being robbed.

"Calm yourself," said the highwayman. "I don't need any assistance."

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time, His wife sent for physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st, 1901:"

Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00, sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division In Vacation, 1900.
Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Robt. H. Knox, that the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and when last heard from resided in the State of Tennessee, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on before the [illegible] day of December, 1900, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of November, 1900.

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

Sour Stomach

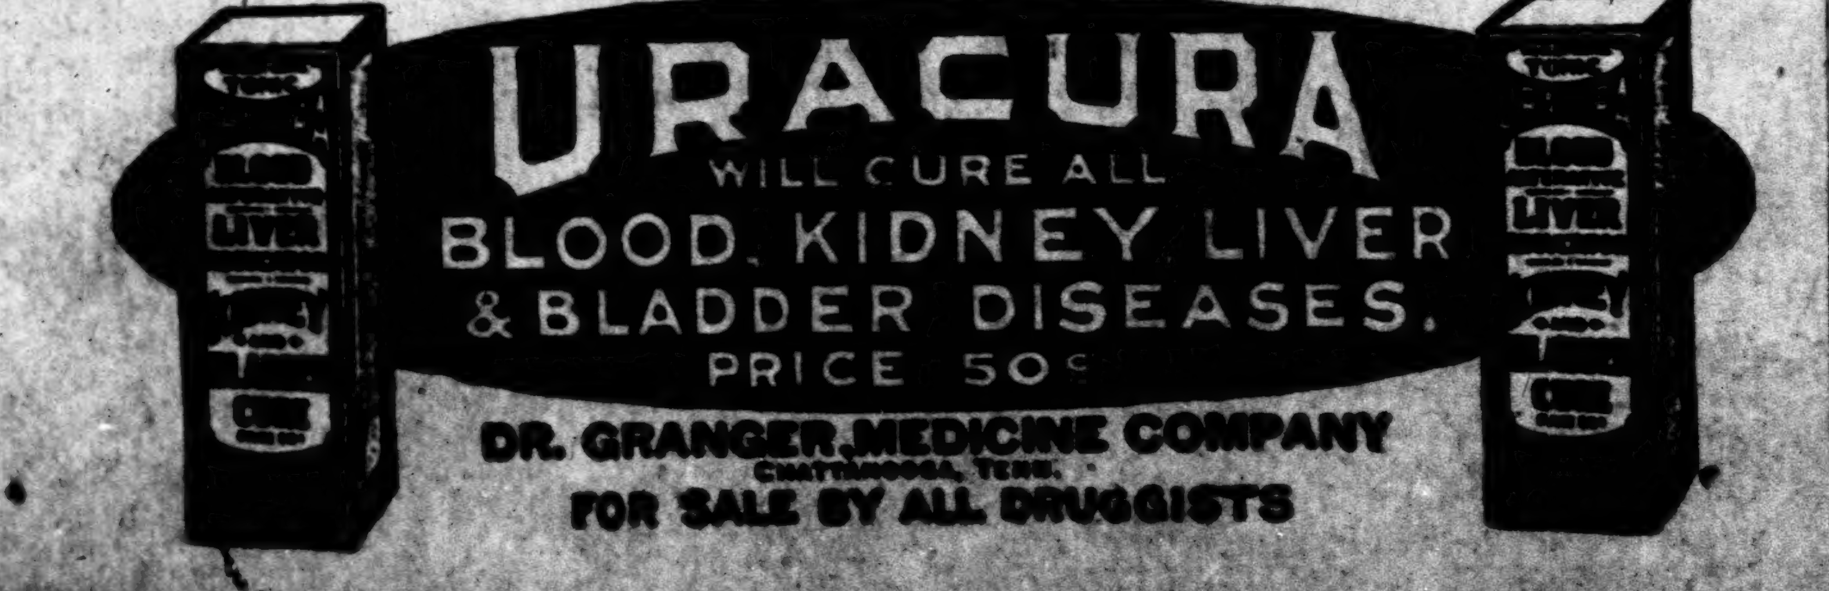
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

[illegible] only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.
Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.



URACURA
WILL CURE ALL
BLOOD, KIDNEY LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.
PRICE 50¢
DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS and COLDS Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

OL. XIV

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Sees, and Some He Sees Not.

Nineteen hundred and five is going fast, and this is the last page that will reach you before new year comes in: may the year prove one of unqualified to you throughout its passage is fleeting, but as the years on, how many of us fully realize the blessings we have received? bid each other a "Happy new," but we might add to that, d thanks to the Almighty for year that has passed."

Our good friend, Dr. G. W. rson, who is affectionately remembered by his old friends in ilton, very kindly sent me a box fine oranges from his Florida e. The Doctor, I am sorry to , is in poor health, but this does prevent him from thinking of e he left behind. I wish him er health and many more ristmases to enjoy life and happiness.

The colored people are preparing a big celebration next Monday Clanton, when a big crowd is ked for. Booker Washington W. H. Council have been invited to attend this gathering, and ood program has been arranged.

Mountain Creek

On Saturday the good, honest ntrymen and their wives began pour into the little village that s such an unenviable record fore the last county court. They many polite clerks behind the unters who were as nimble as ths and not all thumbs by any ans The day passed off perfectly quiet and everybody went to ir homes loaded with Christmas ents, leaving the merchants nting their cash, and feeling though everybody had turned er all at once and had resolved uy the largest amount of good gs and nice presents for their ves and babies. Not a drinking n could be found in Mountain ek all day.

Sunday dawned lovely and beautiful, and all day the little village very orderly and quiet. Everyng seemed to do honor to God the best day out of the seven.

Then came Monday and ere it s light the boys were celebrating day by the firing of their crackers, and they each seemed to have good supply. The day dawning s perfectly sublime! The beautiful sunrise, which to this high ountain is a most delightful sight, s exquisitely so on this Christmas orning. Messrs. Henderson, orntoc, Gray and Parrish were ssed near or about all day.

Mr. George Washington Cobern, Mountain Creek's new and very pular merchant, kept open all y, and the boys naturally filed to Mr. Cobern's store to make ditional purchases, to express ew made loves or unstinted bounds old ones. Amongst these were faces of many bright and hopeful young and old men, such as B. Winningham, whose smiling face and stalwalt honesty bed the face one loves to honor as ll as admire. Then close behind comes Profs. O. L. and J. H. ntley, both teaching near here. n comes Walter Gillispie of r Verbena, Peyton Gray and his ther, Wm. Gray, Powell Baxy, his father, James A. P. Baxy, Willie Snyder, J. H. Esco, of. James Calloway, and last but t least, Mountain Creek's evangelist, Rev. S. J. Jennings, who, y the way is writing up the boys t they may not spend all their nings without making preparan for their last long journey.

That's right, Jen[illegible], have them pare for thi[illegible] as well as next.

The day pass[illegible] as quietly as a bbath except the firing of a few s and some fire crackers.

Well, well, Mountain Creek has taken the record for order and riety this time.

Ferguson rides the goose, Montmery, Posson, Calloway and ride the mule, and thus so we

An Onslaught.

STOCK

PRICES

e good people of Chilton county, we ck, comprising all the latest fashions
all your attention to our line of

Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all
kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear;
Jackets of the latest styles; Broad-nderfully reduced prices; Shoes,

Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs
of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50
to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50
ced lined, to go at 39 cents.

SICAL INSTRUMENTS
PHONOGRAPHS.
VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

in stock at the very lowest prices.
d hear the Phonograph talk—they worth living.

NJUTZKY
ORITE STORE
on, Ala.

Headache

' writes Mrs. Mattie Allen, of sta, Ga., "I suffered with d backaches, and could get

ARDUI

n's Relief

commenced to improve, and e a new woman, and wish to it to all sick women, for I will cure them, as it did me."
i is pure, medicinal extract of etable herbs, which relieves male pains, regulates female functions, tones up the organs to a proper state of health.
Try it for your trouble.
Every druggist sells it
in $1.00 bottles.

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st, 1901."

Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00, Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. 7th District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation, 1905.

Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Robt. H. Knox, that the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and when last heard from resided in the State of Tennessee, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on before the 29th day of December, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of November, 1905.

S. A. Stewart, Register in Chancery.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—
"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.
Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

Vol. XIV | Part One | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No. 51

MAN ON THE CORNER

Of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

ineteen hundred and five is go— but fast, and this is the last ge that will reach you before new year comes in: may the year prove one of unqualified to you throughout its passage. is fleeting, but as the years on, how many of us fully realize the blessings we have received? bid each other a "Happy new ," but we might add to that, d thanks to the Almighty for year that has passed."

Our good friend, Dr. G. W. wson, who is affectionately remembered by his old friends in ilton, very kindly sent me a box ine oranges from his Florida e. The Doctor, I am sorry to , is in poor health, but this does prevent him from thinking of e he left behind. I wish him er health and many more istmases to enjoy life and happiness.

The colored people are preparing a big celebration next Monday Clanton, when a big crowd is ked for. Booker Washington W. H. Council have been in- d to attend this gathering, and ood program has been arranged.

Mountain Creek

On Saturday the good, honest ntrymen and their wives began pour into the little village that le such an unenviable record ore the last county court. They t many polite clerks behind the nters who were as nimble as ks and not all thumbs by any ans The day passed off per- tly quiet and everybody went to ir homes loaded with Christmas sents, leaving the merchants nting their cash, and feeling though everybody had turned er all at once and had resolved buy the largest amount of good ngs and nice presents for their es and babies. Not a drinking n could be found in Mountain ek all day.

Sunday dawned lovely and beautiful, and all day the little village s very orderly and quiet. Everyg seemed to do honor to God d the best day out of the seven.

Then came Monday and ere it s light the boys were celebrating day by the firing of their crackers, and they each seemed to have good supply. The day dawning s perfectly sublime! The beautiful sunrise, which to this high untain is a most delightful sight, s exquisitely so on this Christmas rning. Messrs Henderson, ornton, Gray and Parrish were sed near or about all day.

Mr. George Washington Cobern, untain Creek's new and very pular merchant, kept open all y, and the boys naturally filed o Mr. Cobern's store to make ditional purchases, to express w made loves or unstinted bounds old ones. Amongst these were faces of many bright and honorable young and old men, such as B. Winningham, whose smiling face and stalwalt honesty bed the face one loves to honor as ll as admire. Then close behind n comes Profs. O. L. and J. H. ntley, both teaching near here. en comes Walter Gillispie of ar Verbena, Peyton Gray and his other, Wm. Gray, Powell Baxy, his father, James A. P. Baxy, Willie Snyder, J. H. Esco, of. James Calloway, and last but t least, Mountain Creek's evangelist, Rev. S. J. Jennings, who, the way is writing up the boys at they may not spend all their rnings without making preparationsfor their last long journey. That's right, Jen, [illegible] have them epare for this [illegible] as well as e next.

The day passed as quietly as a bbath except the firing of a few ns and some fire crackers.

Well, well, Mountain Creek has oken the record for order and briety this time.

Ferguson rides the goose, Montmery, Penson, Calloway and co ride the mule, and thus on we

An Observer.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The most pleasant, safest and best remedy to use for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc., is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Remedy expels all cold from the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Card of Thanks.

Clanton, Dec. 26 1905

Editor Banner—Will you allow me a few lines in your paper to express my thanks to the Junior League, and kind friends of Clanton. I enjoyed my trip to Clanton on Christmas eve, and was delighted to see the many presents that was given to the dear children and to myself also. May God bless all of them and especially the Junior League God bless all the good people of Clanton.

Ether Vickers.

Mulberry, Dec 25, 1905

Editor Banner—Will you allow an old soldier this Christmas eve space in your valuble paper to make a few remarks. I have been ruminating over the past thinking of my grand children who have no father to love them or bring them presents for Christmas. If I only could see him living this Christmas what a glorious Christmas it would be to me But I can do nothing but look upon his picture trusting that he is taking Christmas with the one who was born on that day in the heavens of eternal bliss in a world that never ends.

Now, to the young men and women of our beautiful Southland, make a resolve today that you will live for the next twelve months a more noble and purer life. Young man prepare yourself to step higher and be an honor to your parents, yourself and country, live in a way that will inspire confidence in all whom you meet; leave off strong drink, use no profane language, treat all with due respect, and above all honor your father and especially your mother, and God will reward you.

Before I close I have a few complimentry remarks for our Editor, a man who deserves all honor in his calling, who has been faithful to his customers whether they have to him or not, a man who deserves a higher calling than the position he now occupies Success to him and the dear old Banner.

Subscriber.

Nocatee, Fla., Dec 20, 1905

Dear old Banner: I am sending you by to-day's express one box choice Florida oranges, hoping you a happy Christmas. My health is still very poor and the Banner is a great comfort and pleasure to me.

If you enjoy the oranges and wish another box write me.

Respectfully.
G. W. Dawson.

In Mad Chase.

Millions rush in mad chase after health, from one extreme of faddism to another, when if they would only eat good food, and keep their bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills, their troubles would all pass away. Prompt relief and quick cure for liver and stomach trouble. 25c at Upchurch Drug Co; guaranteed.

Notice of Municipal Election

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the City of Clanton on Monday, January 8, 1906, for the purpose of electing a Mayor and Four Councilmen for the ensuing year.

H. F. Chandler. Mayor.

Personal.

Mr. Frank Davis of Marbury was in town Wednesday.

Miss Minnie Muse went to Byron, Ga., Saturday, returning Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hicks and children of Marbury visited relatives here Christmas.

Mr. Ed Smitherman has resigned as city marshal and deputy sheriff.

Miss G. L. Chandler of Eclectic is spending the holidays with relatives here.

Mr. Hosea Downs who is attending the medical department of Nashville University is spending Christmas with his parents here.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON ALA

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. S. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. I[illegible], Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. S. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. [illegible]

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts	$[illegible]
Demand Loans	2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures	3,[illegible] 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,144 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519.50
Currency	13,[illegible] 00
Gold	[illegible] 00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,[illegible] 01
Checks and Cash Items	[illegible] 00
Profit and Loss	6.[illegible]
	$[illegible]
Total	$[illegible].61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, [illegible]	$[illegible]
Undivided Profits [illegible]	[illegible]
Individual Deposits [illegible] Check	[illegible]
Time Certificates	[illegible]
Cashier's Checks	[illegible]
	$[illegible]
Total	$[illegible]

Death of Mrs. W A Middleton.

'O death where is thy sting,
O grave where is thy victory."

When a good and blameless life is ended and the soul passes to eternity, how sweet the thought that in death there is no sting, and while the mortal body is placed in the grave, the immortal soul has joined the angel throng.

After a lingering illness, Mrs. Katherine Middleton, the beloved wife of Capt W. A. Middleton, passed away on Tuesday night about nine o'clock For many months she had borne the frailties of the body with Christian patience and cheerful anticipations of the future life. An exemplary wife and mother she complacently looked looked forward to the time when she would join "Our Father who art in heaven" Early in life she joined the Methodist church and was always eager to aid in any good work.

The funeral took place in the cemetery at Clanton, Wednesday evening, Rev. J. T. Eckford impressively officiating, many sympathizing friends attending, who sorrow with the bereaved husband, seven sons and one daughter While the earthly home is desolate, they are consoled with the knowledge that their beloved one is now at home in the mansions of the blest. G[illegible]m.

Croup, [illegible], Whooping Cough, etc., have no terrors for children or adults who evacuate the bowels with Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy expels all cold from the system and strengthens the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. The Original Laxative Cough Syrup and Liquid Cold Cure. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Oakmulgee.

The angel of death has visited us and taken from our midst to a home in heaven little Mintie Atchison, She departed this life Dec. 20th. The little infant was burned to death; we all sympathise with the mother and father and a host of relatives We all owe that debt and know we have got it to pay and don't know how soon.

Melinda Burnett.

A Fearful Fate.

It is a fearful fate to have to endure the terrible torture of Piles. "I can truthfully say," writes Harry Golson, of Masonville, Ia., "that for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, is the best cure made." Also best for cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Subscribe for The Banner.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

HON. B. B. COMER

will address the citizens of Chilton county on the issues of the day at

CLANTON

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1906.

EVERYBODY INVITED.

BUGGY AND HARNESS TAKEN.

On the night of Dec. 6, 1905, my Buggy and Harness was taken from my place by parties unknown. The Horses have been recovered, one near Maplesville and one near Thorby. Am willing to pay for information of the buggy and harness.

D. W. Wilkins, Pletcher, Ala.

WANTED a man to work on halves on a one horse farm. Good stock and good house to live in. Apply to H. M. Burnett, Billingsley, Ala., R. F. D. No. 1.

WANTED: 10 men in each State to travel, post signs, advertise and leave samples of our goods. Salary $75.00 per month. $3.00 per day for expenses. Royal Supply Co., Atlas Block, Chicago.

Nothing will cure indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach rest. You can't expect that a weak stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to to the full work that a sound stomach should do. You wouldn't expect a sick horse to get well when it is compelled to do a full day's work every day in the week. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a perfect digestant and digests the food regardless of the condition of your stomach. Relieves Indigestion, Belching, Sour Stomach, and all stomach disorders. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next State teachers' examination for Chilton county will be held in the court house at Clanton, beginning on the first Monday in January, 1906. The examination will begin at 10 a.m. sharp.

J. W. Moore, Supt.

REWARD.

I have a reward of a substantial nature for the party or parties who will display the manhood to come forward and admit having run into and injured my buggy with a loaded wagon, in front of my office and residence on Dec. 12, 1905.

Wm. M. Adams.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is simply liquid electricity. It goes to every part of your body, bringing new blood, strength and new vigor, It makes you well and keeps you well, 35 cents, Upchurch Drug co

WANTED.

WANTED to rent on halves about sixty acres of land [illegible] made 19 bales cotton and 175 bushels of corn this year with two horses. Apply to Silas Kelly, Clanton, Ala.

OXEN FOR SALE—22 head of oxen, 5 drays, chains, hooks, etc., property of the Jackson Lumber Co. Apply to W. H. [illegible], Jr., 2 miles east of Stanton, Ala.

WANTED—A man that can cultivate 35 or 60 acres land, lies level and has a good new house on [illegible]. Apply to J. A. Burnett, Thorsby, Ala.

Beautifying methods that injure the skin and health are dangerous. Be beautiful without [illegible] by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Sunshiny faces follow its use. 35 cents. Upchurch Drug co.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

The season of indigestion is upon us. Kodol Dyspepsia cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do everything for the stomach that an over-loaded and over-worked stomach can not do for itself. Kodol Digests what you eat—gives the stomach a rest—relieves sour stomach, belching, heart-burn, indigestion, etc. Sold by Upchurch Drug co

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

An Emergency Medicine

For sprains, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but causes the parts to heal in about one third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Dr. JOHN GOODWIN
DENTIST

of Birmingham, 2003 Second ave., will be in Jemison Friday and Saturday before the first Sunday in each month, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. Teeth examined free.

Torture of a Preacher.

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church, of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you. He says. "I suffered agonies, because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption." A grand cure for diseased conditions of Throat and Lungs. At Upchurch Drug co.; price 50c and $1.00. guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
[illegible]
CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

HOLLISTER'S
Rocky Mountain Tea Nuggets
A Busy Medicine for Busy People.
Brings Golden Health and Renewed Vigor.
A specific for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver and Kidney troubles, Pimples, Eczema, Impure Blood, Bad Breath, Sluggish Bowels, Headache and Backache. Its Rocky Mountain Tea in tablet form, 35 cents a box. Genuine made by Hollister Drug Company, Madison, Wis.
GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age. For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton. A Horn, Thorsby.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President — E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President — E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to Small deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - Ala.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

IMPRISONED IN A TUNNEL

Two Italians Caught in L. I. R. R. Excavations.

Lay in Dank, Foul-Smelling Hole For Over Fifty Hours, Many Feet Under the Ground.

New York City.—Professional divers brought to a place of safety two Italian watchmen, who had been imprisoned in the tunnel which the Pennsylvania Railroad is excavating at Long Island City for over fifty hours.

Two trips were made through the tunnel by the divers. On the first trip the men were located and spoken to. They were safe and sound on a bulkhead, nine feet above the water.

Foul air, the uncertainty of deliverance, lack of food and fear had told on the Italians. They were cowering in the farthest corner on top of the structure that had saved them from a subterranean grave as the waters broke through a sewer and into the tunnel.

The gleam of four torches first attracted the imprisoned men. It was the exclamations that they involuntarily made that disclosed to the rescuers their hiding place. Whether it was fear that the strange figures in the rubber suits were apparitions that betokened approaching death or that the entombment had deranged them, the imprisoned men crouched farther into their shelter and resisted the attempts of the divers to get at them.

Little English was spoken or understood by the Italians, and the rescuers had difficulty in making the imprisoned men understand that they would take them back to the surface. After a half hour's colloquy, the Italians agreed to go if the divers would get them rubber suits. The water, they said, was deep and dark.

It would be better that they should take chances of rescue where they were, they said, than to go through a watery bore in the earth. The divers left them and struggled back through the 150 feet of stagnant water, from six to eight feet deep in places, and foul air.

Reaching the surface they reported to E. W. Moir, the Vice-President of the Parsons Company, which is driving the tunnel, that the men were alive: that they had talked with them, and that the men would only risk a trip through the tunnel if they were provided with rubber suits. These suits were quickly supplied, and the four divers, after a rest of about an hour, began once more the journey into the styx-like tunnel.

Again the gleaming of the pine knots they carried, caused the imprisoned men to chatter and gesticulate, and again to crawl further into the corner of the bulkhead. Instead of rushing toward their rescuers, especially after the divers had exhibited the rubber suits, the men fought them off.

Battling and struggling with the little strength they had left, the divers and the Italians had one of the most unique combats on record. Over 100 feet underground, the air dank and foul, on a shaky bulkhead that was gradually being undermined by the murky water, the rescuers and the imprisoned men struggled back and forth. The pine torches lent an unearthly glow to the scene, and the poor Italians, their strength spent, were finally encased in the rubber suits.

Then began the struggle to get the men through the water.

The Italians were helpless. The divers, too, had exhausted their strength in the struggle to subdue the men. But the Italians were now in the water, inert and scarcely able to stand.

The divers each took a man, and, by slow stages, carried them through the tunnel to the workmen's cabin at the East avenue entrance. The cry went up to the top of the shaft that the men had been rescued and the 300 or 400 people who had gathered about the shaft sent up a mighty cheer.

A physician had been sent for by the company, and at once descended to the mouth of the tunnel. He found the men in a remarkably good condition, considering their experience.

The long imprisonment had told upon them mentally, however, and they were not able clearly to realize their position.

The imprisoned men were Francisco Tavelle, thirty-two years old, and Antonio Bragga, thirty-three years old. Both are married and live in Long Island City.

CUBA AIDS U. S. STRIKERS.

House Passes $10,000 Appropriation For Key West Cigarmakers.

Havana, Cuba.—The House of Representatives passed an appropriation of $10,000 to assist the striking Cuban cigarmakers at Key West.

Since the introduction of the latter bill the Cuban newspapers have been urging its immediate passage, and there was not the least opposition to it in any quarter, with the exception of the American newspapers here, which ventured to oppose the granting of Government aid to the strikers.

The Havana Provincial Council appropriated $5000 and the Havana City Council $1000 for the aid of the Key West strikers.

BRICK TRUST IS GUILTY.

Some of Its Officers and Labor Leaders Fined For Conspiracy.

Chicago, Ill.—The Brick Trust made a complete surrender to State's Attorney Healy in court, and a number of its officials and several labor union officers were fined in an aggregate of $18,000. They had been indicted for conspiracy in preventing competition and restricting the production and sale of bricks in the Chicago market.

Read our "ad." and patronize our advertisers. Those who will treat you right.

5,000 VICTIMS

Have Fallen in Moscow Horror—Many Innocent People Meet Death.

COMMUNICATION IS UNCERTAIN.

Population Cowers in Kitchens Stricken With Fear and Trembling at Boom of Cannon.

London.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at St. Petersburg, in a dispatch dated at 6:45 p. m. December 25, says:

"At an early hour this morning the casualties at Moscow were estimated at 5,000 killed and 14,000 wounded, with the fighting still proceeding.

"The inhabitants of Moscow have been forbidden to leave their dwellings after 7 o'clock in the evening.

"It is impossible to move about the city in consequence of the frequency of stray bullets. Many innocent persons have been accidentally killed.

"A scarcity of provisions is threatened."

The same correspondent, telegraphing at 10:38 p. m., says:

"Your Moscow correspondent's telegrams have not been accepted because all private messages were refused this afternoon.

It is learned, however, that cannon firing is now proceeding in various parts of thecity, where tonight very near the railroad stations the barricades erected by the revolutionaries are being desperately defended.

"The Kursk terminus at Moscow is being pillaged, and many wagons laden with provisions are being looted.

"The emperor is engaged daily in reviewing at Tsarskoe-Selo the regiments of the St. Petersburg district. The spirit of the troops is decidedly loyal.

"From fragmentary accounts received from Moscow I gather that the civil war has brought no decisive action, but only a thickening of the blood cloud, an intensifying of the horrors and increase of prevailing bitterness.

"The driving force behind both the troops and the rebels is no longer that of enthusiasm or of any human impulse. It is the force of superhuman hate, and hence the deeds reported are not the acts of patriots, soldiers or otherwise, but the enormities of mad men.

"For every barricade destroyed Sunday two or three appeared in other places. Orders were given by the revolutionists to shoot only when there was good hope of bring a man down, but otherwise to tire out the troops until they lost patience.

"In the meantime in their houses the bulk of the population cowers in the innermost recesses of kitchens and cellars, stricken with fear and trembling at every boom of the cannon or the explosion of a bomb.

"The most surprising thing of all is the loyalty of the troops, which nobody here anticipated.

"Talking with an intelligent group of St. Petersburg revolutionists, I was informed that while they believed the strike would be victorious, they fully realized that they were staking everything upon the issue and that failure would set back their cause for several years. They said they were devoting their efforts to shaking the foundations of Russian finance, in full confidence that once the existing regime was overthrown they could as quickly build another, and that foreign nations would be as ready to advance money to a democratic republic as to the autocracy. They emphatically denied that they were inciting the peasantry to commit agrarian outrages, declaring that these outrages were the work of the socialists, but they did not deny their advocacy of the distribution of the crown lands among the peasants.

"In conclusion they declared that in event of failure of their cause they would have recourse to terrorism, choosing their victims from all classes of society."

Jews Were Aggressors.

Boston, Mass.—According to Andreas Stockberger, an immigrant who arrived here on the steamer Carthagenia, the bloodshed in Odessa was largely due to the Jews attacking the soldiers. The immigrant is a German and comes from a German settlement at Gildendorf, near Odessa.

In an interview he said:

"In Odessa I saw troops march down the main street with loaded guns. Before them was the howling mob, armed with all sorts of weapons, and whenever a chance appeared they would sweep down on the soldiers and tear them to pieces. From house tops and windows stood men and women and even children, and as the soldiers marched by bombs were hurled at them, killing scores and wounding hundreds at a time.

"The soldiers would then charge upon their attackers, piercing with bayonets and shooting them. Wherever the soldiers went they were attacked. The mob, made up entirely of Jews, were almost beside themselves with excitement, and the only purpose was to kill the soldiers."

Kills His Father.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Defending his mother against her quarrelsome husband, Joseph Pollock, aged 22 years, of 138 West Cumberland street, struck his father in the face, which resulted in his death.

William Pollock, the husband, who had been drinking, became angry because his sleep had been disturbed, and was in the act of striking his wife, when the son stopped the blow.

Two Killed—Three Hurt.

Meridian, Miss.—In a tail-end collision on the Alabama and Vicksburg Railroad at Chunkey two men were killed, three others seriously injured and a train load of passengers badly shaken up.

The dead were Vance Lader, fireman, and Peter Kenosky.

The injured: Engineer Tucker, ribs broken and badly cut; fireman of freight engine, badly bruised and cut; Engineer Dave Coker, arms and breast bruised and cut.

Some Christmas Casualities.

Louisville, Ky.—Three fatalities and an unusual number of minor accidents resulted from Louisville's noisy celebration of Christmas.

Theresa Housman, an 8-year-old girl, was killed by George Doll, 12 years of age. The girl's death resulted from the unsuspected presence of a ball cartridge among the number of blanks which the Doll boy, a neighbor, was firing in a rifle.

George Irving Harper, a boy 14 years of age, met death in an unusual manner. While Harper was tamping a charge in a small cannon with a broomstick, another boy exploded a firecracker over the touchhole, setting off the cannon. The broomstick was driven through Harper's neck, killing him instantly.

Ella Barret, a negro girl, was killed by a stray bullet from the revolver of a negro who was celebrating the day.

Houston, Tex.—Christmas was productive of several accidents in this city. A toy lamp exploded and Thelma Cupper, aged 3, was burned to death.

A. Anderson was playing Santa Claus, when his clothing caught fire, and there is little hope for his recovery.

Washington, Pa.—Just as she was hanging a doll for her little sister on a Christmas tree at her home in Hazelkirk Mary, the 9-year-old daughter of James Kennedy, received a bullet in the head from a revolver fired through the door from outside. She died from the effects of the wound. Four arrests have been made pending an investigation.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Returning home after gladdening the hearts of relatives and friends with Christmas gifts, Charles H. Hansen, a well-to-do farmer, and his 8-year-old daughter, Edna, were instantly killed by being struck by a Reading express train at Cattle Hill, fifteen miles north of this city.

McClellan to Win.

New York.—Certificates of election were presented to Mayor McClellan and the other candidates who on the face of the returns were successful at the last election.

Exact figures have not been given out, but it is known the plurality of Mayor McClellan has been reduced by about 300 from the figures given out by the police on election night, giving him by the corrected figures a plurality over William R. Hearst of about 3,400.

No opposition will be made on behalf of Mr. Hearst to the issuance of a certificate to Mayor McClellan, but there has been no withdrawal of the announced plan to ask the legislature to make a complete investigation of the election. With the evidence brought out in such an inquiry as a basis, it is declared that quo warranto proceedings will be instituted to test the right of the mayor to hold his office.

Election bets, however, will be paid without more delay. About $1,500,000 has been tied up in the hands of stakeholders since before election.

Killed in Collision.

East St. Louis, Ill.—One man was killed and three injured in an accident in the railroad yards here, caused by a freight train backing into a street car.

The dead: John Daugherty, St. Louis.

Injured: H. C. Plem, Virginia City, Neb.; F. E. Hathaway, East St. Louis; George Walters, East St. Louis.

The street car was badly damaged. The street car crew declare there were no lights on the rear of the freight and that they had no warning of its approach.

Canadian Minister Dead.

Paris.—Raymond Prefontaine, the Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, died suddenly Monday night.

Factory Building Burns.

New York.—Five fire alarms, summoning thirty-two fire companies and the reserves from the Ninth police precinct, were sent out for a fire which completely gutted the six-story factory building, Nos. 102, 104 and 106 Wooster street, entailing damage estimated at $300,000. Five firemen sustained injuries, but were able to continue at work. No one was in the building when the fire started, and its origin is unknown.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY PASTOR C. T. RUSSELL.

Subject: Centre of the Divine Revelation is Jesus Christ.

Providence, R. I.—Pastor C. T. Russell, of Allegheny, Pa., preached twice here Sunday in Infantry Hall to large audiences. His evening discourse follows:

The Bible may be said to be a revelation of Jesus, who in turn is a revelation of the Father. Its opening pages tell us of the fall of the first human son of God, Adam, point to the death penalty upon him, and indicate the need of a Saviour and Redeemer; and, more than this, inferentially promise such a one as the seed of the woman who ultimately shall bruise the serpent's head—crush, subdue all evil. Its intermediate pages are prophecies and types respecting Jesus and the work He would accomplish as a Redeemer, and later as a deliverer of the race. And further on it records His birth, His ministries, His death, resurrection, glorification, and the messages He gave to all who would become His followers, including His promise to come again and receive them unto Himself. The closing pages of the Bible picture in symbolical language the completion of the present age, the inauguration of the millennial age, the work that it will accomplish in the blessing and uplifting of the human family and the ultimate purging of the earth from all sin, imperfection, evil, when every voice in heaven and earth shall be heard praising the Lord.

The teachings of higher criticism are very misleading on this subject. They would have us consider that all miracles are impossible; that our Lord was not born of a virgin, and by the direct power of God; that He was born as other men; that He happened to be a rather superior type of man; that He never had a prehuman existence. The Scriptures teach to the contrary of this most explicitly, that "He left the glory which He had with the Father before the world was;" that "He who was rich for our sakes became poor," taking a human form for a particular, specific purpose — "for the suffering of death," that He might be our Redeemer. (John xvii, 5; II. Cor. viii., 9; Heb. ii., 9).

The inspired writers go further and declare, "All things were made by Him, and without Him was not one thing made that was made." The context tells us that He was in the beginning with the Father, and was the Word, or mouthpiece, and personal representative of the Father in all the work of the creation of all the remainder of the works of God.

We should note in passing the consistency of the Scriptures in respect to the supremacy of Jehovah God. From first to last with one voice the Scriptures declare that there is but one supreme in the universe.

How comes it then that the record is that Jesus, our Master, in His prehuman condition, was the logos, a God with the God? Is this testimony out of accord with the remainder of scriptural testimony? We answer, No! The name Jehovah was never permitted to any but the one, the Father supreme; but the title God, which in the Hebrew is Elohim, and sometimes abbreviated El, signifies a mighty one, and might be applied to any mighty one in authority and power, Jehovah Himself being superior to all Elohim.

An examination of the scriptural uses of the word Elohim substantiates the foregoing. We find, for instance, that it has not only been applied to the Father and to the special representative and prime minister, the logos, the Son of God manifest in the flesh, but we find also that the word is used in respect to angels when they directly represented the Lord as His special messengers, they who are His mighty ones. We find also that this title Elohim was used in respect to angels when they directly represented the Lord as His special messengers, they who are His mighty ones. We find also this title Elohim was used in respect to the first elders of Israel when God recognized them as His representatives in judging their brethren.

It will be remembered that the Jews were angry with our Lord Jesus, not because He called Himself Jehovah or intimated any usurpation of the Father's place, honors or prerogatives, but simply because He called Himself the Son of God and referred to Jehovah God as His Father. On one occasion when they were about to stone Him Jesus inquired why, and the answer was that in calling Himself the Son of God He was affecting to be superior to them and to others of mankind, and affecting a relationship with the great Jehovah, which they termed blasphemy, because they said it was affecting an equality with Jehovah; but our Lord contradicted that thought and pointed out to them that the claim to be the Son of God was not to put Himself on an equality with Jehovah, but that the Scriptures fully sanctioned such a title as the Son of God.

The Jews never claimed the title Sons of God for themselves, nor would it have been proper for them to have done so. Not until the great sacrifice for sins was offered by the Redeemer could the Father so justify any members of the fallen race as to receive them back into the close, the dear relationship represented by the word Son, but, since the redemptive work of Jesus, spiritual Israelites are termed sons of God, as the Apostle declares, "Now are we the sons of God, though it doth not yet appear what we shall be (how great our glory and exaltation in the resurrection change), but we know that when He shall appear (our Lord and Master, the only begotten Son) we shall be like Him and see Him as He is." (I. John, iii., 2). The Scriptures clearly show that the followers of Christ were accepted of the Father as sons when begotten of the Spirit at Pentecost and since. (John, i., 12-13).

The divine announcement of our Lord Jesus before His birth was, "Thou shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His father David; and He shall reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of His kingdom there shall be no end." In explanation of His miraculous birth we read, "The power of the highest shall overshadow thee (Mary): therefore also that holy thing that shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God." (Luke, i., 31-35).

Here we have the title, the Son of God, officially applied to the man Christ Jesus before His birth, and this title He continually approved, saying: "As the Father hath sent Me, even so send I you." "I came not into the world to do Mine own will, but the will of Him that sent Me." "The Father worketh hitherto and (now) I work." (John, xx., 21; John, ivs., 34, v. 17).

Let us look back and note the scriptural declaration to the effect that the logos, who subsequently became the man Christ Jesus, was the beginning of the creation of God. These are our Lord's own words and are in full accord with the Apostle Paul's statement that our Lord is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature (more literally, the first born of all creation), for by Him were all things created that are in heaven and that are in earth, visible and invisible. * * * all things were created by Him and for Him, and He was before all things and by Him all things consist.

Our Lord Himself pointed out to us that it is the heavenly Father's will that we should honor the Son as we honor the Father—also that we should recognize Him as the Father's representative, through whom He is working all things according to the counsel of His own will. The Apostle explains to us that although our Lord occupied the chief position next to the Father before He came into the world to be our Redeemer, yet He now occupies a still higher position. He tells us that He was obedient to the Father and humbled Himself even unto death, even the death of the cross.

Although the reformers did valiant service in dispelling much of the gross darkness and in lifting the true light of God's Word, they evidently overlooked the fallacy called the Trinity. But we have in the Bible the standard authority by which the reformers were guided, and it is our duty as well as our privilege to hear what the Lord God hath spoken upon this subject and to conform our faith thereto. The Scriptures do indeed teach, as we have seen, that there is an Almighty One, "The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Romans, xv., 6). They do also teach that the only begotten Son of God, highly exalted by the Father, is to be reverenced even as we reverence the Father; also that the Scriptures do teach that there is a Holy Spirit of God, which, proceeding from the Father and from the Son, is also to be the Spirit of the sanctified church.

But some one inquires in astonishment: Is not the doctrine of the Trinity particularly set forth in the Bible? We answer, No. Everything as we have shown is to the contrary; the word Trinity, trinitarian, etc., is not to be found, even in our common version of the Bible, which was made by those who held this as the scriptural position and who would have been glad to thus translate any Hebrew or Greek word if they had found any such word capable of such translation.

The few of our day who would stand up in defense of the unreasonable proposition that we have three gods equal in power and glory, and yet that the three in some incomprehensible manner are one in person, would like to use the one text of Scripture which has defended this absurdity for centuries, but which all scholars now agree with no part of the original writings, but was added about the seventeenth century, at the time when this doctrine of the Trinity, by persecution, had forced itself into the place of full control.

The passage referred to is omitted in the revised version of the Bible, although all the members of the committee were professedly trinitarians in their views. They were too conscientious to give further publicity to that which was recognized as a fraudulent interpolation intended to deceive and to support the trinitarian view. The words not in the original, added in the seventh century — not found in any Scriptures of earlier date than the seventh century—you should note in your Testament by striking them out, namely, beginning with the words, "in heaven, the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost, and these three are one. And there are three that bear witness in earth." If those fraudulent words be stricken out the passage reads as it did originally, with beautiful simplicity and clearness, "There are three that bear records, the Spirit, the water and the blood, and these three agree in one (testimony)."

The absurdity of the passage as it stands in the common version can be seen at a glance. The interpolation would make the passage say that the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost all three are one, and that they are bearing record in heaven that Jesus is the Son of God. How unreasonable to suppose that such a witnessing in heaven should be necessary. Do not the angels know that Jesus is the Son of God? Why, then, the statement that the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost are witnessing in heaven that Jesus is the Son of God? Every interpolation, and we are glad that they are few, marks itself as an absurdity, and cannot be harmonized with the inspired portions of the Word. This is a further evidence to us that the Scriptures as given by God are of divine inspiration, and that nothing should be added to them nor taken from them. Evidently, however, it is the duty of every child of God to erase from his Bible any portion, such as this one, that may be found to be an addition, not the words of the inspired apostles.

This passage would not suggest to any reasonable mind that the Father and the Son are one in person were it not that this false doctrine has beclouded judgment on the subject. There are more ways of being one than merely personally one. Our Lord's words elsewhere explain His meaning here. Praying to the Father for His followers He said, after praying for His apostles, "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also who will believe on Me through their word, that they all may be one as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee, that they may be one in us." (John xvii., 20-21). Here is the sense of oneness between the Father and the Son, oneness of spirit, oneness of purpose—not oneness of person.

The jury that recently tried State Senator Emmons for bribery, at Sacramento, Cal., sat twenty-six days.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 31.

Review of the Lessons For the Last Quarter of the Year—Read Psalm cxxvi—Golden Text, Psa. lxv., 11—Summaries.

Lesson I. Topic: Divine judgment against sin. Place: Babylon. Belshazzar, only sixteen or seventeen years old, was the ruling king in the city of Babylon. In his drunken folly and wickedness he called for the golden and silver vessels which had been taken from the temple at Jerusalem that he might drink from them as a token that his gods had given victory over the God of the Jews. During this profane revelry a hand appeared and wrote upon the wall. This filled the king with fears, and he declared that the wise man who should interpret the meaning should be clothed with scarlet and have a chain of gold and be third ruler in the kingdom. When all had failed, the queen, mother of Belshazzar, came in and persuaded her son to send for Daniel; to whom, when he came, the king repeated his promise made to the wise men.

II. Topic: Divine deliverance of the righteous. Place: Babylon. Daniel's enemies knew that he was accustomed to pray to his God, and they were assured that no decree and no danger could stop him, and by foul means they could secure his sentence to be thrown in the den of lions. His character was a constant reproof. They persuaded the king to make a decree that no one should ask a favor of God or of man except of the king himself for a month, on penalty of being cast among the lions.

III. Topic: Graciouslife providences. Places: Babylon and Jerusalem. When the Jews from Jerusalem were led captive by Nebuchadnezzar, Babylon was the world kingdom. In the year B. C. 538 the Medo-Persian kingdom arose under Cyrus and conquered Babylonia. Things went better with the captives. But a change of government was not the only help, for the prophets warned and entreated the people. Ezekiel, who himself was taken captive in the second siege against Jerusalem, preached to the people upon the need of a new heart and changed life. Daniel's example and influence helped to turn the hearts of his people to God. Isaiah's prophecies gave inspiration and hope.

IV. Topic: Building the house of God. Place: Jerusalem. After a long, hard march from Babylon, a distance of 500 to 700 miles, the exiles reached Jerusalem, where they found the city in ruins as it had lain since its destruction by Nebuchadnezzar. Their first step was to rebuild the altar of sacrifice.

V. Topic: A study of the Holy Spirit. Place: Jerusalem. Zerubbabel was building the second temple at Jerusalem amid difficulties and discouragements. At this time God gave the prophet Zechariah a series of visions, that he might encourage the people. He spoke to Zerubbabel of the golden candlestick and the olive trees. He assured him that he should finish the temple.

VI. Topic: Fidelity to duty. Place: Shushan. The history contained in the book of Esther belongs in the time between the dedication of the second temple and the coming of Ezra to Judea. The great danger of the Jews, the opportunity Esther had to protect them, and the defeat of a wicked enemy all go to make up a thrilling history showing God's great love and care of His children.

VII. Topic: Vital principles in life's journeys. Places: Jerusalem and Babylonia. In this lesson we have Ezra's account of his mission to Jerusalem. By prayer and fasting he prepared for the journey. He set apart priests to have charge of the valuable vessels and money. The journey was made under God's guidance.

VIII. Topic: A study of prayer. Place: Shushan. Nehemiah was a noble example of Christian patriotism. He was a man of profound piety, connecting everything, great and small, with the will of God. His prudence was equally marked, and there is no better example of constant dependence on God united with practical forethought. He was unselfish.

IX. Topic: Self-sacrifice for the good of others. Place: Ephesus. The church in Corinth was founded in A. D. 52, 53, by Paul while on his second missionary journey. The church was a little band in a city of 400,000 inhabitants; a gem in a city of iniquity. The early training, the former habits, the surrounding influences of a city which, even in the Gentile world, was famous for drunkenness, made it difficult to live a true Christian life.

X. Topic: Important principles in life's battle. Place: Jerusalem. Nehemiah had the cause of his people at heart. He had left his position of trust to go with the despised and persecuted Jews who were struggling to protect their city by a secure wall. He established prayer among the laborers, and thus kept the work going on regardless of opposition.

XI. Topic: How to study the Bible. Place: Jerusalem. When the city was enclosed by a wall, though it had been built under great difficulties, the people turned their attention to God's word.

XII. Topic: The coming Messiah. Place: Jerusalem. The history of the Jewish nation shows how often they were allured into sin. Severe chastisements were sent upon them. They were reduced as a nation.

XIII. Topic: Vision of Christ the Messiah. Place: Jerusalem. The people of Judah were at this time under a two-fold darkness: 1. The darkness of outward trouble. 2. They were in moral darkness. But the prophet saw into the future when Christ should come and His gospel should be preached and all nations be blest.

LOSES [illegible]ER EYE.

Sight Destroyed by Ammonia Thrown at Woman.

Kansas City, Mo.—Mrs. Eva Barry, who held a car at Girard for four days and who was subdued by ammonia which was thrown into her face, has lost the sight of one eye as the result of the burns inflicted by the fluid.

A New Cartridge.

A new cartridge is about to be issued to the French infantry soldiers.

LIBBIE GARRABRANT FREE

New Jersey Murderess Paroled After Thirty-Five Years in Prison.

WOMAN LAWYER WON HER FIGHT

Sentenced to Be Hanged When She Was Only Seventeen, She Leaves Trenton Prison a Gray-Haired Wreck—Three Wealthy Women Will Care For Her in the Future.

Trenton, N. J.—When Libbie Garrabrant, who has served nearly thirty five of the fifty-two years of her life in prison for a murder which she says was prompted by a man she loved, was told that she had been pardoned, she sank upon her knees and uttered a fervent prayer of thanks to the Almighty.

Then lifting her pale tear-stained face, and gazing steadily at those who stood about her, she said, "Thank God! Thank God! This will be the happiest Christmas of all my miserable life!"

Following her first outburst of gratitude to Divine Providence the woman broke down and sobbed hysterically for many minutes before she could express her thanks to the Court of Pardons, which authorized her release, and the hundreds of men and women who have so long labored in her behalf. Several hours later she became comparatively quiet and could talk with a degree of calmness of the future.

George O. Osborne, head keeper of the prison, broke the news of the pardon to her. He went to the prison hospital, where she has long been an inmate, and by an effort concealed from his manner any indication of the news he bore. She knew that the court had been considering her case and tried to read her fate in the face of the keeper.

"Are you ready for good or bad news?" he asked.

"Oh, Mr. Osborne, I am ready for either, for anything."

She tried to be brave, but her lips trembled and her face paled even beyond its prison pallor.

"Be ready for good news," said Mr. Osborne, as gently as possible, while the prison matron and a nurse stood near lest the good news be too much for her. After a moment there came into the face of the woman a look almost of doubt, of suspicion that her ears were deceiving her, and then she bent her head in prayer. The others stood back in respectful silence while she prayed.

Then at a signal from Mr. Osborne the nurse gave her a stimulant and she was led away to a bed, where she was told to sleep. Sleep however was out of the question. She could only smile and sigh and laugh and sob by turns.

"It seems almost too good to be true," she said, "to think that after all these years I am to go out into the world again a free woman—into the world which seems to me almost like a dream. And to think that all my friends are strangers; everybody has been so good to me. I only want to do whatever I can to prove to the world that I am worthy of the sympathy that has been bestowed upon me. I feel that I cannot be grateful enough."

Her removal from the prison was arranged by Miss Mary Philbrook, a Newark lawyer and probation officer of Essex County. Miss Philbrook has long been interested in the woman's case. Those of the Pardon Court who voted against Libbie Garrabrant's release were: Chancellor Magie, Judge Green and Judge Bogert. Those who favored it were: Governor Stoke Judges Vroom, Vredenberg, Dill an Grey.

At a late hour at night friends of the woman took her away from the prison, driving her in a closed carriag through a rear gate. This deceived a watchers, and no one except her friend know where she is.

Libbie Garrabrant's crime was the poisoning of Charles Burroughs, of Paterson, for whom she kept house a time his wife was serving a pris term. She says the crime was prompt ed by Van Winkle Bogart, who wa jealous of Burroughs. Bogart wa tried as an accomplice, but he was a quitted. The girl, who was pret then and only about seventeen yea old, was convicted and sentenced to b hanged. The sentence was commute Imprisonment for life was impose and for nearly thirty-five years she h not been outside the prison walls.

She was born in Williamsburg, N. in 1853, and a few years later move with her parents to Paterson. H family was poor and she was put work in one of the silk mills at t age of ten. There she became a quainted with Bogart, and it was h she says, who prompted the murder Burroughs.

PUT OFF FIGHTING CLOTHES

Jap War Fleet is Dissolved and Ar in China is Broken Up.

Tokio, Japan.—The combined J anese fleet has been dissolved. A miral Togo has been appointed Pre dent of the General Staff of the Na The Manchurian Army headquarte have been dissolved. Field Marsh Oyama resumes the Presidency of t General Staff.

There is every indication that M quis Saionji, leader of the Consti tionalists, is forming a new Cabine

Under the regulations adopted by Privy Council Japan's Resident-G eral in Korea will be responsible the Emperor [illegible] not to the Gove ment. Marquis Ito will be the Re dent-General.

POLISH EDITORS ARRESTED

Cossacks Seize Office of the Sociali Organ at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Poland.—Cossacks s rounded the office of the organ of Polish Socialists, and the editors w arrested.

The Polish National party, declar that the Jews in Poland must beco Poles, has issued a proclamation dressed to Israelites, urging them abandon the use of Yiddish and learn the Polish language.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 31.

Review of the Lessons For the Last Quarter of the Year—Read Psalm cxxvi—Golden Text, Psa. lxv, 11—Summaries.

Lesson I. Topic: Divine judgment against sin. Place: Babylon. Belshazzar, only sixteen or seventeen years old, was the ruling king in the city of Babylon. In his drunken folly and wickedness he called for the golden and silver vessels which had been taken from the temple at Jerusalem that he might drink from them as a token that his gods had given victory over the God of the Jews. During this profane revelry a hand appeared and wrote upon the wall. This filled the king with fears, and he declared that the wise man who should interpret the meaning should be clothed with scarlet and have a chain of gold and be third ruler in the kingdom. When all had failed, the queen, mother of Belshazzar, came in and persuaded her son to send for Daniel, to whom, when he came, the king repeated his promise made to the wise men.

II. Topic: Divine deliverance of the righteous. Place: Babylon. Daniel's enemies knew that he was accustomed to pray to his God, and they were assured that no decree and no danger could stop him, and by foul means they could secure his sentence to be thrown in the den of lions. His character was a constant reproof. They persuaded the king to make a decree that no one should ask a favor of God or of man except of the king himself for a month, on penalty of being cast among the lions.

III. Topic: Gracious life providences. Places: Babylon and Jerusalem. When the Jews from Jerusalem were led captive by Nebuchadnezzar, Babylon was the world kingdom. In the year B. C. 538 the Medo-Persian kingdom arose under Cyrus and conquered Babylonia. Things went better with the captives. But a change of government was not the only help, for the prophets warned and entreated the people. Ezekiel, who himself was taken captive in the second siege against Jerusalem, preached to the people upon the need of a new heart and changed life. Daniel's example and influence helped to turn the hearts of his people to God. Isaiah's prophecies gave inspiration and hope.

IV. Topic: Building the house of God. Place: Jerusalem. After a long, hard march from Babylon, a distance of 500 to 700 miles, the exiles reached Jerusalem, where they found the city in ruins as it had lain since its destruction by Nebuchadnezzar. Their first step was to rebuild the altar of sacrifice.

V. Topic: A study of the Holy Spirit. Place: Jerusalem. Zerubbabel was building the second temple at Jerusalem amid difficulties and discouragements. At this time God gave the prophet Zechariah a series of visions, that he might encourage the people. He spoke to Zerubbabel of the golden candlestick and the olive trees. He assured him that he should finish the temple.

VI. Topic: Fidelity to duty. Place: Shushan. The history contained in the book of Esther belongs in the time between the dedication of the second temple and the coming of Ezra to Judea. The great danger of the Jews, the opportunity Esther had to protect them, and the defeat of a wicked enemy all go to make up a thrilling history showing God's great love and care of His children.

VII. Topic: Vital principles in life's journeys. Places: Jerusalem and Babylonia. In this lesson we have Ezra's account of his mission to Jerusalem. By prayer and fasting he prepared for the journey. He set apart priests to have charge of the valuable vessels and money. The journey was made under God's guidance.

VIII. Topic: A study of prayer. Place: Shushan. Nehemiah was a noble example of Christian patriotism. He was a man of profound piety, connecting everything, great and small, with the will of God. His prudence was equally marked, and there is no better example of constant dependence on God united with practical forethought. He was unselfish.

IX. Topic: Self-sacrifice for the good of others. Place: Ephesus. The church in Corinth was founded in A. D. 52, 53, by Paul while on his second missionary journey. The church was a little band in a city of 400,000 inhabitants; a gem in a city of iniquity. The early training, the former habits, the surrounding influences of a city which, even in the Gentile world, was famous for drunkenness, made it difficult to live a true Christian life.

X. Topic: Important principles in life's battle. Place: Jerusalem. Nehemiah had the cause of his people at heart. He had left his position of trust to go with the despised and persecuted Jews who were struggling to protect their city by a secure wall. He established prayer among the laborers, and thus kept the work going on regardless of opposition.

XI. Topic: How to study the Bible. Place: Jerusalem. When the city was enclosed by a wall, though it had been built under great difficulties, the people turned their attention to God's word.

XII. Topic: The coming Messiah. Place: Jerusalem. The history of the Jewish nation shows how often they were allured into sin. Severe chastisements were sent upon them. They were reduced as a nation.

XIII. Topic: Vision of Christ the Messiah. Place: Jerusalem. The people of Judah were at this time under a two-fold darkness: 1. The darkness of outward trouble. 2. They were in moral darkness. But the prophet saw into the future when Christ should come and His gospel should be preached and all nations be blest.

LOSES HER EYE.

Sight Destroyed by Ammonia Thrown at Woman.

Kansas City, Mo.—Mrs. Eva Barry, who held a car at Girard for four days and who was subdued by ammonia which was thrown into her face, has lost the sight of one eye as the result of the burns inflicted by the fluid.

A New Cartridge.

A new cartridge is about to be issued to the French infantry soldiers.

LIBBIE GARRABRANT FREE

New Jersey Murderess Paroled After Thirty-Five Years in Prison.

WOMAN LAWYER WON HER FIGHT

Sentenced to Be Hanged When She Was Only Seventeen, She Leaves Trenton Prison a Gray-Haired Wreck—Three Wealthy Women Will Care For Her in the Future.

Trenton, N. J.—When Libbie Garrabrant, who has served nearly thirty-five of the fifty-two years of her life in prison for a murder which she says was prompted by a man she loved, was told that she had been pardoned, she sank upon her knees and uttered a fervent prayer of thanks to the Almighty.

Then lifting her pale, tear-stained face, and gazing steadily at those who stood about her, she said, "Thank God! Thank God! This will be the happiest Christmas of all my miserable life!"

Following her first outburst of gratitude to Divine Providence the woman broke down and sobbed hysterically for many minutes before she could express her thanks to the Court of Pardons, which authorized her release, and the hundreds of men and women who have so long labored in her behalf. Several hours later she became comparatively quiet and could talk with a degree of calmness of the future.

George O. Osborne, head keeper of the prison, broke the news of the pardon to her. He went to the prison hospital, where she has long been an inmate, and by an effort concealed from his manner any indication of the news he bore. She knew that the court had been considering her case and tried to read her fate in the face of the keeper.

"Are you ready for good or bad news?" he asked.

"Oh, Mr. Osborne, I am ready for either, for anything."

She tried to be brave, but her lips trembled and her face paled even beyond its prison pallor.

"Be ready for good news," said Mr. Osborne, as gently as possible, while the prison matron and a nurse stood near lest the good news be too much for her. After a moment there came into the face of the woman a look almost of doubt, of suspicion that her ears were deceiving her, and then she bent her head in prayer. The others stood back in respectful silence while she prayed.

Then at a signal from Mr. Osborne the nurse gave her a stimulant and she was led away to a bed, where she was told to sleep. Sleep, however, was out of the question. She could only smile and sigh and laugh and sob by turns.

"It seems almost too good to be true," she said, "to think that after all these years I am to go out into the world again a free woman—into the world which seems to me almost like a dream. And to think that all my friends are strangers; everybody has been so good to me. I only want to do whatever I can to prove to the world that I am worthy of the sympathy that has been bestowed upon me. I feel that I cannot be grateful enough."

Her removal from the prison was arranged by Miss Mary Philbrook, a Newark lawyer and probation officer of Essex County. Miss Philbrook has long been interested in the woman's case. Those of the Pardon Court who voted against Libbie Garrabrant's release were: Chancellor Magie, Judge Green and Judge Bogert. Those who favored it were: Governor Stokes, Judges Vroom, Vredenberg, Dill and Grey.

At a late hour at night friends of the woman took her away from the prison, driving her in a closed carriage through a rear gate. This deceived all watchers, and no one except her friends know where she is.

Libbie Garrabrant's crime was the poisoning of Charles Burroughs, of Paterson, for whom she kept house at a time his wife was serving a prison term. She says the crime was prompted by Van Winkle Bogart, who was jealous of Burroughs. Bogart was tried as an accomplice, but he was acquitted. The girl, who was pretty then and only about seventeen years old, was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. The sentence was commuted. Imprisonment for life was imposed, and for nearly thirty-five years she has not been outside the prison walls.

She was born in Williamsburg, N. Y., in 1853, and a few years later moved with her parents to Paterson. Her family was poor and she was put to work in one of the silk mills at the age of ten. There she became acquainted with Bogart, and it was he, she says, who prompted the murder of Burroughs.

PUT OFF FIGHTING CLOTHES.

Jap War Fleet is Dissolved and Army in China is Broken Up.

Tokio, Japan.—The combined Japanese fleet has been dissolved. Admiral Togo has been appointed President of the General Staff of the Navy. The Manchurian Army headquarters have been dissolved. Field Marshal Oyama resumes the Presidency of the General Staff.

There is every indication that Marquis Saionji, leader of the Constitutionalists, is forming a new Cabinet.

Under the regulations adopted by the Privy Council Japan's Resident-General in Korea will be responsible to the Emperor and not to the Government. Marquis Ito will be the Resident-General.

POLISH EDITORS ARRESTED.

Cossacks Seize Officer of the Socialists' Organ at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Poland.—Cossacks surrounded the office of the organ of the Polish Socialists, and the editors were arrested.

The Polish National party, declaring that the Jews in Poland must become Poles, has issued a proclamation addressed to Israelites, urging them to abandon the use of Yiddish and to learn the Polish language.

LAWYER HUMMEL GUILTY

Sentenced to a Year in Prison and Five Hundred Dollars Fine

Sensational Trial For Collusion in Dodge-Morse Divorce Suit Case Ends.

New York City.—The jury in the case of Abraham Hummel, the noted lawyer accused of conspiracy in connection with the Dodge-Morse divorce and marriage annulment, returned a verdict of guilty. The jury retired at 12.40 p. m., and brought in its verdict at 3 o'clock.

Conspiracy is a misdemeanor punishable by $500 fine or one year in the penitentiary, or both. He was sentenced immediately to one year in the penitentiary and a fine of $500. Hummel is also under two indictments for subornation of perjury in the Dodge-Morse tangle.

Justice Rogers, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, began his charge to the jury at 10.55 o'clock in the morning and finished at 12.35. The Justice's charge was taken as being decidedly favorable to the defense.

He said that the jury should believe the testimony of Dodge, the accomplice and confessed perjurer, if there was any testimony that tended to corroborate it. He declared that there was such testimony, and that it remained for the jury to decide as to its truthfulness.

The Justice also asserted that Captain Jim Morse had no right to interfere with the marriage of his nephew, which upon the face of the court records appeared to be legal. Counsel for the defense asked that this charge be changed so as to admit the right of the children and blood relations to interfere. They declared that Captain Morse was acting for them. Justice Rogers first refused and then accepted the amendment, Assistant District Attorney Rand offering no objection.

The prosecution accused Hummel of conspiring to invalidate the legal divorce of the present Mrs. Morse, wife of C. W. Morse, the banker and former ice magnate, from Charles F. Dodge, a ne'er do well, who jumped rapidly from one part of the country to another, being employed at various times as brokers' clerk, waiter, hotel manager and restaurant proprietor. Hummel had the divorce set aside on the ground that Dodge had not been served in the divorce suit. Dodge has since confessed that he was served and the divorce and Mrs. Dodge's marriage to Morse which had been annulled have been reinstated.

Hummel was employed by Captain Jim Morse, as uncle of C. W. Morse, to break the marriage. The retainer for the lawyer, $15,000, and the fight to keep Dodge from being brought back here on an indictment for perjury cost Captain Jim more than $75,000.

The case is, in many respects, a remarkable one. Aside from the spectacular fight in Texas to bring Dodge back here, District Attorney Jerome caused additional interest in the trial by asking that the jury be locked up.

NO ENGAGEMENT RING.

Miss Alice Roosevelt Says She Will Dispense With It.

Washington, D. C.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, in answer to the request of her friends to see her engagement ring, has surprised every one by replying that she has dispensed with that usual formality, and does not purpose having any engagement ring.

She is, however, wearing a beautiful antique ring presented by Mr. Longworth, some people say, at the outset of the Philippine trip. The jewel is a sapphire in dull gold, very deep and clear in color, and of unusual brilliancy, and was an heirloom in the Longworth family.

Mr. Longworth will spend Christmas in Washington, leaving the following day for Cincinnati, Ohio, but returns to town for New Year's Day.

Good American Business.

The march of good American business goes on; no delay, except from shortage of cars. Electric railway from Camden, N. J., to Atlantic City, N. J., seventy-five miles, to be built by the Pennsylvania system, and $2,000,000 worth of electric apparatus ordered for manufacture in Schenectady; the Erie Railroad to build an electric railway from Binghamton, N. Y., to Corning, N. Y., seventy-six miles, at an outlay of $1,500,000.

Iron and Steel.

Two gratifying features are noted in reports regarding the iron and steel industry. New business continues to come forward, raising the rate of production above all previous records, while conservatism prevails as to quotations, and there is still no evidence of the reckless inflation that has brought a sudden setback in so many previous periods of similar activity.

Bad Fire in New York.

The new ferryhouses of the Delaware and Lackawanna and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at West Twenty-third street, New York City, were destroyed by fire.

To Rescue German Subjects.

The German Government has chartered a number of steamers to rescue subjects in the Baltic provinces of Russia.

Textile Markets Sound.

Basic conditions of the textile markets are still most sound, because production shows no indication of surpassing requirements.

Killed by Shot.

Charles B. Eames, founder and Vice-President of the St. Louis (Mo.) Credit Clearing House, was instantly killed at his home in that city by a shot from an old rifle which he placed in a furnace to burn off the stock.

For Treaty With Cuba.

Efforts are being made in Havana, Cuba, to revive the movement for a commercial treaty with the United States.

JUGGLING THE PROFITS

Millions Secreted by the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

HENDRICKS MUST EXPLAIN IT

Superintendent of Insurance to Be Questioned Regarding His Statements as to Misleading Circular Sent Out by Empire Life—Hughes Merciless in Exposing Loose Methods of His Office

New York City.—Gross irregularities in the treasury department of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, involving the concealment of millions of profits and losses from securities by carrying them to the profit and loss account and then distributing them in the books to the real estate accounts in this city, Boston, Philadelphia and some of the foreign cities where the company had buildings, were unearthed by the Armstrong Committee. Stephen Smith, Second Assistant Treasurer of the company, admitted that there had been such juggling with the finances, and Charles F. Preller, Assistant Auditor, said he had made the deceptive entries under instructions, he thought, from Robert A. Granniss, Vice-President. The climax came when Chief Examiner Vanderpoel of the State Insurance Department admitted he knew this juggling had been going on for years; that he had done nothing to stop it, and did not think it worth while to report it to Superintendent Hendricks. It is believed this and many other admissions made by Vanderpoel will result in his losing his position and hasten the retirement of Granniss from the Vice-Presidency of the Mutual Life. Frederic Cromwell, the Treasurer, has announced his intention of quitting at the end of the year.

There is a discrepancy between the record of the Armstrong Committee and the testimony of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks which he may be requested to correct, because on its face it shows that when the Superintendent swore that the deceptive circulars of the Empire Life Insurance Company never had been called to his attention he was in error, to say the least. Several days ago letters from Mr. Hendricks to Dr. George Sanders, of No. 244 East Sixty-first street, this city, were put in evidence. They related to a policy in the Empire Life which had been held by the doctor's father, Edwin Sanders, of No. 11 Broadway. Dr. Sanders said he sent to the Insurance Department full particulars in relation to the misleading circulars issued by the company, and told the Superintendent of the false pretenses from which his father had suffered. In a letter written by Hendricks to Dr. Sanders on July 1, 1905, this appears, and is of record:

"The card you have sent us is misleading, as it takes credit as a contingent asset for $10,100 of funds called for, and does not carry as a liability any of the $45,000 odd of matured mortuary liabilities outstanding on the above date. We shall address the company in reference thereto."

When Preller, the Assistant Auditor, admitted the juggling and said the work of concealment was done under instructions Charles E. Hughes began prodding him to ascertain from whom the instructions for the so-called "adjustments" came. At first Preller said he thought they came from Richard A. McCurdy, President, or from Granniss, Vice-President, but when Mr. Hughes pinned him down he said he thought they had been issued by Granniss. He testified afterward that written instructions had been issued by both McCurdy and Granniss, and these were produced in evidence. It is possible Granniss may be called next week to explain these peculiar transactions which passed muster before Chief Examiner Vanderpoel.

Former Superintendent of Insurance Louis F. Payn, who has been mentioned so prominently in connection with the Mutual Reserve troubles, was subpoenaed to testify, and appeared in City Hall. His examination was postponed.

Further evidence showing the inefficiency and negligence of the State Insurance Department in its examination of insurance companies was obtained from Vanderpoel and Second Deputy Superintendent Henry D. Appleton. It was shown that Vanderpoel not only had not examined the companies in detail with the idea of uncovering extravagance and crookedness which did not endanger the solvency of the companies, but that, in the case of the Mutual Life, he was lauded by the chief for having made a complete examination of all the details. A certificate to that effect was given to the company for use for advertising purposes, whereas, Vanderpoel admitted he had not gone into an examination of the details of the business of the company.

PLOT TO KILL KATSURA.

Soldier Thought Thus to Start an Anti-Peace Agitation.

Tokio, Japan.—An ex-soldier of the name of Higurashi has been arrested for planning to assassinate Prime Minister Katsura. He was making bombs for the purpose.

After his arrest he readily confessed that he intended to spread fanaticism by anti-peace agitation. He regarded Count Katsura as being responsible for a peace that will disgrace Japan for a thousand years. Higurashi is known as a desperate criminal.

Hughes Still At It.

Mr. Hughes uncovered the financial workings of the Life Association of America, the President, Henry P. Townsley, being on the stand, in the investigation being held in New York City.

New Director of Metropolitan.

The Board of Trustees elected Edward Robinson, of Boston, Mass., Assistant Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City, at a salary of $8000 a year.

CONVICT AIDS ANOTHER

Albert T. Patrick Acts as Counsel to John Johnson in Sing Sing.

Both Men Are Under Sentence of Death in New York State Prison—Plea Made to Court of Appeals.

Sing Sing, N. Y.—Albert T. Patrick, under sentence of death, has prevented the execution of a fellow condemned man. John Johnson was to have been electrocuted in the morning.

Johnson was convicted for wife murder six weeks ago in Westchester County.

Johnson's lawyers concluded that there was no ground for an appeal.

"My counsel is not going to appeal my case," said Prisoner Johnson, "and I see no use in building up hope."

Patrick, who had just returned from New York City, where he had been sentenced by Justice Rogers to die in the electric chair in the week beginning January 22, asked Johnson to tell him of the case.

Patrick Gives Aid.

"Of course," said Patrick, "you must be guided by your counsel. If you will retain me as your legal representative I will guarantee that the sentence of death will not be carried out next week."

"But how can I retain you as my counsel?"

"Very simple, indeed," said Patrick. "Just sign the affidavit which I shall prepare for you, and I will then be entitled to act for you."

Patrick then prepared the necessary legal document. Johnson signed it, and a notary witnessed the signature in the regular form.

"You leave the rest to me," said Patrick. "As your counsel, I advise you to be guided solely by what your counsel directs you to do."

The other six convicted murderers did not understand how Patrick was going to accomplish something that Johnson's own lawyer had been unable to do.

"Please take this paper to Johnson's cell," Patrick called to one of his guards. Then he told Johnson to sign it. He did.

"Now," announced Patrick, "I would like to see anybody try and take you out of your cell next week. Your execution will surely be stayed."

The paper which Johnson had signed was an affidavit in which he asserts that he was not granted a fair trial. Then Patrick wrote another document, in which it was set forth that he had been duly retained as counsel for "one John Johnson, under sentence of death and awaiting execution in Sing Sing as prescribed by law." Another paper was in the form of a notice to the clerk of the Court of Appeals in Albany that one, "Albert T. Patrick, attorney and counselor-at-law, now residing in the State Prison, in Sing Sing, N. Y.," had been duly retained as counsel for Johnson, and that said notice was to act also as a notice that an appeal would be argued from the judgment of the lower court.

Warden Johnson was sent for and Patrick handed all the papers to him.

Appeal Sent to Albany.

"You will be good enough to forward these official documents to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, in Albany," said Patrick to the Warden; "they are in the case of the People of the State of New York vs. John Johnson. I am the attorney in the case."

The papers were duly forwarded to Albany.

Patrick says that he will insist that he be taken to the Court of Appeals when the day for the argument in the case comes up.

"I am going to argue your case in person," Patrick said to Johnson, "and what is more, I am certain right now that I will secure you a new trial."

The application filed by Patrick in behalf of Johnson acted as a stay of all proceedings.

FOUR KILLED IN THEATRE FIRE.

Woman and Her Two Children Among the Victims.

Lorain, Ohio.—Four lives were lost in a fire which destroyed the Verbeck Theatre here early in the morning. The dead are James Dwyer, twenty-eight years; Mrs. William Marsh, twenty-four, and her two children, Grace, three years old, and Clifford, seven months.

The Marsh family had apartments in the front of the building on the third floor. William Marsh was stage manager. Dwyer, another employe, slept in the basement, where the fire originated. Mrs. Marsh and her children were suffocated by the smoke which poured up the narrow stairway.

Mrs. John Vesper was rescued by the firemen after she had fainted and was leaning out of a window. The loss on the theatre, which was a comparatively new one, is $35,000. The loss on the building is $50,000. The theatre was owned by the Verbeck Amusement Company, of Oil City, Pa., and leased by H. H. Dykman, of Elyria, Ohio.

THREE GENERATIONS KILLED.

Train Hits Carriage Containing Baby, Mother and Grandmother.

Toledo, Ohio.—Mrs. John Lashaway, her daughter-in-law, and the infant son of the latter were instantly killed at Weston in the afternoon at the crossing of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad. It is thought that the side curtains shut out the view of the train.

Burned to Death.

John Garlong was burned to death while making a fire in the kitchen of Zimmerman's Hotel, at Carlstadt, N. J.

Luther Pitt is Killed.

Decatur, Ala.—Luther Pitt, the 18-year-old son of Dr. J. T. Pitt, postmaster of Florence, lost his life here in a most horrible manner under the wheels of a freight car. The accident, which was a most deplorable one, occurred on a Louisville and Nashville Railroad switch track on Second avenue, near the line between Decatur and New Decatur.

NAMES FOR COUNTRY HOUSES

A FASHION THAT IS GROWING IN POPULARITY.

Scope for the Exercise of Wit in the Selection of a Suitable Name—Hidden Meanings of Titles—Sentimental Element Has Disappeared—Old English Endings.

Naming one's country home is a much more important matter than one who has never taken it up would be likely to suppose. It is not customary here, as it is in England, to call every detached villa by some sentimental title; but the fashion of giving a name to one's home in the country or in some suburban town near New York grows more popular every day.

The house's name may be pregnant with hidden meaning to those who have the secret. There are few people who know that Elberon is called after the New York lawyer who bought the land and started the new town. It is by such combinations that the house name may be made to hold hidden significance.

The deeper beauties of a name like Wilberth are recognizable only when one knows that William and Bertha are the names of the man and wife who own it. Richmar, the name of a home on the Sound, is of similar origin. Of course Georgian Court is called for the senior Gould, who owns it.

Nobody would suspect the origin of Nearston, a really imposing pile that crowns a Westchester hill and commands a view of miles along the Sound and over the Palisades.

The house is built of blocks of concrete, which are almost an exact imitation of stone. It seems so near stone that the owner, who has a sense of humor, gave his home the appropriate name quoted.

This is the type of name most popular nowadays, although some suggestion of the earlier history of the place appeals to many. The result is the large number of establishments with Indian names that have recently come into existence, such as "Aguihung," which is the name of a place at Rye and comes from an old Indian tribe who formerly lived in that region.

The French names, such as "Mon Desir," "Mon Plasir," "Bonne Terre," "Belle Air," once so fashionable, have all but disappeared. So have the intensely sentimental names usually derived from some floral combination such as "Petunia Dell," "Lily Mead," "Blossomdale," "Clovernook."

Such names as "The Oaks," "The Willows," "Cedarcrest," and "The Chestnuts" got a black eye from the fact that the kind of trees after which the estates are named are usually rarest in the region. That fact has served to make householders very suspicious of any house named in such a way and the genus has consequently gone out of fashion.

"Mostly Hall" is the name of a house down at Shinnecocks. The owner named it so because, he said, the architect had left him nothing but hall by the time he finished.

"The Cables," "White Towers" and "The Chimneys" are other names based on architectural features. The geological incidents of a place also furnish good names, such as "Stonecliff," "Ridgetop" and "Rockledge." These peculiarities are not likely to disappear.

A woman who called her country place "Fern Meadows," because half an acre of ground was sparsely covered with sharp and rather rusty looking ferns, was never able to make the ferns grow after she had been in the place a year. But her die had been made, her stationary printed and there was nothing to do but cling to the name.

Nothing is more the style just now than the use of the old English terminations along with something to suggest the family, even if the name itself is not used. "Croft," "dene," "mead," "holme," "cote," "hurst," "leigh"—these are some of the terminations combined with family names. "Croft" means a small field near a house of a very small farm. "Mead" comes from the old Anglo-Saxon word "maed," which has its modern equivalent in meadow. "Holme" means either the low flat land by a river or an island and is Anglo-Saxon. "Leigh" is the same as lea, which means an untilled field.

"Hurst" means a grove and "dene" a dell or even a dune, which happens to be something quite different. But their common root is the same. "fields" is also a popular termination nowadays for a house name that begins with the family's name.

"Honerhurst" is the name of a home in Connecticut owned by the family whose croft," "Shercote"—cote means a cottage or a sheepfold—is the name of the country estate owned by a family named Shearman. Three examples of this same way of identifying the country home are "Bellholme," "Moorsmead" and "Greenfields."

There are nowadays many "halls" and "manors," and "house" has lately become very common. The great trouble with the last word is the suggestion of a hotel or, perhaps, even a boarding house.

But many of the handsomest places near the city are nevertheless designated in that way. "Crosby House" sounds a little like a hotel, and yet it suggests "Hatfield House" and other places of equal fame.

"Court" is a termination limited by the grandeur of the establishment to which it is applied. Nobody would ever think of calling any house a court unless it were really magnificent. "Ochre Court" and "Georgian Court" are good illustrations of this. "Manor" and "hall" are also a bit pretentious, although that does not seem to have occurred to the musician who named his modest cottage "Melody Manor." He was just as indifferent to public opinion and as fond of alliteration as the pianist who calls his home, which is two stories high and built of logs, "Harmony Hall."—New York Sun.

A GLIMPSE OF ARCADY.

Being Jack London's Pen Picture of a Canon in the Sierras.

It was the green heart of the canon, where the walls swerved back from the rigid plan and relieved their harshness of line by making a little sheltered nook and filling it to the brim with sweetness and roundness and softness. Here all things rested. Even the narrow stream ceased its turbulent down-rush long enough to form a quiet pool. Knee-deep in the water, with drooping head and half-shut eyes, drowsed a red-coated, many-antlered buck.

On one side, beginning at the very lip of the pool, was a tiny meadow, a cool, resilient surface of green that extended to the base of the frowning wall. Across the pool a gentle slope of earth ran up and up to meet the opposing wall. Fine grass covered the slope—grass that was spangled with flowers, with here and there patches of color, orange and purple and golden. Below the canon was shut in. There was no view. The walls leaned together abruptly and the canon ended in a chaos of rocks, moss-covered and hidden by a green screen of vines and creepers and boughs of trees. Up the canon rose far hills and peaks, the big foothills, pine-covered and remote. And far beyond, like clouds upon the border of the sky, towered minarets of white, where the Sierra's eternal snows finished austerely the blazes of the sun.

There was no dust in the canon. The leaves and flowers were clean and virginal. The grass was young velvet. Over the pool three cottonwoods sent their snowy fluffs fluttering down the quiet air. On the slope the blossoms of the wine-wooded manzanita filled the air with springtime odors, while the leaves, wise with experience, were already beginning their vertical twist against the coming aridity of summer. In the open spaces on the slope, beyond the farthest shadow-reach of the manzanita, poised the mariposa lilies, like so many flights of jeweled moths suddenly arrested and on the verge of trembling into flight again. Here and there that woods harlequin, the madrone, permitting itself to be caught in the act of changing its pea-green trunk to madder red, breathed its fragrance into the air from great clusters of waxen bells. Creamy white were these bells, shaped like lilies of the valley, with the sweetness of perfume that is of the springtime.

There was not a sigh of wind. The air was drowsy with its weight of perfume. It was a sweetness that would have been cloying had the air been heavy and humid. But the air was sharp and thin. It was as starlight transmuted into atmosphere, shot through and warmed by sunshine, and flower-drenched with sweetness.

An occasional butterfly drifted in and out through the patches of light and shade. And from over all rose the low and sleepy hum of mountain bees—feasting Sybarites that jostled one another good-naturedly at the board, nor found time for rough discourtesy; quietly did the little stream drip and ripple its way through the canon that it spoke only in faint and occasional gurgles. The voice of the stream was as a drowsy whisper, ever interrupted by dozings and silences, ever lifted again in the awakenings.

The motion of all things was a drifting in the heart of the canon. Sunshine and butterflies drifted in and out among the trees. The hum of the bees and the whisper of the stream were a drifting of sound. And the drifting sound and drifting color seemed to weave together in the making of a delicate and intangible fabric which was the spirit of the place. It was a spirit of peace that was not of death, but of smooth-pulsing life, of quietude that was not silence, of movement that was not action, of repose that was quick with existence without being violent with struggle and travail. The spirit of the place was the spirit of the peace of the living, somnolent with the easement and content of prosperity, and undisturbed by rumors of far wars.—From Jack London's "All Gold Canon" in the Century.

India's Population.

India—that is, the British India and the native states under British influence—is 1,766,597 square miles in extent, and has a total population of 294,000,000, or nearly 41,000,000 more than it had twenty years ago.

The largest dinner ever given assembled at Paris a few days ago. The Mutualists of France dined at the Galerie des Machines. About 30,000 sat down together.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain;
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

A Happy New Year to all—may 1906 be the best year you have ever seen, and the worst you will ever see.

Ex Governor William C. Oates has announced himself a candidate for the United States Senate The next Legislature will elect successors to both Senators Morgan and Pettus.

The Democratic State Executive Committee is called to meet in Montgomery, January 9, when the question of the date of the State primary will be discussed. An early primary does not seem to be desirable.

Pay your poll tax. Your children will get the benefit of it. If you don't pay poll tax you cannot vote, and there is coming on elections for special school tax, road law and stock law, not to mention the general election next year. You can have no will in any of these matters if your poll tax is not paid before Feb. 1, 1906.

The Tax Collector may ask you for the name and number of your school district. See that you have the answer ready.

In the House of Representatives, December 11, 1905, Mr. Bowie introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed.

A BILL

Prohibiting the issuing of special tax stamps to retail and wholesale dealers in liquors in prohibition districts.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That hereafter no special-tax stamps shall be issued to retail or wholesale dealers in sprituous, vinous, or malt liquors in any county, district, town or city where the sale of such liquors is prohibited by the laws of the State or municipality in which the said prohibition territory is situated and it shall be the duty of collectors of internal revenue to refuse to issue such special-tax stamps to any person, firm, or corporation within such prohibited territory.

A BILL

Requiring collectors of internal revenue to give information in certain cases

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall hereafter be the duty of collectors of internal revenue to furnish to prosecuting attorneys or other proper officers of State or county or city courts with the names of persons to whom special tax stamps for retail or wholesale dealers in liquor have been issued when such information is called for by said officers in their official capacity, to be used in prosecutions under any State or municipal law prohibiting the sale of such liquors and such information shall be given by the said collectors under oath if required by said officers.

When you want a pleasant laxative take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A, Horn, Thorsby,

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS?

Do You Fear Consumption?

When we take into consideration the fact that one out of every seven in this climate die of consumption, is it any wonder that it is feared by the people of Clanton who have weak lungs and chronic colds and coughs?

A famous London physician has for years urged his patients, when the slightest tendency to consumption appeared, to take the best cod liver preparation they could find, and physicians everywhere have recognized that cod's liver contains curative values for coughs, colds, bronchitis. consumption and all wasting diseases unequalled in medicine, but, unfortunately, few could take and derive any benefit from old fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions on account of the indigestible grease which they contain.

A member of the Upchurch Drug Co., says we want every person in Clanton to know the value of our new cod liver preparation, Vinol. It actually contains in a concentrated form all of the strengthening body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work.

Therefore, where old fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions would do good, Vinol will do far more good We guarantee Vinol will improve the appetite, strengthen digestion, make rich red blood, create strength, cure chronic coughs and colds and strengthen weak lungs. If Vinol fail to give satisfaction, we return your money without question." Upchurch Drug co.

CHILTON COTTON ASSOCIATION.

To the members of the Chilton Branch of the Southern Cotton Association:

The county meeting of the Cotton Association on January 6 will be of much importance, and hence I urge all members to attend, and I want to give notice here and now that the said meeting, as well as all subsequent meetings over which I shall attempt to preside, will be called to order at 10 a m. sharp and if no attendance meeting will be dismissed.

The man, let him be farmer, banker, merchant, or mechanic, doctor or what not, who can't spare freely one day (Saturday) out of each month to attend the county meeting of so noble a cause, one which has done so much for the interest of everybody, does not appreciate help and should come out squarely and declare himself an enemy to the S. C. A. and work his battery accordingly.

Now, my friend, when you come to the regular or call meetings or to hear those who are invited to our county site to speak in the interest of good roads, or our noble institution, don't take up on the bone yard with a lot of old plugs and neglect your duty to yourself, your friends and your country, but come in to meeting and show by your acts that you are in sympathy with the Association and its principles. With one or two exceptions I have noticed at each meeting since our organization a number of people who attend grow restless as soon or soon after they enter the meeting. To those I want to say, your mind and heart is not in it and hence you can't be quiet. You are like I was on the 6th day of last July. I went to look at a certain piece of property in a certain city. The agent asked $30,000 for it. I thought it worth the money, but a lot negro tenants neglecting their crops called me home, when I should have closed trade then and there. When I went back agent had sold it for $42,000. I had lost twelve thousand, the other fellow had made that amount and so it goes. You had rather hear a lot of bone yard chat and make or lose $2.50 on a horse trade than make fifty dollars on your cotton crop by remaining in the meeting, besides you by remaining can help your county man, in fact all who belong to the Southern Cotton Association make a like amount.

Now, I hear some say I am in a hurry; I must get home by night, and yet those same people will go out to a circus and stay all day and all night if need be. So come on, good people, and let us make 1906 the year of all years; all work together for one common cause, and let Chilton county remain in the lead.

It is to be desired and is my request that as many as can attend the State meeting on Jan. 3, 1906, at Montgomery.

F. A. Gulledge.
Pres Chilton Branch, S. C. A.

Clear thinking, decisive action, vim and vigor of body and mind, the sparkle of life, comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets, Upchurch Drug co,

The immense revenues of the government are drawn as much from the agricultural areas as from all other sources combined, and yet it is a matter that cannot escape emphatic mention that in the distribution of this treasure not ten per cent. of it is expended in the rural districts The cities and greater towns get the lion's share. This discrimination has resulted very largely from lack of attention and consideration The time has come when Congress should do something directly beneficial to the farming classes, and that thing can best be done by extending the aid of the general government to the States in road construction and improvement. The proposition to do so, in the form of what is now commonly known as the Brownlow-Latimer bill, has been generally discussed by the press, and has been endorsed by the National Grange, the National Good Roads Association, by farmer's societies, county organizations, State legislatures, State school officers and college presidents of eminent character, by leading ministers of the many churches, by State governors, county officials, legal bodies, medical societies, trade and labor organizations, and by the President of the United States, who declared in a speech two years ago that the people had a right to demand it. Everywhere throughout the country it is considered only right that the government should contribute a share to the necessary improvement of the highways

What Interested Him.

"What interested me most in my travels," said Henpeck, "was the mummy of a queen I saw in Egypt."

"Wonderful, eh?" asked his friend.

"Yes, it's wonderful how they could make a woman dry up and stay that way."—Philadelphia Press.

Lesson Learned In War.

The importance of removing all unnecessary objects from the decks of men-of-war was emphasized on board the Japanese Mikasa, on which twenty-three men were killed or wounded by the fragments of an optic telegraph that had been hit by a bomb.

The Serious Part.

Friend—You appear to think that your responsibility is greater than that of the proprietor. Drug Clerk—It is. Friend—How do you figure that out? Drug Clerk—If I make a mistake I lose my job.

His Point of View.

Nurse—See, Charlie, the stork has brought you a nice little brother. Charlie—Yes, that's the way! Just as I'm getting on in the world competition begins!—Fliegende Blatter.

SEED
TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

Scott's Emulsion

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE
CHEMISTS
409 Pearl Street
NEW YORK
50c. and $1; all druggists

Have You a Friend?

Then tell him about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Tell him how it cured your hard cough. Tell him why you always keep it in the house. Tell him to ask his doctor about it. Doctors use a great deal of it for throat and lung troubles.

"I had a terrible cold and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it gave me quick and perfect relief. It is certainly a most wonderful cough medicine."—Emma E. Whitman, Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufacturers of Ayer's
SARSAPARILLA.
PILLS.
HAIR VIGOR.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will hasten recovery. Gently laxative.

The Snowy Owls.

Every few years, especially along the seacoast and the larger rivers and lakes, there is a wave of those splendid day hunting rascals, the snowy owls. They are great fishermen, the only owls to make this sort of hunting a practice, and may sometimes be seen sitting, silent and motionless, like a block of ice, at the edge of the open water waiting for a chance to nab an unsuspecting fish. Of course this is not a very paying way to get a living, and they also catch field mice, muskrats, hares and even large birds like quail or grouse. But there are only two other birds of prey in our country that habitually eat fish, and one of these seldom catches its own, preferring to eat the dead fish along the shore or pirate it from the real fisherman, the osprey.—St. Nicholas.

Expert Ring Blowers.

The Japanese are experts on smoke rings, and it is said in Japan it is considered no uncommon trick to blow three rings of smoke in succession, the second traveling through the first and the third through both. Some stage performers are credited with becoming so expert in smoke blowing that they are not only able to multiply the number of rings thus made, but actually form Japanese characters representing words and sentences. One Japanese juggler, it is declared, proposed to his wife by forming the characters representing his avowal of love through a thin stream of smoke.

A Certain Cure For Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Dec. 25, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST

J. M. Blankenship, A. Bithaforsell, George Cheney, W. L. Slaton R.S. Teel.

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. Romie Williams, Alice Thomas, Miss Delene Hase.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Jan 8, 1906, if not delivered before.

F. O. Dudley, Postmaster.

Fearful Fighting

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle, with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold, under guarantee to do the same for you, by Upchurch Drug co., at 50c. a bottle. Try them today.

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court. Seventh District. Northeastern Division. No. 22. In vacation, 1905.
Thomas Burnett, Complainant, vs. Martha R. Burnett, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. M. Adams, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Martha R. Burnett, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post-office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Martha R. Burnett, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Martha R. Burnett, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 15th day of January, 1906, and failing so to do within 30 days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 13th day of December, 1905. S. A. Stewart, Register in Chancery.

Wm. M. Adams,
Solicitor for Complainant.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Discount

Liberal long time loans on Improved Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Property, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on cotton being held now, either on farms or in warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
Sheehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	85	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	70
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	85	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Dew	3 00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	4.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	3 00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2019 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Grocerie
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - AL

FLOUR!

Fresh car Perfection just arrived from the mills.

We guarantee price and quality.

Try it at our expense.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

VOL. XIV

THE STATEHOOD QUEST

LIKELIHOOD OF THE ADMI
OF OKLAHOMA AND INDI TERRITORY.

Disposition to Grant Them Sta
Irrespective of Arizona and Mexico—New Congressional
ment on Question.

The assembling of congres bring new blood in both the and Senate. There is promise long and very important s
New policies are to be discuss material changes in existing ec conditions are to be proposed.
upon the eve of a congressiona tion, the session will feel the eff a certain extent, of political erations.

The admission of new states
Union will be one of the ho questions to occupy the attent the new congress. It appears that there will be a decided a of position on the statehood pr
some new lights having dawne statehood was discussed at t session.

It is understood that the comm on territories of both House an ate are inclined to stand by t program of creating two states the four territories, but it will a surprise if this program fai meet the approval of a majority republican senators and repre tives. Since the question of hood for these four southwest tories was brought into co
many senators and representa have personally investigated the ing conditions in the territories, the result is that public sent among public men is crystallizi favor of the plan of admitting homa and Indian Territory to hood and, if necessary, letting na and New Mexico wait.

There seems to be few diss voices against the proposed adm

THE CHINESE

Visitors to the Chinese Legati
Washington have often been att to a tiny little figure perched a head of the grand stairway. It ways there when a dinner party ing on or when Sir Chengtung Cheng, the Chinese Minister, is a reception. It never fails to a and the uninitiated have been he remark in undertone that it is a little figure which guards the he the stairway.

However, it is a very animated body after all, for it is no other the young daughter of the Min
Miss Liang, who, though b through the custom of her countr her youth from taking actual p these entertainments, is, neverth determined to see as much of th she possibly can. Perhaps her f the Minister, does not know there and perhaps he does, but n knows, for no mention of the fa ever been made to him, and Miss continues to enjoy these many affairs from afar.

This dainty little Chinese mai been in this country ever since h ther was delegated to represen emperor at Washington. She seventeen years old, and until sh to America she did not know w was to be allowed to go out tended.

Over in China the women never their faces on the street, but wit appointment to Washington o
Ting Dang, former Chinese Mi members of the legation, and esp
the women, were given greate dom and now they go about with a thought as to the propriety of

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 11

THE STATEHOOD QUESTION.

LIKELIHOOD OF THE ADMISSION OF OKLAHOMA AND INDIAN TERRITORY.

Disposition to Grant Them Statehood Irrespective of Arizona and New Mexico—New Congressional Alignment on Question.

The assembling of congress will bring new blood in both the House and Senate. There is promise of a long and very important session. New policies are to be discussed and material changes in existing economic conditions are to be proposed. Coming upon the eve of a congressional election, the session will feel the effects, to a certain extent, of political considerations.

The admission of new states to the Union will be one of the hold-over questions to occupy the attention of the new congress. It appears now that there will be a decided shifting of position on the statehood problem, some new lights having dawned since statehood was discussed at the last session.

It is understood that the committees on territories of both House and Senate are inclined to stand by the old program of creating two states out of the four territories, but it will not be a surprise if this program fails to meet the approval of a majority of the republican senators and representatives. Since the question of statehood for these four southwest territories was brought into congress many senators and representatives have personally investigated the existing conditions in the territories, and the result is that public sentiment among public men is crystallizing in favor of the plan of admitting Oklahoma and Indian Territory to statehood and, if necessary, letting Arizona and New Mexico wait.

There seems to be few dissenting voices against the proposed admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. Difference of opinion does exist as to whether the two territories should be admitted as one state or whether they should be admitted as separate states, but on the main proposition—the preparedness of these two territories for statehood—there is little dissenting opinion. In fact, the prevailing view is that statehood has already been too long delayed in the case of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. It is almost disgraceful, well-informed public men are saying, that these two progressive territories should be held back simply because of disagreement as to whether those unprepared territories, Arizona and New Mexico, should be admitted. It is high time, many men declare, for congress to cut loose from the Arizona and New Mexico proposition, no matter what form it may take, and admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

* * *

The Royal Crown of England.

"Uneasy is the head that wears the crown." The crown of England is a costly toy and is better to look upon than to wear. Around the circle there are twenty diamonds, worth $7,500 each, two large center diamonds, $10,000 each; fifty-four smaller ones at the angle of the former, $500 each; four crosses, each composed of twenty-five diamonds, $60,000; four large diamonds at the top of the crosses, $20,000; twelve diamonds contained in the fleur-de-lis, $50,000; eighteen smaller ones in same, $10,000; pearls, diamonds, etc., upon the arches and crosses, $50,000; also one hundred and forty-one small diamonds, $25,000; twenty-six diamonds in the upper cross, $15,000 and two circles of pearls about the rim, $15,000. The cost of the precious stones alone is nearly half a million dollars.

* * *

Here lies my wife's nearest relative. All my tears cannot bring her back. Therefore I weep.

THE CHINESE MINISTER'S DAUGHTER.

Visitors to the Chinese Legation at Washington have often been attracted to a tiny little figure perched at the head of the grand stairway. It is always there when a dinner party is going on or when Sir Chengtung Liang Cheng, the Chinese Minister, is giving a reception. It never fails to appear, and the uninitiated have been heard to remark in undertone that it is a queer little figure which guards the head of the stairway.

However, it is a very animated somebody after all, for it is no other than the young daughter of the Minister, Miss Liang, who, though barred through the custom of her country and her youth from taking actual part in these entertainments, is, nevertheless, determined to see as much of them as she possibly can. Perhaps her father, the Minister, does not know she is there and perhaps he does, but nobody knows, for no mention of the fact has ever been made to him, and Miss Liang continues to enjoy these many social affairs from afar.

This dainty little Chinese maid has been in this country ever since her father was delegated to represent his emperor at Washington. She is just seventeen years old, and until she came to America she did not know what it was to be allowed to go out unattended.

Over in China the women never show their faces on the street, but with the appointment to Washington of Wu Ting Dang, former Chinese Minister, members of the legation, and especially the women, were given greater freedom and now they go about with never a thought as to the propriety of the experience. At home they would not dare.

Society is eagerly awaiting the expected announcement that Miss Liang will be formally presented this season. She has learned to speak English exceedingly well and is a familiar figure in a box at the theatres on Monday nights. When she wishes to go shopping she does so unhesitatingly, and her carriage is frequently seen standing in front of some of the fashionable shops.

Fewer girls, especially among those who have not been presented to society, are more popular than this charming daughter of the Chinese Minister. She has made friends with every girl in Washington society, and her chief delight is to jump in her carriage in the afternoons and drive about, calling on her young American friends. They are all delighted to see her, and no matter what is on the programme it must wait if the attractive little Miss Liang happens to call. She is so piquant, and appreciates an American joke as well as any of her American associates.

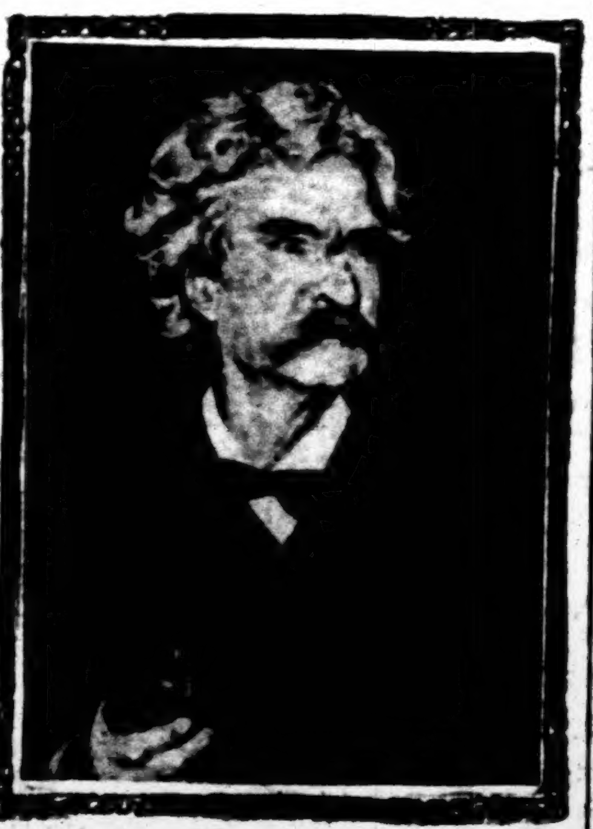
Miss Liang is the constant companion of her father and accompanies him on all his drives. They are great friends and apparently enjoy every minute of their time together. The Minister is very proud of his daughter's progress in learning American customs, and it is not unlikely that before many more years are past the Chinese Legation will be enjoying even to a greater extent the American freedom in living which makes the assignment of Washington a diplomatic plum for which many hands are always ready.

MARK TWAIN AT SEVENTY.

THE HUMORIST ENTERTAINS GROUPS OF AUTHORS AT BANQUET.

At Three Score and Ten He Is Hale and Hearty—Gives Views on How to Live—Never Smokes or Drinks While Asleep.

Mark Twain, that prince of humorists has reached the limitation of life as laid down by the Scriptures—three score years and ten. And yet he is still able to give us gems of humor and wit—such gems as attained fame for him years ago when Huckleberry Finn, Tom Sawyer and Innocents Abroad were first given to us. On December 5th he was the guest of honor at a dinner in New York, to celebrate his seventieth birthday. The guests were confined closely to writers of imaginative literature, and about 170 authors were present, nearly half of them women. Every guest received as a souvenir a bust of Mark Twain, half-life size. Naturally Mr. Clemens was the principal speaker; he took as his text, "How to get to be seventy and not mind it." He said:—



MARK TWAIN, TO-DAY.

"The seventieth birthday! It is the time of life when you arrive at a new and awful dignity; when you may throw aside the decent reserves which have oppressed you for a generation; and stand unafraid and unabashed upon your seven-terraced summit and look down and teach—unrebuked. You can tell the world how you got there. It is what they all do. You shall never get tired of telling by what delicate arts and deep moralities you climbed up to that great place. You will explain the process and dwell on the particulars with senile rapture. I have been anxious to explain my own system for a long time, and now at last I have the right.

Regularly Irregular.

"I have achieved my seventy years in the usual way—by sticking strictly to a scheme of my life which would kill anybody else. It sounds like an exaggeration, but that is really the common rule for attaining to old age. We have no permanent habits until we are forty. Then they begin to harden, presently they petrify, then business begins. Since forty I have been regular about going to bed and getting up, and that is one of the main things. I have made it a rule to go to bed when there wasn't anybody left to sit up with, and I have made it a rule to get up when I had to. This has resulted in an unswerving regularity of irregularity.

"In the matter of diet—which is another main thing—I have been persistently strict in sticking to the things which didn't agree with me until one or the other of us got the best of it. Until lately I got the best of it myself. But last spring I stopped frolicking with mince pie after midnight; up to then I had always believed it wasn't loaded. For thirty years I have taken coffee and bread at 8 in the morning and no bite nor sup until 7.30 in the evening.

"I have made it a rule never to smoke more than one cigar at a time. I have no other restriction as regards smoking. I do not know just when I began to smoke; I only know that it was in my father's lifetime, and that I was indiscreet. He passed from this life early in 1847, when I was a shade past eleven; ever since then I have smoked publicly. As an example to others, and not that I care for moderation myself, it has always been my rule never to smoke when asleep, and never to refrain when awake.

"As for drinking, I have no rule about that. When the others drink I like to help; otherwise I remain dry, by habit and preference. This dryness does not hurt me, but it could easily hurt you, because you are different. You let it alone.

First Standard Oil Trust.

"Since I was seven years old I have seldom taken a dose of medicine and have still more seldom needed one. But up to seven I lived exclusively on allopathic medicines. Not that I needed them, for I don't think I did; but it was for economy. My father took a drug store for a debt, and it made cod liver oil cheaper than the other breakfast foods. I was the first Standard Oil Trust. I had it all. By the time the drug store was exhausted my health was established, and there has never been much the matter with me since.

"I have never taken any exercise, except sleeping and resting, and I never intend to take any. Exercise is loathsome. And it cannot be any benefit when you are tired; I was always tired.

"I have lived a severely moral life. But it would be a mistake for other people to try that, or for me to recommend it. Very few would succeed. You have to have a perfectly colossal stock of morals, and you cannot get them on a margin; you have to have the whole thing and put them in your box. Morals are an acquirement—like music, like a foreign language, like piety, poker, paralysis—no man is born with them. I wasn't myself. I started poor.

* * *

WHAT A STRIKE COST.

Chicago Obliged to Divert Money Needed For Improvements Into Payments For Police Service.

It will never be known definitely just what the recent strike of the teamsters cost the people of Chicago. That the total would run well into the millions, however, is a conservative estimate, judging from the single item of the expense to the municipality for extra police protection.

Some time ago it was discovered that the city could add $5,000,000 to its bonded debt, and the people authorized an issue of bonds to this amount for specific public improvements. The end of the teamsters' strike found $2,000,000 of these bonds still unsold and an emergency strike debt of some $365,000. To pay this bill the council has retired the $2,000,000 of bonds and ordered their reissue in such form that they may be used for general corporate purposes.

Thus $365,000—or the estimated cost of lowering the two river tunnels—goes to pay extra policemen for defending the lives of citizens and protecting their property while a supine city administration practically gave license to the striking teamsters to make the ordinary business of peaceful citizens full of turmoil and hazard.

Money that the people intended to go into sorely needed permanent improvements has been diverted to meet the cost of lawlessness that never should have gone to the extent it did.

The cost of this one strike is the $365,000 the city pays for extra police service, plus what the county has to pay for special deputy sheriffs, plus the loss to merchants, railways, manufacturers, etc., in business; plus lost wages to the strikers, plus a dozen other items that it would be difficult to enumerate. And this only embraces money cost. It takes no account of inconvenience to citizens, of assaults on citizens, of the killing of citizens.

It is a tremendously expensive thing to fight a labor war in a great city.

* * *

A Ring for a Throne.

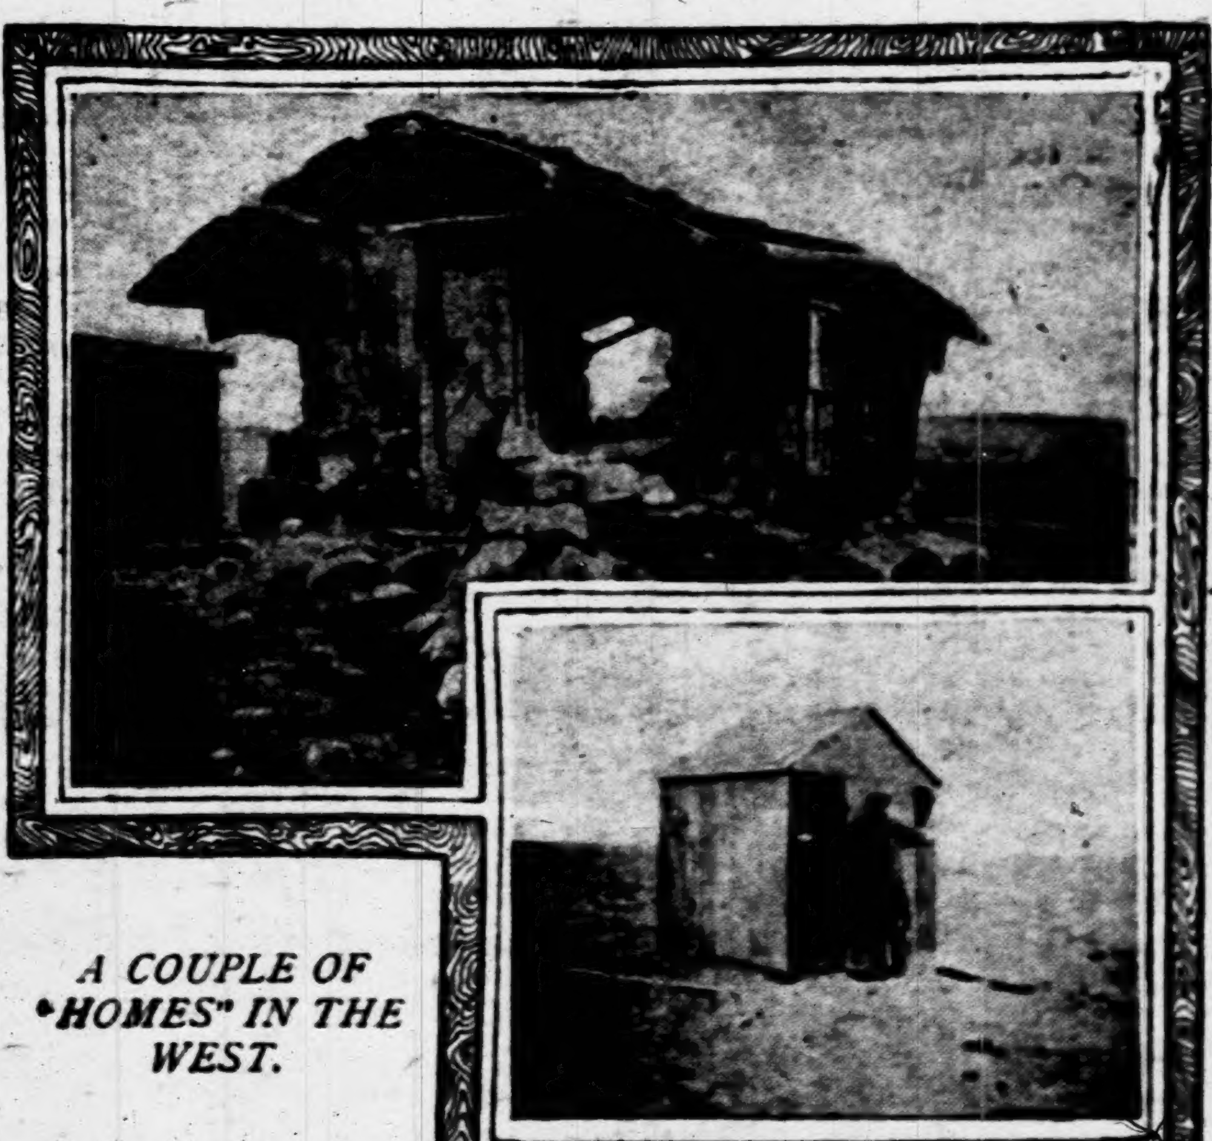
Miss Josephine Strong, who was private secretary at Washington for Congressman Hawley, has a diamond ring that was once owned and worn by Louis Phillipe, king of France.

The ring has a peculiar history. It will be remembered that Phillipe lived in this country when he was an exile. He lived one winter in Zanesville, Ohio, and spent another winter with Gen. Morgan Neville, a rich pioneer, and taught the district school. He had word from France that there was a chance to regain the Bourbon throne if he could but get to Paris, but he had not money enough for the trip. Gen. Neville lent the prince the money, something like $800, and the prince gave in pledge the ring that Miss Strong now wears. Going to New Orleans by boat, Phillipe got to France and the rest is history. He regained his throne and the money lent by Gen. Neville made it possible. The king sent back the amount of the loan, told the general to keep the ring and asked him to visit him at the royal palace. The ring is a pear shaped diamond, set in black enamel and is naturally highly prized.

* * *

Into the Earth's Bowels.

At Bendigo, Australia, there is a gold mine 3,900 feet deep, or only 60 feet short of three-quarters of a mile. This is said to be the deepest gold mine in the world.



A COUPLE OF "HOMES" IN THE WEST.

AMERICAN LAND MONOPLY.

IS BEING FOSTERED BY OUR PRESENT SYSTEM OF LOOSE LAND LAWS.

Homestead Commutation and Desert Land Act, Supposed to Encourage Settlement—Largely Utilized for Land Grabbing.

Land monopoly is a black cloud of dread from which Ireland is just emerging, and we applaud England's act, while we may yet possibly be a little skeptical, in providing a plan whereby free Ireland may become a fact.

Yet we ourselves are as rapidly approaching land monopoly in America as it is possible to do, considering our vast extent of territory. Land monopoly brings with it more state evils than can be recounted in any single article. It retards every internal development, it smothers individual effort and enterprise and finally it transforms the stem and fiber of the individual citizen from that of a substantial, self-reliant supporter of free government to a supine, indifferent and passionless individual, lacking in mental and moral poise and in those sturdy and heroic qualities which have made America the greatest name in history.

"Land monopoly, did you say?" says the American land grabber. "Why, there is enough land for the children of the nation for generations if not centuries to come. The government owns in the West alone nearly half a billion acres and how can there be any land monopoly when this vast area is always open to free entry under our various land laws?"

Half Billion Acres Remaining.

It is true that there are valuable lands in the West yet remaining open to entry, or at least land which will be valuable when it shall have been furnished water for irrigation, but what is the general description of this half billion acres yet remaining under Uncle Sam's control? Is it reasonable to suppose that the shrewd land operators, living on the ground, have not skimmed the cream of this land, and are not doing so to-day—the fertile valleys and the rich plains, where water can be applied—and leaving the great bulk of the land to their posterity, land composed of mountain tops and impassable canyon sides which will probably forever remain in the hands of the government and at least can never support life. Glance at a physical map of Colorado, just for an instance, and note the vast preponderance of mountains. There are many fertile valleys in Colorado, for the map is on a much reduced scale, but from its appearance you would think the entire State was composed of nothing but chain upon chain and range upon range of untillable mountains.

Denounced by Commission.

This question of land monopoly in the West, as it is fostered through the use of the commutation clause of the homestead act and the desert land act has been studied by the President's Public Lands Commission, and their report, the third installment of which is published in these columns, comments upon these two land laws.

The commutation clause originally provided that after eight months of residence on a homestead claim a man could "commute" by paying to the government $1.25 an acre and get immediate title to his land. After a number of years of operation it was conceded that this clause had opened the door for much land acquirement without settlement, and amid a great blare of trumpets, Congress, in a spasm of virtue, extended the time to fourteen months. What has been the result of this amendment? The opponents of the repeal of the commutation clause have presented specific reasons why this law should not be touched; that the entryman needs to "prove up" and get title to his land so that he can mortgage his property and with the money buy groceries, tools, etc., with which to work his farm, which may sound well, but the fact seems to remain that the great bulk of the commuted homesteads are not to-day homes.

There is a class of people who have apparently lost sight of the fact that the federal land laws, from the homestead law down, and even before the homestead law, were enacted for the purpose of fostering the making of homes for the nation, they seem to think, and it must be confessed that they have successfully put into practice their belief, that the laws are to be construed into passing on the title from the government into private hands with absolutely no regard to homemaking. They argue that when the public domain goes into private ownership it becomes taxable property and this helps the country and the State, and the question is ignored as to whether men and women go upon that land and make homes and rear families.

The following part of the report of the Public Lands Commission shows that the commutation clause at present is a farce and that land can be entered under it and almost immediately added to already large individual holdings. The Commission recommends that the period of residence be extended from fourteen months to three years and that the residence be actual and not constructive, as it is at present. With such a law strictly enforced the evils of the commutation clause would be largely obviated. It is, however, highly improbable that if a man actually resided and improved his homestead for three years he would be unwilling to pay $1.25 an acre for immediate title, when by an additional two years' residence, he could save this amount.

FREDERICK H. NEWELL.
Chief Engineer of the U. S. Reclamation Service and Member of the Public Lands Commission.

The provisions of the desert land act, and the recommendation for the amendment of which is included in the following report will be discussed in next week's article.

Commutation Clause of the Homestead Act.

In the preceding report a statement was made that our investigations respecting the operations of the commutation clause of the homestead law were still in progress. We were not at that time prepared to recommend its repeal. Investigations carried on during the past year have convinced us that prompt action should be taken in this direction and that, in the interest of settlement, the commutation clause should be greatly modified.

A careful examination of the districts where the commutation clause is put to the most use shows that there has been a rapid increase of the use of this expedient for passing public lands into the hands of corporations or large landowners. The object of the homestead law was primarily to give to each citizen, the head of a family, an amount of land up to 160 acres, agricultural in character so that homes would be created in the wilderness. The commutation clause, added at a later date, was undoubtely intended to assist the honest settler, but like many other well-intended acts its original intent has been gradually perverted until it is apparent that a great part of all commuted homesteads remains uninhabited. In other words, under the commutation clause the number of patents furnishes no index to the number of new homes.

To prove this statement it is only necessary to drive through a country where the commutation clause has been largely applied. Field after field is passed without a sign of permanent habitation or improvement other than fences. The homestead shanties of the commuters may be

(Continued on next page.)

Do You Use

Acetylene?

if so,

We Want to Send You

A SAMPLE BURNER

We believe we have the very best and the cheapest line of Acetylene Burners. Our sample will show better than we can explain here why it would pay you to use our burners.

Write us to-day, mention kind of Generator used, enclose [illegible] cents in stamps to cover postage, and we will send you

A Sample Burner

W. M. CRANE COMPANY
1131-33 BROADWAY
Room 16 New York, N. Y.

GULLEDGE
Loans and Discount
ng time loans on Improve
ife Insurance Policies.
ns on good Personal Proper
Crops.
l advances offered on co
now, either on farms or ddress
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

Mail Order House!
UT RATE DRUG STORE!
g at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
K GOODS PER QUART.

Old Mason's Pure Rye $2.0
Private Stock Virginia Rye .. 2.5
J. Martin's 6-year-old Va. Rye 3.0
Old Style Country Club 3.4
Old Lincoln County 2.5
Richmond Club Virginia Rye 4.0
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye 5.0

We carry a full line of wines and
andle low grade goods.
R DRUG COMPANY
T RATE DRUG STORE
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything
Everything of the be
Fancy Grocerie
DS, CLOTHIN
, HATS, ETC.
ONES & BRO.
.AL

OUR!
car Perfection just
om the mills.
arantee price and
at our expense.

NON & SONS
Clanton Furniture Co.

seen in various degrees of dilapidation, but they show no evidence of genuine occupation. They have never been in any sense homes.

Investigations have been carried on where the commuted homesteads are notable in number. The records of some of the counties examined show that 90 per cent of the commuted homesteads were transferred within three months after acquisition of title, and evidence was obtained to show that two-thirds of the commuters immediately left the state. In many instances foreigners, particularly citizens of Canada, came into this country, declared their intention of becoming citizens, took up homesteads, commuted, sold them, and returned to their native land.

The reasons given for adhering to the commutation clause are diverse and many of them are cogent when applied to individual cases. It is said, for example, that the commuter desires to raise money for use in improving his place. This is often true, but in the majority of cases the records show that the commuter immediately leaves the vicinity. The frequency of loans is traceable in many places directly to the activity of agents of loan companies, who are often United States commissioners also, eager first to induce settlement and then to make these loans on account of the double commission received. Later they secure the business which accrues to them through the foreclosure and transfer of the property. The true working of the commutation clause does not appear until after foreclosure upon the maturity of the loans.

From an old wood-cut illustration in Richardson's "West of the Mississippi."—A "Home" 14x20 (inches, not feet) showing that false swearing in acquiring government land is no new art.

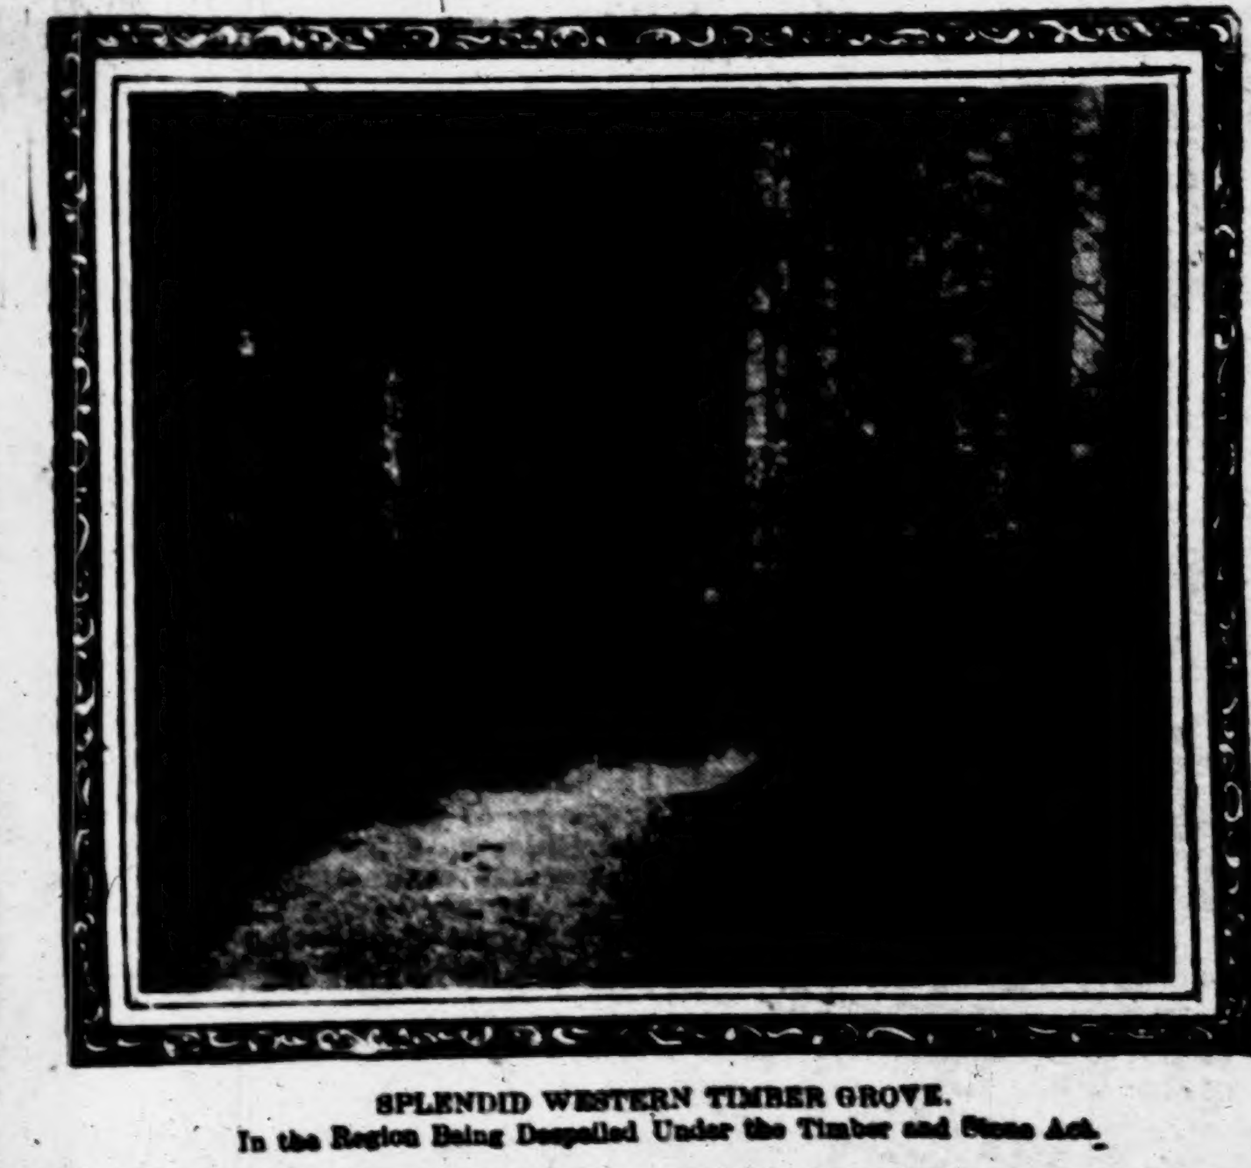
One significant brought out by the investigation is that a large portion of the commuters are women, who never establish a permanent residence and who are employed temporarily in the towns as school teachers or in domestic service, or who are living with their parents. The great majority of these commuters sell immediately upon receiving title, the business being transacted through some agent who represents his client in all dealings and prepares all papers.

The commutation clause, if it is to be retained to cover special cases, should be effective only after not less than three years' actual—not constructive—living at home on the land. Under present practice, the commutation period being fourteen months, six months of this time is generally taken to establish residence, so that only eight months remain. This time is usually arranged to include the summer, so that the shack built need not be habitable in severe winter weather, and the residence on the land may consist merely in a summer outing. Obviously it is assential that residence should be far more strictly defined. It is probable that lax interpretation and enforcement of the provisions of the law regarding residence is responsible for more fraud under the homestead act than all other causes combined.

It may be urged that the frauds which have taken place under the operations of the commutation clause are due largely to lax administration. The fact is that the precedents established by decisions rendered on special cases have so far weakened the powers of administration that additional legislation is necessary.



SPLENDID WESTERN TIMBER GROVE.
In the Region Being Despoiled Under the Timber and Stone Act.

Desert Land Law.

In the preceding report the opinion was expressed that the desert-land law should, for the present, at least, be allowed to stand, with a few changes in detail. It was believed that, with the experience of the past for guidance, it would be possible to enforce this law so that its essential provisions should be complied with. More careful analysis, however, of the operations of this act and of the practices which have grown up has led your commission strongly to the conclusion that this law should be modified in essential particulars.

Your Commission recommended last year the repeal of the assignment clause. This provision has been made the convenient vehicle for evading the spirit of the law and for facilitating the acquisition of lands in large holdings. The law limits the amount which one person or association of persons may hold, by assignment or otherwise, prior to patent to 320 acres of such arid or desert lands. The most common form of attempted evasion of this requirement is for two or three individuals to form themselves into a corporation, each individual member of the corporation securing, by entry or assignment, 320 acres of such lands and the corporation as such 320 acres. These same individuals then form another corporation under an entirely different name and procure an assignment of another 320 acres, and this process is continued indefinitely.

The General Land Office has within the past year endeavored to put a stop to this practice by holding that a corporation or association of persons is not qualified to receive a desert-land entry by assignment where its individual members, either singly or in the aggregate are holding 320 acres of such arid or desert lands. This ruling, if enforced, will tend to lessen the evils resulting from large holdings prior to patent, but it is not deemed possible to secure adequate control of this question unless the law prohibits assignments of desert-land entries. By repealing that provision of the law and requiring the claimant to show that he has made the entry for his own use and benefit and not for the benefit of any other person or corporation and that he has made no agreement by which the title shall inure to any other person or corporation the evils incident to large holdings of such lands under the sanction of law will be materially lessened.

It is a striking fact that these large holdings of desert land are not reclaimed and devoted to their best use. Three hundred and twenty acres of irrigable land is entirely too much for economical handling by one person. On the other hand, inspection shows that in the same locality and under the same climatic conditions the homestead entries, where not commuted, are reclaimed and utilized.

The desert-land act as it stands upon the statute books appears to have many features which commend it, as before stated, the practices governing it have largely nullified its good features, and the resulting evils cannot be fully overcome without legislation.

The area of the desert entry should be cut down from 320 acres to not exceeding 160 acres, and discretion should be given to the Secretary of the Interior to cut it down still further where it is apparent that intensive cultivation is practicable. A farm of 320 acres, if irrigated, is entirely too large for a single family, and its possession simply prevents other settlers from coming into the country. Furthermore, it makes land monopoly easy and induces speculation.

Actual living at home on the land for not less than two years should be required before patent. Your Commission can not understand why any settler should be given both a homestead and a desert entry, either of which without the other should suffice, under the law, to furnish him a home. The desert-land law should be a means of settlement, and actual bona fide residence should be rigidly required.

The actual production of a valuable crop should be required on not less than one-fourth the area of the entry. At present, as a rule, the greater part of the desert entries are never actually watered. Hundreds of desert entries were examined by members of the Commission in the last year, and the great majority of them were found to be uninhabited, unirrigated, uncultivated, and with no improvements other than a fence. This applies both to desert entries upon which a final proof is now being offered and to other entries to which title has been given.

It is a fact that a very small proportion of the land disposed of under the terms of the law has actually been reclaimed and irrigated, and scrutiny of many hundreds of desert entries now passing to final proof shows that in the majority of cases, these lands are not actually utilized, but are being held for speculative purposes, owing to several causes, among which are the laxity of some of the state laws governing appropriation of water for irrigation purposes, and the insufficiency of the water supply, considerable difficulty has been encountered in administering that provision of the desert-land laws which requires a claimant to have a permanent water right based on prior appropriation. Very often the waters of a stream are exhausted by other appropriators before the time when the claimant goes through the form of posting notices, recording his claim, and complying with other essentials of the state law. Notwithstanding this, he furnishes the testimony of two witnesses that the water thus appropriated has been used in reclaiming his land, and that the supply is adequate for that purpose. While this showing, on its face, indicates a compliance with law, the fact remains that the water supply, if any at all, is not sufficient to permanently reclaim the land.

The ownership of stock in a projected irrigation ditch which does not exist in fact, or the ownership of a pump temporarily installed, has often been accepted, in connection with such testimony, as proof of the possession of water. Many alleged irrigation ditches or reservoirs are familiar to members of the Commission which are utterly inadequate to irrigate a square rod, and upon the strength of such works patent has frequently then issued to 320 acres of land.

Frauds committed through conventional forms of perjury and through lack of proper verification of the facts as to the reclamation of the land justify the taking of immediate and radical steps in the revision of the law. The law should absolutely require an actual adequate water supply, and the limits as to quantity should be defined.

In short, the law should render impossible the continuance of the practices by which desert lands without water, without cultivation, and without crops are passed into the possession of claimants.

Grabbing Lands.

The great bulk of the vacant public lands throughout the West are unsuitable for cultivation under the present known conditions of agriculture, and so located that they can not be reclaimed by irrigation. They are, and probably always must be, of chief value for grazing. There are it is estimated, more than 300,000,000 acres of public grazing land, an area approximately equal to one-fifth the extent of the United States proper. The exact limits can not be set, for with seasoned changes large areas of land which afford good grazing one year are almost desert in another. There are also vast tracts of wooded timbered land in which grazing has much importance, and until a further classification of the public lands is made it will be impossible to give with exactness the total acreage. The extent is so vast and the commercial interests involved so great as to demand in the highest degree the wise and conservative handling of these vast resources.

It is a matter of the first importance to know whether these grazing lands are being used in the best way possible for the continued development of the country or whether they are being abused under a system which is detrimental to such development and by which the only present value of the land is being rapidly destroyed.

At present the vacant public lands are theoretically open commons, free to all citizens but as a matter of fact a large proportion have been parceled out by more or less definite compacts or agreements among the various interests. These tacit agreements are continually being violated. The sheepmen and cattlemen are in frequent collision because of incursions upon each other's domain. Land which for years has been regarded as exclusively cattle range may be infringed upon by large bands of sheep, forced by drought to migrate.

ROCHAMBEAU STATUE.

A Heroic Bronze Figure of France's Field Marshall Standing in Front of White House.

One of the very striking and majestic bits of bronze in Washington is the Rochambeau statue which stands in what was called Jackson Square, because of the presence there of Clark Mills' equestrian statue of General Jackson, later called Lafayette Square, because of the erection there of the great Lafayette statue, and now very frequently called Rochambeau Park because of this elegant example of art. The statue was unveiled in 1902. It stands directly in front of the White House.

ROCHAMBEAU STATUE.
Stands Opposite the White House.

The movement for the erection in the National Capital of a statue of Rochambeau was in recognition of the close ties between France and the United States. This sentiment was particularly strong after the close of the Spanish-American war in view of the services rendered in the interest of peace by Cambon the French Ambassador. The government of France had also just sent over two superb Sevres vases as a gift to President McKinley. Congress appropriated $7,500 for the statue. Rochambeau commanded the French forces sent to the assistance of the young republic of the United States and which co-operated with the Continental army at Yorktown.

Rochambeau statue is excellent art. The French field marshal in the full uniform of his rank stands with one arm outstretched evidently pointing to the distant American colony which he is about to help.

At the base is a symbolic figure. It is the figure of a woman hurrying forward with the flag of France borne aloft in the right hand. Beneath her feet is the prow of a ship suggestive of the force which France has sent across the seas to aid the republic of the United States in the days of its infancy. Below are the arms of France and the United States linked together.

COFFEE WAR

The Coffee Importers and Roasters are Attacking

POSTUM FOOD COFFEE

All Along the Line.

"THERE'S A REASON."

Many people have found out the truth about old-fashioned coffee.

They have overcome disease caused by it.

The plan was easy and sure.

Quit Coffee and use Postum.

Proof with one's self is stronger than any theory.

The Postum army grows by hundreds of thousands yearly.

The old-fashioned Coffee Magnates are now deriding Postum through the papers.

Because their pocketbooks are hurt, they would drive the people back to the old coffee slavery.

One coffee prevaricator says: "It (Postum) has lately been exposed and found to contain an excess of very ordinary coffee."

Another that "it (Postum) is made from a small amount of parched peas, beans, wheat, dried sweet potatoes, and paste of wheat middlings."

Here's to you, oh faithful followers of the tribe of Ananias:

$100,000.00 CASH

will be deposited with any reputable trust company (or a less amount if desired) against a like amount by any coffee roaster or dealer. If the charges prove true we lose, if not we take the money as partial liquidation for the infamous insult to our business.

The Postum Pure Food factories are the largest in the world, the business having been built upon absolutely pure food products, made on scientific lines, "for a reason" and the plain unvarnished truth told every day and all the time. These factories are visited by thousands of people every month. They are shown into every cranny and examine every ingredient and process. Each visitor sees Postum made of different parts of the wheat berry treated by different mechanical methods and one part blended with a small part of pure New Orleans molasses. So he knows Postum contains not one thing in the world but Wheat and New Orleans molasses. It took more than a year of experimenting to perfect the processes and learn how to develop the diastase and properly treat the other elements in the wheat to produce the coffee-like flavor that makes suspicious people "wonder." But there never has been one grain of old-fashioned or drug coffee in Postum and never will be.

Another thing, we have on file in our general offices the original of every testimonial letter we have ever published. We submit that our attitude regarding coffee is now and always has been absolutely fair. If one wants a stimulant and can digest coffee and it does not set up any sort of physical ailment, drink it.

But, if coffee overtaxes and weakens the heart (and it does with some).

Or if it sets up disease of the stomach and bowels (and it does with some).

Or if it causes weak eyes (and it does with some).

Or if it causes nervous prostration (and it does with many).

Then good plain old-fashioned common sense might (without asking permission of coffee merchants) suggest to quit putting caffeine (the drug of coffee) into a highly organized human body, for health is really wealth and the happiest sort of wealth.

Then if one's own best interest urges him to study into the reason and "There's a reason," he will unearth great big facts that all of the sophistries of the coffee importers and roasters cannot refute.

A Few Overlooks.

"I met an old friend in town to-day" said Mr. Shannon to his wife one evening, on his return from business," and he told me he expected to be married in a week.

Ten minutes later, after his wife had finished asking questions, Mr. Shannon wrote as follows to his friend Stodder:

"Dear Stodder:—I thought I was a newspaper reporter, but please answer the following questions by return mail. They cover some points I neglected to get from you.

"What is the name of the girl you are to marry?

"Where does she live?

"What does her father do?

"Has be any money?

"Was it love at first sight?

"Are you very much in love with her?

"How old is she?

"Where are you going to live?

"Did you ask her personally, or write your proposal?

"Havn't you proposed to other girls?

"How did you and I come to be such friends?

'Where are you going for your honeymoon?

"Is it that tall girl you took to the theatre one night last winter?

"Why didn't I ask you all this when you told me?

"Were you so excited you couldn't give me any information, but simply had to talk about getting married?

"A prompt reply will help me to give my wife some much-desired information. Next time you tell me you are going to be married, don't think that is the really important feature about it.—Yours hastily, Shannon."

A darky was asked why he went away, and gave the following lucid answer:

"I didn't went. I didn't want to went, and if I had wanted to went, I couldn't have got to go no how."

There is a group of islands south of New Zealand called the Seven Sisters, said to be subject to a practically constant rainfall. The same conditions exist in Terra del Fuego, except that the rain often takes the form of sleet or snow.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE
Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

BULLDOG SUSPENDERS
50 cents everywhere. Will Outwear Three Ordinary Kinds.
Made in Light and Heavy Weights, for Men and Youths. Extra lengths, same price. With more elastic, [illegible] non-rusting metal parts, and absolutely unbreakable, soft, pliable Bull Dog leather ends, they are POSITIVELY THE BEST SUSPENDER MADE.
If your dealer cannot supply you, we will, postpaid, for 50 cents.
HEWES & POTTER, Largest Suspender and Belt Makers in the world.
[illegible], 87 LINCOLN ST., BOSTON, MASS.
Valuable Booklet, "Dress and Suspender Styles," free on request.

The Newest and Best
STRAP LOCKS
are the
LYNCH PERFECTION
YALE PRINCIPLE

The NEWEST THINGS for CHRISTMAS WEDDING (and other) PRESENTS

are our Lock Buckles for use on Trunks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds, Portfolios, Messenger Bags, etc.

They are the only Lock Buckles with the Yale Principle and are made of Manganese Bronze, which looks like gold, is stronger than steel and will not rust.

Locks alone (easily attachable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c; large, $1.00. (Beautifully hand engraved and including monogram, 25c extra); with strap for trunk, $1.50; for case, $1.00 prepaid and returnable if not delighted. Booklet on request. Salesmen and saleswomen wanted everywhere.

LYNCH MFG. CO. Madison, Wis.

Jonas was cooking a bit of bacon on the little stove when the door open ed and a rasping voice spake famil iarly: "Goin' to sell out, I see, Jonas eh?"
Jonas looked up in evident displeas ure. He was a slender, old man per haps seventy years of age. His hair was thin and white, and his beard and moustache grew long and straggly showing the pink skin beneath, for Jonas was in prime health as a result of his regular, active farm life. Now his cheeks were pinker with irritation
Squire Barlow was not a welcome vis itor. Jonas's glance encountered another old man as advanced in years as himself, but not as well preserved
He was short and stout, with black beady eyes deep set in a yellowish, leathery face. He looked the mean hard-fisted man he was known to be and as Jonas was not pleased with the interruption he turned again to the stove, giving curt assent to the Squire's inquiry
"Ye see right. Guess ye know the meanin' of red flags too' as well as I do, seein' as how gen'raly ye happen to be 'roun' where there's bargains
Will ye shet th' door, Squire? I ain' got no plans for heatin' all out doors Jonas spoke impatiently. Then, as the Squire closed the door with an

"HE LAY STILL, THE PRECIOUS angry slam, he lifted the meat out of the pan with a fork and put it on a blue plate that rested, warming, on the edge of the stove.
Ye don't seem very glad to see me
Jonas." The Suire's voice was a cross between a whine and a snarl, and his black eyes gleamed malignantly.
Jonas continued his preparations for breakfast. He gave a final stir to the coffee, set the pot and the plate of meat on the table, and cut a thick slice of bread. Then, as he sat down to eat he looked up at the Squire with cold, hard eyes:
"I didn't ask ye to come in, Squire an' I'll not ask ye to go long as ye behave yerself." He spoke very quiet ly, almost as though he were talking to himself. And as the Squire's face reddened with suppressed anger (for he had expected Jonas to cringe be fore him) Jonas calmly stirred his cof fee, looking meditatively out of the window across the bleak, frozen hill side.
Jonas's indifference was too much for the Squire's temper and he let him self out with an oath. "Ah-h-h!" he snarled. "Ye may well say ye didn ask me in, Jonas Updyke. But y dassent ask me why I come. Fo though we've lived here in this valle nigh seventy year, boys together, an men together, this is the fust time forty year gone that I've crossed th here doorsill. But it won't be the las Jonas, it won't be the last, me boy
There was an unctious sneer in h voice that grated on every fibre
Jona's being
"There wouldn't be no tears she Squire, if ye wasn't to come back more. An' as for crossin my step forty year, nobody knows betteru' ye self how that happens."
The Squire opened his coat, adju
ed his collar, and began impressivel emphasizing his words by tapping the table with a fat forefinger:
"Jonas Updyke, let me ask ye a fe questions. Maybe ye don't rememb —seein how old ye're gettin—mebb ye've forgotten Ann Eliza Wimb that lived in this town as a girl so forty year back." He waited for rep Jonas nodded his head "The be girl that ever lived, peace to her as es," he replied reverently.
"And mebbe ye don't remembe went on the Squire in a louder vo
"That for nigh five year I was a vi
itin' Ann Eliza Wimble every Sat day night, and takin her to meet ever Thursday evenin' in good weat and goin' drivin' with her, to s nothin of buyin' her gum drops, cologne, an sich." Again he paus and again Jonas nodded, looking o of the window sadly, for Ann Eli had been his wife for forty years, a less than two years before he h buried her in the little village chur yard.
The Squire's voice rose in passion climax. His gestures became emph ic: "Mebbe ye recollect, then, Jon
Updyke that 'bout that time

WAR

are Attacking

OFFEE

ne.

ASON."

sees Postum made of different ry treated by different mechan-part blended with a small part molasses. So he knows Postum g in the world but Wheat and
s. It took more than a year of fect the processes and learn how se and properly treat the other to produce the coffee-like flavor s people "wonder." But there grain of old-fashioned or drug never will be.

have on file in our general offices testimonial letter we have ever mit that our attitude regarding ays has been absolutely fair. If it and can digest coffee and it ort of physical ailment, drink it.
xes and weakens the heart (and ease of the stomach and bowels me).

k eyes (and it does with some).
rvous prostration (and it does l-fashioned common sense might nission of coffee merchants) sugaffeine (the drug of coffee) into uman body, for health is really est sort of wealth.

best interest urges him to study
"There's a reason," he will unthat all of the sophistries of the roasters cannot refute.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars owed our clients during the last years.
Over one Thousand
laims allowed through us dur-
the last six months. Dis-bility, Age and In-rease pensions obtained
the shortest possible time.
Widows' claims a specialty.
sually granted within 90
ays if placed with us immediely on soldier's death. Fees ed by law and payable out of lowed pension. A successful perience of 25 years and benefit daily calls at Pension Bureau at your service. Highest refences furnished. Local Magisates pecuniarily
enefited by sending us
aims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Varder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
gle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

O SUSPENDERS
Will Outwear Three Ordinary Kinds
E BEST SUSPENDER MADE.
TTER,
T, BOSTON, MASS.

NGS for CHRISTMAS
other) PRESENTS

Trunks, Telescopes, Cases of all kinds,

uckles with the Yale Principle
Bronze, which looks like gold,
will not rust.

tachable). Small, 50c; medium, 75c;
engraved and including monogram,
$1.00; for case, $1.00 prepaid and re-ooklet on request. Salesmen and sales

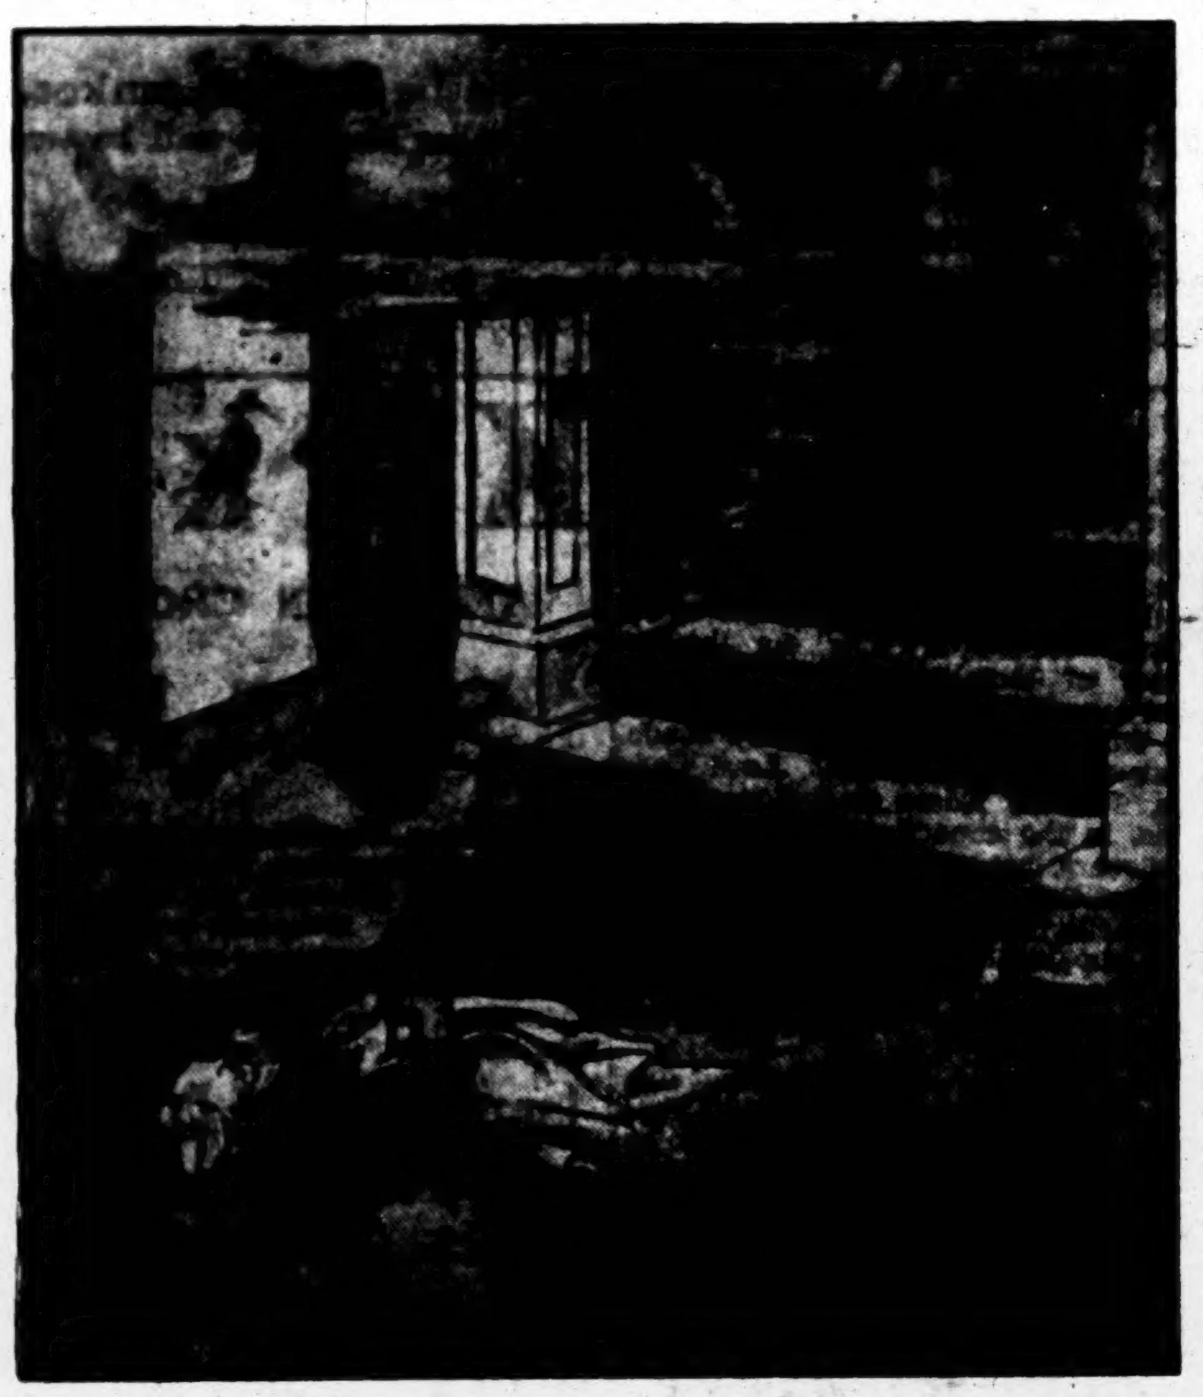
Madison, Wis.

Jonas was cooking a bit of bacon on the little stove when the door opened and a rasping voice spoke familiarly. "Goin' to sell out, I see, Jonas, eh?"

Jonas looked up in evident displeasure. He was a slender, old man—perhaps seventy years of age. His hair was thin and white, and his beard and moustache grew long and straggly, showing the pink skin beneath, for Jonas was in prime health as a result of his regular, active farm life. Now his cheeks were pinker with irritation. Squire Barlow was not a welcome visitor. Jonas's glance encountered another old man—as advanced in years as himself, but not as well preserved. He was short and stout, with black, beady eyes deep-set in a yellowish, leathery face. He looked the mean, hard-fisted man he was known to be; and as Jonas was not pleased with the interruption he turned again to the stove, giving curt assent to the Squire's inquiry:

"Ye see right, Guess ye know the meanin' of red flags jes' as well as I do, seein' as how gen'raly ye happen to be 'roun' where there's bargains. Will ye shet th' door, Squire? I ain't got no plans for heatin' all out doors." Jonas spoke impatiently. Then, as the Squire closed the door with an angry slam, he lifted the meat out of the pan with a fork and put it on a blue plate that rested, warming, on the edge of the stove.



"HE LAY STILL, THE PRECIOUS BUNDLE CLASPED IN HIS ARMS.

"Ye don't seem very glad to see me, Jonas." The Suire's voice was a cross between a whine and a snarl, and his black eyes gleamed malignantly.

Jonas continued his preparations for breakfast. He gave a final stir to the coffee, set the pot and the plate of meat on the table, and cut a thick slice of bread. Then, as he sat down to eat he looked up at the Squire with cold, hard eyes:

"I didn't ask ye to come in, Squire, an' I'll not ask ye to go long as ye behave yerself." He spoke very quietly, almost as though he were talking to himself. And as the Squire's face reddened with suppressed anger (for he had expected Jonas to cringe before him) Jonas calmly stirred his coffee, looking meditatively out of the window across the bleak, frozen hillside.

Jonas's indifference was too much for the Squire's temper and he let himself out with an oath. "Ah-h-h!" he snarled. "Ye may well say ye didn't ask me in, Jonas Updyke. But ye dassent ask me why I come. For though we've lived here in this valley nigh seventy year, boys together, and men together, this is the fust time in forty year gone that I've crossed this here doorsill. But it won't be the last, Jonas, it won't be the last, me boy." There was an unctious sneer in his voice that grated on every fibre of Jona's being

"There wouldn't be no tears shed, Squire, if ye wasn't to come back no more. An' as for crossin my step in forty year, nobody knows bettern' yerself how that happens."

The Squire opened his coat, adjusted his collar, and began impressively, emphasizing his words by tapping on the table with a fat forefinger:

"Jonas Updyke, let me ask ye a few questions. Maybe ye don't remember—seein how old ye're gettin—mebbe ye've forgotten Ann Eliza Wimble that lived in this town as a girl some forty year back." He waited for reply.

Jonas nodded his head "The best girl that ever lived, peace to her ashes," he replied reverently.

"And mebbe ye don't remember," went on the Squire in a louder voice, "thet for nigh five year I was a visitin' Ann Eliza Wimble every Saturday night, and takin her to meetin' ever Thursday evenin' in good weather and goin' drivin' with her, to say nothin of buyin' her gum drops, an' cologne, an sich." Again he paused, and again Jonas nodded, looking out of the window sadly, for Ann Eliza had been his wife for forty years, and less than two years before he had buried her in the little village churchyard.

The Squire's voice rose in passionate climax. His gestures became emphatic: "Mebbe ye ricollect, then, Jonas Updyke that 'bout that time ye whipped the groun' from under my feet with ye're consarned pretty manners an' ye're bank account, and took Ann Eliza out o' my arms, an' married her, damn ye. Mebbe ye don't remember that, ye—ye whelp, ye lyin,' dirty, low-down—."

It was well for the Squire that his breath failed, for Jonas was up in an instant, his eyes flashing, his nostrils white and dilated with sudden, virile anger He leaned with one hand on the table, and in his grasp was the long bread-knife. His voice was ominously quiet:

"Steady, Squire. I don't allow no man to insult me in my own house, nor anywhere else. I guess ye've said 'bout enough. Ye might as well git out an' stay."

The Squire calmed down immediately. He picked up his hat, buttoned up his coat over his still heaving breast, and laid a heavy hand on the doorknob. Then he turned and for full a minute the two men looked steadily each into the other's eyes like animals about to spring. The Squire's lips were drawn in a sneer, showing his yellow stubby teeth. "I ain't got no weepins," he said finally, opening the door. "But mebbe this time to-morrow ye won't be so quick to ask me to git out. I jest called to give ye notice, Jonas. I've bought up ye're notes, an' to-morrow when the sale comes off they'll knock the old place down to me at my own figger. To-morrow mornin' ye'll cook ye're last breakfast in this house, Jonas. Mind ye that. I've been awaitin' this moment for thirty year, ever since ye laid on the fust mortgage. It's the sweetest day I ever drawed breath. Pack up ye're duds, ye white-headed pup. It's my turn now."

He dodged the heavy toe of Jonas's boot and hastened down the graveled walk to his buggy at the gate.

Jonas went back to the kitchen and cleared up the breakfast dishes. Then he sat own with his pipe to think it over. The Squire's words were no surprise. He knew that Barlow had bought up the notes; he knew that there was no hope for him after tomorrow. He had already packed his few clothes in a grip, and was ready. To-morrow, before the sale could begin, he would walk out and leave the old place, with all its memories, to its new owner.

Jona's nature was self-contained, and he did not show his emotions. Yet, as he wandered about the house, thinking of Eliza, he came very near to tears. It was all so lonesome and forlorn. The dust lay thick on the parlor table, something he had never known in the old days. His mind went back, as it had done a hundred times during the week, to "Sonny," his son Bill,—and a great sob welled up in his throat. If Billy were only there—but he put the thought resolutely away. Billy was not there: Billy was but a memory, and Ann Eliza was dead, and home was home no longer. Jonas was up long before dawn the next morning. As Squire Barlow had predicted, he cooked his last breakfast, and by sun-up he was ready to depart. He stepped out of the yard without a look back. The air was sharp with November frost, but he swung away down the road at a gait that set his heart pounding joyously. Over his shoulder, on a heavy cane, he carried his carpet grip-sack. In his pocket was money—not so much to be sure, but enough to keep him for a month. And why worry beyond that, even at seventy years of age?

If you had asked Jonas whither he was bound he could not have told you, but he felt in his heart that he could make his way to one of the large cities and find work, for his spirit was yet young. It was his boast, admitted by his neighbors, that he had not aged a day, in look or manner, in the past ten years. So he strode on with a light step, and for a week covered about twenty miles a day, putting up at country hotels. The fresh air was like wine; the varying landscape was a delight. He lived again the days of sixty-three when he tramped up and down the State of Tennessee, fighting and being fought, day after day, through that terrible campaign.

Have you ever thought, young man, what it means to be dubbed "old and no good?" Have you an idea of the hopelessness of age when the only outlook is continued need and reduced earning capacity? The truth came home strongly to Jonas when he began to seek work. There was no work for him. They wanted young men. He was too old; he couldn't stand the racket. And some were less gentle with the rebuff. Gradually his little fund dwindled, and at last he made his way by begging at farm houses along the road. He found shelter in hayricks and barns, sneaking in after dark and leaving before dawn. Lack of food began to tell. The wrinkles deepened in his face; his eyes took on a hopeless expression; his gait was slower; his back began to bend. In a few weeks Jonas was an old, old man. And with weakness came the feeling of dependence. His pride melted. He wanted a strong arm about him. But there was only one in all the world on whom he might call—"Sonny." And where was "Sonny" now?

There was ample time for Jonas to regret the past. As he plodded along the frozen road he recalled the occurrences of ten years before, when "Sonny" had passed out of his life. On the boy's shoulders had fallen the burden of the farm with its mortgage. Together they had worked, Bill doing the lion's share, to raise the encumbrance; and when the money was almost in hand, Jonas had loaned it, against Billy's earnest protest, to a friend on an unsecured note, at heavy interest. And when the friend failed, Billy saw the fruits of his labor swept away in a night. Was it any wonder, then, that he proposed giving up the farm and moving to the city? Were they to continue there, with noses to the eternal grindstone, merely eking out a living? The mother agreed, faith in her son being deep and abiding; but Jonas said No, and when, after months of argument, Billy announced his intention of going alone, Jonas rose in wrath and showed him the door, bidding him with a curse to "Go, and stay, and never show your face again." Now, in his bitterness, weak and weary, Jonas sat down by the side of the road and wept quietly—the first time in years. Oh, if he could only find "Sonny." "Sonny" would forgive him. His heart went back to the old home; to the sorrowing mother, who had pined away grieving for her son. He did not know that on the day of his departure, Billy, prosperous and generous, having heard of the approaching sale, had appeared before the astonished Squire Barlow and upset that individual's prophecy by satisfying all demands and rendering the sale unnecessary; nor that for weeks Billy had been advertising all over the East for his father to come home.

It was New Year's eve. Jonas had been on the road over a month. Without knowing how, or, indeed, why, he had proceeded steadily north, through the mountains, and now, as the bleak, winter day drew to a close, he was approaching the great city of Pittsburg. From afar he had seen the heavy smoke lying low on the horison. The road was lined with beautiful residences, and as dusk came on, lights appeared in the windows. There was warmth and cheer. Might not food and shelter be there too for an old man? He could not keep up much longer. His shoes were worn through. He was sick with hunger. In desperation he followed the driveway of a palatial residence and made his way back to the stable. The hostler came at him savagely. "Git out o' here," he growled, "This ain't no place for hoboes." Jonas turned and went out again. He would not beg from a common stable-hand. He would push on to the city.

As he passed the side of the house he glanced up at the roof and stopped suddenly. There was a glow in the attic window. The glass shivered and a gush of smoke and flame told him instantly that the house was on fire. With quick steps he ran to the front and up on the broad porch. The door was locked, but he pounded on it with his fists. "FIRE!" he shouted; and again, "FIRE! FIRE! The door opened suddenly, showing the white, scared face of a woman. "FIRE!" Your house is on fire!" he cried, as he pushed past her.

Women screamed and children ran hither and thither. Hardly knowing why Jonas hurried up the broad stairs. As he turned into the upper hall a cloud of smoke enveloped him. He entered the first room and ran to the window. Opening it, he shouted into the still night air, "FIRE! FIRE!" He heard men's voices, but as in a dream, for the smoke was stifling him. He must get back or die, like a rat in a hole. As he groped his way he fell against a bed. A tiny voice startled him. It was a baby, choking in the dense smoke. He reached out blindly; his hands came upon the child struggling beneath heavy coverings. He grabbed it up, dragging off the blankets, and wrapping them around the little one's head and body.

Somehow he reached the door, staggered into the hall and found the stairway. As he started down he tripped over the end of a blanket and rolled down, down, over and over. His head struck a sharp corner at the foot of the steps, and he lay still, the precious bundle clasped in his arms.

An immeasurable space of time passed—then Jonas awoke slowly. He knew that he was warm, and that he lay on a soft bed; but his eyes were heavy and he could not lift the lids. Then a familiar voice sounded in his ears. "Father, father," it said. Surely that was "Sonny's" voice, and he was back in the old home, and it was time to get up and milk the cows. He struggled against the heavy sleep. His eyes opened and looked up into Billy's face. "Sonny, is it you?" he asked, weakly. Where am I, Sonny?"

"Yes, father, its me, Billy;" came the strong, familiar voice. "Don't you know me, father? I've been hunting you everywhere. You're right here at home, my home."

Slowly the truth dawned upon him. He closed his eyes again, trying to remember. "Sonny, there was a fire, and—a—a—baby—."

"Yes, father. It was right here. It was our baby, and you saved it for us. The fire's out. There's no danger. And I've bought the old home, father, and you can go back if you want, and never work or want any more!"

But Jonas did not hear. A great peace came over him. He knew only that "Sonny" held him; that "Sonny" would take care of him; that his long journey was at an end.

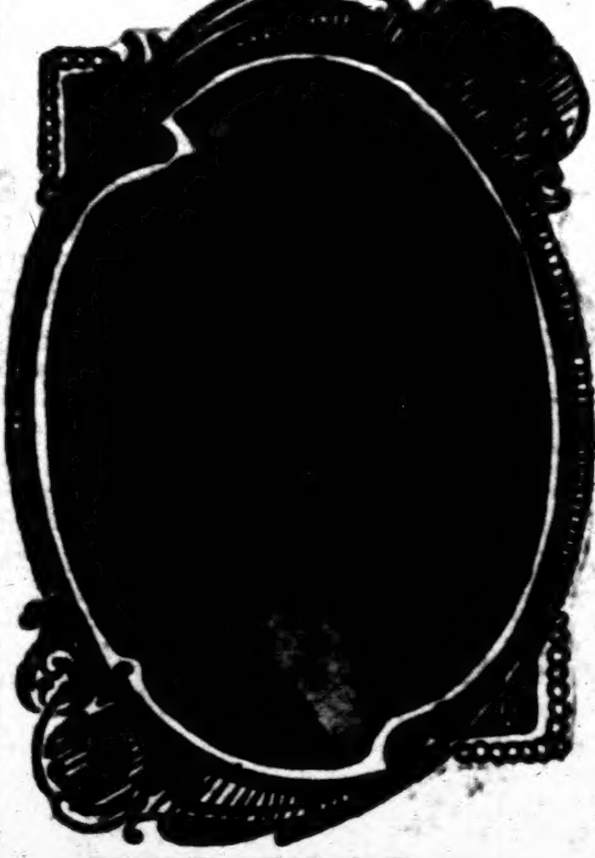
Through the midnight air came the sound of great bells. All over the city the joyous message was ringing—ringing in "Sonny's" ears—that Jonas had come home.

HAUNTED CASTLE OF KIMBOLTON

The Queen of England Stands Godmother to American Baby.

When Queen Alexandra stood as godmother to the son and heir of the Duke of Manchester and his American wife, it was the first occasion on which this regal lady ever assumed responsibility for the spiritual welfare of any child whose mother is a native of the United States. King Edward, while still Prince of Wales, accepted the sponsorship of quite a number of children of Anglo-American unions.

By the bye, the Duke of Manchester is the present head of Drogo de Monte Acuto, who was a famous warrior in the immediate train of Robert, Earl of Moreton, at the time of the Norman conquest. Among his ancestral homes, rescued and restaurated with the aid of his American father-in-law, Eugene Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, pre-eminent stands the tradition-filled, association-haunted Kimbolton Castle. The castle is an ancient, stone building, standing at the head of the Fen country, in a spacious, well-wooded park, close to the town of Huntingdon. Four centuries ago it was the dower palace of Queen Katherine, of Arragon, after her divorce from Henry VIII. It would still appear to be the residence of her spirit, since her ghost, in long, queenly robe and royal crown, is said to roam its corridors even yet. The Castle, however, has another ghost, less dignified, perhaps, but distinctly interesting in its habits. The portrait of Sir John Popham, erstwhile Lord Chief Justice of England, and one of the earliest promoters of American colonization, hangs in the great hall, and its original is said to keep a nightly vigil for rogues and poachers, accommodating himself, according to inclination and moonlight, by either sitting astride the park wall or secreting himself under the shadow of the mighty elm trees. Probably the ghost of Sir John is an immense saving of gamekeepers' salaries to the ducal purse.



DUCHESS OF MANCHESTER.

Lord Denbigh, who is well remembered in this country from his visit in Boston a few years ago, at the head of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London, is the chief of the family to which the famous novelist, Henry Fielding, belonged. He likewise claims relationship with the imperial Austrian House of Hapsburg; this claim, however, being ridiculed by many eminent English genealogists. He is lord-in-waiting to the King, and one of the forty Roman Catholic members of the Upper House of the English national assembly.

The Bradley-Martins, it is learned, have made several efforts to purchase Balmacaan outright, the magnificent place they occupy in Scotland. But, though they have frequently raised their figures to a fancy price, they cannot induce the owner to part with it. The fact that they merely lease the place does not prevent them from spending a mint of money on it. It is now far more luxuriously fitted up than Balmoral, the Scotch royal residence, and Mar Lodge, the Duchess, or rather, Princess of Fife's place, pales into insignificance compared with it.

The Bradley-Martins have been so long in England that one almost forgets their rise to influence in the social world. Theirs is a success due to riches—at least, so it would appear, and, in fact, such success makes small impression on the thoughtful. Yet, when you look into it, you find many things that arouse your admiration. It is no mean thing to make an entrance in the London world of fashion. It requires a deal of tact and knowledge of men and women. The Earl of Craven, the son-in-law of the Bradley-Martins, passes most of his time looking after his forty thousand acres, and in attending to his duties as county magistrate near his Warwickshire home. Lady Craven is keenly interested in poultry farming, and at Coombe Abbey has bred birds that have stirred up the keenest sort of competition amongst English fancers. Moreover, it is agreed on all hands that the boy-and-girl marriage of 1898 has turned out more pleasantly than the wiseacres of that date predicted. And the Countess of Craven grows prettier as she grows older.

Prince Nanzeta Pehasnez Montezuma, who claims to be the lineal descendant of the famous Aztec King of that name, is a small, olive-skinned youth, with large, heavily-fringed gray eyes, a full, red mouth and long hair. He wears civilian clothes, a broad-rimmed sombrero, and usually carries an interesting, carved cane.

van Calava.

FREE!

LADIES THIS
Handsome Fur Scarf
GIVEN AWAY

Send us your name and address and we will send you free and post-paid 24 pieces of our jewelry novelties to sell at 10 cents each. Everybody you show them to will buy them of you. When sold send us the $2.40 and we will at once send you this

Handsome Fur Scarf

It is nearly 48 inches long, made from black Lynx fur, has six full, bushy tails, very latest style, and we know you will be more than pleased with it. When you receive it we know you will say it is the most elegant and thoroughly good fur you have ever seen. Nothing similar to this scarf has ever before been offered as a premium; it will give years of satisfactory wear. It gives a stylish, dressy effect to the wearer's appearance. The only reason we can offer them is we had a large number of them made up for us by one of the large furriers during the summer when trade was quiet; this is the only reason we are able to offer such an expensive premium. We hope you will take advantage of our offer without delay. This is an extraordinary offer and cannot be duplicated by any other reliable concern. We trust you with our jewelry until sold. It costs you nothing to get this fur. Address,

COLUMBIA NOVELTY CO.,
Dept. 655, East Boston, Mass.

Fabulous Cost of Solomon's Temple

Solomon's Temple flourished before the days of modern "Graft," but it may be wondered what became of all the jewels and precious stones, for the talents of gold, silver and brass used in the construction of the temple were valued at about thirty-five billions of dollars, and the jewels about the same, according to Villapandus. The consecrated vessels of gold amounted to two and three-quarter billions; of silver two and one-half billions; the vestments and musical instruments to eleven and one-quarter millions.

There were ten thousand men employed to hew timber, seven thousand as burden carriers, twenty thousand as hewers of stones, thirty-three hundred overseers, all of whom were employed for seven years and upon whom Solomon bestowed as a gift thirty millions of dollars. Adding the food and wages the total would be over four hundred and fifty millions of dollars. The costly stone and timber equalled twelve billion more and the whole total has been carefully estimated as $77,521,965,636.

Crow and Parrot Fight.

Adam Forepaugh, the veteran showman, had a white parrot which had learned to say, "One at a time, gentlemen, don't crush," acquired, of course, from the ticket seller.

One day the parrot got lost, and after a long search Mr. Forepaugh was overjoyed to hear its familiar voice from an adjoining cornfield. He dismounted from his buggy, entered the cornfield and found the parrot in the middle of a flock of crows that had pecked him until he was almost featherless. As the crows bit and nipped, the parrot, lying on his side and defending himself with his claws, was repeating over and over, "One at a time, gentlemen, one at a time. Don't crush."

Colorado's Fine Capitol.

The State Capitol of Colorado was erected at a cost of $3,000,000 and is constructed entirely of Colorado material. The exterior is of selected gray granite and the interior of polished marble and onyx. It stands in the center of a ten-acre tract and required about ten years to complete.

"It is reported that our corner druggist is about to fail."

"Goods a drug on the market, eh?"

Music
Lessons Free
IN YOUR OWN HOME.

A wonderful offer to every lover of music whether a beginner or an advanced player.

Ninety-six lessons (or a less number if you desire) for either Piano, Organ, Violin, Guitar, Banjo, Cornet or Mandolin will be given free to make our home study courses for these instruments known in your locality. You will get one lesson weekly, and your only expense during the time you take the lessons will be the cost of postage and the music you will use, which is small. Write at once. It will mean much to you to get our free booklet. It will place you under no obligation whatever to us if you never write again. You and your friends should know of this work. Hundreds of our pupils write: "Wish I had known of your school before." "Have learned more in one term in my home with your weekly lessons than in three terms with private teachers, and at a great deal less expense." "Everything is so thorough and complete." "The lessons are marvels of simplicity, and my 11-year old boy has not had the least trouble to learn." One minister writes: "As each succeeding lesson comes I am more and more fully persuaded I made no mistake in becoming your pupil."

We have been established seven years—have hundreds of pupils from eight years of age to seventy. Don't say you cannot learn music till you send for our free booklet and tuition offer. It will be sent by return mail free. Address U. S. SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 15 Union Square, New York City.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. [illegible] page catalogue, [illegible] illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydise and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

Wake Up, Old Man,
Wake Up!

BE A BOOK-KEEPER!
BE A FIRST-CLASS BOOK-KEEPER

You Will Never Fall Asleep Over Your Work or be troubled over long columns of figures, if you will purchase and master the contents of [illegible]

Why Go to "College" to Learn Book-keeping

[illegible] get your money's worth."

I Find Positions, Too, Everywhere, Free!

[illegible]

J. H. GOODWIN
Room 486, 1215 Broadway, NEW YORK

THE NATIONAL BIRD,

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL

The great American bird, the bird which will scream back an answer to you every time you imitate his "gobble" or otherwise "make a noise like a gobble," has along with his domesticator, man, driven the other American bird far into the back woods, figuratively and actually.

When the Indians owned the land, the eagle and the turkey stood on probably an equal footing, the one the tyrant of the air and the other the king of game birds. Both were hunted by the Indian, the eagle to furnish plumes for his war bonnet, and the turkey, of course, for food.

YOUNG BRONZE COCKS.

But now the eagle seldom is hunted and still more seldom ever killed or captured, while the turkey is found in hundreds of thousands of farm yards.

Although the North American wild turkey is a beautiful and resplendent game bird, with feathers of black, shaded with a rich bronze and illuminated with a lustrous finish of coppery color, his domesticated cousin, while improved nothing in appearance, has been bred up to outweigh any other domestic fowl, thirty or thirty-five pounds being not uncommon among prize turkey flocks.

According to the Department of Agriculture the growing of turkeys has improved within the last few years as a result of a determined effort on the part of producers of what is termed "standard bred or exhibition" stock to demonstrate that it is more profitable to use pure bred breeding stock than the smaller and less vigorous stock of days gone by. Their efforts to introduce throughout the country the several standard varieties of turkeys have greatly improved our turkey growing industry. This effort has supplied rich, new, vigorous blood throughout the whole country, adding strength and virility to innumerable flocks, many of which had become considerably deteriorated through inbreeding.

Deterioration Through Inbreeding.

The fact that one fecundation is sufficient to render fertile all the eggs of one laying has made possible the undermining of the health and vigor of the present-day domestic turkey. Being advised of this, hundreds of people depend upon their neighbors' flocks for the services of a male and pay no attention to the matter of breeding stock except to keep one or two turkey hens. This has reduced many of the turkeys throughout the country almost to a condition of imbecility. The lack of vigor in a large portion of the breeding stock throughout the country has jeopardized to a certain extent the production of a sufficient number of market turkeys to supply the demand. In fact, not fully realizing that their failure was largely due to undermining the vitality of their breeding stock through inbreeding, people have become so disheartened in some localities with the meager results of their efforts to grow turkeys for market that they have desisted from the attempt.

Mr. T. F. McGrew, of New York, a well-known judge of poultry and a writer on breeds and breeding, has written a turkey bulletin for the Department of Agriculture which is known as Farmers' Bulletin No. 200, and in this he says that there is no other kind of livestock that will return so large a profit to the successful producer as will poultry, and no kind of poultry is more profitable than turkeys when properly handled. The fact that turkeys will, from the time they are six weeks old until winter sets in, gain the greater part of their entire living from bugs, grasshoppers and waste grain that they pick up in their wanderings over the range, assures their existence through this period at little or no cost to the grower. In other words, they may be termed self sustaining foragers, where they have sufficient range.

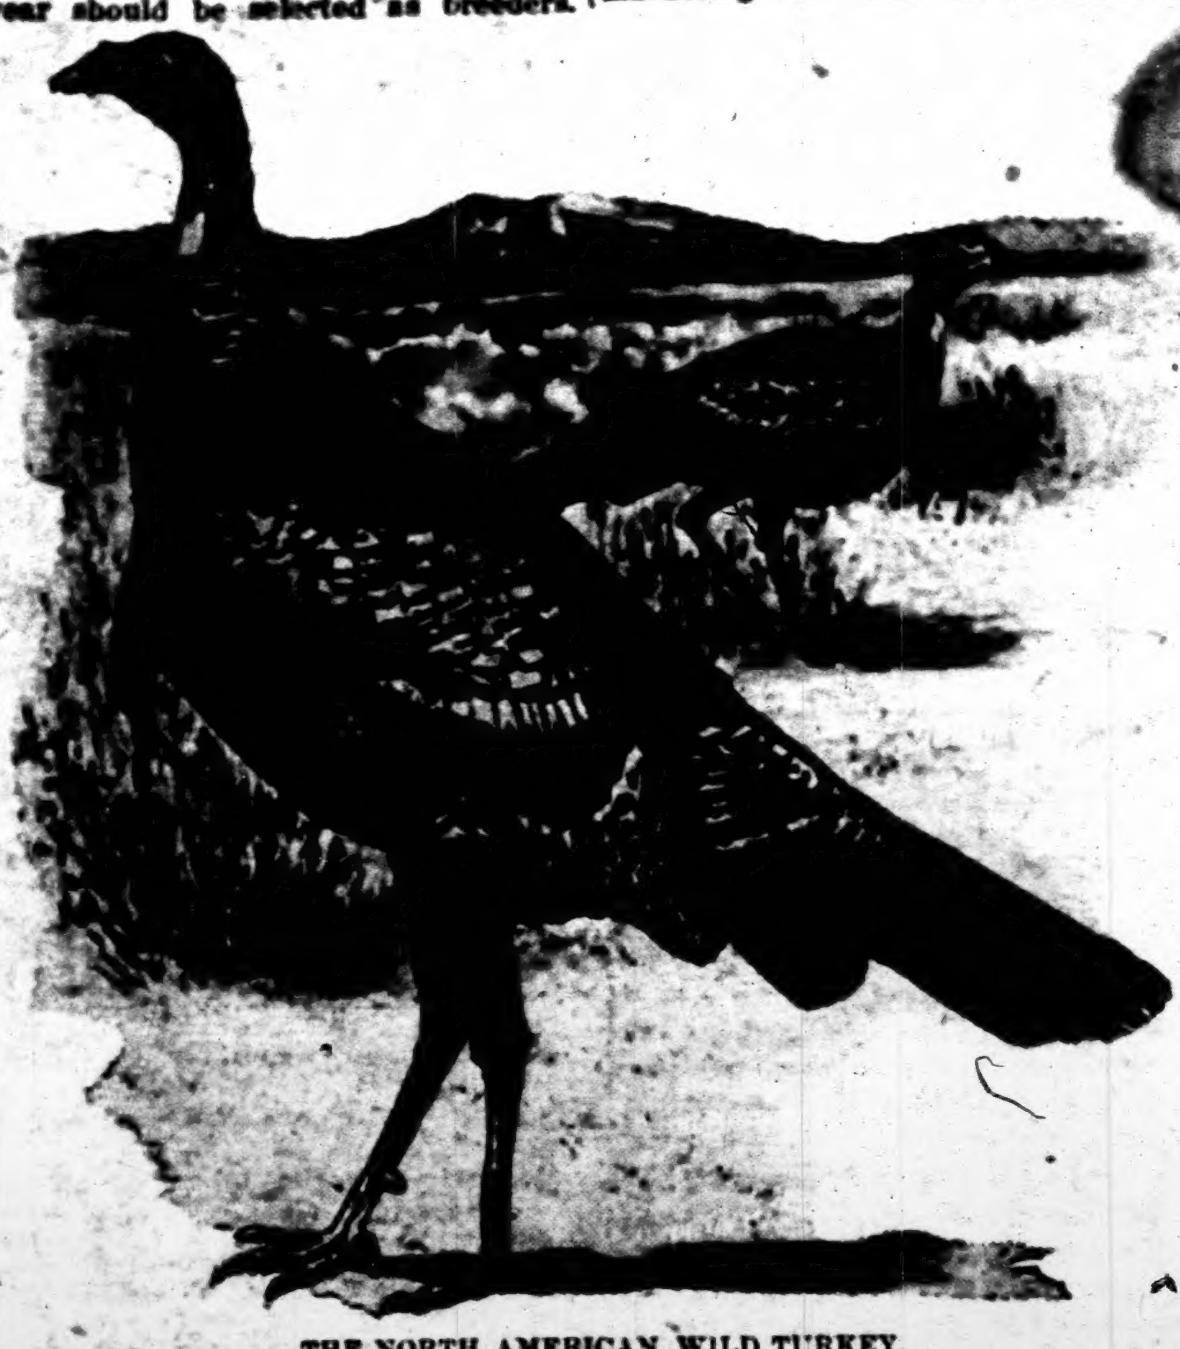
The Bronze Turkey.

This turkey holds the post of honor. It is possibly a cross between the wild turkey and the tame turkey, which latter is generally believed to have descended from either the North American wild turkey, the Mexican wild turkey or the Honduras or Ocellated turkey. Its beautiful rich plumage and its size have come from its wild progenitor. To maintain these desirable qualities, crosses are continually necessary. In this way the mammoth size has been gained, the standard weight ranging from sixteen to thirty-six pounds, according to age and sex.

The coloring of this variety is a ground of black blazoned or shaded with bronze. This shading is rich and glowing, and when the sun's rays are reflected from these colors, they shine like polished steel. The female is not as rich in color as the male, but both have the same color and shadings. Much of this richness of color is lost through inbreeding, as it is improved by each cross with the wild specimens. Of all our domestic fowls none suffer from inbreeding so much as turkeys. This should be guarded against at all times, if it is hoped to gain the best results.

GROUP OF WHITE TURKEYS.

Naturally the Bronze turkey should be the largest in size, the most vigorous in constitution, and the most profitable to grow. This would be the status of the variety at present were it not that too little attention has been given to the selection of the females for breeding stock. It should be fully understood that size and constitutional vigor come largely through the female, and, to have this influence to the fullest extent, well-proportioned vigorous females in their second or third year should be selected as breeders.



THE NORTH AMERICAN WILD TURKEY.

Do not select the very large specimens for this purpose; those of a medium size are usually the best. Discard the undersized females at all times, as they are of but little value as producers. Length of shank and thigh, if out of proportion, should not be mistaken for size; full-rounded body and breast indicate value most clearly; size and strength of bone indicate constitutional vigor which should be maintained through the selection of the very best at all times for producing stock. When special care is given to the selection of the breeding stock, and the grower bears in mind those profitable characteristics—compactness of form, length of breast and body, and constitutional vigor—the most satisfactory results may come from the growing of this variety. But no matter how much care may be given these conditions, only partial success will come if inbreeding is permitted. The use of oversized males with small females is of less advantage than the use of smaller males with well-matured, medium-sized females.

A FORTY POUND BRONZE GOBBLER.

The Narragansett Turkey.

This turkey is a noble looking, full-chested bird but is not so large as the Bronze. His color is a black background with a steel-gray edge to the feather which imparts a metallic black-and-bronze luster. The cocks, or toms, weigh from 20 to 30 pounds, and some old ones have gone 40 pounds. The Narragansett is a desirable breed and some growers declare that they will reach market size and condition in less time than the Bronze turkeys.

The Buff Turkey.

As bred for market these turkeys are a reddish buff or light chestnut color mixed with white and some dark shadings. They are highly valued in some localities for their quick growth and for their attractiveness when dressed, although they do not run as the Naragansett or the Bronze.

The White Turkey.

In America the white variety is called the White Holland turkey. In England they are known as "Austrian Whites," where they are considered sports from other turkeys. They range from 10 pounds for young hens to 26 pounds for old cocks, although they have run as high as 35 pounds at fairs. Mr. McGrew states that white turkeys are quite as easy to grow as any other variety, and he states that one cannot select a better kind for all uses than the White Holland. They grow to the most profitable sizes, dress beautifully for market, their light, pinkish-white shanks add to their appearance; and with them, as with all white poultry, the pin feathers show less than in darker varities. The very largest turkeys are not as profitable either to grow or to sell. The medium sizes—from 9 to 18 pounds dressed—are the most desirable for family use.

Other turkeys are the Black turkey, similar to, if not much the same, as the English Norfolk turkey, the Slate turkey, and the red Bourbon turkey, which is similar to the Buff turkey. In addition to the North American wild turkey, the Mexican wild turkey still affords splendid sport, as does also the Honduras turkey, which is found in various parts of Central America, both birds being resplendent and of savory flesh.

The turkey bulletin of the Department of Agriculture above mentioned is a brief booklet which will certainly be read with interest by anyone growing or caring for turkeys. It describes the different varities, and devotes fifteen or twenty pages to the selection and care of breeding stock, turkey houses and ranges, incubation, hatching, growing and feeding the birds, marketing and also the ailments to which turkeys are subject.

Drop a postal to your member of Congress or Senator, and he will send you one.

Food Value of Eggs.

Popular belief to the contrary, there is no difference in the nutritive qualities of eggs with dark shells and those with light. Their flavor is affected by the food of the fowl for good or for evil. Exhaustive experiments by well equipped investigators prove that the egg deserves its reputation as an easily assimilated and highly nutritious food, if eaten raw or lightly cooked. Such experiments also show that eggs at twelve cents a dozen are a cheap source of nutrients; at sixteen cents, somewhat expensive, and at twenty-five cents and over, highly extravagant.

The basis of comparison was the market prices of standard flesh foods considered in relation to their nutritive elements. But there is a physiological constituent of eggs which is of great value, yet it defies the search of the scientist or the inquisition of the statistician, and that is their palatability. Unless a food, however rich in proteins, is relished, it loses much of its value, while, per contra, a less chemically desirable food that is enjoyed becomes valuable by reason of that fact.

FAIR STUDENTS IN REVOLT.

Object to the Measuring Methods of Their Gymnasium Instructor.

The girls of the freshman and sophomore classes of the University of Cincinnati have been going about with traces of tears on their cheeks, and asking each other, "Have you been scheduled?"

At first the girls did not know what "scheduling" meant when they received confidential notes from Miss Edna Earl Hope, teacher of the girls' gymnasium work at the 'varsity. Their presence alone in her private room was requested at such and such a time. The "alone" looked mysterious and the girls held a consultation. Then the bravest faced Miss Hope. When she went in to Miss Hope her face was eager, but when she came out it was scarlet.

"And what do you think?" she whispered: "You—have to—take off all your clothes."

"And after she gets your clothes off, what then?" chorused the girls.

Then the first girl told, with tears and gasps, how the new gym teacher placed an adjustable rig about the hips and measured them—the hips—yes! And she measured the arms and the 'er—'er—legs. The bust expansion and the length of the fingers, and how big the chest is when the girl takes a long breath, and how little it gets when the girl expels her breath. Then she subtracts the difference, divides it by two, and multiplies the result by three, and says:

"There's where you ought to be, and maybe you'll be that by the end of the year, when the second physical examination comes."

The girls held an indignation meeting the latter part of the week, and a committee was secretly appointed to wait on President Dabney.

"But," said the girls on the committee, "we would rather take one of those scheduled things than to tell a man about it."

Because of the excitement of those girls who were "scheduled" Miss Hope has now provided a garment in making the "test".

Lacking in Education.

Little Freddie, having lost a nickel was crying bitterly.

An old gentleman who had stopped to investigate said: "My boy you shouldn't cry that way."

"But," said the little fellow, "I d-don't know how to c-cry any o-other way."

"Say not goodbye, but in some brighter clime, bid me good morning."

It Costs Ten Cents
It's Worth Ten Dollars

FOR A YEARS' SUBSCRIPTION TO

Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine

Because,

for one reason, it is worth more than ten dollars for one year for the music page alone in every family where there are young children who are being taught music—or if they are not then they ought to.

Music in the Family is the surest way to interest the children and entertain the boys and girls where they will be under the uplifting influence of the Home Environment.

The Music Department

in Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine is conducted by a successful teacher of music of more than ten years' experience, who has a remarkable insight into the musical needs of child life and an unusually clear and concise way of explaining all things pertaining to the laying of a solid foundation for musical development.

Keyboard Drill, Staff Drill, Note Drill and Ear Training have already been worked out.

Scale Building begins in the December Number. Be sure and get it if you are interested in Teaching the Children Music.

Other Departments in Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine are Home Study, Home Cheer, Home Entertainment, Home Gardening, Health in the Home, besides a Story and Interesting Miscellany of special interest to the Homemaker,

And Everyone is or ought to be a Homemaker.

Bear in mind that Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine will be sent to you for

One Whole Year for Ten Cents.

Send a Dime or five two-cent stamps to Maxwell's Homemaker Magazine, 1409 Fisher Building, Chicago, Ill.

He Was Incorruptable.

In the opening days of the American Revolution, when France had recognized the independence of the United States, and we had shown ourselves determined upon stubborn resistance, the English Parliament were driven to a final "conciliatory bill" for the recovery of their colonial possessions. Most everything was conceded by this act, but nowhere was allusion made to absolute independence. Lord Carlisle, William Edsen and Gov. Johnstone, in the capacity of special commissioners, brough the bill to America and lost little time submitting the plan of conciliation to Congress, together with an insolent letter. That body hardly gave it consideration, but forthwith rejected the plan proposed by the ministry.

Foiled in every attempt, but not dismayed, the commissioners now resorted to measures distinguished in infamy and baseness. They opened secret correspondence with members of Congress, and, through a female agent, Mr. Reed, a delegate from Pennsylvania, was offered $50,000 and the best office in the colonies that his majesty could bestow if he would use his influence in favor of the conciliatory bill. Mr Reed's reply, as well as memory, should be enshrined in the hearts of every loyal Pennsylvanian. It was simply this: "I am not worth purchasing, but such as I am, the King of England is not rich enough to do it."

The Alexandrian Library.

Said Omar, "Either those books are in comformity with the Koran, or they are not. If they are, they are useless, and if not, they are evil; in either event, let them be destroyed."

Such was the logic that led to the destruction of seven hundred thousand manuscript volumes in Alexandria.

* * *

Pliny tells us that Homer's Iliad, with its 15,000 verses was written in a space as small as a walnut shell.

* * *

In more remote times an account is given of an ivory chariot constructed by Mermicides, so small that a fly could cover it with one of its wings, and of a ship that could be concealed by the wing of a bee.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

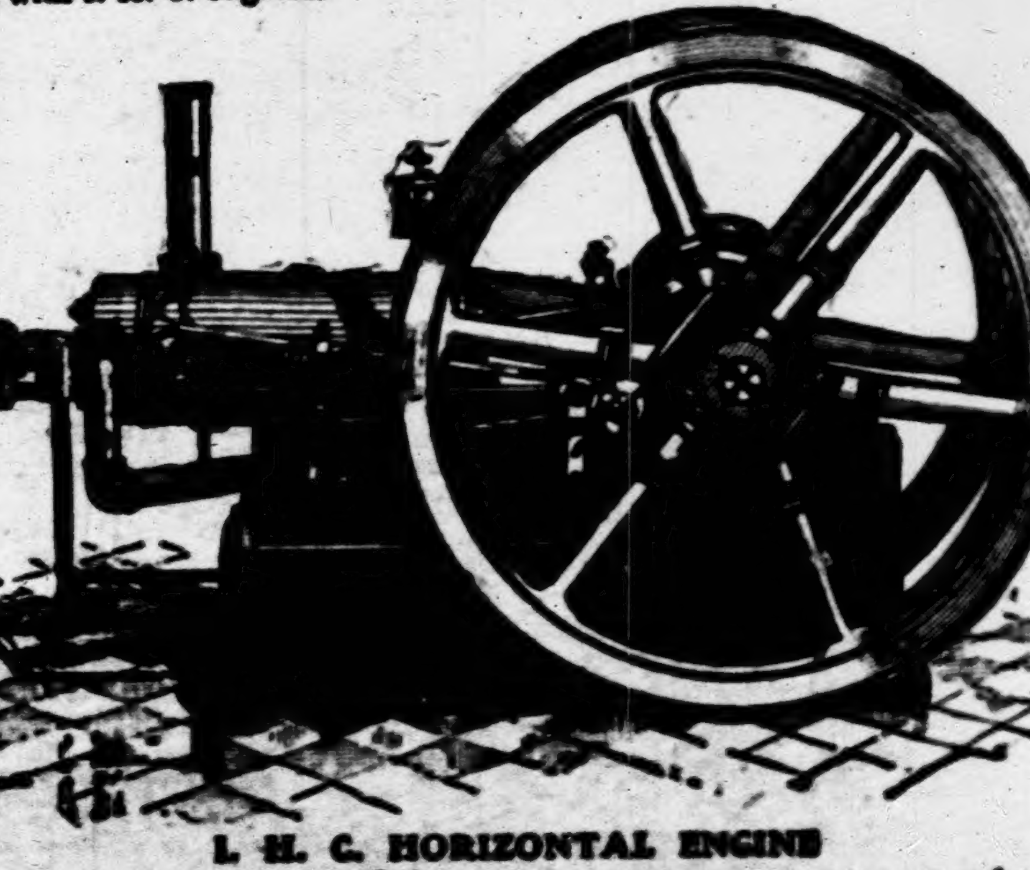
BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H.C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets first Monday in February first Monday in April, first Monday in [illegible] Monday in July second Monday in August and fourth Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day .... 11¼ at [illegible]
" same date last year [illegible]

No. Bales received to date	[illegible]
Pinckard & Co	[illegible]
W. I. Mullins	[illegible]
W. Kenter & Br	[illegible]
J. C. Jones	1211
Cannon & Sons	[illegible]
Other Firms
Total	6934

The above figures are [illegible] the several cotton buyers Wed [illegible] evening five o'clock

Mr and Mrs Leonard N of Elmore county visited re here last week

Mr E R McKee has retur home after about 2 years stay Colorado

Miss Ruby Downs won the pr at the Methodist Sunday Sc for securing the largest number new scholars Miss Maggie M Kinnie was second in the race, ing only 1 behind Miss Ruby

Mr. Tom Thornton of Bex Miss, visited relatives and frie here during the holidays.

Mr. Harve Moore of Dolive sp the holidays with his parents he

Mr S. C. Matthews spent holidays at home from the Mar Military Institute.

Mr. Arthur Johnson who is tending the medical departmen Vanderbilt University came ho to spend Xmas.

Mr John C. Oates of Arkan is visiting relatives here.

Mr and Mrs R. L. Martin children of Texas are visiting r tives in Clanton.

Miss Katie Candler is visit relatives at Birmingham and R erside.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try

Mr. and Mrs V. H. Vines Birmingham visited the family Mr J. H Vines the past week

Mr. Hanson Colvin, who has b at the bedside of his sick sister, M W. A. Middleton, has returne his home in South Alabama.

Dr V. J. Gragg came h from Tulane University at N Orleans to spend Christmas,

The Christmas tree at the M odist church was quite a succ and much credit is due the comm tees an arrangement and decora for their most efficient work.

Miss Susie Robinson and bro Mr. John Robinson, of Kelly are visiting relatives here this w

Mr Arthur Chesnutt of B ingham spent a few days with atives here this week

Several of our young peopl tended the "Old Maids' Con tion" at Jemison last Friday n

Mr. W. Y. Keel of Billing gave us a pleasant call Tuesday

Flour—Cannon's Perfect is the best.

Miss Essie McDaniel has p poned her entertainment until day evening, Dec. 29

Mr. R. L. Williams Sr., of lingsley, was in town Friday.

Mrs R. A. Aldridge and n Miss Pearlie Baker, spent Ch mas with her daughter, Mrs W Maddox, in Birmingham

Santa Claus with fine T has arrived at Upchurch's

Marriage licenses have been is this week by the Probate Judg the following persons

Mr. C. C. Bowles and Miss zie E. Rogers; Mr. J. F. Busby Miss Minnie Lee Howard; M Z. Robinson and Miss Ge Bird; Mr. A. E. Latham and Mary Blanche Baker; Mr Howard and Miss Elizabe Jones; Mr. A. B. Frith and Ida Barrett; Mr. A. V. Kl and Miss Celia Bowden; Mr Stewart and Miss Hattie Prit Mr. J. H. Connell and Miss Driver; Mr. E. M. Bean and M. E. Thompson; Mr W Moates and Miss Florence Bak

Colored—Lemon Hickman Lola Rice; William Morrow Cora Jackson; John Atchinso Ella Campbell; Lum Hall Eliza Belle Powell; James D nette and Matt Houser.

The mission of "Early Riser to clear the way and give N full sway. These famous little rid the stomach and bowels o putrid matter, thus removin causes of headache, const.p sallow complexion, etc. DeW Little Early Risers never gri sicken. A safe, pleasant, p pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug

Ten Cents
Ten Dollars

UBSCRIPTION TO maker Magazine
ause,
han ten dollars for one year for the where there are young children who y are not then they ought to be.
he Family
hildren and entertain the boys and uplifting influence of the Home Department
ne is conducted by a succe n years' experience, who has needs of child life and an un ining all things pertaining sical development.
Note Drill and Ear Training have December Number. Be sure and Children Music.
's Homemaker Magazine are Home
ainment, Home Gardening, Health nteresting Miscellany of special inght to be a Homemaker.
Homemaker Magazine will be sent for Ten Cents.
stamps to Maxwell's Homemaker
hicago, Ill.

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP
's a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.
James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

Foster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to con tain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

BOOKS—BOOKS
We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm
Write for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Harvester Co.
ENGINES
soline engine, the farm, the dairy, the ker and shredder can be operated more
. Farmers who have water to pump, hell, can do this work at a minimum

ONTAL ENGINE
in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 4 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, izontal type, portable.
ENGINE BOOKLET.
ster Co. of America
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February, first Monday in April, first Monday in and second Monday in July, second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day......11¼ @ 11½c
" same date last year 5¼ @ 5¾c

No. Bales received to date	1905	1904
Pinckard & Co	2985	3261
W. J. Mullins	1920	2125
W. Kenter & Bro........	468	..
J. C. Jones...........	1211	975
Cannon & Sons.........	410	..
Other Firms............		518
Total............	6994	679

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Norris of Elmore county visited relatives here last week.

Mr. E. R. McKee has returned home after about 2 years stay in Colorado.

Miss Ruby Downs won the prize at the Methodist Sunday School for securing the largest number of new scholars. Miss Maggie McKinnie was second in the race, being only 1 behind Miss Ruby.

Mr. Tom Thornton of Bexley, Miss. visited relatives and friends here during the holidays.

Mr. Harve Moore of Dolive spent the holidays with his parents here.

Mr. S. C. Matthews spent the holidays at home from the Marion Military Institute.

Mr. Arthur Johnson who is attending the medical department of Vanderbilt University came home to spend Xmas.

Mr. John C. Oates of Arkansas is visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin and children of Texas are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Miss Katie Candler is visiting relatives at Birmingham and Riverside.

Cannon's Best Flour. Try it

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Vines of Birmingham visited the family of Mr J. H. Vines the past week.

Mr. Hanson Colvin, who has been at the bedside of his sick sister, Mrs. W. A. Middleton, has returned to his home in South Alabama.

Dr V. J. Gragg came home from Tulane University at New Orleans to spend Christmas,

The Christmas tree at the Methodist church was quite a success, and much credit is due the committees an arrangement and decoration for their most efficient work.

Miss Susie Robinson and brother Mr. John Robinson, of Kellyton, are visiting relatives here this week.

Mr. Arthur Chesnutt of Birmingham spent a few days with relatives here this week.

Several of our young people attended the "Old Maids' Convention" at Jemison last Friday night.

Mr. W. Y. Keel of Billingsley gave us a pleasant call Tuesday.

Flour—Cannon's Perfection is the best.

Miss Essie McDaniel has postponed her entertainment until Friday evening, Dec. 29.

Mr. R. L. Williams. Sr., of Billingsley, was in town Friday.

Mrs. R. A. Aldridge and niece, Miss Pearlie Baker, spent Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Maddox, in Birmingham.

Santa Claus with fine Toys has arrived at Upchurch's.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. C. C. Bowles and Miss Lizzie E. Rogers; Mr. J. F. Busby and Miss Minnie Lee Howard; Mr. O. Z. Robinson and Miss Geneva Bird; Mr. A. E. Latham and Miss Mary Blanche Baker; Mr. J. W. Howard and Miss Elizabeth P. Jones; Mr. A. B. Frith and Miss Ida Barrett; Mr. A. V. Klinner and Miss Celia Bowden; Mr. Guy Stewart and Miss Hattie Pritchett; Mr. J. H. Connell and Miss S. P. Driver; Mr. E. M. Bean and Mrs. M. E. Thompson; Mr. W. A. Moates and Miss Florence Baker.

Colored—Lemon Hickman and Lola Rice; William Morrow and Cora Jackson; John Atchinson and Ella Campbell; Lum Hall and Eliza Belle Powell; James Dejarnette and Mattie Houser.

The mission of "Early Risers" is to clear the way and give Nature full sway. These famous little pills rid the stomach and bowels of all putrid matter, thus removing the causes of headache, constipation, sallow complexion, etc. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never gripe or sicken. A safe, pleasant, perfect pill. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Clothing! Clothing! Clothing!

Autumn is here and with it comes the necessity of a fresh fall suit. We just want to remind you that we are prepared to supply you with something neat and up to date at prices that will satisfy. We handle the well known "Kirshbaum Clothing" that for fit and beauty are unexcelled. Drop in and let us show you through. We are also sole agents for the famous Hamilton-Brown Shoes, the strongest line in America today. Investigate and you will invest. Our line of Winter Underwear is something WARM. Don't fail to see them before you purchase. We are making a special effort to keep everything that men wear in the Gent's Furnishing Department. We also make a special effort to keep the newest, nobbiest and most up-to-date articles in all departments. Come to see us when in town.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in the certain mortgage deed executed by Earnest Welch to the Lathrop Lumber Company, a body corporate, dated the 24th day of March, 1903, and record in vol. 75 record of deeds, page 119, in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton county Alabama, the said Lathrop Lumber Company will proceed to sell on FRIDAY, the 29th day of DECEMBER, 1905, in front of the Court House door of Chilton county, Alabama within the legal hours of sale to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, namely.

1 number 10 Wheeland Mill with 4 block carriage complete;
1 sixty horse 12 x 20 center crank Skinner engine;
1 seventy horse 54 x 12 tubular boiler;
2 circular saws.
4 drays with loading chains and so forth complete;
1 bay horse mule named Bill, 8 years old;
1 gray mare mule named Kit, 10 years old;
1 bay horse mule named Dock, 7 years old;
1 mouse mare mule named Hattie, 8 years old;
1 bay mare mule named Kate, 8 years old;
1 mouse horse mule named Fred, 8 years old;
1 gray horse mule, named John, 9 years old;
1 black horse mule named Henry, 9 years old;
1 red ox named Red, 8 years old;
1 spotted ox named Jim, 7 years old;
1 spotted ox named Henry, 5 years old;
1 spotted ox named Nub, 5 years old;

Said property being situate at Welch's mill, 4 miles west of Elderville, Chilton county, State of Alabama.

And default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness described in and secured by said mortgage, said sale will be made in execution of and in accordance with powers given in said mortgage.

LATHROP LUMBER CO,
December 11th, 1905.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books on sale at The Banner office

A nice line of Jewelry on display at Upchurch Drug Store.

Mr. T. M Pyron has removed his family from Verbena to his beautiful home opposite the Methodist church.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptons," says Mr. J. S. Egleston, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These Tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.
Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.
Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

A Merry Xmas

to all my customers and the other fellow also.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates. Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardwar than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

TAX NOTICE.
Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Rough skin and cracked hands are not only cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but an occasional application will keep the skin soft and smooth. Best for Eczema, Cuts, Burns, Boils, etc. The genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve afford immediate relief in all forms of Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Waiting.

Why are you waiting? I asked of the flowers,
As I sat in an arbor of leafless bowers,
The zephyrs swayed gently the dead looking thing,
As it mournfully whispered, I'm waiting for spring.

Why are you waiting? I asked of a bird,
Whose song in the treetop is sweetly heard,
He kept up his singing both early and late,
As he warbled his answer, I'm calling my mate.

Why are you waiting? I asked of a small child,
As she gathered the bluebells and violets wild,
Sweetly she answered while humming a tune,
I'm waiting for papa, he's coming soon.

Why are you waiting, I asked of a youth,
With clustering locks and eyes full of truth,
His answer came quick, Oh! this is my rule,
To wait here for teacher, I am going to school.

Why are you waiting? I asked of one,
Whose hands was toiled, stained and browned by the sun,
He glanced o'er his fields as he answered me slow,
I'm waiting the harvest, its coming you know.

Why are you waiting, you sad looking soul?
Sitting dejected in fields bare and cold.
Why do you ask me, friend so kind?
I'm waiting to eat of the husk of the swine.
Oh cease from your wandering so lonely and wild.
Return to your father ye prodigal child.

Why are you waiting? I asked of a soul,
Whose heaven this world and whose Diety gold.
He quickly looked up from his bank notes to say,
For money, more money, I'm getting gray.
I said pray remember as onward you go,
Your money won't save you from regions below.

Why are you waiting? I asked of a man,
Sitting alone in a mansion grand.
He answered me mocking his proud lips curled,
For love I am waiting, there's none in this world.
Oh yes there's love friend, if you'd only give heed
To the cries of the starving who at your door plead.
You would find they would love you and pray that you might Have a place in you city where cometh no night.

For what are you waiting? I asked one day
Of a blind man sitting beside the way
His face lighted up with a holy glow,
Waiting for Jesus, he answered low,
Yes, patient one, for if you believe
In heaven your sight you'll surely receive.

For what are you waiting? I asked of a pair
Sitting together with silvery hair,
Their voices sweet in unison given,
We are waiting the summons to call us to heaven.

For what are you waiting? I asked of a band
Of poor heathens living in a foreign land,
They pointed across the great billows of foam,
And said send us Bibles to guide us home.

For what are you waiting? I asked of the dead,
Why lie ye so long in your cold narrow bed.
Hark! Listen! from out of the cold mouldering clay.
Breaks the answer, we wait for the great judgment day.

LUCY I. BLALOCK
Clanton, Ala., R. F. D. No. 6.

Remarkable Cure

"I was much afflicted with sciatica," writes Ed. C, Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick, Co, Kan, going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me. I used three 50c bottles. It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons; all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm," 25c, 50c and $1,00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Position [illegible]
$5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Pd. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.
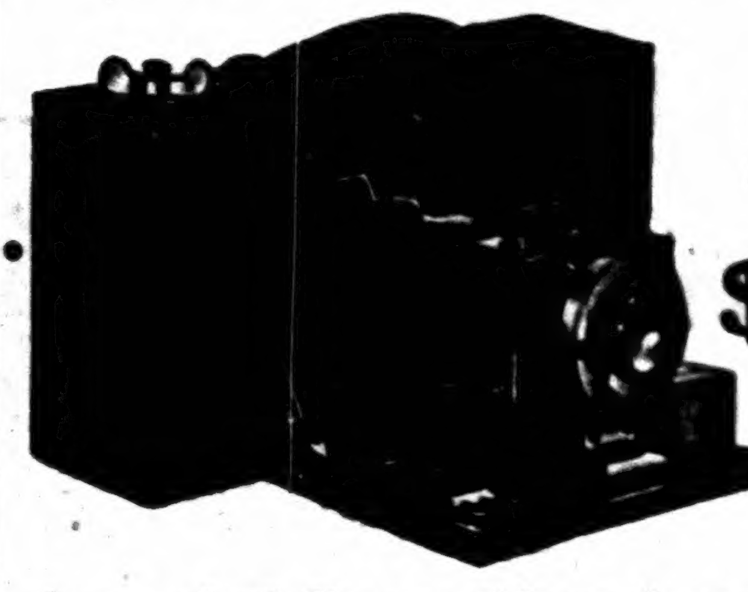
[illegible]

No. 2 Folding
Brownie



Price,
$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Light and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTC
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
CLANTON

Do Not Neglect a Cold.
Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.
CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S
HOREHOUND
SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.
EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.
[illegible]
Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed.
THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

Good News

Medical authorities have about decided that kissing does not transmit microbes.
—Recent News Item.
Now the man who halts and fears,
And in abject terror squirms,
Loath to kiss the charming dears
Merely on account of germs,
Need no longer turn and flee
When approached by winsome miss,
For we're truly glad to see
Scientists indorse the kiss.

Ladies who've your lips denied,
Kept some chap from coming near,
Lest from you the microbe glide
Unto one that you hold dear,
Go ahead and have your fun,
Revel in your new-found bliss,
With those former fears have done—
Scientists indorse the kiss.
—Philadelphia Bulletin.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST

BY HENRY CLEVELAND WOOD

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The pretty wedding with its echoes of Mendelssohn, and lights, music and flowers, was a dream of the past night, the happy couple having started on their wedding journey some hours before.

In the wake of the event, the members of the house party, convened for the occasion, were beginning to scatter.

The westward bound were to be only two in number, and the existence of these two had been made as enlivening as a party of young people on mischief bent could invent or devise. Now that the hour of departure had come, the evidently repentent band was striving to make the amende honorable. The girls assisted Helena in her packing, and had kindly attended to her ticket and berth while she had gone on a morning drive. No less attentive had been Kenton's companions, until a less guileless and suspicious pair would readily have scented mischief under this guise of devoted friendship. A subdued sadness pervaded the party quite in keeping with the occasion of leave-taking.

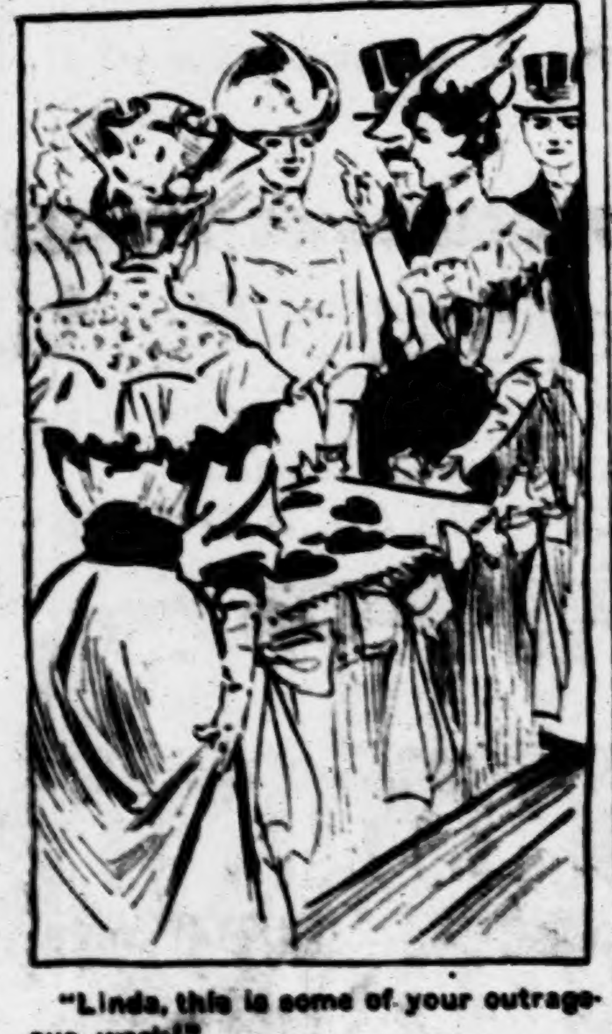
In the midst of the adieux, the two travelers, surrounded by solicitous friends, and the train pulling in—the baggage wagon, mysteriously delayed, finally arrived. A trunk and dress-suit case were deposited on the platform near the group, and immediately the two pieces of baggage became the center of attraction to the crowd of idlers and employes at the station.

The trunk was beribboned and bedecked to the verge of frivolity, on its white duck cover large crimson hearts were pasted, some of them arrow pierced. Scarcely less ornate was the dress-suit case, with a generous supply of twin hearts and streamers of white ribbons, while fastened to the handle by a padlock, to which there was no key, and that only a file might sever, was a sheep-bell that tinkled loudly, if not melodiously, on the slightest provocation.

The respective owners recognized their baggage almost at the same instant, and their faces became an interesting study.

"Linda, this is some of your outrageous work!" declared Helena, turning on one of her pretty companions a look of righteous indignation, the crimson in her cheeks scarcely less deep than that of the hearts bedecking her trunk.

"Dear, do be composed," cried Linda, the unabashed, affecting entire innocence concerning the accusation. "Look how the people are staring from the car windows. How very rude of them. They will suspect at once it is a newly wedded couple. I do hope you will have a perfectly lovely wedding journey, dear," she added in a cpually loud voice.



"Linda, this is some of your outrageous work!"

"I'll settle with you later for this," vowed Kenton, breathing vengeance in an underbreath to his chum, Van Dorn, who had seized the dress suit case, and, in a seeming effort to be useful, was prancing around the party in so lively a manner that the bell kept up a continuous jangle.

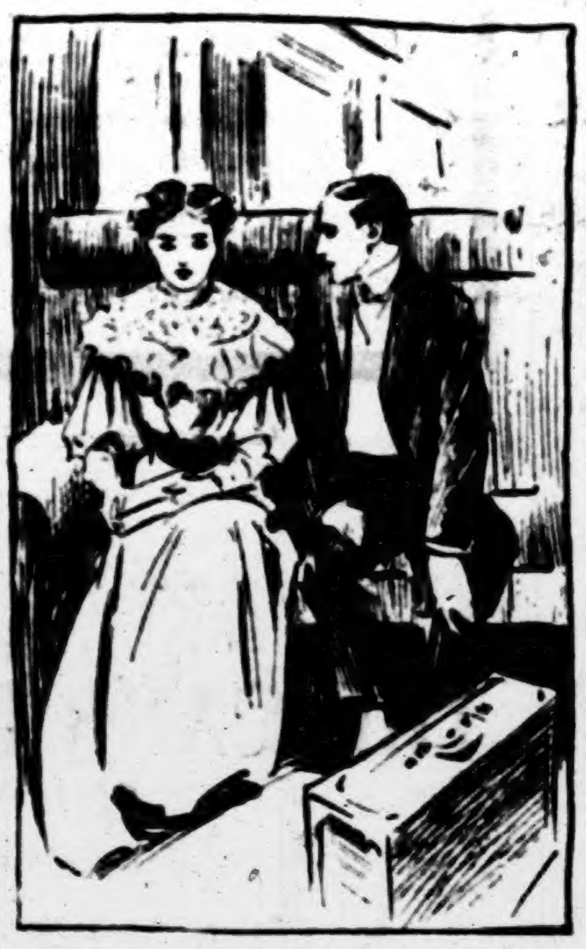
"All aboard!" shouted the conductor.

The two victims stood looking at one another in a dazed helpless apathy that would have touched with pity less adamantine hearts.

There was a bewildering chorus, "Do hurry!" "You'll get left!" "Good bye, dear," "Good luck, old fellow!" "Look pleasant!" and amid such exclamations the two unfortunates were suddenly deluged with rice, and simply pushed to the car steps by the conspirators. Heads were blocking the windows on that side of the train and a suppressed titter ran the length of the coach on their entrance.

"This is your section." The conductor waved his hand toward the seats which had been reserved. Alas! More treachery. The section was festooned ornately with white ribbons, a bunch of white roses, which had done duty the night before at the wedding of the real ones, and now looked rather faded, depended from the closed upper berth, like a wilted marriage bell, and the two seats were liberally sprinkled with rice. Several conspicuous placards were pinned on the woodwork around the windows.

"This is ridiculous! Absurd!" cried Helena, looking about her, but in vain, for an empty seat into which she might drop. "I positively will not sit there."



Caused her eyes to drop timidly.

"It's outrageous!" growled Kenton. "If I had Van Dorn by the neck I'd wring it!' he added viciously. "Of course he is the ringleader in this affair, I'll warrant." The speaker ruthlessly tore down the placards and festooning, and tossed them out the window. 'Now you need not feel so conspicuous. Pray be seated, and I will go forward into the smoker."

The solace of a favorite cigar is a wonderful sedative. After Kenton had finished a couple, he felt far less savage, and much more inclined to reflection. Looking back over his past lonely life, he could not but admit that it would be a most fortunate thing, indeed, if he were really now on his bridal trip. Certainly he could wish for no fairer companion through life than Helena. This was not a new thought by any means. It had made its way into his brain ere this in protean guises, but now, under the pressure of the recent joke, the matter appealed more forcibly to him than it had ever done before.

What a lucky dog he might consider himself if he could only win such a woman as Helena. Yet now how could he hope to do so in the face of such embarrassment as had just been brought about? She probably detested the very sight of him, though he was as innocent a party as she to the joke. How pretty and defiant she had looked in her confusion.

Kenton suddenly straightened himself, and tossed the end of his cigar out the window. "What if the tables should be turned?" he asked himself. "They think me an arrant coward, well, perhaps I have been, but I'll prove that I'm no longer one," he added resolutely, "I'm going to win that girl if I can."

He found Helena apparently deeply absorbed in a book she had purchased of the train boy, but when he asked the title, she had to look it up for him.

"It seems a pity to have so much decoration wasted," he ventured presently, as he sat down beside her.

"Wasted. How could it be, with such a band of conspirators as were left behind to enjoy our discomfiture?"

"Don't you think it would be a very sensible thing to begin to enjoy it ourselves?" he asked suddenly.

"Possibly, if we could bring oblivion of the past hour or two to our rescue," she answered drily.

"Helena—" he began, desperately, then paused helplessly.

Helena glanced up quickly, perhaps under the impression that the joke had gone far enough, but there was something in Kenton's face that caused her eyes to drop timidly before his own, while she blushed even more prettily than she had done at the unexpected shower of rice.

Van Dorn received a telegram a day or two later, which ran something like this:

"Helena and I were married in St. Louis. Are now taking in the Exposition. Congratulations in order.
Kenton.

MOVED THE BUTLER TO ANGER

"Aside" Remark Called Forth by Woman's Tyranny.

B. M. Harrod of the Panama Canal commission was describing a surprise that he had had on his last visit to the isthmus.

"My surprise was great," he said. "The sudden shock of it brought back my junior year at Harvard. I had then another surprise, and that is till vivid, though it happened fifty years ago.

"I was dining out with an elderly instructor and his wife. The instructor was slightly deaf, the wife was extremely so. Hence little conversation went on between us.

"The lady was very arbitrary and tyrannical. Time after time, as the butler brought her husband certain dishes, she would say, in that dead voice which deaf people use:

"'No, no; he mustn't have any of that.'

"And the instructor would acquiesce humbly. So many things were refused him, I wondered how he could make a meal.

"I grieved for the poor fellow. His wife's tyranny made my blood boil.

"The butler, too, must have been moved, for in the midst of the sepulchral silence that followed the lady's rejection, on her husband's behalf, of a glass of pink frozen punch the man burst out in a loud voice, yet one which only I could hear:

"'Curse the old woman! If she was my wife I'd poison her.'"

ACCORDING TO THE SCRIPTURE

Colored Woman's Authority For Not Saying "Afternoon."

A New England lady recently located in Georgia, and was not familiar with the Southern custom of speaking of the afternoon as "evening."

One morning when she was away from home, an old friend who was passing through the city called, and on her return the old negro servant told her of the gentleman's visit, and said that he would call again in the "evenin'."

In the afternoon she left the house again, and when she came home, great was her disappointment to find a note from her friend expressing his regret at not seeing her, as he was leaving the city that day.

Indignant at the mistake, she called the servant.

"How is this, Phoebe?" she demanded. "I thought you told me this gentleman said he would call this evening."

"Yes'm, he did."

"But he couldn't have said so, for he came this afternoon."

"Law, Mis' 'Liza," she said, "de Bible doan say nuthin' 'bout 'afternoon,' it jes say "de mornin' and de evenin' was de fust day."

Why Not Sign "Y'rs?"

In these days, when economy of time and space are of the highest importance, it seems to me that some of the conventionalities of correspondence might well be abolished.

Why should we write "Dear sir," and then make a pause and begin a fresh line? Why could not all we have to say flow straight on in the same line from "Dear sir?"

Again, why should we take three lines—and this, perhaps, is more important—over the conclusion of our letters? It strikes me that it would be infinitely simpler and more convenient if you concluded a letter thus: "I am, dear sir, your obedient servant, Ed'ard Cuttle," all in one line. Can anyone tell me the reason of this custom and when it was originated?
—London Graphic.

Hidden Away.

There are no locks upon the box
In which no treasures are,
But on that chest where riches rest
Are bolt and band and bar;
None guards before the open door
That hides no heap of pelf—
And the full heart ever locks its store
Of fullness in itself!

The vacant grain tells all its vain
Conceits for all to hear;
And those who shout their songs about
Have neither art nor ear.
But in its deeps the strong soul keeps
What cost him most to win,
Through all the years, till One appears Worthy to look within.

"Man never sings his sweetest things,"
A poet said to me—
"Happy he tells in parables
What few can hear or see.
The finest thought I ever wrought
I would not give for gold,
And the deepest love Fate ever brought
Is the love I've never told!"
—Cleveland Leader.

Memento of Thomas Carlyle.

A farmer in Manitoba wears on his watch chain a blackened metal disk with an interesting history. Some thirty years ago the farmer was a ticket agent in a railway station in Dumfriesshire. One day Thomas Carlyle took a ticket for a short run by rail and laid down a shilling. The clerk, eager to obtain a souvenir of the famous countryman, secured the coin. Ultimately, although sorely against the grain, he was driven to part with the treasured Carlyle shilling. But it would not stand the ringing test. Somebody had palmed on the "sage of Chelsea" a spurious shilling.

Menelik Names Successor.

Emperor Menelik has nominated his successor to the throne of Abyssinia. He is a young man named Migg Manu, Menelik's brother, and is shortly to be named negus of Kiffa, of which country Menelik took possession in 1894.

Plans Railroad in Africa.

The Portuguese government will build a railroad from Delagoa bay to Swaziland. That adds one more to the many "openings up" in Africa.

FLED BEFORE WOMAN'S PISTOL

How Mrs. Reader Put Stop to Impudence of Peruvian.

In her story of "Ella Rawls Reader, Financier," contributed in Everybody's, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins tells the following incident of a struggle of Mrs. Reader's in Peru:

"After eight months of useless struggle she went to out Callao, which is about half an hour by rail from Lima, with her Peruvian lawyer, Scotch interpreter, and American engineer, and forced the manager to open the warehouses and let her make an inspection of the machinery. The manager had met her with his lawyers, and the hour for argument before she gained her point had been something of a strain. During the whole process a Peruvian on the Haggin side had been standing close to Mrs. Reader, his little, narrowed eyes staring with that deliberate insolence only Latins can accomplish. The company went out into the wareroom where the machinery lay and the difficult business of a hurried inspection went forward, but still the bullying stare never ceased. After about two hours of it, the fine edge of that hidden temper of her suddenly sprang up. She whirled on him with a blaze of words that needed no interpreter, and all at once his stare was being returned by a fierce little pistol held in a strong white hand and quite ready for business.

"The gentleman of Peru neither apologized nor retracted; he incontinently fled. And he was not the only one. Like shadows the men flitted out of the dusky warehouse, leaving the dangerous woman a clear field. When she looked about there was no one in sight but two Irish porters, and in their eyes were sympathetic twinkles, meeting which, Mrs. Reader could only sink down helpless with laughter and put up her pistol."

The Dentist and the Alligator.

Roy Farrell Greene, the president of the American Society of Curio Collectors, told at a dinner of dentists an appropriate story.

"A dentist," he said, "was once traveling in the East, and in the Ganges his boat overturned and he was obliged to strike out for the shore.

"As the dentist swam sturdily through the muddy water an enormous alligator suddenly rose up before him. The alligator opened its enormous jaws, and the next instant would have been the dentist's last, only—just in time—the man happened to notice the great reptile's sharp, white teeth, and an idea struck him.

"He drew a probe from his pocket, and, pressing it into the alligator's gums, he said:

"'Does this hurt you?'

"The alligator screamed with pain, and the dentist, amid its great agony, made good his escape."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Too Late to Sort Cats.

Jim Crocker lived in an old tumble-down house in a little town in Massachusetts. The cellar windows being broken out, an opportunity was afford to stray cats to run in and out, and sometimes there would be quite a congregation.

We lost our pet cat one evening, and thinking she might have joined the happy throng, we sent our man over to ask "Uncle Jim" if he would take a look and see if she was among the number. He was generally pretty good-natured, but this time he was out of sorts, for he said:

"Your cat may be there, or she may not be, but I ain't a-going to light up no lamp and go down in that cellar this time of night sorting out cats for nobody, so there."

To Point a Moral.

Almost everything he had
That should make a person glad
Just to be alive; good friends,
Health, position, all that lends
Happiness to most of us—
I should have been happy thus!
Life he loved for its own sake
And he hoped to live to make Others see his point of view,
And be optimistic, too.
Then one day, a little worry,
Caused his mind a minute's flurry;
He dismissed it—it returned
Every hour. And then he learned
That it would not down unsolved.
As his daily task revolved
This small problem interfered,
With his work, and it appeared
Each day larger than before.
So it grew and more and more,
Colored all his speech and thought;
Other ideas shrunk to naught.
Day and night this worry fed
On his soul, unquieted,
Till its everlasting pain
Broke his heart and wrecked his brain.

When he killed himself, at last,
All who knew him were aghast
Save the one who'd caused his worry,
(And forgot it in a hurry;)
That one said: "Did you know, my dear,
I always did think he was—queer!"
—Cleveland Leader.

His Father Was Athlete.

Dr. Dudley of Abington, Mass., tells this story of his man David and his housekeeper, who had great confidence in all that David said and did:

One day David was in the barn, doing something which caused a visitor to say: "You're quite an athlete, aren't you?"

"Well, yes," replied David; whereupon the housekeeper, who stood near, said: "Why, I thought you told me you was Scotch."

"Well," said David, "my mother was Scotch, but my father was athlete."

A Wooden Wedding.

Several friends called on a New York clergyman one evening and were kept waiting for him for some time.

"I'm sorry to have kept you waiting," the minister remarked as he entered his library, "but I have just had to perform a wooden wedding in the church."

"What!" said one of his visitors. "I never heard of such a thing. What kind of a ceremony was it?"

"Oh," answered the clergyman, with a twinkle in his eye, "it was the marriage of a couple of Poles."

DIVIDED WITH THE DEACON

A local condition of things, the very mention of which makes everybody sorry on one side or the other, induced a nice old lady to tell a story which took her back to the days of her childhood in western Vermont. At that time there was a strong "local option" fight going on, and all the church people were arrayed up on the side of not temperance, but total abstinence.

Dr. Josiah Hopkins, one of the most famous Congregational preachers of his day, had come among them for a little while, and he said some things about real temperance and personal liberty that shocked the good people of Vermont.

Dr. Hopkins happened to know that most of the deacons in the church had wine in their cellars, and that they were all given to "tippling on the quiet," and he did not hesitate to denounce them as rank hypocrites. The father of the elderly lady who told the story was himself a deacon in the church, and he had "powerful weakness" for the beer that was brewed at a small brewery in the neighborhood.

One afternoon he chanced to be walking along the road, when he saw Dr. Hopkins come out of the brewery, place a jug under the seat of his buggy and climb in. The deacon accosted him and asked for a ride to town. The request was promptly granted. As soon as the horse had resumed its even trot down the road, the deacon said:

"Well, parson, you are discovered. I saw you put something suspicious under the seat of the buggy, but I promise not to tell on you if you will divide with me."

The eminent divine turned upon him a benignant smile, as he said: "So you have caught me practicing what I preach. I say it is matter for each man's conscience. Now I feel that I am justified in getting that jug from the brewery. I shall not drink a drop of it. I got it for my wife, but if you want a drink, you are welcome to all you can take from the mouth of the jug. I have no cup."

"Thank you, parson," the deacon returned. "If your wife drinks beer, I am sure you will not tell on me. Let me have the jug when we reach yonder clump of trees; that will screen us from view. I will show you how much I can take from the mouth of a jug at one pull," and he reached for the jug.

As soon as they reached the clump of trees, the entire road being deserted, he drew out the cork, threw back his head and made ready for a "long strong pull." Suddenly he began to cough, sneeze and sputter, while a torrent of bubbling brewer's yeast spread over his face, his hair and his clothing. It ran down the back of his coat and the front of his shirt; it got into his eyes, his ears and his nose; but the parson comforted him by saying:

"You see, I never drink it. I got it for my wife."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CENSUS TAKER IN TROUBLE

The census man had passed a weary morning, and when he saw little Mrs. Remick's firm and scornful expression, he realized that his afternoon troubles were beginning.

"My husband's initials are A. J.," said Mrs. Remick, in response to one of the usual questions. "Just A. J.—that is all.

"If the bank people can accept his checks signed in that way, I fail to see why you should care personally to know what his name is.

"If it is the government, of course, I can hardly refuse to give you his name, though I consider it very prying on their part to insist. My husband's name is Aaron Jenkins Remick, and if you are going to put that on your records, I wish you to distinctly state that he was named for his grandfather, and that it was a question of propitiation after family troubles. His mother wished to name him Herbert Arundel, for a dear friend.

"My name is Gertie A. Remick.

"You may write it Gertrude if you choose. I never sign it that way. The A. stands for Adams, my maiden name.

"Well, I think my father would like to hear you say I had no legal right to both names! Just as if I stopped being an Adams when I married A. J.! It's perfectly absurd!

"Mr. Remick's age? Well, really, when he told me that he was so much older, he hardly dared ask me to marry him. I said at once, 'I shall never ask you how old you are,' and I never have.

"Any objection to telling my own? Any objec—I hardly see the point of such a question, sir. A woman who was only 26 on her last birthday does not generally have the least objection to telling it.

"No, there is not any one living with us at present, that is, she goes home nights; she has a family of her own.

"Of course she isn't here this afternoon—this is Thursday. I suppose in your business all afternoons are alike.

"Do I vote? Do I vote? Really, I shall have to ask you to go. Mr. Remick said he hoped the next time any one came and tried to talk to me about voting I'd send that person to him. I will bid you good afternoon."—Youth's Companion.

SOME QUAINT MENU CARDS

Designers of menu cards and menu holders, ever quick to derive inspiration from the topic of the moment, dressed cardboard dolls like little Japanese beauties yesterday and set the damsels, in recognition of the new alliance, to support the cards on which dinner menus were inscribed, says the London Mail.

Dolls have been very popular of late as menu holders; their cardboard faces are charmingly painted by hand and upon their cardboard bodies paper toilettes are arranged.

The motor car has pressed into the service of the designer so frequently of late that a new form of it as a menu holder would appear to be an impossibility. But in its latest edition, though only made of cardbiard, the automobile is a perfect wonder. It is beautifully modeled and the wheels run smoothly over the cloth. The menu is inscribed on the roof of the car and the whole equipage is trundled from guest to guest bearing its message aloft so that only two cars are required for one table.

Rose petals, though made of paper, so like the garden flower picked to pieces that the eye is at first completely deceived, are used both for the menu and for place inscriptions; and lily petals, still more ethereal, are employed in like manner.

For feasts that comprise oysters and other shellfish, there are shell menu cards, which in many cases are not cards at all, but beautifully polished shells with mother-of-pearl linings, upon which details concerning the different courses are written.

IN THE GOLDEN TWILIGHT

"I am old," he assures us with sweetness,
As one who retaineth the best,
Undismayed that the years in their fleetness
Count now in small numbers—the rest.
And his tones in their quiet beguiling
Our heart-echo ever shall hold
To grieve; though he uttered them smiling
"It is now afternoon; I am old."

Is he old? Oh, weight of lip phrases,
You change into speech of fine gold,
Into splendid fulfillment of praises
When you say of this man, "He is old."
You tell of a mind of hid treasure
And a heart of pure depths shining clear;
Of youth gathered up beyond measure
That year has but added to year.

A soul of large hidden resources,
Its wealth meekly shared with his kind,
Attunement with spirit's grand forces,
In being most noble, refined,
Uplifted in thought and in feeling;
Of Nature an intimate guest—
To such doth she make her revealing
And crowneth such souls in their quest.

Are they old, these lives of rare sweetness?
Ah, no, they are fresh, they are young
And for them must fall of completeness
All praise that may ever be sung.
Young with the youth of the spirit,
This soul where divinity reigns,
Which lifteth the lives that come near it
More close to the spirit's domains.

And those who have loved him at morning,
And those who have known him at noon,
And we of a too late acquaintance
Would hinder the clock striking soon.
Four o'clock is the hour that he cried us,
But we laugh back, "The night is yet far;"
He is still in the sunshine beside us,
Where friends who would keep him yet are.

Four o'clock? The day is still golden!
We yet count our treasure secure,
And pray when with fear we are holden
His day may to evening endure.
Choice friendship our ideals remaking,
Its grace we will cherish the while
That life still holds out for the taking
The cheer and uplift of his smile.
—Springfield Republican.

AND THE CONDUCTOR SAID!-

In the early nineties, when the famous "Snake line," the Central Massachusetts road, was running independently, one of the most prominent conductors had the following humiliating experience:

On leaving the city, when he first came through the train collecting the tickets, an old woman who had barricaded herself in two seats by numberless handbags and bundles, and had hung a large bird cage from the hook above her head, handed him her ticket and told him to be sure and tell her when the train reached Wayland. He promised faithfully, and continued taking up the tickets.

On his return trip from the rear of the car, the old lady told him again to be sure and not forget to tell her when the train reached Wayland. The conductor promised her again and went his way. On each successive trip through the train that he made the old lady made him promise anew, until his patience was well nigh exhausted.

Imagine his consternation on finding the train nearly a mile beyond Wayland, and remembering the old lady for the first time. He quickly stopped the train and, hastening forward to the engineer, explained that they must back the train into Wayland for her, or she could make them a good deal of trouble.

When this maneuver had been performed he hastened back to the lady, and said, in his blandest tones: "Madam, this is your station—Wayland."

"Oh, thank you," she replied, handing down the bird cage, "my daughter told me to be sure and feed the bird at Wayland!"

TRAVEL [illegible] DRAWBACKS OF AL

[illegible] System.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] either ship or railroad. Such a statement is so extraordinary as to seem at first unbelievable, but many have proved its truth. To experience sensations of pleasure or pain in the presence of famous objects and places which inspire thoughts and produce states of feeling enriching life and adding to happiness is to travel truly. By making use of a simple scientific principle, and spending twenty years in its development, there has been perfected the means of actually securing right in one's home these very experiences and benefits which actual travel gives.

Dr. James H. Breasted of Chicago University, says: "By this means the privileges of travel are extended to that large class of our people who thirst for an acquaintance with the distant lands of other ages but are prevented by the expense involved, or by the responsibilities of home, business or profession."

More information about this truly remarkable system and strong endorsements of it by hundreds of our greatest educators, can be had by addressing

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD,
Dept. B, 3rd West 19th St., N. Y. City

Brighter Prospects

Increase Your Yields Per Acre

We have many actual photographs of cotton fields on which no fertilizers were used and pictures of fields on which "other makes" of fertilizers were used. Results of these crops were dismal failures. There are much "brighter prospects" ahead for the progressive farmers of the South. Two and three bales to the acre are only ordinary yields where are used with proper cultivation. Make your cotton mature early, and thus escape the boll weevil and other damaging insects. You can easily do this, as well as increase the number of bolls and their staple on your plants by plentifully using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. This method will tremendously "increase your yields per acre." Don't be fooled into buying a substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

$5.00

To be Given for Reliable Information

We have set aside

$1,000.00

to be spent for information and will give five dollars for a POSTAL CARD giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.

ATLAS

ENGINES AND BOILERS

Builders of the most complete line of engines and boilers made by any one manufacturing company in the world

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS

Corliss, Four Valve, Automatic, High-Speed, Compound and Throttling Engines. Water Tube, Tubular and Portable Boilers.

Atlas Engines in service [illegible] H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service [illegible] H. P.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS 25 CTS

Am. 52, 1906.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

AMIGO
Whi
Dealer
You for $3
It belongs t
The "Always Just Corr
CLOVER BRAND
SHOE FAMILY.
S
Insist U
Werthimer-Swarts
LARGEST FINE SHOE
ST. LOUIS, U

H THE DEACON

"Well, parson, you are discovered. I saw you put something suspicious under the seat of the buggy, but I promise not to tell on you if you will divide with me."

The eminent divine turned upon him a benignant smile, as he said: "So you have caught me practicing what I preach. I say it is matter for each man's conscience. Now I feel that I am justified in getting that jug from the brewery. I shall not drink a drop of it. I got it for my wife; but if you want a drink, you are welcome to all you can take from the mouth of the jug. I have no cup."

"Thank you, parson," the deacon returned. "If your wife drinks beer, I am sure you will not tell on me. Let me have the jug when we reach yonder clump of trees; that will screen us from view. I will show you how much I can take from the mouth of a jug at one pull," and he reached for the jug.

As soon as they reached the clump of trees, the entire road being deserted, he drew out the cork, threw back his head and made ready for a "long strong pull." Suddenly he began to cough, sneeze and sputter, while a torrent of bubbling brewer's yeast spread over his face, his hair and his clothing. It ran down the back of his coat and the front of his shirt; it got into his eyes, his ears and his nose; but the parson comforted him by saying:

"You see, I never drink it. I got it for my wife."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ER IN TROUBLE

"Well, I think my father would like to hear you say I had no legal right to both names! Just as if I stopped being an Adams when I married A. J.! It's perfectly absurd!

"Mr. Remick's age? Well, really, when he told me that he was so much older, he hardly dared ask me to marry him. I said at once, 'I shall never ask you how old you are,' and I never have.

"Any objection to telling my own? Any objec—I hardly see the point of such a question, sir. A woman who was only 26 on her last birthday does not generally have the least objection to telling it.

"No, there is not any one living with us at present, that is, she goes home nights; she has a family of her own.

"Of course she isn't here this afternoon—this is Thursday. I suppose in your business all afternoons are alike.

"Do I vote? Do I vote? Really, I shall have to ask you to go. Mr. Remick said he hoped the next time any one came and tried to talk to me about voting I'd send that person to him. I will bid you good afternoon."—Youth's Companion.

T MENU CARDS

It is beautifully modeled and the wheels run smoothly over the cloth. The menu is inscribed on the roof of the car and the whole equipage is trundled from guest to guest bearing its message aloft so that only two cars are required for one table.

Rose petals, though made of paper, so like the garden flower picked to pieces that the eye is at first completely deceived, are used both for the menu and for place inscriptions; and lily petals, still more ethereal, are employed in like manner.

For feasts that comprise oysters and other shellfish, there are shell menu cards, which in many cases are not cards at all, but beautifully polished shells with mother-of-pearl linings upon which details concerning the different courses are written.

LDEN TWILIGHT

Ah, [illegible] they are fresh, they are young!
And for them must fail of completeness
All praise that may ever be sung.
Young with the youth of the spirit,
This soul where divinity reigns,
Which lifteth the lives that come near it
More close to the spirit's domains.

And those who have loved him at morning,
And those who have known him at noon,
And we of a too late acquaintance
Would hinder the clock striking soon.
Four o'clock is the hour that he cried us,
But we laugh back, "The night is yet far."
He is still in the sunshine beside us,
Where friends who would keep him yet are.

"Four o'clock." The day is still golden!
We yet count our treasure secure,
And pray when with fear we are holden
His day may to evening endure.
Choice friendship our ideals remaking,
Its grace we will cherish the while
That life still holds out for the taking
The cheer and uplift of his smile.
—Springfield Republican.

NDUCTOR SAID!-

and went his way. On each successive trip through the train that he made the old lady made him promise anew, until his patience was well nigh exhausted.

Imagine his consternation on finding the train nearly a mile beyond Wayland, and remembering the old lady for the first time. He quickly stopped the train and, hastening forward to the engineer, explained that they must back the train into Wayland for her, or she could make them a good deal of trouble.

When this maneuver had ben performed he hastened back to the old lady, and said, in his blandest tone: "Madam, this is your station—Wayland."

"Oh, thank you," she replied, taking down the bird cage, "my sister told me to be sure and feed the bird at Wayland!"

TRAVEL W[illegible] THE REACH OF ALL

[illegible] know what it would [illegible] great places of the [illegible] the possession of [illegible] is now possible [illegible] as well as the [illegible]

[illegible] System.

This system [illegible] travel of the [illegible] kind, yet it does [illegible] utilize either ship or railroad. Such a statement is so extraordinary as to seem at first unbelievable, but many have proved its truth. To experience sensations of pleasure or pain in the presence of famous objects and places which inspire thoughts and produce states of feeling enriching life and adding to happiness is to travel truly. By making use of a simple scientific principle, and spending twenty years in its development, there has been perfected the means of actually securing right in one's home these very experiences and benefits which actual travel gives.

Dr. James H. Breasted, of Chicago University, says: "By this means the joys of travel are extended to that large class of our people who thirst for an acquaintance with the distant lands of other ages, but are prevented by the expense involved, or by the responsibilities of home, business or profession."

More information about this truly remarkable system and strong endorsements of it by hundreds of our greatest educators, can be had by addressing

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD,
Dept. B, 3-5 West 19th St., N. Y. City.

Increase Your Yields Per Acre

Brighter Prospects

We have many actual photographs of cotton fields on which no fertilizers were used and pictures of fields on which "other makes" of fertilizers were used. Results of these crops were dismal failures. There are much "brighter prospects" ahead for the progressive farmers of the South. Two and three bales to the acre are only ordinary yields where are used with proper cultivation. Make your cotton mature early, and thus escape the boll weevils and other damaging insects. You can easily do this, as well as increase the number of bolls (and their size) on your plants by plentifully using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. This method will tremendously "increase your yields per acre." Don't be fooled into buying a substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

$5.00

To be Given for Reliable Information

We have set aside

$1,000.00

to be spent for information and will give five dollars for a POSTAL CARD giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS

Builders of the most complete line of engines and boilers made by any one manufacturing concern in the world

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS

Corliss, Four Valve, Automatic, High-Speed, Compound and Throttling Engines. Water Tube, Tubular and Portable Boilers

Atlas Engines in service 2,000,000 H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service 4,000,000 H. P.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Am. 52, 1905.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

AMIGO

A Shoe For Men Which Your Dealer Will Sell You for $3.00. It belongs to the "Always Just Correct" CLOVER BRAND SHOE FAMILY.

IF YOU WANT TO BE Shoewise, You Will Insist Upon Having this Shoe.

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

STOPS BELCHING.

Cures Bad Breath—Positive and Instant Cure Guaranteed—[illegible] by Absorption.

A sweet breath is [illegible].

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure bad breath and bad [illegible]. Belching and bad taste indicate [illegible] breath, which is due to stomach trouble.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify the stomach and stop belching by absorbing foul gases that arise from undigested food, and by supplying the digestive organs with natural solvents for food.

They relieve one of car sickness and nausea of any kind.

They quickly cure headache, correct the ill effect of excessive eating or drinking. They will destroy a tobacco, whisky or onion breath instantly.

They stop fermentation in the stomach, acute indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in the stomach and intestines, distended abdomen, heartburn, bad complexion, dizzy spells or any other affliction arising from a diseased stomach.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

12305 A FREE BOX. 120

Send this coupon with your name and address and druggist's name for a free box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, a cure for stomach trouble, to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

Colorado is discussing the plan to make a 1,000,000 acre national park of the White river plateau, one of the finest natural bits of country in the whole of Colorado. On the western slope of the divide, and as yet unsettled, it covers more than 3,000 square miles of snow-capped peaks and mountain valleys whose scenery is unequaled in the entire west.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

In eleven months 986 foreign automobiles, valued at nearly $4,000,000, have been imported at New York alone. And in the meantime dozens of American factories have been turning out these vehicles in nearly all shapes and sizes. The evidence is steadily increasing that motor cars must be counted as a permanent factor in American daily life hereafter.

AGONY OF SORE HANDS

Cracked and Peeled—Water and Heat Caused Intense Pain—Could Do No Housework—Very Grateful to Cuticura.

"My hands cracked and peeled, and were so sore it was impossible for me to do my housework. If I put them in water I was in agony for hours, and if I tried to cook the heat caused me intense pain. I consulted two doctors, but their prescriptions were utterly useless. Now after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my hands are entirely well. I am very grateful. (Signed) Mrs. Minnie Brew, 18 Dana St., Roxbury, Mass."

The population of the United Kingdom, according to a census just taken, is 43,219,778. England and Wales had 34,152,977, Scotland 5,676,603 and Ireland 4,300,208.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Philippine Cities.

There are four towns in the Philippines with a population exceeding 10,000 each, and thirty-five with a population exceeding 5,000. Manila is the only incorporated city in the islands, and its inhabitants number 219,928.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Mahomet's tomb is covered with jewels worth $12,500,000.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by [illegible]. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

One of the most prolific of fishes is the turbot.

MATERNAL INSTINCT OF FISH

The "Mother Love" of Other Creatures Absent in These Beings.

"The female fish has no maternal instincts whatever," said J. Nevin, of Madison, superintendent of the state fish hatcheries. "In fact, the fish is the most unhuman creature in existence; that is, of the animals which have any degree of intelligence at all.

"Perhaps it is well that it is so, for if the parent fish took care of their young as other creatures do the waters of the earth would be filled with them in a very short time. Under natural conditions not one egg in a million ever becomes a fish a year old. As an example, I have seen female brook trout go up into the spawning places and spawn their eggs and then turn around and deliberately eat them.

"For the past few years I have been much interested in experimenting with bass and studying their ways. Here the male parent has some maternal instincts apparently. He builds the 'nest' for the female, some little pocket with a gravel bottom protected from the strong current, but with plenty of fresh water, and then hugs or pushes the female into it. The eggs are spawned by the female, who swims away and leaves them to their fate. The male fertilizes the eggs and then for a few days watches over them, 'fanning' them occasionally to insure a circulation of fresh water and keeping off other fish who would devour the eggs. The male fish have been known to follow the little fry for several days, protecting them until they were able to care for themselves.

"I have seen a school of say 1500 bass fry devoured in five minutes by a few sun bass or perch minnows. Under the care of the fish hatcheries from fifty to ninety-five per cent. of the eggs became fish fry. How many of the fry live to be a year old or so after they are planted in the streams it is very hard to determine. It depends so greatly upon conditions that no reliable estimates can be made."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

For Justice to Baldheads.

For some time past a certain coterie of Milwaukee men who are bald headed have felt that they were being swindled by barbers, who have charged them the regular prices for hair cutting.

"It only takes a few minutes to cut the hair of a bald headed man, yet he has to pay as much as a man withh a wagon load to remove," insist the head conspirators, headed by former Governor George W. Peck and E. W. Powell.

"We don't charge for the actual work, but for the time and labor required to find it," retort the barbers.

Recently Mr. Powell and some of his friends have formed a club of bald headed men, the object of which is said to be to petition the legislature for a bill in their behalf.

"What we want," explains Mr. Powell, "is a bill passed by the legislature by which barbers will be compelled to regulate their charges about as follows, as has already been drawn up by a special committee of our club: The man with a clear streak on top of his head, 20 cents; top all bald, 15 cents; small streak around the border, 10 cents; no hair on head, free. This bill was adopted by the club, and the chairman willingly indorsed it. One of the governor's men, however, objected to being selected to present the bill to the legislature, so another member was selected to perform the duty. It was claimed by one member that the matter, being purely a local one, the question should be taken up with the board of public works.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

The Most Tedious Reading.

The proofreader took off his glasses, wiped his tired eyes, and put his hat on. "I'll go out and take a walk," he said. "I have been working two hours on these timetables, and that is all my nerves will stand."

"No work," he continued, "is harder, more tedious, or more wearing than this timetable proofreading. So much, you see, depends upon accuracy. If in the proofreading of a book an error or two is made a laugh or a frown is the only consequence, but an error in a timetable may mean a disaster.

"Sometimes we go over a timetable seventy and eighty times before we finally O. K. it. We get to know the timetable by heart. We can rattle off the trains—2:07, 3:14, 3:26, and so on—like phonographs. How wearing the work is! In a busy season I have lost four pounds in a week."—New York Press.

He Knew His Place.

Last summer, during the training of a certain Scottish militia battalion, a company was ordered off one day for target practice. The "marker" on this occasion was an old militiaman named Sandy, who was noted for his simplicity. Before the firing began the sergeant in charge of the firing took up his glasses to see if all was ready, when, to his horror, he observed Sandy coolly standing in front of the target. Thinking the man insane the sergeant and a couple of men hastened to the rescue. In an authoritative voice the sergeant demanded the meaning of such reckless conduct and branded Sandy as a fool. "I am nae sic a fool as ye think," retorted Sandy. "I ken the safest place f' me. I marked for yer company once before."—Glasgow News.

Harrow's Head Boy a Jew.

Anthony de Rothschild, youngest son of the popular Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, is head boy at Harrow school. This is the first time, says the London News, that this coveted distinction has fallen to a Jewish boy who has not conformed to the ordinary religious exercises of the school, and who has availed himself of the generous concessions granted by the Harrow authorities to Jewish scholars.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

There was a [illegible] climbing contest on the Eiffel Tower, Paris.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

King Leopold of Belgium is said to be the most [illegible] of monarchs.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

The sassafras does not usually grow to be a very large tree.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of throat and lungs.—Wm. O. ENDSLEY, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

In the whale tribe there is no evidence externally of hind limbs.

Cures Cancer, Blood Poison and Scrofula.

If you have blood poison producing eruptions, pimples, ulcers, swollen glands, bumps and risings, burning, itching skin, copper-colored spots or rash on the skin, mucous patches in mouth or throat, falling hair, bone pains, old rheumatism or foul catarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) It kills the poison in the blood; soon all sores, eruptions heal, hard swellings subside, aches and pains stop and a perfect cure is made of the worst cases of Blood Poison.

For cancers, tumors, swellings, eating sores, ugly ulcers, persistent pimples of all kinds, take B. B. B. It destroys the cancer poison in the blood, heals cancer of all kinds, cures the worst humors or suppurating swellings. Thousands cured by B. B. B. after all else fails. B. B. B. composed of pure botanic ingredients. Improves the digestion, makes the blood pure and rich, stops the awful itching and all sharp, shooting pains. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. Druggists, $1 per bottle, with complete directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice also sent in sealed letter.

Women Among Czar's Spies.

Some of the most valuable and least suspected spies that guard the czar are women of high rank, who frequent the aristocratic salons of Petersburg and Moscow, and even go as far afield as the Siberian cities of Tomsk, Tobolsk and Irkutsk.

There are also spies among the imperial Guards, and for these men the entire army and reserves of imperial Russia are ransacked. Among them one finds men from the Don and Dnieper Cossacks, the Mohammedan forces from Kazan, the Caucasian provinces, and even from far Kashgar in Central Asia, as well as from the Imperial Probrajensky and Pavlovski guards. The unquestioning and doglige fidelity of these men is wonderful, says Harper's Weekly. They are absolutely fearless, of great physical strength, and mentally of unusual acumen and foresight. There are nearly one thousand of these military guards constantly employed and about the park and palace of Tsarskoe Selo.

One might suppose that the Emperor Nichols would sleep peacefully surrounded by this amazing human network of protection. Yet revolutionists penetrate the royal apartments, and leave letters of sinister menace and warning which must often suggest to the unhappy monarch that it might be as well for him to do away with this far-reaching system of espionage and mingle freely with his people.

The public executioner of the Grand Duchy of Hesse has been fined $20 for "casting a disdainful glance" at the judge of the supreme court of Darmstadt.

STOP! WOMEN,

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with woman's diseases covers a great many years.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Following we publish two letters from a woman who accepted this invitation. Note the result.

First letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I have suffered something terrible every month with my periods. The pains are excruciating and I can hardly stand them. My doctor says I have ovarian and womb trouble, and I must go through an operation if I want to get well. I do not want to submit to it if I can possibly help it. Please tell me what to do. I hope you can relieve me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Sts., Benning P.O., Washington, D.C.

Second letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"After following carefully your advice, and taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very anxious to send you my testimonial, that others may know their value and what you have done for me.

"As you know, I wrote you that my doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I then wrote you, telling you my ailments. I followed your advice and am entirely well. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I owe my life to you and to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wish every suffering woman would read this testimonial and realize the value of writing to you and your remedy."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Streets, Benning P. O., Washington, D. C.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women whose testimony is so unquestionable, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY ANTI-GRIPINE

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

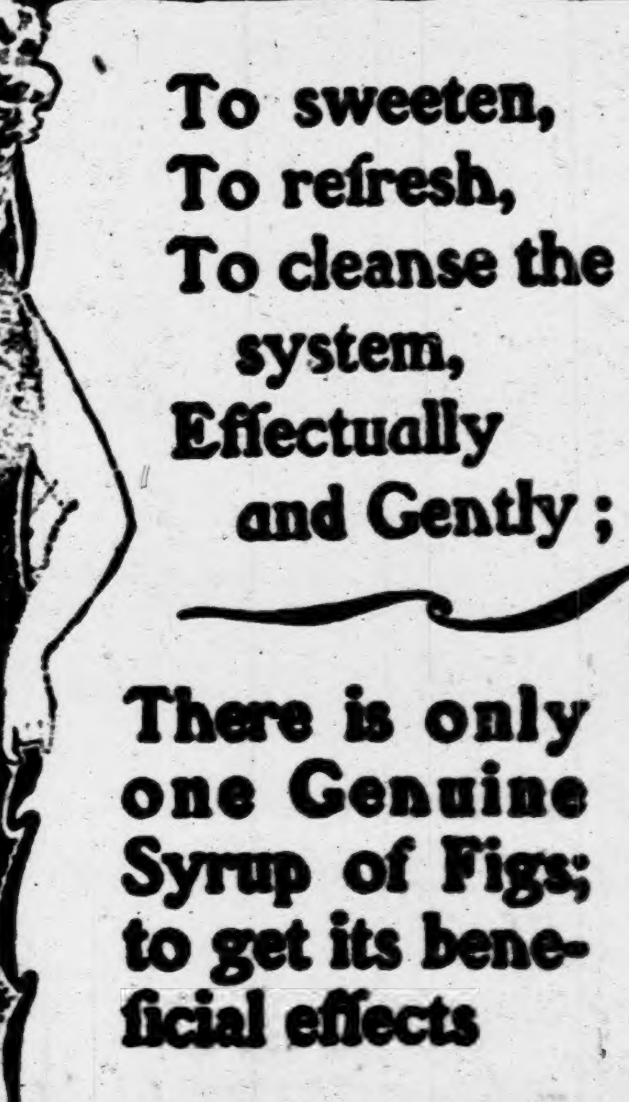
Hetty's Diamonds.

Hetty Green keeps about $800,000 worth of diamonds on hand at all times. She never wears any of them, but she knows that they increase in value at the rate of 3 per cent a year and holds them as an investment. Hetty wears no jewelry at all. Her sole possession in this line is a marriage ring. The increment on her diamand hoard this year will be much larger than in previous years. Diamonds have gone up nearly 10 per cent.

Largest Man in Paris.

Michael Beudin, the largest man in Paris, who was known as the "King of the Draymen," has died from the effects of being knocked down by a street car. He was six feet 6 3-4 inches tall and weighed 392 pounds. His strength was so great that he could lift easily and carry a barrel containing a pipe (126 gallons) of wine.

The handicap must be becoming so many people wear it.



SYRUP OF FIGS

To sweeten,
To refresh,
To cleanse the system,
Effectually and Gently;

Dispels colds and headaches when bilious or constipated;
For men, women and children;

There is only one Genuine Syrup of Figs; to get its beneficial effects

Acts best on the kidneys and liver, stomach and bowels;

Always buy the genuine—Manufactured by the

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co.
San Francisco, Cal.
Louisville, Ky. New York, N.Y.

The genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale by all first-class druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always printed on the front of every package. Price Fifty Cents per bottle.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his ample experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family

The small boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, a few in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a great many other kind of Waists The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No 5 to No. 9 All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

J. R BROADHEAD & SON
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise
Fine Groceries
None better on the market.
CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS
a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.
EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.
W. I MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA

Chinese Swine.

The American swine of today are very different from their English ancestors, which a few centuries ago constituted one of the chief sources of British wealth. The improvement in the race is largely due to the introduction of the Chinese and Neapolitan breeds. The crossing of the former upon the English hog has resulted in the production of the Berkshire, Essex, Poland-China, Small Yorkshire and Suffolk breeds. The Chinese hog is remarkably prepotent, as is shown by the tendency of the modern breeds to revert to the original type. This is doubtless owing to the many centuries of inbreeding which have so firmly fixed its characteristics. One of the most important of these is its propensity to fatten under the most adverse circumstances. This superabundance of fat prevents the flesh of this breed being highly esteemed in this country, but it has had a most valuable effect in modifying the lean, gaunt hogs of England, while the Neapolitan has added delicacy of flavor. The original Chinese hog is a very peculiar shape. It has a long body, with short legs, very heavy jowls, small prick ears, short head, neck and snout and the eyes wide apart. In color it is white or black or a mixture of both, with the white predominating.

Ant Communication.

Sir James Boyle, the great Irish naturalist, always contended that ants had a language of their own, by which they made known their wants and fears to others of their kind. One day he encountered a colony that was evidently moving to new quarters. All appeared in the very best of spirits, and whenever two met the naturalist noted that they put their heads together as though chatting very earnestly. To settle the matter in his own mind as to whether they were really talking or not he killed one of them to observe the effect it would have on the others. The eyewitnesses to the murder hastened to the rear and halted every one of the advancing column by laying their antennae together. The column instantly separated to the right and the left, none of the marchers afterward passing within less than six feet of their dead companion, though the remains of the insect were directly in the beaten path.

When Every One Is Beautiful.

It has been said in cold print that men and women are growing more and more beautiful and that the progress of civilization, the better understanding of the laws of health, is to bring a time when all of us will be of absolutely perfect beauty—or, rather, not us, but our ultimate remote descendants. It is a little difficult to feel envy, hatred and malice for one's descendants, but this news is enough to induce that evil state of mind. However, the prospect affects one writer quite otherwise. After all, says she, our lovely descendants will not have so gay a time. For if every one is good looking, what on earth is the good of being good looking? So, after all, there are some advantages in living nowadays. Few of us have no dear friends uglier than ourselves. What is the use of a friend if she is not a little—well, plain?

Tea In All Forms.

"Pickled tea is a Burmese delicacy," said the sailor. "A Burmese girl once gave me some. It wasn't bad; sweetish and spiced; a cross between pickled and preserved.

"Tea ain't only drunk. Down Siam way they chew it. It is stuck together with melted sugar into little cakes, and every Siamese carries one of those cakes in his pocket. A plug of tea; you might say a plug o' chewin' tea.

"Some folks smoke it. An English girl once gave me a cigarette. I finished it. But such a headache!

"Stewed tea is the national dish of the Tibetans. Tea, fat, salt, flour and milk are cooked together to the thickness of oatmeal and eaten cold."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Bark of the Sequoias.

California's giant trees, the sequoias, thousands of years old, have been preserved to this day because of their enormously thick bark. From time to time in the course of ages forest fires have swept through the big tree lands, destroying everything, yet only scorching for a couple of inches' depth or so the almost fireproof bark. The flames, having carbonized that much of the bark, could not penetrate farther, for the carbonized portion formed an absolutely fireproof covering for the remainder of the interior bark.

FREE! FREE! FREE!
STREET FAIR & CARNIVAL
DEC. 30 TO JAN. 6
FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL
Clanton, Ala.
Attractions by the Famous Freed Amusement Co. presenting New and High Class Attractions.
The Old Plantation
HYPO, the only real South African Gorilla in America
NO NAME, the Malay Mystery, mystifies all.
Electric Theatre
The Bold Bank Robbery
The Whole Dam Family and the Dam Dog
U. S. Life Savers in Action
MERRY-GO-ROUND
Take a ride to the Land of Merriment
Many other features of interest
All attractions high class and strictly moral
Don't forget the dates—Saturday, Dec. 30, to Saturday, Jan. 6th.

Fall Clearance
SALE
STILL CONTINUES
and we have a few goods on hand that we are selling at the same
CUT PRICES
Now is the Time to Buy!
DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Maplesville, Ala.

WELLS Bored and Drilled
T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

A FINE SHOW OF MILLINERY
Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats
CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.
W. KANTER & BRO.
General Merchandise
CLANTON - ALA.

STOCK
LOW PRICE
Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of
LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.
GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2.50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS,
VIOLINS, GUITARS, etc.
we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.
H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton Ala.

A Happy Home
To have a happy home you must have children, as they are great happy-home makers. If a weak woman, you can be made strong enough to bear healthy children, with little pain or discomfort to yourself, by taking
WINE OF CARDUI
Woman's Relief
It will ease away all your pain, reduce inflammation, cure leucorrhea (whites), falling womb, ovarian trouble, disordered menses, backache, headache, etc., and make childbirth natural and easy. Try it.
At every drug store in $1.00 bottles.
WRITE US A LETTER
freely and frankly, telling us all your troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
"DUE TO CARDUI
and nothing else, is my baby girl, now two weeks old," writes Mrs. J. P. West, of Webster City, Iowa. "She is a fine, healthy babe and we are both doing nicely."

EYES TESTED FREE
A COMPLETE STOCK
of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and a nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.
L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

A Bitter Taunt.

The other day at cards two London ladies quarreled long and arduously over a payment of the gigantic sum of 15 shillings. At last the loser flung the money down on the table, saying, with concentrated venom, "There, that will pay for your next dinner party."

Not What He Meant.

Judge—You are accused of having beaten this person cruelly. The Accused—Well, I had to beat him to make him do his work. He is an idiot. Judge (severely)—You should remember that an idiot is a man like you or me.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st, 1901."

Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00, sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division In Vacation, 1905.
Belle Ingrel, Complainant, vs. S. P. Ingrel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Rob't. H. Knox, that the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and when last heard from resided in the State of Tennessee, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, S. P. Ingrel, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper, published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said S. P. Ingrel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on before the 28th day of December, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 29th day of November, 1905.

S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

THE ORIGINAL
LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP
Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.
(Trade Mark Registered.)
The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee is on every bottle.
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
HONEY AND TA
PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U.
For sale by Upchurch Dr